A SERVICE OF THE RADIO CORPORATION OF AMERICA

AT LONG LAST — TELEVISION

RADIO Guide

DOUBLES YOUR RADIO ENJOYMENT

731 PLYMOUTH COURT, CHICAGO, ILL.

At Long Last . . .

Some weeks ago we inquired tartly in these columns if we in America were to be deprived of television while the listeners of England and Germany were to be served well by their own broadcasting companies. The most satisfactory answer is the one made last week by Mr. David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, that sets will be available soon and a regular service will be available on the opening of the New York World's Fair next year.

But what does the promise mean? We have asked Mr. Sarnoff for a further explanation of what sort of sets and service we may expect from his company, which, through its control of innumerable patents, is supposed to have television in the hollow of its hands. We have further surveyed the whole field and had our findings checked by experts. On these facts and on Mr. Sarnoff's answer, we are preparing an article which will both explain and debunk. In the meantime, you may turn off your radio each night without worrying that tomorrow your set may be obsolete. It just won't happen that way. Get the most you can out of radio today. Get those new tubes. Or buy a new set. Tomorrow may give you a new Munich conference, a new Nazi putsch, or a new Jack Benny-Charlie McCarthy-Bob Burns. You want that, with or without television.

Adventures at Home

When a radio program puts wheels on your armchair, seven-league boots on your feet, and the spirit of Columbus in your brain, you have something out of the ordinary. Something quite out of the ordinary is a ten-year-old airshow now being presented by the Columbia Broadcasting System and called imposingly "The American School of the Air." Not nearly enough attention has been called to it. Under the direction of able Sterling Fisher, this program provides a kilocycle classroom of such attractiveness that many a casual listener has found his mental horizons, willy-nilly, being pushed back.

For example, Monday's class hears the most authoritative and amazing news of those frontiers of democracy, science and housing and health and recreation. Its listeners who may be lost in empty counties or barren parishes find themselves suddenly citizens of importance in a great nation.

Tuesday: Music of America comes from all climes and all classes, and permits us to know better the southern colonies or the 'Bama Negroes, or the musical comedy and American opera of the past.

Wednesday: This Living World is the title under which minds leap from the rights of minorities to the bullying bandits of Manchu plains, or from the Monroe doctrine to a Patagonian oil strike.

Thursday: Here are "New Horizons" for all. A rich day, this, with such titles for individual programs as: The Empire of the Dinosaurs, the Conquest of Space, Davy Jones' Locker, the Vanishing Wilderness.

These talks are planned for young Americans, but many an eager adult is getting a new slant on things by listening regularly each day, at 2:30 p.m. EST, to Columbia's invaluable "American School of the Air."

Bloops

Jittery network officials in New York have acquired new gray hairs because of the new Broadway musical called "Hellzapoppin." Walter Winchell wanted to mention the show on a recent Sunday night program. "Can't do it. It's profane," was the answer. Orchestra leaders wanted to play music from the show. "Can't do it. The title is profane," was the edict. So news about one of the funniest shows ever to hit Broadway and music from it were barred from listener ears for several days until some courageous bravo decided to take a chance and see what might happen. Well, nothing happened. Now you hear the name almost every night.

Memo to the Boss.
To: CM From: JS

IF YOU buy this piece, the sales price is going directly into circulation for purchase of the following articles, to wit: Two coal-oil lamps, two dozen candles, one case of concentrated soups, one ax, a battery-set radio and about a dollar's worth of stamps to send my copy of "Gone With the Wind" back to Margaret Mitchell. Also I am going to return to Bromfield my copy of "The Rains Came." However, I am keeping forever an old edition of Alger's "Sink or Swim" and a first-edition of Sinclair Lewis' "It Can't Happen Here." Because it did!

Once upon a time, boss, you told me that if I ran into any unusual events during my wanderings to drop you a memo and perhaps we could pull a story out of same. Maybe this is not unusual, but our family has just shaken off the shackles of a nightmare during which we literally lived in our doghouse for a day and a night while the rains came and our little world up here in Connecticut went with the wind. And we, to whom news is the staff of life, didn't know there was a European crisis until it was all over!

We trudged two miles through slush and over prostrate trees to a home that had the two things we wanted more than anything else in the world, right then—fresh water and a battery radio set. And we huddled around that coughing and wheezing old set and heard from the world for the first time in five days. A newscaster reported that more than six hundred persons had died in the New England hurricane.

LUCY NASH, the secretary of the interior of our family government, gasped, and stared at our children—at the littlest little Jim, who is 14; at Little John, who is 12, and at Lucy Ann, the one we call Annie Rooney and who is five. Then she looked at me and said calmly, but with authority:

"We are going to church next Sunday."

The littlest little Jim said, "I want a battery radio set for Christmas. I don't mind a hurricane, but I can't stand to miss 'Information, Please.'"

Little John said, "I wonder what has happened to the Lone Ranger."

Little Annie Rooney said, "Are they still killing children in China?"

I asked the secretary of the interior, whose interior, even as mine, was pleading for a big steak with onions, "Do you realize what radio means to our every-day lives?"

She said: "I do now. Somehow I think I could laugh at our predicament—no heat, no water, no lights, no food except oatmeal and cooking outdoors, no nothing!—if only we had a radio working. I wouldn't feel so—so exiled. Can you believe we are only 125 miles from New York! But we might as well be at the North Pole. I agree with Jinx (we call the littlest little Jim the Jinx at times) that our next investment must be a battery set. I didn't know a radio could be so friendly until we were without one."

BUT back to the beginning, skipper.

You know we moved out five miles from Old Lyme, Connecticut, last summer to get away from the sidewalks of New York. Our home was built in 1740 and, of course, modernized. It stood in the middle of four hundred lovely acres. There were moss-covered stone fences, and white-washed fences. There was a 150-year old lilac tree by our bedroom window. There was an old slate-colored barn that was new when the Battle of Gettysburg was news. Trailing roses poked around the fences, exploring every nook. Tiger lilies and hollyhock, bay berries and golden rod grew in reckless profusion, in security and pride as though the land were theirs and we were intruders and were tolerated only because we didn't in any way disturb their lives.

Locust trees and pears and apples and cherries formed a regiment on our west lawn and marched away in columns like an international brigade. A few tired old trees straggled here and there, but the young ones seemed to be in perfect step and trooped across a field where sumac glowed red and golden in the evening. All the trees lived in harmony, sharing sun and rain, and there was no jealousy among them, except one—a gnarled old plum with a crooked back that waved its arms menacingly at its comrades and struggled for more than its share of the good things of life. We named that tree Hitler.

A MILE away, Long Island Sound washed the venerable shores where Uncas once roamed with his Mohican remnants. Old Montauk light stood just beyond the Sound. On muggy nights, the fog-horns mumbled a lullaby, and on sparkling nights we could see the ships.

WE'RE GOING TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY

BY JAMES STREET

It was an inspiring world, and yr. obedient servant went into retreat, primed his typewriter, and sat down to write the great American novel. It was to be a historical romance of the Southeast from 1790 to 1850, and, ironically enough, it was titled "The Harvest of Hate."

The secretary of the interior was quite delighted with the set-up. She ran her house with electricity—stove, ice-box, furnace, water-pumps, lights, clocks, sewing-machine, numerous other gadgets, and radio.

The littlest little Jim and Little John had guns and fishing-rods, and freedom that only youth can have and only adults appreciate. Annie Rooney, who had known only New York, made some startling discoveries—that she could pick flowers and other flowers would take their places; that Bob Whites whistle, and that deer would come to your door at dawn and eat oats if you didn't disturb them. She also learned that Connecticut mosquitoes can carry you away, bit by bit, and can harmonize. She called them jitterbugs.

We named the place "The Barricades," and decided that, come the revolution, here we would be in our own little world. There's been no revolution, boss, but there's been a revelation.

WE GOT three dogs. G-man is a buff cocker-spaniel pup, so named because I've been writing about one—a G-man, not a pup. Miss Kay is an old English sheepdog. She looks like Flat Foot Floogie. Trudie Katrinka is a Newfoundland with an appetite like a vacuum cleaner. We converted a storeroom in the old part of the house, next to my study, into the dog-house. It has a stone foundation and was there when the British landed about six miles away to subdue Connecticut. It was there when Benedict Arnold burned New London.

We bought nine bantams for Miss

Rooney—two roosters, Hot Dog and Hamburger, and seven hens—With Onions, With Mustard, With Relish, With Pickles, With Ketchup, With Tomatoes, and With Out. It was very disconcerting to yr. obedient servant's trend of thoughts to hear Miss Rooney summons her chickens at twilight. She sounded like a barker for an eating-concession at a county fair.

THE secretary of the interior often would sit down on a big stone that serves as our back steps and laugh after she would call us to meals, like this (and try it real fast)—"Big Jim, Little Jim, Little John, Annie Rooney, Miss Kay, Trudie Katrinka, G-Man, Hot Dog, Hamburger, With Onions, With Mustard, With Relish, With Pickles, With Ketchup, With Tomatoes, and With Out!" There is an insane asylum about eight miles away, and the good Connecticut squires used to eye us warily and wonder exactly whence we came. It's a fact that folks would drive by "The Barricades" and point at us and then shy away.

We had six radios. It was the only way to keep peace in the clan. Each of the children had one, the secretary and I shared one, there was one in the car and we had a tiny set in the barn. I had heard that music would make chickens work overtime, and I wanted to try out the experiment on With Mustard and the bantam harem. I cannot report my findings at this time, for neither the radio nor the harem had a fair opportunity for results. The last time I saw the bantam radio it was headed north with Hamburger, Hot Dog et al. right behind it.

All went well at "The Barricades" until the middle of September, when the rains came. Now, skipper, I've seen rains before. I've covered floods, tornadoes, Florida hurricanes and dog-day rains in the South, where it really rains. The rains here started sort of in low gear, sweeping up from the Sound and pounding heavily. It rained thunderously for three days and Nature slipped the gears into high, and a fine, whizzing rain laid siege to us. It blotted out the countryside. It beat flowers and shrubs into the ground and covered them with silt. It stripped the trees of their dress and left them naked and embarrassed. And it flooded our basement and choked our furnace. I rigged up a bilge-pump, and was sweating away, literally pulling water from the basement. The secretary of the interior was sitting on the steps, offering suggestions and nothing else. Miss Rooney was at my elbow, under my feet and in my hair, and asking such questions as:

"Where does water come from, Daddy? What makes it rain? Why does the water where I swim have salt in it and the water I drink doesn't?"

The child had water on the brain, skipper, and so did I.

HAMBURGER warned us of the hurricane! He and the harem had been huddled under an elm, and suddenly he poked out his head and squawked. Then he straightened out his wings and took off, half jumping and half flying across a lawn, with the ladies following him, as usual. There was no wind then, and the rain had ceased. The world seemed to be absolutely still, as though Nature had caught her breath and was holding it.

The secretary of the interior pointed at the bantams and said: "I saw chickens do that way right before the Florida hurricane of 1928. It's going to blow!"

"Tommyrot," I said. "Who ever heard of a hurricane up here. New England may blow, but the wind doesn't."

FROM the Sound there came a long, low "who-o-o-o" sound. Skipper, when you were a child did you ever hear a ghost story and the story-teller made an eerie "who-o-o-o" sound to imitate the cry of a ghost? That's exactly the way the wind sounded. The trees began trembling, not bowing, but shaking, as though the earth were having a spasm, or as though the trees were cold and shivering.

Lucy Nash said, "Get my children together, Jimmie Street, I don't like this."

The boys were in school, five miles away. I backed the car out just as the boys arrived. They had caught the one and only bus that had left their school. They are Boy Scouts, and the bus-driver wanted them with him because they know first aid and could serve in an emergency.

We gathered on the front porch and watched the storm arrive.

A fox ran out of the woods and stopped directly in front of us and stared, as though he were thinking, "You crazy fools, haven't you got sense enough to get in out of the weather?"

Deer dashed out of the forest, and the birds came out in swarms. Hamburger and Hot Dog and the harem had sought their house. Our dogs rubbed our legs and whined. The earth seemed to sway, and Nature exhaled her breath, as you do when a doctor takes your chest measurement. Our gates rattled, then clanged and clattered and blew open with a swishing noise, and closed with a grinding sound, the way automobile gears sound when they are not shifted properly. Our trailing roses were blown from the wire, and straightened out and rippled, like green streamers at a football game. Our house shook.

YELLED, "Get to the dog-house!" It was the safest room, solid and sheltered. We ducked in, then peeped out. The 150-year-old lilac tree staggered for a minute, then sat down in the mud. I thought of an old woman just flopping because she was too tired to stand and determined to stay down until somebody picked her up.

The wind began to shriek—a high, nasal sound. I've heard hillbilly musicians on the radio make that sound with a fiddle. I heard the same sound in the movie, "The Hurricane." An enormous locust tree that sheltered our sleeping-porch toppled and went "plop" and stretched out, its branches flaying the trunk and the roots trembling.

I ran to Little John's room and got his small radio and plugged it in a socket in the dog-house. It squawked and went dead. The clocks stopped at 1:40. The screen from our porches came off in ribbons and wrapped around the trees. Chairs shot by the dog-house and splintered against the house.

The trees began falling in groups—a crackle, then a sigh, then a groan, and they fell as dominoes fall when you stand them up and touch one and watch them all go down.

The trees didn't bow down as I've seen palms and pines do in Florida. They tried to fight the wind, tried to stand up straight and keep their dignity as becomes a New England monarch. They seemed to say to the wind, "You can't do this to me." And the wind, angry at resistance, slapped them flat and shaved all the leaves away. Loose rocks along the fences tumbled down

Cinema's Franchot Tone appears in "Silver Theater" play with Rita Johnson, CBS, Sunday

DATE WITH THE DEVIL —Sunday, NBC

Radio drama goes to the devil this week—along with Dr. Faustus in the play of the same name. However, it is assumed that the demon doc went for keeps, but our radio dramatics make only a one-hour round-trip excursion, and our participation in the fireworks will be purely vicarious. This may be by-play, but Christopher Marlowe's "Dr. Faustus" is a great play. At least, that's what teacher told us, and maybe you're one of the many who ate up Faustus' finagling and Mephistopheles' meddling without the pedagogic coercion. Faustus was the daddy and granddaddy of an illustrious line of fictitious doctors—Dr. Frankenstein, Dr. Jekyll, Dr. Clitterhouse among the most illustrious—whose experiments boomeranged. While we're playing with words about NBC's "Great Plays," we mustn't neglect to emphasize that the moral of this play is the old stand-by: "If you play with fire, you'll get burned," as well as "It's hard to make a sucker out of Satan." Shall we tune in Sunday to see how the brimstone smell sounds over the radio?

GROWING PAINS —Sunday, CBS

The Polish Corridor is in the same class as the Dutch stoop, Swiss cheese, Scotch whisky, and Spanish tile. False. A Pole is a long piece of lumber. Not with a capital P. Poland celebrates twenty years of independence this week. True. Part of that celebration will be a special broadcast on Sunday, featuring Poland's president, Ignace Moscicki, speaking from Warsaw. This is the second of three broadcasts in honor of three states created by the Treaty of Versailles, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Jugoslavia. Unfortunately, the first-named country was forcibly deprived of its franchise before it was quite old enough to vote. Poland will become a full-fledged independent adult in one more year, if—you know the rest—but Poland's Corridor seems fairly safe for the present from the muddy "Heil" and toe of a trespasser. So Poland can take its hair down and celebrate in the de luxe manner two decades of independence.

LINCOLNESQUE —Sunday, NBC

"His life was gentle, and the elements so mixed in him that Nature might stand up and say to all the world, 'This was a man!'"

The "Magic Key" turns in the lock, and out of the darkness of the intangible something called "the past" strides a great, gaunt man—not a ghost nor a reincarnation, but a real man, a man whose spirit will never die in the imaginations of those who know what he was and what he said and what he did. And who does not know of Abraham Lincoln? That long, loose, awkward, shaggy figure ambling out of the past—is that the great Lincoln? That's a hillbilly (he wouldn't resent). That's a prairie plodder (he would be proud). That's a commoner (he would be complimented). That's one of the great men of history (he would remain silent). When the "Magic Key" opens that door of retrospect Sunday we shall see "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," as Raymond Massey portrays "honest Abe" as he lived and worked in the great prairie state in the thirty years before the Civil War. Mr. Massey will enact a scene from the current Broadway hit by Robert E. Sherwood, in which Massey admirably plays the title role.

UNDERTONE —Sunday, CBS

Franchot Tone at heart is a mad mutineer against thin sophistication and artificial art, but his natural sense of restraint has caught him just on the verge of many a roguish revolt. That's what the Hollywood publicity says, and when you note that mischievous, independent glint in his eyes, somehow counterbalanced by his genuine grin, then you can credit the publicity with something of the truth. When Franchot appears with Rita Johnson on the "Silver Theater" program this week, you can't see that glint and grin, but you can hear that suggestion of something beneath in his resonant voice, and you can be assured of his usual fine performance.

PURE LUNARCY —Monday, CBS

"This week, as it must to all men," darkness comes to the man in the moon. Maybe you have been going around lately warbling the ditty, "Don't Let That Moon Get Away." Maybe, too, you recently exhorted your alma mater to "Hold that line!" or muttered, "Stop those Yankees," all in vain. It all boils down to the fact that we can't keep the moon from going into a total eclipse Monday afternoon—but we can hear it happen on the radio. We can't really hear the earth's shadow scrape the sun's light off the moon, but we can hear a description of the phenomenon by CBS' specialeer, Bob Trout, who will stand the death-watch on this Sol-enn occasion atop the CBS building in New York. Trout will conduct a two-way conversation with Prof. William H. Barton, Jr., curator of Hayden Planetarium, and F. Trubee Davison, president of the Museum, who will be up in an airplane witnessing the moon-man get put in the shade. Lovers, however, have no need to worry—not even Sol can keep a good man down, and the old fellow will bounce sprightly and brightly back into the picture.

SAME OLD SOPHIE

—Mon., Wed., Fri., CBS

At long last—and at broad last—Sophie Tucker, the "last of the red-hot mamas," crashes back into the radio picture with a big-time show. Step aside, Judy Garland!

Out of the way, Deanna Durbin and Betty Jaynes! Else you may get trampled in the rush. Just line up, all you young upstarts, and watch the smoke. For here comes Sophie, the steam-rolling songstress, the tigress of torch-songs, trooper extraordinary, showwoman de luxe, Sophie, the buxom belle of Broadway and many other spots, plain old Sophie, the "last of the red-hot mamas." Styled by columnists as a true Broadway sophisticate, Miss Tucker is known to her associates as a "softie" for charity and friends in need. She is authentically considered one of the best-dressed women in America. Sophie is one of the many who owe their start to the late Flo Zeigfeld. That was quite some time ago—quite. In the many years of night-club and vaudeville performing, the perennially popular blues singer has gathered many literal and figurative bouquets, including the plaudits of crowned heads. HEAD-X REPORTED —Mon., Tues., CBS, NBC

It's farewell to the "punkin" head in the window, and it's soon to be hello to the turkey on the table. But in the interim, somewhere between the "punkin" head and the fowl meat, are the politicians to be dealt with. Yes, there is one place where we can make our mark, even if the polls do so often resolve themselves into "pulls." Nuf sed—it's election time, and the networks will give you the results, accurately, comprehensively, rapidly, impartially. For NBC Raymond Clapper, widely syndicated columnist, who, during the last twenty years has covered every national convention and presidential election, will interpret election trends and results, beginning with a discussion of issues the day before election. In addition to Clapper's commentaries, Graham McNamee, another veteran, will head a staff of announcers who will give up-to-the-minute reports of returns. CBS presents a crack staff of announcers and commentators headed by H. V. Kaltenborn, whose name has become synonymous with ultimate expertness in political comment. Bob Trout and Ralph Edwards will lead in the returns broadcasting. Both networks will present interviews with candidates and officials.

(Schedules of such broadcasts are for the most part indefinite and sporadic. See program listings.)

Back to radio comes Sophie Tucker, last of the Broadway buxom belles, with 3 shows a week

MOOT MAN —Wednesday, MBS, CBS, NBC

From London speaks Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain—the question mark of current events. Did he sell liberty's birthright for a mess of European pottage or did he plug the dikes of peace? Did an empire's Atlas bow before a vest-pocket Attila? Is Chamberlain the Merkle who failed to touch second base in the world series of international affairs or the Babe Ruth who belted home the winning homer for peace? Goat or hero? Only future history can record his correct role. But, no matter what your opinion of the prime minister's diplomacy, you cannot help admiring the magnificent patience and conviction of Chamberlain the man. While the world shuddered in anxiety and fear a few short weeks ago, this tall, elderly, soft-speaking man clung to his belief in the power of words. Many think his procedure in the European crisis was vacillating and dangerous, but Chamberlain and many others firmly believe the future will vindicate his action. The words of a man whose voice averted—at least temporarily—a general war should be of interest to our own people, for we are vitally concerned. The networks broadcast the prime minister's speech at the Lord Mayor's banquet in London.

Ignace Moscicki, Polish President, will speak Sunday

"HI-YO, RED CROSS!" —Thursday, MBS

"Hurricane Strikes New England!" "Floods Raging—Death Toll Mounts." "Red Cross Forces Mobilized." Those are some of the headlines that we saw blazoned across the front pages a few weeks ago. Floods and hurricanes come under the heading of natural catastrophes, and many sections of the country have had convincing and vivid proof that the classification is correct. In the ominous shadow cast by such headlines as those above, "Storm Warning" is a phrase charged with lightning. However, that doesn't mean it will create static in your loudspeaker when a play of that name is presented over MBS by players of the Princeton Triangle Club. The dramatization of one of the swiftest and most crushing catastrophes in the history of the northeastern region—the wind-and-water havoc of last September—is presented in connection with the annual Red Cross Roll Call, and emphasizes the heroic work done by that organization in this particular emergency.

TAPS OR REVEILLE? —Friday, CBS, MBS

"Atten-shun! Pass in review!" Out of the barren bivouacs of a thousand black battlefields marches the lost battalion. Ghosts of a ghastly glory—martyrs of an unattained purpose. The word "armistice" means much to every one of us—to some, supreme sacrifice; to some, promise of peace; to some, hell; to some, heaven; to some, rest; to some, futility. "Eyes right!" Radio salutes the unwilling victims of man's greatest orgy of destruction and the event which signaled the end of that debacle. Some of the speakers who will help commemorate

One more year and the world will come of age—a world born of war, cradled in confusion, nurtured in hate, and cutting its eye-teeth in economic adversity. At twenty-one, what will that world inherit? MEN ONLY —Friday, CBS

"Journey's End" is a story of the great war—one of the best and most famous. You'll have to cherchez for something besides la femme as the source of the trouble in this plot for there is not one woman in the cast. There is drama at its height and a cast equal to it, as "Hollywood Hotel" does its bit to make the public unwar-conscious. William Powell, Burgess Meredith, H. B. Warner, and Melville Cooper appear in this drama by R. C. Sheriff, which has been produced on the stage in England and America and was also screened here.

"DAN HARDING'S WIFE"

THE story of "Dan Harding's Wife" is one that will strike a warmly responsive note in the hearts of all wives and mothers who are, because of economic necessity, separated from their husbands. Nineteen years ago, in a little copper-mining camp in the mountains behind Santiago, Chile, Dan Harding, a mining engineer, met his future wife, Rhoda. She was then just eighteen, and had come to South America with her father. It was love at first sight for the pair, and they were married in a rude hut near the mine. A year of idyllic happiness followed, but at the end of that time it became apparent that it would be necessary to get Rhoda to the coast for proper medical attention. Dan and Rhoda start the long journey over the mountains, but on the way they run into a terrible storm. They finally reach the primitive hut of a llama shepherd and find refuge there. By morning, the twins, Donna and Dean, have arrived and are sleeping snugly in their crude cradle on a bed of fleecy llama wool. Faced with the realization that it would be impossible to bring the babies up properly in the environment of an outpost mining-camp, Dan stays with Rhoda until she is strong enough to travel, then puts her on a boat sailing for the United States. Her last words to him is a promise that when the twins have grown she will return to him, and they will spend the rest of their lives together. The twins are now eighteen years old. They are devoted to their mother and worship the father, whom they see at most once or twice a year. Through the years, Rhoda Harding has had to face every mother's problems alone, always looking forward to precious and far-between visits with Dan when he comes home. Now she hasn't even that solace, for word has come that he has been killed in a mine disaster in Iraq. Left almost penniless, Rhoda takes over a rooming-house in the poorer section of the town and attempts to eke out a living. Author of the show is Ken Robinson, a veteran newspaperman who wrote and produced the first television melodrama in 1930. Director J. Clinton Stanley is a World War radio operator with thirteen years' experience as stage manager for stock-company theatricals. During Chicago's Century of Progress, Stanley was in charge of the television exhibit. An NBC broadcast, "Dan Harding's Wife" is heard Monday through Friday at 12 noon, EST; 11 a.m. CST; 10 a.m. MST; 9 a.m. PST.

RHODA HARDING, played by Isabel Randolph, is a woman of broad vision, and an understanding, sympathetic, lovable mother. A really profound psychologist, without even being conscious of the fact, she instinctively knows how to handle the problems of her growing children. When they reach the difficult adolescent stage, she still controls them skilfully by always keeping their best interests uppermost in mind. With her husband in South America most of the time, her task is far from an easy one

—Maurice Seymour

—Maurice Seymour

THE Harding twins, Donna and Dean, are typical American youngsters. Dean worships his father and looks forward to becoming a mining engineer, too. He's a thoughtful, obedient son, but loves to tease Donna, as all brothers do. When they get out of high school, Donna lands a job at the local radio station conducting a story-telling program for children. At present she has two special boy friends, Jack Garland and Ralph Fraser. Loretta Poynton and Merrill Fugit (above) play the twin roles of Donna and Dean

—Maurice Seymour

HUGH ROWLANDS plays role of Stooze Lowe, Dean's number-one school pal. He and Dean are together constantly, and Stooze is at the Harding home so much that he is considered almost a member of the family. Happy-go-lucky, he and Dean share all sorts of boyhood adventures, including usual growing pains of first love

—Jun Fujita

JACK GARLAND is Donna's favorite boy friend, and has been for several years. Recently he has been away in Iowa, so there has been no opportunity for one of their frequent squabbles. Jack is a little older than Dean and Stooze, but belongs to the same crowd, and the kids rather look up to him. Willard Farnum plays Garland

RALPH FRASER (Herbert Nelson), Donna's second heart interest, has a temporary advantage in struggle for first place in her affections, now that Jack is away, and he's making the most of the opportunity. Ralph has a job on the local newspaper, and has proved himself a sympathetic, understanding friend to the whole Harding family

REX KRAMER is a mysterious roamer in the Harding home since Rhoda has been compelled to take in outsiders in order to piece out her income. Kramer is a thirty-minute egg, prone to secrecy, and is involved in some sort of underhand business where he handles large sums of money. Herb Butterfield plays this new role

EVA FOSTER is another important new character. She too rooms at the Harding home. Her present job is that of a hat-check girl, but she has a burning ambition to be a singer with a name like June Dawn. Life is real and earnest insofar as Eva is concerned. Tommie Birch, twenty-year-old NBC soprano, plays this singing-speaking part

ANNOUNCER for "Dan Harding's Wife" is Norman Barry. Should Norman wish to turn to work outside of radio, he could qualify as an actor, singer (he is a baritone), or an accountant

OF COURSE you know that Brahms is supposed to have composed his Overture in honor of the musical-doctor degree which he received from Breslau University in 1879. He refers to the work as "a jolly potpourri on students' songs in the style of the operettas of Suppe." If you know American college songs, see whether you can recognize any of the music in Brahms' "Academic."

Merriment is scarce, however, in the Herr Doktor's concerto (symphonic in scope and nature and not at all a solo display piece) except in the exuberant last movement of somewhat solid humor.

It will be played by an eighteen-year-old Hungarian violinist who has gained impressive concert reputation abroad, especially after winning the international contest for violinists two summers ago in Vienna. The present season marks Virovai's American debut.

Sibelius' "Second" (like all his music, filled with Finnish implications) is best described technically by Cecil Gray, English reviewer, who points out its remarkable workmanship "presenting a handful of seemingly disconnected and meaningless scraps of melody, breathing life into them, bringing them into organic relation with each other, and causing them to grow in stature and significance with each successive appearance." The prevailing character of this music is pastoral.

Music at the Fairs

SAN FRANCISCO and New York are inaugurating international fairs next spring, and music-lovers wait expectantly to see what programs will be provided for them. So far no complete roster has been issued, but the assumption is logical that both expositions plan important tonal attractions aside from concerts by their local orchestras. Unofficial advance reports promise the visits of foreign bands and symphonic organizations, operatic representations and recitals by outstanding soloists. Also, both fairs have specially composed theme songs.

A sample of what may be expected was broadcast from the New York fair grounds a short while ago, when Walter Damrosch led Beethoven's ninth symphony. San Francisco puts out a hint on November 6 (CBS, 5 p.m. EST; 4 p.m. CST; 3 p.m. MST; 2 p.m. PST) with a pre-exposition concert consisting of choral and vocal solo music. Charles Kullmann's featured tenor tones will be backed by three hundred massed voices, selected from nine glee clubs.

Of the three candidates who sang at the October 23 Metropolitan Auditions of the Air, this department awards the palm to baritone Robert Nicholson for his agreeable voice, fluent delivery and knowledge of style.

That Intrusive "Of"

In last week's Musical Giants Series, "Beethoven—The Colossus," the pressroom made me say that when Beethoven found his teacher Salieri not at home, he left a card inscribed "The pupil of Beethoven was here." The sentence should read "The pupil Beethoven was here."

From Ear to Ear

Musical highways and byways in New York usually are rife with undercover gossipings about possible coming events, and one of the latest items should make radio followers palpitate with hope that if the rumored performance eventuates at all, it may also be spread on the ether. The confidence-mongers have it that Toscanini might lead a single "Tristan and Isolde" at the Metropolitan with Melchior and Flagstad. The other flying whisper is that the Du Pont interests are considering sponsorship of the Toscanini broadcasts—at $500,000 for the lot.

was his sixth quartet essay, and with it he avoids the predominance of the solo violin as exemplified in the previous five scores. The lovely slow movement of the A Major is in itself a masterpiece, variations of infinite skill and charm.

In the opus 59, E Minor, Beethoven has advanced immeasurably, welding his material with characteristic expertness. Again a glorious slow movement "as of a star-studded sky, and meditations upon the music of the spheres." The finale treats a Russian hymn, the same used by Moussorgsky in the coronation scene of "Boris Goudounow."

His opus 95, F Minor, Beethoven subtitles "Quartetto Serioso," and biographers connect it with his disappointment over Therese Malfatti's rejection of his marriage offer. However, consolation sounds in the second movement and jubilant recovery in the concluding measures.

Only two of the foregoing works will be broadcast, the selection to be made after RADIO GUIDE goes to press.

FLAGSTAD Evening with Ford! Advisedly the program is built around the world's No. 1 soprano. The volume and fresh ring of her tones admirably suit the aria in which Elizabeth hails the great hall of song in her ancestral Wartburg Castle, and voices her joy at the return of the truant Tannhaeuser.

Less heroic, the other vocal numbers permit the gentler nuances of feeling and sound which Flagstad commands as tellingly as heroic utterance. Her astonishing operatic versatility proves itself in the fact that since her debut at the age of eighteen, the Norwegian songstress has appeared in sixty-eight roles—dramatic, romantic and even comic.

One of the things which the Czechs were not required to cede recently is the output of their great national composer, Bedrich Smetana. His tone-poem "The Moldau" (Vltava in Czech), completed in 1874, was dedicated by him to the city of Prague, through which the Moldau River flows.

"Robin and Marian" (Adam de la Hale)

THE more or less uniformity of musical broadcasts departs radically here. With a complete radio novelty, the airing of music by the inventor of opera-comique, or comic opera. He was a Frenchman, Adam de la Hale (1230-1288), and his "Le Jeu de Robin et Marion" had its premiere nearly 700 years ago—in 1275 or 1285.

There are clouded records of his picturesque career as a troubadour whose itinerary carried him all over France, singing chansons for which he wrote both words and music; and as a priest who abandoned his vows for a great romance but resumed holy orders when the roses of love faded away. However, he kept up his composing and wrote both churchly works and stage pieces spiced with the salty and robust humor of the period.

The original form of the opus heard today was that of an opera-comique, spoken dialog interspersed with airs, couplets, and duos in which two voices sing alternately but never together.

THE NBC SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Arturo Toscanini, conductor

Overture "Coriolanus" (Beethoven)

Symphony No. 2 (Schubert)

Les Eolides (Franck)

Overture to "Dinorah" (Meyerbeer)

EIGHTEEN years old when he finished his second symphony in 1815, Schubert shows in it the influence of Haydn, Mozart and Beethoven, the last-named being the particular object of the lad's adoration. So much so that just before his death he asked to be buried beside his hero, and there he rests now at the Central Cemetery in Vienna.

The rather light content of the second symphony, with its tripping minuet and the finale of Viennese folk-character, gives only slight hints of the coming mastery which was to produce the monumental C Major and "Unfinished" symphonies. The B Flat score has aptly been called a tone-painting of youth, romantic in spirit, fertile in melody, full of springtime.

Toscanini evidently desired to emphasize the link between Schubert and Beethoven, for the program opens with one of that Titan's noblest creations. By the way, Schubert's favorite Beethoven music was the latter's fifth symphony, of which the maestro gave such a prodigious reading some weeks ago.

Toscanini's leaning toward the earlier operatic overtures is well known. The "Dinorah" excerpt has not been heard previously on the air, to the best of my knowledge. Meyerbeer does not deserve such neglect, for he has a rich stock of sensuous tune and orchestrates with opulent brilliance.

Mr. Johnson's Questions and Some Fair Answers

EVERY Sunday afternoon, on the Metropolitan Auditions of the Air (NBC, 5 p.m. EST; 4 p.m. CST; 3 p.m. MST; 2 p.m. PST), Edward Johnson, artistic generalissimo of New York's opera house, poses a question and invites answers from his radio listeners. One of his recent askings was whether grand opera should be given in English. To me the self-evident reply is, "Why not?" I have always felt that a language which has been exalted into the highest dramatic and poetical expression by the master writers of England and America is also an effective medium for adaptation into musical tone.

There are those, however, who claim that Italian, with its open vowels, is the ideal tongue for song; and that even the German gutturals and French nasalities are superior to English as a means for vocalism. In the case of Italian they are right; the matter of the other media is debatable.

The controversy about opera in English seems perennial, but has never arrived at any generally accepted conclusion. With the new lyrical season just starting, the debate reopens, now that Mr. Johnson has thrown his question into the ring.

I once asked the late Otto H. Kahn (associated with Giulio Gatti-Casazza in the artistic direction of the Metropolitan) why the leading opera house of America does not do all its performances in the language of our land. As nearly as I can remember, he answered: "Firstly, because the Metropolitan singers are nearly all foreigners. Secondly, because the leading composers felt and wrote in Italian, German and French. Thirdly, because they used certain tones for certain notes. Fourthly, because translations could never be perfectly faithful. Fifthly, because to most persons opera is an elevated experience that lifts them from the humdrum and routine of ordinary life and its mystery and glamour are heightened by the foreign idiom. Sixthly, because we have tried English at the Metropolitan with no appreciable response. Seventhly, English will never be the official language at the Metropolitan as long as I am an executive of that institution."

"You might well have begun with your 'Seventhly,'" I answered, "and left out all the rest." Then I offered the arguments that in earlier American days most opera was done here in English translations and found large favor until the Metropolitan practically destroyed the custom; that nearly every other country insists on its own language in opera; and that if the Metropolitan followed suit no second American Revolution would result, with mobs of infuriated New Yorkers parading to cries of "Give us back our Italian, French and German!" "Out with English!" "Down with Kahn." "Burn the Metropolitan."

The mighty Kahn sniffed his contempt and said in effect, "I have spoken." And that was that.

Nevertheless, since then we have had exceedingly successful opera in English at the Metropolitan, with "Peter Ibbetson," "Gianni Schicchi" and "Amelia Goes to the Ball" as striking instances. In justice to Kahn, I should add that he appeared to see the light before his passing, and commissioned Deems Taylor to write two operas for the Metropolitan, and even urged George Gershwin to compose one in the atmosphere and style of jazz.

IT WAS a joy for everyone to be able to understand nearly all the words of dramatic "Peter Ibbetson," and to laugh at the humor of "Schicchi" and "Amelia." The same auditors have to sit in gloomy dumbness through the comicalities of "Barber of Seville" and "Bartered Bride" while their neighbors, versed respectively in Italian, German, or both, laugh snobbishly in understanding enjoyment.

When our American opera artists appear in Europe they are compelled to sing in foreign languages and usually master them excellently. There seems to be no good reason why we should not make European artists vocalize in English when they come to America. Tibbett, Ponselle, Crooks, Helen Jepson, Thomas, Edward Johnson, Florence Easton have proved that English may be articulated and inflected in song as clearly as the foreign languages.

NEW YORK.—To borrow the terms of the Hollywood motion-picture copy-writers, the RCA Magic Key's Navy Day Salute, heard on Sunday, October 23, was the most stupendous, colossal, gigantic broadcast your reporter has ever heard. I was literally sitting on the edge of my chair as I listened to one of the greatest jobs of radio-engineering ever completed. Admiral William D. Leahy, Chief of Naval Operations, directed the broadcast and issued orders from the studios in Radio City. In less time than you can say "uncle," the program was switched to Admiral Lackey, commander of the European fleet off the coast of France. Lackey then exchanged greetings with Admiral Meyers, stationed in Manila, and every word of their conversation was as clear as a bell. In a flash, Admiral Block reported from San Pedro, California, who in turn introduced Vice Admiral King, commander of the aircraft battle-force. King was heard flying over San Diego Harbor in the "Flying Dreadnought" issuing orders to his men to prepare for a bombing-attack. In a split second the show was switched from the Pacific to the Atlantic, where a demonstration of anti-aircraft defense at sea was given by the Atlantic squadron off the Virginia Capes. Next, listeners heard U. S. Marine Fighting Squadron One, flying over the Potomac River. Lieutenant Commander Browning's orders, "Simulate attack on Naval Air Station," from the command plane to the seventeen planes under his command, and then hearing the planes diving at tremendous speed, sent a chill up my spine. The highlight of the program, in my opinion, was when Announcer Ben Grauer, speaking from an observation tower, carried on a conversation with two naval officers who were describing the procedure of escaping from a submarine. Talk about your thrills—this hour had a thrill a second. Approximately seventy-five engineers were required to handle the many pick-ups from planes, ships and naval bases. So, to the RCA Magic Key program goes this department's salute for their Navy Day Salute, which will always remain in my memory as being one of radio's greatest broadcasts.

Everyone working on Columbia's new aviation serial, "Howie Wing," seems to have developed a tremendous enthusiasm for flying since the program began. For one thing, the writer of the show, Captain Willfred G. Moore, is very much of a flyer himself, holding the world speed record and the American altitude record for light planes. He's also a captain in the U. S. Air Corps Reserve. Moore not only uses technical details in his scripts but he takes the cast, and especially the sound-effects men, flying so they'll get the right atmosphere for the program. Neill O'Malley (Captain Harvey in the script) already has flying experience, having taken a six-month aviation course a few years ago. Raymond Bramley, who plays Burton York, has always liked flying, too, and spends a lot of time at the Long Island fields. But to the two principals—Bill Janney, who is Howie Wing, and Mary Parker (Donna Cavendish in the script)—flying is new. In fact, all radio is new to Janney, and he likes it a lot. Janney comes to radio from the films, where he played in seventy-five pictures in seven years—and mostly, he tells me, as someone's kid brother. Mary Parker, who plays opposite Bill in the script, is more of a radio veteran. Mary, small, dark and vivacious, has been called by N. T. G. the most beautiful actress in radio. You've heard her in "Easy Aces" and the "Snow Village" sketches. The day I was up at rehearsal was one of those rare days when only Janney and Miss Parker were in the script, but several of the other actors—Raymond Bramley, Floyd Buckley, who created "Popeye" in radio, and Neill O'Malley—dropped in anyway to see how things were going. They all had to look over the real pride of the cast, a miniature range-beam, complete in every respect to the real range-beams the big airliners use. It's up in the studio for every show, and at least keeps the cast from bringing a real trimotor plane with them to rehearsals.

It has been quite some time since Kay Kyser's name has appeared in this space. As a matter of fact, it has been weeks since I've seen him, which prompted the genial professor to call and find out the reason for my absence. I accepted his invitation to come down to the Madhattan Room at the Pennsylvania Hotel, where the band is playing, to act as judge during the regular Tuesday night quiz session. When I walked into the room, I was amazed to find all the waiters wearing collegiate skull-caps and the head waiters wearing the traditional cap and gown of a graduating class. The diners seem to have just as much fun as the audience at a regular Wednesday night program. Kay had a "student" up on the bandstand and the question was, "The band is going to play a few bars of a song; see if you can name it and tell me who made it famous." The band played, but the student didn't know, so Kay asked the on-lookers and they all shouted, "Mammy." Turning back to the lad, he asked, "Now can you tell me who made 'Mammy' famous?" Without the loss of a second, he replied, "Pappy!" It was several minutes before Kyser could continue.

Walked into the CBS Playhouse to watch a rehearsal of Helen Menken's "Second Husband," and was amazed to see the cast throwing a football across the stage. At first I thought I was in the wrong place, but was told the sound-effects man brought a football to rehearsal for a certain effect which they needed. As soon as the cast and production men caught sight of it, they started tossing it around all over the theater. CBS production man Larry Harding used to play football on his college team and he seemed to be getting the biggest kick out of it. No, not drop-kick.

For a few moments the audience at a recent Carnegie Hall concert wasn't sure they were witnessing a concert or a football game. The orchestra started to play the "William Tell Overture," which was one of the selections on the program. An old gentleman in the audience recognized the number as the theme song for the "Lone Ranger" serial. He got up out of his seat and yelled, "Hi Yo, Silver!" It almost broke up the concert.

AIRIALTO LOWDOWN

BY MARTIN LEWIS

Which reminds me that in looking over the list of sweepstake winners in the New York area, one lucky person was signed "The Lone Ranger" and another "Hi Yo, Silver." Other winners were "Easy Aces" and "I Hope, I Hope, I Hope." The winners should send at least ten percent to the original radio people, don't you think? Or don'tcha?

In going through the files of RADIO GUIDE, I picked up the issue for the last week in October, 1933. Here are some of the names that made radio news five years ago. Listeners were hearing a couple of vaudeville comics, Olsen and Johnson, who found their way to the airwaves via the Rudy Vallee hour. Today they are stars of a Broadway hit, "Hellzapoppin," thanks to Sir Walter Winchell, who entered the ring and fought with the snooty critics who attempted to lambast the show. Ethel Shutta, Walter O'Keefe and Don Bestor's orchestra were heard in a regular Friday night series . . . Jack Denny's orchestra, with Jeannie Lang, was starting a new series . . . Ditto for sepia songstress Ethel Waters . . . Jack Pearl's "Vas you dere, Charlie" was on the lips of practically every school kid . . . Show Boat was a "must listen" program in a great many homes . . . Don Voorhees was one of the busiest bandleaders in radio . . . Gertrude Niesen (she's now a sensation over in England) was thrilling us with her songs . . . Ditto Ramona, Conrad Thibault, Nino Martini, Anthony Frome, "The Poet Prince," and Vera Van . . . "Crime Clues" was one of the most popular mystery dramas . . . Tony Wons had a tremendous listening audience . . . Another name featured five years ago was that of Ruth Etting, whose name made front-page news in every newspaper in the country a couple of weeks ago when her husband was shot by her former mate. Not one of the above-mentioned is heard on the air in a regular series.

Behind the "seen": Paul Whiteman sitting on a wooden box backstage while his dada was a guest on a recent "We, the People" broadcast. They tried to get Paul out on the stage to take a bow, but he refused because he didn't want to take the thunder away from his dad . . . At the CBS Playhouse, Henny Youngman standing at the door before the broadcast to make sure that his mother, father, relatives and neighbors get in . . . Kay Thompson rehearsing for the first Al Jolson broadcast from New York, painfully suffering after having a wisdom tooth extracted.

HOLLYWOOD.—Do radio appearances hurt motion-picture personalities who once "packed them in"? A Seattle newspaper, in a desperate effort to enlist the aid of the movie industry on the side of the lean press in its war against radio, its fat competitor, charges that the screen is losing by broadcasting its stars too frequently and airing previews of pictures which reveal secrets of the plots before the films have been publicly released. Furthermore, the newspaper named Al Jolson, Fred Astaire, Jack Oakie and Dick Powell as typical stars whose film popularity had been "killed off by radio" . . . Well, to your Hollywood observer, the Seattle daily's yell is rather confused. First of all, Al Jolson hasn't made any pictures since turning to radio. Second, Fred Astaire (essentially a dancer) should never have gone on the air, was smart enough to know it, and quit the mike some eighteen months ago. Regardless of the "hurt," it seems that his latest picture ("Carefree," with Ginger Rogers) is quite successful. Third, everyone, including himself, knows that Jack Oakie had other causes than radio itself to blame for his exit from the air—but in pictures he is still as good a draw, if not better. Fourth and finally, Dick Powell hasn't been on the air sufficiently in the past two years to have the slightest effect upon his box-office value. If his popularity is endangered, it may conceivably be from the rising tide of young actors who have the same sort of appeal he has or had . . . As for the airing of those movie stories, it is done not to satisfy a desire of listeners but because the film producers ask that it be done. One big company is now testing radio previews by releasing a picture without any air ballyhoo. Let's hope that it succeeds famously so that listeners hereafter may be spared the skeletonized, mediocre preview dramas that are now being thrust through loud-speakers under the name of entertainment.

The Hmmm, Hrmmm Dept.: One Mary Livingstone and Jack Benny saw nothing funny in the fact that efficient, uniformed apprentice ushers at the new Hollywood Radio City studios of NBC refused admission to their late show to one ticketless Mrs. Marks—who happens to be Mary's mother. The faux pas occurred on the very Sunday Jack was celebrating the Jell-O show's first performance in the new plant . . . Likewise, the show producers and musicians aren't in accord with the "No Smoking in the Studios" enforcement, which seems to be unenforced when a big-enough name-star wants to puff a cigarette during rehearsal—or broadcast, for that matter . . . W. C. Fields, pridelful father of Bill, Junior, who just passed his California bar exam, will now know his legal rights when he begins feuding anew with Charlie McCarthy sometime in December. The feud will be revived to arouse interest in the Fields-McCarthy-Bergen film, "You Can't Cheat an Honest Man," which will release in the new year . . . And Charlie's bachelor mouthpiece, Ed Bergen, threw a bread-and-butter party the other night, to which he brought Florence Heller, once reported Ken Murray fiancée, although other Hollywood ladies who have been squired by the ventriloquist—including Andrea Leeds, Anita Louise and Nancy Carroll—were there, too . . . Despite local critics' failure to mention Irene Rich's work in Universal's "That Certain Age," the movie exhibitors are billing her name with that of Deanna Durbin on their marquees . . . That Broadway-Hollywood daily columnist who, on October 24, panned NBC "censors" for removing the revolver-shots supposed to end the "Good News" airing five days earlier of the Earhart-Noonan flight-based sketch, "It Might Have Happened," evidently is ignorant of libel law. The network would have laid itself open to stiff damages had it suggested the suicide finish . . . and isn't it odd that the radio-warring publishers, when they want to address the nation on some important subject, use radio to do it?

Jean Hersholt, in the comfortable, understanding role of "Dr. Christian," came back on the air weekly on October 13 with a strongly reinforced writing-battery and a studio audience for the first time. In token of the latter, the eminent actor issued the edict that his entire cast must dress for the performance, and it was a pleasure to see all the actors and actresses in tuxedos and evening gowns. Excellent support was rendered by Rosemary DeCamp and Gloria Holden, but the work of adult Dorothy Farrar, the "baby" of the play, most intrigued your reporter. Miss Farrar, after the show, explained that the author's script sometimes was vague as to what the baby was supposed to do. She had to "ad lib" the proper cries with feeling and meaning. One of her lines read: "BABY: Unwinkingly turns away." The actress said that stopped her. All she could do there was be quiet.

Backstage Stuff: She's always wanted to sing opera on the radio, but seldom has had the chance, so Jane Froman was pleased as punch week before last when on the Texaco Star Theater she was asked to double for the singing voice of Miriam Hopkins in the sketch portraying the actress as an opera star. Jane warbled an aria from "Mignon" so well that now producer Bill Bacher has promised her more radio chances at Verdi and Puccini . . . Jean Arthur played her Lux Theater "Seventh Heaven" role of Diane from the depths of a cozy chair. Jean's just one of those poor souls who've never conquered mike fright, and the easy chair helped her to relax . . . Jimmie Fidler calms his nerves before broadcasts by improvising at the electric organ console in his studio. Plays well, too . . . More to entertain at leisure moments was the reason James Stewart brought his accordion to the Silver Theater rehearsals . . . Al Pearce wants to take his gang east so that the first broadcast, which is heard east of the Rockies, will go on the air after dinner. In Hollywood, he and his cast must do the show at 5 p.m.

Pacific time, which is 8 p.m. in New York, but he finds that Hollywood folk don't like to attend the broadcast at that hour—and when they do, are too hungry to laugh with sincerity! Joe Penner has double trouble, for his eastern airing goes on at 4:30 Pacific time and the West Coast repeat broadcast is performed exactly an hour later. Both of his audiences are famished . . . At the public preview performance (not aired) of Jack Haley's show week before last, Haley's movie work in "Mr. Average Man" kept him on the lot overtime, necessitating his absence. Result, his chief gagman, Hal Fimberg, took the Haley lines while comedian Artie Auerbach sang Jack's song with Virginia Verrill. Must have been all right, as the audience applauded.

Football's the thing. October 21 found Bing Crosby and wife, Dixie Lee, at the Stanford vs. U. S. C. game, while the Arkansas-Santa Clara fracas at San Francisco drew Lum and Abner and Bob Burns, notorious Arkansians who were the box guests of the governor of the state they've radioed to fame. Burns, by the way, footed the bill to bring the University of Arkansas band to the Coast. After the tilt, he and his wife sailed to Honolulu for a four-week vacation . . . Mourning their fate of having a Saturday afternoon radio rehearsal are football fans Don Wilson and Joe E. Brown. Don is an ex-player and ex-grid mikeman. Comedian Brown has a son on the U. C. L. A. eleven. But both must work for their Saturday night CBS broadcast. Last Saturday Wilson was so discouraged that after the airing he vented his energy by acting as judge at a jitterbug contest.

Television had better hurry up and come, for Earl Carroll soon will be ready for it at his Theater Restaurant opening here on Christmas night. The place, very modern in design, will seat 1,000, have a three-section 80-foot revolving stage, and is being built acoustically perfect for radio pick-up purposes with amplifier panels installed. Week before last, Carroll made his first call by radio for beautiful girls. The CBS broadcast brought several hundred letters and photographs (including some nudes!). The next week he staged his first eliminations at the old Warner Brothers lot. Six hundred girls turned up, as did also three newsreel cameras, all the Hollywood news cameramen, and CBS Man-on-the-Street interviewer, Gary Breckner. Your reporter was there, too. Everyone had a fine time, except the 550 girls who didn't make the grade.

Tag Lines: An arch-bone broken while playing badminton cost Andrea Leeds her guest appearance on the Kraft Music Hall October 27 . . . First musical-comedy set-up of Burns and Allen, written by Kalmar and Ruby, is entitled "Three Loves Has Gracie."

Who and What Makes a Show Tick?

CHICAGO.—How do advertisers know whether their show is a wow or a fizzle? Well, of course, there is such a service as a Crossley survey in which telephone tests are made to see which shows are best liked. That may draw a goose-egg or four stars, but advertisers are still in the dark as to just what makes a show tick. For instance, take the Fibber McGee show. Not far behind Benny and Cantor, and almost neck and neck with Al Jolson, it's one of the most popular on the air today. Why? Well, in the first place, although he carries on alone without Molly now, the Fibber is on his toes every minute, sends the audience into gales of laughter before the actual broadcast signal. Instead of the blase, try-to-make-me-smile attitude of the average looker-listener, the crowd is a-grin to a man, by the time the Fibber show goes on the air. Jesse Lasky, the veteran movie producer, and Mrs. Donald Novis (friend husband's in the show) were in the client's room the night I attended, enjoying themselves. And when a show gets a smile from a producer, that establishes some sort of record for success. Everybody has heard Fibber's show, so I won't go into details of the program. Instead, I want to take listeners-in behind the scenes and introduce them to two men who are never heard but who are responsible for a swell show—Cecil Underwood, the producer, and Don Quinn, the gag-writer for the program. If you've noticed the smart way the commercial stuff is mixed right into the script itself, give Don the credit. And if listeners have ever wondered who takes the part of Silly Watson, Nick de Popolos, and the Old Timer, they are Hugh Studebaker (he's Doctor Bob in "Bachelor's Children"), one of the best character actors on the Chicago circuit, as "Silly," and that swell comedian, Bill Thompson, doubling as "Nick" and the "Old Timer." "Old Timer's" catch-phrase, "That ain't the way I 'heered' it," is getting so popular in Chicago studios that it's well on the way to becoming a national hit, along with "Vas you dere, Sharlie" and Joe Penner's "Wanna buy a duck?"

Jim and Molly

After the Fibber show, the cast, with the exception of the Fibber (Jim Jordan), gathers at "The Pit," a near North Side barbecue spot, for a snack. The kingpin of the piece hurries home to Molly and the two youngsters to find out how they liked the broadcast. Reason "Molly" (Mrs. Jordan) isn't on the show at present is Old Man Ill Health. Making pictures in Hollywood and broadcasting at the same time proved too much for Molly. But she's getting on top again, and looking forward to rejoining the Fibber cast.

Sun-kissed vs. Frost-bitten

Evans Plummer will no doubt think this jotting is good news of 1939 from where he sits, but, personally, I'm sorry that I have to write it. The night I attended the Fibber show I was told that current plans are to move the show to Hollywood. Right now it looks as though the Fibber would be singing "California, Here I Come" around the first of the year.

On the Ironing-Board

Jesse Lasky was just getting a little relaxation when I saw him at the Fibber McGee airing. Real reason he was in the Windy City was to iron out details of a new show he will launch shortly under the sponsorship of Wrigley's gum. This program will replace the Laugh Liner, starring Billy House. New venture will be double-barreled, as Lasky plans to select prospective picture talent from the cast. Every week a new group will be "aired." At the end of thirteen weeks the cream of the crop will be given an RKO movie contract. The new Lasky program, launched to promote the great American ruminant habit, will mark the entry of the second film veteran into radio. Cecil B. DeMille was the first.

On Boats and Wives

Sauntering over the Michigan Boulevard bridge the other day, I spied a familiar-looking craft tied up at the dock near the Wrigley Building, stopped to take a second look. Sure enough, it was the "Wigwam" belonging to Spencer Bentley, better known to radio millions as "Bob" of the "Betty and Bob" serial. Thought I might as well take time to say hello to the nautical actor, so I went aboard. Found Spence lolling around in old clothes with a seaman's cap tilted over one eye. "Don't tell me you're still living here," I exclaimed. I knew he and the Missus had been camping on it all summer, but I figured it was about time to think of steam heat with the frost creeping up on the pumpkin, and November just around the corner. Spence merely sighed, "My wife likes it! What can I do?" Seems that Spence was all for moving into a hotel at the first hint of cold weather, but Madame preferred the water. So they're still there. "Injun Summer" in the open held no charms for the skipper, but so far the weather man is still dishing out balmy days, and the "Wigwam" hasn't gone into drydock.

Ducats with Sugar

She was such a pretty miss that when she asked me to buy two tickets for the Chicago Radio Actors' dance in November, I felt like buying a dozen. I'd have bought two if they had been for the Ash Collectors Local 64, for her smile was worth that. The girl was Sandra Karyl, who is doing bit parts in several radio shows around town, and first of the Chicago corps to solicit me. Time of the affair: November 11. Place: The Grand Ballroom at the Hotel Sherman. Of course your Radio Tattler will be on hand to give you a word-picture of how Chicagoland radio folk make merry when they're off the airplanes. One feature of the grand ball will be booths with a radio star in charge of each. Sandra says she may be in charge of the "kissing booth." I do like to donate to such a worthy cause that holds such sweet bait!

More on the Give Side

Ye Tattler got in on the special Chicago Community Fund broadcast, aired over four Windy City stations from the Civic Theater. Which was a privilege. Edgar A. Guest came over from Detroit to emcee the affair, and Henry Klein, director of the "It Can Be Done" program, donated his services to produce the hour-length, all-star show. Program had practically an all-male cast. Only two radio femmes were Ruth Lyon, stately soprano, and in direct contrast, diminutive Betty Olson, eighty-five-pound singer of the quartet known as "Betty and the Escorts." Fact that both stars wore their hair in long bobs was rather astonishing. The "hair up or down" war evidently hadn't struck them—yet. Their gowns will probably be of interest to women, so I'll do my best from a mere man's viewpoint.

Miss Lyon's was a combination of black velvet with sleeves and bodice of silver cloth. One ornament she wore was a striking silver bracelet. Betty's was of bright-blue satin, set off with a sequin butterfly that matched the one worn in her blond curls.

Addition

Already a script-show center, Chicago has added another to her list. "Road of Life," authored by radio's number-one writer, Irna Phillips, is now being broadcast here. Reason for change of location is said to be that Miss Phillips, a Chicagoan, wanted to work at closer range with members of the cast. She was unable to do this with the show originating in Manhattan. New actors in "Road of Life" are: Betty Lou Gerson, Ken Griffin, Reese Taylor, Percy Hemus, and Frank Dare.

Pay-off

Last week I promised to tell you about the head of a so-called dramatic school in Chicago. Her story is that she was "taken in" in Hollywood by another dramatic school, after she had brought a five-year-old boy and a sixteen-year-old girl to Glamour Town for an appearance in the movies. At least National Talent Picture Corporation said the youngsters would be placed in pictures. The Hollywood set-up made the news sheets a few weeks ago. Seems the ads they had been running were a bit misleading—so police raided the company. The Chicago "teacher" was forced to trek sadly homeward with her two "budding" movie stars. Now she is suing the West Coast outfit for the sum of $14,920. Damage is asked to cover expenses while in Movietown, plus loss of time from her Chicago "school," plus injury to her reputation.

Tidbits

END OF ECSTASY

FOUR-STAR fame as a singer of radio, stage, screen, and recording was Ruth Etting's only yesterday. Today, tears of bitter tragedy have obscured the rainbow of that fame. Two years ago, Ruth retired from work with a tidy fortune. Divorced from "Colonel" Martin ("The Gimp") Snyder, her husband for seventeen years, she had found happiness in a second marriage to musician Myrl Alderman, conductor for NBC. Thousands wondered what had become of her. A few knew she was living in utter seclusion in Hollywood with her new-found "ecstatic love" and her stepdaughter, Edith Snyder—and why. Now news headlines have blazoned the reason. They have told of the menacing fear that shadowed her life, a fear that sprang from her first husband's insane jealousy, and that allegedly culminated in his forcing Alderman into a car at gunpoint and driving with him to Ruth's home, where a half-hour of horror followed. Alderman was shot, and only the quick intervention of Edith Snyder saved Ruth from possible grave danger. As we go to press, Alderman is recovering, Snyder has been remanded to jail after failing to raise $50,000 bail, and Ruth has vowed never to sing again!

Edith Snyder, secretary-companion and daughter of her first husband (above), was with her stepmother on the night of the shooting. Edith's quick action saved Ruth

Victim of the fracas that occurred at Ruth's home Saturday night, October 15, was her husband of a few months, NBC's Myrl Alderman

LISTENING TO LEARN

... A Ceaseless Search, an Unquenched Thirst for Knowledge ...

Democracy's Child

In a world that is torn with hatred, where nations are striving to exert their will by threat of force, the rights of free speech and free press are gradually being relinquished in many quarters. Although the average American seems to accept his privileges of freedom rather casually, the fact that America's Town Meeting of the Air has had one of the most phenomenal growths in popularity in the history of radio is striking evidence of his actual interest in these rights. America's devotion to the principles of democracy has no more convincing proof than this radio program, awaited in hundreds of thousands of American homes every Thursday night. Because this series has best typified the spirit of justice, freedom and democracy, it has repeatedly been selected as the finest program of its kind, five times this year receiving awards as the nation's outstanding forum for the discussion of vital public affairs.

Thursday's broadcast will launch the fourth consecutive season of this series. The scope of the programs, primarily limited to political and economic problems, has been expanded by a new three-year contract between *George V. Denny, Jr., the founder and director, and NBC to include in addition discussions of social and cultural interest.

Typical of the timely topics discussed at America's Town Meeting are those scheduled for the first three broadcasts: November 10, the implications of the Munich Treaty; November 17, how Americans can cooperate for peace; December 1, the Van Zeeland Peace Plan.

In America we have the uncensored privilege to ask questions.

Did Great Britain and France yield the balance of power to Germany when they sacrificed the democracy of Czechoslovakia? Will this satisfy the "have not" nations? Should America adopt a strict policy of isolation toward the democratic nations after they displayed such weakness at Munich or should this lead toward a collective security policy? Shall we resist the dictatorships or withdraw from all participation in foreign affairs? Is democracy doomed in Europe?

And in America we also may answer them with our own private opinions.

Next Thursday night, the manifold implications of the famed "peace at any price" Munich treaty will be discussed by authoritative speakers. Their opinions will be challenged by the audience, representing the public. No punches will be pulled, every speaker will defend his pet theories and principles on "America's Town Meeting of the Air."

Thursday over NBC at 9:30 p.m. EST; 8:30 p.m. CST; 7:30 p.m. MST; 6:30 p.m. PST.

*Denny toured cross-country by automobile last summer, stopping en route to encourage interest in world affairs among university students and to organize "Town Meeting" listening groups. At Harvard, Chautauqua Institute, Northwestern, Denver and the U. of California he officiated as moderator at meetings patterned after his NBC program.

†Particularly timely because of the Inter-American Conference opening in Lima, Peru, on December 9, to discuss the same topic.

‡Hope is high that its originator, the former Premier of Belgium, Paul van Zeeland, will be one of the speakers.

"Hear Ye, Hear Ye!
Come one, come all to the meeting next Thursday night in the old town hall!"

CHICAGO, ILL.—Harold W. Kent, chairman of the School Broadcast Conference, announces December 1, 2, 3 as dates for second confab to be held here.

The Missing Link . . .

Of the many authorities who have written about education by radio none fails to recommend the use of VISUAL AIDS to create clearer, imaginative pictures of broadcast subject-matter. Although they agree universally on this point, no major attempt has yet been made to supply this "missing link" between education and radio. Always the most reliable source of radio program information, RADIO GUIDE this week expands a long list of invaluable services to listeners by beginning a series of "missing links." Our first visual aid, a map of La Salle's route on the Mississippi, appears in the adjoining column. We hope that it will function to promote a keener understanding of this great explorer's achievement as dramatized Sunday in the U. S. Office of Education's series, "The World Is Yours."

Next Week . . .

ONE MONTH AGO we presented a classified list of the educational programs presented by NBC, CBS and MBS. Many new broadcasts have since been introduced: Great Plays, Lives of Great Men, Adventures in Reading, Immigrants All, Saerchinger's stories behind the headlines, Dr. Maddy's band lessons, to mention only a few. Alert listeners have expressed to us a desire to keep informed on all programs that have been expressly designed for their enjoyment and enlightenment, can do so by using the new, up-to-date list that will be presented in RADIO GUIDE NEXT WEEK.

La Salle was the first man to trace the course of the Mississippi River. Follow his trail on this map as you listen to the dramatization of his adventurous achievement on Sunday afternoon, NBC

AT HOME WITH KENNY BAKER

Discovered when he won Eddy Duchin "Radio Open Tournament," Kenny Baker now holds a unique top spot on the air. Both a comedian and a singer, he's heard on Jack (Jell-O) Benny's show Sundays, NBC, 7 p.m. EST; 6 p.m. CST. For West, 9:30 p.m. MST; 8:30 p.m. PST

Picked from over a thousand contestants to appear over the NBC networks on the Duchin program, Ken's grateful for the job it brought him, and he works diligently studying voice

Over six feet, and a native Californian, Baker always had a leaning toward singing and dramatics, but went in for sports, too. Specialized in track during high-school days

At home, Kenny spends a great deal of time doing stunts around his swimming-pool, has fun, keeps fit

Brought up in the easy-going atmosphere of the Pacific Coast, he still prefers it to New York speed

Like all Californians, he usually wears sports clothes. He has a yen for travel, but hasn't done much

For the present, he'd just like to improve himself, later become a singer like John Charles Thomas

Solution to Puzzle Given Last Week

RECORDS OF THE WEEK

Classical:

VICTOR has unleashed another copious catalog of recordings made abroad by sister companies in England and France, and now available on the domestic label. Amid large slugs of Bach church music, various chamber works, concerti and miscellaneous treasures, we singled out the Music for Strings by the contemporary Britisher, Arthur Bliss, a piano collection by Serge Prokofeff (born the same year as Bliss), and Schubert's famous "Death and the Maiden" string quartet.

Bliss is a modern in the way we like moderns. There is flow and beauty to his music, but he is not afraid of dissonances and potent harmonies. And after Frank Black's leadership in popularizing string symphonies, this instrumental combination looms large in our eyes. Thus, Music for Strings is a happy experience—and it is treated effectively by Sir Adrian Boult and the string section of the BBC Symphony. (Victor album 464. $5.)

Popular:

Andre Kostelanetz has three new records out which he made, we strongly suspect, at the same time he recorded the three for his album last year. The new ones run to over-arrangement, a charge we never expected to make against the great Kostie. But in the new Bugle Call Rag it's neither swing nor symphonic pop, but pretty much spinach. However, in Swamp Fire he hits a very satisfactory stride. The newest, Tiger Rag and Casey Jones, has been held up on an overtime release. (All Brunswick.)

Count Basie sports one of the country's very best swing outfits, and his latest record carries on nobly in the tradition. It's called Texas Shuffle. (Decca.)

Tommy Dorsey falls for the college-type pop tune in his newest disk, and it is pretty thin stuff. Stompin' at the Stadium. Edythe Wright singing. (Victor.)

—Joe Thompson.

DISCARD YOUR OLD AERIAL
It Is Most Likely Corroded and Has Poor or Loose Noisy Connections
No MORE BUZZES, CLICKS and shorts from summer rains and winter snow and sleet when using an F & H Capacity Aerial Eliminator. Anyone can connect it in a moment's time to the radio set—occupies only 1 1/2 inch by 4 inch space behind the set; yet enables your radio to operate without an aerial and tune in stations over the entire broadcast band frequencies and short wave channels.
ELIMINATE THE AERIAL FOR GOOD
Attach this unit to your radio—make your set complete in itself—forget aerial wires and troubles—move your set anywhere—no more roof climbing, unsightly lead-in or aerial wires.
NOT NEW—VALUE ALREADY PROVED
On the market five years, 100,000 customers in U.S. and foreign countries. In use from the Arctic Region of Norway to the Tropics of Africa. Each factory tested on actual long distance reception. Cannot harm set—Easily connected to any radio, including radios having no ground or radials for double aerial. Note: It will not operate on battery or automobile radios.
5 DAYS TRIAL Mail coupon at once. Pay postman $1.00 plus full pennies postage on delivery. If not entirely satisfied, return within five days and your dollar will be refunded without question.
JUST MAIL THIS COUPON.
F & H Radio Laboratories, Dept. 114, Fargo, N. Dak.
Send F & H Capacity Aerial Eliminator. Will pay postman $1 plus few cents postage. If not pleased will return within 5 days for $1 refund. Check here if sending $1 with order—thus saving postage cost—same refund guaranteed. Check here if interested in dealer's proposition.

LAUGHS! THRILLS! TEARS!

...WHEN RADIO'S MOST NOVEL PROGRAM IS ON THE AIR!

Every Tuesday night—tune in "We, The People," and hear real people—not actors—tell the amazing stories of their personal experiences.

Men, women, and children—some famous, some obscure—with first-hand tales that are hilarious, pathetic, astonishing, thrilling! Nothing like it on the air.

Sponsored by Sanka Coffee.

NEW PROGRAMS

America's Town Meeting, one of the air's outstanding educational features, returns Thursday, November 10, at 8:30 p.m. CST. George V. Denny, Jr., as in the past, will be the moderator. Formerly, speakers have discussed only political and economic problems; this year, however, the discussions will be devoted to social and cultural questions as well, covering the fields of science, literature and art. The Town Hall broadcasts have won their popularity through the subjects and importance of the guest speakers.

Sophie Tucker (Roi Tan Cigars), the last of the "red-hot mamas," will be starred in a program of her own, to be heard on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 5:45 p.m. CST. This program will revive many of the popular tunes of yesterday as well as present the current tunes of the day.

This Day Is Ours (Crisco), a new daytime serial featuring Jay Jostyn and Templeton Fox, begins November 7, and will be heard Mondays thru Fridays at 12:45 p.m. CST.

PROGRAM CHANGES

Life Can Be Beautiful (Ivory Soap), the plot of which is woven around a little girl who is a street urchin, a cripple and an aged book-seller, changes time and network November 7. The program can be heard at 12:15 p.m. CST, Mondays thru Fridays over the CBS network.

Vic and Sade (Crisco), a comedy sketch depicting the everyday complications arising between the mother, father and their teen-age son, changes time and network November 7.

Lives of Great Men: KSD WCFL WBOW (sw-9.53)

How St. Francis of Assisi (1182-1226) influenced his own and future times will be discussed by Dr. Griggs. St. Francis founded the famous Franciscan Order upon the three vows of obedience, poverty and chastity. He also secured for his order the privilege which it has since enjoyed of guarding the church of the Holy Sepulchre. St. Francis was canonized by Pope Gregory IX in 1228.

On Short Waves

Edited by Chas. A. Morrison

President, International DX'ers Alliance

Times given are EST. For CST subtract 1 hour; MST, 2 hours; PST, 3 hours

LORD MAYOR'S DAY in London, celebrated for over seven hundred years, is one of the most spectacular and colorful of Great Britain's many ceremonial occasions. The elaborate pageant and parade which ushers in the day's festivities will be described on Wednesday, November 9, at 7:15 a.m. EST, over Daventry stations GSF, GSG and GSJ, with a repeat broadcast at 7:25 p.m. EST, over GSD and GSP. The magnificent Lord Mayor's Banquet, which is attended by all government dignitaries from the Prime Minister down, will be on the air at 3 and 4:20 p.m. EST, over GSG and GSP, with a repeat broadcast on Thursday, November 10, at 9:55 p.m. EST, over GSC and GSD. The most important event during the course of the banquet, which in the past centuries used to include as many as four hundred or more different dishes on the table, will be Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's speech in which he will review the British government's policy on home and foreign affairs.

Akifusa Saito of Kumamoto, Japan, informs me a new Chinese short-wave station, using the call XGAP, is broadcasting daily from Peking on 9.56 meg. The native Chinese program radiated from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. EST, utilizes a woman announcer.

Guy R. Bigbee of Fort Benning, Ga., is proud of his unusual letter of verification from station TDE in Manchukuo. Exactly as written, the letter follows:

Receiving your letter re TDE stamping July 31, 1938, that waves is for Dairen Radio Station connecting communication with Japanese Tokio Radio Station in Japanese. Your measuring is very good and right. I intended to send your letter to Dairen Radio station but I thought it is very sorry to you if your letter was disregarded by Dairen Radio staff, so here I did necessary, please excuse me my poor pen and accept my friendship for you but english is foreign language for me, on this occasion please make me friend for you if you necessary will send you curious stamps or cards in this country. Having many friends in Sanfrancisco Radio station, America, are best friends for me in all country, I remain, good by, Your sincerely, I Watanabe.

Richard Rubio of Havana, Cuba, writes that Manuel Alvarez will soon inaugurate a new short-wave station at Santa Clara, and that a new transmitter at Holguin, Cuba, is already on the air testing on 6.195 meg. COHB of Sancti Spiritus, Cuba, is temporarily off the air while the power of the transmitter is being boosted.

SHORT-WAVE SHORTS: Egyptian Radio gives the calls for the new transmitter at Ankara, Turkey, as TAQ (15.195), and TAP (9.465). Daventry's winter frequency, GSA (6.05), is being used daily from 4:15 to 6 p.m. EST. Ray Shaffar of Waterloo, Iowa, reports hearing the new 2,000-watt transmitter of VLR, Melbourne, Australia, transmitting on a new frequency of 11.875 meg, from 2 to 3 a.m. EST. Ordinarily commercial stations do not verify reports of reception; however, Max Bass of New York City, informs me that reports on the Hawaiian programs relayed by KQH (14.92) of Kahuku, Hawaii, are being confirmed with attractive QSL cards. General Franco's Nationalist programs heard nightly from 8 to 9 p.m. EST over EAJ43 of Tenerife, Canary Islands, are now being radiated on a new frequency of 7.5 meg. You can hear the Delhi, India, program over VUD3 (15.16) nightly at 8:30 p.m. EST. Reception of HH2S (5.955) is being verified with a new blue QSL card with call letters in red, which gives the mailing address of the station as The West Indian Broadcasting Company, c/o Gerald Bourke-Denis, Port-au-Prince, Haiti. News in English is given over this station nightly at 8 p.m. EST, followed by a program of dance music and sign-off at 10:15 p.m. EST, with the signature selection, "Ave Maria."

Garlic-Parsley an Aid in HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

Medical reports say that Garlic-Parsley concentrate has a double action in reducing high blood pressure. First, it tends to relax tightened arteries. Second, it checks or inhibits decomposition of waste matter in the bowels, a contributory cause of high blood pressure. To get concentrated garlic and parsley in odorless, tasteless form, ask your druggist for ALLIMIN Essence of Garlic-Parsley Tablets. Large box 50c; super-size money-saving package, $1.00. ALLIMIN used repeatedly at regular intervals aids in reducing blood pressure and relieving headache and dizziness caused by excessively high readings. To learn what raises your blood pressure and for medical treatment consult your doctor. For free sample and booklet of valuable information on high blood pressure, write: VAN PATTEN CO., 54 W. Illinois, Dept. 67, Chicago, Ill.
