Happy Listening..

THE spectacle of our two major networks squabbling over the writings of William Shakespeare is amusing to some commentators. To them, it smacks of childishness. To us, it smells more like a rousingly effective bit of press-agentry. The National Broadcasting Company has presented the Bard's works over a period of years and the total number of listeners could probably be accommodated in a half-dozen telephone booths. But now, with CBS snarling with rage and NBC panting with defiance, we find a nation of listeners turning eagerly to Monday night. And why? Not because Shakespeare is pitcher who ever threw a ball. Dizzy Dean, though, is unquestionably the best who ever threw a fit.

Have you heard the splendid program conducted by Edgar Guest? It is named "It Can Be Done." It presents men and women who, by every measurement of success, were licked, but who pulled in their chins, notched up their belts, and battled their way to what they wanted.

Some stories that Mr. Guest might tell have happened right in the business of broadcasting. For instance, WOR in Newark, N. J., once allowed a blue-eyed, blond singer to sing over the station's mike. They paid her nothing, and she asked nothing. "I'll give myself six months to get somewhere," she told herself. The six months were almost up and nothing had happened. In her own mind, she was a failure. She stopped in a hat store on upper Broadway.

"I'd like a job as a saleswoman," she said to the manager.

"Have you any experience?"

"No, but I know a lot about music."

He took her name and address and sent her along, promising to call her when there was an opening. Before he called, however, another man, who was listening to her sustaining broadcast, telephoned

"I want you for my program," he said "I'll pay you anything within reason"

So the discouraged girl became the successful girl. Her name is Margaret Speaks

One of the great juggling acts of vaudeville's heyday was Bedini and Arthur. They had a skinny stooge to whom they gave $35 a week—before they fired him. It has been a long time since anyone heard of Bedini and Arthur. The former stooge's name is Eddie Cantor.

Turn to the motion-picture field. A young actress with bad legs was thrilled to the quick at being cast as an extra in a picture which permitted her to rub elbows with Lillian and Dorothy Gish in "Way Down East." But one day David Wark Griffith, who was the most famous movie-maker in the world, told her, "You will never photograph well, and I advise you to give up the screen as a career."

But Norma Shearer didn't give up, and today she is making screen history.

Babe Ruth: He's "at bat" twice weekly on the air when he steps to the mike for CBS on Wednesday and Friday nights scheduled, certainly, but because these rival broadcasts represent a good fight.

On a recent Babe Ruth program, it was stated that Walter Johnson was the best

STREAMLINED SHAKESPEARE

BOYS AND GIRLS KNOW LITTLE OF THE BARD, BUT HIS AUDIENCE IS STILL THERE. NOW RADIO BRINGS IT GREAT SHAKESPEARIAN DRAMA!

BY KEN W. PURDY

DIAL in any station on the NBC-Blue Coast-to-Coast network at a certain hour on Monday evening, July 5, and you'll hear Master Will Shakespeare's "Macbeth," played by John Barrymore and a stellar supporting cast.

Dial in any one of ninety-three Columbia Broadcasting System stations at the established time on Monday, July 12, and you'll hear another Shakespearian play, probably "King Lear," with Lionel Barrymore in the title role! And thereafter, every Monday night for a month or more, you can have your choice of two Shakespearian plays, both lavishly produced, both starring America's greatest actors!

For Shakespeare has come to radio, Shakespeare's the reigning fashion now, and between the two major networks the Battle of the Bard is raging!

It all started when Columbia announced that beginning July 12, the greatest array of CBS stations ever linked for a sustaining feature would present a series of eight Shakespearian dramas, comedies and tragedies alike, brought to the microphone after months of intensive research and preparation, by casts that would approximate a "Who's Who" of the modern stage, screen, and radio world. And, in making the announcement, Columbia said that it was offering "the first major radio production of William Shakespeare's plays!"

For the nabobs of NBC, that was much too much! Spontaneous combustion fired the publicity department, dusty files were searched, and the radio world was informed that between September 8, 1929, and April 23, 1937, the National Broadcasting Company had presented seventy programs of the best-known Shakespearian dramas. Immediately thereafter, the special series featuring John Barrymore was announced, put into production and on the air. "Hamlet" was presented on June 21, four weeks before the time Columbia was scheduled to start its series with "King Lear," on July 12.

The National Broadcasting Company scored first—but an impartial view indicates that when Columbia takes to the air the battle will be just beginning. Columbia's radio presentations of the immortal Elizabethan dramas will run for one hour—NBC's have been cut to forty-five minutes. Columbia's tentative list of players sounds like a casting director's dream: William A. Brady, Tullulah Bankhead, Helen Menken, Sir Cedric Hardwick, Leslie Howard, Bette Davis, Edward G. Robinson, Ruth Chatterton, Fredric March, Rosalind Russell, Burgess Meredith, Margaret Perry, Grace George! On the other hand, the National Broadcasting Company has John Barrymore, long recognized as one of the greatest Shakespearian interpreters of our time—or of any time! On the other hand—we almost forgot!—Columbia has Lionel Barrymore!

Essential difference between the two plans of production lies in the fact that John Barrymore will himself play the leading roles in NBC's plays, with supporting parts minimized in length and importance, while Columbia will rely on full casts.

"Streamlined Shakespeare!"

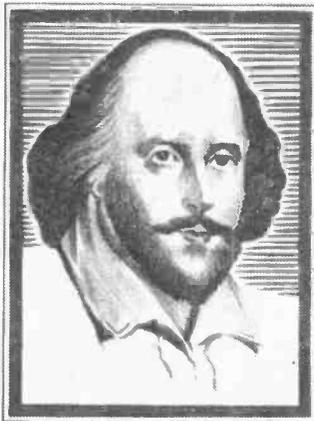

That's what John Barrymore calls the specialized treatments he has prepared for "Hamlet," "Richard III," "Macbeth," and the rest of the dramas he has chosen to play.

"I call our new series 'Streamlined Shakespeare' because, had that famous dramatist lived today, he would be subjected to a censorship more rigid than any confronting the leading playwrights of our time.

"Shakespeare embodied a spirit that was essentially that of the century in which we live today. And if Shakespeare in his grave could see the dignity and reverence with which his comedies have been treated, his bones would rattle like dice. His works were essentially modern, and I feel that he wanted them played the way that we intend to play them."

THERE were five of us in the room that night—a famous radio tenor and the girl to whom he was engaged, an executive on one of the large networks, his wife and I.

We had been chatting about various radio stars, television, the new plays, movies, the comedy and tragedy in human lives.

So it seemed neither silly nor fatuous when one of the group—it was the executive—said: "If we could all live our lives as if tomorrow we were going to die, how different things might be. If, in our human contacts, we could treat everyone as if tomorrow that person might die . . . You see, then we would all be warm and kindly and thoughtful, not wanting to meet death with any cruelties to remember, nor would we have on our consciences any lack of understanding toward another human soul."

"That's all very well," said the singer's sweetheart, "but what about those awful regrets everyone has—things you've done to someone without realizing the person was being hurt?"

"I know what you mean," the executive said. "Everyone has those. But there would not be so many if we thought, 'Tomorrow we die.'"

He fumbled a moment in his coat pocket and produced a worn newspaper clipping. "Here's what I mean. This is one of a series of letters on 'What Things in Your Life Have You Regretted Most.' Listen to it—it comes from the heart."

He read: "My parents were so poor that my boyhood was one long depression. We had a family of six boys, of which I was the oldest. We had plenty to eat, such as it was, but I grew up with the feeling that character could be developed only by hardship. Being the oldest brother, it fell to my lot to help educate the other brothers so that they would grow up to be good men. My job was a success, due more to fate than any training I gave them, and I was proud of every one of them.

LIFE went on and we separated and went different ways. When I married and had a son of my own, I started out just where I had left off with those brothers. Very severe and very hard. A man must have a strong character which could be developed only this cruel way. Never a word of sympathy or understanding. That made a boy 'soft.' Many times I wanted to wrap my arms around my son Bill and say, 'Son, you are the greatest boy in the world,' but that would never do. I loved that boy so much that I felt to tell him such things would lessen his chances to be a real man.

"At sixteen years of age he was everything I could wish for and I was so proud of him I would go off by myself and say, 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant.'

"I never even hinted that he was above the average. Fathers must be firm. One day he said, 'Dad, Gee! You never seem to see me.'

"The next day he was drowned and

HERE IS AN INVITATION BY DEATH —TO LIVE WELL WHILE YOU CAN!

BY KATHERINE ALBERT

I was notified of his death. He never knew I loved him, never knew what he meant to me. Oh! If I had only told him. I'll regret it to my dying day, and when we meet in that better world, I won't lose any time to tell him what he meant to me in life."

None of us could speak after that. And the thing that choked us was not only the realization of that father's tortured soul but the fact that we all had, buried beneath a thousand defenses, some pitiful regret. There was not a person in that room who was not trying to forget the hurt in the eyes of a loved one, a call for need unanswered, a cruelty inflicted because of thoughtlessness or conceit or witlessness.

I remembered a story Gracie Allen had once told me—a circumstance which will forever be burned into her memory. I repeated it to the other four because all knew and loved Gracie devotedly.

Remember a couple of years ago when Gracie began the hunt for her long-lost brother? They tossed it into a script for a laugh. It caught on.

Gracie broke into the Cantor hour and the Jack Benny program and any other broadcast that couldn't get its bars up, announcing to the world that her brother, George, was lost. Detectives entered into the search. Newspapers took up the story.

"I'm not Gracie's brother," protested Fred Allen to an amused night court one morning at two o'clock. And the remark made headlines.

IN THE meantime, George Allen, Gracie's real brother in San Francisco, turned his coat collar to his ears, pulled his hat down to meet the coat and furtively scurried off to his job each day.

It was no good, though. Photographers were on the lookout. They parked on his front lawn. He moved. So did they.

He got a job in another city. The photographers followed. He stopped going to parties or even spending the evening quietly with a few friends. For everyone expected him to do tricks and tell jokes. After all, he was Gracie's brother—and the famous missing brother at that.

In desperation he wired Gracie, "Can't you make a living some other way?"

And not until then did Gracie realize the havoc she had wrought. She then tried to call off the search. Burns and Allen—Broadway-trained—had never realized that anybody could be hurt by a gag. Nor did they know, when they started it, the public would hound a man who saw nothing funny in the whole noisy procedure.

When I had finished, the radio tenor—who has begged me not to use his name—spoke. "I have one of those," he said. "I've never told it before. But tonight, if you don't mind, let me get this off my chest.

"When I first started to make a success, all the boys and girls who had 'known me when' and remembered how hard I'd struggled for my break and that I knew what it was to be broke began coming around to touch me for a five, a ten, a twenty. And I doled out bills as if they'd been theater programs.

"I was honestly tickled to do it, and besides I suppose I was afraid that I'd get the reputation of going high-hat and forgetting old friends. But honestly, before I knew it the week's salary was gone and I was in debt.

"I realized that in self-defense I was going to have to stop it. So I began shaking my head when anyone even came near me. And when the touch was made I said 'No' and meant it.

"There was one guy who had borrowed twenty bucks and—like all the others—never made a move to pay it back. He stopped me one day as I was going into rehearsal and said, 'I hate to do this—I know you think I'm a rat for not paying you what I owe you and I know I've got a nerve asking for more. But this is desperate. I've got to have two hundred bucks. The truth is, I've just been to the doctor and he says I have to go to Arizona.'

"I'd heard so many of those sob stories. I'd loaned a lad a fifty because his landlady was going to throw him out in the street and the next night I'd seen him at a club buying champagne for a blonde. Another had got to me because his mother was desperately ill and later I learned his mother had been dead five years. Now it was Arizona. That was too much. People made jokes about going there.

"So I answered, 'Sorry. Wish I could help but I really can't.'

"He didn't answer but just turned and walked away. And I'll never forget the hopeless droop of his shoulders. For a minute I was on the verge of calling him back and writing a check. But I said to myself, 'They've made you a sap too often. Don't start all over now.' So I went into rehearsal.

"About three months later a friend of mine and I were having lunch. 'Did you hear about Joe?' he asked casually. 'Poor kid—he was flat broke when the doctor told him he had to go to Arizona. He couldn't raise the money so he went to a charity hospital.

IT WAS the executive's wife who next said: "I know what you mean. Right this minute I can see the hurt in my grandmother's eyes. And it happened a long time ago—when I was just eleven years old.

"It probably won't seem so important or urgent as the other things that have been told, but it remains my greatest regret.

"My grandmother was making a doll-dress for me. I told her just how I wanted it. But she put in a few additions of her own. She thought I would be pleased and she showed me the dress with pride, 'Look, Honey, isn't it pretty?'

"'Pretty?' I repeated. 'It isn't at all the way I told you to make it. Why, I wouldn't let my doll wear it to a dog fight.'

"If I live to be a thousand I'll never forget her face. I remember that I went out into the garage and cried—but all the tears in the world couldn't wash out that memory. That's all—it isn't very dramatic. Except that years later when she was gone and we were going through her things we found that little doll-dress wrapped up in paper. She had remembered, too."

"If my brother had thought, 'Tomorrow we die,' the executive said, "he would be a very different man today. He would have taken what happiness he could while it was there to be taken. Instead . . .

HE WAS in love with a girl he'd gone to school with. They'd been sweethearts all those years and practically engaged—but he got out of college just at the beginning of the depression and considered himself lucky to get any kind of job. He felt, however, that he could not support a wife on what he earned.

"He was sincerely honorable—thought he would be doing the girl an injustice if he asked her to share what little he made or asked her to wait for him. So whenever the talk turned to love—and she turned it that way, hoping he would tell her, now they were not kids any more, that he loved her—he would change the subject.

"He thought he was doing right. He thought he was protecting her. But it went on like that for several years until at last she began to believe that he really wasn't in love with her and, heartbroken, she left the city in which they both lived and went to live with her sister in another town.

"There she met another man and, being firmly convinced my brother had no intention of marrying her, became engaged to the other boy. It was second-best—she knew that. But she wanted a home and children.

"A letter from the girl to my brother and a letter from him to her crossed in the mails. His told the exciting fact that he had had a promotion and a raise, that he could now speak his love to her, that he had always loved her and always would and he begged her to come back and marry him. He poured out his heart and described those bleak years when he loved her yet felt he could not tell her so for what it might do to her. But now he could give her a home. Now . . . the future was beautiful.

HER letter to him told of her marriage, which had taken place the day before after a week's engagement.

"What those two have suffered, it is difficult to guess. She's been married two years now and will keep on being married, of course, because her husband is an all-right sort of fellow, very much in love with her. And she could not be so cruel as even to try to divorce him when he married her in good faith, not knowing about my brother. He has been kind to her.

"My brother's life is ruined. He will never marry. I know that because he's a one-woman man. That girl was his real love and every day of his life he experiences the emotions he had when he read her letter and realized that if he had told her a month—even two weeks—sooner how he felt about her that the whole dreadful waste could have been avoided.

"If he had thought, 'Tomorrow we die'—well, he would have told her and he would have taken his chances."

STAR OF STARS and FAVORITE COMEDIAN are double honors heaped again on Jack Benny (right) by voting listeners. Only winner in two groups this year, he had the same honor last year! Jack entered radio in 1932, quickly became outstanding. He began to win popularity polls as early as 1934!

FAVORITE MALE SINGER OF POPULAR SONGS is Bing Crosby (below), who edged Lanny Ross out of first place for the second consecutive year—but this time by a larger margin of votes than he mustered in 1936! He's leaving his Music Hall program for a vacation, but will return to the series!

We Salute.. Fourteen Winners

THE STAR OF STARS POLL
ENDS — AND YOUR VOTES
MAKE THESE PROGRAMS AND PERSONALITIES TOPS!

TOP OPERATIC SINGER this year is Nelson Eddy (above), who crowded Jack Benny for the Star of Stars honor early in the race, won easily in his own group. He was off the air during much of the voting—but fans remembered!

FAVORITE COMMENTATOR this year is English-accented Boake Carter (above), whose clipped criticisms made news headlines. He was second to Lowell Thomas last year. This time the two air-reporters switched places!

BEST ANNOUNCER this year, according to voters in the Star of Stars Poll, is Don Wilson (right). He lost to Jimmy Wallington in 1936, came back this time to win by several thousand votes!

FEMALE POPULAR SINGERS were topped for 1937 by Frances Langford (left), to end a long reign in that group by Kate Smith. Frances also rated highest of all women in the Star of Stars group. Her lead was hardly threatened this year!

SPORTS ANNOUNCERS all bowed to Ted Husing, whose margin of victory was greater than that of any other winner! He rated third in 1936, when all announcers were grouped together, but led all the way this year, was never really threatened!

MOST POPULAR DRAMATIC CAST again in 1937 is "One Man's Family" (right). This serial won in 1935, doubled the votes of its nearest rival in 1936, won this year—but by a smaller margin—over the Radio Theater. Voting was high in this group!

DANCE ORCHESTRAS In 1937, as in the last two years, bow to Wayne King (below). Perennial favorite, he holds to his unusual style, is not swayed by "swing" fads. Guy Lombardo, second, also refuses new crazes—keeps his following!

MOST PROMISING NEW STAR is 14-year-old Deanna Durbin (upper right). Singing with Eddle Cantor, Deanna won millions of fans—who supported her in the Star of Stars Poll! She'll be back soon!

CHILDREN'S PROGRAMS in 1936 offered little competition to "Singing Lady" Irene Wicker (above). She more than doubled her nearest rival. Kalt-enmeyer's Kindergarten threatened—but it could not win!

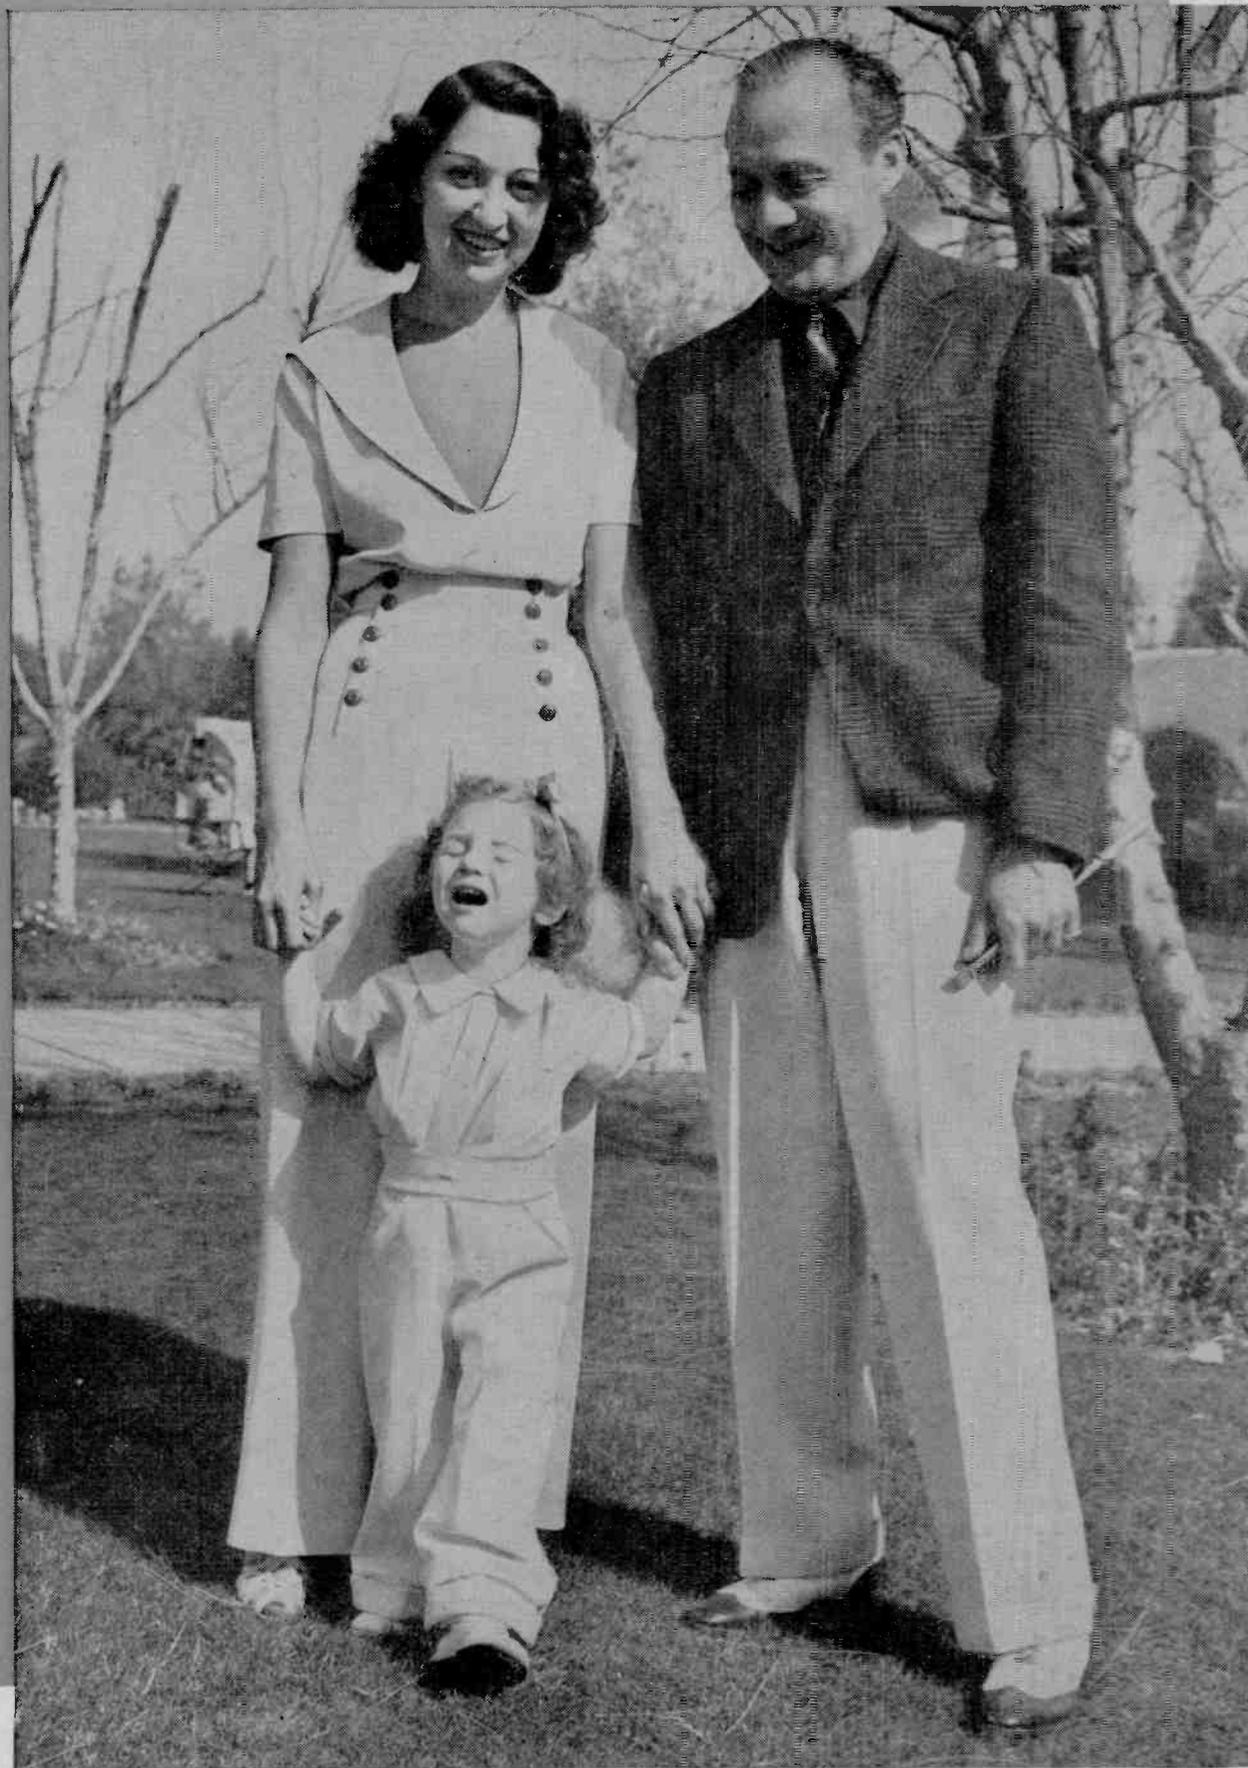

MUSICAL PROGRAMS owe their popularity to their masters of ceremonies in most cases—and this year Lanny Ross (left) is honored for leading "Show Boat" to victory! He leaves the "Boa-" when its anchor is dropped in Hollywood

FAVORITE ACTOR of America's listeners is Don Ameche (above). His popularity with listeners led him to Hollywood—also makes him winner in this new classification in this poll. He now is starring in the new Sunday night coffee show

GREATEST ACTRESS in radio is Helen Hayes (left), if listeners can compete with critics. Helen brought fame from the stage and Hollywood with her to radio—has won more in her air series. She won over Jeanette MacDonald in close competition

This is the LIFE

JACK BENNY DOESN'T LAUGH AT LIFE
—BUT HE LETS LIFE LAUGH AT HIM!

WHEN Jack Benny first went on the air five years ago his name meant very little to the listening audience. He was, to be sure, a highly successful and well-established entertainer insofar as the country's vaudeville circuits and the Broadway musical comedy and revue stage were concerned. He was starring in the Earl Carroll "Vanities."

He gave up his lucrative role to give this new thing called radio the once-over. "So many of our friends were getting into it," he says, "I thought I ought to see what it was all about and if I was missing anything."

Jack's first effort at broadcasting occurred when Ed Sullivan, a famous Broadway columnist, invited him to make a guest appearance on a network show he was conducting. Jack accepted with pleasure and did a droll three-minute monolog. Today his most treasured keepsake is neither a love letter from Mary nor a snapshot of the old Benny homestead in Waukegan. It is this first radio script, now torn and faded and dog-eared. You might be interested in reading part of it. It goes:

"Ladies and Gentlemen, this is Jack Benny talking. There will be a slight pause while you say, 'Who cares?' I am here tonight as a scenario writer. There is quite a lot of money in writing scenarios for the pictures. Well—there would be, if I could sell one.

"I'm going back to pictures in about ten weeks. I'm going to be in a new film with Greta Garbo. They sent me the story last week. When the picture opens, I'm found dead in the bathroom. It's a sort of mystery picture. I'm found in the bathtub on a Wednesday night.

"I should have been in Miss Garbo's last picture but they gave the part to Robert Montgomery. You know—studio politics! The funny part of it is that I'm really much younger than Montgomery. That is, I'm younger than Montgomery and Ward.

"You'd really like Garbo. She and I were great friends in Hollywood. She used to let me drive her car all around town. Of course, she paid me for it . . ."

THE date was February, 1932. That is five years ago. But in glancing through that old script you will notice that Jack had stumbled, partly by accident and partly because he had used a similar type of humor in vaudeville, upon the same sort of humor method he uses today. Two months later—it took a sponsor only two months to discover him—he started his own series of programs. The almost incredible way he shot to the top after that will always be regarded as a radio phenomenon. Still more phenomenal to the wise men of Radio Row is the tenacity with which he has clung to the top rung of the ladder ever since. Season after season, now, he is the foremost comedian on the air. His humor has stood the test of time.

Jack was very unhappy in radio at first. He was used to vaudeville and the instantaneous response of a flesh-and-blood audience. In the studio he had an audience of only fifty or sixty, jammed into a small observation booth which was capable of holding twenty—as he says—if everyone breathed right. The cast and the orchestra worked behind a big glass sheet that shut them out. He couldn't hear the audience laugh. The radio listeners could, but Jack himself had to watch people through the pane and wait until they shut their mouths before going ahead to the next line. He says he got to be a great lip-reader in those early days. It was next to impossible for him to watch his timing. Finally, however, he had the glass removed so that he could attend to timing with his ears instead of his eyes, and from then on his progress toward success went ahead with transport-plane velocity.

It is worth while to pause here for a moment and ask ourselves why. Why is Benny such a success? Why do people like him better than any other comedian? First, of course, there is his method. He discovered long ago that we would rather hear others make fun of him than hear him make fun of others. He is always the goat. But he "takes it" with such good grace that it makes him all the more likable. It is much the same secret as that which explains the appeal of Charlie Chaplin. Jack is All of Us, getting kicked in the teeth by life and trying to take it gallantly. Second, listening to Jack's programs you honestly feel that everybody is really having a lot of fun. He refuses to rehearse a skit more than once. He keeps it light and limber, and adds unexpected gags of his own to make the cast giggle. Where Ed Wynn, for example, worries himself sick, Jack does everything in his power to avoid worry.

It is to pass the worrying on to someone else as much as for any other reason that he has two writers, Bill Morrow and Eddie Beloin, prepare the first drafts of his scripts.

Eddie Beloin was an inexperienced writer living in Connecticut when Jack first heard of him. He mailed a sample script to Fred Allen and Fred turned it over to Jack. Jack phoned Eddie long distance and asked him: "Would you be interested in coming to work for a radio comedian?"

"What comedian?" asked Beloin, the suspicious country boy.

"Never mind that," said Jack. "Will you come to New York and discuss it?"

"No," said Beloin. "You come up here."

"Will you come if I pay your railroad fare?" Jack asked.

Beloin thought. "Will you pay it in advance?" he enquired.

"Sure."

"No—I won't come, anyhow," said Eddie. "Not until I know who you are."

Jack gave up. "Well—if you must know, this is Jack Benny," he confessed.

"I don't think you're very funny," said Beloin. "I don't want to work for you."

He finally agreed to come down to the city, however. Almost as soon as he arrived he grew desperately homesick. "I can't write funny things with all these taxis honking and the elevated trains going by," he said sadly. "I'm used to doing my writing sitting under a tree."

"A tree, huh?" asked Jack. "You go back to that hotel," he ordered grimly, "and take a potted palm up to your room. Sit under that!"

Bill Morrow, Jack's other writer, has an interesting comment to make. "What we try to do in knocking out the first draft of the script," he says, "is make Jack laugh."

That reveals one of the chief reasons for Jack Benny's success and at the same time an outstanding characteristic of his personality. Comedians are noted for long faces and miserable existences. Ed Wynn has already been mentioned. Jack Pearl worried himself into such a state of hysteria, on one occasion, that he had to be carried to the microphone. Tom Howard lives in dread of the poorhouse. Benny is the smiling exception to the rule. He lives to laugh. "We got a lot of laughs" is the highest compliment he can pay an entertainer or an entertainment. All he asks is that he be permitted to laugh and pass the laughs on to others. Small wonder, then, that he really seems to enjoy his broadcasts and that we enjoy them with him! Offstage,

BY

George Burns is Jack's best friend. The reason is that the least remark George makes sends him into screaming fits of laughter. All George has to do is say "Boo" and Jack collapses. So much for Jack's most engaging trait. His least engaging trait is that he never has time for anything else because he is so interested in those laughs of his. This not-at-all-delightful side of his nature he shares with Fred Allen, who makes every room a waiting-room. Interviewers, tailors, business appointments, everything else he simply ducks, no matter how important it may be. Some of the dodging, of course, is excusable. Jack Benny works as no human being with any regard for his health ought to work, quieting his nerves with endless cigars which he is suspected of buying by the shipload. I rode on the train with him from New York City as far as Albany the last time he went out to Hollywood to make a picture. He had just finished thirteen weeks on the air and a last-minute whirl of plays, night clubs and farewell parties. At first he did not realize that the huge crowd in the Grand Central Station was waiting to see him. When he did realize it he blushed, turned up the collar of his polo coat and hid in his drawing-room.

AT HEART he is really very shy. As I sat down beside him he leaned his head back against the cushion and closed his eyes, his face gray from exhaustion. And, with four days on the train for his only vacation, he was going out to Hollywood to continue his broadcasts and spend his spare time making a movie as well! He loves work because, to him, it is fun. But no one ought to work like that even for fun. Fun, too, can kill you if you go at it so hard.

One thing which keeps Jack away from people is his inferiority complex. How a man at the top of his chosen profession, with a salary greater than that of the President of the United States, can have an inferiority complex is a mystery for the psychoanalysts to unravel, but he has one. A professor in the English department at Harvard university asked him not long ago to come and give a talk to the students on humor. Jack accepted, took the train to Cambridge and got as far as the very steps of the lecture hall when he balked and could go not an inch further.

"I can't go in there and talk to those fellows," he protested, terrified. "They're college men! I'm just an actor."

The Harvard graduate who knows as much about the world and the people in it as Jack Benny does is a very rare Harvard man indeed.

Bertha Brainerd of NBC, who knows Jack Benny perhaps better than anyone else, says: "I would call Jack a very simple, completely unspoiled, rather naive person. To me the most surprising thing about him is how sensitive he is."

Sensitive he is. It is quite true. The merest hint, the merest look on the face of a day-dreaming usher implying that a rehearsal wasn't so good depresses him so profoundly that he can barely go on to the program. And, as the performance does go on, all he has to do is see one unsmiling old grouch in the audience to sink lower and lower in spirit. You can see his face change. It sags. And when he goes off the air after what he thinks is an unsuccessful broadcast he can neither eat nor sleep. He sits up half the night working desperately and bitterly on next week's script, proving to himself that he really is funny.

Another side of his sensitivity is that coming under the nebulous heading of good taste. When all is said and done, Jack is a Waukegan boy with a Broadway veneer. Waukegan has not quite displaced Cannes and Southampton as yet as a social center, and the veneer applied by Broadway is approximately as quiet in tone as a fish-horn. Yet here again his sensitivity plays an important part. Jack never knowingly includes anything on his program which he does not feel is in good taste. To make sure there are no painful barbs—Jack makes himself the brunt of the jokes, the goat of every situation! And whenever anything is proposed for the script, Jack imagines himself in the situation, weighs it from all angles, and decides whether it should remain. But even after his mind has been made up that way, he is open to suggestion. For example, a friend need only say, "Oh, you don't want Mary to say that," and he'll rewrite an entire program—a week's job.

That's the way Jack is—and he has found that it really pays!

Jack Benny: A Waukegan boy with a Broadway veneer

I USED to have a lot of respect for struggle. For people who got their teeth into life, who battled and grappled and fought to get ahead. "Anything in life worth having is worth fighting for." That's what they believed, and you knew all the time that if a fellow expected to get on top he'd have to shut himself off from fun and frolic and pay the price.

Then I met Tiny Ruffner. And I had to say "go 'way" to all these fine and stoic ideas. I had to "shoo" all my sainted respect for worry and strain.

For Tiny takes life the easy way. He's climbed from iceman to radio executive and big-time radio announcer. His weekly pay-check has traveled from $15 a week to retiring-at-forty size. And when you're 36 and you already know you can retire at forty, and when you intend to travel all the rest of your days after you retire, you really have been to the bank often—and well!

I looked at Tiny's face. There were no drawn lines of violent struggle. No nights. There wasn't a show of struggle in his whole handsome person. At least not unhappy struggle. His face was the face of a little boy who's always had a good time.

No, success hasn't been hard for Tiny. Not because he was born with a scepter of mighty talents over his head. But because he knew how to take it easy. He's just another nice guy. And he had only two rules (I doubt he'd call them by anything so stern as that); better yet, let's call them habits.

Tiny was once a lad in Seattle. He was nineteen . . . a steel-riveter by trade; a seller of doughnuts, bread and bonds at various times. But he, like little Audrey, knew all along he was going to be a singer.

Here's the way Tiny sized up the situation. He needed a good teacher. The best teachers were in New York. So Tiny should be in New York.

You say, well, I don't see any wonder or new wisdom in that. No, there wasn't. The only thing was he didn't have any money, except just about enough to square himself with New York Central. It was a long walk home if he got stranded. Me and you, we would have been frightened to death. We'd have said: "What if I don't find a job? Horrors, where will I sleep, where will I find me some meals?" When Tiny went to New York he didn't know a soul that he could call for an extra nickel when he needed it.

But we're talking about Tiny Ruffner, a fellow who forgets about how complicated life is supposed to be. He did it, and that was all there was to it. And he's still doing such things.

When Tiny stepped out onto the platform at Grand Central Station, he began looking for a job. Not a proud job. He didn't care about that. The first one he found was as sole boss of the rear elevator in a large department store. Salary, $15 a week! But that would hardly pay for the singing lessons he wanted to take and for food too. So he thanked the employment manager and walked out.

Across the street was another department store. He stopped to think a minute. How could he get himself a job that would pay the money he needed? Ah, he had a scheme! He talked himself into the haughty personnel manager's office and spun a yarn that would have startled no less a person than O. Henry.

I T WENT like this: For the moment he became a retail executive from a large store in Seattle. He wanted to study the retail methods of the East. Now, he didn't want this store's employees to realize who he was, so he suggested that he become a floor-walker, at the usual pay, of course!

The man said "Swell!" It gave him a benevolent glow to aid his fellow businessman; and (we venture to guess) he felt a little flattered, too. So Tiny went to work at $40 a week.

Everything was happy ever after until Tiny weighed himself one day and found he was five pounds short. The close, crowded rooms, the bad air, didn't go with the outdoor constitution and health habits, and besides, his singing had to be done at night, bothering all the other roomers in the low-priced rooming house. So he quit! As quietly and decisively as the words sound. Again Tiny could see nothing to struggle with. All he had to do was to say he was quitting, take his week's money, his hat, and leave. Indeed, it was all very simple.

Next thing he found was an iceman's job. And this was more to his liking. He had to get up at three every morning. Yes, three can sometimes be at the front end of the day.

He could practise to his heart's and his teacher's content every afternoon. The vocal instructor approved of the healthy habit of delivering ice. It was outdoor work, and it was good for the breath control.

A few years later, this teacher went to the West Coast. What should Tiny do? Change teachers? That leads to confusion in the vocal technique and he was just at the stage when this would have brought havoc to his voice. Well, maybe you've guessed already: Tiny just packed his clothes and hopped a train.

In San Francisco he found work with an oil company, and before the teacher was ready to go back to the money-changers' East. Tiny had been made an offer! $25,000 a year—as a vice-president.

Nice money for a fellow who'd been an iceman. But Tiny said no. What could be gained by being an oil company's vice-president if you were going to be a singer? And it wasn't enough money! If anyone had stopped to ask him why he did such a foolish thing, he could have told him then that he figured he would make many times that amount before long.

A few short months later in New York, the teacher helped him to get a job on the stage. He sang minor roles in "The Student Prince" and "Princess Flavian." Then came radio.

I N RADIO he followed the same simple ways of the past, the ways that had spun his life along like a blessed comet, unharmed by doubt and hesitation. An advertising agency asked for his services at a fine fee and Tiny went to work for them. When they asked him what he thought about their shows, he didn't hem and haw and blush because he was just an announcer and who-was-he to give his opinions. He told them what he didn't enough, so he played baseball in the back lot. He ran and raced and played tomboy until he fairly seethed with good health and spirits. When school let out and money had to be earned, he turned down clerk jobs and offices. He went out in the open air. Then's when he became so well acquainted with the price of milk, and doughnuts and insurance.

Even crowded, unhealthy New York couldn't cramp his style. He started bowling first. He played squash. He went hunting and swimming.

As he says now, he "trains for every big broadcast with a good game of golf." "Is he good at golf?" I asked him. "Oh, just a businessman's game!" he answered—but when I asked at the golf club they said his score was 78!

Today, however, Tiny doesn't have

Above: At the microphone Tiny Ruffner is the same easy-going fellow who refused $25,000 a year—to take singing lessons' thought. He replaced musical numbers that were beautiful but dumb with others that gave impetus and fire to the programs. He would comment on singers whose names were haloed in the musical world. And those singers listened. Tiny's words had common sense, and common sense is a costly ingredient, not always well known in show business.

Are you beginning to see what I mean about Tiny? Do you feel the absence of conflict, of self-argument; the absence of dickered about shoulds and shouldn'ts!

The second simple "Tiny" rule-habit of the Ruffner life is still another so obvious, so plain that it scares us a little in its naivete.

It's health.

Tiny, as you know, is a mere six feet, six inches tall. If you can imagine a person that tall, you'll probably picture a thin, towering person with stooped shoulders—a little anemic from growing so fast. But not Tiny. He's tall, sure, and he's big, but he's straight and vital.

When Tiny was back there in Seattle, before he took to the idea of heing off to the big city, he was thin and a little round-shouldered. His mother, as mothers do, constantly reminded him, "Stand straight, chin up, shoulders back." The reminders took, and Tiny "did" something.

The school gymnasium classes were-much announcing to do—though he keeps fit just the same. He's now an executive in a large New York agency, announces when needed—in addition to performing other duties. And in spite of his responsibilities, he remains easy-going.

When nerves unsettle performers before the broadcast bell, Tiny is calm, assured. When, at times, he has known the strain of intense work (say the time he had to work three days and three nights without a single introduction to Nod), it doesn't affect him in the least. And that vitality is part of his personality, too . . . part of what puts him over, both on the air and in person. For this big fellow has one of those personalities that dominates.

When I asked him what he had in mind as life's goal he said: "Nothing spectacular. The middle path suits me. Fame, power, money, mean nothing. Just so I can have enough to retire at forty and travel around the world." Ah, well, he already has that last goal, and he has the fame, too. So get ready, you folk in Singapore, Sargan, and points east and west. You'll have a six-foot-six visitor one of these years!

A ND why? Because of a simple, not-of-polite-society thing known as common sense produced by the plainest recipe in the world: Action caused by doing things at the moment, and zest, the effect of bounding good health!

HOT News for the Hotter Days: The delovely Claudette Colbert will visit you for four consecutive Sundays next fall when she stars in a serial drama lasting but one month and sponsored by a silverware company. She will be followed up by screen stars of similar caliber, including perhaps Clark Gable, Greta Garbo and Robert Taylor, who will appear for but one show each . . . The Jan Gargers are putting on their boxing gloves . . . Next Thursday, July 8, marks the launching of the repainted "Show Boat" with old Captain Henry (Charles Winninger) commanding a crew comprising Jack Haley, Stogie Patricia Wilder, Actor-Announcer Warren Hull, Thomas Thomas, Nadine Conner and Virginia Verrill. Meredith Willson's orchestra will make the music . . . The National Association of Broadcasters met last week, worried about the government putting up its own broadcasting station, passed the usual resolutions, adjourned long enough to see Mr. Louis put the K. O. on Mr. Braddock, elected John Elmer, WCBM, Baltimore, as new president, talked about the idea of appointing a czar to launder radio's underthings, and went home thoroughly satisfied that they had accomplished a great deal.

The Amos 'n' Andy toothpaste is sleuthing for a kid show to replace the blackface pair January 1. The comedians, after attending the fight, planned a visit to New York's Harlem to freshen their accents before returning to Hollywood. Meantime, it is said that their new sponsor (name undisclosed) has them on the dotted line!

Dave Rubinoff came to Chicago literally and figuratively last week to take in the Windy City's exhibition of fisticuffs. Dave, as effervescent as a youngster with a new bicycle, was enthused over his part in the new picture, "You Can't Have Everything," which will be released in August. It seems that when Hollywood beckoned him with the quite attractive bait of $5,000 a week, the picture moguls contemplated having him play only popular melodies in the celluloid opus. Dave didn't mind that, but he thought his public wouldn't like it. So after much conniving, he managed to sell the bosses on letting him also play one of his own Bohemian compositions.—P. S. The pay-off is that when Dave arrived in Chicago his agent told him that he was $500 richer; the agent had made the movie company kick in with the added sum for the privilege of using Rubinoff's tune!

Incidentally, Dave, who drew a crowd of 150,000 people to Chicago's Grant Park last summer to hear him play in concert, will make a return appearance this year. Added radio names to be featured at the Grant Park season are Ricco Marcelli, Roy Shield, Carlton Kelsey and Henry Weber.

If she doesn't arrive there before you read this item, you might like to know that Amelia Earhart will broadcast from Honolulu over NBC stations. Also upon her arrival in San Francisco, she will be heard again over National Broadcasting Company outlets . . . "One Man's Family" will move to Hollywood for an indefinite period, starting August 8. The cast is preparing to make that long-heralded Paramount picture . . . Contrary to a previous erroneous announcement, Bing Crosby will be vacationing until October 7 after he has finished his July 1 broadcast. Bob Burns, of course, will carry on while Bing follows the race tracks with his stable of eight horses including Fight On, one of his best, and Rover . . . Inna Phillips (whose "Today's Children" celebrated its fifth radio anniversary recently with practically all of Chicago radiodom present), will be launching a new radio commercial serial shortly . . . 'Tis said that Fibber McGee and Molly are no little burned up over certain Hollywood radio stars' inability to be original. Several Fibber McGee catch-lines are catching on other programs too well since Fibber and Molly have been in the film capital . . . Walter Winchell put another $5,000 in the bank when he took the part of "Hildy Johnson" in "The Front Page" for the Radio Theater. That will help to pay for the new home Walter expects to build shortly at Beverly Hills.

It happened on the set of "You Can't Have Everything" while Don Ameche was working along with Rubinoff, Tony Martin and Charles Winninger. Somone produced a deck of cards and Don found that the title of the picture was right: He lost $60!

Joan Blaine has resigned her role in "A Tale of Today" . . . Anne Seymour sets the new style of wearing flowers in each buttonhole down the front of her dress to conceal the buttons. Most decorative, she reports, are pansies . . . while Announcers Truman Bradley and Tommy Bartlett and Actor Dave Gothard are going in for wearing blue cornflower bachelor buttons . . . Opal Craven, the "Lullaby Lady" of the Contented Hour, was the victim last week of a wild golf ball which struck her on the left arm . . . Eddy Duchin is still waiting for that call from Sir Stork. The event is scheduled for sometime before July 15 . . . Chances are that Fred Waring will play at Chi's Drake Hotel late in July or August. If he does, the Mutual network will air the music . . . Must have been funny to see Batoneer Bernie Cummins snag his pants last week on the kiddie slide at the Edgewater Beach Hotel. Little Jackie Heller, a "playmate" of Bernie's, assisted in pulling out the splinters—as and when necessary!

Romance Corner: Johnny Green's Jimmy Blair is holding hands with Mary Martin, and Cinema Revue Star Johnny Downs is going places with Jane Rhodes, another Green warbler . . . Married, June 19: CBS Pianist Bill Mossberg and Mary Lou Hickey, ad agency executive . . . It's a boy at the home of Fran Strickler, author of the "Lone Ranger" serial . . . The Jack (Bess Johnson glorifier) Ryans will be a threesome early next February.

You'll be seeing them on the silver screen: Jack Benny and Martha Raye in "Artists and Models" . . . Mary Livingstone in "This Way, Please" . . . Eddie Cantor in "Ali Baba Goes to Town" . . . George Burns and Gracie Allen with Fred Astaire in "A Damsel in Distress" . . . Bobbie Breen in "Make a Wish" and Nino Martini in "Music for Madam" . . . Harriet Hilliard, Helen Broderick, Joe Penner, Parkyakarkus, and Victor Moore in "The Life of the Party" . . . This picture should be a comedy highlight of the early fall . . . Don ("Look for the big red letters") Wilson in a series of thirteen outdoor-sport shorts.

One of the best things ever said on the radio was that suggestion of Edwin C. Hill during the big fight's broadcast that listeners in the East (where it was 11 p.m. EDT) would do well to cut down their speaker volume in order not to awaken sleeping neighbors.

Barbara (First Nighter) Luddy has one of the most loaded charm bracelets ever. It tinkles so much that she has to remove it when she broadcasts. On it are a "Bachelor Girl's Club" pin, a Phi Beta Kappa key, a bag of gold, given to her by a woman's club, a question mark from someone who's been waiting for an answer, a little thimble, a tiny gold postcard from western friends, and a microphone . . . Actress-Announcer Bess Johnson has just started her charm bracelet, but already she has scads of gadgets on it including a mike, powder puff, beer stein, grind organ, a lamp (for her part in "The Guiding Light"), a number thirteen for luck, tiny spring scales, a whistle, a dog collar, a little sailboat, and a miniature stop-watch. Such bracelets are becoming increasingly popular lately. The more they have on them the better, of course—and there seems to be no load-limit!

A GREAT many loudspeaker listeners will be pleased to learn that Lawrence Tibbett will return to the airlines in September. He will succeed Frank Parker on the weekly cigarette-sponsored show.

Another change is to be made on the Hit Parade Show which is sponsored by another ciggy concern. Starting August 11, Richard Himber and his orchestra will occupy the bandstand. The maestro was as happy as a kid with a new toy when he told me about it, but what pleased him more than anything else, was the congratulatory wire he received from his auto sponsor for whom he was on the air for four years without ever having a contract.

Bing Crosby is going to spend part of his vacation at Saratoga to watch the horses go by. Ben Bernie and Al Jolson are also expected to be seen at the famous Spa for the same reason.

Which reminds me to tell you what happened to Ben Bernie at the race track in New York one week ago last Saturday. The Ol' Maestro had a nice chunk of dough on a horse to win in the first race. Ben's horse passed the finish line in second place, which caused his face to droop a little. However, you should have seen him a few minutes later. He was all smiles from ear to ear. The horse that came in first was disqualified, making his horse the winner, which brought with it a nice financial return on his investment.

A few minutes later, I literally bumped into Dick Himber with some bills in his hand ready to make a bet on the next race. I listened closely as Dick made his bet and found that he wanted to make sure of cashing in, so he bet on the two best horses in the race to win. He breathed easier when Inhale, one of the nags he bet on, crossed the finish line first.

Towards the end of the afternoon I saw Jane and Goodman, better known to you as the "Easy Aces." "How are ya doin'," I asked Jane. With a sad smile she replied, "I guess this is not our day." And she was sure of it!

The next afternoon on the way to the airport to hop a plane for Chicago to attend the National Association of Broadcasters Convention, I stopped off at the New Yorker Hotel for a few minutes to welcome Kay Kyser to New York, from which his broadcast was to originate that night. Kay did not look like the same fellow I saw in the Windy City some weeks ago. As you may know, Kyser and his boys have been touring the country and doing their broadcasts from a different city each Sunday night. They have been on the road for seven weeks in which time they covered as many states. They play until about two o'clock in the morning and then have to hop in their chartered bus for the next city with little or no sleep. To make a short story long, or sumptin, Kay has lost fifteen pounds, Virginia Sims, his femme vocalist, has been living out of one suitcase and when I looked at the boys on the bandstand, then and there I resolved my little son would never be a musician.

The Thursday night previous, I dropped in to witness Rudy Vallee's program, which featured Tallulah Bankhead, Fanny Brice and Joe Laurie, Jr. I thought you would be interested to know that during Laurie's bit, when he was supposed to be addressing his remarks to Rudy, the singing maestro was in the back of the stage giving instructions to some of the musicians for the next number. Rudy would rush back every couple of minutes to read one line. For instance Laurie read a line, "Rudy, whaddya think he said," and Rudy would rush to the mike and ask, "What did he say," after which he would again return to his musicians.

Incidentally, you might like to know that Benny Krueger conducts the orchestra while Vallee sings. Krueger in case you don't know, conducts the orchestra on the "Pick and Pat" show, heard over CBS Monday nights. When Vallee gets back on the conductor's stand Krueger steps aside and picks up a telephone which is directly connected with the control-room. He is told how the music is coming over, just as you would hear it in your home. The operator may tell him the brass is too loud, or the clarinet player is too close to the mike and he acts accordingly to get the proper balance.

CBS has signed 14 of the 25 stage and screen stars being lined up for the Shakespearean series. Leslie Howard appears in "Much Ado About Nothing," and Burgess Meredith in "Hamlet," Edward G. Robinson in "Taming of the Shrew," Walter Huston for the title role in "Henry IV," Sir Cedric Hardwick to play in "Twelfth Night." I'm told the rest of the list is just as imposing as the names mentioned.

The Metropolitan Opera Auditions of the air have announced their return to the air in the fall. The date will be October 3, and the preliminary try-outs as well as the broadcast auditions will be handled by Wilfred Pelletier, who, by the way, was recently married to the opera star, Rose Bampton.

This is what Phil Baker and the rest of his cast that vacations from the air will be doing: Phil leaves for Hollywood July 5 to appear in the technicolor flicker, "Goldwyn Follies." He starts work on this August 1, and just as soon as he does he will have the distinction of being the first radio star to be in a technicolor movie. Phil remains in New York until July 4 just to see Harry von Zell's first broadcast get under way . . . Harry McNaughton (Bottle) settles down to a gentlemen's existence on Long Island. He says that he hopes to go to England to see his mother . . . Agnes Moorehead, the comedienne, boat trips to Nova Scotia, down the St. Lawrence to Quebec and then Montreal. She'll be busy in July, but will get away in August . . . Oh, yes! Beetle. He'll practise up in a vacant house in Connecticut, on his wails and moans.

It isn't generally known because contracts haven't been signed as yet, but in a few months you can expect to see a series of "Gang Busters" movie shorts at your favorite theater.

When I heard this story it gave me a laugh and I thought you might also like it. Al Pearce, who is making a nation-wide tour with his radio gang, stopped for a sandwich at a small city in the West. He said to the waitress, "You have rye, I hope, I hope, I hope?" The waitress remarked, "Gee, you give a swell impersonation of that guy that I've heard on the radio."

News that the "Myrt and Marge" series is not going off the air after all, as reported several weeks ago, will please their host of listeners. Marge writes to inform me that she and the new baby are super swell, which is also good news. This is particularly heartening news because of the fact that Marge left the air so briefly at the time when her baby was born.

Which reminds me to tell you that Harriet Hilliard is back in New York from Hollywood to see her offspring and Husband Ozzie Nelson. It's her first visit to New York in many months and the pay-off is, that she no sooner arrives than Ozzie leaves a few days later with his band for a road tour of theater engagements. Due to her screen work, Harriet has been compelled to spend much time away from New York—away from Ozzie, away from her baby. And now when she is in New York at last, Ozzie's band contracts make it necessary for him to leave the Big Town. When Harriet first went to Hollywood and films, she was scheduled to play only a small part in a relatively unimportant picture. Instead of appearing in the film for which she was sent to the Cinema City, she was cast for the big Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers musical, "Follow the Fleet"—and given a big role. Soon you'll see Harriet in "New Faces of 1937!"

Morton Downey, now being featured in England in the films, on the air, is well-satisfied, as yet has made no plans to return to America. Here he and his wife have been stopped for an autograph by a Westminster boy

Dick Powell, former m.c. of "Hollywood Hotel," returned to that program June 25, this time as a guest star in the preview of his new picture, "Singing Marines." Soon he will star on his own air show!

O'Keefe MC's 'Town Hall Tonight'

A new chairman will preside over the weekly meetings at the Bedlamville Town Hall beginning Wednesday, July 7. He is Walter O'Keefe, who takes over as Fred Allen and Portland Hoffa sneak away for a short vacation in Maine, to be followed by film work in Hollywood for the remainder of the summer.

The Mighty Allen Art Players will be given a summer parole while Warden Allen is away. They are also being considered for parts in Hollywood products. But "O'Keefe" will have with him Harry von Zell, many-dutied announcer-stooge, Peter Van Steeden and his orchestra, and the Town Hall Quartet.

O'Keefe was a contemporary of Charlie Butterworth at Notre Dame University, and like Butterworth, preferred another career to comedy. He started with the Fort Wayne News-Sentinel, but was stricken with infantile paralysis. During the long months of recuperation he first got the notion to go on the stage. To kill time he wrote comedy lyrics and sketches. Once on his feet, he soon won a part in Broadway's "Third Little Show," co-starred with Beatrice Lillie and Ernest Truex. Success there brought him to radio in the old Magic Carpet series.

President Roosevelt Greets Canada July 1

President Franklin D. Roosevelt will exchange "Good Neighbor" greetings with Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor General of Canada, on Thursday, July 1, on the occasion of the seventieth anniversary of the founding of the Canadian Federation—Canada as it is today. The greetings will be broadcast over networks of NBC, CBS and MBS. President Roosevelt will speak from his Hyde Park home.

July 1 in Canada is Dominion Day, celebrated somewhat similarly to the American Fourth of July. It marks the anniversary of the day in 1867 when Canada was organized as a federation with provincial governments similar to those of the United States. The unusually friendly bond between Canada and the United States, with their "longest unfortified borders in the world," will probably be the background for the greetings.

Old Master of 'Show Boat' Returns!

Radio's "Show Boat" has its old master at the helm! On Thursday, July 8, "Captain" Charley Winninger resumes command of the venerable stern-wheeler on the occasion of the show's first broadcast from Hollywood.

With the "Cap'n" will be featured Thomas L. Thomas, baritone; Nadine Conner, soprano; Virginia Verrill, young blues singer; Jack Haley, Broadway and Hollywood comedian, and his stooge, Patricia Wilder, and Warren Hull, announcer and Haley's "straight" man.

Winninger, born on May 26, 1884, left his birthplace, Athens, Wisconsin, in 1907 to enter a New York stock company. He toured from Coast to Coast in his first role, had failures and successes in many another before the late Florenz Ziegfeld cast him to create the role of the well-loved captain in Jerome Kern's "Show Boat" in 1927.

In that part, he played steadily for 104 weeks—17 months on Broadway, the rest of the time on the road. During a year in Hollywood following that triumph, he appeared in fourteen films. Then he scored again in the Broadway revival of the great musical play. In 1932 radio created its own "Show Boat"—and Captain Andy of the stage became Captain Henry on the air. His popularity was phenomenal. He remained in the cast until 1935, when he deserted radio to return to Hollywood—and to play the role of the Captain in the film version of the show!

Thomas and Miss Conner have won stardom in radio only recently. Thomas began in radio in a choral group.

Three Major Chains Air All-Star Game

The fifth annual All-Star game, which pits the best baseball players in the National League against the stars of the American League, will be broadcast over all three major networks on Wednesday, July 7. The broadcasts will emanate from Griffith Stadium in Washington, D. C.

The game this year is based on an important innovation which sports experts believe will make for a better contest. Instead of teams being chosen by popular vote of the fans, and therefore likely to be sectional, giving best representation to cities where promotion is best, the managers of the 1936 pennant-winning teams will choose the players. Bill Terry, who led the New York Giants to the National League flag last year, and Joe McCarthy, whose Yankees won the American League pennant and the World Series, will name all representatives on the two teams. The All-Star Game is played to raise funds for indigent baseball players. In case of rain on the scheduled day the game will be played on the following day.

VOICE OF THE LISTENER

The "Voice of the Listener" letter-forum is a regular feature in Radio Guide each week, offered to the readers as a means for expressing and exchanging opinions about radio.

Each week Radio Guide will publish letters deserving our readers' attention.

IT IS!

Voice of the Listener: We don't want to be selfish and deny any of our favorites a well-earned vacation, but I do think better programs could be planned for the summer. No matter where we go on our own vacations we have our radios with us, in our cars, our bungalows, etc. We wouldn't think of going without it, so sponsors need have no fear of a lack of listeners in the summertime. To the contrary, I believe that a person relaxing after a hard year's work welcomes the chance to loll around listening to the radio. Isn't it food for thought?—Lillian Houtwed, New York City.

INSPIRATION

Voice of the Listener: Is it any wonder hit-songs reach the scrap-heap so soon when a writer finds his theme in a lot of three syllable words found in the dictionary? Where is the beauty and inspiration in such a jumble of words as delightful, delicious, delectable, delirious, dilemma, delovely?

Did the writer who turned to his vegetable garden for his potatoes and potatoes hope to write a song which would become more of a favorite as the years go by? I would suggest we "Call the Whole Thing Off."

Has love and romance become so cheap and common as these songs would imply? Here's to better songs and less foolishness.—Mrs. Edith A. Bailey, San Bernardino, Calif.

ANYTHING FOR A LAUGH

Voice of the Listener: Tonight I listened to Burns and Allen, Ray Noble and Tony Martin—all tops in their lines. But what did I hear? Ray pulling feeble gags, Gracie "singing" and Tony being "heckled" instead of being permitted to sing.

Ray Noble's music is grand. Let him play! There are only two or three songs Gracie can put over, but she is a delightful nitwit—so stick to comedy, Gracie. George, you are O. K. "as is,"—but if you start baton-waving I take it all back.

That leaves the singing up to Tony Martin, and I guess that is where he belongs.—Mrs. D. H. Scott, Wink, Tex.

MUSIC BLASTS

Voice of the Listener: When the instrumental music on many programs comes on, evidently the man at the controls "turns 'er on full blast." And I have to jump up to turn down the volume. Then, when the conservation returns to the air, I have to jump up again to turn on more volume. Why not do as our local station (KFXD) does—give even volume all the way through? Have a little feeling for us folks who can't afford to buy radios with automatic volume controls. An even volume will not hurt those who have automatic controls.—Arthur E. Tenney, Caldwell, Idaho.

SMALL-TOWN ERROR

Voice of the Listener: I should like to correct an error on page 18 of your issue for the week ending May 22 in an article entitled "Small Towners in Big Towns." Among other well-known radio personalities who have come from small towns, it states that "then there's Bob Trout, of Wakefield, North Carolina, the county seat of Wake County, with 152 inhabitants."

Raleigh, the capital of North Carolina, is the county seat of Wake County.—Edward E. Hunter, Jr., Wilmington, N. C.

MUSIC of the MASTERS

I DON'T know what plans have been made by the broadcasting companies to bring us programs from the Festival of Pan-American Chamber Music in Mexico, July 16 to 26—but I do know that the Festival will be the most interesting and important musical event occurring on this continent at the time. It is to be hoped that arrangements have been made or can be made for music-lovers to hear at least some of the programs.

The Festival will be given under the patronage of Mrs. Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge, and under the direction of Carlos Chavez. Mr. Chavez is well known to American radio audiences as a guest conductor of the New York Philharmonic-Symphony. He is director of the Orquesta Sinfonica de Mexico and formerly was head of the National Conservatory of Music.

Among the artists who will take part will be Mr. Chavez; the Coolidge Quartet, consisting of William Kroll, Nicolai Berezowsky, Nicolas Moldavan and Victor Gottlieb; the Ruvalcaba Quartet of Mexico; Jesus Maria Sanroma, pianist, of Boston, and the Orquesta Mexicana, an ensemble of native Mexican instruments.

The composers who will be represented are Walter Piston, John Alden Carpenter, Roy Harris, Roger Sessions, Aaron Copland and Edward Burlingame Hill of this country; Ponce Revueltas, Sandi, Ayala and Chavez of Mexico; Roldan of Cuba; Villa-Lobos of Brazil; Castro of Argentina, and others representing Peru and Chile.

The classics will not be neglected, either. Quartets by Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Brahms, Debussy and Bach (the Art of Fugue, arranged for quartet) are on the programs. And there will be representative folk-music of the American hemisphere.

Mr. Chavez has long been interested in evoking in music the native spirit of Mexico. He has made it a point to give as wide opportunity as possible for works of Mexican composers and at the same time preserve a balance with the classic tradition and modern tendencies.

Under his direction, as head of the National Conservatory of Music, a tremendous research into pre-Cortesian music has been inaugurated. The first modern musical work making use of Aztec instruments was a symphony composed by Mr. Chavez in 1921, his first symphonic work, in fact. For the performance of this work he himself constructed, and had constructed under his supervision, a number of these instruments which he used as a complement in his orchestra, and has created the Orquesta Mexicana, which uses a complement of purely Mexican instruments.

I am indebted to Elgin Groseclose for some observations on Mexican music, with which he is familiar. He says that even the casual visitor to Mexico cannot escape the fact of a vigorous musical temperament, which must have its roots deep in the racial history. Music pervades the soul of Mexico.

Stand on the Cinco de Mayo any cool evening and presently you will be surrounded by a group of boyish musicians, strings tightened, drums stretched, ready to beguile you with a dance and a melody. Press into a crowd in the market places and like as not you will find a young man with a guitar singing the latest love ditties. Walk along the narrow, traffic-laden streets and you will find yourself keeping time to a sidewalk xylophone or listening to airs from a wheezy accordion.

The smallest pueblo has its band that plays once a week in the public plaza. Two splendid symphonies are maintained in the national capital. Free concerts are given regularly during the summer months and are enthusiastically attended. To observe the rapt attention given to a Beethoven symphony by men, women and children of the type described as Indians and mestizos is to need no further persuasion as to the meaning of music to the Mexican.

Mexican music has never made much impression on the world at large and has been, until recently, without creative impulse. What stifled the creative spirit was, as in other departments of the fine arts, the pressure of European influence. Mexico was a land with a highly organized metropolitan life and an undernourished, neglected hinterland. To the educated Mexican, life seemed bearable only in the capital. Mexico, D. F., was to the Mexican what Paris is to the Frenchman—only more so.

Thus, Mexico, D. F., became an imitation of Paris, a spurious thing foreign to the native spirit of Mexico. In the same way music, art, literature, all the expressions of civilized society were borrowed from or found their inspiration in European models. The purely native was scorned.

In music the revolutionary movement has been particularly fortunate—more so than in the plastic and decorative arts—in the fact that when foreign influence was cast aside, there was a native musical culture to fall back on. To which must be added the fact that the new movement in Mexican music has been fathered by one whose outlook is sane and splendidly balanced—Carlos Chavez.

The Berkshire Festival seems slowly but surely to be fulfilling the hopes of its founders: that it take its place as the first American music festival, comparable in scope to the most important in Europe.

With the announcement of the fourth season, which the incomparable Serge Koussevitzky and the Boston Symphony Orchestra will inaugurate August 5 in "Tanglewood," come hints of interesting plans for the future. Up to now the concerts have been devoted entirely to orchestral works. But the festival has been so successful that Dr. Koussevitzky hopes next season to include important choral works and perhaps even opera.

But the integrity and artistry of those in charge of the festival are such that unless they can be sure that opera can be produced superlatively well, it will not be presented at all. In other words, if sufficient funds can not be raised to do the thing properly, opera must be omitted.

Radio audiences can look forward confidently to hearing from this Festival great music well performed.

Carlos Chavez: His compulsion to translate native spirit in terms of music started creative musical culture in Mexico

Solution to Puzzle Given Last Week

What kind of man was this Shakespeare, this "great dramatist" for whose works such reverence is shown in this day and age, more than 300 years after his death? Commonly he's thought of as a high-browed dreamer, a man who lived apart from the world of everyday affairs, a poet who dreamed in an ivory tower and wrote plays in six-syllable words. Nothing could be farther from the truth! It's on the record that the great Shakespeare liked a tankard of ale, and another one after the first was gone. He had a discerning eye for the pretty wenches of the gay, free times in which he lived. His early life was a boisterous, happy one, and there was little to distinguish him from any other youth of his age. He didn't finish school; he was arrested at least once (for killing a deer on a game preserve, so runs the tradition) and he ran away from home to make his fortune. He believed in living for the present—and he wrote plays that will live forever!

Shakespeare was born in Stratford-on-Avon in Warwick County in England, probably in April, of the year 1564. His father was a retired farmer, owner of a fairly prosperous business. His mother was of an old family of the district. William was third in a family of four sons and four daughters.

WHEN he was seven, he entered the local grade school, began the study of Latin, writing and arithmetic. Little else was taught, and that much made small impression on the future poet. Like all schoolboys from time immemorial, he hated Latin, and promptly forgot it as soon as he could. Later in his life, when he had become famous, it was said of him that he had "small Latin and less Greek." It didn't bother Shakespeare, even when critics pointed out that his use of those languages in occasional quotations in his plays was all wrong.

Young Shakespeare stayed in school just seven years—until he was fourteen. He walked out then, and stayed out. That was the end of his formal education. He didn't go to high school, he didn't go to college. In fact, nobody knows what he did do!

Most young men begin to "feel their oats" when they leave the teen years, and William Shakespeare was no exception. At twenty, he was restless and foot-loose. Besides, he was a man of some responsibility. He'd married a childhood sweetheart, Anne Hathaway, a year or so before, and he began to look longingly toward London, the greatest city in the world, and to dream of fame and fortune. And one day he left Stratford! The year, as far as we know, was 1585.

JUST as much as anyone of his time or ours, Shakespeare was a self-made man. He wandered into London, a gawky youth fresh from the country, amazed at the wonders of the city, and began to look for a job. He didn't know anyone, he had no letters of introduction, he was lost in a wilderness of crooked streets and tall buildings. But he did know the kind of job he wanted—something connected with the theater—and he got it: he was hired to stand in front of one of the great theatrical houses of the time and hold horses! In other words, he was a doorman! Few playwrights of our time have begun their careers in so humble a capacity. Later on he was "promoted." He wouldn't stay away from the theater, he was forever sneaking into the wings, in the mornings, pestering, begging for a chance to do something really important. He was given a job as "prompter's attendant"—that is, call-boy. His job was to run around to the dressing-rooms of the stars, tell them. "You're on next!"

Time given is CST; for MST subtract one hour. Short-wave programs of American stations are shown along with the regular listings beginning on page 27. These are indicated, for example, by (sw-11.87) in parentheses following a program listing. This means that on 11.87 megacycles the same program may also be heard over an American short-wave station. Please note that foreign stations do not always adhere precisely to their announced program schedules.

BY CHAS. A. MORRISON, president, INTERNATIONAL DX-ER'S ALLIANCE

(Figures in Parentheses Are Megacycles)

THE North American program from Moscow heard daily from 7 to 9 p.m. EST (6 to 8 p.m. CST) is now being radiated by RKI (15.038), as well as by the regular transmitter RAN (9.6). The new summer frequency is very well received at present. Some interesting program material in connection with the establishment of the Soviet air base at the North Pole has been featured recently.

Roy Waite of Ballston Spa, New York, has received a letter from Martinique, West Indies, which states that Radio Fort-de-France is operating on 9.45 megs, daily from 11 a.m. to 12 noon and from 5 to 6 p.m. EST (10 to 11 a.m. and 4 to 5 p.m. CST).

Reference in this column several weeks ago to a mysterious South African station broadcasting on 11.718 megs and giving the address as P. O. Box 1409, Johannesburg, is explained in a letter from Arthur Emerton of Cape Town, South Africa, in which he notes that CR7BH (11.718) of Lour-enco Marques, Mozambique, broadcasts a program on Sundays at 11 a.m. EST (10 a.m. CST) consisting of a competition sponsored by the General Electric Company of Johannesburg and for which all entries are to be forwarded to P. O. Box 1409.

Claude Jones of Portsmouth, England, reports that FVA of Alger, Algeria, is testing on 12.12 and 8.96 megs almost every afternoon. Recordings of "Ramona" and "Paree" are used frequently. The quality is decidedly poor.

Earl Roberts of Indianapolis informs me that NZW (6.51), the Naval Air Base station at Norfolk, Va., works planes every clear day from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. EST (4:30 to 5:30 p.m. CST). Reports are solicited.

The German short-wave stations will assist in celebrating our Fourth of July by presenting a variety program of music and talks adapted to the occasion. The show will start at 9:30 p.m. EST (8:30 p.m. CST) on July 4.

ROLF GEORGE, of New Orleans, La., echoes my feeling that too many South American short-wave stations are featuring American phonograph recordings or electrical transcriptions to the exclusion of the captivating native rumbas, paso doubles, tangos or cariocas. Exceptions to this rule are the Cuban stations, which can be counted upon for frequent programs of toe-tingling Latin melodies played in the true Spanish style with all of the trimmings.

KKP (16.03) of Kahuku, Hawaii, will soon add Tokyo, Japan, as a point of communication.

Clyde Criswell of Mission Ranch, Ariz., who has become well known for his unusual reception of ultra-high-frequency stations from long distances, states that his latest verification confirms his pick-up of the 15-watt mobile transmitter W4XB, Miami, Fla. The station, powered by a gasoline generator and mounted in a light motor truck, used a short vertical copper rod antenna. Mr. Scott, the chief engineer at W4XB, said "here we were, trying to pick up a signal ten miles away, and you were enjoying perfect reception 2,000 miles away!"

The latest schedule of HJ1ABE (9.5) of Cartagena, Colombia, is daily except Sundays from 6:45 a.m. to 6 p.m. EST (5:45 a.m. to 5 p.m. CST) and from 8 to 10:30 p.m. EST (7 to 9:30 p.m. CST). The management of the station would like listeners to send them old radio magazines. Address P. O. Box 31.

THE Chicago Short Wave Radio Club reports new stations as follows: YV6RC, at Bolivar, Venezuela, varying in frequency from 6.414 to 6.418 megs, and HC1EC at Quito, Ecuador, heard testing on 8.6 megs. . . . Lieut. George Williams, English news commentator at HP5J, is to have charge of the newscasts at the new Panama station HP5A, "La Voz del Istmo," when completed. His spots will be daily at 11:40 a.m. EST (10:40 a.m. CST) and 5:40 p.m. EST (4:40 p.m. CST) and he will work in the radio theater studio of the new station. . . . XEUW, "Auditorio del Continente," Vera Cruz, Mexico, has been operating irregularly on a new frequency of 8.63 megs. Whether or not this is to be permanent is unknown.

One of the longest radiophoto transmission circuits in the world has just been opened between Moscow and Khabarovsk in the U.S.S.R. A similar circuit connects Moscow and Tashkent.

G. P. Burdett, of Monze, Northern Rhodesia, writes that the call letters of the Mafeking, Bechuanaland, station, are ZMB and not ZNB as previously stated.

The July schedule of transmissions for VK2ME (9.59), Sydney, Australia, is Saturdays from 12 mid. to 2 a.m. EST (11 p.m. to 1 a.m. CST) and Sundays from 4:30 to 8:30 a.m. EST (3:30 to 7:30 a.m. CST) and 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. EST (10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. CST).

LOUIS AMBROSIUS of Louisville, Ky., writes that Nazaki, Japan, stations JZK (15.16) and JZJ (11.8) have been conducting some special tests from 8 to 9 p.m. EST (7 to 8 p.m. CST). These transmissions were especially directed to the Atlantic seacoast listeners and reports of reception were requested. This may foretell a change in time for the overseas program for the East Coast now radiated daily from 4 to 5 p.m. EST (3 to 4 p.m. CST).

According to a verification from VK6ME (9.59), Perth, West Australia, received by Carl Eder of Willmar, Minn., this station is now radiating a power of 5,000 watts. The hours are daily except Sundays from 6 to 8 a.m. EST (5 to 7 a.m. CST).

E. H. Clark of Hollister, Calif., reports hearing KZRM, "Radio Manila," of Manila, Philippines, on 11.83 megs on Friday, June 18, from 7:15 to 9 a.m. EST (6:15 to 8 a.m. CST). The broadcast was in the nature of a special program sponsored by a new theater.

BROADWAY'S BIGGEST NIGHT CLUB—THE FRENCH CASINO

1 Taking a cab, Bob Hope, "Rippling Rhythm" m.c., & wife, Delores, drove 20 blocks, arrived at the French Casino, 7th Ave. & 50th St.

2 Bob checks his hat at the Casino cloak-room. He wears a tuxedo; his wife, a black-lace evening gown, a silver-fox furpiece

3 The Casino's captain of waiters escorts Bob (center) and his wife down the thickly carpeted aisle, takes them to their table-for-two

4 The flower girl comes to the Hope table. Delores selects a gardenia, Bob pays for it. Gardenias cost from $1.50 to $2 at the Casino

5 Bob orders dinner for two—"Le Diner Continental." The Hopes' main course is veal. Dinner at the Casino costs two-fifty per person

6 Before dinner the Hopes have dry Martinis. The Casino spends $5,000 a week to sate customers' thirst; $10,000 a week for food

FREQUENTLY heard on the air are the dance bands playing at New York's French Casino, the largest of Broadway's niteries. For that reason RADIO GUIDE takes you—in the second of its candid picture tours—behind the scenes, shows you the French Casino from the inside, where 1,750 people can be seated comfortably at tables in the dining-room. (Once 2,900 were present—the Casino's biggest crowd!) Among the big-time radio-famous guest-bands that have entertained here have been those of Rudy Vallee and Jack Denny. To serve the thousands who come here to eat, to be entertained, the Casino spends $15,000 a week on food and drink, uses 371 of its 516 employees to serve its hungry, thirsty customers—and the rest to check coats, cloaks, hats, to sell cigarettes, to supervise, do odd jobs, entertain. "World's most expensive" is the slogan for the Casino night-club productions. First production cost of nine prolog scenes, papier-mache work, Greek Temple pediment, Under-sea Ballet, and fur number exceeded $150,000. The show is presented on a revolving platform. Musical director is Vincent Travers, one-time child violin prodigy, now famed recording artist

7 After dinner, the Hopes dance, stop to chat with Casino Musical Director Vincent Travers. Vincent has been at the Casino for two years

8 After dining, drinking, dancing, Bob Hope pays the check—a big one. Out of such checks come salaries for the 516 employes

9 Between 49th and 50th Streets on 7th Avenue is the brightly lighted marquee of the French Casino. This building was Earl Carroll's pride-and-joy, was constructed by him in pre-depression boom days to house his "Vanities"

10 Bright spots of the Casino are its two bars—one located in the cocktail lounge, the other in the inner lobby on the main floor. Above: Feet on bar rail

12 Above: After the curtain has been lowered on one act, the girls rush offstage, go downstairs, hurriedly change costumes for the next act while the scenes are being shifted 13 Nine prolog scenes introduce the nightly floor shows at the Casino. Each of the nine is shown for only 32 seconds. It takes 13 minutes to present the nine scenes—less than five minutes of actual stage performance!

15 Goddess of Moderation, a five-foot statue in bronze, stands at one end of the cocktail lounge—overlooks the bar—is sometimes overlooked by those at the bar!

16 Twice nightly this jungle-elephant number is presented to awed spectators. Visiting butter-and-egg men, suave sophisticates alike are much impressed by it!

After Earl Carroll's "Vanities" left the building, the owners decided to construct the unique night club which now occupies the premises—the French Casino. Tables are situated not only on the main floor but in the large ultra-modernistically designed balcony 17 Scenes from many foreign lands are presented; here an Arabian harem—with real Arabians! Huge sums are spent to make Casino shows perfect, casts authentic. $25,000 was paid once for bringing a Follies troupe from Paris!

18 Set in the walls of the cocktail salon are glass-enclosed displays of caricature figurines, created by Artist Russell Patterson, called by him "Personettes." There is also a marionette show in this salon enjoyed by patrons

MY DEODORANT GETS GREASE ALL OVER ME AND MY CLOTHES!

YOU MUST TRY THE NEW NON-GREASY ODORONO ICE — IT DISAPPEARS

New NON-GREASY CREAM VANISHES INSTANTLY AND CHECKS PERSPIRATION!

Now, at last, there is a cream deodorant that is absolutely non-greasy. And checks perspiration immediately!

Odorono Ice is miraculous! Exactly what women have been waiting for! Just apply Odorono Ice with your finger tips, night or morning. In no time, it is completely absorbed, leaving no grease to make your underarm or your clothes messy.

A single application keeps your underarm odorless and perfectly dry for 1 to 3 days! And Odorono Ice leaves no odor of its own to betray you to other people. Its own clean, fresh odor of pure alcohol disappears at once.

Odorono Ice is made on a totally new principle. Its light, melting texture is entirely different—refreshing and cooling on your skin. And unlike ordinary creams, it frees you not only from odor, but from all dampness.

This means you need never again worry about ruining your lovely frocks. You'll save on both clothes and cleaner's bills.

Odorono Ice is so easy and pleasant to use, so dainty and so wonderfully effective that 80 per cent of the women who have tried it prefer it to any other deodorant they have ever used! Buy a jar tomorrow and end the unpleasantness of underarm perspiration forever! 35¢ at all Toilet-Goods Departments.

AL PEARCE TAKES FISHING IN THE
WITH FISH STORI

The Coronado Islands, four uninhabited points of rock, lie in the Pacific, 20 miles off San Diego. South of the California boundary, however, they belong to Mexico—and the waters surrounding them—shown above—are famous for salt-water fishing. There Al Pearce and a party recently fished

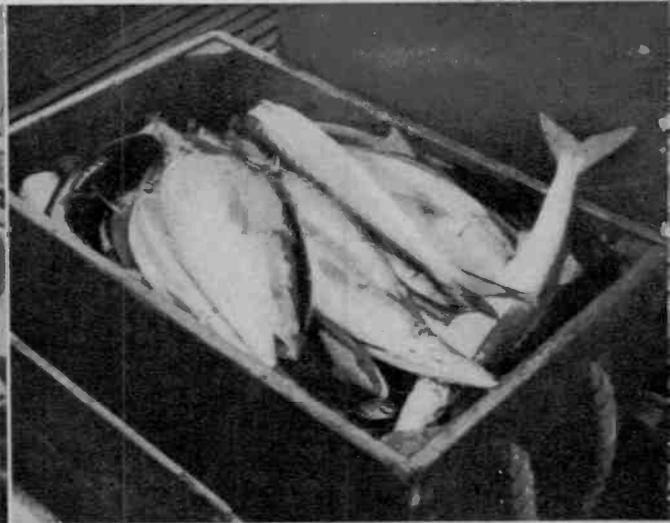

This is the boat which the party hired for the trip. Such boats rent for $25 a person. Included in the party were Al Pearce, m. c. of "Watch the Fun Go By," Al Nelson, manager of KOA, Denver, his wife, his son (above), Bandleader Jay Elsick

Many kinds of fish are caught in these waters. This party caught Yellow Tails, Blue Fin Tuna, Marlins. Usually the rod used is 7 feet long, the reel about 4½ inches wide, 4½ inches across—though tackle is a matter of personal choice in most cases. Here a Yellow Tail has been gaffed

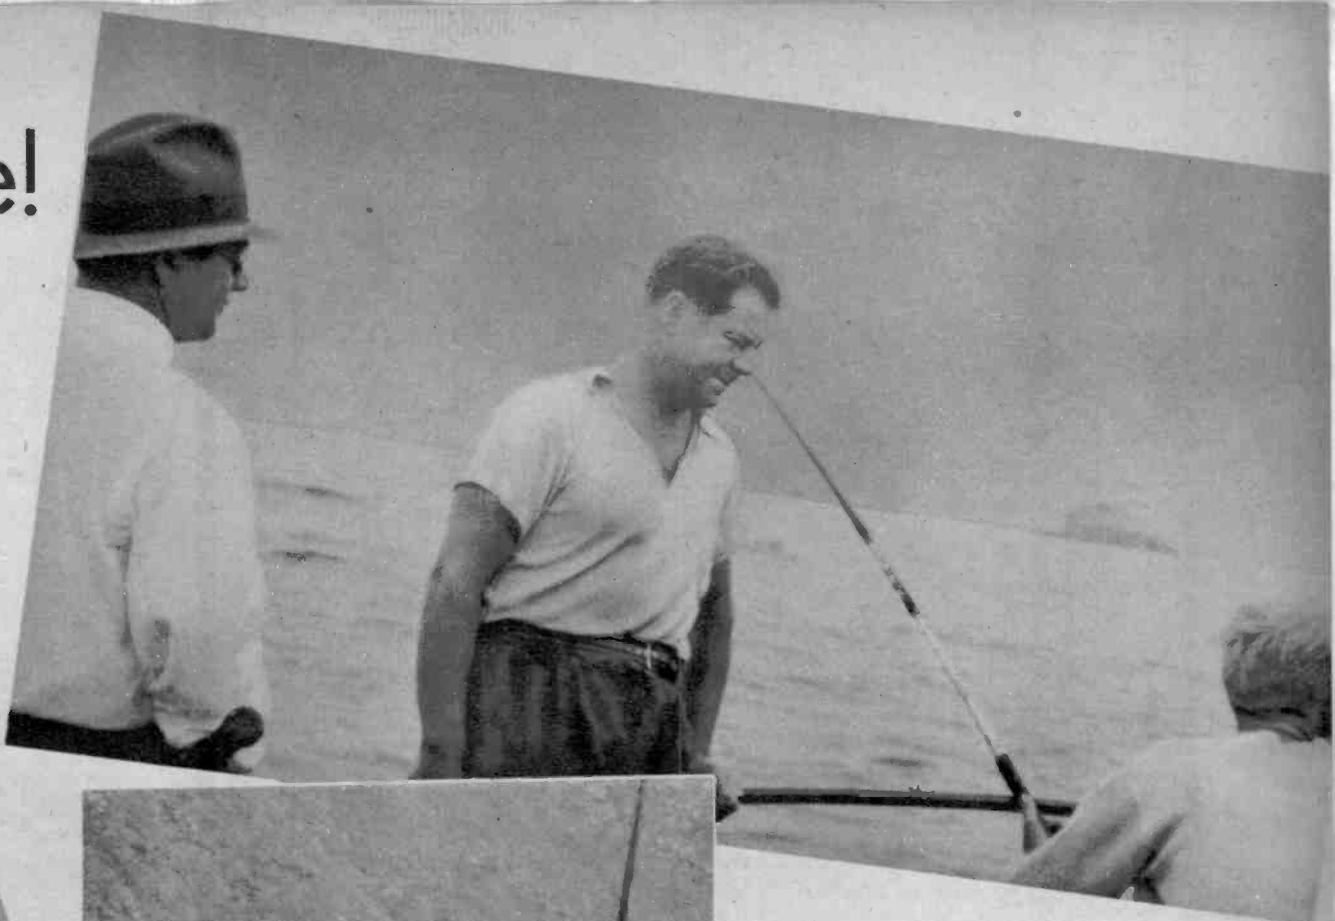

Yellow Tails usually are caught by throwing a lot of smelt overboard. This lures them from below—and when they're near the surface they'll strike at almost any bait. Blue Fin Tuna often are caught the same way, though they can also be taken by using Marlin bait if it's not too big

Marlin are taken by trolling. Usually flying fish are used, or strips of Bonita belly cut to look like them. Small Bonita and Japanese feather baits, consisting of a cluster of six-inch feathers, also are effective. Pictured above you see the Yellow Tails and Tuna caught

With Al Pearce!

PACIFIC — RETURNS
ES — AND RESULTS!

Before entering radio, Al was a milkman, cook, waiter, bandleader, gas-meter reader, diamond merchant, roofing salesman, real-estate dealer! He began his career amusing the boys in a barber shop, realized in 1929 his entertainment suited radio. Now he has a waiting-list of sponsors! Here he's with Elsie (left), Junior Nelson

Al first began in radio with his brother, Cal. Their duo went over big—so Al formed his gang—set a new record on the West Coast for fan mail!

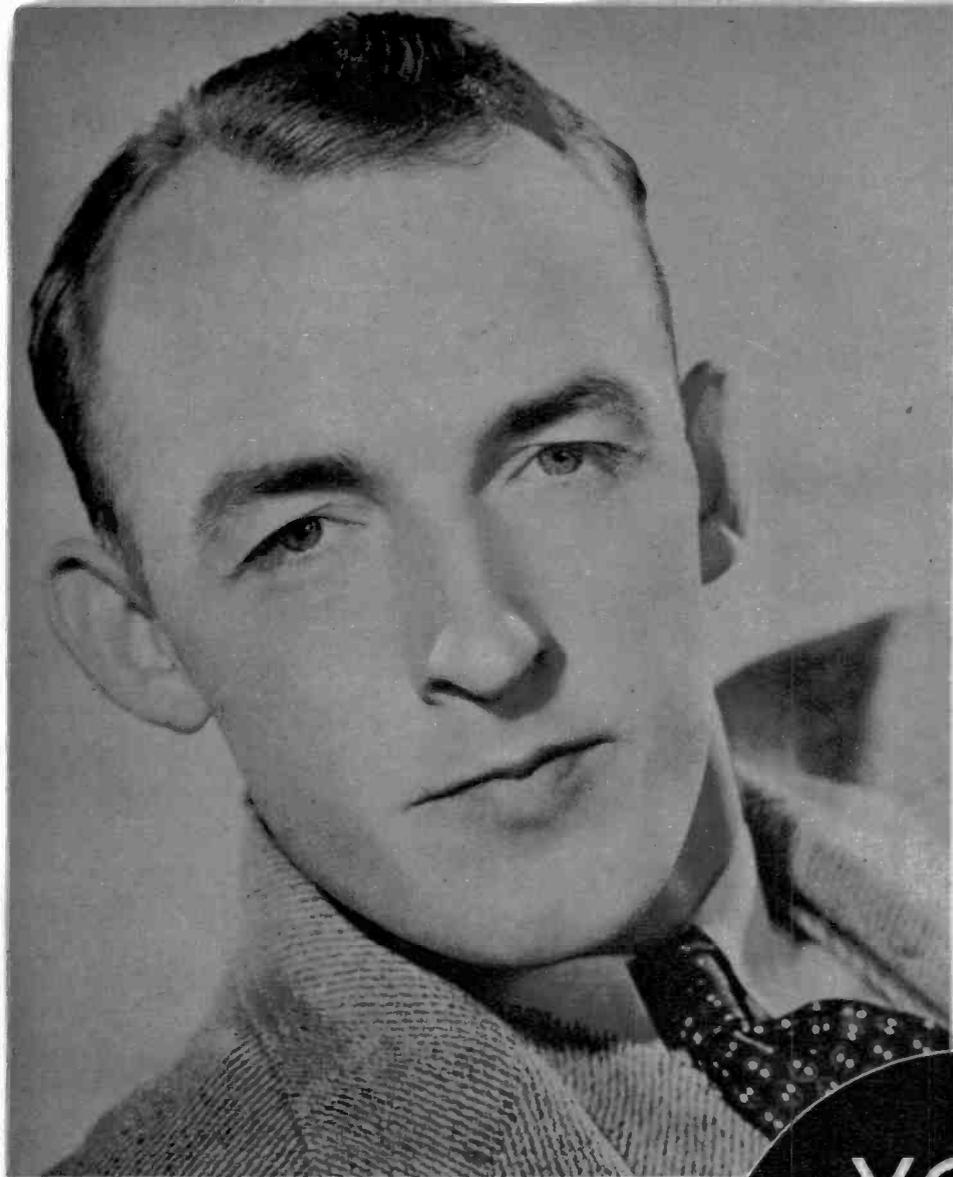

Al doesn't look high-strung—but he is. He continually tears up paper—even tore up his pay-check once! Above: He watches Mrs. Nelson hook one Al dresses one of his catch. Notice the hose to the left, needed for washing away the scales. Tunas are the most uncertain and erratic of all fishes. They travel all over the world. In the Atlantic they run up to 1,000 lbs. Blue Fins off the Coronado Islands run from 5 to 150 lbs.

About to be gaffed, this Yellow Tail broke water, jerked the rod from Al's hand, pulled it into the water! Yellow Tails look much like tunas, are often sold as such. Swift, powerful fighters, they travel in small groups. They also are migratory—come in April, disappear in December

These two Marlins, taken by Al, weighed 167 lbs. and 196 lbs., required nearly 3 hours to land. Marlins are spectacular, fighting fish, often attack boats, occasionally damage them badly. Stan Laurel caught a 252-lb. Marlin off Catalina last August, the record catch there at that time!

Showman Roxy discovered Baritone Ross Graham, brought him from Arkansas to New York and successfully placed him on the Friday night NBC Concert Hour. From day laborer to star of the same company—that's 29-year-old Ross' success story

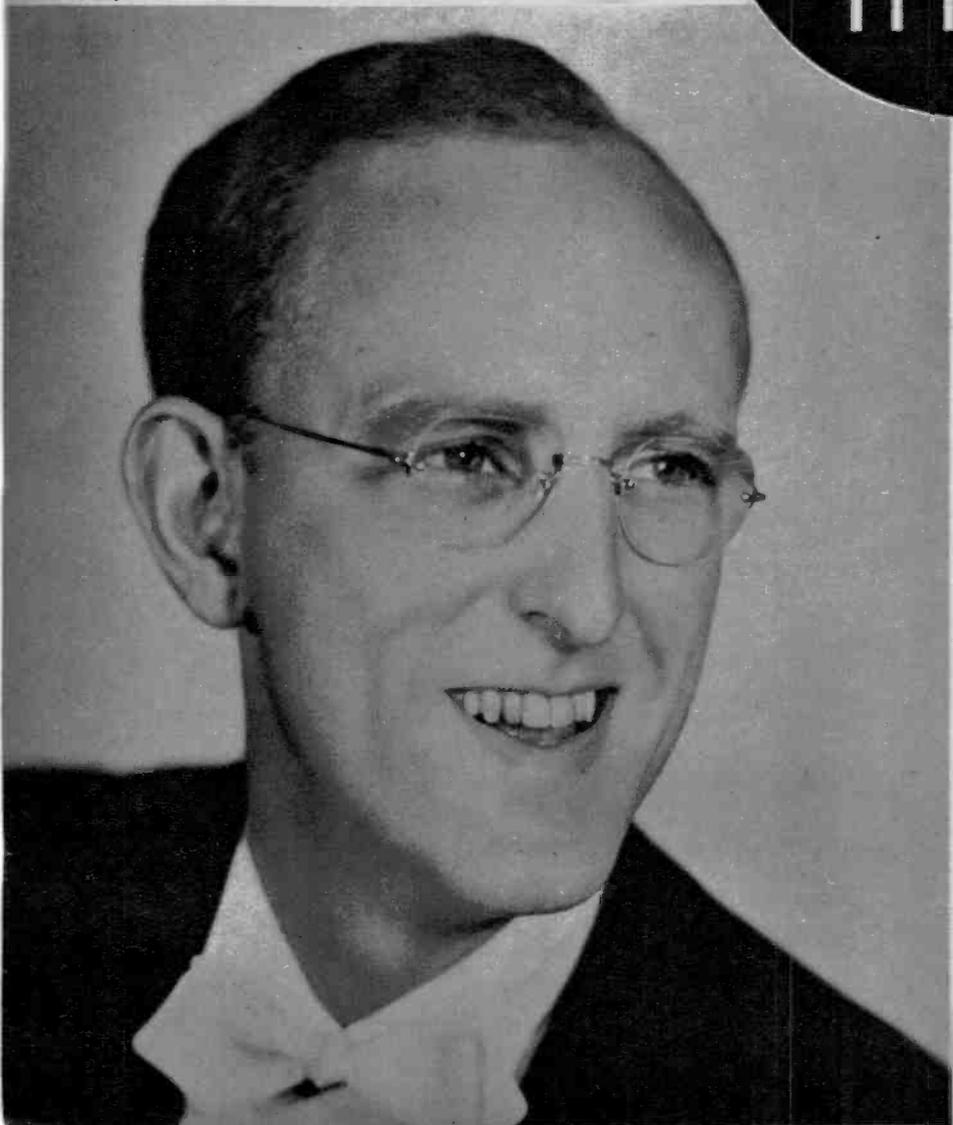

When lanky Maestro Kay Kyser draws a southern greeting over Mutual on the Sunday "Surprise Party," it's the signal for listeners to do a bit of fancy dancing to the rhythms of his unique band. Kay's 5-foot-9, weighs 140, always wears glasses

Charming Irene Rich of screen and stage fame, and now a top-notch radio star. You hear her in dramatic sketches on Friday nights. She's been married 3 times, has 2 daughters, and proudly admits she's 46. Her hobby's a place in the country

Even-tempered Prima Donna Sylvia Cyde—she has no strong likes or dislikes! She devotes her entire time to music, and her repertoire includes operatic, concert, sacred and popular numbers. You hear her lovely lyric voice several times weekly over Mutual

Twenty-three-year-old NBC Mezzo-Soprano Carol Weymann's real name is Emily Marie Weyman. She started her singing career in a Philadelphia night club and plays the piano as well as sings. Carol has a brother who's a lawyer. Likes: Athletics

Nora Stirling, dynamic CBS fact-finder, divulges "Funny Things" about stamps every Friday. She used to be "Mary" of "Mary and Bob," was born in Atlanta, Ga., and is the daughter of a Scottish physician. Nora's 5-feet-2, weighs 107—writes a lot

Walter O'Keefe, popular song-writer, singer and m.c., is replacing Fred Allen on the "Town Hall" show. Walter's been in radio since 1930, lives on Fifth Avenue and is married to Former Actress Roberta Robinson. Reads inveterately, often in taxis

Baritone Reed Kennedy of CBS' "Magazine of the Air." Reed was a businessman who took up singing as a hobby, made a guest appearance with the Pittsburgh Symphony and became instantly established as a radio star. He's married, has four sons

SINGING MERMAID

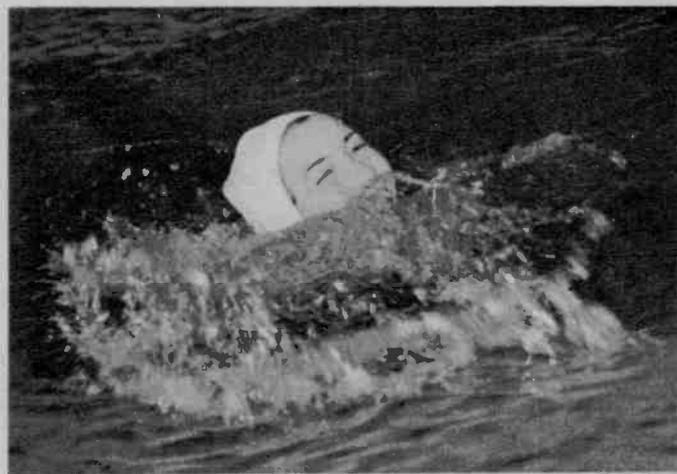

FOR DURELLE ALEXANDER THERE'S NO LOVE VS. CAREER QUESTION—SHE'LL HAVE BOTH!

Durelle Alexander, who achieved fame as Paul Whiteman's vocalist, was born in Texas, is five feet tall, weighs 98 lbs., has blue eyes, brown hair. Here she is, about to dive into the pool at New York's Park Central Hotel...

... But not without the aid of Swimming Instructor Philip Urkowitz! 21-year-old Philip is 5 feet, 11 inches tall, weighs 175 lbs., has brown eyes, brown hair. In high school he was captain of the swimming team

Durelle danced on the stage for nearly ten years, was basketball captain in high school. Her athletic aptitude is apparent in the pool

Phil explains there are four kicks to each stroke—but first she must master the use of the arms. Here he's showing her how to get maximum pull from the downward stroke

Durelle floats easily—but only in the water! She has charted her course, is determined to become a leading stage star in musical comedy or in dramatics—then retire in time to enjoy a home, husband, children!

Final Instructions in kicking—to a girl who was on the stage at 5! She entered an amateur contest then, un-instructed in singing or dancing—won! Now she is singing at the Exposition in Dallas, is under CBS contract Tschaikowsky's Symphony No. 4, the first of his three most famous symphonies, and the orchestral poem "On the Steppes of Central Asia" by Tschaikowsky's contemporary Borodin, are to be played by Howard Barlow and the Columbia Symphony in today's "Everybody's Music" program. Inasmuch as Tschaikowsky wrote principally under German influence and Borodin belonged to a strongly nationalist Russian group, the program is interesting as a contrasting study of the musical expression of the period.

Werner Janssen, American-born symphonic conductor, will present his own program of popular music in this new series, replacing Robert Ripley and Ozzie Nelson. Janssen has made radio fame recently as musical director of the Chase and Sanborn program starring Don Ameche, W. C. Fields and Edga Bergen. It was his first American radio series. In this, his own series, Janssen will augment his present orchestra of thirty-five pieces.

To the popular music of the day, he will lend interpretations that made his name well known in Europe before he returned to America and built up a reputation as a symphonic conductor. Janssen was the first native New Yorker ever to conduct the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra.

"Willow Plate," the incidental music suite which Victor Herbert wrote for a Chinese marionette show by Tony Sarge, will be featured by Howard Barlow and the Columbia Symphony on the "Pop" Concert today. "Willow Plate" is in four parts entitled, "In the Mandarin's Garden," "Change the Love," "Kong-Siu," and "Wedding March." Barlow is to open the concert with Dvorak's "Carnival" Overture. This will be followed by the "Valse Triste" of Schubert and the broadcast completed with Strauss' "Beautiful Blue Danube."

Heralding the return next Thursday of the Show Boat program to the gulling band of Charlie (Captain Henry) Winninger, that individual once again will hold the radio spotlight prior to the launching of the Show Boat in Hollywood. Winninger will be Burns' and Allen's guest of the evening. Grace undoubtedly will try her dizzy questions on the Captain. The program will be augmented by the singing of Tony Martin and the orchestral accompaniment of Ray Noble.

The musical guessing game recently inaugurated by Horace Heidt's Brigadiers, in which listeners attempt to identify bands imitated by the instrumentalists, will be continued as the feature of tonight's broadcast. A second highlight will be a new and unusual form of "Twin-light in Turkey," a swing creation of Raymond Scott, CBS composer. Other selections include "I'm the Drummer," "Bill the Clock Strikes Three," "Flight of the Humblebee," "Villia" and "The Old Refrain," the last with Larry Cotton, tenor.

ASK MR. FAIRFAX

To obtain information regarding the winner of the Smith vs. Jones SPELLING BEE which was aired recently, I suggest you direct your query to the National Broadcasting Company's studios in New York City.—M. E. A., Indianapolis, Ind.

GUY LOMBARDO is now airing sustaining pick-ups via the MBS network every Wednesday at 12 midnight EDT (11 p.m. EST or CDT; 10 p.m. CST; 9 p.m. MST; 8 p.m. PST) and Thursday evening at 8:30 p.m. EDT (7:30 p.m. EST or CDT; 6:30 p.m. CST). These broadcasts are emanating from the Starlight Roof of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York City. Write direct to ANNE JAMISON, CBS Studios, Hollywood, Calif., for the title of the song which you asked about.—B. J. K., Wheeling, W. Va.

You must give the young MUTUAL NET-WORK a bit of time to compete with the number of programs offered by the older and larger networks. As it is, the MBS offerings are of fine quality and they now go Coast to Coast.—L. C., St. Louis, Mo.

RICHARD MAXWELL was born September 12,
1898. He hails from Mansfield, O.—Mrs. E. A.
C., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Write to the publicity offices of the larger network and stations over which you hear your orchestra favorites and they MIGHT be able to give you detail information on how to obtain pictures of the bandleaders and what prices are charged for the photos. Very few leaders give away or sell photos.—B. L., Athens, Ga.

You'll enjoy the philosophy and quaint humor of this old man with young ideas. One of the best loved characters in radio, in a program that's DIFFERENT.
Never a dull minute. The Hoosier Hot

Singing Steno

A few short years ago, Lucille Manners was a hard-working stenographer with singing ambitions. She saved all her money for voice lessons, practised an hour each day before going to work—and today she is soloist on her own sponsored program! In response to numerous requests, RADIO GUIDE presents a gallery portrait of this lovely star in the next issue. Watch for it!

 "The Curlew," the poem of Yeats as set to music by the famous English composer Peter Warlock, will be performed as a leading feature of Columbia's "Story of a Song" series which today begins a July schedule of four Tuesday broadcasts at this hour. "The Curlew" is written for voice and string quartet with flute and English horn. It will be conducted by Bernard Herrmann with Charles Hayward, tenor, as soloist. Herrmann gave the American premiere of the work last year at the New School for Social Research in New York.

With his cheery "Howdy" and "It's only the beginning!", Captain Henry, played by Charles Winger, brings his original radio Show Boat back to the airways with Hollywood as its home port. Assisting Captain Henry in the new series will be Jack Haley, veteran picture comedian who recently made such a hit in "Wake Up and Live," and his girl stogie, Patricia Wilder. Warren Hull, of Broadway musical comedy fame, will announce the show and act as Haley's straight man. Additional members of the crew will be Virginia Verrill, young blues singer; Thomas L. Thomas, baritone, and Nadine Conner, soprano. The orchestra support will be supplied by Meredith Willson.

Opera from Cincinnati's famous Zoological Gardens, with leading artists of the Metropolitan Opera in the principal roles, has been scheduled for a series of six summer broadcasts of which this is the first. Brunna Castagna, Carlo Morelli, Leon Rothler, Norman Cordon, and John Gurney will be among the renowned singers from the Metropolitan to take part in the operatic festival. Officials of the Cincinnati Summer Opera Association have also announced that several eminent European artists will be heard. The schedule of operas has not yet been fixed, but it will include revivals of several works missing from the repertoires of principal American companies in recent years, including Wolf-Ferri's "The Secret of Suzanne" and Massenet's "Thais." Fausto Cleva, of the Metropolitan Opera, will be one of the conductors.

★ CBS-Concert Hall; Jacques Jolas, pianist: WKBB KMOX WOC WFAM WTAQ (sw-11.83)
Jacques Jolas, brilliant American concert pianist, will be presented by CBS in this new series of weekly broadcasts entitled "Bases of Piano Literature." Jolas is associated with the Juilliard Foundation in New York as director of music extension, and during the past season has headed the music school of Cornell College, Mt. Vernon, Iowa. His first program will be devoted to eight of the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Century, beginning with two compositions of Couperin: "Bouquet Flotant" and "Moulin a Vent." Then Jolas is to play Rameau's "Egyptian Maiden", the Toccata of Pasquini; a Gigue by Graun; "King's Hunting Jig" by John Bull, and the Largo and Presto from Galluppi's D Major Sonata.

Tonight's circumstantial evidence drama concerns the unhappy story of Bob Henthorn, late deputy sheriff of Cole, Ariz., who became noted for his excellent police work. Henthorn had a wife and baby, but the wife tired of waiting home night after night for him to come from his work, so she took the baby and ran away. An amazing coincidence years later caused a terrible tragedy in Henthorn's life.

Boake Carter
says: "My throat decided on Luckies"

"SMOKING is one of the greatest pleasures in the world, but it can be utterly spoiled by throat irritation. My job's tough on the throat and I have to be careful to keep my voice clear. Long ago I found that Luckies are easy and smooth and don't catch your throat."

Boake Carter

Notice how many professional men and women — lawyers, doctors, statesmen, etc., smoke Luckies. See how many leading artists of radio, stage, screen and opera prefer them. Their voices are their fortunes. Doesn't it follow that, if Luckies are gentle on their sensitive throats, they will be gentle on your throat, too? So enjoy the throat protection of a light smoke that is free of certain irritants expelled by the exclusive "Toasting" Process.
