Jackass

The unconventional picture at the right represents a type of broadcaster with whom we are all familiar. Because we believe his alleged service to the American listener should be commemorated in an appropriate manner, we have set our cartoon space aside this week in order to present his portrait. The artist who signs his name Delpo but whose real name is Mr. Delford Poore was unable to stalk the broadcaster in his native haunt, but he did the next best thing; he listened to his program and then gave his art and his imagination full rein.

The result is a charming character-study of a gentleman who visits our parlors, alas, with persistent regularity. We offer it as a genuine contribution to the art of our day and as a record so that our grandchildren may know in their day what manner of men were among the pioneers of broadcasting.

We did not place a title under the portrait, preferring to leave that pleasant privilege to our readers. Here are a few suggestions:

1. Typical daytime serial announcer.
2. Sponsor who gives you seven minutes of entertainment and eight of commercial announcement.
3. Any Congressman.
4. A Professor Talking Down.
5. Announcer Substituting Noise for Sincerity.
6. Adolf Hitler.

Blessed Event

Do you remember those March of Dimes announcements that filled the air a few weeks ago. Perhaps you wondered if anyone else really would respond, even as you sent in your own contribution. We know the results now, and they are such as to attest forever to the power of radio and the generous spirit of the radio audience, for the total amount of money raised by the radio campaign in behalf of sufferers of infantile paralysis was slightly more than $270,000. Let's triple it next year.

Tender Ears?

Once children were supposed to have ears too young to hear the facts of life, of war, of murder, of dog-eat-dog competition. But radio is taking care of that with a result that presents a challenge.

In New York, the Abraham Lincoln High School recently questioned its 988 students. They found that the children spend two hours and five minutes listening each average day against one hour and twenty minutes reading. They found that a student who listens to programs of low cultural content as a freshman still listens to those same moronic programs when she or he is a senior.

Therein is radio's challenge.

Children are listeners. For two hours or more each day, the average student of that average high school in New York heard radio programs. But who supervised his listening? Who told him what was good and what was bad?

Who informed him that certain broadcasts would help his schoolwork and who directed him to those broadcasts? Nobody!

Therein is education's challenge.

RADIO GUIDE provides a directory of programs, placing special emphasis on good music and educational offerings. A copy of RADIO GUIDE should be on every teacher's desk. By referring to it, a teacher can direct her pupils to intelligent listening and thereby give them listening-habits that will benefit them throughout their lives.

Cardinal Sins

The floundering Federal Communications Commission is said to have listed fourteen types of broadcasts it considers dangerous. Stations permitting such broadcasts will be denied licenses to broadcast, according to present plans. The cardinal sins of broadcasting are:

- (1) Fortune-telling in any form.
- (2) Astrology or other fake sciences.
- (3) Solicitation of funds.
- (4) False, fraudulent or misleading advertising.
- (5) Defamatory statements.
- (6) Failure to allow equal opportunity to discuss all sides of controversial issues.
- (7) Programs bordering upon the obscene.
- (8) Programs offending religious or racial groups.
- (9) Taking sides (as broadcasters) on political, religious or racial matters.
- (10) Cliff-hanger kid shows (horror programs).
- (11) Booze glorification.
- (12) Interrupting concerts or music to insert advertising announcements.
- (13) Too much advertising in general.
- (14) Too many phonograph records.

A more undesirable list of programs couldn't be compiled, could it? But what man or what group of men can tell us what is "misleading" advertising, or how much is "too much advertising in general," or how many is "too many phonograph records" or what is a kid's cliff-hanger program, and what is a classic such as "Black Beauty" or "Through the Looking-Glass"?

What fount of wisdom on the government payroll, whether politically appointed or a civil-service servant, knows all those answers?

Think it over, Mr. and Mrs. Listener.

Ring Of Stations

Someone has proposed once again that the government build a ring of stations in the middle of the United States and that those stations be of such power that they can reach every corner of the country.

More interesting is the projected program set-up. One station would broadcast nothing but classical music, another would carry nothing but news, another would provide dance music, another would produce drama all day and all night, another would be a dawn-to-midnight lecture-hall broadcasting debates and discussions and orations.

In short, when a listener wanted any sort of program, he would tune to the appointed station and get what he wanted.

It's an interesting idea, isn't it?

GREAT AMERICANS THINK ABOUT RADIO

STRUGGLE WITH TICKING SECONDS

I WAS seated in the dining-car of the "Miami," en route to Florida for a brief convalescence after my recent attack of "flu," when I overheard a group of fellow passengers at the next table discussing radio. Their conversation stamped them as solid, middle-class American citizens—the type who spend evenings at home next to the radio. They were pointing out weaknesses in radio programs. Their criticisms touched on variety shows, musical programs, "listener-participation" programs, and the type of material that is offered to child listeners. Their comments, I reflected, are a cross-section of American thought. Unquestionably thousands of people in homes throughout the country have discussed the same questions, offered the same criticisms, and made the same or similar suggestions about radio, 1939 style.

Several times I was tempted to interrupt with an answer to some of the more pointed but less generous criticisms. But I discreetly held my peace and listened as attentively as I could, because the "average listener's" point of view toward an art with which I have been identified since my arrival in this country is a fascinating subject to me.

As I listened I began to wonder whether one of the real weaknesses in radio is not the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Fan have never been brought into close contact with radio behind the scenes. Large audiences attend broadcasts, but few have seen anything but the finished product. The hours that are spent on a comedy script—the endless conferences, writing and rewriting of a program before it is sent out over the airwaves, the long, weary hours of rehearsal for a musical program that takes a half-hour or an hour to present, are not generally known to listeners. Not many of our listeners are familiar with that grim struggle with ticking seconds, the cuts and changes that have to be made in musical scores and manuscripts to accommodate the rigid time-limits of network presentations.

On the surface, one program a week looks like an easy assignment. A rehearsal, a broadcast, and—voilà!—it is over until next week. Now let us go behind the scenes. Recently I assisted my husband, Andre Kostelanetz, inaugurate his new series of "Tune-Up Time" broadcasts. I was guest artist on the initial broadcast, scheduled for a Thursday evening. On Monday evening I sang at the Metropolitan. Kosty, who usually attends my performances, dropped in for a moment to wish me good luck, then dashed home to work on some arrangements for the broadcast. For two weeks he had been busy rehearsing the orchestra, attending program conferences, working on arrangements, experimenting with musical effects. All this, mind you, for the first broadcast. On Tuesday I attended a preliminary rehearsal, where all the members of the cast were assembled for a brief run-through. We spent three hours that afternoon on a simple run-through. I was having trouble with my speaking-lines. Patiently the program director went over them with me again and again.

On Wednesday I attended another rehearsal. This one went a little easier, but it ran ten minutes too long. I was to sing two songs—and participate in the dialog. We rehearsed the musical portion of the program for most of that afternoon, while in other parts of the studio the cast ran through their lines, the continuity-writers wrote and rewrote the script, and Kosty divided his time between directing the orchestra and making notations on the score for changes to be made before the dress rehearsal the following day. We assembled again on the day of the broadcast. From mid-afternoon until seven-thirty in the evening our dress rehearsal continued. Speaking-lines, music, speaking-lines again, until my head was whirling.

Home for a brief rest, a change of clothes, no dinner because I was to sing, then back to the studio at 9:15 p.m. Cuts had been made in the script to save fifty seconds, and the program director once again went through my script with me, instructing me on the changes in my lines. At 10:00 o'clock, we were in the wings, Kosty was on the podium, his arm uplifted, and a second later "Tune-Up Time" was on the air. Forty-five minutes later it was all over. Pages of script scattered on the floor of the Columbia Playhouse were the only record of the hours of rehearsal and effort that went into the making of forty-five minutes of entertainment.

Perhaps radio should adapt the technique of the motion pictures and let the public in behind the scenes. I am sure some of the criticisms I heard on the train that day were made because this group of average American listeners was unfamiliar with the preparation stages of a program.

Why not take definite steps to correct the faulty general impression that radio broadcasting is a great, glittering toy in the hands of lucky, carefree performers who draw immense salaries for standing at a microphone just a few minutes or only a few hours a week and vacationing the remainder of the time?

Certainly motion-picture audiences, knowing as much as they do about technical problems, have become more tolerant. Why not radio audiences?

SEX & SWING

—Jack Albin

Jitterbug dancers may seem delirious or insane to many observers, but their antics do require healthy bodies and even mental concentration

We publish this anonymous physician's examination of a subject because we believe it presents a healthful and surprising point of view. Read it and see if you agree with the doctor's conclusions.

I AM tired of hearing people cry that the young folk of today are brainless, forward brats because they have succumbed to the craze of the moment and become jitterbugs.

If I had daughters, I would want them to be jitterbugs, cats, alligators, or whatever else they call themselves these days. Not all doctors will agree with me, of course, for we are divided in our thinking about jazz and dancing just as much or as little as we are divided about when to administer spinal anesthesia.

One doctor talks about the dance thus:

"Is there not a medical argument against these dances which has not been fully appreciated. Dance neuroses are making their appearance. Sexual neurasthenias, pelvic congestions, prostatorrhea, priapism, congested prostates, and spermatorrhea represent some of the evidence of the physical and psychological influences of the dances which have a hold upon the dancing public."

Another: "I know of three young girls who have admitted to their mothers that they have acquired the habit of self-abuse through the sexual excitement of dancing."

On the other hand: "The fact of the matter is that the young dancers of today are drinking less liquor than ever before within my memory. It is true that the bars in many ballrooms where they encourage the jitterbug are doing their chief business by selling colas and pop."

Again: "Looking through my case histories builds a strong plea for more swing and more jitterbugs. The violent nature of the dance gives the boys and girls a fine chance to get rid of all their surplus energy. When they get through, they are too tired to be much interested in necking or worse. Frankly, I consider swing an antidote for premarital sexual intercourse."

AT THIS point, I hope that those who are reading this article have an open mind and are willing to accept facts as they are presented. For I want you to examine with me some of the interesting things regarding music which lie in our histories.

It is not generally understood that physicians have long been aware of music's power to do surprising things. Consider this, for example: More than four thousand years ago the priest doctors of Egypt had a song which they sang and played which was supposed to insure the fertility of women.

Madness has been treated successfully in modern asylums by means of music, but one of the first instances was recorded in the Bible. It is written that "When the evil spirit from God was upon Saul, then David took up a harp and played with his hands so that Saul was refreshed and well, and the evil spirit departed from him."

A celebrated Greek invented the use of music as a cure for a hangover. Others learned that music quieted the violently insane. A fellow named Antigenides, the tibicentist, played something that must have been ancient swing for Alexander the Great, which so excited the monarch that he leaped from his couch, seized his sword, and began to attack everyone within reach. In the minds of some critics, I suppose, Alexander might qualify as the first jitterbug.

Philip V of Spain was subject to such fits of melancholia that he came close to insanity until Farinelli, the celebrated castrato soprano, was summoned to sing for him. After weeks of listening to the music, the king was restored to mental health.

I have said that music has peculiar influences on different persons. We know of an Italian who so enjoyed the opera "La Vestale" that he decided life had nothing more to offer and so killed himself. An Englishman was allergic to the music of "Artaxerxes." Whenever he heard it, he fainted.

THERE can be no doubt that music has strange power over some people, and some power, however slight, over all people. I am frank to admit that we do not know enough about this power, but experiments are going forward today which will increase our knowledge and our use of rhythm and harmony, and which, I trust, will enable us physicians to understand better the needs of the boys and girls who give themselves up to the peremptory urging of a Benny Goodman or Bob Crosby jam session.

One doctor has seen music fighting the insufferable pain of childbirth. He says, "I have heard a patient singing loudly while a forceps extraction was being done."

Napoleon noticed something akin to that during his disastrous invasion of Russia. He reported that the Russian music drove the Russian soldiers to excesses of fortitude and bravery that his own troops could not match.

Music is amazing. It is unendingly amazing and I submit these facts in support. Music accelerates breathing.

A never-to-be-forgotten swing duo was Gene Krupa, drummer, and Benny Goodman, clarinetist. Krupa recently formed his own band, is coining jitterbug money

Music increases metabolism. Music can either increase or decrease muscular energy.

Music, when sufficiently shrill and properly projected, can, without raising the temperature, fry an egg. Believe it or not, two doctors named Flosdrof and Chambers did it. I believe we are telling Mr. Ripley something there.

MUSIC can give us a clearer mind, better health, more energy. We are at the beginning of understanding these things. The same two doctors who used music to fry their egg also learned that the music could coagulate proteins, crack vegetable oil and generate an acetylene-like gas, even slightly change starch into sugar.

What goes on in Miss America's body when she hears "Deep Purple" is as yet both unmeasured and unmeasurable. Or what takes place when she hears "Boogie-woogie"? As yet, we watch the outside and guess about what goes on beneath the skin. In another ten years, we may know.

Even now things are happening with which too few people are familiar. In Chicago, a dentist treats pain with music. The head-pad is equipped with the sort of bone-conduction sound conveyors that are used by the deaf. The patient leans his head against the pad and, despite drilling and pulling, is braced and calmed.

In a Chicago hospital, doctors had given up hope of bringing to her senses an Italian mother who refused to have anything to do with her baby. A pianist played number after number. The mother paid no heed until she heard the first bars of "Il Trovatore." Magically, it brought back her reason.

An Italian girl who had lost the power of speech began to talk again when she heard "O Sole Mio." A victim of amnesia who could remember nothing of her past regained her grasp of things and her memory when she heard "Silver Threads Among the Gold."

Many hospitals have musical sedatives to offer as well as drugs. Most often prescribed for jangled nerves are Mendelssohn's "On Wings of Song," "Berceuse," from Jocelyn, or Schubert's "Ave Maria." Tonic tunes are Beethoven's Egmont Overture, "Pilgrims' Chorus" from "Tannhauser," Liszt's "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2." For extreme cases of blues, I have known physicians to administer Dvorak's "Carnival Overture," Beethoven's "Eroica Symphony" and the "Ride of the Valkyries."

THOSE are tunes to clear the mind. What now about this business of increasing one's energy. It has been proved and measured, and in a most interesting fashion. You are all familiar with the nerve test called knee-jerks. A nurse or doctor sets you on a table which permits your legs to swing or asks you to cross one leg over the other and then taps you smartly with a small hammer at the base of your knee cap. The resultant kick, if your reactions are in good order, is the thing the musical doctors measured.

First, they determined that the in-

Senate page boys in Washington get a close-up lesson in shagging from Eunice Healy, jitterbug dancer with Benny Goodman's orchestra. Miss Healy illustrates that swing dancing is conducive of shapely, sound bodies dividual's average reaction to the tap at the base of the knee moved the foot up and up so many inches. They measured it. Then they played music "at" the patient, tapped his knee, and measured the kick to music. The result—and I suggest we may also have something for Mr. Ripley here—was that soft music practically doubled the distance of the kick, whereas loud and martial music almost tripled it.

A curious professor who heard of this miracle sought to apply it to a voluntary physical task. In silence, he measured the strength with which a man could grasp an object between his thumb and forefinger.

Previews of some of this week's better programs

THE WEEK'S BEST DRAMA

Sunday, NBC

"A fairy-tale quest for happiness" is what Maeterlinck's "The Blue Bird" has been called. If you appreciate real life colored with symbolism and touched with humor, then this week's presentation of "The Blue Bird" on the "Great Plays" series should please you. The Belgian poet and dramatist, Maurice Maeterlinck, was a philosophical mystic, and in his works veered from realism into the realms of atmosphere and fantasy.

Alice Eden and John Archer get their baptism of fire this week in the "Gateway to Hollywood" talent search. The show will expand to one hour as the finalists of the first phase of the talent stunt play featured roles in a dramatization of Phil Stong's book, "Career." In addition, Jesse Lasky will announce the beginning of a new thirteen-week contest for another type of entertainment.

The actors are Bob Burns, Billie Burke, George Raft and Virginia Verrill. The Screen Guild show is "A Mug, a Moll and a Mountaineer." We don't know for sure who will play which part. It's a pretty safe guess, though, that Raft will be the mug and Burns the mountaineer. That leaves two women. You can flip a coin as to who'll get to be the moll, but Virginia Verrill being a singer we'll guess Billie Burke to be the gangster gal. It's a hilarious tale of a hillbilly feud.

Sunday, NBC

At the same time as the CBS Screen Guild show, NBC is producing, now in its second week, a new dramatic series. It features the return of the time-honored NBC Radio Guild, reputed to be the oldest dramatic organization in radio. This is another commendable step in the right direction of radio's independent encouragement of progressive development in original air drama. The series will aim at the broadest scope possible in experimental craftsmanship.

HOLY WEEK

"Let not your heart be troubled; ye believe in God, believe also in me. In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself, that where I am, there ye may be also . . . Yet a little while and the world seeth me no more; but ye see me. Because I live ye shall live also." Thus spoke Jesus at the Last Supper. This week His spirit returns in radio programs dedicated to the sacredness of the last week He spent on earth before His crucifixion.

"The Living God," a series in five episodes, will be presented by NBC. It is a dramatization of the events of Holy Week, built around the experiences of a roving announcer who, having lost his faith, inquires of passers-by, "Who is Christ?" Screen actor Walter Connolly will play the part of the announcer. Pedro de Cordoba will be heard as the voice of Christ, and Mary Carr, best remembered for her part in the motion picture "Over the Hill," will also have a prominent role.

THE WEEK'S BETTER PROGRAMS

VELLY SOLLY

Sunday, NBC, CBS, MBS

Perhaps many of us cannot understand how a nation can try to run rough-shod over another nation without even formally declaring war and still entertain ideals of cooperation and progress. Of course, Japan is still trying to subjugate China in order to guide those suffering people to better things. Could it be that we just don't understand our oriental neighbors in their righteous conquest? Maybe the whole world misunderstands—except Herr Hitler and Il Duce. Least of all does China understand its benefactor's tactics. That's Japan's story. Japan will also participate actively in the New York's World Fair of 1939, the aim of which is to promote a better "World of Tomorrow" through cooperation, understanding and idealism. In the series of salutes to the World's Fair this week's program presents Prince Yasuhiro Chichibu, heir presumptive to the throne of Japan—and China—speaking Japan's salute. It will be interesting to hear whether his message will be a flamboyant oriental generalization, a plea for its misunderstood purposes, or perhaps even an offer to help lead the United States to better things.

Jack Benny is a great comedian. You know that. He is also a great impresario of hecklers, a man of many stooges. Had you ever thought of that? Paul Whiteman, Rudy Vallee and Major Bowes are publicly credited with being outstanding showmen and developers of talent. Jack Benny's comic art, however, has overshadowed the fact that his program has been responsible for developing and promoting many aces of stogedom. His was one of the first shows to make comedians of orchestra-

Everybody is a stooge on Jack's show—even Jack. Along with Andy Devine and Rochester, one of the most popular of Jack's aides-de-fun in recent years is Sam "Schlepperman" Hearn, who hasn't been around for some time. The old grad returns this week and the homecoming will be an occasion of interest to many listeners.

FOR THE PEOPLE Sunday, CBS

The baritone who was to play Ford was sick. What to do? The Metropolitan would be filled for the performance of "Falstaff." The sixty-dollar-a-week understudy was a risk, but Gatti-Casazza took the chance. The understudy Ford stopped the show and brought the "diamond horseshoe" to its collective feet in an ovation the like of which is seldom seen at the Met. A star was born, an opera star, an American star. Then came the motion-picture success, "Rogue Song"—and you know by now that we're speaking of Lawrence Tibbett. In the decade since "Rogue Song" Tibbett has sung his way vigorously and valiantly to triumph in many fields—opera, concert, movies and radio. Radio is by no means the least important of his fields. Independent American individual that he is, Tibbett has won the affection as well as the musical respect of the public by his broad musical outlook. Anything from "Pagliacci" to "Jeepers Creepers" is his repertoire. He'd sing "Flat-Foot Floogie" if the public asked for it. However, when he solos this week on the "Ford Sunday Evening Hour," in keeping with the tone of the program his solos will be in the upper class. That is really where his dramatic baritone voice is most commanding. See "March of Music."

INSIDE DOPE Tuesday, NBC

Beware of Luke Barnett! Especially if you should go to a party in Pittsburgh or some other eastern city. If the waiter sticks a dirty thumb in your soup, pours hot coffee down your neck, kicks your chair out from under you, or gives you an extra check—that's Luke Barnett. Luke's the guy who makes a profession out of being a nuisance. He hires out to big parties here and there to create fun and excitement among the guests. The inside story about professional ribbing will be aired by Luke on the new "Inside Story" show this week. Another interesting story brought to light will be Martin Branner's explanation of how he gets ideas, especially the fashion ideas, for his Winnie Winkle strip. One other guest, not yet chosen, will produce an inside story. The show is guided by Fred Sullivan, with music by Glen Welty's orchestra.

Women today are proving that they can be athletes and still retain the subtle traits of femininity. Alice Marble has won the women's singles championship of the U. S. twice. #### STRANGE WORLD Friday, CBS

How would you like to be blown up by thirty-one tons of dynamite? At least, if you lived to tell the tale, you could get world-wide attention in Ripley's "Believe It or Not." Of course you wouldn't mind being thrown off a train for not paying your fare, if you struck gold at the spot of landing. Perhaps you'd be proud if you were the world's oldest working girl, 116 years old. If you don't belong in any of these situations, and the chances are millions to one you don't, you can at least hear about them and many more of the world's most unusual and interesting people, things and facts, for the one and only Robert Ripley is back on the air. Such bizarre tales as those above and many even more astounding will be presented in the series, which is in its second program this week.

STREET-SINGER Saturday, MBS

Now it's Bing Crosby, Kenny Baker, Dick Powell and the other melody boys. Time was, though, when the radio populace, feminine and masculine, thrilled to "Marta, rambling rose of the wildwood..." "Marta" was the theme song of Arthur Tracy, the Street Singer, who was a radio star a few years ago. His voice had a unique quality hard to define but fascinating to hear. You don't know whether to say his voice was especially rich, or vibrant, or reso-

Tracy has been in England most of the time since he deserted American airlines over sponsor trouble, and he has repeated his success in music-halls and talkies over there. That answers the first question. The two others will be answered this week. The Street Singer will be heard singing on a BBC Music Hall program via short wave and MBS from London.

AMERICAN NEIGHBORS Saturday, CBS

Have you ever eaten a tailor-made pineapple? Sounds silly, doesn't it? But it's true that they can now grow pineapples the correct size for the canning process. It is nearer the realm of common knowledge but still a striking fact that ninety-nine percent of the pineapple, either fresh or canned, eaten in this country comes from Hawaii. Such a one-country monopoly in industry is well-nigh unparalleled. The pineapple industry is not only a virtual Hawaiian monopoly but it is also the chief economic mainstay of the islands. An unusual broadcast on the "Americans At Work" series will deal with this industry. Dramatizations will originate in New York. The more striking phase of the program, however, will be a remote broadcast from the island of Lanie in the Hawaiian group, with interviews with workers direct from the pineapple fields.

THAT FUNNY FELLOW, JOE E. BROWN

On the air! The Joe E. Brown show goes on the air with Harry Sosnik directing the orchestra, the male trio and Margaret McCrae in the theme song, composed especially by Sosnik. Announcer Don Wilson (right) looks over the audience. The show originates in the Vine Street Playhouse in Hollywood

ONE funny fellow named Joe left the air last week, and this week another funny fellow named Joe steps into the vacant spot. Joe E. Brown and his show move from their former Saturday time to the time on Thursday which has been held by Joe Penner's program. Coincidence, too, is the fact that both Joes are somewhat the same type of comedian—naive, sentimental and scatter-brained. Brown has developed a radio technique paralleling his screen roles. He is the frustrated but irrepressible talent salesman for Mr. Bullhammer. Actress Paula Winslowe plays his sweetheart. Music is by Harry Sosnik, with Margaret McCrae as vocalist, and with Gill and Demling as auxiliary comedians. Joe E. Brown's show is heard Thursday over a CBS network at 7:30 p.m. EST, 6:30 p.m. CST; for the West, 6:30 p.m. MST, 5:30 p.m. PST.

The real truth about Kate Smith and the way she lives has eluded many a writer who hoped to answer a world's unasked questions. James Street's analysis of this singing lady's personality and his description of the woman she has become since she cried her girlish eyes out in Ted Collins' office years ago makes an unforgettable story.—Ed.

KATE SMITH, the girl of complexes and beautiful complexion, made her debut over the Columbia network in April, 1931, and leaped from the bottom of the heap to the top so quickly that even Ted Collins, her miracle man, almost lost his breath.

She just sang. She didn't try to vocalize or croon, but just flung melody at the mike and let nature take her course. She didn't know anything about radio, and that was well. Her manager didn't know much more, and that, too, was a break. They learned together. They decided that most programs were too wordy. They figured the average American radio audience was father, mother, the youngsters in their teens, and maybe grandma and grandpa. All must be remembered. They probably lived in a village and didn't give a whoop about Broadway. They wanted music, and Kate and Ted were right again.

They got a piece of paper and sat down together.

"We've got to have an introduction," Ted said.

Kate said, "I reckon we have."

"How's this," said Ted. "You just stand before the mike and say 'Hello, everybody! This is Kate Smith.' It's simple."

"Okay," said Kate. "But we got to have a theme song."

They thought some more, and Kate remembered a thing on which she had collaborated years before. She dusted it off and sang it for Ted. It was "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain." "It's swell," said Ted.

Kate suggested, "When I get through, I want to say 'Thanks for listenin'.' Think that'll be okay?"

"It never did any harm to say thanks," Ted said. "Go to it."

The rest is radio history. Kate went from the Capitol to the studio and went on. Jack Miller was her pianist. He still is.

"I was scared the first time I faced the mike," she said. "Then the comforting thought came to me that Mother was listening, and millions of other mothers. I sang 'I Surrender, Dear,' and my fright was over.

Ted told me I did swell. The folks in the studio congratulated me. I was a greenhorn and didn't realize what I had stepped into. But I was on the toughest spot in radio, opposite Amos and Andy.

"Those two comics, on the NBC hook-ups, were the most-talked-about radio stars of the day. Playing against them was a nice way to commit professional suicide."

Kate always speaks of her Columbia debut as her real debut. She speaks of the "first time I faced the mike." But she had tried it before with NBC, and since she hadn't clicked, she had forgotten about it.

The day after her Columbia debut, the letters started pouring in. Her engagement at the Capitol, originally set for one week, was extended to nine weeks. Amos and Andy had competition. The Columbia people were beside themselves with joy. They gave Kate the coveted 7 p.m. spot. During the summer, only about three months after she clicked, she won a New York radio contest as "queen of the air." In September of that year, she began to sing under the sponsorship of La Palina, and she has never wanted for a sponsor since. The same year, she broke all records at the Palace Theater, and in December won a national poll as the most popular woman singer on the air.

She never missed an opportunity to appear at a benefit. She visited hospitals, and in her broadcast she pulled at every heartstring she could find. She answered all her mail. That's excellent showmanship, but Kate did it because she liked it.

She organized a national society to send flowers to shut-ins. Critics said she had a hospital complex. The case of Billy was typical. Billy was a Brooklyn boy, and bedridden. Kate used to go over and visit with him. One evening she dedicated the song, "Whistle and Blow Your Blues Away," to him and got a note that he was doing just that. He died shortly afterwards.

"I've never been able to sing that song again," Kate said. "Billy died blissfully happy. I had asked my radio listeners to drop him a card. In the week that followed, he received 18,000 letters and cards. He got flowers and money, too. The sophisticates say that's maudlin sentiment and publicity. They've said I had a hospital complex.

"Maybe I have. I don't know what such a complex is. I'm a simple person. What I do know (and what they, poor souls, will never know) is the joy of seeing pinched faces light up with pleasure at a break in the monotony of their weary days.

"When I make an appeal for the Red Cross and get back tens of thousands of nickels and pennies, what do I care for the criticisms of the few who attribute my efforts to publicity."

Kate and Ted smashed radio precedent by making a success of the "Matinee Hour," a huge afternoon show. It was a cock-eyed show. Kate was the mistress of ceremonies and she interviewed just about everybody from Dizzy Dean to the town crier of Provincetown, Massachusetts. It even became a "lost and found" bureau when the Humane Society telephoned Kate one afternoon that their mascot was lost. His name was Paddy and he was just another dog, but Kate knew him and broadcast his description. He was located.

Ted and Kate began making money hand over fist. They organized Kated, Inc., equipped an elaborate office and went into business. There are more than one hundred persons on their staff, including a cameraman who records the mixed activities of the organization.

The corporation is an important factor in the theatrical and radio-booking business. The company's backbone, of course, is Kate. But it controls the professional actions of Jack Miller and his orchestra; Tony Gale, the pianist and arranger; Connie Gates, and a variety of other performers. And it owns the Celtics, the rambling basketball team.

Kate bought the club because it was good publicity, and she likes the game. Kate Smith's Celtics are known to every sports fan. However, they are about as Celtic as the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame, with such good Irish names as Dutch Dehnert and Joe Lapchick.

"The Celtics are breaking even now," Kate said. "They earn their way."

Those Program Changes

IT USED to be a saying (modern opinion has rejected it) that the champion mind-changers are women, with their whimsical last-minute shifts of views and plans. Looked upon (again not by the world of today) as the "weaker sex," they were patronizingly excused by the males of the universe.

All that is different now. The medal for such instability is awarded by RADIO GUIDE to certain orchestral conductors who give out advance publication of their broadcast programs and then calmly change them at the eleventh hour, too late for this paper to let its readers know of the alterations. Recent glaring examples of such instances were the two NBC Saturday night orchestral concerts. When Bruno Walter popped up with music different from the original announcement, Music Hall (Sunday noon); and the Ford Hour, with amazed dialists finding themselves hearing Gieseking's piano-playing instead of the singing of Bidu Sayao. Only the last-named happening is pardonable, as the Brazilian soprano fell ill shortly before she was scheduled to go to the microphone.

So please, RADIO GUIDE readers, do not blame this department for erring; and please, conductors, do not make us err. Emerson once advanced the peculiar philosophy that inconsistency is a gem; the writers of this page look upon it as just paste.

Orchestral Opportunity

What the Metropolitan is doing with its "Opera Auditions of the Air" might well be imitated by our major symphony orchestras with the purpose of discovering new concert talent in the ranks of the younger soloists. Something of the sort was tried laudably by the Rising Musical Star broadcasts last season, but the reward for the winners were two money prizes and some appearances with the none too good orchestra of the program, which did not mean the kind of prestige that young artists could gain if they were to perform with the regular major symphony organizations of this country.

Audiences might be getting a bit tired of hearing the same "glamor" soloists doing the same compositions year after year. In time they will be succeeded by the young artists. Why not feature them now?

THE New York Philharmonic already has its composers' contest—highly successful, too—but the Philadelphia and Boston Orchestras, at present regrettably not on the air, might well be in radio again with the novel idea of seeking new soloists for their concerts. The best of the budding talents play with more feeling and pep than the ancients, and a number of youthful singers have fresher and lovelier voices than the worn ones of the celebrated oldsters.

Speaking Up

By V. Vidal

Things That Keep Us Guessing

What the basis is for the whispering that Kirsten Flagstad and Lauritz Melchior are feuding.

If the recent protest by the National Committee for American Music over the lack of American music at the New York World's Fair will have any effect.

Who will win the Metropolitan Auditions of the Air and if they'll get a better break than one of last year's winners.

Why Lauritz Melchior is sponsoring the first Wagnerian performance at the Metropolitan during the opera week of the World's Fair, and how the Crown Prince and Princess of Denmark, his guests of honor, will like our opera house.

Why there is no broadcast of "Parsifal" this year.

Whether the World's Fair Inaugural Concert on April 30, featuring the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, under John Barbirolli, and Josef Hofmann as soloist, will be broadcast. And if not, why not?

IF IT is really true that Mischa Elman's forthcoming trip to South America as unofficial American ambassador of good-will is the first time a musician has been sent on such a mission.

Why Samuel Chotzinoff isn't commenting on the Bruno Walter programs.

If Jose Iturbi's flying-talents equal his conducting and piano-playing, and whether he'll arrive safely when he pilots his own plane to Buenos Aires this month.

What has happened to Ernest La Prade's Home Symphony which used to keep so many stay-at-home fiddlers and tootlers happy.

What a conductor feels when he rehearses in front of Toscanini... as Bruno Walter did recently.

What the big American choral work is that John Barbirolli will feature next year, and if he intends to publish his interesting correspondence with Elgar and Delius, famous English composers.

If it is generally known that the New York Philharmonic has been engaged by most of the foreign concessions at the New York World's Fair as their official orchestra to appear under guest conductors at Carnegie Hall and the Music Hall of the Fair. The conductors include Georges Enesco (Roumanian), Burt Marx (Brazilian), Dimitri Mitropoulos (Greek), Artur Rodzinski (Polish), Rudolf Ganz (Swiss) and Walter Damrosch (American).

Jose Iturbi, pianist, will be heard with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, Sunday, over CBS

FORECAST

THIS is a week for lovers of religious music, with particularly good offerings on Friday and Saturday. Four-starred are the Brahms Requiem and the Russian Easter Service, with magnificent choral singing. For the musically curious, there is Wagner's first and only symphony, on Saturday.

SUNDAY, APRIL 2

Dr. Charles Courboin, organist, MBS.

Eastern 12:00 noon Central 11:00 a.m. Pacific 9:00 a.m.

Radio City Music Hall of the Air, NBC. Tabloid opera series. "Die Walkure" (Wagner). The cast: Maria Delden (Bruennhilde), Annelies von Molnar (Sieglinde), Jan Peerce (Siegmond), Louise Bernhardt (Fricka), Raymond Lutz (Wotan), Conductor, Erno Rapee.

These programs give one a good opportunity to familiarize oneself with the principal arias of the operas. Good preparation for next year's Metropolitan broadcasts.

Eastern 12:00 noon Central 11:00 a.m. Pacific 9:00 a.m.

The Magic Key of RCA, NBC. Symphony orchestra. Frank Black, conductor.

Eastern 2:00 p.m. Central 1:00 p.m. Pacific 11:00 a.m.

The New York Philharmonic Orchestra, CBS. John Barbirolli, conductor; Jose Iturbi, pianist. Overture to "The Merry Wives of Windsor" (Nicolai), "White Nights" Prelude for Orchestra (first performance) (Bonner), the Orchestra; Piano Concerto No. 1 in E Flat (Liszt), Jose Iturbi and Orchestra; Symphony No. 1 (Sibelius), the Orchestra.

The Metropolitan Auditions of the Air, NBC. Metropolitan tryouts. Edward Johnson, master of ceremonies; Wilfred Pelletier, conductor. Announcement of the winners.

Eastern 5:00 p.m. Central 4:00 p.m. Pacific 2:00 p.m.

The New Friends of Music, NBC. The New Friends of Music Orchestra, Fritz Stiedry, conductor; Rosalyn Tureck, Harry Cumpson, pianists. Concerto for Two Pianos in C Minor No. 2 (Bach), Symphony No. 91, E Flat (Haydn).

Eastern 6:00 p.m. Central 5:00 p.m. Pacific 3:00 p.m.

The Bach Cantata Series, MBS. Alfred Wallenstein, conductor; Genevieve Rowe, soprano; Mary Hopple, contralto; William Hain, tenor; Raoul Nadeau, chorus and orchestra. Cantata 182.

Eastern 7:00 p.m. Central 6:00 p.m. Pacific 4:00 p.m.

The Ford Sunday Evening Hour, CBS. The Detroit Symphony Orchestra. Franco Ghione, conductor; Lawrence Tibbett, baritone. Overture to "Il Matrimonio Segreto" (Cimarosa), the Orchestra; Cortigiani from "Rigoletto" (Verdi), Lawrence Tibbett and Orchestra; Dance of the Hours from "La Gioconda," the Orchestra; Pilgrim Song (Tchaikowsky), The Palms (Faure), Lawrence Tibbett and Orchestra; Gagliarda from "Ancient Dances," the Orchestra; The Lent Lily (Wilson), Lawrence Tibbett, Chorus and Orchestra; Boots (Falman), Lawrence Tibbett and Orchestra; Prelude to "Die Meistersinger" (Wagner), the Orchestra.

Cimarosa (1749-1801), composer of innumerable operas, mostly comic, was in his day considered the equal of Mozart. And now? Well, time flies and with it also musical reputations. Only Cimarosa's "The Secret Marriage" makes very occasional appearances these days on operatic stages. Its overture is tuneful and bubbly.

Favorite Tibbett is an opera singer who believes that concert is not the best medium for the display of arias and dramatic recitatives. Also, unlike most of his operatic colleagues, he has been sufficient of a student to acquire a large repertoire of art songs and ballads, some of which he interprets on this program, and confines himself to only one selection from opera. That number, however, he knows how to make eloquent, even to an unseen audience, and without costume and gesturings. The full title of the "Rigoletto" aria is "Cortigiani, vil razza dannata" (Vile Race of Courtiers). The heartbroken jester makes his plea to the nobles for the restoration of his abducted daughter, but is mocked by them until they retire before the intensity of his denunciations.

Eastern 9:00 p.m. Central 8:00 p.m. Pacific 6:00 p.m.

MONDAY, APRIL 3

The Rochester Civic Orchestra, NBC. Guy Frazer Harrison, conductor.

Eastern 3:00 p.m. Central 2:00 p.m. Pacific 12:00 noon

The Voice of Firestone, NBC. Alfred Wallenstein, conductor; Richard Crooks, tenor. Overture to "Martha" (Flotow), "If All Your Heart" from "Elijah" (Mendelssohn), Morris Dance (Grainger), Berceuse from "Jocelyn" (Godard), Rose of Tralee (Glover), Dance Boheme from "Carmen" (Bizet), Lord's Prayer (Malotte).

Eastern 8:30 p.m. Central 7:30 p.m. Pacific 6:30 p.m.

WOR Symphony Orchestra, MBS. Eric DeLamarter, conductor. Carnival

Lawrence Tibbett, baritone, is this week's guest of the "Ford Sunday Evening Hour," over CBS

Overture (Dvorak), Mock Morris (Grainger), L'Arlesienne Suite (Bizet).

The last number is one of the suites named in "Something About the Suite."

Eastern 9:30 p.m. Central 8:30 p.m. Pacific 6:30 p.m.

TUESDAY, APRIL 4

Violin Series, MBS. Alfred Wallenstein, conductor; Benno Rabinoff, violinist. Concerto in E Minor (Mendelssohn).

Probably the most popular of all violin concertos and certainly one of the best-loved.

Eastern 9:30 p.m. Central 8:30 p.m. Pacific 6:30 p.m.

THURSDAY, APRIL 6

Sinfonietta, MBS. Nicolai Berezowsky, conductor. Symphony No. 6 in C Major (Schubert).

Eastern 8:30 p.m. Central 7:30 p.m. Pacific 5:30 p.m.

The Rochester Civic Orchestra, NBC. Howard Hanson, conductor. Graduate students in a concerto program. Manuel Newman, violinist; Eliot Morgentstern, horn-player; Gerald Ingraham, baritone. Concerto for Violin and Orchestra (Beethoven), Aria from "Andrea Chenier" (Giordano), Horn Concerto in E Minor (Atterburg).

Eastern 8:30 p.m. Central 7:30 p.m. Pacific 5:30 p.m.

FRIDAY, APRIL 7

The Brahms Requiem, NBC. Choir of St. Thomas' Church (N. Y.); the NBC Symphony Orchestra, Dr. T. Tertius Noble, conductor.

Twice today there are appropriate Good Friday performances of the great "German Requiem" by Brahms. Its title derives from the fact that its text is not the usual Latin, but German; and also, the composer wished to make it clear that his work is not so much a religious service as a lament to console mourners, with assurance of joys hereafter, warnings against the pomps and vanities of the world, and emphasis of the victory of the saints over death and the grave. The words are selected from various scattered pages of Luther's translation of the Bible. The music has added human interest and personal touch because Brahms wrote it in memory of his mother, who passed away in 1865. (The "Requiem" had its premiere two years later in Vienna.)

There are seven numbers—two baritone solos and chorus, soprano solo and chorus, and four separate choruses. After the opening massed voices, follows a funeral march. The fifth section ("Ye now are sorrowful, grieve not") is my favorite for melody, and the sixth impresses me next, with its portrayal of the Resurrection, climaxing in fugal passages of tremendous power. The "Requiem" properly ends in deeply serious but lovingly tender mood.

Eastern 2:00 p.m. Central 1:00 p.m. Pacific 11:00 a.m.

Dr. T. Tertius Noble will lead chorus and members of NBC Symphony in the Brahms Requiem, Fri.

Nicolai Berezowsky will conduct the Sinfonietta over Mutual Broadcasting System, Thursday

Keyboard Concerts, CBS. Stanislaw Szpinalski, pianist. All-Polish program. Mazurka (Szymanowski), Etude (Szeligowski), Bagatelle (Labunski), Mazurka (Maciejewski), Cracovienne Fantastique (Paderewski), Nocturne in C Sharp; Ballade in A Flat (Chopin).

Eastern 3:30 p.m. Central 2:30 p.m. Pacific 12:30 p.m.

Lindsborg College Messiah Chorus, NBC. "The Messiah" (Handel) from Lindsborg, Kansas, with an orchestra of 70 and a chorus of 500.

Eastern 10:00 p.m. Central 9:00 p.m. Pacific 7:00 p.m.

Something About Suites

By Leonard Liebbling

PERHAPS this essay should have come before the ones on the symphony and the symphonic poem, for the suite (which the Germans call "Partita") antedated those forms of compositions by a considerable time. However, strict historical order is not being observed in the present series, which follows the method of disposing first of the longer kinds of works and then making the writing and reading gradually easier by working down to the briefer and briefest examples for orchestra. The same plan will be followed in our discussions of chamber music and solo instrumental pieces.

Purcell, Corelli, Handel and Bach were among the earliest practitioners in the fashioning of suites. Generally speaking, their suites comprise several movements loosely strung together and unrelated except as to contrasts in rhythm and mood. That was simple enough to do, as the movements were dances, slow and fast, dignified and gay, and of course in varying time meters.

Some of the dances—now all obsolete—found in the pre-classical and classical suites of Germany, France, Italy and Spain, were the allemande, courante, sarabande, gavotte, forlane, minuet, bouree, rondo, polonaise, badinerie, loure, gigue, passepied, chaconne passacaglia, rigaudon, musette, pavane, etc. Those names in themselves bring pensive and fragrant suggestions of a long-faded past. Each of the romantically named dances has a history of its own. To dwell on only one, by the middle of the sixteenth century the Spanish pavana, or "Peacock," dance had become established as a sort of proud series of steps, the performer strutting about, suggesting with mantle and dagger the spread of the peacock's tail.

The suites of the aforementioned composers nearly always had a first movement not in dance form and called introduction or overture. When the giants Haydn and Mozart appeared during the full flush of the classical period, they developed the suite into the symphony, and Beethoven carried the evolution still further. The former two dropped all the dance movements except the minuet, and the towering Beethoven discarded even that, substituting the scherzo instead.

Along came the era of "program" music, and composers qualified the word "suite" with descriptive titles, sometimes merely a generic adjective denoting the character of the opus as a whole, or else applying a separate name for each movement, the complete score telling a connected story or setting forth its main episodes. "Romantic Suite" and "Scheherazade" are illustrative examples.

Opera composers early learned to introduce their stage music to concert audiences by making suites of the best melodies and numbers; and sometimes, when those creators neglected to do so, their contemporaries or successors compiled such potpourri arrangements. Twentieth-century composers have furnished many suites factured from the operas and other works of the masters of long ago, like Purcell, Rameau, Couperin, Monteverdi and others. Strauss, Stravinsky, Respighi have given us delightful specimens of that kind.

Ballets, too, frequently find themselves transcribed into suites, although as a rule such music is more effective when accompanied by the action and pantomime for which it was originally written. Striking exceptions are the modern "Firebird" and "Petrouchka" (Stravinsky), "The Three-Cornered Hat" and "El Amor Brujo" (De Falla), "Daphnis and Chloe" and "Mother Goose" (Ravel), "The Nutcracker" (Tchaikowsky). The last-named composer also wrote three straight suites, unstoried, with movements called simply introduction, scherzo, andante, fugue, divertimento, intermezzo, march, valse, theme and variations, etc.; and did a suite of selected Mozart music which he called "Mozartiana."

Of operatic suites, the most frequently heard consist of "best sellers" from "Carmen" and "Faust" (its ballet music has been "suited" too), and the most popular ballet music for many years was Delibes' "Sylvia," whose chief successors today are perhaps those piquant collections, the "Polovetsian Dances" from Borodin's opera, "Prince Igor," and the "Nutcracker" by Tchaikowsky. Wide vogue fell also to the ballet music of Saint-Saens' "Samson and Delilah" and "Henry VIII" and Rubinstein's "Feramors." Of more ancient flavor but no less appeal are the excerpts from Rameau's "Castor and Pollux" and Gluck's "Alceste." The best-known modern French suites are Charpentier's "Impressions of Italy"; Debussy's "Iberia," "Nocturnes," "Petite Suite," "Children's Corner"; Bizet's "L'Arlesienne," and Massenet's "Scenes Pittoresques."

Incidental music to plays figures extensively as suites for concert performance. Best loved of all are the two "Peer Gynt" settings and Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream." Grieg, too, paid tribute to "auld lang syne" with his "From Holberg's Time," a suite utilizing the old classical dance forms. In that category, the specially crowned masterpieces are the suites by Bach. Quite alone stands the wonderful score by Rameau, which he contrived by orchestrating the set of piano pieces by Moussorgsky known as "Pictures At An Exhibition."

Leading suites by American composers are the "Perambulator," by John Alden Carpenter, and "Through the Looking Glass," by Deems Taylor.

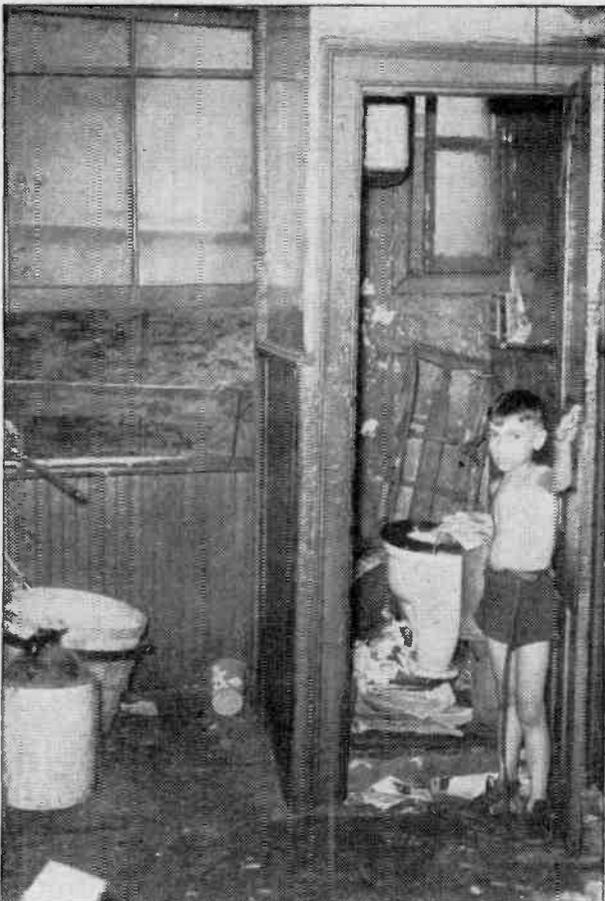

Our next contemplation will be orchestral rhapsodies, overtures, fantasias, marches and other short forms.

3. Not many people are aware of the shocking import of such common slum scenes as the above, where sanitation is almost wholly unknown

4. The congested and dirty tenement districts are breeding-grounds of malnutrition, disease and crime. Neither body nor mind has a chance to improve

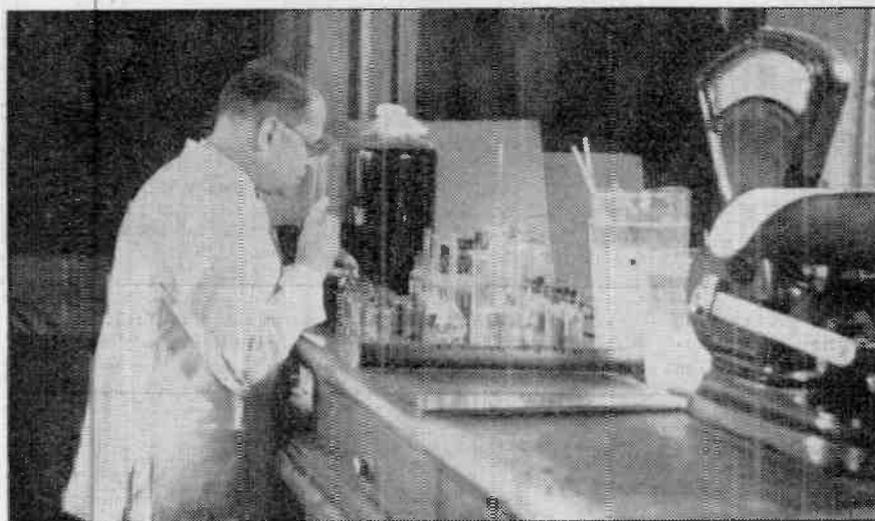

5. Paul de Kruif writes not only of the wonders of science but also of the awful conditions science has not as yet reached

ONE of today's greatest crusades is that being conducted for general health and against the conditions that cause disease and infirmity. Radio is in the fight up to the shoulders. One of the outstanding weapons being wielded by the broadcasting industry is the CBS series with the general title, "Men Against Death," now heard on Saturday at 2:00 p.m. EST, 1:00 p.m. CST, 12:00 noon MST, 11:00 a.m. PST. The series aims to depict in vivid dramatic form the gallant war that men have carried on and are carrying on more intensively than ever against the foes of human bodily welfare. The dramatizations are adapted from the sensational works of Paul de Kruif and are enacted by the Federal Theatre Radio Division. On March 18 the series began the presentation of its fourth De Kruif book, "Why Keep Them Alive?" On this and the following page of pictures Radio Guide aims to present a forceful case for the great health crusade and thereby do its bit in furthering this immensely important human cause.

It seems Baker has been giving the baton-wielder lines to read that made him sound as though he were stupid. According to my informant, Eddie's mother called Phil, requesting that he please refrain from giving Eddie lines that make him appear as though he were a dope, because he is really a smart boy. What a sense of humor!

Behind the Scenes

Popped in on the Ben Bernie rehearsal Sunday morning at CBS Radio Theater No. 2 just in time to have a container of coffee with the lads. Rehearsal hadn't started yet, and the first thing they always do is collect dimes and send the page-boy out for the morning java. But the trumpet-player startled everyone this Sunday by asking for milk. Finally Bernie said, "Let's get going," and the lads put down their coffee-containers and went to work.

Incidentally, Ben Bernie has just finished his New York hotel engagement and is taking a two-week vacation before going on the road . . . Was in CBS Studio No. 3 last Friday (St. Patrick's Day) when Irishman Jack Mulcahy and his wife were having the two-way broadcast with Jack's sister in Dublin, Ireland. Mulcahy had a green carnation in his lapel and perspiration on his brow. His wife wore green sweet peas, and both were a little green with excitement, never having broadcast before. When Mulcahy had finished he leaned back, wiped his brow, and uttered a relieved "Phew!" . . . Stopped in at CBS "Campbell Playhouse" rehearsal of "Beau Geste" for a few moments and found the cast playing in a sandpile. They had five gunnysacks of sand poured out on a large canvas for the use of the sound-effects department in creating the effect of Foreign Legion soldiers marching over the desert. Noah Beery, the guest of the week, was sitting quietly studying his lines. Noticed incidentally that he rolls his own cigarettes, and a right neat job he does of it, too . . . Was at a rehearsal of Columbia's "Johnny Presents" while Douglass Montgomery and Selena Royal were rehearsing the week's play, "Peer Gynt." It took careful work on the part of the orchestra-leader, Johnny Green.

His background music of Grieg's "Peer Gynt Suite" had to be accurately timed with every line of the play, and he did a nice job of it.

Caught a Guy Lombardo rehearsal at CBS Radio Theater No. 3 last week. Guy has a music list for the program all made out before rehearsal starts, but he is just as likely as not to change it all around before rehearsal is over. If some piece doesn't balance well with the program or if the timing isn't just right, he'll cancel it and then the whole orchestra will talk over what to play in its place. As soon as they decide what to play, the production-man has to call the CBS music department and get the piece cleared with the copyrighters. They have been known to throw out as many as four and five numbers during a rehearsal, which means practically rebuilding the whole-show . . . Bill Johnson, young NBC singer (and very handsome, girls), walking through Radio City corridors looking very much the collegiate crooner, what with a brown sports suit and a bright-yellow pullover sweater under his jacket . . . Frank Munn joking with the NBC page-boys before leaving the studios after his "Waltz Time" broadcast . . . Betty Garde hastily grabbing a cup of coffee between her morning broadcasts and wondering how she's going to be able to do a matinee of her stage show, rehearse for tomorrow's broadcasts, and move into her new apartment all in one afternoon . . . Walter O'Keefe taking time out from rehearsal to amuse his cast with a dramatization of the typical third degree he had just received from a manicurist.

Joan Edwards Celebrates

On April 8 Joan Edwards celebrates her first anniversary with Paul Whiteman. "Pops" hadn't told her yet, but one of his gifts will be a nice contract renewal. And to think that just two years ago Joan was in the senior class of Hunter College! The day she graduated, her uncle, Gus ("School Days") Edwards, offered to place her with a small traveling band. Joan said no. She wanted to do things on her own. So off she went to Brooklyn and got herself a job as fill-in pianist, with a vocal thrown in now and then. In two months she was filling a couple of sustaining programs. And then things began to move fast. Fred Allen brought her

HOLLYWOOD.—Amos 'n' Andy, who swing their time-honored efforts over to the Columbia Broadcasting System stations starting next Monday, have Mike Fish, the ex-tabloid photo-editor of that network, baffled. Here he flew all the way to the Coast to supervise the taking of a new batch of pictures of them and they wouldn't pose in blackface. But they did hang from the ledge supporting a huge CBS sign at Columbia Square, so he's still speaking to them . . . Neighbor trouble? Paramount actor Ray Milland has his home posted for sale and next-door neighbor Dorothy Lamour, also of Paramount and NBC radio as well, is pondering the sale of her new home. The unexplained angle is why the feud? . . . If you heard the Jell-O show of March 19, you'll recall that Jack Benny was supposed to be home ill, but really the sick boy on that show was genial announcer Don Wilson, who arose from bed with a 101-degree fever to broadcast and almost keeled over during his closing announcement . . . Fibber McGee's Molly arrived by plane in Hollywood March 21, but she'll take in the sights and furnish a new home before worrying about resuming her radio work . . . ## McCarthy Kidnaping Mystery

The day-long kidnaping in New York City of Charlie McCarthy by a newspaperman was a bunglesome accomplishment of an idea every radio-writer here or in Manhattan has had ever since the little dummy became such an important figure in American life. Despite denials, it was the REAL Charlie, not his stand-in Cass, who was borrowed, for your correspondent knows how to tell the genuine from the imitations . . . and Edgar Bergen has several McCarthy heads and bodies. The Hollywood lads have been pretty well dissuaded from snatching Charlie, but your reporter tried to bribe a certain party to make Charlie disappear some months ago when Bergen was doing a show in San Francisco. The party listened to the bribe offer but developed an attack of cold feet that even a hotfoot wouldn't thaw. A McCarthy snatch wouldn't be the easiest thing to accomplish, either, for early in the history of Charlie's rise to fame his sponsor exacted pledges from everyone connected with the show that they would not be a party to, aid or abet any such attempts!

Meet "Carmichael," Polar Bear

Latest ether illusion to be created for the edification of all listeners is Carmichael, Jack Benny's polar bear, who at this moment appears to be quarantined "at home" with Jack, for the measles. Carmichael is a characterization of Mel Blanc, delineator also of hiccups, sneezes and sixty-three other types, some of which you hear on the Hope, McGee and Penner broadcasts. Blanc is a proud artisan of noises; so proud, in fact, that he carries about with him a list of his accomplishments. The latter includes (1) a buck-toothed screwball, (2) a slush-mouthed duck, (3) a nervous man with the hiccups, (4) a Brooklyn cowboy, (5) a hayseed popmouth, whatever that is, (6) five varieties of morons, and—why, we don't know—a Hammond electric organ.

What's "Giddap!" in Spanish?

From Joe E. Brown, whose comedy program switches to Thursdays effective this next week, comes the story of Casca Belito, an Argentine colt he added to his string of race-horses just before the Santa Anita season began. For weeks, the horse moped around in his stall as forlorn as a rejected suitor. Brown worried about the nag; investigated his feed, even had a vet look him over. No one could find anything wrong with Casca Belito until, one day, Joe was talking with one of his Mexican stable-hands. "Casca Belito homesick," the hand remarked to Brown. "No one here talk Spanish to him and he not know English." So Joe has picked up a few Spanish phrases with which to make the colt feel more at home—and now the comedian is searching for a Spanish-speaking jockey to mount Casca Belito during the Hollywood Park season!

In Union Is There Trouble

Dizzy Dean and Gabby Hartnett were booked to appear on Vallee's Variety hour, and then the trouble began. First, a fog swathed Catalina Island, where the Chicago Cubs are training, and a special plane had to be chartered to fly the radio beam and bring the ballplayers to the mainland for the broadcast. And then, at the studio, a little business agent of the American Federation of Radio Actors spotted the diamond stars and called two strikes on them. "You'll have to join the union if you are going to act for Mr. Vallee," he demanded. Dizzy grumbled and refused, but Mrs. Dean signed up for him, smirking at her hubby. "And I thought

HOLLYWOOD SHOWDOWN

BY EVANS PLUMMER

CHICAGO.—Have you ever thumbed through your mail, casually opened an unassuming-looking envelope, unfolded the enclosed letter—and found yourself face to face with one of life's highspots in emotional experience?

I did that a few weeks ago, and I'm going to depart from usual procedure to devote a big space in my column to passing that experience on to you. I could write a sermon ten times as long as that letter—and not accomplish one-tenth the effect. It is a rare document as a lesson in life and a fine sidelight on radio. The letter was not written as a publicity stunt. It is a personal message from a friend, and, contrary to the popular conception of a columnist's sacrifice-anything-for-a-scoop methods, I am publishing it in part only after obtaining the writer's reluctant permission. The letter speaks for itself and you know the writer as one of the real pioneers of radio entertainment.

"Dear Don:

"I admit I have been in hiding the past eight months, but I like it, for I have three more violins to my credit, and, if they are as good as professional musicians say they are, they will outlive me and my radio work by many, many years. It is difficult for most people to understand how a person could leave New York and bury himself here in a small town—in a barn, for that is my workshop. But when I tell you that since I was a kid of ten I have not enjoyed life more, you will understand why I am not tearing my hair over sponsors, continuity, announcers and all those things that continually harass a radio performer. For nearly fourteen years I have been dashing in and out of studios, up elevators and down, through revolving doors, into subways—always in a hurry to get somewhere, and, of course, always worrying that I would not be on time.

"Today I make violins as I please. No customer is shouting. No announcer is checking me with a stop-watch. I go along as I please, and I am pleasing myself. I read, build model houses, and, best of all, I am taking an active interest in a Little Theater group which we started here. Last night we did 'Ah, Wilderness,' and I was Daddy Nat Miller. We have been urged to take the show on the road by many people, but I know what would happen to the kick I get out of it if we did that.

"I suppose you are wondering how long this is going on and whether I can stand being away from the temptation of the lights. I can, and will do so until next fall, at least.

"You see, my 'fran,' I have worked myself into believing my own philosophy and trying to live it. I know many, many radio philosophers, poets, preachers and advice-peddlers, but not many of them live up to their preaching by a long-shot. I wondered if the listeners were really right when they used to write to me and say that I had the correct ideas—and the only way I could find out was to try it. I couldn't see how I could live in a hotel on a busy street, with all the comforts of a prince, and go on the air telling people there was nothing to all this popularity stuff, that money wasn't the root of happiness, that ease and luxury were nothing. If I believed that, I would have to live according to my talk, or I'd just be another shouter of nonsense. So I dropped everything and am trying it all out. I find I can live in a barn. I can live on fifty cents a day. I can find so much real happiness working at the things I love to do that I would no more choose for myself the stupid hurrying life of New York than I would deliberately catch a disease.

"I am still publishing my beloved Scrap Book. (For those of you who have inquired of this column where they might obtain copies, they are published by Reilly & Lee Co., 325 W. Huron St., Chicago, Ill.—D. M.) Of course, I may again go on the air. But if I do, I'll do so because I feel I have some kind of philosophy that will help out some poor devil trying to find a bit of happiness in this world.

"I think I am just beginning to understand such a philosophy.

"Sincerely,

"Tony Wons."

Thanks to the "man in the house by the side of the road" for the finest lesson in living he ever put out, this time without a script and a mike. Keep fiddling in the same key, Tony. You've got your fingers on the strings of true harmony.

Welcome to Crossroads

Visited the premiere of "Inside Story," new nighttime commercial emanating from Chicago, and witnessed a good story-dramatization show with some smooth production. There was human interest—the story of the famous Cradle, founding home of Evanston, Illinois, with its founder, Mrs. Walrath, and Al Jolson, who adopted one of the Cradle's babies, speaking (Jolson of Hollywood). There was humor—confessions of a repossessor. There was excitement and punch—an interview and dramatization concerning the coverage of the Sino-Japanese unofficial war by International News Service representative James R. Young. Emcee and announcing duties are ably handled by white-haired Fred Sullivan and dynamic little Paul Luther, respectively, with Glen Welty directing the orchestra. If they can maintain the tempo and the caliber of guests, the show should fare very well. Let's have more like it in Chicago. Please,

"Inside Story," don't go Hollywood.

Woodchopper Grinds Ax

Arkie, the WLS "Barn Dance" Arkansas Woodchopper, got married recently and received a lot of unsought publicity both on the air and in print. WLS was snowed under with mail from idolizing lassies across the national countryside. Just to make everybody happy, I thought Arkie ought to be given a chance to make a statement about the "situation." Here it is, gals:

"In some recent publicity, the fact was mentioned that thousands and thousands of girls were shocked by news of my marriage. I am happy that so many of my radio friends, since the announcement, have welcomed my wife and sent us both their good wishes. I appreciate that they feel toward me as I do toward them—we are still good radio friends. And Vera appreciates their welcome for my sake as well as for her own."

It will be some consolation to the disappointed ones that Arkie's bride, formerly Vera Firth, loves to do the things Arkie does—hunt, fish, play golf and swim. And she can cook southern fried chicken and hot biscuits like Arkie likes them.

News Note

THE RADIO PLAYBILL: THIS WEEK—"THE ALDRICH FAMILY"

HENRY ALDRICH is an irrepressible youngster of seventeen, in love or in trouble or both most of the time. His flexible imagination and his tendency to stretch it into mild falsifications lead to most of his difficulties. Of course, there is very often a girl involved in the situation, and the money problem is always prominent. He's a source of mental anguish to his father and of suppressed amusement to his mother. The role of Henry Aldrich is played by 20-year-old Broadway star and dramatic art director Ezra Stone

MARY ALDRICH is Henry's teen-age sister. She too has her romances. In her dealings with her brother she assumes a superior attitude extremely provoking to Henry. Not far removed from doll days, Mary still retains a bit of a tattletale tendency. She revels in Henry's discomfort, especially if she has been instrumental in bringing it on. It's an armed truce between the two except in rare cases. The role is played by Betty Field, who, though in her early twenties, has several Broadway shows to her credit

Alice Aldrich (played by Lea Penman) possesses all the tender understanding essential in a mother of adolescent children. When her husband, Sam, and young son, Henry, strike a snag in filial relations, she acts as intermediary and judge in the settlement of problems. She recognizes both the small boy in her husband and the man in her son

LIFE as you've found it, wept with it and, especially, laughed at it—that's the theme of "The Aldrich Family." Sam Aldrich has a wife, Alice, who understands and adores him; a daughter, Mary, who wraps him around her finger with sub-deb dexterity, and a son, Henry, who, like most high-school boys, looks upon Dad as a source from which blessings flow if it can be tapped. This is an outstanding sketch, because it mirrors for you the foibles and whimsies of family life without a grain of real, disturbing sorrow. It's in something of the same class as "Vic and Sade." The chief character is Henry, and he is a character. The plot usually revolves around his normal but often unique youthful tendencies, especially his propensity for getting into trouble and into his parents' hair. "The Aldrich Family" is heard as a unit of the "Kate Smith Hour" Thursday over the Columbia Broadcasting System at 8:00 p.m. EST, 7:00 p.m. CST; for the West, 9:30 p.m. MST, 8:30 p.m. PST.

SAM ALDRICH (played by Clyde Fillmore) is a hard-working businessman. He works even harder to settle his son-and-daughter problems equitably without sacrificing his peace of mind and a large piece of his pocketbook. Convinced he is running his home with paternal wisdom, he little realizes how often he is duped by the children or saved by his wife

Person-to-Person

● Cited as the outstanding conference on utilization of radio in the classroom was the meeting sponsored in Chicago last November by the Radio Council of Chicago's Board of Education. The proceedings of this three-day confab have been edited and are ready for distribution. As a comprehensive review of the latest developments in and the best practical uses of radio in the classroom as illustrated at this conference, a copy of this report should be read by every educator in the country and may be had by sending a quarter to the Radio Council, Chicago Board of Education, Chicago, Illinois.

● Within the last two years four new radio courses have been added to the curriculum at the State College of Washington to meet the growing demand for specialized training in this field. Now comes the first summer radio workshop ever to be held at this school. The course will run from July 19 to August 11, and, slanted at the needs of instructors in colleges and high schools who have or are likely to be faced with the problem of planning and directing broadcasts, will present an opportunity for full-time study of script-writing, production, management techniques and the engineering side of radio. In addition, the plans include the preparation and presentation by members of the class of several broadcasts over the college's own station, KWSC, which will be operated for more hours this coming summer than ever before in its history.

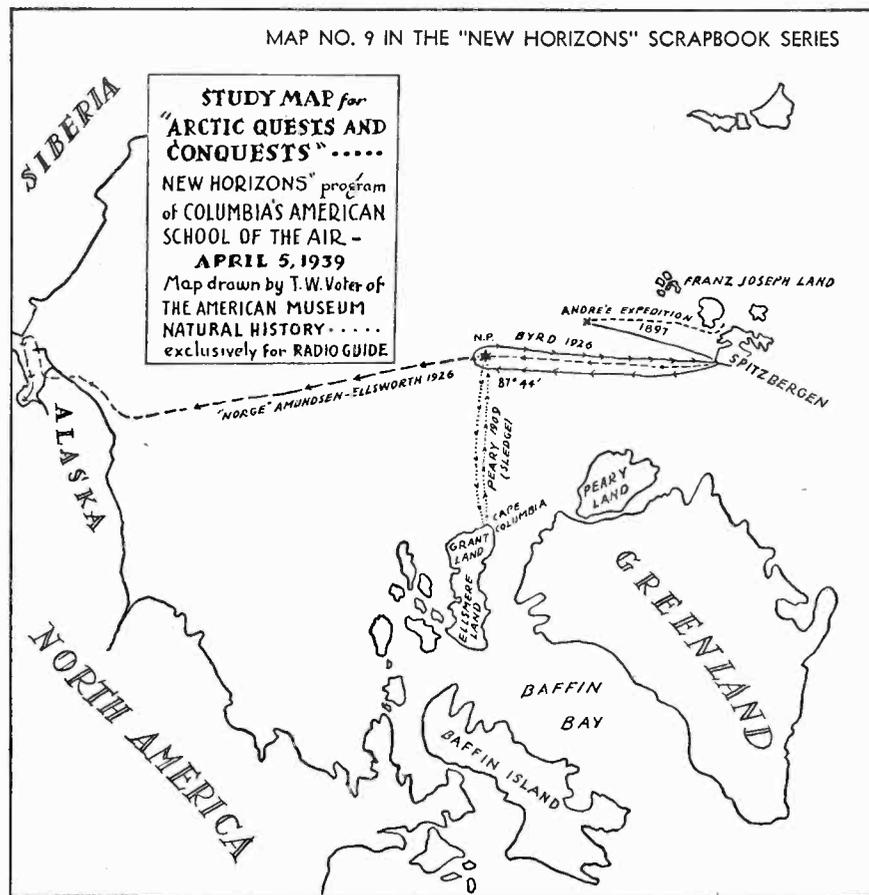

● First big radio-education meeting of 1939 will be the Tenth Institute for Education by Radio in Columbus, Ohio, home of Ohio State University and the school-broadcast evaluation experts—Tyler, Wrightstone and O'Steen. This session undoubtedly will attract more radio-education mentors than any other similar event of the year.—J. H.

"Arctic Quest and Conquest"

FOR nearly four centuries the quest of the North Pole fired the imagination of adventurous, ambitious and hardy explorers of many nations. By boat, by sled, by balloon, by plane, by dirigibles, even by submarine, men flung themselves against the hazards and hardships of the frozen north. It was not until Admiral Peary discovered the Pole in 1909 that the race was won. During the thirty years that have passed since that achievement other explorers have made important contributions toward increasing the great mass of polar data.

For a long time it was thought that there was land at the North Pole and that regular continental trade routes might be flung across the arctic seas. Such routes, it has been proved, are not feasible by ships, but with airplanes and dirigibles this dream may be realized.

In discussing "Arctic Quest and Conquest," Dr. Vilhjalmur Stefansson, foremost living authority on arctic exploration, will give interesting and pertinent facts about the vast opportunities to be found within the Arctic Circle.

Captain Bob Bartlett, whose superb seamanship and dauntless courage brought Admiral Peary's ship safely through the polar ice, will recount his thrilling adventures with Peary and other explorations in the arctic seas.

Mr. William Van Dusen, a pioneer in the development of trans-oceanic airlines, will describe the progress of Alaskan airways and commercial trans-polar aviation.

"Arctic Quest and Conquest" is the title of the April 5 broadcast of the "New Horizons" series, under the auspices of Columbia's American School of the Air and the American Museum of Natural History, with Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews as host and commentator. Time: 2:30-3 p.m. EST; 1:30-2 CST; 12:30-1 MST; 11:30 a.m.-12 noon PST.

"In Cooperation With—"

In presenting educational programs, do broadcasters assume the responsibility of deciding what is educational subject-matter and what is not? Thank heaven, skeptics don't have them out on a limb with that question: broadcasters are neither that brave nor that foolish. Let's look at a few of the outstanding network programs that may be classed as educational: The World Is Yours, presented in cooperation with the U. S. Office of Education and the Smithsonian Institution; New Horizons, presented in cooperation with the American Museum of Natural History; Our American Schools, presented in cooperation with the National Education Association; Your Health, presented in cooperation with the American Medical Association.

These are only a few examples of how educational institutions are working hand in hand with broadcasters to serve public interest, convenience and necessity. Although this union was a strained one in the early days of radio, when neither knew the power or the peculiarities of this new communications medium, both educators and broadcasters soon realized that only through cooperation could the problem of education by radio be solved and the responsibility to the public be met. Educational programs are presented today—both local and network programs—through the cooperation of outstanding educational institutions and civic service organizations.

Cleveland's Experiment

Before the possibilities of radio as an aid to educators are fully realized, many questions, unanswered today, must be decided. One of the most pertinent at the present time is, Should radio participate in the direction of teaching in the classroom? Current popular opinion among educators is "No." There are those, however, who maintain that it is a possibility deserving attention, and as such should be given the full benefit of comprehensive experiment. Outstanding proponent of this viewpoint is the Cleveland Board of Education, which—armed with a money grant from the General Education Board—is exploring the field, using the facilities of a school-owned, school-operated radio station. Cleveland's radio-educators are giving this question fair trial to prove itself practical or otherwise, which, after all, is the wisest procedure for settling differences of opinion and testing opposing theories.

The Cleveland Board of Education was the first school system to use the special ultra-high-frequency band which the Federal Communications Commission made available to recognized educational agencies. Although the Cleveland station, WBOE, has been in operation for only six months, some of the advantages of the school station-to-classroom teaching are already evident: (1) provides silent periods to give time for pupil activity or work, and for pupil-teacher reaction, (2) provides sufficient time to permit the presentation of a variety of radio lessons, (3) permits the radio schedule to be adjusted to the school schedules, (4) permits the length of the lesson to be adjusted to the needs and capacities of the learner.

The directors of the Cleveland plan—Superintendent Lake, Assistant Superintendent Buckley, Director of Radio Activities William B. Levenson—are giving their theory every chance to prove its merit. Every detail is administered with clock-like precision, every phase of the work is perfected to an unbelievable degree. If the plan does not prove feasible, it shouldn't be said that they didn't give it a chance. Radio will assume its rightful place in education when thorough experimentation points out the way.

William B. Levenson directs radio activities in Cleveland's schools

HOBBIES, UNLIMITED

YOU just can't ignore hobbies—not with men, women and children from Cape Cod to the Golden Gate pursuing every avocation from training snakes to collecting fire-engines. A fascinating thing about the hobby business is that everyone's hobby interests every other hobbyist. That is one reason that Dave Elman's "Hobby Lobby" (Wednesday, NBC, 8:30 p.m. EST, 7:30 p.m. CST, 6:30 p.m. MST, 5:30 p.m. PST) goes right along nailing itself into the radio framework as a solid fixture. The theme song of the show, "The Best Things in Life Are Free," is an appropriate key to the whole idea the individual and the nation profits from creative, enterprising activities.

—Newspictures, Inc.

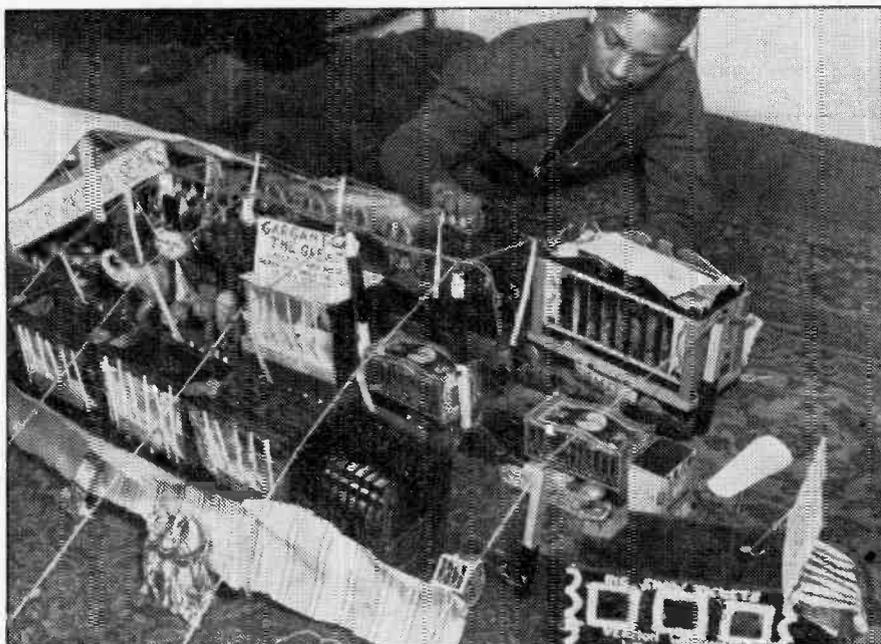

A unique feature that lends appeal to "Hobby Lobby" is the practise of matching musical themes to the particular hobbies presented. With Dave Elman (right), Harry Salter, musical director, makes an exhaustive survey to pick the songs for the proper atmosphere

A striking example of matching music and hobby was in the case of H. E. Mann of Memphis, whose hobby is lifting a two-thousand-pound bull. The song "Ferdinand the Bull" was finally discarded in favor of "Toreador Song" because of robust nature of latter

Ted Rogers collects obnoxious noises which spoil radio reception so he can get rid of them. Salter selected a plain melody for a theme after considering a bit of a jam session

For Vernon Wright's hobby of building miniature circuses there was only one proper choice, "The Entry of the Gladiators." Scarcely known by its name, this blaring march introduces every circus parade and grand march

It was easy to decide on "Turkey in the Straw" or "Chicken Reel" for George Stone's hobby. He keeps a general store modeled after that of the 1850's, stocked with merchandise typical of his grandfather's day

Appropriately on the roster of great playwrights is Maurice Maeterlinck, Belgian writer, whose work deals with moods and symbolism in a manner reminiscent of Poe. Born in 1862 and educated, significantly, at a religious school, Maeterlinck is a mystic and philosopher as well as an author. Today's play, "The Blue Bird," is typical of his style, has been

The orchestra plays The Patrol No. 4 from India from "Suite Oriental" (Poppy), Natch (Crist), and Fantasie Oriental (Lange). The Lullaby Lady sings Baby of Hindustan (Engle-Kempinski) and, with the quartet, Temple Bells from "Indian Love Lyrics" (Findin). The quartet, accompanied by a violin obligato by Mr. Weber, also sings Kashmiri Love Song from "Indian Love Lyrics" (Findin), and Mr. Weber, violinist, offers as his solo, Hymn to the Sun (Korsakoff).

"They Fly Through the Air with the Greatest of Ease" is Norman Corwin's poetic study of the bombardment of defenseless civilians. Because it created so much comment when it was presented on Corwin's Sunday program, it is rebroadcast tonight, dedicated, as before, to "all aviators who ever bombed a defenseless city."

OLD BOOKS WANTED

We have bought over 9,500 books and have paid as high as $500.00 for a single book. For example, we will pay you cash for the following books as described in our price list:

Pilgrim's Progress... $4,000.00	Tom Sawyer... $200.00
Old Swinmin' Hole... 75.00	Black Beauty... 100.00
Treasure Island... 50.00	Scarlet Letter... 35.00
Venus and Adonis... 5,000.00	Snow-Bound... 45.00
Uncle Tom's Cabin... 50.00	Leaves of Grass 250.00
Last of Mohicans... 50.00	Ben Hur... 25.00
McGuffey Primer... 100.00	Moby Dick... 100.00
Tamerlane & Poems... 5,000.00	Little Women... 25.00

These are but a few of the many thousands of books we want. DON'T SEND BOOKS until you have checked our latest list giving full information. Don't delay—a single old school book, story book, Bible, poetry, history, travel, almanacs, may bring you $25, $50, $100, $500 or even $5,000 cash for certain books. Better investigate NOW. Send 10c to the American Book Mart, 140 S. Dearborn St., Dept. 9101, Chicago, and we will send you latest list of old books we want to buy and cash prices we will pay.

Although composers such as Handel used great literature as a general basis for their music, it is only since the nineteenth century that composers have attempted to tell a story by the suggestive power of music alone. Whit Burnett, editor of "Story," is guest speaker on a program designed to show how music and literature have been combined with a consequent deepening of the significance of both.

Count Leo Tolstoy (1828-1910), considered one of Russia's greatest men, is Dr. Griggs' subject today.

Surmounting the arrogance and reaction of the nobility to which he belonged, he became, through his writings, a mighty force for the moral and political regeneration of his country.

Best-known works are "Anna Karenina" and "War and Peace."

SHE LIVES ALONE AND LIKES IT

heaped on her. She sang with Leopold Stokowski conducting. She has been honored by the Red Cross and many organizations of charity. Out in Texas, where men are men and women used to be governors, former Governor "Ma" Ferguson made her a Texas Ranger and the Sioux Indians accepted her in their tribe with the name of Hum'b-o-goo-win-ga, which means "glory of the morn."

In 1936, she won RADIO GUIDE'S Medal of Merit.

She has averaged a broadcast a day and has missed but one assignment because of illness. She has forty-eight plaques and loving-cups in her office and is a top-flight sportswoman. Her golf is excellent and she swims well. Usually, she vacations at Lake Placid and goes for motor-boating in summer and bob-sledding in winter.

She is a doodler and draws funny figures while she talks.

SHE has written lyrics to Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in C Sharp Minor."

She is such a home body that she has moved once since 1931, and then across the street. She lives, when in New York, in middle Manhattan. It's on Park Avenue but is not a hoity-toity place. Her apartment is tiny and she lives alone, with double safety locks on the doors. She employs a maid, but the maid doesn't stay in.

Her home consists of a living-room, a small reception-room, a bedroom, a tiny kitchen and a bath. The living-room follows no particular style of decorating. Kate did it herself, and it's in excellent taste but has no pattern. That's the way she likes it, and that's how it is. All who don't like it can lump it!

There is a fireplace. The drapes are dark blue, faced with beige. The walls are blue. The book shelves are recessed in the walls. There is a large phonograph, given her by Collins, and a grand piano. The lamps are Chinese rose jade with beige silk shades. The couches are blue and beige. There is a custom-built secretary, done in antique green with flowers and birds painted on it. There are many chairs and lots of pillows and dolls stuck here and there.

Her bedroom is green and rose, with a rose taupe broadloom carpet. There is one large bed and a large dressing table, which contains more than four hundred bottles of perfume, many unopened. Her favorite perfume is Christmas Night.

There is a large divan in the bedroom and there are china dogs and cats stuck around in odd places. Venetian blinds are at the window. Pictures in the bedroom look as though they had been cut from one of the house, garden or arty magazines and framed. Most of the pictures are of flowers.

Her kitchen is small and done in red and gray. And there are lots of electrical gadgets around.

She has been associated with food, and, naturally, lots of the stuff you read about her cooking is publicity ballyhoo. She works for food companies and naturally she often is photographed in her kitchen, with the products she plugs to the fore.

But she really can cook. That's no publicity gag. And she likes it. She can beat a mean cake, boys, and she enjoys eating it. Dolly, her maid, keeps the apartment spotless. Kate also has a home at Placid.

Many are amazed to discover Miss Smith, rich and all, lives in such a plain place. She doesn't need a large place. She never entertains lavishly. She seldom goes out and is usually in bed by 1 a.m., except on Thursdays, when her repeat broadcasts keep her up later. On Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, when she broadcasts at noon, she gets up early. But she sleeps late on Fridays.

Her clothes are made to order but she specifies the designs. Her evening gowns are numerous and expensive, most of them of solid color. She keeps most of them at her studio, Columbia Playhouse No. 2 on West Forty-fifth Street. She is one of the few, if not the only radio artist who has her own studio dressing-room.

At home, she wears washable dresses, but her evening gowns are made by one of the most exclusive dressmakers in New York. She has a set of expensive silver-fox furs, a sable coat and lots of hand-bags and chiffon handkerchiefs.

In her dressing-room is all the equipment she needs, including a stove on which her meals are cooked when she spends the day at the theater. Her personal maid attends her there. She bathes after each rehearsal because she perspires easily.

She takes great pride in her manner of dress and toilet.

She advises large women not to worry about their weight and never to feel inferior. She is opposed to Spartan methods of dieting.

"But be well groomed," she said. "Keep immaculate. It took me quite a while to realize how important looks can be. When I came to New York, I had no illusions about my appearance. I was healthy and big. I was near-sighted and I wore glasses for reading." (She still does.)

One day in a department store she saw a woman who was stunning, although stout.

"That taught me something. I bought new dresses and had them fitted carefully. I got facials and had my hair dressed often. I read fashion magazines and talked with authorities about styles. One expert told me to wear white. I protested that I was too large to wear white, but the modiste told me that was a complex stout persons had; that white really would become them.

"Next to good grooming is good posture. Even a large person can carry herself well."

Every Thursday morning she has her hair and nails done. She does her own make-up. A few have criticized her dress, contending she goes overboard on big flowers, real and artificial. Some folks say big flowers make a woman look bigger.

HER social life centers around a handful of persons: Mr. and Mrs. Ted Collins and their little girl; her mother; her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Franklin Hanby of Maryland; Jane Tompkins of Kated, Inc.; Jack Miller, and a few other members of her organization. The only radio actress who is at all close to her is Betty Garde.

She was seen recently with Miss Tompkins at "The American Way," a smasher and flag-waving show. But she visibly was annoyed. People kept staring at her and whispering.

After the show, she went to a fountain and had a double chocolate soda. "I have never advocated a rigid diet," she said. "I like good food and plenty of it. For breakfast I have fruit or tomato juice, as much coffee as I want with cream and sugar, and maybe a roll. My lunch usually is two apples.

But at dinner I enjoy a good, thick steak, plenty of fresh vegetables, a salad and often chocolate cake.

"My idea of exercising is more fun than dieting. I swim almost every day during the summer. I'm wild about football and basketball. I dance, play tennis, skate, do anything I want."

She goes to Washington as often as she can to see her family and friends. Recently she and Collins were due in Washington. She is privileged to use the President's entrance to the home-town station, and when she boarded the train in New York she discovered Ted had missed it.

"I wired Washington from the train that we would be an hour late," she said. "I knew a crowd would be at the station and I didn't want to arrive without Ted. I knew Ted would be on the next train. But when I got to Washington the trouble started. You just try to hide a girl as big as I am in the Washington station. Mr. Marks, the station-master, finally took me across the tracks and hid me in a caboose. I stayed there for an hour, until Ted arrived."

She and Collins have a lot of fun broadcasting. "Ted was doing a commercial recently," she recalled. "He was to tell about raspberry cake. He pronounced it 'wasberry' but tried to cover up. Then he made the mistake of looking at me. I had to grin and Ted burst right out laughing in the mike. He managed to say, 'Let Kate tell you about it.' I had to do all the commercials that night. We called him 'Wasberry' for weeks.

"I think my greatest thrills were the day I sang for those Blue Devils in Washington when I was a kid, and the night I sang to 22,000 people in Madison Square Garden."

SHE is very considerate of her fellow workers, but she is a hard taskmaster. Most persons don't know, but she doesn't read a note of music and depends entirely on ear and phonetics. Hence, she cannot explain to another musician exactly what she wants. She has to wait until he plays it just like she knows she wants it, but she can't tell him how that is.

Consequently, she gets peeved at times and gives the musicians a going-over. Then she'll make up for it by doing something nice for the fellows.

Her money is invested wisely. Collins handles all her business. She is not shrewd about money matters.

She amazed Hollywood, and claims Hollywood amazed her. Her road company, "Swanee Revue," had clicked all over the nation and she was a natural for the box-office, and was asked to Hollywood to make "Hello, Everybody." They made a big to-do over her. She spent much of her time getting autographs from actors and actresses who would have given much to be in her shoes.

Her picture was not a whiz. Neither did it flop. It was one of those strange things that flopped in the big houses and cleaned up in the neighborhood houses. The studio apparently made the mistake of building the show around Miss Smith. Most critics agree it would have been better to have let Kate have a few choice spots in the show, sing a bit and not be the central character.

It generally is conceded she would like another crack at Hollywood.

She has four automobiles, all at Lake Placid. She enjoys driving herself. She has a cocker spaniel named Freckles, given her by Betty Garde. She has a cat named Mittsy and some live turtles.

Short-wave programs of American stations are shown along with the regular listings beginning on page 19. These are indicated, for example, by (sw-11.87) in parentheses following a program listing. This means that on 11.87 megacycles the same program may also be heard over an American short-wave station. Please note that foreign stations do not always adhere precisely to their announced program schedules.

AFTER a brief vacation from the ether lanes, following the fall of Czechoslovakia as an independent country, OLR4A (11.84) was again on the air Sunday night, March 19, broadcasting its usual program to North America. The station identification was given as simply "OLR, Prague," even the announcer seemingly in doubt as to the country. Tentatively the following schedule is in effect: Over OLR5A (15.23), directed to the Far East, 4:55 to 8:15 a.m.; over OLR4B (11.76), weekdays, directed to the Near East, 8:25 to 10:05 a.m.; over OLR4A (11.84), daily, directed to Africa, 12:45 to 4:50 p.m., directed to South America, 4:55 to 6:30 p.m., directed to North America, 7:55 to 10:20 p.m. and directed to Central America, 10:20 to 11:20 p.m. EST.

The new Irish short-wave station at Athlone has been testing on a frequency of 9.595 megas, almost daily from 4 until 5 or 6 p.m. EST. Experimental broadcasts on a frequency of 17.84 megas are still being heard mornings.

XGOY (9.5), the Central Broadcasting Station at Chungking, China, broadcasts daily from 6:15 to 8 a.m. EST, but good reception is available only from 7 a.m. when VK3ME (9.5), Melbourne, Australia, signs off, until XEWW (9.5), Mexico City, comes on the air at 7:45 a.m. EST. The programs consist of typical oriental music with announcements in Chinese and broken English. XMHA, the new short-wave station at Shanghai, may now be heard on a frequency of 11.94 megas, daily from approximately 5 to 11 a.m. EST. According to a letter from the Ministry of Communications, Chungking, China, received by Roger Legge of Binghamton, N. Y., the station on 11.38 megas, is XTS not XGRV.

In the Netherlands Indies, YDD (6.06), Bandoeng, Java, has been added to the NIROM network. The station usually relays the native programs, but occasionally joins the western network.

SHORT-WAVE SHORTS: New Rome transmitters are testing irregularly on 15.1 and 11.9 megas. EAQ (9.855), "The Voice of Republican Spain," Madrid, is said to be off the air. Have you heard it recently? . . . HVJ, Vatican City, is broadcasting Sunday mornings from 5 to 5:30 a.m. EST, on a new frequency of 9.66 megas. According to the Quixote Radio Club, CR6RC (11.74), Luanda, Angola, is said to be on the air Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays from 2 to 3:30 p.m. EST. California listeners report "Radio Tananarive" (9.69), Tananarive, Madagascar, is being heard daily from 10 to 11 a.m. EST. PSE (14.93), Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, is now broadcasting simultaneously with PSH of the same city, nightly from 6 to 7 p.m. EST. Charles Plotner of San Francisco, Calif., writes a new transmitter for "Radio Saigon" (6.116), Saigon, French Indo-China, was inaugurated on March 14. The station operates daily from 6:30 to 7 a.m. and from 11 to 11:30 p.m. EST. Attractive QSL cards are now available for all who report to All-India Radio Stations. ZAA, Tira, Albania, operates on 6.085 megas, almost daily from 1:30 to 7 p.m. EST. Occasional tests are still being conducted on a frequency of 7.85 megas. After a long absence, HCK (5.885), of Quito, Ecuador, is back on the air.

John Larsen of Geneva, N. Y., reports two new Latin broadcasters. YV4RQ (5.02) of Puerto Cabello, Venezuela, is broadcasting nightly to approximately 9:20 p.m. EST; HC2AB (9.188), "Radio Telegraphio," somewhere in Ecuador, signs off nightly at 10 p.m. EST. The latter station strikes twelve chimes, in series of threes, on the hour, as an interval signal.

The distribution of the Royal Maundy in Westminster Abbey, one of the most picturesque survivals of ancient British ceremonials, will be described on Maundy Thursday, April 6, at 6:45 a.m. EST, over Daventry stations GSF, GSG and GSJ. The Last Supper, when Christ gave His final injunctions to his disciples and set an example of humility by washing their feet, was the inspiration of the custom. Until after 1685 it was the custom for reigning British sovereigns to actually wash and kiss the feet of some fifty poor people in observance of the Maundy custom. Today the observance has become essentially one of alms-giving.

GOOD RECORDS

BING CROSBY'S newest include two old sure-fires, two new ones. "I Cried for You" and "Melancholy Baby" for two, "Between a Kiss and a Sigh" and "Let's Tie the Old Forget-Me-Not" for two more. John Scott Trotter does some deft accompanying. Bing is also in the new Decca Victor Herbert album with two solos, two duets with Frances Langford. Florence George, who is soon to marry Bing's brother Everett, and Rudy Vallee also warble the Herbert songs. Also, keep eyes peeled for Bing's new picture tunes, reported the best score he has had in some time. (All Decca.)

BOB CROSBY does a full-bodied two-part job on "Diga Diga Do" for one of his newest, and an under-par job with the "Skaters' Waltz" and a thing called "Eyeopener." (Decca.)

TOMMY DORSEY is heard in "Hold Tight—Hold Tight," the whacky seafood mamma song that the Andrews Sisters introduced some weeks back. The Sisters still top all comers with this chanson. Turn the TD wax over and you get "Symphony in Riffs," a Benny Carter swinger. (Victor.)

JIMMY DORSEY'S latest six sides include such commercial tunes as "The Masquerade Is Over" and "Romance Runs in the Family," plus a very low-down reading of "Deep Purple." Score more good vocals by Bob Eberly. (Decca.)

ARTIE SHAW busts forth with a forgotten classic from the shelves of Broadway's show world, "Alone Together," from "Flying Colors." On the other side is "Rose Room," and played right well, at that. (Bluebird.)

GLEN GRAY swings the old-oaken-bucket song under the witty title "Hoboken Bucket." Get it? (Decca.)

HARRY JAMES' new band makes its bow on Brunswick this week, with much trumpet virtuosity from HJ on "Ciribiribin" . . . nothing much new on "Sweet Georgia Brown" and two commercial tunes with weak vocals. But it's always tough on new bands. Time will tell.

COUNT BASIE keeps his top rating for real swing with "The Blues I Like to Hear." (Decca.)

THE ANDREWS SISTERS return to the moderato division with "Begin the Beguine" and "Long Time No See." (Decca.)

KIRSTEN FLAGSTAD, ever magnificent, adds to her repertoire on wax two Richard Strauss songs, "Cacilie" and "E'er Since Thine Eye." Both as refreshing as a mountain stream. (Victor 1967. $1.50.)

MARIAN ANDERSON alternates between German lieder and Negro spirituals on her record releases, and this month it is two spirituals. Both excellent choices, and sung with her usual perfection, of course. "I Can't Stay Away" and "Were You There?" Fine stuff. (Victor 1966. $1.50.)

LEOPOLD STOKOWSKI takes the two placid and beautiful Gymnopedies by Erik Satie for a nugget among ten-inch symphonic records on the new Victor list. (1965. $1.50.)

—Joe Thompson.

Backstage Goings-On

At Good News: Master of ceremonies Bob Young blushing when asked to pose for a picture with champion magazine models Georgia Carroll and Kathryn Aldridge . . . Fannie Brice trying out her Snooks routine on little seven-year-old Nancy Renick, the "guinea pig" that tells Fannie whether or not her youngster audience thinks her funny . . . Frank Morgan, announcing for the fourth consecutive year that "this summer I'm really going to Europe" and adding "even if I have to wear a uniform!" . . . Wallace Beery breezing in to rehearse after flying his plane all over the country. Even went to Hot Springs just to take a bath (What won't he think of next?) . . . At "Screen Guild Show," March 19: That sustained and unexplained applause prior to Fannie Brice's appearance was her own devilry at work. With her hand concealed from the radio producer, Fannie was giving the applause signal! . . . At the same show's rehearsal, Martha Raye, Bob Hope and Fannie reading their gag-lines in double talk so that the orchestra would be fresh for the laughs at the actual broadcast . . . George Murphy reciting his past—how he tried to learn to play the violin but had to give up as it gave him a headache; how he took up stock-broking and became a tap-dancer, thus qualifying him to be a master of ceremonies!

. . . At "Pepsodent Show" rehearsal: Bob Hope telling his cast that June 20 would be their last show for the summer, and that he plans to rest after two weeks at the Palladium in London . . . Jack Smart describing Hollywood's newest game: Idea is to tune in and see how many programs there are on which the voice of Hanley (Snooks' Daddy Higgins) Stafford can be identified in a single week. Try it yourself . . . At "Kraft Music Hall": Bing Crosby, in a blue crepe outboard shirt, relaxing by picking a horse in the Racing Form while Bob Burns smokes a new pipe with a long metal stem . . . Rehearsal visitors Noel Coward and Cary Grant making the Crosby and Vallee show rounds together . . . At "The Circle" rehearsal on Saturday night: "President" Basil Rathbone serving tea by the gallons to his fatigued cast . . . Groucho Marx offering cigars and being rejected for fear of a prank.

Fish-Story Department

Bob Trout's visit with Professor Quiz to southern California had its disappointment. Seems that the CBS answer-scorer sought to catch, with his bare hands, at least two of the Pacific Coast's noted grunion. Trout had been told much about grunion sandwiches, made with two or three of the little smelt, and for two weeks Bob motored to the various beaches in an effort to catch the wily grunion as they flip on the sand between waves to lay their eggs. But the fish were running only at the beaches Bob didn't visit . . . Perhaps, our informant comments, grunion are allergic to the name of Trout . . . Fish-story two is that expert deep-sea angler Gertrude Niesen recently brought in six hundred pounds of fish from a single trip out. Knowing that she'd never be believed, Gertrude wisely obtained a cannery's weight certificate to make her catch-story stick . . . Fish-tale Three: Andy Devine has just completed the building at his ranch of a cold-storage box twenty feet square and eight feet high to hold his game and fish catches awaiting his festive board. A 217-pound tuna was the first occupant.

Tag Lines

Gag-writer George (Red) Corcoran mending at Queen of Angels hospital after suffering a ruptured appendix March 14 . . . Lance Sievking, visiting television director of the British Broadcasting Corporation, has taken an option on MBS-Don Lee television star and singer Betty Jane Rhodes for a possible summer program series in London . . . Dave Rose and Tom Satterfield have joined the arranging-staff of McGee's orchestra.

Marian Anderson Smashes Rule

Marian Anderson, colored diva, to whom the Daughters of the American Revolution recently would not rent their hall and thereby drew censure and a resignation from Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, innocently broke the only rigid rule governing "The Circle" when she appeared as guest March 12. The rule is that the audience must not applaud any performer. When Miss Anderson finished her first song, master-of-ceremonies Basil Rathbone sat still as if hypnotized and then suddenly jumped to the microphone when he realized that he was in charge of the broadcast. When she had sung her second number, the studio audience broke into thunderous applause that lasted several minutes . . . Wonder if the D. A. R. could do as well?

Keeping Up with the Bennys

Harry Baldwin, who ticked off his eighth year as secretary to Jack Benny on April 5, is one of the few secretaries who are signed to contracts; had his renewed for a year last week with a nice increase in salary. During his eight years with Jack, Harry figures they have covered 200,000 miles together and never missed a plane or train. In fact, Baldwin is so punctual that Benny sets his watch by Harry's arrivals. Besides his secretarial duties, Harry is somewhat of an actor. He's the "messenger" who is always interrupting Jack at an important moment in the program by entering and saying, "Telegram for Mr. Benny" . . . Jack splurged last week and threw a dinner at his home in honor of his newlywed writer, Bill Morrow. Served cracked crabs that were flown from San Francisco. Don Wilson followed suit a few nights later and dined the honeymooners.

Whatever your budget for movies, be sure to see Don Ameche in his new Paramount picture with Claudette Colbert, "Midnight." It's Don's FIRST real starring-role and he carries it the same way he used to toss off those "First Nighter" roles. In other words, your Hollywood correspondent approves of it highly.

SEX AND SWING

Then, while the Giant's music from "Das Rheingold" sounded loudly, he measured again. With music, he found, a man was twenty percent stronger.

During a six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden, another scientist made an experiment with and without music. He timed the bicyclists without music and found that they averaged eighteen and one-half miles per hour. Then he set the band to playing. The racers' speed picked up an additional mile per hour.

Now all of this has a direct bearing on sex and swing, as we shall see when we line up a few of the factors involved. Let's propound a few questions and seek their answers in the light of what we know music does to the body.

How does swing (jittermania) influence (1) posture, (2) consumption of alcoholic beverage, (3) self-consciousness, (4) physical well-being, (5) morals?

MY OWN answer would point out in summary that today's jitterbug dance demands that the dancer be athletic, and an athlete knows how (1) to stand and walk.

2. Alcohol is used as a stimulant ordinarily to work ourselves into an appropriate mood of pleasure and enjoyment; but since swing seems to do that job for jitterbugs, alcohol is not needed, and in fact becomes a liability since no one whose head is not clear can possibly do the jitter dances.

3. Jam sessions permit the most self-conscious girl or boy to lose himself in mob feeling. As one scholarly observer noted, "I have seen food riots and strikes, but I've never seen the mob mind working so beautifully. Note how they are all writhing in unison. Their screams are like the noise of excited goats."

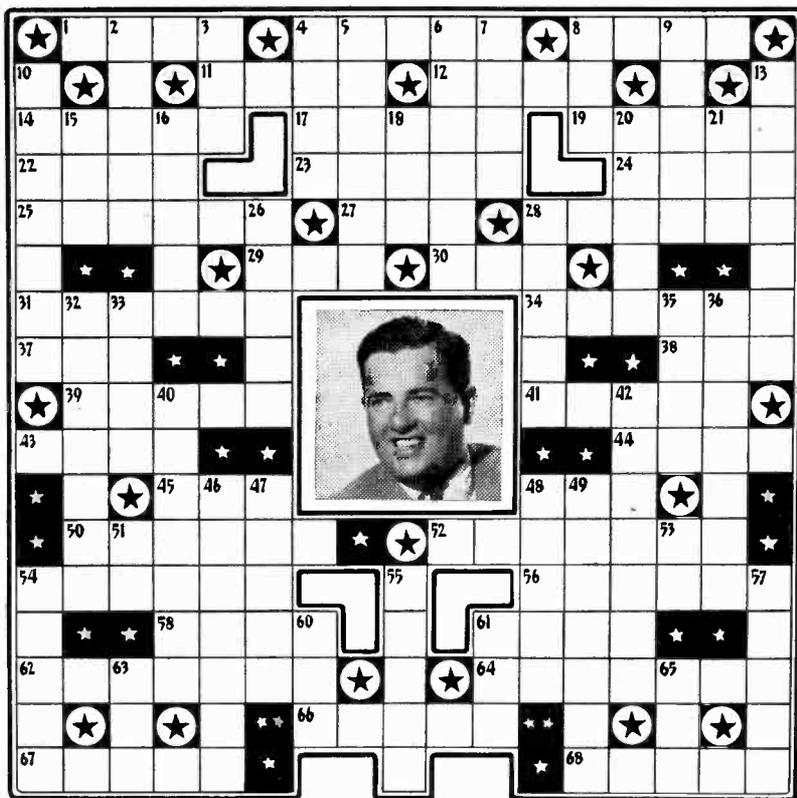

4. Their physical well-being is improved by the exercise unless the body is abused by too much exertion, and we know that music does give to their greater strength and energy, with less than usual fatigue, to enable them to stand what seems to us bystanders to be a prodigal and senseless expenditure of energy.

5. Morals. I ask you to go back to read the opening paragraphs of this article. I cited two statements from physicians against the dance, and two statements for it. But this one thing I did not tell you. I did not tell you that the two statements made against the dance were not made against today's athletic and strenuous jitterbug steps. They were made against a dance which the public has come to accept as beautiful and decorous and decent. Those statements were made twenty years ago about a sweet little dance called the Tango.

NO, I don't see much wrong with allowing boys and girls to get together in the energy-using romp that is called dancing today. What if they do sound like excited goats, what if they do clap and stomp and show their legs in cartwheel gyrations that are unorthodox to us older folk? They are healthy, and swing is helping them to stay that way.

One further thought: It occurs to me that I've never seen a modern girl dancing who was not properly and healthily clothed for whatever attitude into which her partner might swing her. In short, standard jitterbug equipment seems to be a pair of panties. Unfortunately, that's more than I can say for some of the ladies of my own generation.

Solution to Puzzle Given Last Week

SHE LIVES ALONE AND LIKES IT

They have no names, just turtles. She likes photography and picnics, and she enjoys talking.

She is genuinely fond of children. That "hospital complex" is not a fake. She really likes to make other people happy. Some say her love for children is pathetic, because she thinks she will never marry and have her own family.

She is not sensitive about such matters and is too intelligent and well-bred to treat such a matter lightly.

"I don't know if I'll ever marry or not," she said. "As a girl I had sweethearts. Puppy love, I suppose. They proposed to me. But in those days I thought only of singing, of making something of myself. And now that I have made something of myself, I don't know if it's too late or not.

"I am in a competitive business. I compete with men. If a woman becomes superior to men, she defeats herself. She loses the love of man that way. A man should be dominant always for real love."

Maybe I was wrong, maybe there wasn't a yearning in her voice. Maybe she does like to live alone.

Then she said, "I'd give up everything tomorrow if I found the man I loved. But I'd be sure. He'd have to love me for myself. I have money, yes. I would want to be sure he didn't want me for my wealth or fame. He'd have to want Kate Smith for Kate Smith, just as she is. Maybe some day he'll come along. If he does, I'll be very happy. I'll have to love him more than anything in the world. If I do, he's mine. But until he comes along, I'm doing all right."

up from Brooklyn to his show. Rudy Vallee guest-starred her, then brought her back for a repeat. She did so well that Rudy signed her for his own band, then playing Miami Beach. On her return, NBC took her in hand, gave her three programs a week to show her stuff. And then, one year ago, along came Whiteman. He needed a pianist-songstress for his program. He caught Joan's program and ten minutes later barged into the studio with a contract.

Obituary

It is with a huge lump in my throat that I write of the passing of Lydia Hall, the wife of orchestra-leader George Hall and one of our dear friends. Lydia was his constant companion and inspiration. She traveled with her husband all during his road tour, which started last May and ended two weeks ago. We saw them a few nights after they got in town, having a grand time at the opening of Ernie Holst's orchestra at the Belmont Plaza Hotel. George was scheduled to open at the Loew's State Theater the following Thursday and the Halls and Lewises made a date to have dinner one night between shows. The date was never kept because the lovable Lydia passed away the day before George was to start his theater engagement. The George Hall band played at the theater all that week without its regular pilot. Instead, the audience saw such grand friends as Ben Bernie, Guy Lombardo, Horace Heidt, Benny Meroff, Joe Rines, Sammy Kaye and many others who offered their services and acted as guest conductors. To you, George Hall, Ruth and I extend our heartfelt sympathy in your bereavement.

For the Benefit of Shut-Ins

I learned very definitely that the best fan a radio star has is a shut-in. I was invited to attend the annual affair given for the benefit of the patients at the Montefiore Hospital in New York. The stars of radio and stage were wildly cheered as they performed in the hospital's auditorium. Rubinoff played his violin like he never played before and had to come back for several encores. Before he started to play, he spoke to the patients and told them he was a shut-in for many months himself and therefore realized what that evening meant to them and that is why he was there. During the short intermission I met quite a number of the young patients, and I'm quite sure that Mr. George W. Hill, who sponsors the Lucky Strike programs, will be interested to learn that the "Hit Parade's" most ardent fan is a sightless lad by the name of Joseph Rosenberg. This youngster, who has been confined for five years, hasn't missed a broadcast since the program went on the air, and he called off the name of the hit tunes played on the previous week's program in order of their popularity in about five seconds. It was an evening well spent, because it made me extremely happy to see so many unfortunates made happy by many of your favorites.

In the last column, I wrote about the first Charlie McCarthy broadcast from New York and inferred that I didn't think it good radio entertainment for Don Ameche to tickle Dorothy Lamour while they were singing which caused them to break up. After I wrote that, I spent a couple of hours with Ameche and gave him my opinion of his action. Don explained the reason for it, for which he can be excused. Both Lamour and Donald Dickson were so nervous in front of the mike that they actually shook from head to foot. So, in order to take their minds off their nervousness, he started to tickle them. I also asked Ameche if he really got so much of a kick out of the little dummy to cause him to laugh so heartily during the broadcast after he had heard the same routine during rehearsal. Don assured me that his laughter was sincere and not affected. He went on to say that you can hear Bergen and McCarthy do their same bit three or four times and still get a big kick out of it, and what's more, Bergen says a lot of things during the broadcast for himself and Charlie that are not in the script, which makes it that much funnier. So there, Lewis, you big (s)Marty!

A couple of fellows by the names of Chet Lauck and Norris Goff were in Don Ameche's room while your reporter was present. The last time I saw them was about three years ago, when they were broadcasting from a little studio in Chicago's Drake Hotel. They haven't changed a bit since that time. They still wear the same size hat and are the same swell guys they were at that time. I've seen many a star who went out to the Coast "go Hollywood" in a big way—as they say—but apparently it hasn't affected these boys. I did notice one slight change, however, and that is their regular speaking voices have a slight resemblance to the voices of Lum and Abner that is so familiar to the listeners. I noticed it while we were swapping stories during lunch.

Kandid Comments

Every writer of the advertising commercials should listen to the clever way the commercials are introduced on the Fred Allen show . . . Three cheers for the condensed operas on the Radio City Music Hall airing on Sundays. It goes well with my bacon and eggs . . . The loudest and noisiest music these ears have ever heard is the kind Jan Savitt gives out from the Lincoln Hotel . . . All mothers and fathers should have their youngsters listen to Irene Wicker on Sundays, especially on April 9, when Miss Wicker will tell the story of the first Easter . . . "This Is New York" will be missed by many dialers . . . Connie Boswell should be on the air regularly . . . That fellow who appeared with Fred Allen as "the real Jack Benny" is Elmer Arthur, who was out on the Coast recently trying to get a radio job, but was unsuccessful.

Purely Personal

Attended a party the other night at which lovely Jane Froman met Bess Johnson, star of "Hilltop House," for the first time. After the greeting, Jane, who listens to "Hilltop House" regularly, pleaded with Bess to tell her what was going to happen in the next few scripts. It seems they are in the midst of an exciting sequence and Jane couldn't wait to find out . . . Paul Whiteman invited his entire gang to attend a performance of "Hellzapoppin'" last Monday night to help celebrate his birthday . . . "Bud" Collyer is having a lot of fun taking movies in color of his little daughter, Patricia. He's made movies of the baby almost every week from the time she was born, and they're plenty cute.

Mr. Keith Collard, Battle Creek, Mich.—Al Jolson was born in St. Petersburg, Russia. Ruby Keeler was born in Canada. Irene Rich was born October 13, 1891.

Mrs. Ray Carroll, Lead, S. D.—Molly Jordan (Molly McGee of "Fibber McGee") was not killed in an automobile accident. Mrs. Don Quinn, wife of Don Quinn who authors the Fibber McGee show, was killed in an auto accident last summer when the Quinns were driving to the West Coast. You must have these two people confused. Molly left the air due to being seriously ill, but plans to return to the program in the very near future.

Mrs. F. R. Betkey, Bridgewater, S. D.—Gilbert Faust takes the role of John in the radio serial, "Ma Perkins." In "Guiding Light," Ed Prentiss portrays Ned Holden.

Miss Margaret Chance, London, Ohio.—Nelson Eddy was born in Providence, Rhode Island, June 29, 1901, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Darius Eddy. He received his grammar-school education at the Rhode Island Normal; the remainder of his education was obtained in night school and from correspondence courses. His early ambition was to be either a doctor or a trap drummer. Eddy learned operatic arias from phonograph records. His first teacher was David Bispham. He also received instruction from William V. Vilonat and Dr. Edouard Lippe. His first stage appearance was in a society show, "The Marriage Tax," in 1922. Eddy sings in English, French, Italian, Spanish, Russian and Yiddish, but Wagnerian operas are his favorites. He was married to the former Mrs. A. D. Franklin, January 19, 1939.

Miss Rose Broger, Far Rockaway, N. Y.—Mr. Kuhne in "The Goldbergs" is played by Stephen Schnaible.

Miss Gertrude Karsten, Houston, Tex.—Uncle Ezra (Pat Barrett) does not really broadcast from a town named Rosedale. His broadcast comes from the NBC's studios in Chicago. Barrett, however, adapted all of his characters and a description of the mythical town of Rosedale from his home town. There is a town named Rosedale in southern Illinois which was named after Uncle Ezra's mythical Rosedale.

Carol Lynn, West View, Pa.—Betty Winkler was born in Berwick, Pennsylvania, April 19, 1914. She attended school in Akron, Ohio, Fort Wayne, Indiana, and Chicago, where she completed high school. She attended Western Reserve at Cleveland for a dramatic course and was soon offered a job with the Cleveland Players repertory company. Shortly after this she was auditioned for the role of Vivian in a sketch named "The Trial of Vivian Ware," which was being readied to take the air from WTAM, Cleveland. She obtained the part despite the fact that she had not recovered from an attack of influenza. Betty remained at WTAM for several months, then came to the NBC studios in Chicago. Her favorite hobbies are swimming, reading and theater-going. Betty is five feet three inches tall, has brown hair and eyes and weighs 107 pounds.
