ABC—NEW STARS AND SHOWS

■ My husband, Jim Stacy, and I were sitting at home one evening when a call came in for me. George Burns on the line, with news that was to transform my career. He'd had a TV script for a long time which he thought was very good, very funny and he'd been holding it all this time until he found the right girl for the lead. A girl who was young, cute, believable yet addle-brained. A sort of young Gracie Allen. In other words, he added, me! I was spinning.

Since then I've been playing Wendy and that young lady has become part of my life. She is the young wife of an airline pilot, who is played by Ron Harper, and she has a zany personality which, somehow, makes sense. At least, I understand her—maybe because I'm so much like her. Wendy has an offbeat kind of logic and an inventive mind; she does ridiculous things that eventually pan out well. Wendy always knows exactly what she's doing even though it's never very clear to anyone else.

It was only natural that people would ask me if I prefer playing Wendy to Cricket, whom I portrayed for four years in "Hawaiian Eye." Of course I do, because things are always happening to Wendy; she is in the thick of every situation, just as everything used to revolve around Lucy in the original "Lucy" series. On the other hand, Cricket was more of a bystander.

But Wendy is a new person and a new step in my career. I am learning comedy under the greatest teacher of them all, George Burns. George plays the owner of the apartment building where I and several other zany tenants live, but he also participates in the production of the show.

My husband and I made a pact that we would never act together as sweethearts or a married couple. We feel it is not good for our marriage. But we are going to break that rule in this show. In one sequence, Jim will play an airline pilot who is romancing a stewardess, who will be played by Marlo Thomas, Ron Harper's real life fiancee. Can you imagine the fun it will be when Jim and Marlo are in each other's arms, just as Ron and I are kissing and cooing? Crazy. But that's Wendy for you!

By Connie Stevens

CONNIE STEVENS was born Aug. 8, 1938 in Brooklyn, N. Y. The daughter of a musician, she gat into shaw business by singing with a tria, went to Hallywood ta make her first mavie, "Rockabye Baby." profiles in courage

PROFILES IN COURAGE is a dramatization based on figures in the late President Kennedy's best selling book, "Profiles in Courage." In addition to the people that Mr. Kennedy dealt with, there will be programs on many others. However, each drama will deal with an outstanding example of moral courage on the part of an American figure. At right, Martin Gabel in a featured role.

THEYVE GOT THE

■ Raymond Massey and I have a lot to look forward to as we start our fourth season. I believe the Kildare character is continuing to grow and the individual stories are becoming more varied.

As an actor, I have ambitions beyond the series. I hope to play a wider variety of roles. "Joy in the Morning" the new feature I have completed for MGM, is one step in this direction. Included in my goals is musical theatre and also directing. But back to Kildare. Most unusual thus far is a script called "Rome Will Never Leave You," covering three episodes. In it Kildare and Gillespie go to Rome to meet with Italian doctors who are near a breakthrough in cancer research. It isn't all professional in romantic Rome. Daniela Bianchi will guest star in her American TV debut. I don't have to tell you Kildare is due to fall head over heels. And even Gillespie is in for some heart trouble over an Italian contessa.

In general our stories will be even more varied than in the first three years; more comedies, more romances along with straight dramatic material. In drama, with Kildare now a more experienced secondyear resident, some of the subjects to be tackled will be provocative, even controversial on things of timely interest. There's a good possibility that Mr. Massey and I each will direct a show. I can't talk about mine yet but Mr. Massey's is unique. In it he may direct his own son Daniel, an accomplished Broadway actor who will play Dr. Gillespie as a young man beginning in medicine. I'm looking forward to being directed to Mr. Massey. Of course after being guided by Gillespie for three years, it shouldn't be a strange thing for Kildare.

By Dick Chamberlain

RICHARD CHAMBERLAIN, the "Dr. Kildare" of the highly popular NBC-TV show, was majoring in painting at Pomona College less than four years ago. Born in Los Angeles, he tried college dramatics, interested an agent in his talent, then landed spots in TV on "Thriller," "Gunsmake," "The Deputy," "Alfred Hitchcock Presents." He played leading roles in two movies, "Twilight of Honor" and the new "Joy in the Morning." Single, he has long-term pact at MGM. Dates blande Linda Evans.

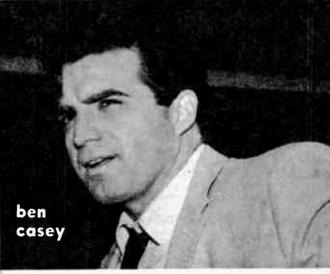

RAYMOND MASSEY, at 65, one of our most versatile actors, has run the gamut from stage and screen Lincoln portrayals to his present role of Dr. Gillespie on NBC-TV's "Dr. Kildare" series. Canadian born, married and the father of three, he was wounded in WW I, later went on the Landon stage. He has appeared in over 75 movies aside from dozens of stage triumphs and countless radio and TV shows. His stage credits include "Pygmalian"; films, "East of Eden." Raymond shows no sign of retiring.

BEDSIDE MANNER!

VINCENT EDWARDS, who plays dynamic Dr. Ben Casey in the hour long ABC-TV medical series, is 36, unmarried, Brooklyn born. A champion swimmer while at Ohio State University and the University of Hawaii, Vincent later attended the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, then toured with road companies. TV came next and he estimates he has done nearly 100 live shows. His movies include "Serenade," "Three Faces of Eve" and "The Victors."

BETTYE ACKERMAN portrays the neurologist, Dr. Maggie Graham. Off-screen she is Mrs. Sam Jaffe. Born on February 28 of a leap year, she went to New York to study acting and dancing after attending South Carolina's Columbia College. She has acted in many off-Broadway productions, including "Tartuffe," in which she met her husband. She got the role of Dr. Graham after the producers of the series saw her at a costume-fitting for her husband, liked her.

SAM JAFFE, distinguished character actor who plays Dr. David Zorba, switched from mathematics to acting when he was teaching in Brooklyn, N. Y. and has never regretted it. He is famous for such movie rales as The Grand Lama in "Lost Horizon" and The Mastermind in "The Asphalt Jungle." On stage he has appeared with Julie Harris in "The Lark." Born in New York, March 8, 1897, he is married to actress Bettye Ackerman; helped found Equity Library Theatre.

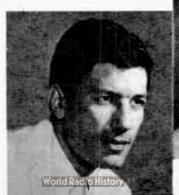

HARRY LANDERS, in the featured role of Dr. Ted Hoffman, is no stranger to television. He has appeared on "Studio One," "Kraft Theater," "Navy Log," "Medic" and "Have Gun, Will Travel," to name a few. He has also appeared on the screen in "The Wild One," "Rear Window" and "The Ten Commandments." On Broadway he was seen in "A Flag is Born" and "Billy Budd." At 43, he's married to Jeanne Vaugh, a former "Miss Louisiana." They have two sons.

Her lavely speaking vo ce and manner have mode her a favarite and of course she's no slouch in the brain department either. She has a daughter, Barbaro, by her first marriage Shie remarried last year.

■ I'll never forget the day I had to do a scene in which I have a fatherly talk with one of my TV sons, Mike Landon. As we were rehearsing, Mike put his feet up on the coffee table. I told him I thought he shouldn't have his feet on the table while we had a father-son chat; it looked disrespectful. Mike disagreed. I had my own beliefs.

When it was time to shoot the scene, Mike hauled his feet up on the table again. While the cameras were rolling, I said sharply to Mike: "Son, take your feet off the table. Show some respect to your dad or I'll wallop the hide off you!" Mike looked startled but quickly set his feet down.

It proves that one of the reasons "Bonanza" hits home is that Ben Cartwright, the father, and his three sons have an honest relationship with each other. When I play Ben I can give a convincing performance, as can the sons, played by Dan Blocker. Mike Landon and Pernell Roberts.

Ben Cartwright is a real man and a product of his times, the rambunctious period of the West at the turn of the century. He is not only a widower with three adventurous, young adult sons, he is a robust man who lives his own life. He rides horses, shares his sons' adventures, gets into and out of trouble and doesn't wear a halo on his head, even though he is a parent. Why, Ben even has an 18-year-old girl get a crush on him.

has an 18-year-old girl get a crush on him.

Although we enter our sixth year on "Bonanza" for NBC, there is no sense of monotony because the show is not stereotyped. Although "Bonanza" has sometimes been called a Western, it is more an anthology of dramas set against a Western scene. I find the homely role of Ben Cartwright very satisfying. Who can ever get bored with that—no matter how many years I play him.

know him only as the father in "Bonanza." Born in Ottawa and educated there he planned to go into engineering until he began to act in college. This was what he wanted. Years of stock and radio led him into IV when producer, the waster of the stock and radio led him into IV when producer, the waster of the second time last year.

PERNELL ROBERTS, one of the sons in "Bonanza," started as a Southerner in Waycross, Ga., and did a lot of things including being a butcher. Eleven years ago he decided he wanted ta act. After a time in the Marines he tried college again (he had flunked twice) and still it couldn't hold him. He did act in college plays and then went to New York stock engagements and finally Hollywood. Recently wed, he had been rumored ready to leave "Bonanza."

DAN BLOCKER of "Bonanza" weighed 14 pounds at birth (in Texas), 200 at 12 and 300 when he gat the role of Moss Cartwright. Known in hometown as the "Big'n" he grew up fighting to prove his strength. Me never lost but decided to become a teacher. Got his B.A. in drama instead and acted on Broadway in "King Lear." After Korea, he married his childhood sweetheart, moved to California and has four "Lil'ns," two of whom are twin daughters.

MICHAEL LANDON born Eugene Orowitz, won his spurs in "Bonanza" and it has brought him happiness. Born in New York, his mother is Peggy O'Neil of musical comedy fame, his dad was a theatre manager. Mike had offers from 46 universities for outstanding skill as a javelin thrower. He entered University of Southern California and got into films by taking a screen test for a chum. Mike recently married second wife Lynn Noe, is the proud father of five kids.

CLINT EASTWOOD had not thought of acting as a career until a director he met while in the service talked him into it. Born in San Francisco, May 31, 1930, he held a variety of jobs, after the Army get small acting spots with CBS. The small spots got gradually bigger, and finally he was tapped for Rowdy Yotes of "Rawhide." Married, Clint's few leisure hours are spent at home, where he carpenters and helps build fences when he's not too busy with television.

ERIC FLEMING, who has made a starring reputation for himself as "Rawhide's" Gil Favor, has been a jack-ot-all-trades, including miner, ambulonce driver, seamon, lang-shoreman. Son of a corpenter, bochelor Eric first entered show business by applying his 6'4" frame to stagehand work, finally began to be drofted for small roles. Broadway, movies, and TV followed. He might try a play again some time, keeps in fine physical trim by boxing. He fives in Hallywood.

LEE J. COBB, who plays Judge Garth in the hit "Virginian" NBC series, was born Dec. 9, in New York, first wanted to be an engineer, switched to acting. Stack, radia, little theatre led to Braadway and then to smosh film debut in "Galden Bay" (1939). Twice-wed, dad of three, he is nated for roles in "On the Waterfrant" and (on the stage) "Death of a Salesman." Naw he brings his impressive talents to TV. The role of Garth is one he had to "settle" into but now it fits like a comfortable shoe. Cobb's happy in it, will stay with it.

DOUG McCLURE, who plays Trampos in "The Virginian" series won fame in earlier TV stints in "Checkmate" and "Overland Trail." Born in Glendale, Calif., May 11, 1935, he was spotted by scouts while attending Santa Monica Callege. His clean-cut, bland good laaks and acting ability put him over big after first small roles. In films he has been in "The Unfargiven," "Gidget," "Because They're Young." Daug's getting a divarce from his second wife Barbara Luna. Then he hopes to marry Helen Crane, wha's Steve Crane's ex.

ROBERTA SHORE, who plays 14-year-old Betsy on this show, is seven years older than that herself. Formerly a featured member on "The Bob Cummings Show," Roberta has appeared in such movies as "Strongers When We Meet," "Blue Denim," "The Shaggy Dog." Born Roberta Jymme Shorup in Monterey Park, Calif., on April 17, 1943, she's been performing since the age of 10. Also a fine singer, she has made many recards. Recently she brake her engagement to Bud Westmore, is now steady dating a senior at Brigham Young U.

JAMES DRURY, who follows several famous actors in the title role of "The Virginian" in the weekly NBC series, came to Hallywood in 1954 from stack and off-Broadway roles. His first film was "Blackboard Jungle," in which he had a one-line part. Among his other films: "Diane," "Love Me Tender," "Bernadine." He had a top role in Disney's "Elfego Baca" series. Recently divorced, Jim has two children. Lives alone, and likes to keep his private life ultra hush-hush. It is known he's been dating Phyliss Mitchell for two years.

CLU GULAGER jains "The Virginian" this season. Gary Clarke has been dropped from the show. Clu made his first impact on TV viewers when he starzed in "The Tall Man" series with Borry Sullivan. The show was cancelled and Clu's papularity diminished. Now he hapes it'll be on the up. Clu's a serious acor, he studied in Paris, ance vowed to be "the biggest star of them all." He's in his late 20's, married to a non-pre, has one son. He and his redheaded wife enjoy folk-singing, stay put in their hilltop home, shun nightclubs.

ROBERT FULLER, the newest star of "Wagen Train," proves the Haratia Alger tales. He was picked for a small part in the now-defunct "Laramie," then jumped to fame and fortune as its star. Born in Troy N. Y., he moved to Hallywood and first worked as an usher in a mavie theatre. This set his goal, but a tour of Army service intervened for two years. "Laramie" set him up as a big star. He's married to dancer Patti Lyan for 3 years now. For two of those years they kept the marriage a secret. Pattie's about 21 now, a fun-loving brunette.

JOHN McINTIRE, the 3/-year-old TV-movie veteran who plays Chris Hale an "Wagon Train" is a real rancher as well as actor. He and his actress wife Jeannette Nalan own an 800-acre ranch in Montana and spend at least half a year there annually, with their kids Hally, 22, and Tim, 19. John was born in Spokane, was a national branc champ at 17. He began his show business career at the U. of Sa. Calif. and has been actively arting ever since. One thing John likes about the show, he can invite his family to guest on it!

FRANK McGRATH grew his famous whiskers for his appearance of Charley Wooster in "Wagon Train." One look at the pilot by the producer gove him a steady job. Frank was a stunt man in movies (once for Gene Tierney—he was about her size) for most of his working life. New he is famous for his staccato delivery of lines and likes his part fine since he grew up around horses and thought he'd be a jockey. That never came off but he enjoys acting. Frank's the proud grandfather of three kids. He was born on Feb. 2, 1903, Missouri.

SCOTT MILLER, scout of "Wagon Train" was working his way thru college as a mover when five agents spotted him and suggested that he turn actor. He had planned to be a football coach but instead became the twelfth "Tarzan." Then in 1961 he joined the TV show. Having been a physical education metar at UCLA, it was easy for him. Scott was with the accupation forces in Germany and later conducted student tours to Europe. Scott's a bachelor, Lives alone. Lately he's been doting that blande Danna Dauglas of "Beverly Hillbillies."

walt disney's wonderful world of color WALT DISNEY's "Wonderful World, of Color" is enjoying its third spectacular season. Holder of numerous Oscars, Walt was born in Chicago, Dec. 5, 1901, nit it big with his first cartoon brainchild, "Mickey Mouse," in 1928. Scores of short and featured-length cartoon masterpieces followed, with Walt branching into feature films clang the way. Married and a father, he's always been on the prowl for ideas. One of them, Disneyland, is world's top amusement park.

■ The 1964-65 telecasting season marks our tenth full year with a weekly network show. To celebrate this anniversary, we are preparing one of the strongest and most varied program schedules.

Our NBC series is designed with the family in mind.

Four years ago we entered an expanded field of telecasting that opened new vistas for us. It is with color that we have seen the culmination of our fendest TV dreams.

In keeping with the title of the Disney series, our globe-trotting camera crews are constantly on the go to capture the exciting drama of the world in which we live. Our program deals with people and animals of all types in a sweeping array of stories that include all manner of music, suspense, adventure and fantasy.

This year's programming includes allnew productions, like "Kilroy," a delightful and heartwarming comedy about a modest, unassuming Korean veteran who becomes so busy looking out for all the kids and stray mutts in a small American town that even the nation's President has a difficult time slowing him down long enough to award him the Medal of Honor.

"Gallegher," an 1890 adventure story, has all the suspense and humor of an oldfashioned mystery. It deals with a tough, likable, teen-age newspaper copy boy who is determined to expose a crime syndicate.

Our 1964-65 video trips will range from the Arctic to Vienna, from Disneyland to Jackson Hole, from England to Arizona in the 1850's, from outer space to the liquid space of an oceanic underworld.

To meet the ever-growing demands of the critical television audience for greater quality, we at the studio continue to work the year around, listening to all evidence on trends, to produce what we believe to be the best in family entertainment.

WILLIAM HANNA, a native of Melsose, N. M., studied journalism and engineering in college, then went to Hollywood and got his first job—as \structural engineer in building the Pantages Theatre (where he was to receive some of his many Oscars in years to come). Later he switched to the cartoon field and began drowning his bosses with story ideas. He met Barbera in 1937, and the two have been together ever since. He lives in Hollywood, is wed, father of two. His pet hobby is cartooning.

JOSEPH BARBERA was born in New York-City and attended the American Institute of Banking. After graduating, he obtained a jeb as an accountant with the Irving Trust Ca. but soan discovered that cartoon figures were more exciting to him than balanced figures on company books. After Collier's magazine purchased one of his carteons, he gave up banking altogether. He eventually joined MGM as animatorwriter. He is wed, dod of three and lives in West Los Angeles with his lively family.

fireball XL5

mighty mouse

FIREBALL XL5, created by Gerry and Sylvia Anderson and shown on NSC, is a first of its kind: a science-fiction puppet series. The episodes revolve around the XL5, the world's largest rocket ship. It is commanded by Cal. Steve Zodiac, who is assisted by Professor Mathew Matic and Venus, a beautiful woman dodor of space medicine. The puppets' mouths are activated by the actual sound waves of the predubbed voices. Result: necr-penfect synchronization.

"THE HECFOR HEATHCOTE SHOW" is an animated cartoon program featuring segments of "Hector Heathcote," "Sidney the Elephant" and "Hashimoto." The voices are all done by Jann Myhers and Dayton Allen. Hector is a little fellow who was present everywhere history was made: at Washington's crossing of the Delaware and Paul Revere's ride. Sidney is a lovable beast who knocks over forests unintentionally. Hashimoto is a mouse who knows judo.

"MIGHTY MOUSE" was born 15 years ago at Terrytaons, a cartoon studio in New York. He started out in life as a tiny church mouse but has grawn considerably thraugh the years. The longest running network TV cartoon show, "Mighty Mouse" has been on CBS for the past eight years. His adventures esually involve autrunning and outsmarting a mouse's traditional enemy: the cot, and when everything else fails, "Mighty" zooms into the sky for reprisols.

the alvin show

"THE ALVIN SHOW" which stars Alvin, the mischlevous singing chipmunk, made its debut an Oct. 4, 1961. It is created by Ross Bagdasarian, who also does most of the voices. Bagdasarian's "Chipmunk Song" was a top 1958 record hit, also his earlier "Come-On-A-My-House" which he wrote with his cousin, playwright William Saroyan. The only voice not rendered by the author belongs to Shepard Menken. He does Clyde Croshcup, so-called inventor.

CHILDREN'S SHOWS

TENNESSEE TUXEDO is based on the premise that it is possible to teach and entertain at the same time. Tennessee is a mischievous penguin who, with his slaw-witted walrus friend, Chumley, has countless adventures. They are assisted by Mr. Whoopee, who owns a magic blackbaard, and a zookeeper named Stanley Livingston. To date, episades have covered such areas of information as automobile mechanics, cloud seeding, the electric light, giant clams.

LASSIE will have a new role this seasan and a new master. Robert Bray will portray U.S. Forest Ranger Carey Stuart, "Las-sie's" master. "Lassie herself will leave the farm to become a member of the Forest Service. Now in her eleventh TV year, "Las-sie" will be faced with all kinds of new problems—from suspense in the Great Smokies to the Pentagon. The format change resulted when last year, interest soared when she left the farm for further regions.

FRANK BUXTON's host of this highly touted ABC-TV children's program. The show is designed to explore and participate in every facet of a youngster's interpate in every facet of a youngster's interest and imagination. Buxton, 29, a native of New York, received a B.S. at Northwestern University where he majared in Rodio-TV, and an M.S. in television at Syracuse University. He is married to the former Elizabeth Hanes. He's acted in "The Tender Trap," "3 Men on a Horse."

JAY NORTH is all of 11 and has already made the man-sized big-time. A veteran of many top TV shows, he has done numerous commercials, loves to play little-league base-ball. His mom tells all her pals that he has a lot of Dennis in him affscreen, too. On his block he's faotball champ. Does he want to continue acting? "We'll wait and see." But our strong suspicion is that nothing and no one will take Dennis out of the acting profession. He laves it too well.

BOB KEESHAN conceived his own CBS-TV show, which delights all kids and many adults. Now 36, he started on TV as the cmusing "Clarabelle" on the "Howdy Doody Show," then created two other TV shows which were well-received, "Corny the Clown" and "Tinker the Toymaker." Father of three young Keeshans, who are their dad's most ardent fans, he lives with his family in West Islip, L. I., is hoppiest being a real homebody, no nightclubbing.

dennis the menace

BOBBY DIAMOND, the popular Joey of the NBC-TV show, is 20 and wants to continue acting. Born in Los Angeles on August 23, 1943, he appeared before the public at the age of two as a magazine cover model. At three he was acting in the movie, "Mating of Millie." A host of film, stage and TV roles followed, leading to his most papular stint, "Fury." Among his interests are archery, riding, sketching, gunnery and girls.

Marriage seems many years away for him.

underdog

UNDERDOG, an animated color cartoon series, deals with the adventures of a shoeseries, dean with the determines of a since-shine dog (who's voice is Wally Cox). He responds to any cry of help by donning his "magic" doak and with his cry, "Never Fear, Underdog Is Here." Simon Bar Sinister is the villian and Sweet Polly is the girl with a crush on Underdog. Also on the bill with Underdog are the Go Go Gophers, two fighting Indians, and The Hunter, a super detective always after the bad guy.

magic land of allakazam

MARK WILSON, magician, will open his magic bag of tricks on ABC-TV when he brings "The Magic Land of Allakazam" to the air for its fourth year. "Allakazam," a children's program that appeals to young and old alike, presents the magic of illusionist Mark Wilson plus a generous sprinkling of fun and humar. Host Wilson is assisted by his wife Nani Darnell, and his B-year-old son, Mike. Wilson is the only magician with a regular television series.

JOHNNY WASHBROOK, now 19, is already a show business "pro." Born in Can-ada, he debuted at 9 in radio, since then has done over 200 programs in both radio and TV. Auditioned for role of Ken in 1956, he took it away in a walk, has shane brightly in the rale ever since. Red-haired, freckled, and passessed of an irresistible grin, he hopes to continue his show busi-ness career, soys "'Flick's' my lucky show." When not acting, he loves to play baseball.

LAWRENCE WELK played the accordion for church socials at 13. At 21, he began his career as an accordion seloist, though he couldn't read music. He formed his own band consisting of drums and accordion. Later, his band, augmented by saxophone and piano, was invited to play on radio station WNAX. Radio work was supplemented by one-night stands, which led to long-term engagements. He played Chicago's Trianan for 9 years and the Aragon Ballroom for 10. In 1955 he and his band were signed for ABC-TV. He's mode many records. Wed, he is dad of 3.

THE LENNON SISTERS' phenomenal career began Christmas Eve, 1955. In October, 1960, the quartet became a trio when Dianne married. Besides their ABC-TV weekly program, they have toured with Welk's Champagne Music Makers and have been booked as a singing group. They appeared with Welk's company in a Carnegie Hall concert and were a big success. They were thrilled when they sang for Eisenhower at the White House. Janet, Kathy and Peggy (I. to r.) do their full share in helping Mom take care of the house and 7 younger Lennons. Peggy, 23, wed Dick Cathcart, 39, last May 24th. She will continue her show biz career.

As we begin our tenth year on network TV, we still find critics, columnists, etc. trying to determine what makes the Lawrence Welk Show tick.

Our steady fans say they like us because we try to give them the entertainment they want. We keep a close check on the audience reaction to every feature of every show. The mail comments of our viewers are our guide to 52 weeks of programming. A card file is kept which contains the comments of over 250,000 viewers who have written us about the show.

And although all varieties of people write to us, they almost unanimously endorse our Welk formula which is: "Keep it simple, pretty and rhythmic—and let's hear the melody." Why change a good thing?

We always seem threatened with a change when one of our levely Lennon Sisters gets married-but so far, they are still a unit. When Dianne was married and left the quartette so that she could devote herself full-time to her marriage, the remaining Sisters made a delightful trio. When Peggy announced plans to marry, thousands of viewers wrote: "Will Peggy remain on the show?" She did-because the man she married was our trumpet player, Dick Cathcart, and staying with the show means seeing more of her husband! In the wings is yet another sister, Mimi, who will make her singing debut with us some time in October when she will be 9 years old! This should be a nostalgic treat for those viewers who remember Janet at that age when the girls first sang on the show in December, 1955.

I have many plans for the future shows. This is what keeps me on the show, instead of playing golf. While I am approaching what is usually considered retirement age, I have no immediate plans to step down. I still enjoy music, dancing and entertainment too much for that.

Actor Ralph Bellamy saw him perform, helped Jack get a leg on in showbiz. Married, he claims that his work is his hobby. He keeps in good physical shape.

BOB BARKER was discovered by Ralph Edwards when the latter was producing "Truth or Consequences." In 1956 he won m.c. post and has held it ever since. Born in Darrington, Wash., he was raised in Springfield, Mo. After serving as a Navy pilot in WW II, he got a job as radio announcer. His easy, informal style soon won him his own following which continues to grow. Wed to the former Darothy Gideon, they live in ranch home in Encino, Calif. ■ Speaking of variety—I have it! I never know from one week to the next what type of man I'll be playing on my TV series.

In my title role as "The Fugitive," I am a man running from the law in order to find his wife's murderer. As he takes it on the lam, this man just transforms himself so that he is not spotted by the police. I don't know from one episode to another whether I'll be with a group of gemtle nuns or if I'll be stripped to the waist fighting a fire.

This is what makes the fugitive—the running man—such an interesting one. As you may know, the theme is that of Dr. Richard Kimble accused of murdering his wife, who escapes and is attempting to find the actual slayer whom he knows is a one-armed man

At first I had doubts about the Fugitive character because he was always running away. But we found ways to give him believability and strong sympathy. I find it more challenging than that of my former TV role, Richard Diamond, who was a detective and always got his man. That part was ome-sided.

Dr. Kimble however has many more facets to him, more things happen to him. He is a man who has experienced a terrible injustice but refuses to accept it. He fights with everything he has. People who have suffered identify with him.

World Radio History

Like many viewers, I, too, daydream about actually catching the one-armed man. Don't be too surprised if we do. That won't necessarily stop the series—just put it on another track.

Born Nov. 11, 1925 in Doytan, Ohio, he started as a commercial artist, then became a disc jackey. During this stint he began to work aut monologues and learned to imitate a voriety of sounds. Married, with a son, he's dane Broadway revues, guested for Jack Paar, stars in "Mad Mad World."

the defenders

on the sunny side of the law

■ Television dramas have stirred up storms in tea cups. Storms from pulpits. Storms in the press. Storms in the public streets, as well as dead calms of public apathy.

Is an outspoken pro-Nazi or pro Communist defendant entitled to a fair trial in our American courts? Is a rapist? Is an abortionist? Is a murderer? Should an American patriot, with a long record of service to his country, be treated leniently for treasonous acts? The kudos and the brickbats fly in among the pros and cons. But whatever the reaction, the important thing is to cause people to take a square look at the issue.

In our public life, we sometimes sweep under the carpet issues that are aggravating or distasteful to face. Instead of confronting the problem and dealing with it and thus eliminating it, it is often easier and more comfortable to ignore it.

But complacency often causes burning issues to smolder to cold ashes with unfortunate results.

Controversy on the big tube? Long may it rage!

By E. G. Marshall

E. G. MARSHALL brings to his role of TV attorney a rich acting background, including triumphs on stage, television and in motion pictures. ■ When I try to foresee the destiny of "The Dick Van Dyke Show" during the coming television season, I know how an astronaut must feel at the moment his capsule separates from its booster rocket.

We've soared just about as high as we can go.

Now the problem is to stay up there for a few more orbits.

We've achieved a position almost at the peak of the rating scale. We corralled no less than five Emmys in major categories this year. Our cast and production staff seldom, if ever, draw anything but praise from the professional critics. Fan mail is at its highest ever and the sponsors are happy.

So where do we go from here?

How can we top ourselves?

If we can sustain our success, the best we can do is to stay where we are, and we certainly can't ask for more than that. Otherwise, there's only one direction we can go, and that's down.

Hence, the pressure is on.

In almost any field of competition, it's the guy who holds the title and is trying to hang on to it that feels the strain the most. Our plan for hanging on is fairly simple.

There will be no change made in any aspect of the show except for our shift to the 9:00-9:30 Wednesday nighttime slot from our present 9:30-10:00 niche, a move that could gain us more viewers amongst youngsters whose parents trundle them off to bed at 9:30.

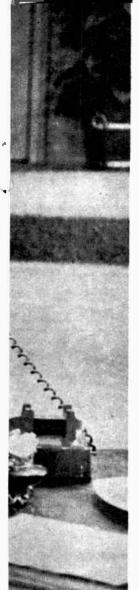

We already seem to have a winning combination of all the ingredients that go into a television series, and we aren't eager to change it much until it ceases to win. ■ Okay, so Mary Tyler Moore really is Laura Petrie. I say that with gritted teeth because, actually, I don't believe it for a minute, and I shall continue not to believe it until my—or Laura's—last gasp.

Like most people I try to be kind and cordial at all times, including a meeting with any interviewer. As a result, the fellow returns to his office and proceeds to tap out a story in which he generalizes that since he found me to be tremendously pleasant and since Laura Petrie is a tremendously pleasant character, then I am in every way like Laura Petrie.

Looking at the situation from another angle, maybe it's all due to wishful thinking on the part of the interviewers. A writer for the press is just like any other human; he hates to be disillusioned. He has this glowing image of Laura when he sits down to talk to me and subconsciously he is hoping to find a carbon copy of Laura in me. When he discovers that I seem to be as pleasant as Laura, he is delighted to jump to the conclusion that I am indeed a copy of Laura in not just one respect but from A to Z. Also, since Laura is a lovable character, I think she's the kind of girl everyone would like to have as a wife, sweetheart, chum, daughter or sister.

Consider my boss, Carl Reiner, the producer of our "Dick Van Dyke Show" on the CBS Television Network. Carl, too, is a person who always impresses interviewers with his helpful, open, hospitable manner. Would it therefore be accurate for them to write that Carl Reiner is Laura Petrie? Of course not. He's too tall.

■ The character I play in my TV series is a television performer like myself who has things happen to him that are not unlike the things that happen to me. In fact I'd say I put about 100 per cent of myself in my show. Exaggerated but basically me. Situations just naturally develop when you base your TV character on your own life.

In our opening show I as Joey Barnes have just moved into an expensive penthouse apartment with my wife and baby because I expect my TV series to be renewed. But my show is cancelled. I go into a cold sweat. I try to get a job in clubs only to learn that there are no bookings. I'm really panicking. I tell my wife. "Let's sell everything—we'll even sell the kid." And so it goes until another network, CBS, throws me a lifeline. They pick up my show. I'm back—only to discover that I'm bucking the very formidable "Bonanza." Panic again.

In real life that's about what did happen. NBC for whom I'd done my show for 3 years wanted me to change formats and head a variety show. I felt I shouldn't at this time. So this cancelled.

There I was with a brand new mortgage on a pad and swimming pool in Beverly Hills. I tried clubs, but Vegas where I usually work was all booked. I said to my wife, "We'll sell the house and move into a small apartment." My wife said, "Don't panic." "Who's panicking," I screamed. Then CBS hearing of my availability signed me and my show. I was happy. Till I learned of the Sunday night opposite "Bonanza" spot.

So when you laugh or weep for Joey Barnes—just think of what my poor wife has to go through in real life.

OZZIE NELSON, the auterfamilias and guiding spirit of the fabulous Nelson family, was barn in Jersey City, originally hankered after the law, became a band-leader instead. After he married singer Harriet Hilliard, the pair want on to top radio success, later shifted their popular program to the TV screens. Ozzie acts, produces, and directs this TV program.

HARRIET NELSON was born Harriet Hilliard, wor fame under maiden name as band singer, screen actress. Married to Ozzie Nelson since 1935, she is mom of Rick, Dave, still looks young enough to be boys' sister. Born in Des Moines, lowa, Harriet sang with Ozzie's band, joined him as costar of hit series on radic, then IV, handles combined performer-mother duties with aplamb. She's always Ozzie's inspiration.

DAVID NELSON recently deserted the ranks of the bachelors when he married June Blair, but his myriads of fans remain steadfast, loyal. Born Oct. 24, 1936, Rickey's big brother is a top personality in his own right, won critical kudoes far his movie performances. He started on his parents' show at age 13, has been a regular ever since, with time out far film-making. He and June sive quietly, have one san. David plans to direct same future shows.

RICK NELSON turned 24 last May 8, and is already a successful recording artist. A livewire arrament to his parents' TV show, Rick also does movies and personal appearances, commands large teen following. Married and father at eight-month-old Tracy Christine, Rick today is a rich young man, thanks to wise parents' financial provisions for his earnings while a minor. It's rumored his bride Kris may join the show.

FRED MACMURRAY, for 25 years a top star at films, has won a whole new fame in this ABC-TV comedy series. Born in Kankakee, Ill., in 1908, Fred played violin in an orchestra, worked later as movie extra. "The Gilded Lily" (1935) made him a star. Wed to June Haver, 4 adopted kids.

WILLIAM FRAWLET for over 40 years has been giving top notch character performances on stage, screen, now TV. His outraged bark—his trademark—has fractured audiences in over 100 films. Born in Burlington, Iowa, Feb. 26, 1893. Bill quit railroading tar stock, had TV hit, "I Love Lucy." Bill's a backelar, loves the single life.

TIM CONSIDINE was acting with Red Skelton at 11, takes to show business naturally, for his dad was late, famed John Considine Jr., top film producer. A "Mouseketeer" alumnus, he was born in Los Angeles on Dec. 31, 1940, has done films for Walt Disney. Now 23, he wants to go on acting in both television and films.

DON GRADY, now 20, has made the role of Robbie his own. Ambitious Don as a kid formed his own orchestra, had his own newspaper. Formerly a "Mouseketeer," he was born in Son Diego, June 8, 1944, thinks he may write and direct when he grows older. He was a "Mouseketeer" for a period of six months. Now he's a star.

STANLEY LIVINGSTON, youngest of Fred MacMurray's three TV "sons," was discovered by a scout at a Hollywood swimming pool, signed for Ozzie Nelson's TV show. Now 13, he thinks maybe he'd rather be a fireman than an actor. His ambition may be deferred, for his popularity rating's high and so is the shaw's.

DANNY THOMAS is well-loved by trade as well as public, for he has done countless favors, baested many youngsters to fame. Born Amas Jacobs, Jan. 6, 1914, in Deerfislo, Mich., he climbed to fame via nightclubs, radio, movies. In 1963 he and Mrs. Ifhomas celebrated 27th wedding anniversary. They have two daughters and a son. Danny plans specials on NEC this season.

MARJORIE LORD, 'Frisco born, was married to John Archer, now to Randy Hale. Mom of 2, her rale of Danny's TV mate has been called "ideal casting." Stock, film hits led to leading lady status in films. In early 1950s, she switched to TV. Now she divides time evenly between home and studio chores, delights in caring for both.

RUSTY MAMER is a show-wise veteran at 17, began doing club dates at 51. At 6 he was spotted by Danny Thamas. Born on Feb. 15, 1947, he has over 10 years seasoning already. "Whatever that kid has, people pay attention to it!" a hep producer said of him. Looks like he's in solid now, with residuals from "Make Room for Daddy."

ANGELA CARTWRIGHT is quite a travelet for one so young. English-born (Sept. 9, 1952), she went with family first to Canada, then to Hollywood. Spatted by a scaut, she made the Donny Thomas show ofter one audition. She's been in top mavies, studies ballet and tap-dancing, lives in L. A. Ambition is to become a full-fledged actress.

The only visible difference between our second year in television and our first is that this time around we'll be maybe three degrees more relaxed. Always remembering that three degrees isn't very

Every week last season our staff would gather around the cluttered conference table to get another show underway. And every week the meeting was solemnly opened by a writer who would say, "Gentlemen, it is absolutely impossible to put on an hour show once a week." We would all nod agreement—and then go to work.

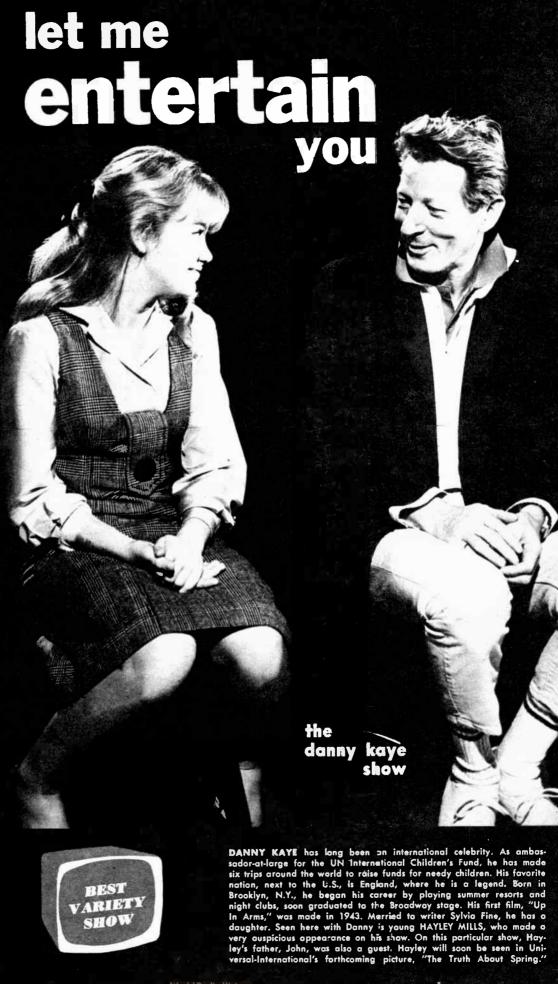

The hardest thing for me to learn in the beginning was that I didn't have the time to polish and bone my material. We went to work on Monday, taped the show the following Saturday and saw it on the air just four days after that—by which time we were already eyeball-deep in rehearsals for the next show.

I learned that in television you work hard, do the very best you can in the time that's given you, give each show everything that's in you—and stop worrying about it. Some of our funniest bits last season were pure on-the-air accidents and subsequent recoveries. When you're working with the kind of professionals we were lucky enough to have as our guest stars, you can take a miscue in stride and turn it to your advantage.

We aren't going to make very many changes this coming season. We had a good year our first time around, won some very nice awards and will have practically all of our same talented staff back with us. We've already started lining up our guests. Lucille Ball will do one with us early in November. Imogene Coca will do five. Gwen Verdon will be back with us for at least one. So will Buddy Ebson, Dorothy Collins, Diahann Carroll, Shari Lewis and Howard Morris.

We'll stick to some of the things that worked for us before, but we'll also keep on experimenting to find still more of them. And if I geijust half as much fun and satisfaction out of it as I did this past year, I'll be happy.

JACK PAAR has won deserved fame for his independence of mind and wry, spontaneous humor. Born in Cleveland, Ohio, May 1, 1918, he started as a radio announcer, did a hitch in the Army, where he met pal and associate Jose Melis. After discharge he did movies (one with Marilyn Monroe!) then turned to TV. Fame beckpned in '57 with the "Tonight" show. Jack and wife Miriam have a daughter, live in Bronxville, N.Y. and travel together everywhere.

JUDY GARLAND has maintained her star status ever since she was a child film star. Born in 1923 in Grand Rapids, Minnesota she received her education in film studio schools and made her first picture, "Pigskin Parade," in 1936. Since then she has starred in countless musicals and in recent years has won acclaim for her dramatic portrayals in such films as "Judgment at Nuremberg." She was recently reported married to Mark Herron, it's not true.

ALLEN FUNT has made his name with the aff-beat and lively CBS-TV program, "Candid Camera." Born in New York, on September 14, 1914, Allen graduated from Cornell, had a variety of radio and TV jobs before gaining national attention on the "Garry Moore Show." Since '47, he has been recording the candid reactions of innumerable people and his work has resulted in some explosive footage. Some people resent being caught totally unawares by Allen's cameras, but most feel flattered and talk about his show casing for years. Allen is married and has three children. He makes his home in New York City.

DURWARD KIRBY, the host on "Candid Camera" won a nationwide following on the "Garry Moore Show." Born in Covington, Kentucky, he attended Purdue, then became a radio announcer. Garry Moore out him into a running spot on his show, and he went to town. "He could play any type of person," says Garry. Mairied, he lives quietly with his family in Bronxville, N.Y. Collects books, phonograph records.

JOHNNY CARSON started his career in show business as an amateur magician, amusing buddies with tricks he picked up from a magic course. Born on October 23, 1925, in Corning, Nebraska, he went from an Omaha radio station to a job as a writer for Red Skelton. He won his first kudoes as a comedian when he went on to sub for Red. He's appeared in comedy roles on many network shows since and, until he took over as host of NBC-TV's "Tonight," he was the popular emcee of a day-time quiz program, "Who Do You Trust?" He recently wed his second wife, Jo Ann Copeland, and he has three kids.

ED McMAHON spent several dangerpacked years as a Marine fighter pilot before embarking upon his present career as a TV announcer. A native of Detroit, Michigan, the 6'4" Ed teamed up with Johnny Carson on "Who Do You Trust?" back in 1956 and the two have been a duo ever since. Currently displaying his announcing talents an "The Tonight Show," Ed commutes to New York from Philadelphia, where he lives with wife and 4 kids.

SANDY BARON is the young man watchers of 'TW3" discovered and dug his brash, fresh comic approach. Now set with more TV guestings, nightclub spots and a first record thanks to Mitch Miller's interest, Sandy's on his way. Born in Brooklyn, 1937, Sandy went to Brooklyn College as a pre-med student on a State Regents scholarship for 4 years. He found that his image of the medical profession had changed, it didn't seem to be for him any more. So he checked out that vocation and went into the Yale School of Drama. He knew then that entertainment was the place he wanted to be. He married gargeous show-girl-model, Geraldine, in 1962. His favorite comic is Charlie Chaplin.

PHYLLIS NEWMAN of "TW3" has a long string of Broadway successes behind her. She won a "Tany" for the play "Subways Are For Sleeping." Leland Hayward, producer of "TW3" raves about her "fresh approach, her ability to mimic, her singing, her enthusiasm." She's married to musical comedy writer Adolph Green, they have two children, 3 year old Adam and 3 month old Amanda. Born in Jersey City, N. J., Phyllis is a frequent guest on Jahnny Carson's "Tonight."

DAVID FROST the Englishman who was one of the creators and stars of the original British "TW3" show, has become a permanent member of the American cast. He is 25 years ald and the son of a Methodist minister. Dave holds an honors degree from Cambridge where he was the editor of that university's newspaper. He's turned down two offers from Britain's Parliament to join them. He still keeps active in British TV, just did a talkathan.

NANCY AMES is the socially prominent daughter of a Washington physician and the granddaughter of a former President of Panama. After attending all the prominent schools (Holton Arms, Bennet College) Nancy went into Junior League theatre work. She landed a part in Broadway's "Tenderlain". Then come nightclubs, a hit with Nancy's singing and guitar strumming, then a Liberty Recards contract. Nancy is divorced from Edward Ames, no children. Claims "TW3" her big lucky break.

TED MACK took a job os a saxophone. player in order to put himself through college and has been in show business ever since. Born William Edward Maguiness in Greeley, Colo., Feb. 12, 1904, he graduated from Denver U., went on to organize his own orchestra and eventually found himself in his present job of hosting "The Original Amateur Haur." Aside from discovering new talent, Ted's happiest when relaxing in his plush New York home with his wife Marguerite.

THE FOUR SEASONS, known individually as Frankie Valli, 25, Nick Massi, 27, Tommy De Vito, 30, and Bob Gaudio, 22, used to supply the vacal background for big name artists, decided to make a record of their own when Bob penned a tune called "Sherry." The record clicked and the Four Seasons were on their way. Beginning as a group in 1960, three of the Seasons, Frank, Nick and Tommy, grew up together in Belleville, New Jersey, met Bob while singing with a little known group in Pittsburgh. Each of The Four Seasons is married; Tommy lives in Montclair, N.J., and is father of 2; Frankie has three daughters and resides in Newark, N.J.; Nick and his wife live with 3 kids in Bloomfield, N.J.; and Bob, who lives in Cresskill, N.J. is a brand new father af one. Recent Four Seasons hit records include "Walk Like a Man" and "Rannie."

BILLY J. KRAMER, the newest British singing sensation, is only 21 years old, has blue eyes and light brawn hair, and stands 6 feet tall. Born in the Liverpool suburb of Bottle, he and his backing group, The Dakotas, began singing in Liverpool and gained recognition in Hamburg, Germany. His first big record, "Da You Want To Knaw A Secret?" went right to the top of the sales charts. Americans got a charce to see him, Dakotos, on "The Ed Sullivan Show."

THE SMOTHERS BROTHERS, namely, Tom and Dick are generally considered a couple of zany comics although, in truth, they are actually very fine musicians. Complete unknowns only two years ago, they first showcased their act at San Francisco's famed "Purple Onion," soared to fame a short time later when they were signed to guest on "The Jack Paar" TV show. Born in New York City, the bays first began performing in school assemblies, decided to become professionals while attending San Jose State College in California. Now an overwhelming success, they have broken all recards at such night clubs as New York's "Blue Angel" and Hollywood's "Troubadour," and are piling up sales with their new album, "The Two Sides of the Smothers Brothers." In private life, Dick, 24 (who's known as "the straight man") is married and the proud father of an infant daughter, Susan. Tom, the blond, blue-eyed "funny one," is a year older than his brather but is still single, explaining he hasn't yet "graduated to steady dating." The boys expect this to be a big year for night club and TV.

PETER, PAUL and MARY grew up in different parts of the country, gat together some four years ago when their love of falk music led each of them to New York's Greenwich Village. Peter Yarraw, who was born in New Yark City in 1937, decided to take up folk singing and guitar strumming shartly after his graduation from Carnell University. He met Paul Stookey, a stand-up camic from Birmingham, Mich., and Mary Allin Travers, a singer from Louisville, Ky., at a Village caffee house and, after discovering their mutual interests, the three decided to poal their talent and try their luck as a trio. Their success was immediate, and their renditions of songs like "Five Hundred Miles" and "The Hammer Song" have made them night club and TV favorites.

BARBRA STREISAND is only 22, but she's already being billed as ane of the greatest female singers af all time. Born April 24, 1942 in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn, N.Y., Barbra set her heart on a show biz career at an early age, got her first real break after winning an amateur cantest at a Greenwich Village night club. After several singing engagements at places like the "Bon Soir" and "The Blue Angel," she won a small role in B'way's "I Can Get it For You Whalesale," and finally the lead in "Funny Girl." She's a talented commedierne as well as a singer.

THE ROLLING STONES are by far the wildest and shaggiest singing group yet to come out of Beatlemania's infested England. Shartly after their first record hit, "Not Fade Away," they came to the U.S. and took the country by storm with their unique concert and TV appearances. The Stones, all expert jazz musicians, first met at London's "Marquee Club" several years ago, formed a group and soon had a gigantic following. The boys specialize in rhythm and blues, harmonica accampaniment and devestatingly lang, curly hair. Mick Jagger, 19, is the group's lead singer; other members are Brian Jones, 19, Charlie Watts, 21, Keith Richard, 19 and Bill Wyman, 21. Bill, the only one of the boys who's married, is the proud father of a shaggy haired 2-year-ald son.
