RADIO ASSURES PEACE

OBSERVERS BELIEVE PEN-TODE TO PROVE MIGHTIER THAN SWORD

THE PEN may be mightier than the sword—but now the pentode is mightier than the pen! Has radio assured the world of permanent peace? Will historians of tomorrow acclaim Senor Guglielmo Marconi as the greatest peace-maker in the history of the world? Or will radio, like many other modern scientific achievements, give birth to a weapon of warfare powerful enough to destroy mankind?

Political leaders and pedagogues everywhere are unanimous in their belief that radio in the last few years has done more to restore good will among war-torn nations than anything that has cropped up in the last hundred years. Many observers express a keen hope that in future generations people will look back upon warfare as a malignant disease brought about by the primeval tendencies of an uncivilized race; that in future generations historians will write of the World War as the final outburst of the conflict between the sovereign powers.

General James Harbord in his newest book on television tells in detail of its possibilities in the next war.

The General reminds us that in seclusion hundreds of miles from the line of fire, officers will be able to direct the forces of fighting men on the battle front through the use of the televisior. The destinies of regiments will be controlled by commanders in observation planes high above the trenches. And by looking through their televisior they will be able to watch the movements of the enemy.

But what the enemy will be doing in the meanwhile, the good General fails to state. As one editorial writer puts it, "General Harbord does not credit the 'enemy' with having brains enough to have its own collection of television sets, planning to find weak points just as he, the General himself, sees them on the screen."

It is very doubtful that such a scene as the picture of the next war will ever take place. Science has become enriched with such man-destroying weapons that the massing of armies will be ridiculous. If ever a conflict does arise it will be of but short duration

H. V. Kaltenborn, at left, noted author and news commentator of CBS, and Frederick William Wile, Washington observer, see the radio as the greatest power for world peace.

CBS Increases Power 213,500 Watts In Year

Columbia's programs will pierce the air in October with an increased energy of 213,500 watts over that in use a year ago. New high-power transmitters constructed in seven important cities are responsible for the raised group power.

WHAS, Louisville, for instance, will be on the air after September 1 with 50,000 watts, and that is the maximum allowed by the Federal Radio Commission. WHAS previously had only 250-watt power.

WABC, key station of the Columbia network in the thickly populated New York district, is serving its listeners with 45,000 more watts now than it did before last September. Up to that time, the station was limited to 5,000 watts.

Forty-five thousand additional watts also will come to the network when station WCCO, now operating with 5,000, broadcasts over its new equipment early in September. WCCO will be the only station in the Northwest to use the highest power allowed by the Federal authorities and to have a nationally "cleared" channel.

Completion of the new single-tower transmitter for WCAU, Philadelphia, will increase the power of that station to 50,000, just five times its present strength.

It is expected that WCAU will then reach listeners in New Jersey, Delaware, Eastern Pennsylvania and Eastern Maryland as clearly as it now covers Philadelphia. WCAU's new voice is scheduled to be heard after August 1.

Station WBT, southern key station of the Columbia network, located at Charlotte, North Carolina; WJSV, Columbia's new outlet just outside of Washington, D. C., and CKOK, the new international station owned by Columbia and located in Windsor-Detroit, complete the list of the increased power stations.

Carveth Wells Bringing Material For Radio Talks

Carveth Wells, explorer and radio lecturer, is in Russia right now interviewing the descendants of Noah. This tribe in the Caucasus Mountains of southern Russia living around the little village of Duchet, claim to be blood relatives of the Biblical ark builder. Wells, his wife, Zetta Robart and a cameraman are photographing and gathering material for radio talks on this interesting old clan.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells have also visited Iceland during their trip and obtained, beside a wealth of material for their NBC talks, many feet of film picturing the northern lights which are visible at this season, and the native life and customs of the country.

Carveth Wells will return to this country and to his radio talks in the Fall.

Airicatures

Clue: Play nonsense.

Ten dollars will be awarded each week to the winners of RADIO GUIDE'S AIRICATURE CONTEST. Just identify the radio personage above and send the name, together with your comment of the artist's program, to AIRICATURES, care of RADIO GUIDE. $5.00 first prize, $3.00 second prize and $2.00 third prize will be awarded to the persons correctly naming the artist and sending in the best comment, not exceeding 200 words. All entries for this week's contest must be postmarked not later than Wednesday, August 3.

Few Radio Bills Enacted By Congress

Only a handful of radio bills were enacted into law during the recent Congress, out of the nearly two score introduced into the House and Senate.

The most important problem facing broadcasting today is the proposed new scale of copyright license fees which the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers wants to levy as of September 1. Where stations now pay an aggregate of nearly $1,000,000 for "the special permission of the copyright owners," the Society proposes to keep that income and in addition would impose a fee of five per cent of gross on the income of all stations using its copyrighted works.

The broadcasters, objecting strenuously to the tax, have carried the fight to Congress and a bill designed to curb the allegedly excessive demand is now pending in Congress.

The broadcasters have secured the sympathetic ear of Chairman Sirovich, of New York, head of the House committee on patents in charge of copyright legislation, as well as the legislators.

Weems Makes Good; Heard On WGN Hour

That tall and genial gentleman, Ted Weems, who opened last Friday at the Lincoln Tavern, was not always the suavely sophisticated band master that he is today.

He may have danced the evening away with John Coolidge's girl in 1928, while John led his orchestra at the Harvard Ball, but a few years previous to that he was just a small town boy with great big ambitions. At that time, he and his brother Art started out to organize a band, hoping to secure engagements to play for college dances in the surrounding towns. But it was not until one year later, when they organized an "All-American" collegiate orchestra, that they started on the road to fame and radio success.

With the "All-American," Weems toured every state in the union and finally played at the inaugural ball for President Harding in 1928. This Spring, while at the Trianon, Weems and his orchestra were selected to play at the great Chicago Charity Ball. And now they are playing to crowds of Chicago's gay pleasure seekers at Lincoln Tavern with four evening periods over WGN.

Ted is just a hard-working, talented small-town boy who made good.

Bounces Into Air—By Mistake

In a recent broadcast of the Moynahan Family which has the 11:35 spot every week day at WGN, an electrician working in the studio unknowingly made his radio debut.

Kay Chase, who has been writing the skit since Irna Phillips gave it up, had cued in some songs for Irene to sing. That is, Irene was supposed to be rehearsing for a broadcast that she was going to make in her newly acquired job at the radio station. After singing her songs her next line was, "That was terrible." The electrician, it seemed, didn't agree with her and he unwittingly remarked, "If you ask me, I think it was swell." And that speech went hurtling over the air, of course, before the control room could blot it out.

Gen. Saltzman Resigns From Radio Board

It has been rumored so long that no one who follows the destinies of American radio was surprised when the resignation of Major General Charles McKinley Saltzman finally went through. The General was a member of the Federal Radio Commission representing the fourth zone of Middle Western states. Immediately a large field of candidates for the office cropped up.

Congress has adjourned so the Senate ratification of a new appointment must be held over and President Hoover must make a recess appointment. General Saltzman's term was to have expired February, 1936, and that is the term the new appointee will receive. Under the radio law the appointee must be a Republican and must hail from one of the middle western states.

Most prominently mentioned for the post is James W. Baldwin, an Indianan, now secretary to the Radio Commission. Others mentioned for the post include Harold D. Hayes, Department of Commerce radio supervisor at Chicago; Frank W. Elliott, formerly manager of WHO-WOC, Des Moines-Davenport; and William S. Hedges, manager of WMAQ, Chicago.

When General Saltzman left his desk he did not announce his reasons for resigning or his plans. The immediate reason for the resignation is believed to be the fact that, to remain at his post, the General would have to forfeit his Army retirement pay of $6,000 a year. The Economy Bill cuts his $10,000 commissioner's salary. In other words, to remain as commissioner his income would drop from $16,000 to slightly over $9,000, and by retiring he still retains the $6,000 retirement annuity.

Marie Neff Dies; Veteran NBC Editor

One of the veterans of Chicago radio broadcasting, Marie K. Neff, died last Monday night after a cerebral hemorrhage suffered earlier in the day at the offices of the National Broadcasting Company.

Miss Neff was one of the original staff of the NBC studios in Chicago and, at the time of her death, functioned as Woman's Editor of the Press Relations Department. She was thirty-one years old.

MISS NEW ORLEANS ON AIR

HOOGSTRA滕 SEES END NEAR FOR COLORFUL CONCERT MASTERS

Music is going blind. The day is not far off when concert halls will be so built that the audience will never see the conductor and his orchestra. Gone the flying swallow tail and patent leather shoes of conductor or concert master, gone the waving baton and all the musicians.

That is the dream of William van Hoogstraten, conductor of the Lewisohn Stadium Concerts who broadcasts each Saturday and Sunday evening over WABC and the Columbia network.

"I can think of nothing more wonderful than hearing an excellent string quartet or symphony without having to see the actual mechanism of the music," van Hoogstraten said in an interview. "Instead of watching the conductor go through all his motions, seeing the violinists do their intricate bowing, and gazing at the various members of the orchestra as they turn the pages of the score, I should like to contemplate some restful, neutral background and enjoy the music as pure sound. I look forward eagerly to the day when the public will be musically educated to the point where they will build auditoriums according to this principle and enjoy music purely for itself."

Radio Ideal

Radio has nearly reached this ideal situation, Mr. van Hoogstraten believes. The music lover can sit back in his easy chair at home, light his pipe and give his whole attention to the sound which comes to him through his speaker.

"Yet I feel that something is lost in the radio," the conductor went on to say. "I am convinced that there is a psychic force of some kind between the conductor and the audience which both miss when separated by the distances which radio spans. I am always conscious of my audience when conducting, and their reactions have a definite influence on me which the little black microphone cannot exert."

But the Stadium Concerts which van

Hoogstraten conducts and which are broadcast from coast to coast seem to be a great satisfaction to him. He gets the thrill of a ready response from the huge crowds which are present in the auditorium and the additional satisfaction from the knowledge that, at the same time, his music is being carried to Portland, where a loud-speaker broadcasts it to an entire block, to groups in little mid-western barber shops and wireless operators at sea who write in later and tell him about it. He says that on broadcasting nights he feels differently from the other nights. It is not exactly stage fright, but a far greater sense of responsibility.

Few Differences

On the subject of the difficulty of combining the intimate quality of radio technique with the broad strokes necessary for outdoor conducting, van Hoogstraten said that there was no conflict.

"The only difference of which I am aware is that between playing in a closed hall and in an outdoor auditorium. For the latter it is necessary to paint with a broader brush; my pianissimo at the Stadium must be really a mezzo-piano, my piano a mezzo-forte, and so on. There is less intimacy in the outdoor concert, but the thrill of conducting Beethoven's Ninth for an audience of 16,000 is difficult to approximate in any concert hall."

Along with the trend for blind music Mr. van Hoogstraten senses the growth of small orchestras in America. In Europe almost every city and hamlet has its own band or symphony which has woven itself into the life of the community. Portland has such an orchestra and van Hoogstraten has been its conductor for the past seven years. America is young and has not had time to become as music-minded as Europe but the indications, according to this musician who has conducted all over the States, indicate that we will soon have caught up with the old world.

Reviewing Radio

By MIKE PORTER

FORTUNE may smile, as Morton Downey would tell you, but there's always fate behind it to favor you with a grimace. I'm thinking of the jinx that seems to haunt the Downeys on those annual occasions when they work up an ambition to travel leisurely on other continents. Downey is home again from Europe, his tour this season interrupted by the grave illness of his wife, the beautiful Barbara Bennett. Downey sped back a few days after he had landed, in response to a radio, for it was believed that Mrs. Downey's symptoms demanded such action.

Only last year, when Mrs. Downey was touring abroad, Morton was taken down with grippe that threatened pneumonia, and Barbara came rushing home, with her trip only begun.

Mr. Bert Lahr's engagement with Lucky Strike was brief, as this department predicted it would be, and just to hand you another scoop, you may anticipate at any time the introduction of Wheeler and Woolsey, the movie comics, on that sponsor's Saturday offering. Wheeler and Woolsey, as the newspapers reported, had agreed to disagree as a team, but the call of radio seems to have reunited them and brushed aside their personal attitude toward each other. They are auditioning almost daily, and may break into the air most any Saturday.

For nine weeks Arthur Jarrett, the troubadour, was a radio celebrity without a station. Upon the expiration of his contract with WABC, NBC wanted no parts of him, though Jarrett was admittedly a swell bet. It was just prior to the ending of his Columbia connection, if you recall, that I predicted he would eventually lead a band.

The prediction has been realized and Jarrett is to wave a stick at Woodmansten Inn, New York, and his music will be wafted six times a week via NBC, by virtue of the fact that the band is actually that of Emerson Gill.

Funnier even than the funny presentations now crowding the ether waves, is the spectacle of the funny men listening to each other. It is no secret that Jack Benny pays solemn attention to the quips of Ed Wynn, and Ed Wynn returns the compliment. In fact, all the comedians hearken religiously to each other—and not one cracks a smile, probably because, to the profession, the gags are not unrecognizable, despite whatever raiment they may be wearing.

The thing that alarms this season's crop of funsters is the sparsity of material—the virtual extinction of new comic ideas, which moves me to observe that it won't be long before radio comes under the menace of the chestnut blight.

This is an opportune moment, perhaps, to issue the annual denial by the Government weather bureau that radio has anything to do with freaky weather—continual rain, or continual drouth. Every year the weather men are snowed under by an avalanche of mail, from otherwise intelligent persons, who urge a suspension of broadcasting, so that the weather may assume its normal phases. Thousands of listeners firmly believe that radio waves upset meteorological conditions.

"Radio is twelve years old," the weather prophets point out. "If in twelve years, even the most alert observers have failed to note any climatic changes as compared with the preceding twelve years, it is logical to suppose, aside from scientific fact, that radio is innocent of influencing weather."

Anything for a laugh these summer daze—For instance, Kate Smith, singing "All of Me."

Norman Brokenshire writing a book, "Why Your Children Should Become Radio Announcers."

David Ross writing a bass solo, "Between the Devil and the Deep Low 'C.'"

Ray Perkins insisting that everything's O. K. with the wireless business, because radio is fundamentally sound.

MUSIC IN THE AIR

By CARLETON SMITH

YOU MIGHT LIKE TO KNOW THAT

The Rochester Civic Orchestra this month completed ten years of broadcast associations. In July, 1922, a radio station began operations with studios in one of the buildings of the Eastman School of Music. The divisions of the school and affiliated civic musical organizations of Rochester have contributed regularly features of exceptional musical merit — with Eugene Goossens and Leopold Stokowski as guest conductors and Dr. Howard Hanson, Guy Frazer Harrison, Samuel Belov, and other faculty members as regular conductors.

CARLETON SMITH

of the Casa Desus family of Paris.

Ernest Hutcheson, who has a large radio following, was presented with a manuscript sketch of Beethoven's, of the last movement of his so-called "Moonlight" Sonata. This manuscript has added interest in view of the fact that it was at one time in the library of Robert Schumann, and bears Schumann's notation entering it in his collection. The presentation of this sketch was made on the occasion of the celebration of Mr. Hutcheson's fifth year as Dean of the Juillard Graduate School.

Ninon Vallin, who is considered one of the most beautiful women on the European concert and operatic stage, will come to this country for her first American tour next Fall. Mme. Vallin has been notably honored by having a number of the great modern composers dedicate songs to her. Debussy, De-Falla, Faure, Nin, and Turina have chosen her to introduce some of their best compositions, and have accompanied her in recital when she sang them.

One of the foremost cellists of Europe is to make his formal bow in our country next winter. His name is Emanuel Feuermann. Though not yet thirty, he has appeared as solo artist with all the major symphony orchestras on the continent.

Ed Wynn, as The Fire Chief, does the funniest opera travesties I have ever heard on the air.

There is promise of a new school of vocal art to be held in Carnegie Hall, New York. The celebrated Board of Instruction of which the advance circular speaks, includes a group of artists of national reputation, more or less active. The names include, Madame Gauthier, Madame Carolina Lazzari, Madame Luella Melius, Mr. Alfredo Gandolfi, Mr. Adamo Didur, and Mr. Hugh Ross.

Young artists the country over are preparing for the Atwater-Kent competition.

There is an advertising agency man who wanted a contralto "to begin where the coloratura left off"—in other words, he thought the contralto ought to have high notes, too, not realizing that the terms described quality of voice, not range.

The Vienna Saengerknaben, an organization founded over four hundred years ago by the Emperor Max and one that afforded Haydn, Mozart, and Schubert much of their musical training, will give us an idea of what a boys' choir can do when it tours America this Fall. Pope Pius XI inscribed on parchment that he "blesses the Viennese Saengerknaben, and heard a tone as sweet as flutes, the voice of the angels in Paradise."

One hundred and twenty strange old instruments will come with the Shan-Kar Hindu Dancers and Musicians, the newest and most exotic of dance presentations.

Olin Downes, music critic of the New York Times, will spend several months this Fall in touring the country, giving lecture-recitals on "The Enjoyment of Music." Mr. Downes feels that interest has been created by his radio talks.

Heinrich Schlusnus, the brilliant German baritone, and one of my favorite artists, is to sing again in America next season—on the radio, I hope.

Five great artists, each of solo calibre, playing on the instruments used for the exquisite chamber music of the seventeenth and eighteenth century, will be our guests during the next winter. They are members

Many eminent conductors have gone from the keyboard to the platform. Bruno Walter, Wilhelm Furtwaengler, Ossip Gabrilowitch, Willem Mengelberg, and Rudolph Ganz all started their careers as pianists and have on several occasions lead orchestras from the keyboard.

It would be easy to organize a good string quartet among conductors. The violinists could be selected from Messrs. Nikolai Sokoloff of Cleveland, van Hoogstraten of Portland, and Verbrugghen of Minneapolis, with Frederick Stock of Chicago playing viola. The cellist could be Mr. Ganz, who is as good a cellist as a pianist. Incidentally, all of these gentlemen are chamber music exponents of much experience.

A proposal was discussed in Congress several weeks ago to limit advertising to fifteen words in each program. We probably would have a series of five minute programs then.

People are taking to the highways as the motoring season gains ground, but radio is not lost. Within a year, I am told, all automobiles will be equipped with radio. Then advertisers can spend as much on their summer series as on their winter series.

Complaints come to me frequently about the halving of programs. Commercial commitments on the stations sometimes allow no other course. Nothing is more aggravating to lovers of good music than to lose even the smallest part of it. It is impossible to keep the same hour for sustaining programs, however. In fact, to promise to make any plans ahead, with the radio system entirely dependent upon advertising sponsorship, is foolish. During the campaign months, complaints will probably increase.

Outside of the big music centers, large orchestras were almost unknown in the United States twenty-five years ago. Today there are fifty representative symphonies, and many of them within the reach of every owner of a radio.

Poetry Corner

The Poetry Corner is open to all RADIO GUIDE readers. One dollar will be paid for each poem accepted. Poems must pertain to radio or radio artists.

A TREASURE CHEST

My radio! My radio!
When fires burn clear and lights are low,
I turn the dial here and there,
And call to me, from out the air,
From out the ether, thin and blue,
More treasures than Aladdin knew.

Gems from the ocean depths of thought,
Gold of sweet singers' voices, wrought
Into a pattern fine and rare;
Silver of night bird, singing where
Fair gardens 'neath the moonlight grow—
Riches are mine through radio.

—H. F. Lockhart

CAPTURE CUP; BUT IT'S EMPTY

Pretty smiles and pretty legs are displayed by Myrt and Marge as they sit for their photo with the loving cup they won in a recent popularity contest. The "Myrt and Marge" Columbia skit has been off the air for the summer season but will return August 29 with these two bright young things again in the title role.

MIDSUMMER MEDLEY — A little of this and a little of that, with one thing leading to another and so on far, far into the column. Picture of an editor talking to himself: "Aha, and what is this? It's a brand-new pose of Miss Irene Taylor, whose picture appears in the RADIO GUIDE every week. To print or not to print, that's the question . . . Don't think I will . . . well, I guess . . . gosh, what else can you do with a picture like that?" Speaking of pictures, Harry Jamieson, who shakes hands with all the notables who come up to Schupack Studios to "watch the birdie," is a study in contentment these days. Reason? One attractive wife just back from a long stay in Hollywood. Dorothy Jamieson, in case you haven't met her, is a tango addict and working hard to import her own tango music from Coconut Grove, whence came other of our favorite bands. Well, sez me after sampling Arnheim and Burtnett's sun-kissed syncopation, bring on your Carlos Molina and his tango-tune-throwers, and if you don't, I'll turn DX-er and try to tune them in on KFI some still nite.

Still in Spanish tempo, four members of Gorge Birch's orchestra playing at the Cafe de Alex and broadcasting over WIBO, were formerly with Isham, Jones and they doff their hats to their old maestro by using his composition, "Spain" as their theme song . . . Enrico Clausi, a member of the same band, has a voice so powerful that he must stand fifteen feet away from the microphone and even then it quivers perceptibly. This will, no doubt, explain why his fem-fans are overcome with tremors even though kilocycles and kilocycles away . . . From the largest baritone in captivity to the smallest trombone in the world is but a short trip on a typewriter. Clyde McCoy, who made "Sugar Blues" and sweet trumpet synonymous, announces that he has bought and intends to feature it in all his programs (the smallest trombone, not the largest baritone) . . . The news that Clyde is opening at the Drake Hotel with a brand-new band reminds me that he once had to fire an entire orchestra because they insisted on tearing their hair, leaving the platform, hissing, or otherwise showing their displeasure whenever he played "Sugar Blues." Well, after having played this same number continuously for ten years he was slightly bored with it himself, but what can you do when the dear public keeps on requesting and requesting? . . . Rhoades Newbell, whose business it is to keep the world Clyde McCoy, Charlie Agnew and Carl Moore-conscious, picked a real help-meet when he recently changed Ruth Dresser's name to Mrs. Newbell. I'm afraid she knows almost as much about music as he does . . . Piano recitals at the age of six, high school honors in state music contests, concert programs over WMAQ, an engagement as soloist with the Minneapolis Symphony, and a private studio where she teaches piano, theory of music and harmony, entitle her to give him a few pointers now and then.

With our feet and our thoughts still tangled up in dance music, we can consider the rewards that Frankie Masters is reaping. Just because he's been a good boy and worked hard to present that kind of program, more than one station has been trying to lure him away from KYW and NBC, with the result that he has had both his chain and local time increased . . . Benny Kantor, whose name is a new one in your catalogue of orchestra leaders, is well known to the music world as a song-writer. Writing special material for Kantor and Jessel and popular numbers like "So Sweet" probably gave him the idea of organizing a band of his own to show how he'd like to have them played. . . . My, My, another week, another column—and so to press!

MEET THE ARTIST

William Daly

"SHE treats me like a husband," said William Daly, Broadway and radio orchestral leader, when asked if his wife were his severest critic. He supplemented the remark, smiling broadly, "I don't think she has ever listened to my radio programs and now our radio is broken, so everybody is happy."

Curiously enough, these remarks are an index to the character and personality of Daly himself. There is no reason to believe that his wife has not listened to his programs; there are some who have listened to them with her. Eut it also is true that she probably would listen more regularly if Daly himself would notify her of all his broadcasts. He speaks little of his work with either his wife or business associates.

Daly has been in the public eye on Broadway and in radio for fifteen years. Before then, when only twenty-four, he was managing editor of "Everybody's Magazine." And he has appeared as guest conductor of the Philharmonic Orchestra, a fitting tribute to his musical ability. Yet he is not known widely by the public at large.

"Let us talk about making beer," Daly said to us at a prearranged interview. "That will tell more of my personality than the color of the ties I wear. I dislike the school which tries to define a man's personality, his very soul, by the clothes he wears and the food he eats." It seems fitting, after that, for us to say that he dresses moderately well and insists on good food.

Daly gives one the impression that he feels it is indelicate to talk about himself or his work, so, consequently, he is one of the most difficult men in radio to interview. He will talk willingly and entertainingly, but he'll talk of many things other than radio and music—national politics, international finance, college and professional sports, geography, botany and zoology.

His ability to talk intelligently of these many fields, with a flare of thoughtful humor, sets him apart as one in a thousand in the musical world. Most musicians spend little time reading current events, almost no time giving serious thought to them; their conversations are chiefly of music and themselves. But Daly's interest in a wide range of kaleidoscopic events dates from his days as a youthful editor.

In our interview we talked of beer and numerous extraneous subjects, with an occasional question regarding his life interspersed, but he never warmed to any of the questions. Finally, in despair, we sought information from his associates, learning the following:

WILLIAM DALY

Daly has been associated with George Gershwin, the composer, for fifteen years. He and Gershwin, as a piano duo, gave the first recital of "Rhapsody in Blue" in Gershwin's home. Daly has conducted four of Gershwin's Broadway productions—"Tip Toes," "Oh Kay," "Funny Face" and "Show Girl." He also conducted George White's "Scandals" from 1924 to '28, inclusive, and has been a musical director of many other Broadway shows, including Kreisler's "Apple Blossoms," Cohan's "Mary," Earl Carroll's first "Vanities," "Hands Up," "Yankee Princess" and "For Goodness Sakes."

Daly was only 19 when he graduated from Harvard in the class of '08. He began a literary career and soon afterward became managing editor of "Everybody's Magazine." Walter Lippman was his assistant and Sinclair Lewis worked in an adjoining office on "Adventure Magazine." Later Daly turned his attention to music alone. He had studied the piano, orchestrating, harmony, and counter-point before he was 12 years old. His father, Captain Bill Daly, was a vaudeville artist and later acted as a referee in fistic circles about Boston.

Daly now conducts the Voice of Firestone program over an NBC network each Monday at 7:30 p. m. (CDST). His wife now knows his schedule, but there were times when he broadcast so frequently that it would have been difficult for even a wife to keep informed of the programs.

CBS Racing Broadcasts Listed for Month of August

After a respite of nearly a month, Columbia's schedule of horse race broadcasts will be resumed Monday, August 1, when Thomas Bryan George, turf writer and announcer, will report the running of the Flash Stakes and the Saratoga Handicap at Saratoga Springs, New York, from 3:45 to 4:15 p. m. (CDST).

The Flash and the Saratoga will be the first of a score of important turf trials that George will describe over the Columbia network during the mid-summer race meeting at the famous spa. The complete schedule, with time to be announced later follows:

Monday, August 1	The Flash Stakes

Saturday, August 27	Grand Union Hotel Stakes
	Merchants and Citizens Handicap
Tuesday, August 30	Delaware Handicap
Thursday, September 1	Senator Kavanaugh Handicap
Saturday, September 3	The Hopeful
	The Saratoga Cup

BOYS---GIRLS

Money--Money

Our Star Salesmen are boys and girls whose pictures you see every week in Radio Guide. They are earning their vacation spending money by selling this popular radio magazine.

It's easy.

Why don't YOU become a Star Salesman of Radio Guide?

When you become a Star Salesman we will publish your picture in Radio Guide. In addition we will give you (FREE) 200 letterheads carrying your picture, your name and identification as a representative of Radio Guide. We will also send you a fine copper engraving of your photograph which you can use to print pictures of yourself.

So boys and girls, get busy and let's have your pictures and the number of copies you sell each week.

You can write to your friends on your own stationery and thereby increase your sale.

Thumb Nail Sketch THEY CALL HER ANGEL OF AIR

By BYRNE MITCHEL

Phil Stewart

PHIL STEWART didn't have much to say about his latest song hit, "Just a Song of Old Kentucky," when we interviewed him at the KYW studios the other day. He just mentioned it as if writing Clyde McCoy's theme song was nothing of any special importance. He's used to being an actor, poet, song writer, chief announcer, Scotchman and swell fellow all wrapped up in one sun-tanned package.

You'd never guess that he has been in America just nine short years, having migrated here from Glasgow, Scotland. His accent is pleasantly inconspicuous. He retains just enough of the attractive Scottish burr to make his voice stand out from the thousands of perfect but uninteresting accents on the air.

You're right. He's married.

Her name is Eddis Estelle Meyers and she is most decidedly not in radio. He doesn't even want her to be. She is domestic, young, musically inclined, and, oh, but of course, pretty.

You've probably noticed in listening to Phil's programs, that he has a sense of the dramatic. He comes by this naturally. In America his first job was assembling parts in the Ford factory at Detroit. But his next stop was the stage. Doing Scottish specialties. He started out traveling the country with tent shows and ended with a fifty-two week run in New York as a first class Master of Ceremonies.

Radio was an accident. But, he adds, a nice one. In 1928 he found himself in Chicago and broke. His show had closed and there seemed nothing to do but go back assembling Ford parts or starve in some unromantic garret. Alone in his small north side hotel room, he consoled himself by listening to the radio.

When he heard a voice announce that he was listening to WCRW, and he realized that the station was located just across the street from him, he wandered over out of curiosity.

The rest of the story goes something like this: an audition, a job at WCRW and, three weeks later, a telephone call. It was Homer Hogan of KYW asking for his services. He's been there ever since.

And people adore him. He combines this writer's favorite colored eyes—green—with black hair and a deeply tanned skin. When he breaks into a smile, your break into a run—toward him. When he looks sad, you want to mother him.

It is his voice which announces Wayne King's "Lady Esther" program over NBC networks on Sunday afternoons. Besides that you can tune him in currently on evening programs from the KYW studios. He's their star announcer.

Big News Of Former Years Goes On Air

How would you like to open this evening's newspaper to "The Death of Rudolph Valentine," or read a graphic account of "The Sinking of the Titanic" with this evening's supper?

It can be done, you know. In fact Quin Ryan is even now broadcasting thrilling and exact accounts of famous newspaper stories of the past. The feature, called "Headlines of Other Days," is presented from WGN every night at 9:25 p. m. (CDST).

Here are some of the outstanding events of last year, the year before, and even seventy-five years ago, which have been presented: "Floyd Collins Found Deal in Kentucky Cave," "Wallace Reid, Movie Idol, Dies in 1923," "The Last Stand and Massacre of General Custer," "Battleship Maine Blown Up in Hanava Harbor," "The Johnstown Flood of 1889," "Commander Peary Discovers North Pole," and "Abraham Lincoln Nominated For the Presidency."

"The Angel of the Air" is what they are calling Doris Robbins, who has been picked by television experts as one of the most promising subjects yet discovered. Doris used to be featured vocalist with Herbie Kay's orchestra during the Yeast Foamers program over the NBC network and is now filling an engagement for Music Corporation in Detroit. We still think she's gorgeous looking. And you?

Ed Barry Is Program Builder In Chicago

Building programs for a radio station isn't the easiest job in the world. But Ed Barry, not alone builds programs but he also arranges auditions, hears talent and finds time to do production work on a number of broadcasts—all under the banner of WGN.

Barry's first connection with the Tribune station was in 1926, when he gave a program of classical piano music. Shortly after he turned teacher and gave piano lessons over the air and as a result has several bulging scrap books of letters from young and old, testifying that the lessons "took."

Three years later the versatile musician was taken into the general offices of the station and began his program work.

TREMAINE GETS AIR

The maestro of the band from "lonely acres," Paul Tremaine, who will soon be heard on regular programs over a coast-to-coast network. After a vaudeville engagement the latter part of the summer at the RKO Palace Theater in New York, Paul may possibly move in to the Roosevelt Hotel for a winter engagement.

HE BREAKS RECORDS

They told Lanny Ross he couldn't do it; be an Olympic champion and a great singer at the same time. But Lanny broke several records in track at Yale and then went on a European tour with the Yale Glee Club. Today he is breaking more records as one of the most popular of NBC's tenors. And we can see why. He is heard each Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 10:15 p. m. (CDST) over NBC networks. Local outlet WENR.

VOICE OF THE LISTENER

Little Jack Too Quiet

Sayreville, N. J.

Dear Editor:

I would like to know why a popular artist like "Little Jack Little" does not answer fan mail.

Several of my friends wrote to him for pictures and told him how good he was. Guess that went to his head. We wrote to others whom were not half as good as he and received nice letters and pictures.

Here's hoping "Little Jack Little" will wake up some day, but not too late.

"Marie of Sayreville"

Just A Hornet's Nest

La Grange, Illinois

Dear Sir:

The letter in the issue of July 10-16, under the caption "From a Submerged Listener," to say the least, is aggravating, and I believe you have stirred up a hornets' nest by printing it.

Everyone has a right to his opinion, but no one person has a right to condemn such artists as Werrenrath, Tibbett, Paul Oliver (whose real name is Frank Munn) and Grace Moore whose high standard of excellence are an established fact with the public. Their reputations not only speak for them, but for the integrity of their sponsors.

The same thing applies to the skits mentioned; namely, "Clara, Lu 'n' Em," "Easy Aces," "The Goldbergs" and "Dan and Sylvia." Their popularity is symbolical of the popularity of the products they advertise.

The criticism of quartets in general would include such quartets as the Revelers and the Maple City Four, whose reputations have been well established for many years. The Revelers appear on many NBC programs, and the Maple City Four have been favorites with WLS listeners for years and still are.

Three Hundred More Days

Champaign, Illinois

Hey, you Kate Smith fans, her ardent listeners, did you read? Kate has given us the air. Just three hundred more days, count 'em, friends, each day one less.

My tears would flood that York town already, but I see the sun 'cause Kate believes that way. She brings that Moon Over The Mountain to brighten our nites, but Kate's voice rings through my days.

I am still able to holler and kick, so who will holler with me? All ready, let's go—let us see it in black and white.

A Kate Smith Fan

Wanted: More Pictures

Kansas City, Mo.

Dear Sirs:

The feature I most enjoy in RADIO GUIDE is the pictures of the singers and other broadcasters. I should like to see more of the announcers. Is there any reason why we can not have their pictures? To mention some whom I hear frequently—Ted Jewett, Charles O'Connor-MacIntosh, Pety and Judge Gordon and Col. Goodbody of the A. & P. program.

Elmire Eckerle

The Other Side

Dear Sir:

R. E. G.'s letter, which appeared in a recent issue of RADIO GUIDE, certainly caused me to sit up and take notice. To start with, my advice to R. E. G. is listen in some morning to Tom, Dick and Harry; take particular notice of the theme song, and if R. E. G. has an ear for music and a sense of humor, he should have taken a new lease on life in a day or two.

I couldn't sit idly back and forget the cracks about the "detestable insects known as crooners" that in his estimation haven't even the rudiments of a singing voice. As for his idea of being assailed without warning in the middle of an orchestral number by the so-called vocal insects, that is certainly taking in a lot of territory. I realize some singing voices don't come up to others, but the entertainers must be given credit for their enthusiasm and their ability to please people within reason. I live partly to hear the voice of Stanley Jacobsen; of Charlie Agnew's orchestra, who has a truly beautiful singing voice; also the voice of a certain tenor of Ted Weems' band, who sends the shivers up and down my back when Weems and his vocal ensemble play and sing "The Voice In The Old Village Choir."

Mrs. C. A. C.

Morton Downey Garbo

Cincinnati, Ohio

Dear Sir:

I was reading the front page of your RADIO GUIDE, No. 37.

In answer to Dr. Fisher, I just want to say a few words. If you must have a Greta Garbo on the air, let the men have her, I think Ruth Etting is the one. But let us ladies keep our Great God Gable of the Air, Morton Downey who, with his wonderful voice, can make one feel like Alice in Wonderland.

A Voice of a Listener.

Knocks Annoy Patsy

Dear Sir:

Upon reading this week's issue of RADIO GUIDE my blood rose to the boiling point. When such a person as R. E. G. of Chicago, Illinois, writes in with nothing but knocks for all the best programs on the air, I just couldn't stand it a minute longer and had to write in and "speak up."

The radio audience must like the programs that are on the air or they wouldn't be there. Did you ever stop to think of that? R. E. G. is only one of millions who listen in. When you feel like "knocking" a program, R. E. G., just think what you would be like if you were on the air.

As to calling Dan and Sylvia "painful afflictions," I think you are entirely unfair. I, myself, don't care for them at all, but when I hear them come on, I just turn the dial to something else. There are thousands who sit up nightly just to hear those very artists, so why run them down? The same stands for all the others you "knocked."

As for announcers' voices, please, who has a more splendid voice than Pierre Andre or David Ross?

There are just lots and lots of people who like the "Hill-Billy Barn Dances"—to quote you. The "old-timers" enjoy them immensely. If you don't like them, shut them off, is all I can say.

A "defender" of radio.

"Just Patsy"

Rudy Gets a Hand

Freeport, Illinois

Dear Editor:

Some of the articles appearing in the RADIO GUIDE are so inane it seems too bad that you should waste the ink used in the printing. Radio needs "one outstanding personality," quoting from July 3 issue.

As a matter of fact radio has one outstanding star—an artist who is unique. No, this personality is not radio's Garbo—he is too distinguished to be labeled anything but radio's Rudy Vallee! He is as glamorous a personality on the radio as Garbo is on the screen. Of course, he has no reason to be enigmatic—nature and environment have so blessed him that it is to his advantage not to be—but that does not detract from his drawing power, nor does it make him less glamorous.

And just as the motion picture companies are searching constantly for a star who will outshine Garbo, so do the broadcasters, in seeking new talent, aim at the Vallee crown. Rudy is time-tested—incomparable! You can't deny that!

TED WEEMS' CLARA'S FOOT

"Oh, but Ted, this is so sudden," is likely to burst forth from Clara Bow any minute to judge from this picture. But looks are deceiving, for the Weemsical maestro is simply getting ready to declare that the "It" girl certainly seems physically fit to return to the movies. The two met during Ted's visit to Hollywood. Now he and his orchestra are back in Chicago playing an engagement at the Lincoln Tavern with broadcasts over the Columbia network.

Seth Parker Seeking Most Popular Hymns

What are your favorite hymns? Those Jonesport Neighbors who gather with Seth Parker on Sunday nights, and are heard over an NBC network at 9:45 p. m. (CDST), are canvassing the country to learn which of the fine old hymns constitute the most popular ten throughout the United States.

Write to the Contest Editor of the RADIO GUIDE and tell him what ten hymns you like best, listing them in the order of your preference. Watch the GUIDE for the hymns rated as favorites by our readers. Will "Rock of Ages" win first place? Or "Lead, Kindly Light," "Throw Out the Life-line," "Onward Christian Soldiers"? Send in your selections now to the Contest Editor.

Seth Parker knows pretty well what the folks in his neighborhood like. They've had the same favorites for several generations, just like hundreds of other communities over the United States.

And it is these folks who live in other communities that they want to hear from. What hymns do they sing at camp meetings in Texas? What are the favorites of church people in Los Angeles and Spokane?

Seth Parker wants his list of ten favorite hymns to be typical of the likes of people throughout the United States, from Canada to Mexico and from New York to California.

In a short time, Seth Parker believes, he will be able to tell his friends not only what are the ten favorite hymns of the United States, but also the one most popular hymn.

"We've got to have them from every community and every state," Seth Parker said to the neighbors in his broadcast, "if they're going to be representative of the whole country. Perhaps a hymn what's popular around here ain't even known some other place, and maybe some of the hymns popular other places ain't never been sung here."

WJJD Replaces Sports With Music Program

WJJD has decided to give radio fans who are not also baseball fans a break by replacing the sports broadcasts with a series of musical programs. They are on the air every afternoon at the same time most of the world is listening to reports from the diamond. Dance tunes, symphonic music, light classics and old time tunes are being included in this new series.

Helping 'Babe' Along

George Herman "Babe" Ruth's radio appearance with Ed Sullivan in a recent Highlights program fortunately was not a repetition of a previous Columbia broadcast. At that time a page boy excitedly was viewing the "Sultan of Swat" as he faced the microphone. He slipped suddenly and in order to brace himself put his hand on the nearest object. Unfortunately, it was the open keyboard of a piano and Ruth's remarks were punctuated with a powerful bass roar.

Microphone Technique

By MARGARET CUTHBERT

Supervisor of Radio Talks, National Broadcasting Company

The RADIO GUIDE this week inaugurates an unusual series of articles on microphone behavior. Miss Cuthbert, the author, will give to radio aspirants the inside information on how to broadcast. There are few people in radio who are as well qualified as the writer of these articles to give such tips to the public. Her position with the National Broadcasting Company enables her to have a perspective and a fund of knowledge that is particularly valuable to the novice and intriguing to the layman interested in the "low-down" of studio conduct. Miss Cuthbert will also describe the microphone conduct of famous persons who appear from time to time before the little black box. Watch for the next article.

"Somewhere a voice is calling . . ."

The proportion of people who think they have good radio voices to those who actually have is about one to ten thousand.

To those of us in the studios who listen to auditions day in and day out, there is nothing so revealing as the voice and nothing so personal. It is more personal than the face, more disarming than a smile.

Your voice betrays or defends you. By hearing your voice, as it is transmitted by wire to our offices four floors from the audition studio, we can tell where you are from, almost the exact locality. We learn much of your background, your state of mind, your health. Your voice tells us more about you than you can.

We know if you are mean, boring, boastful, cheerful, gruff or artificial. By your voice you attract or repel us—and therein lies the strength of a radio personality.

For example, by merely turning the dial automatically we pick up a voice, and analyze it. Surely no one would mistake the character revealed there—magnetic, no hesitation of address—a man accustomed to dominate. It is the voice of a celebrated minister.

The second speaker is an unfortunate type as he gives the listener the impression of all teeth and no voice.

A third speaker seems to have a small amplifier in his throat. But here is the voice we have been seeking, for it holds the attention. Though he might be speaking in a foreign language you recognize the quality immediately; warm, friendly, likeable. Much of it is in the tone, which often is as important as the message itself. This is, of course, a well-known psychological factor; the tone quality being used as a working basis by clergymen, teachers and other leaders (not to mention in the same breath, sergeant majors and animal trainers).

In other days an actor's face was his fortune. On the air it is his voice that represents earning power.

Broadcasting is the great test. In ordinary circumstances, common courtesy demands that we listen until the act is over, the sermon ended, the family discussion terminated or the professor leaves the classroom.

But on the air, if they don't please, we can tune them out—this being, perhaps, one of radio's greatest virtues.

So, when you consider radio from the speaking standpoint, consider your audience. Go unerringly to the one point, in all the bewildering many, that will interest your listeners. Discard the professional note and go in for frank, revealing comment. Do not deal in abstract ideas. Have a central theme that permits of short treatment.

Here are some points to remember in radio speaking; brevity, terseness and directness; distinction of expression, dramatic quality, and most important of all—sincerity.

Write your talk for the ear, not the eye. Use a medium conversational volume, in other words, your natural speaking voice, not an oratorical tone. Speed should always be consistent with clear enunciation.

As an inducement to persons to speak in an intimate manner, NBC has built a speakers studio, furnished like a study or living room, so visiting speakers will feel at home.

Let us apply the test to various voices that come to us over the air. Winston Churchill reveals a cultivated voice, speaking in rich, persuasive tones. Something about the English statesman holds you to the radio set.

Another British statesman, Ramsey MacDonald, with his sincerity, poetic fervor and use of strong Anglo-Saxon words, has one of the finest voices ever heard over the radio waves.

Among the Americans there is J. P. Morgan. Immediately upon hearing him speak, you are conscious of a powerful personality. The quiet intensity of his voice, the restraint and modulation of tone, convey to the listener the impression of leadership.

An entirely different type of speaker is one of our most prominent senators. Here is a man who speaks in terms of emotion and prejudice. His whole personality involves attitudes and principles. Yet the emotional quality of his voice is so great that it makes him a personality to be reckoned with. He is one of the most interesting speakers heard over the air.

Amelia Earhart gave a curiously clear impression when she broadcast after her trip across the Atlantic. It suggested a well balanced, single-minded person, one not inclined to be hurried or led by others.

Personality, however, is not everything, as the Republican and Democratic national conventions proved. A high official will be listened to frequently because he is a man of authority and what he says is of great moment.

There is another side of the picture. Sometimes the old fashioned political speech attracts attention in the same way that a genuine antique does.

Radio does not claim for itself more than a modest function, that of stimulating rather than satisfying the minds of listeners. It appeals to the imagination. Therefore it naturally follows that a speaker, actor or artist must have some magic if he is to succeed in radio.

See World Peace Assured By Radio

as cities and nations will be wiped out of existence within a day's time.

All the color and romance of war with its silken flags and brass bands is something of the past. The so-called romance of war will be forgotten. Text books for school children will no longer mention war as a glorious attraction—making heroes out of fools.

H. V. Kaltenborn, noted author and news commentator of the Columbia Broadcasting System in an exclusive statement to RADIO GUIDE, voiced his opinion of the power of radio toward world peace. He says:

"Where there is full publicity, there will be peace. Let the light shine, and the clouds of war disappear; secret diplomacy breeds war. Full publicity exposes the forces which make for war, and therefore weakens or destroys them. Radio is the outstanding publicity agent of our time; for it international boundaries do not exist. It spans oceans as easily as national frontiers.

"By means of radio, nations are learning one another's languages, principles, and purposes. Each day the people of one country are learning about the people of all other countries through radio.

"Radio educates us in political understanding; it has taught the millions more about government and politics than any other agency. They understand policies and purposes much better than ever before. Because of the broadening educational value of radio it is far easier for Germans to understand the French point of view and for Frenchmen to understand the German point of view than ever before.

"More and more as time goes on radio will speak with a universal voice to all mankind."

Other political leaders and observers, when asked their opinion of this subject, were unanimous in their belief that radio will eventually be the biggest factor in bringing about world peace.

Frederick William Wile, Columbia's Washington political analyst said:

"Radio is destined, in my judgement, to play an immeasurably influential role in the field of international relations. It is a far more potent means of ironing out misunderstandings than conferences because of its immediacy. World conferences, as the fiasco at Geneva has just proved, are capable of prolonging the agony of statements and gyrations to the point where patience ceases to be a virtue.

"Through the magic medium of the microphone, governments and spokesmen of the peoples can now commune with one another in an interchange of views under circumstances making both for clear conceptions and prompt decisions.

"No surer guarantee of peace among the nations has been vouchsafed in our time than transoceanic radio. The day is coming. I am convinced, when war will be averted and peace preserved because of its illimitable possibilities as an agency for spreading the truth quickly and widely.

"Diplomacy conducted over the wave lengths with all mankind listening in will put an end to the dark and devious ways of discredited statecraft. It will result in their own good and in the peace of the world."

Such are the actual and potential powers of radio. Within that unprepossessing looking little microphone is the key to the worst war the world has ever known, a combat that would utterly destroy the human race. But there is also the key, equally potent, to world peace and human understanding. Radio can, if permitted, make of itself the olive branch of all times.

OPENS RADIO CAMPAIGN

The first woman United States Senator chooses radio to open her campaign for renomination! After a recent broadcast over KTHS, Hot Springs, Arkansas, Mrs. Thaddeus H. Caraway, United States Senator from Arkansas, stated that she believed radio to be a perfect medium for campaigning. Here she is in the studios of KTHS, ready to open fire in her fight for the senatorship. Mrs. Caraway entered Congress after the death of her noted senator husband.

Pretty Kittens

Stanley Greene, bass player with Freddie Rich's orchestra, was talking to his brother whom he hadn't seen in eleven years. The latter lives in East Africa and Stan was boasting of the cats he and his wife had been raising. "Cats?" said his brother. "Have a look at these," and pulled out a picture of three full-grown tigers, which he asserted were his special pets.

Purely Personal

Burns and Allen received an hilarious welcome upon their return from the West Coast, where they had been making a picture with Bing Crosby, Eddie Lang and other stars. In the movie George will be seen and heard as the studio manager, while Gracie will preside over the information desk.

Louis Hanna, who presides over the Crime Club Productions, will vacation at his camp in Maine. During the past year Jay directed, cast and rewrote 164 programs in a period of 21 weeks.

Mark Warnow, orchestra leader, motored to a resort in the Pennsylvania mountains for his recuperation period.

Buddy Rogers and his California Cavaliers rehearse on Buddy's boat, "Follow Thru." They meet each morning at the Columbia Yacht Club, don bathing suits, and sail down Long Island Sound or up the Hudson to rehearse their new arrangements.

Welcome Lewis is preparing for a vaudeville tour of the middle west.

The Boswell Sisters presented their manager, Harry Leeder, with a watch on his birthday. He took it with him when he sailed for Europe.

Willem Van Hoogstraten, conductor of the Lewisohn Stadium concerts, came up to the studios to listen to the Boswell Sisters Broadcast. He said their voices were blended as well as the most perfect instruments.

Ben Bernie was almost asked to leave the Columbia New York Studios the other day when he paid a visit. The rules are "no smoking" and Ben and his cigar are inseparable.

Ted Husing considers himself a hermit. He seldom attends parties and generally takes himself to the movies . . . alone . . . after the day's work.

Three famous quartets have their eyes on Donald Novis, the young tenor. He's holding out for solo work.

Johnny Marvin writes at least three songs a week . . . has several trunks full of unpublished scores.

Verna Burke who sings with Teddy Black's Orchestra, was a dancer who took up singing after a serious injury which made further dancing impossible.

Before each performance, Guy Lombardo personally supervised all studio arrangements . . . adjusting microphones and placing chairs.

Morton Downey cut short his European trip and hastened back to the bedside of his wife, the former Barbara Bennett, when a cable informed him of her illness.

Carveth Wells, NBC explorer, is roughing it through Russia on the way to Caucasus Mountains to visit Noah's home town near the base of Mount Ararat. He and his wife, Zetta Rohart, have left all their finery behind them at the Grand Hotel in Stockholm.

Paul's Canaries

Paul Whiteman's orchestra plays such sweet music during NBC broadcasts that the canaries of the Biltmore Cascades, where Paul and the orchestra play, start to sing also. They can be heard clearly over the NBC networks during Whiteman programs,

The Guest Star

By Charlie Agnew

NO, my grandfather didn't present me with a twenty-five cent violin in early youth and thus start me on the road to musical fame, even though nine tenths of the biographies of successful maestros begin that way. I didn't even like violins . . .

It took me ten years to discover that there was such a thing as a trumpet . . . and six months to find out how to make it work . . .

I found it in the attic—the trumpet, I mean—and spent time there daily trying to make it play. But I was too small . . . for awhile. Didn't have enough breath . . . Then, one Sunday afternoon while my mother and father slept, I crept to the attic. I placed the horn to my lips, drew a deep breath, and blew with all my might into the instrument. The result was startling to say the least. A blast of sound issued from the trumpet . . .

My father rushed up . . . and I hid.

It was no use. He called "Charles!" in a stern voice . . . and I stepped out from behind an old trunk, shaking with fear. He didn't lecture me . . . he was pleased to death . . . I laugh to think of it now . . . how scared I was. I thought I had done something awful . . . From then on I was given lessons . . .

When I made the High School Band in Newark, my mind was made up . . . I would devote my life to music . . . I'm glad that my ambition has been realized . . . I could never be happy at anything else.

Then came a chance to join a real orchestra . . . it was Harold Vincent who first hired me as a trumpet player.

Then travel . . . bright lights . . . excitement . . . and lots of luck. Vincent Lopez offered me a job in his band. So did Charles Strickland . . . Harry Yerkes . . . J. Bode-walt and Dell Lampe. I took them all.

Guess I was happiest in Chicago when the Lampes' Orchestra opened the new Trianon Ballroom. I played side by side with Wayne King, Harold Stokes and Al Morey. I would give anything to get that gang together again . . . just for one night.

At last . . . my own orchestra. Ballrooms . . . cafes . . . night clubs . . . hotels . . . on the vaudeville stage for Publix and RKO . . . and finally the Edgewater Beach by Lake Michigan.

From the very beginning I was ambitious to have a real "Singing Orchestra" . . . the gods have been good . . . even this fond hope has been realized . . . Every member of my present band is capable of singing solo parts . . . as well as playing any instrument.

Here at the Beach Walk I am happy . . . the Boys are very serious about their broadcasts over the NBC . . . we enjoy our fan mail from listeners who seem to like our music.

I insist on the boys making every program as good as the last . . . and I join with them in saying . . . "We hope you like our music."

The Editor's Mail Box

A column dedicated to RADIO GUIDE readers. You and your friends are invited to write in for information concerning radio, radio stars, and your own favorite broadcasts. If the information is forthcoming and interesting to all of our readers, we will get it for you and print it in this column. No personal replies will be made.

Mrs. M. J. of Streator, Ill., Harold Chapman of Bloomington, Ill., and John T. Condon, of Chicago, Ill., all noticed an item in Orchestral Doings which announced the formation of a Wayne King "Goofus" Club. They are all anxious to join and ask for further particulars.

We can only refer you to Raymond McCarthy of Mendota, Ill., president of the first chartered club, for further information.

B. D. of New York City, wants some information about "Margie," who sings with Clyde McCoy and his orchestra, and where she can be heard at the present time.

"Margie" is tall, dark, and of Spanish descent. A newcomer to radio and Clyde's Orchestra, she has several medals to her credit, some for her prowess as a swimmer and a few in recognition of her beauty. She and McCoy's Band are now broadcasting nightly over WGN from the Summer Gardens of the Drake Hotel.

From Onieta Nichols of Chicago, comes an inquiry for a description of Bill Baar, WAAF character actor.

Bill is about twenty-two years old, very blond, and considered handsome. Yes, it is he who essays all the roles heard during his WAAF dramatic programs. Before radio, Bill spent his time at the Goodman Theater School of the Drama.

"An Interested Listener" from Clinton, Iowa, is anxious to locate Gene Ruppee, former WLS fan.

WLS informs us that he is not, at present, broadcasting from any radio station. His present address is Rockwood, Tenn.

"I hope you will soon let loose a little information concerning the most personable man in America—Ted Lewis," writes G. B. of Palmer, Ill. Judd Carrel, of New York City, also writes about the popular Ted.

Lewis is engaged in making a tour of the United States for personal appearances. He is not broadcasting at the present time.

Writes Hank Voris of St. Louis, Mo.: "When and over what station can I hear the Toscanini Concerts from New York?"

The program is broadcast over a Columbia network through KMOX, St. Louis, each Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. (CST). NBC broadcasts the same program on Wednesday at 12:30 p. m. (CST). Nearest St. Louis outlet is WTAM, Cleveland, Ohio.

We suggest that Mrs. S. A. M. of Minneapolis, Minn., who asks for the address of Harry Richman, write him in care of the National Broadcasting Company, 711 Fifth Ave., New York City.

Billy D. of Minneapolis, Minn., is anxious to locate "Sally, Irene and Mary," former WGN artists.

We can only report that the once-popular trio has withdrawn from the ether. They are not, at present, broadcasting from any station.

Short Wave—DX

Dear DX Editor:

I have followed the DX Column ever since the RADIO GUIDE began printing it, and I want to thank all the writers that have sent in articles and information on stations using DX programs. They have helped me in getting many new stations since the first of the year.

I have a Philco seven tube radio which is almost three years old and have recorded in the last year 250 stations from United States, Canada, Mexico and Cuba. Of this list I have 135 verified with cards or letters. I have heard from stations in 157 different cities in United States, Canada, Cuba and Mexico, and 41 states of the Union. I believe this is a fine record for a seven tube radio that is almost three years old.

At the present time I have no information about DX programs this month or next, so I cannot aid the other fans.

Some of the stations I have heard and verified that are good stations to have are:

KLZ—Denver, Colorado; 560 kc.
 WMCA—New York City; 579 kc.
 WOR—Newark, N. J.; 710 kc.
 KMPC—Beverly Hills, Cal.; 710 kc.
 WRUF—Gainesville, Fla.; 830 kc.
 WCOC—Meridian, Miss.; 880 kc.
 WGBI—Scranton, Pa.; 88° kc.
 WGST—Atlanta, Ga.; 890 kc.
 WHA—Madison, Wis.; 940 kc.
 WBZA—Boston, Mass.; 990 kc.
 WIS—Columbia, S. C.; 1010 kc.
 WTIC—Hartford, Conn.; 1060 kc.
 WBT—Charlotte, N. C.; 1080 kc.
 WCAU—Philadelphia, Pa.; 1170 kc.
 WINS—New York City; 1180 kc.
 WIBZ—Utica, N. Y.; 1210 kc.
 KGEK—Yuma, Colorado; 1210 kc.
 WCAM—Camden, N. J.; 1280 kc.
 WBBR—Brooklyn, N. Y.; 1300 kc.
 WSMB—New Orleans, La.; 1320 kc.
 WJBK—Detroit, Michigan; 1370 kc.
 CMC—Havana, Cuba; 840 kc.
 10-AB—Moose Jaw, Sask.; 1200 kc.
 CFRB—Toronto, Ontario; 690 kc.
 CFCN—Calgary, Alberta; 990 kc.
 CKY—Winnipeg, Manitoba; 780 kc.

There are many others but these are my best catches this past year. Each one is verified for proof.

I hope the DX Column continues as a big feature in RADIO GUIDE always. I am always waiting for a chance to increase my list of stations and depend very much on this column for the information.

Thank you and the other fans for all the help.

Dear Editor:

Were we mad when we grabbed the RADIO GUIDE this week and found no DX department! Ask us, were we mad?

You'd better put it back in next week or else . . . I thought it was the best part of RADIO GUIDE. I would also like a bigger "Voice of the Listener" department.

Dear Editor:

I wish to take this opportunity to add my praises to your magazine. But why not have a larger DX column as this is one of the favorite indoor sports at the present.

Here is to a bigger and better RADIO GUIDE. I would like to hear from other DX-ers.
