Medal of Merit

A Weekly Award for Excellence in Broadcasting

AWARDED TO DR. ALLAN ROY DAFOE

THE country doctor—what a fabled character! Unsung. Unkept. Devoted to his flock with passion defying reason, yet a sloth among scientists, curing more with earnestness than skill. Withal, a pitiful, pathetic old fellow, dazed by the big parade passing him by, hibernating in his niche carved from Nature's bed-rock.

What a shock to have this most comfortable of illusions shattered! What a surprise for the appercart of our indulgence to be upset!

When the Dionne quintuplets were born, when they lived through their first hectic days, when they grew and celebrated successive birthdays, it was news—news to charm the world's heart, to dampen the world's lashes with tears of long-distance joy. More significant, though, than the sudden sensation of the Dionnes was the gradual appreciation of the Dionnes' doctor. This quiet Canadian stirred from our minds an old idea; gave us a new understanding. What greater achievement is there?

That backwoods life-saver, Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, up-ended the hollow image of the country doctor in most of our minds as a dignified dunce, a lovable, bumbling pill-mixer. Dr. Dafoe revealed through his own introduction to the world that today's country doctor is very little different from the practitioners of the great cities, the scientists of the great medical centers. In so doing, Dr. Dafoe performed a service both to the public and to his profession.

Throughout his years in Callender, Ontario, Dr. Dafoe has first served "his people." He has served the people first since his horizon broadened beyond Callender. Primarily, through his talks each Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoon on CBS, he has given the public a brand-new appreciation of the country doctor—a revision of our thought that was sorely needed. Further, he has provided radio's listeners an excellent course of home study in health and child-training—plus the entertainment necessary to make us absorb that education!

Practising doctors seem to consider services to their profession secondary. Dr. Dafoe's second great service has been to give the obscure doctors of the world an ideal. His broad familiarity with widely divergent facts and ideas has shown a way for many who considered their outposts too remote. No small feat, that!

Because Dr. Dafoe has so imminently served a public that sought him out and a profession he sought to better, Radio Guide honors him this week as one of radio's truly great. Since their introduction on October 5, 1936, his radio programs have been a noteworthy source of information for parents that will not be fully appreciated until today's babies look back and add their thanks to our own. In presenting to him and to his sponsors, the makers of Lysol, the Radio Guide Medal of Merit, the editors of this publication express their admiration in radio's highest tribute.

Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe upset an old illusion!

HAPPY LISTENING

Paradise Lost

COME, now, who is there among you who hasn't, at some time during his "civilized" existence, cherished dreams of one day chucking aside all the worries and tribulations incident to making a living and retiring to the blissful happiness of a South Sea isle where life amid a bountiful nature is sufficient unto itself?—Some such idyllic spot as Pitcairn Island, which Fletcher Christian and his little band of mutineers discovered to be an isolated paradise? Ah, what folly to have such dreams in an age of radio! Even delightful Pitcairn falls before the onslaught of adventuresome radio engineers and next month discards its isolation to become a point of origin for the National Broadcasting Company. Let James Street in his "Echoes of Yesterday" (pages 2 and 3) tell you about this newest frontier in modern broadcasting.

Pageant of Drama

GREAT news for students and lovers of the stage is the announcement that the National Broadcasting Company will present a ten-broadcast series of "Great Plays," showing the historical development of the theater. In complete charge of the venture is Blevins Davis, formerly of the School of Drama at Yale University and recently distinguished for his work as NBC's historical commentator at the coronation of King George VI. The series will begin this Saturday with Aristophanes' satiric comedy, "The Birds," and successive broadcasts will trace drama down through the ages to the present day. For a comprehensive discussion of this undertaking, we refer you to the story, "From Athens to Broadway," on page 4.

This Man Godfrey

HE EARNS more than twice the salary of President Roosevelt and indulges in the recreations of gentleman farmer, horse-breeder, aviator, and speedboat enthusiast—this chap, Arthur Godfrey, whose genial, entertaining style of song and patter were recently introduced over CBS. Winchell originally predicted his success. For a bright new spot on your dial, we suggest you turn to CBS, Monday and Friday, at 7:15 p.m. EST. For a group of interesting photographs of this new star, see page 15.

SOME OF THE BETTER REGULAR AND SPECIAL BROADCASTS—IN PREVIEW

"Met" Soprano Lotte Lehmann is genial Bing Crosby's guest—Thurs.

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 20

Kenneth Greenberger . . . oboe prodigy
Frank Simon's Armco Band—NBC-Blue, 3:30 p.m. EST.

Tuners-in will hear Greenberger, talented Cleveland Heights High School student. Besides being national-contest winner on the oboe, he is drum-major of the Cleveland Heights High School Band and president of the high school's chapter of National Honor Society.

"Honest Abe" . . . in retrospect
"World Is Yours"—NBC-Red, 4:30 p.m. EST.

Trouble-weary Abraham Lincoln liked to walk from the White House across the Mall to the red-stone Smithsonian Institution. The many things associated with the great Emancipator which today occupy honored places in the collections and little-known episodes of Lincoln's life will be dramatized.

Carlos Salzedo . . . stringmaster
"Magazine of the Air"—CBS, 5 p.m. EST.

Gifted French harpist, Salzedo has been hailed by many musical authorities for restoring the harp to the high place which it held in early music. He has played as soloist at the Monte Carlo and Metropolitan Opera Houses, appeared in ensembles, and has engaged in many concert tours.

Edmund Lowe . . . Jessel's guest
George Jessel program—MBS, 6 p.m. EST.

Who does not remember Eddie Lowe as the hard-boiled Sergeant Quirt of "What Price Glory?" Debonair and handsome, Lowe entered motion pictures in 1918, was one of the few stars of silent days to win even greater prominence with the advent of talking pictures.

Robert H. Jackson
Robert M. La Follette, Jr. . . in joint addresses
"The Forum Hour"—MBS, 7 p.m. EST.

Listeners will hear Jackson, newly appointed Solicitor-General of the United States, discuss monopolies and how lawyers have played a part in building up monopolies. Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, son of the famous "Bob," will talk on "The Judiciary in Relation to the Public."

Gene Lester . . . for Gulf Oil
Phil Baker—CBS, 7:30 p.m. EST.

RADIO GUIDE's singing cameraman, Gene Lester, will be present, but he won't sing. His candid camera will be interviewed by Host Baker and his "little birdie" will do the talking. Look for Gene's picture story of actual scenes at this broadcast in an early issue of RADIO GUIDE.

Gladys Swarthout . . . Charlie's guest
"Chase and Sanborn Hour"—NBC-Red, 8 p.m. EST.

Missouri's gift to opera, Miss Swarthout, came all the way from the small town of Deep Water to dazzle "Met"-goers with her glorious mezzo-soprano voice. Well known to movie-goers, she'll be heard in a dramatic sketch with Don Ameche, followed by gay banter with "Casanova" McCarthy.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 21

Wind instruments . . . in concert
"League of Composers"—CBS, 3 p.m. EST.

Mordecai Bauman will be baritone soloist, accompanied by Elie Siegmeister at the piano, in Siegmeister's own composition, "The Strange Funeral at Braddock." There'll also be several compositions for wind quintets, written by members of the League.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 22

George Washington . . . today
Anniversary Program—CBS, 2:30 p.m. EST.

This broadcast will show the modern application that can be made to many of the speeches and statements of Washington. Bob Trout will read quotations from Washington's comments on war, peace and armaments, and parallels will be drawn to contemporary situations.

Lt. Franklin M. Kreml . . . safety first
"It Can Be Done"—NBC-Blue, 8:30 p.m. EST.

Lt. Kreml, director of Northwestern University Traffic Safety Institute, believes auto accidents and fatalities can be reduced. He'll tell how he, as a member of the Evanston, Ill., police force, in twelve months made that city the safest one in America.

ACTOR WALTER CONNOLLY VISITS AL JOLSON'S SHOW — TUESDAY

Walter Connolly . . . Al's guest
Jolson Show—CBS, 8:30 p.m. EST.
(For the West, 8:30 p.m. PST.)

Although Ohio's Walter Connolly makes frequent appearances on the screen, his radio ones are rare. Celebrated stage and screen character actor, Connolly will be heard during a portion of this program in a very informal interview.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 23

Murder . . . in the Alps
"Lights Out"—NBC-Red, 12:30 a.m. EST.

"Ogre Wall," a new play by Arch Oboler, offers fans the latest in thrill-packed entertainment. It is a story of the attempt, by two adventurers, to climb the famous "Sigerwand," a great mountain wall in the Alps that has never been conquered.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 24

Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney
James H. R. Cromwell . . . in debate
"America's Town Meeting"—NBC-Blue, 9:30 p.m. EST.

Senator O'Mahoney from Wyoming, sponsor of a bill proposing that interstate corporations should receive their power from Congress, will speak for the affirmative on the subject "Should Interstate Corporations Receive Their Power From Congress?" Author-Economist Cromwell will discuss the negative side of the question.

Lotte Lehmann . . . visits Bing
"Kraft Music Hall"—NBC-Red, 10 p.m. EST.

Born in the little town of Perleberg, Germany, which lies midway between Salzburg and Vienna, Mme. Lehmann grew up in a region rich in musical tradition. World-renowned as an operatic soprano, she is without peer among lieder singers.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 25

Women . . . in modern state
International Federation of Business and Professional Women—NBC-Blue, 3 p.m. EST.

Women of world renown, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Lady Astor among them, will be heard discussing today's woman in a special broadcast originating in five different nations. This program is a part of the Federation's celebration of International Day.

For details on this program, please see page 8

Old Ranger . . . "Lilacs in the Desert"
"Death Valley Days"—NBC-Blue, 8:30 p.m. EST.

In a ghost camp in the Nevada Desert is a little walled garden such as one might expect to find in England. Much of it did come from England, almost sixty years ago. The story of the garden and the part it has played in the lives of two human beings will be dramatized on the Old Ranger's program.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 26

Drama . . . its development
"Great Plays"—NBC-Red, 5 p.m. EST.

In a gala full-hour series, NBC presents masterpieces of theater literature, selected from the classics to trace the development of drama from the time of ancient Athens down to present-day Broadway. First play is "The Birds," satiric comedy by Aristophanes.

For a complete story on this series, please see page 4.

It was in January, 1790, that Fletcher Christian and his followers fled to Pitcairn Island. Accompanied by Polynesian wives, they founded a paradise of their own. Above: As portrayed in "Mutiny on the Bounty"

ECHO OF YESTERDAY

BY JAMES STREET

RADIO GOES TO PITCAIRN, BRINGING THE WORLD TO DESCENDANTS OF MUTINEERS OF THE BOUNTY WHO FLED THERE 148 YEARS AGO

A modern radio station is being installed on Pitcairn Island and soon the 199 descendants of the mutineers of the Bounty will broadcast to America over networks of the National Broadcasting Company. — News Item.

FLETCHER CHRISTIAN, a giant of a man with a strange vision of freedom in his sad eyes, gathered his frightened followers on a boulder that stood like the Rock of Ages against the growling, grumbling, greedy sea, and with dread in their hearts and forlorn hope in their souls they watched flames flash and flicker up the rigging of H.M.S. Bounty.

The spars fell and sparks danced above the stricken ship. Her flag went up in a burst of glorious fire and soon was charred into ashes, a thimbleful of ashes that shortly before had represented the might of all England. The blue waters around the ship turned to yellow and smoke rolled into a blanket and hung over the horizon of the South Seas. The Bounty shuddered, settled and vanished.

The watchers were silent. The Bounty was gone! Behind the little group that saw her death was an adventure without parallel in history! A dare without equal! For they had defied the unknown, had sneered at death, and now they would not compromise with the fates.

But their faces were drawn as the Bounty burned, for tomorrow for them was a mystery.

Fletcher Christian turned from his followers as the ship disappeared and the waters hissed, and entered in his record—"Births, Deaths, Marriages and Remarkable Family Events"—the following:

"Jan. 23, 1790. H.M.S. Bounty burned at Pitcairn Island."

And there, said Christian, was the last connection with the world. They were isolated, marooned, 4,000 miles from white men, and alone on a lonely island in the loneliest sea of the world.

But now radio has gone to Pitcairn Island, and the new entry in the "Births, Deaths, Marriages and Remarkable Family Events" probably will be in March and in all likelihood will read:

"A radio station has been installed. Pitcairn Island is no longer isolated."

ONE hundred and forty-eight years from the season when the Bounty was burned, the descendants of Fletcher Christian and his comrades—the madcap mutineers who struck a blow for the rights of men who go down to the sea in ships—have shattered the isolation that their fathers ordained and have become a part of the radio brotherhood of man.

A group of manufacturers donated equipment for the new station which will permit the islanders to become a voice and ear of the world. The set will get its primary power from ordinary storage batteries, for Pitcairn has no power plant.

The National Broadcasting Company has completed arrangements for American broadcasts with the Pitcairn Island Expedition, which will erect the station on the lonely island, far from ship lanes—a dot of land and coral thousands of miles from nowhere.

THE expedition is sponsored by F. C. Henrickson, president of the Coto-Coil Company of Providence, Rhode Island. L. S. Bellem, Jr., and Granville P. Lindley, two other Rhode Islanders, will install the new transmitter. Lindley was the chief electrician of Byrd's second Antarctic expedition.

Broadcasts from the island are expected to begin the middle of next month. The expedition left New York February 3 and will arrive at their destination on Sunday, February 27. Two weeks will be required to install the equipment, after which the two members will spend an additional eight weeks testing and experimenting.

The islanders became radio conscious about a year ago, when the schooner Yankee dropped a hook and Alan Eurich, the ship's "Sparks," went ashore. The island had a tiny receiver, donated in 1920 by a British company on condition that Andrew Young, descendant of one of the mutineers, would learn the code. He learned it, and taught it to many islanders.

In 1928, an amateur operator from New Zealand installed an ancient transmitting set. It included a gasoline-driven generator which kept the storage battery charged. But there's no gasoline on Pitcairn and soon the set was useless. All Young could do was wait until a ship happened by to refill his gas tanks. So all in all, Station PIRC—the call-letters of the world's outpost—operated only every now and then, mostly then.

That was the situation when Operator Eurich of the Yankee went ashore. He wrote a story about the station and it was published in QST, official organ for radio amateurs. The "hams" asked American manufacturers to chip in and present Young with a new station, and the Pitcairn Island and NBC programs were the results.

The new apparatus is equipped with a windmill charger, which will give life to the 12-volt, 300-ampere-hour battery. There will be enough juice to run the station ten hours a day. The transmitter can operate either as a code-transmitter or as a radiotelephone, with a maximum power output of eighty watts.

To make broadcasts possible to the United States, the manufacturers backing the expedition have built equipment powerful enough to short-wave programs from Pitcairn to the RCA West Coast receiving station at Point Reyes, Calif.—a distance of 4,500 miles.

DURING the expedition's stay, the broadcasts will feature talks by Radio Engineer Bellem and Construction Engineer Lindley, and will include descriptions of the romantic island and interviews with the islanders.

The islanders are grateful for radio, but those business houses that gave the station have shattered a glorious legend for the rest of us. For who has not thrilled at the name of Pitcairn Island? Who has not built aircastles on its shifting sands? Who among you has not lived on the island in a world of make-believe, has not sailed side by side with Christian through seas of romance, has not seen the crawling, smelly slums of England whence came the Bounty mutineers, and has not traveled with them over the world and under the world to Tahiti and then down, down off the charted course, down an unknown sea to a paradise of coral and palms and eternal rest?

But now radio is going to Pitcairn! What a world of achievements those simple words foretell! For the islanders will be your next-door neighbors. No longer will they be something strange and far away. And their yesterdays will be told only in histories and their tomorrows will be like ours—Bulova-watch time! Charlie McCarthy! Ben Bernie and all the lads! Now they will go to Pitcairn, and Pitcairn will come to us.

The world, my friends, is no longer a stage—it's a radio dial!

AND radio has turned down and folded the last chapter of Pitcairn's history of isolation. The next thing we know they'll be having income taxes and traffic laws and maybe a New Deal, and then where will our island of idle dreams be?

It was one hundred and fifty-one years ago that pig-headed old George III commissioned Capt. Jonathan Bligh to sail the stout little warship Bounty to the South Seas, gather breadfruit trees and take them to the West Indies and plant them so the slaves would have cheap food and could live cheaply and work harder in human bondage for the power and glory of England.

A crew was got, mostly from the slums, and the Bounty sailed from Spithead in 1787, and in October of 1788 hove to at Tahiti, almost around the world from England.

The voyage had been tortuous. There had been calms and storms and other things that try men's hearts. Bligh was a driver. He had orders to get breadfruit for his majesty's slaves, and nothing was going to defeat him—not even the sea. But he reckoned not with the courage of men.

THE crew had taken almost inhuman punishment, and when the Bounty sailed from Tahiti after a twenty-three-weeks' stay, she had a hold full of breadfruit trees for slaves, and a fo'cas'le full of grim Englishmen who would not be slaves.

Christian, his spirit rebelling because Bligh was beating and driving his crew, could stand it no longer and planned to desert ship alone. But a seaman saw him attempt to get a boat away and told Christian that several of his comrades would mutiny.

The next day Christian and twenty-four seamen mutinied and cast Bligh and twenty-one loyal sailors adrift in an open boat with ample provisions. Bligh, one of the greatest sailors of all time, sailed the tiny boat more than three thousand miles to safety. He had vowed to bring the mutineers before an admiralty court, but while he was battling the sea, Christian sailed the Bounty back to Tahiti.

Realizing that England would hunt him down, Christian attempted to persuade all the mutineers to go with him to an undetermined destination. Only nine would venture back aboard the Bounty.

But these carried nine Tahitian wives. Six other Tahitians—three with wives—also sailed on the voyage.

CHRIStIAN, even if he knew, never told his companions where they were going. They sailed 1,400 miles northwest and came eventually to tiny Pitcairn Island, which had been discovered in 1767. The first thing Christian did was to begin a chronicle of their adventures, calling it "Births, Deaths, Marriages and Remarkable Family Events."

The world soon forgot about the Pitcairn Islanders, and no wonder, for their haven was 4,600 miles from San Francisco, 5,300 from Sydney, Australia, and 3,800 miles east of New Zealand.

Dissension cropped out soon after the paradise was founded and the women got the blame. In 1793 John Williams' wife, Fasto, died and the Englishman took unto himself the wife of one of the Tahitian natives without the native's permission. The native men—all six of them—plotted murder, but the colored wives of the white men got word of the plan and warned their husbands by singing a song—"Why Do the Black Men Sharpen Their Axes? To Kill the White Men."

THERE was war in paradise, and five of the original mutineers, including Christian, were butchered. Another, Alexander Smith, was seriously wounded and the remaining three escaped. Then they in turn, aided by the widows of the slain mutineers, murdered the six Tahitians. And that left only four men and eleven women. Smith became the leader, and the islanders began tilling the ground and living peacefully, absolutely oblivious to the rest of the world.

The next viper in Paradise was that old demon, rum. William McCoy had learned how to make moonshine. He used a copper kettle from the Bounty as a still and brewed a powerful potion of panther juice, which they called "tee-root" because it was made from the tee-root. McCoy bootlegged some of the stuff, but drank most of it himself, and on April 30, 1798, he got loaded to the gills, tied a stone around his neck and jumped into the sea.

And then there were only three white men. Violence returned in 1799 when Matthew Quintal threatened the lives of Smith and Richard Young, but Young and Smith joined forces, put Quintal on the spot, rubbed him out, and then there were only two men. Young died a natural death in 1800, and Smith had Paradise to himself, except for a lot of women and the half-caste children.

But he managed to get by in spite of this handicap, and everything was going pretty well on Pitcairn in 1808 when Matthew Folger, a Yankee skipper hard out from Boston, in the good ship Topaz, hove to at the speck in the South Seas and went ashore for water.

HE WOULDN'T believe Smith, but when the Englishman showed him the record and proof of the adventure, the hard-headed old Yankee skipper swore under his breath and drank a slug of tee-root to the courage of the men. He brought news to Pitcairn. The French Revolution was history—Napoleon was on the march—Europe was seething. A little republic called the United States had opened its eyes, cast aside its swaddling-clothes, and was yawning for a place in the crib of nations.

The Yankee skipper told Smith such glowing stories of the United States that the Englishman even decided that the islanders should have a democratic form of government like America's, and to make it complete, Smith changed his name to John Adams, then president of the United States. And John Adams became the first president of Paradise.

The Topaz sailed away and brought to the outside world the story of the Bounty. But it was such an incredible era that the story soon was forgotten.

THE islanders thrived in body, but not in knowledge, for there was none to teach them. The only book on the island was the Bounty Bible, but Smith read that aloud to his people and taught the children to read and write. And then in 1822 an English ship dropped anchor at Pitcairn and the crew went ashore for fresh victuals. John Buffet and John Evans, two of the seamen, were so entranced with the island that they jumped ship and remained there.

They were reasonably well educated men and took up the teaching job. They noted that the islanders, in appearance and manners, were like a typical group of middle-class English—dockworkers and laborers. They had ugly, knotty hands, and wore no shoes. They spoke English very well, and despite the constant intermarriage, their minds were stable. In fact, only one case of insanity ever has been recorded on the island.

When steamships came in and the story of Pitcairn Island came out, romanticists went there to satisfy that strange yearning that all men have—to see strange places, particularly South Sea islands of romance. And now comes radio to the isle of idle dreams. Happy listening, you islanders! And welcome to the greatest family on earth—the radio listeners of the world.

But I can't help wondering what old Fletcher Christian, or even Captain Bligh, would say if either could see you now, waiting for the sound of the gong and station identification.

In a new full-hour series, NBC begins the development of drama from the time of ancient Athens to present-day Broadway

IT'S a far cry from Athens and Aristophanes to Broadway and George S. Kaufman; and Time, the old warehouse man, has carted away a lot of scenery in the years between. Thousands of playwrights and players, and thousands of plays, have lived and died, and legions of critics have bickered over their bones.

The devious history of the drama during those years is the subject of a new National Broadcasting Company presentation, "Great Plays," which opens on Saturday of this week for a ten-week run, during which ten of the world's great stage pieces, rewritten especially for radio, will be played before microphones.

Beginning with Aristophanes' satiric comedy, "The Birds," the list includes examples of the Greek theater, the medieval morality play, the commedia del' arte of Italy, the pre-Shakespearian and Shakespearian drama of England, the French theater, the English theater of the eighteenth century, nineteenth-century American, Irish, and contemporary American drama.

The author of the radio versions of all the plays in the series and the man behind the entire undertaking is Blevins Davis, of the NBC staff, recently of the School of Drama of Yale University, and even more recently distinguished for his work as NBC's historical commentator at the coronation of King George VI of England.

Davis has been engaged in research on his enterprise since early last fall, studying in particular the background of the original production in the case of each play. He will have complete supervision of the NBC series, which, although it is designed primarily as entertainment, fits nicely into the pattern of the broadcasting company's educational program.

FROM ATHENS TO BROADWAY

DAVIS' business is illusions, but he has no illusions about his business. He concedes that radio is a somewhat limited medium for dramatists, since, so far as the general public is concerned, it transmits nothing but sound and, as yet, no visual images. But he thinks many of the shortcomings of radio drama can be eliminated by prefacing each play with a comprehensive and intelligent summary of background information. In other words, since there is no scenery for radio drama, the stage must be set, and set perfectly, with words.

That's the idea behind "Great Plays" and the thing that seems likely to distinguish the series from previous attempts to revitalize the buried classics of the theater. A good share of each full-hour broadcast will be given over to a commentator, who will describe fully not only the scene of the play but the circumstances under which it was produced, the appearance of the audience, the theater, the stage, the salient characteristics of the period which the drama represents, and its relationship to its times.

Drama grew out of religious ritual, and, more immediately, out of song and dance in honor of ancient deities. Out of the sanctified chorus lines which pranced ceremoniously and sang hymns to pagan gods came the first actors—the bold and enterprising fellows who stepped to the front of the stage to engage in dialog, and, eventually, to steal the show.

TRADITION has it that in 534 B. C., in Attica, where the Greeks honored Dionysus, god of wine and fruitfulness (known to the Romans as Bacchus), one Thespis led a chorus and, instead of exchanging dialog with his chorus, parleyed with a person whom he called an answerer. The Greek word for "answerer" afterwards was used for actor.

The song and dance have never died, although their uses have been altered. They're still singing and dancing on Broadway, in honor of various gods. But acting has become a profession, and the descendants of the pioneers who elbowed their way out of the obscurity of the Greek chorus now have temples of their own, called theaters, and their names spelled out in lights.

"The Birds," first production of the NBC-Red network calendar of "Great Plays," is a satiric extravaganza in which Aristophanes deals with such pressing problems as taxation, city-planning and the founding of an ideal metropolis. It is as thoroughly modern as the currently successful Broadway production of the Living Newspaper . . . "one-third of a nation" . . . which has for its theme housing conditions in the twentieth century.

THE drama was still in its infancy in Aristophanes' day (about 444-380 B. C.), but it had already taken on social significance and was dealing so openly with contemporary problems that it was a well-established practise for a chorus to pause in the middle of a play and recite in unison the author's views on some social or political question of the day. This break was called the parabasis.

In 414 B. C.—the same year in which the production of "The Birds," which will be described in the NBC-Red program, took place—the parabasis, SMETANA'S merry measures are making frequent yet welcome radio visits this season, but one never tires of the Czech composer's tunefulness.

In Rimsky-Korsakoff's orchestral proclamations there is usually a definite narrative. "Antar," desert recluse, hunts but spares a gazelle, only to discover later that the gentle creature is in reality the Queen of Palmyra, who takes him to her palace, where her fiery embraces finally consume him. Two motives stand out in the four-part opus, Antar's (violas and woodwinds) and the Queen's (flutes and horns). The composer paints with brilliant technique and glittering colors, climaxing in the portrayal of amorous passion and the transfigured harmonies as Antar sinks into death.

EXCEPTING four of Mme. Pauly's songs, Fritz Reiner invites us to smiles and capers. As he was born on the banks of the Danube, he interprets Johann Strauss with authentic lilt and Austrian "swing."

Pauly's soulful voice and interpretation are realized in particularly appealing music, with Richard Strauss' sounding the deepest note of ecstasy. Its accompaniment is as lovely a piece of harmonizing as may be found in the whole repertoire of lyric compositions.

The March of Music

Edited by Leonard Liebling

"... An ampler Ether, a diviner Air ..."—Wordsworth

MANY persons wonder why Stradivarius violins (known in the musical profession as "Strads") came to win their renown and to achieve such precious financial value. Publicity attendant upon the 200th anniversary of the death of Antonio Stradivari and the recent celebratory New York concert at which a small orchestra used nearly one million dollar's worth of his examples, doubtless renewed curiosity concerning their maker and his history.

Born in the Italian town of Cremona in 1644, Stradivarius, as he has come to be called, was apprenticed as a lad to Niccolo Amati, eminent constructor of violins and cellos, but destined to be outshone by one who, in the opinion of later experts and many generations of celebrated violinists, stands at the head of all fashioners of musical instruments.

It is claimed that his first violin was made by Stradivarius when he was only thirteen. Certain it is, however, that he continued to turn out his marvelous products until almost the last days of his life—he reached the age of ninety-three. A pupil of Amati, Stradivarius imitated the style of his illustrious teacher for quite a while after he left that workshop, but later he adopted his own models and methods, shaping his violin bellies larger and flatter than Amati's, improving the arching, ennobling the design of the scroll, and selecting, seasoning and varnishing the wood with infinite resource and art. The resulting glorious tone, which seems to improve with time, is one of extreme mellowness, sweetness and brilliance when desired.

During his lifetime, Stradivarius made something over 1,000 violins, about 300 violas, cellos and basses (at that time not yet used in the orchestras), and also some lutes, guitars and mandolins, all exquisitely wrought.

Even in Stradivarius' day, his violins brought a fairly high price, about $120 each. At the beginning of the nineteenth century, the figure began to grow appreciably, and now, in the case of some examples, is soaring toward the $100,000 mark, as much as some great paintings bring.

It is interesting to reflect on all the renowned hands which have played the Stradivarius violins and cellos, the triumphs and thrills they have furnished; and perhaps, too, the regrets and tears when owners had to part with their prized instruments.

Stradivarius' home can still be seen in Cremona, and if you ever visit it, try to envision the scene in Paul Stoeving's book "The Violin" (written about forty years ago) describing the last years of the master craftsman's life: "A venerable old man—a thin, stooping figure, in cap and leather apron, with a face furrowed by thought, in his little kingdom, surrounded by talented pupils (among them Bergonzi, Guarnerius and Guadagnini) watching, following and helping the

A WELL-VARIED list, with something for every taste, from the ancient Bach with his heavenly, serene "Air," to the living Walter Damrosch and his song-setting of Kipling's gruesome "Danny Deever." Featured are the lively "Champagne" song of Don Juan, the gay Smetana overture, the warm moods of Hungarian Liszt, and the sunshine, gaiety and sentiment of Italy as set forth in the colorful score of Wolf. The last-named is better known for his songs, but connoisseurs value highly his skill in orchestral writing and ability to evoke eloquent pictures and characterizations.

Prelude to Act III "Lohengrin"
(Wagner)

Til Eulenspiegel (Strauss)

TO PARAPHRASE a current popular song, "Bie mir ist Wagner Schoen." Evidently also in Cleveland, with this diversified roster of his works.

The "Flying Dutchman" overture opens with the "Curse" motive, announced by bassoons and horns, and the strings denote the fury of the winds and waves. Later we hear the assuaging theme of Senta, whose love and pity save the Dutchman from eternal doom. Fix your attention upon those two melodies and note with what wonderful resource they are combined.

It is appropriate programming to have Richard Strauss ending the concert, for he was the next great German creator after the Bayreuth master, whose orchestral system he adopted and amplified. At this writing, Strauss is having renewed vogue at the Metropolitan with his "Salome," "Elektra" and "Rosenkavalier."

COMPLETELY under the sign of Americanism are two of our programs this week. The present one, offered by the League of Composers (which does highly useful sponsoring of new works), presents the more typical list in the sense that European influences are less pronounced.

Jacobi, living for a while with the Pueblo Indians, included their motifs in some of his works, but he does not believe that the future of American music is based on the Red Man's tunes. Today's example is merely an expression of a bright mood in light instrumentation.

Elie Siegmeister belongs to the extreme leftist group in tone, subscribing to realism rather than to beauty. The words of this ironically sinister song are by Michael Gold and interpret the heartlessness of a steel corporation in a worker's death.

Louis Gruenberg's specialty, symphonic treatment of jazz—something that Paul Whiteman has always championed—is not particularly evident in his two songs.

Twenty-three-year-old Robert McBride has been composing since he was thirteen and now teaches other young Americans in his capacity as instructor at Bennington College.

"Milestones In American Music"

Dr. Howard Hanson, conductor

Prelude to "Mona" (Horatio Parker)
Pagan Poem (Charles Martin Loeffler)

HERE are an American pair following contrary tendencies, due to differing racial foundations and training. Parker, born in Massachusetts, studied in Germany; Loeffler, an Alsatian, had his musical education in France. So the former's pages make bows to Wagner and Brahms; and the latter's render homage to d'Indy and Debussy. Neither used themes, harmonies or rhythms which sprang from our own soil.

Parker's "Mona," based upon a Druidical tale, won a $10,000 prize given by the Metropolitan Opera for the best "American" opera. The prelude has full and rich orchestration, treating dignified melodic matter.

Loeffler devotes his composition to the eighth eclogue of Virgil, which tells about the Thessalian girl who tried to hold her lover through magic incantations.

Both men have passed away; those on the League of Composers program are among the living!

"Aida" . . . music of glowing beauty and powerful descriptiveness snow-haired, patriarchal genius. . . It is a charming picture one can thus conjure up, an idyl worthy of the brush of a Rembrandt."

Brightening the Ford program is Rose Pauly, the electrifying Electra (in Richard Strauss' opera of that name). The Hungarian soprano gained her present membership at the Metropolitan because of the sensational hit she made last year at a New York Philharmonic concert, when she figuratively lifted hearers from their seats with her dramatic intensity and lavish outpouring of warm tone.

Inquirers ask why "The March of Music" does not include annotations for all the Toscanini programs. The reason is the Maestro's tardiness in the final selection of numbers. Frequently, by the time he announces his decision, RADIO GUIDE is on the presses. Whenever the Maestro makes up his mind far enough in advance and NBC forwards the news with its usual courtesy, this department will be delighted to discuss the music.

His "Milestones in American Music" series is devoted by Dr. Howard Hanson to the composing sons of our land, whose cause he has always championed and furthered practically. About eight years ago he went to Europe and led many concerts there of which the programs were entirely American. As a result, some of the foreign critics wrote that they were surprised at the high quality of our output, and others expressed their surprise that we composed any symphonic music at all. (They probably expected to hear concerts of jazz as typifying the only American creative ability in tone.)

Although director of the Eastman School of Music at Rochester, N. Y., since 1924, Doctor Hanson has not allowed his own diligence as a composer to lapse, and among his major works of the past few years are his "Northern" symphony and the opera "Merry Mount," premiered at the Metropolitan in 1934. All the Hanson music shows keen inventiveness and rare skill in orchestration. A string quartet, which received its premiere at the Coolidge concerts in Washington, won outstanding success and was widely acclaimed by critics.

The Metropolitan Opera Company

Presents

"AIDA"

by Giuseppe Verdi

The Cast:

Aida . . . Zinka Milanov
Radames . . . Giovanni Martinelli
Amneris . . . Bruna Castagna
Ramfis . . . Ezio Pinza
King . . . Norman Cordon
Amonasro . . . Carlo Tagliabue
Priestess . . . Thelma Votipka

Conductor, Ettore Panizza

To many discriminative judges, "Aida" represents the most perfect Italian opera of the melodramatic school. The libretto is a cannily built and cumulative drama of human love, hate, vengeance, nobility, heroism and tragedy. The action never ceases, and is emphasized by music of glowing beauty and powerful descriptiveness. Two numbers, the opening tenor aria, "Celeste Aida" (Celestial Aida) and the resounding march of the great triumphal procession and pageant, are familiar even to persons who have not attended the Verdi opera itself.

ACT I

An ante-chamber in the palace of the King of Egypt. Ramfis, the high priest, informs Radames, ambitious young military commander, that the Ethiopians are again marching on Egypt, and adds that the goddess Isis has made prophecy of a new warrior who shall be made leader against them. Radames intones his hopes of being the fortunate one so that he may return to Aida, whom he loves, and lay his laurels at her feet.

The Princess Amneris arrives, enamored of Radames, but when she witnesses the meeting between her slave, Aida, and the youthful general she realizes their mutual love, and her jealousy is aroused. Aida's country is Ethiopia. Egypt's King chooses Radames to head the defending troops.

In the second scene, the Temple of Vulcan, Ramfis blesses Radames' sword, while the High Priestess chants a ritual air and her sister vestals perform a sacred dance.

ACT II

A chamber in Amneris' apartment. The Princess, evilly intent on making Aida reveal her love for Radames, tells her that he has fallen in battle. The artless girl falls to the ground in despair, but realizes her error when Amneris proclaims that Radames lives and is returning as the nation's hero. Trumpets sound the arrival, and sparing Aida from the death sentence for her presumption, Amneris decrees that the unfortunate maid witness the triumphal reception of Radames.

Radames is carried on in a chariot and behind him are the captives, including Amonasro, father of Aida, the latter seeing Amneris place the victor's crown on Radames' head, and learning the priests demand the death of the prisoners, Radames pleads successfully for their lives, and the King announces as the hero's reward the hand of Amneris.

ACT III

Amonasro prevails on Aida to ascertain from Radames the road by which he will march on Ethiopia, and momentarily her patriotism conquers her love. Radames is moved to reveal his plans and suggests they fly together to Aida's native land. Amneris overhears the plot, denounces Radames, who surrenders his sword to the High Priest.

ACT IV

The entrance to Radames' prison cell. Amneris pleads with him never to see Aida again, but he refuses. Ramfis and his brother priests pronounce sentence on Radames—to be buried alive.

Radames is entombed, alone, as he believes. But Aida has found an underground entrance and comes to die with him.

Commentator Airs Current British Comment

Fridays, NBC-Blue, 9:15-9:30 p.m.

Weekly digest of sentiment from the Cheviot Hills to the Straits of Dover is "They're Saying in England," new NBC trans-Atlantic letter by Howard Marshall heard each Friday evening directly from the British Broadcasting Company studios in London.

The voice of Britain, first tenor in the chorus of diplomacy, is seldom loud, usually interesting, traditionally significant. For listeners, there are two program profits: a swift marshaling of the thoughts in the British popular mind; a digest of foreign opinion to counterbalance domestic "angles."

Marshall, cultured spokesman for the "They're Saying" series, is best known to American listeners for his stage-setting sketches of pre-coronation events. An Oxfordian, thirty-eight, sportsman, editor and versatile BBC commentator, he brings a solid background of practical experience to his interpretations of his countrymen's current thoughts.

Experts to Discuss Farm Export Problem

Sunday, NBC-Blue, 7-7:30 p.m.

The cause of the Trojan War, 1184 B. C., is popularly ascribed to the infidelity of the famous Helen. The real cause was restrictive tariffs imposed by Troy on commerce through the Dardanelles.

Modern trade and tradesmen still fight wars of price, legislation and "defense" over tariff principles.

In the U. S. today, agrarian and industrial interests glare at one another and denounce or demand tariffs that often mean prosperity for one group at the expense of the other.

Sunday evening, a panel of business experts headed by an authority on international economics, Edward Tomlinson, will rally to the question "Is Agricultural Prosperity Dependent on Foreign Trade?" and attempt to reconcile the conflicting problems of developing a foreign market for the farmer and protecting home industry against foreign competition.

Tariffs and their adjustment, and the question of expanding home markets for the nation's exportable surplus of farm products, will be key elements in the discussion.

The purpose of the forum, says Tomlinson, is the charting of "paths to prosperity" through "free and open discussion of international trade."

Listening to Learn

"And this cuff was but to knock at your ear, and beseech listening."—Shakespeare.

... Comes the Evolution And We're All Prepared

"It has been the fate of all bold adventurers and reformers to be esteemed insane."—G. G. Cheever.

ARCHIMEDES was booed when he announced that he could move the earth—given a proper lever and fulcrum appropriately placed in space.

Christ, Buddha, Confucius, Mohamet and others among the great prophets were considered anything but substantial citizens in their own times

The Wright brothers were labeled ill-starred visionaries for long after they had successfully hung their home-made glider on the sea breezes over Kitty Hawk.

And only the temper of an unusually enlightened era made it possible for such radicals as Plato and Aristotle to be accepted as worthy Athenians.

Yet the revolutions perpetrated by each of these are now recognized as spearheads in the advance of human progress.

The history of revolutions in thought, in science, in religion and in social institutions is the story of insanity reversed by the perspective of time.

Consider the role of the French and American Revolutions in the realm of social-political history—riots started by upstart renegades until history sanctified the revolts as mile-posts in the emancipation of man.

In science, ponder the revolt fired by Copernicus—in his day a fair physician but a dangerous crackpot as an astronomer—when he propounded the heliocentric theory of our universe and sent the earth scampering about the sun like an ordinary planet.

Consider how radical were the early Christians.

"Think on these things"—and you put an ice-pack on that feverish temptation to judge people and events by their current colors. You begin to see the revolutions of today as key designs in the pattern of evolution tomorrow. You begin to sense some of the revolutions that progress unheeded—destined to flower in a future generation.

Leading Feminists of U. S., Britain, Italy, Norway and Switzerland to Discuss Modern "Role of Women"

Friday, NBC-Blue, 3-3:30 p.m.

Five noted feminists will keynote the simultaneous, world-wide celebration of "International Day," Friday, with a five-nation round-robin discussion of "The Role of Women in the Modern State." NBC short-wave pickups will bring Lady Astor from Plymouth, England; Mrs. Halvadan Koht from Oslo, Norway; Mme. Olivia Rossetti Agresti from Rome, Italy; Dr. Renee Girod from Geneva, Switzerland, and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt from Washington.

Each speaker is a woman of distinguished renown and accomplishment. All will consider the part of women in the modern world in the light of their personal experiences, the status of women in their own countries, and the objectives of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women which they will represent.

Lady Astor, Britain's first woman member of Parliament, will consider woman's place in politics and statecraft. Mrs. Koht will tell of a woman's career behind a man's career. Women's role in international affairs will be Dr. Girod's topic. Mrs. Roosevelt, will reflect the American woman's view and summarize the forum.

"Music for Fun" is Designed for Children

Fridays, CBS, 6-6:30 p.m.

Appeal to a child's instinctive love of fun and you've set a strong snare for his interest—in learning, discipline, food or music. From this simple psychological springboard the musical directorate of the Columbia Broadcasting System dives into a weekly experiment for five- to twelve-year-olds that is well designed to stimulate music appreciation among youngsters.

"Music for Fun" presents the lighter music of the masters in a new program package. It makes no compromise with musical standards in angling for the serious attention of juvenile listeners. Its method is the playing of selections "designed to fit the brief attention-span of children."

For children and parents alike, there are two program profits here: wider acquaintance with works of the great composers plus enriched capacity for the enjoyment of music.

Friday's selections include: "March Miniature" from Tchaikowsky's Nut Cracker Suite; "Hens and Chickens" from Saint-Saens' Carnival of the Animals; Charpentier's "On Mule Back"; "The Flight of the Bumble Bee"; "Perpetual Motion" by Strauss; "Dance of the Sugar Plum Fairy" and "Children's Overture" by Quilter.

Orchestra Interprets "Impressions of China"

Thursdays, CBS, 10-10:30 p.m.

One man looks at a tree and sees apples; another, lumber; a third, an inspiration for a poem. So too with composers of music. To one the flight of a bird is a dance; to another the song of the wind.

And each, of course, is right. For differences of interpretation make not only horse-races and arguments but art—especially the art of music.

Unique approach to this imagery of music is the CBS concert feature "Essays in Music." Its versatile conductor, Victor Bay, selects an idea or object and presents various composers' musical portraits or interpretations of that idea or object.

This combination of exercise for the imagination and the intellect opens an intriguing new door on good music. You'll enjoy entering—meeting this week with composers Crist, Ravel, Victor Herbert and others—enjoying their "Chinese Mother Goose Rhymes," "Empress of the Pagodas," and "Willow Plate Suite."

Lincoln Legend Told in Smithsonian Exhibits

Sunday, NBC-Red, 4:30-5 p.m.

Abraham Lincoln—to his cabinet, an executive—to the world, the Great Emancipator—to most of us a legend, comes to life again in the narrative-drama of "The World Is Yours," Sunday afternoon.

Six score and nine years ago that legend began in a cabin in the Kentucky hills. Today it goes deeper than the simple success story of a frontier lad who make the grade. It's an epic narrative of personal revolt against inherited lethargy and the limitations of a humble childhood, and the still greater story of revolt against injustice and human suffering.

The legend is many sided. From it critics have drawn indictments of Lincoln's methods, denouncements of some of his decisions—but history has not yet impeached his motives. His was a life of revolt—quiet, but strong—typical of the revolutions "of, by and for" the people that made America.

This week we may walk with trouble-weary Lincoln across the Mall from the White House to the old, red stone, Smithsonian Institution and view with him many of the collections that inspired and gave him solace.

The "World Is Yours" retraces those steps and reconstructs several of the most interesting and little-known episodes of Lincoln's life, as radio re-opens the nation's treasure house "for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men," and the "Old Timer" says, "The world is yours."

Diabetes Ranks Ninth Among Lethal Diseases

Wednesday, 2-2:30 p.m. NBC-Red.

When your pancreas strikes—so does diabetes. For this little gland is a principal traffic officer of the body. It secretes the hormone, insulin, which regulates the metabolism of carbohydrates—or the proper production of sugar in the form and amounts that the muscles can use—and when it goes off duty diabetes is the traffic jam that results. You get too much and the wrong kind of sugar in your blood.

These traffic jams are the ninth most frequent causes of death in America—only tenth, including homicide, suicide and accidents.

Of unusual interest therefore will be the American Medical Association's discussion and outline of methods for "Overcoming Diabetes" to be heard Wednesday in the current series on "Your Health."

Design for Listening

Theme of the Week:
Famous Revolutions

Civilization is the history of revolt—revolt against nature, ignorance, oppression. And though much of the color in the pageant of progress is the reflection of blood shed in wars for princes and politics, the basic design has been drawn by the famous revolutions in thought—revolutions that changed man's relationship with his surroundings and his fellows, not merely shifted the flags of his allegiance or the boundaries of his homeland.

Reflection on these revolts sharpens the perception for an intelligent recognition and appraisal of the revolutionary conflicts on the world stage today. Recognition and right appraisal are a significant mark of wisdom—essential to any degree of success and happiness amid the modern welter of ideas and forces.

Sunday. "The World is Yours," 4:30 p.m. NBC-Red, and the "Epic of America," 8 p.m. MBS—for inside stories on revolutionary men and events.

Monday. "National Radio Forum," 10:30 p.m. NBC-Blue for notes on trends in national affairs that may be revolutions in disguise. And "Brave New World," 10:30 p.m. CBS for a story of inter-American commercial expansion that revolutionized pan-American relations.

Wednesday. Join "Science on the March," 7:45 p.m. NBC-Blue—hear of revolutionary progress in medicine—from sun-worship to sun-lamps in the science of health.

Thursday. "News About Helium," 4 p.m. CBS, may be the unrecognized headline concerning air transportation of the future. The "Town Meeting," 9:30 p.m. NBC-Blue, reports one skirmish in the revolt of government against business.

Friday. Hear eminent feminists of five nations review and predict "The Role of Women in a Modern State," 3 p.m. NBC-Blue. The revolt of women is one of the sharpest of our times.

Saturday. Consider the revolt of an idealist against the stagnant standards and materialistic vision of his day—enjoy the "American Portrait" of Walt Whitman, 9:30 p.m. NBC-Red.

HOLLYWOOD SHOWDOWN

BY EVANS PLUMMER

LAST week will be remembered in Hollywood for two great program upheavals, but by now the dust has settled down and you may expect Eddie Cantor to be selling Camel cigarettes starting March 28 and Lum 'n' Abner going to the mat—over forty to sixty CBS stations five nights a week—for Postum when February 28 rolls around. The latter act will stay intact, except for change of advertiser and network, but the present Texaco Town set-up, when it switches smoke fuel from gasoline to tobacco, will very likely present a somewhat changed face. Indications are that Jacques Renard may be among those missing—and several others of the Cantor crew, including Pinky Tomlin, may join the rotund bandleader. Meantime, the Texaco show personnel, excepting Tomlin and picture-making Deanna Durbin, have advanced their eastern tour departure date to February 24.

So far as Benny Goodman is concerned, Camel officials are convinced that he has been doing a thorough job and should be retained. His broadcast will be aired a half-hour earlier than at present, once the time has been vacated by the Oakie College, which is definitely slated to bar its doors and campus.

Talk is also that Milton Berle has been asked to replace Cantor for Texaco, but whether the show will fold until fall after the March 23 airing or continue a few weeks until summer, has not been decided. Nevertheless, Berle has his tentative program ready to go—and on his proposed staff are Writers Hugh Wedlock and Howard Snyder, who currently are putting laughs in Jack Oakie's mouth. . . . The rapid change-overs are all rather confusing, but I hope you get the idea.

Rom-Antics: Ken Murray is building himself a home in Holmby Hills, and not for Florence Heller. Despite rumors, too, that Claire Dodd would be the next Mrs. Gerald Lambert, Jr., Ken was overheard phoning that lady February 7. . . . Now that Gertrude Niesen has gone to New York and shortly sails for France, Writer Arthur Arthur is able to devote his full time to Songstress Lee Wiley, in Hollywood for a picture deal. . . . Forecast: The next matrimonial barque to sail the ether waves will be that of Jimmie Grier and his chorister, Julie Gibson.

So motion-picture work is a cinch, and look at all those fine clothes and fancy salaries? But how about the work involved? Ginger Rogers is an example. Insurance companies have refused to protect her employers against her inability to appear in pictures because of her rundown condition from overwork. That means Ginger needs a rest—but definitely. However, though her health required her to pass up a scheduled February 8 guest spot with Oakie College, she accepted a February 14 casting in the Lux Theater. . . . Foolish? I think so.

I don't know who started this insurance talk, but maybe you'd be interested to know that the underwriters jeal that Claude (Slowpoke) Stroud is a better risk than his more rapid twin brother, Clarence (Wordy).

And also that the insurers of the inanimate dummy which has become a presidential candidate under the name of Charlie McCarthy are making it tough for Edgar Bergen to travel. Once Ed just packed Charlie in his suitcase; now Charlie must have a drawing-room in which to be locked while Bergen sleeps. So many newspapermen would just love to kidnap the wooden brat! . . . But cheer up. On a recent one-night San Francisco appearance, Bergen was paid $5,000, and not because the people wanted to see Bergen, either.

Rudy Vallee is making it very difficult for me to keep track of his heart. At a recent cocktail party, when he introduced the Schnickel-fritzes Comedy Band appearing with the crooner in Warner Brothers' "Gold Hearn at second violin (Jack was first violin!) and Norris (Abner of Lum 'n' Abner) Goff at the drums.

Joan Crawford, when she starred on the Lux Theater February 7, maintained her reputation as Hollywood's most radio-jittery actress. Growing extremely tense emotionally in her role of "Anna Christie," tears rolled down her cheeks; she jumped when Spencer Tracy placed a comforting because he was to speak a line or two on a forthcoming program. Came the day, and after much coaching and many rehearsals, Garr fluffed his lines because he was so keyed up—and now, despite Baker's reassurances, Al thinks he'll stick to tenoring.

Hollywood Hotel's Jerry Cooper can't quite figure it out. The other day he was informed by a small Newark, N. J., station that he had placed third in their annual poll of phonograph-recording artists. But Cooper has made no records for over a year—and he thought all his old ones were worn out.

The well-dressed man who frequents Santa Anita race-track and has given tips to Stu Erwin and Chic Johnson will please step forward. Thank you. It seems that your tips clicked—very well indeed. And both Stu and Chic would like to have more from you, even though Chic did loan you $10 one day—and then you disappeared. What's the matter—don't you play your own horses? Nevertheless, this will let you know that you are forgiven, and that Mr. Erwin has a neat little gift of $100 that you may have for the asking.

Harriet Hilliard, somehow muffed by RKO Studios this year, has been given the leading role opposite Fred MacMurray in Paramount's picture, "Cocoanut Grove," now in production. Harriet, in the film, is a band chorister who finally marries the bandleader—which is her real life-story, too. . . . Judy Garland, after her current personal-appearance tour, will be assigned a new film role in which she is to portray the childhood of a famous actress—name withheld. . . . Tommy Riggs, double voicer of Betty Lou Barry, will be a magician in Universal's "Goodbye, Broadway," but the studio's ace writers are tearing their hair trying to figure out a way to bring the non-existent Betty Lou into the picture! Maybe magic would help.

Remember Dan Russo? Used to be partners with Ted Fio-Rito in the Oriole recording orchestra. Then both went on their own with bands. Now Danny, getting along in years, turns up in Hollywood. With money he has saved, he's bought cigar and newsstand concessions, one of which is right on Hollywood Boulevard, the south side of the street, just east of Vine. He'd appreciate seeing any of his old friends in the Cinema City.

Haven MacQuarrie's "Do You Want to Be an Actor" has suffered much pushing around as an NBC Sunday night sustainer, but from now on things may be different with the show moved to Hollywood for origination. Even Major Bowes can't approach the MacQuarrie record of placing five drama novices at major film studios within fifteen weeks on the air. . . . Why hasn't someone grabbed Jack Owens, ace tenor of the NBC Breakfast Club for several years? He's in Los Angeles doing a local show and singing evenings at the "It" cafe.

Plums to Georgie Stoll. Gladys Bernard, seventeen-year-old blind girl of Indianapolis, Ind., wrote him a letter enclosing a lyric, "Tell Me a Story." Stoll wrote the music, and, with Shirley Deane, recorded it to send as a gift to Miss Bernard.

Is America growing more tolerant? Was the Mae West hullabaloo sincere? Why has the rating of the Chase and Sanborn program gone up greatly since that fateful day of December 12 when Mae appeared? Read Hollywood Showdown's analysis next issue.

Opening for five weeks at Chicago's Drake Hotel, February 4, Hal Kemp and orchestra returned to the city of their first major radio triumphs after an absence of four years. First tea-dance broke all records Diggers in Paris," Rudy's pal, Gloria Youngblood, had the inside track once more, and Rudy served his own special daiquiris made up of his distiller friend's special brand of rum. . . . in which he insists he has no percentage.

Jack Benny made a guest (not aired) appearance February 3 at the Palomar Ballroom, Los Angeles, with Phil Harris' orchestra. . . . and fiddled with the band! But Andy Devine, also present and playing a very good bass viol at the time, stopped the show just before he sang the cowboy ballad, "Blood on the Saddle," by informing the crowd, "Maybe Jack can pack 'em in, but I'll sure empty the place in a hurry." Incidentally, Jack was assisted in his appearance also by Sam (Schlepperman) hand on her arm. After the broadcast, she quaked so much that she could not apply her lipstick.

Backstage Stuff: At the February 7 Burns and Allen rehearsal Gracie couldn't pronounce "Schnauzer." Several times she tried, then George solved the problem; he took the line himself! . . . Recently when Feg Murray and Ozzie Nelson were airing a Baker's Broadcast, a garbage can came rolling across the stage toward Ozzie. The clattering noise went out on the air. The explanation is that the can belonged in the sound-effects department and was accidentally tipped over for its unplanned air debut. . . . For two weeks Al Garr, tenor on Phil Baker's Gulf program, took dramatic lessons

AIRIALTO LOWDOWN

BY MARTIN LEWIS

"BEI MIR BIST DU SCHOEN"... do you think it's grand? This song has enjoyed an amazing popularity, but most folks seem to be firing of hearing it so often on the networks. I have received several letters from readers who want to know why the networks can't do something about the constant repetition of tunes. Well, something is done about it, but there are several reasons why the listener may not be aware of the steps taken by the broadcasting companies.

Both NBC and CBS have clearance departments, through which program routines (lists of songs and the script) must be sent for a final okay. At CBS the rigid ruling is that no song may be repeated within a two-hour period unless some very unusual case comes up. All programs, sponsored or unsponsored, must submit their routines two weeks in advance. Orchestras that broadcast from clubs and hotels have to submit their schedules a week in advance. They are notified if they can't play a tune, leaving ample time for a substitution.

Over at NBC we find deference to the sponsors... their rule is that no tune should be repeated within a period of from two to three hours, but if the directors of a commercial program are insistent enough, they are usually allowed to play what they want to. All programs must receive the network's final okay, however, although the time when they submit the scripts is up to the producer. The National Barn Dance has its 1938 Christmas program in the files and okayed already.

Regardless of how the clearance is handled, both networks, you see, have some regulation of the number of times a tune can be played. However, when you hear a popular tune like "Bei Mir Bist Du Schoen," it makes an impression, and even though you may not hear it again for two hours—lucky you!—it will seem like a shorter time. Then you must realize that you constantly change the station on your dial, and if you hear a song at nine o'clock on CBS, and at 9:30 on NBC, although you may not hear it for two more hours on either of those stations, you are still hearing it too often... but that is not the fault of the networks. As long as directors and musicians think you want to hear a song, they'll play it at every opportunity, and if you don't want to hear it, I guess the only thing for you to do is to turn the dial or shut the radio off.

George W. Hill, head man at Lucky Strike, is definitely convinced that he has a hit show in "Kay Kyser's Musical Klass," heard at present on Tuesday nights over WGN in Chicago and WOR in New York. The first four days after the initial broadcast for the ciggy sponsor, 7,300 letters poured in, which prompted Mr. Hill to move the program to New York. Before many weeks roll by, this outstanding show will be heard from Coast to Coast.

The Frankie Masters orchestra, heard on the "It Can Be Done" program, has been playing one-night stands in the surrounding neighborhood between broadcasts. Recently, however, Frankie has had a great deal of trouble with shaky bandstands. It seems that three of them were so shaky that he fell off onto the dance floor. Says Frankie, "From now on I'll direct the band from the floor—I seem to end up there, anyway."

Undoubtedly many readers have heard the new Mutual show called "True or False," which is broadcast on Monday nights. Two teams are enlisted, then Dr. Harry Hagen, conductor of the program, makes a statement and a member of each team answers "True" or "False." A New York radio scribe suggested that Dr. Hagen make up a team composed of New York radio editors. The idea appealed to the doctor, but, according to reports, the reason the scribes have not appeared on the program is because if they should lose to the opposing team, or make a poor showing, it would look very bad for them, and it might have telling effect as far as getting future publicity for the show from the boys. I still think it would be both interesting and amusing.

dramatized for the radio listeners. "Dick Tracy" and "Little Orphan Annie" are the other newspaper features being heard regularly over the air.

Jack Pearl, whom you may remember better as the "Baron Muenchausen," now is out on the West Coast. I understand that Jack wrote to one of his friends in New York stating there is a possibility of his coming back on the air within a few weeks.

Little Jackie Heller of NBC's "Club Matinee" and Ruth Greeley, Earl Carroll beauty and photographer's model, took out a marriage license at Chicago's Cook County Courthouse recently. They'll wed in March

Dick Powell, singing master of ceremonies of Wednesday night's "Your Hollywood Parade," recently adopted the son of Wife Joan Blondell. Above: The Powells and three-year-old Norman appear in court

Good news for the sports fans is that Chesterfield is going to start a new program on April 20, to be heard Monday through Friday. It will be broadcast over the NBC chain. CBS Announcer Paul Douglas will go over to the rival network to do the splicing... George Olsen and his orchestra, along with Tim and Irene, will be back on the air before many more sundowns in a new half-hour show over the NBC-Blue network... The CBS "Earaches of 1938," headed by Harry Conn, is leaving its Sunday night spot because of the Charlie McCarthy competition. However, the CBS moguls are convinced that it is good entertainment and are trying to clear a spot during the week for it... "Ella Cinders" is the latest comic strip to be Abe Lyman always looks as though he has just returned from a month's vacation in Florida. The secret of his healthy appearance is the fact that the ork pilot has a couple of sun-lamps propped over his bed and he takes daily treatments. Lyman, incidentally, has added two vocalists to his organization, Frank Parrish and Olga Sardi. They are doing the vocals during the Lyman broadcasts from Billy Rose's Casa Manana.

I was sitting in the press department at NBC on a recent Tuesday night, and was both surprised and amazed at the great number of phone calls that came in wanting to know where Parks Johnson and Wally Butterworth's "Vox Pop" program would originate that night. NBC is literally swamped every Tuesday night by the number of requests for this information. Most of the callers are out-of-towners who listen to the program regularly and would like to go on the show. As a matter of fact, all these calls prompted me to hop over to the Governor Clinton Hotel, from where the broadcast was to emanate that night. I got a kick out of watching Parks and Wally enlist the onlookers to appear on the show. For practically every program there are more people willing to go on than time will allow. Most of them are a little panicky at first. One man standing beside me was the next to face the mike. He held up his hands and they were wet from perspiration. However, the fright rapidly disappears, because the boys have an uncanny knack of putting the participants at their ease. The big laugh of this particular broadcast came when Parks was interviewing a Mrs. Lewis from Utah (no relation). She was stuck. Just at that moment the production-man held up two fingers, which was the cue for Parks to know that there were only two minutes left for the program. The gesture was irrelevant, but the woman, thinking she was being prompted, answered brightly, "Two." This sent the onlookers into hysterics.

At the NBC press department one night, a call came in for Abe Schecter, NBC's director of news and special events. The caller was told that Mr. Schecter was out of town. Whereupon, the person at the other end of the line asked where Schecter could be located. He said he had an important message for him and would reach him by a long-distance call. He was told that Mr. Schecter could be reached at the Shepherd Hotel in Cairo, Egypt, where he had gone to put on a special broadcast for NBC. There was no answer from the other end—just a thud!

Lauritz Melchior made a lot of youngsters happy recently by making a personal appearance. A $5 prize was offered for the best short account of his visit submitted by a student of grade-school or high-school age. The award was won by Jane Toivonen, and here is her entry, which explains what Melchior's visit meant to her:

A BELOVED ARTIST

The second of February is a great day in the history of the New York Institute for the Education of the Blind. Mr. Lauritz Melchior, one of the world's most renowned Metropolitan Opera stars, very kindly consented to come to our school and sing for us. This, of course, is something which cannot happen very often. Everyone—even the deaf-blind students who could receive vibrations with the help of radio—was deeply touched by Mr. Melchior's singing. One could not help but feel that this was his way of telling us what was in his heart—that this was one experience he would not forget.

Melchior has a blind sister who heads a school for the blind in Copenhagen.

Dropped in on Larry Clinton's swing session over at NBC Saturday night, and Larry can swing swing as well as write it. He looks like a student or college professor rather than a "cat" (as the swingsters are called), with his thinning hair, well-trimmed mustache, medium build and modest smile. He is one of those rare souls—a conductor who wastes no gestures but beats out the rhythm for his men and gracefully signals for unusual breaks. He may look conservative, but he can really get into the groove.

THE LOG CABIN THAT JACK BUILT

When only five, Haley became so impressed by the applause he received for reciting a poem that he decided right then to become an entertainer. Of Irish descent, he's let a timid style of humor bring him fame

UNLIKE the boy wonders of fiction, Jack Haley did not starve first nor live in a garret the while he courted radio fortune. He simply became an overnight success last year as star of his own NBC-Red Saturday night program after a brilliant career in vaudeville, on the legitimate stage, and in motion pictures. On January 29, Radio Guide's singing cameraman, Gene Lester, visited Log Cabin to see the program that Jack has built and to capture—in pictures—the entire show.

Born in Boston, Mass., in 1901, Jack ran away from home at the age of eighteen to become a song-plugger. From that he graduated into vaudeville as a comedian, and reached the apex of circuit fame—the Palace Theater in New York. Then came musical-comedy roles in "Gay Paree," "Good News,"

"Follow Through," "Free For All," and "Take a Chance." A film official saw Haley perform in "Take a Chance," and signed him for "Sitting Pretty," with Ginger Rogers and Jack Oakie, thus launching the third phase of the comic's career. Leaving Broadway for Hollywood, he appeared in such films as "Here Comes the Groom" and "Pigskin Parade"—became a box-office sensation as the mike-frightened crooner in "Wake Up and Live" with Ben Bernie and Walter Winchell.

Last July, Jack decided to enter radio and made a series of performances aboard the Maxwell House Show Boat. So pleased were sponsors with the response to Haley's antics that when the new Log Cabin Show bowed last October, Jack was made its comedian and star, to the acclaim of listeners.

One of Haley's many stooges is vaudeville friend Joe Okie, better known as "Oklahoma," who always misses his cue

Warren Hull, announcer-actor heard on the show, is a distant cousin of both Cordell and Henry Hull. He came to radio via the screen and stage

Music for Log Cabin is furnished by Ted Fio-Rito and his band. In radio since broadcasting began, Ted has made scores of records, written many songs, and appeared in pictures. Aside from his music, he's winning fame as a comedian through his ability to pronounce big words

Two of radio's cleverest writers, Hal Fimberg and Eddie Davis, write the show. Above: Hal talks it over with Hull and "Stooge" Wendy Barrie

Jack Pearl (right) was an unexpected visitor to Log Cabin, was greeted backstage after the show by Haley. Pearl, of "Baron Muenchausen" fame, is in Hollywood to consider picture-making, may return to the air soon

Although Haley (left) insisted on "shooting" Radio Guide's singing cameraman, Gene Lester, as he sang "Hurray for Hollywood," Jack did not take this picture. It was snapped by Artie Auerbach, dialectician

Soundman is Ed Ludes, who presses a wet rag on a hot plate to give the effect of frying pancakes

Haley is married to Florence McFadden. They have two children, Gloria, 12, and Jack, 4 (above)

$12⁰⁰ Worth of Thrills and Romance for 98¢

REPLENISHING JESSICA—by Maxwell Bodenheim. A young woman's battle between flesh and the spirit. Sensational reading that holds you spellbound. Charging it with being an immoral book, reformers tried in vain to prohibit its publication.

THE TIME OF HER LIFE—by Cornell Woolrich. The amazing story of a young, alluring, ruthless adventuress by a $10,000 prize-winning author. Her mad love of pleasure led her into a life of wild escapades until she was finally tamed by the one man who could control her.

PLAYTHINGS OF DESIRE—by J. Wesley Putnam. The flaming fire of an overpowering love in a smashing story. The rich roue, his wife and the rugged Big Woods guide who proves sophistication may be found far beyond the gay lights of Broadway. A strongly emotional novel of love and duty.

A VIRTUOUS GIRL—by Maxwell Bodenheim. Alluring, wistful, passionate Emmy-Lou, born to love under the spell of a Summer night and a boy whom her parents forbade, has the courage to live in spite of the strangling conventions of respectability. She believed in Romance and dared the penalty.

THE MARRIAGE GUEST—by Konrad Bercovici. Stark drama of the crucifixion of three lives, through which runs the golden thread of a woman's passionate, enduring love, defying the world of conventionality. Here is a absorbing, breathtaking drama!

BROADWAY RACKETEERS—by John O'Connor. Both sides of the racket, plus the laughs and lusts of the racket mob, told in the jargon of Racketland. Here is Broadway blazing with illicit loves, honeycombed with intrigue, teeming with swift-paced action! A saga of the Main Stem!

Short-wave programs of American stations are shown along with the regular listings beginning on page 27. These are indicated, for example, by (sw-11.87) in parentheses following a program listing. This means that on 11.87 megacycles the same program may also be heard over an American short-wave station. Please note that foreign stations do not always adhere precisely to their announced program schedules.

On Short Waves

Edited by Chas. A. Morrison

President, International DX'ers Alliance

Times indicated on this page are for Eastern Standard Time. For CST subtract 1 hour; for MST, 2 hours; for PST, 3 hours

THE generally poor short-wave reception that prevailed during the entire month of January and that has continued thus far into February has been due largely to an unusual activity of that magnetic phenomenon of the far North, the aurora borealis. This disturbance creates actual noise in receivers, similar in sound to certain types of man-made interference. It further blankets all frequencies, affecting the strength of most stations and almost completely absorbing any short-wave signals that must cross the north pole, or polar regions, to reach us. Transmissions from VUD2 (9.59), the new Delhi, India, station described in detail in the last issue, would fall in this category, as would those from RAN (9.6), Moscow, U.S.S.R., to a lesser degree.

On Sunday evening, February 6, the Soviet station was unusually loud, and at 9:30 p.m. EST, the Delhi broadcaster came on the air with the loud-est signals yet heard from this place. On the same evening, a news item from Daventry noted the absence of any aurora borealis disturbance and said that the phenomenon would appear again on Tuesday, February 8. From the above, one can readily see that many factors may have a bearing upon your ability to hear or not to hear far-distant stations.

Two more high-power transmitters, costing in the neighborhood of $250,000, will soon be added to the six already in use at Daventry, England. These will be used primarily for the projection of programs in Spanish and Portuguese for reception in Central and South America.

The fate of Dr. Schmidt and his four companions, composing the Soviet Arctic Aerial Navigation Expedition, who established a camp on an ice-floe near the north pole last March, which has since drifted 1,100 miles to the proximity of the northeast coast of Greenland, and now marooned on a single iceberg, will depend entirely upon the efficiency of their short-wave station, UPOL or RAEM (14.41), in directing a rescue party to them. This station has been heard occasionally near 9 p.m. EST. Any listeners hearing messages from this station are urgently requested to communicate with RADIO GUIDE at once.

Warren Stark of Wauwatosa, Wis., writes that TI8WS of Puntarenas, Costa Rica, formerly operating on 7.55 megs, is now being heard on 6.365 megs, with a powerful new transmitter.

The S. S. Manhattan, which has just been equipped with a 400-watt short-wave transmitter, WIEA, works WOO at Ocean Gate, N. J., on any one of the following frequencies: 4.412, 8.83, 13.21 or 17.64 megs, and works the European shore stations on any one of these frequencies: 4.43, 8.86, 13.32, or 17.6 megs. The significance of this item lies in the fact that this ship is the first American merchant vessel to adopt radiophone for ship-shore traffic since the S. S. Leviathan stopped running. The S. S. Washington is being similarly equipped.

Rudolph Kure of Cincinnati, O., writes that the daily American Hour from Rome, Italy, is now being heard over 2R03 (9.635), IRF (9.83), and a third transmitter, IQY (11.9), which was added on Sunday, February 6.

As a result of careful study to improve coverage of Latin America, NBC has changed the time allocation of its use of short-wave frequencies beamed toward Latin and South America to the following: Over W3XAL on 17.78 megs, daily from 5 to 7 p.m. and on 6.1 megs, daily from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. EST. NBC has intensified its program service to Latin America by transmitting special versions of the Saturday night NBC Symphony Orchestra concerts and the Saturday afternoon Metropolitan Opera broadcasts with all announcements and verbal comment in Spanish.

Earl Roberts of Indianapolis, Ind., reports that for the past two Saturday afternoons he has heard CR7BH (11.718) of Laurence Marques, Mozambique, Portuguese East Africa, signing off at 4 p.m. EST. He states that the station has a clear channel at this hour and comes in surprisingly well.

YOUR MAN GODFREY

RADIO'S "one-man show"—that's Arthur Godfrey, ad-libber extraordinary! One of the few radio artists who never uses a written script, he combines talks on news of the day with informal anecdotes and songs. Ninety-three sponsors are behind Godfrey and his many shows. Needless to say, he's one of radio's highest-paid men. The greater part of his income, admittedly twice that of the salary of the President of the United States, is derived from his new Barbasol series heard over CBS Monday and Friday nights. He is also on Station WJSV, Washington, D. C., three hours a day. On Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday he's heard over New York's WABC on a "pipe-in" from the Nation's capital. Godfrey's versatility as a "one-man show" is no less amazing than his varied background as a coal-miner, a navy radio-operator, a cemetery-lot salesman, a vaudeville performer, a taxi-driver, and a member of the Coast Guard.

"One Man Show" Arthur Godfrey made radio history by doing an eight-hour stint on an all-night airshow. Mention of this in Walter Winchell's column brought nineteen commercial offers to him overnight

$1 DISCARD YOUR OLD AERIAL

Complete
Does away with Aerial entirely—Just place an F & H Capacity Aerial Eliminator (size 1 1/2 in. x 4 in.) within your set. Simple instructions furnished with unit. Easily connected by anyone to aerial and ground of set. Your radio will then operate and tune in the same manner as if it were connected to an aerial. Operates on both short and long waves.

WHAT USERS SAY
LaPorte, Tex. After using the Capacity Aerial Eliminator over a year on my 1935 small 7 tube set can say it brings in reception with fine volume and clarity, pulling in stations from Japan, Europe, South America, and broadcast stations from all over the U. S. Efficiency proven, I took down my old outside aerial. Signed: _____

Davenport, Ia. Received your Radio Aerial Eliminator and it sure works fine. Also works swell on Short Wave band. Wish I had found it long ago. Signed: _____

It Is Most Likely Corroded and Has Poor or Loose Noisy Connections
No MORE BUZZES, CLICKS and shorts from summer rains and winter snow and sleet when using an F & H Capacity Aerial Eliminator. Anyone can connect it in a moment's time to the radio set—occupies only 1 1/2 inch by 4 inch space behind the set, yet enables your radio to operate without an aerial and tune in stations over the entire broadcast band frequencies and short wave channels.

ELIMINATE THE AERIAL FOR GOOD
Attach this unit to your radio—make your set complete in itself—forget aerial wires and troubles—move your set anywhere—no more roof climbing, unsightly lead-in or aerial wires.

NOT NEW—VALUE ALREADY PROVED
On the market five years. 100,000 customers in U.S. and foreign countries. In use from the Arctic Region of Norway to the Tropics of Africa. Each factory tested on actual long distance reception. Cannot harm set—Easily connected to any radio, including radios having no ground or radios for doublet aerial. Note: It will not operate on battery or automobile radios.

5 DAYS TRIAL—Mail coupon at once. Pay postman $1.00 plus a satisfied, return within five days and your dollar will be refunded without question.

So You Like Contests?

UNQUESTIONABLY the most important contest form today is the short statement. Years ago complex puzzles, essays and word-building contests constituted the bulk of offerings. Now nearly half of the really important contests want short statements suitable for use in advertising. An analysis of them is appropriate.

Wilmer Shepherd is undoubtedly the master of the short statement. His numerous approaches to the exercise of statement-writing are a constant source of inspiration to many. Second only to him is Kenneth R. Close, author of "How to Write Winning Contest Statements," an excellent review, including examples of winners.

Mr. Close defines the contest statement of from 20 to 50 words as "billboard advertising," designed for hurried reading or announcement on the air. These he classifies in two general groups, the omnibus type, which attempts to enumerate all the favorable points about the product, and the "single theme" type, which concentrates on a specific point. Agreeing with Close, our conclusion is that the latter is definitely superior, for omnibus statements most often are confusing and meaningless.

Close's functional test of a winning statement covers four points. First, the statement, in its opening key words, must attract attention. Second, it must arouse sustained attention. "The thought, language or emotional reference must be sufficiently unique and appealing to induce complete, concentrated reading of the statement." Third, the statement must convince the reader of some superior merit or merits of the product, and fourth, a key phrase or thought must be fixed in the reader's mind. In other words, Close is of the opinion that a statement must include a slogan—certainly an admirable virtue, but one many others would not consider necessary.

The most valuable section of "How to Write Winning Contest Statements" is a list of nineteen statement devices and forms. They are listed very briefly below:

1. Personal experience: "I was a World War nurse, and, knowing the devastation wrought by gas, I want protection from this horror in my own home . . ."
2. Analogy: "Just as Spring brightens and polishes Nature's domain, so Bab-O adds new light, life, etc. . ."
3. Pun: "Barbasol blades have the edge on all others . . ."
4. Simile: "Soft as a whisper, comforting as a mother's caress, Johnson's Baby Powder's silky smooth texture makes chafing disappear."
5. Contrast: "From Father's tough skin to Baby's pink . . ."
6. Jingle.
7. Selling idea: "I always buy duplicate pairs of Realsilk stockings, dyed with Triple-Fast dyes. Then, no matter what treatment they receive, I always have a pair of stockings to match, so long as I have two which were originally of the same shade."
8. Problem: "A busy businesswoman—day after day, week after week, walking, walking, walking—always on my feet. Realsilk Flat-Seam Sole solved my problem, etc. . ."

9. Sales Talk (more conversational than No. 7): "Wearing Realsilk stockings of fresh silk means keeping step with progress . . ."

10. Humor: "I'm a big hulk, over 200 pounds. Ten hours a day in a hot office, on my feet most of the time. What a test of socks! . . ."

11. Cumulative effect (in which each statement becomes more powerful than its predecessor): "Vest-pocket prestige, desk-top efficiency, life-time satisfaction . . ."

Eddie Cantor was honored as radio's most popular star when Col. George R. Norton, of the Eaton Paper Co., named him winner of the company's contest poll

12. Balance or rhythmic effect: "Shaeffer's goods are outwardly beautiful, inwardly dependable and always economical."

13. Class appeal: (Flattery with such phrases as "men well able to pay more" or "women accustomed to the best").

14. News type statement: "Disastrous newspaper headlines tell the story of unsafe gas refrigerants, working under pressure in leaky compressors and connections. Carrene, the safe, efficient refrigerant, works within a sealed rotary mechanism . . ."

15. Slogan-statement: "Kelvinator—The Refrigerator of Today with the Conveniences of Tomorrow: Always Automatic—Always Economical—Always Dependable."

16. "Buy Now": "Advancing prices say 'Buy a Frigidaire NOW!'"

17. Seasonal or special appeal: "In every game, Certified Cremo cigars score the winning touchdown by three standard ground-gaining plays: quality, cleanliness and economy."

18. Acrostics (in which the product's name provides the initial letters for the lines or words of a statement): "Men Everywhere Are Demanding Of Wives—Guard Our Lean Dollars" (Meadow Gold).

19. Outline: (In this type the reasons for a conclusion are put in the form of an outline, as if for an essay).

Many will feel that Close's nineteen forms could be grouped better in fewer classifications—but there is one virtue to this arrangement: it suggests many approaches, and any one of them might suggest a winning entry!

In addition to Close's work, many others periodically write about winning statement contests. Most books consider them. There is no more profitable field for study in contesting!

ment, they all won big prizes—which lends support to the contention of some of our readers that nobody can spot a winner! We're perfectly willing to agree that we can't! There are some entries which are so obviously superior that anyone can recognize their excellence; others simply seem to have more good points than bad, and their winning depends more on their competition, probably, than on anything they can boast themselves.

In introducing one of the lessons of his course, the "Trustee Technique," Shepherd also lists some of his students' winners. In these, the writers "repose confidence and faith in the sponsor's product," as in a trustee. This faith is demonstrated "dramatically by entrusting to it something easily harmed or something dear . . . The product fully justifies this faith by being kind or beneficial to that which is entrusted to it." In other words, as Shepherd explains it, "The product plays the role of a trusted friend, makes good, and merits your continued reliance and loyalty." Here are the winners:

"I like Chipso because my most cherished material possession is an antique knitted bedspread; this I have repeatedly washed with Chipso without harming one delicate age-worn thread."

"When baby was crawling, Lava Soap alone kept her knees clean without chapping; Lava has been a kitchen and bathroom fixture ever since."

"I use Ivory Flakes for washing my silk stockings because, like an old friend, they're always dependable, whether I rely on them to preserve color, elasticity or texture!"

"I like Ivory Soap because it never mars the rainbow appeal of the children's prints. My neighbors call my wash the 'weekly miracle'."

"Centennial Silk-Sifted Flour is so dependable that I can trust my young daughter to make light biscuits when I entertain."

Winning Entries Ideas that Clicked!

Gilson Willets reports that during 1937 the pupils of Wilmer Shepherd's correspondence school won more than a thousand prizes, including a $10,000 cash prize, seven $1,000 prizes, a trailer, nine automobiles and ten silver-fox furs. Here are some of the winners:

"I like Allsweet better because through it my children have made friends with vegetables—Allsweet's economy lets them use plenty on greens, carrots, etc., making these vital foods temptingly appetizing."

"I like Pebeco because as thrilling and personal an experience as meeting a long-absent friend was seeing the mirrored reflection of my glistening teeth after using Pebeco."

"I like Admiracion better because my mirror tells me before my family does that Admiracion's oily lather has awakened my hair to new pep. It made easier the change to new lines I have been training my waves to take and Jon, who puts in the 'swirl' for special occasions, approves the results I acquire by using Admiracion."

Although there are points in each of these entries which seem to this department's editors subject to improve-

This Contest World It Just Rolls Along!

The most inspirational story of contesting we have ever seen was in Gilson Willets' Christmas Day edition of "National Contest News," published in Scripps-Howard newspapers. This department suggests here that it be reprinted and made available through National Contest Headquarters to contesters . . . Contesters who became interested in soap-carving when P & G sponsored its annual competitions for "Small Sculptures in White Soap" will be interested in a new soap-sculpture kit which retails for about half a dollar . . . Results in the second Old Gold contest for 1937 remain a zealously guarded secret as this is written. Announcements of winners seem likely to come around the first of next month, however.

Joan Lambert, formerly Wilmer Shepherd's assistant, has opened her own entry-criticism office in Philadelphia . . . A reader complains that she receives smaller prizes which have been shipped without insurance in pitiful shape—broken, bent, irreparable. Is this common?

which, as might be supposed, had become rather annoying to civil authorities, was checked by law. But the theater had already demonstrated that it could be used as a vehicle for social reform, and many a playwright since has employed it for that purpose.

The performance of "The Birds" will be described as having been staged in the Theater Dionysus, at Athens, where the Athenians had assembled for plays produced at the annual religious festival in honor of the wine god. It was the ritual of the cult of Dionysus, probably more than any other, that gave drama its original impetus, and the selection of a play performed in the theater built in his honor has especial significance.

THE second play in the series is an English morality, "Everyman," most famous and most perfect of its kind. "Everyman" was produced in 1529, while the church of medieval England held in its hands, all unconsciously, the future of the theater.

Davis' radio play is an adaptation of the "Everyman" interpretation made famous by Edith Wynn Mathison and Charles Rann Kennedy. It will be broadcast from the nave of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, in New York City, a church which is an acknowledged masterpiece of architecture and a fit setting for a reproduction of the famous old morality.

The boys' choir of St. John's and the great cathedral organ will provide special music for the broadcast, and Bishop William T. Manning, of New York, will speak on the relationship between the modern drama and the church, a relationship that has often been forgotten in ecclesiastical assaults on the theater.

The Italian drama will be represented by a performance of "The Great Magician," a commedia dell'arte compiled and written by Lawrence Carra. Commedia dell'arte, at its height in Italy in the sixteenth century, was pure improvisation. The professional actors who played in it had only skeleton outlines of the plot—called scenarios—to guide them in each play. Their dialog they made up as they went along.

THE modern Irish theater will be represented by a production of Synge's "Playboy of the Western World," made famous by the Abbey Players of Dublin, whose theater is the workshop for the greatest playwrights of Ireland.

The last play in the series, as yet unselected, will be taken from the broad field of contemporary American drama, to give listeners a chance to hear at least one native stage piece that has been popular in the bright-light center of New York City—the modern capital of the theatrical world.

Davis makes no claim that the series he is writing is a complete story of the drama. His object has been merely to pick out and reproduce ten peak performances in the history of the theater, and there have necessarily been many omissions. But representative plays of all periods have been included, and the entire program is an excellent outline of the development of drama.

"Great Plays" may be heard Saturday over an NBC-Red network at:
EST 5:00 p.m. — CST 4:00 p.m.
MST 3:00 p.m. — PST 2:00 p.m.

Radio Guide's Picture Panorama of Broadcasting

TELEVISION: Most Complete Photo-Story Ever Published

1927 Television was first publicly demonstrated by American T. & T. in a broadcast between Washington and New York with crude results

1928 Images were transmitted from England to America. Pictures were still hardly recognizable, though screen-lines were thinner than in '27

DURING the past ten years tremendous progress has been made in the field of television. This new art, which transmits moving scenes to distant points by means of electrical waves, there to be viewed almost simultaneously with their inception, will undoubtedly in the course of time tend to revolutionize the radio industry. The idea of television was old long before electricity was in general use for communication. The problems presented such unlimited difficulties, the tools needed so numerous and various, that it has taken many years to produce scientists and inventors competent to create the necessary material.

Sixty-five years ago, electrical devices embodying the particular requirements for realization of this idea were devised. In 1884, Nipkow patented a disk with spiral holes which was once in general use. Other tools were invented from that time on, but it was not until about thirty years ago that one of the greatest contributions to television was discovered—the vacuum tube.

In 1925, apparatus for television was exhibited by C. F. Jenkins in America and J. W. Baird in England. Two years later The American Telephone and Telegraph Company gave the first complete public demonstration of television by transmitting images from Washington to New York. In 1928, Baird announced the transmission of images across the Atlantic from England to America. Work has gone steadily forward on this radical departure from all known forms of communication until today there are regular television programs from the major networks throughout America, England, Germany and France. During 1937, one of the largest television stations in the United States conducted a series of experiments by installing sets in the homes of its engineers. These tests, conducted day and night under favorable and unfavorable conditions of every description and in all sections of the country, have been an important factor in eliminating former errors in design of apparatus both for sending and receiving. In England several hundred receiving sets have been sold for experimental purposes.

Wave lengths for television differ greatly from those for sound-broadcasting and do not travel satisfactorily over long distances. Fifty miles is the average distance a television program can be transmitted successfully. This necessitates the erection of many television stations in order to serve even one large city. Erection and equipment of these stations runs into hundreds of thousands of dollars involving tremendous investment. Although television is now practical in its scientific phases, there is still much to be done before it can be brought into practical use for the general public. The cost of regular receiving sets—$350 to $5,000—is almost prohibitive to the average radio owner, but with constant research, new inventions and improvements making such rapid strides, this condition is expected to be overcome within the next few years, and television programs will then be as important in our daily lives as regular radio-broadcast programs are today.

Photographs by NBC and CBS

1934 Six years of experimentation made great improvements, produced pictures with finer screen and clearer results, caused many rumors

1937 Within three more years engineers came closer to their goal, giving real grounds to rumors that television was not a too-distant reality

DEVELOPMENT: Perfection of the "Image" ...

5 As the image begins to take form, 60 scanning-lines are reproducing

6 Doubling the lines to 120 gives a definite picture but still sketchy

7 At third step, 180 lines, depth and highlights are given to the image

8 With 240 scanning-lines, the object is finally complete, appears normal

9 The more scanning-lines, the clearer the picture, as was shown in the pictures at left. Above is the image of Betty Goodwin, NBC television announcer, as she appears on a 343-line screen in actual transmission

MAKE-UP: Stars Are Prepared for the Camera...

11 Make-up is still in the experimental stage but nearing the point where it becomes a science. In tests, to save wear and tear on employees, a specialty built dummy is used to determine the best make-up, best lighting arrangements and angles for the camera, or "iconoscope," as it is called

12 After the dummy is prepared for the camera, test shots are made to determine further improvements necessary for the best actual transmission

13 Rumors about black lipstick are false. Artists, like Grace and Eddie Albert (above), use shades of pale orange, red and brown for even tones

BROADCAST: Sound and Image Are Combined in Television

14 America's most outstanding artists are currently being used in television transmission. Above: Mme. Elisabeth Rethberg of the "Met"

15 There are no television make-up experts; they are being developed as is Eddie Senz, heretofore used only for movies and photographs

16 This picture was taken during an actual television broadcast made recently by Mme. Rethberg in NBC's elaborate Radio City studios

17 Television and sound-broadcasting are sometimes similar in many ways. In both instances, Lowell Thomas works seated at a desk. In sound, the microphone is set on the desk. In television it hangs on a hook out of the camera's range. Transmission of commentators is considered the easiest form of television, as the artist remains stationary, speaks in a steady voice, requires a minimum of work from cameramen and control engineers

18 Visual action, recorded by the camera, and sound, picked up by the microphone, are blended to form the complete televised program

19 NBC has reserved two entire floors for television but is currently using only a portion of that space. Above: The main studio

20 Unlike NBC, CBS has conducted its experiments in secret. Writer Gilbert Seldes (above) is television program chief for the CBS broadcasts

21 Television is still an infant. Before it can start large-scale operations many problems must be met. First, all programs would have to be remade, as all are now based on illusion. Second, broadcasting 17 hours per day would mean 6,205 hours of visual programs per station per year—a huge job. Third, variety, talent and settings for so many hours of broadcasting would involve costs far exceeding that spent in Hollywood on movie films

MECHANICS: Equipment in Use . . .

22 Two forms of televising are possible—live talent and the use of motion-picture film. An attendant is here shown broadcasting a news reel like those shown in theaters

23 An engineer (foreground) monitors sound; one (rear) monitors picture. The program director faces the "talk-back mike"

24 Proper formation of the image is achieved through the synchronizing signal-generator. Its intricacies are revealed in this view

—Wide World

26 NBC programs originate in Radio City, are carried 15 blocks by wire to the transmission room and antenna atop the Empire State Building, 102 stories above ground

25 Half the units shown above are audio (sound) transmitters, half video (pictures). In the pipes, audio and video signals are combined in an antenna filter. Thus simultaneous sound and picture transmission is possible. Program is piped to antenna—then into air

27 First American mobile television unit belongs to NBC and is being used in experimental pick-ups of outdoor events. In the first unit are cameras and microphones; in the other van is the transmitter, connected by cable. The broadcast is thus made directly from the spot

RECEPTION: Entertainment at Home ...

28 Gilbert Seldes and Dr. Peter Goldmark of CBS inspect the largest (15,000-watt) and the smallest (100-watt) water-cooled tubes

29 Inside the camera, center, is the iconoscope, or "television eye." The plate inside tube changes light to electrical waves

30 The size of the image has, in the past, been small, as shown elsewhere on this page. Later, it has been possible to project the televised image on a home-size screen

31 Betty Goodwin, America's first woman television announcer, shows the two forms of reception—the regulation receiving-set, which shows a 7½ x 10-inch image, and the projection screen, which shows a 3x4-foot image. Both are expensive, cost $350 to $5,000 each

32 Network engineers are among the few who have receiving-sets in their homes. This is for a practical value, as these men and their families are pioneering in an industry which has such gigantic possibilities that statements about it are unlimited, unpredictable

33 CBS transmitter is in new studios atop the Chrysler Building in New York. Success of this new form of entertainment depends on a long but fruitful trial-by-error

$1,000.00 "SNAPPY COMEBACK" CONTEST Based on Scenes from "Hollywood Hotel"

SOON they'll be thundering down the home stretch in RADIO GUIDE's big "snappy comeback" contest, but there's still time to enter the race—still time to get in on that $1,000.00 in cash prizes which will go to the winners. Think of what one of those prizes would mean! Think of the things you could buy, the deposit you could make at your bank, the pleasure of having your pockets crammed full of extra cash! Then get into this fascinating contest at once!

RADIO GUIDE's $1,000.00 contest is based on scenes from the movie hit, "Hollywood Hotel," now showing at theaters all over the country. If you haven't already seen "Hollywood Hotel," do so as soon as you can. It's great entertainment, and it's sure to give you some ideas about "snappy comebacks."

PRIZES

First Prize	$500.00
Second Prize	250.00
Third Prize	100.00
Next Ten Prizes, $10.00 Each ..	100.00
Next Ten Prizes, $ 5.00 Each ..	50.00
TOTAL	$1,000.00

Each week, over a period of eight weeks, RADIO GUIDE is publishing photographs of two scenes from "Hollywood Hotel." In each scene there are two or more characters, one of whom is standing silent, while another makes a remark. Your task is to place in the artist's "balloon" above that silent character's head a "snappy comeback"—the wittiest you can think of. It's easy. It's fun. And it may pay you dividends!

The contest began with the issue of January 15. It closes with the issue of March 5. But you can get back numbers of RADIO GUIDE from the Circulation Dept., RADIO GUIDE, 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Ill. Once you've started, it doesn't take long to think of "snappy comebacks." Live by your wittiness! Make your sense of humor pay!

RULES: 1. In each of eight issues—January 15, through March 5—Radio Guide will publish two photographs of scenes from Warner Brothers' motion picture, "Hollywood Hotel." Each picture will have a blank conversation "balloon" to be filled in with a "snappy comeback" to remarks printed in other "balloons." Suggested "comebacks" will accompany each picture.

2. A complete set of sixteen filled-in photographs or reasonably accurate facsimiles of them, constitutes an entry. Replies must be written in spaces provided on pictures. For the sets of pictures selected by the judges, prizes amounting to $1,000.00 will be paid according to the schedule on this page.

3. Entries will be judged on appropriateness—in consideration of the story of the motion picture—neatness, originality, and directness of thought. Elaborate entries will receive no special consideration.

4. Do not send in any entries until your set is complete—sixteen pictures in all. Back issues of Radio Guide may be obtained from the Circulation Dept., Radio Guide, 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Ill., or examined at its offices or in public libraries. Sign your name on each picture or affix it securely in some way. Send entries to "Snappy Comeback" Contest Editor, Radio Guide, 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Ill.—first-class postage, prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will not be accepted by the addressee.

5. To be eligible for prizes, entries must be postmarked before midnight, March 13, 1938.

6. No entries will be returned. In fairness to all participants in the contest, judges will not enter into any correspondence concerning any aspect of this contest. All entries become the property of Radio Guide.

7. This contest is open to everyone in the United States and Canada, except employes of Radio Guide and their families. The editors of Radio Guide will be the contest judges. All persons agree by entering to accept the decisions of the judges as final. In case of ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

8. Anybody eligible to compete may enter as many times as he likes—and may win more than one prize if his entries merit such consideration.

On the anniversary of the birth of George Washington this broadcast will attempt to show the modern application that can be made to many of the speeches and statements of Washington. Bob Trout will read quotations from comments of Washington on war and peace and armaments, and other topics, and parallels will be drawn to contemporary situations.

BROADCASTING from Station E-Z-R-A

EVERY MON.-WED.-FRI.

NBC — Coast-to-Coast

You'll enjoy the philosophy and quaint humor of this old man with young ideas. One of the best loved characters in radio, in a program that's DIFFERENT.
Never a dull minute. The Hoosier Hot

After 20 Years Of ASTHMA ATTACKS GETS REAL RELIEF!

(From Boulder, Colo.) "I had been a sufferer from Asthma paroxysms for 20 years. I am 54 years old. In December, 1933, I had a bad attack. My husband and children didn't think I could live. I was weak, couldn't walk across the floor. I choked with every breath. We saw your medicine advertised and sent for a bottle. I haven't had any Asthma paroxysms since taking the first half bottle. I am feeling fine." Signed—Mrs. T. L. McFarland. (Jan. - 1935)

What is the TRUTH about Asthma?

Must otherwise healthy men, women, and children go all through life suffering the dreadful tortures of Asthma Paroxysms or Bronchial Coughs? Is there no simple, easy, quick way to real relief?

Again and again you have experienced something, seen something, imagined something that you thought would make a grand picture or series of pictures for a magazine.

Put that down on paper! . . . send it to CLICK!

CLICK will pay $50,000 in cash during the next ten issues for ideas, subjects, experiences, which can be presented to its readers in picture form.

We'll do the camera work—just give us the idea.

For example: "Tortures from the beginning of time"; "What makes peeping toms peep?"; "History of fighting: From gladiators to the 20th century"; "Man-sized jobs women do"; "Famous executions in history". That's all we want—just the subject, not the details!

For suggestions like that—sent to CLICK—you may shake out of an envelope a check for $1,000!

So get a copy of CLICK—it's only a dime. It's now on the newsstands—and you can see exactly what type of picture subjects CLICK editors favor. Full details about contributed ideas on page 5 in current issue—study them carefully.
