NEXT WEEK

TYRONE POWER is the Dark Duke of the cinema kingdom of Graustark and Annabella is his Duchess. At least that's the conclusion James Street drew after he had visited with the happily married Powers in their Hollywood Duchy a few weeks back and, beginning next week, Mr. Street places Ty and Annabella under his discerning microscope for the benefit of Movie and Radio Guide readers in an admirable successor to his still-remembered revelation of the Gables' home life in "Two Happy People." Seriously, Mr. Street isn't a man to ask home to dinner. He sees too much and, a born reporter, what Mr. Street sees he tells in a highly enjoyable style. Not content with reporting what he found at the Powers' home today, Mr. Street digs back into the past, into early romances and adventures and their courtship to give you a more than slight idea of what makes them tick. It's a story we're proud to present, one you'll be tickled to read.

James Street

Those Basebawlers

Practically every radio listener has at one time or another complained bitterly of the failings of baseball broadcasters. It is unusual, however, to find a ball-player mounting the soap-box to inveigh against the ball-callers, and it's highly unusual when a famous big-league pitcher tells the "big league" broadcasting boys exactly what he thinks of them.

Guy Bush

But in next week's Movie and Radio Guide, Guy Bush, famed pitcher, with the Chicago Cubs 1923-34, also with the Pittsburgh Pirates, Boston Bees and St. Louis Cardinals, opens up on "Those Basebawlers." Off the diamond for the past two seasons, Guy has had his first taste of baseball by radio. He doesn't like it so well. So he gives the boys a friendly going-over, making several novel suggestions which will be most interesting to baseball fans. Don't miss "Those Basebawlers." Other features for radio listeners next week will be "Get Ready for Radio's Moving-Day," a story of forthcoming events which will shift every station on your radio's dial, and a new picture-quiz game with Budd Hulick masquerading as famous characters, asking you, "What's My Name?"

THIS WEEK

"CRAZY-HOUSE Program" is the title we chose for our "Club Matinee" story (on Page 42)—in full confidence that any fan of that zany, light-hearted radio program would heartily concur. Listeners like "Club Matinee" because it is crazy. For them it will be like meeting old friends to read our informal profiles of "Club Matinee" personalities — Ransom Sherman, Garry Moore, Nancy Martin, Evelyn Lynne—and like sitting with the studio audience to laugh over the screwball stratagems in which the cast indulges. For those who don't know "Club Matinee" it will be an introduction to a great comedy show which is literally a star-making program also. Then on Page 14 you'll find our up-to-the-minute report on what you may expect of television in 1940. And by all means read crack producer Vick Knight's story of his own exciting job on the Rudy Vallee show (Page 41).

The Girl on the Cover

Because a dramatic career appeared to present more difficulties than a career as a dress designer, and because Hedy Lamarr is a lady who believes that the hard-to-get job is the better job, Hollywood gained its most exotic and exciting star of the moment. Hedy, daughter of a successful Viennese banker, Emil Kiese, studied designing at a fashionable private school when, at the age of sixteen, she decided to become an actress. Having no studio entrees, she applied for and secured a job as a script clerk in a Vienna studio. Before she had been there forty-eight hours, she had wangled a bit part in a picture and, before the year was out, she was playing leading roles for the studio. In 1937, Hedy came to Hollywood where her first role, opposite Charles Boyer in "Algiers," made her an overnight sensation. Currently, Hedy—in real life Mrs. Gene Markey—is working on M-G-M's "Boom Town," soon to be released. The star designs all her own clothes. Her favorite sports are swimming, tennis and skiing. She plays the piano and her favorite entertainment is going to the movies. Her favorite picture is "Camille." Natural color photograph of her is by Willinger.

Triangle in TECHNICOLOR

• • • "North West Mounted Police"

SCOOP!—First pictures to appear from the location where Cecil B. DeMille is now at work filming "North West Mounted Police" are these which give a quick insight into the tale soon to be unfolded. Historically accurate, as are all DeMille pictures, filmed in Technicolor, this will tell the story of two men who fight for the love of a girl against the majestic scenery of the Canadian Northwest. Gary Cooper, a Texas ranger (above, with Madeleine Carroll, the girl), is one point of the triangle; Robert Preston (left), a handsomely uniformed Mountie, is another, and beautiful Madeleine is, of course, the third.

ABOVE: Simon Stimson (Phillip Wood) liked women and whisky too much to be a good church organist. He hated to rehearse "Our Town's" choir, which includes Doro Merande, Fay Bainter and Beulah Bondi

ABOVE: Everybody in "Our Town" turned out for the Gibbs-Webb wedding. Dick Alden is seen as the best man, Guy Kibbee as Webb

BELOW, right, the situation at the Gibbs' is similar. It isn't every day that a son gets married!

THE majesty of simplicity, the small joys and small tragedies which never find the headlines but which, nonetheless, are so deeply rooted in all who ever came from small towns, is the majesty of "Our Town," the Pulitzer prize-winning play from the pen of Thornton Wilder which now comes to the screen so excellently done as to be chosen as MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE'S Picture of the Week. "Our Town" is just that—the story of our town and its characters. Nor does it matter that "Our Town's" locale is Grover's

Town

Guide Picture of the Week

THERE ARE BIRTHS IN "OUR TOWN," and this new addition to the George Gibbs family is a little fellow and a grand climax to Thornton Wilder's simple, moving tale

Corners, N. H. In reality "Our Town" is the heart and soul of any village on the map of the United States. From it stems the love-story of Emily Webb (Martha Scott) and George Gibbs (William Holden). But somehow their story is unimportant as the stories of all those lovable and damnable characters who are the ingredients of the census report and "Our Town's" population are revealed. You'll meet—and remember from your own home town—such people as Dr. Gibbs (Thomas Mitchell), Editor Webb (Guy Kibbee), Mrs. Gibbs (Fay Bainter), Mrs. Webb (Beulah Bondi) and a host of others. You'll meet the mysterious Mr. Morgan (Frank Craven), who remembered Grover's Corners when few now living were born and who acts as commentator for the whole revelation. As a stage play, no settings were used. The characters were all that were needed to set the stage. The film, utilizing settings, has lost none of the simple beauty of the play and is, perhaps, an even more moving picture of "Our Town" for its simple scene.

GANGSTER TO MONK is the transition Edward G. Robinson (above) will make in his Warner Bros. picture, "Brother Orchid," soon to be released. Ann Sothern (below) is his girl friend, a character added to the movie version of this unusual story

Brother Orchid

Edward G. Robinson will star in the movie version of this unique and famous short story

By Richard Connell

When this unique story was published, it captured the imagination of everyone who read it. When the announcement was made that Warner Bros. had bought the screen rights and would make it into a movie starring Edward G. Robinson, hundreds of thousands of readers began looking forward to the motion picture. Now, because the movie "Brother Orchid" is soon to be shown in the nation's theaters, because those who missed reading the original story should find in it the same thrill readers did when it was first published—and because it is a story, the re-reading of which will increase everyone's enjoyment of the forthcoming picture—MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE herewith presents the original "Brother Orchid," exactly as Richard Connell wrote it.—Editor.

"BE SMART," the warden said. "Go straight."

A grin creased the leather face of Little John Sarto.

"I am goin' straight," he said. "Straight to Chi."

"I wouldn't if I were you, Sarto." "Why not? I owned that burg once. I'll own it again."

"Things have changed in ten years." "But not me," said Little John. "I still got what it takes to be on top."

"You didn't stay there," the warden observed.

"I got framed," Sarto said. "Imagine shovin' me on the rock on a sissy income-tax rap!"

"It was the only charge they could make stick," the warden said. "You were always pretty slick, Sarto."

"I was, and I am," said Little John.

The warden frowned. "Now look here, Sarto. When a man has done his time and I'm turning him loose, I'm supposed to give him some friendly advice. I do it, though I know that in most cases it's a farce. You'd think men who'd done a stretch here in Alcatraz ought to have a sneaking notion that crime does not pay; but while I'm preaching my little sermon I see a far-away look in their eyes and I know they're figuring out their next bank job or snatch."

"Don't class me with them small-time heisters and petty-larceny yeggs," said Little John. "I'm a born big shot." "You're apt to die the same way," said the warden dryly.

"That's okay, net, by me," said Little John. "When I peg out I want to go with fireworks, flowers and bands; but you'll have a beard to your knees before they get out the last extra on Little John Sarto. I got a lot of livin' to do first; I got to wash out the taste of slum with a lakeful of champagne, and it'll take half the blondes in the Loop to make me forget them nights in solitary. But most of all I got to be myself again, not just a number. For every order I've took here on the rock, I'm goin' to give two. I'm goin' to see guys shiver and jump when I speak. I've played mouse long enough. Watch me be a lion again."

The warden sighed. "Sarto," he said, "why don't you play it safe? Stay away from Chicago. Settle in some new part of the country. Go into business. You've got brains and a real gift for organization. You ran a big business once—"

"Million a month, net," put in Sarto.

"And you're only forty-six and full of health," the warden went on. "You can still make a fresh start."

"Using what for wampum?" asked Little John.

"You've got plenty salted away."

Sarto laughed a wry laugh.

"I got the ten bucks, and the ticket back to Chi, and this frowsy suit the prison gimme, and that's all I got," he said.

"Don't tell me you're broke!"

"Flat as a mat," said Little John. "I spent it like I made it—fast. A king's got to live like a king, ain't he? When I give a dame flowers, it was always orchids. My free-chow bill ran to a grand a week. They called me a public enemy but they treated me like a year-round Sandy Claws . . . But I ain't worryin'. I was born broke. I got over it."

A prison guard came in to say that the launch was ready to take Sarto to the mainland.

"Well, good-by, Warden," said Sarto jauntily. "If you ever get to Chi gimme a buzz. I'll throw a party for you."

"Wait a minute," said the warden. "I can't let you go till I make one last attempt to start you on the right track. I know a man who'll give you a job. He runs a big truck farm and—"

He stopped, for Sarto was shaking with hoarse laughter.

"Me a rube?" Little John got out. "Me a bodyguard to squashes? Warden, the stir-bugs has got you."

"It's a chance to make an honest living."

"Save it for some cluck that would feel right at home livin' with turnips," Sarto said. "I got other plans."

The siren on the launch gave an impatient belch.

"So long, Warden," said Little John. "I won't be seein' you."

"You're right there," the warden said.

Sarto's face darkened at the words. "Meanin' Chi might be bad for my health?"

"I've heard rumors to that effect," replied the warden.

"I'VE heard 'em for years," said Little John. "They're a lotta rat spit. Plenty guys has talked about what they was goin' to do to me. I always sent flowers to their funerals—you heard about that."

He chuckled. "A big heart of forget-me-nots with 'Sorry, Pal' in white orchids on it."

"All right, wise guy," the warden said. "Go to Chicago. The sooner you get rubbed out the better for everybody. You're no good and you never will be."

"Atta clown," said Little John Sarto. "Always leave 'em laughin' when you say good-by."

Laughing, he started out toward the big gray gate.

Deep in the woods in an out-of-the-world corner of Michigan, squat, unkempt Twin Pine Inn hides itself. It was silent that summer night, and dark save for a single window in the taproom. Behind the customerless bar, Fat Dutchy was drinking his fourth rock-and-rye.

"Stick 'em up. This is a heist."

The voice, low and with a snarl in it, came from the doorway behind him. Up went Fat Dutchy's hands.

"Easy with the rod," he whimpered. "There ain't a sawbuck in the joint."

"Not like the good old days," the voice said.

Dutchy turned his head. Little John Sarto was standing there with nothing more lethal in his hand than a big cigar. Dutchy blinked and goggled.

"Well, grease ball, do I look funny?" Sarto demanded.

"No—no—boss, you ain't changed a bit."

"I don't change," Sarto said. "Gimme a slug of bourbon."

Fat Dutchy sloshed four fingers of whisky into a glass. His hand trembled. Liquor splashed on the bar.

"What you got the jits about?" asked Sarto.

"You gimme a turn comin' in like you was a ghost or sumpin'," said Fat Dutchy. He wiped sweat from his mottled jowls with the bar rag. Sarto gulped his drink.

"Business bad, eh?"

"It ain't even bad, boss. It just ain't."

"Cheer up, pig puss. You'll soon be scoffin' filly mignons smothered with century notes," Sarto said. "I'm back."

Fat Dutchy rubbed his paunch and looked unhappily at the floor.

"Things is different," he said.

Sarto banged his glass down on the bar.

"If one more lug tells me that, I'll kick his gizzard out," he said. "Now, listen. I'm holin' up here till I get my bearin's. Soon as I get things set, I'm goin' to town. But first I gotta contact some of the boys."

Fat Dutchy played nervously with the bar rag.

"Gimme another slug," Sarto ordered. "I got a ten-year thirst."

Fat Dutchy poured out the drink. Again his shaking hands made him spill some of it.

"Here's to me," said Sarto, and drank. "Now, listen: I want you to pass the office along to certain parties that I'm here and want to see 'em, pronto. For a starter, get in touch with Philly Powell, Ike Gelbert, Ouch O'Day, Willie the Knife, Benny Maletta, French Frank, Hop Latzo, Al Muller and that fresh kid that was so handy with a tommy gun—"

"Jack Buck?"

"Yeah. I may need a torpedo. When I fell out, he had the makin's of a good dropper. So get that phone workin', lard head—you know where they hang out."

"Sure," said Fat Dutchy. He held up his hands and ticked off names on his thick fingers.

"Ike Gelbert and Al Muller is in the jug doin' life jolts," he said. "Philly Powell and French Frank was crossed out right at this bar. Ouch O'Day

"Jack's in strong. He's waitin' for you, boss, and he ain't foolin'. The boys tell me it's worth three G's to the guy that settles you."

Sarto snorted. "Only three grand!" he said indignantly.

"That's serious sugar nowadays," said Fat Dutchy. "I'm tellin' you times is sour. Jack Buck has cornered the few grafts that still pay. He's got a mob of muzzlers that was in reform school when you was head man. You ain't nothin' to 'em but a name and a chance to earn three thousand fish."

Sarto sipped his drink. Lines of thought furrowed his face.

"I'll stay here till I figure out an angle," he announced.

"BOSS," said Fat Dutchy, "I don't wanna speak outa turn, but wouldn't it be a smart play to take it on the lam for a while?"

"Where to?"

Fat Dutchy shrugged his stout shoulders.

"I wouldn't know, boss," he said. "When the heat's on—"

"Yeah, I know," cut in Sarto. "You're cooked wherever you go."

"What are you goin' to do, boss?"

"I'm goin' to hit the sheets and dream up an out," said Little John.

Dog-tired though he was, he could not get to sleep. His mind yanked him away from dreams, back to prison, to the deathhouse, where men were lying in the dark, as he was, trying to sleep.

"They got the bulge on me, at that," he thought. "They know when they're goin' to get it."

He felt like a man reading his own

He was a huge, soft-looking young man with a jovial freckled face. His suit was bottle-green and expensive. Sarto had never seen him before.

"Up, up, pet," he said, and waved at Sarto a big blue-black automatic.

A second man watched from the other side of the bed. He was younger and smaller than the first man, and his flour-white face was perfectly blank. Sarto did not know him either.

Sarto sat up in bed.

"Listen, fellas," he said, "if I get a break you get five grand."

"Got it on you, darling?" asked the freckled man.

"Nope. But I can dig it up inside a week."

"Sorry. We do a strictly cash business," the freckled man said.

"I'll make it ten grand," said Little John. He addressed the pallid man.

"Wadda you say, bud? Ten G's."

The freckled man chuckled.

"He'd say 'no' if he could say anything," he said. "He doesn't hear, either. His eyes are good, though. His name is Harold, but we call him Dummy."

Sarto held his naked, flabby body very stiff and straight.

"Do your stuff," he said.

Dummy took his hand from his pocket. There was a pistol in it. The freckled man brushed the gun aside.

"We don't want to give this charming place a bad name," he explained to Sarto. "For Dutchy's sake."

"So that fat rat tipped you," said Sarto.

"Yes," said the freckled man. "For a modest fee. Come along, baby."

They were speeding through open farm country. The speedometer hit seventy-five. Sarto closed his mouth and his eyes.

"Praying?" asked the freckled man.

"Naw!"

"Better start, toots."

"I know nuttin' can help me."

"That's right," said the freckled man cheerfully. "Nothing but a miracle. But you might pray for your soul."

"Aw, go to hell."

They turned into a rutty, weed-grown road. As they bumped along through a tunnel of trees, suddenly, silently Little John Sarto began to pray.

"LISTEN! This is Little John Sarto of Chicago, Illinois, U. S. A. I know I got no right to ask any favors. I guess I got a bad rep up there. Well, I ain't goin' to try to lie away my record. Everything on the blotter is true. I don't claim I rate a break. All I say is I need one bad and I'll pay for it. I don't know how; but look me up in the big book. It ought to say that when I make a deal I never run out on it. If I'm talkin' out of turn, forget it. But I won't forget if—"

"Last stop. All out," sang out the freckled man. He halted the car by a thicket of thigh-high brush.

Sarto got out of the car. Dummy got out, too. He kept his gun against Little John's backbone.

"Good-by, now," said the freckled man, and lit a cigarette.

Dummy marched Sarto off the road and into the thicket. Abruptly, like a spotlight, the moon came out. Dummy spun Sarto around. Sarto could see his face. It held neither hate nor pity. Dummy raised his pistol. As he brought it up on a level with Sarto's forehead, the breeze whipped a straggling branch of a wild rosebush across the back of his hand, and the thorns cut a wet, red line. For part of a second Dummy dropped his eyes to his bleeding hand. Sarto wheeled and dove into the underbrush. Dummy fired three quick shots. One missed. One raked across Sarto's

So outa that lot there's only Jack Buck left and I don't guess you wanna see him—"

"Why not?"

"He's growed up," said Fat Dutchy. "He's the loud noise now. What rackets there is, Jack Buck's got 'em in his pocket."

"I'll whittle him down to his right size," said Sarto.

obituary, complete but for two facts: where and when.

He knew he was safe where he was, but not for long. They'd comb all the known hide-outs. He tried to think of some friend he could trust to hide him. Name after name he considered and rejected. He had come to the ninety-sixth name and found no one he could count on when he fell asleep.

A light in his eyes and a voice in his ear jerked him awake.

A man was bending over him, smiling and saying:

"Wake up, dear. You'll be late for school."

Hugh Herbert's Amazing Accomplishment

"Woo-Woo" Hugh is whole family in one film—an all-time record

DUAL roles in pictures are not new. The seeming phenomenon of a single actor playing both father and son or two brothers in a film is almost as old as motion pictures themselves.

But Hugh Herbert tops all dual performances to date when, in Universal's hilarious "La Conga Nights," he portrays not only Henry I. Dibble, Jr., but the whole Dibble family. What this really means becomes apparent when you understand that the family consists of Henry Dibble, Jr., his mother, his bewhiskered grandfather and four eccentric sisters!

Hugh "Woo-Woo" Herbert boasts of the fact that he was among the first to make movies talk when, thirty years ago, he took the job of standing behind the screen and speaking the character's lines before even subtitles were thought of. In "La Conga Nights" he threatens to leave the screen speechless and his audience breathless with such scenes as that in which the whole family gathers together at dinner, and movie-goers will have the spectacle of seven Herberts, all different, yet all strangely alike, sitting around one table! Also, he nearly wrecked the ladies' wardrobe department at the studio by appearing and reappearing at rapid intervals for changes as he skipped from one character and sex to the other. Special gowns, hats and wraps were designed for him by Vera West, chief stylist at Universal. Miss West has outfitted such stars as Marlene Dietrich, Mae West and Joan Bennett, and she took the Hugh Herbert impersonations in stride.

Hugh, in his turn, took the seven members of the eccentric Dibble family in stride, as these pictures amply demonstrate.

HUGH (as Dibble, Jr.) is crazy about dancing the Conga, does a real one with Carlotta De Vera (Armida)

SIRE of the daffy family, also portrayed by Herbert, is Grandpappy Dibble, a daft and bewhiskered grandee

AS HIS MAIDEN SISTER, HOPE, Hugh Herbert is a frivolous "lady" whose favorite pastime is cracking nuts with his (her?) teeth. Not only Miss Hope, but entire Dibble family is eccentric—and so is Herbert—and the picture

"SISTER PRUDENCE" (in real life guess who) is prim, sedately different from "her" sisters

MILLIONAIRE PLAYBOY Henry I. Dibble, Jr., is also Hugh Herbert, this time arrayed in derby and tails

THE UNPREDICTABLE MOTHER of the Dibble clan is seen here, and surprise! It's Hugh in chiffon!

SISTER "FAITH," as done by Herbert, is a sober and stern man-hating soul who wears severely tailored clothes and low walking-shoes. Only trustworthy man to "her"—is a dead one!

What's being worn, where to go, the cost—James Street tells in this letter to his wife

Hollywoodland

By James Street

Hollywood, California
May 25, 1940

DEAR Lucy:

Never again will I criticize your hats. Those dodads and thingamabobs that you wear are sensible and conservative compared to the headgear the women wear out here. I saw a girl today wearing a skullcap with a bird on it. The bird was dead, of course, but was poised there on the top of her head just ready to take off.

We both have read many times that the world's smartest women are seen at the corner of Hollywood and Vine, the heart of the business section of Hollywood. Don't you believe it. The women on Fifth Avenue are smarter.

If you ever come out here, I already have selected your outfit and you will be in style. You must wear colored shoes, a loud dress, and a hat that looks like Dracula with a hangover. And you will need a penguin! I've seen women leading penguins very much as we lead dogs. Perhaps you could lead a turtle and get yourself talked about. It's important to be talked about out here—either good or bad, just so long as you are talked about. Just about the only persons I haven't heard any catty things about are Mickey and Minnie Mouse.

I should like to see the faces of some of our good ladies back home if they could see some of their sisters out here. Now understand, I'm talking only about the eccentric cases. The big idea here among many persons is to attract attention. Perhaps that accounts for some of the clothes. But yesterday I saw a chubby lady in green-flannel slacks, red sweater and blue toboggan-cap. The temperature was hot—and so was she. I say again she was chubby. Many of the eccentric dressers out here seem to be rather proud of their heftiness. Anyway, they show enough of it.

So far as expenses go, Hollywood is quite like New York—you can spend whatever you want to. Of course, the top-fighters dress beautifully and pay in proportion. But Hollywood is filled with middle-of-the-roads, girls who are making from fifteen to thirty dollars a week, and they dress accordingly. Rents are in proportion.

Food is cheap; that is, compared to New York or Old Lyme. It seems to me that they can get better beef here than we do at home, but the vegetables are no better, although our vegetables are shipped from California and Florida. A typical breakfast here, usually eaten in a drug store, consists of orange juice, flapjacks and sausage, and all the coffee you can drink. It costs about thirty or thirty-five cents.

For a dollar at the Brown Derby, you can get a good lunch and a bottle of beer. Incidentally, they drink a lot of Mexican beer here and it is delicious. So is the beer called Coors, made in Colorado with mountain water. I've never seen it in the East. These people also are great wine-drinkers. They drink wine as we drink cider in New England. I was quite amused at a sign I saw—"Wine, ten cents; Milk, fifteen cents."

Thursday night is maids' night off and all the restaurants are jammed. There's a good Hof Brau here, but it has a loudspeaker. A loudspeaker in a Hof Brau! The employees insist that the place is Swiss.

One of the finest places to eat that I found is the Bit of Sweden. Excellent Swedish food—a quiet place.

The night life is fair to middlin'. Earl Carroll has a big show, lots of gals, gags and giggles; you can eat while you look. N. T. G. is in town with a bevy of beauties, as usual. And, of course, there are movies. Amazingly enough, many of the movies now showing here already have been shown at our little community theaters back in Connecticut. Perhaps they try them out on us first, figuring that if we can take them, anybody can.

Ciro's is a popular spot here now. It is a rather small place, but the food is good. The night I was there I saw Miss Alice Faye. She's a rather charming person, a bit languid. I also saw Louella Parsons and Hedda Hopper. They didn't speak. Maybe they don't know each other.

MR. RUDY VALLEE was there dancing with somebody. I saw him again at NBC studio. He's really a nice fellow, but he's loaded to the gills with complexes. He seems to have an idea that a lot of folks are against him, but as a matter of fact everybody I heard mention his name had something nice to say about him. I saw Martha Raye at NBC, too. She was dashing down a hall, whooping like an Indian. Bing Crosby is one of the easiest men to meet out here, and one of the easiest to talk to. And Johnny Burke, his song-writer, is tops.

Oh, yes, before I forget it. Do you remember Johnny Marvin? His theme song was one of our favorites. Well, he's working with Gene Autry. I always had pictured him as a slender fellow, but he's, a bit hefty. And he's something of an authority on the Bible. The Autrys are folks just like us. She is one of the smartest women I met out here—sincere, homy. I had lunch at their house. She served it herself—a green salad, spaghetti and cold cuts. They have a lovely home.

Incidentally, I was quite surprised to learn that the Gables' home is twelve miles from a fire department. They have a sprinkler system in their house.

Guy Kibbee reminds me of a Texas politician. He has a red face and a vote-getting grin. He also stuffs papers in his pockets. May Robson is one of the most cordial ladies I have ever met. So is Jane Withers' mother.

The only time I heard the war mentioned in any studio was when one employe remarked that the conflict was bad for business. I understand they are making an effort to grab all of the South American business they can to offset their European losses. So we may expect an epidemic of Latin-American pictures. The day has passed, Lucy, when Hollywood can throw just any old show at us and make us like it. The public now is telling these people what it wants. It took Dave Selznick and many years to convince some of the short-sighted moguls out here that the public would pay to see good books screened. The filming of "Gone With The Wind," "The Grapes of Wrath," "Rebecca," etc., has set a new pace out here. The public has shown the producers that it wants good stories and there's every indication that the public will get them. It finally is seeping through the heads of many of the tycoons that they cannot improve on the stories of such men as Dickens, Shakespeare, Roberts, Steinbeck, et al.

Shirley Temple retirement, Greer Garson divorce make news in film capital

SHIRLEY TEMPLE, number one star of the screen from 1935 through 1938, ends her association with movies and 20th Century-Fox with "Young People," although her contract called for two more pictures and had until July to run. Reasons for the eleven-year-old's retirement are various, with Mrs. Temple's alleged dissatisfaction with the type of stories written for Shirley and her loss of popularity in 1939 those given most credence. What the Temples paid for Shirley's release is unknown, nor is the exact amount she earned during her fabulous career, but she is alleged to have about $1,500,000 salted away in trust, will receive an agreed-upon bonus of $300,000. The details: Mrs. Temple says Shirley will make no more pictures during 1940, that she will be given the opportunity to live a normal life for a while. (This probably is to protect 20th Century-Fox until "Young People" is released.) Victor Orsatti has been signed as Shirley's agent, and he believes, with Mrs. Temple, that Shirley's career is only beginning. MOVIE AND RADIO GUMME suggestion: How about some radio appearances, Mrs. Temple?

GREER GARSON, who has just completed "Pride and Prejudice" at M-G-M, surprised the studio and all of Hollywood by going to court and getting a decree of divorce from Edward Alec Abbot Snelson, a member of the British Civil Service. Miss Garson said he wanted to take her to India with him and she didn't want to go. That was in London, September 28, 1933. The actress, who first became known to American audiences for her role in "Goodbye Mr. Chips," has been in Hollywood a couple of years living very quietly with her mother. She had one date with Lew Ayres, with whom she co-starred in "Remember," but her constant escort has been M-G-M producer Benny Thau. Speculation: Have thoughts of marriage brought about the divorce decision?

A TYPICAL "Diamond Jim Brady" banquet was held at one of Pittsburgh's leading hotels as part of the festivities for the "Lillian Russell" world premiere. The tickets to this affair, which was one of the most swanky Pittsburgh has ever known, cost $100 each. Needless to say, the menu prepared by Brady's old chef, Jacques Bustanoby, was all one could expect in a culinary way. Edward Arnold, who plays the role of "Diamond Jim" in the picture, escorted Alice Faye, who was the guest of honor. Pathetic: Alice was perhaps the only person at the banquet who didn't relish the meal as much as could be expected. She flew from Hollywood to the Smoky City and was airsick all the way!

PAULETTE GODDARD, described as "Marion Goddard Levee, also known as Mrs. Charles Chaplin," was named in a suit filed in Los Angeles by her father, Joseph R. Levee. Object of suit was to compel the actress to pay $150 weekly for his support. Paulette is already paying him $75 a week and has done so for some time. Vacationing at Arrowhead Springs Hotel, she said: "I have received no official information about the suit." In addition to the weekly allowance Levee asked his daughter to pay him $2,500 for back debts and $3,500 attorney's fees. He also has a $150,000 suit on file in Syracuse, N. Y., against a magazine company for what he described as a libelous article describing him as the stepfather, not the real father, of Paulette. The town's opinion: It is too bad such family differences can't be settled out of court.

LUISE RAINER, the temperamental, enigmatic actress, twice winner of Academy Oscars, has been in town a couple of weeks looking for a job. Her deal with Columbia studios failed to jell, and at this writing she has signed no contracts. She is once more suing her playwright husband, Clifford Odets, for divorce on grounds of mental cruelty. The divorce suit was originally filed in Los Angeles in June, 1938, followed by a reconciliation. Smart Hollywood thinks: It may not be so easy for Miss Rainer to start a new career.

GEORGE BRENT took a fancy to a young guitar-player and singer in the Hollywood Tropics one night. The singer, Benito Moreno, had a beautiful guitar, which Brent wanted to autograph as a sign of his appreciation. But Benito was, oddly enough, reluctant. Finally George insisted on penciling his name across the shiny wood. Benito told a reporter about it later. "It was nice of Mr. Brent to be so thoughtful," he sighed, "but my beautiful instrument that I wouldn't sell for a thousand dollars, it is marred forever!"

JANET GAYNOR fans who have missed her charming presence on the screen may want to be reminded that she will become a mother in a few weeks. Friends say that Janet is radiantly happy in her marriage with Adrian, M-G-M dress-designer. They believe: Janet may desert the screen altogether for family life.

VICTOR McLAGLEN was up to his knees in mud in the L. A. river-bed on the Universal back lot digging for "diamonds" for a scene in "The Modern Monte Cristo." It was during the heat wave, with the thermometer up to ninety in the shade, and Victor was not any too happy. As he bent over to shovel some more muck for about the tenth take, the director yelled "Cut" and pointed to a wigwagging figure on the opposite bank. The Lakeside Golf Course borders the river on that side, and there stood Bing Crosby waving like mad. McLaglen swears he heard him holler: "Yoo hoo, fellows. Do you mind if I play through?"

MARY MARTIN'S wedding ring was given to her a week before the marriage by her groom, Richard Halliday, Paramount story editor, as a "friendship ring" and, in the excitement of the sudden wedding, was used as the official ring. Of two tones of yellow gold, it is composed of two clasped hands which, when pulled apart, show a heart-shaped ruby in the concealed palm. The two planned to wait seven weeks until Mary's picture, "Rhythm on the River," in which she co-stars with Bing Crosby, was finished. On May 5, Mary, out on a date with Dick, called her mother at 10:00 in the evening, said they had decided to get (Continued on Page 12)

"TYPHOON"—Dorothy Lamour, as a girl castaway reared on a tropical island, shows Robert Preston, a derelict cast up on its shores, the art of spear-fishing. Picture, in brilliant Technicolor, deals with life and love in the Dutch East Indies—and a thrilling movie storm

Big wind blows in Technicolor in "Typhoon"; "My Favorite Wife" is something of a laugh sensation

"Typhoon"

Cast: Dorothy Lamour, Robert Preston, Lynne Overman, J. Carrol Naish, Chief Thunder Cloud, et al. A Paramount picture, produced by Anthony Vellier; directed by Louis King, who also directed "Persons in Hiding"; from a story by Steve Fisher.

MELODRAMA in the "Hurricane" style, with a story not quite so strong but better than "Hurricane" in every other department of production, "Typhoon" is a film well worth seeing for the sheer magnificence of its Technicolor and for its simple presentation of the sunshine-and-shadow life of the tropics. Its locale will be particularly interesting because it is set in the Dutch East Indies, recently brought into prominent news relief by the Nazi invasion of the Netherlands.

Dorothy Lamour is cast as the girl who, sole survivor of a shipwreck in her early youth, grew up on the island, where she wears a very becoming sarong (called a lava lava by natives there). Robert Preston, as Johnny Potter, a pearl-hunting adventurer, also wears a sort of masculine sarong (a pareu), which reveals a handsome frame. Potter, with skipper Joe (Lynne Overman), is shipwrecked on the island by the vengeful native, Kehi (Thunder Cloud), and the girl's knowledge of the tropics saves their lives . . . and their souls, eventually.

In the transition of the island from sunshine and soft breezes to a windswept hell whipped by the typhoon, Paramount directors achieve new heights of technical excellence in this picture.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Edwin Schallert (Los Angeles Times): ". . . A beautifully shot picture with excellent tropical background . . ." Variety: ". . . Beautiful production with South Sea island background . . ." Hollywood Reporter: ". . . A pretty little fable of never-never land . . ."

"My Favorite Wife"

Cast: Irene Dunne, Cary Grant, Randolph Scott, Gail Patrick, Ann Shoemaker, Scotty Beckett, Mary Lou Harrington, Donald MacBride, et al. An RKO-Radio picture, produced by Leo McCarey; directed by Garson Kanin, who also directed "A Man to Remember" and "The Great Man Votes."

OF THE current cycle of two-husbands-and-a-wife or vice-versa films, "My Favorite Wife" is so far the goofiest and the best, with an excellent chance of winning anybody's nomination as the most laughingly entertaining film of the current season.

Irene Dunne, seven years after a shipwreck and two years after she has been declared legally dead, returns to find hubby Cary Grant on a honeymoon with his second wife, Gail Patrick (who incidentally seems to be specializing in almost-brides, following her role in "The Doctor Takes a Wife"). Undaunted by the unusual situation, Irene barges in on the honeymoon and uses every feminine—and some not-too-feminine—strategy to break it up.

Cary Grant and Irene Dunne surpass their last comedy efforts (in "The Awful Truth") here, but Granville Bates as the judge who, by every glance, every pause, every bridding snort, conveys such a sinister meaning to the involved situation that preview audiences broke down and applauded his work. His performance is pushed for top-acting honors only by that of Donald MacBride in a bit as the suspicious hotel clerk who definitely does not like a wife in every room.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Variety: ". . . Surefire prescription for a hit show . . ." Hollywood Reporter: ". . . Should bring plenty of happiness . . ." Edwin Schallert (In Los Angeles Times): ". . . Concocted to yield enjoyment in largest measure . . ."

"Flight Angels"

Cast: Virginia Bruce, Dennis Morgan, Wayne Morris, Ralph Bellamy, Jane Wyman, John Litel, Margot Stevenson, Dorothea Kent, et al. A Warner Bros. picture, produced by Edmund Grainger; directed by Lewis Seiler, who also directed "Crime School."

COMES out of Hollywood at last an aviation film which is not dependent upon power dives, shrill noises and melodramatics for its interest, but which approaches the business of flying commercial airplanes from the human-interest angle, depicting the lives and loves of air hostesses and pilots on the ground as well as in the air. For this—as well as other reasons—"Flight Angels" is a better than usual picture.

Virginia Bruce, who manages to be efficient as well as beautiful under the technical guidance of a real air hostess hired for that purpose, is the air hostess in love with the pilot of her flight, Dennis Morgan. Morgan, with his co-pilot, Wayne Morris, has perfected a stratosphere plane which is ready for testing, when Morgan learns that his eyesight has gone bad. Miss Bruce elopes with him, lifting him out of his despondency, and when she departs on her regular flight, he decides to fly the stratosphere plane anyway. A thrilling sequence follows which leads into a happy conclusion for the film.

Most of the airport scenes were made at the Glendale airport with Ted Schmidt, of American Airlines, acting as technical advisor. Wayne Morris became so interested in flying that he began taking flying instruction and now has his pilot's license.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Hollywood Reporter: ". . . Liberally packed with the type of entertainment people love . . ." Variety: ". . . It has its thrilling as well as its humorous moments . . ."

THE SCREEN

"TURNABOUT"—What happens when wife and husband get their wish—to exchange places in life with each other—is the basis of the latest film produced by Hal Roach, who makes the "Topper" series. L. to r. are Donald Meek, John Hubbard and Carole Landis

"Turnabout" is zany comedy that will arouse much comment; "Flight Angels" is story of air hostesses

"I Was an Adventuress"

Cast: Zorina, Richard Greene, Erich von Stroheim, Peter Lorre, Sig Rumann, Fritz Feld, Cora Witherspoon, et al. A 20th Century-Fox picture, produced by Nunnally Johnson; directed by Gregory Ratoff, who also directed "Lancer Spy."

TAKING its audience through many moods with a spirit of adventure and a continental flavor in every scene, "I Was an Adventuress" has everything that a picture needs to make it a "must"—drama, adventure, comedy and the graceful beauty of Zorina and her dancing.

The story tells of Countess Tanya Vronsky (Zorina), who is a third partner in a jewel-stealing combine which has as its other two members the villainous Erich von Stroheim, who makes his first American appearance in films in many a moon, and Peter Lorre. The combine is very effective until Tanya manages to fall in love with and marries an intended victim, Richard Greene. From that point on, high adventure and spine-tingling thrills await the audience.

Zorina is one of the most exciting figures to flash across the screen in a long time. Born in Berlin of Norwegian parents on vacation there, she later studied the ballet under Nicholas Legat, teacher of Nijinsky and Pavlova. Her dancing toes whirled her from the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo to the musical-comedy stages of London and New York, thence to Hollywood. Her dance director—and director of the ballet seen in the film—is her husband, George Balanchine.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Variety: "... Captures the continental flavor ..." Hollywood Reporter: "... Production is sumptuous ..." Los Angeles Times: "... Its mood is that of affable drawing-room comedy ..."

"Torrid Zone"

Cast: James Cagney, Ann Sheridan, Pat O'Brien, Andy Devine, Helen Vinson, Jerome Gowan, George Tobias, George Ragas, et al. A Warner Bros. picture, produced by Hal B. Wallis; directed by William Keighley, who also directed "The Fighting 69th."

IN "TORRID ZONE," Jimmy Cagney and Pat O'Brien renew their never-ending screen feud on a Central American banana plantation (really the Warner back lot) in a film strangely reminiscent of the Hecht-MacArthur hit, "The Front Page." Added attraction is the glamorous Ann Sheridan, thrown in for oomph, who does very well for herself as a roaming American cafe singer and card sharp.

Exciting and funny enough, "Torrid Zone" will probably be remembered chiefly as the vehicle which introduced to screen audiences an able newcomer, George Tobias, who managed to steal every foot of celluloid so long as the cameras were turned in his direction. Tobias came from the New York stage and, as a result of his work here, Warners have picked up his option and movie-goers will be seeing much more of him.

Story is the usual Cagney-O'Brien tale of conflict. Cagney is a crack plantation manager; O'Brien is divisional superintendent for the fruit company and Cagney's superior. They battle, split up, and Cagney is just walking off the company's ground when Ann Sheridan shows up, arouses his sympathy, then his love.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Variety: "... Conducive to mass entertainment ..." Hollywood Reporter: "... Too crowded with needless talk but will contribute to Ann Sheridan ..." Los Angeles Times: "... Some bright lines ..." Hedda Hopper: "... Story had as many holes in it as Swiss cheese ... but you'll forget the war newsreel which preceded it ..."

"Turnabout"

Cast: John Hubbard, Carole Landis, Adolphe Menjou, William Gargan, Verree Teasdale, Mary Astor, Donald Meek, Joyce Compton, Inez Courtney, Franklin Pangborn, Marjorie Main, Berton Churchill, Margaret Roach, et al. A Hal Roach picture, produced and directed by Hal Roach, producer of the "Topper" pictures; from the novel by Thorne Smith.

WIVES and husbands who have often expressed the desire to exchange places with their mates are in for a whale of a kick when they see this well-photographed and excellently enacted piece of imagery which has just that idea as its theme.

It is the story, done in the subtle "Topper" style, of Carole Landis and John Hubbard, a young couple who make such a wish, unfortunately, in the presence of a little idol, Mr. Ram, who sits on their mantel. Mr. Ram has the power to grant mutual wishes and, in this case, does. Carole awakes next morning to find her voice and mannerisms in her husband's body, and vice versa. Never have actors been given trickier roles than these, and for days before shooting they studied each other's tricks of personality. Miss Landis showed Hubbard how to make an entrance into a drawing-room, flounce out of rooms in high dudgeon, and powder his nose. Hubbard, on the other hand, taught Carole to shadow-box, to sit straddle-legged, the hungry man's technique in bolting food.

To Hal Roach, for his courage and deftness in the handling of a difficult story, must go the lion's share of credit for this outstanding comedy effort.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Los Angeles Times: "... One of the funniest comedies ever exhibited ..." Variety: "... Far off the beaten screen track ..." Hollywood Reporter: "... Grade A throughout ..."

married without delay, asked her to go with them. So the trio bundled out to Las Vegas, had the knot tied, and came right home, where Mary's mother spent the rest of the night phoning various members of the family to tell them the news. According to Mary herself, she spent the time on the ride to and from Las Vegas studying her screen-play lines for the following day.

RED SKELTON, who started his comedy career as master of ceremonies in a cheap burlesque theater on Chicago's Barbary Coast, or what is better known as South State Street, is booked solid for one year in the leading vaudeville theaters in the country. Now that he has clicked so solidly, Hollywood is after him for pictures. Following an appearance in St. Louis late this month, Skelton will fly to Hollywood to make a test with Mickey Rooney for a part in Mickey's next picture. Ironic: Skelton was under contract to several Hollywood studios two years ago but made only one picture. Now these same studios are trying to get him to cancel his stage appearances and come to Hollywood again!

LUCILLE BALL will make the eyes of theater-goers throughout the country blink twice when she does the first film strip-tease in "Dance, Girls, Dance." Director Ernst Matray figured out a cutie with Lucille, playing a burlesque dancer, executing a neat little dance on a stage behind prop trees. Her clothes are whisked off, one by one, by the wind—and only the wind. After much consideration, the Hays office passed the scene as "a natural phenomenon!"

AKIM TAMIROFF is in the ill graces of the Mexicans around Mesa, Arizona, where he worked on location in "Texas." When the character actor arrived, a huge fiesta was prepared and a delegation called on him. To their conversation in Spanish and Mexican, he could murmur only such trivialities as, "The gentleman will not stay for dinner tonight," and other phrases learned from his roles in films. At his callers' looks of astonishment, Akim explained that he is not Mexican. Indignation and disbelief were the result. When Anthony Quinn, a bona fide member of that race, appeared, the local boys would have none of him, saying they had had enough of such hoaxes!

MARLENE DIETRICH'S singing-style was explained this week when Greta Keller, opening at LaMaze Cafe, was sponsored by Marlene, Hedy Lamarr and Gene Markey, and Myrna Loy and Arthur Hornblow. Years ago, when Marlene and Greta played together in the German version of "Broadway," they decided to learn to sing the American way. So every day the two would have sessions with phonograph records and practise phrasing and enunciation. Their model: Whispering Jack Smith!

ARTHUR LAKE has all the girls who must watch their figures furious at him for flaunting his "diet" in front of their envious eyes. Having early calls at the studio for his latest Blondie picture, he has breakfast at 6:30 in the morning, eating bacon and eggs, with all the trimmings; after his make-up is finished at 9:00 he has a cup of coffee and an apple turnover; about 10:30 Arthur claims he needs nourishment and calls for some doughnuts and more coffee; 2:30 finds him eating a sandwich and pop, with apples to munch for dessert, and at 5:00 he's at the cart eating baked beans and tamales for a snack before dinner. Arthur's explanation: He skips "lunch"!

JEAN PARKER, who doesn't go in for anything half-way, has been bemoaning her fate ever since she tested for a native-girl role about a month ago. Hating beauty parlors but determined to look the part, Jean dyed her auburn hair black. The black turned a dismal shade of green around the edges and put Jean into virtual retirement. Sad note: She didn't get the part.

LATEST FIND in town is thirteen-year-old Betty Brewer, who left off dancing for nickels and dimes in front of the Beachcombers Restaurant when director Sam ("Our Town") Wood discovered her and put her in the feminine lead of "Rangers of Fortune," starring Fred MacMurray. A real "Okie," Betty was given her first chance at acting in this. So enthusiastic is Mr. Wood that he has threatened to shoot any diction teacher that comes near. The Hollywood way: Betty's eleven-year-old sister is her stand-in, her seven-year-old brother has a bit part, her father is now a studio carpenter, her mother is paid a salary for caring for the children—and now her married sister is on the way to Hollywood!

SONJA HENIE and Dan Topping are still a romantic item. An ironic little note that Hollywood has overlooked is that Topping's former wife, Arline Judge, left a few strings when she retired from pictures several years ago. Her name is listed among the stars on the 20th Century-Fox roster, and the inside dope is that if Miss Judge ever does return to the screen, this studio gets first call on her talents. The giggle: Twentieth Century-Fox is Miss Henie's studio, too!

DOROTHY ARZNER, the only woman director in Hollywood, goes to RKO to take over the direction on "Have It Your Own Way," after three years' absence from active work. Her last picture was "The Bride Wore Red," with Joan Crawford at M-G-M. There's an interesting inside story on the selection of Miss Arzner. When Roy Del Ruth, with twenty days' shooting on the picture, disagreed with producer Eric Pommer, Pommer called his good friend Dorothy and said, "Come on over." Their friendship began fourteen years ago when he was directing "Hotel Imperial" at Paramount and she was a film-cutter on the same lot. Last June they met in New York and discussed doing a story. That fell through. But Miss Arzner gets her chance now. Possibility: If Miss Arzner gets a good picture she will once more be the talk of the town, as she was in the past for "Sarah and Son" and "Craig's Wife."

HOLLYWOOD'S new Hawaii Theater opened on the Boulevard with the usual fanfare plus Jimmy Roosevelt in person. Jimmy arrived alone and sat way down in front. Later-arriving Jack La Rue helped out an embarrassed manager by asking Jimmy to join his party. The invitation was accepted. Sitting in front of him was the Rev. Jardine, with Fern Hall, "Miss Spiritual America," looking most materialistic in a gold-sequin evening-cap and black velvet wrap, and getting a big kick out of her first premiere. (The Reverend, who married, Wally Simpson and Edward, informed reporters he has ten more "Miss Spirituals" on the way, and will make his picture about good girls when his backer arrives from New York.) The theater features Hawaiian beach scenes painted on the walls in phosphorescent paint and lighted by ultra-violet rays. Audiences who don't care for the pictures can look at the walls or rock themselves to sleep in a new type rocking-chair theater-seat. There also is an absence of string-bean screen distortion from even the side seats. Sighed weighty comedian Edgar Kennedy: "Now that the distortion is gone, I'll never again look like Gary Cooper from those side chairs."

WILLIAM POWELL is far from a romantic figure in several of the scenes of "I Love You Again," where he is dressed as a Boy Scout leader on a jaunt with a troop of youngsters. With the unflattering hat sitting straight on his head, bare legs protruding from khaki shorts, the costume is hilariously amusing—and so is Mr. Powell.

HOLLYWOOD SOUND-TRACK: Bill Holden, when congratulated on his triumph in "Our Town": "Don't say triumph. That will come later" . . . John Trent, former airline pilot who crashed pictures with "Tailspin Tommy": "I'm going back to aviation with a $500-a-week job as flight engineer for Douglas. You can say I'm going back to regain my self-respect!" . . . Henry Fonda, while chewing a straw on "The Return of Frank James" set: "I wish something would happen to me that people could write about. I'm sure it would be more exciting than the things they think up" . . . A director to Carole Lombard at a "Silver Theater" rehearsal: "Do you think it would be a mental hazard if I asked you to wave to me when you finished with that line?" . . . Gene Raymond, on seeing a row of high silk-hatted Etonites coming off the set of "Tom Brown's School Days": "No wonder England will have a hard time winning the war. How can you raise boys under those hats?" . . . Jackie Cooper's description of his young-looking brunette mother, who made a rare visit to her son's set: "She doesn't come around very often because she doesn't want to be a movie mother. She's a lot of fun."

JACKIE COOPER had to learn to milk a cow for a scene with Henry Fonda in 20th Century-Fox's "The Return of Frank James." Said Jackie: "It wasn't hard to learn how to milk, and my aim is pretty good, if I do say so myself. But I was plenty embarrassed. The darn cow kept turning around to watch me!"

WHAT'S HAPPENED TO

Television?

BY ORRIN E. DUNLAP, JR.

TELEVISION'S first year of agony is in the past. It is now in the second year of "hell and growing pains."

These were predicted for it when President Roosevelt, the first Chief Executive to be televised, faced the radio cameras at the '39 opening of the New York World's Fair. The presidential smile was the cue for the curtain-raiser of regularly scheduled television programs for public reception in the New York area. The event was heralded as the launching of a "billion-dollar industry." So far it has fallen far short. Hope survives. Scientifically, television is almost ready to go; economically, it is not so frisky.

Where does television stand today? Chiefly in the New York area, about where it was a year ago. There is still only one station, that of the National Broadcasting Company, atop the Empire State Building, fed by programs from Radio City, enlivened and embellished by outdoor events. Home tele-radios are counted at approximately 3,000, while 110 restaurants and taverns in the New York district are equipped to look in.

While the year has been one of travail for the telecasters, in many ways—financially, economically and artistically—it has not been exactly that for televiewers. They have sat comfortably at home and with remarkable clarity have been eye-witnesses to numerous television "firsts."

The radio sightseers have seen Columbia play Princeton in baseball; the Dodgers beat the Giants in an opener; Canzoneri knocked out in the ring at Madison Square Garden. They have seen football, collegiate and professional, getting up close to the plays through the binocular-like views tossed through space from the sidelines by means of the telephoto lens on the eye of a magic orthicon camera. They have seen the bike races, basketball and hockey at Madison Square Garden; track meets and Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey circus, wrestling-matches, the St. Patrick's Day parade and Broadway plays. A bird's-eye view of Manhattan Island was telecast from an airplane; Easter religious services, the Easter parade on Fifth Avenue, and no end of vaudeville and films have been televised. All came through the air true to radio tradition, gratis, in "the public interest, convenience and necessity."

But while the onlookers, scattered as far away as 130 miles, have been enjoying the new art as a social novelty or otherwise, the telecasters have been scratching their heads, chiefly to find the answer to "Who is going to pay for all this?" Already the bill for research has totaled $26,000,000.

Aware of television's rich relatives—the radio and the movies—the telecasters have looked to them to find an answer to the riddle of revenue. They can erect no box-office in the ethereal lobby in Hollywood style; they have attempted to emulate broadcasting by displaying cakes of soap and cereal between the innings at baseball games. They have dared to "subtly" dovetail pictures of products and banners of trade names with news pictures. For some reason or other, the eye trained by the movies does not like it. So at the end of No. 1 year the question mark is as big as ever after the conundrum, "Who will pay for television?"

Despite the terrific costs, estimated to run from three to ten times that of a broadcast program, some telecasters still adhere to the idea that the commercial sponsor is to be the "angel" of their shows. Others, confessing that the problem of television is no longer scientific but economic, contend that the solution lies in adapting television to travel on telephone wires. Then, just as the telephone collects for its use, so will television build its box-office in each home.

BUT the radio people say no. Television belongs to the air. It's illustrated broadcasting. It is not a "wired wireless" proposition any more than is broadcasting, which in the beginning was also seen as being forced to resort to wires in order to operate on a pay-as-you-listen basis.

Television, the radio promoters assert, will remain on the wave-lengths; they foresee the nation dotted with automatic ultra-short-wave relay transmitters, each about thirty-five miles apart. Atop poles about 350 feet high, these miniature stations will bounce the shows over hill and dale from city to city and state to state. Advocates of this scheme are so confident of success that they are suggesting the name "television" should be changed to "radio-vision" as a more accurate description for a nation-wide system, which eventually, they believe, will serve the nation. They are going ahead on the theory that the commercial radio sponsor will come to the rescue as soon as a "circulation" is built up.

The question is asked at this point, "What is holding television back?"

Actually, nothing. Television today is like a baby learning to walk. One does not have to hold a baby very tightly to prevent him, no matter how rambunctious, from toddling off on a cross-country hike. He will get there naturally some day. So will television find its electrical legs and scamper off across the country, probably by radio, probably by wire too, with each supplementing the other.

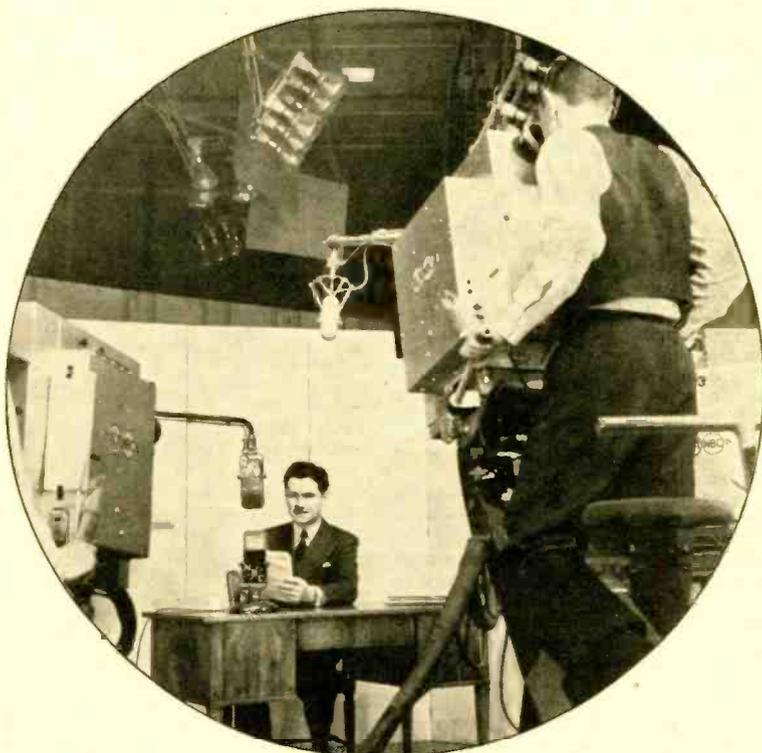

Television is progress, but a gigantic undertaking nurtured far more scientifically than was broadcasting, which was permitted to grow just like Topsy. Nobody worried about the future of broadcasting until it got under way as a national "craze." Everybody in radio has been tinkering or worrying about television, even the Federal Communications Commission. Broadcasting had none of that motherly or fatherly guidance or advice. But television has been tied to the apron strings.

Once television sets can be built on a mass production basis and at prices the average pocketbooks can meet, coupled with the fact that programs are improved to attract a crowd, nothing can stop it. Good programs are to television what good roads are to the automobile. Put on a Joe Louis championship fight and see the crowds around every television set. Immediately, however, that reverts to the old question hurled by the promoters, "Who's going to pay for all those outside for whom the camera looks in?" The same goes for the world series or any other event.

Another pertinent question at this time: Do the present television standards provide good service? The answer from one who has had a standard machine in the home for a year is "Yes." The 441-line standard at thirty frames per second has been entirely satisfactory on a 9x12-inch screen. If the screen size is increased it may become necessary to increase the number of lines, as some engineers contend. And if the pictures are projected on a theater-size screen it may be necessary to build up the lines to 1,000 to meet the Hollywood standards. But the present standards for the present sets are satisfactory.

NO DOUBT as television receivers are improved the technical standards also will keep pace. It is that way in radio and all other fields; so it will be in television. Nevertheless, there is no evidence that home-television receivers will become obsolete overnight. If for no other reason, the FCC as a watchdog seems determined to avert such a situation at the expense of the public.

In the New York area, radio sightseers have witnessed baseball, fight, circus, news telecasts. Commentator Lowell Thomas (above) presented the first sponsored network telecast series

And the manufacturers report that looking ahead for two years, all possible improvements or changes in receivers now foreseen can be made in home sets for less than $40.

The layman inquires, "Is it necessary to have sponsored television in order that it may succeed and become 'big time'?" The answer is that some sort of a box-office or pay-as-you-look system must be found. It will cost much more than $10,000 a week to keep the television show running even a few hours a day, and there are no indications now that it will run much more than three or four hours daily for many a moon. The cameras cannot grind out interesting pictures at the rate the "mike" consumes sound.

Based on comment of televiewers in the New York area who have had radio sets in their homes for a year, the radio sponsorship idea is not the right answer for television's economic problems. It all may be solved naturally and simply as was the same riddle of broadcasting in 1922, when the pioneers, suddenly gripped by the mounting costs, saw themselves becoming philanthropists, and they began to hunt for means of revenue. One day a New York broadcaster suggested that a real-estate man rent existing facilities and become a program sponsor instead of building a station. He followed that advice. Overnight on thin air the problem was

"Nothing's holding me back," says Television. "I'm like any youngster, rarin' to go, waiting only for a lift from pioneers who'll make me big business"

All you want to know about television in the year 1940: What it costs; who'll pay for it; how it will affect radio solved. Broadcasting became big business. Too many may be hunting for the television answer; it, too, may pop up unexpectedly when the time comes.

The performer, of course, has a stake in this thing called television, too. Will the new field offer jobs to new talent and to technicians or will they be drawn from the existing ranks of radio, the films, concert, opera and vaudeville?

Television is a free-for-all. It demands, however, telegenic personalities. It's an intimate show in the home; far more intimate than the theater or movies. One can only realize this by having a machine in the living-room. The artists step into the family circle; professionalism counts, but it must be softened by a natural, friendly personality. Television offers new opportunities to established artists; it promises opportunities to newcomers, for as a medium of entertainment it will discover and build up stars of its own. But in all cases a pleasant photogenic face is paramount. Amateurishness is quickly detected; poor acting cannot be glossed over. And another point: Memory comes back as a vital factor in this new theater of the air. Reading of scripts as in broadcasting is taboo; that's suicide for a television actor, and it will be also for newscasters and commentators. They lose the intimate touch when they duck their heads, close their eyes to the audience and read. The telecaster must look the audience in the face, and that goes for clown or commentator, singer or actor.

THE radio listener outside of New York is heard to ask, "When will we have television? Will networks be a reality soon, and if so, how will it be accomplished?"

No one knows how soon. Seven years passed from 1920 to 1927 before the first Coast-to-Coast radio network was spun. It may be less, it may be more before television wings its way east with the Rose Bowl football scenes, or before Californians see the sunset against the skyline of New York three hours before it dips into the Pacific beyond the Golden Gate. The hope rests in adapting television to the telephone wires, in automatic radio relays or in the coaxial cable, which definitely will do the trick of carrying motion pictures. But it is a long, laborious and expensive task to string such a television "pipe" across the continent.

While all this development is going on and pictures become clearer and clearer in space, as television adds to its flexibility and all-seeing qualities, the theater man is perking up his ears and opening his eyes. He wonders, "Will theaters become television centers or will there be special television playhouses just as there are newsreel theaters?"

The theater and the movie became interested because a new amusement threatens competition. Shall they fight it or pick it up as a new tool and use it in the modern way to help the theater?

"What is your interest in television?" a motion-picture executive was asked.

"It is economic," he replied. "We are interested in any competition that might empty the theaters. But we do not intend that shall happen. We shall use television ourselves to build up business; to pack the theaters. Let me illustrate this point: We have learned valuable lessons from radio. People stay at home when there is a big championship fight on the air. They stayed at home from Coast to Coast when President Roosevelt delivered his first two 'fireside chats.' Theater attendance was a good index of the public interest in those broadcasts.

"Now, we do not propose that television of such events of public interest shall empty the seats. We will pick up telecasts of these events and project them on the large theater screen. The audience need not stay home. They will see and hear the public event and see the regular show at probably the same price. In that way we shall capitalize on television.

AT THIS time it takes a long stretch of the imagination to envisage special tele-theaters. It is difficult enough to comb the world for interesting newsreels to put on a weekly show. Any such attempt locally by television cameramen would be dull, because there will be days on end when no interesting pictures are found to shoot into the theater. The home itself will, for a long, long time, have to serve as "the newsreel theater" of television.

Such is the situation as the second year of agony begins! By the autumn of 1941, television will have "steam up." Those in the "game" are paying the price of pioneering in the greatest "Hall of Mirrors" ever built.

MUSICAL HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK

INCIDENTAL music to the play "Thamos, King of Egypt," "Mozart Series," Saturday. Anton Bruckner's "Symphony No. 9" on "Columbia Symphony," Sunday. Reginald Stewart conducting "Toronto Promenade Concerts" Thursday.

Saturday, June 1

CINCINNATI CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC, CBS. Alexander von Kreisler, conductor. Marriage of Figaro Overture (Weber), Symphony No. 5 (Beethostanding opus in that form, following the composition of "King Thamos" by about a year.

The latter dates from 1779-80, when the twenty-four-year-old Mozart had returned to his native Salzburg, after a rather disastrous stay in Paris, where his mother died and his musical services were in less demand than on the occasion of his previous visit, as a child prodigy.

"Thamos" had its premiere in Salzburg in 1780, performed by a local theatrical company, and does not appear to have scored any particular triumph for Mozart. Since then, the hearings of the music have been infrequent, and therefore Wallenstein does a creditable thing to let us get a glimpse of the operatic eaglet preen-

Barlow, conductor. Jubilee Overture (Chadwick), Eine Kleine Nachtmusik (Mozart), Symphony No. 9 (Bruckner).

Anton Bruckner, Austrian composer (1824-1896), still has various musical cliques quarreling about whether he should be included in the first rank of symphonists. During his lifetime, most of it spent in Vienna, he gained a few influential supporters but many powerful enemies (some pitting him against Brahms) and the modest little man eked out existence by playing the organ, teaching harmony and giving lectures.

Is Bruckner a genius, or only a competent craftsman with a limited flow of inspirational melody? Time alone will give the final answer. His ninth symphony was left unfinished, with the first movement, the scherzo and the adagio. He was still busily sketching the intended last movement when the pen dropped from his fingers on the day of his death.

Whatever may be said of Bruckner's occasionally stretching out his ideas too long and repeating them too much, the fact remains that the adagio from the ninth symphony is music of noble feeling and sublime tenderness. In it one senses the divine spark and the power to touch the stars.

SUNDAY NIGHT CONCERT, NBC. String Orchestra, direction Frank Black. Unfinished Symphony (Schubert), Indian Suite No. 2 (MacDowell).

FORD SUMMER HOUR, CBS. Leith Stevens, conductor; Jessica Dragonette, soprano; James Newill, tenor; Chorus and Orchestra. Excerpts from "Anything Goes" (Cole Porter), Orchestra and Chorus; Annie Laurie (folk-song), Jessica Dragonette; How Can I Ever Be Alone? from "American Jubilee" (Schwartz), the Orchestra; Toreador from "Carmen" (Bizet), James Newill and Chorus; Pavane (Morton Gould), Show Boat Medley (Kern), the Orchestra; Siboney (Lecuona), My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean, Jessica Dragonette; How High the Moon from "Two for the Show" (Lewis), the Orchestra; Selections from "Roberta" (Kern), Jessica Dragonette, James Newill, Chorus and Orchestra.

This list of essentially popular music, continuing Ford's special salute to summer, has a welcome admixture of folk-song and examples from some of the best modern musical comedies. Kern and Porter are, of course, tops among the American composers who know how to write tunes and rhythms that touch the fancy and tickle the feet. Our light music is rapidly taking the place (indeed has already done so) of the twentieth-century Viennese output, especially since the political and artistic decline of the Austrian capital. The programming of "Annie Laurie" gives me opportunity to answer a correspondent who inquired recently, "Who is Annie Laurie; a real personage, or a fictitious name?"

Annie Laurie (circa 1600) was the eldest of the three daughters of Sir Robert Laurie of Maxwellton. Lady John Scott wrote the music of the song; and the verses, in honor of the beautiful Annie, came from the pen of William Douglas, of Kirkcudbright.

"Annie Laurie" became popular with the British army during the Crimean War (1854-56). It resounded at every campfire, and as Bayard Taylor wrote: "Though each recalled a different name, They all sang Annie Laurie."

They all sang Annie Laurie."

THE TELEPHONE HOUR, NBC. Symphony Orchestra, Don Voorhees, conductor; Franca White, soprano; James Melton, tenor. Dance of the Tumblers from "The Snow Maiden" (Rimsky-Kors-koff), the Orchestra; Un bel di from "Mme. Butterfly" (Puccini), Franca White; In the Good Old Summertime (Evans), the Chorus; Who's Going to Mourn for Me? (Wolf), James Melton; Autumn (Chaminade), the Orchestra; Duet from "Carmen" (Bizet), Franca White and James Melton.

MOZART OPERA SERIES, MBS. Alfred Wallenstein, conductor; Crane Calder, basso. Thamos, King of Egypt (incidental music to a play), chorus and bass.

This work is of course not an opera, but represents incidental music for a drama by Von Geblert. However, the score seems to be excellent preparation for Mozart's "Idomeneo," his first outing his wings before he becomes the full-grown eagle.

It was during 1780 too, that Schikaneder, the Vienna theatrical manager, went to Salzburg and there met Mozart in whose life he was to play a vital part later, when he commissioned him to write the music for "The Magic Flute," for which Schikaneder authored the libretto.

Musings on Music

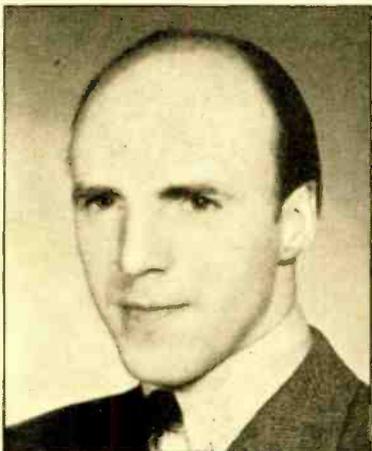

By Leonard Liebling

I DON'T keep a diary but I might just as well, what with seemingly millions of thoughts on radio music crowding my mind during waking hours and sometimes even at night in the form of dreams. (No, not nightmares, unless it be subconscious recalling of certain bad vocalism and the unceasing Niagara of jazz.)

If I did keep a diary, recent items might run about like this:

Summer's here again, almost . . . much good outdoor music in prospect . . . funny that dialers hear most of their outdoor music indoors . . . wonder why the average radio instrumentalist is so much better than the average singer . . . probably because the instrumentalists have to study harder and longer and know more about music than the crooners, groaners, shouters, female baritones and male sopranos . . . naturally there are some true artists among the singers . . . was convinced of that when Jessica Dragonette made her triumphal return to the air . . . sings with beguiling voice and polished art . . . her program introduced a surprise in James Newill, whose appealing tones and adept delivery were a delight . . . never heard "Through the Years" done better than by young Newill . . . reminds me that Nelson Eddy and Lawrence Tibbett are too long absent from the mike . . . must be that some sponsors are near-sighted, ear-defective or just short of cash . . . small chance to hear Eddy soon . . . told me the other day that he plans to spend the summer on his California ranch raising livestock and edible vegetation . . . promised me a basket thereof (the vegetation, not the livestock!).

A lot of new modern music, some by Americans, due this summer and autumn . . . some of it is still caviar to many listeners . . . like the old lady, deaf, who sat at the mike with her ear-trumpet and heard a discordant piece of up-to-date symphony . . . shook the ear-trumpet and said, "Drat that thing! it's out of order again" . . . Walter Damrosch has harvested another "Doctor of Music" title, this time from the Curtis Institute of Music, and deserves it too . . . everybody happy at the success of the Metropolitan Opera million-dollar drive, effected largely through the contributions of radio listeners . . . radio is responsible also for the tremendous increase in the sale of phonograph records and books on music . . . I'd like to hear Deems Taylor and Milton Cross quiz each other, and then fire questions at Sam Chotzinoff.

Edwin Franko Goldman promises attractive programs for his band summer concerts (June 19 to August 18, with Wednesday and Sunday night broadcasts) including some brand-new works by famous composers . . . the Robin Hood Dell series likewise starts June 19 . . . one of the numbers on the opening program is Tchaikowsky's "1812," and will have an obligato of real cannon . . . what would the deaf old lady with the ear-trumpet say to that? . . . the Dell's prospective soloists include such fascinators as Alec Templeton, Oscar Levant, Horowitz and Flagstad . . . there will be grand opera too at the Dell.

Now that all the Americas are closer in cultural relations, why does not the fine Colon Opera in Buenos Aires broadcast some of its performances to us? . . . many of the Metropolitan Opera stars are in the Colon company, whose "winters" are our summers . . . too bad some of the excellent scores being written for the films aren't broadcast . . . goodness me, here's the next "So You Think You Know Music" program come round again, and I've got to get busy . . . so, good night, dear diary.

About New Records

MOZART: CONCERTO NO. 14 IN E FLAT MAJOR. Played by Rudolf Serkin, pianist, and the Busch Chamber Ensemble. Victor Musical Masterpiece Series.

In the year 1784 Mozart wrote six piano concertos of which the present example is one. He was much in demand at the time as a public pianist and he preferred to play his own works, so he kept turning them out for the keyboard with unceasing diligence.

This E flat concerto is not altogether as light-hearted as most of his others and its character has been well indicated by one commentator who wrote that in its pages "clouds pass over Mozart's brow at times." The opening movement, the slow section and the finale contain sober moments and even sighs.

Serkin is an ideal performer for such music, which he interprets tenderly and with extreme refinement. The record amply emphasizes those qualities and also the sympathetic hand of Adolph Busch in guiding the accompanying instrumentalists.

TCHAIKOWSKY: FIFTH SYMPHONY IN E MINOR. Played by the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Artur Rodzinski, Columbia.

As part of its tribute to Tchaikowsky in honor of the centenary of the composer's birth, Columbia adds this record to the various other versions already in existence. Rodzinski gives a rather straightforward, flameless reading of the opus, but its musical structure and rhythmic backgrounds are clearly set forth. The orchestral tone and balance register well.

Some of us possess better records of the fifth symphony than Rodzinski's, but for purposes of instructive comparison his serves a useful end for music-lovers interested in such appraisements.

Musician of the Week

Genevieve Rowe

GENEVIEVE ROWE and her husband, Robert Hill, have just bought their first car, and spend a great deal of spare time hanging out of the window of their apartment in New York watching for its arrival. The manufacturers promised it long ago, but seem to have succumbed to a sudden attack of spring lethargy.

"And just look at this glorious weather, too," wails Genevieve. "Here we could be driving around and around and having a grand time, and all we do is wait and wait."

The car is a landmark in their lives, almost as big a landmark as when

In the best Hollywood tradition, Hill and Genevieve separated immediately after the wedding, Genevieve to continue her search for fame and fortune in New York, and Hill to stay in Wooster until he felt that he too could break away and go to New York.

The $5,000 Atwater Kent prize money which she had counted on vanished in the depression and the struggle had been a hard one. It included singing in radio choruses and musical clubs, taking any job just to make a bare living. In 1935 she was engaged to appear in the Swing Fourteen on the "Johnny Presents" program. One of Genevieve Rowe and her pianist-husband, Robert Hill, are a typical successful young couple. Rising from chorus work to stardom on "Johnny Presents," Miss Rowe often sings leads in "Mozart Opera" series (MBS, Sat.)

Genevieve won the Atwater Kent contest and was brought to New York in grand style by the Atwater Kent Company. She still is impressed by the entertainment lavished on the contest winners and comes perilously near shaking her head with a sigh and murmuring, "Ah, those were the days."

It's a bit early for her to start reminiscing though, especially as she looks as if she had just left college. Her dark hair is worn in a long loose bob, her figure is something to dream about, and her pointed, vivid face radiates joy of living.

She was brought up in a college town, the Wooster College of Music in Ohio, to be exact, where her father is dean and her mother is professor of music theory. It isn't very different from most colleges except that its rules and regulations are much more rigid. Woosterites were and still are firm believers in the chaperon system, which made courting a risky adventure. Robert Hill, who taught piano at the college, married Genevieve after a five-year courtship, fraught, to say the least, with pronounced difficulty.

"I still don't know how I ever got her alone long enough to propose," says Hill, eying his wife with some wonder.

the stars got sick, Genevieve filled in and finally became the star herself. Another break was when she was told by a friend to audition for Alfred Wallenstein, who liked her so much that he has been starring her in his most important programs ever since. She showed what she could do when she switched from "Johnny Presents" to the "Bach Cantata" series, music which would be taxing for any veteran. At present she is proving even more versatility by taking leading parts in Wallenstein's "Mozart Opera" series.

She has operatic aspirations, but is in no hurry. Now that her husband is in New York, successful as a pianist and accompanist, she has about all that life can give at the moment. He plays for her in concert, they work and romp together and lead the life of any young, ambitious and reasonably successful American couple.

They like to go to movies, play tennis and find little secluded inns for their vacations. They also love entertaining, and their appetizers are masterpieces, especially one little number consisting of a piece of Swiss cheese and a pickled onion on a toothpick. It really goes wonderfully well, both say, with—ginger ale!

—Viva Liebling.

7:30 P.M. PST — 8:30 P.M. MST

ALIAS THE DEACON (Universal). Bob Burns plays this straight, and the result is a good remake of an all-time favorite theme of crook turned good.
AND ONE WAS BEAUTIFUL (M-G-M). Laraine
Day's first starring vehicle is adequate, meaty piece without affectation. Almost a "must."
BEYOND TOMORROW (RKO). A story of life after death which doesn't quite come off despite fine performances by Harry Carey, Charles Wininger, C. Aubrey Smith and Maria Ouspens-skaya.
CURTAIN CALL (Warner Bros.). Light backstage drama of Broadway, with Barbara Read, Alan Mowbray, Helen Vinson.
DR. CYCLOPS (Paramount). Technically perfect version of the mad scientist who learns secret of reducing humans to miniatures. Brilliantly produced in Technicolor.
DR. KILDARE'S STRANGE CASE (M-G-M).
This popular series falls down a notch as emphasis is placed on technical side of medicine to detriment of the human side.
FLIGHT ANGELS (Warner Bros.). A better aviation film which treats air stewardesses as human beings, not angels. Virginia Bruce, Dennis Morgan, Wayne Morris are in it.
FORTY LITTLE MOTHERS (M-G-M). Eddie Cantor plays a simple, straightforward role effectively, with a cute baby and forty little Hollywood cuties of seventeen or so supporting him.
GRAPES OF WRATH (20th Century-Fox).
Profoundly moving, accurately translated to the screen is this Steinbeck best-seller of migratory workers and dust-bowl emigres. Has Henry Fonda, Jane Darwell, John Carradine.
I WAS AN ADVENTRESS (20th Century-Fox). Intrigue and adventure with a continental flavor and the incomparable dancing of Zorina make this a worth-looking-at film.
IT ALL CAME TRUE (Warner Bros.). A good comedy drama which gives Ann Sheridan a chance to act. Humphrey Bogart and Jeffrey Lynn round out the story of an old rooming-house converted into a cafe to lift a mortgage.
"IT'S A DATE" (Universal). Deanna Durbin is grown up and lovelier in face, figure and voice in this than any yet. A sparkling story

Brief Reviews
A terse guide to better films now showing in your neighborhood with excellent supporting cast including Kay Francis, Walter Pidgeon, Lewis Howard make it top-notch film.

IF I HAD MY WAY (Universal). Bing Crosby and Gloria Jean co-star in a light musical which isn't a "Road to Singapore" by any means.
JOHNNY APOLLO (20th Century-Fox). Exciting, far-above-the-average film of cultured collegian in underworld, with Tyrone Power, Dorothy Lamour, Edward Arnold.
MY FAVORITE WIFE (RKO). Another in the cycle of two-husbands-and-a-wife-or-vice-versa films, with Cary Grant and Irene Dunne as amusing principals.
MA! HE'S MAKING EYES AT ME (Universal).
Light comedy with songs, starring Tom Brown and Constance Moore.
NORTHWEST PASSAGE (M-G-M). Spencer
Tracy gives vivid portrayal of Major Robert Rogers and trail-blazing in this thrilling adventure drama of the Indian wars. Filmed in Technicolor, its excellent cast includes also Robert Young and Walter Brennan.
OF MICE AND MEN (United Artists). Magnificent study in tragedy is this faithful transfer from Steinbeck's novel to the screen story of an odd friendship between two itinerant workers.
Burgess Meredith, Lon Chaney, Jr., are excellently cast, give admirable performances.
PINOCCHIO (RKO-Disney). The classic tale wives and husbands who exchange places. Very well done, with Carole Landis, John Hubbard, William Gargan, Adolphe Menjou.

TYPHOON (Paramount). Dorothy Lamour and Robert Preston in a "Hurricane" style film which has breath-taking Technicolor photography of tropics.
20 MULE TEAM (M-G-M). Wallace Beery is tough-skinned, tender-hearted mule-skinner in tale of good women and bad men who live off borax deposits in early Death Valley.
THE BISCUIT EATER (Paramount). The simple, beautifully told James Street story of a boy and his dog in hunting country. Good production, good cast and good scripting throughout.
THE COURAGEOUS DR. CHRISTIAN (RKO).
Jean Hersholt in a film version of the kindly and benevolent country doctor he popularized on radio.
THE DARK COMMAND (Republic). A stirring drama of guerrilla days in "Bleeding Kansas" of the '60s, with Claire Trevor, John Wayne and Walter Pidgeon. A spine-tingling historic western of near-epic proportions.
"TI L WE MEET AGAIN (Warner Bros.). Merle Oberon, George Brent, Pat O'Brien in a remake of "One Way Passage," a love drama of two lost souls and a love that lives after death. Thrilling and touching.
THE DOCTOR TAKES A WIFE (Columbia).
What happens when a man-hating writer of popular novels (Loretta Young) meets a handsome young doctor (Ray Milland) is good comedy and sparkling entertainment.
THOSE WERE THE DAYS (Paramount).
College days of the early 1900s are faithfully-and humorously—portrayed here in a grand picture based on the Swiash tales, with William Holden, Bonita Granville, radio's Ezra Stone (Henry Aldrich).
TWO GIRLS ON BROADWAY (M-G-M). Joan Blondell and Lana Turner are two dancing sisters in love with George Murphy, a triangle which breaks up the vaudeville act, to say nothing of hearts.

On Short Waves

Edited by Charles A. Morrison

President, International DX'ers Alliance

Programs from foreign countries subject to change without notice

WAR BULLETINS VIA SHORT WAVE

THE life and death struggle in Europe continues with a fury such as has never been known in the annals of history. Attacks and counter-attacks follow each other with such bewildering swiftness that no medium save short-wave radio can hope to even sketchily describe what is really happening over there. Our neutrality must not be impaired, but what is happening in this terrible conflict cannot help but vitally affect you and me, therefore we listen to each last-minute bulletin with breathless interest. In order that world listeners may be kept in touch with the situation, the great short-wave centers at London, Berlin and Paris are still grinding out news on a day-and-night basis.

The main war bulletins from abroad are conveniently grouped to fit in with the working schedules of listeners in the United States, as follows: Before-work bulletins for eastern and central listeners: 3:30 a.m., London, over GSG (17.79); 3:45 a.m., Berlin, over DJL (15.11); 5:00 a.m., Paris, over TPC5 (15.24), and at 5:15 a.m., London, over GSV (17.81). Before-work bulletins for western listeners: 8:00 a.m., London, over GSV (17.81); 8:15 a.m., Berlin, over DJB (15.20), and at 8:30 a.m., Paris, over TPC5 (15.24). Early-evening bulletins for eastern and central listeners: 4:30 p.m., London, over GSD (11.75); 5:15 p.m., Berlin, over DJB (15.20) and DJD (11.77), and at 5:30 p.m., Paris, over TPB8 (11.845) and TPC13 (9.52), and early-evening bulletins for western listeners: 7:30 p.m., Berlin, over DJD (11.77); 8:00 p.m., London, over GSD (11.75), and at 8:45 p.m. PST, over TPC13 (9.52).

In addition to these bulletins, many topical talks, primarily of a propaganda nature, are released at regular intervals; for example, from Germany you can hear Lord Haw Haw now at 11:15 a.m., over DJL (15.11), and at 12:15, 1:15 and 2:15 p.m., over DJB (15.20); also nightly at 6:00 p.m. with a talk entitled "Matters of Moment." Lord Hee Haw, American-accented counterpart of Lord Haw Haw, can be heard on Mondays at 5:45 p.m., with his letter to Harry in Iowa, and on Tuesdays at 7:50 p.m. PST. The main topical talks from London are given in our program listings.

If you want to hear the news from both sides, minus propaganda, turn to the international news bulletins radiated by our own United States short-wave stations, as follows: By CBS, at 6:15 and 7:30 a.m., over WCBX (17.83), New York City; by NBC, at 7:00 and 8:00 a.m., over WNBI (17.78), and at 7:00 p.m. over WRCA (9.67), of New York City; by the World Radio University of Boston, at 12:30 p.m., except Saturdays and Sundays, over WRUL (15.13 and 11.79), and at 3:00 p.m. PST, except Sundays, over WRUL (11.79 and 6.04). Thousands of listeners abroad depend religiously upon these United States newscasts for the real picture of what is actually happening right in their own back yards.

In addition to the above I should also mention the many short-wave pick-ups that our networks are making from Europe's capitals each day and which, rebroadcast over local stations, are welcome to many listeners who do not have short-wave receivers or who would rather get their news in this way rather than fishing for it themselves via short waves.

IMPORTANT SHORT-WAVE DEVELOPMENTS IN THE UNITED STATES: FM broadcasting is here. The FCC, in a decision just handed down, has given the green light to this new static-free, high-fidelity type of broadcasting. The frequency band of forty-two to fifty megahertz has been set aside for its use. This will provide forty channels, each two hundred kilocycles wide. With proper zoning thousands of FM stations can be accommodated in such a band. FM is no flash in the pan, as between two hundred and three hundred broadcast stations have already filed applications with the FCC for permission to start broadcasting their programs simultaneously on the new frequencies; however, listeners do not need to worry about their present receivers becoming obsolete for some years to come, as broadcasting will continue to use both the old and the new type of transmitters for quite some time. New receivers will be equipped to receive either the old or the new type of broadcasting. . . . RCA has perfected large-screen television, it is claimed. A laboratory model recently demonstrated projects images 4 1/2 x 6 feet in size on to an ordinary beaded motion-picture screen. The pictures compare in brightness with motion pictures and are considered to have definite entertainment possibilities. . . . No international broadcast station in the United States will be licensed for operation with a power less than 50,000 watts after July 1, 1940. Any station not having a power of 50,000 watts is advised to immediately file the necessary application to install a 50,000-watt transmitter. Short wave has moved into the bigtime with its use as an international instrument of policy becoming daily more and more apparent.

This Week Along the Airialtos

SEE PAGE 13 FOR NEWS OF THIS WEEK'S IMPORTANT PROGRAMS AND GUESTS

CHICAGO, ILL.—Bob Hope, in Chicago for a theater appearance, received the following wire May 17 after his new picture, "The Ghost Breakers," was previewed in Hollywood the night before: "Preview tremendous success. Cards enthusiastic and all agree your best yet. Congrats to you, and my warm thanks." The wire was sent by Arthur Hornblow, Paramount producer, who handled "The Ghost Breakers." As a result of the preview success, Hope will stay on the air with his program two weeks beyond the original deadline of June 18 for summer vacationing, in order to take advantage of the radio-movie tie-up.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Fred Allen will be heard at the same time as usual in the fall, but on a different network and for a different sponsor. Texaco is hiring Allen to do an hour-long show on CBS at the Wednesday night time he has been occupying for six years. Eddie Cantor replaces Allen for Bristol-Myers in the same time spot with a half-hour show on NBC, thereby setting up another potential battle of comedians to attract the listening audience.

"Betty and Bob" Transcribed

NEW YORK, N. Y.—"Betty and Bob" has been made available on transcription for local sponsorship, with General Mills retaining property rights. Starring parts are taken by Arlene Francis, the last network Betty, and Carl Frank.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—One of the most successful radio campaigns for funds in the history of broadcasting has closed. The total amount raised in the campaign to save the Metropolitan Opera Company exceeded the goal of one million dollars. And almost one-third the amount was secured from the radio audience of the NBC-Blue network. The amount of $326,836 was contributed by 151,931 listeners.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Private pocket radios for long-distance communication were held out as a prospect for the future by David Sarnoff, president of RCA, in a recent address at Rochester, N. Y. Mr. Sarnoff said in part: "When enough frequencies become available—and it is not unreasonable to foresee it—each of us may have his own individual radio wave-length, measured perhaps in millimeters. Using pocket-size apparatus, we may be able to call up and converse with distant friends, any time, any place."

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Even in these times of "fifth column" collusion, minority intrigue and sabotage, American radio still leans backward to observe the letter of the law for the principles of justice and freedom of speech. This is borne out in the fact that the Communist Party has been granted time on the three major networks, partly on the strength of their claim that Representative Martin Dies, leader of the investigation of un-American activities, has been allowed to speak on the air a number of times without the other side of the case being presented.

IN NEW YORK

with Wilson Brown

Interesting are some of the anecdotes resulting from the war. For instance:

Hendrik Willem van Loon, a guest on the initial "Fun in Print" literary quiz, grasped at the chance to subtly reveal his feeling toward the Germans who had bombed his native Rotterdam. He was asked to recite the lines of the German Schubert's "Hark, Hark the Lark." Retorted Van Loon: "The English words escape me, and in the last three days I've forgotten every word of German."

Bill Farren, NBC announcer, tells us that the day Germany invaded Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg, and Neville Chamberlain resigned, a network program opened with the commercial announcement: "The biggest news story this week is the opening of the World's Fair of 1940 in New York."

Dr. Alexander Loudon, Netherlands minister to the United States, kept a nocturnal vigil in the NBC newsrooms May 9 so he could get late news of the invasion of his country. Radio was faster than the usual diplomatic channels.

We remember when July 4 was Independence Day. This year the mat-

ENTERTAINERS ENTERTAINED—At the recent Associated Actors and Artistes of America Ball, held in New York at the Waldorf-Astoria, one thousand "artistes" danced and amused each other. ter of any country's independence is so unstable that the New York World's Fair has disregarded the traditional celebrations and has named July 4 "Broadcasting Day" at the Fair.

Thomas Grandin, CBS Paris commentator, had just finished speaking to American listeners on Mother's Day. CBS then switched to London for more war news. Right in the middle of the London broadcast, Grandin opened the transatlantic telephone to CBS' New York headquarters and shouted, "Give me the air!" It must be important, thought CBS, so they cut off London and gave Grandin the air. Air-raid sirens screamed from Paris. Once before U. S. listeners heard the sirens when an NBC broadcast accidentally picked them up. Grandin didn't want CBS to miss this dramatic moment. As we listened, Grandin rushed to a window to open it that the sounds might hit the microphone more clearly. "That is not necessary," said a French censor. Necessary or not, the censoring. But the reception of the screaming sirens was still heard.

Raymond Gram Swing, war analyst for Mutual, wrote a concerto for violin and piano, which was performed on MBS. Raymond Paige, conductor of "Musical Americana," contacted Swing, inviting him to submit a new theme for his musical series. Swing begged off, saying: "Thanks, but with the confusion of the world at present, I find it difficult to think of composing. Maybe after it has subsided . . ."

"No Visitors"

Activity around the studios is at its highest pitch since the birth of broadcasting twenty years ago. The "no visitors" rule is strictly enforced. "Please keep out unless on business. Keep closed." So reads the notice posted on NBC's newsroom doors. CBS has three large, elaborately printed signs distributed at the entrances to the newsroom. They read: "Please Keep Out Unless On Urgent Business."

Mutual employs no signs, as it's understood that the newsroom is a "no trespassing" room.

Major Leonard H. Nason, Mutual's military analyst, received a letter from a listener which said: "Stop giving Germany's blunders away. They might try to correct them."

Arthur Mann, MBS reporter with the British Army, moved with the British into Belgium and thus had to do his radio work the hard way. He got his material all right, but he couldn't get the facilities of a radio station. Thus he had to telephone his information to London, whence a BBC announcer read Mann's story to MBS.

War Reports Confusing

Misunderstandings are frequent. BBC aired a recording of an on-the-scene description of bombing activities on the front. Immediately casual listeners deluged press associations and the broadcasting studios asking for more details on "the bombing of London." Shades of Orson Welles!

Joe Howard, grand old-timer on Columbia's "Gay Nineties Revue," suffered from tonsillitis the other Saturday and wasn't altogether unhappy when the half-hour program was cut to fifteen minutes to make way for more war broadcasts . . . The Mother's Day sustainer by "The Vass Family" was canceled for a war-news spot. Lovely Emily, youngest of the family, regretfully complained, as they had a novel program arranged especially for their mother . . . Bill Henry, who had worked for CBS as commentator from Finland, England and France, came back to the U. S. for a lecture tour. On May 10, he dropped in at CBS headquarters here to find out what was going on in Holland, and he's been in the office ever since, on the CBS payroll . . . The mother of John S. Young, radio director of the New York World's Fair, died May 16 in Springfield, Mass. John was at her bedside.

Dave Elman of "Hobby Lobby" is having a legal tiff with Warner Bros., Inc., and National Screen Service, Inc., charging the film, "Everybody's Hobby," is too much like an idea for a movie he submitted, only to have it rejected . . . Horace Heidt, the "Pot o' Gold" maestro, was quite ill for more than a week following a nasal operation . . . Joan Tetzl (Sylvia Field in "When a Girl Marries" and Lucy Jackson in "Woman of Courage") and Jock Mossman, formerly the producer on the first-mentioned show, met while working on that serial. They'll be married June 21 and will honeymoon in Bermuda.

"We, the People" had three acts canceled the other week because of an auto accident, censorship and the complaints of a chamber of commerce. ACT I was a Houston, Texas; woman who was to have told listeners that doctors had given her only six months to live. Driving to the airport for her trip to New York, she was in a car crash and seriously injured. ACT II was a teen-age girl who was to have told about the influence a modern Svengali continues to hold over her although he has been murdered. CBS objected to that. ACT III was a Bellefonte, Pa., girl who was to have given her impressions of kidnapers who have been at work there. "We, the People" was deluged with wires from the Bellefonte Chamber of Commerce objecting to this act on the grounds that it would do injustice to the city, impede the path of justice, etc. Reserve acts were on hand to save the show.

wick, N. J., florist. Vocalist Harry Babbitt opened the box and, during the band's show at the Fox Theater (in St. Louis), handed it to Kyser, saying, "I guess it's for your mother." With that Kay jumped down off the stage and rushed up the aisle to where his mother, Mrs. P. B. Kyser, was sitting, dragged her, objecting strenuously, back onto the stage and presented the orchid to her. The audience went wild with applause and cheers, wouldn't let Kay play his next group of numbers. "What do you want?" Kay asked. "Your mother," the patrons shouted. So Mrs. Kyser made her first public speech—a very lovely one, too—and again brought down the house.

Burns and Allen Troubles?

Whether the Gracie Allen campaign for "Presidency" on the mythical Surprise Party ticket has caused sponsorship objections to be raised is a question. The face-cream makers okayed Gracie's stunt before it started, but now the smart lads think the movement has become a hot potato. Bearing out the suspicion, it has been learned that at the termination of the B&A contract with Hind's, it will not be renewed . . . Bad break number two: While B&A were making their big noise for publicity's sake at Omaha, war news became so important that it smothered Gracie's show. Oh well, she certainly gave Nebraska the Omaha-ha-ha!

Benny Hides From Allen

Jack Benny's business manager, Mort Blum, forty-nine, wed Mary (Mrs. B.) Livingstone's sister, Babe Marks, thirty-four, May 14 at Las Vegas, Nevada, with Jack and Mary as their witnesses. Upon his return to Hollywood, Jack announced that he and his chief gagman, Bill Morrow, would sail to Hawaii after his final broadcast of the season, June 16, to go into secret huddles over the finishing touches to the screen play for his forthcoming Paramount picture with Fred Allen. Mary Livingstone underwent facial surgery May 20 for a new nose to ready herself for possible casting in film . . . Which reminds that Allen's interview May 8 with a song-plugger turned him into a song-plugger himself, for Allen mentioned that Whispering Jack Smith had recently made a re-recording of 1925's hit song, "Cecilia." It happened that Bing

Kay Kyser's Mother

Kay Kyser's back in town (or on Santa Catalina Island, to be exact) to make music and, shortly, another RKO picture, and meantime worry the life out of NBC because of the voluminous demand upon the network for tickets to his show. But with his company came the story of the after-effect of Kay's advice on the air just preceding Mother's Day to "Say it to Mother with flowers." The day following the broadcast, a championship giant white orchid measuring ten and one-half inches across arrived by plane from a Bruns-

Rom-Antics and Such

Gossips intimate that Betty (Mrs. Green) Furness' visit to Hollywood is by way of a split-up with Johnny; but if it's a phfft, it's a funny one, for Betty has been searching high and low all over town for three old scrap-books belonging to the maestro—which she wouldn't be doing if she were unhappy . . . Mrs. Mandy (Cal) Kuhl and Jack Downey, resident manager of the El Mirador Hotel at Palm Springs, eloped to Yuma May 19. So now it may be told her ex-hubby, Chase and Sanborn's producer, has long carried what looked from here like a torch for one Madeleine Carroll . . . That Ceylon sapphire-diamond-encrusted ring, bracelet and pin set that Penny ("Blondie") Singleton is sporting came from Uncle Bob Sparks, producer of her "Blondie" film series . . . When Kay St. Germain, to be featured songstress on "America Sings" when that program vacation-substitutes for Fibber McGee and Molly, took a two-day jaunt to the Santa Barbara Biltmore, Jack Carson, her fiance, practically drowned the gal in flowers ranging from gardenias to expensive roses and orchids, and when flowers weren't arriving, telegrams or phone calls from him were! . . . Former NBC page George Volger and his bride, Thelma Marie Henderson of Muscatine, Iowa, arrived May 13 in Hollywood from their honeymoon to receive a wedding present in the form of an advancement for the groom to the job of announcer . . . Jon Dodson, member of Fibber McGee's King's Men quartet, and songstress Joan Jackson are altar-bound . . . "Dr. Christian" announcer Art Gilmore is the proud papa of a six-pound daughter, Marilyn Grace, at whose birth "Dr. Christian" did not officiate!

Changes in "One Man's Family"

Betty Carter Barbour, in real life Jean Rouverol, is absent from the "One Man's Family" circle while she takes a month's trip east with her husband, screen-writer Hugo Butler. She wooed author Carlton Morse to write her out of the Barbour happenings by promising to bring back to him a bucket of Vermont maple syrup. And that new "Family" character, June Warren, is being played by Lurene Tuttle.

Hopper Hops Up Mail

Hedda Hopper, the Sunkist movie gossip, has hypood her mail count to eleven thousand letters in one week by the simple expedient of writing in her column and preaching on the CBS air to "keep us out of war." Hedda, one of Hollywood's best-dressed women when seen in public, isn't at her office. First thing she does there is to remove her silly hat, kick off her fancy shoes and don specs! The other day, after working on the RKO lot in a picture, she returned with her next broadcast scrawled over five pages of paper toweling. Hearing many stories on the set, she had nothing upon which to scribble, but found the answer in the "little girls' room."

"Big Town" Form Change

"Big Town" may change its form next year, retaining Ed Robinson but presenting radio adaptations of successful Broadway plays instead of the weekly racket-busting series; eastern agent for the sponsor is in Hollywood now talking it over . . . Paramount's "Rhythm on the River," originally titled "Ghost Music" but changed to avoid confusion with Bob Hope's film, "The Ghost Breakers," has another radio-heavy cast; leads off with Bing Crosby and Mary Martin and has been strengthened by the addition of Oscar Levant, of "Information, Please" pleasantries . . . Radactress Rosemary DeCamp, Judy in "Dr. Christian," has auditioned as a singer for the benefit of an eastern sponsor.

IN CHICAGO

with Don Moore

Johnnie Johnston Pulls Stakes

Young Johnnie Johnston has decided to go west while he is a young man. The baritone troubadour of "Club Matinee" will soon leave the spot where he has built a huge following to seek his fortune in Hollywood. His decision was arrived at through strictly financial reasoning. With not such a rapid turnover in commercial programs in Chicago, Johnnie thinks now is the time to follow up some Hollywood prospects. So it looks at this writing as if Johnnie will pack up his electric guitar and hit the trail about the middle of June.

Don Dowd, NBC announcer, threw a scavenger party recently, and as a climax announced his engagement to Betty Brown, model and actress (heard occasionally on "Kitty Keene"). There will be a fall wedding . . . Recent addition to the CBS announcing staff is George Guyan, twenty-eight-year-old native of Monticello, Iowa, who comes here from KFRU, Columbia, Mo. . . . Spencer Allen, WGN-MBS announcer, is the seventeenth among that station's artists and engineers to receive an amateur operator's license . . . Everett Mitchell, veteran "Farm and Home Hour" announcer, will build a Georgian colonial style house in suburban Park Ridge, Ill., this summer.

"First Nighter" Tours

"First Nighter," long situated at the mythical "Little Theater Off Times Square" and actually broadcast from the CBS studio theater in Chicago, now moves out of both places for a road tour. Shows are to be presented just as if they were being broadcast, with all the appurtenances, including mike, director and engineer, to carry out the illusion completely. The tour started in Peoria, Ill., and will include a number of towns and then the Chicago Theater. Traveling cast includes, besides Les Tremayne and Barbara Luddy, Lesley Woods, Bret Morrison, Harry Elders, Bob Jellison and Art Kohl.

Gabe "Hot Shot" Ward has fulfilled a lifelong ambition and bought himself a restaurant on the Northwest Side, helps with the cooking and acts as host. Gabe's place specializes in chicken pies—and Hoosier Hot Shot records in the coin phonograph . . . Listeners just don't feel right without sending in a box-top or something with their contest entries. So you should see the stuff Wayne King has been bombarded with by people who think a novel stunt will help their letters win a diamond ring in the song-suggesting contest of the Wayne King Saturday night show. There's a miniature ukulele sent to complement the song suggestion "At the Balalaika"; a yellow crocheted basket for "A Tisket, a Tasket"; two stuffed woodpeckers for "Woodpecker Song," and many other unusual items.

Nancy's Face Red, Too

Songstress Nancy Martin was doing some impromptu vocalizing in NBC corridors the other day and decided to check her pitch. She flipped into studio B, where the four Vagabonds were assembled. "Give me D, boys," she requested. When the Vagabonds and announcer Don Dowd just stared, she gave herself the D and tripped out with the D trilling in her throat. Outside the studio she happened to look at the light above the door. It was red, meaning the studio was on the air. The D died a violent death in Nancy's throat and her face turned as red as the light, meaning that was one guest appearance she'd like to forget.

Crossroads Comments: Look for Phil Shukin, modest NBC staff saxophonist, to blossom out as a vocalist with a mighty distinctive voice. He's the accompanist who plays the second sour flute when Ransie Sherman plays the first one on "Club Matinee" . . . Franklyn MacCormack has a poetry idea show for possible fall commercial presentation; then his many listeners may expect to hear his name billed, as it still is not for his poetry reading on the Wayne King show, through no fault of Wayne's . . . Glad to hear dean of music publishers Uncle Will Rossiter's thirty-year-old "I'd Love to Live in Loveland" getting a solid revival . . . Jack Baker, "Breakfast Club" singer, who a few years ago played the hot corner in semi-pro baseball, must have the longest vocal range in the music world—from third base to first tenor!

ON THE BANDWAGON

WINNING MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE's annual band-popularity poll has become more or less of a habit with Waltz King Wayne King. He's turned the trick seven times with the same subdued, relaxed rhythm that first projected him to the fore from Chicago's famed Aragon Ballroom over a decade ago. Despite spasmodic crazes for swing kings, jitterbug delight and recurrent rhythm stylists, King has managed to stay in the foreground of dial preference. Currently airing over CBS Saturdays at 8:30 p.m. (EDT) and recording for Victor, King's ear-caressing rhythm is typified by his theme song, "The Waltz You Saved for Me" and "Alice Blue Gown." In a fox-trot medium, his versions of "At the Balalaika" and "Leanin' on the Ole Top Rail" typify the King style. That his music wears well is evidenced in his record eight-year run at the Aragon and his long reign on the "Lady Esther" program prior to his present air show. As a composer, strangely enough, his most popular efforts have not been in waltz tempo, as witness "Goofus" and "Josephine." Miss Stephenson is Mrs. Hal Kemp in private life and it was her idea that prompted her husband to orchestrate the Wagnerian aria. But Hal rebelled at the thought of having his name credited alongside that of the great German composer, so Mrs. Kemp's maiden name was pressed into service.

Kay and Sue Werner, song-writing twins of "I Want the Waiter with the Water" fame, were introduced at a recent dance they attended and were invited by the master of ceremonies to play one of their latest song hits on the piano. Men Behind the Dial No. 3

THE PRODUCER

By Vick Knight

as told to

Kate Holliday

Meet the producer—the man who has to be everyone on a radio program!

I AM AFRAID that Miss Holliday has posed me a difficult question in asking me what part the producer plays in radio broadcasting. The best answer I can give is to take you step by step through the process of putting a show on the air and hope that I shall not sound like the Great Gray Brain of Broadcasting.

You see, a producer has to be everyone on the show. By that I mean he has to have more than just a nodding acquaintance with every element which goes into a program. He must, if he is to be a good producer, have acted, have had experience with sound-effects and with music, and know those indefinable details which are classed under "technique." For this reason, he may give the impression of omnipotence. But I assure you that his knowledge works another way: it is upon the shoulders of the producer that every question involved in broadcasting eventually rests.

A man may be a producer if he can do three things: one, get the show off the air on time; two, show good taste in the material he puts on the air; and three, be aware that there is a certain amount of balance to be observed between the various elements of his show. These are the basic things. But the type of producer one is depends on the facility with which one uses them.

The idea of time is highly important in radio production. We must save time, so our direction and our lines and our special effects must be as sure-fire as possible.

Also because of the limits of airtime, the producer has to decide what is important and where to spend the minutes in the script. He must try to make his show as original as it can be, and as attractive. Therefore he must know not only the obvious possibilities of the material with which he works but all the possibilities.

Before I begin to tell you how a show is actually put together, let me say that I am a member of an advertising agency. You may wonder how this ties in. But the advertising agency—the company which handles the commercial accounts of the man who wants to put a show on the air—has become the greatest factor in broadcasting.

The networks started out as the builders of broadcasting, but due to the thousands of details which evolve in commercial radio production, the actual labor is now being done by men who are trained in advertising methods, who know what the public is interested in, and how to present entertainment and educational material in the most pleasing fashion. The networks, in the commercial part of the industry, have become the carriers, much as the newspapers are becoming carriers of syndicated copy.

They still—and rightly—impose certain restrictions upon the sponsor and the agency which are, to me, vitally important. Though I may protest when the restrictions hit me personally, I know that the networks are really protecting the capacity of free speech which we Americans have, by offering only decent material to the public.

The actual work of producing a show begins with the writing of it, of course. As Carlton Morse pointed out two weeks ago, the type of show makes a great deal of difference in the way it is written. Mr. Morse is concerned only with dramatic shows. I am concerned at the present only with a variety program.

In this latter case, I sit with the writers while the material is being plotted. The first thing which is settled is the story line, the subject and evolution of the script itself. This is, of course, the signal for endless and sometimes heated discussion, in which my best friends are often my bitterest enemies.

WHEN the story line is clear, I assign spots to the various writers on our show, and it is understood that they will write much more than is actually to be used over the air.

At this point, too, I go into conference with the musicians. We now decide which songs will best fit our chosen situations. If in the script a man is leaving his girl temporarily, he will sing a song which is not too final. We must pick a song which will give that impression or, if necessary, write one for the spot (as we often do on the Vallee show).

When the writers and musicians have done their parts and the various scripts are in my hands, the material is sent to the continuity acceptance department of the network, of which you heard last week. If there are changes to be discussed, the network representative and I, the agency representative, go over them and alter them to our liking.

When the script is okayed, I go into a kind of hibernation. It is at this time that I do the plotting and planning I spoke of in the beginning. I juggle what I find. I take a spot of comedy and move it to the start of the show, where I think it will be more effective, or I move another one back to the close. I plan the sound-effects and figure how long they should be on the air. I decide where the music shall come in—whether it shall cover the end of a line or be played below the words. I imagine where the laughs will come and mentally wait for them. I write in the cues for sound and actors and edit the show as a whole. In other words, I play the entire script to myself without being anywhere near a microphone.

When I have finished, the script is a more or less compact package which can be handled as a unit, not as a batch of papers. The material is then ready to be mimeographed.

At this point I have a rehearsal of the sound to be used. This is very important, since improper timing of sound will often ruin an otherwise good scene or situation. The sound is therefore gone over in great detail, so that it will not be used for one second when it is not effective.

I also cast the show while the script is being mimeographed. Most variety shows are written for one or two particular stars. So the most difficult part of the casting I do is to find people who can portray the smaller roles convincingly. (Yes, the advertising agency casts the shows you hear, too.)

We now have our first reading rehearsal. The show is cast. The script is written. The sound is set. And the music is decided upon.

THIS reading rehearsal consists of the entire cast's sitting around a table and merely reading the script. Little actual direction is given the actors: They are allowed to do what they want with the lines I have given them.

After the table reading, we have one reading on the microphone. And here is where the architect's work ceases in radio and the carpenter's work begins. We now start to mold the show, to build it into its final form. We begin to create an illusion.

This is done—in the other rehearsals as well as this one—by correct placing of actors so that their lines will fit the situations they are fabricating. We watch how close they are to the mike; we move them up or push them back as needed. We notice the pitch of the words they speak, get a balance on different voices so that one voice will not sound too much like another in the same spot. We try to make every part of the script as clear as possible—words, action and connotation—so that no member of the audience will be confused.

We rehearse without an audience at this point, even without the musicians and the soundmen. We have found that there is a certain lift to the show if the other members of the cast have not heard the material before it goes on the air.

All of this, however, takes only an hour or two. It may surprise you that we do not rehearse longer. But comedy on the air, though it is difficult to play well, benefits from not having too much going-over. Rehashing lines, dwelling on them, is apt to kill the spontaneity. Therefore it is after only an hour and a half of work that we have—on the Vallee show—our preview.

only way they could find to keep Ransom Sherman, its co-master of ceremonies, busy, happy and out of trouble. The same goes for Garry Moore, who alternates with Sherman. Ask another executive, "Why is 'Club Matinee'?" and he'll tell you it's NBC's showcase for new talent, a sort of testing-ground where youngsters can try their wings and give the public a chance to say yea or nay. As a result, the average age of a "Club Matinee" cast is eighteen years. "Club Matinee" points with justifiable pride, too, to its long roster of successful graduates: Names like Clark Dennis, who left the show to become vocalist with Paul Whiteman; Lillian Cornell, who was recently seen in "Buck Benny Rides Again," with Jack Benny; Gale Page, seen in films, and any number of others.

The Dinning Sisters are a good example of how the thing works. These three girls—a set of twins fifteen years old and an older sister, eighteen—had the most complete faith in their ability to click in bigtime. So they set out from their Oklahoma home with a lot of torrid tunes on their lips, not much gas in their jalopy, and even less money in their jeans. Journey's end was NBC in Chicago, where they arrived with thirty cents and energy enough to clamor for an audition. To-

CRAZY

CO-MASTERS OF CEREMONIES on "Club Matinee"—and currently feuding in friendly fashion—are veteran Ranse Sherman (r.) and cub Garry Moore

IN EXPERIMENTAL drama, radio has its "Columbia Workshop" and the "Arch Oboler Plays." Both Oboler and the Workshop directors are given a free hand and the go-ahead signal in developing new techniques and pioneering airways drama. In music, there's Raymond Scott's "Concert in Rhythm," a futuristic musical program in which the maestro also finds himself free to experiment and develop new techniques. In comedy, it's "Club Matinee" all the way, to borrow their own phrase.

Here is a zany little piece of merriment, inauspiciously insinuated into your afternoon listening which, without pattern or reason, is easily the most haphazard, the screwiest, the most anything-can-happen affair ever to hit the ether. There are no inhibitions on "Club Matinee," and its only prohibitions are those set up by the FCC in the interest of decency, the public welfare, etc. Everyone connected with the show—even to the page-boys—contributes his little bit when and how he pleases, and the result is a happy-go-lucky sort of family affair. The chances are ten to one that the orchestra won't play the previously scheduled and duly announced numbers. What the orchestra plays depends upon how the orchestra feels. That's the way "Club Matinee" is. It recognizes that there are differences in personalities and tastes and every member of its cast is a free soul.

For example, the day I went up to watch a broadcast, Garry Moore, who was mastering the ceremonies that day, had learned a few minutes before airtime that Johnnie Johnston, the tenor, was ill. The easy way would have been to get in a substitute tenor, give him Johnston's lines and let it go at that. But who is Garry Moore to take the easy way and pass up such a grand opportunity?

He started by summarily handing the announcer's script to a tiny vocalist from Alabama, Evelyn Lynne.

"You're the announcer today," he told her urbanely, ignoring her protests that she was only a singer. To Durward Kirby, the announcer, he gave the lines which had originally been assigned to Johnston. The lines Miss Lynne was supposed to give in the script fell to Rex Maupin, the orchestra-leader. The fact that Maupin already had lines assigned to him left Moore completely unperturbed. "I'll give 'em myself," he said, and he did in a pattering double-talk that left a studio audience of three hundred persons gasping for air. All this switching, remember, was done just as the show was about to go on the air. The result was something like an omelette—but a tasty omelette—and I came away feeling as if I'd spent a nice, quiet week-end with the Marx Brothers.

Actually there is a reason for "Club Matinee," and any NBC executive will give it to you. Ask one executive what it is and he'll tell you that was the day they're on "Club Matinee," and tomorrow . . . Who can say? Critics maintain they'll be pushing the Andrews Sisters for top sister-act billing almost before you know it.

But the important reason for "Club Matinee" is its service as an experimental ground for comedy on the air. The scripts—not that they mean a whole lot once the gang gets near a microphone—are the sole responsibility of Moore and Sherman. Club Matinee is not sponsored—it rides along on a minimum of outside interference.

THERE is no set comedy style such as other comedy programs have, but free as the wind, it is molded, torn apart, rebuilt as different talent comes to it . . . and passes on to greater heights. It's a star-making program, a sort of talent-search of a strictly legitimate nature, with the talent playing for keeps.

Sherman and Moore are ideally selected for the job. Both boys are born comedians, though different in style and technique. Both are generous, and by generous, we mean willing to share the spotlight. They write big parts into their scripts for announcers, orchestra members, everyone in their cast. People who work with them love it, give "Club Matinee" all they have, and the result is a program which successfully competes with daytime serials.

Sherman took his first radio job in 1926 with WENR in Chicago. Since that time he has never been without radio work except of his own choosing. He was one of the riotous "Three Doctors," a pioneer comedy act of the airways. He left WENR rather precipitately as the result of a telephone conversation. Sherman and a studio engineer had a habit of calling each other on the phone and bantering back and forth. One day Sherman answered the phone and the voice at the other end said, "This is Mr. Rowland—" Mr. E. N. Rowland owned WENR at that time. Sherman, knowing the call was from the engineer, replied, "If you're old man Rowland, then I'm Napoleon, you $%&$!" P.S. It was Rowland, and Sherman was out of a job. Today NBC-operated WENR is the outlet for Sherman's "Club Matinee."

A stern, unsmiling person with a delivery and style resembling Fred Allen's, Sherman is terrific to some, a baffling quantity to others. With his shell-rimmed glasses, bow tie, thin blond hair, he resembles a college professor. Married, his wife thinks he's the funniest man in the world. So do his two daughters, aged eleven and eight, who do a screamingly funny radio skit for visitors to the Sherman home in Winnetka. Sherman writes at home, timing his production by the arrival and departure of suburban trains. When the four-forty whistle blows, he knows he should be on page three, and he speeds up or slows down his tempo in accordance. His daily stint is 7,500 words, and he has done more than six hundred daily stints.

His serious mien is a perfect set-up for Sherman's practical jokes. A favorite gag with him is to walk into a Chicago department store in summer without a coat, walk slowly up and down the aisles until some sweet old lady comes along and asks our "floor-walker" for the glove counter. A double-talker of the first water, he usually has the lady distraught in the first fifteen seconds of conversation. When salespeople finally come up, they find a horrified, rather frightened old lady, a serious and unsmiling Sherman.

Moore was born Thomas Garrison Morfit in Baltimore, Md., some twenty-five years ago. He started his radio career almost simultaneously with his doffing of diapers, as a writer, actor, comedian and janitor-of-sorts at WBAL. His biggest success in Baltimore radio was with the scavenger hunt, which he helped originate. Going to a St. Louis station shortly afterward, it was but an overnight trip (even though it took him a year to make it) to NBC in Chicago last spring, where he started giving Sherman relief on "Club Matinee." His style of humor is wide open, leaving nothing to the imagination. "It's got to be corny to be commercial," is his motto. That he means what he says is demonstrated in his scripts, which have such gems as this:

by
FRANCIS CHASE, Jr.

Moore: Confidentially, were you ever frightened by a train-caller?

Stooge: I was a train-caller once. Moore: Yeah? Then let's hear you call a train!

The advent of Moore on the "Club Matinee" scene has opened a running but friendly feud between Moore and Sherman. It's carried, via the cast, from one broadcast to the next. Actually, the two masters of ceremony never meet on a program except maybe when a particularly hot feud is in progress. At the moment, they are feuding about Sherman's age. Sherman's is pressing the forty-two-year mark, while Moore, still in swaddling-clothes, as Sherman puts it, is one of the youngest writer-comedians in big-time. Moore was married last year and, a few weeks ago, was blessed-evented with a fine baby boy, who played havoc with his writing routine. He used to write all his script at 2:30 a.m., but the baby's arrival bars pounding of typewriter keys in the wee hours.

A SHORT time ago Moore—then Morfit—conducted a letter-writing contest to pick a new name. Trouble with his real name was letters he received addressed to Mopfoot, Mothflit, Muffnits and Wharfrat. Twenty thousand letter-writing listeners helped him choose Moore as a radio name.

Anything goes on the show, and perhaps its most striking characteristic is the wealth of individuality that crops up there. Four microphones are usually used in bringing it to the air, and the first four people to reach a microphone are the four who get in the first say. Result: A rush to the program of announcers-who-want-to-be-singers; of musicians-who-want-to-be-announcers; of singers-who-want-to-be-actors.

Aside from Sherman and Moore, there's Johnnie Johnston, an easy-to-listen-to tenor, who is being built up along the same comedy lines as Kenny Baker—a likable, rather dumb, rather spoiled youngster. Evelyn Lynne is a demure, dark-haired singer of sweet songs from Alabama who, in the short year she has been on "Club Matinee," has built a remarkable following. She alternates with Nancy Martin, a West Virginian, who also deals in sweet ballads and occasional hot numbers.

To give a slight idea of what "Club Matinee" does by way of developing and discovering talent, take the cases of Bill Short and Phil Shukin. Both lads were members of the staff orchestra, which is ably conducted by Rex Maupin and Joseph Gallicchio alternately. Bill plays the string bass in the band, but it didn't take Moore long to discover that he hailed from Brooklyn and still retained that well-known Brooklyn accent. He's a star monologist on the program now, explaining to fascinated audiences in pure Brooklynese and with the utmost sincerity such subjects as how the song, "Cheery, Cheery Been," got its title.

Phil Shukin is another "Club Matinee" find. Blessed with one of the finest natural voices in the NBC studio, he had been tucked securely—and obscurely—away in the sax section of the band until this program found him out. He is being taken out of the program for a build-up of his own.

So, day after day, "Club Matinee" rolls merrily along its way, leaving laughter in its wake, discovering new talent, giving it its big break, building new and different comedy, which tomorrow or the day after you'll find on other commercial shows. Just as the Jack Bennys and the Fred Allens of today are graduates of the vaudeville of yesterday, the Bennys and the Allens of tomorrow—we'll stake our prophet's beard upon it—will be graduates of "Club Matinee."

"Club Matinee" may be heard Monday through Saturday over an NBC network at:

The two children run the house. There's a gate at the head of the stairs to keep the kids from falling down. First time I've seen one since our boys were babies. Inasmuch as Powell is sick in bed and can't get up to get his shotgun, I will report that his wife is one of the most luscious ladies I have ever seen. He thinks so, too. They have some very funny pet names for each other and some of them are very familiar. I will tell you what they are when I see you.

I'm going out to see Mr. and Mrs. Robert Taylor. Will write you more later. I also will write the children.

One friend told me I couldn't catch cold in southern California. I assured him I caught mine with Peary at the North Pole. When I first got out here I was sleepy all the time. That's what this climate does to easterners. And I couldn't eat. But now I have an appetite like a vacuum cleaner. Went out to Palm Springs last Sunday. Will tell you about it later. It's the Coney Island of Hollywood. JIM.

skull. One seared his shoulder. He staggered, but kept plunging on. Dummy darted after him. Then the moon went out.

As Sarto floundered on he could hear Dummy crashing through the brush behind him. But Dummy could not hear his quarry. Dizzy and weak, the wounded man fought his frantic way through tar-black brush. Thorns stabbed him, briars clawed. A low branch smashed him on the nose, and he reeled and nearly went down. Bending double, he churned on. Then his head hit something hard, and he dropped, stunned for a moment. He reached out an unsteady hand and felt an ivy-covered wall. No sound of pursuit came to his ears.

Painfully he dragged himself up to the top of the wall. Not a sob of breath was left in him. He straddled the wall and clung to it. Then he fainted.

This is the first half of "Brother Orchid," by Richard Connell. The second half of the story, which deals with John Sarto's experiences in the monastery of the Floratines, will be published in Movie and Radio Guide next week.

A Doll Comes to Life

Dear V. O. L.:

I'm very much impressed with the idea sponsored by Ted Malone and your publication of setting aside a day for Little Boy Blue and Little Girl Pink. Ours was a Girl Pink. I have an attic filled with toys and dolls. One day a friend asked me if I would sell the large doll and carriage. I said, "No. They're too sacred. But maybe some day I'll find just the right little girl to give them to, but never sell." Three years have gone by and I still have them. Since reading the poem you published, "Sequel to Little Boy Blue," I have made up my mind that on her birthday, September 28, I will give one of the toys away. And I'm for a special day to be set aside, so I can do something then.

Mrs. H. P. Osborn, West Orange, N. J.

Thanks From Barbara

Dear V. O. L.:

There's no use trying to find words to thank MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE and all the loyal friends of our "First Nighter" program who were kind enough to vote for me. I can only say that I am deeply appreciative of their friendship and the honor they have given me. I hope to continue to merit their generous loyalty.

MEN BEHIND THE DIAL, NO. 3

The preview idea is one which is somewhat new to broadcasting. But it affords the producer and the actors a magnificent chance to see what will be appreciated by the audience and what will not. It is usually held two or three days before the show is actually scheduled to go on the air and is a kind of testing-ground for the material which has been written. So the script used is overly long. For a show such as ours, which runs twenty-nine minutes and forty seconds, the preview script will often run forty-five or fifty minutes. And that's a lot of extra radio time!

While the preview is going on in front of an invited audience a record is being made. An assistant producer sits by that record and marks on the script the length of the various spots. (A spot, in this case, is terminated by a laugh.) Therefore when we begin to cut down to the actual length of the broadcast, the time of each section is already known and the cutting becomes a simple problem in arithmetic.

The assistant producer also notes which spots get the biggest laughs. These are rated by a series of checks, two checks being a fair laugh, three a good one, and four one that is terrific. This is also taken into consideration when cutting.

The cutting itself is done in the absence of the writers, since they are naturally anxious that their brain children will get on the air, and may muddy up the question by fighting for them.

But we finally manage to get the show down to the length of time it should be and send the script again to be mimeographed.

At the next rehearsal the script is once more read around a table and is done only once or twice over the microphone. As before, this is to keep the spontaneity, and most of the direction consists of purely technical things.

The actors are sent away at this point and the orchestra is rehearsed. They have not met before so there is a reading of their material, too, and a placing of their various instruments so that balance will be achieved.

A half-hour before the show goes on the air the cast get their final instructions. Then they are out of my hands to the extent that no amount of vehement language will do any good until the show is finished.

I now go to the control-room. The engineer gives me the signal that the air is clear, and I in turn signal the orchestra-leader that he may begin. We are on the air.

Producers, in the infancy of radio, used to walk the stage while the show was in progress, waving their arms and generally distracting the audience. But then some enterprising young man discovered that radio was primarily concerned with the ear, not the eye. The only place where a program could be heard, obviously, was the control-room. That is where the producer roosts now.

His direction while the show is on the air consists mainly of signals. However, it is at this time that the show really comes alive. For radio has devised a set of signals which enable the actor to know exactly what the producer wants even though he cannot speak with him. The producer can change the pace of the show, move his actors, bring up or lower the music and a host of other things. He can even cut the show while the broadcast is in progress. And he can make a series of typewritten words into something laughable, something truly alive.

When it is all over, whether it has been a good show or a bad one, there is nothing that the producer can do but go out on the stage, thank his cast, say good night and go home to bed. Radio is like that.

But even so, I love it. And my loyal ally in the control-room, the engineer, loves it. There is a feeling of creation, of power, in producing which minimizes all the battling for time.

Miss Holliday tells me that you will hear more of the engineer's job next week. And I'll be willing to bet the top spot on my show that, in spite of its being an utter madhouse at times, he wouldn't give up radio for anything!

DIANA, 1940!

beautiful. Feeling beautiful," he went on to explain, "not only makes a girl hold herself proudly but relaxes her body so that her gestures flow gracefully from one to another, and everything about her has a winged lightness that can be as clearly felt as the rhythm in music."

So there you have the explanation in a nutshell, summed up in the words of a man who has done more than any other person I know to glorify the beauty of American womanhood!

According to Vyvyan Donner, world-famous fashion authority, whose weekly fashion newsreels for 20th Century-Fox and Technicolor Fashion Forecasts have been eagerly followed by women the world over for the last eleven years, beauty of carriage is at the very peak of her requirements in choosing girls with the greatest possibilities for success in modeling and screen-acting. "American women," she points out, "are the most beautiful women in the world, yet, unfortunately, they almost always carry themselves with a woeful lack of distinction. What a pity it is," she adds, "that every girl cannot have an opportunity to see herself walking on the screen! She would soon discover her posture faults and realize that when her carriage is improved her attractiveness will be increased in proportion."

Miss Donner believes that a girl's carriage should at all times reflect the "three vital A's of personality—awareness, alertness and aliveness."

In addition, if she wishes to be rated as eligible Hollywood material, she must pass muster on the following points: (1) Animation; (2) intelligence; (3) beauty; (4) charm; and (5) the ability to wear clothes well.

These things lead to beauty and poise of carriage, the dream of every Hollywood producer.

The other qualities that are vitally essential to a successful career in modeling or the movies—or, I might add, to possessing a Diana-like look in every-day life—are grooming and a pleasing smile.

"I can't stand to look at a girl, no matter how self-assured she may be, if she isn't daintily groomed." Miss Donner points out. "It doesn't cost a penny to be clean, shiny and well brushed, nor does it require any special effort to have a sweet and intelligent smile. Practise smiling, along with your new, straight posture and see how it helps to give you a radiant new personality."

Study the two models in the photographs that accompany this article and you will understand what she has in mind. Both of these girls are famous for their distinction of carriage as well as for their winsome smiles and the acquired dash with which they wear their clothes. You will see these girls in Hollywood before long, for Miss Donner's models invariably win flattering contracts. Look, too, at the graceful, distinguished pose of Gladys Swarthout, the well-known Metropolitan Opera star, and see how much her carriage adds to the beauty of her personality.

Why don't you begin today to cultivate a Diana look before your mirror? Feel beautiful! Acquire a friendly smile, a well-brushed appearance! Raise your chest proudly and feel every other part of your body fall gracefully into line. Who knows but the gate to Hollywood may some day open for you!

BULLS & BONERS

One dollar will be paid for every broadcasting boner printed in this column. Your boner—a ludicrous error or a statement with twisted meaning made by some radio performer—should be accompanied by name of station and broadcaster, date of program. Address Bulls and Boners, MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE, 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Ill. In case more than one reader submits the same boner, prize goes to contributor whose letter bears earliest postmark. In case of tying postmarks, all tying contestants will receive prizes.

LIFE of WEALTH · LOVE · HEALTH · HAPPINESS and PROSPERITY!

THE KEY TO SUPREME MASTERY UNLOCKS THE DOOR TO YOUR LATENT POWERS

Through countless ages in every ancient land there have been infinitely wise men who were the oracles of their times. These men performed long hidden rites which they closely guarded. Through the practice of Eclecticism—a system of philosophic knowledge—they were enabled to perform amazing feats—miracles which people could not understand. All of them had the power to ACHIEVE THAT WHICH THEY DESIRED!

Now, in a sensational new book, "THE DOORWAY TO YOUR SUCCESS", a simple explanation is given to these long hidden secrets. For the first time it is told how you, too, may "get out of the shadows and into the light of understanding"; how you can Control Your Destiny by breaking the shackles which bind the hidden powers within YOU!

WRITTEN FOR MEN AND WOMEN WHOSE MOST PRESSING NEED IS FOR MONEY!

Long hidden under high sounding names and cloaked by mysterious rites, this amazing book reveals that almost any person of ordinary intelligence can achieve untold success by utilizing the simple rules of Universal Nature. You are shown, step by step, how to put into practice certain fundamental principles which will help you solve your problems of Health, Business Success, Love and Happiness. The Bible tells us that "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he". What you think you are—YOU ARE! You can attain anything you desire; overcome seemingly impossible obstacles; win riches, bend people to your will if you use the Master Formula of Power Thinking as revealed in "THE DOORWAY TO YOUR SUCCESS".

ACTUAL SUCCESS EXPERIENCES DIVULGED FOR THE FIRST TIME

By way of proving the Great Truths which are unveiled here for the first time, the author has devoted an important part of "THE DOORWAY TO YOUR SUCCESS" to true experiences of people who have practiced the principles explained and who have WON SUCCESS in the face of almost impossible odds. NOTHING HAS BEEN WITHHELD!

Case 1 tells of a man who had to succeed within a limited time or go bankrupt. In 30 days he had paid all of his debts.

Case 2 describes a doorman who needed $5 that afternoon and the almost uncanny and unexpected manner in which it came to him.

Case 3 relates the true story of an old woman who was reduced to stealing milk before dawn and who received the $500 she desired before night.

Case 4 tells the experience of a young man who could not afford to marry until he had learned the Universal Secret. How he won his love and achieved happiness is related here.

These and other TRUE EXPERIENCES will show you the way to Supreme Mastery over every situation so that you, too, may attain SUCCESS, LOVE, WEALTH AND HAPPINESS!
