I LISTEN TO EUROPE — YOU CAN LISTEN, TOO

This note from the editor tells how to get the most from your short-wave set

Modern broadcasting permits a radio station to throw its broadcasts like the beam of a searchlight. That is why the European programs beamed on U. S. are so amazingly clear

FOUR weeks ago, I would have scoffed at the notion that I might become a short-wave listener. Two radios in my home are equipped with short-wave bands, but those mysterious gadgets which trap words flung from Europe and Asia and South America remained mysterious.

Long ago, when the sets were new, I pressed the button marked "short waves" and fished for a station. My reward was cat-calls, whistles, and an asthmatic rendition of the "Peanut Vendor." If that was short-wave listening, I wanted none of it.

It took Hitler's war and a visit from Charles Morrison, RADIO GUIDE's own short-wave authority, to arouse my enthusiasm. That afternoon he went to my radio, pressed a button, spun the needle, and within thirty seconds I was sitting goggle-eyed on the edge of my chair. Here was Berlin in my front parlor. He moved the needle the tiniest fraction of an inch. I leaped in an eye-wink over the hundreds of miles to Paris. From that beginning, I went everywhere. You can go, too. Things are different from those other unsatisfactory days of attempted tuning. European stations are unbelievably powerful today. News in the English tongue is more plentiful. I have found that, if I tune in at the times indicated on our Short-Wave program page (page 16 of this issue), I get just as good results as when I listen to my local station.

Now, if I have been missing hours on end of wonderful listening, there must also be others. To those of you who have unused and silent short-wave bands on your radios, I urge another trial or a series of trials.

Here are suggestions:

Look first to your aerial. Each setmaker recommends some special design. Get it if you can. If you cannot, don't worry. I have a friend who uses a ten-foot wire hanging from a window.

Then learn your way around. Four half-inch spots on your short-wave dial are important. And only those four. Short waves embrace a tremendous territory. Go straight to the spot indicated, if you want results. Those spots are: 16-meter band, 25-meter band, 31-meter band. They are marked on your dial, probably colored, too, as 16 M or 25 M, etc.

There is no sense tuning for a station that isn't broadcasting. Our short-wave page names hours and programs. Consider these instructions also:

For Daylight Reception

England—GSG (17.79 megs) broadcasts from 5:45 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. EST.

Mid-Afternoon and Early Evening

England—GSP (15.31 megs) is in the air from 4:20 to 6:00 p.m. EST.
Germany—DJB (15.20 megs) broadcasts from 4:50 to 10:50 p.m. EST.
Russia—RV96 (15.18 megs) broadcasts from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. EST.

Late Afternoon and Early Evening

France—TPB11 (11.885 megs) 9:30 to midnight EST.
Italy—2R04 (11.81 megs) 7:30 to 9:00 p.m. EST.
Germany—DJD (11.77 megs) 4:50 to 10:50 p.m. EST.
England—GSD (11.75 megs) 6:20 to 9:15 p.m. and 9:40 to 11:30 p.m. EST.

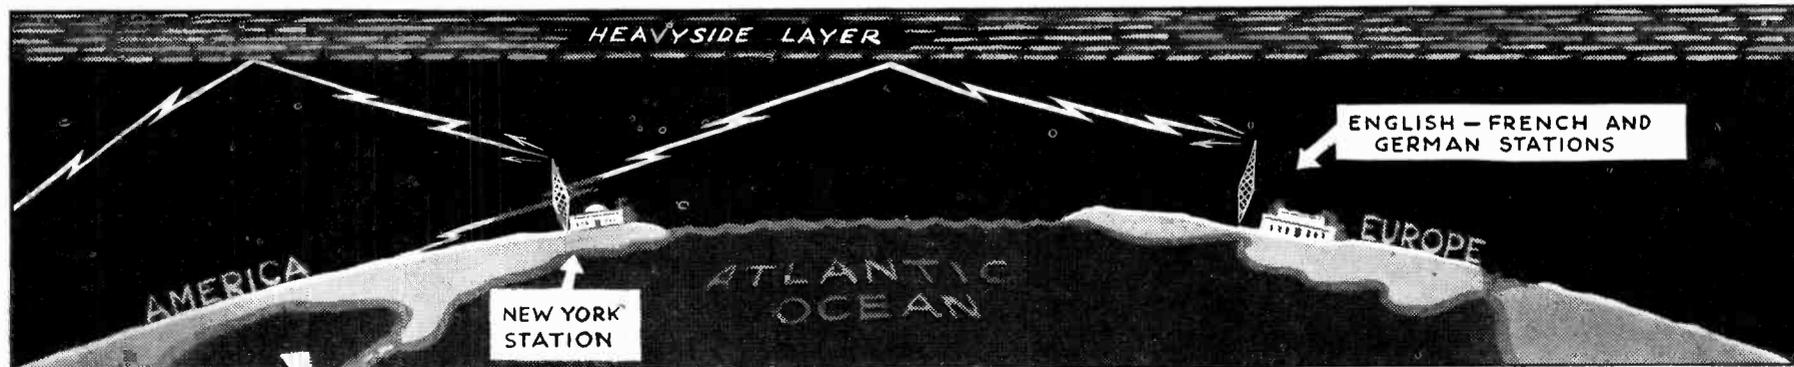

For Evening Hours

Italy—2R03 (9.63 megs) 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. EST.
England—GSC (9.58 megs) 9:40 to 11:30 p.m. EST.
England—GSB (9.51 megs) 9:40 to 11:30 p.m. EST.

There is a starter. Those stations provide news and entertainment that you never knew existed. It's all at your fingertips with a short-wave receiver. Won't you try it?—Curtis Mitchell.

The reason why American stations sound fainter than European broadcasts is that short waves rise high in atmosphere, bounce back, skipping area close to broadcaster. Below: European broadcast skips Atlantic, lands in U. S.

Charles Vallee, Rudy's father, Rudy Vallee, and his latest radio "discovery," Carmen Miranda, at final Vallee show

RUDY VALLEE SAYS GOOD-BY

On Thursday, Sept. 28, Rudy Vallee spoke these words to his radio public:

LET'S reminisce, ladies and gentlemen. Let's go back to Thursday evening, October Twenty-Fourth, Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-Nine. On that evening the first Vallee Hour went on the air. Commercial radio broadcasting was in its infancy. There was no certainty that programs were taken seriously. Radio City was not even dreamed of. There were no magnificent studios. That first Rudy Vallee Hour was performed in the basement of the Paramount Theater in Brooklyn.

And this is another Thursday evening, ten years and five hundred and eighteen broadcasts later. And it's still the Rudy Vallee Hour — at the same time, for the same sponsor . . . They were two extremes, these two Thursday evenings, one the beginning and the other the end. For this is the last Rudy Vallee Hour . . . This evening I end my association with my sponsor, Standard Brands, after ten years without interruption . . . The parting is regretted by both of us, and yet we know that a full decade is a long, long time, longer than any other partnership of this kind . . .

You may have heard that I am leaving radio completely, that I am going to devote my future to motion pictures and the stage. That, I assure you, is not the case. I was born, professionally speaking, in radio. I grew up with radio. As long as I feel that I can contribute something to radio, I will be in radio.

In leaving this particular niche which I've occupied for so long, I want to say to you, for your enthusiastic patronage of my sponsor's products, which has sustained this program for so many years—many thanks . . . to the new faces I have introduced to you and radio through the years, and whose success made my own success possible—many thanks. To the men and women who write the songs, and the men who publish them—because without their songs I could not be a singer—many thanks. To my writers and directors, to the engineers and technicians — many thanks.

As for the programs which replace the Vallee Hour, I highly recommend them to your attention.

My time has been your time for ten solid years, and it will be yours once more after my time has been my time for a little while.

This is Rudy Vallee bidding you all good night—till we meet again.

RADIO AND RATS Saturday, CBS

It looks like a hard winter for Egghead Elmer and Pete the Pineapple Planter. Edward G. Robinson, Mr. District Attorney, the Lone Ranger, Ellery Queen and other crusaders have been making life miserable on the air for criminals. Now the jig is up, for the "Gang Busters" are back to put law violators on the spot, the specific spot being on Saturday nights. The popular program, dramatizing actual police-file cases, has said that "crime does not pay" with real arrests of suspects, credited to the clues presented on the broadcasts. "Gang Busters" is back for its fourth year on the air.

LONG LIVE KING! Saturday, CBS

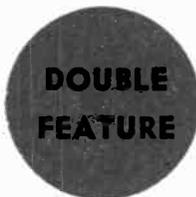

Swing may come and jazz may go, but waltzes go on forever! When the irresistible force of boogie-woogie struck, Wayne King's orchestra stood firm as the immovable Gibraltar. The Waltz King, always pretty much of a lone eagle, didn't go around shouting against the new order, but simply went calmly on weaving his sweet, soothing music, because he thought there was more than ever a place for it. Loyal listeners responded by voting Wayne's orchestra top honors in RADIO GUIDE's 1939 popularity poll. All this is by way of telling you that Wayne is back this week with a new commercial program. Romantic baritone Buddy Clark will be soloist, and Franklyn MacCormack will furnish the narrating voice keyed to the smoothness of King's music. Don't miss this warm, new show.

WAR ON DIVORCE Sunday, NBC

Too often today the stately strains of the "Wedding March" bring a discordant echo in the words "I want a divorce." We deplore the divorce evil as we do the depression, but there has been confusion as to just what to do about both. Radio has an approach which at least contributes some helpfulness. At least it has won the approval of clergymen and social workers, while attracting popular plaudits for weaving forceful lessons into interesting stories. "I Want a Divorce" is the straight-to-the-point title of the program. It presents complete real-life dramas, revealing common-sense solutions to problems frequently resulting in divorce. The series has been a favorite of West Coast listeners for two years. Now it is extending its sphere of domestic influence throughout the country. This absorbing and worthwhile series deserves your listening.

GRACIE SOBERS Sunday, CBS

They do say that every serious actor wants to be a comedian and every comic wants to play Hamlet. Whether or not Gracie Allen has suppressed a desire all these years to play a Hepburn martyr or a Robson character part is open to debate. So is the question as to whether her serious acting beats her reverse mental capers. You may settle the question for yourself, if you'll listen to this week's Screen Guild production. For the first time in fifteen years Gracie gets a chance to play a serious part in a heavy play. Appearing with her will be James Cagney, young Gloria Jean, and of course George Burns.

KERN'S LATEST Monday, CBS

Have you often, like Andrew H. Brown, sunged to yourself in low, rolling tones "Ol' Man River"? Have you sung yourself into a mood with "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" or regaled your lovesickness with "The Way You Look Tonight"? If you have — and the chances are that you have — then you know that Jerome Kern is one of America's greatest writers of popular show-music. Those mentioned are only a few of the hits he has penned since he wrote his first score for a musical comedy, "The Golden Widow," in 1903 at the age of eighteen. His latest work is entitled "Too Warm for Me." You can hear it given an understanding interpretation this Monday night by Andre Kostelanetz on "Tune-Up Time," and you can measure it then alongside your other Kern favorites.

ALWAYS NEWS Tuesday, NBC

"Information, Please" has set such a consistently high standard that perhaps it isn't news any week to announce the special guests. And then again, maybe it's news every week. Anyhow, two illustrious personalities who should fit into the scheme join Fadiman, Kieran and Adams this week. Deems Taylor, one of our foremost musical figures, and Louis Untermeyer, one of our most prominent poets, should ring the bell, since the program invariably contains numerous questions in those two fields. They should furnish lively supplements to Kieran's knowledge of Shakespeare and other classical literature and F. P. A.'s mental file of especially old-time songs.

WE WHO WERE NOT

"We, the People" told these stories—
stories to be marveled at, remembered

THE girl poised for an instant on the railing of the George Washington Bridge before hurtling herself down, down into the dark, rippling waters below. And in that instant a young man, hovering in the shadows, rushed out and, after a sharp struggle, succeeded in pulling her back onto the bridge. Then the police came and took her away.

But there was an almost O. Henry-ish aftermath to the affair. It came a few weeks later when that same young man stood before a microphone on "We, the People" and addressed a plea to the young lady he had saved and whom he knew only as "Eve."

"Eve," he said, "if you are listening in, I want to tell you that you saved my life as I saved yours. I was on the bridge that night for the same purpose that brought you there. I was desperate, penniless, half crazy. Even as we struggled, I was fighting an insane desire to topple over the railing with you. But suddenly I knew that I must keep on fighting for my happiness as I was fighting for your life. Eve, because of you I have made a new start. I am finding happiness, but that happiness will not be complete until I find you. With all my heart, I want to help you as you helped me."

There, in a few brief words spoken by one of its guests, we have the success formula of "We, the People." It is not alone that those who appear on it have human, moving tales to tell. In most cases—as in this—what they have to say is enriching, inspirational, bringing a warm message of encouragement to millions who may need such a message. With this young man, the important thing was not that he had saved another human's life so much as the great lesson he had learned—that no man lives unto himself and that true happiness comes from helping others.

A SHORT while ago, RADIO GUIDE published an article by James Street about the people who did NOT get on "We, the People." (See issue for week ending August 25.) This article has to do with a few of the people who, because they have helped to make the world a better place in which to live by some simple but heroic act, have appeared on this program.

It was early spring along the Rappahannock River, in Tidewater, Virginia, as Pierce D. Kelly and his sixteen-year-old son, Don, sat on the bank fishing for croakers. Mr. Kelly's leg, recently broken, was encased in a heavy plaster cast. Suddenly a fish struck Don's line, swept it out of his hand and left it twisted on a stake in the middle of the stream.

"Dad, I'm going to swim out and get that line," he said, stripping off his clothes.

"The water's still pretty cold, Don.

Do you think you can make it?"

"Sure. Here goes." And with powerful strokes he was making his way towards the stake. But as he swam, the stake seemed to get farther and farther away. The icy water numbed his body, tired his arms. With his last ounce of strength he managed to reach the stake and hold on.

From the shore he could hear his father urging him to hang on. Some men had already gone for a boat. But he couldn't hang on. The water seemed to be freezing his very blood. So, tired, half frozen, he started back. He remembered shouting, "Dad! Dad! I can't make it!" And then his father's voice, from so far away:

"Keep your head up, Don! I'm coming out for you!"

Let's hear the climax of this story from Don's own lips, just as he told it to radio listeners when he appeared on "We, the People" a short time later:

"I'll never know how Dad reached me with that heavy cast on his broken leg. But somehow he did . . . just in time. Together we began to fight our way back to shore, gasping, struggling. For what seemed like hours, Dad fought to keep us both afloat. Then, when it seemed that we were both about to go down, I heard him take a deep breath and go under. I felt his arms around my legs, holding me up. That's all I remember. When I came to, I was lying on the shore. My dad lay near me. I was told that Dad had stood on the bottom of the river and with the last of his strength had kept my head above water. He had died to save my life . . ."

War, with all of its banners and music, has never produced a more beautiful, a more magnificent and heroic feat than this, the story of a courageous father who died that his son might live. There are other heroes of peace who have found their way to the microphone on this program. There was the quiet, lasting heroism of Mrs. Jasper Burford of Abilene, Texas, for example.

Many years ago Mrs. Burford stood in her weather-boarded farmhouse near Abilene and heard the doctor say that her three children were losing their eyesight, would soon be hopelessly blind. But Mrs. Burford didn't know the meaning of the word hopeless. The doctor and the school authorities insisted that the best place for them was the State School for the Blind, where they would be assured of an education.

"Can't we send them to a private school here at home?" she begged her husband. "Then I can help them in the evenings, let them see through my eyes. You can let the hired man go and I'll do his work."

"Well, if you think you can—"

So, during the long days—and over the long years—Mrs. Burford did the chores, and in the evenings she worked with her children, teaching them to see through her eyes. A short time ago the president of Abilene Christian College, at commencement, called Leonard Burford to the platform to receive his diploma. Then, while the assemblage looked on in amazement, he called Mrs. Burford, now gray and worn, to the front.

"Mrs. Burford, we know how proud you must be of your son. But we, at Abilene College, are just as proud of you . . . and it is with great pleasure that we confer upon you an honorary degree of Bachelor of Arts . . ."

For her lasting, quiet kind of courage, Mrs. Burford was being honored. But somehow I think she must have felt even more honored when she tuned in her radio a few months ago to hear her son, Leonard, broadcast on "We, the People."

"And so my mother was honored with a degree of Bachelor of Arts. But my sister, my brother and I feel that she can never receive enough honor. That is why I am here tonight. I think Mother's example will inspire people all over America—people who are in trouble, people who are up against apparently hopeless circumstances . . . Mabel is now a teacher of music. Jack is carrying on my father's dairy farm. I am director of the department of music at Abilene College . . ."

VARIOUS benefactors of mankind have appeared on this program, which presents a cross-section of American life. And not the least of these benefactors was one Col. Arthur P. Watts, U. S. A., Retired, of Dallas, Texas. For Colonel Watts was the inventor of short underwear. To a vast and interested audience he told how, while stationed in the Philippines a great many years ago, he had bought cloth for underwear and had taken it to a native sewing woman to be made up. But, alas, he found that he had not bought enough. So, in this emergency, he told the seamstress to leave out the arms and legs.

When his regiment was being transported back to the States, the sun beat mercilessly down upon the decks of the ship and Colonel Watts, in his sleeveless and legless underwear, sneaked out on deck for a bit of air. He became the butt of many jests, but when the ship reached San Francisco the regiment's commandant borrowed his "razzle-dazzle" underwear . . . so that he could have some made like it! Soon short underwear was sold everywhere.

Sometimes gentle pathos is mingled with laughter as guests tell their stories on the air. And this was the case with Henry Sorrentino, eleven-year-old New York youth who had known only the hot city streets until, one wonderful week-end, he became a guest at the hundred-room French chateau which

FORGOTTEN

BY LORRAINE THOMAS

Otto Kahn erected on Long Island.

Henry, you see, was the son of a street-cleaner or—to use his descriptive phrase—a “white wing.” And a short time ago the New York street-cleaners bought the chateau as a weekend resort for its members. Henry saw his first apple tree, his first golf course, his first—but let’s let Henry tell you:

“Out there it’s like Coney Island. Chee! Ice cream, soda pop, hot dogs, hamburgers. Boy, did I eat! But at supper there was so many spoons and forks on the table I didn’t know how to begin. They told me to eat like I was at home. So I picked up the chicken leg with my fingers. Chee! It was poifect!”

On a hot July day in San Francisco, Mrs. Margaret Carr—white-haired old lady—learned that she was about to die. There was one debt that she wanted to repay. “Reverend Harding has been my pastor for many years,” she told her daughter and the doctor. “He has helped me a lot. Now I want to repay him.” She told the doctor of her strange bequest.

LATER, when Margaret Carr died, the doctor called upon the Reverend Harding, who had been blind for forty-three years.

“When Margaret Carr died,” the doctor said, “she left you her eyes. It’s one chance in a thousand that the operation will be successful, but if you want to take that chance, we’ll try to remove the lifeless cornea which causes your blindness and graft on the healthy cornea from her eyes.”

And so the Reverend Harding stood before the microphone and told of this strange bequest and its results.

“... Today, after forty-three years, I see the world through the eyes of a woman who has passed into the Great Beyond. Surely her gift is worth all the silver and gold in the world. I pray to God that her example will inspire others to do as she has done—leave a part of themselves to help others who remain.

“The medical world calls it a scientific miracle. I can only explain it as a minister of God in the words of the blind man who was cured of his blindness by the Hand of the Lord and explained it to the Pharisees thus: ‘One thing I know. That whereas I was blind, now I see.’”

Just before Christmas in 1936, a car roared to a halt before a bank in Crawford, Ga., and two men leaped out, rushed into the bank, held it up, escaped with a sack of money. A few hours later, Frank Cartee, visiting in that neighborhood, was arrested when police found a squirrel-gun in his car and he was haltingly identified as one of the robbers. He was quickly tried, found guilty, sentenced to twelve years in the Atlanta penitentiary.

His wife, sick in bed when told of his conviction, immediately telephoned him, learned that at the hour the crime was being committed she and Frank had been with friends many miles away. She got affidavits from these friends and, having no money, hitch-hiked to Atlanta and presented them to the warden.

“He’s had a fair trial, was positively identified,” the warden told her and refused even to examine the affidavits.

Mrs. Cartee never gave up. She knew that Frank was not a robber and she was determined to prove his innocence. So she hitch-hiked to Crawford, lived in an abandoned truck there, ate stale bread from the bakery while she sought out the eye-witnesses, finally finding one who had seen the robbers. Frank’s description did not fit either one. But the police still refused to reopen the case, although she stayed on and on and day after day renewed her plea. Now let’s hear the rest of the story from Mrs. Cartee, as she told it to radio listeners a short while back:

“One night I was sitting in a filling-station to keep warm when I heard over the radio there’d been a hold-up at Lavonia, Ga. From the description I was sure it was the same gang. According to the radio, they had escaped towards Spartanburg, S. C. So I hitch-hiked there, told my story, talked to people. Finally one day a man told me that he knew whom I was looking for from my description. I went to the police and told them what I’d found out. They arrested the man and he confessed to both hold-ups.

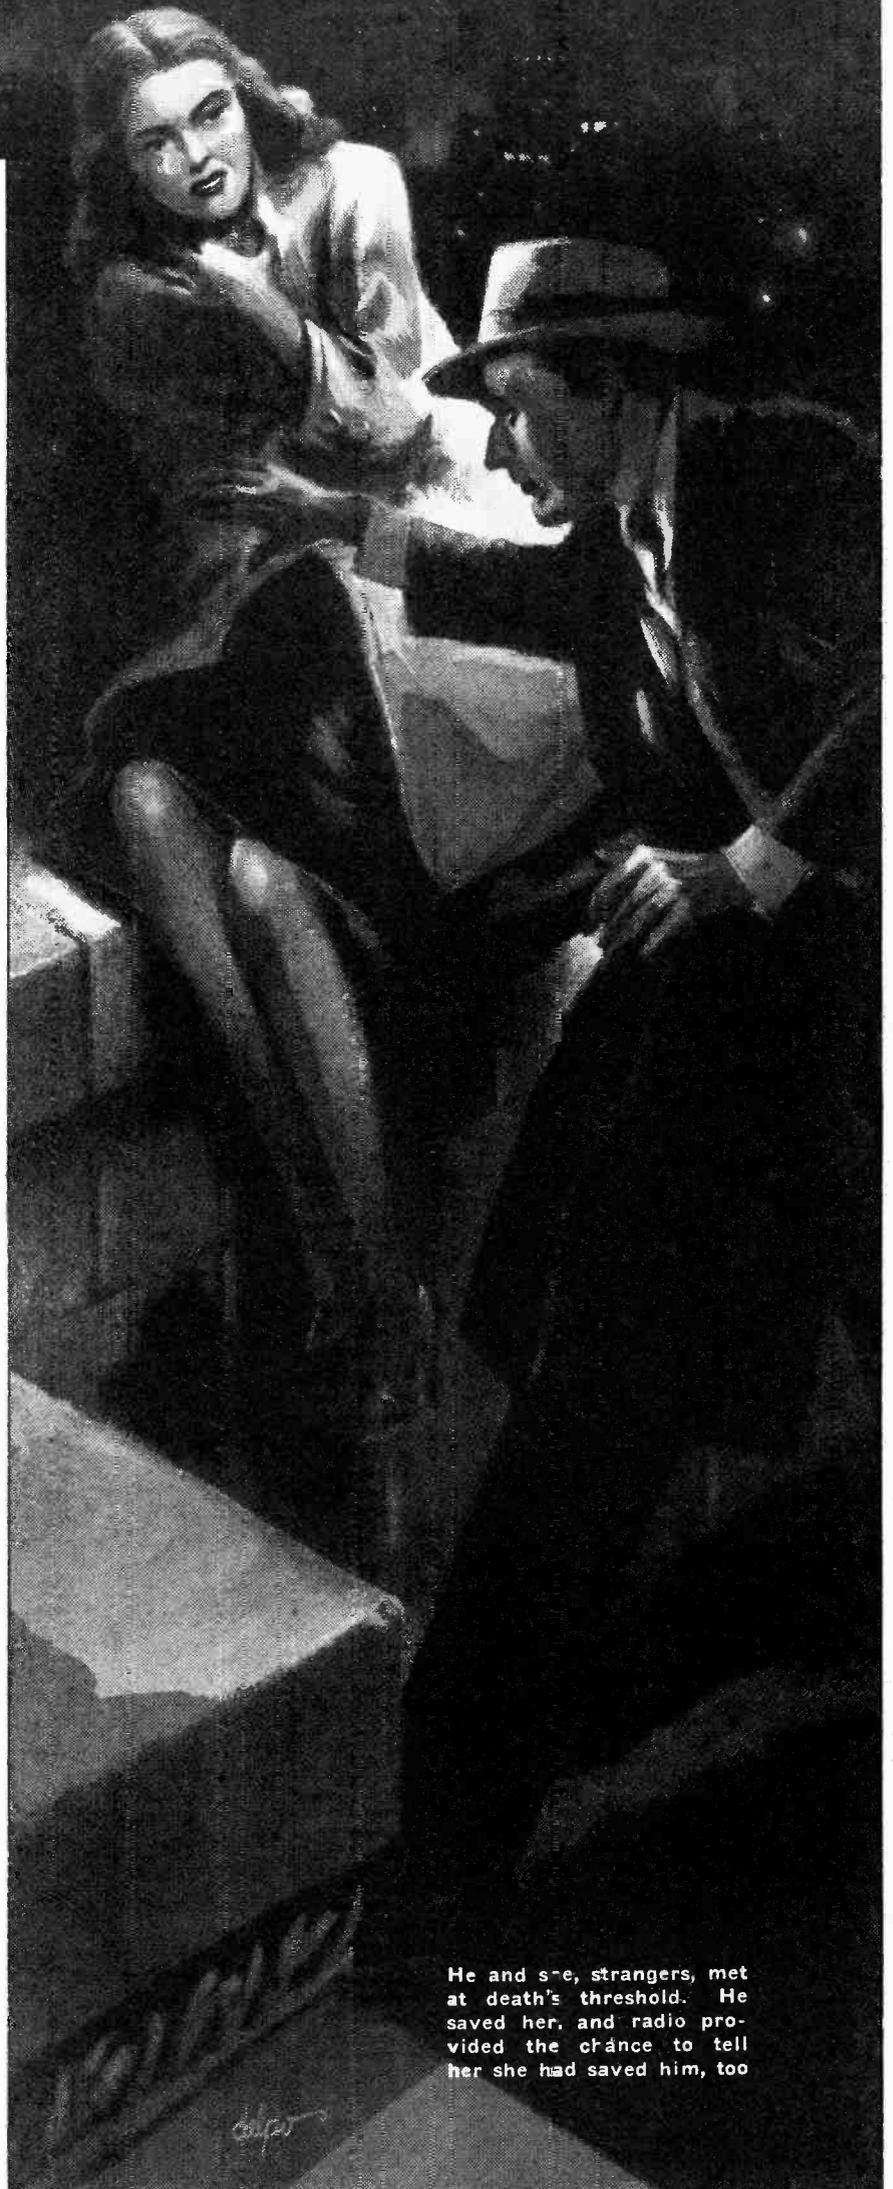

“But there was still a lot of legal red tape to go through. As the months passed and they still kept Frank in jail, I decided I couldn’t wait any longer. I thumbed my way to Washington to see the President. A few weeks ago, Frank got a full pardon from President Roosevelt.”

THIS was all amazing enough—this tale of continuing faith and determination which ended, after two long years, in victory. But the tale becomes even more amazing when we learn that Mrs. Cartee, crippled since childhood by infantile paralysis, went everywhere on crutches in her search for clues.

These are the people who have not been forgotten—brave, courageous people who gird themselves in the armor of faith and go forth to battle with white banners flying. They come from all parts of the land, from every stratum of society, and their lone badge of distinction is this: “We have left some little corner of this earth a better place because we have lived there.” It is well that such people as these should be remembered.

The bandleader told me he has received twenty-eight letters to date offering to split 50-50 with him if he'll call their telephone number. Sorry, folks, it's literally the wheel of fortune in the studio that spins and selects the numbers to be called . . . Several readers have written to this department stating that "We want Cantor." There's nothing definite about his return to the air.

Milton Berle is really working overtime these days. He's playing in the show "See My Lawyer," has his weekly radio show to worry about, and appears nightly for the supper show at the International Casino on Broadway. In his spare time he has been writing songs, his latest being "Let's Start All Over Again" . . . Katherine Cravens, former CBS commentator, is taking a course at N. Y. U. in special-feature writing . . . For the third consecutive year, Lucille Manners has been appointed chairman of the radio committee for the sale of Xmas seals.

Artie Shaw's Farewell

There's been quite a discussion along Radio Row regarding Artie Shaw's departure from the Old Gold ciggie program. Several reasons were given, such as not being happy about the fact that he had to read comedy lines on the program, pointing out that he was a swing bandleader and not a comedian; the program switching to a Saturday night spot late in November with a repeat broadcast, which would make it necessary for him to leave the Pennsylvania Hotel, where he opened October 18, twice on the busiest night of the week. He also claims he needs a rest, and leaving the program enabled him to take a thirteen-day vacation before he opened at the hotel spot. It was vigorously denied that his departure was caused by his recent blasts against the intelligence of jitterbugs.

An Open Letter to Fred Allen's Sponsor

For years this writer has been a loyal listener and booster of the Fred Allen program. If I wasn't in the studio for the dress rehearsal each Wednesday afternoon, I was at the broadcast that night. In other words, the program was one of my favorites. For this reason I feel it my duty as a radio reporter to let you know the new program with its guest star and quiz spot has fallen far below the Allen standard. Mind you, this is not only my opinion but also that of many others to whom I've spoken.

When it was first announced that the program would have a change in format, I couldn't understand how it could be greatly improved. It's no secret to me that Allen wasn't pleased with your decision and unsuccessfully fought against the change. As a first-row, first-seat observer during the first program, I could sense that your star comic did not have his heart in the program, which makes for an unhealthy situation for everyone concerned, including the listeners. I would much prefer visiting Town Hall each Wednesday night and hearing Allen give us the "Town Hall News" and have us meet the person we didn't expect to meet.

The Professor's faux pas

The prize faux pas of the new radio season was made by Prof. Quiz on his broadcast of October 6. He was absolutely wrong, but absolutely, and I'll bet his face was plenty red. He stated the winners would each receive a jar of Noxema—instead of a bottle of his new sponsor's product, "Teel." Bob Trout just about screamed into the microphone to correct the Professor. He signed off by saying, "Good night, Professor, GOOD NIGHT, INDEED," and I'll bet they were both glad the program was over. I would love to have heard what the sponsor said to Quiz the next time he spoke to him.

Another radio mishap took place in Chicago on Sunday, October 8, during the Ellery Queen broadcast. It came at the most crucial period of the program. Just as the murderer was to be announced, something happened to WBBM's transmitter and the station went off the air for three minutes. For the next hour the WBBM telephone switchboard was flooded with calls from listeners who wanted to know the identity of the murderer. My brother-in-law, who wrote and told me about it, thought his radio had gone on the blink and almost wrecked it in disgust.

Behind the Scene

Incidentally, if you're a regular listener to this program, you may recall that Nikki, secretary to Ellery Queen, was urged to take a vacation, as she had been working too hard and needed a rest. That was their way of writing her out of the script so that she and George Zachary, producer of the show, could get married and go on a honeymoon . . . During a recent Walter O'Keefe program, songstress Mary Martin yelled at the comic, "Put down that copy of Variety and stop crying." He replied, "You'd cry too if you read what I did." The listeners probably didn't get the significance of that remark, but what O'Keefe referred to was a very uncomplimentary review of his program. One feature of O'Keefe's program which is unquestionably a wow is his champion sneezer, Hildegard Halliday, who once sneezed for Fred Allen.

Donald Novis, tenor of "Fibber McGee and Molly" (NBC, Tuesday nights), was once a sailor and is still a pretty tough guy. During Hollywood's recent heat wave he didn't do a Ghandi strip as most male radio stars, but did unbend enough to loosen tie and collar

HOLLYWOOD SHOWDOWN

Donald Novis relaxes; Nelson Eddy departs from coffee show; Don Wilsons to separate

By Evans Plummer

HOLLYWOOD.—Off live mikes! . . . Nelson Eddy will leave the "Chase and Sanborn Hour" on November 5. Reason: Eddy is too high-priced at six thousand dollars weekly. Donald Dickson may replace him . . . As headlined here exclusively last week, Don Ameche is off the air and movie lots for an eight-week rest in a hide-away, and maybe Rudy Vallee will pinch-hit for Ameche during the last four weeks.

The five-week-old home of Tony Martin and Alice Faye caught fire in their absence October 7, but flames were brought under control in time to save most of the house and furnishings.

That Ken Baker, who recently hit the papers with his divorce and child-custody case, is the orchestra-leader and not Kenny Baker, the Texaco tenor . . . Don Wilsons have drawn up and signed a friendly separation agreement. Divorce will follow. The Wilsons have been married twelve years . . . Yep, the song of "Teeny" (Marian Jordan, alias Molly McGee) on the October 3 edition of Fibber's show was her first during the run of the Johnson's Wax program . . . Fannie (Baby Snooks) Brice's favorite story is O. Henry's "Ransom of Red Chief," the yarn about the brat who so heckled his kidnapers that they paid off to get rid of him! . . . Irene Noble Ryan, Tim's ex-partner but still so in real life, made good her first airing and will continue to foil Ken Murray on that Wednesday night CBS series . . . That new NBC Grouch Chub mikeman, Art Baker, began his vocal career as a lecturer about art and tombs at Forest Lawn Cemetery! . . . Gene Autry's Republic film "Rovin' Tumbleweeds" has been retitled "Washington Cowboy" . . . October 27 has been set as "Voice of Experience Day" at the San Francisco Fair.

Benny and Company Return

Tenors galore, including Alan Jones, and top-cream celebrities numbering Dennis O'Keefe in their midst, turned out October 8 to welcome Jack Benny to the air—and watch new discovery Dennis Day's work. The latter did not disappoint. Jack admonished Dennis before the broadcast, "Don't be nervous. I'm not," and then Benny collapsed (for a laugh) on the studio floor. After knocking his studio audience "dead," at the close of the show Day received a long-distance call from his family in New York congratulating him. In all, he spoke to twenty-four relatives in five minutes! Day is a likable-looking fellow—with earmarks not unlike "Dopey" of "Snow White" cartoon film fame. Benny would have you believe, for fun's sake, that Dennis is but nineteen years of age, but he's really twenty-two . . . Laughs of the premiere were supplied by the new NBC usher who asked Mary Livingstone Benny for a ticket to the broadcast—and the hat "Rochester" (Eddie Anderson) wore. It was a black sports felt with red cord band and bright yellow "shaving brush" decoration!

Rom-Antics and Such

Betty Grable returned from her 10-week personal-appearance tour to wind up her marital affairs with Jackie Coogan—and the same train bore Artie Shaw, rumored Coogan successor, to Hollywood for his Old Gold airings . . . Frank Parker declares his intentions are serious with Edna Johnson, the lovely New Yorker he escorted to Ray Noble's Beverly Wilshire opening . . . Mary Jane Barnes, the blond singing actress who was brought here by the CBS "Gateway to Hollywood" talent quest and is now warbling over NBC, has added a new sparkle to the eyes of Bill Thompson. That worthy, by the way, is now billed on the Fibber McGee show after nearly five years—but all that time you've been hearing him as "Old Timer," "Horatio K. Boomer" and "Nick Depopolus." Donald Novis, popular tenor of the McGee company, came through Hollywood's heat spell with flying colors compared to other stars, and at that was shouldering new responsibilities with recent addition—a baby daughter—to his family.

DeMille's Favorite Play

When Lux Radio Theater presented "If I Were King" October 16, it brought fond memories to Cecil B. DeMille. In 1902, about two months after C. B. had married Constance Adams and almost exactly 37 years ago, DeMille and his bride were cast in the leading roles of the road-show company of "If I Were King." They toured the country and in 1903 reached Los Angeles for the first time in either of their lives. Eight or nine years later, when Broadway show business began to wane and a Hollywood picture deal was offered DeMille, he recalled his visit in 1903 and talked it over with his missus. Their visit in 1903 had left a good impression, so they went westward ho! . . . So while reminiscing, consider May ("Bubbles" Kelly) Myers. As Bubbles, she's Gracie Allen's "new" girl friend. Matter of fact, it was the same May Kelly, then in vaudeville with Kelly and Swift, who in 1924 introduced Gracie to George Burns, promoted her into George's act, and later sold Gracie on accepting Burns' proposal! She even stood up for the couple at their wedding in Cleveland.

Quick, McCarthy, the Script!

Edgar Bergen has gone into production at Universal making the next of his pictures there entitled "Charlie McCarthy, Detective." But Bergen was airing his movie troubles. "I'm told I don't cooperate. They say I haven't read the story . . . So I cooperate. I ask for the story to read—and they haven't written it yet!" . . . Eddie is the most cooperative gent in these somewhat dizzy parts. In fact, the other day, the publicity department of the NBC network here tendered him a luncheon and a scroll attesting to his election in that group's "Favorite People Club."

Backstage Goings On

At Lux for "The Sisters": Irene Dunne, arriving without pocketbook and having to borrow a quarter to pay the parking attendant. Mel Ruick, the mikeman, obliged . . . Which reminds that Mel is Melville Ruick in the Thursday night (11:30 p.m. CST) Union Oil operetta series over KNX and the CBS Pacific network only . . . At "Big Town" October 3: Soundman Claude Thorson grew too enthusiastic in creating a chair-crash-over-head effect, and, slamming a stool on his own cranium, split his scalp open for a knockout. "Ooh," commented tough-guy Edward G. Robinson, "take him into the wings. I can't bear the sight of blood!" Publicity man Gene Gach did, and held Thorson's scalp together until a doctor arrived.

Loretta Young's first script reading for her Silver Theater appearance was staged during the heat wave in her swimming-pool—with Conrad Nagel directing from an inner-tube float!

Joe Penner's Ward Tip Top premiere off October 5 to a snappy start—except for a New York switchover for an interview testimonial from Dick Merrill. They can leave out those "lull" plugs for our money. Penner's new series marks the return of maestro Jacques Renard to the air.

THE VOICE OF THE LISTENER

$1.00 will be paid to the writer of every letter used in this department. Readers, express your opinions, write to V. O. L., 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Illinois

The Way of the Cross

Dear V. O. L.:

Please accept our thanks for the manner in which our story was presented in your issue of Sept. 29. It seems only fair to acquaint you with the public reaction to the skilled handling of our case, so we wish to inform you we have been advertising for typists to help us with our mail, giving preference, of course, to invalids who can type.

We sort the letters into six piles: Potential customers for large, medium and small orders for the "Prayer Reminders," congratulatory letters, those asking for more information, and the sixth pile—that's the little one, scarcely a hundred letters, but it's likely there is not another such collection in the world. It represents the cry of terror from the newly doomed!

All letters received are being answered personally, but we hesitate on that sixth pile. We don't know just what to tell them. We think, however, we'll tell them all that three months after the zero stretch has passed that we want to hear from them again. A popular statement around here is that "You are supposed to be dead three months before you can get a job with the Borrowed Timers." This time stipulation is apparently prolonging one man's life; he's sealing envelopes for us right now.

Each of these stricken people who writes us will receive one of our "Prayer Reminders" and have their attention called to Tennyson's "More things are wrought of prayer than this world dreams of."

Thank you again for the big boost you gave us.

Guyer D. Thomas, Pres.,
The Borrowed Timers,
Ellensburg, Wash.

● Here's another boost for those valiant Borrowed Timers, happily and usefully living past their time to die. If you haven't read their story, which appeared in our Sept. 29 issue, we suggest you do so. Theirs is one of the most dynamic stories we have ever heard of. Notice their address. They appreciate letters, whether you buy one of their clever little "Prayer Reminder" cross symbols or not.—V. O. L.

Volume One

Dear V. O. L.:

With all the improvements being made in radio, it does seem as though something could be done about volume control.

Just as I get settled with the radio adjusted for speaking, it will suddenly blare out with music. Why is it the control engineers don't arrange to let the music come through with volume in keeping with that of a speaking voice? Why should we listeners have to wear out our nerves and patience and the volume-control knob keeping the levels that should be regulated on the other end? This, I believe, is one of the most glaring defects of broadcasting.

Roy C. Slye, Richmond, Va.

● We think so, too, and have often uttered condemnations of "jumper-upper" programs, those that force the listener to keep hopping up and down to keep the volume regulated between moderate speech and blaring music. The best way to get such things corrected is to keep writing to the networks.—V. O. L.

Volume Two

Dear V. O. L.:

If radio is a great agency for good, it also has a high nuisance potentiality. If there is any one thing that proves to me the desirability of living in the country, it is having to live in city apartment buildings where every family's noise is every other family's poison. Radios inconsiderately tuned to blatant volume rank close to domestic quarrels and party revelry as such sources of annoyance.

I like radio and I have a radio and I listen often, but if I have one virtue I think it is the ability to recognize the other fellow's rights, in addition to those of "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

And I hereby plead through V. O. L.

for less vol. on the radios in apartment buildings and other close quarters.

Fred N. Melane, New York, N. Y.

● Give an ear to Mr. Melane. He speaks "volumes."—V. O. L.

Shut-In Corner

Dear V. O. L.:

Of my long-time-invalid pastimes, my favorite is reading with a musical program coming from my radio. But programs suitable for this pastime are rare and of short duration. I have dreamed of programs that might be named, "Background for Reading," or "Music to Read By." Long, uninterrupted stretches of sweet, nonintrusive music—impractical, impossible dreams I know. But I've had experience that have encouraged these dreams. For instance:

One day I was reading "Ecstasy" by Louis Couperus. A romantic portion caused me to think that the reading of it should be accompanied by the music of "Romance," by Rubenstein. To my delighted surprise, on the heels of my thought came from my radio the tender strains of the "Romance." Then, believe it or not, reading on I came upon these words: "Listen!" said Cecile. "What are they playing?" "Something of Rubenstein's, I believe," he said. Then came the memory of Jules playing the piano, of Rubenstein's "Romance," of the ecstasy of his fantasia—the glittering rainbows and the souls turning to angels."

I suppose it doesn't require much to give us becalmed folks a thrill, but, believe me, no one appreciates the radio like a shut-in.

Freda Carlson, 2341 Denmark St., Muskegon, Mich.

● Experiences like this are like striking gold in prospecting around the dial. And ideas like this are worth consideration by program producers. Have you had such an experience or such an idea? If so, tell us about it.—V. O. L.

A Matter of Platters

Dear V. O. L.:

I, for one, am glad to see recorded music coming back into its own. I used to be associated with a medium-sized local station, and I know from experience how stations which use recordings were—and perhaps still are—scorned by the higher-ups. I know, too, that the public goes for such programs in a big way. I think those higher-ups are forced to realize it now. The biggest stations now use recorded music freely and find it very popular.

Maybe many other listeners besides myself are becoming a bit overstuffied with colossal comedy and variety and are consequently losing the edge of their appetite for such rich food.

Roy C. Weimer, Topeka, Kan.

Guide for Guide

Dear V. O. L.:

Here is a suggestion for radio fans to get the most out of their Radio Guide each week. I sit down while listening to a program and begin at the first day's program section marking those shows I wish to hear with a circle around the time and a line running to the particular program, underscored. Then at a glance I can run down the list as marked and see at once the ones I prefer at any time. At the end of the week my Guide is pretty much marked up, but I seldom miss the specially desired programs.

Mary Larkin Cook, Anderson, Ind.

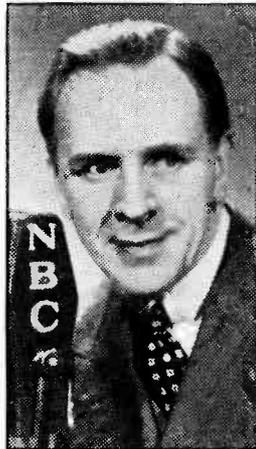

● We have found the same a good idea.—V. O. L.

Serial Lesson

Dear V. O. L.:

I listen to all the serials, and I think they are swell. But when it comes to a choice of a favorite, I have to pick "Guiding Light," with its Dr. Ruthledge. This is because I truly believe there is a destiny that makes us brothers. None goes his way alone. All that we send into the lives of others comes back into our own. I believe if everyone would live by that last line, we would all be much more considerate of our fellow men and make ourselves much happier. So give "Guiding Light" the honors for a real lesson as well as real drama.

Mrs. Dena Disinger, Frankfort, Ind.

FOR relaxation and wholesome fun nothing beats the old-fashioned parlor game or its modern variations, including the radio quiz games. At least so thinks Norman Frescott, who is "Uncle Jim" of the "Question Bee" on NBC Saturday at 7:30 p.m. EST, 6:30 p.m. CST, not available to West. Parlor games sharpen wits and encourage sociability, and that's the keynote of "Uncle Jim's" informal program of questions and answers and banter with studio participants. A vaudeville headliner in this country for years, Frescott gained his greatest recognition in London as star of "Dorchester Midnight Follies."

GET IN THE QUIZ GAME

(For correct answers to following questions see Page 44.)

3. Which automobile highway connects New York with San Francisco?

On Sept. 15, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh said over the air to America:

IN TIMES of great emergency men of the same belief must gather together for mutual counsel and action. If they fail to do this, all that they stand for will be lost. I speak tonight to those people in the United States of America who feel that the destiny of this country does not call for our involvement in European wars.

We must band together to prevent the loss of more American lives in these internal struggles of Europe. We must keep foreign propaganda from pushing our country blindly into another war. Modern war with all its consequences is too tragic and too devastating to be approached from anything but a purely American standpoint. We should never enter a war unless it is absolutely essential to the future welfare of our nation.

This country was colonized by men and women from Europe. The hatreds, the persecutions, the intrigues they left behind, gave them courage to cross the Atlantic Ocean to a new land. They preferred the wilderness and the Indians to the problems of Europe. They weighed the cost of freedom from those problems and they paid the price. In this country, they eventually found a means of living peacefully together—the same nationalities that are fighting abroad today.

THE quarrels of Europe faded out from American life as generations passed. Instead of wars between the English, French and Germans, it became a struggle of the New World for freedom from the old—a struggle for the right of America to find her own destiny. The colonization of this country grew from European troubles and our freedom sprang from European war; for we won independence from England while she was fighting France.

No one foresaw the danger ahead of us more clearly than George Washington. He solemnly warned the people of America against becoming entangled in European alliances. For over one hundred years his advice was followed. We established the Monroe Doctrine for America. We let other nations fight among themselves. Then, in 1917, we entered a European war. This time we were on England's side, and so were France and Russia. Friends and enemies reverse as decades pass—as political doctrines rise and fall.

The great war ended before our full force had reached the field. We escaped with the loss of relatively few soldiers. We measured our dead in thousands. Europe measured hers in millions. Europe has not yet recovered from the effects of this war and she has already entered another. A generation has passed since the Armistice of 1918, but even in America we are still paying for our part in that victory—and we will continue to pay.

Let us not delude ourselves. If we enter the quarrels of Europe during war, we must stay in them in time of peace as well. It is madness to send our soldiers to be killed as we did in the last war if we turn the course of peace over to the greed, the fear and the intrigue of European nations. We must either keep out of European wars entirely or stay in European affairs permanently.

In making our decision, this point

—International News

Col. Lindbergh's Plea for Peace

In simple, compelling words,
America's taciturn Lone Eagle speaks his mind on war issues should be clear: These wars in Europe are not wars in which our civilization is defending itself against some Asiatic intruder. There is no Genghis Khan nor Xerxes marching against our Western nations. This is not a question of banding together to defend the white race against foreign invasion. This is simply one more of those age-old struggles within our own family of nations—a quarrel arising from the errors of the last war—from the failure of the victors of that war to follow a consistent policy either of fairness or of force.

We must not permit our sentiment, our pity, or our personal feelings of sympathy to obscure the issue, to affect our children's lives. We must be as impersonal as a surgeon with his knife. Let us make no mistake about the cost of entering this war. If we take part successfully, we must throw the resources of our entire nation into it. Munitions will not be enough.

You're the Editor

Introducing a new department which will present features suggested by Radio Guide readers. This week's guest editor is Maury T. Lester, of Jackson, Miss. Mr. Lester, evidently an alert, purposeful listener, wrote as follows:

Dear Sir:

The broadcast of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's recent address was one of radio's outstanding contributions to public service. Radio Guide might well render its own service by publishing it.

Very truly yours,
Maury T. Lester.

What has radio brought you recently that is of unusual interest? A song, a speech, a joke, a recipe? Be an editor. Send your suggestion to You're the Editor, Radio Guide, 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Ill. One dollar will be paid for each suggestion accepted. Help us preserve radio's treasures.

America has little to gain by taking part in another European war. We must not be misguided by this foreign propaganda to the effect that our frontiers lie in Europe. One need only glance at a map to see where our true frontiers lie. What more could we ask than the Atlantic Ocean on the east and the Pacific on the west? No, our interests in Europe need not be from the standpoint of defense. Our own natural frontiers are enough for that. If we extend them at all, we might as well extend them around the earth. An ocean is a formidable barrier, even for modern aircraft.

Our safety does not lie in fighting European wars. It lies in our own internal strength, in the character of the American people and of American institutions. As long as we maintain an army, a navy and an air force worthy of the name, as long as America does not decay within, we need fear no invasion of this country.

Again I address those among you who agree with this stand. Our future and our children's future depend upon the action we take. It is essential to think clearly and to act quickly in the days which are to come. We will be deluged with propaganda, both foreign and domestic—some obvious, some insidious. Much of our news is already colored. Every incident and every accident will be seized upon to influence us. And in a modern war there are bound to be plenty of both. We must learn to look behind every article we read and every speech we hear. We must not only inquire about the writer and the speaker—about his personal interests and his nationality—but we must ask who owns and who influences the newspaper, the news picture and the radio station. If our people know the truth, if they are fully and accurately informed, if they are not misled by propaganda, this country is not likely to enter the war which is now going on in Europe.

AND if Europe is again prostrated by war, as she has been so often in the past, then the greatest hope for our Western civilization lies in America. By staying out of war ourselves, we may even bring peace to Europe more quickly.

Let us look to our own defense and to our own character. If we attend to them, we have no need to fear what happens elsewhere. If we do not attend to them, nothing can save us.

If war brings more dark ages to Europe, we can better preserve those things which we love and which we mourn the passing of in Europe today by preserving them here, by strengthening them here, rather than by hurling ourselves thoughtlessly to their defense over there and thus destroying all in the conflagration. The German genius for science and organization, the English genius for government and commerce, the French genius for living and understanding of life—they must not go down here as well as on the other side. Here in America they can be blended to form the greatest genius of all.

The gift of civilized life must still be carried on. It is more important than the sympathies, the friendships, the desires of any single generation. This is the test before America now. This is the challenge—to carry on Western civilization.

FORECAST

A MERICAN composers again get a break from Dr. Howard Hanson when he conducts the first of four all-American concerts on Thursday. Toscanini also puts an American composition on his program this week, and a very amusing piece by the "bad boy" of music, Serge Prokofieff.

Toscanini saw the score of "The Night" in Switzerland recently, and learning the composer's advanced age, generously determined to give the Suite its first American hearing at once. The composer will be listening to the broadcast by short wave in Geneva.

Good Friday Music, Four Excerpts from "Die Meistersinger," the Orchestra; Siegfried's Rhine Journey, Funeral March and Brunnhilde's Immolation Scene from "Goetterdaemmerung," Helen Traubel and Orchestra.

Here is something really original in radio... an all-Wagner program! How did the conductor ever think of it!

This is the first of the yearly barrage of all-somebody programs, and for passionate advocates of one composer or another they provide great satisfaction. When television comes, this same Wagner list could picture the jovial characters in comic "Meistersinger"; the divine serenity of the "Parsifal" scene on Good Friday; valiant Siegfried starting on his fateful journey; and Brunnhilde awaiting his murdered remains and riding into the flames of her hero's funeral pyre.

The last part of the concert is being played as a memorial to the late Lawrence Gilman, famed New York music critic and program annotator of the Philharmonic.

Both Offenbach and Lehar are two light-opera composers who have made bids to be considered also among the serious stage composers; the former wrote one grand opera, "Tales of Hoffman"; and the latter was the creator of three. In the field of operetta, the two men produced real masterpieces and their names will go down into history together with those of Sullivan and Herbert. Recently report reached this country that Lehar, Hungarian by birth, is saddened with Europe and intends to make his future home in America. If true, the news is most welcome.

James Melton is another singer whom radio success has placed in line for operatic consideration. His recent appearances on the lyric stage won high critical praise. It is pleasant to see that his selections include also two of the loveliest songs by Schubert, a composer much neglected by the average run of opera stars.

Americans hearing this program might well join in the sentiment and singing of the final "Now Thank We All Our God." Its eloquent significance at this moment need not be especially pointed out.

Frank Miller, distinguished cellist, has played with many symphony groups, is now first cellist with the NBC Symphony Orchestra, which is heard now on Saturday nights in a series under the direction of Arturo Toscanini

Concerto No. 3 (Beethoven), Severin Eisenberger and Orchestra; Liebeshieder (Brahms), The Madrigal Singers.

Eastern 11:05 a.m.	Central 10:05 a.m.	Mountain 9:05 a.m.	Pacific 8:05 a.m.
-----------------------	-----------------------	-----------------------	----------------------

The NBC Symphony Orchestra, NBC. Arturo Toscanini, conductor. Classical Symphony (Prokofieff); Concerto for Violin, Cello and Orchestra (Brahms), Mischa Mishakoff (violinist) and Frank Miller (cellist), soloists; Suite "Die Nacht" (George Templeton-Strong).

Serge Prokofieff, between intervals of intensely radical composing, took a breathing spell with this symphony (finished in 1917) which he playfully conceived and wrote in the Haydn-Mozart spirit and atmosphere. The orchestration is simple, the melodies are developed formally and the harmonies have no high seasoning as in other Prokofieff scores. The only difference between the classical tradition and the present symphony is that its third movement consists of a gavotte instead of the usual minuet of Haydn and Mozart.

Brahms' example, really a sort of concerto grosso, is for solo violin and cello with orchestra. When the work had its American premiere in 1889, the cello part was played by Victor Herbert, then a noted virtuoso on that instrument.

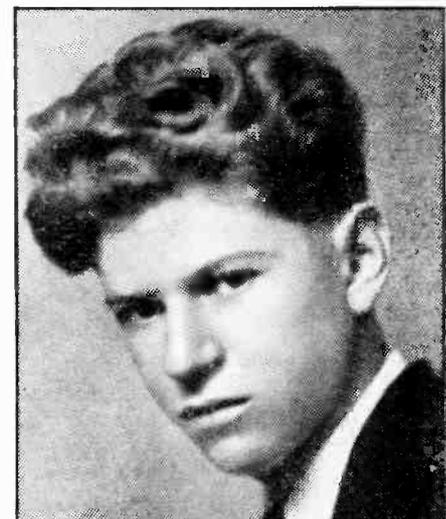

George Templeton-Strong, 83-year-old New Yorker, resident most of his life in Europe (now living in Vevey, Switzerland), has written much music, most of it amiable, euphonious, smoothly made.

noff, expatriate from Russia since 1917, now (happily for us) spends most of his time in America, except for short summer vacations in Switzerland.

We have in him perhaps the last of the great modern romantics among composers. Nurtured tonally on the strict classics and the later school of Schumann and Liszt, Rachmaninoff carries on their musical and spiritual messages. Even his more recent compositions are warm-blooded, decorative bearers of high imagery and poetical beauty. It is not amiss to say that no living piano composer is like Rachmaninoff or as important. Especially his preludes and concertos have become a permanent part of the active repertoire.

It is therefore an apropos thought for Rapee to ask Miss Schumann to perform the four concertos and Rachmaninoff's newest work for piano and orchestra, the set of variations on a theme by Paganini.

This program brings the second Concerto in C Minor, by general acclaim the best of the four. It is a true masterpiece, full of sensuous melodies, rhythmic charm, passionate and languorous expression, brilliantly colorful writing for the soloist and the orchestra. Astonishing is Rachmaninoff's variety of moods; he retains none long enough to pall or tire. Song and drama alternate constantly. The final pages of the concerto, whirlwinds of emotional upbuilding, drive and glittering excitement, leave one quite breathless after the thunderous finish—

A Medal for Spinach

By Leonard Lieblich

A JUBILANT bulletin reaches this desk from the publicity sanctum of CBS. It tells that, "for every two persons to whom swing is spinach there are three with a broad tolerance for it as a modern companion of serious music, according to a poll by CBS' quiz broadcast, 'So You Think You Know Music.'" The proposition that came to vote was, "Can a person love classical music and swing, or shall the twain never meet?"

The complete returns (with Maine and Vermont included) showed a 3-to-2 percentage of tolerance for the "spinachy" compositions.

It is interesting and amusing to quote from the voters' letters received by CBS, as follows:

From a nine-year-old in Oak Park, Ill.: "I do not understand swing music. It sounds like jungle music. But when I hear someone like Beethoven, it seems like he was telling me something." From Birmingham, Ala.: "I don't like jazz, unless it's Gershwin." Asbury, Tex.: "Hideous noises." Los Angeles, Calif.: "I hate swing." Tombstone, Ariz.: "Swing? Might as well eat mustard on ice cream." Laguna Beach, Calif.: "Worse than life-imprisonment."

Eugene, Ore.: "Swing and classics are compatible." Northfield, Minn.: "One car love swing and classics as one loves good painting and cartoons." Richmond, Va.: "A lot of the classics were 'swing' in their day." Ann Arbor, Mich.: "Why not like both? As caviar and peanut butter." Philadelphia, Pa.: "Certainly one can appreciate both, but many are too smug to admit it."

There you have the composite picture, which again suggests the old saying—with an amendment—"You does your listening and you takes your choice."

However, respondents in the CBS poll voted overwhelmingly for Beethoven as their favorite composer and his Fifth Symphony as their preferred composition. Therefore, beloved fans of the best music, think not too harshly of your fellow hearers who like to mix theirs with a dash of spinach.

All light music will live or die by its own merit. The more superficiality and insincerity it possesses, the sooner it will perish unmourned. The more genuine feeling, thought and beauty that go into the pages (Gershwin, Kern,

Fritz Reiner has taken the podium for a series of "Ford Sunday Evening Hour" broadcasts over CBS

Porter, Youmans, among others), the longer will they appeal and endure.

In the domain of popular music, there are those who concoct cheap stuff only to win easy sales; and those who are moved to write music because they feel it. The latter are composers; the former, carpenters.

Perhaps contrivers is a better word than carpenters. They tinker and tinkle on the piano until they catch the semblance of a tune, then get some "lyricist" to fit jingly rhymes, and an arranger to supply the whole thing with form, harmony, and an accompaniment. And, oh yes, the title. That must be arresting and timely. (Sometimes the title is "composed" first, and then the music.)

I cannot help recalling the jest about the two successful popular composers:

A. "Say, it's a funny idea that you and I each made more money out of a little song than Beethoven made out of his Fifth Symphony."

B. "Yeah; but look at the rotten title he gave it."

Speaking Up

By V. Vidal

CBS comes out with an announcement that Vittorio Giannini, composer of last year's radio opera, "Beauty and the Beast," has written another to be produced early in November. The main character is Aaron Burr, the title, "Blennerhassett," and the plot concerns Burr's famous conspiracy to form an empire in the Southwest. The conspiracy was framed on the island of Blennerhassett, hence the name. If it has a strangely familiar ring, it is because Walter Damrosch's last opera, "The Man Without a Country," also dealt with the same conspiracy.

Just why Aaron Burr seems to be creeping into the latest batch of American operas is an unanswerable puzzle, but it is something to be grateful for that American composers are turning to their own country for opera librettos. Their delvings into Grimms' fairy tales, English fantasies and medieval history seem to be ended for the time being. Just a random skim through American history brings to mind some gorgeous opera plots. Any American Revolution story is packed with drama. Or how about the conquest of the Indian? Or the Civil War?

It is curious that the best American opera was written by an Italian, Puccini's "Girl of the Golden West." The libretto is based on Belasco's play, so Puccini is not responsible for the story. But he is responsible for recognizing the operatic possibilities of America's Wild West days, which is more than any American opera composer ever did. Let's hope that "The Man Without a Country" and "Blennerhassett" are a sign that times are changing.

Dr. Howard Hanson continues his good work for the American composer by conducting the Rochester Philharmonic in four all-American concerts starting October 26. Congratulations and thanks, Dr. Hanson! If more conductors would follow your example, American composers might have a chance to earn a living by composing instead of teaching, playing and working at any one of a dozen other jobs.

Men Behind the Music

This Week: DR. WALTER DAMROSCH

WHEN seventy-seven-year-old Dr. Walter Damrosch stepped on a train bound for Hollywood last spring with the gleeful announcement, "At my age they want to make a glamour boy out of me," nobody in musical circles was very much surprised. What surprise there was came from the fact that Damrosch hadn't caught up with the talkies long before. It was probably the first time in his life that he wasn't a pioneer in anything connected with American music.

WHEN the merits of Wagnerian music were still bringing about family splits, Damrosch and his father, Leo-how to pronounce Wagner's name but also to appreciate his music. At twenty-three, after his father's sudden death, Walter took his place as conductor of the first German opera season at the Metropolitan. And today, on the "Music Appreciation Hour," Wagner still holds supreme place among composers.

As a sideline, Damrosch conducted the New York Symphony and the Oratorio Society of New York, both founded by his father. He took time out to marry Margaret Blaine (daughter of "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion" James Blaine), whom he courted on a coaching-party in Scotland, as the guest of Andrew Carnegie. Another indirect re-

Rosy-faced, white-haired Walter Damrosch is at seventy-seven still a potent force in American music. For ten years he has taught American youth to love good music through his "Music Appreciation Hour" (NBC, Fridays) pold, introduced it to America . . . and made money. When wiseacres were going around prophesying that America would never be cultured enough to support more than one orchestra, Walter's father founded another and Walter kept it going for forty-two years. At a time when American composers didn't even have nuisance value, Damrosch played their works. When radio was still in the "Come quick, I've got Kansas City" stage, Damrosch gave the first symphonic performance on the air with his New York Symphony. And when educators sniffed at the educational value of radio and predicted a quick end for the radio fad, Damrosch started his "Music Appreciation Hour." It has continued steadily for ten years and has developed into an American institution . . . like its founder.

It would probably take a national census to determine how many Americans cut their musical teeth with the help of Papa Damrosch. Certainly it is due to him that most of America finally learned how to pronounce "Wagner." No one else can say it quite like Damrosch: "V-a-a-gner" with the broadest "A" in existence.

Damrosch not only taught America

sult of the coaching-party was the building of Carnegie Hall. Damrosch's orchestra played at its opening, and no less a person than Tschaiakowsky was one of the conductors.

Walter Damrosch is the only man in radio who refuses to use a prepared script. He is fond of talking about "the marvels of radio" but doesn't quite realize what a miracle of ingenuity his own broadcasts are. He uses one mike to talk into, another for the orchestra. The engineer, with no script to go by, has to be on the watch every second to switch mikes. He never knows when Damrosch will stop speaking and start to conduct. So far there have been no noticeable slip-ups.

DAMROSCH makes any dignified young New York musician feel as though he were back in short pants. Most of them were dragged in their youth by fond mamas to hear Papa Damrosch explain the difference between the tuba and the oboe. Out of those concerts came the "Music Appreciation Hour" and the audience hasn't changed much, except that today it numbers millions instead of thousands.

National Song Search

Read These Rules Carefully

NATIONAL SONG SEARCH headquarters is swamped. Judges are up to their ears in music scores. But they're still enthusiastic about the songs they're judging, and ready for more as quickly as you send in your entries.

Look for Your Name

Meanwhile, as the fifth Pop-Song Contest gets under way this week, contestants are no doubt anxiously awaiting results for earlier weeks. Here is good news for them. This week we publish names of contestants with last names beginning with letters A through O, whose entries were received before midnight of September 30. Look for your name on this opening list on Page 43. If it doesn't appear this week, look in future issues.

First Winners Next Week!

Biggest news of the Song Search thus far will come out next week. Then winners of the first prize and five consolation prizes for Pop-Song Contest No. 1 will be announced on this page. Remember, next week's issue is the place to look. You may be the winner!

Be Sure of the Rules

Judges urge that contestants read over the contest rules on this page very carefully. Failure to follow any one of them will mean disqualification of entry. Especially note Rule No. 4, concerning correspondence. If there is general confusion about a particular rule, we intend to comment on this page. Here is one frequent query, with answer. Question: May entries be sent without words? Answer: Words will not enter into judges' decision, but may accompany music. Words without music will not be considered under any circumstances.

THREE BIG CONTESTS

A Hymn Contest

To find a great, new American hymn or sacred number. Example: "Rock of Ages," "The Old Rugged Cross," "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

All entries must be mailed before midnight of December 30.

A Semi-Classical Number Contest

To discover a fine, new American semi-classical number for voice. Example: "Trees," "Indian Love Call," "Moonlight and Roses," "Sylvia."

All entries must be mailed before midnight of January 6.

A Pop-Song Contest, No. 5

To find a new, popular, singable, danceable song. All entries must be mailed before midnight of October 28.

And a Brand-New Contest Every Week

For the next ten weeks, we plan to find and have published ten other new American popular songs. Each week will offer a brand-new pop-song contest and a brand-new chance to win fame and fortune.

PRIZES

The greatest first prize ever offered an unknown song-writer.

The winner of each contest will receive . . .

- $200.00 in cash.
- The regular song-writers' contract with the great Los Angeles music-publishing firm, Davis-Schwegler, providing for royalties on all sheet music and other sales.
- Immediate publication and distribution as sheet music.
- Immediate recording and distribution as phonograph record.

- Inclusion of the winning song in regular Davis-Schwegler Library Service to Radio Stations from Coast to Coast.

Consolation Prizes

The next five song-writers selected will receive $10.00 each in cash.

Honorable Mentions

The next six song-writers will be given Honorable Mention Certificates.

1. Contestants must live in the United States or Canada. Anyone may enter the National Song Search with the exception of employees or members of the families of employees of Radio Guide or the Davis-Schwegler Company.

2. Entries must be addressed as follows: National Song Search Headquarters, Radio Guide, 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Ill. No manuscripts will be returned unless accompanied by self-addressed stamped envelopes.

3. An entry must be written in ink (not pencil) on regularly ruled music copying paper. It may be a full piano arrangement or a simple melody. Words will not be considered in judging.

4. No correspondence can be entered into by either Radio Guide or Davis-Schwegler regarding individual contributions.

5. Contestants may enter any or all contests. Winning any contest prize does not disqualify for other contest prizes. Contestants wishing to enter the same composition in different weekly popular song contests may do so but must make separate submissions in each case.

6. The name and address of contestant must be written in ink or typed in the top margin of page one of each entry submitted. The name of the contest and the number (if entry is in Popular-Song Contest) must also be written in ink or typed on page one.

7. A contestant may submit as many entries for any single contest as he may wish—and may win more than one prize provided his entries merit such consideration.

8. Each entry shall be judged solely on its musical merit. Judges will be the editorial boards of Radio Guide and Davis-Schwegler. Contestants, by entering the contest, agree that the decisions of the judges shall be final.

9. The prizes awarded winners of each contest are identical, namely, the song-writer whose song is selected by the judges as best in each contest will receive: (a) $200 in cash; (b) The standard song-writers' contract with Davis-Schwegler, music publishers, providing for standard royalties on sheet music and other sales; (c) His song will be published and distributed through Davis-Schwegler outlets; (d) His song will be recorded and phonograph records offered for sale through regular D-S outlets; (e) His song will be electrically transcribed and placed in the regular Davis-Schwegler library service to more than 200 radio stations. One dozen pieces of sheet music, two records, and one electrical transcription will be given free to the song-writer. The next five songs selected by the judges as being most worthy will win for their writers the sum of $10.00 each. The next six songs selected by the judges will be given Honorable Mention Certificates.

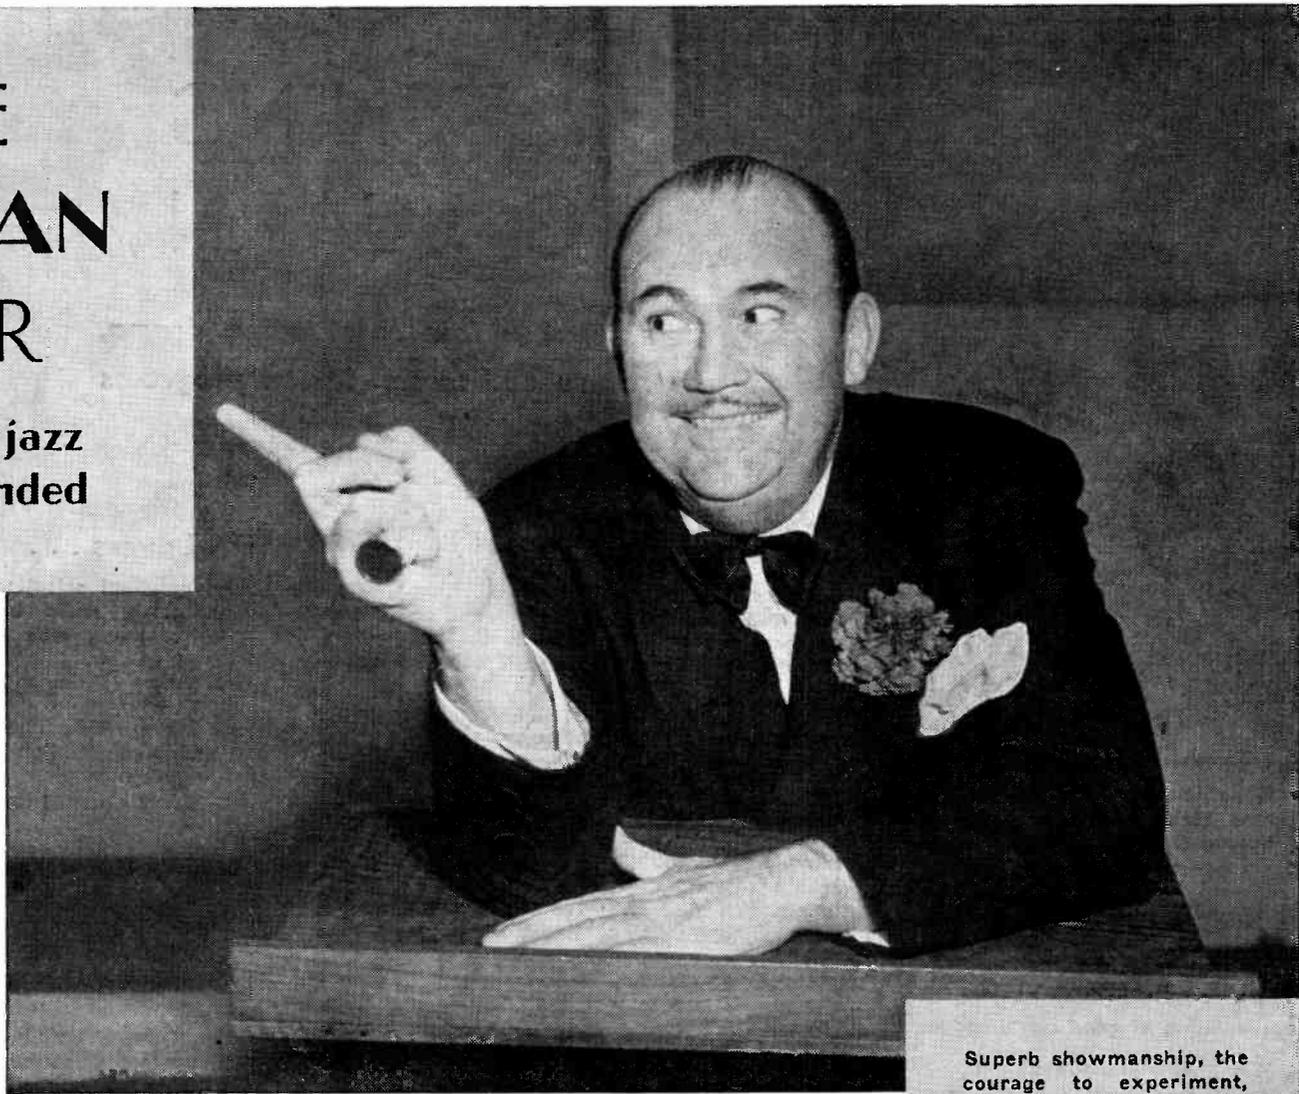

10. Hymn or sacred music contest entries must be mailed before midnight of Saturday, December 30.

Semi-classical number contest entries must be mailed before midnight of Saturday, January 6, 1940.

Popular-Song Contest No. 5 (this is the fifth of a series of 13 weekly contests) entries must be mailed before midnight of Saturday, October 28, 1939. Winners will be announced as soon as possible. In case of ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

IN THE WHITEMAN MANNER

Here classics and jazz
are gloriously blended

Superb showmanship, the courage to experiment, and a sound, classical background make Whiteman a perennial favorite. He is heard on Wednesday nights over CBS

FADS may come and fads may go, but Paul Whiteman and his music are very much akin to Mr. Tennyson's famous brook. Only with the added virtue of infinite variety. Twenty years ago the rotund master of modern rhythm fortissimoed to a prominent place in the hearts of American dance fans. Ten years ago, in swallow-tails, he mounted the podium at Carnegie Hall to show the world that this nation's symphonic jazz had body and merit worthy of serious consideration.

Today Paul Whiteman remains a major personality among the band-leaders of the land—a name synonymous with the modern idiom which rules those sharps and flats to which a critical nation dances.

In the first place, no one has ever made so much money out of the jazz business. Name any of the popular idols of the bandstand during the past twenty years—and you'll find that Whiteman has either preceded or outlived them all. The secret can almost be reduced to a mathematical formula.

Take a sound classical background, a dash of sympathy for the tastes of the day, then shake well with a flair for experimentation and genuine showmanship—and you've got Paul Whiteman. Which, from both the standpoint of avoirdupois and reputation, means plenty.

All along that crooked path called Broadway, from the maelstrom of Times Square to the swing salons of the Fifties, the man Whiteman is a legendary figure. He moves with regality as a patriarch of American music, treated as the king that he is.

No less than three tables for P. W. at any night-club is the usual rule. At the first one presides Paul, with Mrs. Whiteman, close friends, and the fortunate elect of the hour. The next table is reserved for the general staff officers of the Whiteman orchestra, including such of the hierarchy as arranger Roy Bargey, who's been a stalwart of the band these fifteen years. The third is the stamping-ground of assorted stooges, radio folks and those perennial parasites—the song-pluggers. Paul swings around this triad of tables several times during dinner to be sure that all are happy, well dined and well wined.

All, you see, because roly-poly Paul took a little post-war waif called jazz under his wing, nurtured it, and so let it make him a millionaire. Last season the Whiteman band grossed better than $600,000. He's been selling the same commodity for twenty years—and people still want it.

You can't spend twenty years being the piper the public pays without finding yourself something of a national institution.

With his musicians Paul Whiteman is friendly but firm, respecting their artistry and opinions in matters of melody. In return, they affectionately call him "Pops." If you care to go through the roster of big names of the music world, you'll find an imposing number who at one time or another played, sang or arranged for Whiteman.

THIS fall he returned to the air for Chesterfield with a new weekly series over nearly one hundred CBS stations stretching Coast to Coast. He ranks also as a veteran figure in American radio, and was the first man ever to conduct an orchestra over the pioneer station known today as WJZ.

And those programs of his cost money—plenty of it! When the announcer says "in the typical Whiteman manner," he means that you'll hear a half-hour broadcast which cost about $1,000 for arrangements alone. The average cost of a special orchestration lasting three minutes during Paul Whiteman's Wednesday night show may run as high as $250. On one occasion, while presenting a Gershwin concert, the bill amounted to $2,500.

The heart-breaking fact about it all is that one minute after such a number has been on the air it's about as up-to-date as milady's last year's hat. Rarely does an arrangement get a second airing.

Aside from the fact that it brings him in a healthy stipend, Whiteman is a great booster of the microphone. Orchestras of the future, thinks he, will make more and more use of electrical amplification—not only to reach a larger audience but because it offers a superior method of controlling volume from various instruments, of "mixing" the tone and color from all sections of the orchestra into a better-integrated whole.

This expansive, expensive life of Paul Whiteman isn't all lacquer and chrome. Despite the laurels piled upon him, he remains a genuine type of person who mixes well with others. No one derived a bigger kick from the Whiteman family reunion, held last summer on an Iowa bluff overlooking the Mississippi, than did Paul himself, a piece of fried chicken in one hand and a smile on his fulsome face.

Whiteman naturally looms large wherever he goes because of his bulk. Although not particularly sensitive about this weight, he averages today around two hundred pounds, yet at one time practically tipped the scales over with a cool 311. His fourth and present wife, former film star Margaret Livingston, was responsible for the drastic reduction. Today he's a forty-seven percent better insurance risk than ten years ago.

SWING, as a fad, thinks Paul Whiteman, is very much on the wane. His definition: "Swing is an itch you cannot scratch.

Spare time is at a premium with Whiteman. His many engagements on the road, work in both recording and radio studios, appearances at important dancing-spots—all give practically no chance to visit his quiet farm at Stockton, New Jersey, not too far from New York. The place, he admits, is slowly acquiring the atmosphere of a first-class zoo. "Kid Swing" started it all.

"Kid Swing" is a playful longhorn steer from Texas, presented to Paul by Fort Worth admirers a year ago. Frankly, a longhorn steer in New York is about as easy to maintain as stabling a Great Dane in a one-room apartment, but the bandleader has consistently refused to get rid of "Kid Swing," even though friends clamor for a barbecue.

This token from Texas fans was just the beginning. Paul also received a pair of fighting-cocks, several pedigreed merino sheep, a badger from Wisconsin, a bevy of gophers from Minnesota friends. At the Iowa State Fair officials presented a prize Hawkeye pig.

Autographs have been quite a problem for Whiteman. He figures he's signed about everything possible, from napkins and tablecloths to a plaster cast on the broken leg of a Philadelphia boy (who refused to let it be removed, even after his leg had healed!).

It's significant that Paul Whiteman's signature still ranks as a treasured possession among autograph collectors. For one thing, it means that the Whiteman baton is as important as ever, even though it has held sway on the American fronts of popular music for twenty changeable years. The patriarch still has a lot of tricks up his melodic sleeve. And, if public acclaim is any barometer, the King of Jazz will wave his scepter for quite a time yet to come.

—Dick Dorrance.

Art and Music . . .

Here are a few programs that will help you build a foundation for a keen appreciation of good music and art:

Tuesdays

*Folk-Music of America, CBS. A series with historical and literary as well as musical value. Native singers and instrumentalists who specialize in the many types developed in the United States will be introduced by Alan Lomax, young assistant in charge of the archives of the American folk-song at the Library of Congress in Washington. Young Lomax, who has collected some 2,600 recordings of folk-material, has collaborated on four books with his father, famed musicologist John A. Lomax.

HE SCARED US TO DEATH!

More about that man
Orson Welles—who invented "First Person
Singular"—and is it!

ORSON WELLES

THE Mercury Theater was born in Welles' determination that "The Cradle Will Rock" would rock regardless of strikes, WPA ultimatums, and not the slightest idea of where he was going to get the money to pay its way. "The Cradle Will Rock" was a labor play-opera with a leftist twang which WPA authorities had tried to discourage but with which Welles had gone ahead despite these whistlings in the wind. Now, WPA didn't object to the leftist twang itself, but the Little Steel strikes were threatening and Washington had the jitters. Welles never knew what the jitters meant.

A scant half-hour before curtain time, with the theater jammed, WPA—which had pussy-footed along and made no definite decision—now decided that the cradle wouldn't rock and so ordered.

Infuriated—and fed upon the legends of the theater, the most cardinal of which is that the show must go on—Welles sat down at a telephone and started looking for another theater. It was almost nine o'clock before he located one. He loaded the cast—sans costumes, scenery, properties which belonged to Uncle Sam—and a piano into a truck and the audience followed this somewhat mad Pied Piper to the new theater in high glee.

There were two notable results of this affair, as eerie a piece of theater as New York has ever seen. First, Welles found himself no longer buried far inside of newspapers on the theatrical pages, but a page one figure. And, second, the Mercury Theater had made its first presentation . . . and a highly successful one. "The Cradle Will Rock" became a must show.

The Mercury Theater flourished, now, without growing affluent. It produced hits, usually, but there were some failures, too, in the same fold with the money-makers.

Meanwhile, Welles was not losing touch with radio, and from the stage of the Mercury to radio was but a hop-skip-and-a-jump for the others. It wasn't long until the "Mercury Theater of the Air" had become a CBS sustaining feature on Sunday nights and Welles made his most important contribution to radio drama. He developed, about this time, the "first person singular" technique, admirably suited to radio, which employed a narrator whose narration is broken by dramatic episodes. Welles loves to serve as narrator, does it on every occasion except when, as with "Jane Eyre," the part requires a woman.

One quiet Sunday night, America had settled back into its easy chairs to hear the Mercury play. With the usual disregard Mr. and Mrs. America has for preliminary announcements, the statement that the Mercury Theater would present "War Between the Worlds" was more or less lost. But the fact that, through some seeming mistake, music blared forth from the loudspeaker instead of drama caused some grumbling. Suddenly the music was interrupted for an important announcement. New Jersey was being invaded by invincible warriors from Mars.

THE result was chaos. There were gullible souls who actually saw the invasion, felt the white heat of the invaders' war machines. Panic occurred in many places; people scrambling to safety broke legs, were trampled upon; one died of heart failure; others enlisted to fight the Martians. The authorities threatened to take him off the air. Welles apologized sweetly, declaring it had all been done for the sake of art and entertainment, and about the only really tangible result of the whole affair to the boy genius was that he found a sponsor for his program.

Orson Welles is easily the liveliest thing that has happened to the American theater—and radio—in decades. Into a decadent theater, staggering under the repeated attacks of movies and radio, he breathed a new and exhilarating breath of life. And it is not strange that this should be so, for, to Welles, the theater is his life. He is as much the actor offstage as he is on.

A MOODY genius, he spends long hours at his work, mostly at night, sleeping through the uninteresting hours of the day. He has no super-worship of the master playwrights, but rewrites Shakespeare and others to suit his tastes with a lofty disregard. Everything falls into two categories for him—"good" theater and "bad" theater. He tries to dominate every gathering in which he finds himself, usually does.

He usually arises at noon and spends the afternoon playing with his daughter, Christopher. He makes faces at her until his jaws get stiff, and he has taught her to talk double-talk. If you ever meet her, don't let her get you down with it.

Christopher, incidentally, was the means of bringing Welles and his parents-in-law together. Mrs. Welles, the former Virginia Nicholson, was a member of a wealthy and socially impeccable Chicago family which strenuously objected to their baroque son-in-law. Welles and his wife first met at a drama festival at Todd, were married six months later, at Christmas time, despite parental objections. There followed a period of hand-to-mouth existence while Welles sought a spot in which to put his feet down. He eventually landed in the WPA theater with the generally satisfactory results we have seen. But the Nicholsons never became enthusiastic about him until after Christopher was born.

With his performance in the theater and on radio, the Hollywood call was a foregone conclusion. There is hardly a major studio that hasn't offered him—at salaries up to $2,500 a week—acting, writing or directorial jobs. His radio high was $1,700 a week. But it wasn't until he talked with RKO executives a few months ago that he got what he wanted—which was everything. His contract gives him the fullest say-so about his picture with promises of no interference from above. His first picture is going to be Joseph Conrad's "Heart of Darkness."

The first four broadcasts of his new radio series were made from New York and then the entire cast moved out to Hollywood. Already Hollywood has gotten its fangs into him. Welles loves to eat and drink. His favorite food is steak, his favorite drink, Scotch. He eats like an animal, sometimes two and three steaks at a sitting, and never gets full. But his movie contract calls for no steak, no potatoes, no fattening foods.

His one regret about leaving New York is that he won't be able to occupy his apartment on Fifty-seventh Street in Manhattan. This was the first residence which the Welles family considered home, and it was designed, planned and decorated by him. There he sleeps in a bed that belonged to Louis XVI.

The room Welles will miss most is the living-room. This room is three stories high, resembling an exhibit-room in a museum, and here the boy genius had room to stand up and breathe and be—if not himself—at least a hundred other selves.

—Francis Chase, Jr.

On Short Waves

Edited by Charles A. Morrison

President, International DX'ers Alliance

How to Tune In Paris Direct

DO YOU care to visit Paris some night this week? There, lights are "blacked out." Theaters are closed and night-spots are shuttered. People sleep uneasily, awaiting the inevitable air-raid siren. Entrances to bomb-proof shelters yawn ominously. You can make a quick tour if you tune to the French Government short-wave station.

The French program to North America is broadcast nightly from 8 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. EST. "Paris Mondial," the French short-wave station, transmits on three different channels, namely, 11.718 and 11.885 megs in the 25-meter band, and 9.68 megs on the 31-meter band. The last-named frequency is your best reception bet since a power of 100,000 watts boosts its signal over the Atlantic. This 9.68 megs spot on the 31-meter band (the 31-meter band should be indicated on your dial as a small thick line or dot marked 31 M) is not hard to locate if you tune carefully. Try it between 8:05 and 8:30 p.m. EST. Start at 10 megs on your dial and turn very slowly towards 9 megs. You will pass several Spanish stations but "Paris Mondial" (9.68) will be the first English-speaking broadcaster you will run into. It has a very strong signal and is usually louder than WRCA (9.67) of New York City, just a trifle lower than it in frequency. WRCA will be broadcasting a Spanish program about this time. "Paris Mondial" does not use an identification signal before program time but at exactly 8 p.m. EST the French national anthem, "La Marseillaise," is played. The opening announcements are in French, followed at approximately 8:05 p.m. by these words in English, "This is the French Government Short-Wave Station, 'Paris Mondial.'"

Latest war news in English is then broadcast from 8:05 to 8:15 p.m. The next item on the program is an interesting talk in English describing life in Paris during the war. Famous commentator Paul Archinard is often heard at this time. At 9:15 p.m. the feature presentation of the evening is given, usually a sketch, concert or play. The news in English is repeated at 11:30 p.m. and at 12:15 a.m. EST. During the news periods, items are separated by a single gong stroke. The news is given in an informal conversational style that is far more palatable and interesting than London's dry style of repeating bare bulletins word for word.

FROM THE EUROPEAN ARENA: Watch for short-wave pick-ups direct from the front-line trenches. Brigadier General Henry J. Reilly, U. S. A., Retired, has been appointed NBC observer on the western front with the Allied troops. NBC reporter Warren Irwin will be assigned to the German side of the front. . . . The first word from the British Broadcasting Corporation since the outbreak of war, a brief bulletin, states the Daventry stations are now operating according to the following emergency schedule: Transmission 1, from 12:57 to 5:15 a.m. EST; Transmissions 2 and 3, from 5:42 a.m. to 12 noon (GSG on 17.79 megs is directed to North America); Transmission 4, from 12:22 to 3:25 p.m. (GSG on 17.79 megs is directed to N. A.) and from 3:45 to 6 p.m. (GSP on 15.31 megs is directed to N. A.); Transmission 5, from 6:22 to 9:15 p.m. (GSD on 11.75, and GSB on 9.51 megs, are directed to N. A.); and Transmission 6, from 9:37 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. EST (GSD on 9.51 megs is directed to N. A.). Almost the entire schedules at present are occupied with news bulletins in different foreign languages, periods between being filled with programs of music or topical talks.

DXB (9.61) has been added to the usual stations, DJB (15.20) and DJD (11.77) that transmit the North American program from Berlin, nightly from 4:55 to 10:50 p.m. EST. English news announcers at Berlin are now inviting their listeners to turn to the news periods from other stations for comparison, emphasizing that in this way they will realize theirs are correct.

The nightly program from EAQ (9.86), Madrid, Spain, for North America, starting at 7:45 p.m. EST, is introduced by the playing of the national anthem; the soft chimes of a clock follow and then a woman announcer gives the news bulletins in English. The clock chimes at 8:30 p.m. EST bring the program to a close, several "Vive La Espana's" are heard and the station leaves the air. HVJ, "Radio Vaticano," at Vatican City, is now broadcasting the following English programs: On 15.12 megs, Sundays, from 1 to 1:30 p.m. and Tuesdays, from 10:30 to 11 a.m.; on 11.74 megs, Tuesdays, from 8:30 to 9 a.m. and on 6.19 megs, Tuesdays, from 2 to 2:30 p.m. EST. . . . RV96 (15.41), Moscow, U. S. S. R. is being heard with loud signals on the eastern coast daily after 6 a.m. EST.

Friday, October

"DEAR Mr. and Mrs. America: Unless something is done, and done quickly, your private Saturday afternoon box at the Metropolitan Opera House is going to be sold to the highest bidder. For the Metropolitan is bankrupt, and if its officials do not soon find some way of meeting a $1,500,000 cash deficit, one of radio's richest programs will go off the air for good, its great voice stilled in the millions of American homes which have made it welcome since 1931."

There never was a letter beginning just that way. The only official notification of the impending demise of the Metropolitan was contained in a formal and rather wordy message sent by Robert M. Brewster, president of the Metropolitan Opera and Real Estate Company, to Cornelius N. Bliss, chairman of the Metropolitan Opera Association, explaining that the Real Estate Company, owners of the Metropolitan Opera House, might not be able to allow the Metropolitan Opera Company to use it next season because of a very dangerous shortage of funds.

But there should have been a letter to the people, to Mr. and Mrs. America, for if the Metropolitan is put off the air, it is they who will suffer most. Furthermore, once before when the Met was in dire financial straits, the people of America, pouring in their dimes and nickels, saved it from the sheriff's hammer—and they may do just that again, if they're given the chance.

They ought to be given the chance, for the Metropolitan is on the block.

OPERA is a luxury. It is the most expensive "theater" in the world. In point of dollars actually spent, of course, the radio and the movies both outrank it. But radio and the movies, being geared to a mass-production system, garner heavy returns, and make money—lots of it. The opera doesn't. In the past, in the golden days around the turn of the century, the Metropolitan didn't have to make money. Its losses were taken care of, cheerfully, by the wealthy patrons and patronesses of the opera.

Those were the days when a banquet menu at the Waldorf might list six kinds of fish, ten varieties of roast game, from mallard ducks to bear steaks, and a dozen wines. Those were the days when Lillian Russell rode a gold-plated bicycle down Broadway and "Diamond Jim" Brady began his dinners with a gallon of orange juice and two dozen extra large oysters. The Metropolitan fitted into the scheme of things then, even if today, its yellow bricks pitted and cracking, it looks more like a warehouse than the home of a great art.

NBC microphones were strung for the first broadcast from the Met on April 20, 1931. The opera was "Oedipus Rex," an important name to thousands of music-lovers today, for it was the first opera they ever heard. In the years that followed, the seasonal broadcasts from the Metropolitan were radio highspots, with the "careful and attentive" listeners only numbered in the hundreds of thousands. Many of these people wrote to the Metropolitan far in advance of the performances, asking for the names of the operas to be broadcast and for information about them, in order that they might listen more intelligently. Hundreds of them, when they visited New York, made a bee-line for the Metropolitan, which they would otherwise never have thought of doing.

"In a brief span of ten years," says Howard Taubman, authority on the opera's history, "radio has done more to spread a nationwide familiarity with the lyric theater than the opera houses of America had accomplished in a century and a half."

It is a pity that radio was never up, went home to Italy, and died.

The society which reveled in the splendor of the Met in those dim days has given way now to something quite different, something called "café society." The "best families" no longer devote their winters to decorous concerts, private balls and parties, unobtrusive charities, and their summers to quiet vegetation in places like Bar Harbor—which to this day hasn't a single night-club or roadhouse—and New-sufficient to meet the taxes on the Opera House and the storage building . . . during the present season certain stockholders have refused to pay the assessment levied on their shares, and in spite of repeated requests have persisted in this refusal . . ."

The "stockholders" are the owners of the thirty-five ultra-exclusive "parterre boxes" in the Metropolitan Opera House. The yearly assessment on each of these boxes is $4,500. When this arrangement was made, in 1893, it was agreed that no transfer of stock should be made except to a person or persons approved by the entire board of directors. Thus it was that a "box at the Metropolitan" became a symbol of wealth, power, social prominence. After all, out of the entire population of New York, only thirty-five families could possess them, and they paid $157,000 yearly for the privilege!

It is the descendants of these original box-holders—and in some cases their estates—who are today refusing to pay the annual $4,500 assessment, and that, in the final analysis, is what has brought the Metropolitan face to face with the gravest crisis of its history.

The only alternatives visible at the moment call for a public subscription or for the underwriting of the Met's future by a group of civic organizations. It was once planned to move the Metropolitan to a building in Rockefeller Center, and plans were drawn up providing for a $4,500,000 building with 4,042 seats. Nothing came of it, however, and it was dropped in 1937.

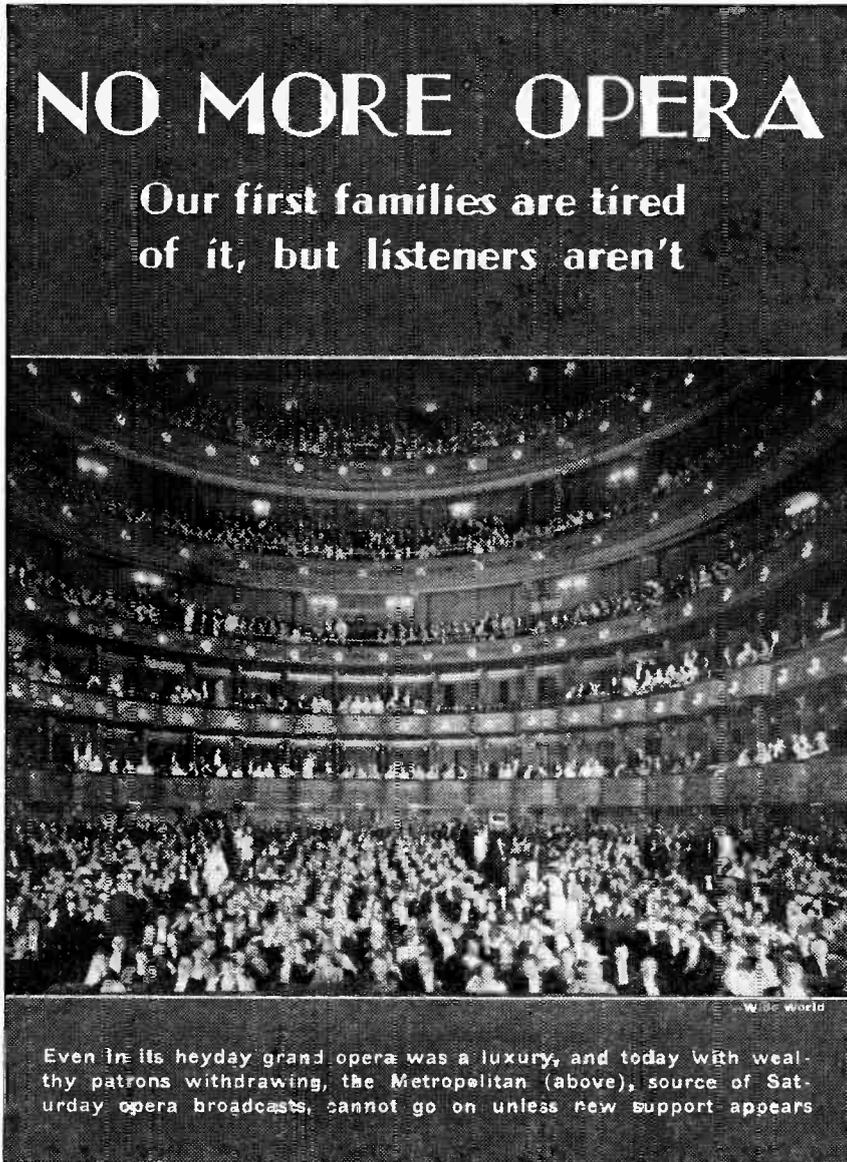

The deficits in recent years have run as high as $300,000. To finance the 1936-37 season the Juilliard Musical Foundation contributed $250,000, but even the Juilliard cannot sustain such expenditures as that for long.

EVEN the $100,000 which the National Broadcasting Company pays every year for the privilege of broadcasting the Met presentations hasn't been enough to bring the company out of the red. At the moment, no one knows what's going to happen. The Met may continue under municipal sponsorship. New York City authorities, under Mayor La Guardia, have shown no hesitancy in taking over and operating sundry other debt-ridden private enterprises. Road companies, bringing "live" opera to people from one end of the country to the other, might be the answer.

In the season of 1932-33 the National Broadcasting Company appealed to the listeners of America to help meet that year's deficit. The response was immediate and generous enough to tide the Met over for that season. NBC officials say it is doubtful, however, that the appeal will be made again.

Something must be done, though, and soon, or the next Metropolitan season will be the last one, and Flagstad, Melchior, Pinza will have joined the memories of the great stars of the past: Caruso and Chaliapin, Mary Garden, Geraldine Farrar, Maria Jeritza, Rosa Ponselle. The Opera House itself may come to no one knows what end. Perhaps it will merely be torn down. That's the kindest thing that could happen to it. One would hate to think of the Metropolitan Opera House being used, as was one of its early, unsuccessful rivals, the Manhattan, as the scene of wrestling-matches!

—Kenneth W. Purdy.

NO MORE OPERA

Our first families are tired of it, but listeners aren't

Even in its heyday grand opera was a luxury, and today with wealthy patrons withdrawing, the Metropolitan (above), source of Saturday opera broadcasts, cannot go on unless new support appears given a chance to send the golden voice of Enrico Caruso into the homes of America. Backstage at the Metropolitan today they will still show you the dressing-room where Enrico Caruso made up to sing his last role there—or anywhere else. It was the day before Christmas, 1920, and the great tenor—the greatest tenor, rather—was singing "La Juive," singing against the advice of his wife, his physician, his friends, his co-stars and everyone else, including the stagehands. For on the night of December 11 he had coughed in his dressing-room, coughed lightly and only once, and the blood had started to pour from his throat. Not even an adrenalin spray would stop it, but Caruso went on anyway, and sang, holding a handkerchief to his mouth when he could. As the handkerchiefs became blood-soaked, he tossed them into the well of the stage, and whatever member of the cast was nearest handed him another. It was incredible, and horrifying, but it was something else, too. It was Caruso. He kept on singing, and his performance of "La Juive" on that Christmas Eve was his six hundred and seventh at the Met. After that the magnificent tenor gave port. They frequent the Stork Club and "21." They're seen in front-row seats at boxing-matches, at the race-tracks, at the openings of Broadway plays. To sit through four hours of opera is something most of them wouldn't dream of doing. They just "haven't time." What's more, they don't like opera. When they do attend, they are likely to spend more time in the bars than in their boxes.

WHEN the Metropolitan began its career in 1893, the men and women in the so-called "Diamond Horse-shoe" represented fortunes totaling one-half billion dollars! To those people, the $4,500 annual assessment for the Metropolitan was nothing, a bagatelle. Today their descendants are refusing to pay anything at all for opera in New York. And that is the basic reason behind the history-making letter which last March 29 was sent to Mr. Bliss.

"As you are aware," the letter stated, "the main source of income of the real estate company is the annual assessment on its stockholders. The present assessment, which is the maximum to which the stockholders can be subjected, even if all collected, is not

BELOVED WOMEN

WOMAN has variously been labeled God's second mistake, a vain creature, a contradiction at best. Conversely, woman has been lauded as the epitome of heroism, beauty, perfection. Mostly, though, women have been notable because they have been loved. Through history marches a mighty cavalcade of women, loved by their contemporaries, venerated by their descendants. Not the least in this cavalcade are the beloved women of America—and they are legion. Justly or unjustly, our beloved women—and those of other peoples—are almost invariably the ones whose names have glowed on the billboards of theaters, music halls, movie palaces—and today, radio. Exceptions there have been, to be sure. Margaret O'Neill, for example, whose conduct was the subject of cabinet debates in the time of Andrew Jackson. But mainly it has been the agencies mentioned above which have produced American sweethearts. Yesterday it was the concert hall and the theater. Today it is the cinema and radio. On these pages Radio Guide presents a line of beloved women which leads logically and directly to the best-loved woman in radio today—Kate Smith.

Photographs by Culver Service, Wide World, International News, CBS

DEAR TO THE HEART of mid-Victorian America was Jenny Lind, the Swedish Nightingale, loved for singing, sweet character. Barnum and concert stage gave her to us

SARAH BERNHARDT, French actress who swept us off our feet in the '80's and '90's with her passionate roles, made her conquests over theater footlights, later played at front during the War

GLAMOUR GIRL of 1880 was Lillian Russell, famous for her beauty, charm and success in light opera. After making debut at Tony Pastor's in New York, 1878, she became the toast of the nation, was constantly surrounded by male admirers, among whom was the great Diamond Jim Brady. Musical comedy gave her to America

GERALDINE FARRAR (above) made her operatic debut at the turn of the century—in Berlin. American-born, she entirely captivated Kaiser Wilhelm II, last German emperor, returned to U. S. and Metropolitan Opera in 1906, where for sixteen years she thrilled us with such wickedly fascinating roles as "The Woman God Forgot," above

PETITE MARY PICKFORD, shown below in typical sad-sweet role which made her "America's Sweetheart," was our first movie girl friend, now has scores of emulators

ELSIE JANIS (below) made a sizable splash in the 1900's as a "gallant beauty" and comedienne, but clinched her spot in American hearts as World War soldiers' sweetie

MODEL for 1940 oomph girls, Clara Bow, seen here as carnival queen in "Hoopla," was craze of post-war America. Red-headed Clara—remembered by movie-goers as the great IT girl—is another Hollywood gift to U. S. men

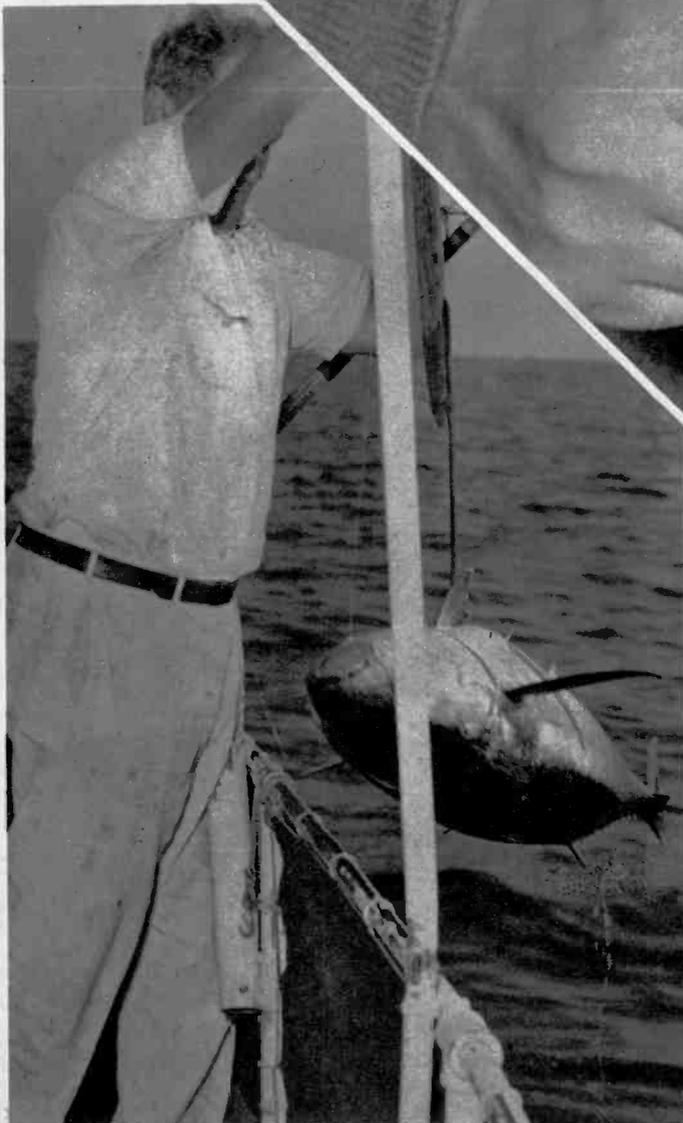

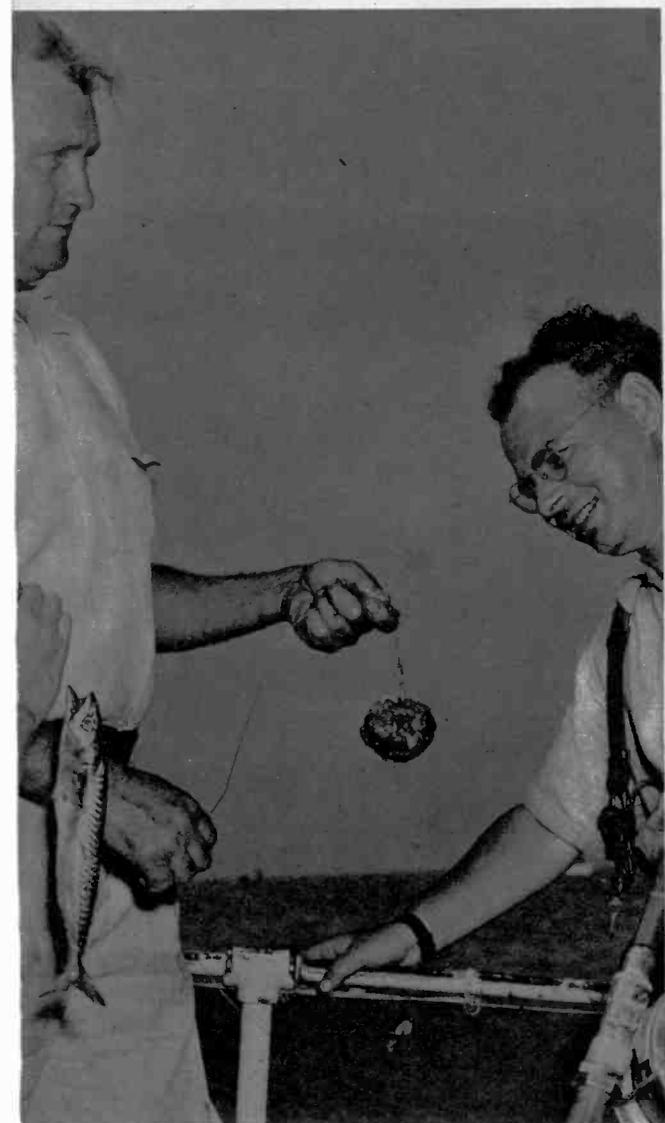

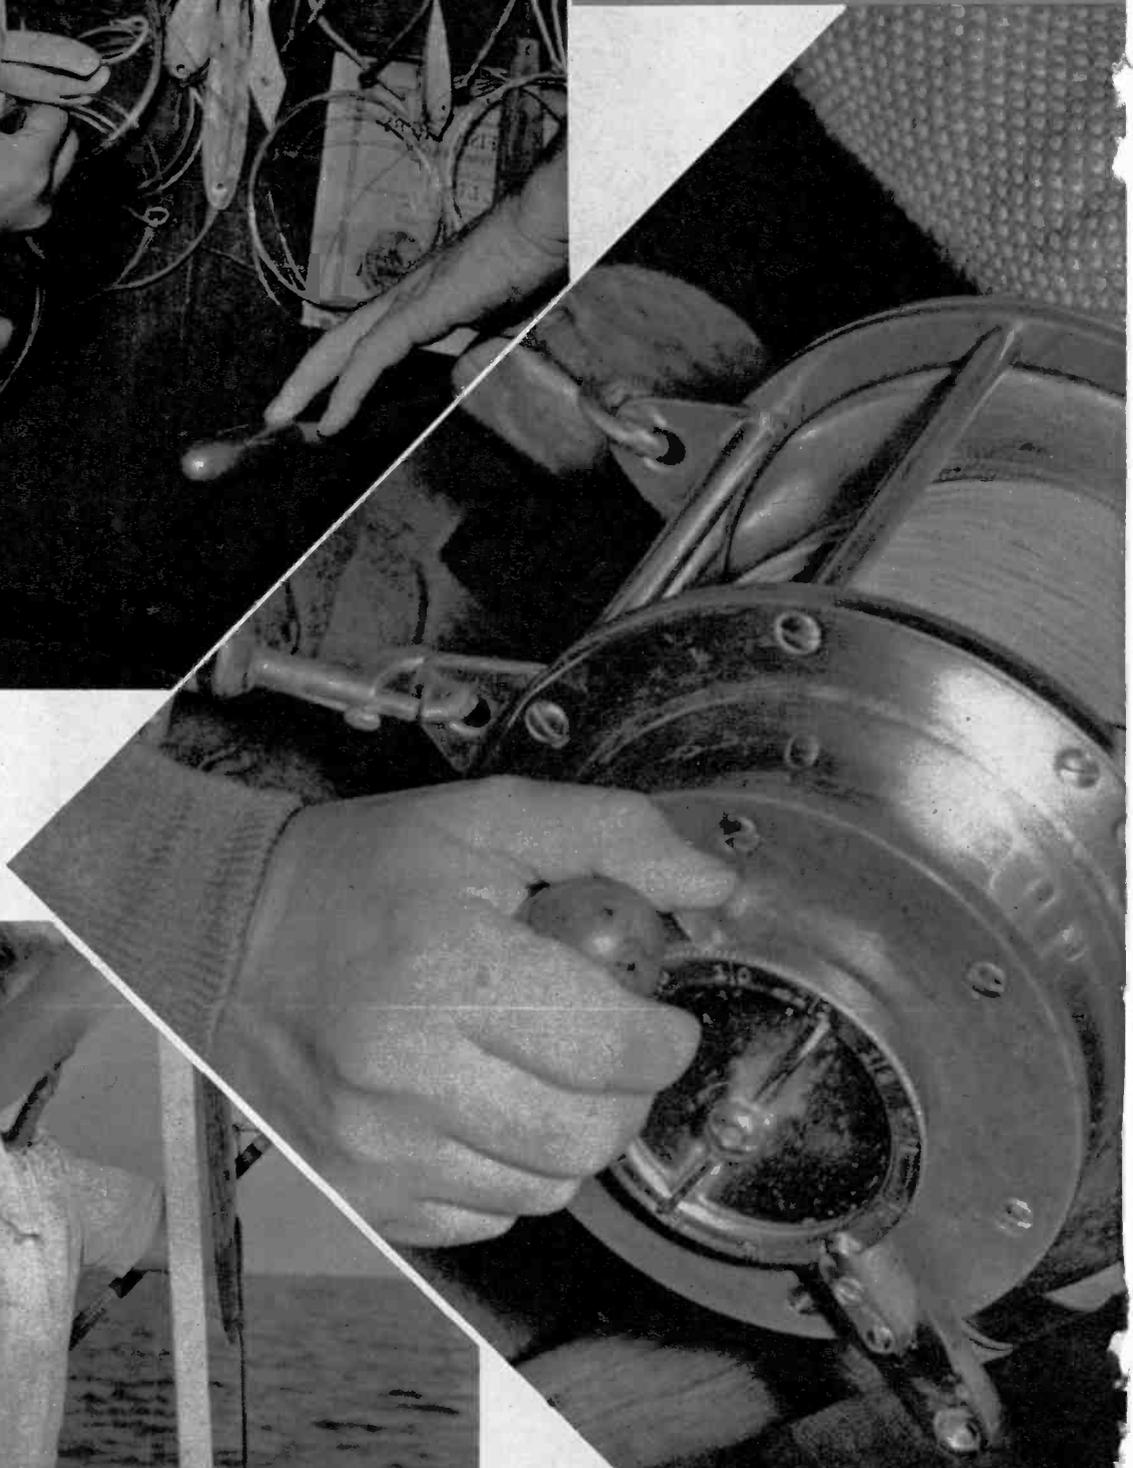

TODAY, radio intends to present America with its share of beloved women. Already it has given us one of the best—Kate Smith. Here is a new type of sweetheart—loved for her hominess, good nature, patriotism, and for her great singing voice. Above, Kate is seen busy with huge fan correspondence—one more reason for her popularity—in connection with her radio show (CBS, Friday)

MR. HOBE RIDES A

DAVE ELMAN is one among many bright young chaps who have made fortunes from their hobbies. His was investigating other people's hobbies. For years he collected data on unusual pastimes, was dubbed "man of 100,000 hobbies." And since SEPTEMBER DAYS find the tuna, prize of deep-sea fishermen, finning its way along the Atlantic Coast toward Nova Scotia, also find Dave Elman in fishing-boat Freeport, which he rents for $35 per day, near Ambrose Light, ten miles off Long Island. Above, Elman gets his ominous-looking tackle ready

TUNA BAIT is "net" of chunk-bait of Freeport's extreme left. At left, Captain Montross maneuvers to land tuna. This may take hours of hard work

BY LOBBY HOBBY

1937, when he first tried his idea of bringing hobbyists before a microphone to "lobby for their hobbies," his "Hobby Lobby" (CBS, Sun., 5 p.m. EST; 4 CST; 9 MST; 8 PST) has been a radio top-notch. Here he is, riding one of his own favorites—tuna-fishing.

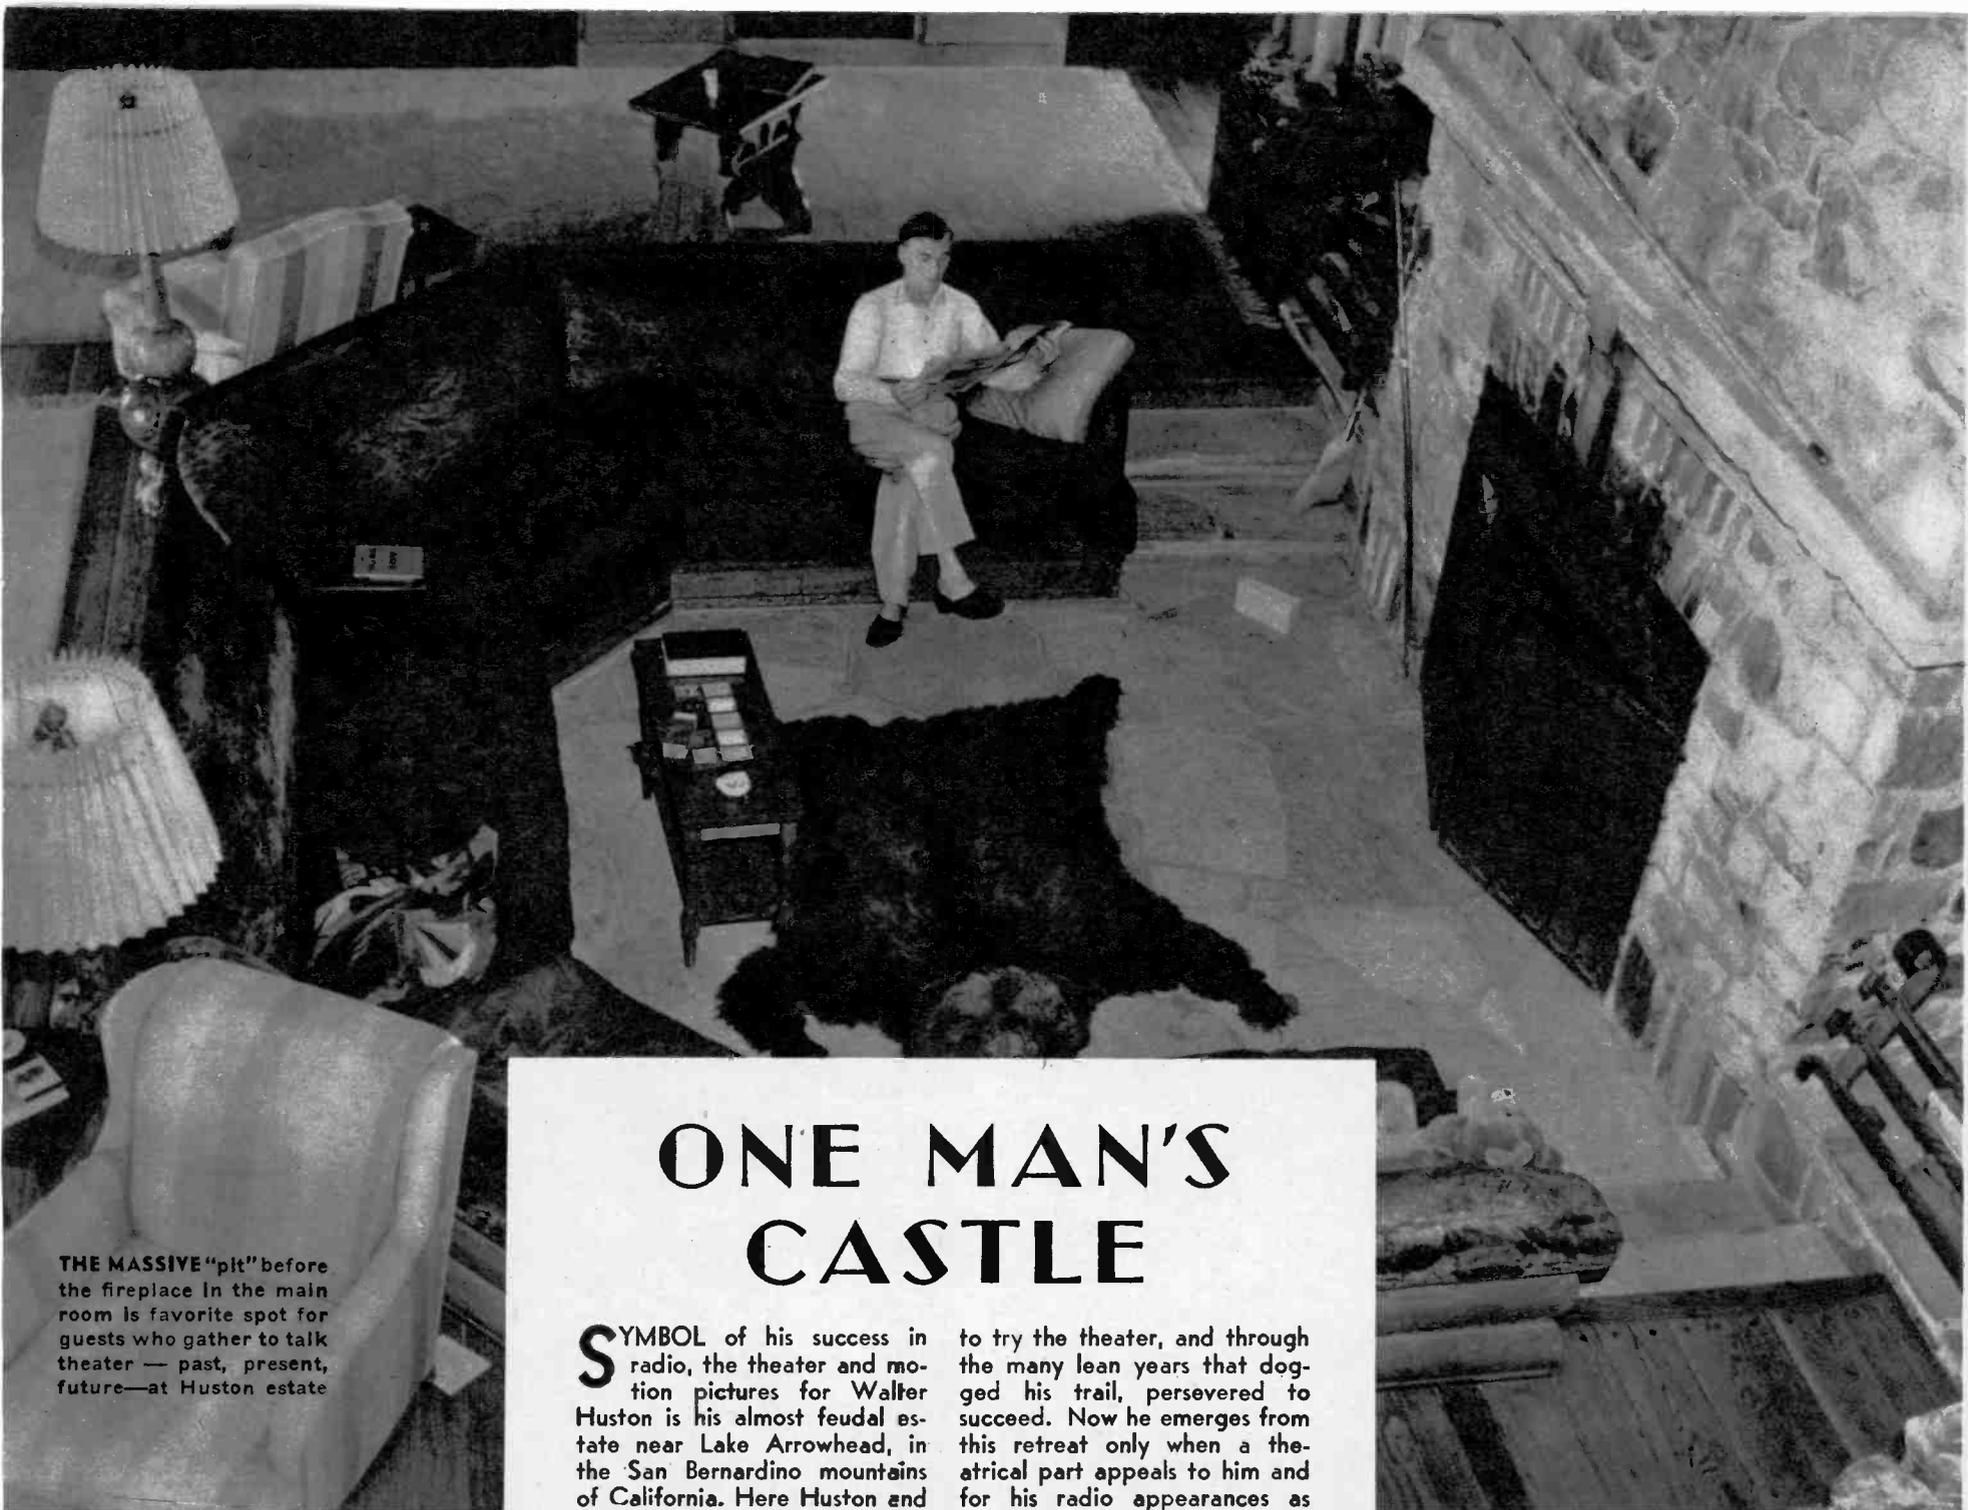

AS DO ALL TUNA FISHERMEN, Elman (r.) and his ad-man friend, Tom Lane, wear leather harnesses, costing about $25, to give support when pulling back on rod after "gaffing" fish. When tuna strikes, it whips the line out two or three hundred yards, but reel carries good 2,100 feet for playing fish

A CLOSE-UP of tuna rod and reel. To get tuna, Elman uses pumping motion, pulling back on rod, then reeling in as rod is let down again

DAVE'S FIRST CATCH was a 25-pounder—he has caught much larger—which he is holding at right. Ready to try again, he calls wife by ship's radio-telephone (extreme right) that he'll be late for supper

THE MASSIVE "pit" before the fireplace in the main room is favorite spot for guests who gather to talk theater — past, present, future—at Huston estate

ONE MAN'S CASTLE

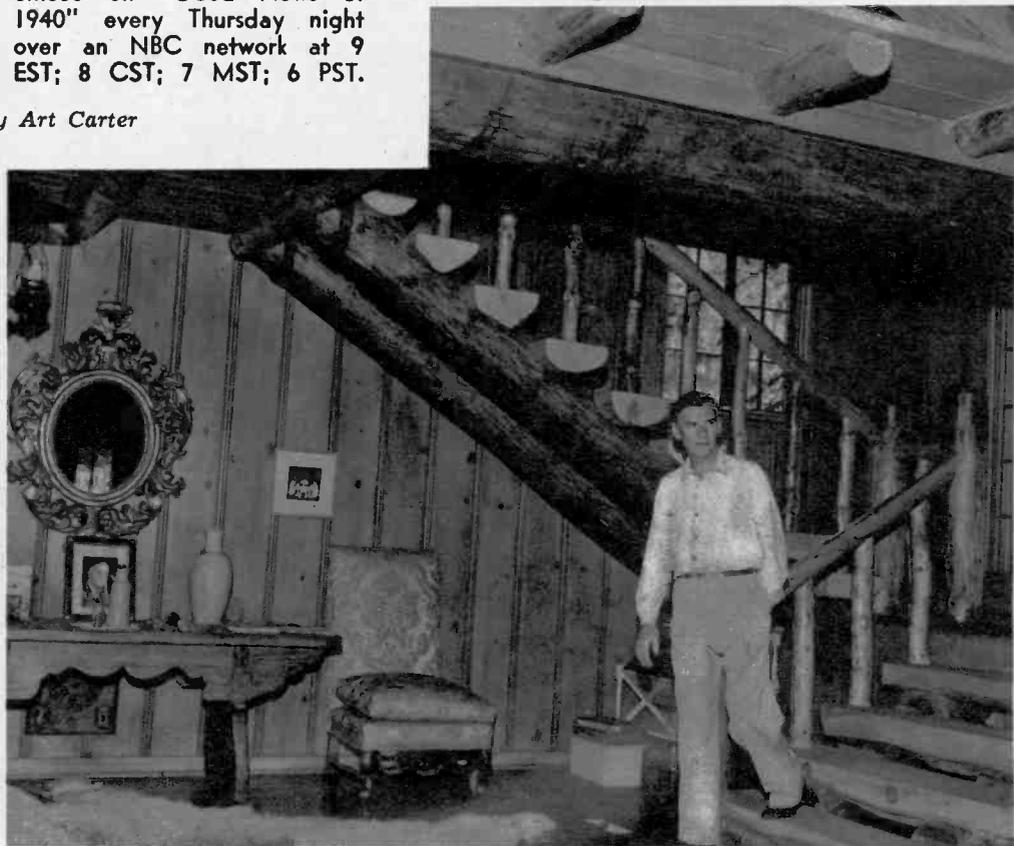

SYMBOL of his success in radio, the theater and motion pictures for Walter Huston is his almost feudal estate near Lake Arrowhead, in the San Bernardino mountains of California. Here Huston and his wife, Nan Sunderland, live in semi-retirement after years of struggle. Huston ran away from his home at the age of eighteen to try the theater, and through the many lean years that dogged his trail, persevered to succeed. Now he emerges from this retreat only when a theatrical part appeals to him and for his radio appearances as emcee on "Good News of 1940" every Thursday night over an NBC network at 9 EST; 8 CST; 7 MST; 6 PST.

Photographs by Art Carter

NUMBER ONE playmate to Chips, Huston's German police dog, is Walter, shown walking with him here before the residence. The huge chimney has fireplaces both inside and out for year-around use and comfort

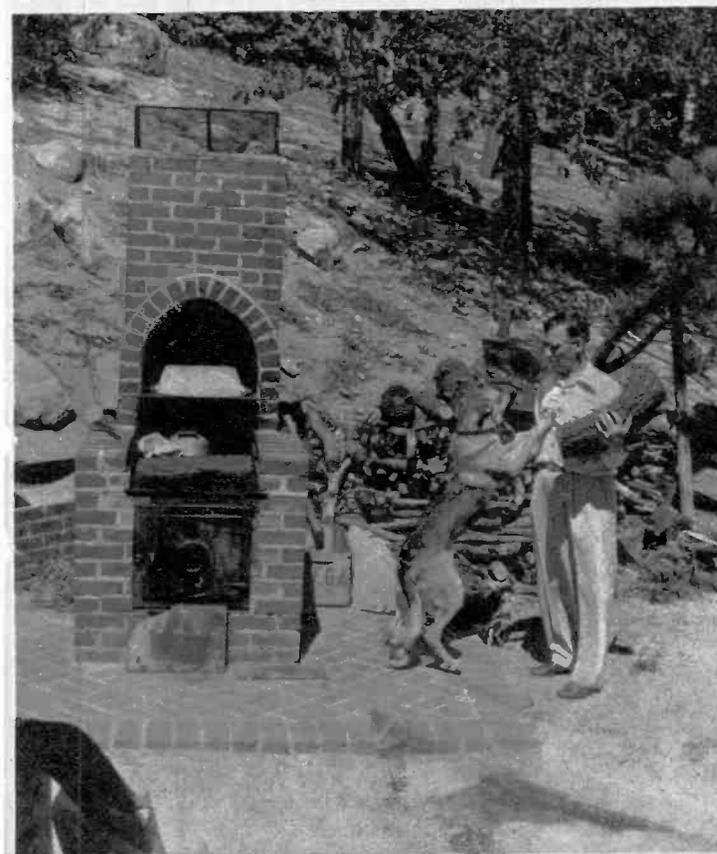

HUSTON DESCENDS steps to the large center room where autographed picture of President Roosevelt is seen on table. The President and Walter became friends when Huston played President in "Gabriel Over the White House"

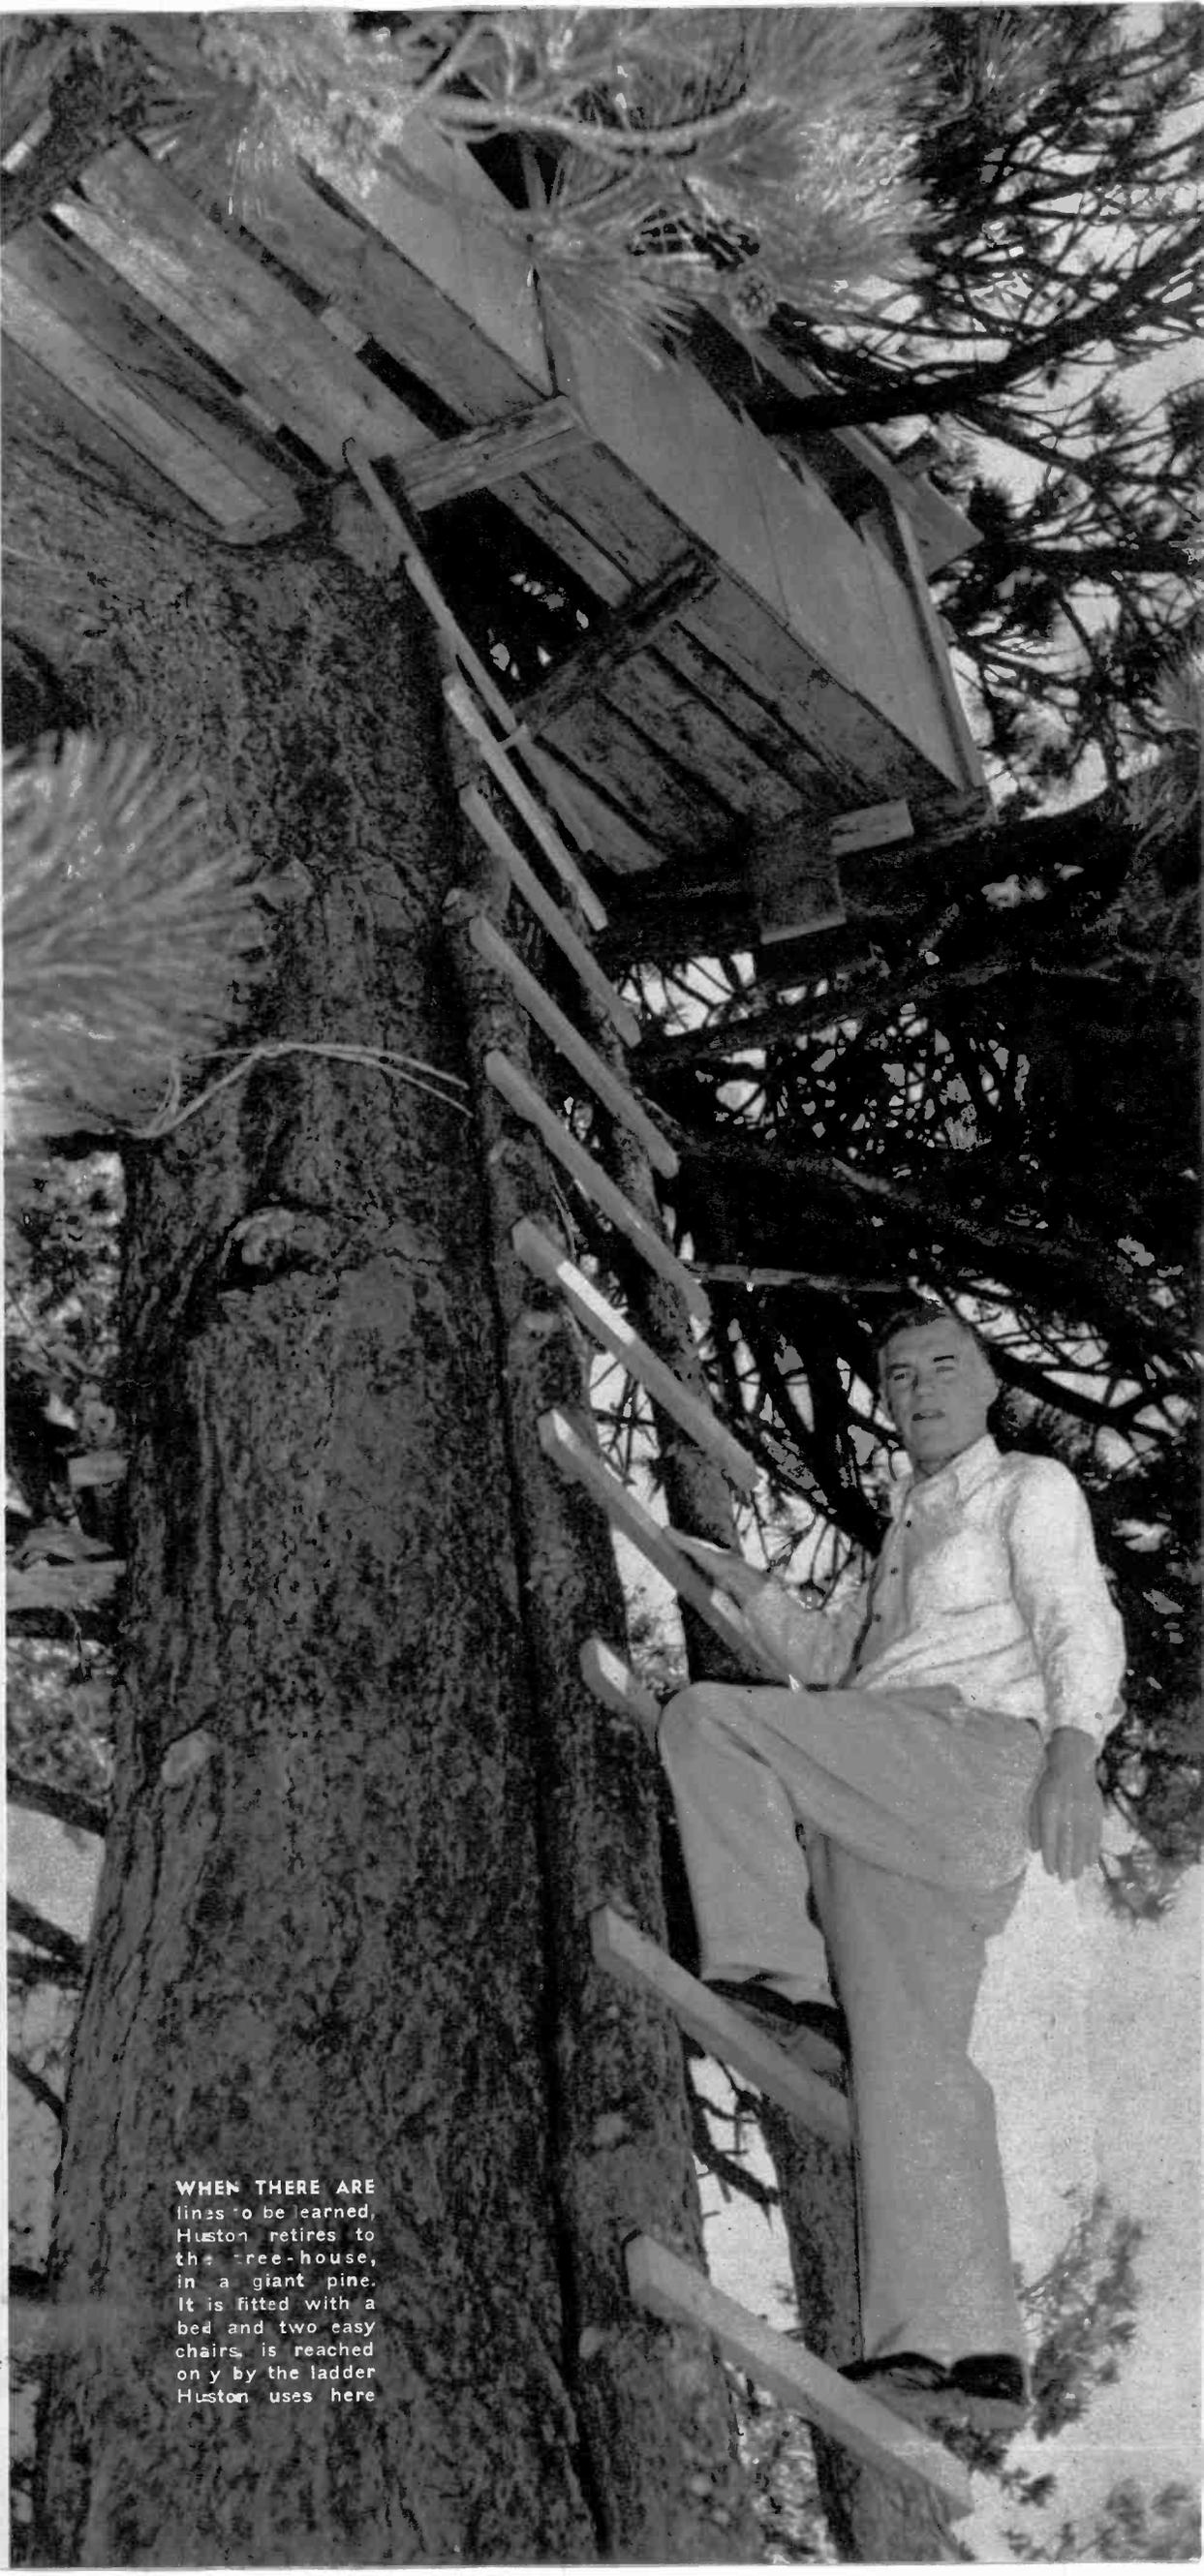

FROM HIS outdoor "steakhouse," built for warm summer evenings from timber cut near by, Huston surveys the valley lying beneath the "Rim of the World" on which he lives. He admits being a gourmet and of loving thick and juicy steaks

AN ASTRONOMY FAN, Huston is seen here cleaning the lens of his ten-inch telescope, conveniently located near the house. Much of his library space is devoted to books on this science and he spends long evenings studying the planets and stars here

STEAKS TO BE consumed in the steakhouse are often prepared in this Dutch oven by Huston himself. Chips, an ever-present companion, wants to help him carry the wood to be used in the outdoor cooking

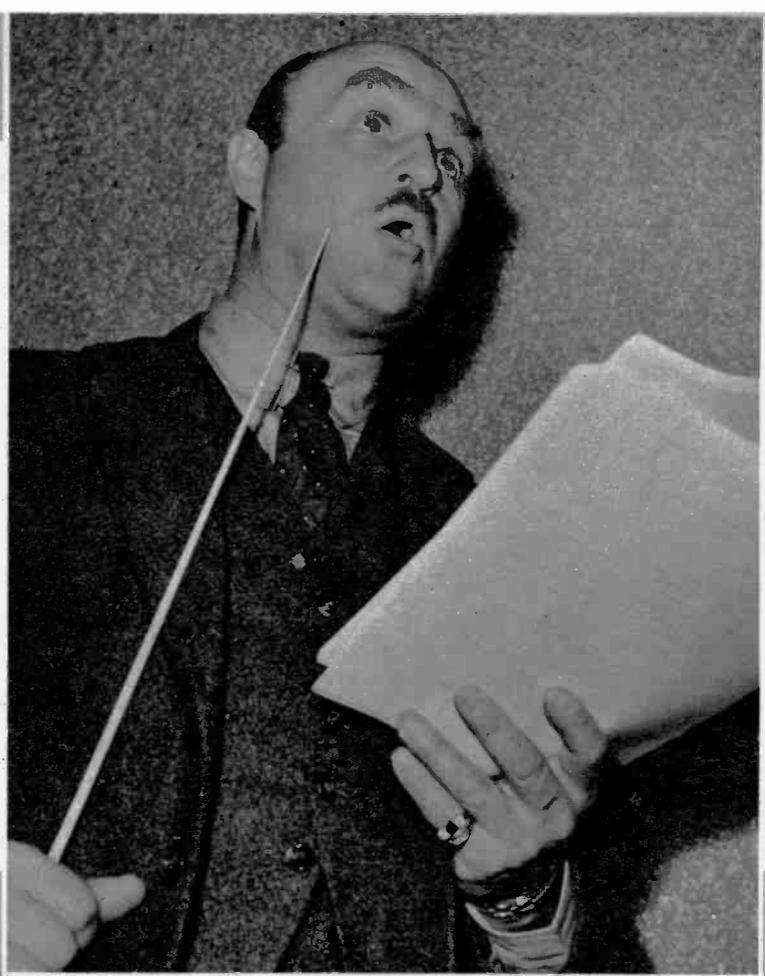

WHEN THERE ARE lessons to be learned, Huston retires to the tree-house, in a giant pine. It is fitted with a bed and two easy chairs. is reached only by the ladder Huston uses here

FLIGHT TO WHAT GLORY?

BY LUD GLUSKIN

Music Director of CBS' Western Division

Told by a Lafayette Escadrille ace—now in radio—who joined up for a thrill he didn't get

—Gene Lester

THEY call me an ace. I shot down eighteen German planes during the World War. So I'm an ace. But I wouldn't even remember the number of opponents I downed except for a Croix de Guerre I brought home. It has eighteen palms. There's a Victoria Cross and a French Legion of Honor medal, too. They don't seem at all important now. They seemed only a bit more important when I was decorated. I—we all, in fact—was too tired to think of glory at the front. War wasn't half the fun it seemed from this side of the Atlantic.

Yes, I read those glamorous magazine stories by Elliot Spring and others who painted the life of a member of the Lafayette Escadrille as a sort of thrilling, brilliant heaven on earth. . . . But take them with a grain of salt. Let's see what happened to me.

I enlisted in October, 1916, in France at the true age of seventeen. I added a couple of years when I signed in order to impress the French. I also changed my name from Ludwig, obviously German, to Lud—which I still use. I had run away from my American home because my father didn't want me to be a musician. I thought that the war would be a great adventure, full of fun, laughs and thrills when I sailed to France third class with savings which were intended for my college education.

I had set my heart on being a flier because I had read of the exploits of Rene Fonck and Paul Guymere of the Lafayette Escadrille. The French thought I'd make a better intelligence officer since I spoke German fluently. But I held out for the Escadrille and won my point because fliers were too few and they were happy to have more of them, especially from America.

I'd never flown a plane before. They didn't take long to teach me. They shipped me straight off to the training-school at Plouescat, near Brest, for ground school and finished me off as a flier at Neuilly, near Paris, after three months. I was given my insignia of a circular wreath with wings that marked a French pilot. Without time for celebration, I was told to report immediately to the Lafayette Escadrille, then at least ninety percent French in its roster, located near Rheims.

I looked forward to my first flight. But I was disappointed. I was sent up on a routine reconnaissance flight to learn the controls of the French Spad which had been assigned to me. Nothing happened. Nothing at all happened for several weeks except hard work. We were assigned sectors to patrol at dawn. That meant early rising, well before the sun. Then, after several hours, we would report back, take breakfast, and go up again to reconnoiter. We would report back for lunch and in the afternoon go on another patrol. After dinner we were glad to fall into our bunks, dog-tired. Of course, had a flight of German planes come over our lines, we would have been ordered up to fight them, but none appeared.

FINALLY the day of my first adventure arrived just as I was about to desert from sheer boredom. Thirty-two pilots were up at dawn patrolling various sectors and three of us were left at the airdrome to protect it. Shortly after the mass flight had left, a lone German Fokker came over the lines and we sighted him. We three pilots were assigned to go up. He put up a good fight—one against three—but I brought him down in flames in five minutes.

Was I thrilled? Was I afraid?

The answer is "no" to both questions. It was strictly business. My idea during that fight was simply to get him before he got me or my two companion pilots. When his ship dived to the ground, I was more dazed than anything. We returned to the airdrome. But there was no celebration, for the main patrol returned that afternoon with two ships missing. The camp was pretty sad. No one talked.

My first official victory did, however, win me my Croix de Guerre. Our flight commander simply called me to his office and congratulated me. Next day the cross arrived. Life returned to normal for me—which meant no excitement, simply routine hard work.

Several weeks later I flew into plenty of excitement. Our formation flight over the German lines was attacked by a superior number of Fokkers above us. They swooped down and I became separated from the formation. Four or five German ships were circling me so that I had no chance to escape—and I thought my number was up—when by luck one of my attackers flew into range of my machine-gun. I gave it to him and he dropped in flames. His ship was in the way of two of the attackers and they broke the circle to avoid hitting him. That gave me an opening and I high-tailed it for the French lines and Rheims. When I landed I saw bullet-holes in my wings five feet from my seat. "Five feet more," I thought, "and I'd be six feet underground!" This flying business was getting to be a very serious matter.

With all the danger, I was glad I wasn't in the trenches. On patrols we'd see shells and grenades explode—and arms, legs and heads fly into the air. A line of troops would go over the top and would be mowed down by machine-gun fire like wheat by a mower. Those were people, people dying, but I was too dazed to realize the horrible high cost to humanity the war was piling up.

It came home to me first when my two roommates, Renard and Combelle, my two best pals in the Escadrille, failed to return from a patrol flight on a single day.

"Reported missing."

THE Lud Gluskin who, according to custom, took his roommates' clothing and trinkets to their parents and reported them missing in action, was a different fellow from the carefree, adventure-seeking youth who had run away from home less than six months before. I believe that was the hardest task I have ever had to do in my whole life. . . . I never want to have to do anything like it again.

After America entered the war in April, 1917, I was transferred to their forces. I was a captain then, and as such I was present at the funeral of Theodore Roosevelt's youngest son, Quentin. He had been a member of my squadron.

The first American fliers, too, were out for a lark. The death of Quentin Roosevelt and others soon settled them down to the fact that this was a business—a grim business dealing in death—and that you had to sell death to the other fellow first or you died.

The horror of it all began to develop a sort of chivalry between the Allied and German fliers. We would prefer to force an opponent down behind our lines rather than set his ship on fire or put it out of control. Such an incident occurred to me with a re-echo as late as 1924. I had brought down an Austrian behind our lines. He landed his ship, but I saw that he was badly hurt. I landed, carried him from his damaged ship to mine and flew him to our hospital. . . . That was my twelfth victory. . . . After the war, in 1924, I was playing in Vienna at the Tabarin when a stranger approached me during a music intermission and asked, "Remember me?" I did. He was the Austrian I had flown to the hospital. He had been a baron before the war; now his estates brought no revenues, nothing but taxes. He was making a living by hiring out as a gigolo at the Tabarin Cafe.

The war dragged on and on. The longer it dragged, the less the "glory" and the greater the danger and the harder the work. No Man's Land was so full of contact mines that you were almost afraid to walk for fear you'd be blown to atoms.

But finally the Armistice came, and we fliers celebrated. As many of us as could get machines and play hockey did, and headed straight for Paris, where we flew over the city and stunted in sheer joy at the ending of the war.

What Sherman said about war wasn't nearly bad enough to describe the conflict of 1914-19, and today it's worse still. Yes, I'd go to war again, if called, but not as a starry-eyed youth seeking adventure. For no matter what anyone tells you, war isn't fun!

OLD BOOKS WANTED
We pay big cash prices for thousands of different titles. We bought over 7,500 books in past twenty-one months, and have paid as high as $500.00 for a single book. For example, we will pay you cash for the following books as described in our price list:
Pilgrim's Progress $4,000.00
Adventures of Tom Sawyer 200.00
Old Swinmin' Hole 75.00
Black Beauty 100.00
Treasure Island 50.00
Scarlet Letter 35.00
Venus and Adonis 5,000.00
Snow-Bound 45.00
Uncle Tom's Cabin 50.00
Leaves of Grass 250.00
Ben Hur 25.00
Last of the Mohicans 50.00
Moby Dick 100.00
Little Women 25.00
McGuffey Primer 100.00
Tamerlane & Other Poems 5,000.00
These are but a few of the many thousands of books we want. DON'T SEND BOOKS until you have checked our latest list giving full information. Don't delay—a single old school book, story book, Bible, poetry, history, travel, almanacs, newspapers, letters, autograph, etc., may bring you $25, $50, $100, $500 or even $5,000 cash for certain books. Better investigate NOW. Send 25c coin or stamps to the American Book Mart, Dept. 401, 140 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, and we will send latest list of old books we want to buy and cash prices we will pay.

DISCARD YOUR OLD AERIAL
It is Most Likely Corroded and Has Poor or Loose Noisy Connections
No MORE BUZZES. CLICKS and shorts from summer rains and winter snow and sleet when using an F & H Capacity Aerial Eliminator. Anyone can connect behind the set. set enables your radio to operate without an aerial and tune in stations over the entire broadcast band frequencies and short wave channels.
ELIMINATE THE AERIAL FOR GOOD
Attach this unit to your radio—make your set complete in itself—forget aerial wires and troubles—move your set anywhere—no more roof climbing, unsightly lead-in or aerial wires.
NOT NEW—VALUE ALREADY PROVED
On the market five years, 100,000 customers in U.S. and foreign countries.
In use from the Arctic Region of Norway to the Tropics of Africa. Each factory tested on actual long distance reception. Cannot harm set—Easily connected to any radio, including radios having no ground or radios for doublet aerial. Note: It will not operate on battery or automobile radios connected to aerial. Mail coupon at once. Pay postman $1.00 plus a 5 DAYS TRIAL fee pennies postage on delivery. If not entirely satisfied, return within five days and your dollar will be refunded without question.
JUST MAIL THIS COUPON:
F & H Radio Laboratories, Dept. 106, Fargo, N. Dak.
Send F & H Capacity Aerial. Will pay postman $1 plus few cents postage. If not pleased will return within 5 days for $1 refund. Check here if sending $1 with order—thus saving postage cost—same refund guaranteed. Check here if interested in dealer's proposition.

WAVE Your Hair AT HOME With "JACKEY" Wave Setter

New amazing device gives you professional wave in a few minutes—also resets your permanent. "Jackey" does for you, mechanically, what the beauty operator does with her fingers and a comb, when she gives you a finger wave. It took her six months to learn it, you can do it instantly by placing the "Jackey" on your hair and merely pushing your thumb and forefinger together. It automatically draws any type of wave, void of amateurish look, best suited to your personality; saves $13.50 to $26.00 a year on beauty bill. Uses no heat; no electricity; no dangerous chemicals. Made of sturdy comb-like material; lasts many years. Light as a feather, a child can handle it. Costs only $1.00. Just send $1.00 for "Jackey" postpaid. Or send your name and address and we'll ship C. O. D. GOOD PAY JOB IN RADIO

Here's How it Happened
 by S.J.E. NAME AND ADDRESS SENT UPON REQUEST

"I had an $18 a week job in a shoe factory. I'd probably be at it today if I hadn't read about the opportunities in Radio and started training at home for them."

"The training National Radio Institute gave me was so practical I was soon ready to make $5 to $10 a week in spare time servicing Radio sets."

When I finished training I accepted a job as serviceman with Radio store. In three weeks I was made service manager more than twice what I earned in the shoe factory."

"Eight months later N. R. I. Employment Department sent me to Station KWCR as a Radio Operator. Now I am Radio Engineer at Station WSUI. I am also connected with Television Station W9XK."

"N. R. I. Training took me out of a low-pay shoe factory job and put me into Radio at good pay. Radio is growing fast."

Find out today how I Train You at Home to BE A RADIO TECHNICIAN
Many Make $30, $40, $50 a Week

J. E. SMITH, President
National Radio Institute Established 25 Years
 He has directed the training of more men for the Radio Industry than anyone else.

Radio is a young, growing field with a future. It offers you any good pay spare time and full time job opportunities. And you don't have to give up your present job, go away from home, or spend a lot of money to become a Radio Technician. I train you right at home in your spare time.

Jobs Like These Go to Men Who Know Radio
 Radio broadcasting stations employ engineers, operators, technicians and pay well for trained men. Radio manufacturers employ testers, inspectors, foremen, servicemen in good-pay jobs with opportunities for advancement. Radio jobbers and dealers employ installation and service men. Many Radio Technicians open their own Radio sales and repair businesses and make $30, $40, $50 a week. Others hold their regular jobs and make $5 to $10 a week fixing radios in spare time. Automobile, police, aviation, commercial Radio; loud-speaker systems, electronic devices, are new fields offering good opportunities to qualified men. My Course includes Television, which promises to open any good jobs soon.

Why Many Radio Technicians Make $30, $40, $50 a Week

Radio is already one of the country's large industries even though it is still young and growing. The arrival of Television, the use of Radio principles in industry, are but a few of many recent Radio developments. More than 10,000,000 homes have one or more Radios. There are more Radios than telephones. Every year millions of Radios get out of date and are replaced. Millions more need new tubes, repairs, etc. Over 5,000,000 auto radios are in use and thousands more are being sold every day. In every branch Radio is offering more opportunities—opportunities for which I give you the required knowledge of Radio at home in your spare time. Yes, the few hundred $30, $40, $50 a week jobs of 20 years ago have grown to thousands.

Many Make $5 to $10 a Week Extra in Spare Time While Learning

The day you enroll, in addition to my regular course, I start sending you Extra Money Job Sheets which start showing you how to do actual Radio repair jobs. Throughout your course I send plans and directions which have helped many make from $200 to $500 a year in spare time while learning.

You Get Practical Experience While Learning

I send you special Radio equipment; show you how to conduct experiments, build circuits illustrating important principles used in modern Radio and Television receivers, broadcasting station and loudspeaker installations. My 50-50 method of training gives you both printed instruction and actual work with Radio parts—makes learning at home interesting, fascinating, practical. I ALSO GIVE YOU A MODERN, PRO-FESSIONAL, ALL-WAVE RADIO SET SERVICING INSTRUMENT to help you make more money fixing Radio Sets while learning and to equip you with a professional instrument for full time work after you graduate.

Find Out What Radio Offers You

Act today. Mail coupon for my 64-page book, "Rich Rewards in Radio." It points out Radio's spare time and full time opportunities and those coming in Television; tells about my course in Radio and Television; shows many letters from men I trained, telling what they are doing and earning. Read my money back agreement. Find out what Radio offers you. Mail coupon in envelope or paste on a penny postcard—NOW.
