"I'm No Dummy!"—Says Edgar Bergen's Charlie McCarthy

Happy Listening..

OPEN All Summer" is the illuminating title of a booklet published by one of the broadcasting networks. The book reminds us that the number of people listening to radio this summer will be greater by millions than ever before. For instance, about twenty-five million families are now supposed to have radios in their homes. Of these, five million have radios in their cars. Wherever they go during the warm months, listeners' ears will never be far from a radio . . . or far from the greatest show on earth.

Here's one for Ripley: Today's mail brings the impish announcement of a refrigerator which contains a built-in radio. Just press the button, ladies, and your kitchen becomes a music room. For a few additional dollars you can have chilled Benny Goodman or frosted Lowell Thomas right beside the gas range. We await this challenge to American ingenuity with fear and trembling. Will the next mail tell us of radio's invasion of the other rooms of our homes; say, a soiled-linen hamper with which we can tune in the "Voice of Experience" or a Singing Shower? As we've said, we await with f. and t.

Speaking of Benny Goodman, the news has just reached us that the swinging professor will be the center of one of the air's brightest spots this summer. Jack Oakie vacations and the good Benny will provide a thirty-minute period which will be dedicated to Mr. Charlie, of "Swing, Mr. Charlie" fame. Swing has certainly got these United States (possible exceptions: Maine and Vermont) by the heels. And Benny is its apostle. On any given Saturday night in June at a thousand college proms, you can find prancing imitators murdering the gentle jazz in which he specializes. Let this be a warning to the makers of those ice-box radios we just mentioned. With Benny on a summer schedule they had better be sure they have installed plenty of freezing-coils or some startled housewife may open her Shelvador to find her cold storage chicken trucking with a perspiring leg of lamb.

In our ceaseless efforts to serve the public, we deem it our duty to pass on to those radio listeners who are interested in Keeping the Air Clean and Free of Fraud, a rumor concerning the recent widely publicized broadcast of the Singing Mice.

Well, it seems that those mice didn't sing at all. According to "Tide," a most trustworthy publication, they didn't sing at all but merely squealed when they had their bottoms pinched with a pair of tweezers!

Fights are always interesting—and so are big money figures, especially when that money takes the place of the swords that duelling adversaries might otherwise employ. This fight is between the National and Columbia networks, and it concerns their efforts to secure exclusive broadcasting privileges to certain exceedingly important sporting events.

It appears that the rival networks had been going along on a pretty thin gentlemen's agreement not to make competitive bids. But that's all over, it seems. The Braddock-Louis fight did it. Both NBC and CBS wanted the broadcasting rights. NBC got them by paying $50,000. That's when CBS went into action. It dashed out and paid the United States Lawn Tennis Association approximately $10,000 for the sole right to have Mr. Husing relay a stroke-by-stroke description to CBS' network stations only. It laid $20,000 on the line in order to be the only network present for the next five years during the big golf championships. And right this minute, CBS scouts are said to be tying up everything in sight, which includes the Kentucky Derby, the International Yacht Races, the Poughkeepsie Regatta, and perhaps the Soapbox Derby.

Looking back over a fruitful winter season of broadcasting, one must marvel at the tremendous impetus the winter of 1936-37 gave to the career of a one-time boop-a-doop boy named Bing Crosby. No longer the pulse-prodder of his romantic I'm-singing-to-you-and-you-alone-baby days, he has matured both in personality and artistry. Not generally known is the fact that much of that maturity comes from the Grade A line he has been given to read. Lifting the curtain on backstage life just a bit, we can reveal that those lines are written by one of radio's most competent scribes named Carroll Carroll. Ten years ago, this Carroll Ditto was joke-writer and a maker-upper of snappy paragraphs. Radio came into his life; he came into Bing's life; and Bing came into ours with a grown-up manner and an intelligently provocative line.

Strange special events have been presented—and from many strange places. But few have been as unique as the one which originated in New York recently when a window-washer, Richard Hart, talked with a fellow worker in Chicago. Hart carried an NBC portable transmitter with him to "the job"—which happened that day to be many stories up in the skyscraping Empire State building.

When Charlie McCarthy tells all he knows about . . .

. . . his boss—Edgar Bergen shows mixed emotions!

BY

VENTRILOQUIST EDGAR BERGEN HAS BEEN PRAISED BY THE CROWN PRINCE OF SWEDEN—BUT HE'S BEEN BOOED TOO! HERE'S HIS REAL LIFE STORY!

TODAY my boss, Mr. Edgar Bergen, was in a dither. There he sat at his typewriter trying to write a story about himself and the phone kept ringing and the doorbell kept ringing and it turned out he was supposed to be ten places at once. He's been an awful busy guy since we got out here to California. Finally he snatched the paper out of his typewriter in a rage, balled it up and stepped on it.

"O. K., Charlie," he muttered between his teeth, "it's a swindle but I'll do business with you. You write this story and you get the wig."

Now a new red—I might say titian—wig is an item I've been trying to talk him into for days. How can I afford to show up at broadcasts, with all those gorgeous Hollywood blondes in the audience, in a toupee fantastically moth-eaten around the ears? A fellow has to look smooth to make any headway with blondes, and I've got to make some time to show Gertrude. (Gertrude's my girl. We aren't speaking this week.) But the boss argued that my toupees have to be ordered from one of the most expensive places in New York and he saw no reason why we couldn't overlook a few moth patches for a couple more seasons. He's usually a very generous guy, Mr. Bergen, but I understand how he feels about the wig. Being as he's getting a bit thinnish across the dome himself, he isn't very amenable on subjects pertaining to hair.

"Make the story eighteen hundred words"—he grabbed his hat to rush off to one of those meetings where they plan the radio program we're on—"and before I go maybe I better give you a few pointers about writing." Pointers! Deeply insulted, I rose up to my full three feet. "Mr. Bergen," I replied icily, "I'm no dummy! The McCartys are pioneers in all fields. If I compose this yarn it will be my own individual creation, my exclusive literary piece de resistance . . ."

"O. K., Charlie," he dashed for the front door, "but no funny business. Stick to the facts."

So here I am, banging away at the typewriter to beat the band.

I met Mr. Bergen fourteen years ago, in Chicago. It's always a trifle embarrassing to explain my lineage because my only ancestor seems to have been a little Irish boy who used to sell papers outside the building where Mr. Bergen went to high school. Mr. Bergen would always watch this Irish boy and he liked his little pug-nosed mug, so he made about a hundred charcoal sketches of him from every angle and said whenever he had me made he was going to have me look exactly like those sketches.

So one day when he was a sophomore at Northwestern University he went to a wood-carver in Chicago named Charlie Mack and Charlie took a chisel to a chunk of hickory and after a while I began to have a head. The first thing I saw when they glued my divine hazel eyes in place (well, Gertrude says they're divine, anyway) was a lanky blond young fellow about five feet ten, with blue eyes and a pleasant face. I'd heard this fellow talking for several days, so I knew his name was Edgar Bergen and that he was a ventriloquist.

"Hello, Charlie McCarthy!" He picked me up and inspected me with obvious pride. Then he said, "You wake? You'd think a movie contract was a mortgage foreclosure, the way you both take on."

"Might as well take our home on a foreclosure as take us away from the home," McGee broke in darkly. For the first time I got an inkling of where the trouble lay. Molly nodded. She turned to me.

"It's this way," she explained. "Ever since we were married down by the schnapps factory in Peoria, Jim and I have longed for a home, pictured and planned it in our minds. This is it."

"But your success has brought you the home. And aren't you happy about a new chance in a new field? Don't you get a kick out of the figures on that contract? Why, you'll be able to build an even better home."

Fibber McGee answered quickly:

"It isn't that we aren't appreciative. Molly doesn't mean that. Sure, success built this home. Incidentally, we don't want a better one. We're happy in this home—when we're here, which isn't often enough or long enough. Certainly we're glad to enter the movies. But it means going away from Wistful Vista. If we could just take time out, now, to enjoy our dream-home! But we can't. Gotta keep going. It's part of the game."

THIS was a new McGee, this philosopher. I wanted him to continue. But Molly interjected another doleful note.

"There are the children, too. Don't forget the children, Jim. They were part of our dreams."

It developed that the Jordans, during the several weeks' work in the studio (they talked like it would be years, aecns) were leaving behind them sixteen-year-old Kathryn, comely high school junior, and thirteen-year-old Jimmy, eighth-grader, who sings like Bing Crosby (says McGee).

"Let me show you the house," Molly cried impulsively. "Then maybe you'll understand what we're talking about." She did, and I did.

The Vanastorbilts wouldn't go for this home, but any middle-class family would dote on it. There are three large rooms downstairs, besides the solarium. Three inviting bedrooms upstairs. In the basement, a huge play-

THE witching call to Hollywood is most troupers' idea of open sesame to Heaven—but there is, alas, a fly in the oyster stew of the Clan McGee.

News of their impending assault on the screen capital had just broken when I called on Jim and Marian Jordan, who are Fibber and Molly as well as sundry other quaint characters on a weekly radio program.

I found them at a modest but quite fetching home in Peterson's Woods, an attractive, spick-and-span district of Chicago's North Side, neither exclusive nor ritzy. It is the Wistful Vista of the McGee radio script.

No fashionable showplace, this. If the Jordans abhor anything more than a sustaining program it's a show-off. Just a two-story dwelling of mustard-colored brick exterior and severely practical design, set on a 30x125-foot lot. Pretty, homelike, inviting. Something any well-paid working man might aspire to own.

With the ink scarcely dry on a lucrative movie contract, it seemed reasonable to expect a jubilee spirit at the Jordan menage. Instead, there was a hangdog look in the keen brown eyes of the short-sleeved little gent who stood in the front yard.

I tried hard to keep it in my noggin that these genial, bluff, commonplace folk were famous funmakers, beloved of millions, bound for Hollywood and new glory. Yet something was wrong. Some intangible shadow. The Bluebird must be around somewhere, but I didn't hear him warbling.

"About that movie contract, now," I ventured at last as we sat in the streaming sunlight of the Jordan solarium. "I suspect that's an answer to an oft-spoken prayer. Jim and Marian, you're riding high!"

The Fibber didn't hear it at all.

But Molly had heard. She sighed.

"Yes," she said dully, "that movie contract. It's thrilling, of course. It's fine to be appreciated. Pretty soon, now," and she seemed on the verge of tears, "we'll be off for the Coast."

Jordan ambled over and laid a hand on her shoulder. They seemed as happy as a couple of slayers condemned to the chair. This was intolerable.

"Say, what is this?" I blurted suddenly. "Is it a victory celebration or a room for the younger Jordan generation.

Appointments are beyond reproach, though Marian, a self-disparaging sort of person, sometimes referred to her "interior decorator's nightmare."

"No frills or freaks," the First Lady of the House of Jordan cheerfully admitted. "But every inch is utilized. We built this house to live in—if they'll let us.

"Jim inspected and gave his personal blessing to every timber and brick and nail. He slunk around the place day and night, till the neighbors began to think the joint was haunted."

Jim probably knew what he was doing, at that. He's been not only a carpenter and student of architecture, but also a timekeeper, machinist, day-nobody can say what's going to happen tomorrow."

About their home, they both are garrulous old gossips, pulling no punches.

"In the original contract it was supposed to cost $10,000," Jim recalled. "As it stands now, including furnishings, carpets, drapes and everything, I figure it's worth a good $15,000."

Here in their own home, at least, you couldn't doubt that the Jordans knew happiness.

Like millions of others, you see, home life and comfort and security are all that Jim and Marian Jordan care deeply about. Luxury formed no part of the earlier career of either, and now that success has caught them up, neither feels the need for extravagant things.

Nothing ever came easily for the Jordans, and what they have now they cherish. Even their romance was stormy. Jim was seventeen, Marian, sixteen, when they decided to marry.

Peoria frowned on youthful marriages. "Puppy love," sniffed the citizens, and asked, "How can that strippling Jordan support a wife?"

Jim wondered about that himself, but Marian didn't hesitate. Neither has ever been sorry; but the going, in spots, was painfully rough.

WHEN the War came along, Jim volunteered. In St. Nazaire he fell ill. Thereafter he fought the battle of pink pills and pale liquids in a base hospital.

Meanwhile Marian taught violin, voice and piano to Young America, or to that part of Young Peoria she could interest. Reunited after the firing had ceased, they picked up four musicians who played fifteen instruments and began hitting the tank towns.

The Jordans then saw vaudeville, but vaudeville didn't see them very clearly. In 1924 the doughty duo turned to radio, never suspecting they had grasped the magic key to success and the things they most wanted—home life, comfort, security.

For ten long years it looked like a sour idea, with the hard-working Jordans slotted for mediocrity. Marian and Jim toiled diligently and quite steadily around Chicago studios, never quite producing that extra spark that would mean stardom. They became the O'Henry Twins, the Smith Family, the Smackouts. They frolicked at the Saturday Jamboree, whooped it up with the Kaltenmeyer Kindergarten.

THEY were still in the dime-a-dozen class less than three years ago when, overnight, the Fibber McGee and Molly program was born. Smash hit—meteoric rise—fat contract—permanent stardom.

For a while, now, you're hearing the McGee radio broadcast as it originates in a Hollywood studio. Between times the beloved comics are toiling industriously to score a four-star knockout in their first cinemadventure. With the calm confidence and optimism of battle-scarred troupers, they are not losing sleep over the outcome of this epic in celluloid.

They will give their best and leave the verdict in the lap of the gods, hoping for a favorable pay-off. And that'll be that.

Of deeper concern to Jim and Marian Jordan, if you could peep into their hearts, is the matter of their personal happiness. Call it a Bluebird if you will. For the Jordans he's not in Hollywood at all, but in the solarium of the dream-home that is Wistful Vista.

Fibber McGee and Molly may be heard Mondays over an NBC network at 9 p.m. EDT (8 EST; 8 CDT; 7 CST; 6 MST; 5 PST).

STARS THE WAY
THEY LOOK—TO
THE WORLD AND TO EACH OTHER!

This story was written just before W. C. Fields accepted a contract with the new Sunday evening coffee hour. As a guest star, his success was tremendous—and immediate. Now Bill Fields is paying back to radio some of the debt to it that he piled up during his months of illness.

—THE EDITORS.

WHEN I saw Bill Fields a few months ago he looked as though a gentle zephyr would lay him among the daisies. When I saw him a few days ago he looked like a man who had found the fountain of youth: dapper, spry—full of the joy of living.

I don't believe Bill ever realized just how sick he really was. And now that he is so hale and hearty again it is doubtful if he ever will realize it. But it is an open secret in Hollywood that the Paramount executives never thought he'd finish "Poppy"—his last picture, made over a year ago.

"One guy said I walked jauntily to the exit after a scene and collapsed," Bill grumbled. "I never collapsed in my life. My legs just gave way. If, instead of going in for a lot of doctors and nurses I'd stuck to my drinking I'd have been all right months ago."

"Just what was the matter with you, Bill?" I asked.

"Nothing," he rasped. "Absolutely nothing. I'd been working too hard and needed rest. That's all. But they said I had neuritis, arthritis, a displaced sacre-iliac, double pneumonia, a relapse and another attack of double pneumonia."

Only a person who knows Bill's background can appreciate the punishment his body has taken during the course of his life. He ran away from home when he was about eleven to escape a beating his father wanted to give him. He lived for weeks in a cave, subsisting on what his friends could steal from their homes to bring him. He slept in box cars, in sheds, in doorways—wherever he could find a place to park his weary little body. He sold papers, swept out pool-rooms—anything to keep body and soul together. Instead of shrinking from under-nourishment, Bill thrived on it. He is as rugged as one of the Rocky Mountains. If he hadn't been he'd never have pulled through.

"Did you ever beg?" I asked him.

"No-o," he chortled. "I might have resorted to larceny a few times—but that's as far as it went."

I WONDERED, even in the face of Bill's remarkable constitution, how he had survived his recent illness.

"The radio saved my life," he remarked simply.

"Radio!" I ejaculated incredulously, knowing something of the staggering sums Bill has paid doctors, nurses, hospitals, etc.

"Yeah," said Bill.

"I'd never cared much about radio. But when I first went into the hospital they wouldn't let me have any company. So I started fooling around with the radio and before I knew it I was a dyed-in-the-wool fan. The radio saved my reason.

"I got to be so rabid on the subject that when it came time for one of my favorite programs I used to get into my car and drive a block or two away from the sanitarium so that when they turned on the therapeutic machines (as they always did when I particularly wanted to listen to something), it wouldn't interfere with my reception."

Bill snorted and I chuckled. That act is as characteristic of him as his firing five nurses during his illness.

"How did you get on with your nurses, Bill?" I asked.

"I didn't," he shouted. "One morning one of them was changing my pajamas. She got the coat on all right, but when she began pulling on the pants I felt like my toe-nails were being torn out by the roots. 'Hey!' I parts he wanted to—at a salary of $100 a week.

"Can you imagine anyone being so stage-struck he'd act for nothing?" Bill demanded disgustedly.

When the broadcast was over we discussed Bill's appearance on the Sunday night coffee hour as a guest.

"Was that really your first broadcast?" I asked.

"Yeah," said Bill, "except for the jubilee dinner they gave Adolph Zukor to celebrate his twenty-fifth year in pictures. I broadcast a short speech from the hospital."

"I've had some offers for a program of my own on the air. I'd like to do it and I've laid out between fifty and seventy-five thousand dollars this past year on account of my illness. Somebody's got to pay for it and it might as well be the radio people. But, radio! I'll tell you, my little chickadee, the idea of getting up a good program, once a week, week in and week out, scares the daylight out of me."

He paused a moment and then: "Radio has done so much for me that if I, even in a small way, could give radio audiences a tenth the enjoyment I've got out of various programs I feel as though I ought to do it. And then, of course, there's all that dough."

I left Bill, chuckling to myself. John Drinkwater, Lytton Strachey and all the other great biographers rolled into one could never get Bill Fields onto paper as he actually is. How the deuce are a few radio gagmen going to evolve a fictional character that even remotely approaches his own?

W. C. Fields may be heard Sundays on the coffee hour over an NBC network at 8 p.m. EDT (7 EST; 7 CDT; 6 CST; 5 MST; 4 PST).

Bill took the hard way to fame—but achieved it. Now he is a star. Here he is, just before losing his health. Recently he has turned to radio, has become a great sensation!

yelled, 'Stop!' 'What's the matter?' she asked, going right on pulling. 'Quit looking at my face,' I screamed; 'look at my feet and see what you're doing.' 'Don't yell at me like that,' she screamed back, but she stopped and looked. Instead of my pants, she had got hold of a pillow case and was trying to pull that on. One of my toenails had got caught in the thing and she was going right ahead yanking on it."

I yelled. As long as Bill is grumbling and finding fault with everything and everybody around him I'll never worry. It'll be when everything in Bill's life is sweetness and light that I'll become alarmed.

He reminds me of a story he tells of a happening during his circus days in Australia. He was appearing on a bill with a girl named Valencia who worked with cats (lions, tigers, leopards, etc.). The animals cost her quite a bit of money and were worth more after they'd been trained. One of her leopards got sick. She got a room with twin beds, and one of her assistants, a young boy, slept in one bed and the sick leopard in the other. The first night the leopard crawled out of her bed, over to the boy's, got into bed with him, doubled her paws back so the claws wouldn't scratch and slept with the boy. That continued for a week. One morning Bill met Valencia.

"How's the cat?" he inquired.

"Oh, Bill," she burbled, "I'm so happy. This morning the boy went to scratch the cat's ears and she snapped at him. I think she's getting better."

So it is with Bill.

Bill was pacing up and down, up and down. "Don't mind me," he apologized. "I was on my back so long I have to keep getting up to make sure my legs are really all right."

Suddenly he looked at his watch. "Rudy Vallee is on," he announced. "Let's go listen to him."

The guest of honor that day was a star who had renounced Hollywood and returned to the theater to act the

In screening his last picture, "Poppy," Bill became so ill that it was feared he'd never be able to see it finished. But he did—then made a great recovery—for which he thanks radio!

THE Hollywood stars who won the greatest reputation for stinginess were Maurice Chevalier and Adolphe Menjou. The man who has the reputation of being the stingiest man in radio is Tom Howard.

"I," says Tom, making no bones about it, "am not in show business for the excitement. The show business is the same as the grocery business to me. I don't believe there's a guy in New York who's ever seen me in a night club. I've always been the first into the studio and the first out of it, on my way home to my wife and kids. I've got the first five hundred dollars I ever earned and I'm proud of it."

His mention of the grocery business is no accident. The grocery business is where he started. He worked behind the counter for the Acme Tea Company, now the American Stores, in Philadelphia, his home town. And twenty years of show business have not cured him of saying "I seen" and "him and I" in his nasal twang. When he was a grocery clerk he ran around with a bunch of young fellows who, at parties, sang and played instruments.

"Gee," Tom said bitterly to himself, "these guys are popular and I'm not. Isn't there anything I can do? There must be something."

ONE day in the store he was waiting on a little girl. Tom noticed the book of recitations she had in her hand, open at "The Face On the Bar Room Floor."

"How much did you pay for that book?" he asked her.

"Five cents."

He gave her a dime for it, took it home and memorized "The Face On the Bar Room Floor," with gestures. The next party saw him reciting it with the gas lights turned down low and one of his friends, the boy who played the piano, furnishing "Hearts and Flowers" by way of background music. At the end, when he shouted the line, "He fell across the picture dead," Tom pitched wildly to the floor. He nearly broke every bone in his body, but it was a wow finish and the recitation was a tremendous success.

Soon he was giving it at a men's smoker. They gave him a two-dollar bill. Then and there he became a professional. He had eight picture-postcard photos taken of himself for a dollar and hunted up a vaudeville booking agent.

His first engagement took him to a Pennsylvania mining village. He was to get a total of $15 for three days' work, out of which he had to pay his own railroad fare, board and room. At the close of the "engagement" the theater manager said, "Sorry, Mister. The best I can do is your hotel bill and five dollars." He also owned the hotel.

Tom's second job took him to a stock company, where he played for seven weeks because the receipts were too small to pay anybody's carfare back to Philadelphia. The situation was somewhat complicated because, dazzled by his sudden rise in the theater, he fell in love with one of the girls in the company and married her.

"And right then," he says solemnly, "I took an oath that whenever I got a dollar I'd hang onto it. I saw that the show business was a tough racket. The stories they told about it weren't true."

Sure enough, when he landed his first half-way decent job in Camden, New Jersey, at twenty dollars a week, he put four dollars into the bank every pay-day after he paid his one-dollar commission to the booking agent. He was in Camden a year, and in that length of time he deposited $500 in the bank at 7th and Walnut Streets in Philadelphia. Those are the five hundred dollars he still has today, in the original savings account.

From Camden he went into burlesque at fifty dollars a week. His second year in burlesque his salary was doubled. His one ambition by now, with babies coming, was to own his own home. More stock—a real stock company this time—followed the burlesque. Then the Greenwich Village Follies. Tom stayed there for seven years and worked his salary slowly up to a thousand dollars a week.

His first move was to buy the home he had wanted for so long. It was a bigger house than he would have been able to buy as a grocery clerk, perhaps, but it still wasn't any huge mansion. He paid a thousand dollars down on it and assumed a two-thousand dollar mortgage.

Then, at once, he sold it. It was what he had always wanted, but he got rid of it nevertheless. He made a profit on the deal, but that wasn't the reason. The reason was that it cost too much to heat it. Coal was eighteen dollars a ton or thereabouts. Ten—twelve—fourteen tons. That added up.

He moved his family into a smaller house which didn't cost so much to heat.

By this time the show business which he regarded so definitely as a business was almost a side-line with him, in a manner of speaking. The minute he got off the stage Tom was a realtor. He bought and sold houses.

In the old days of vaudeville, playing three and four shows a day, a performer had little time left to himself. Radio, demanding only a few hours a week, allows time for realtor-ing.

Other comedians hire professional writers to turn out their scripts for them. Tom doesn't. Writers cost money. "I tried a couple writers," he says. "I used to have to rewrite their stuff anyhow. Why pay someone to do what I can do myself?"

Other performers pay press-agents to keep their names in the public eye. "If sponsors bought time on the air to advertise their products," Tom figured, "wasn't I getting free advertising for Tom Howard? Why should I pay a press-agent anything?" But for once it didn't work out the way he thought it would. He saw other comedians' names mentioned in the newspapers, but never his. So, much as he disliked it, he was forced to hire a press-agent against his will.

INSTEAD of buying a fifty-dollar suit of clothes for myself," he says, "I decided to buy a twenty-five-dollar suit and put the rest towards a press-agent."

He bargains like an old-time horse-trader for anything he wants. The pride of his life—his only extravagance—is a collection of curios.

"Let's be sensible," he puts it. "The way I look at it is this. How long does a performer last in radio? A few people like Amos and Andy and Rudy Vallee go on for years, but most of us last about five years at the most. That's a fair average. A man has to protect himself against that. A grocery clerk thinks of his old age. Why not a radio artist?"

"My advice to a youngster coming into radio is that his first concern should be how much money he can save a week. He can easily lay aside twenty-five percent of his salary. He should be willing to go without a lot of silly luxuries. Do as Mrs. Howard and I did. Eat good food, but don't bother about variety. Then, as things get better, he can have pie."

A penny-pinching tightwad who has never stopped to ask himself what good his money will do him if he doesn't know how to enjoy himself?

Or a shrewd, disillusioned, realistic, man who doesn't listen to bunk and knows the professional artistic world for what it really is?

Before you decide, listen to one little story. When the Howards' first baby was born, Tom and the baby's mother were touring in vaudeville in one-night stands. Sometimes there were cracks in the walls so wide that snow drifted into their dressing-room. Tom used to dash off the stage and cover the baby. Ruth, with his comedy coats to keep her warm. Her cradle was the upper drawer of their trunk.

That, to Tom Howard, is the show business. He has never forgotten.

Tom Howard may be heard Sundays on "Sunday Night Party" over an NBC network at 10 p.m. EDT (9 EST; 9 CDT; 8 CST; 7 MST; 6 PST).

CHICAGO.—On Monday of last week, the termination next January 1 of the contract of the sponsor with Amos 'n' Andy—longest single sponsorship in the history of radio—was announced by Albert D. Lasker, president of the advertising agency handling the comedians, at the request of Messrs. Correll and Gosden. On Tuesday of last week, "Andy" (Charles Correll) was sued for divorce by his wife, Marie, in Superior Court here. Mrs. Correll's bill cited two instances of cruelty, alleging a slap "on the right side of the face" administered here last Christmas Eve and one on May 1 at Palm Springs, Calif., at which time she also charges he deserted her. Thus do America's kings of the air break into the news in rapid succession. . . . The report is current that a new client will take over "Amos 'n' Andy" without change of time or policy—but with increased salaries for Amos 'n' Andy. . . . Meanwhile, pending the settlement of his Every actor who ever has been cast in "Today's Children" will be entertained by Author Irna Phillips June 19 at a party celebrating the sketch's fifth anniversary on the air. . . . You'll be missing Sade (Bernardine Flynn Doherty) from the "Vic and Sade" sketches around September 1 when Bernardine anticipates a visit from the stork. . . . Incidentally, the "Vic and Sade" sketch has all kinds of fans. The other day a company of Sioux Indians, in Chicago to present a pageant, took time off to drop into the NBC studios and give a few friendly whoops for Vic, Sade and Rush. Rush had a good time talking to the Indians, who for years have been keeping up with the story of the radio serial.

Romance Corner: Jack Costello, one of the mikemen handling Parks Johnson's and Wally Butterworth's "Vox Pop" show, will marry Mary Margaret Sullivan, of Minneapolis, on June 19 at St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York City. . . . Another pronouncer, Lester Griffith, of Chi-NBC, and Laura Satterwhite just announced that they were married on May 1. . . . But Zarova, the glamorous Russian soprano of California Concert fame, just won't tell what that beautiful diamond ring on her left hand means!

A card from Fibber McGee, in Hollywood, says that he and Molly have taken an apartment right across from Mae West's menage—but Fibber avers that it "just happened that way!"

Lots of plums—for the grand Sunday evening coffee hour of May 23 in which Marjorie Boland stepped right along in stride with Funnyman W. C. Fields. Everything's good about this show. . . . For the sportsmanship of Betty Lou, person in sending an orchid to Actress Templeton Fox on her debut as lead in "Linda Fairchild, Stepmother," after Betty had tried out for the part unsuccessfully. . . . For Walter Winchell and others who so kindly volunteered to double for the then ailing Jack Benny on Sunday, May 23. . . . For Ranch Boy Jack Ross who has kept a stiff upper lip and a smile despite hard luck's parade which hospitalized his wife, brought one little daughter down with pneumonia and another with a broken finger. . . .

How they do catch on! A network press release says, "Prunes are the favorite dish of Gale Page, songstress, but for her singing, she really doesn't rate them." I agree thoroughly.

Remember "Arabesque"? Its revised version, with Joan Blaine in the lead, will be brought to you very shortly from Coast to Coast. That's the secret Joan and her representatives have been keeping for a long time.

Fred Allen program twice and taking in the Broadway play "Excursion" . . . Your new leading man of "Modern Cinderella" is Dave Gothard, also featured in "Romance of Helen Trent." He replaced Eddie Dean.

Apropos of summer is the new song composition of Jack ("Poetic Melodies") Fulton and John Hancock, who announces the program. It's tagged "Tying Knots in Soda Straws."

IN ADDITION to Jane Froman and her hubby, Don Ross, the summer edition of the flavored dessert show will also feature Joe Lewis, a very funny lad who has amused audiences in many prominent night spots from Coast to Coast. Supporting those already mentioned will be a twenty-eight-piece orchestra conducted by Alfonso D'Arteaga, who has been an arranger for many big-name ork pilots . . . Don Wilson will continue his word-spiel on this show for the next three years at least. His new contract also calls for a healthy increase in salary, it is said.

Added to the new edition of the Tuesday night auto show, featuring Johnny Green's orchestra, will be Trudy Wood and the Rhythm Chorus . . . Deanna Durbin and Bobby Breen sign off their Sunday night airing after one more broadcast . . . Sponsors of the Joe Cook show are undecided about continuing on the airlines. If the program does not go off, it is more than likely to have a new cast.

Don't be surprised if Dick Powell makes a guest appearance on his favorite radio show—"Hollywood Hotel" . . . They tell me that Claudette

Colbert, who has never had a radio show of her own, is being tempted with a juicy contract and can just about write her own ticket as far as salary is concerned. She did a grand job when she guested for Louella Parsons two weeks ago on the "Hotel."

On the fourth of July, Smilin' Ed McConnell will have a celebration of his own, if you can call it a celebration. He signs off his current program on that date but will be back again on the new show over NBC, August 29. The time and station will be the same as at present . . . Captain Tim Healy goes off for the summer on June 20 and he will be spending his vacation making a film short, "The Story Behind the Stamp," based on his radio series . . . "Twin Stars" will sign off one week earlier than announced previously. They go June 20.

Buddy Rogers, being told that husband-and-wife teams are quite a success on the airlines, is considering an offer to appear on the air with his reported frau-to-be, Mary Pickford.

Since A. L. Alexander's "Good Will Court" was taken from the air, he has been thinking of a somewhat similar program to take its place. He has a new idea that he calls "Alexander's Arbitration Court." This, according to Alexander, is an improved program which will employ prominent laymen to settle differences between the "litigants." Unlike the "Good Will Court," both sides of the cases will be heard, and what is more, decisions will be rendered. They will be binding, since both parties will be asked to sign papers agreeing to abide by the "arbitrator's" findings. Once again it is anticipated there will be arguments for and against a program of this sort. However, you may hear this program on the air in the near future.

Carlton KaDell may get the announcing job on "Show Boat" when that program docks in Hollywood . . . "We, the People" is seeking a sponsor for the fall. There is some talk about Phil Lord coming through with another bright idea for a radio show . . . The CBS "Saturday Night Swing Club" will celebrate its first birthday on June 12 and will put on a special hour show starting at midnight, eastern time, picking up swing bands Ozzie is doing one-night stands all over the country, coming into New York on Sundays only to do his broadcast with Robert Ripley. Their baby, David, remains in New York in the hands of a nurse. The baby won't see its mother for many weeks, sees its father only a few hours on Sunday afternoon between rehearsals. After Daddy's broadcast, Baby David is already sound asleep for the night.

Grofe, Smalle in Series Debut On June 4

Ferde Grofe, distinctive American composer, his symphonic orchestra, and a choral group directed by Edwin Smalle will inaugurate a musical series scheduled for the summer months over the CBS network on Friday, June 4.

The new series, sponsored by a group of banks, will replace the series of the world-famous Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, heard throughout the winter and spring.

Each of the programs will feature at least one of the musical works of Grofe and a piece by some other well-known contemporary composer. The 30-piece orchestra will be accompanied by Smalle's choral group, assembled specially for this series. Smalle will attempt to illustrate that subtle harmonies and melodies are as interesting in vocal presentation as when handled instrumentally.

Grofe will pattern his share of the program on the modern school of American music, blending serious concert selections with "lighter and gayer melodies." The opening program will open with "Herbertiana," including the selections "I'm Falling in Love with Someone," "Gypsy Love Song," "When You're Away," "Toyland," and "The March of the Toys." The other orchestral selections will be Bloom's "Song of the Bayou," "La Cinquantaine," by Gabriel-Marie, and "The Parade of the Wooden Soldiers." The choral numbers will be "Liebestraum," Grofe's "Madri Gras," and Friml's "Giannina Mia."

It's An Eclipse—On the Air!

The eclipse of the sun on June 8 will occasion no less than six broadcasts by the NBC and CBS networks. Each network will broadcast on June 7 from the headquarters, where preparations will be made to observe the phenomenon—CBS airing its Andes Mountains expedition, and NBC broadcasting from its South Seas base. On Tuesday, June 8, NBC will describe the eclipse and its results in three special broadcasts, and CBS will again take the air from the Andes to describe the scene there.

Robinson, Davis Put 'Galahad' On 'Hotel'

Bette Davis and Edward G. Robinson will bring their latest film play, "Kid Galahad," to the air when they guest-star during the "Hollywood Hotel" broadcast for Friday, June 4. The program is heard on CBS.

In this prize-fight melodrama Robinson plays the role of a fight manager who dreams (as do all fight managers) of discovering a boy whom he can "build up" for the championship. Miss Davis plays a somewhat shopworn Broadway butterfly whose contact with the young boxer whom Robinson discovers, fails to spoil his ultimate happy ending with a young Italian girl. In the movie version, one of the greatest appeals of the play is the abundance of flying fists. What sound-effects men and radio script-writers can do about this is a problem of June 4.

This will mark the third appearance on this program for Robinson, who has also aired his plays, "The Whole Town's Talking" and "Bullets or Ballots." It will be the second time this year that Miss Davis has been heard on the series.

Jerry Cooper will again head the musical portion of the program with Frances Langford, Anne Jamison, Igor Gorin and Raymond Paige's orchestra.

Friday, June 4—CBS
9 p.m. EDT (8 EST; 7 CST)

Trudy Wood Stars As Astaire Leaves Show

Trudy Wood will be the featured vocalist in the new musical series replacing Fred Astaire and Charlie Butterworth on the NBC-Red network Tuesday, June 8. Johnny Green and his orchestra will carry on.

The new program climaxes a Cinderella career of the red-haired girl who rose from a radio chorus last fall to sing duets with Astaire in his first long-term radio series. Previous to that "break," she had sung at a night club in Hollywood, and on a two-year tour with dance bands.

Tuesday, June 8—NBC
9:30 p.m. EDT (8:30 EST; 7:30 CST)

Cantor Leaves 'Town'; Wallington Takes Over

As far as listeners are concerned, Eddie Cantor will be a missing radio mayor when his program takes the CBS air on Sunday, June 6—but he'll be there. Eddie is taking a "vacation" but will continue to supervise the show.

Jimmy Wallington will act as master of ceremonies on the summer series, and the revised cast will include Igor Gorin, baritone, Ella Logan, blues singer, "Saymore Saymore," the telephone operator, Eddie Stanley, Greek dialectician, and the two prodigies, Jeanna Durbin and Bobby Breen. Gorin, Stanley, and Miss Logan are new to the cast.

IT WAS love that led Pete astray, one frisky day in spring.

Pete had been happy in his Kansas City home, before love trotted into his life to lure him and leave him lost, cold, hungry, sick and—at last—a fugitive, hunted by a police radio car.

It hadn't taken much to keep him happy, in the days of Pete's innocence. Good meals, a warm place to sleep, a bit of back-yard dirt to scratch in, a number of delightful trees to sniff around—and, of course, a large policeman to tickle him behind the ears.

The policeman's name was T. J. McManigal, but Pete didn't know that. You could hardly expect a Boston bull terrier to attach a name, initials and all, to the Almighty Human Being. All Pete knew about Radio Patrolman T. J. McManigal, of the Kansas City cops, was that he loved the man with a sacred canine adoration, quite unlike the profane love which brought the world to an end.

And that is how things stood on the frisky spring morning when Pete discovered the hole underneath Officer McManigal's back fence.

Strictly speaking, Pete didn't discover the hole that morning. He had discovered it several days before and, whenever he thought of it, had spent happy moments enlarging it with rapid forepaws and questing nose. But on this particular morning, Pete managed to get his shoulders through the hole.

After that—a twitch of electric terrier legs, a squirming of rump, two jerks of a stubby tail, and Pete was through the hole.

It was a large world, and full of heavenly smells.

PETE nosed his way around to the front of the McManigal house—his house—pausing occasionally to pay suitable tribute. There was a garbage can—gorgeous! And in front of the house, a boy was passing on roller skates. He, of course, was suitably and ecstatically barked at.

And then she passed by.

She was a small, woolly dog, a bit bedraggled. One of those feminine, deceptively helpless-looking creatures—and all Pete's senses told him she was divine. She trotted through the spring air and Pete trotted after her, and now we come to the place where writers of a previous generation usually left a row of asterisks. Forgotten by poor Pete was the warmth of his home, the succulence and regularity of his meals. Forgotten, even, was the Greatest Human Being in the World, Patrolman T. J. McManigal of the Kansas City radio cops. Pete left home—but don't blame him too much. Many a male has done exactly what Pete did—and not all of them canine males, either.

Came the dawn.

With bleary eyes Pete looked out upon a strange and hostile world—and bitter was the disillusionment of that dawn. Deserted by his light o' love, cold, hungry and lost, the little dog crouched under a flight of wooden steps and shivered.

After a while, a big man walked down the street. Pete's ears went up. The man wore a blue coat with brass buttons. Pete gave a joyous bark and a whine. His stump of a tail wriggled, and Pete ran out to meet the man, crazy with joy.

"Hello, there," said the policeman. But it was the wrong one!

PETE'S ears fell. It didn't sound like the Greatest Human, Patrolman T. J. McManigal of the Kansas City radio cops. It didn't look like him—Pete's tail stopped wagging. And, most damning of all, this big man-creature didn't smell like the Greatest Human.

With sad eyes, Pete put the stump of his tail between his lean buttocks, drooped, whined, and ran away.

That was the terrible beginning of a day of disappointments. Again and again the little dog's eyes told him that the Great Man was right in front of him—but his nose knew better. Again and again, with the hopeless hope of a lost dog, Pete ran up to some big human only to sniff, droop, follow the man for a few discouraged feet and then stand still and shiver. And of course, everybody knows that only sickness or a great sorrow can make a Boston bull pup stand still.

PUPPY LOVE

"Hello, there," said the policeman. But it was the wrong one!

It was, Pete had found, a grim and terrible world. How could there be so many people in the world, and all of them the wrong people? So many houses, all the wrong houses? So many streets, all wrong? What was the sense in it? Poor little Pete, he was so ignorant that he didn't know he was breaking innumerable civic ordinances. He didn't know that he had no right to run over people's lawns and go right up on their verandas, hoping to find the Right Door. He didn't know that he was a Public Nuisance, liable to summary execution in the city pound.

IT WAS late that afternoon when Pete tried another veranda and—a miracle happened. The door opened!

Up went Pete's ears. A woman stood in the door.

"Hello, puppy, come here!" said the woman. Down went Pete's ears.

"Come on, then!" No doubt it was a pleasant woman, for she spoke very nicely and twiddled her fingers as she slowly walked towards him, but to Pete she was just another disappointment. Whining, he ran off the veranda and stood on three legs, looking.

"Why, the poor little fellow!" the woman said. "He must be lost!" And with that she shut the door, and Pete resumed his wanderings.

He didn't know—how could he?—that the kind-hearted woman went to her telephone and called the police. He didn't know that all over Kansas City went a radio call:

Calling Car 6 . . . Car 6 . . . A dog reported wandering at 1215 Prospect Avenue . . . Investigate, Car 6.

Nor did Pete know, as he listlessly picked his way around behind a store at Twelfth and Prospect Streets, that a radio car had driven up to the door of the kind woman's house.

And then, suddenly, the heavens split wide open and celestial music shrilled through.

YOU might have thought it just a whistle—but to Pete it was the music of the spheres.

"Pete! Here, Pete, you little rascal!"

Scarcely police radio itself can move faster than Pete moved at the sound of that voice! In a fraction of a second, he had leaped into blue-clad arms—the strong familiar arms of Patrolman T. J. McManigal of the Kansas City radio cops.

Now, in spite of the fact that truth—according to most authorities—is stranger than fiction, you may think this is stretching the long arm of coincidence a bit far. But it is a solemn fact, and the radio records of the Kansas City police clearly prove it, that T. J. McManigal was the driver of that radio car which was dispatched to pick up Pete.

Not that Pete would find anything hard to believe in that. He'd think anybody dumb who doubted it. Why, Pete always knew his Man hadn't really got himself lost forever. Pete knew he'd turn up. But what Pete doesn't know—and how could he?—is that in all the history of police radio, he is the only vagrant who has ever been happy to be picked up by a police radio car!

Music...

of the MASTERS

LUCREZIA BORI, ending her operatic career, and Joseph Bentonelli, beginning his, are the Motors Promenade Concert soloists Sunday when that program visits the famous Bowl nestling in the hills behind Hollywood. It is one of that series' "Good Neighbor" visits.

Miss Bori has been for many years the recognized prima donna, favored and popular at the Metropolitan. It was she, a distant descendant of the Borgias, who lost her voice in the prime of her career. Retiring to her native Spain, she spent years of her life in complete solitude uttering scarcely a word.

The story is told, though I have never heard Miss Bori vouch for it, that her voice came back to her while she was riding on a mule. The animal slipped, gave her a sudden jar—and well, her voice had returned.

Anyway, the voice did come back, and she continued to give pleasure and to thrill many by being the "best-dressed and most polished actress on the Metropolitan Opera boards."

In her last season there, she introduced to its sacred precincts her partner on this week's broadcast. Stepping in at the eleventh hour, Mr. Bentonelli replaced Richard Crooks as Des Grieux and sang opposite Miss Bori in "Manon." It was a triumph for him that was heralded around the world. Since that eventful evening, he has been kept busy with concerts, operatic and radio engagements. At the Metropolitan he sang the leading tenor roles in "Rigoletto" and "Gianni Schicchi"—both with Tibbett in the title roles—in "Lucia" opposite Lily Pons, in "Madame Butterfly" and "Lakme." He has broadcast frequently, being guest soloist for Ed Wynn, Ripley, the Sunday Evening Hour, Music Hall, the Open House—substituting for Nelson Eddy and duo-ing with Grace Moore—and, most recently, on the new Sunday night coffee show.

The advance program for the Motors broadcast shows that we may expect to hear a beautiful portion of the first act of Puccini's "La Boheme," beginning with Rudolfo's narrative, "Che Gelida Manina," and including "Mi chiamano Mimi," and "Oh, Soave Fancuilla." It will be a treat to hear soloists when they are permitted to sing music that suits their voices and temperaments. Unfortunately, this does not happen as often as it should before the microphone.

Incidentally, this will be one of few concerts ever broadcast from the Hollywood Bowl. The management there does not permit its regular series of summer programs to be picked up by the microphone. There are 22,000 seats to be filled, and broadcasting, it is believed, decreases the normal attendance. Lily Pons and Andre Kostelanetz packed in 26,000 last summer and are returning again August 13.

Other corners of the country, however, will furnish us with much entertainment. In the Berkshires, six symphony concerts will be conducted by Serge Koussevitzky at the new pavilion erected on "Tanglewood," the farm where Nathaniel Hawthorne wrote and first told his famous tales. The New York Philharmonic-Symphony will broadcast from the Stadium. Philadelphia presents eight weeks of concerts at The Dell with Jose Iturbi conducting most of them.

The Nation's Capital has lost its Water Gate series of summer symphony concerts, but a Government band will often be on the air, playing behind that clump of bushes on the plains surrounding the Washington monument. Cincinnati has its regular "zoo" opera, and Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago all have popular summer symphony concerts.

The networks are hard put to find hours in the week for this plethora of music along with the heavy summer schedules of foreign broadcasts that they have planned. But one series that is definitely booked is the Juilliard activity at Chautauqua, New York. "Garrick," the opera of Albert Stoessel and Robert A. Simon, which had its first performance in New York last winter, will be broadcast on July 30.

Among the qualities which Alfred Wallenstein brings to the radio and to the network of which he is musical director are a rare taste . . . and the capacity for digging out and performing musical masterpieces that, except for him, we should never hear. Listen to his programs whenever you find them listed in your issue of RADIO GUIDE. They do not have as many outlets as they should.

This week on Thursday evening he presents Madame Maria Kurenko, ranked for years as the best Russian coloratura, in or out of Russia. She will broadcast a group of select songs on the Mutual network's "Music and You" series, beginning with Mozart's "Alleluja" and ending with Stravinsky's "Pastorale." Madame Kurenko is recognized as an expert interpreter and an unsurpassed musician. Her interpretations of art and folk-songs are famous in seven languages. You may have heard her on the old Atwater Kent series, for she was one of its original soloists.

An intensive search for new compositions to add to the repertoire of sponsored symphonic hours would not be amiss. I've lost count of the number of times that the Raczsky March, the overture to Glinka's Rusland and Ludmilla and the Polka and Fugue from Wienberger's Schwanda have been aired recently. Longer compositions, perhaps the short symphonies of Haydn and Mozart, would be a welcome change from constant repetition.

Madame Maria Jeritza was in better voice the other Sunday than she has been of late. She displayed more expert vocalism than might be expected from an artist who is no longer in her prime and who returns to us after an absence. Whatever time has taken from the lusciousness of the great Viennese singing actress' voice, it has taken none of her flair for putting things over. It was a treat to hear her sing those lilting Viennese melodies with which she captivated Vienna and the court of the late Franz Josef. By all means, let's have more of Madame Jeritza.

Unfortunately, neither the brisk and colorful commentary of Deems Taylor nor the clever and sophisticated Armbruster music created the response that was expected. The sponsor, therefore, is withdrawing support from this clever show and it will shortly fold up.

Raymond Middleton, America's most convincing young baritone soon to be starred in "Wells, Fargo," is booked for four more guest appearances on the W. C. Fields show from Hollywood Sunday evenings. Mr. Middleton is a middle-westerner, attended the Juilliard, had a season on Broadway as leading man in "Roberta," and has sung in the Chicago opera. He has recently broadcast "All Points West" and an excerpt from Louis Gruenberg's "Emperor Jones" on the West Coast show. He has a natural flair for dramatic delivery, and he has a beautiful, natural voice, though his work before the microphone has not yet displayed it at its very best.

Everybody's Music, one of the best of summer shows, cannot be heard in several cities. Chicago, for example, with a metropolitan population of nearly four million, has no outlet for this interesting program. Listeners are missing a great Sunday afternoon show.

Walter Damrosch, noted composer and NBC music counsel, sailed with Mrs. Damrosch aboard the Italian liner Rex May 29 for a month's vacation in Italy and France. They will return on the French liner Normandie, sailing from Havre July 7.

Dr. Damrosch's vacation follows his completion of the opera, "The Man Without a Country," and its acclaimed premiere at the Metropolitan Opera House on May 12. The new opera, the plot of which is familiar to generations of American school children, is based on the story written in the early days of the Civil War by Edward Everett Hale, but some alterations in the story were made to fit it for operatic use. Dr. Damrosch has used one historic American tune, "Captain Hull's Victory," and composed one or two other airs in the early American manner, and there is also a dance tune of American negroid characteristics.

He was born in Breslau, Germany, January 30, 1862, came to America with his family when he was nine years old. At the age of twenty-three, he stepped into the breach caused by the illness of his father, Leopold Damrosch, at the Metropolitan Opera, and conducted a performance of Wagner's "Tannhauser."

In March, 1885, Dr. Damrosch conducted his first concert with the New York Symphony Society, which had been organized and directed by his father. He was elected regular conductor, continuing for 41 years, and later was conductor of the Oratorio Society. He also served as conductor at the Metropolitan Opera until 1891.

Dr. Damrosch was the first major conductor to recognize radio as a medium for widespread musical culture. In 1927 he was appointed music counsel of the National Broadcasting Company, and one year later inaugurated the Music Appreciation Hour, the weekly radio concerts for school children. Through this program, he has weekly reached 6,000,000 American children through loudspeakers in 60,000 schools. These entertaining lessons in music appreciation have brought so much cultural enrichment to the lives of American children and youth as to have been recognized by educational authorities as an outstanding contribution to American education.

On June 25, while in Paris, the famed conductor of the NBC Music Appreciation Hour will attend the International Music Educators' Conference. He will resume direction of the appreciation hour on October 15.

I'M NO DUMMY

and I are going to do great things!" Dear, I was woefully undressed. In nothing on earth but the Chicago Tribune I was carried back to Evanston. We were supposed to play Oak Park, Illinois, that week-end, the boss' first real professional engagement. He was so excited about it he got confused and we showed up a whole week before we were scheduled. So we had to hitch-hike our way back home.

But I refrained from pressing him for my weekly stipend because he was working his way through college then and he hardly ever had more than fifty cents capital at one time. He used to say, "Charlie, it wasn't always like this and it won't be this way forever"—and then he told me about how when he was born in Chicago in 1903 his father was a very successful architect. But his father got sick, so they had to move to Decatur, Michigan. And pretty soon his father died and Mr. Bergen and his brother had to work to help support their mother.

Mr. Bergen ran a popcorn stand after school and at night he was the town photographer, because the town was too small to have a regular photographer. He got a good camera and he would take school and church pictures and even pictures of brides, and sometimes he would average ten dollars a week with the popcorn stand and taking pictures. Mr. Bergen is still very handy with a camera and belongs to the Motion Picture Camera-men's Union, which means he could photograph Jean Harlow and Mae West if he could get the job.

WHEN Mr. Bergen was still in knee pants he sent two bits to Sears-Roebuck for a book on magic and ventriloquism, and pretty soon he was a sensation at all the Christian Endeavor socials and school entertainments. He got a job in the local movie house operating the player-piano during the picture and performing on the stage between shows. His act was pulling an alley cat out of a bucket, doing card tricks and making a canary bird talk in Scotch dialect.

"Those were the days, Charlie," he said. "Once I reached for the cat and pulled out three maltese kittens."

By the time Mr. Bergen went to college he was picking up a lot of one-night stands. We never saw any football games at Northwestern because week-ends we were always playing some dinky little movie house. The first time we played a real theater where they had stage-hands and dressing-rooms we celebrated with T-bone steak three nights in a row. Oh it was a great life, going to college. But Mr. Bergen finally got his diploma and we found ourselves out in the cold, cold world.

So we went on the Redpath Chau-tauqua circuit. That was a great life too. We played in everything from tents to tobacco warehouses. We became connoisseurs of boarding-house food and boarding-house beds in every state in the union. However, the boss is a very friendly fellow, so we went around with the rest of the troupe and had a lot of good times even when we were on the cuff. I was crazy for an actress named Hilda while we were on Redpath. That was before I met Gertrude.

Well, one day in Newark the boss, who is very serious about his future, comes home. "Charlie," he says to me, "what the act needs is class." So we both go over to New York and get outfitted in top hats and tails. Then Mr. Bergen gets this beautiful brunet doll to be his assistant, and writes a new routine and we rehearse. Then we go to a theater for a try-out before the booking agent who decides whether you're good enough for the big-time.

The act goes off perfect, and the agent hands the boss a contract. We go on the circuit playing four-a-day in the biggest houses and everything is very swell, including the dough we received, for about three years.

It is plain to see all this time that the boss has it bad for the brunet doll. "She's a wonderful girl, Charlie, wonderful," he states. More and more they go out together and do not invite me along. But I do not kick because she is a swell pal and I understand romance. I am very touched because this is the first time I have ever seen Mr. Bergen in love.

BUT by and by we begin playing split weeks and it is tough getting bookings. Mr. Bergen and I are living in a furnished room on Forty-fifth street waiting for a break when he comes home one night as white as a sheet and I can see something awful has happened.

"She's gone," he says very bitterly. "She's marrying another man."

Then he tells me about how she says she is tired of tramping and wants to settle down in one place, and he has no money and he loves the theater. So she is marrying a doctor who can give her a home and security.

I can see the boss is taking it very hard because he is not like himself at all. He is acting very strange and I feel sorry for him because it is tough to lose your girl and your job at the same time. I guess that is the bluest

I have ever seen Mr. Bergen. He states emphatically he will chuck vaudeville for good, but then he gets an offer to go to Sweden with a musical show so he takes it. Mr. Bergen's parents were Swedish and he knows the language.

We stay in Sweden six months and in England six months and have a fine time and the boss seems to get over feeling so bad about the brunet. We are very successful in London and the boss says to me one day: "London's no place for us to stay, Charlie. Let's go home and get in radio!"

So we came home. We made some shorts for Warner Brothers and got some good night-club engagements, and tried and tried for four whole years to crash radio. Without a tumble. It was most disheartening.

Finally we got an appointment to see a man who was one of the biggest big-shots in the business, and the boss was so sure this man would at least hear what he had to offer he whistled all the way up Lexington Avenue to keep the appointment. But the big-shot said right away: "A ventriloquist on the air? Ridiculous!" I could see the boss' face fall. He was very much depressed.

"Mr. Bergen," I stated when we got outside, "I've got a good mind to go back in there and punch that big-shot in his kisser." I was very indignant. "Shut up, Charlie," replied Mr. Bergen. "If you had a good mind you'd be the ventriloquist in this outfit and I'd be the dummy."

One night while we were working at the Rainbow Room we were engaged to play one of those big society parties Elsa Maxwell is always throwing. This one was on the top floor of the Waldorf and there were about four hundred people there and most of them were people like Helen Hayes and Noel Coward and Grace Moore. I wouldn't want to brag, of course, nothing like that, but if I do say so myself I was a sensation that night. When we got home the boss said this radio agent named Julian Field had told him at the party he thought he could place us for a guest appearance on the Rudy Vallee program. But knowing radio agents like we did we did not get very excited about this until Mr. Field phoned Mr. Bergen one day that he had clinched the deal and we would definitely go on the Vallee show for six minutes the week before Christmas.

RUDY VALLEE, who was our pal from the start, made it very easy for us by liking our act the first time he heard it and laughing louder than anybody else in the studio. Rudy is a right guy, one of my favorite people.

Well, the night we debuted you would have thought from the way the boss got nervous that he had never performed before an audience in his life. But when it was over we were invited back for the next week, then the third week and the fourth week. The fifth week the boss goes down on Lexington Avenue one morning to sign a contract. And who should the man with the contract be but the big-shot I wanted to punch in the kisser.

This is a screwy world.

So we are finally in radio now after fourteen years of banging around. We've lived in some of the best pent-houses and undoubtedly the worst boarding-houses. We've been applauded by the Crown Prince of Sweden and we've also been handed some melodious raspberries that were very hard to bear. Very hard. But altogether I might say we have no kick.

In fact, we are even going to be in pictures now that we are out here. The boss likes Hollywood because he says it is a hick town if he ever saw one and that suits him fine. He's nuts about tennis and he's also the kind of guy who can sit all day with a rod and reel whether the fish are biting or not. He just sits and gets sun-burned to a violent strawberry and says nothing. In the evenings he is prone to taking some pretty girl out dancing. He is very fond of dancing. He is also very fond of pretty girls.

Personally, I have been trying for a long time to marry the boss off. He is not averse to this idea at all, but he says he will never marry a girl who is in show business. He wants a lot of children and the kind of home where it won't start a family argument if the Cairn terriers he intends to raise leave paw-prints on the carpets and bedspreads.

Mr. Bergen claims above everything else he doesn't want to be a big star. He would rather be a consistently good entertainer because his career in radio will last longer that way. And he often adds that his greatest ultimate ambition is to carry his camera and his wife and children and dogs on a slow journey around the world. And he doesn't care if he never stops going around and around the globe.

This does not appeal to me because, although you would never guess it, underneath my worldly exterior I am a great lover of home and family and the quiet life.

Ah, me. I have been thinking it over and I think I will marry Gertrude and settle down.

Gertrude, this is not a proposal. (signed) Charlie McCarthy.

Charlie McCarthy & Edgar Bergen may be heard Sundays over an NBC network at 8 p.m. EDT (7 EST; 7 CDT; 6 CST; 5 MST; 4 PST).

IT ISN'T BLUFF!

BY A. R. GOODWIN

WHEN a young lady fresh from high school and amateur dramatics walks into a motion picture distributor's office, poses as a veteran Hollywood reporter, and comes out with a good job, it isn't bluffing, says Ruth Brine, WBBM's ace girl commentator, it's just a mixture of good business and dramatic ability! It's merely a sound method of creating an opportunity.

Ruth landed her first job in this manner. She sold the motion picture distributor her idea with impressive sales talk.

Ruth's family had recently moved from Boston to Huntington, West Virginia, and she was faced with the problem of finding a job in a strange town. She had worked in summer stock companies and was anxious to continue with a professional career of some sort. In Huntington there were no opportunities in the legitimate theater and the newspaper staffs were complete. This left only radio. Ruth couldn't sing and none of the stations needed an actress. Then suddenly an idea occurred to her.

She hurried home and from a trunk dug out a map of Los Angeles and Southern California. Then she collected all the recent issues of fashion and movie fan magazines, took them to her room, and began to study.

Two weeks later Ruth walked into the office of a local manager of a chain of theaters. She was smartly dressed in a white sports suit, and carried a Chow dog under her arm, a black walking stick in her hand. She announced that she was fresh from Hollywood, and on the Coast was considered quite an authority on fashion, film personalities and the movie business in general. She said that for not too great a sum she would spread her shining light all over Huntington movie-goers.

RUTH offered to broadcast several times a week reviewing new pictures, describing the clothes worn by the stars with hints on how local women could achieve the same effect. In addition, she promised exclusive, choice bits of latest Hollywood rumors.

She sighed audibly over Hollywood Boulevard, Vine Street, The Brown Derby, and the beautiful neon signs on Wilshire Boulevard. She mentioned casually a few famous modistes.

The movie distributor was duly impressed and Ruth's broadcasts began immediately.

However, she soon discovered that broadcasts originate in studios, that studios are filled with actors, and that many actors are personally acquainted with Hollywood. Soon, the station's staff began to wonder why this latest exile from the film capital became so quiet when people got technical about her Hollywood experiences.

The movie magnate began to suspect too, and after a few weeks asked Ruth how far west she had really been. Ruth told him the truth. She had spent the first two weeks of her life in Minneapolis, where she was born on December 20, 1915. Her family moved to Boston in a short time and Ruth had never again been west of Cleveland.

With the necessity for living in a disguise over, Ruth was able to work with ease and accomplish more. She stayed in Huntington almost a year before she decided to seek out new fields. Her sponsor offered her a raise in salary to continue with her fashion news and gossip broadcasts, but Ruth had new ideas and was too ambitious to stay any longer.

She was not content with offering second-hand information to people. She wanted to find her own stories and tell them in her own manner. So, with no destination in mind, she packed her bags and headed west.

She got as far as St. Louis before a chance meeting with Kathryn Cravens, noted CBS woman commentator, decided her course. Miss Cravens approved of Ruth's youthful ambitions and encouraged her to stick with them until she succeeded. She also predicted that Ruth would have to fight prejudice against women radio reporters.

Ruth went to St. Louis radio stations with her plans. She told them, truthfully this time, of her eastern experience. Studio officials told her that the news angle was good, but they didn't want to gamble with women commentators. And that as long as fashion programs were popular she would do well to stay within those lines. So Ruth was back on the air with her fashion comments.

Ruth finally decided to try another city with her ambitions. In Indianapolis she found that fashions still held the fancies of sponsors and program directors. Women commentators were gaining recognition, but the radio audience still thought of men in connection with news and women in connection with clothes.

Again Ruth accepted the popular verdict, but waited for the opportunity to present her news program to the right people. Finally she came to Chicago, and on last February 9 made her debut over WBBM on a program designed according to her own ideas and called "Women in the Headlines." The program is devoted entirely to interviews and stories about women who are, or should be, in today's news stories. She often interviews women who have been completely forgotten by metropolitan dailies; feminine doctors, lawyers, housewives who are outstanding, anyone who will be of interest to her audience.

RUTH is an attractive ash blonde with deep-blue eyes, is 5 feet, 5 inches tall, weighs 115 pounds. She speaks in a low, pleasant voice at a rapid pace, clipping her phrases in a brisk New England.

Occasionally Ruth meets a movie talent scout who offers a screen test and a possible chance of a Hollywood career. Thus far Ruth has turned down all the offers. She feels that her profession is radio news reporting and she intends to stick to it. She feels now that she will never be any closer to a Hollywood career than she was the day she walked into a man's office with a Chow puppy and a black walking-stick. However, women have been known to change their minds!

VOICE OF THE LISTENER

The "Voice of the Listener" letter-forum is a regular feature in Radio Guide each week, offered to the readers as a means for expressing and exchanging opinions about radio.

Radio Guide will pay $10 for the best letter published each week and $5 for the next best. Other letters deserving our readers' attention also will be published.

A PRISON VOTES

($10 Prize Letter)

Voice of the Listener: I am one of over fifteen hundred men; men for whom the radio is the chief means of entertainment and contact with the outside world.

We listen to the radio for a total of forty-nine hours weekly, or over two hundred hours monthly. Because we have been doing this for nearly ten years I believe that we know a good program when we hear it.

The opinion of the prison body controls the selection of our programs. If a program does not continue to hold the interest of the majority it is not long until our operator begins to receive "kicks," and the program goes off the air as far as we are concerned.

Following is the results of a poll of the inmates as to their favorites.

Star of Stars—Bing Crosby
Musical Program—Crosby's Music Hall
Dramatic Program—One Man's Family
Actor—Don Ameche
Actress—June Meredith
Children's Program—None
Dance Orchestra—Benny Goodman
Male Singer of Popular Songs—Bing Crosby
Female Singer of Popular Songs—Frances Langford
Singer of Operatic or Classical Songs—Lanny Ross
Comedian or Comedy Act—Bob Burns
Announcer—Ken Carpenter
Sports Announcer—Bob Elson
Commentator—Edwin C. Hill
New Star—Edgar Bergen

—Phil Pickett, No. 16058, Iowa State Prison, Fort Madison, Iowa.

WHERE CREDIT IS DUE

($5 Prize Letter)

Dear Martin Lewis: In your column recently I noticed that you remarked about Don McNeil coming back on the Breakfast Club. You failed, however, to mention Clark Dennis, the tenor, who has definitely established himself, during the last year, as the star of that show. Dennis is a great favorite of mine and of people all over the country—and I can't understand why the radio editors don't ever publish his picture for those of us who have been looking for months for one.

He sings much better than lots of the bigger stars, and if he keeps this up he can't fail to land on one of the big night shows.

Why don't you give us a break and let us see a picture of him?—Peggy Lorado, Chicago, Ill.

WANTED: ELEGANCE

Editor, RADIO GUIDE: After listening to the announcers in London on Coronation Day, with their enunciation, beautiful diction, elegance of choice of language and poise, I am of the opinion that our wise-cracking bunch in the U. S. are very much out of date. Let us import a few.—Clarence L. Stonaker, 119 Idaho Ave., Pueblo, Colo.

KINDERGARTEN MUMMERY

Voice of the Listener: Why all the pother about more children's programs? They're practically all tailored to measure for kids now. With the possible exception of "One Man's Family," the continued air yarns are kindergarten mummery.

The need is for some adult entertainment—and fewer bedtime stories.—I. M. Gerhart, Pocatello, Idaho.

PATIENCE, PLEASE!

With the balloting just completed, the tellers for this year's Star of Stars Election are confronted with the largest number of votes ever received in this annual poll! Naturally it will take some time for them to tabulate all these votes, to decide the winners. Please be patient. Final winners will be announced at the earliest possible date!

Time given is CST; for CDT add one hour. Short-wave programs of American stations are shown along with the regular listings beginning on page 29. These are indicated, for example, by (sw-11.87) in parentheses following a program listing. This means that on 11.87 megacycles the same program may also be heard over an American short-wave station. Please note that foreign stations do not always adhere precisely to their announced program schedules.

SHORT-WAVE reception in general is excellent. This is especially true of the evening broadcasts from Europe that are beamed on North America, which are for the most part comparable in signal strength to transmissions from the more powerful stations on the broadcast band.

The improvement in volume, stability and tonal qualities is most noticeable from the new Daventry transmitters, which are now utilizing the new directional antennas and in all probability also their full power of 50,000 watts. Morning foreign reception, throughout the Eastern and Central States at least, is still pretty much of a washout. The few stations that are heard, however, have weak and shaky signals with but little entertainment value.

Reception from the leading Central and South American stations has been holding up well, and outside of summer static, which is quite bothersome on the 49-meter band and to a lesser extent on the 31-meter band, a wide variety of Latin programs are still available for those who enjoy this type of entertainment.

On the U. S. S. Avocet, anchored in mid-Pacific, off Canton Island, is installed the NBC short-wave transmitter WMEF from which programs pertaining to the solar eclipse phenomena will be broadcast June 8 on one of the following frequencies: 17.31, 12.8625, 8.655 or 6.425 megacycles. Consult program listings for details.

Within the next few days, Imperial Airways, Limited, will inaugurate an air passenger service from Bermuda to New York. Installed aboard the giant seaplane "Cavalier" will be NBC short-wave transmitter WOEH, of stratosphere ascent fame. An account of the ocean hop will be broadcast on one of the following frequencies: 12.8625, 8.655, 6.425 or 4.797 megacycles.

WALTER STILES, JR., amateur operator of Coudersport, Penn., has been selected by a board of five distinguished judges for the William S. Palay Amateur Radio Award. Mr. Stiles received the coveted honor from Mr. Paley at a presentation luncheon at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York City, on May 24. The selection was based on his heroic performance during the March, 1936, flood emergency when for 130 hours through his amateur transmitter W8DPY he supplied the sole direct means of communication for the 4,000 beleaguered citizens of Renova, Penn., and transmitted more than a thousand messages on behalf of the various official rescue agencies.

TPZ (12.12) of Alger, Algeria, may often be heard broadcasting from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. EST (2:30 to 3:30 p.m. CST).

America and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company have entered into joint agreements for providing radiotelephone service with American vessels in the coastal and inland waters of the United States, as well as those in transoceanic trade. Radiomarine will establish marine telephone coastal stations on the Great Lakes and operate a service between ship and shore connecting with the telephone landlines. This corporation has also contracted with the Matson Navigation Company of San Francisco for the installation of telephone apparatus on their steamships Lurline, Malolo, Mariposa and Monterey. These ships will be able to communicate with each other, with the North American mainland as well as Hawaii and Australia.

The "KDKA DX CLUB," a popular feature for short-wave listeners, conducted by Ed Lips, may now be heard over W8XK (6.14) on Fridays at 11:15 p.m. EST (10:15 p.m. CST).

A LETTER from ZMBJ, aboard the S. S. Awatea, to Paul Dilg of Evanston, Ill., states that on its 8.84 megacycles this transmitter radiates 300 watts, while on the 13.26 megacycles the power is about 400 watts. 4.42 megacycles is often used when the ship is near New Zealand. 13.26 megacycles is used when the vessel is approaching Australia. Commercial contacts are made near 1 a.m. EST (12 mid. CST).

COJK (8.665), "Radio Zenith," a new 1,000-watt Cuban short-wave station in Camaguey, was officially inaugurated on May 17. Prior to adoption of a regular broadcasting schedule, the station put on test programs nightly and worked amateurs on the 20-meter band. On one occasion, the announcer was heard calling President E. F. McDonald, Jr., of the Zenith Radio Corporation, in Chicago.

PPQ (11.67), Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, relays local broadcast station PRD2, on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays from 7:45 to 8:45 p.m. EST (6:45 to 7:45 p.m. CST). HS8PJ (9.35) of Bangkok, Siam, now transmits on Mondays from 8 to 10 a.m. EST (7 to 9 a.m. CST) and on Saturdays from 1 to 2:30 p.m. EST (12 noon to 1:30 p.m. CST). Apparently the Thursday schedule has been discontinued. On 19.02 megacycles, the station may often be heard phoning JVE (15.66) of Nazaki, Japan, from 4:15 to 4:30 p.m. EST (3:15 to 3:30 p.m. CST). A Soviet station on 11.82 megacycles, giving its call as RFM, and relaying RV15 of Khabarovsk, is being heard on the Pacific Coast from 8 to 10:15 a.m. EST (7 to 9:15 a.m. CST). JZJ (11.8), Nazaki, Japan, is now operating with 50,000 watts and requests reports on comparative signal strength. JVN (10.66) has again resumed its popular baseball broadcasts from the Tokyo, Japan, municipal ball park. The first one of the season was heard on Thursday, May 14, at 1:30 a.m. EST (12:30 a.m. CST), according to G. C. Gallagher of San Francisco, Calif.

We Applaud

FOR THEIR IMPECCABLE PERFORMANCES, THESE STARS WIN OUR LOUD CHEERS—OUR APPLAUSE!

—Walter Seigal

... "Aunt Jenny," whose home-spun drama and everyday-philosophy in CBS's "Aunt Jenny's Real Life Stories," has greatly endeared her to many listeners. What listeners sense is that she really likes people, that she recognizes not only their virtues—but their too-human failings

—Sydney Desfor

... NBC's Gospel Singer Edward MacHugh for his simple, old-fashioned songs. MacHugh was born in Dundee, Scotland, realized his lifetime dream last year, when he took Mrs. MacHugh to Europe to visit his childhood home. His pet hobby: a farm. During his career as a soloist he has sung some 3,000 different hymns—by heart knows some 2,000

... Bill Perry, tenor, and Mary Eastman, lyric soprano, because of their lovely songs on CBS's "Saturday Night Serenade." Mary's a Kansas City child prodigy who's made good—began her singing career at the age of 11. Bill taught music in Nashville schools—joined Columbia in 1932

—Harold Stein

... Tim Ryan and Irene Noblette of stage, screen and radio fame for their delightful comedy in "Fun in Swing Time," a Sunday Mutual show. They met and were married in St. Joseph, Missouri, back in 1922, work together in perfect harmony, but differ in other respects. Irene's slight, plays tennis, likes green—Tim weighs 160, prefers blue, is a rabid baseball fan

... American-born Maestro Werner Janssen, who is credited with being the greatest of the interpreters of the work of the great Finnish composer—Jan Sibellus. Janssen has rocketed across the musical sky of the new and old worlds for the past six years, is now adding to the brilliance of the new Sunday NBC coffee hour

Radio Guide Presents A New Air HEROINE

YOU—IN THESE PICTURES ARE AIR ADVENTURES OF A NEW AIR HEROINE!

Photos by BERT LAWSON

Detective Mike Conway (Clayton Collyer) comes to the aid of Pretty Kitty Kelly (Arline Blackburn), amnesia victim who left her home in Ireland and is bewildered by the strangeness of New York. Conway finds a place for her to live in a mid-town rooming house—discovers he's taking more than a friendly interest in the lovely colleen

Pretty Kitty gets a job as a maid in the Park Avenue home of Mrs. Van Orpington. Arline Blackburn, who plays the title role, strikingly resembles the girl she portrays, with her Gaelic accent, golden-red hair, gray eyes. Although born in New York, Arline's ancestors were from Dublin

After the day's duties are over, Kitty accepts an invitation from young Jack Van Orpington to visit a night club. Jack (played by Dick Kollmar, Yale graduate) brought his bulldog, Duchess, along. A gangster lurking in the background notes Kitty's resemblance to his accomplice, plans to make use of the coincidence

Pretty Kitty and friends read in a gossip column that Madge Cameron, a gangster's accomplice, has been seen at a night club with young Van Orpington. Kitty realizes it is a case of mistaken identity—that it will involve complications

Kitty does a few chores at the end of the day, speculates on what new difficulties will surround her. Miss Blackburn has her first network series starring role in Pretty Kitty Kelly, a five-a-week airing over CBS. She radio-debuted about six years ago—is in her 20's

How To Be A Radio ACTOR

WE BRING TO YOU A PHOTO-STUDY OF A GREAT STAR ACTING, LIVING "HAMLET"

John Barrymore appeared at the Hollywood NBC studios to go on the air with Bing Crosby and Bob Burns, to do Shakespeare's "Hamlet"—a role the 55-year-old actor thrilled New York and London with in 1924 and 1925

John's had a distinguished stage career—made his debut in Chicago, in "Magda," in 1903. He's been starred in many pictures, is now being lauded for his fine performance as Mercutio in the current film—"Romeo and Juliet"

He sat in a corner, nervously made last-minute notes. After a two-year stormy romance, the actor wed actress Elaine Barrie, Nov. 9, 1936, in Yuma, Arizona, a few minutes after midnight. It was his fourth marriage

Barrymore, in Napoleonic stance, does "Hamlet." Each year he cruises in his yacht "Infanta" to Alaska or Mexican waters for hunting and fishing, or takes a trip abroad. He's a clever caricaturist. Likes golf and tennis

The youngest of the "royal family" of the American theater, acted, lived—became "Hamlet"—forgot that millions of people were listening, that across the footlights the Music Hall audience was sitting—spellbound!

THIS DEODORANT COMES OFF ON MY CLOTHES TERRIBLY!

WHAT YOU WANT IS THE NEW ODORONO ICE—IT DISAPPEARS INSTANTLY

New! NON-GREASY ODORONO ICE... Goes on just like vanishing cream... Checks perspiration instantly

FOR YEARS women have complained—"Why do cream deodorants have to be so greasy?"—"They stick to clothes and ruin them!"

The new Odorono Ice was created in answer to these complaints—on an entirely new principle. It vanishes completely! It can't leave a messy film of grease to come off on your clothes.

And, unlike other cream deodorants, it gently checks perspiration. You are completely protected from both odor and dampness for 1 to 3 days. Your pretty frocks are safe. You can never be embarrassed by stained coat linings.

Try it! It is delightful, entirely different in texture. Light and fluffy—not stiff and hard to use. It pats on easily—you don't have to work at it!

And Odorono Ice never develops a musty odor of its own after it has been on a while. Its clean, fresh smell of pure alcohol evaporates completely the minute it is on.

Really, Odorono Ice is the perfect cream deodorant at last! 80% of the women who have tried it prefer it to any other deodorant they have ever used. Buy a jar of the new Odorono Ice tomorrow—35¢ at all Toilet-Goods Departments.

Unknown in 1933, Nelson Eddy is now a star of stage, screen and radio. His repertoire includes thirty-two operatic roles. He sings in six languages. He likes to swim, ride and play tennis. He'll return to the air soon in the new Sunday coffee show

Mary Kendel—soloist with Oscar Bradley's orchestra and coloratura member of Phil Baker's Seven G's. She's the CBS featured soprano who never utters a word during her singing, is called radio's latest vocal novelty. Mary plays the violin, too!

YOU Asked for Them—and
Here They Are!

Donna Creade, who plays the part of "Judith Merritt" in "Backstage Wife" over NBC, was born in Toronto. She was the high-school basketball captain, won medals as a swimmer. She came to Chicago in 1936. She's married, 23, five-feet-four, weighs 114

You've heard him many times—but it's unlikely you've seen a picture of him. This is the first picture Art Van Harvey has had taken recently. But unaccustomed as he is to facing cameras, he's often before a mike. He's Vic of NBC's "Vic and Sade"

Patricia Norman, new soloist in Eddie Duchin's orchestra. Patricia first saw the light of day on King's Ranch in Texas, learned to ride horses at four, hasn't stopped since. Likes to golf, bowl and swim—has never missed getting any job she auditioned for

His cheery signature—"lots of good luck, everybody"—has identified Everett Mitchell on the air for years. Mitchell, long of the "National Farm and Home Hour," has been in radio for thirteen years, is senior announcer for NBC's Chicago studios

YOU KNOW THESE STARS BY THEIR VOICES, BY THE PARTS THEY TAKE WHEN THEY BROADCAST—NOW MEET THEM IN REAL LIFE!

Jack Baker, the NBC "Breakfast Club" tenor, was born Ernest Mahlon Jones in Shreveport, Louisiana, in 1908. He has been in radio since 1930, on the blue network since last December. He is five-feet-seven, weighs 158, has dark hair, eyes and complexion

Violet Dunn—who is Peggy in "The O'Neills"—was born in Toronto, made her stage debut when she was 8. Since, she's starred on the stage, screen and radio—here and abroad! She is 25, five-feet-two, weighs 106, has brown eyes, hair

Books and pencils—they're the tools of the autograph hunters' trade. Stars are besieged, beleaguered at studio doors, in hotel rooms, on trains, on the streets—by the inevitable outstretched hand. Some stars give autographs readily. Jessica Dragonette is one. Others don't. This autograph book cost 29 cents, was bought at a New York chain store

Pride in a job well done: The girl with the book shows it to a friend. In it is a new and valued signature of a star. On these pages are scrawled names—given eagerly, angrily. Some stars have signed books only to regret it. Invisible ink has been used. Above signatures have been obligations which committed signers to pay and pay

Autograph hunters put stars to much trouble. Too often—some stars think. Fans want photos sent to them, want these photos autographed. To mail them costs money—in great quantities, a great deal of money. Some stars fill all requests they receive, some none. In this picture Lily Pons is signing photos for fans while secretaries prepare them for mailing

AUTOGRAPH HUNTERS—

After each broadcast, fans surround "The Songbird of the South." Kate Smith treats them kindly, signs books, scratch-paper, envelopes. Always good-humored, Kate never becomes perturbed no matter how large, how obnoxious crowds of fans may be. She loves all the world, and all the world loves her. From year to year she remains one of radio's most popular stars

Sometimes famed Violinist Dave Rubinoff visits high schools, plays at school assemblies. He did here—and the freshmen, sophomores, juniors, seniors rushed to the edge of the platform, sought the signature of the great man. Newspaper and magazine writers have often found Dave a hard man to interview, have complained long and loudly. But not the fans. To them Dave is kind, considerate

Believe-it-or-not Robert L. Ripley himself. Whether he'd pay for this picture as an oddity is doubtful. Always he smiles, signs, likes to meet his admiring fans. Here he's seen at Radio City's biggest audience studio—known as 8-H, pleasing his fans

Handwriting experts could write thousands of words, could claim to read character in the lines and curlicues. But not so the fans. They look at these names of stars with affection, pride, gloating

Autograph hunters stand in line—patiently, impatiently wait for stars to enter, to exit from the studios. Here's a scene at the CBS Theater No. 2 in New York with crowds of fans watching the stage door. This picture was snapped just after a Kate Smith Bandwagon broadcast. Bits of scratch-paper often serve as stationery for star signatures

Stars once burned shun fire. Jimmy Melton scrutinizes the bit of scratch-paper on which he's about to put his "John Henry." Sometimes fans fold pieces of paper, put "I O U's" on the side folded away from the person who is about to sign. Some write "I Love You" on the portion of the paper which the star would not see if he did not examine it carefully, make sure of where he signed. Such tricks are not at all uncommon

ARE THEY A NUISANCE?

As Jimmy Melton hurried from a broadcast, thought himself past the autograph crowd, this girl stopped him. The book was upside down—but nobody seemed to mind that!

The top of the piano becomes a writing-desk as Gladys Swarthout gives autograph seekers her pen-and-ink signature. Attractive women stars win many a broad smile from the male group of fans. Miss Swarthout gets her share!

This could be any star—anywhere. Stars often deplore the fact that fans are not "right guys," that they attempt to get money under false pretenses. They fold bits of paper, write, on the side folded away from the signer, "I.O.U.," state a specific amount. This could be thousands—but in this case it happens to be only $10

"Black Sheep" for his radio role, Joe Penner still finds himself surrounded by child fans who remember him as the "Wanna buy a duck?" man (by grown-ups, too). Books, pencils—hem him in after Hollywood airings. He remains a popular star

Eddie Cantor with book in one hand, pencil in the other. His signature is one of the most important in any fan's autograph book. And Eddie is one of the most obliging of all radio stars—with pen or pencil. He'll sign whenever he's asked

Phil Duey smiles, signs as boys, girls, men, women approach him after his cigarette broadcasts. Whether autograph seekers are a menace or not has been a moot question, still is. If there were no fans with criminal inclinations, few stars would have any objection to signing books, no matter how tiring. But such is not the case

WHOSE ANKLES ARE THESE?

You've seen her on the screen with Bob Burns and Bing Crosby—recently in "Walkiki Wedding." At present she's on Al Jolson's show, which is aired over CBS

You know her as a singer with Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians. She's one of his Noveleers. At present she's not on the air; she is in Hollywood making a picture

You've seen her in pictures. Her last one was "Champagne Waltz." You've been hearing her over NBC on Sundays. At present she's doing some concert and opera work

You know her as the ingenue in the "Court of Human Relations." She's only 20, but she's an NBC veteran. She used to take juvenile parts, was in the "Penrod" series

In 1935 she was voted "Queen of the Air," last year she was runner-up. She was born in India. She came to radio from Broadway, and is well known for singing in operettas. At present she is the star of the "Beauty Box" program over NBC

This star is a direct descendant of Mark Twain—and to make it easy, you're reminded that was only his pen name. She's on two NBC programs. On one, she's teamed with her brother, sings and plays the piano. On the other, she plays piano

She took her first singing lesson at the age of 21, and five years later she was a star in the Metropolitan Opera Company. You've seen her on the screen, she's famous in opera, and now she's on the air over NBC with Andre Kostelanetz

This 21-year-old actress plays in a number of the NBC dramatic sketches. Usually she portrays an ingenue—but in "Grand Hotel" she was the telephone operator

When Ethel Merman was forced to give up "Anything Goes," this star took her place. Last year she was on Radio Guide's program. Now she's broadcasting over MBS

This soprano turned contralto after a tonsillectomy. Her air debut was with Rudy Vallee, her screen debut in "Broadway Melody of 1936." She's on "Hollywood Hotel"

UNIVERSAL Photo

Although she's only fourteen, she's already a star. She made her first appearance on the screen in "Three Smart Girls," her radio debut on Eddie Cantor's program

AMAZING SHAMPOO DISCOVERY

That's Sweeping the Country

● Drene, Procter & Gamble's amazing shampoo discovery, gives thrilling new beauty and brilliance to hair. Here's why. Drene is NOT soap, yet it makes oceans of active lather that rids the hair of dirt and dandruff flakes—with a single lathering. Drene is NOT oil, yet it leaves hair glistening as never before—without after-rinses. Get Drene from drug, department or 10c stores. Or send name, address to Drene, Dept. RG-3, Box 828, Cincinnati, for free bottle. (Enough for two shampoos.)

NEXT WEEK:

Cinderella

She was a country-bred girl who had never had a job, whose life had been both sheltered and romantic for the five years of her marriage to the ace of America's test pilots, Jim Collins. She had seen him go to a hero's death. And then—Dee Collins had come to realize that she faced life alone, with two babies to support! How she fought her way ahead, achieved success, is a powerful story. Don't miss it!

Veined... UGLY! CLEAR EYES in Seconds!
White... PRETTY!

Eyes that are red and veined... from late hours, fatigue, exposure, etc... now made clear and white in seconds. Your money back if new, scientific EYE-GENE fails! Clears dullness, makes eyes sparkling... more alluring. Just as superior for refreshing tired, overworked eyes. Acts almost instantly. Stainless, too.

EYE-GENE

IF YOU HAVE GRAY HAIR and DON'T LIKE a MESSY MIXTURE... then write today for my FREE TRIAL BOTTLE

As a Hair Color Specialist with forty years' European American experience, I am proud of my Color Imparter for Grayness. Use it like a hair tonic. Wonderfully GOOD for the scalp and dandruff; it can't leave stains. As you use it, the gray hair becomes a darker, more youthful color. I want to convince you by sending my free trial bottle and book telling All About Gray Hair. ARTHUR RHODES, Hair Color Expert, Dept. 28, LOWELL, MASS.

A CLUE!

The sure clue to good shaves is a Star Single-edge Blade. Made since 1880 by the inventors of the original safety razor. Keen, long-lasting, uniform.

Columbia's Swing Club, a bright idea which passing time has proved to have been an inspiration, becomes one year of age tonight with a gala one-hour party program, over the entire Columbia network, "swing" will be glorified by its foremost exponents in a broadcast presenting a composite of swing music's greatest attainments. Swingers are to be made all over the country to bring in swingdom's most famous interpreters and CBS even hopes to visit France briefly by microphone so that Swing Club fans may hear Stephane Grappelly and his Hot Five play from Paris. The program will be given in a CBS Playhouse before an invited audience and Leth Stevens will relinquish his baton now and then when a guest conductor leads the Swing Club Band. Among the guests being invited are Bunny Berigan, Red Norvo, Red Nichols, Art Shaw, Raymond Scott and his Quintet, Tommy Dorsey, Caspar Reardon, Duke Ellington and Fats Waller. Paul Douglas, the club's swing commentator, will appear as usual.

LOG OF ALL AMERICAN STATIONS ARRANGED BY CALL LETTERS

A GAIN this week, RADIO GUIDE presents the most complete and up-to-date list of all broadcasting stations in North America anywhere available. The stations are arranged first by countries and next in the alphabetical order of their call letters. The small figure given in parentheses, as (1/4), following the location of a station is an indication of its power in kilowatts—which means thousands of watts. Where no figure is given, the station has less than 250 watts power. Thus the figure 1/4 means 250 watts; 1/2 is 500 watts; 10 would be 10,000 watts, etc. Part II of this log will appear next week. In addition to Canada and the United States, this log will embrace Mexico. At the conclusion of this form of the log, it will be repeated arranged in frequency order.

Miriam Hopkins

says: "Sensitive throats welcome Luckies"

"Luckies have been my favorite cigarette for about 5 years. They're a light smoke that sensitive throats welcome. Of the many trends that sweep through Hollywood, one of the longest lasting has been the preference for Luckies. I once asked a 'property' man—who supplies cigarettes to the actors—what the favorite is. He answered by opening up a box containing cigarettes. They were all Luckies."

Miriam Hopkins

Starring in Samuel Goldwyn's Production "WOMAN CHASES MAN"

Notice how many professional men and women — lawyers, doctors, statesmen, etc., smoke Luckies. See how many leading artists of radio, stage, screen and opera prefer them. Their voices are their fortunes. Doesn't it follow that, if Luckies are gentle on their sensitive throats, they will be gentle on your throat, too? You will appreciate the throat protection of a light smoke free of certain irritants expelled by the exclusive "Toasting" Process.
