Happy Listening.

TWENTY-EIGHT more radios will be bought in the United States in the time it takes to read this paragraph. One hundred and forty more will be bought before you finish reading this page—that is, if you do finish. Think that over. And then reach your right hand around to your left and shake hands with yourself. For you are a member of the greatest audience the world has ever known, and the flip of a switch is your ticket of admission to the greatest variety of entertainment the world has ever known.

This weather isn't just right for the contemplation of figures, but cold facts never overheated anyone, and last week's reminder in this space that today one automobile driver out of every five has a radio in his car set us to digging further into your—the listener's—affairs.

To the Columbia Broadcasting System we are indebted for most of the following facts. If you are an average listener, the radio in your home is kept busy five hours per day, except on Saturday, when your radio runs eighteen minutes longer. Why, nobody knows. If you live in a large city, you use your radio only four hours and thirty minutes per day. But if you live in a small town, you keep your tubes warm five hours and forty-two minutes. Think that over, too. As we said, this weather isn't just right for assimilating figures so we'll leave you right there—with your radio chirping merrily away at its daily average of some five entertaining hours.

IT'S QUITE an advantage for a radio comedian to have a loud voice. It occasionally enables his radio audience to hear one of his gags above the often loud laughter of the studio audience.

Listeners who fondly remember that ginger - ale - bubble - coming - up - for - air named Elmer, the round dice for people who would rather play marbles, and the cellophane mattress for old maids so they won't have to look under the bed can look forward to the next visit of Stoopnagle and Budd to a radio studio. The date is June 15 and the program is Ben Bernie's weekly show.

Which reminds us of the argument that the only genuine comedians are those who write their own material. Bob Burns does, as do Jane and Goodman Ace, and a half-dozen others. To that select group belong the Colonel and his pal. Their programs have always been different and effective. Their return will be awaited eagerly by those listeners who like their wise-cracks fresh as a daisy.

ACCORDING to a friend of ours, if you're motoring westward from New York and don't wish to be bothered with hitch-hikers, just fix your radiator up with a gong, and when you see a thumb waving in the breeze, ring it. Since nine-tenths of the hitch-hikers are radio amateurs returning from their encounters with Major Bowes, they'll hop out of the way the minute they hear it.

HAVE you picked a winner for next week's big fight? Confidentially, our survey of those radio-star fight-fans who go every place and see everything reveals that Joe Louis can't lose. But if your memory is working, our survey revealed the same thing when Mr. Schmeling last laid Mr. Louis in the rosin. So we await the 22nd with our fingers crossed.

Another person waiting with her fingers crossed is Mrs. Jim Braddock, the champion's wife, who became a writer for RADIO GUIDE long enough to tell how it feels to be the wife of a man whose jobs always take him away from home just long enough to get his ears knocked off. The story is in next week's issue. Be sure to read it before the fight. We will also publish a Big Fight feature which will give the measurements of each battler and his knock-out record!

WHEN JACK BENNY WAS THROWN OUT OF SCHOOL, HE TOOK UP THE VIOLIN—FIDDLED HIS WAY TO FAME!

THE Jack Benny who is the most popular visitor to the American loudspeaker and the highest paid entertainer in the world was born on Washington Street in Waukegan, Illinois, just forty-three years ago as you read this.

The house is still there. It is a little white wooden house, altogether plain and unpretentious, one block from the business district. The Bennys were anything but wealthy. Jack's father, as you know, was in the haberdashery business, selling gent's furnishings from socks to collars. Small businesses in small towns are responsible for few DuPonts and Rockefellers. A tall, thin, rather morose man, his father's predominant characteristic, as Jack remembers it, was strictness.

That may be because all boys think of their dads as being strict. It may also be because Jack was the sort of brat to make any father regard the upbringing of the young as a stern, stern business.

Jack's mother, on the contrary, was the soul of kindness. Easy-going, happy-go-lucky, she was the sort of woman who believes that the Lord will take care of us all if we just do our level best here below.

The other member of the household on Washington Street, Jack's pretty sister Florence, hadn't arrived by the time he was born. She wasn't to come along until six years later.

It was the fondest wish of Jack's father that he should earn good marks in school and be a model student. But from his kindergarten days on, Jack's report cards read: "Scholarship, poor. Deportment, poor." The only reason his harassed teachers didn't write worse things on the cards was that profanity was regarded as ungentle. He was the world's worst student.

When he was only six Jack was put to taking violin lessons. His father as well as his mother loved music, and they hoped he might be better at music than he was at his schoolwork. Anyhow he couldn't be worse. And for a time it looked as though their clever little scheme was going to work. The teacher, "Professor" Harlow, a big, fat, good-natured man with a bald head and a perpetual smile, was just easy-going enough for Jack to think he was swell—our lazy six-year-old virtuoso! But Professor Harlow was also honest; and he refused to take any parents' money unless their little darlings put some honest perspiration into their sawing and scraping. He insisted upon hours of practise. Jack didn't mind playing but he hated to practise.

In fact the only thing he really enjoyed was to have his grandma come to the house for a visit. The gentle old lady would sit for hours in the chilly parlor, alone on the row of chairs which was supposed to represent the audience, while her grandson "played show" for her. He was a comedian, a magician, a dancer, a singer, a violinist, a monologist for her by turns; and always, with the loving smile of an old woman who knows boys and their crazy ways, she sat patiently watching and listening, dutifully applauding at the right time when the imaginary curtain fell.

He got the boys in the neighborhood together and put on shows in the barn, charging a penny admission. Jack was not only stage-manager, director, producer, treasurer and actor, but critic as well.

Then fat, jolly Professor Harlow died and three other violin teachers wended their way into Jack's young life one after the other. His father put his foot down. It was easy to see that the youngster had talent, and there was going to be a violinist in the family—or else! The next few years Jack remembers as one long seesaw of Trouble At School, Violin Teachers, Radio in Heaven...

Consider the woman in Arkansas listening to Boake Carter, the man in Oregon listening to Lowell Thomas—as they tell of Father Divine. They are strangely fascinated. "Who is this man 'Divine'?" they ask. This is a natural question—and RADIO GUIDE feels it should be answered. Therefore, it presents on these pages the complete story, all the facts about this Negro mystic who is believed by his followers to be God—who is the outstanding phenomenon of our day!—THE EDITORS.

FATHER DIVINE, the magniloquent atom and god of Harlem's hosts, leaned back in his banquet throne at a fish-fry in heaven, flipped his hand at an angel, then passed a high-class miracle, and from out the radio boomed the voice of Boake Carter, broadcasting the news, with a discreet plug for his boss.

Peace! It's wonderful.

The mere fact that a dusky angel twisted a dial before Mr. Carter's words brought intelligence to god, and echoed through a paradise that reeked with sweat from god's children, didn't lessen the power of the miracle. For everything Father Divine does is a miracle. Even his appetite is miraculous. And the way he feeds Peace fish, Peace-It's-Wonderful clams, Heavenly potatoes and Amen bread to the multitude certainly is a culinary miracle. And the gnome-like little mystic, born only one generation from slavery, really is the miracle of Manhattan, for by scrambling metaphors, mumbling double-jointed words and stuffing his disciples with good victuals this bald-headed Negro has become a power in our most sophisticated city.

—Wide World

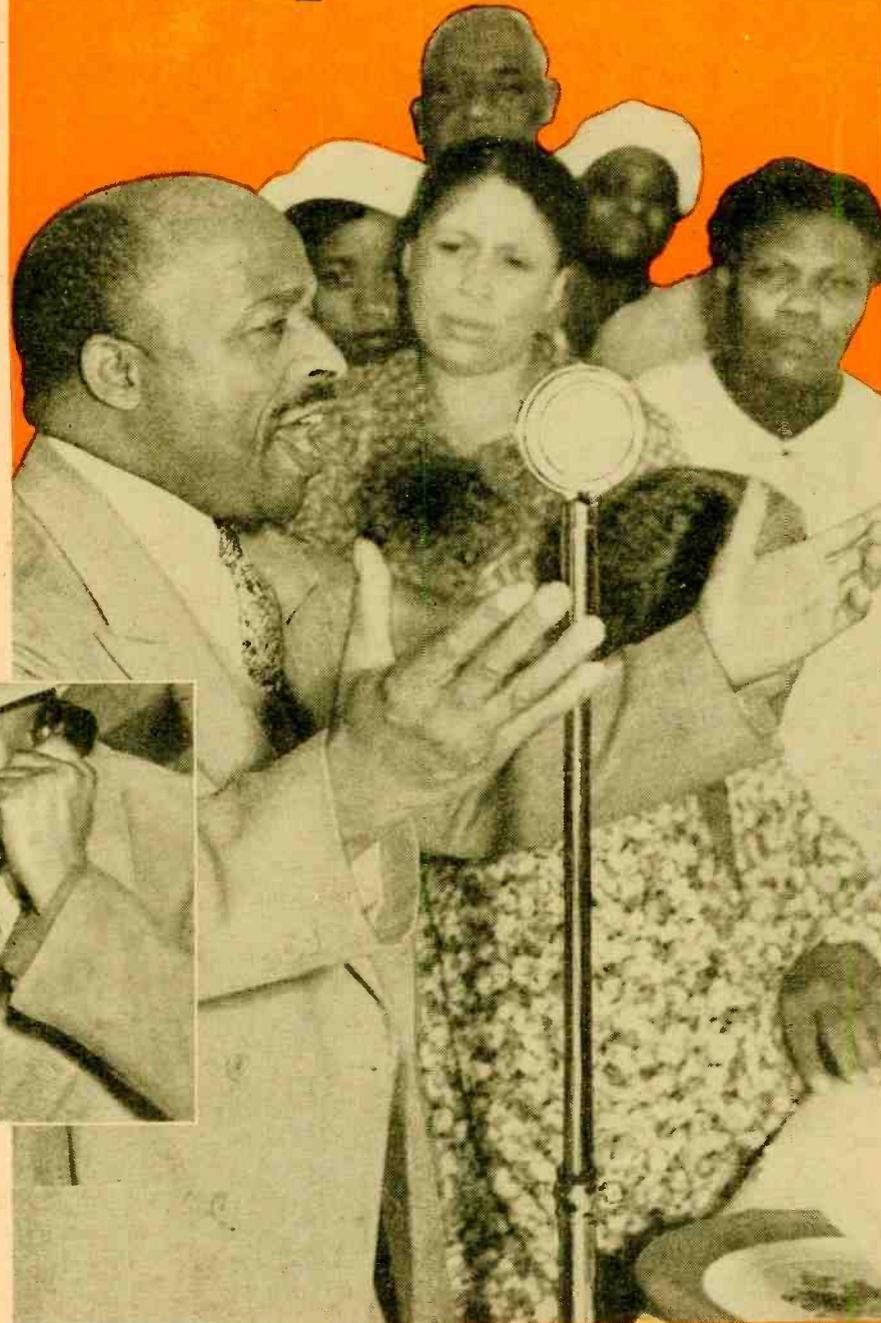

Father Divine (hatless) in police custody after an alleged stabbing

A few years ago he was trimming white folks' hedges in Baltimore for fifty cents a day.

Now he is god to thousands, colored and white, rich and poor, the lame and the blind, the crippled and the whole. He rides in a robin's-egg-blue Rolls-Royce, flies in a plane piloted by an angel, commands the power even to control the physical pleasures of his followers, is the head man of a dozen heavens, and his kingdoms include twenty-five cafes, ten barber shops, ten cleaning establishments and more than 1,000 acres of farm land.

AND radio has a part in all this, because Father Divine gets his news from the ether, and his heavens use some of the same products you hear boosted over your radio. His angels never miss a news broadcast. The radio is the outside connection with common mankind. Sometimes, the angels even are allowed to hear a little swing music in heaven. But they do not approve of Amos 'n' Andy, for they will not accept anything that even hints of a color line.

Father Divine, the Harlem evangelist believed by his followers to be God, addresses 2,000 of his flock at dinner on his 1,000 acre farm

But when god is not talking in the unknown tongue to his angels, or they are not eating or working, the radios generally are turned on in the heavens and the sweet angelic tones of Stoopnagle and Budd and Andy Devine (no kin to god) waft through the corridors of paradise.

God long ago put the curse on newspapers, and his hosts never read. Many of them can't, of course. Newspapers, god ruled, are damned because they contended there is a difference in color between black men and white men. Radio never bothers about such trifles, hence radio is god's chosen instrument. God is the firmament and radio comes from the air, therefore air is god and god is air, and radio is god's voice. If that's not logic, then neither is Father Divine, who signs his letters like this:

"With all good wishes to you and those who may be concerned, this leaves me well, healthy, joyous, peaceful, lively, loving, successful, prosperous, and happy in spirit, body and mind, and in every organ, muscle, sinew, joint, limb, vein and bone and even in every atom, fiber and cell of my bodily form."

He would like to have a broadcasting station, but that god is a patient god. He learned patience many years ago when he was being re-created two and three times a week in Dixie, preaching and clipping hedges and working his way up to be called god.

His biographers say he was born in Savannah, Georgia, in 1882 and named George Baker, by his Negro mother. He says he was born in Providence. Not Rhode Island, just Providence. He says he doesn't know when or why. Those who have checked his amazing career say his father was Joe Baker and his mother was Mary, and they were just middling Georgia Negroes.

But it is known that at the turn of the century, George Baker earned his daily bread by cutting hedges in Baltimore. He was a religious man then, taught Sunday School and took a whirl at Holy Rollerism.

It was then he met a Pennsylvania preacher, who toured the South under the name of Father "Jehovia" and taught that the body is the temple of God, taking his cue from Paul's teachings to the Corinthians. George Baker was impressed. He became a disciple of "Jehovia," and finally went on the road as "The Messenger."

He reasoned that if the body is the temple of God, then God must be inside a man. And if God is inside a man, then that man is God.

IN VALDOSTA, Georgia, in 1914, The Messenger was hailed as God by superstitious Negroes. The Messenger didn't object, but some other folks did, and he was arraigned in a lunacy hearing as "Joe Doe, alias god." The white judge freed him and told him to leave the state. In his pocket then was found a clipping that George Baker had served sixty days on a chain-gang.

To Brooklyn came god in 1915. He had twelve followers. He rented a flat and god and his converts lived together. They all had jobs but god, and each worker gave Divine his pay each Saturday. God paid the rent and bought the food. And he learned then the easiest of economic lessons—that by pooling resources a crowd can live and have a lot left over. He even got jobs for his converts. They were happy. They had food and beds, and singing at night. God even bought their clothes from second-hand shops. He forbade the use of liquor and tobacco. His first little heaven—a four-room place—soon became packed with converts, so in 1919 he moved to Sayville, Long Island, and got a house. He had been calling himself Devine, but he changed it to Divine then, and his followers adopted their slogan—"Father Divine is god." And god took up his famous motto—"Peace—it's wonderful."

Word that he offered a haven to the weary spread. Converts assigned to him their property, gave him their earnings and shared his blessings. He gave sumptuous feasts. A man with a soft, magnetic voice, he was able to arouse his converts to hysteria. He even made them practise celibacy. He told wives they should love only god, and husbands that they should shun the ways of flesh. His subjects believed him.

Divine was god and knew all and saw all.

At all hours, banquets were served at the Sayville heaven. The food never ran out. It was a miracle, said the faithful. Thousands of Negroes and whites from New York drove out to Sayville to see and eat. They ate in groups of 100. First there was tea and coffee and milk. God told his guests to fill up, have all they wanted. He preached while they drank their fill. And 30 minutes later, beans and potatoes were served. He preached some more. So by the time the meats arrived, nobody could eat any more, and the stuffed and awed spectators were sent away, while another group sat down to the first two courses, garnished with preaching, and promptly ate their fill before the real dinner began.

Peace, brethren, that's management. Many residents of Sayville got weary of the heaven. On Sundays, traffic was blocked by flocks clamoring for entrance to heaven, and all night god and his hosts sang and stomped and shouted peace, and such. They tried to get god pinched for accepting money through the mails. They discovered that converts were sending him money under Uncle Sam's seals, but god didn't promise his converts anything but peace. And you can't put a man in jail for that.

HE HAD no visible means of support.

His kingdom branched out, and he established a heaven in Harlem. It was rented in the name of a disciple.

About that time, god had a brilliant idea. He divided his flock into two groups—angels and children. The angels were the folk who lived in the heavens, turned their assets over to god and practised celibacy. The children were the common run of converts. They believed Divine was God, but they didn't give him their money and couldn't live in heaven.

The angels were allowed to change their names, in keeping with scriptural promises. So that's why you read about Brilliant Gabriel, Trust Love and Live, Gladness Darling, David Admiral, Sunny Sonny, Jonah Whale, Meek and Lowly, Holy Hannah, Love Love Love, Flowery Bed and Peace, Pure in Heart Luke and Sparrow Prophet Isaiah.

The children remained John Smith and Sally Jones.

Finally, Sayville got enough and god was fetched to court as a general nuisance. He was ordered to jail. Four days later the judge who sentenced him died! That was the spark that set off the flame. That proved, shouted his angels, that Divine was God! The higher courts reversed the decision, and god was set free.

It wasn't long before his heavens sprang up all over Harlem and he established branches in Ulster County, New York; Bridgeport, Connecticut; Newark, New Jersey, and Baltimore. His angels went to Hollywood even, preaching peace—and celibacy!

God had no property in his own name, although his enterprises were reported to net at least $20,000 a week. He paid no income tax. There was nothing to be done about it. Politicians, fearing his power, paid him homage. The police let him alone. He was a power for good, they said. His followers didn't gamble or drink. And the first thing a convert had to do was pay all his debts. Heaven was run on a cash basis.

God worked a corps of secretaries, all women except John Lamb, a smart Massachusetts salesman who quit selling cars to follow Divine. Mother Divine—"MY so-called wife," god said—helped him with his duties. Faithful Mary, a trusted angel, became his right-hand bower. He employed a corps of lawyers. There were doctors in his flock, cooks, tinsmiths, truck drivers. Each followed his own job, lived in the heavens and turned the money into the general fund.

The angelic workers were able to underbid other laborers. God was even accused of breaking a strike. He sent his angels out shining shoes. On their boxes was a star, and under it

"Peace—It's Wonderful." His stores sold Peace oysters, Peace clams. They undersold stores that had just ordinary clams. And all the followers ate only at Peace restaurants, bought only Peace clothes, and wore only Peace shoe shines. His hucksters roamed Harlem, selling Peace shoe-strings.

He boycotted the public press and organized two newspapers. One, The World Herald, is published in Brooklyn, called New Jerusalem. It is dated A. D. F. D. (A. D. Father Divine).

It publishes his sermons and news sent by "FDP" (Father Divine Press).

In his paper, Father Divine always uses capitals for himself.

And his heavens flourished as the green-bay tree. Because neither of the major political parties would adopt his peace program last year, he ordered his angels and children not to vote. They didn't.

Often there were pilgrimages to upstate New York heavens. God rented a steamboat for one trip. His angels dressed in their Sunday best. There was a brass band and a jazz band.

God walked ahead of the pilgrims, and the angels shouted, "Oh, god he's so cute."

One zealous angel pinned on an American flag, "Father Divine is God."

THE American Legion protested. Newspaper editors arched their eyebrows. After all, that was going a bit far. The authorities began snapping at god and annoying him. He was accused of violating petty license laws in his heavens. Many fallen angels brought suits to recover their property. Two angels were accused of violating the Mann Act.

Then the blow fell. A white process server went to heaven to serve god. A pal went along to see the fun. A reporter went along to see what happened. The process server and the reporter were thrown down the steps from the kingdom and there was a riot in paradise. The third white man was stabbed. Three angels were arrested, and god vanished. He was charged with felonious assault.

Faithful Mary jumped the traces after that, and said Divine was only a "damned old man." She said a lot of hard things about him and seized a heaven in Ulster County.

But before Faithful Mary could consolidate her strength, god was located in the fuel bin behind a furnace in his Bridgeport heaven.

Word flashed through Harlem that god was arrested, and the angels flocked to a Manhattan jail where the little dusky man sat alone in a cell and munched egg sandwiches while a big Irish cop dutifully watched him.

The angels surrounded the jail. There were thousands of them.

God sat in his cell and smiled.

Realizing the time was ripe to strike, Faithful Mary started for New York from her Ulster heaven. Her automobile was wrecked. She wasn't hurt. God was released on bail the next day, and he rode in triumph to his Harlem heaven that afternoon while multitudes lined the streets, roaring "Peace—it's wonderful."

At that night's feast, god said he had put the curse on Faithful Mary. That's what caused the accident, the angels whispered.

But late the next night while god sat among his angels and planned his campaign against Faithful Mary, there came a report over his radio that one of his Ulster heavens had burned and that two angels were singing.

It looked like god's downfall. He was being ridiculed on every side.

But he didn't wait, he struck first. To Ulster County he rode in his Rolls-Royce. He called his loyal angels to one heaven and pledged a new paradise.

He said he would buy farms and build villages in the country, erect factories. His angels would work and all would share the profits. There would be no strikes. It would be one-for-all, all-for-one.

Father Divine would be the one. Merchants in Ulster County were alarmed. God got warnings from the Ku Klux Klan. He ignored them. A grand jury began an investigation.

God then promised to build a $50,000 school for his little angels.

The angels who had deserted to Faithful Mary flocked back to god.

Faithful Mary admitted she was licked. "I'm going to California," she said.

Father Divine had struck successfully when his stock was at its lowest!

Ray Lee Jackson

I'M AFRAID of marriage. So many modern women are. We know it's the only normal way of living, but we look around at the couples we know, and the icy finger of doubt touches our hearts. We hear that Dorothy and John who were once so mad about each other are separating and we say: "They seemed so perfectly mated. What, oh what could possibly have happened?" And when we visit our married friends and hear them bickering with each other we tell ourselves, "Oh, no, not that. Not that for Charles and me. It would be better not to marry ever than to risk letting our love degenerate into that." But how can we get married and still avoid the pitfalls?

I went to Elsie Hitz to ask her. Elsie, who stars with Nick Dawson in that delightful romantic serial, "Follow the Moon," is one of the most charming and one of the most honest young women in radio, and I was sure she would give me a frank answer that would help not only me but other people. Elsie has been married since she was seventeen, and has one daughter, Jean.

I went to see her in her exquisite home on East 53rd Street. That home is so like Elsie in its perfect orderliness, its immaculate cleanliness, the beautiful smoothness with which it is run. Yet the house is more than twenty years old.

"I like old homes," Elsie told me. "These homes were perfectly built, so that no sound penetrates through the walls. Today so many homes are beautiful but they are flimsily built, so that you can hear every squeak and sound that the neighbors are making."

And I thought, "Her marriage must be like that, too—soundly built. She must have laid the foundations very early and very carefully."

BUT Elsie said to me, "I hate to give out rules about marriage, as though I were some sort of Lady Solomon, as though I were perfect and always did the right thing myself."

"But suppose," I said, "some day when your daughter Jean is older she were to come to you and say that she was going to be married and to ask for advice, wouldn't you have anything to say to her?"

Elsie's dark-brown eyes were less troubled now. She paused to pat the huge Irish terrier, which came into the room, and said to me: "Yes, that's different. I know what I would say to Jean. Not the things that I have done myself but the things I feel should be done. The things I've learned from

"Don't try to reform the man you marry"—Elsie Hitz

Advice to June Brides..

LET ELSIE HITZ TELL YOU
HOW TO ATTAIN HAP-PINESS—MAKE A GO
OF YOUR MARRIAGE

my own mistakes must be done if a marriage is to be truly happy.

1. Be as honest with your husband as you possibly can. When I was first married I used to tell little white lies and little lies that were not so white. I still believe in the white lies. If your husband has been trying to improve his posture and says to you, "Don't you think I'm standing straighter now?" say yes even if he hasn't really improved. But never fib about important things.

This rule works both ways, of course. It's just as bad for a man to fib to his wife.

Jack (Jack Welch, her husband) and I made up our minds that we might as well be honest with each other. So that when I said something to him or he said something to me, we'd know that was the way it really was. We knew that fibbing would destroy our confidence in each other.

2. Learn to control your feelings. If you're jealous, don't show it. If your husband comes one hour late for dinner and brings an extra guest, don't explode that same evening. Wait till the next day.

Maybe you can learn to control your feelings. I can't. But it's a good rule anyway.

3. Be as careful of your lingerie as of your outside clothes. That's one rule I follow, anyway. A drawerful of pretty underwear is essential to a completely happy marriage. Most brides are very fussy when they are getting their trousseaus, but sometimes they become careless afterwards.

IF YOU have only a limited amount of money to spend, get plenty of beautiful negligees and plenty of perfume even if you have to stint a little on your dresses. Your husband fell in love with you for your feminine qualities, so be as feminine as possible.

4. Run your home as smoothly as possible. No matter what a man says, one of the main things he marries for is a home. No man likes to eat in restaurants and dine on delicatessen. Spend as much time as necessary on flowers and linen for the table so that no matter what you serve it will seem more appetizing. Food sloppily served on a sloppy table-cloth does not appeal to the eye and therefore never tastes well.

5. Don't be too efficient. Don't try to do too much for your husband. That may sound like a contradiction of the fourth rule, but it isn't really. The thing to do is to try to find a golden mean. Most women either do too much for their husbands or else they don't do enough. When you first get married, because you're so madly in love with your husband you'll be tempted to pamper him. You'll want to serve him breakfast in bed, lay out all his clothes for him, wait on him hand and foot. Don't do it. Let him wait on you a little. If you spoil him, he will take all those attentions for granted and soon more and more burdens will be placed on your shoulders.

And then one day when your hands are rough and your back stooped from toiling for him, some little butterfly will flutter by, and he will say, "There's a beautiful woman. Now why can't my wife look like that?"

6. Don't settle down. Don't say to yourself: "I'm married now. My life is completed. It's over." It isn't over. It's just beginning. Keep yourself looking attractive to your husband and incidentally to other men. For if you are really attractive, other men will find you attractive. Have slight, harmless flirtations. They will keep you interested—and interesting.

HOWEVER, though I may be wrong, I don't feel that what is sauce for the goose is necessarily sauce for the gander. It's all right, I think, for a woman to have harmless flirtations, but if my husband had them, I'm afraid I'd look at them with a jaundiced eye. Because a man is usually the aggressor in these things. A woman is not necessarily to blame when a man finds her attractive and sends her flowers. She may have done nothing to encourage him. But a man is usually the pursuer.

7. Don't try to change the person you marry. I tried to change Jack, and it has done me absolutely no good. It takes me half an hour to read the Sunday paper, while he can spend eight hours reading it. When we were first married, I used to try to get him to stop reading on Sunday, because it drove me frantic. I'd say, "Jack, let's do something." Jack would say, "I haven't finished the paper yet." More hours would pass. I'd say, "Jack, aren't you through yet? Let's get out of doors. Let's go visiting. Let's do something." But Jack said, "I'm still reading the Sunday paper, darling." It still takes him eight hours to read a paper, in spite of all the years during which I've tried to change him. Actually there's been only one respect in which I've been able to change him. He used to arrive late for all appointments. I never could get him to meet me on time. I stewed about it so much that finally he caught on. Today he still comes late occasionally, but he's very much improved in this respect.

8. Respect the little idiosyncracies of the person you marry. If he feels very strongly about something, try to cater to him. Never use your husband by nature a compliment-payer. And so when he pays a compliment, it embarrasses him. And because he's embarrassed, he ties a string to it. He'll say, "You did a magnificent job in that play, Elsie," and then he'll add, "but there was one scene where you rather muffed the lines." However, if he ever runs short of compliments he can always say (and he does), "but you do wear such pretty underwear, Elsie."

Though this is supposed to be advice to June brides, I hope your husband will be polite, too, will remember the anniversary of your wedding, send you flowers, open your program for you when you're at the theater, see that you get into the car first and pay you all the little attentions he paid you before you were married.

10. Don't be constantly together. Separate occasionally. I know that you think right now that you could spend the rest of your life by the side of your particular John, Henry or Arthur. Stop fooling yourself. You couldn't, and if you're constantly together you'll get in each other's hair. That's true, no matter how much you love each other.

Then she said, smiling at me: "Those are the things I'd say to Jean if she were to ask me about what she could do to make her marriage a success. But I'd try not to be smug about it.

"If it hadn't been for Jack, our marriage would never have been a success. I lived with my mother the first year, and Jack was working in Philadelphia and could come home only week-ends. As a general rule, it's much better to have your own home, but we were so much in love that even that couldn't come between Jack and me. Many men would have resented such a situation, but Jack was too good-natured, too sensible for that.

"The greatest source of arguments during the first years of our married life was due to the fact that Jack loved people and fun and that I, having begun work in the theater at fourteen, was deadly serious and did not know how to play. Jack taught me how to play and how to have fun, and for that, too, I am grateful.

"So that I suppose all the rules for marriage come down to one thing: Marry a man as anxious to make a success of the marriage as you are."

band's razor or squeeze a tube of toothpaste in the middle. All women love to squeeze toothpaste in the middle. All men hate it. And it drives most men frantic when their wives use their razors.

If your husband, like Jack, keeps receipts, bills and college papers, let him do it. Relegate a desk or a dresser to his exclusive use, so he can put all the papers he wants to in it.

9. Be polite to each other always. That covers such a lot of territory. H. L. Mencken once said that it was the only important rule for marital success. Remember to pay compliments to your husband, and I hope he'll remember to pay them to you. Jack pays me the most extravagant compliments, but there's always a string attached to them. You see, Jack is not

For years Bob led a simple life in the Ozarks. Then came Hollywood—and fame! But he's unchanged. Here you see him in real life, drafting a script

Robin Burns— Still a HILLBILLY

BOB IS A BIG MONEY MAN
BUT HE STILL LIVES IN A CABIN—AND LOVES IT!

Robin—as Bing Crosby calls him—vacations and weekends 7,000 feet up in a pine forest—100 miles from Hollywood in an out-of-the-way cabin. The nearest town is Cluster Pines, where Bob goes for provisions, for his mail. Left: You see him having a talk with the store-keeper there, W. J. Nickerl Staying with Bob is his 14-year-old son, Junior. Junior's mother died on the very day when Bob was first hailed in the press as a new sensation. The two spend much time fishing. They use cane poles, cork bobbers—and get results, as the picture to the right shows!

Bob does the housework, splits wood, prepares the meals to "help keep his feet on the ground." Junior enjoys the mountain life as much as his father does. Bob takes great pride in his cooking. At the left you see him having a snack

Bob's cabin is a simple one-room place, has no modern conveniences. But it's the nearest thing to an Arkansas home he can find—and it's exactly what he wants! He and his son spend much time outdoors there. They go barefoot, wear old clothes

DEE COLLINS was in the newspaper office, telling me about Jim.

Remember him? He was the greatest test pilot of his time, and he had just been washed out. Washed out in a power dive over Long Island. Twenty thousand feet. Sunset. A new Navy ship. And it failed to pull up.

Well, that was the end of Jim Collins. Just when he was getting ready to give up his hazardous profession, too, said his wife. It was to have been his last flight as a professional test pilot. His plan had been to collect $1,500 for the performance, then settle down to a typewriter and start to punch out a book.

I looked at her and wondered. Now what? She stood there, powdering her nose, making up again to hide the ravages of tears, pulling at her skirt in little settling motions. Yes, I wondered—what was she going to do?

She looked what she was—a little thing, slender, with dark hair in a short bob and bangs shading her eyes. She looked what she was—a small-town girl from Oklahoma. She didn't look like the Cinderella bride of one of the great romantic figures of the age. She didn't look like the mother of two babies. She turned around, and tragedy was wiped from her piquant oval face, blotted out of her big dark eyes. Now she was all common sense and determination.

"Mom and Pop will be glad to look after the babies for a while," she said. "So I'm going to take them home. Then I'll come back to New York and take some singing lessons. Maybe I can make a living for the three of us with my voice. It isn't so much, but I've got to do something."

SIMPLE, direct, facing reality—that was Dee Collins that day of her early widowhood, patting her skirt into place, powdering her nose.

"Good-by," she said, and went off to Lamont, Oklahoma.

Now and then I thought of her as the months rolled on.

I'd run over the facts in my thoughts at such odd moments as she came to mind. I'd think of the things she told me. Of how she left the farm a youngster ambitious to make singing a career. Of how the old folks kissed her good-by at Lamont and she trundled in a day coach up through the Oklahoma Panhandle to Wichita, Kansas, to take singing lessons. And then of how she met her Prince Charming.

It happened one sunny day on the Wichita streets. She was selling forget-me-nots for a war veterans' benefit. Along came a tall, handsome stranger. It was Jim Collins, America's ace of test pilots. He was in town to pick up a plane and fly it east. Jim bought a forget-me-not: three days later they flew east together, man and wife.

Well, I'd say to myself, they had five full years of happiness, anyhow. That's something for her to remember. Then I'd forget about Dee till the next time.

Meanwhile, however, Dee was right there in New York. I didn't know it. She never called me up and asked how's it for a story. No, Dee wasn't asking newspapers to help her with publicity. She wasn't trading on her tragedy or her name. She was standing on her own feet. And how!

For after taking the babies back to the Oklahoma farm, she returned, studied under a voice coach, and one day marched down to the old Academy of Music and asked for an audition.

Dee certainly had what it takes to go in there and ask for an audition. For those Academy patrons of today know how to sound the razzberry when they don't like the act. They have been known to heave things other than Bronx cheers, besides. It's a tough training-school for talent.

There wasn't much money, you know—or did I forget to mention that? She had to make a dollar stretch. So when the manager said all right, he'd give her a chance for a week, she went to a bargain basement. She bought a black taffeta dress and a little bunch of pink roses to put in her blue-black hair. Then she went out to face a vast house, dressed in her best but with her heart where her voice ought to be.

Somehow she swallowed her heart and let her voice have a chance.

Well, as I heard the story later from Dee's own lips, she didn't even know enough to make an exit. She ended the song and just stood there. She was really too much a-tremble to move.

Then it came. Not the razzberries. Not the Bronx cheers.

But applause. And such applause! It was pretty hard for Dee, adrift on those tumultuous waves of sound, to realize that it was all friendly, enthusiastic, and all for her.

She sang an encore.

The house rose up to her. Dee was launched that night.

Dee stayed on at the Academy for a record run. Then she went home last Christmas to see the children. But the old Academy couldn't get enough of her, so the manager wired her to come back to sing on New Year's Eve. And back she came.

All this I learned only the other night. I learned it from Dee herself. But this time we weren't a couple of women having a good cry together in a newspaper office. In fact, that day, only two years in the past, seemed a lifetime away.

THIS time, instead, we were sitting in a fairy palace in a miracle of a tower 65 stories above Fifth Avenue.

This was the Rainbow Grill. This was the swankiest night spot in New York. This was the jewel capping Radio City. And—

Dee was the singer with the orchestra.

"Tell me how it happened," I said.

Emery Deutsch's orchestra was playing, but the number didn't call for a singer. Dee could talk to me.

That's how I heard the story of Fourteenth Street and the Academy and the bargain-basement dress.

"So then," she said, "Emery Deutsch wanted a girl singer. He tried out 50 girls. Gee, was I scared!"

I nodded. Who wouldn't be? I knew about Emery Deutsch. For many years he was musical director at Columbia Broadcasting. He worked with such radio stars as Kate Smith, Morton Downey, Bing Crosby, Gertrude Niesen. He knows talent.

"Well?" I asked.

"P. S.—I got the job," she said.

I asked how she was living. Had she brought the babies to town?

"No. They stay in the country and get their chance to grow up healthy and strong. I'll run out to see them every chance I get," said Dee. "I think children should have their chance to grow up in the country."

She and another girl live together in a little apartment near Radio City in the West Fifties. Dee does the cooking.

Finally she looked toward Orchestra Leader Deutsch, as if at some unheard signal, nodded, got up.

Dee had a faraway look in her eyes as she began to sing.

I thought of the two youngsters out on the Oklahoma farm. It would be their bedtime now, but they'd be sitting up waiting to hear her first song. I wondered then—do kids ever know what Mother has done for them?

A TEST PILOT CRASHED, LEFT A WIFE AND TWO CHILDREN— BUT DEE COLLINS CARRIES ON!

Left: Ed Sullivan guest-starred on the "Magazine of the Air," June 2. His topic: "Good-luck Omens of Celebrities." Sullivan was born, educated in New Haven, Conn. Married, he has one son, Edward. At present he writes for a New York paper, has been a reporter for New Haven, Chicago, Boston, New York papers—and also has written ten books!

Bill Adams (right) is feature editor of the "Magazine of the Air." Adams first attracted attention on the radio when he took the part of President Roosevelt on "March of Time" broadcasts. Before he entered radio, he was a Shakespearian actor!

Above: Lois Bennett is the lyric soprano heard regularly with Frank Munn, tenor, over NBC in the "Sweetest Love Songs Ever Sung." She replaced Lucy Monroe, now on vacation. In addition to radio work, she has sung in concerts, in Gilbert and Sullivan opera. She's really Mrs. L. J. Chatten, has three girls, a blonde, a brunette, a red-head!

Right: Jimmy Blair and Trudy Wood are star vocalists on the Johnny Green motor-sponsored Tuesday program while Fred Astaire vacations. Jimmy is the 21-year-old Everett, Mass., boy who made good after amateur-appearing in "Town Hall." Trudy is 21, too, is a California girl. She's 5-foot-4 and weighs 103 lbs.

CHICAGO.—Does radio need a czar to rule its destinies? That is one of the questions which will come up for discussion before the National Association of Broadcasters when it meets here, June 20-23. Heretofore, radio has shied away from censorship by official Washington, but nowadays there are many station proprietors who feel that it would be a wise idea for stations to unite in keeping the air clean and fit to breathe. In movies, of course, the last word on what is or is not fit for the screen is in the possession of Will Hays. Who will be radio's czar, if any, or does radio need one? Well, after listening to several broadcasts originating in the past month from the Hollywood studios, I think that it does need one.

Scoop! Those old front-page smashers, Amos 'n' Andy, will be leaving Hollywood within the next few weeks for a short business trip to Chicago! They will sign the final papers with their new sponsor at that time!

First Nighter's Barbara Luddy thinks she likes Chicago, although she does miss her little cocker spaniel which she had to leave behind in California because the Windy City's climate would be too rough for him. (Coast papers need not copy, for it so happens that the pup was in an accident and is recovering from bone fractures. That really is why he can't travel.) Barbara confided to me that she was pleasantly surprised by her first glance at her leading man, Lester Tremayne. She never had met him prior to the rehearsal for the June 4 First Nighter performance, but when he was introduced to her by Tom Wallace, of the ad agency handling the show, Barbara was tickled to note that Tremayne was about ten years younger than she had imagined him. Barbara herself is no oldster. At the moment, she and her mother, who will live with Barbara here, are hunting for an apartment in Chicago.

Among the fond memories of "One Man's Family" Author Carlton E. Morse's China Clipper flight to the Orient is the sign he noted in a Hong-kong broadcasting studio. It read: "Any artist who does not arrive for his performance before the program goes on the air will be withdrawn from the broadcast at the announcer's discretion." That is pretty final!

Friends of "Today's Children" already are sending gifts to Authoress Irna Phillips in celebration of the daily serial's fifth anniversary June 19. This being a wooden anniversary, many of the gifts are most unusual and some even comical. To date a scrub-bucket and brush, while expected, had not arrived. In connection with the birthday, Miss Phillips plans to entertain several veteran listeners at tea. Some of these fans claim they have never missed a single episode during the five years!

"Poetic Melodies" Tenor Jack Fulton this week is said to be planning to undergo an operation to enlarge the passages in his proboscis (nose to you) . . . Ailing at Chicago's Michael Reese hospital is the son of Jolly Joe Kelly, National Barn Dance m.c.

Beauteous Benay Venuta opens a limited engagement, June 18, at the Gold Coast room at Chi's Drake Hotel . . . Mercedes McCambridge, who was graduated last Monday from Mundelein College and whom you know as the leading lady of "The Guiding Light," was given a Scotty as a commencement gift. She's named him

"Abie" as a play on her "Bachelor of Arts" degree . . . From New York comes news that Audrey Call, formerly first violin, soloist and arranger for Ricco Marcelli's orchestra on the Johnson program, has been signed as a contract music-writer by Irving Mills. One of her first releases is the "Canterbury Tales Suite" in three movements, the first "To a Lady from Baltimore," the second "A Bishop Checkmates" and the third "The Duke Takes the Train." Guess where she got her inspiration . . . Touched by the recent death of Prof. Alfred Adler, famous Viennese child psychologist, is Bruce (Prof. Kaltenmeyer) Kamman. Bruce met Adler in Chicago last year and became an ardent disciple of his teachings—even going so far as to raise eight-months-old Bruce, Junior, according to Adlerian principles. Kamman fears that the "kids" in his "Kaltenmeyer Kindergarten" are too precocious to be suitable subjects for the teachings which Adler provides.

Kansas City friends threw a surprise party for Hugh ("Silly Watson" and "Dr. Bob") Studebaker when the actor passed through his home town last Friday night on his way to Hollywood, where for two weeks he will appear again in the Fibber McGee show. A key to the city was presented to Studebaker.

PLUMS and PRUNES

Digging the Divots: Funnymen Joe Cook has improved his famous goofy golf course with two new hazards especially installed for the benefit of radio artist players. A tricky sand-trap and water hazard are labeled "Sustaining Series" and Joe reports that the air-performer guests dodge them just as if they were the real thing . . . Spied upon recently on a Westchester golf course were Jane Froman and Don Ross, who were all dolled up like a symphony in tan. Mark down 84 for Don and—just forget Jane's score . . . While you're at it mark down an eighty for Truman Bradley, the famed Sunday Evening Hour mickeman. He can do it on practically every course . . . Golf is a reducing medium for Mikemen Bill Hay and Don Wilson, both of whom have been seen of late going the rounds of the Lakeside Country Club near Hollywood. Both are bothered by excess avoirdupois . . . It'll happen every time. Jack ("Kitty Keene") Brinkley, who had never played golf before, borrowed a set of clubs from experienced Mike-man Stu Dawson and proceeded to beat the latter three up on the first eighteen holes one day!

Trailerists will be jealous of Bandman Kay Kyser. He's having the "de luxe" trailer built! According to the blueprints, it'll have two stories and three rooms, a bathtub and shower, radio and phonograph, bar, kitchen to serve sixteen people (the band members will eat!) and a telephone connecting with the driver of the tow-car.

Podium Pothooks: Have you delighted at the swiny notes of an ocarina in the midst of those CBS Saturday Night Swing Club sessions? You know, an ocarina is one of those black gadgets shaped like a sweet potato and drilled full of holes. Anyway, the ocarina swinger is "Red" Evans, from Meridian, Miss., and he's doing all right, too, as few can play the ocarina, let alone make it behave properly . . . The Benny Goodman outfit is making a one-night stop, June 20, at Chi's Aragon Ballroom—but no radio miking may be done . . . Bernie Cummins resumes at the Edgewater Beach Hotel's Beach Walk with its summer opening on June 12. With him is his girl trio, "The Sophisticates."

SEVERAL weeks ago this column reported that Jack Haley, who helped make the flicker, "Wake Up and Live," the success it is, was auditioning for a sponsor and may hit the airlines soon. Now I'm free to tell you that this veteran of the stage and screen will make his first air appearance on the "Show Boat" hour. This show originates in Hollywood on July 8 and it will be on that date probably that Haley will make his air debut. However, this will be only his build-up for a couple of months because we hear that Haley will be head man on a new program to start in September.

Another new star of the flickers has just about signed on the dotted line for an air series to begin in the fall, although his voice is not new to the loudspeaker eavesdroppers. It's Tyrone Power, folks, and his new show is scheduled for a Sunday night spot, starting in September.

A half-hour summer show is being offered to sponsors, and if someone takes it, the show will feature George "Mamma's boy" Jessel and Harpo Marx as leader of a new thirty-piece orchestra. There must be something in that business of standing up on a bandstand and wielding a baton. Jackie Coogan got himself one of those sticks and a bunch of music men and formed an orchestra. He will confine his music-making to Hollywood before coming eastward, however.

Westward bound are Al Pearce and his Gang. With Carl Hoff and his orchestra taking the place of Larry Marsh and company, Al will make the following cities the scene of his broadcasts on the way west: June 15, Chicago; June 22, Denver; June 29, San Francisco, and July 6, Los Angeles. They'll be nine weeks in Los Angeles and then will begin their return trip east. These will not be the only places where they will entertain. An extensive itinerary has been planned for the benefit of the dealers of his sponsor's product.

When the Sunday Evening Hour leaves the air for the summer, Rex Chandler and his Universal Rhythm program will step into that CBS spot. June 20 will be the first broadcast on this new web for Chandler and the regular cast of the Universal Rhythm program. They step in the week following the last Sunday Evening Hour show.

Although Jack Oakie, Joe Penner and Phil Baker have been renewed by their sponsors, they will not be heard during the summer months. Oakie exits from the college after his program of June 22 with a scheduled return for September 28. Benny Goodman, with a half-hour of swing music and guest stars, holds down the fort while the comic is gone. Joe Penner departs for his vacation after his broadcast of June 27.

Jack Pearl departs with the broadcast of June 25, but it is still undecided as to whether he will return on this show. In the meantime, the spot will be occupied by Tommy Dorsey and Morton Bowe, with Edythe Wright also doing some singing.

Although one Dorsey continues his air series, Brother Jimmy and his musicians leave Bing Crosby's Music Hall on July 1, but will return after their vacations to this show in the fall.

Three programs will extend the NBC-America's Town Meeting of the Air series into the summer for the first time in its two-year history. Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota will discuss "Can America Remain Neutral?" on July 8. This program will originate in the Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Virginia. The following week another of the programs will be heard and it will originate from the same place.

To be or not to be, that was the question CBS executives pondered over for some time. They have decided there will be broadcasts over their network of William Shakespeare's plays featuring world-renowned stars of the theater and screen during the months of July and August.

Jimmy Blair, the new singer on Johnny Green's new Tuesday night series, is a graduate of Fred Allen's Wednesday night talent parade. He appeared on this show last February. With Dick Humber folding his air shows, heard over NBC and the Mutual networks, his song spieler, Stuart Allen, got himself a job on "The Hit Parade," replacing Buddy Clark, who has taken Horace Greeley's advice and has headed for the West Coast.

Several weeks ago Charles Wakefield Cadman appeared as a guest on the "Hollywood Hotel" program. The announcer told the listeners that Mr. Cadman had sold his song, "At Dawning," for fifteen dollars and that it had sold over two million copies. Just to keep the records straight and in justice to the publishers of the song, the author writes this department requesting that we add to this statement the fact that after the song began to sell they very generously gave him and the writer of the text the usual ten percent royalty. This was a grand gesture on the part of the publishers and a grander gesture on the part of Mr. Cadman for wanting all the facts known.

There's romance in the air. Rosemary Lane and Fred Waring's press-agent are holding hands in a love-ly manner. Waring, incidentally, will make one movie a year for the Brothers Warner. The same flicker company signed up Johnny Davis, that torrid trumpeter in the Waring troupe, to an exclusive contract, and my informer, who saw Johnny work before the camera, wants to bet me that he will become the next screen sensation—in the near future!

Robert L. Ripley begins his own program July 16 over the NBC-Blue network. It will be a half-hour show, along the same lines as the one on which he is now heard. The orchestra which is to furnish the musical background has not been decided upon. The new Believe-It-Or-Not show will be heard Friday evenings.

Frank Parker goes from the "Rippling Rhythm Revue" to the Andre Kostelanetz show on July 7, when he replaces Lily Pons, who leaves for Hollywood. This is in line with a policy of the sponsor to have a program of light music in the summer.

Changes in the set-up of the Hal Kemp program are rumored. Contracts are said to have been already drawn up but not signed, and for that reason no news has been released other than that it is said to be quite definite that not many Fridays will pass before we hear some new voices and people on that spot now held by the Kemp-Thompson combination.

Dick Foran goes off the Burns and Allen show in the very near future by the time you read this perhaps. And Tony Martin replaces him. Tony was with the two air comics before.

REAL plot of the family air-drama, "Big Sister," is the efforts of the Evanses to secure the recovery of invalided little son, Ned. Unable to walk, Ned, however, is courageous, keeps his chin up. In addition to the story of Ned's courage, in spite of his affliction, are a number of sub-plots, sub-stories, telling of trials and tribulations in a typical family—such as the Evanses are. When these pictures were taken, the air-drama dealt principally with blackmail, dirty work—and concerned the script's "Dr. Wayne" and "Big Sister." The blackmail concerns the efforts of an unknown person to extort money from "Dr. Wayne"—if and when he, the unknown, can get a picture of "Dr. Wayne" and "Big Sister" together. ("Dr. Wayne" is married—but not to "Big Sister!")

"Dr. Wayne," by the way, dislikes being photographed, was snapped unawares by Radio Guide's eye-to-the-keyhole camera ("Dr. Wayne's" real name is Martin Gabel). "Big Sister's" real name is Alice Frost. She is known for familiar roles in the one-time show, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," other shows; was girl stooge for Stoopnagle and Eudd. Born in Minneapolis, daughter of a clergyman, Alice first saw footlights at ten, makes a fine air heroine. Martin Gabel (who's "Dr. Wayne") first opened his eyes in Philadelphia, was slated by his family to become a lawyer, but headed for New York, studied histrionics, earned eight dollars a week in his debut play, "Man Bites Dog."

Others on the "Big Sister" show are suave Announcer Fred Uttal; "Sister Sue Evans," played by Haila Stoddard; "Jerry Miller," presented by Ned Wever; "Ned Evans," interpreted by Junior O'Day; "Cornelius Porter," played by Harold Vermilyea; "Nurse Burton," who is Vera Allen; "Samson," played by Chester Stratton; "Norma Wayne," who is Helene Dumas. ("Big Sister," by the way, is Ruth Evans in the script.)

"Big Sister" air-serial is broadcast Mondays through Fridays, over 52 CBS stations at 11:30 a.m. EDT (10:30 EST; 10:30 CDT; 9:30 CST; 8:30 MST; 7:30 PST) and is rebroadcast on the same days for the West Coast at 10 a.m. PST (11 MST).

MUSIC two to four centuries old is on the air every Tuesday evening. More than that, it is played on the very instruments used in that far-off day. Listen to Philip Manuel and Gavin Williamson and their ensemble and you will sense that it is a rare privilege to hear the music of the forerunners of Johann Sebastian Bach and of the illustrious Bach family and their contemporaries, performed as it was intended, on the king of all keyboard instruments of their period—the harpsichord.

After a few moments of concentrated listening, you know that our piano simply does not do justice to the genteel dance tunes and love-songs of our music's forefathers. The whirling, wheeling figures . . . the bits of witty conversation . . . the lines of shimmering delicacy . . . crowded in between moments of ribald hilarity and stolid dignity . . . call for reproduction on the sparkling, yet gentle-voiced instruments of the time. Only instruments of the period can reveal the rare beauty of this old music.

It may take a few evenings of listening to accustom your ears to the timbre of the sounds that come out of the harpsichord . . . to hear through, so to speak, the strumming, rustling, chiming quality of its tones, they may seem to some ears a bit "tinkly." The power and degree of dynamic modification of the sounds to which we are accustomed by continuous listening to symphonic orchestras is, of course, not possible on a single instrument.

TO THE eye, the harpsichord resembles a concert-grand piano. Its shape is sometimes more graceful. In olden times great care was taken in choosing the wood and preparing and ornamenting the cabinets, which often rivalled, as works of art, the violins of Cremona. The harpsichords used by Manuel and Williamson are faithfully patterned after Bach's finest instruments and have two keyboards and seven pedals that perform the same service as the stops of an organ. Each key has four strings, two of which are unison in pitch, another an octave higher than the key played, and the fourth an octave lower.

These strings are set in vibration by being plucked either by points of a quill, hard leather, or by a small plectrum, rather than being struck by a hammer as in our modern piano. Tones resembling those of flutes, flageolets, oboes, clarinets, stringed instruments, and even drums, can be produced by combining these various sets of strings . . . and there are more than one hundred varieties and mixtures of tone-color.

Contrary to the general impression, nuance is possible in playing a harpsichord as are also dynamic accents; the life of the tone can be prolonged to give the distinct impression of an organ peal; and using it, the lyric line of a song can be woven into a most tender expression. For nearly 300 years the harpsichord or one of its variants was considered the solo keyboard instrument par excellence. It was the chief support for singers. It was the orchestra conductor's indispensable ally and had a place in the orchestra as an accompanying instrument when the first opera was performed.

Listening to it, one discovers at a hundred points that the incomparable music of by-gone centuries "was literally born out of the very being of the harpsichord: for the harpsichord shows us the music, as a whole and in every point of detail, as the composer conceived it."

The National Broadcasting Company is doing the cause of music an indispensable service in presenting the Manuel and Williamson Harpsichord Ensemble, with four harpsichords, a string quartet, two flutists, and singers. With an aggregation that cannot be duplicated elsewhere in the land, it is possible to erect rare and choice monuments of the spirit that otherwise

The circles created thereby are deepest near the place where the pebble is dropped. They diminish in depth as they spread, until the water is almost smooth.

The human ear detects the impulses longer than the microphone. A piano tone reaching a microphone does so with the same intensity as it reaches the ear of a person in the same room. But, due to the greater resistance offered by the mechanical vibrator than by the ear, it dies out more quickly. Thus it resembles the tone of a guitar when it is plucked.

This was more noticeable when piano is still biting us? Must we always hear accompaniments played by 100 instruments instead of one? Will we never again be able to listen to the solo violin or the solo piano? Let us hope not.

The California Concert on NBC forms the third successive hour of my listening every Sunday evening. It offers some noteworthy compositions, and occasionally an outstanding talent, though it does not sustain a high level of performance . . . Trying to tune in the aria of Armand Tokatyan and his duet with Gladys Swarhout and yet not miss W. C. Fields' encounter with Charlie McCarthy required a nice feat of juggling the dial. This new Hollywood show divides the attention of those who were regular Promenaders. One redeeming fact is that the musical guest on the coffee show is kept until the last eight minutes of the hour.

THE Metropolitan Opera rang down the curtain on its 1936-37 season in a blaze of glory. A quartet of fresh and youthful voices sang their way convincingly through the unending chain of melodies in Verdi's "Il Trovatore." It was a performance that would have done credit to a regular season—summer or winter—in any great opera house of the world.

Those who were able to tune in a station that carried the broadcast — regretfully, only a few did — had the privilege of joining their ears with those of the lucky four thousand in the Saturday night audience that jammed the old brownstone house at 39th and Broadway. The last four scenes of the opera were broadcast and all who heard them received their money's worth.

The old tunes of Giuseppe Verdi (Italy's Joe Green) worked again their familiar miracles. They have only to be well sung and they send cold chills down the spine of any music-lover. They need no apologies. They can speak for themselves. On this occasion they were carved out for us by that expert Italian conductor, Gennaro Papi. The richly voiced troubador was Arthur Carron, and he sang easily and spontaneously. The finely spun phrases of Leo-more were not only finely spun: they were filled with deep feeling and gave unmistakable evidence that Miss Rose Bampton is at last maturing and is saying something in her singing. The biting and resonant voice of Carlo Morelli was complemented by that of Bruna Castagna and completed a quartet that is a distinct credit to an institution that has many credits on its books. No wonder, with such singing, that the house went wild. The performance merited its applause.

IT WILL be six months before we again hear melodies from the stage of our country's famous and historic opera house. The next season, the third under the general managership of Edward Johnson, will have its opening Monday evening, November 29. The first of the regular Saturday afternoon broadcasts, again to be heard over the networks of the National Broadcasting Company, will be December 3, and the final broadcast from the Metropolitan Opera House is scheduled for March 19, 1938. The opera company's post-season tour, like its regular season, has been extended. In all, we may expect to be present at more than twenty complete operas during the next season.

would remain unknown. Not since the time of Mozart have four of these old-time instruments been played together. Now we may say with Browning:

*"And here's your music all alive again
As once it was alive."*

INUMERABLE listeners have asked why, for years, the piano tone has sounded so twangy, somewhat like a guitar, over the radio. The explanation is complicated . . . and I am not an engineer. But briefly, I understand, it's like this: The microphone, in the beginning, did not respond as readily and sensitively to sound impulses as the human ear. It was dependent, after all, upon a mechanical vibrator which offered additional resistance.

Now, the piano creates a tone that begins to die at its birth. The impulse created is strongest at the moment the hammer strikes the strings and is less ever afterward. It continues to diminish until the human ear can no longer detect any sound. The situation is analogous, in one respect, to the ripples created by a pebble dropped in water.

playing was being recorded, because in addition to the resistance offered in the microphone, there was the additional resistance caused by the friction of the needle making a groove in the wax.

Fortunately, this has now been largely compensated for and overcome. A piano tone can be reproduced today over the radio or on records almost as faithfully as the tone of any other instrument.

Unfortunately, there seems to be little interest among broadcasters in the literature of the instrument or in its players. We seldom hear first-class pianists on our radios. It has been so long since an acknowledged master has given us a regular weekly broadcast that most of us have forgotten such a series ever did exist.

And why? Surely there can be no lack of listeners' interest in piano music. There must be more piano students in the country than students of all other instruments combined. The piano is still the foundation for all other musical activity.

Harriet Hilliard Fairbanks Jr. On 'Hall'

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Harriet Hilliard and William Frawley will be the guests of the Crosby Music Hall on Thursday, June 10, in the regular broadcast over the NBC-Red network.

Fairbanks, having completed his English-made "Thief Meets Thief," is now working on "The Prisoner of Zenda" in Hollywood, after resigning as president and star of his British company, Criterion Films. He has announced his intention to remain permanently in Hollywood, and in American films. Miss Hilliard, or Mrs. Ozzie Nelson, and Frawley, are also in Hollywood for picture work at the present time.

Bing Crosby, Bob Burns, Jimmy Dorsey's orchestra and the Paul Taylor chorus will be the regular features of the program.

10 p.m. EDT (9 EST; 8 CST)

Miss Antoine Sings On Sunday Evening Hour

Final soloist of the present season on the Sunday Evening Hour is Josephine Antoine, young coloratura soprano, who will be heard June 13.

Few singers have had the opportunity to have their debuts at the famous Metropolitan Opera House heard over the air. But that opportunity did come to Miss Antoine early in 1936 when she sang for the first time at the "Met."

Born in Boulder, Colo., she attended the College of Music at Colorado University. After being graduated from there in 1929, she entered the National Radio Auditions of that year, placed third, was awarded as a prize a year's study at the renowned Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia. After further study, she was engaged by the Chicago Opera Company, later by the "Met."

Sunday, June 13—CBS
9 p.m. EDT (8 EST; 7 CST)

Salter Leads NBC 'Hit Parade'

Harry Salter and his orchestra will take over the weekly "Your Hit Parade" broadcasts over NBC on Wednesday, June 16. Salter is scheduled to conduct the program through the broadcast of August 4, in keeping with the program's policy of changing orchestras each seven weeks. Stuart Allen, baritone, will be the show's regular soloist.

Wednesday, June 16—NBC
10 p.m. EDT (9 EST; 8 CST)

Latonia Classic Aired on CBS

The $15,000 added Latonia Derby will be aired from Covington, Ky., over CBS on Saturday, June 12, by Cy Newman and Frank G. Menke. Both of them are making their network debuts, Newman having announced sporting events for two years in Baltimore, while Menke rates as one of the world's best-informed sports writers.

Marx Brothers' 'Day at Races' On 'Hotel'

The three madcap Marx Brothers, Groucho, Chico and Harpo, will be guest stars on the "Hollywood Hotel" broadcast over CBS on Friday, June 11. They will present highlight scenes from their latest movie, "A Day at the Races," to be released on June 25. The movie version was built during a vaudeville tour on which the brothers tested various scenes on "live" audiences, eliminating those which did not draw applause and laughter.

Sharing top billing with the Marx Brothers will be Joe Weber and Lew Fields, celebrated veteran comedy team, who will celebrate their fiftieth year on the stage during the program. Al Jolson and George Jessel, old friends who knew them when they presented Dutch juvenile sketches at small variety houses, and later when they were featured in burlesque, will assist in the celebration festivities.

Jerry Cooper will head the musical portion of the program, which will feature Frances Langford, Anne Jamison, Igor Gorin and Raymond Paige's orchestra.

Friday, June 11—CBS
9 p.m. EDT (8 EST; 7 CST)

'Saturday Night Swing Club' Celebrates Year

A short-wave importation from Paris of French interpretations of American "hot" music will be the starred attraction when the Saturday Night Swing Club celebrates its first anniversary on the air over CBS late Saturday night, June 12.

The "Stephane Grapelly Quintette du Hot Club de France," the current Parisian rage, will play "Djangoly," by the group's leader, Django Reinhardt, and another of its specialties, "Ultra-fox." These top-ranking exponents of hot jazz in France are new to America except for a few recordings that have been heard here.

Other features of the show will be musical salutations by Glen Gray from California; Bob Crosby from Georgia, and Bunny Berigan from New York. The studio guests will include Duke Ellington, Casper Reardon, the "swing harpist," and Carl Kress and Dick McDonough, guitar duo.

Saturday, June 12—CBS
12 mid. EDT (11 p.m. EST; 10 CST)

Briton Observes Americana

Sir Josiah Stamp, distinguished British economist, will draw a comparison between observations on his current United States tour and those made on his cross-country trip three years ago in a special broadcast over the NBC-Red network on Tuesday, June 15. As a governor of the Bank of England and chairman of the London, Midland and Scottish Railways, he periodically inspects principal cities and industrial centers in this country. His subject will be "America—Then and Now."

THIS IS THE LIFE

Trouble At School, More Violin Teachers. By the time he was eleven the pride of Waukegan was successfully stalking not only "The Bee" but airs classical and popular by the dozen on his fiddle, whether he liked it or not. At night, for six dollars a week, he played in the pit at a movie theater with a female piano-torturer. Those who heard him spoke strongly against child labor. At fifteen, a gawky strippling with soulful eyes and a mop of black hair so exceptional in its luxuriance that people on the street turned to look at it, he played a pretty good fiddle.

There was a junior orchestra in Waukegan. He played in that. He played at odd jobs around town; in the stores on Saturday afternoons. And now and then in the evening he played in a real-for-sure dance orchestra purveying two-steps to Libertyville and the towns roundabout.

HE BEGAN to sneak away from school in the afternoons to scrape away with his bow in the Barrison Theater. Not because he liked to play, especially—not when he wasn't getting paid for it—but he could stand there and gaze up adoringly at the most marvelous, most beautiful, most glamorous people in the world—actors! Just as when he had used to play show for his grandmother, the greatest thrill for him was the theater. There is no explaining it. Some human beings are just born with it. There was no theatrical blood in the family—he simply was drawn to the footlights as other boys are drawn to garages or banks. Somehow there was in Jack a deep-seated urge to become an actor, to make a success on the stage—and nothing could uproot it.

Then suddenly out of a clear sky the bolt fell.

He was in his second year at high school. One day Dr. Stebbins, the principal, came up to him with a menacing expression on his face. "I've been keeping an eye on your attendance record, young man," he said. "You're absenting yourself from school without permission several afternoons each week."

There was no answer to that. For one thing it was true. For another, thirty or forty other fellows and girls were within earshot. Whether he had good intentions or not, the principal might have chosen a slightly more private place to make his accusation.

"You've shown by your attitude that you don't appreciate school and have no aptitude for it," Dr. Stebbins went on. "I hear the place you choose to spend your afternoons, instead of in your classes, is a vaudeville theater. Is that correct?"

"Yes, sir," piped Jack, whose voice was changing.

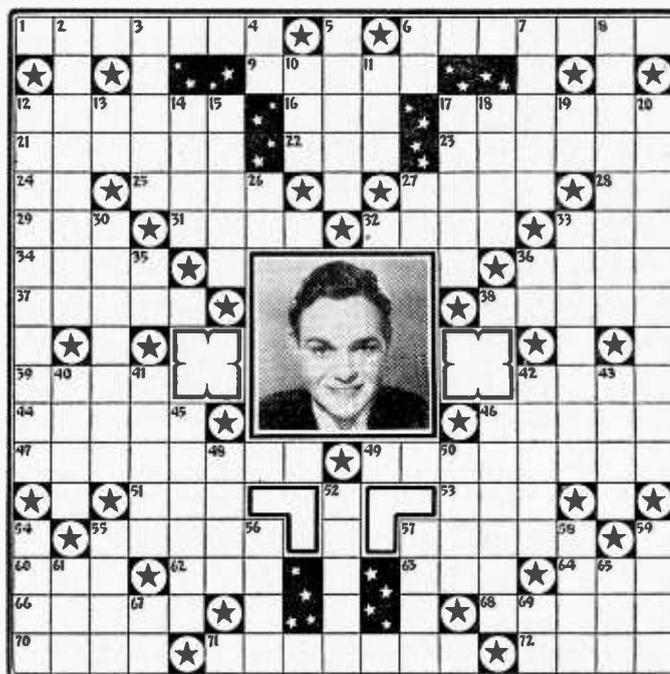

"You're expelled."

And expelled he was, just like that—his total assets half an education, a talent for the fiddle and a liking for actors. You can imagine the scene when he got home. His father was crushed and furious. His mother was brokenhearted.

"My dad told me I'd have to go to business college," he remembers. "I went. But I was no good at my studies there either. On the side I played at some little local concerts. No, I didn't get paid for it."

"Meanwhile I was so nuts about vaudeville that I took a job as doorman at the Barrison Theater, just opening and closing the doors for people to come in and out, so I could hang around the actors. Not that any of them paid any attention to me, little squirt that I was. But Arthur Freudenfeld, the stage-manager, was a friend of mine and he finally gave me a job as prop man. You know what a property man does. If there's a ventriloquist on the bill and he uses a table and chair in his act, I rushed the table and chair out on stage and took them off afterward. It was a regular job. I got two dollars a week.

"The queer thing is, at that time the great ambition I had was to be the straight man of a comedy duo. Not the funny man, but the other guy who comes on all dressed up and feeds the funny man his lines. I guess it was the fancy clothes that got me. But then, shortly afterward, my friend the stage-manager became the manager of the theater and gave me a job in the orchestra. So now I was playing in the orchestra. I wasn't quite seventeen.

WELL, anyway—the theater closed down and I was out of a job. I got one for a couple of months in a vaudeville house in Racine, Wisconsin. Then a new theater, the Waukegan, opened back home and I got into the orchestra there. The Marx Brothers, Joe Cook, Marilyn Miller, Chic Sale and all the big-time vaude acts played there. I was having the time of my life.

"The Marx Brothers' mother, who managed their act, offered me a job. She wanted me to go on the road with them and lead the orchestra for their act. My dad said 'No.' I figured maybe he was right, because just after that the old Barrison, which had been closed, opened again and my friend Arthur offered me a real job for life. "Jack," he said, "if you'll come back

I promise you that you'll have a job as long as I'm with the theater."

"For the first time it looked as if I was really going to have a job with some security attached to it. So I ran out on the Waukegan with an airy wave of my hand, giving it a big laugh, and went back to the Barrison, set for life.

"Two weeks later the Barrison went bankrupt. Now I was out of a job at the Barrison and the Waukegan wouldn't have me because I had walked out on them!"

Kicked out of high school, a failure in business college, a fiddle-player in the non-existent orchestra of a closed theater—such was the lot of Jack Benny at seventeen! How he made good is a thrilling drama—in next week's issue of RADIO GUIDE!

Jack Benny may be heard Sundays on the "Jello" program over an NBC network at:
EDT 7:00 p.m. — EST 6:00 p.m.
CDT 6:00 p.m. — CST 5:00 p.m.
MST 4:00 p.m. — PST 3:00 p.m.
and later for the West Coast at:
PST 7:30 p.m. — MST 8:30 p.m.

HIMBER—THEN AND NOW

BY JOHN GORDON

RICHARD HIMBER, red-headed bandleader, has as colorful and interesting a background as anyone on the air.

Himber was born on February 20, 1907, in Newark, N. J. His boyhood was comparatively uneventful except that contrary to the Himber of today, who likes to have people around him, he was more or less a self-contained youngster. From an early age, Dick was an omnivorous reader. His idea of a grand time as a boy was to have a batch of sandwiches made up for him by his grandmother, after which he would "hide" in the attic, eating them, and read a book.

Dick's musical education began at the age of seven. He insisted upon having a violin, although his parents couldn't believe he would ever be a musician. Finally, however, persistence won out against parental denial.

had to do something. He was completely broke. Right then and there Richard Himber decided to become a bandleader himself. He wired Vallee asking for a loan of enough money to form and rehearse a band. Vallee promptly wired back the money.

Dick spent three months organizing that band. He had his own ideas on the subject. He spent long hours with his ear glued to the radio, trying to discover what listeners liked least.

It was a radio-wise Richard Himber who went on the air in 1932. One year later he had a nation-wide commercial program, and April 26, 1937, was his fourth anniversary on this same show.

Himber is five feet eight inches tall, weighs 174 pounds, although he is trying to get down to 160, his normal weight. His favorite colors in clothes are brown and blue, and he matches all accessories. He believes in hunches.

Richard Himber, who believes in being sure, explains a difficult passage in a new score to the girl harpist of his radio orchestra

Fortunately, practise came easily for him. The "violin practise" that is the bane of so many youngsters was nothing at all for Dick, for in five or ten minutes he would master a lesson that other boys labored over all week—under duress. In all probability, if Dick hadn't been such an "easy study" he probably would have been anything else but an orchestra leader.

Dick studied the violin for twelve years, and his proudest boast is that "he's the one who didn't study with Leopold Auer."

Dick says that two high schools actually fought over him, and that the South Side High School in Newark insisted that he go to the Barringer High School, while the latter insisted he go to the South Side. He finally went to the Freehold Military Academy.

Two years of college followed. The authorities breathed a sigh of relief when he matriculated from Freehold, for the Himber flair for practical joking was the bane of the institution. That was enough schooling for Himber, and in 1929 he was on Broadway as secretary to Rudy Vallee.

Himber attributes much of his success to Vallee. Rudy encouraged him, and in a short time Dick branched out on his own as a band-booker, acting for Vallee, the late Russ Colombo and for Buddy Rogers.

In 1932, Himber reached an impasse in his band-booking activities. Vallee was out of town. Colombo was out of town. Rogers was out of town. There was no booking in sight. Dick Himber

His luckiest days—he hopes—are Mondays and Fridays. He recalls his first radio program as being a particularly inauspicious occasion, for directly afterward he went home and began to prepare programs for following weeks. His present mode of living includes taking in a movie directly after a broadcast and then going to sleep. He tries to get at least 9 or 10 hours' sleep nightly. His favorite midnight repast is hot tea—and nothing else. His idea of a swell dinner is shrimp cocktail, cream of tomato soup, white meat of turkey, au gratin potatoes, chocolate cake and milk—but as all of that is fattening, he sticks to steaks and eggs. He believes in numerology. His phone number adds up to nine, which is alleged to mean success.

Himber has many ideas concerning radio programs outside of music. He wouldn't have a lot of comedy programs following one another in direct sequence. He wouldn't permit "mugging" for the benefit of studio audiences, or the wearing of costumes, for the same reason.

He would rather live in the United States than any other country, and the earliest song he remembers is "America." He likes grand opera and his favorite is "Faust."

He hates raw vegetables, but eats a few as part of his dietetic effort to stay thin. He likes the works of Victor Hugo, W. Somerset Maugham, Dumas and Shakespeare. His first job was as package-wrapper in a department store—pay, six dollars a week.

VOICE OF THE LISTENER

The "Voice of the Listener" letterforum is a regular feature in Radio Guide each week.

Radio Guide will pay $10 for the best letter published each week and $5 for the next best. Other letters deserving attention also will be published.

ZERO HOUR

($10 Prize Letter)

Voice of the Listener: From ten to eleven in the morning is undeniably the zero hour of radio. This hour, which is our (the housewives) special hour, has always given the sponsors a headache. First they gave us recipes and cooking hints, only to discover that that was what we wanted to get away from. Whereupon, they presented us with an avalanche of short serials, designed to take our minds off house-work. Such a hodge-podge of "other women," neglected wives, gangsters, sobbs, threats and cheap melodrama! Why are there stories so devoid of common sense and humor? I, and I know I speak for many others, would enjoy hearing an intelligent serial for a change.—Mrs. H. Raymond Lawton, Schenectady, N. Y.

LORNETTE FLOPS

($5 Prize Letter)

Voice of the Listener: Women, we are told, are a flop as announcers. And why? Because they are never given a chance to "be themselves."

Every program that uses a mistress of ceremonies selects a girl with a how-refined-I-am voice. They sound affected and as if they were looking at their scripts through a lorgnette.

Give us a girl with a real wide-awake voice—a girl who sounds eager and glad to be alive, one who can put inflection in her slang, one who can sound hard-boiled if necessary. But deliver us from these dull Emily-Post-says-never-raise-your-voice girls! —Zella Boteler, Chevy Chase, Md.

PATIENCE, PLEASE!

So great was the balloting in this year's Star of Stars Election that as yet the tellers have not completed the tabulation. But final winners will be announced soon! Please be patient! —THE EDITORS.

DISCARD YOUR OLD AERIAL

It is Most Likely Corroded and Has Poor or Loose Noisy Connections
NO MORE BUZZES, CLICKS and shorts from summer rains and winter snow and sleet when using an F. & H. Capacity Aerial Eliminator. Equals an aerial 75 ft. long, strung 50 ft. high, yet occupies only 1 1/2 inch by 4 inch space behind your radio—guaranteed to give you nationwide reception or your money back.

BETTER TONE AND DISTANCE GUARANTEED
Sensitivity, selectivity, tone and volume improved. No lightning danger or unsightly lead-in and aerial wires. Makes your set complete in itself. Forget aerial wires and troubles—move your set anywhere.

NOT NEW—VALUE ALREADY PROVED
On the market five years. 100,000 satisfied customers in U. S. and foreign countries. In use from the Arctic Region of Norway to the Tropics of Africa. Chosen by Government for use on Naval Hospital bedside radios. Each factory tested on actual long distance reception. Can not harm set—Easily connected to any radio, including radios having no ground or radios for doublet aerial.

5 DAYS TRIAL—Mail coupon at once. Pay postman $1.00 plus a few pennies postage on delivery. If not entirely satisfied, return within five days and your dollar will be refunded without question.

WHAT USERS SAY
San Antonio, Tex. It might interest you to know that with the Capacity Aerial Eliminator I get European stations easily and in the winter get Australia, Russia, Honolulu and many Jap Short Wave Stations. I get all Pacific Coast Stations on the broadcast band. Signed: Davenport, Ia. Received your Radio Aerial Eliminator and it sure works fine. Also works swell on Short Wave band. Wish I had found it long ago. Signed:

BY CHAS. A. MORRISON, president, INTERNATIONAL DX-ER'S ALLIANCE

(Figures in Parentheses Are Megacycles)

THE Church of Latter Day Saints, commonly known as the Mormon Church, of Salt Lake City, Utah, has made a formal petition to the Federal Communications Commission for a permit to construct a 50,000-watt international short-wave station to operate on frequencies of 15.25 and 21.46 megs. . . . The new short-wave station that the General Electric Company seeks permission from the Federal Communications Commission to construct near Oakland, Calif., would have a power of 100,000 watts, thus making it the most powerful short-wave station in the world.

On June 1, the operating time of W2XAD (15.33), Schenectady, New York, was increased two hours daily. The new schedule is from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. EDT (10 a.m. to 8 p.m. EST) . . . The latest schedule of W2XE, New York City, New York, is as follows: Daily, with a European antenna, on 21.52 megs, from 7:30 to 10 a.m. EDT (6:30 to 9 a.m. EST) and on 15.27 megs, from 3 to 6 p.m. EDT (2 to 5 p.m. EST), and with a South American antenna, on 11.8 megs, from 7 p.m. to 12 mid. EST (6 to 11 p.m. EST).

When the new air service between Bermuda and the United States is officially opened in the near future, short-wave listeners will be able to tune in on transmissions not only from WOEH aboard the Imperial Airways seaplane "Cavalier" but from WIEO aboard the Pan-American seaplane "USA-Bermuda Clipper." Listen for the plane transmitters on one of the following frequencies: 12.8625, 8.655, 6.425, 4.7975, or tune for the R. C. A. control stations WQP (13.9) and WCG (10.38).

LISTENERS along the Atlantic Coast may sometime hear the call "Radio Codfish." This is no joke but the actual identification used for the floating chapel of the cod-fishers' padre, Father Yvon, whose parish extends from the shores of Newfoundland to the coasts of Greenland. He keeps in constant touch with his invisible audience and sends them time signals, weather reports, spiritual consolation and words of good cheer. On Sundays he broadcasts mass with a phonograph choir.

A. E. A. Thomas of St. Michael, Barbados, British West Indies, writes that PJCI (5.947), Curacao, Dutch West Indies, broadcasts daily from 7:36 to 9:36 p.m. EDT (6:36 to 8:36 p.m. EST). The transmitter has a power of 150 watts.

Warren Stark of Wauwatosa, Wis., reports hearing a new Cuban, CMD (14), from 11:15 p.m. to 3 a.m. EDT (10:15 p.m. to 2 a.m. EST). The station, which gave its location as Havana, opened and closed with a recording of "Viva Espana," and transmitted Spanish war bulletins. . . . Louis Ambrosius of Louisville, Ky., writes that he also picked up a new Cuban announcing as COGE, located in Mantanzas, and transmitting on 11.85 megs. The station was testing with recordings and working amateurs on the 20-meter band before signing off at 12:35 a.m. EDT (11:35 p.m. EST). Mr. Ambrosius tuned in the new Mexican XEWW, Mexico City, near 1:05 a.m. EDT (12:05 a.m. EST), on an announced frequency of 9.5 megs. The announcer stated a 48-hour test program was in progress, during which time the power of the station was gradually being increased from 5,000 to 10,000 watts. Signals were very loud. Reports of reception were requested.

The new schedule for LZA (14.92), Sofia, Bulgaria, is daily from 6 to 7:30 a.m. and 1 to 4:45 p.m. EDT (5 to 6:30 a.m. and 12 noon to 3:45 p.m. EST). On Saturdays the station broadcasts from 1 to 5:30 a.m. EDT (12 mid. to 4:30 a.m. EST).

A VERY rare catch was when, on May 19 at 4:58 p.m. EDT (3:58 p.m. EST), Gordon Rockwell of Halifax, Nova Scotia, Canada, tuned in amateur-phone station YI2BA, located in Iraq. The station was operating in the American phone band on approximately 14.175 megs. The carrier was strong but badly bothered by interference from adjacent American amateurs. The operator stated that was his second day on the air. He was contacting a British station at the time and gave his call as YI-2BA, "B as in Belgium, A as in America."

The American Telephone and Telegraph Co. has requested a license to operate its new 20,000-watt commercial transmitter, at Laurenceville, N. J., on frequencies of 14.51 and 19.38.

All short-wave equipment used by NBC at six of its key points for special events programs is being completely replaced. Four new types of high-frequency transmitters with receivers and other field equipment will be delivered in July to NBC offices at New York, Washington, Cleveland, Chicago, Denver and San Francisco at a cost of $75,000. The new equipment includes the "beer mug" transmitter, so called because of its general resemblance in size and shape to that cup. It weighs less than eight pounds, contains a high-fidelity microphone, audio amplifier, crystal-controlled master oscillator, radio frequency amplifier and antenna. Its built-in power supply delivers one-tenth watt.

At the Paris International Exposition, there is being exhibited a clay model of the powerful new Soviet short-wave station nearing completion at Moscow. By fall it should be ready.

Long before this column reaches print, your columnist hopes to be trying short-wave reception and transmission possibilities (and perhaps some trout fishing) in the vicinity of Gatlinburg, Tenn. This spot is in the shadow of mighty Mount LeConte, from the top of which we hope to test a five-meter transmitter and receiver.

Time given is EDT; for EST subtract one hour. Short-wave programs of American stations are shown along with the regular listings beginning on page 29. These are indicated, for example, by (sw-11.87) in parentheses following a program listing. This means that on 11.87 megacycles the same program may also be heard over an American short-wave station. Please note that foreign stations do not always adhere precisely to their announced program schedules.

We Applaud KENNY BAKER

HIS BIG BREAK CAME BY ACCIDENT,
BUT HE HAD PREPARED FOR IT, AND SUCCESS WAS HIS—OVERNIGHT!

Photos by Gene Lester

Young Baker is polite, unaffected, easy to work with—a sincere artist. He was born in Monrovia, California, September 30, 1912, was educated in California schools, is a towering six-footer, slender, has curly, reddish-brown hair, adores his mother. Married his high-school sweetheart—Jerry!

... because he's the only new star in the music field to be developed by radio in the past year, because he came to radio practically an unknown, went to Jack Benny's show—now is famous. He got on the program by accident: Jack was holding auditions for a soloist and Kenny came, sang, conquered

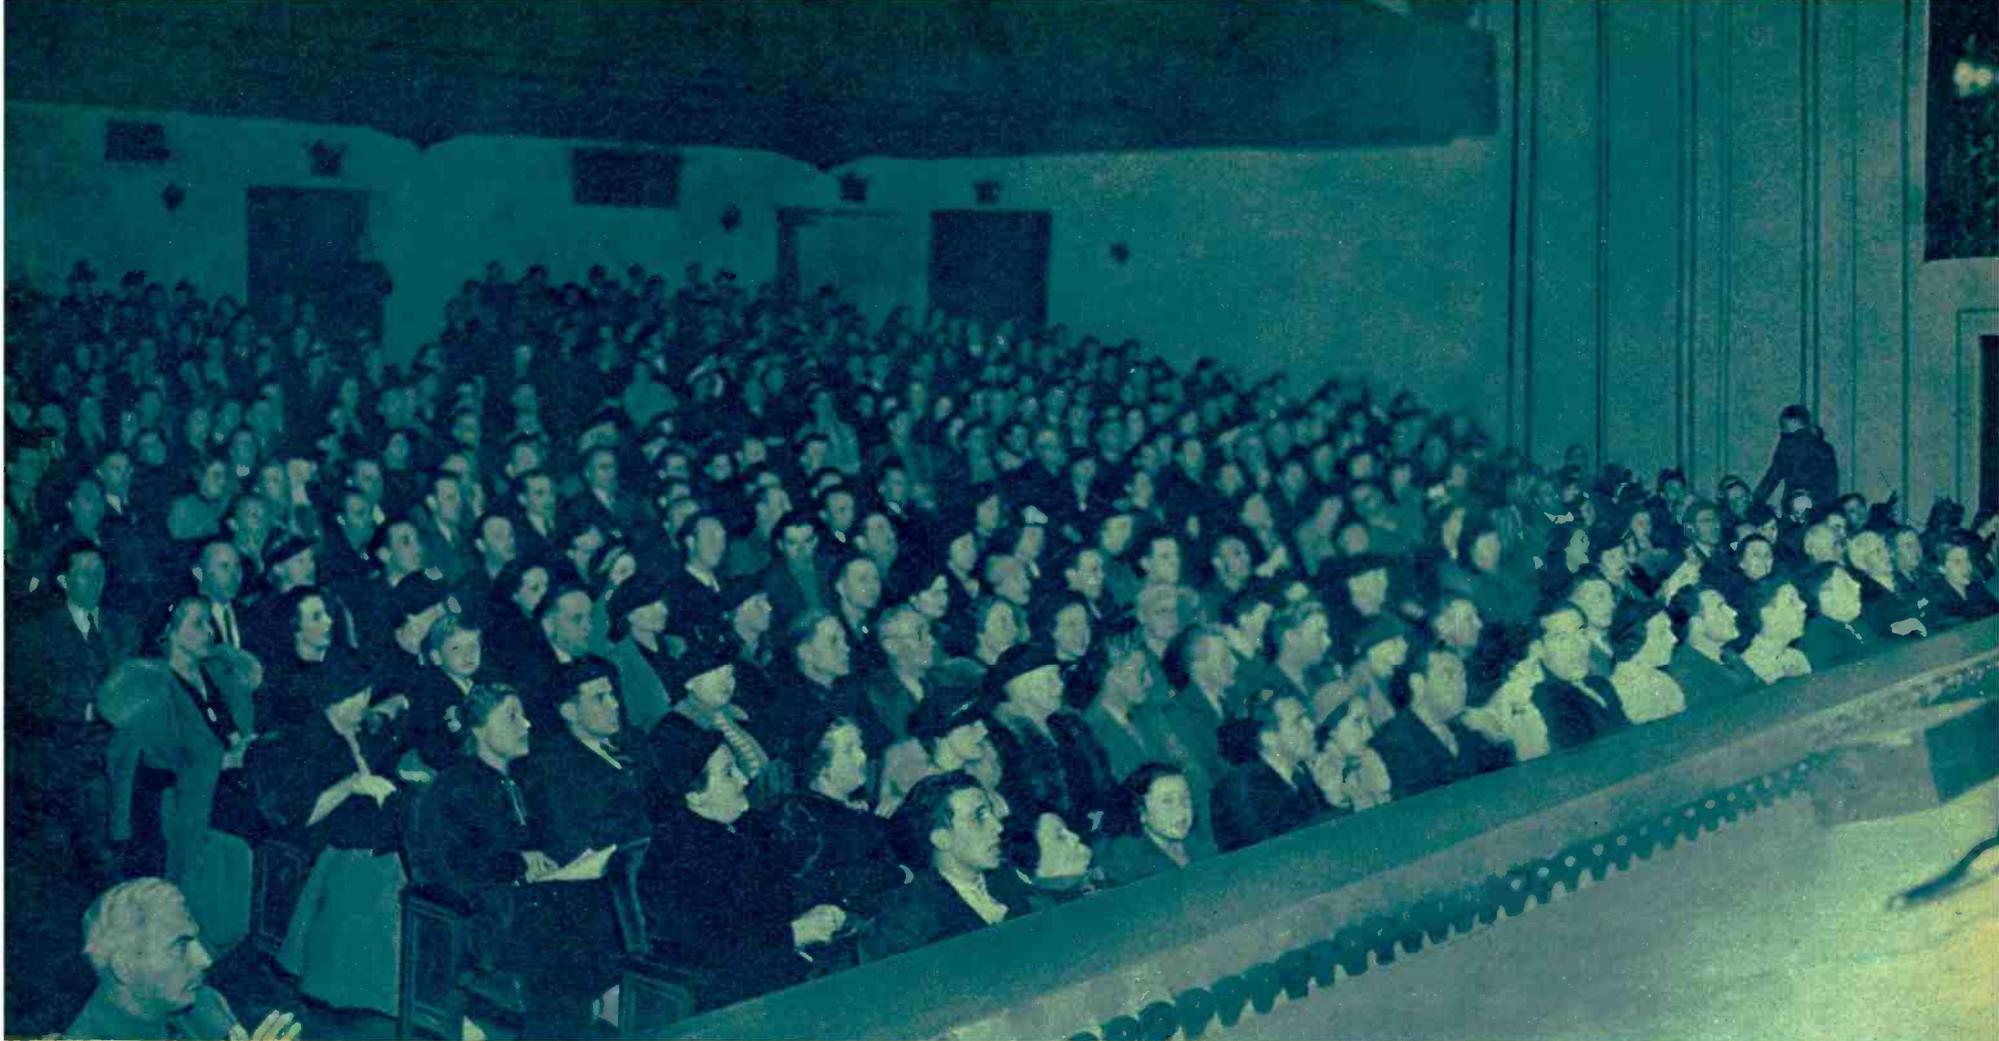

Mike fright took hold of Kenny when he showed up for his first rehearsal with the Benny troupe. Then and there Ace Comedian Jack decided to introduce him as a timid singing-stooge, a bit dumb in the Gracie Allen manner. Consequently, Kenny sings only one song a week—divides his time between comedy and singing

The timid tenor's first singing job was in a church choir as a boy soprano—but he had to work as a salesman in his father's furniture store before his father would allow him to pursue a vocal career. Later Kenny worked as a day laborer—earned the money for his musical education

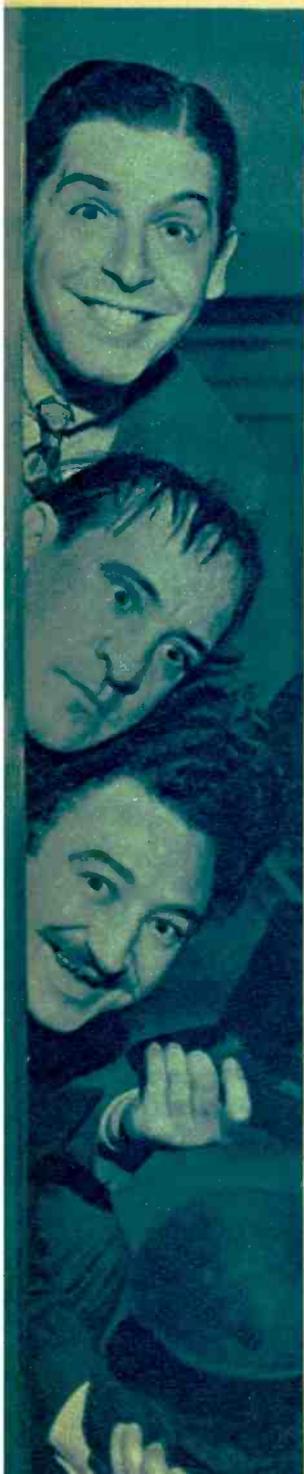

Already "tops" in radio, Kenny is fast climbing to fame in motion pictures. He began his film activities by singing in ensembles and doubling has a part in the current film—"The King and the Pauper." Soon to be released is "Mr. Dodge Takes the Air," in which he stars

Radio Guide Visits the Community Sing

SONGS, OLD AND NEW, FILL THE AIR AS THOUSANDS SING — JOIN IN A SONGFEST!

Ten-year-old Singer Jolly Gillette got a bit mixed up in her heckling and decided to play "piggy-back" with Judge Straight (Tommy Mack), a Sing stooge. She's fondly called the "sponsor's daughter," but that's just a gag. Her real identity is a secret

No, they aren't getting ready to do a song from "Top Hat," they're only stepping into the Sing show. Top to bottom, they are: Twenty-eight-year-old Comic Milton Berle and Stooges Judge Straight (Tommy Mack) and the "Mad Russian" (Bert Gordon)

Where there's smoke there's bound to be fire, but apparently Judge Straight, the "Mad Russian", and Wendell Hall do not believe in signs. Because of his soft drawl and because he's written so many Dixie song hits, Wendell is popularly called a southerner, but he first saw the light of day in St. George, Kansas

The "Mad Russian" and Judge Straight (Bert Gordon and Tommy Mack) stop being silly for a minute to listen rapturously to Milton Berle's song. Perhaps Berle is singing for them the old favorite, "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles," which he sang when he made his stage debut at the age of ten.

Red-headed Music-Maker Wendell Hall of "It Ain't Gonna Rain No More" fame can draw as much music out of an audience as he can out of that ukelele of his. He's written more than 1,000 songs during the past 17 years, been in radio since 1921, married, has two sons Led by the irrepressible Wendell Hall, thousands who love group singing join in gay song and sentimental ballads in both studio and home when "Community Sing," a CBS Sunday night show, goes on the air. The man in the lower left-hand corner is Eddie Kain, official heckler of the Sing. He works from the audience

No, Conductor and Composer Andy Sannella isn't whistling, he's simply trying to get the right tone from his "Community Sing" orchestra. Andy was born in Brooklyn, studied music as a child, joined the Navy at 17, started his professional career in Panama City, plays 12 instruments, is an aviation pilot

Funnyman Gordon of the Sing certainly lives up to the name of the "Mad Russian." He was born in New York April 8, 1899, is married. At 7 was a soloist in a choir, made his stage debut when 13, earned $9.00 a week. Eddie Cantor was responsible for his radio debut in the character of the "Mad Russian"

Milton Berle, young old-timer, vaudeville trouper, star of silent films and musical shows and now ace comedian of the Sing, was born in New York City. He's fond of playing baseball, tennis, golf, and likes to box, collect stamps. Hates haircuts, spinach, breaking in new shoes and arising. Weighs 166 pounds

Tommy Mack is trying hard to stop the incessant gab of Bert Gordon, but his efforts are to no avail. Tommy's from New York's West Side, began his career by working after school for a hare ripped haberdasher, but was fired for mimicking his boss. He then tried vaudeville, soon became a star, joined the Sing as a stooge, is now known as Judge Straight

Jolly Gillette, Andy Sannella and Milton Berle rehearse for the Sunday show, which has just moved back to New York from Hollywood. The trek to the film colony last January by the entire cast was occasioned by a movie engagement for Milton Berle, who's sharing honors with Joe Penner and Harriet Hilliard in the picture—"New Faces of 1937." Judge Straight also appears in the film

Gene Arnold is the quiet-voiced narrator of the NBC show bringing to the air true romances, with the Ranch Boys furnishing accompaniment. Gene's from Newton, Illinois, been in radio since 1928, is a singer and composer—has written many hymns

Carlton Kelsey, who is maestro and composer in the Chicago CBS studios, made his debut as a conductor at 17 when he directed a pit orchestra in a Broadway production. He's now heard on "Poetic Melodies"—is an inveterate pipe-smoker, a strict vegetarian

Jean Dickenson, 22-year-old American coloratura, recently debuted as the new prima donna of NBC's American Album of Familiar Music show. She can sing G above high C, was educated in India, Africa, San Francisco and Denver—is Lily Pons' protege

Virginia Sims—featured soloist with the Kay Kyser band. She can sing sentimental or torchy songs, was born in San Antonio, Texas, educated in California schools, plays the piano and her nickname is "Jimmy." She's titian-haired, blue-eyed, single

YOU KNOW THESE STARS BY THEIR VOICES, BY THE PARTS THEY TAKE WHEN THEY BROADCAST—NOW MEET THEM IN REAL LIFE!

Isabel Randolph plays the leading role in Dan Harding's Wife, NBC serial, came to radio via stage and screen. In the drama she's the mother of twins of high-school age, in real life she's the mother of two daughters. Her hobby is cats—real and china

Pretty, brunette and 21 is Mercedes McCambridge of NBC's new five-a-week serial—The Guiding Light. She is from Joliet, Illinois, and a member of the 1937 graduating class at Mundelein College, Chicago. Collects: penguin models, has 300 of them

You've heard Carlton Kadel, West Coast announcer and actor. He entered radio early in 1931 in Chicago, is a six-footer, dark and handsome, spent his early childhood traveling about the country, was born in Danville, Illinois. Likes: rare phonograph records

Distinguished American Cellist and Maestro Alfred Wallenstein has been engaged as conductor of the Monday NBC program featuring Richard Crooks and Margaret Speaks. Wallenstein was born in Chicago, reared in California—at 15 toured with Pavlova

The Photo-Story of JACK OAKIE'S LIFE

HE STARTED OUT AS A WISE-CRACKING CHORUS BOY WHO WAS WILLING TO TAKE A CHANCE—AND HE ENDED UP—FAMOUS!

JACK OAKIE was born in Sedalia, Missouri, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Madison Offield. His real name is Lewis Offield. He attended grammar school in Sedalia, high school in Kansas City. His mother taught in the public schools of Muscovy and Sedalia after his father died, later opened her own school of expression. Her pupils were all girls. She felt too much feminine influence wouldn't be good for her son, sent him to Kansas City. He lived with his grandmother there, was a good student, very popular—but had no dates. Liked all girls, treated them all as pals. Upon his graduation, went to De LaSalle Military Institute, a school for boys in New York. Attended there for the regular four-year course, then went to Wall Street for his first job. It was on the Stock Exchange—but he was only a call-boy and messenger, drew $25 a week. Did little work, caused plenty of laughs among the other employes, held the job three years. May Leslie, society impresario, heard of the amateur funster while casting for the Junior League Follies, contacted him, gave him a part. He began as a lowly chorus boy. Then he teamed up with Lulu McConnell. A year later they were on Broadway. The partnership lasted until 1927. During that time Oakie was very successful on the stage, became a headliner. But when Lindbergh flew the Atlantic, Jack decided that "if Lindbergh took a chance and made it—so can I." Immediately left for Hollywood, soon made good. Has been very active in films ever since. Altogether, he's been in 85 pictures. Jack's favorite actress is Joan Crawford—whom he met in 1923 when he sang, danced, in "Innocent Eyes." His favorite actor is Spencer Tracy. Jack is married. Director Sidney Lanfield first introduced him to Venita Varden. He courted her, married her, gave her a beautiful home for a wedding present. They're far from the city, have only one neighbor, seldom return to the city at night. They rarely attend night clubs. Jack doesn't care for movies. He likes to play golf, sees most sporting events, always has the same seats. When he's working, they play bridge in the evening, go to bed by midnight. Jack gets up at six-thirty, never has breakfast in bed. Usually he has orange juice, sausage, eggs, toast and coffee in the morning. Jack likes acting, but he isn't sentimental about it. He and his wife live pretty much by themselves, are called "those mad Oakies" by friends. Jack is a natural clown, is very much the same in real life as he is on the screen. His wife also has a sense of humor. Once he locked her in a room, made her listen while he played the flute. She gave him an electric train for Christmas—and he really enjoys it! But they're happy, settling down in their own fashion. Jack stands five feet, eleven inches, weighs 175, has blue eyes, brown hair

Mr. and Mrs. James Madison Offield, whom you see above, gave birth to a son in Sedalia, Missouri, on November 12, 1903, named him Lewis. But the name didn't stick. You probably never even heard of Lewis Offield, and yet you know him well. He's the famous comic — Jack Oakie

And here you see little Lewis Offield, age eight months, facing a camera for the first time. He looked quite serious in those early days—but it wasn't long afterwards that he turned to comedy

From high school, Lewis went to De LaSalle Military Institute in New York. He was then fifteen years old, a member of the first-string basketball team and the wise-cracking prankster he'd always been. Even four years of military school discipline couldn't throttle the irrepressible Lewis. But he didn't know at that time his comedy was going to make him very famous

Even though he wasn't a feature player, Jack was well known to movie-goers in 1929. In that year, while on a stage tour, he returned to Brooklyn, where he'd first headlined. Rubinoff was on the same bill, so Jack posed with his fiddle—for a gag

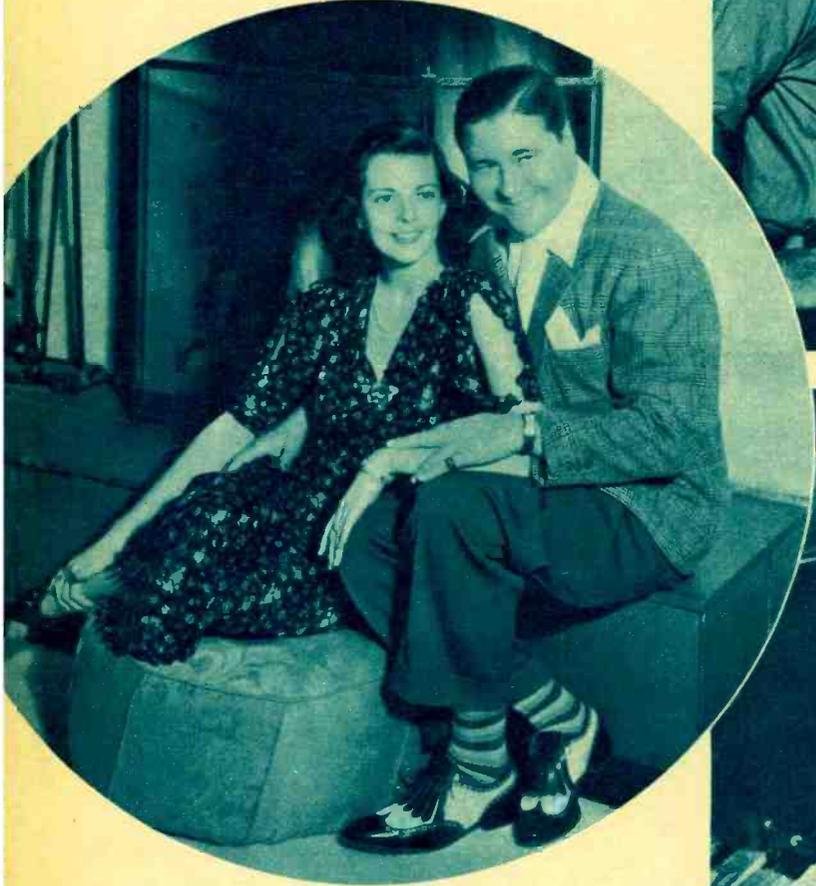

Jack Oakie doesn't confine his clowning to the entertainment world. A natural comedian, he's always out for a laugh—and usually he gets it. But here's one time when it seems he wasn't successful. This picture of Oakie and his mother was taken in 1929

Here's Jack Oakie today, definitely a success. He's the same happy-go-lucky lad he's always been. This is the same smile he wore as an unknown

When Jack first arrived in Hollywood, he wheedled a promise of three days' work from Director Wesley Ruggles. It stretched to three weeks. A few months later he was under contract to Paramount. Since that time he's been in thirty-six pictures for that studio alone. Now he has a long-term contract with RKO Radio Pictures. This picture is a scene from "Street Girl," with Ned Sparks, Betty Compson

Jack married Venita Varden a year ago. Now they live in Santa Monica in a 12-room home overlooking the ocean. They have a swimming-pool on their beautiful grounds, two cars, a chauffeur, a butler and a cook. People call them "those mad Oakies"—but they're happily married

Before she opened her own school of expression, Mrs. Offield taught in the public schools of Muscovy, Missouri. Now her son provides her with a car, chauffeur, two servants. When Jack appeared on the Radio Theater, Mrs. Offield was a guest. "She was the best person I've ever had on this program," commented DeMille

At the present time, as "Pres. Oakie" of Oakie College, Jack has become one of the outstanding comedians of the air. But as soon as the last "zaz-zu-zaz" is over, he always rushes to a telephone to call his wife. "The Little Woman" is his most important critic. She attends all rehearsals, but listens at home to the actual broadcasts

NBC-The World is Yours, drama: WEA WBN KYW WGY WTAM (sw-15.33) The triumphs of Henry Irving, Ellen Terry, E. H. Sothern, John Drew and Richard Mansfield, glamorous figures of the American stage at the turn of the century, will be recalled in a dramatization entitled "Plays and Costumes" during The World is Yours program. "Plays and Costumes" will present a dramatic panorama of the American theater during the close of the nineteenth century when the legitimate stage was undergoing a change from crude romance and melodrama to modern realism. Scenes will be portrayed from such plays as "Pinafore," "Richard III," and "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," all made famous by Mansfield. Difficulties of the modern theater will also be dramatized in backstage scenes showing weary rehearsals, exciting first nights, thrilling successes, and heart-rending failures. "Plays and Costumes" is based on the Mansfield exhibit of theatrical costumes on display at the Smithsonian Institution.

A novel version of Oscar Wilde's fantasy, "The Young King," will be presented today by players of the Columbia Workshop under the direction of Irving Reis. An original musical score for the production has been written by Thomas Bennett, one of radio's best-known orchestra arrangers. "The Young King" tells the story of a monarch who, on the eve of his coronation, discovers that his people are not happy and prosperous as he had been taught to believe, but are toiling long hours and actually starving in order that his crowning may have the necessary brilliance and splendor.

Nora Stirling, charming eye-
lopedia of little-known facts, explains the origin of the word "flag" on her "Funny Things" program today. She will divulge that the word
"flag" originally meant a
"baby's dress" and that the first American flag was made of a petticoat, an old shirt and an army officer's coat.

NBC-Tree Planting Ceremony: WBAL WORK KDKA WSYR WJZ WEBR WHAM (sw-15.21)

Only a tree can make Gene Tunney talk. At least this modern version of an ancient tree-planting ceremonial at the Dawes Arboretum, the tree shrine in Licking County, near Newark, Ohio, will bring a speech by Tunney, retired heavyweight boxing champion of the world, and another by James W. Wadsworth, former Senator from New York, who will plant trees and participate in the rites which will be broadcast at this time. Officials of the Arboretum, an endowed institution of 325 acres established in 1919 by Benjan G. Dawes, will describe the purposes of the man-made forest of 700 trees. The tract contains descendants of such famous and historical trees as the Charter Oak and the Locust Elm.

Pennsylvania State College will be the scene today of the 16th monthly Land Grant College program to be heard on the National Farm and Home Hour. Veteran Land Grant College administrators will be heard on the Penn State program. They are Dean R. L. Watts, of the college of agriculture, Director S. W. Fletcher, of the state experiment station, and Director M. S. McDowell, of the state extension service. The speakers will review the achievements of the college and tell how this work has a practical application on farms and in homes. Representative Pennsylvania farmers also will speak. Student quartets will sing numbers from recent Penn State musical comedy shows, and music of the school's new pipe organ in Schwab Auditorium and vocal music by members of the college faculty will be featured.

Dr. A. D. Henderson, president of Antioch College, will discuss the unique system of education practised at his school, located at Yellow Springs, Ohio. Antioch believes that practical experience should accompany studies, and so it divides its year into two parts, one-half of which is spent studying at the college and the other half in apprentice work in the field in which the student is specializing.

Ann White will get a pleasant surprise when her song, "The Dream In My Heart," which Cliff Barbour secretly succeeded in getting published, is introduced by Emerson Gill, well-known NBC conductor, during tonight's episode of
"One Man's Family." The dance floor of a mythical San Francisco hotel will be the scene for the NBC broadcast, and the members of the cast will be assembled there for an evening's entertainment.
Gill, who conducts the California Concert heard over NBC stations on Sunday nights, will direct his 18-piece orchestra in the performance of Ann's composition and the Three Cheers
male trio, will sing it.

Lovely Liars

It's a funny thing about radio stars—they simply won't tell the truth about love. When it comes to this topic, eleven out of twelve of them are all-American material as prevaricators, fibbers and falsifiers. Read the inside story on how some of the great stars have romance-fooled Mr. Public, learn about the secret marriages and love affairs of some of radio's great in next week's—

The Old Ranger tells the story of River Jim, a roustabout who worked on Boulder Dam from the day when construction first started until the day when the switch was thrown that set the power in operation. Through the eyes of River Jim, we watch the progress of this mighty engineering feat. The story has a surprising ending.

New Jersey. This meet, which is annually an outstanding one, consists of six track events and one field event—the pole vault. The first track event, the two-mile steeplechase, brings together among others Harold Manning, Joe McCluskey and Floyd Lockner; the half-mile, Elroy Robinson and Pete Bradley; the two-mile twin running, while the low hurdles will bring together John Donovan, Larry O'Connor and others. Jimmy Herbert and Eddie O'Brien will meet in the quarter-mile race while the mile will find a star list of entries including Archie Sam Romani, Luigi Beccali, Gene Venke, Glenn Cunningham and possibly Don Lash. Your announcer will be Dave Driscoll, assisted by Al Samstag, observer.

LOG OF ALL AMERICAN STATIONS ARRANGED BY CALL LETTERS

PUBLISHED in installments herewith is the most complete and up-to-date list of all broadcasting stations in North America anywhere available. The stations are arranged first by countries and next in the alphabetical order of their call letters. The small figure given in parenthesis, as (1/4), following the location of a station is an indication of its power in kilowatts—which means thousands of watts. Where no figure is given, the station has less than 250 watts power. Thus the figure 1/4 means 250 watts

1/2 is 500 watts; 10 would be 10,000 watts, etc. Part I of this log appeared last week and is available in back copies at ten cents each. Address Radio Guide, Chicago. At the conclusion of this form of the log, it will be repeated arranged in frequency order.

ARMCHAIR CONTROL

Tune your favorite stations from your favorite chair. Simply push a button to change about from station to station. Every program is tuned as if an engineer did it for you. You can put this control box where you please, and can move it about from one place in the room to another, or from one room to another.

SONIC-ARC MAGIC VOICE

Thousands have acclaimed the Magic Voice as radio's finest. But RCA Victor engineers have made it still more tone-full by new simplified Sonic-Arc Tone Chamber built like a hand shell. This construction sends all sounds out in a smooth flow toward the listener. No booming. No distortion. No false sounds.

OVERSEAS DIAL

Seven tuning bands, each over 9½ inches wide. Foreign and other short wave stations are 50 times farther apart than on ordinary dials. The world's radio stations are spread across bands that have a total length of four feet. This means that short wave stations, both American and foreign, are as easy to tune as standard.

BEAUTY-TONE CABINETS

RCA Victor cabinets made by skilled craftsmen in world's largest musical cabinet shop, combine beauty of appearance and tone. They are designed as a part of a musical instrument, and their shapes, proportions and construction contribute to tone quality. Only RCA Victor offers the Beauty-Tone Cabinets.

Push a Button—there's your Station!

THAT'S RCA VICTOR ELECTRIC TUNING!

See great new features in this 16-tube Sonic-Arc Magic Voice set—the most superb radio RCA Victor has built in 39 years as a maker of fine instruments.

YOU'VE always wanted an automatic receiving set. You've known it would double your radio fun. Now you can have it! As usual with great advances in radio, it's an RCA Victor feature. With it you tune the new Sonic-Arc Magic Voice by pushing a button. It's easy as pushing an electric light button. It's so fascinating that the moment you see it you'll want to trade in your present set.

Here's another luxury feature! For a few dollars extra you can have the added thrill of Armchair Control, allowing you to tune the set from across the room or from an adjoining room.

And in addition, RCA Victor gives you the exciting New Overseas Dial. It spreads short wave stations out 50 times farther apart than before. The five bands on this great dial spread the world's radio stations out across bands totalling four feet in width. There is no crowding on any band. Foreign stations are as easy to tune as domestic.

New excitement all along the line Tuning improvement in 1938 RCA Victor models goes right through the 39 new instruments. Of course RCA Victor can lead the world in radio design. Alone among set makers, RCA Victor also builds radiostations. Through their knowledge of modern broadcasting RCA Victor engineers have built into these new models improvements that let you tune in the full fidelity of the newest, largest radio stations.

Ask your dealer for proof

Hear these sets at your RCA Victor dealer. Ask him to tell you, as a radio expert, and as a man who knows musical instruments, the importance of buying a radio that's "RCA All The Way."

You can buy RCA Victor radios on C. I. T. Easy Payment Plan! Any radio is better with an RCA Antenna System. *All prices f. o. b. Camden, N. J., subject to change without notice.

RCA presents the "Magic Key" every Sunday, 2 to 3 P. M., E. D. T., on NBC Blue Network.

Model 85T1... a smart chest model for entertainment from all over the world. New type dial simplifies tuning. A 2-band, 5-tube superheterodyne of fine volume and tone. Five and half inch dynamic speaker, automatic volume control. New "Easy-to-read" dial. Only $32.95*
