GGI-FM morning man Hollywood Hamilton is the leader of the pack among Riverside-San Bernardino pop/rock stations. But the former KIIS evening DJ is now eyeing a larger prize: Rick Dees’ job!

Not a big deal but the producers of “Newsradio” also spent some time at KFWB. I’m not sure, but I think they also took a look at WINS in New York.

Greg Tantum, Program Director, KFWB

Michael Jackson Biased
First, congratulations on turning out an interesting, informative little magazine in an area where nothing existed. We who still use our ears for more than holding up our glasses thank you.

A couple of small objections. Thom Looney characterizes local talk show hosts as “right-wing wackos” and “liberals.” Why not even it up with “conservatives” on one hand, or “left-wing goofballs” on the other?

A page earlier Michael Jackson is called “polite and even-handed.” Even-handed? Have you ever heard him take off on Ronald Reagan, Richard Nixon, or his colleagues Bruce Herschensohn or Dennis Prager? Never, it should be noted, face to face. If KABC’s Michael Jackson is even-handed, the other Michael Jackson is Mr. Macho.

Kudos to KOGO 600
Great magazine! I have one complaint; it doesn’t have my favorite station, KOGO. True, they don’t broadcast out of L.A., but they’re by far the best talk radio station! I just received their official schedule and have included a copy in this letter. I strongly urge you to include this in your next L.A. Radio Guide. Thanks!

Thinking Man’s Medium
Just dropping you a line to say “thumbs up” for your publication. With so many people mindlessly glued to the boob tube, it’s good to see someone championing radio, a medium that still gives people a running chance to think for themselves.

Hey, why no KXLU listings?

20/20 View of Radio
I am finding new stations and know the old ones much better. The personalities are much clearer. Some of those pictures are surprising. Glad to get it.

Up with ‘Roundup’
Thanks much for your publication. Have enjoyed my subscription since January. Like all “Depts.” — especially “Radio Roundup.”

Dial Surfing
The Guide is so informative. I picked up my first one at the library. I didn’t know such a magazine existed. It’s great. I have a shortwave radio; and, of course, I use a guide for my “channel surfing.” I also love NPR and talk radio stations, so with you I can be more selective and choose programs to suit my mood and interests.

The Peter Tilden Show with Tracey Miller

"Tilden and Miller are the yin and yang of sarcasm... Peter is the class cutup, a master of putdown and rapid repartee; Tracey's dry wit keeps him in check. Subjects and guests cover whatever's hot and dishy or has one of them steamed." — LA WEEKLY

710 TALK KMPC
New Southland News Station

There's a new news station in the Southland. KIQT 1260 AM, Beverly Hills and KOJY 540 AM, Costa Mesa, the two halves of adult standards/nostalgia K-Joy, split up in July, when the Costa Mesa outlet switched to an all-news format. The new call letters on 540 AM are KNZS or K-News 540. Former KNX reporter Pete Arbogast is the morning anchor, followed by Jim Roope middays and Dave Freeman anchoring the drive home. The new station carries the Associated Press 24-Hour All-News Service, Bloomberg Information Radio (financial news and features) and broadcasts local news from its Westwood facility. To add punch to the 25,000-watt signal, KNZS will simulcast with XETIN-AM, which broadcasts on 540 AM with 1,000 watts from Tijuana. The Beverly Hills station remains the ever soothing K-Joy at 1260 AM.

KNX Nixes Food Hour

News station KNX 1070 AM has dropped the "KNX Food News Hour" in favor of regular news programming during the 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. slot, according to KNX News Director Bob Sims. The O.J. Simpson trial coverage has preempted the show for three months and with the prospect of another three months of trial coverage, Sims sensed an opportune moment.

"It was not a good fit," Sims said. "The show made money, but it did harm to our image. This was the most appropriate time to take it off."

KABC 790 AM wasted no time in grabbing former "Food News Hour" co-host Melinda Lee for its weekend lineup. The KABC "Food Talk Show" airs Saturdays from noon to 2 p.m. The show replaces Diane Worthington's "California Foods" program.

Afternoon-drive anchor Dave Zorn left for CBS Radio affiliate WWJ in Detroit. Zorn joined KNX in 1981 and became an anchor in 1982. He helped to initiate the monthly KNX Roundtable discussions held at area public libraries.

That's Mister KFI to You

Stephanie Miller, the evening talk host with a comedic take on the issues of the day, left KFI 640 AM to devote all her energies to her new TV comedy show. Psychotherapist Marilyn Kagan moved... into Miller’s early-evening time slot while weekend talker Mr. KFI was promoted to a full-time schedule. The host without an agenda or call screener is now heard Monday through Friday from 9 p.m. to midnight and Saturdays from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Charitable Mix

On the Baka Boyz high-voltage morning show, the turntable/CD mixes, celebrity roll call, hip hop, house, old school and funk are all served with verve. Power 106 just released the second in its series of charity albums, “The Baka Boyz Thumpin’ Quick Mixes” on Thump Records. Proceeds benefit the Knowledge Is Power Foundation.

MTV Host on KROQ

When KROQ 106.7 FM Program Director Kevin Weatherly called Chris Hardwick, MTV host of “Singled Out,” he couldn’t believe it. Hardwick had been a guest on the Kevin and Bean Show one morning, promoting his new show with co-host Jenny McCarthy. McCarthy, who has appeared many times on the show, has a running gag with the duo that when she is talking on the air, no one may interrupt her. Hardwick said he managed to utter just four words during the interview, but that was enough to get a job offer.

The former UCLA-student-turned-comedian enjoys learning the “discipline” of radio at KROQ, noting that it’s necessary “to keep the forward momentum going.”

“When I first went on, I was trying to do stand-up, which didn’t work,” he said. “Kevin tells me to be ‘one with the music.’”

So far Hardwick is heard in the wee hours — 1 a.m. to 4 a.m. (hours vary depending on his MTV taping schedule) while he gets acquainted with the station. “Tami Heide is my favorite DJ,” he said. She taught me how to run the equipment.”

“Singled Out,” a new MTV dating show, which recruits contestants via the roving “Love Van,” runs nightly at 10 p.m.

A Murph-Less “Z 93”

John Murphy, half of the “Murph and Garabo” morning team on country music station KZLA 93.9 FM, left the station June 5 to pursue a full-time acting and voice-over career, according to station spokesperson Renee Thomas.

“We’re a music-intensive station,” Thomas said. “And his ideas couldn’t be easily incorporated into the show.”

John Garabo is hosting the show while the station conducts a nationwide talent search to find a new co-host. Murphy had been with “the Z” for nearly two years and the parting was an amicable one, according to Thomas.
Paul McCartney on KLSX

It took umpteen millions in record sales and worldwide rock superstar status, but ex-Beatle Paul McCartney finally got a weekly syndicated radio show. Heard on KLSX 97.1 FM Sundays at 9 a.m., the hour-long program is called “Oobu Joobu” and runs through Labor Day. (McCartney precedes the popular “Breakfast with the Beatles” with Deirdre O’Donohue at 10 a.m.). McCartney plays rare Beatle recordings, song parodies, outtakes, selections from his solo career and interviews with Stevie Wonder, Carl Perkins, Pete Townsend and Elvis Costello.

KUSC Imports Talent

KUSC 91.5 FM President and General Manager Dr. Wallace A. Smith announced four new classical music programs coming to the public radio station this month. Airing weekdays from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. and Saturdays from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. is “The Bob and Bill Show” with Bob Christiansen and Bill Morelock. The nationally broadcast program comes to L.A. with the “ultimate goal of convincing listeners that the music of choice while driving a ’66 Mustang convertible at sunset is the finale to the “Bartok Concerto for Orchestra.” Airing Sundays from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. is “Preview Hour” with local host Rich Capparela, who plays premieres of classical releases. “The Composer’s Voice,” a 13-part series on established and new composers follows Capparela’s voice from 7 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. During “Millenium of Music” early music specialist Robert Aubry Davis showcases the era before Bach from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m.

“Spirit 106” Gives Up the Ghost

“Hot” contemporary Christian KYMS 106.3 FM switched to an Asian format June 10. The Santa Ana station is operating under agreement between the old owners, Interstate Broadcasting, Inc., and Arthur Liu’s Multi-Cultural Broadcasting. Anticipating FCC approval of the deal, Liu has converted the station to brokered Asian programming (Vietnam California Radio) to serve the large Asian community in Orange County. Liu also operates KALI 1480 AM in San Gabriel, a Spanish-language and religious brokered station. KALI General Manager Gary Mercer said he had received some complaints from Orange County residents about the change from religious programming in English. KYMS broadcast Christian for 20-plus years and was one of the first such radio stations in the country.

Selena on ‘Anglo’ Radio

KIIS 102.7 FM/1150AM and KBIG 104.3 FM recently added “I Could Fall in Love” by the slain Latino pop star to their playlists. Selena sings in English but whispers a segment in Spanish, indicating that she was ready to “cross over” to English language radio before she died. The star was unknown to mainstream America until her untimely death and the subsequent controversy caused by Howard Stern heard on KLSX.

So far the record is doing quite well. “People are calling for it,” said KIIS music director Tracy Austin. “It is one of our most requested songs. We were playing a tribute to her [recorded] over her song “Fotos Y Recuerdos” [from the album “Amor Prohibo”] and people started calling in just for the song, which is a remake of 'Back on the Chain Gang.'"

Selena's new album on EMI, "Dreaming of You," has seven tracks in English and six in Spanish. The proceeds from the release go to the EMI-Selena Scholarship Fund.

Big 11 Countdown and Out

KRLA 1110 AM Program Director Mike Wagner pulled the plug on the "Big 11 Countdown" after the noon broadcast May 26.

"We needed to replace it with something that was in keeping with the rest of the station," Wagner said. "After 17 years, it had run its course."

The show offered a glimpse into the past by playing songs in the context of a contemporary countdown, including news events of the day.

KRLA replaced the countdown show with the "All Request Lunchtime Jam." Dominick Garcia remains the host during the time period.

KRLA fans may detect the voice of Humble Harve on the station's recorded promotional announcements. The former KJL "boss jock" hosted the afternoon drive show on KRLA several years ago.

Joyner MAXimized

Tom Joyner, known as the "fly-jock" because of his years commuting between radio shows in different cities, joined the lineup at sports talk KMAX 107.1 FM. KACE carried Joyner's show until the Inglewood station switched to R&B oldies last fall. Complementing Joyner on the KMAX "Home Team" are Reggie Rockin' L.A. Utley and Jan-Marie.

KMAX General Manager Keith James is happy with Joyner's satellite-delivered mix of urban music, comedy, sports and interviews.

"We're still going to fine-tune the show, adding local elements," James said. "But we've gotten a good response so far with the contests."

New Star on 98.7

Things are heating up in the AC Wars this summer, and we don't mean the air conditioning. Hot adult contemporary KYSR 98.7 FM is cranking up its 75,000-watt transmitter to full blast and importing some high-energy talent.

Replacing Jeff Davis in the afternoon-drive position is Rick Stacy, who left his program director/morning man job at KKFR in Phoenix to face KBIG, KIIS, CD 103, KROQ and the expensive L.A. real estate market.

"We did some shopping around, and I just can't believe the prices they're asking," said Stacy, who plans to steer the afternoon shift at Star 98.7 into a new galaxy.

"I'm going to do a high-profile personality show, something that I don't think exists in music radio in L.A.," said Stacy, who has been a morning DJ for 12 of his 18 years in radio. A couple of years ago.
Stacy filled in as host of Rick Dees' syndicated countdown show. The new jock admitted he would like to do a syndicated show out of L.A.—but not another countdown show.

Gina St. John has left the evening shift to pursue opportunities in television.

KPFK Highlights

What's behind the Michael Jackson media blitz? How much do recording artists make when they get a hit on the charts? Veteran record producer Samm Brown, host of the weekly news magazine "For the Record," focuses on the record industry from 10 p.m. to 11 p.m. Tuesdays on KPFK 90.7 FM.

KPFK is presenting a full reading of Ralph Ellison's novel "Invisible Man" through August. The project is the brainchild of former KPFK intern Roy Hurst, who has risen through the station ranks to produce the special half-hour program, airing weekdays from 9 a.m. to 9:30 a.m.

"When Ellison died last year I thought that this would be a good time to solicit celebrities," said Hurst, who has recruited an impressive lineup to his project. Actors Laurence Fishburne, Robert Guillaume, Wynton Marsalis, Alfre Woodard and Carl Weathers are some of the guest narrators. The show also features the music of Duke Ellington. Hurst finds that Ellison's book succeeds in uniting the best qualities of the classic American novel with what he calls a "jazz element, that is what makes it American."

KGRB Adds Hours, New Shows

Instead of signing off at 1 a.m., Gene Conway now hosts the new overnight shift on KGRB 900 after the Gil Gross show. Conway plays big band favorites from midnight to 6 a.m. while Art Uvaas covers the Sunday and Monday shifts. Veteran talk host Paul Wallach leads the evening's entertainment between 7 p.m. and 8 p.m. weekdays. On the weekends, AM 90 offers Richard Halpern's Tin Pan Alley Music at a new time, Saturdays from noon to 1 p.m. and Spanish big band music from 4 p.m. to midnight and Sundays until 10 p.m.

KEZY Seeks New Music

James Taylor did it. So did Pearl Jam. Gosh, even Elvis was rejected by the Grand Ole Opry. So musicians, get your CDs over to contemporary music station KEZY 95.9 FM in Orange County. General Manager Miles Sexton is setting aside two hours every Sunday to expose local bands. Mail your submissions to Chris Cox, Station Manager, KXEZ, 1190 E. Ball Road, Anaheim, CA 92805.

New GM at KPFK

KPFK executive director Pat Scott dubbed Mark Schubb acting general manager of the financially troubled Pacifica Radio 90.7 FM outlet. Schubb was formerly the director of Fair/L.A., a media watch group that recently took Rush Limbaugh to task for spreading a "Reign of Error." Most recently the new GM produced the syndicated Jim Hightower talk show for the ABC Radio Network out of Austin, Texas.

Pipe Organ Show

After conducting "Gee Dad, It's A Wurlitzer" on KPCC 89.3 FM for three years, host Steve Bramall handed over the baton midway through the May 21 Sunday night broadcast to his replacement, Bill Moore. Bramall, who is moving out of the L.A. area, announced his resignation well in advance, but KPCC program director Larry Mantle waited until the Friday before his last show to name Moore as Bramall's successor. The weekly show presents theatre pipe organ renditions of popular music and is the only show of its kind west of the Mississippi, according to KPCC's program description. Its existence in Tinseltown seems fitting since the large instruments were built to provide musical accompaniment for silent films starting in the late 1910s. With the advent of "talkies," the organs became obsolete, and now the once-familiar instruments are hard to find.

British-born Bramall is former chairman of the Los Angeles Theatre Organ Society, which sponsors concerts in the area and works to keep the haunting strains of these instruments alive for future generations.

TV Academy Honors Putnam

The Academy of Television Arts and Sciences presented KIEV 870 AM host George Putnam with the 1995 Los Angeles Area Governors Emmy Award at the Pasadena Civic Auditorium June 3. The award recognizes individuals who have made a special contribution to L.A. area television. The 81-year-old broadcaster was the highest paid news anchor in television during the '60s, garnering ratings in L.A. that have never been matched.

Wither FCC?

Washington conservatives, eager to rid the government of excess bureaucracy, have set their sights on eliminating Howard Stern's nemesis: the venerable Federal Communications Commission. The Progress & Freedom Foundation, a conservative think tank in Washington, D.C. issued a report May 30, "The Telecommunications Revolution: An American Opportunity." The report proposes: streamlining the 2,200-employee FCC and renaming it the Office of Communications Policy; privatizing the radio spectrum; speeding up the development of new technologies; increasing competition and cutting bureaucratic delay in the implementation of "new products, services and new job creation."

Ironically, the FCC was started by the Republican administration of President Herbert Hoover in 1927 with "one desk, two chairs, a table and a packing box," according to one history.)

Progress and Freedom Foundation Chairman G. A. Keyworth, II, a former White House Science Advisor, said today's government is "still operating within a legal framework designed when AM radio was cutting-edge technology."

Fine, but who will wash Howard Stern's mouth out with soap?

A copy of the report can be ordered for $19.95 by calling 202-484-2312.

Wolfman Jack Dies at 57

Wolfman Jack, who epitomized the crazy late-night rock DJ, died of a heart attack July 1, in the midst of a 20-city tour for his new book, "Have Mercy, the Confession of the Original Party Animal."

KRLA Program Director Mike Wagner hailed him as a great communicator.

"He was one of the first voices in rock radio to reach out to the listener and grab them back into the radio," he said.

Born Robert Smith in Brooklyn, the former KRLA and KDAY jock created a persona based on early DJ greats like Alan Freed, host of "Moondog's Matinee." His late-night broadcasts from high-powered Mexican border stations made him famous in his own right. KRLA personality Art Laboe, who worked with Wolfman at XPRS in Rosarita, said the legendary figure was a good businessman and that his natural voice had no trace of a growl.

"The day you have a child is the day you become vulnerable. That's why we're here."— KABC's Dennis Prager KABC talk host Dennis Prager reached to the stars for help at the Baby Richard Rally sponsored by "Hear My Voice" and KABC. The gathering in support of the right "Baby Richard" to remain with his adoptive parents attracted thousands of 790 fans and well wishers behind KABC Talkradio studios in Los Angeles.

Clockwise, Prager, actors Priscilla Presley, Tom Selleck, John McCook, star of TV's "The Bold and the Beautiful" with wife Laurette Spang and daughter Molly.
Star for Steele

Thumbs Up from The Real Don Steele as the K-Earth 101 and former KHJ 'Boss Jock' was honored with a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame at the corner of Hollywood and LaBrea. The day marked the 30th anniversary of the beginning of the 93-KHJ "Boss Radio" Top 40 format in Los Angeles. Pop stars Bobby Sherman and Jackie DeShannon honored the DJ on the same corner where he hawked newspapers while a student at Hollywood High. Legendary program director and innovator Bill Drake was also paid tribute to the radio superstar who's 30-share in the ratings has never been matched since KHJ ruled the Southland skies.

In the fast-growing Riverside/San Bernardino region, where rising levels of crime and smog parallel the rapid pace of economic growth, a former KIIS jock called "Hollywood" has lifted the spirit of the Inland Empire. This wholesome entertainer has endeared himself to folks with conventional values living within earshot of America's capitol of glitz and glamour.

"Sean found a community that lacked a presence — lacked a star to stand up for the community," said Dave Presher, KGGI former general manager. "He represents the area and has quickly become a part of the Riverside/San Bernardino area."

Along with his "posse" of five, Sean "Hollywood Hamilton" has devised a morning show that is bilingual, lacks negative shock-jock schtick and rewards family togetherness. The show draws a large following in a region who's million-plus population is more than a quarter latino.

The KGGI Jock earned his nickname as a DJ in New York, where his boss teased him about his wardrobe.

"I would always be wearing sunglasses, trendy clothes," explained Hamilton. "Scott [former Z-100 program director] thought I was trying to look like a Hollywood movie star, so it was he that began calling me 'Hollywood.'

Yet something about Hollywood suggests a DJ in exile. One industry source says that he was dropped from his L.A. gig because of his over identification with rap music. Far from looking like a guy who espouses cop-killer music, Hollywood projects the image of the boy next door. Hamilton says it was a tempting TV offer that drew him away from KIIS and L.A.

"I did a 13-episode pilot for Viacom based on a nightclub act I had originated while at KIIS," Sean "Hollywood" Hamilton said. "Then, before testing was completed, Viacom merged with Paramount, and at least 10 projects were canceled. My show was one of them."

His TV career dive led his nose back to KIIS, where he had been the star of the evening show at L.A.'s No. 1 hit music station for six years.

"I knew that KIIS was looking for an afternoon jock, so I approached [Gannett national programmer] Gerry DeFrancesco about that position," Hollywood gets tough with Dr. Zodiac

Hamilton said. "He took me aside and said, 'I can give you afternoons; but if I were you, I would consider kicking off a morning show career.'"

So what's Hamilton doing in the shadow of L.A., working at KGGI 99.1 FM in Riverside?

"Doing what I swore I'd never do," Hamilton said of his morning shift. "I dreaded the thought of waking up early every morning," he said. "But I'm so thankful now that I took Gerry's advice. I should have done this years ago."

Almost all of Los Angeles' many radio stations broadcast into the neighboring San Bernardino/Riverside counties, which comprise the nation's No. 28 market. With KGGI's transmitter located on Heap's Peak in the San Bernardino mountains — at a height of 7,000 feet, making it one of the highest transmitters in Southern California — KGGI can be heard by nearly every programmer in Los Angeles. That is precisely the reason he chose to take his show there. To challenge the mighty No. 2 market from another city is one thing, to do it in L.A.'s own back yard is quite another.

"We set our sights on Dees and Mark and Brian," Hamilton said. "We wanted to be the best."
To make his strategy work, he had to knock out the L.A. competition in the Inland Empire’s ratings game.

When he signed on, KGG1 was stuck in eighth place. Local personalities Jan Jeffrey of KFRG and Stu and Tiffany of KCAL-FM were beating KGG1, in addition to L.A. talents Bill Handel (KFI), Mark and Brian (KLOS), Rick Dees (KIIS), Howard Stern (KLSX) and Kevin and Bean (KROQ).

Within a year, Hollywood and his sidekicks moved up from eighth to third in the Inland Empire’s ratings, closing in on country station. KFRG, the market’s leader.

Hamilton wants Dees’ job at KIIS.

“Oh yes, I am going after Rick Dees,” he declared of his radio mentor.

To knock out the venerable Dees, he plans to corral his “posse” and lead them right through the Cahuenga Pass to Burbank and into the studios of KIIS. What are his chances? KIIS station manager Roy Laughlin’s lips are sealed tight on the topic.

Hamilton wants Dees’ job at KIIS.

“Then, as now, George was to act as the moral figure to keep me in line,” Hamilton declared.

His producer also has stuck by her partner. Santiago was Hamilton’s producer back in his days at KIIS and had helped with the Viacom television pilot.

Bubba and Jim are relative newcomers to the family, although Bubba and Hamilton have known each other for a long time. Hamilton recruited Bubba from New York; and Jim was one of the engineers on the Viacom pilot.

The morning show features at least 20 “bits” each week, ranging from “Roulette Karaoke” to the controversial “Bait Your Mate.” A caller who wants the Posse to prove his or her mate is cheating eavesdrops while Santiago (Candy) or Hamilton baits the significant other with an offer for a date.

“You’d be surprised how many people — especially men — take the bait,” Hamilton said.

And every morning a mysterious 89-year-old Japanese man known only as Dr. Zodiac gives astrology readings, which are reportedly accurate.

In “Parnell Williams Gangsterpiece Theatre” Bubba explains and translates gangsta rap as if he were Alistair Cooke.

With degrees in psychology and gynecology, the Cuban-born Brothers is bilingual, while Bubba contributes comments in 12 languages and imitates accents from around the globe.

"This is the first truly bilingual morning program in the United States — possibly the world," Hamilton proudly proclaimed.

One of the ongoing gags on the program revolves around Brother's corrections of gringo Hamilton's continued mispronunciation of Spanish words and Latino names.

In spite of all the comedy, Hamilton manages to squeeze in six to seven songs each hour.

"The plan was always to use KGGI as a training ground — a triple A farm camp — so that we could take our show into Los Angeles or New York," the 35-year-old said. "Our contract was written with the understanding that we will eventually move to the majors."

Surprisingly, KGGI management not only condones, but encourages Hamilton to work toward his goal.

"I'd have a problem if he didn't want to work in Los Angeles," programmer Carmy Ferreri said. "I mean, if he didn't, how hard would he want to work?"

And work he does. He begins each day at 3:30 a.m., arriving at the station for preproduction preparations at 4:30 a.m. His show runs from 5:30 until 10 a.m., after which he and the Posse work another hour on the next day's show. In the afternoon they go out into the community to meet with the public and local businesses.

"I consider him the Jerry Seinfeld of radio," Presher said. "He is a man of many talents; and I am proud to have him on my team."

Seinfeld or no, Hamilton seems to have been destined to be an entertainer from the getgo.

At 15, he began his career with a broadcast from the closet in his bedroom via a ham radio outfit connected to a turntable.

"On a clear day, I spoke to about 12 people," he recalled. That is, until the FCC shut down his station.

After a brief stint in Reno, Nev., the precocious broadcaster landed a job at Y107 in Long Branch, N.J., a station with-

Staffers Paul Schafer and Claudia Perez in earshot of Shannon at New York's top-rated Z-100. Impressed by what he heard, Shannon followed the young jock's career as he moved on to a gig in Florida. From there, Shannon brought his wonder boy to electrify New York's evenings with his high energy delivery of the hits. At age 21, the young jock had made it to the biggest station in the number one market.

In every market where Hamilton has worked, he has earned a reputation for mischief.

• In Reno he was arrested while on the air on a charge of unpaid parking tickets. "The cops just busted in and hauled me away during my show," he recalled.

• One night as he was leaving a station in New Jersey a listener shot at him. "He thought I was seeing his wife."

• In New York, he got smacked in the head in a bar in New York — by a ceiling fan.

"I was doing a Michael Jackson moonwalk and didn't see it."

• Police chased him after he staged an illegal parachute jump from the top of the Texaco building in Universal City — its tallest building.

• "After the listener and our former promotions director made the jump, we just grabbed the parachutes and ran," he recalled.

• He tried to land a job at WNBC/New York by sending a woman to deliver his tape and résumé taped to her breasts.

"It didn't work," he said.
INLAND EMPIRE PLAYERS

Riverside-San Bernardino: The Nation's No. 28 Market

The Inland Empire continues to draw large numbers of new residents attracted to the affordable housing available within commuting range of downtown Los Angeles. Between 1983 and 1993, the population of Riverside County grew 82 percent, making it the fastest growing county in California. Country station KFRG 95.1 FM is No. 1 in the market, followed by KFI 640 AM and KGGI 99.1 FM in second and third place, respectively. Inland Empire radio faces the challenge of maintaining a local identity while competing with L.A.'s high-powered radio talent.

Local Hosts Resist Radical Right's Aerial Assault

BY JASON BORGE

Even before the recent Oklahoma City bombing, Southland liberal and conservatives were trading barbs over responsibility in radio broadcasting. The liberals accused conservatives of race-baiting, fomenting right-wing terrorism and general demagoguery. Conservatives, for their part, accused liberals of moral laxity and of overreacting to the sometimes incendiary words of hosts like G. Gordon Liddy.

Yet as the national debate has lately reached a strident pitch, local hosts have largely stayed clear of the party-line baiting and blustering that typify the syndicated talk shows, such as Rush Limbaugh, Ollie North, Michael Reagan and G. Gordon Liddy. In fact, among these hosts, only Rush has a local berth, the remainder are heard on San Diego's KOGO 600 AM, which comes in strong in greater L.A.

Take KABC 790 AM's Larry Elder.

It's not just the fact that Elder, whose local talk show airs weeknights from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m., is a black conservative that makes his approach rare and fresh. It's that neither his race nor his ideology are immediately apparent in his jabs and jibes with listeners: Category is clearly not something to which Elder kowtows. At one point during the show, a self-described liberal white listener from Glendale complains about reverse discrimination. He gets sympathy from Elder.

A few minutes later, Elder smells paranoia in the comments of a Northridge listener, who draws an unconvincing connection between the government, Wall Street and "truckloads" of illegal immigrants.

"Wait," Elder interrupted. "Just who in the government is flooding the country with immigrants?"

Despite such seemingly contradictory politics — fiscally right-wing, socially somewhere between left and center — Elder is by no means ambivalent in his overall ideology. He clearly spells out his views for listeners nearly every night. His strongly independent takes on a variety of issues, from U.S. trade policy to local politics, fit right in on the L.A. airwaves.

Elder is one of a number of new hosts who have recently given Southern California a new type of talk. Candid, provocative, contrarian: It is just such iconoclasm — a studied evasion of political orthodoxy — that characterizes talk radio in Los Angeles, and what help sets it apart from the more obvious partisanship of some popular national shows.

Of course, talk radio in the Southland predates the syndicated gab of Rush Limbaugh and Howard Stern.

A colleague of Elder at KABC, the venerable Michael Jackson, has been hosting his morning show here for nearly 30 years.

Although generally known as a liberal, Jackson is neither a party spokesperson nor does he convey the pure political animus of some of his competitors. He covers a number of topics on his show — some lighter than others — and seems proud of the balance and civility of his interchange with guests and listeners.

"I cover all the points of view," he said. "My job is to enlighten, inform and entertain. Put that all together, and that means hospitality. I try very hard to make sure I don't get the last word."

It is the contentiousness of many newer radio talk shows, especially ones with a righ-wing slant, according to Jackson, that corrodes an otherwise healthy public discourse.

"I cover all the points of view," he said. "My job is to enlighten, inform and entertain. Put that all together, and that means hospitality. I try very hard to make sure I don't get the last word."

On the other hand, Jackson senses a disingenuousness in his competitor.

"If liberalism were in, he'd be with it," the KABC veteran broadcaster said. "I don't know; but that's my feeling."

What is more, the breadth of Limbaugh's appeal, in Jackson's opinion, keeps him from making any special impact on Los Angeles — a defect that has less to do with creed than size.

"He's Johnny one-note," Jackson said. "He can't cover what's going on in L.A. We're a country — L.A. The audience out here is too good. This is a saavy community that is in the vanguard of many things."

But, according to Tom Leykis of Westwood One, whose nationally-syndicated show is carried on KMPC-AM 710 from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. on weekdays, and who broadcasts from Los Angeles, what separates the L.A. audience from the rest of the country is sense of humor and rootlessness, not saavy. To Leykis, Angelenos are less politicized because they often have only a vague sense of identity with their community.

"People are more interested in politics if they're from a place," Leykis said. "The problem is that Los Angeles is actually many cities. People don't think twice about moving from West L.A. to Beverly Hills. I've talked to people in L.A. who don't know what city they live in."

By the same token, Leykis noted, his L.A. listeners add a levity to his show that complements the serious, sometimes grim, partisanship of his non-L.A. audience. Although Leykis' listeners tend to be liberal, he has noticed a similar tendency among conservative talk shows, which are likely to ignore the more ambiguous and quirky major metropolitan areas for the fundamentalism of the hinterlands.

"The syndicated shows tend to be one-dimensional," Leykis said. "[They also] tend to be hard-right conservatives. If you're programming in L.A., the shows can afford to have more of a variety."
Although Elder's complexity contrasts the syndicated "one-dimensional" hosts, sometimes he goes farther right. The GOP's Contract with America doesn't go nearly far enough for his taste. He thinks government should get entirely out of healthcare, that the welfare system should be abolished, and that a flat tax system should replace the existing one. He also routinely defends the Reagan legacy at the expense of Bush and Clinton.

Not surprisingly, Elder believes that most liberals have overstated the dangers of the so-called radical right.

"Liberals recognize that conservatives have exposed the weaknesses of their arguments," Elder said. "And therefore are legitimately concerned."

Warren Olney, whose issues-related show "Which Way, LA?" airs twice daily twice during the week (1 p.m. to 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 8 p.m.) on public radio station KCRW-89.9 FM. disagreed. Olney, once a fixture on L.A. television, believes conservatives' claim to minority status in the broadcast media is dubious.

"I think the left gets left out much more than the right," he said. "This notion that the media are rabid leftists is nonsense."

Then there are those local hosts, like Michael Jackson interviews Janet Reno

John & Ken

KFI's John Kobylt (half of weekday afternoons' stalwart "John and Ken" show), who try to distance themselves from nuts-and-bolts politics as much as possible.

"Too many of the talk shows want to save the world," Kobylt said. "If I can't figure out how [politics] affects my life, it's not worth it. The content of the show, if we're doing our job right, should reflect what's going on at the dinner table. Most people don't read the Wall Street Journal."

If there is one thing about which most local hosts — left, right, center or otherwise — agree, it's that talk radio is not as lethal a weapon as many critics, including President Clinton, have lately made it out to be. From Michael Jackson to George Putnam, the consensus is that radio does a great deal more good than harm.

In the view of KABC's Gloria Allred (weekday afternoons from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m.), talk radio is not dangerous at all. She called it "essential to democracy."

"Talk radio is one way that [people's] voices can be heard. Television encourages passivity," she asserted. "Radio encourages activity and involvement."

While conceding that there is an incendiary language coming from both-sides of the political spectrum, Larry Elder says no host — nor any movie executive, for that matter — is a revolutionary unto himself.

"I think talk radio has had virtually no role with creating an atmosphere of anger and violence," he said. "The reason people misbehave has to do with poor parenting, not whether you saw 'Braveheart' and decided to get a sword and slay people."

KOGO 600 AM host and program director Peter Weissbach agreed.

"I think if you believe that people are not responsible for their own actions, then talk radio is as dangerous as rap music," said Weissbach, whose conservative show airs daily from 3 to 6 p.m.

"[But] if we followed through on that line of reasoning, we'd have to abandon our First Amendment rights."

KOGO, which is based in San Diego, carries the G. Gordon Liddy, Michael Reagan and Oliver North shows.

All the hosts interviewed acknowledged that at some point they must draw a line of responsibility if radio is to thrive as an aid to the democratic process.

Syndicated right-wing host G. Gordon Liddy, they said, has crossed that line. Liddy, whose show was recently dropped by San Bernardino’s KCKC 1350 AM in response to widespread criticism in wake of the bombing of the Federal Building in Oklahoma City, has in the past urged listeners to aim for the head of agents of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms who threaten them, since ATF agents wear bulletproof vests.

KCKC General Manager Bill McNulty is confident of his decision and has no plans to pick up Liddy in the future.

"Initially, there was was uproar from a small but vocal audience," McNulty said.

But within two days, the response was 90 percent in favor of his action. Michael Jackson called Liddy "an irresponsible man," but he doesn't stop there.

"Nationwide, most [conservative hosts] do a disservice to the honorable name of conservatives," Jackson said.

"They have one priority: a scramble for ratings."

According to Jackson, they're mostly interested in bashing incumbency and promoting a very narrow set of issues.

"We're battling against a stampeding herd at the moment," he said. "I think self-promotion is their raison d'etre.”

KCRW's Warren Olney thinks the usefulness — or danger — of aired opinion depends on how the debate is couched.

"There is a legitimate concern that some shows legitimize people who ought to be anathema," he said. "Sometimes it can be illuminating to hear from people. But a lot of baiting goes on on talk radio by the hosts. I think all that does is harden people's antipathy toward each other on all sides."

Olney, however, is not advocating censorship.

"In a democratic society everyone gets a chance to speak," he said. "I don't know why it would be unhealthy to give people a chance to vent, as long as the voice is rational. When people get too far off base, you have to take them off the air or at least call them on it."

KIEV 870 AM's George Putnam, often pegged as a right-wing conservative, is also against censorship.

"I like the freedom we enjoy," Putnam said. "I hope we're not violating our responsibility ... I don't agree with G. Gordon Liddy. I think that was a stupid statement. We never advocate violence on my show. However, I'm a big believer in the First Amendment."

The dean of L.A. talk show hosts originated his audience feedback format on television in New York in 1948 with a program called "Audience Clues."

Putnam, who has interviewed every U.S. president from Hoover to Bush, recalled his early years as a supporter of Minnesota's Farm Labor Party and later the Socialist Party U.S.A. headed by

Gloria Allred

Norman Thomas. Putnam is a lifelong Democrat, one who idolized President Franklin Roosevelt.

"We were hungry back in the Depression," he said. "You can't imagine what it was like to go through what we suffered."

A long career in journalism has led Putnam to place the highest value on the integrity of the leader in question, not the politics. He finds President Clinton opportunistic and one who will say one thing at one moment and later turn 180 degrees around.

Although Putnam has been closely identified with nominally conservative causes such as Propositions 13 and 187; when he talks about them, the issues sound more populist than right-wing.

"I don't think you should have an official language, but it's the glue that holds the country together," said the KIEV host who's a member of the NAACP and the Urban League. "Think how restrictive it is to our offspring to say you're Vietnamese, rather than American. Who profits from divisiveness? The demagogues!"

won many awards, including Billboard's Adult Contemporary Station of the Year. Before Cox Broadcasting purchased KACE-FM last year, the KOST/KFI combination called itself the "7-call letter giant." With more than a million listeners, KOST serves a wide range of people, reflecting the cultural and ethnic diversity of greater L.A. Their evening dedications program, "Love Songs on the Coast," broadcasts messages to both straight and gay couples. "The Coast" has created an identity that reflects the attitude-and lifestyle of Southern Californians.

A Recollection of Talk Radio’s Origins in L.A.

BY V. ROBERT VANS

Talk radio began in Los Angeles and has always been political. But myths get started. One myth is that talk radio began at KLAC AM 570. Another myth is that Rush Limbaugh is the father of conservative rabble-rousing on telephone talk shows.

In 1960 it took a brave young station manager, Ben Hoberman at KABC, to totally change formats and to invent something he named “talk-radio.” As manager of an ABC Network-owned-and-operated station, Hoberman was obligated to network headquarters in New York. Make mistakes and you’re fired!

Hoberman made no mistakes. KABC was the first to adopt the 24-hour talk-radio format, and it is still going strong. Admittedly, he had a top staff with George Green as sales manager and Jack Myers in charge of programming.

“In those days you had to do something that separated your station from the pack,” recalled Hoberman.

He admits to being surprised by talk radio’s phenomenal success. Originally, he wanted to attract a small but demographically desirable audience, which would appeal to advertisers looking to reach a different kind of radio listener.

Beginning with a half-hour call-in show called “Open Line” hosted by staff announcer Reed Browning, Hoberman started adding more talk shows to the lineup. Between October 1960 and early 1961 KABC was transformed from a music station into “The Conversation Station.” Some of the early stars of the new talk format were: Myron J. Bennett, Wendell Noble, Paul Condylis, sports-talkers Jim Healy and Pamela Mason (wife of actor James Mason). Telephone talk shows were called “beeper” shows because of the periodic beep required by the FCC to alert callers that they were on the air and being recorded through the seven-second delay system used to screen out any indecent remarks.

KLAC was a “middle-of-the-road” formatted station, when they took on their first talk show host, a conservative by the name of Joe Pyne. KABC had fired Pyne for being too abrasive—he regularly harassed and insulted his callers in a manner that might embarrass Don Rickles. Nevertheless, his show proved a ratings bonanza for the otherwise lackluster Metromedia outlet. He single-handedly kept the station from falling apart with his strong ratings. Meantime, KLAC had difficulty settling on a format.

“This station is being run by a band of idiots,” Pyne said. “They plan on going to a country-western format, and that makes no sense.”

After an unsuccessful try at country/western music, KLAC bumbled into unknown waters with an attitude akin to telling company janitors that on Monday they will be reassigned as rocket scientists. KLAC sent a memo to all DJs stating: “Starting Monday morning, you are all telephone talk show hosts.”

The platter spinners struggled to match Pyne’s abilities and ratings in the transition to talk. For ex-DJ Ray Briem, the change was a new beginning. Today, Briem admits he was frightened with the new assignment. Up to that day, spinning big-band discs had been his entire broadcasting career.

As things became more confused at KLAC and with no firm job offer, Briem quit KLAC. He met with Jack Myers, program manager of KABC. Briem remarked that the station was signing off the air every night at midnight. With Myers’ recommendation, Hoberman hired him to fill the slot from midnight to 5 a.m. For the next 27 years Briem owned late-night Los Angeles radio. He retired from broadcasting last year.

“As of today, not a single midnight radio show in America is making money," Briem said. "We always did and raised advertising revenue to $1 million annually for my show."

Briem’s strong politically conservative style attracted a large audience of little old ladies with insomnia. However, unlike Joe Pyne, he approached the issues of the day with quiet dignity.

Briem also had a good sense of humor, which increased the entertainment value of the show. He named a regular caller “Lefty Louise.” She was an avowed Communist, with a voice that sounded as though she gargled with ground glass before calling Briem. She would scream at him, but he was smart enough to play with her and never shout back.

He was the first to contact Soviet radio spokesman Vladimir Pozner in Moscow. Briem’s friendly debates with the Russian became a regular feature on the show.

Pozner was typically an apologist for the Soviet government. On one occasion, he told Briem that the Russians were justified in shooting down the civilian Korean Airlines flight 707.

However, Pozner’s conversations with Briem eventually got the Russian fired. One night on Briem’s show, he admitted to being opposed to the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan. Besides all the little old ladies, KGB agents were listening, sealing the fate of the suave official.

In the battle for ratings, Hoberman made smart programming decisions. At about the same time conservative Briem started taking care of the night, KABC hired liberal Michael Jackson for the morning slot. Born in South Africa and educated in Great Britain, Jackson also had a broadcasting background as a music disc jockey.

With his upper-crust British accent, Jackson gave a voice of authority to his politically liberal philosophy. Along with Briem, he lasted more than a quarter century on the station. Both men have earned stars on the Hollywood Boulevard Walk of Fame.

Jackson’s stature enables him to almost instantly interview any national politician — liberal or conservative. Although often highly opinionated, he is able to put his own liberal spin on issues without offending his guests. His reputation has earned him a regular stint filling in for Larry King on CNN.

KABC has, over the years, combined religion and politics on Sunday evenings with a talk show titled “Religion on the Line.” Each program featured three guests: a Catholic priest, a Jewish rabbi and a Protestant minister.

Although the program related primarily to cordial religious differences, the guests were often questioned on political issues. Dennis Prager moderated the show for about 10 years before becoming a regular...
Ray Briem weekday talk host with his own conservative bent on KABC.

KLAC could not compete with KABC and soon dropped its talk format. When it came to talk, no one even came close to KABC. KGIL in the San Fernando Valley tried but gave up and eventually switched to adult standards. KNX offered lots of talk programs but eventually went with a news format.

In the early days of radio talk, KIEV was handicapped as a daylight-only station with limited power. It later went 24-hours and a few years later increased its power output. George Putnam has been on KIEV for many years and his ultraconservative politics has attracted a faithful following. Putnam's TV newscast style was parodied on "Mary Tyler Moore Show." He has always maintained the same style on KIEV.

The real bottom line for KABC's success through the years has been superb management. Hoberman was so successful in Los Angeles that he was promoted to president of all ABC-owned-and-operated stations in New York. Other ABC stations were eventually modeled after the success of KABC, such as KGO in San Francisco and WABC in New York, the flagship station for Rush Limbaugh's show. Hoberman eventually pioneered ABC's satellite "Talk Radio" format in the early '80s, delivering KABC's stars such as Michael Jackson to stations all around the country. George Green was moved up from sales manager to the top management spot in Los Angeles. He holds that position today.

Green has continued Hoberman's success. For one thing, both understood that while top ratings are essential, demographics were almost equally important. Originally, all KABC's talk shows were aimed at an older audience, as they are today. Ray Briem's program virtually became a show for senior citizens, with regular guests such as big band artist Artie Shaw and guitarist Les Paul.

Politics and demographics go together. Recently, the corporate owners of KABC purchased struggling KMPC. Green took the task of managing an additional talk station. But, in listening to both outlets, it's obvious he didn't want to compete with himself.

With talk hosts such as Joe Crumney and Tom Leykis, Green obviously is trying to bring talk radio to a younger audience. Leykis' hooting and hollering would give headaches to senior citizens, but appeals to a younger age group.

The success of radio talk in L.A. clearly rests with KABC.

Bob Vans was a consultant for KABC radio in the late '60s and the West Coast editor for Sponsor Magazine. He also hosted his own stock market show on KCET-TV.

Biz Whiz Takes Listeners Down Road to Success

BY ROBIN BLAKELY ECONOMU

It sounds like a remarkable story that other radio talk show hosts could bandy about for at least two segments straight. Something like the truth-is-stranger-than-fiction plot for a movie on the silver screen. Almost a little too crazy to believe, but it's true.

This story is about this outrageously talented corporate guy. Let's call him Dick Kazan. He's super smart — a self-made multimillionaire. One day he goes shopping around the country for radio stations. See, the cost for radio properties had just dropped to 1975 prices. Egad! We're talking real bargains here — nearly too good to pass up.

Well, it just so happens that this Kazan guy knows a few million things about spotting a good deal when he sees one. He goes around and introduces himself to the fun-loving radio crowd just to see what's really happening in that scene.

There's an instant connection. The businessman has a change of his business-size heart. Goodbye, dreary adult dreams. So long, suit-and-tie shareholders.

Kazan has found a spot in front of the mike. His radio program, "The Road to Success" on KMP 710 AM Sunday mornings from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m., is the answer to every new business owner's dream. This talk show host has the mind of a corporate wizard. He's able to leap the biggest biz-building questions in a single bound. If his magic voice doesn't dissolve those nagging doubts about the corporate environment, his sharp focus on business matters will clear up any worries.

Both new and established business owners ride the wake that Kazan cuts through the airwaves. His audience is about half men and half women and falls in the age range of late 20s to early 40s. All eventually get acquainted with a guiding philosophy that encourages positive thinking, high standards of integrity and clarity of vision.

Kazan recalled the wisdom of Henry Ford: "Whether you think you can or you think you can't, you're right."

Listeners wait nonstop to ask for Kazan's advice about specific matters. According to Kazan, the topics center around the real-life problems that people are having at work. He deals with personal issues too, like whether to lease or buy a car, whether to rent or own a house.

Besides providing practical information, he also aims tough questions at some of the country's most experienced business leaders. The compelling stories that are shared on "The Road to Success" include informative anecdotes from chief executive officers of major corporations, small business entrepreneurs, motion picture moguls and plenty of other brains worth picking.

But it's Kazan himself who provides the constant inspiration and the assurance to radio listeners well on their own way down his road. His career began 22 years ago, when he started his own company as a one-man operation. It turned into one of the nation's largest computer leasing firms, employing 300 people and serving the needs of many Fortune 500 companies.

"I remind listeners often that the best business ideas are simple," he said.

It's understanding the need for simplicity that enables Kazan to help his listeners put their ideas into motion.

You begin by going somewhere like the Botanical Gardens and putting your ideas into writing. These pages will form the basis for your business plan. First, you have to believe; then, commit yourself to action. And you will see success come along.

BY THOM LOONEY

It's a national nightmare, and nobody is talking about it. They're swarming over the border, and there's nothing Pete Wilson can do about it. Talk radio and full-service radio have migrated to FM-land.

Talk has had nowhere to go but to FM. (Would you want to live in AM?) For all intents and purposes, people under 40 don't even know AM exists. If I ever drive a friend's car who is under 40, their AM buttons aren't even preprogrammed. I always push my friends' buttons. Anytime I rent a car, the AM buttons are never ever preprogrammed.

A woman about 25 overheard Joe Crumney (710 Talk) blasting from my speakers (I had the top down, of course). She shouted, "What station is that? That sounds interesting!"

I blurted, "That's Joe Crumney on 710-Talk, the new talk station."

She barked, "Oh, goodness me! That's AM, isn't it?"

I retorted, "Why, yes, it is. And a wonderful new snappy station it is!"

With baby boomers and Gen X-ers failing to acknowledge the existence of AM, talk has had no choice but to invade FM like Ebola. Many of America's most famous claptrappers are invading FM. Tom Leykis, Howard Stern, Mark and Brian, Greaseman and the Fabulous Sports Babe are all yap, yap, yapping away on FM.

If you hop in your car at night and hit FM (which used to be cloned with "more music, less talk" formats all up and down the dial just a few years ago) you'll find the following:

Punch up 102.7 KIIS-FM: Desperate and Dateless: KIIS-FM used to be a music machine. Now they squeeze in a song every once in a blue moon while Domino hosts a dating game for kiddies. (I sure hope they're in tape-delay, because the most commonly asked question is: "So, what do you like to do on a date?" I wait every night for somebody to answer truthfully.

95.5 KLOS-FM: The Greaseman: Just a few years ago on FM rock stations, program directors used to tell DJs, "If you want to do something funny, keep the bit under 20 seconds."

Well, times they are a talkin'. On modern rocker KLOS-FM, the Greaseman is doing what he does best — talking!

103.5 KOST-FM: They're still playing music at night, but they do a lot of dedications, which means the DJ has to talk a lot.

107.1 KMAX-FM: The Sports-Gods: Cheap rip-off of Beavis & Butthead. It's sports. It's talk. It's FM. (I can't say they're morons because I listen every night!)

These last four examples are just representative of nights. With Howard Stern live from New York from 3 a.m. until 6 a.m., then rebroadcast from 6 a.m. until he's done yacking (which is sometimes after 11 a.m.), that means that 97.1 KLSX "where everyday is a no repeat day," they only really have to cruise about 9 to 10 hours without repeating a song. (Is that so special?) Let's add this up: eight hours of Howard, two hours of commercials and traffic and three hours of Jim Ladd, who has to give you the omniscient, elaborate history of the song "Freebird" (as though you hadn't heard it before).

The interesting thing here is — or the frightening thing, depending on your perspective — all this talking isn't always being done on talk-formatted stations. Talk is moving up and down the FM dial: public radio, religious radio, Top-40/CHR radio, rock radio and sports radio. These talkers are taking over FM — or should I say, "These talkers are talking over."

Little did we know the domino theory would have to do with the spread of talk to FM.

The preceding opinions are Looney opinions, and that says it all.
