Medal of Merit

A Weekly Award for Excellence in Broadcasting

AWARDED TO MICKEY MOUSE AND HIS THEATER OF THE AIR

FOR six years that jaunty little gentleman, M. Mouse, has been bringing smiles and hearty laughs to millions of movie patrons and devotees of the comic strips. Now he comes in voice directly into the homes of radio listeners to enliven their Sunday afternoons.

In bringing Mickey, his lady-love, Minnie, and all the gang to radio, Walt Disney has added another leaf to his crown of laurel, for wiseacres said it couldn't be done. They said Mickey would be a flop on the air. But this was a good omen, for Disney was strongly advised against ever creating Mickey in the first place, branching into Technicolor, or even creating a feature-length picture. Doubting Thomases said women were afraid of mice, that both sound and color were just fads, and that audiences wouldn't sit through eighty minutes of an animated feature. However, the grand reception accorded "The Three Little Pigs" and the new "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" proved beyond all doubt that people would sit through it and like it.

A native of Chicago, Disney found the study of art a troublesome problem in his youth. He possessed a technique that was not readily understandable to art teachers, and it was not until he had left his native city and settled in Kansas City that Mickey was born. It was there that the first Mickey Mouse movie was created. The original of Mickey was a little fellow who visited Disney in his studio, a friendly sort of creature which almost became a pet before he vanished from the cartoonist's life. Incidentally, the working staff of the Disney studios for that first cinema was Walt and his brother Roy. Today the Disney studios employ 600 persons.

For years many sponsors and advertising agencies have tempted Disney by whispering riches into his ears, but he shied clear of radio until January 2 of this year. Looking upon the venture as a new stimulus and challenge, it was then that Disney let Mickey, Minnie, Donald Duck, Pluto the Pup, the "Goof," and all Mickey's friends begin a new series for the Pepsodent Company. And Walt Disney once again confounded would-be prophets and experts.

Back of Donald and Minnie in their radio musical ventures is Felix Mills, directing his orchestra in true Disney style. In addition to the scores he has written for various programs and films, Mills has found time to compose suites and light symphonies.

Without reserve, grown-ups and children alike applaud the Mickey Mouse gang for bringing happiness to a tired public. All cheer NBC and the program for retaining the spirit of the cartoons and and Silly Symphonies. Because of this, Radio Guide, this week, joins with millions of fans in saluting Walt Disney by presenting to Mickey Mouse and his Theater of the Air the Radio Guide Medal of Merit.

HAPPY LISTENING

Vital Statistics

DO YOU know that Radio's Temple has 5,084 windows, 2,113,000 square feet of floor space, 74 elevators?—And who cares? Well, just a mere handful of 660,000 persons who every year wander into what our James Street chooses to call the modern Tower of Babel, the RCA Building in New York.

Radio Guide's roaming reporter has frequently been a curious visitor to this "palace of pounding brass and tinkling cymbals" and it holds a queer sort of fascination for him. He imparts some rather interesting observations about Radio City on pages 2 and 3.

Heroes

AGED John W. Amos recently gave his own eye in order to spare a 19-year-old hospital wardmate from the tragedy of a sightless life.—Julian McNeese of Decatur, Ala., swam through the freezing waters of a lake to summon aid for four friends "hopelessly" marooned in the middle.—Fireman Frank Lafencheck of Syracuse rescued every person in a burning building, and became a cripple for life in doing it.

Songbird of the South Kate Smith has a way of dealing with such individuals, and you're invited to participate. Turn to page 4 for complete details.

Fatherly Advice

FATHERS, as part of the responsibility which they have assumed, usually find themselves hard pressed when it comes time to explain to their adolescent sons the awakening consciousness of an approaching maturity which is evidencing itself in the mental and physical changes taking place in their sons.

In a recent broadcast of "One Man's Family," Writer Carlton E. Morse made one of the most outstanding contributions to radio when, with courageous skill, he handled such a personal sensitive problem which had become inevitable between the program's Henry Barbour and Henry's teen-age son, Jack.

Grateful parents have praised that broadcast and asked for copies of the script. Harold Higgins, who recently analyzed the Mae West-Charlie McCarthy broadcast for Radio Guide, this week turns his talents to a discussion of Mr. Morse's program, and on page 12 also presents the script which parents are still requesting of the program's sponsors. Every father—and every son—should read "Father and Son."

PREVIEWS OF SOME OF THE BETTER
REGULAR AND SPECIAL BROADCASTS

New show, "Alias Jimmy Valentine," features Actor Bert Lytell—Tuesday

SUNDAY, JANUARY 30

Jan Peerce
Mischa Violin . . . in concert

"Radio City Music Hall"—NBC, 12:45 p.m. EST.

Peerce, tenor, will sing Rossini's La Danza and Fourdrain's Carnival. The orchestra, with Violin conducting, will play Bach's Air for the G String, Elgar's Serenade, three MacDowell melodies, and the first American performance of Migot's Trois Guirlandes Sonores.

Horthy . . . across the sea

Admiral Horthy from Budapest—
CBS, 1:30 p.m. EST.

The Columbia Broadcasting System offers another international broadcast, with a talk by Admiral Horthy, regent of Hungary, coming from Budapest. Admiral Horthy will discuss conditions in Europe.

Andres Segovia . . . stringmaster

"Magazine of the Air"—CBS, 5 p.m. EST.

In 1928, Segovia gave his first New York recital in Town Hall, the first guitar recital ever given in New York. Since then, the amazing Spanish virtuoso has appeared throughout America, Europe and South America, has been hailed as "world's greatest guitarist." The rest of the program will contain a talk by Channing Pollock, solos by Tenor Morton Bowe and Mark Warnow's orchestral music.

John Carter . . . star overnight

"Chase and Sanborn Hour"—NBC, 8 p.m. EST.

Carter, an unknown tenor, replaces Nelson Eddy, who goes on concert tour. A native New Yorker and only twenty-five, Carter had his first singing-lesson a year and a half ago. Following an introduction by Eddy, he'll join the baritone in singing a duet.

Elisabeth Rethberg . . . for Ford

"Sunday Evening Hour"—CBS, 9 p.m. EST.

"World's Most Perfect Singer" is the inscription on a medal presented by the Guild of America's Vocal Teachers to Miss Rethberg. A superb dramatic soprano, she's been a "Met" member since 1922, hails from the mountainous regions separating Saxony and Bohemia.

For selections Miss Rethberg will sing, please see page 6.

MONDAY, JANUARY 31

Concert . . . all-Beethoven

"Coolidge String Quartet"—CBS, 3 p.m. EST.

The last of its series of six concerts devoted to Beethoven, the ensemble will present Beethoven's Opus 135 in F Major. Not only was the Opus 135, dated October, 1826, the great master's last quartet, but the last complete work he wrote before his death.

For a discussion of this program, please see page 6.

Rush Hughes . . . candid mikeman

"The Hughes Reel"—NBC, 4:30 p.m. EST.

Son of the well-known novelist, Rupert Hughes, and known for his West Coast comments, Rush will inaugurate a new Monday through Friday series of broadcasts, taking their cue from feature stories in newspapers. A wealth of research and background is the basis for his program.

Please turn to page 5 for complete details about this broadcast.

Idealists . . . South American intellect

"Brave New World"—CBS, 10:30 p.m. EST.

Entering a new chapter of pan-American history, that of early twentieth-century idealists, "Brave New World" presents in dramatic form the story of Rodo's book, "Ariel," as illustrative of the intellectual life in South America and of the struggle of youth to choose between materialism and idealism.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 1

Lupe Velez . . . visits Oakie

Jack Oakie Show—CBS, 9:30 p.m. EST.

Lupe, dynamic Mexican beauty, is well known to movie-goers. Famed for her tempestuous pranks and "love" battles with her hubby, Johnny Weissmuller, her fans are many, ardent. She'll be heard in a fast-moving sketch with Oakie and Stu Erwin.

Bert Lytell . . . in new series

"Alias Jimmy Valentine"—NBC, 9:30 p.m. EST.

When only twenty-two, Lytell took his own stock company on tour, and since then he has played in many stellar productions. Starring in "Alias Jimmy Valentine" in many stage performances, as well as on the screen, he feels wedded to this role. Says Lytell: "Once met, I challenge anyone to forget Lee Randall, alias 'Jimmy Valentine.' There is too much of every man in him, making it almost impossible for us not to accept his problems as our own."

"HOLLYWOOD HOTEL" STAR IS EDITH FELLOWES—THIS FRIDAY

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 2

Drinking Song . . . to national anthem

"Cavalcade of America"—CBS, 8 p.m. EST.

(For the West, 9 p.m. PST.)

The story of the writing of the Star Spangled Banner by Francis Scott Key, and its musical antecedents, will be dramatized on this week's "Cavalcade." Not only the events leading to the writing of the national anthem but the origin of the music from an old drinking song, will be dramatized.

Noted Guest Speakers . . . social hygiene

"National Social Hygiene Day"—
NBC, CBS, 10:45 p.m. EST.

Surgeon General Thomas Parran, General John J. Pershing, and Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, three of the outstanding figures in the American Social Hygiene Association's education campaign, will open a national drive for aid in a crusade on social diseases.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 3

Command Appearance . . . heroism reward

"Kate Smith's Hour"—CBS, 8 p.m. EST.
(For the West, 8:30 p.m. PST.)

A decision of King Solomon proportions is the determination of who performed the most noteworthy act of heroism in the true dramatizations presented on Kate Smith's program during January. But Kate's listeners cast their votes and the South's Songbird will make the result known on her program this week. Three heroes have been nominated.

For complete details about this broadcast, please turn to page 4.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 4

Dr. Frank Black . . . takes over

"Cities Service Concert"—NBC, 8 p.m. EST.

Rosario Bourdon, who has guided the musical destiny of this concert hour for almost eleven years, surrenders his baton this week to Dr. Frank Black. Black is known for his musical versatility, being equally at home before a vast symphony orchestra or a modern jazz band.

Complete details concerning this program may be found on page 4.

Edith Fellowes

Leo Carrillo . . . "Little Miss Roughneck"

"Hollywood Hotel"—CBS, 9 p.m. EST.

Featured Columbia Players Carrillo and Fellowes will be heard in a preview of that company's newest film. Of English-Scotch descent, Edith began her acting career as soon as she could walk. Carrillo is a descendant of the California dons. Ken Murray, Oswald and Marlyn Stuart rejoin the show.

Winifred Cecil . . . guest soprano

"The Songshop"—CBS, 10 p.m. EST.

Winifred Cecil, soprano who appeared in the musical comedy "Show Boat," will be the guest singer on "The Songshop" a day before leaving to fulfill an engagement at La Scala.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 5

Andrew Jackson . . . his life

"American Portraits Dramas"—NBC, 9:30 p.m. EST.

A cavalcade of the lives of men and women whose works have contributed most to America's greatness will be presented in this new series of biographical dramatizations. Life of Jackson, known to history as "Old Hickory," is the subject of the first drama.

Charles Hackett . . . American tenor

"Your Hit Parade"—CBS, 10 p.m. EST.

Hackett's reputation as one of the world's great operatic and concert tenors probably exceeds that of any other American. He is an especial favorite in Australia and South America, got his first singing job in Boston, where he sang in a church choir.

THE TOWER OF BABEL

BY JAMES STREET

BE A SIGHTSEER. VISIT AMERICA'S
NO. 1 ATTRACTION—RADIO CITY—WITH YOUR FAVORITE STORY-TELLER

While rambling as a roving correspondent for RADIO GUIDE, James Street is asked more about the RCA Building in New York than about any other point of interest. So here is his first-hand description of a routine tour through this modern marvel.—Editor.

HOLD your hats, neighbors, for here we go on a tour of the Tower of Babel, the Temple of Radio, a tabernacle of 5,804 windows, a palace of pounding brass and tinkling cymbals, where you see more folks in a day than live in Wheeling, W. Va., and are served by ushers who flash more gold braid than Germany's General Goering.

The RCA Building, which houses the National Broadcasting Company's main offices, stands one block from Manhattan's Great Blight Way and in the center of the Isle of Night Caprice. A reclining figure of Prometheus guards its Fifth Avenue entrance and spews water at you when you pass. In the winter-time, ice-skaters cavort around the feet of Prometheus. In the summer-time, honeymooners, visiting schoolteachers and blase New Yorkers loiter around Prometheus and marvel at the RCA Building, which looms to his back, seventy stories of sheer masonry, 836 feet of towering, impressive architecture.

THE most impressive entrance to the National Broadcasting Company is behind Prometheus, and the cost of the tour is forty cents, with no tips. Once inside the building, the guest takes an elevator. There are seventy-four elevators in the building and each operates at a speed of 1,400 feet a minute, or approximately one mile in four minutes if the elevators ran that high up. When you get on the elevators, be prepared for the sensation of your stomach rubbing your backbone and then lodging in your throat. The best way to offset this feeling is to swallow and breathe deeply. Do not hold your ears. It will make your head ache—and you are in enough headaches just in trying to understand all the things you see.

REMEMBER, the RCA Building is only part of the Rockefeller Center community, which occupies three city blocks from Forty-Eighth to Fifty-First Streets. The RCA Building is the boss of the community and has 2,113,000 square feet of floor space, of which the National Broadcasting Company occupies 400,000 square feet. A tenant population of 22,000 can be housed in the RCA Building. That's as many folks as live in Vicksburg, Miss. Last year nearly two-thirds of a million persons toured the NBC studios, so you're not the only one. The statistics show the company entertained 660,000 visitors, an increase of 100,000 over the preceding year, made possible mostly by the avalanche of Legionnaires at the national convention in September. Further in the statistical study you find that 2,188,598 persons have been behind the scenes at NBC since the tour division was created five years ago in 1933.

THE first time I visited the Tower of Babel, a little boy of nine years was sleeping on the rug, awaiting the beginning of the tour. With him were his grandparents, about seventy-five years of age. They lived in Kansas and insisted on telling everybody about it. A middle-aged lady with a gold lavalier also was in the party. She lived in Boston and did not insist on telling everybody about it. Other members of the tour included a school-teacher from Indiana and a housewife from Florida.

We all sat around the room sizing one another up till the usher appeared and introduced himself. He wore braid at his collar and epaulets on shoulders.

In a trained voice: "My name is Egan. I will be the guide on this tour. If there are any questions you want to ask, do not hesitate."

The little boy of four jumped to his feet and said, "My name is Tommy and I want to see Mr. Stoopnagle and Budd."

"I am sorry!" Mr. Egan was smiling to himself. "But Stoopnagle and Budd are heard over the Columbia Broadcasting System."

"Oh," said little Tommy, visibly downhearted.

His grandparents tried to shush him, but little Tommy would not shush.

"DO YUH reckon we're going to get our money's worth?" he asked his grandfather. That venerable gentleman smiled tolerantly at his grandson and knowingly at the usher. Mr. Egan was enjoying the situation.

Our guide led us to another elevator, in which we were whisked to the fourth floor. There we were escorted down a long corridor filled with glass cases; it looked like a museum. In each case was a relic of the "ancient days of radio."

We next were escorted to a small studio where a program was in progress. There were four musicians playing two flutes, a harpsichord and a piano. We sat behind a glass-fronted balcony. The windows looking into the studios were made of three-ply plate-glass. Some of the panes are too large to be removed for cleaning, so the two intervening air chambers are hermetically sealed.

TO COMPENSATE for the changes in the barometric pressure within the studios and to prevent the pressure from breaking the windows, a special system of valves was installed which automatically adjusts the hermetically sealed air-chambers to the same atmospheric pressure as the studio. Over the studio door were signs which said "Quiet Please" and "No Smoking." Within the studio were an announcer and a woman whose job was to turn the pages of music quietly. As the musicians played, the woman paced the floor and frequently made faces at the announcer. The announcer had a pipe in his mouth, but it wasn't lighted. The musicians played a long selection from Carmen while little Tommy yawned and the announcer buried himself in a newspaper.

WE NEXT were taken to a larger studio, in which the audience sits and takes part in a broadcast by applauding and laughing, each on signal. A designated person holds up a sign directing the audience to laugh or applaud as required. In this studio some of the larger programs are broadcast, such as Ripley's "Believe It or Not"

and the Metropolitan Auditions. The biggest studio can accommodate a 400-piece orchestra and has a seating capacity of 1,250.

There are thirty-five broadcasting studios in the building. But because of the wide spans necessary in building a group of large studios, it was impractical to superimpose a huge tower above such construction, so a portion of the RCA Building was roofed at the eleventh floor. In this section are housed the broadcasting studios, all broadcasting equipment, the air-conditioning, accommodations for guests, performers and broadcasting staff.

ALL of the thirty-five studios are built like boxes within boxes, or separate rooms within rooms, raised from the building floors by steel springs covered with felt. These studio walls and ceilings are constructed of several inches of rock-wool and a perforated asbestos-boardlike material to insulate the studios against unwanted noises. Eleven carloads of rock-wool were used to insulate these studios. Five carloads of fine woods for paneling the studios and reception rooms.

Mr. Egan rolled these facts off of his tongue like an old-fashioned medicine-show man. He obviously had rehearsed his speech over and over again, but when the lady from Boston asked exactly how a studio could be built as a separate room within a room, Mr. Egan smiled and explained that each studio actually is suspended from steel girders, hence has no vibration. Because the walls and ceilings are sound-proof, no noises can get into the studio, but all kinds of funny noises get out.

"COME with me," said Mr. Egan, "and I'll show you where some of the funny noises come from."

He took us down a labyrinth and stood us before a huge glass case and said, "Listen." And from out of the air, pounding and thumping like a charging army, there came a most weird noise.

"Now here," Mr. Egan explained, "is where and what happens when you hear the sound of a marching army over the air."

He showed us a large checkerboard-looking outfit with the spaces cut out and small pegs in the holes. By manipulating the board back and forth they produced the sound of marching feet.

"Now what is this?" he asked blithely, and crackled a bit of cellophane into a microphone, connected only to the reception-room for our benefit.

"That's bacon and eggs cooking," said little Tommy, and it sounded that way.

Then Mr. Egan slowly opened a dummy door that stood by the microphone. It gave off an eerie, creepy echo.

"That," he said, "is the sound-effect for the ghost walking. We have thirty types of doors."

"And just to think," said the housewife from Florida, "that I've been scared by those noises."

NEXT we were shown a radio tube four feet tall, through which radio sound-waves could be seen traveling. Those waves were green and wavering with voice and sound vibrations. Mr. Egan explained the vibrations of different letters as pronounced by different voices. He pronounced the word "Mississippi" to illustrate how the vibrations were influenced by hard and soft letters as he himself voiced them. He whistled, and the sound-waves leaped and fell—like a business chart. There are sound-effects for every conceivable noise, but most of them—as automobiles, airplanes and sirens—are on records, or transcriptions.

THE air-conditioning plant is Mr. Egan's pride and joy. It is built in sixty-four units, each self-controlled. The air is first washed by water and then chilled and taken throughout the studios and NBC offices by steam-pipes which heat it to seventy-two degrees. The air is sent out through sound-proof vents which prevent a hissing sound when the air is released. The vents are so completely sound-proof that you can holler into them and they will make no noise. Mr. Egan demonstrated this, and Mr. Egan is a good hollerer. Said Mr. Egan, quite proudly, "More water is used to cool this air in one day than you can drink in thirty years."

The lady from Kansas said she was willing to stay in the RCA Building to see if he was right.

Little Tommy made some remark about all of that water reminding him of Saturday night, and his grandmother frowned at his impudence.

"Well, it's all very wonderful," said the lady from Boston, "but where does all the power come from?"

Mr. Egan explained that the power that runs NBC is the same power that burns the lights in New York homes.

"But," said Mr. Egan, "we have enough storage batteries in the building to last us for two years, in case all other electric facilities fail."

SO THEN he directed us to the control-room, where the engineers sat before a huge black panel and regulated the pulse of the National Broadcasting Company's two networks, the Red and the Blue. The programs are arranged one week in advance, with red and blue cards to designate over which network the individual show is broadcast. A dozen teletypes are at the elbows of the engineers, and through these they can contact immediately all of the company's affiliated stations. These stations are linked by approximately 22,000 miles of special wire lines, so that a program originating in one city may be broadcast simultaneously by all affiliated stations.

NBC stations are so located that their broadcast programs may be heard in more than 22,500,000 homes in the United States, Canada, and Hawaii, and yet, strangely enough, the program you hear is not broadcast directly from the RCA Building although it may originate there. It is "piped" to your favorite NBC station over telephone lines, and this "small" matter requires more than 35,000 miles of wires to the network stations.

From the NBC studios in Radio City, 35,000 programs are broadcast annually. The NBC organization is composed of more than 1,500 men and women who never are heard over the air. These include, besides Mr. Egan, the program-builders, writers, talent scouts, and engineers.

MOST of the persons visiting the Tower of Babel are interested primarily in getting on the radio themselves. Well, neighbors, many are called but few are chosen. The program department of the company is constantly on the lookout for good new material, and auditions are held daily for individual artists who believe their future success is in radio. But Mr. Egan says that this belief in most cases is unfounded, but the occasional exception makes the time spent in listening to auditions well worth while.

Anyone connected with radio in New York will tell you that the best way to get on the air is to establish a reputation for yourself.

AS MANY hearts have been broken in radio as in any other form of entertainment. Every day young hopefuls go to New York seeking auditions and expecting the world to beat a pathway to their door. Sometimes it happens, but often it does not.

The lady from Boston learned quickly how often hopes are born in radio—and then are dashed. Mr. Egan allowed her to speak into a microphone for a special recording, and then it was broadcast to us. The lady's eyes were filled with tears when she heard it.

"Why," she sobbed, "That doesn't sound like me!" But, it did.

But the lady from Florida told the lady from Boston: "Never mind, dear. Voices never sound natural over the radio or in the talkies. Look at Mary Pickford. The talkies ruined her career—don't you feel badly?"

The lady from Boston went away very happy and so did Mr. Egan.

BRAVEST MAN TO BE PRESENTED WITH $1,000 HEROISM AWARD ON "KATE SMITH HOUR"—THURS.

DOROTHEA ANTEL often listened to the Kate Smith Command Appearance programs and heard various persons honored, usually for unselfish deeds that had saved the lives of others. The financial award would mean a lot to her, she mused. But Dorothea had never saved anyone's life.

Wistfully, Dorothea recalled the promising career as a dancer that had ended for her twelve years ago when she had tripped outside her dressing-room and fallen down a flight of fifty-nine stairs. Paralyzed, she had been unable to secure ease from the gnawing pain that sometimes increased, sometimes almost vanished, but never quite stopped.

After her misfortune, Dorothea opened a card-and-gift shop in New York, earned a meager living as she struggled valiantly against heavy odds. Her friends found her courage stimulating. Why, they reasoned, wasn't there something in her case to qualify her for one of the Command Appearance awards? They entered her name and the committee in charge of nominees accepted her. Only Dorothea was surprised when she was awarded first place by radio listeners.

Winning the prize meant more to Dorothea than anything else. With the money, she was able to purchase an expensive special mattress that was the only thing that could ease her pain temporarily.

Selected at random from the many cases aired on the Kate Smith show, this incident typifies the work of the Command Appearance program. Most of the winners on the programs have been in dire need.

Behind the selection of the winner on the Kate Smith hour is a lengthy investigation conducted by an advisory board on which serve Admiral Cary T. Grayson, head of the Red Cross; the well-known J. Edgar Hoover of G-man fame; Elsie Robinson, journalist, and Dr. James E. West, Boy Scout executive.

Public participation in the voting for the nominees shows country-wide interest (Canadian listeners also ballot); as many as 10,000 votes have been recorded in one balloting. This week will feature the announcement of the January Command Appearance winner.

Started in September, 1936, the Command Appearance program was conducted first on a weekly basis with top prize of $500 and two $100 awards. Early last year when the Red Cross was aiding flood sufferers, Kate abandoned the program in favor of donating the prize money to the Red Cross. Following her summer vacation, she resumed the novel broadcast in September with a revised schedule, providing monthly presentations with increased awards. The prizes now are $1,000 for first, and $250 for second and third.

Nominees for January are John Amos, penniless inmate of a New Orleans charity hospital, who donated one of his eyes to a 19-year-old youth who was facing blindness for life; Julian McNeese, of Decatur, Ala., who risked his life to save four of his companions when their boat capsized, and Fireman Frank Lefancheck, of Syracuse, who, after aiding trapped guests in a hotel fire, was dragged from the brink of death with staggering injuries, including thirteen fractures of his legs and arms.

Amos reasoned that his sixty-eight years of life was nearly the required span and gave his eye so Frank Chabino would be able to follow a normal life. McNeese's long swim through freezing waters saved four lives, although the exposure was fatal to a fifth companion. Lefancheck, on his last trip through the blazing hotel to aid the occupants, found his escape cut off and was forced to drop from a fourth-story perch.

Who will win the first prize this week? Kate Smith will tell you during her program Thursday night.

For your station, please turn to the program page for Thursday, 8 p.m. EST, 7 CST, 6 MST, 5 PST. For the West, 8:30 p.m. PST, 9:30 MST.

DR. FRANK BLACK BECOMES PERMANENT CONDUCTOR OF "CITIES SERVICE HOUR"—FRI.

MAJOR changes in radio's oldest commercial program will have run their course this week when the program—the "Cities Service" hour—starts under the baton of Frank Black in place of Rosario Bourdon, appropriately termed the dean of radio conductors. This change, coincidentally, will bring together again Black and the Revelers Quartet, whose members first perfected "orchestral harmonizing" under his coaching.

Bourdon, best known for his almost fanatical devotion to timing, has been guiding the concert hour for a few months short of eleven years. His record is second-best in radio history, for only one other conductor continued a program for a longer period—Harry Horlick, who with his Gypsies was heard for fourteen years, running until he retired two years ago, leaving Bourdon undisputed dean of the air.

Signed for the "Cities Service" hour in June, 1927, Bourdon later watched the young tenors, James Melton and Frank Parker, climb to fame and, of course, Jessica Dragonette, whose retirement during the past year was another major change in the hour.

BOURDON'S precise timing for so many years (he conducts with two stop-watches on the music-stand during broadcasts) has extended even into his home life. With a stop-watch beside him, he brushes his teeth for exactly three minutes! Four years ago the Revelers started on the "Cities Service" hour, and with Bourdon's retirement will become the veterans of the program. They had perfected their style under Black's coaching when he was editor of the Rhythmic Classics for a Philadelphia publishing house. Black has remained coach and accompanist for the quartet.

Born in Philadelphia, Black disappointed his Quaker parents by refusing a position as a chemical engineer to take a job playing the piano for a Harrisburg, Pa., hotel. Early in his career he earned the title "versatile." When he was named musical director for NBC, he demonstrated this versatility. One broadcast would find him leading a symphony orchestra in the most difficult classical compositions; an hour later he would be rehearsing a jazz band in the "hottest" of hot tunes. In his "spare" time he oversees new arrangements and handles the business end of "music in radio."

A pioneer proponent of classical music on radio programs, Black also fills partly the role of debunker. The ancient bromide that only "highbrows" appreciate classical music draws his humorous comment. "What have brows to do with music? Persons who listen with raised brows instead of with their ears don't hear very much," he says. In a more serious vein he adds: "Not only are we in this country developing extraordinary music talents but the man on the street, in the mine, out on the ranch, down on the farm and in the city flat have developed an ear for music—for the best music."

For your station, please turn to the program page for Friday, 8 p.m. EST, 7 CST, 6 MST, 5 PST.

RUSH HUGHES, CANDID MIKEMAN, BEGINS NEW FIVE-A-WEEK SERIES OVER NBC — MONDAY

STARRING JEAN HERSHOLT, "DR. CHRISTIAN" BRINGS DRAMA THAT IS DOWN TO EARTH—THIS SUN.

RADIO took over many functions of the newspaper when it began reporting, editing and interpreting the day's news, dramatizing familiar comic strips, and giving time to columnists. It remained only for some pioneer to create a magazine section of the air.

This week Rush Hughes, son of Rupert Hughes, the novelist, a young man hailed by exuberant western admirers as the "Marco Polo of Radio," moves into Radio City to begin a five-days-a-week series of "The Hughes Reel" over a nation-wide network.

An easterner, young Hughes arrived in San Francisco a few years ago dead broke, talked himself into a job as hotel clerk, and thence into radio as a substitute announcer for a dance band. Then he conceived the idea of his radio-magazine section.

Determined to land a permanent place on the air, he reasoned shrewdly that the newscasting field was already overcrowded with men who read the day's news from teletype wires and commentators who talk profoundly on the news behind the news.

Curiosity led him into research. He scanned newspapers, encyclopedias, scientific journals and travel magazines for odd bits of information overlooked in hastier gleanings.

TO HIS feature-casting, Hughes brings history, geography and all manner of factual bric-a-brac. One day he takes his listeners to a remote spot in the Orient to learn the story of an obscure philosopher. Another time he delves into the geological mysteries behind the discovery of a new oil field.

Born in Jamaica, Long Island, and educated at St. John Manlius Military Academy and at Princeton University, Hughes prefers to keep in the background the fact that he is the son of a famous father, that his mother, Adelaide Hughes, was a stage beauty.

"Father wanted me to be a writer and Mother an actor, and now they're both satisfied," he told an interviewer recently. In deference to his mother's wishes, however, he did try the stage for a short time near the close of his stay at Princeton, but in the next few years he left behind him a wandering trail of occupations.

He has been production manager and head of a radio station, a movie-player, a short-story writer and a radio announcer. The gloomiest day of his life, as he remembers it, was the day he decided it was better to swallow his pride than go hungry, and thereupon talked himself into a job as night clerk at a San Francisco hotel.

A few months ago he refused to accept a renewal of his contract as a Pacific Coast commentator from a sponsor eager to retain him. "I'm not satisfied with being just a coast commentator," he said. "I'm leaving the air and I'm not coming back until I get a transcontinental program."

He kept his word. This week he will bow to his biggest radio audience.

IT WAS a familiar situation. Charlie Lane, the village clerk, had died, leaving behind him a tradition of genteel poverty, a 75-year-old widow and three grown children, who, as soon as the funeral was over, prepared to make their mother comfortable whether she liked it or not.

Prosperous, self-assured and officiously kind, they overrode her objections to breaking up the home in which she had lived for fifty years and insisted that she come to live with one of them in surroundings far more pleasant. All had homes where she was more than welcome, they explained. She would be less lonely.

Reluctantly she surrendered and moved in with her well-to-do daughter, Ella. But she had lost contentment. The story of her bitter unhappiness and subsequent illness, and how this problem, common in the histories of thousands of families, was solved, is the theme of this week's episode of "Dr. Christian."

Movie-Actor Jean Hersholt, as Dr. Christian, physician-in-chief to the villagers of River's End, is the central figure in this series of dramatic sketches, designed to portray people and problems typical of all humanity and its difficulties.

Earlier episodes have dealt with the fears, worries and puzzles that haunt mankind nowadays—among them, for example, hit-and-run driving, suicide, interfering parents, and irresponsible children. Others will deal with similar problems. That is the idea behind the program—to find and work with a common denominator in the arithmetic of every-day life.

"Dr. Christian," inaugurated on Nov. 7, 1937, stars Hersholt, long famous as one of Hollywood's top-flight character actors. Featured with Hersholt are Rosemary de Camp as "Judy Price," "Dr. Christian's" secretary, and Gale Gordon as "Roy Davis," the village druggist.

Prior to this dramatic series, Hersholt had made only two radio broadcasts—both interviews, one in April, 1928, and another in 1931. As the screen's best-known "doctor" (he played in "Men in White," "The Country Doctor," and "Reunion"), he already had a huge following.

Hersholt came to this country from Denmark in 1914, son of a theatrical family and experienced in the theater himself, but it was the completeness of his wardrobe and not his talent that won him a $15-a-week job in the movies. He appeared in a multitude of long-forgotten pictures, then spent considerable time as a director of numerous Westerns.

As a director, he once took a part in one of his own pictures to save money, and the fervor with which he played the role of an insane man so impressed Mary Pickford that she demanded that he be cast in her "Tess of the Storm Country." After that he climbed steadily in popular favor. Altogether he has taken part in 439 pictures.

In private life, Hersholt is best known as a collector. His collection of Hans Christian Anderson manuscripts and letters is the largest outside the Royal Danish Museum and his advice is often sought by libraries. In addition, he paints (portraits), indulges a fancy for sculpture, and designs bookplates. He lives in Beverly Hills with his wife and his 22-year-old actor-writer son, Allan. The elder Hersholt is active in charities, is the sole distributor of Danish films in America, and is a director of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts.

Author of the "Dr. Christian" series is Jack Hasty, a veteran script-writer who was in radio even before the days of network broadcasting and who at one time was writing and assisting in the production of fourteen shows. Dorothy Barstow, of the production staff, is one of the best-known directors in the field. Her "Death Valley Days" is in its eighth year. "Real Folks," which she produced, ran for five.

IN BEETHOVEN'S intensely dramatic song ("Monster, Whither Goest Thou?"), he expresses his hatred for human injustice, here abjured in Leonora's outburst against the cruel political intriguer, Don Pizarro. The aria is a most exacting test of a soprano's emotional power and capacity in volume of tone.

If you are even a fair player of the best piano music, or a halfway-knowing listener, there is nothing I need tell you about the gracious and tenderly sentimental piece by Weber, so colorfully orchestrated by Felix Weingartner, the veteran conductor.

Strauss' "Tomorrow" and Marx's "And Yesterday He Brought Me Roses" rank with the loveliest examples in the literature of German song.

VIENNA and music are almost synonymous terms, that capital being the cradle of much of the world's best classical and light music. Eugene Ormandy's idea of paying tribute to the inspirational city is a particularly happy one.

Happy too is the character of the music the conductor has selected, with the exception of the few somber and passionate episodes in the most beloved of all symphonies. The word "unfinished" always comes poignantly to my mind when I hear the ineffably beautiful cello melody in the first movement and remember the inscrip-

The March of Music

Edited by Leonard Liebling

"... An ampler Ether, a diviner Air..."—Wordsworth

NUMBERS of appreciated and helpful letters reach our department, and its editor takes this opportunity to thank the writers for their friendly interest. All the communications show eager response to music itself but vary widely in their subjects, from concurrence with (or disagreement from) some article or statement to suggestions and requests for advice in personal artistic matters.

The most amusing letter, while a bit cruel, came from a lady who wrote: "The CBS 'Music for Fun' program uses child commentators and announces the proceedings as a novelty. A novelty? I have been hearing that on every radio concert which has a commentator."

Another correspondent says: "You tell us a lot about the music we are to hear but very little about the composers and artists as men and women. I know that RADIO GUIDE publishes such information in general articles, but I imagine that you must have personally met many of the great ones in music and I feel sure that lots of your readers might like (as I would) to hear some of your impressions."

The hint is well taken, but not even a whole issue of this paper would suffice to record all those meetings and my memories of them. However, just a few quick etchings of composers might be in order.

Early I learned that in private life the famous ones are much like the average man and woman—except perhaps a trifle more nervous, exacting and, of course, more vain, as they have to parade so much in the public eye.

As a lad, I went to Berlin to study music, and while on a Christmas holiday vacation in Vienna I saw Brahms during the last year of his life. He was a stout, short, long-haired and heavily whiskered man. It was at an open-air cafe. He wore a huge slouch hat, sat in front of an equally huge stone mug of beer, and smoked a huge cigar.

I was fascinated and walked up and down in front of the cafe for nearly half an hour, just to get further looks at the master. He lived a simple life, was most kindly, but also could be truly gruff, as when a friend said to him: "The chief theme in the finale of your first symphony resembles Beethoven's in the last movement of his ninth." "Any ass could notice that," was Brahms' crushing reply.

Even more fat than Brahms was Leoncavallo, composer of "Pagliacci," who came to Berlin to conduct his "Roland," which he wrote on commission from Emperor Wilhelm II. I heard that when the monarch complimented Leoncavallo, and said "How can I reward you?" he answered, "You might command a cigarette for me, Your Majesty."

Later I came to know Leoncavallo well and enjoyed many other samples of his constant good-natured wit. Both he and Mascagni enjoy fame that rests mainly on a single opera written by each. I was at a dinner where Leoncavallo quipped to Mascagni, "When are you tion on the thirty-year-old composer's grave in Vienna: "Music Has Here Entombed a Rich Treasure, But Much Fairer Hopes. Franz Schubert Lies Buried Here."

Tragically too, Mozart lived to be only four years older than the phenomenal Franz. There is nothing dire, however, in "The Marriage of Figaro," bubbling with mirth and enchanting airs, the first outstanding success Mozart won in opera.

Johann Strauss, on the other hand, was a child of fortune, for once launched on his career, he consistently rode the chariot of triumph. His music is the expression of Vienna in its most joyous days. "The Blue Danube" has outlived hundreds of vanished symphonies.

A Beethoven Series

Quartet, Opus 127, in E Flat Major

BEETHOVEN, while still a young man, living in Vienna during late 18th century days, was a regular attendant at the famous Friday evening musicales of cultured Prince Lichnowski, supporter of a private quartet of string players.

The music heard today (one of the last five quartets) offers no easy hearing, for it is an elevated tone-drama, profound in reflection and philosophic resignation but touched with humble acknowledgment of nature's grandeur. Opening majestically, the first movement turns to pastoral serenity. The next seems transfigured sorrow. The third movement has brief merry-making as contrast. The conclusion brings soaring thought and ecstasy.

MAURICE RAVEL'S recent death has everywhere brought deeply admiring and regretful obituaries, mourning him as a composer of poetical music and master of exquisite orchestration.

As I have said previously in RADIO GUIDE, no more subtle and delicate tone-creation has ever been penned than Ravel's "Daphnis and Chloe," illustrating the romantic Greek legend.

Equally atmospheric and feeling is the "Pavane On the Death of an Infant" (Spanish Royal Princess), composed originally in 1899 as a piano piece, and in 1908 transcribed by Ravel for orchestra.

The famous allegretto (second movement) is delightfully whimsical.

Presents
Dr. Howard Hanson, conductor Concerto Grosso for two string or-

Symphony (Christian Cannabich) (MS.)

DR. HANSON has gone deep into ancient research for his material of tonight, his program covering a period from the middle of the sixteenth century to the end of the eighteenth.

Those were times when it did not pay publishers to print music, and so the Locatelli and Cannabich (German) numbers have remained manuscripts.

Considering the limitations of harmony and instrumentation in those remote periods it is surprising with what ingenious craftsmanship and fragrant melody those early masters flavored their music. If it lacks the sparkle and sensuousness of champagne, on the other hand it offers draughts of the most crystalline aqua pura in tone.

Pietro Locatelli was a violinist, and so accomplished that the transcendent Paganini is said to have profited by the antique Italian's technical innovations. Locatelli left a mass of compositions, most of them now in oblivion.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 5

The NBC Symphony Orchestra
Presents

Arturo Toscanini, conductor
"The Good Humored Women" (Scarlatti)
"Italian" Symphony (Mendelssohn) Queen Mab from "Romeo and Juliet" (Berlioz)
Overture to "Semiramide" (Rossini)

A LIGHTSOME impulse must have moved our maestro in setting up his Saturday evening scheme, for the numbers are all prevalingly of glad spirit, unless one except the passion of the "Semiramide," but that also is of somewhat surface description. It is good to have Toscanini for once regaling his radio auditors with music that does not require intensive concentration. Sometimes it is salutary to commune with composers whom the ordinary person feels that he need not only respect but also freely enjoy.

Scarlatti's rollicking pages make for a happy commencement. He is at his best when writing ebulliently and with his tongue in his cheek. Pianists especially love to perform the terse and lively Scarlatti "sonatas," whose severe title altogether belies their frolicsome content. The composer himself lived so lightly that he spent all his income (mainly because of his love of gambling) and died destitute.

Mendelssohn's "Italian" symphony was his fourth, and describes impressions gained from touring the picturesque peninsula. The first movement, redolent of blue skies and sunny joyousness, is all vivacity in themes and treatment. The slow movement is sometimes called "Pilgrim's March."
Simple and graceful, the third division breathes delicate fancy and charm.
The last chapter of the symphony is a combined saltarello and tarantella (typical dances of Italy), evidently inspired by the Roman Carnival, whose delights Mendelssohn described in his letters. The music ends with a whirl and what a chronicler has aptly termed
"a general terpsichorean hurly-burly."

"Der Rosenkavalier" exquisite, pleasurable, infectiously gay going to write another 'Cavalleria Rusticana'?" "Just as soon as you write another 'Pagliacci,'" came instantly from Mascagni.

Richard Strauss, when he is not traveling about conducting his works, lives a strictly domesticated life with Frau Strauss at their lovely country home in Bavaria. He loves to eat well and to play a German card game called Skaat with some of the rural functionaries, including the postmaster. The latter once became enraged when Strauss played a wrong card, and yelled at him, "How can a genius who wrote 'Rosenkavalier' be so dumb as to play the king instead of the ace?"

Puccini came to America to lead the world premiere of his "Girl of the Golden West" at the Metropolitan Opera. I was backstage at the performance, and when I remarked to Caruso, "You don't look like a cowboy," Puccini promptly added, "And he doesn't sing like one, either."

Which reminds me that when I was introduced to Debussy in Paris, he wore a ten-gallon hat, which he habitually affected . . . But space protests, and so more about him and other musical luminaries in a future article.

Elisabeth Rethberg, soprano on the "Ford Sunday Evening Hour," belongs to the rarer operatic prima donnas, for she is not only a singer but also proficient on the piano and in the science and art of harmony.
She plays her own accompaniments when she practises, and is as conversant with all the operas as with symphony and chamber music.
Quite a contrast from that tenor I once asked about a detail of a plot in the second act of "Madam Butterfly." "I can't answer that," he responded, "for I appear only in the first and third acts."

Victor Bay's "Essays in Music" are a distinct novelty, with each program exemplifying some particular subject treated by composers, as "Love," "The Firmament" (sun, stars and moon, etc.), "Shakespearean Dramas," "Music by Princes," and the like. Particularly arresting was his concert of works by Johann Sebastian Bach, four of his sons, a cousin and an uncle.

A clever inventor might create a non-skid vocal device to keep singers from slipping out of tune.

"DER ROSENKAVALIER"

by Richard Strauss

The Cast:

The Princess . . . Lotte Lehmann
Octavian . . . Kerstin Thorborg
Baron Ochs . . . Emanuel List
Sophie . . . Suzanne Fisher
Faninal . . . Friedrich Schorr

Conductor, Artur Bodanzky

It is a curious fact that certain singers, like certain actors, invariably become identified with one role. We recall Caruso best in "Pagliacci," singing the passionate and tragic "Vesti la Giubba"; Bori
and Manon are one; Flagstad is truly Isolde; and whenever and wherever "Der Rosenkavalier" is mentioned, we think of the charming Lotte Lehmann and her wise and witty portrayal of the mature Austrian Princess in that exquisite opera of 18th century Vienna.

Richard Strauss, one of the few remaining master composers, has perhaps written more profound, more stirring music than the waltzes and other light moments of "Der Rosenkavalier"; but he has surely never created anything more pleasurable, more infectiously gay. Nor did his librettist, Hugo von Hoffmannsthal, the Austrian poet, ever conceive another character as mellow, gracious and human as the Princess.

With the rise of the curtain we follow the eternally wistful tale of a beautiful woman growing old and losing her lover to youth. We hear her plaint at the end of the first act, and admire her acceptance of her lot in the last act.

ACT I

The boudoir of the Princess, early morning. Octavian, her lover (the role is written for soprano and is always played by a woman), kneels at her feet declaring his devotion. The pair think they hear the Princess' husband returning from a hunting excursion. Octavian hides. But only a cousin of the Princess enters, the fat and lecherous Baron Ochs.
He asks her aid in marrying the young and pretty Sophie Faninal. Octavian, who has disguised himself as a maid, emerges, and the Baron flirts with "her,"
while the Princess, seated at her dressing-table, accords her usual morning interviews, as servants and hairdressers complete her toilet.

Baron Ochs gives a silver rose to the Princess, and asks that it be delivered to his intended fiancée, according to the custom of the day, that being the symbol of betrothal. Ochs leaves and the Princess sings her haunting farewell to youth.
Octavian departs and she sends the servant after him with the rose, asking that he deliver it to Sophie.

ACT II

The drawing-room of the Faninal household. The orchestra plays exquisite waltz music and Octavian enters, dressed in white and silver, bearing the rose.
Sophie and he fall under the spell of love at first sight. The Baron arrives, and finding the young couple embracing, fights a duel with Octavian, in which the old amorist receives a scratch, which throws him into comic fright. Sophie refuses to marry Ochs, but her father threatens her with incarceration in a convent. Octavian, knowing the Baron's tendencies, meanwhile sends him a forged billet-doux from the attractive
"maid" of the Princess, fixing a rendezvous for dinner.

ACT III

A room at an inn. Octavian, now again disguised as the "maid," keeps the appointment with the Baron, and plays pert tricks to tantalize him. Doors pop open, mocking faces appear at the windows. A woman and half a dozen children enter, protesting that the Baron is their husband and father. Police arrest him as a dangerous seducer. Sophie arrives at that crucial moment and renounces her fiancé. Also the Princess enters and saves her relative from the law. Octavian resumes male dress, and the humiliated Baron realizes how he has been duped. The Princess unites the youthful lovers, and in a trio of exalted lyricism, Sophie and Octavian rejoice in their happiness while the Princess sings her resignation and sorrow at the loss of her lover. She leaves while the music of the second act is heard as Sophie and Octavian embrace once more and depart. The stage is empty; a few heavenly chords are heard on the celesta.
The Princess' little black slave runs in,
picks up a dropped handkerchief, runs out again. The curtain falls on this most merrily melodious of all operas.

SCIENCE PROGRAMS — NEWS & NEW HORIZONS

Science plots the pattern of the future—and its leading spokesmen report progress, past and present, in these four interesting network programs presented regularly each week.

Shedding the language of the laboratory, the scientists offer an absorbing blueprint of its current work in "Science in the News," a forecast of its dreams and projects in "Science Marches On," sidelights on its more fascinating discoveries in "New Horizons," and the elements of scientific thought and investigation in the "Science Club of the Air."

These programs provide an informative digest of vital scientific facts—vital because a solid grounding in general scientific knowledge adds a keen mental tool to our equipment for understanding and controlling our science-harnessed world.

SCIENCE IN THE NEWS. Tuesdays, 6-6:15 p.m. NBC-Red. Here's a swift pace to follow . . . medicos smash one living cell to heal another, and conquer one more stronghold of disease . . . Astronomers "sight" a star that can't be seen and push back the edges of the Universe another billion miles . . . Chemists force the wedding of antagonistic atoms and a new industry is born! How is it done? What does it mean—to you? Follow the news of science for the answers.

SCIENCE MARCHES ON. Wednesdays, 7:45-8 p.m. NBC-Blue. Science must be free! The martyrdom of an Albert Einstein, or the "purging" of scientific thought in the interest of political fancy, proves conclusively that science cannot play its role in progress except in an atmosphere of democracy. "Science Marches On" will prompt the popular consciousness on the principles, plans and prospects of science in the world today.

NEW HORIZONS. Mondays, 6:15-6:30 p.m. CBS. Ditch your recollections of dusty, dull museums and visit the world's greatest exhibit of natural history—The American Museum in New York. "New Horizons," presented by members of the staff, has vacuum-cleaned the stuffed and mounted knowledge of nature's many-sided history—brings a startling series of scientific discoveries and facts to build us new horizons.

Listen... and Learn

Science Puts the "Smart Money" on "Kid" Cerebral Cortex!

LISTEN carefully and you'll hear the din of warring. Not the thunder of conquest in the Far East, nor the blood-spatter of political struggle along the once-sunny slopes of Spain. No. The battle of the century is being fought right in that still, strange cavity that we all carry above the ears. Hypothalamus and Cerebral Cortex are the scrappers—and science is putting the "smart money" on Cortex.

In this corner . . . Hypo

In this corner . . . Cortex

These fighters of the mind's arena are the old and the new parts of that amusing mechanism that we call the brain. "Hypo" is a hangover from our ancestry in the treetops. Cerebral Cortex is that later development, whose growth was stunted until man stood upright and began to use his head as a director of behavior, as well as a convenient receptacle for food. The battle has raged for a million years, more or less, and to the winner goes command of our thoughts and actions.

Our Hypothalamus rules our emotions . . . it's the part of our mental equipment that we share with most of the animals. It's tough—the bully that fires us with rage and fear—rugged, but a mug.

Our Cerebral Cortex is deft . . . that part of the brain that is uniquely developed in man alone. It is the seat of reason and our critical faculties—the safety-deposit vault of all the attributes that make us men, not mammals only. It is the fountain from which we can draw all the means for intelligent behavior.

When "Hypo" has the upper hand, we're chesty, contemptuous and coercive. When Cortex holds the major sway, we're reasonable, well-mannered and cooperative—in a word, intelligent.

So what? you say

The world today is taking well-defined sides in the battle. But the men of science (and they should know) feel that "reason will sufficiently dominate emotion to keep a functional civilization from perishing" . . . an elaborate way of indicating that they are siding with Cerebral Cortex.

And good judgment suggests that we join their cheering section, for the simple and obvious reason that it's good sense to be on the side that's bound to win a worthy struggle.

When we side with Cerebral Cortex—give our reason a chance to rule our behavior—we step up a notch in the human scale. We move nearer to mental manhood, and can claim the earmarks of intelligence.

WHAT IS INTELLIGENT BEHAVIOR? . . . DEFINITIONS AND EXAMPLES

Science gives the best answer and provides some sparkling examples in several interesting weekly broadcasts detailed on these pages.

Intelligent behavior is marked by an absence of superstition and by emancipation from prejudice . . . by forthright tolerance that neither fatuously accepts nor blindly damns new ideas and concepts, and does not confuse the symbols of things for the things themselves.

Our behavior is largely determined by the status of the battle between "Hypo" and Cortex right in our own minds. How goes the battle of the century above those ears of yours?

SMITHSONIAN TELLS A SCIENTIFIC SEA STORY

Sunday, NBC-Red, 4:30-5 p.m. EST.

"Thar she blows" . . . Man a Sven Foyn harpoon gun; chant a Norwegian song of the sea, and follow the sperm whale from Greenland to the Ross Sea. Listen to "The World Is Yours" dramatization of the story of bravery and blubber—epic of the whaling industry.

With this chapter in its consistently fascinating series on the facts and foibles of science, the Smithsonian Institution turns its scholarly eye toward one of the most romantic sagas of the sea, science and industry; asks these interesting questions: What manner of beast is this mighty mammal of the oceans now threatened with extinction? What part has it played in the making of America? Can the science that sped its destruction spare the final death knell of the whale?

You'll hear the answers culled from the history of this thousand-year-old sea hunt. You'll follow the cry of "thar she blows" down the centuries from the ninth to today . . . from Greenland to Japan, Newfoundland to the Indian Ocean, and down the latitudes to the last great whale-hunting grounds of the Antarctic, south of the Falkland Islands.

You'll hear how the knights of old bedecked their helmets with cockades and plumes of whalebone—how this unique product became the mainstay of fashion as the buttressing of our mothers' corsets—and how even today the finest of whale-oil still lubricates the spindles of the textile world.

RADIOTOURS ROMANTIC COUNTRIES OF EUROPE

Sundays, NBC-Red, 2:15-2:30 p.m. EST.

Radio traveler, Malcolm LaPrade, devotes a new series of Sunday afternoon talks to little-known corners of Europe—draws with anecdote and a bright pen of personal experience a graphic canvas of peoples, their lives and locale, for armchair tourists.

The fifteen-minute pages of this weekly atlas make interesting material for the mind's eye of homebodies and paints a quiet backdrop for the pageant of European affairs.

This week LaPrade trips to Holland, land of tulips, dikes and wooden shoes—spices the story of the thrifty Netherlands with a famous legend of the last will and testament of Herr Van Klaes, the most famous smoker of Holland.

SCIENCE PROGRAMS —

associate curator, conducts an expedition among "Odd Members of the Insect World," featuring the queer and gigantic cousins of this family we know best as "pests." Dr. Curran will toy with the fantastic idea that "if insects were as big as men, the trend of human affairs might have taken another turn."

This and other programs in this series point the purpose of all science programs—the broadening of our mental horizons.

SCIENCE CLUB OF THE AIR. Fridays, 2:45-3 p.m. CBS. Fun and fact in the curriculum of the American School of the Air. The program is interest-leveled for intermediate-graders' listening in the school classroom, but adults will find the experiments and instruction a sound source of enlightenment on the simple facts of science.

This week's "Air Pressure Experiment" suggests amusing possibilities for pranksters—offers a dramatic pill of fundamental information about the pressure of the atmosphere. Can you pop a whole, shelled, hard-boiled egg into a milk bottle?—without pushing? And get it out again? Sounds silly, doesn't it? . . . but the facts you'll learn from this experiment bear directly on the size of your gas bill!

All these programs are to be heard regularly each week at the times given (EST). Listening surprises vie with educational value in every one!

Listening—To Learn

Theme of the Week:

Science—The Whip on the Flanks of Progress Opens New Horizons for Serious Listeners

Science writes the rules for successful living—shapes our jobs, molds our thoughts, and in a large measure determines our personal progress, health and happiness.

Science programs make a game of learning the rules—bring us a daily detective thriller from the laboratories of research scientists and from explorers on the frontiers of knowledge.

The story is fantastic, full of surprises, and always factual. Fantasy for inspiration and facts for practical use—these are about the finest stuff that radio can offer . . . and you'll enjoy the tour with science on the march. See "Scientific Developments" in the adjoining columns for theme-listening this week.

Monday, January 31

Music Is My Hobby. 7-7:15 p.m. NBC-Blue. Talented adult amateurs play the instruments and the music that are their hobbies.

Tuesday, February 1

Fun In Music. 2-2:30 p.m. NBC-Red. Dr. Joseph Maddy's instruction class in orchestral and band instruments.

Note: See "The March of Music" in this issue for a list and description of recommended musical programs for this week.

PERSONAL PROBLEMS

Tuesday, February 1

Academy of Medicine. 3:15-3:30 p.m. CBS. Common sense, authoritative advice on health protection and cure. Under auspices of New York Academy of Medicine.

Wednesday, February 2

Your Health. 2-2:30 p.m. NBC-Red. "Rheumatism and Arthritis"—known factors in the causation of arthritis and its care, discussed by Dr. W. W. Bauer of the American Medical Association.

Friday, February 4

Vocational Guidance. 2:30-2:45 p.m. CBS. (School of the Air session on Young People and Jobs.) "Now That We Have It, How Do We Hold It—That First Job."

PEOPLE—THOUGHT—COMMENT

Sunday, January 30

University of Chicago Round Table. 12:30-1 p.m. NBC-Red. Intellectual sortie against significant current problems by eminent members of the University faculty.

Monday, January 31

New Horizons. 6:15-6:30 p.m. CBS. Dr. C. H. Curran. See description under story "Science Programs—News and New Horizons."

National Radio Forum. 10:30-11 p.m. NBC-Blue. National leaders speak from Washington on problems and plans in the national political and economic arena.

Tuesday, February 1

Current Questions Before the House. 4:45-5 p.m. CBS. Congressmen spot the significant agenda of the week on the floor of the House. From Washington, this week: Rep. Knute Hill presents "The Possibilities of Columbia River Development."

Wednesday, February 2

Hendrik Willem Van Loon. 7:30-7:45 p.m. NBC-Red. (Also heard Fridays, same time and network.) Perhaps the most cultured man of our day muses on present-day problems, their importance in the light of history.

Thursday, February 3

HOLLYWOOD SHOWDOWN

BY EVANS PLUMMER

WHAT is President Roosevelt's favorite broadcast? What his regular favorites are, I can't say, but I do know that the special Hollywood all-star NBC program staged January 15 for the benefit of the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation brought forth to New York two long-distance telephone calls from F. D. R. in Washington praising the airing—and he said that he especially liked Jack Benny, Phil Baker, and their duet . . . And giving the devil his due, I must tell you that Rudy Vallee, in order to participate in the benefit, gave up a pleasantly anticipated weekend at the ranch of Bill Hart . . . The great program, to pave the way for Toscanini's concert which followed, was closed by Meredith Willson directing the orchestra in "Londonderry Air," but the rendition was marred by an obvious but unexplained audience laugh. The cause was Benny's first formal introduction to Dummy Charlie McCarthy, at which time Jack stuck a cigar into Charlie's mouth.

Next day, January 16, before Lupe Velez uttered her first words with Don Ameche and Charlie, she crossed herself—then proceeded to do a most plumpful turn. Lupe, who will guest with Jack Oakie and Stuart Erwin February 1, is now living under the same roof but not with Hubby Johnny Weissmuller. They are enjoying a novel separation; both go out with whomever they please. Bruce Cabot was Lupe's escort to the "Chase and Sanborn" hour.

More Backstage Stuff: On Hollywood Hotel's January 14 airing, those audience howls whenever Ken Niles read a commercial for Campbell's Soups were occasioned by playful Guest Dick Powell, who each time displayed a package of Lucky Strike (his sponsor) cigarettes . . . Extra applause following Sophie Tucker's fiftieth birthday appearance January 13 on "Good News of 1938" was the result of M.C. Robert Taylor's spontaneous act of kissing the grand old trouser . . . Right after Dorothy Lamour sang "Thanks for the Memory" on "Chase and Sanborn" January 16, she had a lapse of it and forgot she had lines to speak into another microphone. She was hurriedly grabbed and pulled across the studio stage . . . Unexpected visitors to Mickey Mouse's Theater that same Sunday were Musical Directors Jacques Renard, Ted Fio-Rito and Ray Noble. They just had to see and play with the gadget band making up Donald Duck's Webfoot Sextet . . . Preceding his airing of January 16, when your reporter was impersonated so gleefully, Jack Benny told his studio audience of a gag the censors had nipped out of the script the previous week when he appeared in San Francisco. "We have to be so clean nowadays," he said, "but I just want to try this out on you and see what you think of it. Remember the part where I was talking to Andy Devine? Well, I ask him if he's seen any seagulls, and he replies: 'Just in time, Buck, just in time.'" The studio audience roared!

Whinnies are scarce. Joe Penner tested fifty-eight horse-giggles over a span of three weeks before he heard an acceptable whinny, let alone a fair neigh. Charlie Lung, who has never ridden a horse, was whinnier number fifty-nine. He got the job.

Plums for: The Stroud Twins, who seem to have found themselves. Each of their last four programs has been progressively better; they work easier with Ameche, Eddy and guest stars. And the pair, who are still holding the hands of the Brewster Twins, expect a call any day now from Darryl Zanuck, who likes the idea of spotting the two sets of doubles in a musical built around them . . . The NBC coverage by Don Wilson and Buddy Twiss of the record mass distance flight of the eighteen Navy bombers from San Diego to Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. While I sat in an easy-chair, I could visualize perfectly the dramatic flight of brave men into a leaden sky over treacherous waters . . . Dinner guests at the Robert Youngs' on January 18 were Tyrone Power, Janet Gaynor and the Don Ameches. Ameche and Young are brothers in the new 20th Century-Fox film, "Josette," starring Simone Simon.

Speaking of parties, they laughed when George McCall, the Old Gold screenscooper, sat down at the piano the other day at the CBS studios, but not only did George play it well but next repeated his talent on the studio organ. Next, he asked for a guitar and after demonstrating his musicianship thereon, he entertained with a trombone and a tuba. It seems that McCall once played in a circus band where, to quote him, "you had to be versatile."

And again speaking of parties, a spaghetti feast was hosted January 17 by the Phil Bakers, who numbered among their radio guests the Jack Haleys, Wendy Barrie, Virginia Verrill and her mother, Amy, the George Burnses and the Oscar Bradleys . . . Incidentally, Announcer Tom Hanlon has won the miking berth on the Baker opus until the troupe heads for New York and a Broadway show early in March.

It just won't die out, that Mae West sketch. Now Joan Storm, a writer, is suing everyone concerned for $10,000 for infringement of copyright, alleging the offensive Adam and Eve situation was lifted from a play she wrote but which seems to have been entirely unheard of by anyone your Hollywood snooper has interviewed. However, I'm sure the network, the sponsor, the cast of the program and the author are all perfectly willing to let Miss Storm take full credit for writing (and acting, if she likes) the sketch—as they are all unhappy about the whole thing. But maybe you'd be interested to know that since the incident, the Crossley rating of the hour has jumped to a new high of nearly forty points!

The real reason Cinemactress Phyllis Brooks didn't accompany Claire Trevor to New York City, as the two had planned, is that Phyllis was afraid she couldn't leave Cary Grant for two whole weeks.

Camera-Fan Lanny Ross has been honored by the Fourth International Leica Show's acceptance of a snap he took of Mrs. William Baker, Jr., climbing over a fence in a bathing suit. Lanny, by the way, is readying to go into production on his new Columbia picture, "Paris on Broadway" . . . Ken Murray and troupe come back to "Hollywood Hotel" February 4 for a bigger pay-check. Ken, too, starts a new picture—for Universal—in March . . . Fibber McGee and Molly have signed a term contract with Paramount calling for three pictures a year—meaning that the famous Chicago comics will soon move to Hollywood and the sunshine that they hope will improve Molly's health. "Summer Boarders," with Mary Carlisle and Jack Dunn as romantic leads, will be their first film . . . Nelson Eddy made a last-minute switch in his numbers last Sunday (January 23) to sing the most-requested "The Last Chord" and "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen," which he had never aired before.

What price Chase and Sanborn tickets? Who controls the free tickets to various Hollywood theater broadcasts? Can you get them, and how? Read Hollywood Showdown next week.

AIRIALTO LOWDOWN

BY MARTIN LEWIS

RADIO'S current trend toward giving the movies the upper hand in radio activities reminds me of what I consider the industry's first step backward. It was way back when Eddie Cantor and Ed Wynn first came on the air. Instead of their trying to conform to the demands of the new field that they were entering, radio did an about-face and adapted itself to the comedians . . . And thus was born the STUDIO AUDIENCE! We don't deny that laughter is needed to build up a comic show, but it is well known that things have gotten to the stage where most comics forget their invisible audience and play up to those present. Studio audiences have become noisy, and not a little rowdyish. I can think of nothing worse than having a dignified, brilliant program conducted by Andre Kostelanetz brought to a close by whistling from the gallery. I can (going to the other extreme) appreciate the ardor of swing fans when they listen to Benny Goodman, but listeners at home have missed many a good "hot lick" or drum "ride" because the studio audience couldn't restrain itself. We have heard Announcer Dan Seymour request the people in the studio not to whistle because of the sensitivity of the mike (not to mention the listeners' ears), and we have heard smart Alecks immediately start to whistle and continue to do so all through the program. Even in comic programs—where laughter does help the performance—you often find persons like the man I sat next to at an Al Pearce broadcast last week, who laughed long and loud not because he thought the show was funny but because he was anxious to be heard at home! Proof that applause isn't necessary on a musical or variety program is provided by the very popular Bing Crosby Music Hall, which does not prohibit sincere, honest laughter and therefore the laughter is restrained and an asset to the show. Applause is prohibited, and the result is fast-moving entertainment, which the listener feels is just for him. Listeners want good entertainment and they appreciate sincerity . . . they don't tune in to a program in order to hear guffaws produced because signaling announcers have killed all spontaneity, nor to hear the galleryites whistle because those signals make them feel that they must put on a show, too—or do they? What do you think?

Dale Carnegie is sure to win many new friends and influence quite a number of new listeners with his new weekly program. The only bad feature is that it is heard in the East at ten forty-five, which is past bedtime for most people. Anyway, if you're up that late of a Tuesday night, tune in your nearest NBC-Red network station and get a few good pointers.

An all-time high—or is it low?—for broadcasting cancellations was made when "Manhattan After Dark" was switched right off the ether lanes after its first airing. Scheduled to replace Sidney Skolsky's chatter-gossip, the series was supposed to bring night clubs direct from their environs into the home. But it seems the sponsors realized how bad it was (even as you and I) after listening to the first program and acted immediately.

One doesn't have to travel far to find strange stories, and the famous lights of New York's Broadway presented one the other week. High over the marquee of the Paramount Theater, in letters over three feet high, was the name of Fred Waring, billed with his Pennsylvanians. Last year, when Waring played there, Rosemary and Priscilla Lane and Johnny Davis were his featured artists. Since then, however, they have become Warner Brothers movie stars, and Rosemary is heard on the Warner radio program every Wednesday night. But this is where the irony of fate comes in and makes a story . . . while Waring was still appearing at the Paramount Theater, the new movie, "Hollywood Hotel," starring Dick Powell, Rosemary and Lola Lane, and featuring Johnny Davis, opened at the Strand Theater, and the electric sign—visible for blocks—that person autographed a "Singing Lady Book" and a photograph for the maid's little girl as a Christmas gift.

January 11 marked Irene Wicker's eighth year in radio, and she had a little private party for the persons connected with her program. Miss Coffey, her secretary, George Shields, the engineer, Charles Warburton, program director and actor, Milton Rettenberg,

The stage tradition that the show must go on was carried out in full by Texaco Town's mayor, Eddie Cantor, recently. Suffering from a streptococcus infection, Cantor appeared before the microphone under supervision of a nurse, was whisked to a hospital immediately after the show

Bruce ("Professor Kaltenmeyer") Kamman's recent kindness in helping a strange motorist to start his car won him four tickets for "Kaltenmeyer's Kindergarten," which the stranger couldn't use. Left to right: "Daisy Dean" (Cecil Roy), "Izzy Finkelstein" (Johnny Wolf), and Bruce announced the picture and its stars were rivaled only by the sign announcing Waring's Pennsylvanians!

These stories about Irene Wicker, the "Singing Lady," date back a bit, but they're too nice to pass over. 'Twas one night before Christmas, and the place was Mrs. Wicker's office. Her secretary was working at the desk when the building maid came in to clean up. She noticed the "Singing Lady" stationery, and eagerly asked Miss Coffey, the secretary, if Mrs. Wicker really was the radio star. When told that she was, the woman said that her little girl listened to her every day and loved her programs. Miss Coffey told Mrs. Wicker about the incident, and that very thoughtful her accompanist, and Milt Cross, the announcer, joined the "Singing Lady" for a "champagne party," and they all shared a bottle of the sparkling water. All, that is, except the veddy English Mr. Warburton. When Mrs. Wicker asked if anyone preferred anything else to champagne, that gentleman, with nary a twinkle in his eye, answered, "Yes, I'd like some tea"! So help us, it really happened!

Betty Lou Gerson, the Chicago radio actress, must be pretty much attached to the Ameche family—and vice versa. Anyhoo, Betty Lou was Don Ameche's leading lady in "First Nighter" when he starred in the air series. Time passes. Twenty-six months of it, to be exact. Don is a Hollywood palpitator, and our heroine has signed another contract with the same sponsor's "Grand Hotel." And who should be her leading man but an ingratiating, mustachioed gent by the name of Jim Ameche, Don's kid brother. Incidentally, Jim and wife are expecting a visit from Mr. Stork come spring.

How they're going to do this is beyond me, but Tommy Riggs, Betty Lou's voice-manipulator, will do a film while he's in California. Betty Lou, you know, is neither wife, maid, widow nor even a doll like Charlie McCarthy, but just a voice coming from the very masculine Riggs.

When Florence Malone of the "Aunt Jenny" program was suddenly taken ill, Charmee Allen was rushed in as a substitute on the CBS dramatic serial. Miss Allen's voice is slighter higher than Florence's, and in order not to confuse the listeners who had been following the program faithfully, she practised speaking in a lower pitch right up to broadcast time.

Have some coincidence. The three most familiar soloists with the Andre Kostelanetz orchestra all live within a stone's throw of the maestro in Connecticut. Kostelanetz lives in Silvermine; Frank Parker, who used to sing with him, has a summer home at Rowayton Beach, about four miles away. Lily Pons also lives in Silvermine, and Lawrence Tibbett, now heard with Kostelanetz on his CBS "Concerts of American Music," lives in Wilton, only about two miles away. Or maybe it's not so much coincidence as convenience. Kosty gives his neighbor a lift home in his limousine after the performance, and Tibbett hasn't once missed being driven straight to the door of his home.

Benny Goodman and his swingsters invaded Carnegie Hall on Sunday night, January 16, for a special concert of swing music. The place was literally packed to the rafters with people standing all over the huge auditorium. Folding chairs were even put on the stage to take care of about 100 more people. The program included most of the numbers Goodman has recorded for RCA-Victor. His version of the popular "Bei Mir Bist Du Schoen" is something to cheer about, and believe you me, the audience not only cheered but whistled and stamped.

RADIO GUIDE's picture-caption writer apparently was on the wrong track when he credited the New Haven Railroad as the owner of the locomotive instead of the Boston & Maine Railroad in the picture showing Lily Pons christening a locomotive. Miss Pons is anxious for the error to be corrected and Lewis is always obliging.

Editor Curtis Mitchell and your reporter were on the train bound for Philadelphia last week when who should walk into the car but Phil Spitalny. Phil and his troupe of forty-four women were on their way to Pittsburgh to take part in the celebration being given Brother Maurice Spitalny, musical director of KDKA in the "Smoky City." From there, they were headed for Cleveland and other cities to play vaudeville engagements. Spitalny and all the girls occupied a special car and their instruments and costumes required a special baggage car, which gives you an idea of what it means for an organization like that to travel. To make matters more uncomfortable, there was a big convention in Cleveland at the time and there wasn't a room to be had in any hotel. Spitalny was afraid that cots would have to be put up in the dressing-rooms at the theater. Mr. Spitalny took us back into his car, where the girls rendered a special song for us.

FATHER and SON

BY HAROLD R. HIGGINS

HOW "ONE MAN'S FAMILY" DEALT WITH AN AGE-OLD PROBLEM FAMILIAR TO ALL PARENTS AND WON THE WHOLE-HEARTED APPROVAL OF A NATION

Occasionally radio does a job that is a standout. Occasionally something is said by radio writers which reaches into a human problem and clarifies for thousands, and perhaps millions, of people, situations which have puzzled or bewildered them.

The facts of life are an important part of the education of any young man. Carlton E. Morse, in his "One Man's Family," encountered a situation with which every father is familiar. The way he handled it attracted universal attention and resulted in hundreds of requests for copies of the script. We present the script as a piece of fine writing, as a delicate handling of an all-important subject.—Editor.

IN THE National Broadcasting Company outlets which carry "One Man's Family," congratulatory letters from listeners are no uncommon matter, for "One Man's Family" is rated generally as one of the best dramatic programs on the air.

But the outpouring of whole-hearted applause evoked during the last two months by the Thanksgiving-week broadcast of an episode in this five-year-old serial story of the life of an average American family has been almost without precedent.

Letters by the hundreds, from parents everywhere, have poured into the stations which aired the show, and the burden of every message is the same: "This is the finest and most sensible treatment of this subject that we've ever listened to. Where can we get a copy of the script?"

THE occasion for this flood of praise was a dialog between Henry and Jack Barbour—father and son in "One Man's Family"—in which a problem that has worried parents in every generation was handled so diplomatically that no one could take offense, and so sensibly that many parents must have taken heart.

Radio has no exclusive audiences. It can not aim at a particular group, secure in certainty that only they will hear its message. By nature it must be forever firing at random, forever shouting from housetops. Its listeners may be infants, or they may be grandmothers. What it has to say may sound childish to one mind, be overpowering to another.

Hence the rigidity of radio's self-imposed censorship, its honest effort to strike a balance, to be mature and at the same time to avoid material too heady for youthful brains. Radio's handicap is that it must appeal to a universal and unseen audience whose nature it never knows exactly.

Carlton E. Morse, who has been writing the script for "One Man's Family" since the show first went on the air, on May 17, 1933, tackled this problem skilfully and courageously. An adept writer and a shrewd student of human nature, he handled the task so cleverly that the dialog he wrote has already become a popular landmark in radio dramatics.

In the Thanksgiving-week broadcast of "One Man's Family," presented by Tenderleaf Tea, Henry Barbour, head of the family whose adventures have been so well told that the story has become a standard of excellence in the literature of radio, talks with his son Jack. The part of Henry Barbour is taken by J. Anthony Smythe, that of Jack by 18-year-old Page Gilman.

JACK, the adolescent son, is troubled by an awakening consciousness of approaching maturity. His body and mind have undergone changes of which he is aware but which he hardly understands. Obviously, as appears from the conversation between him and his father, he is somewhat embarrassed and afraid.

Between father and son there is the barrier of silence which is inevitable between youth and age. Age is afraid of making an unwelcome intrusion; youth is afraid of the laughter of its elders, even afraid of its own fears for fear they may be foolish.

IN THIS case only the fact that there is a healthy comradeship between Jack and his father, and that their natural friendliness and ease of manner with one another is intensified by the holiday atmosphere of Thanksgiving emboldens the boy to speak. Reluctantly he addresses his parent.

JACK: You know what I really like best about Thanksgiving and Christmas?

HENRY: What's that?

JACK: The way you break down and are one of us . . . You know, Dad, you're doggone human when you break down . . .

HENRY: Am I, indeed?

JACK: Sure! At times like this I feel like I could talk to you about anything and you'd understand . . .

HENRY: Yes . . . yes . . . (pause) . . . And at other times you can't?

JACK: Oh, I guess it's only natural . . . You're busy and all that . . . but . . . Well, I DO get a "you're 'way over there and I'm 'way over here" feeling . . .

HENRY: I see . . .

JACK: But not today . . . It's swell . . .

HENRY: . . . er Jack . . .

JACK: Yeah?

HENRY: You mentioned that you felt as though you could talk to me about anything . . .

JACK: Yeah, sure . . .

HENRY (hesitates): Is there anything you'd like to talk to me about?

JACK (hesitates): No-o-o-o-o . . . I don't think so. Not particularly . . .

HENRY (disappointed): There isn't?

JACK (hesitates): No-o-o-o-o . . .

HENRY (disappointed): Yes . . . Yes . . .

JACK: . . . Dad?

HENRY: Eh?

JACK: You're a clean-minded person.

HENRY (startled): Eh?

JACK (hastily): I mean a lot more than most people . . .

HENRY: Well, I try to be, but what gave you that idea?

JACK: Well, you never say anything off-color and you never seem to notice implications or get double meanings in words . . .

HENRY: I have other things to think about.

JACK: But have you always been that way? . . . It's all right to say keep a clean, healthy mind and quite different to practise it.

HENRY: It bothers you?

JACK: Well, I don't think I'm different from most people, but . . . well, I don't like it . . . I don't want to have thoughts that would make me ashamed if someone found out . . .

HENRY (agrees): Yes . . . yes . . .

JACK: Is it me? . . . I mean, should I be able to control my mind if I want to?

HENRY BARBOUR, speaking frankly out of the wealth of wisdom which he himself has acquired, advises Jack, simply and honestly and with no false note of prudishness in his manner. He has been hesitant, yes, but hesitant only as he studies an approach to his subject, not hesitant out of intellectual dishonesty or a desire to dodge the question.

So he talks to his boy—no, not as man to man but, what is infinitely more difficult, as father to son, in an easy, straightforward fashion that has become the envy of every father who

So You Like Contests?

YOUR OPPORTUNITY GUIDE

Times shown under radio contests are EST; for CST subtract 1 hour; MST, 2 hours; PST, 3 hours

BIGGEST advance news in contesting this week is the contest to be sponsored by Click, the new picture magazine whose first issue had to have a million extra copies printed because the original half million melted off the newsstands within a couple of days after they appeared. Prizes totaling $50,000.00 will be paid for suggestions for the magazine. The contest will be one of the "specials" next week in this department.

As this is written, word is getting around that Elizabeth Arden plans a "Modern Cinderella" contest soon. Some American women will be given a three weeks' trip to New York with all expenses paid, including a limousine and a chauffeur, entertainment, and personally styled clothes. Announcements will be made on "The Hour of Romance" on the Mutual network Tuesday nights at 10 p.m. EST. Details will be published here soon!

Procter and Gamble is offering $5 for each letter used in advertising P & G White Naptha Soap. Entrants should tell about their experiences with the product. The offer is being announced on NBC's "Guiding Light" program, broadcast at 3:45 p.m. EST Monday through Friday. . . . Incidentally, every week of the current P & G Ivory Soap contest, in which the top prizes every week are ten completely equipped Studebaker sedans, seems to increase contesters' enthusiasm. It's the most spectacular opportunity in contesting right now—with four sets of prizes still to come after those awarded on the basis of entries received by Saturday night of this week. And the prizes are just as handsome now as they were at the beginning of the contest!

The New York Daily News is now conducting its annual "Beautiful Child" photograph contest. First prize is $1,000.00; second, $250.00; third, $100.00. In addition, $25 will be paid for any other picture printed. Photographs must be identified fully with the child's full name, date of birth, sex, height, weight, color of hair and eyes, mother's and father's full names, father's occupation and address. Send pictures to "Beautiful Child Contest, The News, 220 East 42nd Street, New York, N. Y." None will be returned unless the sender specifies and sends full first-class return postage.

The Townsend-Friend Contest Service, of Urbana, Illinois, has compiled a selection of 105 outstanding prize-winning contest entries written during 1937. . . . New York's Cammeyer Shoe Shops will soon conduct shoe-naming contests in several Eastern colleges, advertising in the school newspapers. Among the colleges will be Smith, Wellesley and Mount Holyoke. . . . another cigarette company is rumored about ready to start contesting—this time Camels are expected to enter the field. Start saving those packages! . . . G & W Whisky is also expected to announce a contest—perhaps before you read this. . . . The New York Post has increased its popularity with most contesters by fighting the "answer sellers"—a contest bane. . . . If contesters don't follow contest rules any better than they do ours, we know why many don't win. We receive so many inquiries from readers who don't observe the "stamped, self-addressed envelope" request! That's bad contest practise.

$1,000 CASH

PRIZES: 1st, $500; 2nd, $250; 3rd, $100; next ten prizes, $10 each; next ten prizes, $5 each.

TO ENTER: In each of eight issues, Jan. 15 through March 5, RADIO GUIDE will publish two pictures of scenes from Warner Bros.' motion picture, "Hollywood Hotel." A blank conversation "balloon" is to be filled in on each, giving a reply to a completed remark made in another balloon. Send all 16 answers written on the pictures to "Snappy Comeback" Contest Editor, Radio Guide, 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Illinois.

For more facts see RADIO GUIDE.

BONDS AND CAMERAS

PRIZES: (Weekly) 1st, $100.00 United States savings bond; three second prizes, each a Kodak Senior Six-20 camera with F4.5 lens (worth about $29.50 each); (Grand prize, selected from weekly winners) $500.00 United States savings bond.

TO ENTER: Send your most attractive photo of a child under ten years to Lysol Photo Contest, Bloomfield, N. J. Each photo must have with it a Lysol carton. Contest open only to amateurs. Six weekly contests—first opens Monday of this week (Jan. 31); last closes at midnight, March 12. State age of child on each photo. Negatives must be submitted if photo is considered for a prize, but don't send unless asked for.

For more facts, listen to Dr. Allan R. Dafoe's broadcasts, Monday, Wednesday and Friday, CBS, 4:45 p.m. EST, or see Radio Guide, Jan. 29, 1938.

heard the program and has been confronted by the same task. Morse touched not only on a universal problem but on a universal solution—the solution of friendship and complete honesty between father and son.

Henry Barbour addresses his boy:

HENRY: You're right in the prime of youth, Jack. Right at the period when the physical side of living is the foremost consideration. Apparently it's nature's way of assuring the continuance of the race. At least it's common to all healthy young people with strong, virile bodies.

JACK: You mean it's just this particular period of my life? That right now my body is dominating my mind?

HENRY: Yes, it's a problem everyone faces.

JACK: Then there's nothing I can do about it?

HENRY: No, I didn't say that. There are a number of things to be done about it. You can wear down a good many of those insistent physical demands through exercise. A tired body relaxes the mind.

JACK: Yeah, I know that.

HENRY: Then avoid rich, spicy food. And above all things avoid intoxicating drinks. They stimulate the body and the imagination!

JACK: Yeah!

HENRY: Then regulate your reading, your conversation and your other forms of pleasure. The wrong kind of reading whets your appetite just as do the wrong kind of companions.

JACK: But in any case in a few years things will change? I mean the mind will just naturally dominate the physical?

HENRY: That depends on you. Thinking is a matter of habit just as most other involuntary actions. If you make no effort to control your thoughts now, then no matter how old you get to be your thoughts will still remain unleashed.

JACK: Is that what they mean by a dirty old man?

HENRY: That's exactly what they mean.

JACK (sighs): Whoever fixed things up certainly made a mess of it.

HENRY: Not necessarily. It's that continual fight for self-control within each of us which makes for strong men and women. Isn't there a saying, "It's better to rule yourself than to rule a kingdom"? Something like that.

JACK: Yeah. You went through all that?

HENRY: I did, indeed.

JACK: Well, you seem to have come out all right.

HENRY: I hold mental reservations on that subject.

NOTE closely the closing lines of the scene, in which Jack asks his father, "You went through all that?" and Henry replies, remembering his own youth and how slowly wisdom came, "I did, indeed." In those lines are the essence of Morse's story and the essence of its wide appeal. In this instance he has related the experience of the Barbour—father and son—to the lives of every father and son.

In the "One Man's Family" episode described above, Morse and the sponsors and producers of the drama have met a universal problem squarely and answered it in a way which is both intelligent and inoffensive, an accomplishment typical of the entire serial. This episode in particular was a noteworthy bit of pioneering in the field of first-class writing for radio, and a broadcast which well deserved the letters of praise it drew.

One Man's Family may be heard Wednesday over an NBC network at:
 EST 8:00 p.m. — CST 7:00 p.m.
 MST 6:00 p.m. — PST 5:00 p.m.
 And Sunday for the West Coast at:
 MST 10:30 p.m. — PST 9:30 p.m.

DISCARD YOUR OLD AERIAL

It Is Most Likely Corroded and Has Poor or Loose Noisy Connections
 No MORE BUZZES, CLICKS and shorts from summer rains and winter snow and sleet when using an F & H Capacity Aerial Eliminator. Anyone can connect it in a moment's time to the radio set—occupies only 1 1/2 inch by 4 inch space behind the set, yet enables your radio to operate without an aerial and tune in stations over the entire broadcast band frequencies and short wave channels.

Complete
 Does away with Aerial entirely—Just place an F & H Capacity Aerial Eliminator (size 1 1/2 in. x 4 in.) within your set. Simple instructions furnished with unit. Easily connected by anyone to aerial and ground of set. Your radio will then operate and tune in the same manner as if it were connected to an aerial. Operates on both short and long waves.

ELIMINATE THE AERIAL FOR GOOD
 Attach this unit to your radio—make your set complete in itself—forget aerial wires and troubles—move your set anywhere—no more roof climbing, unsightly lead-in or aerial wires.

NOT NEW—VALUE ALREADY PROVED
 On the market five years. 100,000 customers in U.S. and foreign countries. In use from the Arctic Region of Norway to the Tropics of Africa. Each factory tested on actual long distance reception. Cannot harm set—Easily connected to any radio, including radios having no ground or radios for doublet aerial. Note: It will not operate on battery or automobile radios.

5 DAYS TRIAL Mail coupon at once. Pay postman $1.00 plus a few pennies postage on delivery. If not entirely satisfied, return within five days and your dollar will be refunded without question.

WHAT USERS SAY

LaPorte, Tex. After using the Capacity Aerial Eliminator over a year on my 1935 small 7 tube set can say it brings in reception with fine volume and clarity, pulling in stations from Japan, Europe, South America, and broadcast stations from all over the U. S. Efficiency proven, I took down my old outside aerial.

"Raw" Throat? Here's Quick Action!

Zonite Wins Germ-Killing Test by 9.3 to 1

If your throat is raw or dry with a coming cold, don't waste precious time on remedies that are ineffective or slow-acting. Delay may lead to a very serious illness. To kill cold germs in your throat, use the Zonite gargle. You will be pleased with its quick effect.

Standard laboratory tests prove that Zonite is 9.3 times more active than any other popular, non-poisonous antiseptic!

HOW ZONITE ACTS—Gargle every 2 hours with one teaspoon of Zonite to one-half glass water. This Zonite treatment benefits you in four ways: (1) Kills all kinds of cold germs at contact! (2) Soothes the rawness in your throat. (3) Relieves the pain of swallowing. (4) Helps Nature by increasing the normal flow of curative, health-restoring body fluids. Zonite tastes like the medicine it really is!

DESTROY COLD GERMS NOW—DON'T WAIT

Don't let cold germs knock you out. Get Zonite at your druggist now! Keep it in your medicine cabinet. Be prepared. Then at the first tickle or sign of rawness in your throat, start gargling at once. Use one teaspoon of Zonite to one-half glass water. Gargle every 2 hours. We're confident that Zonite's quick results will more than repay you for your precaution.

Always gargle with Zonite at the first sign of a cold

ZONITE WINS TEST BY 9.3 TO 1

ZONITE IS 9.3 TIMES MORE ACTIVE than any other popular, non-poisonous antiseptic

Radio Guide's Picture Panorama of Broadcasting

Inside and Out

X-RAY photos showing the workings of CBS Commentator Bob Trout's voice. Above, left: Capsule-shaped spot midway down throat marks voice-box. Shrewdly publicized as Columbia's "presidential announcer," young Trout introduces President Roosevelt on almost every one of his radio broadcasts. A specialist in covering public events, the 28-year-old Trout is an important figure in the CBS news program, "Headlines and By-Lines." Lower left: Trout, a native of Wake County, North Carolina, made his debut as a radio announcer in 1931 at Station WJSV, Washington, D. C. He went to CBS on October 20, 1932, when WJSV joined the network. Once ambitious to write, he got his first radio job when he dropped into WJSV to look at the studio, more out of curiosity than for any other reason. His first ambition was to be a locomotive engineer. He ran away from home several times and before entering radio work served as a soda dispenser, was a Wall Street runner, seaman on the S. S. President Roosevelt, writer, cab-driver, and bill-collector. Right: Robert Trout in action at the microphone.

COOK'S TOUR

When Mr. Average American's petition for hearing on "We, the People" is accepted, he doesn't travel to New York as a paid performer, but as a "guest." Left: After a three-hour trip from his home in Toms River, New Jersey, Dr. Cook alights from a train at Jersey City, eyes alert for the official greeter for the program

Mr. Average American makes the trip as one with a message to tell, one which the Listeners' Committee feels to be of real interest, and during his two-day stay in New York City is shown every consideration. Above: Snow flecks the bow of the ferry that carries the 72-year-old explorer to the docks in Manhattan

Above: At dress rehearsal for his broadcast, Dr. Cook sits across the table from Host Gabriel Heatter, who offers regrets at being unable to meet him on his arrival. Heatter is a native New Yorker who does his own research and writes his own radio program scripts

Above: Many "We, the People" performers see New York in the company of guides, furnished on request. Dr. Cook, at home in the metropolis, goes alone, drops in on Anthony Biella, gun-store proprietor and former explorer, talks over old times. Many guests see the town's night life with Heatter after the broadcasts. However, Dr. Cook found bed much more to his liking

He hops a cab to the Belmont-Plaza Hotel, where all program "guests" put up. Above: In his $3 hotel room. His small overnight case holds a change of underclothing (light wool), brush, comb and various toilet articles

Above: "We, the People" guests have their voices checked for microphone quality. Here Dr. Cook takes a test in the studio recording laboratories. That done, he talks over his part in the broadcast with Adrian Samish

STARS of the "We, the People" program, originated by Phillips H. Lord, come to New York as guests of the sponsors, see the sights of the city during a two-day stay.

Typical of the routine followed by "We, the People" performers was the trip of Dr. Frederick Albert Cook, former Arctic explorer, lecturer and writer, and storm-center of a controversy almost as thunderous as France's famed Dreyfus case. Dr. Cook appeared to reiterate his claim that he was the first white man to reach the North Pole.

Cook, a veteran explorer, was in the Arctic from 1907 to 1909. In the autumn of 1909 he returned to civilization with the startling announcement that he and two Eskimo companions had reached the Pole April 21, 1908. At the same time Lieutenant Robert Edwin Peary announced that he had reached the Pole April 6, 1909. Cook's claim was challenged and finally discredited. In his book, "My Attainment of the Pole," he tells the story of his battle with the Arctic, argues his side of the famous case.

Gabriel Heatter, ace news commentator, serves as host of the "We, the People" series (Thursdays, 7:30 p.m. EST, on CBS). He succeeded Phillips Lord when the latter's other radio duties conflicted.

Photographed by Charles Seawood

Above: After the show, and just before retiring, Dr. Cook goes to Times Square to look at the bright lights, recalling without doubt how there he was one day hailed as a hero, only later to be denounced a fraud for his polar claims

Left: Gabriel Heatter gives final pre-broadcast instructions to the program's guests, all of whom have been selected by a special Listeners' Committee from the thousands of letters of application sent in by a nation-wide audience

OF MICE AND HENS

Mickey Mouse is on the radio now with his Theater of the Air (Sundays, 5:30 p.m. EST, on NBC-Red). Shown above are Mickey, Clarabelle Cow, Madame Clara Cluck, the hen, and Donald Duck

Donald Duck, Mickey's chief rival for popular attention, gets the gong above, but persists in his nosy performance. Music is provided by Donald's Swing Band and Minnie Mouse's Woodland Choir

CLARA CLUCK

Commander Clifford J. MacGregor (above) crouches beside the lead-dog of his sturdy team of huskies, old reliables of the Arctic

FROM GREENLAND'S ICY MOUNTAINS

TIME was when the world often waited for years to hear from expeditions to far-off places. Times have changed. Frequent reports on activities of two contemporary exploring parties—the MacGregor Arctic Expedition and the Holden Expedition to British Guiana—are heard via NBC. Weather conditions make broadcasts irregular, but the two parties have averaged four short-wave radiocasts a month since last September. Christmas Eve they and relatives at home engaged in a three-way interchange of greetings. The MacGregor expedition, wintering at Reindeer Point, Greenland, 600 miles from the North Pole, has been afield since August. An eleven-man party, it plans to establish a camp at Fort Conger, Ellesmere Island, for weather observations and as a base for airplane flights over the Pole. A tentative schedule calls for broadcasts from the MacGregor party February 9 and February 15, the first to mark Boy Scout Day (Robert Inglis, member of the expedition, is a Scout), the second to describe the northern lights. The Holden expedition, a six-man party, likewise afield since August, has been studying tropical diseases and Indian drugs along the Essequibo River upper reaches. It is on its way out of the jungle now.

MacGregor's ship, the "A. W. Greeley," is shown above as it was ready to sail from Port Newark, N. J., for its Greenland base

EVER kick yourself because you thought of a swell comeback about two hours after you needed it most? Here's where it's never too late for a snappy retort and a calculated wise-crack is just as good as a fast one. Get into RADIO GUIDE'S hilarious "Snappy Comeback" Contest, based on the Warner Brothers film, "Hollywood Hotel," now showing at theaters all over the country. See the picture. Then start to work at once. It's easy enough. Here's how:

Above are two photographs of scenes from the motion picture. Two such pictures were printed in last week's RADIO GUIDE, and two will be printed every week through March 5. These are the fourth installment. There are sixteen pictures in all.

Then write or print your reply in the empty "balloon" above that character's head. That's all. It's easy. It's fun. And it's profitable!

Be sure you have sufficient first-class postage on the envelope containing your entries. Be sure your name is written on or attached to each photograph. And be sure there are sixteen pictures in each set you submit. Incomplete sets are disqualified. Be sure your entries are postmarked before midnight, March 13, 1938.

RULES: 1. In each of eight issues—January 15, through March 5—Radio Guide will publish two photographs of scenes from Warner Brothers' motion picture, "Hollywood Hotel." Each picture will have a blank conversation "balloon" to be filled in with a "snappy comeback" to remarks printed in other "balloons." Suggested "comebacks" will accompany each picture.

2. A complete set of sixteen filled-in photographs or reasonably accurate facsimiles of them, constitutes an entry. Replies must be written in spaces provided on pictures. For the sets of pictures selected by the judges, prizes amounting to $1,000.00 will be paid according to the schedule on this page.

3. Entries will be judged on appropriateness—in consideration of the story of the motion picture—neatness, originality, and directness of thought. Elaborate entries will receive no special consideration.

4. Do not send in any entries until your set is complete—sixteen pictures in all. Back issues of Radio Guide may be obtained from the Circulation Dept., Radio Guide, 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Ill., or examined at its offices or in public libraries. Sign your name on each picture or affix it securely in some way. Send entries to "Snappy Comeback" Contest Editor, Radio Guide, 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago Ill.—first-class postage, prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will not be accepted by the addressee.

5. To be eligible for prizes, entries must be postmarked before midnight, March 13, 1938.

6. No entries will be returned. In fairness to all participants in the contest, judges will not enter into any correspondence concerning any aspect of this contest. All entries become the property of Radio Guide.

7. This contest is open to everyone in the United States and Canada, except employes of Radio Guide and their families. The editors of Radio Guide will be the contest judges. All persons agree by entering to accept the decisions of the judges as final. In case of ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

8. Anybody eligible to compete may enter as many times as he likes—and may win more than one prize if his entries merit such consideration.

CARL HOFF MAKES A

"Carl Hoff and his Orchestra," one of 1,000 movie shorts made yearly, is in the making as cameras grind before Patricia Norman (who also sings with Eddy Duchin) and Jimmy Blair singing to Carl Hoff's band accompaniment. Painted backgrounds and artificial lights make desired settings possible

Hoff looks and listens as variety in action for the film comes from the Kidoodlers, NBC foursome noted for their ability to get music from toy instruments (below)

NAME attractions on the radio mean drawing-cards for the theater. So to the cameras are summoned musicians and actors; some, like Fred Allen and Jack Benny, for full-length movies; some, like Carl Hoff, whose weekly airings via CBS are on Ford's "Watch The Fun Go By" program, his band and vocalists and NBC's Kidoodlers to make "Carl Hoff and His Orchestra" for February release. To make 1,000 feet of film to run ten minutes on the screen, the artists worked one full day—rehearsing all forenoon, shooting all afternoon. For this job Hoff got $5,000, which adds to his radio fees and other salaries to make him one of the season's big money-makers. Hoff's most notable trait is his uncanny ear for true tone. A divorce last August separated him from his wife, to whom he gave custody of his only child, Betty, seven.

On-the-set conferences in New York, like Hollywood, are informal. Hoff, in slip-over sweater, goes over instructions with Joe Hennaberry, director of the picture, and Sadie Rosenfeld of the music-clearance department. As in radio, all tunes must have copyright details okayed. So too must careful tab be kept on hours to conform with union demands

"Close 'em up!" shouts the director and sound-proofed doors are closed, ventilators and other noise-making machinery shut off and the sign "Silence" is illuminated as actual recording starts. An employe stands guard to enforce this order, of the industry's most rigid

Sound is rarely made simultaneously with the filming. Reason: If first recording isn't perfect, try, try again. The music will later be synchronized with the film. As the band plays, Hoff gets signals from the control-booth (above) just as he does in radio Director, talent, carpenters, mechanics—all lunch on the premises in the studio commissary, cafeteria style. Operated by Warner Bros.-Vitaphone for convenience, not for profit, prices are accordingly low. Hoff eats lightly while working—soup, two rolls, coffee and pie. Long familiar to Hollywood, commissaries are still unknown to radio studios

Lunch over, Hoff submits to the ministrations of the make-up man, who mixes the proper grease-paints for Carl's skin, works more than an hour until a satisfactory panchromatic make-up is applied. That finished, Hoff dons dress-clothes, brushes down any stray locks

Chief Make-up Man Dick Willis shapes Patricia Norman's lips as he puts the finishing touches on her camera make-up. A brunet, her make-up is accordingly dark. The chair, like a barber's, adjusts as desired. The smock protects her dress

As make-up progresses, the crew is busily setting up lights and other equipment. Here an electrician plugs light cables on a catwalk 100 feet above the studio floor

Powerful Klieg lights on movable platforms make special light-effects possible. Sometimes as much as 10,000 watts are used to light one set of a movie short such as this

Director Hennaberry outlines the action for the principals. So that the polished floor when filmed will have a mirror-like appearance, it is protected from footprints by heavy paper

Two cameras, on movable trucks for better shooting-angles, are used in filming a picture, the best print of the scene being used when the picture is assembled

As the director places Hoff and the singers on the stage, the distance from that spot to the cameras is measured. Assistant Director Ackerson stands by with a ready stop-watch

The next scene calls for the Kidoodlers, requiring time out for more measurements. The quartet here performs with the band, later will play on their own odd instruments

Again comes the signal "Lock 'er up!" In rapid succession follows Director Hennaberry's signal for "Lights! Action! Let 'em roll!" Carl Hoff swings his band into action. Cameras grind first sequence and "Carl Hoff and his Orchestra" turns!

Meanwhile Songstress Patricia Norman and Singer Jimmy Blair watch proceedings. In foreground at switchboard is the chief electrician, known as the "gaffer," controlling lights under the chief cameraman's direction. Special lighting-effects play a most important part

Another movie short made, Hoff rests and chats with George Evans, publicist, left, and Studio Chief Sam Saxe (with hands folded) and others. Hoff, frequently heard on "Your Hit Parade," makes another appearance on that program Saturday night, February 12

Entering a new chapter of pan-American history, that of early twentieth century idealists, "Brave New World" presents "Ariel and Latin American Idealists." The broadcast tells the story of Hodo's book
"Ariel," as illustrative of intellectual life in South America, and of the struggle of southern youth to choose between materialism and idealism. It also tells of modern student movements in South America.

ASTHMA

Bronchial Cough Sufferers

ACCEPT $1.90 Gift Offer

Wain's Compound has brought blessed relief to thousands of men, women and children suffering from torturing attacks of Bronchial Asthma and Bronchial Coughs, and enabled them to breathe more freely, easily and to sleep more soundly. Contains no habit forming drugs or heart depressants. The active ingredient in Wain's Compound works with amazing speed. In a few minutes it is taken into the blood stream and starts its work. No matter how long you have suffered or how many remedies you have tried without results, we want you to prove the value of this famous remedy to yourself today. Write to Wain's Laboratory, Dept. 153, Hollywood, Calif., at once for full size regular $2.25 bottle of Wain's Compound (our standard price at drug stores) for only 35¢ - stamps or coins - to cover actual cost of postage and handling. (Saves you $1.90 - our gift offer to you.) This offer good only to sufferers who have never before used Wain's Compound. Limited to one bottle per person. Also FREE 16-page book. YOUR 35¢ BACK IF NOT SATISFIED.

BE A RADIO EXPERT

Learn at Home—Make Good Money

Many men I trained at home in spare time make $30, $50, $75 a week. Many make $5, $10, $15 a week extra in spare time while learning. Illustrated 64-page book points out Radio's opportunities, also how you can learn to be a Radio Expert through my practical 50-50 method of training. Television training is included. Money Back Agreement given. Mail coupon today. Get book FREE.

SHORT WAVES

BY CHAS. A. MORRISON, president, INTERNATIONAL DX-ER'S ALLIANCE

Time Shown is EST. For CST subtract 1 hour; for MST, 2 hours; for PST, 3 hours

THE worst enemy of enjoyable short-wave reception is man-made interference caused by near-by electrical equipment, which is antiquated, improperly adjusted or so designed that it creates a disturbance in all receivers within its transmitting radius, which may range from a few feet to several miles in the case of some diathermic machines. Many countries have enacted laws which makes the operation of any such equipment illegal, and subjects the owners thereof to heavy fines. So far, no concerted effort has been made to rid listeners in this country of this nuisance. If listeners would complain and keep on complaining to municipal authorities about loud and persistent interference which spoils their reception something would eventually be done to reduce the interference, at least in that respective city. Such a campaign, which incidentally was inaugurated in Detroit by the local chapter of the International DX-ers Alliance, cooperating with one of the leading newspapers, has already resulted in action being taken in the form of the detailment of two servicemen from the Police Radio Department to full-time duty in running down and eliminating any interference that may be annoying listeners in that area. The police there have further requested the city council for funds to equip a special interference car to aid them in their work. Listeners in the Detroit area, suffering from noisy reception due to electrical interference, are requested to get in touch with the Detroit Police Radio Department, or Richard Verbrugge, 10904 East Warren Avenue. What has been done in Detroit, can be done elsewhere and if enough agitation is made about the subject, in time suitable legislation will enable listeners to enjoy their favorite international or domestic program with noise-free satisfaction.

The North American Hour from Rome, which is heard nightly from 7:30 to 9 p.m. EST, over 2RO3 (9.635), is now being radiated simultaneously by Italian Commercial Station IRF on 9.83 megas.

Three of the programs to be broadcast from Daventry, England, this week, deserve special mention: On Wednesday, February 2, at 3 p.m. EST, the Viscount Cecil of Chelwood and Sir Charles Mallet will discuss the history of the League of Nations in connection with the weekly program entitled "The Way of Peace." Lord Cecil is President of the League of Nations Union, and it was he, working with President Wilson, that was largely responsible for establishing the League back in 1919. . . . on Saturday, February 5, at 9:50 a.m. EST, the traditional international Rugby match between Scotland and Wales will be broadcast from Murrayfield, Edinburgh, Scotland. This match is one of the most exciting events on the British sporting calendar. Of the forty-eight games that have been played, Scotland and Wales have each won twenty-three games, the remaining two having been ties. . . . on Saturday, February 5, at 3 p.m. EST, George Robey, the famous British comedian, will be heard in the production, "Palace Varieties." Every broadcast of this regular weekly feature, contains at least two new acts.

From G. W. Rockwell of Halifax, Nova Scotia, Canada, I learn that ZP14 (6.15), "Radio Cultura, La Voz del Corayon de Sud America," Vilarrica, Paraguay, is now answering listeners' reports. This station, which has a unique interest since it offers about the only reception from the little-known country of Paraguay, is best heard from 5 p.m. to sign-off at 6 p.m. EST.

Roger Legge of Philadelphia, Penn., writes that he is hearing a new Honduras station, HRK2A, on a frequency of 5.71 megas, irregularly between 8 and 11 p.m. EST. Announcements in Spanish, request that all reports be directed to HRK, "Radio Nacional," Tegucigalpa, Honduras. "Radio Martinique," Poste Seri, Boite Postale 136, Fort-de-France, Martinique, verified by letter, saying that regular QSL cards would be sent as soon as they had received them. The power was given as 200 watts, and the frequency as 9.7 megas, although the station is actually being heard on 9.685 megas.

Transmissions for North America from Prague, Czechoslovakia, are now being radiated on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, from 8 to 10:35 p.m. EST, on OLR2B (6.03), OLR2A (6.01) or OLR3A (9.55), depending upon reception conditions at the time.

Eugene Reinhard of Locust, N. J., reports a mysterious new Communist station, announcing in German only, as the Deutsche Freiheits Sender (German Freedom Sender), is being heard daily from 4 to 5 p.m. EST, on a frequency of approximately 9.8 megas. Although no location is given, announcements are frequently made to the effect that reports sent to any anti-Nazi, or anti-Fascist station (for example EAR, Madrid) will reach them. That the German Government is a little annoyed by this bootleg station may be concluded from the fact that a new law has just been passed by which the owners of clandestine transmitters in that country, instead of, as previously, being imprisoned or merely ordered to pay a fine, will be placed in solitary confinement.

Russell Graham of Verdun, P. Q., Canada, heard a new Mexican station, giving location as Medero, on a frequency of 7.1 megas, signing off on January 12, at 11:10 p.m. EST.

The two Warsaw Short-Wave Stations SPW (13.635) and SPD (11.535), have adopted a special interval signal in connection with their nightly transmissions to North America in order that their stations may be more readily recognized. It consists of a few bars taken from the carillon theme in Moniuszko's opera, "The Haunted Castle," and is a very distinctive melody. Verifications of reception from SPD, consist of an attractive brown and white card, which is entirely different from that furnished by SPW.

The station that B. W. Harris of Elroy, Ill., has been hearing in the afternoons on a frequency of 11.04 megas, is CSW2 of Lisbon, Portugal, which is again operating on this frequency daily to 7 p.m. EST.

A brand new 500-watt transmitter for T14NRH, "The World's Most Friendly Station," located at Heredia, Costa Rica, and owned by that grand old pioneer of radio, Amanda Cespedes Marin, was inaugurated on January 1. A tribute to the popularity of this station, which became world famous when using a power of only 7½ watts in the early days of short-wave radio, may be gathered from the fact that the money to pay for this new transmitter came from voluntary contributions in the form of pennies from all parts of the world.

Short-wave programs of American stations are shown along with the regular listings beginning on page 27. These are indicated, for example, by (sw-11.87) in parentheses following a program listing. This means that on 11.87 megacycles the same program may also be heard over an American short-wave station. Please note that foreign stations do not always adhere precisely to their announced program schedules.

IMPROVES YOUR APPEARANCE 100%

Have that healthy
TAN

that Men and Women Admire!

IT'S the first impression that counts! Get that healthy, vital appearance that opens the door to success! Many a man has lost his big chance because his appearance didn't "click". Social and business success depend on your looks . . . and the pale, weak, pasty-looking chap won't get to first base. Now a daily "sun bath" in the privacy of your own home, will keep you looking like a Million Dollars—and feeling as physically fit as you look!

LOOK SUCCESSFUL—BE SUCCESSFUL!

● A good, healthy coat of tan has a surprising effect on your appearance. You look healthy and virile and instantly command attention. Your prosperous appearance makes people want to do business with you. Salesmen find their sales actually increase when they acquire a real bronze tan! And you will find yourself more popular, for that healthy outdoor look attracts both men and women.

IMPROVES HEALTH AS WELL AS APPEARANCE!

● Frequent exposure to the ultra-violet rays of the sun tones up the entire system, stimulates the body into energy and vitality, increases gland activity, builds up resistance to colds . . . and aids in clearing up many skin diseases. Many cases of pimples and temporary blemishes have yielded quickly to their purifying action.

4 TIMES AS POWERFUL AS SUMMER SUN!

● You know what a glorious tan your skin would acquire if you could spend an hour every noon sun-bathing. The Health Ray Sun Lamp has been tested by the well known Electrical Testing Laboratories of New York. Their report indicates that this inexpensive Sun Lamp gives the same amount of beneficial ultra-violet rays in 15 minutes in your home that you would get in one hour's exposure to the mid-summer sun!

INEXPENSIVE HEALTH INSURANCE FOR EVERY MEMBER OF YOUR FAMILY

● Build up your resistance and vitality so that your system will more easily throw off germs and poisons. Insure yourself against illness the sunshine way!

● Sunshine is especially needed by children whose bones are growing. Remarkable results have been obtained by the use of ultra-violet rays in the treatment of rickets.
