VOTE For Radio's Star of Stars NOW!

WHERE does your favorite star stand in the Star of Stars poll? At the top? At the bottom? And just what are you doing about the situation?

It's time to ask yourself those questions. Because if your favorite isn't running strong, it's up to you to do something about it—it's up to you to cast your vote in RADIO GUIDE'S Star of Stars election! Your personal choice for the Star of Stars of the airways has a right to expect your support. Real admirers are happy to give it.

There is no greater honor available to the radio stars of today than to be selected Star of Stars. Fame and riches may be theirs, but that isn't enough. More important, most important of all, in fact, is recognition: recognition by the great army of radio listeners as Tops, as the No. 1 star of the year! It's an honor that cannot be purchased. Only you—a reader of RADIO

Benny Goodman; He's No. 8

GUIDE—can bring this honor to your favorite star. And it's up to you to do your part!

At the end of this article you'll find the number of the page on which this week's standings in the contest will be found. Turn to that page now. Find out just how your favorite star is running in this contest! And if you feel that this week's standings do not coincide with your opinion on who should be radio's 1937 Star of Stars—get busy! Vote! And vote now! Your delay may cost your favorite star the honor that might rightfully be his.

Remember that RADIO GUIDE is just your agent. It merely offers you an opportunity to express your wishes, to tabulate your votes, and to confer the Star of Stars honor upon some radio performer.

It's up to you! Your vote is all that matters! Cast it today!

WHEN THE FIRST GLOW IN THE SKY HERALDS THE COMING OF THE SUN, RADIO WILL BRING TO MILLIONS THE STORY AND THE SONGS OF EASTER!

GLORY TO GOD

BY KEN W. PURDY

THE false dawn has come and gone, and the sky is black again. There is no sound, no movement anywhere. Even the night wind is still. But the air is filled with music, with singing, and with prayer! For radio is sending out over the world the voices of men and women in joyous celebration of the Rising of their Savior. Minutes slip silently into eternity. Almost imperceptibly at first, a flush of pink colors the blackness in the eastern sky. A streak of brighter color slits the black curtain, spreads slowly over the whole dome of Heaven. The music hurtling silently through the air swells louder, night flees madly into the west, down the other side of the world, the sun rises in an eloquent hush . . .

It is Easter Sunday.

All over the Christian world, men and women, children and babes in arms are coming together in little groups to marvel anew at the miracle of Galilee, to join in celebration of the Resurrection of Christ, as they have celebrated for the past 1900 years.

At sunrise on Easter Sunday, the Christian peoples of the world are perhaps more firmly united in common bond than at any other single instant throughout the year. So far from weakening, this common bond has been strengthened throughout the ages. And so it is fitting that any one instrument or agency capable of further strengthening it should be used to the utmost. Radio is such an instrument, and when the sun rises on Easter Sunday this year—as in years past—a bigger part than ever before will be played by radio. All over America, Sunrise Services will be broadcast to the world. Travelers and expatriates in the far-flung corners of the universe will be united in celebration with their people at home, and with Christian peoples everywhere.

Probably the most impressive Easter service to be put on the air this year is the Wichita Mountains pageant, to witness which more than 100,000 people annually make a pilgrimage over the dusty roads tracking the barren Oklahoma countryside to an isolated valley more than 20 miles from the nearest town. On foot, in horse-drawn wagons, and in automobiles packed bumper-to-bumper for miles over the rutted roads they come, many of them 24 hours in advance, to marvel at the unfolding of America's Passion Play.

Three thousand people participate in the pageant-story of the death and Resurrection of Jesus Christ, in a setting constructed to duplicate as nearly as possible the actual architecture of His time. The Garden of Gethsemane, the tomb in the garden of Joseph of Arimathea, Pilate's Temple, and the Hill of Calvary—all are faithfully duplicated. This semi-circle of buildings faces a long, sloping hill which forms a natural amphitheater. In front of each building or stage is a battery of hidden footlights remotely controlled. As soon as the satin-robed actors and singers have completed one tableau, the lights are cut and flashed on at another stage for the next step. The whole performance moves with military precision, and is so timed that the concluding tableaux and episodes come just as the sun is breaking over the surrounding hills.

As the sun moves west across the continent on the morning of Easter Sunday, Columbia Broadcasting System microphones will follow it to put on the air a series of sunrise services, from the Atlantic seaboard to California, from a battleship at anchor in the Pacific, and from the sands of Waikiki Beach in Honolulu. From one of the oldest and largest Sunrise Services in the country will come the first broadcast of the day, originating in the Temple University Stadium at Philadelphia. Here more than 75,000 persons will greet the rising sun with sacred music.

Massed singing by a choir of 10,000 voices will be broadcast during the service in St. Louis' beautiful Municipal Bowl. Memory Grove in Salt Lake City, Utah's memorial to her World War dead, will be the site of the next service. The Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra will play an hour's program of sacred music as the sun reaches California, and from Waikiki Beach a program of traditional Easter music will be played on Hawaiian instruments. Later in the morning the seaman's service on the U. S. S. Pennsylvania, off San Pedro, will be broadcast from the quarter-deck.

High-light of the NBC broadcast services will be that originating in the Shrine of the Ages on the rim of the Grand Canyon in Arizona. From the Municipal Theater in St. Louis and from Chicago's Soldier Field, the singing of massed choruses will be put on the air. Mount Davidson, near San Francisco, will be the point of origination of another service.

Never before has so varied and so complete an array of religious services been made available to the people of America. In every part of the land, in the seas bordering it, and in countries over the seas, listeners will thrill again to the world's most thrilling story, the story told in the words: "Lo, He is risen!"

KATHRYN CRAVENS looked straight across the desk and said it.

"I create people. It's my hobby." She stopped a moment in silence. "I suppose that sounds strange. . ."

It did sound strange, but that didn't matter. A quiet eagerness had come into her voice. The interview had begun at last.

We had been sitting there in a CBS office for ever so long—getting nowhere. She had talked and answered questions about herself and her work, but the tall, blond woman remained merely an aggregation of facts, as unreal as a case history.

"The Flying Commentator," she had been called, but there was nothing about her to suggest the trip-hammer speed of news or flying. She talked slowly, placidly. There was no hint of the intense, throbbing voice of her broadcasts.

"News Through a Woman's Eyes" was her program. She had eyes and was a woman. I had to grant her that much. But news? That I could not see. Nothing clicked. Then, to my despairing last question, she answered:

"It may be strange," she said, "to call it a hobby, but I enjoy it, so I suppose it is. I see a person, or hear of one, who has never had a chance—no education, no manners, no friends. . . and no hope at all. I give him those things, not all at once, but little by little as he can assimilate them. When I'm done, there is a new person I've created by a little kindness and money. It's an expensive hobby—but worth every cent it costs!"

There is little more that she will say about it. Thoughtless words would destroy her "creations," the pride and independence she has instilled in them. It didn't matter. I wasn't writing about them, but about Kathryn Cravens, who reveals herself only when she talks about others. She is a woman with wide interests—but no interest ever in herself. That is why we got nowhere at all when we talked about her. She was bored!

Now, magically, those bare facts, as she had told them, came to life, showed her progress . . . and mistakes . . . step by step to success and happiness that is sound to the core.

She had said, "I have proved to myself that a woman can do anything if she makes up her mind to do it. Most women don't want to enough."

Why, then, did Kathryn Cravens want so very much to be the first woman news commentator to broadcast from Coast-to-Coast? She wasn't an ex-newspaper woman vocalizing her prose style for radio's big salary. She didn't need the money; didn't, when she began, know even the ABC's of news value. She liked to go to parties and stay up late, but she gave up all that. She didn't have a husband or rival that she must "show." There are no rivals in her field and her husband has admired her will-to-work for all the thirteen years of their marriage.

SHE told me those things when she talked about herself, but they made no sense. She gave me the facts of her life. Then, she talked about the bum on the street who didn't quite seem a bum. He asked for a dime and got a new life. It wasn't rash charity, as she told it, but understanding of every person's need for self-respect.

Life THROUGH

BY HALLY POMEROY

RADIO'S FEMININE "FLYING NEWS COMMENTATOR" SEES LIFE AS IT IS—GIVES HELP TO THE HELPLESS!

She talked about her butler, who'd been a fatherless, nameless, no-good colored boy from the cotton fields. Today he's the best servant she ever had because she trusted him. No one ever thought to do that before, or thought that clean clothes and decent food were worth wasting on him.

Incredibly bad typing gave one girl a new world. Kathryn didn't fly into a rage. She asked questions instead. The girl wanted desperately to be a dancer. Typing was her futile way of earning money for lessons. The girl needed much more than dancing lessons. She needed concentration, education, poise . . . and food. Kathryn gave her those things out of her own time and purse, saw her career succeed, saw her marry well and happily.

The facts had been bare, had they?

Kathryn Cravens has no trained "nose for news"—but, she has eyes to see—and real sympathy, too!

The facts that Kathryn Cravens was born Kathryn Cochran in Burkett, Texas, a village of 300 people; that her father was a doctor and her mother a postmistress; that Kathryn wanted, at an early age, to become an actress and eventually became one; that radio acting followed stage acting; that news commentating supplanted radio dramatics as her life work?

EVERY one of those facts is significant. They are Kathryn Cravens.

A postmistress. Any of us who has lived in a very small town as a child has looked with awe upon her. She, we vaguely realized in those days before radio, was the link with the outside world. Hundreds of secrets were hers to withhold, or tell. Joy, sorrow and comedy passed each day before her little grilled window. And she was Kathryn's mother.

And the doctor—he knew everything, too—people's hopes and despair, nameless suffering and death. Drama followed his footsteps. When we saw his old mud-spattered car in front of a house, our hearts skipped a beat; our minds whirled with fear and curiosity. And he was Kathryn's father.

Her heritage was drama, curiosity and love of humanity. It was her only inheritance for a long time. Country doctors are poor and widows of country doctors poorer. Nearly twenty years passed and many things happened before Kathryn was conscious of the worth of that priceless, pennyless inheritance. Poverty, repression, rebellion and finally a wealthy marriage came first. She had to be Kathryn Cochran, Kitty O'Dare and Mrs. Rutherford Cravens before she became the Kathryn Cravens who eyes the news with feminine insight.

Kathryn was eight when her father died. Consternation as well as grief filled the Cochran home. Probating the will of a country doctor is a grim, legal joke. He has too little to leave. Only three of Dr. Cochran's seven children were old enough to fend for themselves and a postmistress' salary could only care for one.

Eight years of struggle and deception followed. (She can laugh at them now.) Her oldest brother, Elbert, was head of the family, and youthfully conscious of it. He was, also, newly married, and newly ordained as minister of the Christian Church. To his home, where card-playing was a sin, came Kathryn, determined to be an actress! Seeing Guy Bates Post in "Omar, the Tentmaker" had changed her young life.

She had talent. Even Elbert, who considered any actress a hussy, had to admit that. It was obvious, too, that she must earn her living as soon as she was grown. So it was that Kathryn took dramatic lessons—a sin—in order to be an elocution teacher—a worthy profession which even straight-laced young clergymen study without getting into disrepute.

At sixteen, she was grown, so she thought, and a trained actress. An older sister took that occasion to buy Kathryn's share of their father's estate. It was little enough, but it was cash in the hand-bag. With it—and no permission—she went west.

The girl who arrived in Hollywood was not Kathryn Cochran of small Texas parishes, but a blond young Juno named Kitty O'Dare—because she had dared! It was that young and foolish. Bit parts followed mob anonymity and that—despite the name—was all. Perhaps she would have made good if she had stayed, but something was lacking. Acting, it finally dawned on her, wasn't dramatic! She blamed that on pictures. The theater, she was sure, would be different. With an ambitious eye on New York, she returned, after a few months, to Dallas, for more dramatic lessons.

If she had dared, with her name, to take a through train to New York—well, I might not be writing this story. She didn't dare—without more lessons. And, thus, she met a man named Cravens whom she later married.

SEVENTEEN is young enough to be amazed that a man so old—thirty if he was a day!—can be one of triplets. When "Wuss" Cravens ("wuss" being southern for worst of the three) returned to St. Louis, they corresponded.

Kathryn was getting letters, too, from a Hollywood friend who had "made" Broadway. A special delivery came one night. By pictures and glowing reports, a manager had been induced to hire Kathryn sight unseen.

She did not get to New York. The train she took the next morning was destined, by an impatient fate, to go through St. Louis. "Wuss" Cravens stood on the platform with flowers, candy and a determined look in his eye.

Three hours later they were married!

"And so, they lived happily ever after . . ." would have ended the story for most women. Rutherford Cravens was comfortably, if not fabulously, wealthy. The social position of his wife was assured. But Kathryn had seen that train pull out without her; had thought, with a pang, of the girl who would take her place. Before she would leave the station she wanted to know what would happen to her, now—not to Mrs. Rutherford Cravens but to her, herself. Love and affluence, she knew, would never be quite enough.

Standing there, "Wuss" Cravens made a promise that he has never broken. He swore that he would never do anything but help her work.

Leo Carillo came to St. Louis—so did Richard Bennett, Edna Hibbard and Guy Bates Post. With all of these Kathryn played—and well. Perhaps some people in St. Louis thought her a stage-struck society woman working off her energy and feeding her vanity. There were many such women, but Kathryn knew that she was not one of them—and so did the stars she played with. They offered her parts in their New York productions, but Kathryn couldn't accept—or wouldn't. Her place was in St. Louis.

Like many another actress she was unconcerned, at first, when old patrons went down the street to the "passing fad" of "squeakies." Kathryn Cravens' livelihood was not endangered when the stock company died of starvation, but her life was. She did need, only too truly, an outlet for her energies, and she needed the money—not for herself but for her "people." A chance kindness had become an obsession. She had, scarcely knowing it, a full-grown hobby and an expensive one. She had started "creating people."

Radio and amateur little theaters were poor substitutes for the stage that had died. The number of her radio efforts for KMOX show her dissatisfaction. She did a "girly-girly" woman's program; a negro dialect act in which, like Amos 'n' Andy, she played all the parts. She did "True Life Dramas"—sugared for what she took to be radio's taste. Then she heard Edwin C. Hill.

She had heard him before, of course, but this night was different. Forgotten sights and sounds and smells welled up out of the past. A village post-office and an old woman refusing to cry. The smell of cooking in a house where a child lay dead—cooking for the other children who must live. The scream of horses in a flaming barn—and of a rancher with third-degree burns. Her back stiffened with pride. She realized, at last, that her heritage was sympathy and humor as well as drama. She felt strong and strangely at home with herself. That was not surprising, because, for the first time, she had found herself.

News as a woman sees it. She must see it for others. Sympathy, humor and drama lay behind front-page print.

Three weeks later, "News Through a Woman's Eyes" went on the air from Coast-to-Coast—written and read by an actress! She had no nose for news? She had better. She had eyes to see and sympathy to lead her unerringly beyond the facts that news-trained noses sniff.

SHE doesn't ask a reporter's "where, when, how and why," but a woman's "How does it feel?"

How does it feel to be the mother of a murdered boy; of one to be executed that night? How does it feel to survive flood and misery; to be America's most notorious shop-lifter; to be the mayor of a great city, a congressional lobbyist, a famous playwright, a war-torn cripple, a flop-house bum?

She dresses in old clothes to wander through slums, or in Parisian imports to visit the great. A woman's intuition, not a nose for news, takes her by plane or on foot to the source of today's headlines.

She wouldn't leave St. Louis and home for theater make-believe. Some instinct told her that—for her—it was not important enough. But for radio, for this job of seeing life through her woman's eyes, she has moved to New York.

It is more than a job. It is an avocation. Week after week, she gives away her entire salary.

"Creating people" is her hobby—and a real hobby it is!

Kathryn Cravens may be heard Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays on News Through a Woman's Eyes over a CBS network at 2 p.m. EST (1 CST; 12 noon MST; 11 a.m. PST), and later for the West Coast at 2:30 p.m. PST (3:30 MST).

A WOMAN'S EYES

PHIL BAKER seems to be the Waterloo of interviewers," your editor wrote my husband. "Not because Baker isn't affable, but they just can't seem to find the story, though it's there. Suppose you try your hand."

My husband, who is an ace interviewer, tried, and came home all steamed up about Phil, pronouncing him one of the most regular guys he'd met in a coon's age. But—when he sat down and covered paper with words on the subject they were just that—words—not Phil Baker. "That's funny," he grumbled, "because Baker wasn't one bit mysterious. But this certainly doesn't show him."

My husband's newspaper called him out of town, so I went to see Baker in an effort to finish the job. He greeted me enthusiastically, "Say, that husband of yours sure has plenty on the ball!" And he made me glow with praise of Jerry's new book. But a slight suspicion popped into my head for a second and then was gone. But it had registered. The suspicion was: Sounds like you two talked about my husband's interests, not yours.

I got my appointment to come up to his apartment and meet him and his wife and ask any question I chose.

On the specified day, I'd hardly gotten inside the door before he was trying to get me to have coffee, tea, "some little snack of something"—sympathizing with me about the broken-down furnace at my house, saying, "You must be chilled! Here, let me put this robe over your knees."

CAREFUL, I warned myself, or it'll be you he talks about now! So, sternly, I got out one of the lists of questions with which I was going to try to pin him down. It was impudently personal, and if answered, bound to tell something. "Do you," I asked, "carry a spare bill?"

His easy-going smile vanished and he snapped back the hard-boiled truth. "Not more than a dollar or two as a rule, and the reason is, when I'm around, nobody else ever reaches for the check. Maybe there are men who pay their share, but I haven't met them. Why, last night I cashed a check at El Morocco for fifty and look —." He fished in his pocket for the three bucks that were left.

anxiously, "let me tell you a funny thing. I can't seem to do one thing to push relatives or personal friends. A stranger, easy. Somebody already in the profession, yep. But my own people, there's a jinx. For instance, I've got this kid cousin with a marvelous soprano voice—and I'd know a sour voice even if it was coming out of a cousin's mouth. But this kid's got a voice. When I was little and we were poor, her mother used to have my father, who'd been sick, come down to her little country town and feed him up on eggs and milk. So we couldn't forget that. Now, a short time ago, this kid's nice, healthy-looking truck-driver husband came home one night and lay down on their couch and died. Just plain died. She was destitute and thought maybe I could get this voice of hers a job. And I tried hard. But I couldn't even get her a twenty-five-dollar-a-week job in a chorus."

From there he jumped to the subject of the pathos of the Major Bowes hour. He thought it very commendable as far as it went, but—"There's nothing to that method. Suppose they go over? Well, they get six weeks on

Phil and the Missus. She's the former Peggy Cartwright

WHEN Phil Baker TALKED

But his resentment at chisellers vanished before a wave of excitement he felt about a very real person he'd met while he let others spend his money. His new friend's name was Frederic Kip Soldwedel. "An artist who does pictures, you know, about—forces of machinery.

"And guess what? One night I sang a song about Little Miss Muffet, my own arrangement dedicated to my little girl. I kind of like it, myself. But what do you think? This artist 'Kip,' who'd never laid eyes on me then, had his radio going for company while he was working. And when that came over it hit him so his things just fell on the floor out of his hands!" Baker beamed at me sheepishly.

I said, "Nice going!" And I was relieved to have gotten back somewhere in the territory of himself. "You get a kick out of trying to help others make the grade, don't you?"

"Sure, but," his forehead wrinkled the road. But after that, since vaudeville's been thrown down the alley, there isn't any 'school' for them to go to, like my crop had. No vaudeville to teach 'em the mechanics, and how to take it before it takes them, and how to tough it out the rest of the way up. You know how they were all plumbers or stenographers or coal miners beforehand? Well, they get this one break, six weeks of applause, then curtains and plumbing again. For all but a pitiful few."

I SAID something about really great talent always getting ahead. He snorted. "Great talent, huh! There isn't any among us. Cantor, Benny, Silvers, Healy, Durante, me? Phooey! Personality, sure—Durante's loaded to the gills with it, and Benny has a swell way of playing things down, understressing—I think I've caught the hang of it from him, I used to shout too much when I first worked before

MAYBE HE DOESN'T MEAN TO, BUT HE'LL TALK ABOUT ANYTHING UNDER THE SUN—EXCEPT ABOUT A COMEDIAN NAMED BAKER!

BY LELLA BRECKENRIDGE

a mike—well, they're a grand crew. But great talent? Oh no, you have to do something harder with personality than to put over gags before you can bandy those big words about."

Presently he continued. "Usually, if you have this thing called 'personality,' you get one break somewhere. But you have to follow it up plenty hard, and all the time. I was always scared to death the sun would quit shining on me before I could get my hay made, and practically all my family was dependent on me. So I just couldn't take a lay-off as long as I could get a job. I'd close one night after—say a 65-week run of a show—and open the next night at the Palace." That's a record! I let him rest a little to get over being tired from just remembering that grind.

"Then what happened?" I asked.

"Oh, then I got full of myself and thought I'd go over big playing the business man with all that dough I'd sweated to pile up. But the real estate sharks and the stock market magicians who could make money vanish did the playing. They played me for a sucker and cleaned me out."

He was mad clear through for a moment, but then he remembered something more cheerful. "I didn't forget, though, what had made me the dough in the first place. It was what's sitting here in this chair, inside this suit of clothes. And I said, 'Wise guys, eh? Well, I can make it all right back in the same old way. All I've got is me.' So I went to work developing that property again, and I came out all right," he ended.

Rather! A home in Mamaroneck, one in Palm Beach, this apartment in the East Fifties.

And I'd actually kept him talking about himself for all of ten minutes! But, before you get the idea that Phil Baker is a Pollyanna who loves all mankind, let me put you straight.

"Sure, I have enemies. And the queer thing about that," he said unhappily, "is that they're all folks I've tried to help, usually have helped."

"Go on," I urged him. I realized by then you had to let him talk about others to make him talk about himself.

"Well, there were a couple of shows I backed, and I let the interested parties have a free hand, and they flopped. Yet they blamed me, and have never been the same towards me since."

"Simple," I exclaimed, "they're embarrassed at losing your money. How could they feel easy with you?"

"Then there are some of the kids I've worked up to be somebody through my radio programs. Some of them have soured on me." He looked upset about that. "Take ———, one of my early stooges, and plenty funny. (By the way, he's always denouncing stooges these days.) Anyway, I took him out of a ten-dollar-a-week job and I let him do his best, taught him what his best was sometimes. We worked together, ate together, lived together. Pretty soon he clicked and he deserved to.

KNOW how he treats me now? When he comes to town he can't spare time to see me. Oh sure, he tells all our friends he 'wants' to look me up, so I call him, but he never calls back. The last time I finally did get hold of him and he made a date, but was to phone at a certain time to let me know where we were to meet. I rushed from some place to be in my room for his call. And I watched the phone like a high school kid hoping the 'Big Moment' will ring up. He never did call.

"When I saw it was no use waiting any longer I sent him a wire saying: There comes a time in the life of every genius when he can't afford not to keep appointments. I feel very sorry for you. After that I went out to get something to eat and I ran into a columnist he'd stood up earlier in the day. We cried into our soup together over him. He can't get away with that stuff long. Nobody's so big he can afford to make others feel small."

Which last is a clew to Phil's character and his apparent elusiveness in interviews. He doesn't think he is the only topic big enough to discuss.

"A number of youngsters I've built up from time to time have grown too big for their boots," he continued, "and now when I see it coming, I fire them. Because you can't play radio against the grain of the other actors, because radio isn't anything but voices. And you can't cover up antagonism in voices when you haven't any scenery or costumes or stage business or smiles to do it with. Get me?"

I got him. A voice is a lone, defenseless thing all by itself.

Incidentally, he thinks, as much as he loves the stage, that radio performers should not use costumes and make-up and stage tricks, for that may make the studio audience respond when maybe it's a lousy program to the broadcast audience.

He said again, heavily, "Yes, you can lump all my enemies under the heading of people I've tried to help, and who don't like me for it."

"But," I pointed out, "it goes down easier to be the giver. You always reach for the check first. Why, honestly, now?"

BECAUSE, he admitted, "I don't like being under obligations to others."

"Then how," I persisted, "do you think those kids feel who have taken favors from you? Crummy, I suspect. For no matter how big-shot they get to be, they always remember you once were their boss. I imagine the airs they put on with you are a bluff to kid themselves into self-assurance."

"I never thought of that," he conceded, but he was still hurt by the episode about his old stooge.

I asked him about his wife next. She'd just left on an errand. "Do you mind if I write something about her too?"

"Lord, no! Write the whole article about her, if you want." (There he was at it again, casting the limelight away from himself.) "Let me tell you," he came and shook his cigarette at me for emphasis, "she's the most remarkable woman I know, bar none."

FOUR years ago, she was Peggy Cartwright whom the Schuberts had brought over to play in "Americana." She was making a personal hit but the show wasn't when Phil Baker met her. "So," he chuckled, "I sold the Schuberts a load of apples. I told 'em, 'You know your show's flopping but give me a part in it and I'll make it click.' I wanted to be where I could get acquainted with that girl. She's not easy to know. But I got acquainted. I married her five weeks later.

"A week or so before we were married, I asked her hadn't she better buy herself some clothes, a trousseau, say? She said quite probably, and she let me tag along. She bought seven dresses for eighty dollars! That's all clothes mean to her—nothing. That fur coat that you just saw her go out in is the only thing worth a darn that she has, and I had to force that on her for her birthday."

It was a crisp, clean-cut coat, not one of these lavish indulgences in display. It suits her. She's small, has fair brown hair that goes back from a candidly pretty face. She has a lovely British speaking voice that puts people at their ease, yet keeps them in their proper places. She's cordial but not fraternal. And I don't like trying to make phrases about her, because they sound too glib.

She's not in the theater now. She's Phil Baker's wife. No matter how he tries to soft-pedal himself, she doesn't follow suit. She's utterly absorbed in his children—two here, a third on the way—in his country home, his comfort, his happiness.

BEFORE she left she had had to help find Soldwedel's address, then check up on the people they were counting on to help them push Kip. But Phil made finding that address seem like Spring cleaning. She laughed. "It's always like this. He'll find everything but fishing worms in his pockets before it turns up." That settled, she had to assure him that the Coast would get him on long-distance here in town even if he had told them the country house. "When they're trying to get a contract with someone," she told him, "they can think, Phil."

He still looked a little dubious, but trusting—if she said so.

My time was getting short, so I fired some quick questions about small details. "Are you interested in clothes?"

"No," he grinned unabashed, "but I do like to bathe. And I change all my linen every day. I guess that's because my father was in the junk end of the fur business when I was a kid, and came home looking like a coal miner at night. But in thirty minutes he was spotless. I must have inherited the desire to keep clean from him."

If I hadn't steered him off he'd have spent the remaining few minutes on his dad.

I interrupted. "You said your family was poor. How did you like being broke?"

"I was never 'broke,'" he corrected me. "I always had food and shelter. Of course, my mother had only about six dollars a week to feed the six of us, but that was enough!" (He still knows the real value of money.)

He was following up another angle. "My mother has a time these days, since I've become fairly well known. Has a time about hard-up distant relatives cropping up, worrying her to get me to help them."

He frowned. "I do my best, but I told you how impossible it seems for me to get them jobs, so I—er—just put 'em on my list of dependents. That's about all I can do. It's an awful trial to my mother, because she knows I can't be a sieve for money to trickle through endlessly, yet they prey on her mind—their troubles. I hate to see her so worried," he ended.

Everything you asked him, it was the same old story. Someone else was the crux of his reply. No wonder interviewers felt he gave them the run-around. But not because he was evasive, and not because he's colorless.

But he's vivid because he's charged with the electricity of his interest in other people's gifts, struggles, tragedies, and shortcomings. He has that God-given trait that any actor, on stage, screen, or air, must have to go over to an audience—the knack of putting himself into the other fellow's shoes, so that they, in turn, will feel, for the moment, one with Phil Baker.

Phil Baker may be heard Sundays over a CBS network at 7:30 p.m. EST (6:30 CST; 5:30 MST; 4:30 PST).

AN ALL-AMERICAN

LAST week I tried to give you a rapid summary of the first fifteen years of my life. I spent those years, you might say, in constantly trying to "do something" and failing. Looking back on them, though, I can see that what I was really trying to do was to find myself.

It is curious that we should use that expression—finding yourself. For that is exactly what the singer, and any other artist as well, must do. Oddly enough, a singer is not born knowing that she is a singer. She has to be told; and it is someone else, rather than any inner voice, who tells her. I will tell you how one singer—Rose Bampton—found herself, and I think you will discover here again a likeness between my life and your own.

When I was fifteen years old my family moved from Ohio to New York State and settled in Buffalo. My father was still working for the steel mill and a better job took him east. My credits were transferred to the high school in Buffalo, which was only a couple of blocks from the house we took there.

That school wasn't like the high schools today. It didn't have a swimming-pool or an athletic field. It was old-fashioned and set in old-fashioned ways; and the most old-fashioned thing about it was its principal, Dr. Babst. I was sure from the start that I wasn't going to like him. He was a tall, cold man—and as rigid and unyielding as his own Victorian ideas. (So I thought.) He did not permit girls and boys to mingle together at school under any circumstances. In assembly the girls sat on one side of the room and the boys on the other. We could not speak to each other in the halls or on the grounds, or even within a given number of blocks from school when on our way home.

IHAD my first quarrel with him at once. In Ohio, if you had a high-enough average in your studies—which meant 90—you didn't have to take final examinations. My average had been 90 and I had never taken an examination. Now, I was told, I would have to take the regents' examinations. That frightened me; and then I found out that if I wanted to graduate as scheduled, I would also have to take something like six subjects in one term and seven in my last. I couldn't get credit for all of the subjects I had enough. I insisted that I would take the thirteen subjects in my senior year and graduate on schedule, and he shrugged his shoulders and let me do it—perhaps feeling that if I was foolish enough to ruin my health by studying all night that was my own problem.

Then, almost at once, I had another quarrel with him. He traveled in Europe nearly every Summer and brought back statues and antiques and souvenirs on which he lectured in assembly. The talks were interesting, and I wrote a couple of little articles about them and sent them to a local newspaper printed in South Buffalo. I had been doing this for a short while when Dr. Babst happened to see one of my articles. He called me into his office the next morning.

MY DEAR girl," he said, "these little lectures of mine are confidential—for the students! You have no right to write them up professionally!"

He made me feel like a cheap spy of some sort, and again I thought he was only being mean and cruel. What I didn't understand was that he felt as he did about my publishing accounts of his lectures just as he felt the way he did about boys and girls mingling on the school grounds, because his own, personal moral standards were so high. He was not mean or cruel; he was business-like and efficient in his work, yes; but under the surface he had a great sense of the dignity and worth of training young minds. I was soon to learn how much he really loved and sympathized with us—for, as you have guessed by now, it was this same Dr. Babst, whom I hated, who divined that I had a voice and encouraged me to develop it.

It happened in a strange fashion. At Christmas time, we always sang songs in assembly. Because my name happened to begin with a "B," I sat in the taken in the other school in Massillon.

"You simply can't take that many subjects," Dr. Babst said to me. "You can't graduate in four years. You'd better forget it."

To me, brought up as I had been, that was an insult pure and simple; he was telling me that I wasn't bright front row, right in front of the director.

I always sang at the top of my voice, so he could hardly help but hear me. This Christmas we were to have a pageant. There were a lot of angels in it, but, since my hair was dark and not blond, I couldn't be an angel. Again I didn't fit? Sometimes I think the beginning of my life was one long story of not quite fitting. But, one day, one of the angels got sick and couldn't sing. I was sitting there, and the director walked over to Dr. Babst and they held a whispered conversation. Then the director walked down to the footlights, leaned over, and handed me the part of Mary in the pageant.

SINGER'S Life Story

FACE ADVERSITY—AND TO FIGHT BACK!

"Sing this for me, Rose," he said. "But I can't sing it," I objected. "I don't know it."

"Sing it," he said. "Go on." Confused, I looked over at Dr. Babst, and he gave me a gentle nod of encouragement. "Yes, Rose," he said. "Sing it for us."

I stood up and sang my way through the role as well as I could, and when I was done Dr. Babst nodded again. "That was very good, Rose," he said—and I had the part. My first part! The first time I had ever actually done anything and succeeded!

And after the pageant he came up to me and asked me, "Rose, would you like to sing at assembly for us some morning?"

Sing at assembly! Someone really thought I was good enough to get up on the stage by myself and sing for the others! If it is the dream of your life to become a singer, as it was the

"No," I admitted reluctantly. "What?" he almost shouted. "You don't know the Bach Ave Maria? Why, Rose, you must! It's one of the most beautiful pieces of music ever written. Not know the Ave Maria!—why, I've never heard of such a thing! All great singers know it and sing it."

"But, Dr. Babst," I protested weakly, "I'm not a great singer." And then with the utmost casualness, as though it were something to be taken quite for granted, something he had known all along and was amazed to find I didn't know too, he said quietly, "But you will be, Rose!"

Those first thrilling words of encouragement that meant so much, the first hint that someone really thought I was a singer, came from this man whom I had disliked with all my heart! Such are the strange paths along which we find our way to our life work! No meteor blazes across the sky, no miracle takes place. When you least expect it, from the every-day life close around you today, from a casual friend or even from someone you believe to be your enemy, will come the right word that will set you on the track . . . Watch for it!

As though it were really some mystic word, some open sesame which had been spoken for me, no sooner did I to Seth Clark, my first voice teacher. Then it was back once more to—discouragement. I have warned you that a singer's life is one long list of discouragements with, now and then at long intervals, a glimpse of hope. I warn you of it again. My life has been like that, and yours will be too if you hope to sing.

Just before I was graduated from high school, I heard that the Federation of Women's Music Clubs was sponsoring a contest for young singers. Auditions were to be held in Wanamaker's auditorium in New York City, and the winner was to receive $500. Five hundred dollars to me looked like five million—but so, for that matter, did the railroad fare to New York. I was giving piano lessons to some neighbor children after school to earn a little money for myself, but that wasn't enough to pay for a trip down to the city and pay for hotel and other expenses while I was there.

But my dad came through like the grand man he is. He got together enough money to send Mother and me down to New York. I had never been there and neither had she. We found the auditorium and, in the hall outside, I went into a complete panic. Stage fright!

"I WILL not go in there," I said over and over, my teeth chattering. "I will not go in there and sing!"

"Darling, after all the sacrifice we've made to get here you do want to go in and sing, don't you?" she entreated me, but I was too frightened to move. She had to lead me in almost by the ear.

I sang—and I think if you have followed my career this far you know what happened to me. The prize went to another girl. And there was no second prize! There wasn't even a booby prize! Our fare from Buffalo, thing like a voice, but it did not alter the fact that once more, for the *n*th time, I had failed. And right then was when I decided that never again would I tell anyone of my plans. If you don't tell people you're entering contests they can't possibly know it if and when you fail.

BACK I went to Buffalo, to my piano lessons for children. Back I went to Seth Clark, my teacher, and to Mary Howard, who was teaching me sight reading. She was the music critic in Buffalo, and had known all the great musicians and singers of her time. At last I knew in my heart of hearts, knew for sure, that a singer was what I wanted to be, what I must be.

But I had come that far only to learn, it seemed, that I could go no farther. For Mary Howard felt that I must go to Europe at once if I was to have a finished voice and a musical background. And Seth Clark, although he realized that it was entirely beyond my means, confessed that he felt much the same way about it. A course of study in Europe, running into years, was regarded as an absolute necessity for every singer. It was the consensus of musical opinion everywhere that singers who got their training in America remained poor singers. I must go to Europe—or fail.

And I knew there would be no Europe for me!

"Rose Bampton," I said to myself, with my heart breaking, "your story ends right here!"

Only seventeen years old, Rose Bampton found herself in that blind alley which has meant despair to many an American girl who has wanted to sing. "You must study in Europe," she was told. But Europe was far beyond her family's means. How she won back her courage, how she cleverly outwitted the "You must go to Europe" adage by remaining completely American makes a story which will prove inspiring to every woman! On Saturday, Kirsten Flagstad brings the "Met" season to a close with a broadcast of Wagner's master work, "Lohengrin," one of the most beautiful of all operas. Wagner finished the score of "Lohengrin" in the year 1847, in Dresden. It was the year of his exile from Germany for political intrigue, an exile which was to last for ten years, and before this time, Wagner had heard no more than a chorus of the first act.

As the curtain rises, we find Henry the Fowler, King of Germany, sitting on the banks of the River Scheldt. Around him are knights and nobles of Saxony, Thuringia and Brabant, the Brabantians headed by Frederick of Telramund, his wife, Ortrud, beside him. The King has come to gather an army, but he finds the people torn in dissension. The young Duke Godfrey of Brabant, who, with his sister Elsa, lived under the charge of Telramund, has disappeared. Telramund, who was to marry Elsa, has been persuaded by Ortrud to believe that the girl herself killed the boy. Ortrud, faithful to the ancient gods, is a practitioner of black magic, and she is responsible for Godfrey's disappearance.

Elsa must prove her innocence in trial by combat, and she tells the King of a dream she has had, in which a knight in shining armor came to her aid. This is the famous "Elsa's Dream." The King, impressed, invokes the judgment of God, and shortly there appears, in a boat drawn by a swan, a mysterious knight. He champions Elsa, and defeats Telramund in battle. Act II finds Telramund and Ortrud crouched dejectedly in a corner of the King's palace. They are in disgrace. But Ortrud, crafty and scheming, has not yet lost hope. She argues that the mysterious knight's power derives from his hidden identity, and tells her husband that he could be defeated were that identity discovered.

Elsa comes to the window to sing of her new love, and Ortrud approaches her, makes dark hints against the mysterious knight, hints of magic and the powers of darkness. Elsa defends him, but the seed of doubt has been sown.

On the next day, preparations are made for Elsa's marriage to her defender. The wedding procession moves across the courtyard. A herald has proclaimed the banishment of Telramund, and his Dukedom of Brabant has been offered to Elsa's champion, who refuses. But now Telramund and Ortrud appear and charge the mysterious knight with black magic. The King will not listen, the couple are driven forth. Elsa's mind, however, is filled with doubt. The Bridal Chamber in the palace is the first scene of Act III. The orchestra plays the gorgeous "Epithalamium" prelude, and the curtain rises. The great doors at the rear of the chamber fly open, and the wedding procession enters, singing the familiar "Bridal Chorus." All save Elsa and the knight retire, and Elsa begins to question the knight as to his identity. His reminders of her promise, when he fought for her, to preserve his anonymity, do not dissuade her.

Suddenly Telramund enters, followed by four henchmen, and moves to attack the knight. Telramund is slain, and his henchmen kneel to the champion. Realizing he can no longer guard his identity, the knight decides to reveal himself.

As the second scene of Act III opens, we find the King waiting beneath the Oak of Justice. Elsa, pale and perturbed, approaches, followed by the stern-visaged knight. He justifies his slaying of Telramund, and reveals Elsa's broken vows to the assemblage. He proclaims himself to be Lohengrin, the son of Parsifal of Monsalvat, a knight of the Holy Grail. Now, Lohengrin tells the King, he must leave. The swan is seen approaching as Elsa laments. She is told by Lohengrin that had she trusted him for a year, her brother, Duke Godfrey would have been returned to her. As he steps aboard the swan boat, Ortrud declares that her magic has triumphed, that the swan is none other than the Duke Godfrey. Invoking Divine aid, Lohengrin restores Godfrey to his rightful state, proclaims him Duke of Brabant, and sorrowfully takes his leave. Crying, "My husband! My husband!" Elsa sinks lifeless to the ground as Lohengrin disappears forever.

Paul Althouse: "Parsifal" in the Met's Good Friday closed performance

MUSIC of the MASTERS

THE uncommon opportunity of hearing part of the last act of Richard Wagner's Parsifal, in concert form with an excellent orchestra, will be given listeners by the Philadelphia Symphony's broadcast of the "Good Friday Spell," on March 26. The only performance in this country this season of the complete score of Wagner's last work will be the annual Good Friday matinee in the Metropolitan Opera House—not to be broadcast—for which all tickets were sold to subscribers without any box-office offering. Paul Althouse sings Parsifal. The rarity with which this music is performed and the sublimity and beauty of its pathos make this an occasion not to be missed.

Several themes around love, renunciation, and salvation preceded the Parsifal poem of Wolfram von Eschenbach, the Minnesinger, in Wagner's mind, and it took many years for it to reach fruition. First, Wagner projected Parsifal, the guileless Knight, who repulsed Kundry, provided the cure and restored Amfortas to health. It is in Act III that this comes about: in the first scene we witness the return of Parsifal to the aged Gurnemanz and to Kundry, who becoming penitent has donned a garb of sack-cloth and seeks to make amends by doing good. The plight of the Knights is told to Parsifal, and after the Spell of Good Friday—the day on which all creation rejoices in the Savior's sacrifice and love—is observed, bells are heard in the distance, gradually increasing in tone, until we are led into the Hall of the Grail. There the miracle is enacted and the Grail shines again. Love and Benediction descend on the Knights and voices are heard from on high offering adoration to the Redeemer.

As you doubtless know, it was Wagner's wish that Parsifal never be heard outside Bayreuth, and, as long as the copyright lasted, it never was.

BY CARLETON SMITH

The idea of a music-drama on the subject of the Emperor Frederick Barbarossa. Then, he drafted a sketch for a play on the theme of Jesus of Nazareth. But it shortly became clear that neither of these subjects were suitable for treatment in his musical idiom.

"I was burning," he tells us, "to write something that should take the message of my tortured brain, and speak in a fashion to be understood by those living today. Just as with my Siegfried, the force of my desire had borne me to the fount of the Eternal Human: so now, when I found this desire cut off by modern life from all appeasement, and saw afresh that sole redemption lay in flight from out this life, casting off its claims on me by self-destruction, did I come to the fount of every modern rendering of such a situation: Jesus of Nazareth, the Man."

There is already something of Parsifal in this, but it was not until a quarter of a century later that the poem, as we know it, took final form.

THE story is one of those associated with the legend of the Holy Grail. The Castle of the Grail is Monsalvat, to which Lohengrin (in the Metropolitan's broadcast the day after—March 27) returns. There the holy knights guard two precious objects: the spear with which Christ's side was pierced on the Cross, and the Cup from which He drank at the Last Supper, and that received His blood while He hung on the Cross. Only the pure of heart can be of this chosen company, whose mission it is to do good in the world through the miraculous powers conferred on them by the Grail.

The crisis of the opera occurs before the curtain rises. Klingsor, whose ambition to be one of the Knights of the Grail was frustrated by the evil in his heart, has begun to practise a black magic. He has created a beautiful garden and peopled it with seductive young women, through whom he snared the souls of the weaker Knights. Amfortas, son of the old Titurel, who built Monsalvat, one day took the sacred Spear with him to exorcise the Spirit of Evil in Klingsor's garden, but he, too, succumbed to the wiles of Kundry, most beautiful of the maidens in the service of Klingsor. The evil Knight, thus able to gain possession of the Spear, dealt Amfortas a wound in the side for which no remedy had been found at that time.

great Richard felt that owing to the solemnity of the subject it required a special stage, a special occasion, a profound atmosphere, and a select audience. Also, its exclusiveness added to the box-office exchequer, and Wagner was not averse to that. But now, due to circumstances over which neither Wagner nor his heirs had control, the noble music can be heard in your home at your invitation with you and your guests as the select audience, and your own pleasure will provide the atmosphere.

THE best of all those youngsters—professionals and amateurs—who tried out during the season's Metropolitan Auditions of the Air will be heard during the grand finale of the series Sunday. Many a heart has beat faster during the past five months as its hopeful owner stepped before the microphone with the stage of the old brownstone house at 39th and Broadway as a goal. Only one or two, or possibly three of these, will trod the boards that have for half a century resounded to the world's greatest voices; but all will have gained immeasurably in experience and understanding of what is ahead for them. None that are talented and have faith in their talent should give up. For success never comes the first time.

Gladys Swarthout, who assumed her first major role at the Metropolitan when she sang Mignon a week ago, did not do so well. According to the New York Times: "It would have taken a very susceptible person, indeed, to be moved deeply by Miss Swarthout's interpretation. . . . The 'Comme-tu le pays,' and the 'Swallow' duet found Miss Swarthout decidedly out of her element, her singing in them creating almost no atmosphere and leaving the hearer cold."

It is not always possible for a personality that makes itself felt in the cinema and over the microphone to appear at its best on the large Metropolitan stage. Miss Swarthout may grow in her operatic work as she has in her concert work, though her vocal limitations are such that she will never be able to negotiate the greater roles of the repertory with distinction.

Carleton Smith may be heard Fridays on the Chicago Symphony Hour over an NBC network at 11 p.m. EST (10 CST; 9 MST; 8 PST).

CHICAGO.—What the radio beauties are planning to wear in the Easter Parade: Virginia (Helen Trent) Clark, a dusty-pink sheer wool with a row of militantly arrayed covered buttons, set off by gray accessories; Sunda (Junior Nurse Corps) Love, a navy-blue cape and a dress of riotously splashed print with navy-blue background and a diamond-shaped neckline bound in chartreuse; Louise (Mortimer Gooch) Fitch, a navy-blue tailored suit and a saucy navy bumper beret with ribbons; Patricia (Bachelor's Children and Today's Children) Dunlap, a three-piece beige suit with topcoat of swagger style and collar trimmed with beige fox fur.

Romance Corner: Ranch Boy Hubert (Shorty) Carson and Chicago Home Girl June Fosse have become engaged . . . Secret no longer is the marriage last November of Air Comedienne Mabel Albertson and Gaghan Ken England, who writes some of the gags for Helen Broderick.

As this issue of RADIO GUIDE goes to press, I'll be flying to Detroit to witness a program that as you read this you will have heard—last Sunday's make up time lost because no cabs were available, she tumbled down the elevated's stairs—and remembering her precious fingers and arms, when she fell she "took it on the chin."

Hollywood Flicks: Fred Waring and his troupe will make the picture "Varsity Show" for First National studios starting April 10 . . . Now broadcasting from a special studio set-up in Palm Springs, Calif., Amos 'n' Andy will transfer their mixings to the NBC studios in Hollywood within a month . . . Want to hit a true high C? Marion Talley's advice is to play plenty of tennis . . . Columbia records will be on the market soon with the songs of baritone Clarence Muse and the philosophical humor of Irvin S. Cobb, both of the Paducah Plantation show.

Most Plumful Crack of the Week: A certain network studio

FRED MacMURRAY will continue on the Hollywood Hotel program for at least another thirteen weeks, much to the surprise of the radio scribblers who have been predicting he would be replaced by Tony Martin.

It looks as though Tony Martin will be out of the radio picture for a while because he will be replaced on the Burns and Allen program by Nick Foran, and not by Phil Regan as was widely rumored last week.

The Sunday evening show featuring Rubinoff and his violin will originate in Hollywood on and after April 18, while Rubinoff is working on his second movie. Virginia Rea and Jan Peerce may not continue on the program. In any event there will be guest stars.

The March of Time will add more stations to its network April 15, when the your loudspeaker—if you're tuned in on the NBC-Blue network—will come the pros and cons of marital life, for this is the new time for the "Husbands and Wives" program starting April 6. It takes over the spot now occupied by the Log Cabin Dude Ranch show, which leaves the air.

Shep Fields is preparing a new idea to supplement his Rippling Rhythm. The ork pilot has purchased eleven accordions for the members of his band who do not already own them, and by this time next year he expects his boys to be prepared to start his new idea.

Gene Austin, who, in my opinion, occupies the most entertaining spot on the Joe Penner program, will continue to be heard on this show for at least another thirteen weeks.

Not so fortunate is the Paducah Plantation, featuring Irvin S. Cobb. It leaves the air on April 10. "First Nighter" will also sign off early in April, and Don Ameche, who has been on the air for seven years, leaves radio to give sole attention to the movies.

show of Smilin' Ed McConnell in which the mountain (Ed) went to Mohamet (Royal Oak, Mich.) to stage his broadcast from the home of the McConnell diet-contest winner, Aloysius Charlebois. I'll tell you all about it next week . . . Marge, of Myrt and Marge, is planning to tune in Old Doc Stork in May . . . Chicago's NBC studios are auditioning standard vaudeville acts each Wednesday afternoon. Hoofers with air ambitions are invited to contact Sidney Strotz, manager of the Program Department and Artists Service, Central Division, National Broadcasting Company, Chicago.

Is this funny? A few days ago I peeked through the studio windows at "Teatime at Morrell's." With Don McNeill as m.c., the program is supposedly a laugh riot . . . But a large majority of the predominantly juvenile audience was busily engaged in reading comic strips in newspapers!

Lum 'n' Abner, now winding up a week of broadcasting from Chicago, came to the Windy City to confer with their sponsor. Their permanent headquarters will remain in Hollywood, however . . . Grace Moore, changing trains in Chicago last week on her way east and to a planned vacation on Italy's Dalmatian coast, was surprised to learn her agents had signed her for the Speedshow opus. "But definitely," she answered when kiddingly queried, "I won't sing 'Minnie the Moocher' over the radio" . . . Another radio-screen-opera songstress, Lily Pons, and Andre Kostelanetz will be heard and seen in at least two performances of the Chicago City Opera Company next Fall . . . Your long-promised return of the NBC Minstrels, with Gene Arnold as interlocutor, is postponed another week—this time until April 7.

First radio casualty of Chicago's taxicab strike was Christine, the pianist, who wasn't in a scab cab—but riding on the elevated! In her haste to Podium Pothooks: Packing them into Chicago's College Inn is the jam band of Red (Loring) Nichols. Hear him over CBS . . . Henry King succeeds George Hamilton at the Windy City's Palmer House (MBS pick-up) on April 9; Eddy Duchin relieves H. King, May 21 . . . Anson Weeks' visitors last week were Songwriters Mack Gordon and Harry Revel, who sang praises of the forthcoming Bernie-Winchell celluloid epic, "Wake Up and Live" (for which Gordon and Revel wrote the music) . . . Paul Whiteman definitely will open at Chi's Drake Hotel April 9.

NBC Mikeman Bob Brown, presented with two pounds of limburger cheese by a well-meaning fan, hid the package in his desk—near a radiator!

Dramatically Speaking: Lovely Joan Blaine, the radactress, will leave Chicago about April 1 on a flight to Palm Springs, Calif., to visit a sister living there. Joan's mother will accompany her. May 1 possibly will see Miss Blaine back in the radio picture as star of a big-time dramatic series originating in New York . . . First discovered Chicago star to go trailer crazy is Olan Soule. He'll be week-ending in his new home-on-wheels this Spring and Summer.

program will take on a new bankroller—a refrigerator manufacturer. This excellent dramatic show will leave the air about the middle of July to give the cast and workers a rest, but will resume for the magazine publisher in September.

Edwin C. Hill winds up his Sunday Night Spectator series, but on April 5 he will begin a new series of daytime programs directed to women listeners. He will combine current events comments with spot news for a cigarette sponsor.

The Merry-Go-Round program has added Comics Willie and Eugene Howard to bolster its show in the hope of getting some of the listeners from the Rippling Rhythm show and the Ford Sunday Evening Hour, which have given them some stiff competition.

When the sun rises on Easter Sunday, Richard Maxwell, tenor, will be at Restland Memorial Park in New Jersey to conduct a program which will go on the air there exactly at sunrise. Last year, 10,000 gathered there for the songs of comfort and cheer.

Dr. Allan Roy Dafeo, who, according to reports, is doing a grand job of advising mothers how to bring up their children, has been renewed for another stanza. Ditto for "We, the People," one of this column's favorites.

agement at the Chez Paree in Chicago, but took a night off last week to fly to the Coast to make an appearance on the Hollywood Hotel program. She flew out Thursday night, and was back by Saturday night.

If Helen Broderick and Victor Moore don't go over in a big way with their listeners, it will not be any fault of their own. They employ no less than five comic scriptwriters who collaborate on the material, which should get them a good weekly script.

When you hear the orchestra on the Al Pearce show on Tuesdays go into its swinging, there is no Larry Marsh directing, as Al would have you believe. The leader is Sepp Morscher; but then again, maybe Larry Marsh is the English translation of that name.

Music-lovers will be interested in hearing the new NBC Symphonic Hour on Friday nights. My colleague, Carleton Smith, is the commentator and he informs me that the music has something to say about the daily life of us all, and that means you and you.

NBC is bragging about the people who lend so much color to its roster. The RED and the BLUE networks have Francia WHITE, Billie BLUE, Frank BLACK, PINKY Lee, Glen GRAY, and Rosaline GREENE.

Frank Parker has just celebrated his 10th year on the air. That sounds like a long time, but Frank is actually 33 years old and not 26 as some would have you believe.

Some Chicagoans were amazed when they read the ads of a Windy City department store on March 13 boasting that Boake Carter would be out in front of the store early in the morning to greet the customers. Several people who discussed it with this department felt it was hardly the thing for a dignified news commentator to do.

BETTE DAVIS ON 'HOTEL' PROGRAM

Flagstad Sings 'Lohengrin' In 'Met's' Last

Kirsten Flagstad, the reigning sensation of the Metropolitan, will bring to a close the New York opera season with a performance of Richard Wagner's immortal "Lohengrin" on Saturday, March 27.

Eagerly looked forward to by music-lovers all during the season, the Saturday broadcast will bring the greatest living Wagnerian soprano to the most ethereally beautiful of all Wagnerian opera.

When, two years ago, Kirsten Flagstad made her Metropolitan debut, she was unrecognized in any of the greater operas of the world. Her first performance sent staid New York critics into an uproar of enthusiasm. It was said of her at that time that she "brought back memories of those fabulous days before operatic singing went off the gold standard."

Since then Kirsten Flagstad has gone on to even more spectacular successes than those she enjoyed in her first New York roles, but the critics and audiences alike have exhausted their stories of superlatives. Today the announcement that Flagstad will sing insures a sell-out at the "Met." "Lohengrin" is one of Flagstad's favorite operas, and she has more than once demonstrated her ability to bring new life to the opera, often the victim of inartistic performances.

Rene Maison, young Belgian tenor, will sing the role of "Lohengrin." Ortrud will be sung by Karin Branzell, gifted Swedish contralto.

Maurice de Abravanel will conduct, with Milton Cross and Marcia Davenport offering interpretation and comment as usual.

Rare Bach Oratorio Performed on Friday

Johann Sebastian Bach's oratorio, "The Passion of Our Lord According to St. Matthew," one of the greatest—and most difficult—examples of this musical form ever written, will be presented in condensed form on the Chicago Symphonic Hour, Friday, March 26.

Featured in the shortened version of the oratorio will be Noble Cain's a Cappella Choir, a 50-piece orchestra conducted by Roy Shield, and soloists. Two hours and a half are required to perform the complete work, but choral excerpts will be used chiefly in this 50-minute broadcast.

Carleton Smith, internationally known music critic regularly heard as commentator on the Symphonic Hour, will explain Bach's attempt in this work to shed some light on the eternal question of what happens after death.

Film, 'Marked Woman,' Is Previewed

One of the screen's outstanding personalities will be presented on the Hollywood Hotel broadcast, March 26, when Bette Davis steps before the microphone to interpret the title role in her coming film, "Marked Woman." With her on the airing will be Humphrey Bogart, noted interpreter of villainous roles on the Broadway stage and in the movies.

Bette Davis will be remembered as the star who won the Motion Picture Academy Award for the year 1935 for her distinguished characterization in the film, "Dangerous." She first won widespread popular approval for her splendid interpretation of the leading feminine role in the screen version of Somerset Maugham's great story, "Of Human Bondage."

Recently Jimmy Fidler, Hollywood radio commentator, initiated a movement to name Bette Davis as America's greatest screen actress. Born at Lowell, Mass., April 5, 1908, as Ruth Elizabeth Davis, she is eligible by birth for the honor suggested, as well as by reason of her great screen performances.

"Marked Woman," the film to be previewed on the Hotel show, is the story of a vice ring. Bette Davis' role is an unsavory one, but it gives Bette a chance to present a great emotional characterization. Humphrey Bogart is cast as the prosecutor who breaks up the vice ring.

Woman Novelist To Be Cravens' Subject

Katharine Brush, one of the best-known of contemporary woman writers ("Red Headed Woman," "Young Man of Manhattan"), will be the subject of an interview to be reported on the air Friday, March 26, by Kathryn Cravens on her "News Through a Woman's Eyes" program.

Born in Middleton, Connecticut, Miss Brush began her career on The Boston Traveler, has been writing fiction since 1923. Her next novel, now being written, has a show-business-society background.

New Girl Stoooge For Stoop & Budd Is Alice Frost

Alice Frost, otherwise Alice Dorothy Margaret Frost Foulk, still otherwise Mrs. Robert C. Foulk, popular radio actress, has succeeded Joan Banks in the role of part-time pixie, or stoooge, on the Stoopnagle and Budd show.

Latest addition to the fun-making firm of Stoop, de Lys, Von Zell, Voorhees & Budd, Alice Frost has a noteworthy dramatic background.

Born in Minneapolis, the daughter of a clergyman, she began acting at the age of ten. Her golden hair clinched the part of Lorelei in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" on a Chatauqua circuit, and at the age of 18, she dedicated herself to a theatrical career.

She made her Broadway debut in the Theatre Guild's "Green Grow the Lilacs" in 1931. A series of stage engagements followed and in 1934 she branched out to radio. Since then she has been featured in outstanding network dramatic features in straight and comedy roles.

Mrs. Martin Johnson Air Magazine Guest

Mrs. Martin Johnson, wife of the famous explorer who for years braved African jungles only to die in a plane crash in America, and herself an explorer of outstanding achievement, will appear as guest on the Magazine of the Air Monday, March 29.

On Wednesday, Captain Tim Healy, speaker for the National Geographic Society and well-known philatelist will appear on the program—not to talk about the geographical wonders of the world, or about stamps, but on the subject of women in the news.

Reed Kennedy, baritone, B. A. Rolfe's orchestra, and the dramatic sketch "Trouble House" remain regular features.

Air Fashions From Gotham—& Sycamore!

Easter styles on Fifth Avenue, New York, and on Main Street, in Sycamore, Illinois, will be compared as a feature of the special Easter broadcast over the Red network Sunday, March 28.

Elsa Maxwell, internationally known hostess to society, and George Hicks, NBC fashion announcer, will broadcast a description of the Easter Parade on Fifth Avenue. Hicks will join the parade and go on the air with the "top hat transmitter" which conceals a miniature radio broadcasting station.

In contrast to this picture, NBC will take its listeners to Main and Somnauk Streets in Sycamore, Illinois—population 4000—where a description of the Easter parade of church-goers there will be put on the air by a Chicago announcer, assisted by Frank Dean, editor and publisher of the Sycamore Tribune.

Lady & Two Friends

Comedian Ken Murray, Marlyn Stuart, and the ever-present Oswald Labriola begin a new series for CBS Wednesday, March 31, 8:30 p.m. EST

Anne Seymour Goes To 'Mary Marlin' In Lead Role As Show Expands Time

The Story of Mary Marlin appears at a new time and with a new star Monday, March 29.

Anne Seymour, top-ranking actress best known as the star of "Grand Hotel"—off the air for the Summer April 4—is the star. And 5 p.m. EST is the time.

The serial will continue its airtime of 12:15 p.m. EST over the Red network, in addition to the new spot.

At least as well known and as much loved as any dramatic serial on the air, The Story of Mary Marlin made its debut on WMAQ, Chicago NBC station, on October 3, 1934, and went to the Red network January 1, 1935.

It is the down-to-earth story of the troubles, joys and daily experiences in the married life of Joe and Mary Marlin. Playing the male lead is Robert Griffin, an actor who began his dramatic career at the Pasadena Community Playhouse in 1925. He joined the Mary Marlin cast early in 1936.

Other members of the cast are Carlton Brickert, Judith Lowry, June Meredith, Isabel Randolph, Ann Stone, Robert Barron, Arthur Kohl and Frances Carlon.

Stokowski Is Back With Philadelphia

Back from an extended visit to Hollywood, Leopold Stokowski will lead the Philadelphia Orchestra in its broadcasts Friday, March 26, over the Columbia facilities.

While in the East, Stokowski plans to formulate his future motion picture plans. He submitted several original ideas for musical motion pictures while on the Coast.

Eugene Ormandy, who has conducted the Philadelphia during Stokowski's absence, goes on concert tour.

Stokowski, who has become a familiar Hollywood figure, has become a great friend of Bing Crosby.

Ancient Instruments Played With Newest

For the first time in the history of radio, an ensemble of harpsichords, favorite instrument of the early composers and forerunner of the modern piano, will be presented over the NBC-Blue network weekly on Wednesday in a series by the Manuel and Williamson Harpsichord Ensemble of Chicago, beginning March 31.

One of the oldest musical instruments, the harpsichord will be featured on the new series in combination with the electric organ, most modern of musical instruments. Both instruments are somewhat similar in the great variety of tones they are capable of producing, harmonics and overtones being added to the fundamentals on both instruments.

Four of the ten "regal cembalo" harpsichords in America will be used on the program.

Moore, Broderick on New Schedule April 4

Without the services of Buddy Rogers as musical director (he's picture-making in England) but with Victor Moore and Helen Broderick very much in evidence, the "1937 Edition of Twin Stars" goes to the 8 to 8:30 p.m. spot on the WABC-Columbia Sunday night schedule beginning April 4.

Originating in the CBS Playhouse in Hollywood, the show will be carried over 66 stations of the nationwide Columbia network. Mary Martin will be featured as vocalist, and Lou Kosloff will substitute on the inaugural program for Rogers, just completing a film for British-Gaumont in England. He'll be back on the program shortly.

Veteran comedian of the American stage, Victor Moore broke into the "big time" while playing at Hammerstein's in New York in 1905, when George M. Cohan, impressed with his work, wrote a part into his memorable "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway" especially to fit Moore's talents. He made movie comedies for Jesse Lasky in 1915, and has starred in numerous sensationally successful musical comedies.

Helen Broderick started in the entertainment world as a chorus girl, graduated to comedienne. Her first Broadway success was "Fifty Million Frenchmen," her latest, "As Thousands Cheer."

'All-Star Cycle' Is New NBC-Blue Show

The renaissance of the bicycle, which is almost as popular today as ever it was in the dear dead Nineties, will be reflected in the premiere Thursday, April 1, of a new NBC-Blue show to be called All-Star Cycle, sponsored by bike manufacturers.

Ray Sinatra and his orchestra have been signed for the fifteen-minute weekly show, and an extensive guest-star policy will be followed, with Frank Parker, well-known NBC tenor, celebrating his tenth anniversary on the air with the first show.

Ruth Etting will guest April 8, Fibber McGee and Molly April 15, and Hildegarde, American singer who gained fame in European supper-clubs, starring on April 22.

Burns and Allen In 'Dulcy' For DeMille

George Burns and Gracie Allen, who have won fame and fortune by their discovery that they could be zany though married, will come to the Radio Theater Monday, March 29, for a guest performance of "Dulcy."

Written by Marc Connelly and George Kaufman, "Dulcy" enjoyed a long Broadway run some time ago.

Cecil B. DeMille, veteran Hollywood director in charge of the Radio Theater productions, will attempt to keep George and Gracie within reasonable bounds.

A CALLING ALL
CARS STORY
BY ARTHUR KENT

THEY were just a couple of local boys—but smart. They admitted it, being only twenty years old.

"Look," said the bigger one, "the way I figure it, a guy's entitled to what he can get in this world. The world owes me a living and I'm going to collect it."

"Sure," said the smaller one. He always agreed. You could prove anything by him—except to a jury. For that matter, stand them side by side and they looked very average. Not very tall, not very short. Fairly well dressed. Nothing to make them stand out; just a couple of guys you might see in a crowd.

But the big one had a kink and the little one yessed him. Neither of them figured where it was going to land them.

"You're my pal," said the big one. "Take a look!" He pulled something part-way out of his overcoat pocket.

"Gee!" said the little one, thoroughly impressed. For what he had seen was the butt of an automatic pistol. "A .45?" he hazarded.

"A .45!" assented the big guy, grandly. "I wouldn't carry anything else. Now listen—" He dropped his voice to a confidential murmur. "Way I figure crime, kid—any guy can make crime pay so long as he pays his income tax. That's where Capone made his mistake."

"Sure," agreed the smaller one. He had heard of income tax.

"Now, kid, I got a plan. Why should we sweat and slave—"

"We ain't got jobs," reminded the stooge.

"You don't understand!" Such interruptions made the big guy impatient. "I mean, sweat and strain with our brains, like. See?"

"Sure," said the little guy.

"Good! Now, I got a plan. Let's pull a stick-up. No, now, don't look scared. My stunt is brand-new. We don't drive no big car the police will recognize. We take a taxi and . . ."

So these two youths talked, on the last night in January, 1937, in the town of Watertown, Massachusetts. When they started to talk, neither was a criminal—except possibly in mind. By the time they had finished, crime seemed to offer an easy career of adventure and quick profit. Weren't the police dumb?

Sure! It was easy—to start.

TAXI-DRIVER Eugene Caswell was pleased when two nice-looking boys hailed him on Watertown's Waverley Street—and told him to drive to the town of Brighton. It had been a dull night. A fare like this would liven the evening up for him, thought Caswell. With professional alertness, he noticed that it was the bigger fellow who gave orders. He'd likely pay—and do the tipping.

"Yes, sir!" said Cabby Caswell as he slammed the door.

He said "yes sir" again when that bigger guy stuck a gun in the back of his neck—but his tone of voice was different.

"Drive to Arlington," a young but grim voice hissed in his ear. "And no funny business." Naturally Caswell .45, blustered into the service station. drove.

In Arlington, Massachusetts, at 264 Massachusetts Street, is a smart gasoline station that does a nice business. "Drive in here," said the youth with the gun, as Cabby Caswell cruised down the street. Caswell drove in. One of the guys jumped out as he pulled up beside the pumps. The other said, a little hesitantly:

"I've got you covered. I—I'd hate to kill you." Caswell sat. But the bigger guy, the one with the

It was all so ridiculously easy. In a few minutes, their first stick-up had netted the big boy and his stooge more than either had ever made in two weeks' work.

"Now," said the bigger one, "we take the taxi-driver out to a dark highway, roll him, drive away in the cab and ditch it. And then we're all set to make crime pay, fellow."

"Sure," said the smaller one. "But what's that screaming noise? It sounds—it sounds an awful lot like a police siren . . ."

THAT gas-station attendant, George Smith, didn't take the hold-up lying down. Of course, there isn't much a fellow can do when a .45 is trained on his gizzard. But after the two baby thugs had driven away, Smith remembered that the police can be plenty quick, if summoned in time. He remembered police radio. He telephoned . . . And shortly thereafter a police call went out over the ether:

" . . . stuck up a filling-station at 264 Massachusetts Avenue . . . Two young men in a taxicab . . . The driver apparently was intimidated . . ."

It was just two minutes after that call went out, that the wail of a police siren reached out and touched with fear the hearts of two young men in Cabby Caswell's taxicab.

Two minutes! It was like taking stolen candy from two babies!

"Pull over!" snapped Officer Thomas Curren of the Arlington police. His buddy, Officer Clinton Peabody, neatly tooled their cruiser up beside the pirated taxicab, forced it to the curb without even a fender-scratch.

"Come out of it!"

They came out of it—the smaller guy first, the bigger one next. Their hands were in the air—and their hands were empty. They knew professional gun-handling when they saw it. And they didn't like the looks of it!

"We—we never did anything like this before," said the little guy. "We're not crooks!"

"Get in here!" said Curren. And they got into the police car, meekly. Peabody was listening to the taxi-driver's almost tearful protestations—and believing them. That's one advantage of driving a hack in a small community. You get to know the cops and they get to know you. And sometimes that's a good thing.

"All right, Caswell," said Peabody. "Drive ahead of us to the station. You're probably right—but don't try anything."

"No, sir!" said Caswell.

"Gee," said the smaller guy, who gave his name as Dominick Ravesi. His pal claimed the name of Howard Files. "Gee," said Dominick, "I guess crime doesn't pay, after all."

"Sure it does," was the surprising answer of Officer Peabody. "It pays Curren and me plenty—for picking up guys like you, with the help of radio. Eh, Curren?"

"Sure," said Curren.

"Sure," echoed the little guy who always agreed. But there was a sad note in his voice.

YOUR UNSEEN FRIEND

BY MARY JACOBS

WHEN the barouche of the Viceroy of India, drawn by six prancing horses, drew up in front of the Joachim home in Calcutta, India, Maurice Joachim, whom you hear every Sunday over the CBS network as "Your Unseen Friend, The Voice of Conscience," stared pop-eyed at its splendor. His chums were equally amazed.

The boys couldn't restrain themselves. Excitedly, they crowded around nine-year-old Maurice. "Is your father really going to see the Viceroy of India? To eat at the same table with him?" they asked incredulously. "Gee, it must be swell to have a dad so important."

But to Maurice it wasn't "swell"—it was all very, very puzzling.

That very morning he had seen the local postmaster stick stamps on the end of a rod, which he thrust at a low-caste Hindu to avoid touching him. He had seen paupers arrested for drawing water from the public well. And he had seen boys and girls actually eating the refuse they removed from the streets. It was all they could get. That they were the lowest caste, Untouchables, he knew. But why were they pariahs, outcasts? Why was it forbidden to talk with them? Why did one pray if he accidentally touched their garments?

It didn't matter that his mother and father explained he was a Brahmin, a member of the highest caste in India, and therefore entitled to a life of ease and luxury, while others, through an accident of birth, were cursed forever.

Inequality — injustice — hardship wherever he went. What was the explanation? Wherein lay the answer?

He went to the University of Calcutta, to Oxford. He specialized in sociology, in psychology, in philosophy. Nowhere could he find a working basis for living.

When the World War started, he was too young to enlist, so he lied about his age and entered service as a dispatch rider. His experiences in German East Africa served only to intensify his feeling that something horribly brutal and alien was stalking through the world, distorting the vision of men the world over.

The war ended. Back home once again, he entered government civil service, being appointed to the post of deputy magistrate and collector of taxes in the district of Jarbandhur, 140 miles from Calcutta. Now he had his chance: he was the law-giver, with power of life and death over the natives, who groaned under the burden of heavy taxes. But it didn't work.

NEVER collected a tax without feeling it was unjust. I never sent a poor, ignorant soul to jail for thievery without feeling that he was in no way to blame."

So he threw up the job and returned to Calcutta.

Still groping for a solution, he turned to religion. Certainly the fatalistic Hindu belief, with its iron-clad caste system, was partly to blame for the helplessness of the masses.

To him, Hinduism was a religion without hope. So he studied the three hundred religious creeds of all India . . . and eventually embraced Christianity.

"To me," Joachim said, "Christianity, with its hope of the future, with its loving, forgiving God, is the only soul-satisfying belief." And for a long while, he preached Christianity, being the first pastor to speak on a religious program broadcast over the NBC network, back in 1926.

So popular did his sermons become that for six years he toured the United States, talking on social problems, on religious problems, on India and international affairs.

Before the wealthy and the poor alike he spoke, to governors and beggars. One day he'd lecture to a group of a dozen rough, dirty sailors . . . the next day at a private party at the home of a millionaire captain of industry.

AND he discovered something that surprised him greatly. "Invariably," he told me, "whether men were murderers or near-saints, all were driven by and feared just one thing—the voice of conscience."

In his lectures, Dr. Joachim spoke to over half a billion people, and the conviction grew within him that someone was badly needed to help them solve their problems.

"It isn't that I tell people what to do," he told me. "I don't believe any man has the right to decide another's destiny. One is justified only in influencing another to think for himself."

Each one of us has his own court of justice within us, "whose verdict," Cicero said centuries ago, "can not be disputed. Its sessions are held in the chambers of the heart and mind."

That is why, on the air, in his dramatic sketches taken from every-day problems you and I have sent him, Dr. Joachim is the "Voice of Conscience, Your Unseen Friend," who never does the deciding, but who, through a Eugene O'Neill technique, allows us to see what is going on in a man's heart. And makes the man decide for himself his course of action.

Your Unseen Friend may be heard on Sundays over a CBS network at 5 p.m. EST (4 CST; 3 MST; 2 PST).

HE WANTED TIME TO HIMSELF

BY ARTHUR MILLER

ONE day in 1915, Arnold Johnson told a violinist in one of his three orchestras—he had three at the time—that he thought he ought to try to get another job. The violinist was Paul Whiteman!

But that little anecdote is no indication that Arnold Johnson doesn't know talent when he sees it. He does. And then, too, it may occur to you that after all, Paul Whiteman didn't achieve the lasting fame that is his today as a violinist! Violin-playing ability has contributed very little to the spectacular career of the King of Jazz.

Yes, Arnold Johnson knows talent. If Paul Whiteman had had the makings of a great violinist, Johnson would have been among the first to tell him so. He is ever on the lookout for new and promising talent of any and every kind.

At the moment, his protegee—and his pride and joy—is Christina Lind, a young vocalist, unusually pretty and unusually talented. You've heard Christina Lind on Johnson's 1937 Radio Show program, broadcast over WOR and the Mutual network every Sunday at 6 p.m. EST (5 CST; 4 MST; 3 PST), and if you share Johnson's opinion, you're convinced that she's going far in the musical and radio career she is already carving out for herself.

ARNOLD JOHNSON is a veteran. Not until 1930 did he put down his baton and announce that he was through leading orchestras in cafes and night clubs—through for good, and glad of it. He had no regrets. Twenty years of late hours, twenty years of working while others danced, and still others slept, were enough for him. He figured he deserved a lighter schedule—so he went after it.

When he quit tapping music-stands with his baton he began knocking at the doors of advertising agencies. He may have announced that he was through with orchestra work, but like all musicians, he knew that he couldn't hope ever entirely to escape his first love—music. And to tell the truth, he didn't want to! He simply decided it was time to get into another branch of the business.

Johnson pounded on the doors of advertising agencies with one very sound reason in mind: he knew that beyond them was as good a passage-way to radio as any. Regular hours and the time to do other things than just lead an orchestra were what he wanted. In radio he found a medium for his music that would allow him to experience these pent-up desires. Too, radio rejuvenated his life as an orchestra leader. He found new vigor that had been waning while he passed the years working in cafes night after night, while others enjoyed themselves.

Arnold Johnson is still a young man despite his long experience as a working musician. He is a rugged, ruddy man, and he clinches his strong physical appearance with a warmth of character that is immediately noticed. He smiles in a reminiscent way as he tells of his first job. Perhaps—who can tell—he'd like to see those old days back again.

IT WAS in Chicago, when I was fourteen, playing in a chop suey place with a four-piece band!" And there is no doubt why he is forced to smile upon this reflection when one remembers that since the age of eighteen, Arnold Johnson has been a very successful orchestra leader.

"I like to be successful in anything I begin," he says, and for that certainly no one can blame him. Unfortunately it has not always been so. Johnson has never restricted his activities to music alone. He has many other interests. In fact, he dabbles in so many things in addition to music that he could almost be classified as a hard-working businessman. His music comes first, of course, but—

There was the time, for instance, when he produced a play. "The Sap from Syracuse" was its title, and the venture—Arnold's first and last as a play producer—cost him about $2,500. Johnson will admit, now, that perhaps "The Sap from Syracuse" wasn't of Pulitzer caliber. Although he may have thought so at one time.

"It was panned by the critics," he says with characteristic good nature, "but we sold it to a movie company, and that helped some."

Now that he is firmly planted in radio—there have been three changes in the master of ceremonies post while Johnson has been with his present sponsor—he is realizing the desires that urged him to forsake everything but radio as a means of reaching his audience.

Arnold Johnson likes his fancy poultry—deficit or no deficit!

IN 1936, he bought a 220-acre farm in Redding, Connecticut, which at the end of the first fiscal year showed a deficit of $9,000. But deficit or no deficit, he kept right on raising fancy poultry and exhibiting his prize specimens in shows.

"Of course," Arnold says, "the first year I had to invest quite a bit of money to improve things around the farm." So you see, he does have hopes of realizing some profits which will make an enterprise of what he really looks upon as a hobby. That's good business—if it works out.

He's much happier since he began radio work, and he has helped others to be happier, too. Arnold had the job of selecting amateurs to appear on his first series of broadcasts, and besides offering them many aids at that time, he has continued his "helping hand" policy to this day.

WHEN there was a change in the program, a decision to use professional entertainers instead of amateur talent, he thought the amount of work required to audition them would be lessened, and made easier. He was grossly mistaken, for he discovered that the number of professionals who are seeking opportunities to go on the air is as great as the number of amateurs.

But amateur or professional, they can rely on sound advice and a helping hand from Arnold Johnson!

DON'T RISK VITAMIN SHORTAGE

Few People Know Whether They're Getting Enough Vitamins in Their Meals—Until Poor Health Shows It. But, the Addition of One Food to Your Regular Diet Will Give You a Special Extra Supply of these 4 Vitamins Every Day

TOO LITTLE VITAMIN G MEANS POOR GROWTH

DIET RICH IN VITAMIN G

THIN, underdeveloped, nervous children are often not getting enough Vitamin G—the GROWTH VITAMIN. A good supply of this essential vitamin is needed by every child to help develop a sturdy body and good health. Fleischmann's Yeast is rich in Vitamin G. Children from 5 to 12 years can be given from 1 to 2 cakes daily.

DIET POOR IN VITAMIN A

COLDS! A tendency to frequent colds can occur if your body is not supplied with enough Vitamin A. A deficiency of this vitamin weakens the membranes lining nose and throat and lowers your general resistance. Eat Fleischmann's Yeast every day to make sure of an additional supply of Vitamin A over and above what your meals provide.

DISTENDED bowels (as shown above), poor digestion, sagging stomach and weak intestines may come from an undersupply of Vitamin B—the important NERVE VITAMIN.

NORMAL healthy bowels (pictured above), a strong stomach and intestinal tract, good digestion and steady nerves need plenty of Vitamin B regularly. Eat Fleischmann's Yeast every day to add to your supply of Vitamin B. It is one of the richest known natural food sources of this NERVE VITAMIN.

UGLY teeth and poorly developed jaws (see plaster cast at top) may result from too little Vitamin D—the BONE VITAMIN. Well-formed teeth need an ample supply of this vitamin. Fleischmann's Yeast is rich in Vitamin D. Children from 5 to 12 can eat 1 to 2 cakes daily. Mothers should eat it during pregnancy and while nursing to increase their supply of this BONE VITAMIN.

THE SPARKLING VITALITY, strength and stamina of Lucyle Roberts, Rodeo Bronco Rider, show she gets an abundant supply of all 4 of these vitamins so necessary to build and maintain good health.

DON'T GUESS about your vitamin supply. Nutrition experts say that ordinary meals often fail to provide enough of all the vitamins your body needs to keep health up to par.

By adding just one food to your everyday diet, you can always be sure of a regular EXTRA supply of 4 important vitamins—A, B, D and G—over and above what your everyday meals provide.

This one food is FLEISCHMANN'S fresh YEAST. It is the only natural food that provides you with such a rich supply of all 4 of these health-building vitamins combined.

Why not start today to add to your vitamin supply with Fleischmann's Yeast? Just eat 3 cakes daily—one cake about ½ hour before each meal. Eat it plain, or dissolved in a little water, as you prefer. And be sure to eat it regularly—every day.

It's a good plan to order two or three days' supply at a time from your grocer. Fleischmann's Yeast keeps perfectly in the icebox.

If You Were a Star's FRIEND . . .

Here's what would be expected of you!

AS A MATTER of actual fact, you being you—a girl or boy in a "non-professional" life—you stand a better chance of being a star's friend than if you, too, were a star.

Attribute the motive to what you will, there are comparatively few deep and abiding friendships between two stars of equal magnitude. It may be that one glamor girl feels she cannot allow her beauty to be compared with another's. It may be professional jealousy. Whatever the reason, you'll discover Carole Lombard's deep and loving friendship for Fieldsey, her secretary-companion; Janet Gaynor's everlasting loyalty to Frances Deane, a publicity woman at the studio to which Janet was first under contract; Katharine Hepburn and Laura Harding, a non-professional; Garbo and her wealthy society-women friends; Mary Astor and Marian Spitzer, the famous writer; Gloria Swanson and her girlhood friend from Chicago.

However, listing the stars' friends is not the purpose of this story. What your coupons have told me this month is that you want to know what it's like to be a star's friend and what sort of

THE COVER PORTRAIT

NO TALE of talent inherited is Betty Winkler's. Unlike most stars who reach the heights of stage and radio, Betty admits that until she came along, her family had always managed to survive, without a single member succumbing to the urge to emote.

But with Betty, the desire to act was evident early. At four, she sang in blackface at a public entertainment, and this debut was followed by singing and acting engagements throughout her childhood days. She sang with Bernie Cummins' band; she gloried as Queen of the May in Fort Wayne, Indiana; she played the lead in her high school play, even though she had to be carried to the theater in a wheelchair, and had recently had an operation for appendicitis.

Her start in radio came when she won the part of Vivian in "The Trial of Vivian Ware," broadcast over WTAM in Cleveland. Then it was but a matter of a few months until she tried the NBC studios in Chicago, and won parts in the "Betty and Bob" and "Grand Hotel" shows. She has since played ingenue and character parts in many of the biggest shows emanating from Chicago.

Now she is best known to a wide radio audience as the star of her "Girl Alone" series. She still holds her place as the telephone operator on the "Grand Hotel" plays, as well.

Betty is one of the favorite subjects of radio writers, because of her colorful personality and picturesque tastes. She always wears a heavy, hand-wrought silver bracelet, given her years ago by an Indian admirer. Although she loves to ride in airplanes, she is afraid to travel in an automobile going faster than 25 miles an hour. And once she practically disrupted the studios in Chicago, when she introduced a new fad of hers—crab-racing!

VOICE OF THE LISTENER

The "Voice of the Listener" letter-forum is a regular feature in Radio Guide each week, offered to the readers as a means for expressing and exchanging opinions about radio.

Radio Guide will pay prizes for fine letters as follows: $10 for the best letter each week; $5 for the next best, and $1 for others.

"WHOLESOME" HULLABALOO

($10 Prize Letter)

Voice of the Listener: I am fourteen years old, and my friends and I have been reading a lot about the need for "clean, wholesome, educational radio programs for our modern youth." None of the programs I have ever heard were not clean or wholesome. If these well-meaning adults only knew what bores the programs they choose usually are, I am sure that they would not annoy us with them. As for educational programs, we'll take that in school, where it belongs.

All of the hullabaloo about "clean" programs originates, generally, not from the complaints of youth but from the Victorian ideas of adults... the "Youth of America" is not a group of morons, and is, therefore, capable of choosing with ample discretion its own radio entertainment!—Jean Marie Ott, Austin, Texas.

SYMPHONY SYSTEM

($5 Prize Letter)

Editor, RADIO GUIDE: A couple of months ago, we found that concert programs were wasted on us. The realization came when, during a symphony broadcast, I was beating eggs in the kitchen, my husband was sharpening a knife, and the two children were shouting to make themselves heard above the music. Then and there we switched off the radio and held a conference. As a result, we now look through RADIO GUIDE and pick out two or three concerts for the week and note the times. Then we shift our activities so we are free to listen quietly. "Attendance" at these concerts is not obligatory, but no one must be noisy in the house. If we do come (and all of us generally do) we respect the music... —Mrs. Kingsley Tufts, Berkeley, Calif.

MOTHERS' SIT-DOWN

VOL: Some day the mothers of this grand and glorious nation are going on a sit-down strike against those sponsors who urge, "Ask your mother to buy —."

As if children couldn't think of enough things to ask mother to buy, day in and day out! It's taking a cowardly advantage, that's wot it is! Lay off, sponsors—we appreciate your programs, and if your product measures up, we'll buy it for the kids—but don't crowd us!—Mrs. Kathleen Clarke, Springfield, Mass.

EDDY'S BELITTLEMENT

Editor, RADIO GUIDE: May I submit a correction? In "The Truth about Nelson Eddy's Operation," in the March 13 RADIO GUIDE (practically none of which was true), was this paragraph:

"I'll have four notes more range," he was reported to have exclaimed, "and twice as much volume!"

This was followed by an alleged belittlement of the alleged statement by alleged Chicago medical men. It would please me if you would allow me to join whole-heartedly in that belittlement!

I made no such statement. This is how it came about: A Kansas City reporter asked me if I thought the throat treatment I had would improve my voice. I told him it might add a little more resonance—I was not sure—but for Pete's sake not to go and print a lot of nonsense about my voice becoming tenor or getting twice as big, because I remembered one singer who did brag about the good an operation was going to do his voice, but the change, disappointingly, did not come about, much to his later chagrin and embarrassment. So the reporter stated in his paper:

"Mr. Eddy was reluctant to say his voice would have four extra notes and twice the volume." Practically every paper—and even Time magazine—which "picked up" the article, twisted that negative statement into a positive one. Isn't it silly?

Please let me make it clear that I expect no important change in my voice as the result of the throat treatment.—Nelson Eddy, New York, N. Y.

OLD STARS' SUPPORTERS

Voice of the Listener: What did C. C. McMillan, of Oakland, Calif., mean when he wrote, "We'll get a flock of new stars soon—or else!"? This writer does not believe he speaks for anyone but himself when he knocks Jack Benny, Amos 'n' Andy, Eddie Cantor and others... Mr. McMillan must have the gout!—Carl C. Jay, Marion, Ind.

VOL:... I agree that variety and new personalities are essential to the ordinary run of performances, but for top-notch entertainment there is nothing on the radio that can compare with our so-called old-timers, and this is as it should be. It takes years of experience to make a good performer, so it naturally follows that the oldest should be the best. They will be supplanted in time, yes—and most of us will be sorry to see them go... —Ned Drake, Manhattan, Kan.

HOLLYWOOD PARADE

Editor, RADIO GUIDE: Why is it the different radio programs are all moving to Hollywood lately? Because the stars are getting a chance to make pictures is no reason why they should move the whole show to Hollywood, too. If they want to make pictures, let them do it, and let someone else have their spots on the air. Surely it is not that Radio City hasn't the talent... —Berenice Gallagher, Pittsburgh, Pa.

VOL: In looking over the leaders in RADIO GUIDE'S Star of Stars election, I can't help noticing that the movies seem to have a strong influence in the selection of the winners. The leaders in this poll are nearly all big figures in Hollywood... —Herbert C. Marshall, Good Pine, La.

VOL: Does one dare criticize anything out of Hollywood? It is my opinion that the poorest programs originate in Hollywood. They are, with a few exceptions, far below the standards of eastern programs in entertainment, dignity and personnel. The idea seems to prevail in Hollywood that screen stars make the best air actors and M. C.'s. Few of them qualify, and were they to be presented under assumed names could not hold the dial still a moment. Then there are those over-done build-ups—such as the De-Mille fanfare in the Radio Theater—the constant dragging-in of personalities about golf scores, race-track activities, and the "surprise guest" appearances of more so-called celebrities. Not an actor in a carload!... —M. T. Harding, San Diego, Calif.

"PIONEER" PREFERENCES

Voice of the Listener: Recently I attended a dinner given by the "Pioneers," a club of 295 members. Radio personalities were discussed. A vote was taken for the most popular personality on the air today. In the final vote, the three most popular artists agreed upon were as follows: 1st—Jack Benny, 197 votes; 2nd—Milton Berle, 60 votes, and 3rd—Eddie Cantor, 38 votes... —F. W. Bender, St. Louis, Mo.

HITS OF THE WEEK

THE sensational number, "This Year's Kisses," which last week shoved the former leader, "When My Dream Boat Comes Home," into sixth place, holds its first place again this week—and the previous favorite stands again in its lower spot. "Moonlight and Shadows" has made news in the music world, too, by coming up from twelfth place to second. And "Boo Hoo," perhaps the aftermath of the second-place song, is the other money-winner of the week. "May I Have the Next Romance?" has slipped from second spot to fourth for the week.

A song with fine and appropriate lines has shown strength, no doubt garnered from the audience that once made "When I Grow Too Old to Dream" a starring song. It is "Little Old Lady," this week in fifth place. Experts predict it may lift its way to the top shortly.

The complete list of the fifteen most popular songs for the week follows:

- | | |
|----------------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| 1. This Year's Kisses | 9. On a Little Bamboo Bridge |
| 2. Moonlight and Shadows | 10. When Poppies Bloom Again |
| 3. Boo Hoo | 11. What Will I Tell My Heart? |
| 4. May I Have the Next Romance? | 12. I've Got My Love to Keep Me Warm |
| 5. Little Old Lady | 13. Serenade in the Night |
| 6. When My Dream Boat Comes Home | 14. Trust in Me |
| 7. Slumming on Park Avenue | 15. How Could You? |
| 8. Good Night, My Love | |

Time given is CST; for MST subtract one hour. Short-wave programs of American stations are shown along with the regular listings beginning on page 29. These are indicated, for example, by (sw-11.87) in parentheses following a program listing. This means that on 11.87 megacycles the same program may also be heard over an American short-wave station. Please note that foreign stations do not always adhere precisely to their announced program schedules.

BY CHAS. A. MORRISON, president, INTERNATIONAL DX-ER'S ALLIANCE

(Figures in Parentheses Are Megacycles)

THE non-verifying policy of all stations operated by the BBC is a source of considerable annoyance to listeners. This has been overcome in part through the monitoring bureau established by Carroll Weyrich and Barney Ahman of 4310 Evans Chapel Road, Baltimore, Md., who are carefully checking the programs of the Daventry stations the first Saturday and Sunday in each month as follows: Saturdays from 6 to 7 and 9 to 10 p.m. EST (5 to 6 and 8 to 9 CST). Sundays from 3 to 4 a.m., 2:45 to 3:45 p.m., and 4 to 5 p.m. EST (2 to 3 a.m., 1:45 to 2:45 and 3 to 4 p.m. CST). Listeners desiring verifications can obtain them by listening to one of the above schedules and sending complete details with five cents in stamps to Messrs. Weyrich and Ahman.

Another new country may now be added to your short-wave logs. G. W. Rockwell of Halifax, N. S., Canada, writes that "Curacao Radio" broadcast its first program on Monday, March 1, on an announced frequency of 9.473 megs. The station, which was tuned in at 6:36 p.m. EST (5:36 CST) and held until sign-off at 9:11 p.m. EST (8:11 CST), gave the address as Curacao Radio, Curacao, Dutch West Indies.

According to Dr. Durrwang, president of Radio Club Basle in Switzerland, a new low-power station there with the call HBVE has been testing for several weeks. It is owned by the Brown Boveri Company of Baden Aargau, Switzerland, and usually works amateurs on the 40-meter band, but also employs several other frequencies.

Some time ago I noted that ZHI, Singapore, Straits Settlement, had closed down. Replacing it, a new station with an unknown call is working on 6.005 megs. John DeMyer, Lansing, Mich., has been hearing it near 6:45 a.m. EST (5:45 CST), on Mondays and Thursdays.

Short-Wave Service, of France, informs that a new short-wave center will be erected soon for programs and commentaries from the Paris International Exhibition opening in May. . . . The power of short-wave station OXY (6.06) of Copenhagen, Denmark, has been increased to 5,000 watts. Listeners on the Atlantic Coast report it can now be heard regularly on its daily schedule from 1 to 6:30 p.m. EST (12 to 5:30 CST).

All Daventry, England, schedules will change April 27. Watch this column for full details.

The University of Alaska, at College, has been granted permission to erect an experimental station for the purpose of making ionosphere measurements in the polar regions. Frequencies allotted include each even 100 kilocycles from 1,500 to 16,000. Maximum power will be 200 watts.

state that VPD2, of Suva in the Fijis, has returned to its former frequency of 9.54 megs where it can now be heard daily from 5:30 to 7 a.m. EST (4:30 to 6 CST).

Sintonia, of Buenos Aires, states that a new station, CXA2, has been completed in Montevideo, Uruguay. The first commercial short-wave station in this part of South America, it has been assigned a frequency of 6.035 megs, but is conducting initial tests on 6 megs. It operates daily from 10 a.m. to 12 noon and from 4 to 10 p.m. EST (9 to 11 a.m. and 3 to 9 p.m. CST). Reports should be addressed to Rio Negro 1631, Montevideo, Uruguay.

West Australia's Wireless News reports that VK6ME, the new Perth, West Australia, station will be on a regular schedule soon. It has been testing on a frequency of 9.59 megs.

R. B. OXRIEDER of State College, Penna., notes that Radio Fort de France, Martinique, last logged near 9.36 megs, has not been heard for about two weeks. . . . The correct call of "La Voz del Alma" in Guayaquil, Ecuador, operating on 9.441 megs and signing off nightly at 10:15 p.m. EST (9:15 CST), is still in doubt. For quite a while a half-dozen different calls were being employed with the same slogan for each. The call in use at present sounds like HCODA.

PCJ, now broadcasting from Hilversum, Holland, with augmented power and a new type aerial, is being heard with signals easily comparable to Daventry, England.

Juan Cloquell Storer of Santurce, Puerto Rico, informs me that the power of COCQ (9.75) of Havana, Cuba, which with its 3,000 watts is already being heard in nearly every part of the world, will soon be increased to 26,000 watts! . . . The Colombian government is re-organizing its broadcasting set-up. All short-wave stations must use more power and furnish better modulation or go off the air.

SINCE March 15, W2XAD (15.33) of Schenectady, N. Y., has been operating daily from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. EST (9 to 5 CST). . . . The Swedish short-wave station nearing completion near Motla will have a power of 1,500 watts. . . . Roy DeMent, Plainview, Texas, notes that CT1AA (9.65) of Lisbon, Portugal, is now on the air on Sundays from 7 to 9 p.m. EST (6 to 8 CST). . . . Soviet transmissions that have been puzzling were probably from one of the new stations listed by Egyptian Radio: RBO (8.31), RPK (7.42), RKA (6.96) and RYS (6.75). These were launched to relay speeches and news in connection with the Spanish war.

HIX, of Trujillo City, is now testing with the following new calls and frequencies: H11X (6.34), H12X (11.96), and H13X (15.28). Excellent strength is shown on the latter two frequencies.

RADIO GUIDE Goes to Rehearsal with JOE PENNER

YOU CAN'T BE VERY FUNNY WITHOUT REHEARSALS! SO JOE PENNER AND HIS OWN RADIO FAMILY STUDY THEIR SCRIPTS FOR LAUGHS — AND FOR THE CAMERA!

The man playing the piano as Joe Penner runs over a new tune is no professional song-writer. He's the Rev. Hal Raynor, pastor of the Glendora Episcopal Church in California, and he takes time off from his ministerial duties to write a new song for Penner every week. And his songs have that certain swing!

Here's Gene Austin, playing the black keys for the Black Sheep of Park Avenue—Joe Penner! Austin, famous for his distinctive high-pitched voice, plays his own accompaniment—and never uses a white key on the piano! Austin first came to national notice when he made his recording of the song, "My Blue Heaven"

Martha Wentworth, who plays Joe Penner's super-ritzy air-time mother, reads over her lines before the show goes on—and Joy Hodges helps Phil Kramer heckle her. But it's all in fun, and it'll be fun on the air!

"It oughta go like this!" Joe Penner lays down the law to Don Prindle, new script-writer for his Sunday show. Joe knows a laugh when he reads it in script!

Joe Penner looks serious as he reads ahead in his script, watching for that gag-line. But don't you ever believe it! Joe's laugh, known from Coast-to-Coast, will gurgle out soon!

Lovely Joy Hodges, featured singer with Jimmy Grier's orchestra on the Penner program, reaches up for a high note during rehearsal hour. If you'd like to know, her song is the hit, "Let's Go Slumming on Park Avenue"

Confusion reigns supreme as the Penner rehearsal rolls into a whirlwind finish. Off in the left-hand corner, the overcoated Mr. Penner gives the script a last glance; the rest of the cast does likewise—and so, one more show is ready

Visiting FRANCES LANGFORD at Home

This beautifully landscaped estate with the Italian villa in the background is the property of the lovely songstress. She "moved in" a few weeks ago

Frances answers her fan mail! And she sends out all her own pictures to all who request them

The "Hollywood Hotel" contralto sensation takes time out to make fudge in her own kitchen

Now Frances can go partying and never leave home! There is a bar and dance floor in her house!

Frances in front of her new Brentwood home while romping with "Rags," her favorite terrier

"Come on over and play," pleads Frances as she lolls in her spacious back yard. Everything is all set up—badminton, tennis, swings!

Right: She had to buy a house to have the kind of boudoir she has always wanted—a French directoire type with pink and blue dominant

WHEN FRANCES LANGFORD
ISN'T BEFORE THE MOVIE
CAMERA, OR ON THE AIR,
SHE'S AT HOME. RADIO
GUIDE SHOWS YOU WHY!

Florida's gift to radio—and a Rudy Vallee discovery—bends an ear to listen to her favorite singer—Dick Powell
—even when she is at home

Frances bought her house and furnished it as a birthday surprise for her mother, and now her whole family is happily ensconced in it. Her brother, Jimmy, pays only occasional visits, since he is big boss at Frances' Florida orange ranch

stress Langford snugly seated with a book in a corner of her French boudoir. Her unusual negligee is a flimsy chiffon cape made full with many hand-pressed pleats

Right: "Hello there," greet's Frances as she swings across the lawn of her beautiful new estate. She's very natty in her slack suit of checked white flannel. It was designed for just this
—playtime at home

RICHARD HIMBER BUILD A PROGRAM

"THAT'S LOTS OF MONEY FOR HALF AN HOUR'S WORK!" WHEN RICHARD HIMBER HEARS THAT HE LAUGHS—BUT BITTERLY! HERE IS A SEVEN-DAY HIMBER SCHEDULE

It's Tuesday, and it's lunchtime for Richard Himber—but for the New York song-pluggers it's time to go to work! If Himber used all of the songs they press upon him, he'd be playing all week long! As it is, he selects only nine—no more and no less!

The song-pluggers get Himber at the piano—and the big push is on! In the foreground, two of the boys have cornered Stuart Allen, the vocalist. They've just got a flat "no" from Himber, but they won't believe it. They want Singer Allen to tell them the same thing!

With the songs finally chosen, Himber calls a meeting of his arranging staff to discuss the treatment he wants given the songs. Left to right: Milton Weinstein, Joe Glover and Bernie Green arguing with Dick. They each arrange three songs—at $60 an arrangement

Bernie Green, despondent. His wife wants a new mink coat, he still hasn't paid for the last one, and he's trying to arrange "With Plenty of Money and You"

Here's the guy who knows what the score is. He's Eddie MacDonal, and he's extracting the orchestra parts from the arrangers' score

This busy citizen is Cal Cass. He's laying out the parts he got from the copyists, who got them from the arrangers, who got paid by Himber

And here, at week's end, the boys are ready for business! Exactly twenty seconds after the stand-by announcement.

Richard Himber will give a down-beat, and —we're on the air! For this one scene, lasting but half an hour, a week's strenuous preparation has been made — and as soon as the last note is played, the week starts again! So, don't ever say, "It's just half an hour's work!"

The artistry of Verlye Mills is peculiarly her own. Verlye plays the harp in the orchestra. Here Dick is pretending to explain something to her. But she'll play it her way!

OUR CAMERAMAN POSES

THRILLED BY THEIR ACTING,
THEIR SONGS, RADIO GUIDE'S
LENS MAN SNAPPED HIS FAV-ORITES, PRESENTS THEM HERE

At left: Sweet-as-sugar-candy is Dorothy Lowell as she presents the role of "Nancy Booth" in the "Trouble House" drama on the "Magazine of the Air"—a three-a-week sketch

Above: Soprano star of the newest national Coast-to-Coast network, Mutual, Sylvia Cyde brings glorious melodies to radio's airplanes as she sings with Stuart Gracey's orchestra

JULIA SANDERSON and FRANK CRUMIT are not doing any radio work at present. "THE LONESOME COWBOY," Johnny Marvin, is not singing via the major networks any longer but may be heard from certain stations in the South-west.—O. B. S., Ripley, Me.

Radio Guide is quite correct in listing "SING-ING SAM" on Fridays both at 7:45 and 8:15 p.m.
EST (6:45 and 7:15 CST; 5:45 and 6:15 MST).
The earlier broadcast goes over WLW only, while the second show is carried over WJZ, New York;
KDKA, Pittsburgh; WHAM, Rochester, N. Y., and WLS in Chicago.—J. M., Cherokee, Kans.

Hello-Hello Everybody Everywhere!

That's the greeting with which this popular and genial Master-of-Ceremonies greets his nation-wide radio audience

EVERY SATURDAY NIGHT

On the Alka-Seltzer National Barn Dance. This popular program features over 40 Radio Artists including the Maple City Four; Uncle Ezra; Hoosier Hot Shots; Otto and His Novelodeans; Arkansas Woodchopper; Sally Foster; Henry Burr; Verne, Lee and Mary; Lucille Long; Bill O'Connor; Skyland Scotty and others. A rollicking program of old time singing, dancing and homespun fun. Brought to you direct from WLS, Chicago, every Saturday night over

WLS 8:00 to 9:00 P.M., CST
WIBA — WLW — WTMJ
10:00 to 11:00 P.M., CST

The Alka-Seltzer National Barn Dance

DISCARD YOUR OLD AERIAL

It is Most Likely Corroded and Has Poor or Loose Noisy Connections
NO MORE BUZZES, CLICKS and shorts from summer rains and winter snow and sleet when using an F. & H. Capacity Aerial Eliminator. Equals an aerial 75 ft. long, strung 50 ft. high, yet occupies only 1 1/2 inch by 4 inch space behind your radio—guaranteed to give you nationwide reception or your money back.

BETTER TONE AND DISTANCE GUARANTEED
Sensitivity, selectivity, tone and volume improved. No lightning danger or unsightly lead-in and aerial wires. Makes your set complete in itself. Forget aerial wires and troubles—move your set anywhere.

NOT NEW—VALUE ALREADY PROVED
On the market five years. 100,000 satisfied customers in U. S. and foreign countries. In use from the Arctic Region of Norway to the Tropics of Africa. Chosen by Government for use on Naval Hospital bedside radios. Each factory tested on actual long distance reception. Cannot harm set—Easily connected to any radio, including radios having no ground or radios for doublet aerial.

5 DAYS TRIAL Mail coupon at once. Pay postman $1.00 plus a few pennies postage on delivery. If not entirely satisfied, return within five days and your dollar will be refunded without question.

JUST MAIL THIS COUPON
F. & H. Radio Laboratories, Dept. 92, Fargo, N. Dak.
Send F. & H. Capacity Aerial. Will pay postman $1 plus few cents postage. If not pleased will return within 5 days for $1 refund. Check here if sending $1 with order—this saving postage cost—same refund guarantee. Check here if interested in dealer's proposition.

MR. FAIRFAX KNOWS THE ANSWERS

The "SHERLOCK HOLMES" mystery sketch was last heard over a limited NBC network. It is no longer on the air.—Mrs. D. R. W., Pulaski, Va.

There is absolutely no truth to the rumor that the Mutual Broadcasting System is a subsidiary of the Columbia Broadcasting chain.—D. W., Byron, Calif.

There is nothing ulterior, I am sure, in Pepsodent's having CARLETON KADELL do the sales patter and restricting BILL HAY to the more entertaining speeches.—E. H. K., New York City.

A transcription (recorded) broadcast entitled "MOMENTS YOU WILL NEVER FORGET" is put on the air over a large group of stations throughout the country under the sponsorship of Edgeworth Tobacco.—Mrs. H. H. T., Detroit, Mich.

Jack Fulton, featured singer and star of the "Poetic Melodies" show, comes from Phillipsburg, Pa. He is a direct descendant of Robert Fulton, the steamboat inventor. Bing Crosby discovered Jack's lyric tenor voice while both were roommates and members of Paul Whiteman's orchestra. Fulton is 5 feet, 11 inches tall; born June 13, 1903. He has been married since June 13, 1924, and has two children.—Mr. F. L., Murray, Utah.

The character role of JEFF BARKER in the "WELCOME VALLEY" series is portrayed by Art Van Harvey.—V. H., Moline, Ill.

ANSON WEEKS returned to Chicago March 12. He supplanted George Olsen at the Edgewater Beach Hotel and now broadcasts via WBBM nightly. The ork also has several CBS airings throughout the week on an irregular schedule. Olsen is going on a road tour.—E. A., Memphis, Tenn.

If readers send in a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Mr. Arthur Fairfax, 731 Plymouth Ct., Chicago, Ill., your queries will be answered personally by mail.—B. T., New York City.

NORMAN BROKENSHIRE, noted radio announcer of the past, has re-entered the broadcasting field and appears regularly in the part of a staff announcer on a local New York City station. The "HAPPINESS BOYS," Billy Jones and Ernie Hare, are now doing their songs and patter on the CBS Community Sing, on the air Sunday nights at 10 p.m. EST (9 CST; 8 MST; 7 PST). LARRY FUNK and his "band of a thousand melodies" are heard over WLW frequently and also have a Coast-to-Coast airing over the Mutual network (WOR in your city) Mondays at 1:15 a.m. EST (12:15 CST; 11:15 p.m. MST; 10:15 PST). This is the same Funk who played over NBC from the now extinct "Palais de Royal" in New York. KAY KYSER may be caught over the Mutual network throughout the week, the airings emanating from Chicago's Trianon ballroom. VINCENT LOPEZ' piano rhythms are on both the MBS and CBS webs, having a regular broadcast schedule. RICHARD MAXWELL has an early morning spot on a large group of CBS stations.—Rev. A. D. H., New York.

LOG OF ALL AMERICAN STATIONS ARRANGED BY CALL LETTERS

EXPLANATORY NOTE:
The small figure given in parentheses, as (1/4), following the location of a station is an indication of its power in kilowatts—which means thousands of watts. Where no figure is given, the station has less than 250 watts power. Thus the figure 1/4 means 250 watts; 1/2 is 500 watts; 10 would be 10,000 watts, etc. Parts I and II of this log, showing Canadian stations and the start of the U. S. list, were given during the past two weeks. Back copies are available at ten cents each.

1000 LIGHTS FROM 1 MATCH

A new scientific invention that is making all present day matches and lighters old-fashioned and obsolete has recently been announced, and is already sweeping the country. This one amazing "match" gives 1,000 lights, and is entirely different from any other kind of match or lighter. It strikes like a match, works like a match, yet there are no burnt out match sticks strewn around. Contains no wood, sulphur, phosphorus or other poisons. Guaranteed safe around children. It works every single time, without fail. It beats all mechanical lighters, for there are no screws, no wicks, no moving parts of any kind, and there is nothing that can get out of order. Everyone who sees it is simply astounded and wants several immediately. This sensational product—called CAN-O-LITES—sells for the amazingly low price of only 25c. It never needs to be refueled or refilled! In every state of the union, men and women introducing CAN-O-LITES are reporting staggering earnings. Individuals, restaurants, hotels, clubs, almost everyone orders 6 to several dozen at a crack! Excellent territories are still open and a postcard addressed to the CAN-O-LITES MFG. CORP., Dept. H-7, Youngstown, Ohio, will not only bring complete money-making details, but also a free sample offer. Write today.

"HUSH" THE REMARKABLE NEW "RADIO EAR"

YOU Listen But Others Can't Hear! The newest thrill in radio! This magic-like tiny instrument brings YOU every radio thrill but can't be heard even by a person standing next to you. You can listen while others sleep, read, talk, without disturbing a soul, as if no radio were playing. Listen while in bed, in an easy chair, without wearing headphones or any other attachments.

HOW DOES IT WORK?
Simply place "HUSH" under a pillow, on a chair, couch, bed, etc. Then relax, with your head against the pillow, and delightful radio programs come through with astonishing clarity and realism, even amidst noise and confusion. Listen while the wife sleeps or reads; hear important events without disturbing other employees in your office; use in the nursery without disturbing children's sleep; use in hotels without disturbing guests, etc. Also, if desired, the whole family can enjoy the program through the loud speaker which you are listening with your own LIGHT-WEIGHT "HUSH" in any part of the house.

CARRY IN POCKET ANYWHERE
Get yours today. Comes complete with long cord, with easy instructions, all ready for use. Nothing else to buy. Easily attached to your home radio without tools in only a few moments. No radio experience necessary. Designed to work on any type radio. Uses no extra current. Try "HUSH" 10 days at our risk. Absolutely guaranteed. Refund your money back. Order now.
