Why Not Put the Willkie-Roosevelt Debates on the Air?

WENDELL WILLKIE'S performance as a radio speaker in Elwood, Indiana, should not be held against him. We have talked to Ken Fry, who handled NBC's broadcast, and he reports conditions under which any man would have wilted. The heat was almost unbearable. The crush of people was unbelievable. On top of that, Mr. Willkie labored under the necessity of talking to two audiences simultaneously. The first was the 150,000 people who had journeyed to Elwood to see him; the second was the radio audience. In attempting to do justice to both, he satisfied neither.

We have been told that the 1940 campaign is to be a battle of radio voices; the Roosevelt polish versus the Willkie punch. We all heard the Willkie challenge to debate and read of the President's refusal on the grounds that he is too busy to talk politics while democracy is in jeopardy.

It is Mr. Willkie's idea that a presidential third term is just as much a challenge to democracy as anything happening in Europe. As such, it requires open discussion and debate where all the people can hear and be informed.

Why not put those debates on the air? Mr. Roosevelt says he is too busy to travel. The microphone will come to him. Mr. Willkie says he wants all the people to hear both sides of the argument. Radio will reach a thousand times the number who might come to selected city auditoriums.

If each candidate would accept the idea, then with Mr. Roosevelt's perfect technique pitted against Mr. Willkie's explosive spontaneity, we listeners would indeed hear a verbal battle of the century.

SPECIAL MENTION should be given NBC's courageous newscaster, John B. Kennedy. In a day when most men are "interpreting" news,

John B. Kennedy

Kennedy is using it to arouse America to an awareness of her peril. Listen some night when NBC's reporters talk from the world capitals. In New York he summarizes happenings before and after the short-wave talks. He hits fiercely, but always with colorful phrases. It was Kennedy who called Virginia Gayda, the Italian editor, "Mussolini's oratorical spare-tire," who defined a military expert as "a man who is right on Monday and wrong on Tuesday," who reported an Irishman's attitude as "Sure, I know we're neutral, but who are we neutral against?" John B. Kennedy has never yet hesitated to call a spade a spade or a Nazi a rat. His nightly talks are a much greater service to this nation than most listeners realize.

THE AMAZING REPLIES of the children on "The Quiz Kids" program has caused a few skeptics to assert that the program must be rehearsed. No tots, they maintain, could be that smart. As an interested observer, we are in a position to state that no rehearsal for this program is ever held, and that no question asked on a program is shown to a child contestant in advance. "The Quiz Kids" really are that smart. We've heard them and we have watched them. Frankly, they've made us feel like going back to school again for another "exposure."

DOUBLE FEATURES have undoubtedly driven many people out of the motion-picture theater. Word comes now from California of a novel theater which will make everyone happy. It is named "The Paradise," and we think they've got something there. "The Paradise" consists of two separate auditoriums which are the same in size and shape. In Auditorium A, the No. 1 feature will be run over and over. In Auditorium B, the No. 2 feature will be run. Those who like single features will sit through whichever picture they prefer and then go about their business. Those who want their full money's worth will simply walk into the next auditorium and watch the other picture. No extra charge. It sounds too good to be true.

THE GIRL ON THE COVER: Ginger Rogers, who numbers her fans in the millions now, had only one in 1929. But John L. Cass, film sound-recorder, was a friend indeed. While making a short film of Ginger and Rudy Vallee—both unknown to screenland—he knew that Ginger's voice was perfect for sound and insisted upon making a separate test of Ginger for the record. This Mr. Cass, who incidentally did the recording for Ginger's recent film, "The Primrose Path," not only knew voice possibilities. He knew loveliness and poise and all those other things a star needs. This test won the twinkle-toed dancer her first screen role in "Young Man of Manhattan." Born in Independence, Mo., Virginia McMath, Ginger changed her name after winning a Charleston contest and landing a job with a Paul Ash revue at the Paramount Theater in New York. This, in turn, led to a part in the Broadway musical, "Top Speed," which, in its turn, brought her the screen test and a chance at pictures. For a long time Hollywood looked upon Ginger as just another singer-dancer, and cast her in one after another dancing film with Fred Astaire. Her serious part in "Stage Door" was given her at her own insistence and against studio executives' judgment. When it was completed, executives realized that they had a star with unplumbed dramatic depths on their hands. "Primrose Path" established this beyond question. Her next, "Lucky Partners," with Ronald Colman, is delicious comedy. Recently, Ginger has been getting a reputation as another Garbo. In reality, it is not a desire "to be alone" which has made her so hard to reach, but the fact that she has been so busy in roles varying from the comedy of "Fifth Avenue Girl" to the near-tragedy of "Primrose Path." Ginger was married to—and divorced from—Lew Ayres. Her hair is naturally blond (but dyed black for "Primrose Path"). Bicycling is her favorite sport and dancing is her hobby. ## QUESTION

1 In what picture does Bing Crosby croon "That's for Me" to a lovely lady who used to admit publicly that her "Heart Belongs to Daddy?"

2 "Who are known as "the most happily married couple in Hollywood?" And in what romantic comedy do they play the roles of very quarrelsome but very loving newlyweds?

3 What nationally known screen and radio character has a new girl, not to mention a new pal who is a terrific scene stealer?

4 What girl is fortunate enough in what moving picture version of a Joseph Conrad masterpiece to spend a week alone on a South Sea Island with Fredric March?

5 Who is the lovely English-born beauty who steals Fred MacMurray's heart in the big new outdoors adventure picture directed by Sam ("Goodbye, Mr. Chips," "Our Town") Wood. And what Daughter of the Dust Bowl makes news by playing a terrific kid role in the same picture?

ANSWER...

1 Bing Crosby sings "That's for Me" to Mary Martin in Paramount's "Rhythm on the River," the big streamlined musical which also stars Basil Rathbone, with Oscar Levant.

2 Joan Blondell and Dick Powell, of course, the stars of Paramount's "I Want a Divorce," the picture Hollywood is raving about as setting Joan and Dick firmly on the comeback trail.

3 Henry Aldrich, America's new Peck's Bad Boy, played by Jackie Cooper, has Boston and Broadway's cute little Leila Ernst, success of "Too Many Girls" for a girl friend, and Eddie Bracken, also a star of the same New York hit show, as his pal in "Life With Henry" starring the Aldrich Family.

4 Fredric March in Paramount's all-star production of Joseph Conrad's immortal "Victory" welcomes Betty Field to his private island paradise in the South Seas and starts a thrilling series of romantic adventures in which Sir Cedric Hardwicke and other famous name players play exciting parts.

A word portrait of the most talked-about young actor of the year—Mr. Jeffrey Lynn!

By JAMES STREET

JEFFREY LYNN is a bachelor who once described as "slimsy caryatids" the type of girl of whom he doesn't approve! His latest picture is "Money and the Woman"

MR. JEFFREY LYNN scuttled his real name, Ragnar Godfrey Lind, because the boys either called him "Rags" or misspelled it. That scorched the sensitive spirit of a young man who once taught English in New England, where English sometimes is maltreated but never torpedoed as it is in Hollywood.

As a former teacher, Mr. Lynn is reported to have a conservative respect for the civil rights of words and to dislike the pronoun I. With this in mind, he gives us the following bit of verbmongery about modern girls:

"They're sleek dressers, the A-plus girls. No feminine frou-frou like ribbons and ruffles and jiggers that trail in a man's eye when you dance with them. And they are not even a distant relation to the hollow-eyed, dieted damsels who were considered glamorous yesterday. I'm a stickler for exuberant health in a woman. The way nature made them is good enough. Certainly she never intended to have them slimsy caryatids holding up cocktail bars at five o'clock. That may have been fascinating in the roaring twenties. But not in these fair forties."

Please, teacher, may we be excused . . .

Any woman who can hold up a bar at five o'clock p.m. or a.m. must be in exuberant health. I've never seen a slimsy caryatid hold up a bar, but one time in Brooklyn I saw a girl hold up a caryatid, which, after all, is a sculptured female figure used to hold up things, even buildings.

Mr. Lynn has much to say about women, particularly his dream girl. She must be neat, trim, personable and gallant. A female Beau Geste. She must have an alive, sensitive face and a beautiful voice. She must be an outdoor girl, "equally at home hopping fences or on a dance floor." Mr.

Lynn likes outdoor girls because the first time he fell in love his sweetheart was "up an apple tree, straddling a limb with bare feet." (The girl had the bare feet, not the limb.) That was in Boston, and before you get the wrong impression of Boston girls and Boston apple trees, we hasten to explain that Mr. Lynn was ten then, and the girl was younger. It's all right for little girls to go barefoot in Boston and to climb apple trees, but just try it when you're old enough to be a slimsy caryatid!

Mr. Lynn's ideal must be a good cook, just in case his option is dropped. She must have a sense of humor. She must be bewitching and enjoy good books, plays, dancing. In fact, she must be something that we believe does not exist, such as a slimsy caryatid.

Mr. Lynn is a bachelor . . . He'll either compromise, a hard thing for a New Englander to do, or he'll die one.

Yet Mr. Lynn is one of the few actors we'll drive twenty miles to see in a movie, which is what you have to do in the part of New England where we live.

Mr. Lynn has been many things in life. We don't know how good he was as a teacher, a theater-usher or a telephone-company employe, but he is an actor. Any man who can get away with the role he played in "It All Came True" is tops.

Out at Warners, where Mr. Lynn gets paid, they say he is striving for film success to prove to the folks back home that an actor isn't a bum. We hazard the suggestion that Mr. Lynn works for success because he likes success. Surely he knows, and Warners should, that New England does not think actors are bums, although some of them are.

Mr. Lynn has been called snobbish and colorless. He certainly is not colorless, and as for being snobbish—well, a man still is known by the company he keeps. And Mr. Lynn keeps some company with a few tried friends and a lot of company with himself. He does not play the Hollywood game. He won't throw big parties, kowtow to the tycoons, get drunk, defame women or dress to impress people.

Mr. Lynn is a gentleman. He has ideals and he will not compromise them. He had his first date while he was a sophomore in college. He never saw a movie until he was fifteen, a legitimate play until he was seventeen, New York until he was eighteen. He reached Broadway at twenty-four. As an usher! He now is thirty-one.

Mr. Lynn was born in Auburn, Massachusetts, on February 16, 1909. His family name was Lind. Just why Warners changed his last name is a mystery. The name was all right for Jenny Lind.

MR. LYNN says he was the black sheep of his family. "Father was a man who worked with his hands," Mr. Lynn said. "He came over from Sweden when he was a kid of sixteen, and he worked with engines and dynamos the rest of his life. Imagine an actor in the family. Honestly, I don't think there's any greater humiliation for a family bred in the idea that the only good work in the world is done with the hands. It's different now. I guess Father and Mother have resigned themselves to my fate."

Gee, that's sad. Reminds me of a doomed man eating his last meal of caviar before being smothered by blondes and glamour and big checks.

At high school Mr. Lynn was quite a runner, and at Bates College he was a member of the two-mile relay team that won the 1930 Penn Relays.

As a sophomore he began studying dramatics. He was graduated in 1930 and worked for telephone companies in Providence, R. I., and Brockton, Mass. But he devoted his evenings to amateur theatricals.

He might have worked up to be a vice president of the telephone company, but he chucked his chance to be a teacher. He was head of the department of English of the Lisbon (Maine) High School. His department had one teacher—Mr. Lynn.

Determined to be an actor, Mr. Lynn went home to save his money, preparatory to his invasion of New York. He worked with a semi-professional troupe at home and reached New York when he was twenty-four. His first job was as a doorman at a theater, but he spent his days as a student at the Theodore Irvine School of the Theater. Mr. Lynn showed promise and got a job in summer stock at the Barter Theater of Abingdon, Virginia. It's quite a theater. The admission is seventy-five cents, but if you haven't got the cash you can barter your way in with vegetables, molasses and hams. You can see several shows for one ham.

Mr. Lynn's first Broadway job was in "A Slight Case of Murder." He was an understudy, bit player and assistant stage manager. Next he worked in a thing called "Stick in the Mud." Mr. Lynn later worked the one-gallus circuits for quite a while, and wound up with a leading role in the road company of "Brother Rat."

That led to the movies. From rats to riches. Wow! That's as bad as slimsy what-you-call-em.

They put Mr. Lynn in "Cowboy From Brooklyn." "Where Were You

Shirley Temple Visits a Movie Studio

Young film veteran gets thrill watching other screen stars at work

SHIRLEY TEMPLE, enjoying her first vacation from films since 1933, took a "fireman's holiday" recently and visited Universal studio to watch Deanna Durbin, in "Spring Parade," and Gloria Jean work before the cameras. Shirley was as thrilled at the visit as any ordinary child touring a studio for the first time. With a straight face, she asked questions, listened to the answers from director Henry Koster. (Secondary reason for the visit was to permit Shirley's mother to watch Koster at work.) "It's lots of fun to watch pictures being made," was Shirley's verdict. "More fun than making them." Later, Shirley visited Deanna Durbin in her dressing-room, where they played "Stinky Pinky," a word game, and drank ice-cream sodas until it was time for Shirley to leave.

SHIRLEY AND DEANNA DURBIN drank ice-cream sodas in Deanna's dressing-room, discussed "the little man who wasn't there," agreed he must live on "Ghost Toasties and evaporated milk!"

The Private Papers of a Hollywood Correspondent

Why is Boyer Hollywood's most sought-after guest?
What do Tone and Turner have in common? Revealing and intimate is the Hollywood this writer has uncovered

WHOS who in Hollywood this year? I know. I have kept notes through the swift, exciting months, and they are constant reminders of the flux and change that continually make this a town of miracles. Here are more temperaments, greater extravagance, warmer emotions and more spectacular practitioners of the art of living than anywhere else in the world.

Some are tragic, some are great, but all are interesting.

The most popular stars are Mickey Rooney and Bette Davis. Put their names on a marquee and they will draw more paying customers than any other actor or actress.

The highest-paid stars, per single role, are Ronald Colman and Claudette Colbert. Both receive $150,000 for each part they portray.

The biggest money-makers for this entire year will be Bing Crosby and Jeanette MacDonald. Besides his film checks, Bing has his equally large radio income. More than that, there are his wages for his records. Jeanette's new position as America's No. 1 concert star, from a box-office viewpoint, has doubled her M-G-M salary.

The most elaborate homes belong to Warner Baxter and Claudette Colbert. Warner spent $250,000 building his house, almost three times that much in furnishings and landscaping. Claudette has several hundred thousand sunk in her exquisite, frequently rearranged house.

The handsomest actor and the most gorgeous actress in person are John Payne and Madeleine Carroll.

The most commotion is caused by Cary Grant and Joan Crawford. When either is spotted away from their studios or their own homes, the mob scene is on! Cary honestly tries not to be conspicuous; Joan adores being spectacular.

The best-dressed stars, truly, are Ray Milland and Marlene Dietrich. Ray combines the right touch of cas-ualness and conservative dressing. As for Marlene, she has the perfect ensemble for every occasion.

The most beautiful jewels in the film colony are owned by Paulette Goddard. She contends a subtle (none too subtle!) bit of jewelry is the ideal decoration. Her diamond necklace, and her emerald clips and matching bracelet are her prize possessions.

The stars who date oftenest are Franchot Tone and Lana Turner. Every time Franchot glimpses another pretty girl he debates when he can include her in his schedule. By nature the gayest girl in Hollywood, Lana swears she'll never have a girl friend because a g. f. would interfere with the more important matter of dates.

THE most susceptible, romantically, are Robert Preston and Joan Crawford. With regular suddenness these two go falling hook, line and sinker again.

The best host and hostess are Basil Rathbone and Constance Bennett. You are skilfully entertained from the second you cross their threshold. Every element of a good time is provided. Basil admits his wife attends to everything and all he has to do is take over when you arrive. Sometimes Connie has Elsa Maxwell throw a party in her town house, but generally Connie is a super-smoothie with no assistance.

The best ballroom dancers are Cesar Romero and Ann Sheridan. No matter what your floor style, whether you're a calm jitterbug or have a passion for the rumba, they're the ones to meet when you go stepping.

The best-informed conversationalists are Edward G. Robinson and Greer Garson. Aside from the myriad of facts at their command, they have intelligent opinions ranging from art and literature to every-day talk.

The stars who are most fun are Errol Flynn and Claudette Colbert. The day or evening picks up immediately when either one heaves into sight.

The stars with the most friends are Bing Crosby and Bette Davis. Their outlook on life creates flocks of devoted pals. Bing relaxes all over every place he goes, and is so tolerant and comfortable he's the ideal friend. Bette, on the other hand, is explosive and positive; but she is so sincere and so thankful for any interest that she has no detractors.

The most sought-after guests are Charles Boyer and Rosalind Russell. Despite the Frenchman's being completely loyal to his wife, he's the plum every Hollywood hostess prefers on her right. There is something so understanding about him. Dynamite under control. Roz can be relied upon to cheer up all proceedings, and her wit is keen enough to keep her from turning goeey over any of the already-snagged men present.

The sports king and queen of the colony are Jon Hall and Sonja Henie. Pick your game and they'll whip you superbly. They're children of nature, and how. Such speed, such form!

The hardest to know are Paul Muni and Irene Dunne. Both are extremely meticulous and every action, they feel, should be well-rehearsed.

The model interviewees, however, are Joel McCrea and Jeanette MacDonald. Astonishingly, most movie stars are unable to talk interestingly about themselves. The press will tell you these two are their pet assignments. Joel has emphatic reactions and goes out of his way to gratify fan concern. Jeanette is the only actress who conscientiously thinks ahead for her interviews.

The best-sense-of-humor honors are divided between Don Ameche and Ann Sheridan. No one can drag a long face into Don's life. He keeps his leading ladies, like Alice Faye as well as his wife, in a cheerful frame of mind and doesn't spare the practical jokes. "Oomphy" Annie is the kind men remember because topping her appeal is her flair for down-to-earth observations that are exhilarating.

The ace sex-appeal champs off-screen are Humphrey Bogart and Lana Turner. The insolence in Bogey's eyes and his sophisticated patter have excited more women than the less imaginative and more picturesque specimens of screen masculinity. Lana is uninhibited and figures fun is foremost—an irresistible combination.

The most realistic stars, unquestionably, are Clark Gable and Barbara Stanwyck. They've gone through most of the ups and downs of life and so recognize the folly of being phony about anything.

THE most colorful characters are Victor McLaglen and Dolores Del Rio.

The business laurels go to Adolphe Menjou and Constance Bennett. Adolphe is the only star who was shrewd enough to sell his stock holdings before the crash. He bargains cannily, even has $250,000 invested in stamps alone. No woman ever hit Hollywood with more money sense than the elder Bennett.

The fan mail peaks—in case you wish to check this way—are topped by Gene Autry and Jeanette MacDonald.

The scrappiest stars are Louis Hayward and Lupe Velez. Obstinate and given to argument, Louis remains a gentleman when crossed. The fiery Lupe will not hesitate to literally blow up, though.

So there they are—one man's opinions.

This Week IN HOLLYWOOD

George Raft is suspended by studio; are Olivia de Havilland and James Stewart secretly wed?

George Raft has been suspended and taken off salary by Warner Bros. because he refused to play the male lead in "South of Suez," which they had planned as his next picture and in which Geraldine Fitzgerald would have co-starred. As a result, executive-producer Hal Wallis has ruled that, if Raft does not pull down his flag and accept the part, Wallis will not loan him out to Metro, which studio wants him to star opposite Norma Shearer in "The World We Make." At the moment it is a draw. Raft is always very stubborn about refusing screen plays he doesn't like. Lucky it is, however, for Dennis Morgan, for the postponement of the shooting of "South of Suez" in which he had been cast in a supporting role, permitted him to accept the lead opposite Ginger Rogers offered him in RKO's production of "Kitty Foyle," Christopher Morley's best-selling novel. This is a big break for Morgan, who, when he first came to Hollywood as a singer, was known as Stanley Morner. Bulletin: Warners have decided to go ahead with "Suez" with George Brent, Miss Fitzgerald, and the support of Brenda Marshall.

"Olivia de Havilland and Jimmie Stewart were secretly married on the trip they took in July with the Henry Fondas," according to Louise Lockridge, reader of Egyptian taro cards at Westmore's Beauty Salon. Olivia used to come in for readings, but she hasn't done so lately. Louise says that when the girls get married they no longer are interested in wanting to know their future. She had predicted the marriage for the middle of 1940 and is sure in her own mind that it has already taken place. Joan Fontaine, Olivia's sister, and Brian Aherne both had readings with Louise. She foretold their wedding. Louise read for Lana Turner the other day and predicts she will marry again as soon as she is free, but the man will be very wealthy. Other forecasts: "Bob Stack will marry socialite Esme O'Brien in October. Carole Landis will divorce Will Hunt, Jr., and marry again."

Clark Gable and Hedy Lamarr have gone to work again for Metro, this time on "Comrade X," in which Gable plays an American newspaper correspondent in Russia and Miss Lamarr impersonates a Russian—a role well suited because of her accent. The play is by Ben Hecht and Charles Lederer. In it Gable smuggles his stories, embarrassing to the Soviet Union, out of Russia and is thrown in jail and condemned to death. Lamarr probably will save him in the nick of time. Interesting note: One of the luscious Lamarr's fans has schemed a new source of income. He is renting out his autographed picture, bearing the inscription "To Harold, from Hedy Lamarr," for ten cents a week to friends having the same name!

Joan Crawford, when she returns to Hollywood late this month or early in October, will begin making "A Woman's Face," the story of a woman with a disfigured face who has her beauty restored. Along with Joan will come her adopted daughter, Christina, and there is talk that the actress is contemplating adopting a second child as a playmate for the girl baby. Close behind Crawford, say his New York intimates, will follow Gil Haggerty, who is mad about Joan. Speaking of remodeled faces, the new nose of Milton Berle has won him a contract at 20th Century-Fox studios, where his first picture is scheduled to be "The Great American Broadcast," a cavalcade of radio which will cast many well-known names in its footage.

Shirley Temple and her family have tabled all movie offers for the moment while they take a motor vacation northward along the Pacific Coast, with Palo Alto, where Shirley's brother Jack is attending Stanford and studying to be a teacher of dramatics, as their first stop. Shirley's mother insists she will not make a picture this year (it is unlikely, as it already is September), although Joe Pasternak, of Universal Studios, is pleading with Mrs. Temple for Shirley to take a part in "Special Delivery" with Fred Astaire and Baby Sandy. Obstacles are two: The Temple asking price of $100,000 and Mrs. Temple's requirement that she be the boss. Meanwhile at 20th Century-Fox studios, where Shirley built her fame, indications are that they will build up young Ann Todd as Shirley's successor by giving her an important part with Jane Withers in "Golden Hoofs." Little Miss Todd may be remembered for her work with Shirley in "The Blue Bird," and likewise radio listeners may recall her in the role of Amy Foster in the Nan Grey-starring weekly serial, "Those We Love." Ann is a pretty little brown-eyed brunette with a round face and dimples not unlike Shirley's, and whose ambition is to study chemistry and be a detective "like Dick Tracy."

Garfield's Sponsor

John Garfield's latest starring picture, "Flowing Gold," brought his sponsor, Angelo Patri, on his first visit to Hollywood. Coming ostensibly to attend the preview of the picture, Patri has gone into conferences with Garfield about the story, "Public School 45," which Garfield and he have scripted for the screen. It was Patri who took tough kid Garfield as a boy in tow: showed him the way to right and light. Currently, Garfield is making "East of the River," after which he will be starred in Mark Hellinger's story, "The Fabulous Thirties."

Marjorie Rambeau will score plenty, it is believed, in "Tugboat Annie Sails Again." So pleased is author Norman Reilly Raine with the actress' work that he presented her with a beautiful cigarette box and a letter saying that

Award Winner

IDA LUPINO'S recent standout performance in "They Drive by Night" has the town talking. Her mad scene will perhaps win for her an Academy "Oscar." An MRGuide representative talked to her recently and found her worried. "I'm afraid I could not be nominated," she said, "on the basis of an incidental scene or as a supporting player. The trouble is that I've got a co-starring clause in my contract and that may rule me out." So the MRGuide rep called the Academy and asked them. Result: Ida Lupino need not worry. The Academy says she is eligible as either top actress or as a supporting actress.

HEARTBEAT

MADELEINE CARROLL has discovered Sterling Hayden, newcomer and former hair-pomade model, in the cast of "Virginia." While he isn't an aviator, Hayden has sailed around the world three times on a little fishing schooner . . . Judy Garland's David Rose seems to have wilted; her recent dates have been with Dan Dailey and Milton Berle, but Berle has also been dating another Judy, last name Canova . . . Walt Disney's "Fantasia," his first musical production with animation, will have its road-show premiere early in November in New York. New feature trail-blazes with the first time that oils and pastels have been used in cartoon animation, the first time that human beings also will take part, and, of course, the presentation of the musical score recorded by Leopold Stokowski and the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, with a new method of sound reproduction. All characters, except Mickey Mouse, introduced in "Fantasia" will be new.

Frank Morgan will cash in on his radio build-up of 1938 and 1939 with his new assignment by Metro to be the meek hero of "Hullabaloo," which marks the return of Morgan to comedy. The part makes him a radio station manager whose cancellations leave him without talent, and so he imitates a host of top-line entertainers, including even Orson Welles, whose imitation frightens Morgan himself! To his rescue in the picture comes young Leni Lynn, now fifteen years old, who was sent to Hollywood by the New Jersey school-children. After two years' training at Metro, Miss Lynn makes her first picture appearance singing two songs. Radio listeners have heard Miss Lynn on Eddie Cantor's program (about a year ago), and those who saw Cantor on his latest personal-appearance tour will recall the excellent performances and singing of the young lady.

Canada will see its first Hollywood motion-picture premiere when Cecil B. DeMille and Paramount take "North West Mounted Police" to Regina, Saskatchewan, for its gala world opening, October 21. Out-of-town premieres are finding much favor with the motion-picture companies these days as a means of building added good-will for the industry. 20th Century-Fox premiered "Brigham Young" August 23, simultaneously at seven theaters in Salt Lake City, Utah, and on September 4, as this issue of MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE reaches the newsstands, Columbia Pictures has set the premiere of "The Howards of Virginia" at Richmond, Virginia. Thursday, September 5, Little Rock, Arkansas, will be celebrating the premiere there of Lum 'n' Abner's new picture, "Dreaming Out Loud," and South Bend, Indiana, will put on a big show October 4 on the eve of Notre Dame's football game with College of the Pacific, when Warner Bros.' "Knut Rockne, All-American" is given its world premiere there. Early in October also Tucson, Arizona, will go wild and stage a three-day fiesta in observance of the hoped-for opening of Columbia's picture, "Arizona," much of which was filmed close by the city.

OF THE WEEK

CURLING wavelets lapped the white sand at Balboa-on-the-Sea, where two chubby children played. One was Ellen, age 2; the other was Norman, age 6. In a beach chair, relaxing after a nervous breakdown, sat Joan Blondell Powell. Too much picture work plus night-after-night appearances in a play, plus the arduous chores of being a mother, had broken temporarily the fine health of the actress. Now she pondered her life and its meaning. Was it vain? Was it useful? Such thoughts come to movie stars, too. To her side came Mrs. Jessie Armstrong, president of the California Chapter of the Institute of American Mothers. To Joan Blondell she presented a trophy designating her as America's "most glamorous mother," and "model of American womanhood in Hollywood."

DEAN JAGGER, newcomer, creates a powerful Brigham Young

LINDA DARNELL portrays a girl who joined Mormon trek for love

TYRONE POWER, her lover, joined trek because of great faith

MARY ASTOR is seen as the favorite wife of the Mormon leader

"Brigham Young"

Cast: Tyrone Power, Linda Darnell, Dean Jagger, Vincent Price, Brian Donlevy, Jane Darwell, John Carradine, Mary Astor, Jean Rogers, Ann Todd, et al. A 20th Century-Fox picture. Associate producer, Kenneth MacGowan; directed by Henry Hathaway, who also directed "Johnny Apollo"; screen play by Lamar Trotti from a story by Louis Bromfield.

"BRIGHAM YOUNG" teaches a great lesson in religious tolerance in its story of a former painter and carpenter who led a great migration westward to escape religious persecution on the shores of the Great Salt Lake, and while it is an inspiring and fine film documentation of a page from American history, it is at the same time a colorful and romantic piece of film-making that will grip its audience and provide a maximum of divertissement.

Made at a cost of $2,700,000—a cost far in excess of what it took to transplant the Mormons from southern Illinois to Utah—it re-enacts in graphic sequences the heroic feats of the rugged, hard-hitting winner of the West and leader of 12,000 members of a new and unwanted sect. Made under the direct supervision of Darryl F. Zanuck, it is produced on a magnificent scale with a tasteful handling of the difficult and controversial religious content.

While it is basically the story of Brigham Young, played by a veteran Broadway stage star recruited for the purpose, Dean Jagger, it is, secondarily, the story of two young pioneers—played by Tyrone Power and Linda Darnell—who join the band and follow its trek. Power is the son of a persecuted Mormon who is later murdered. He is in love with Linda Darnell, who is not a Mormon but who throws in her lot with the Mormons and goes West rather than give up her lover. Their story is woven nicely into the larger, more important story of empire.

Scenes showing the migration of the thousands of Mormons across the frozen Mississippi into Iowa and, later, through the forbidding mountain passes into the valley of the Great Salt Lake are nothing short of magnificent. The film was made in 133 shooting days. Transportation costs involved in the location trips in Utah, Nevada and California were $90,000.

Director Henry Hathaway developed a "dive bomber" technique for filming the cricket-plague scene. There were plenty of crickets in the mountains near Elko, Nevada, but, for film purposes, they were needed in the valley. Two airplanes, which zoomed down on the hills with loud noisemakers, frightened the crickets down into the valley for the required scenes.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Los Angeles Times: "... Will impress particularly in its story of courageous pioneering and sidelights on intolerance ... Moves on the strength of its bigness ... Los Angeles Daily News: "... drama that will bring a lump to the throat as it tells its story of courage and faith ..."

"Dance, Girl, Dance"

Cast: Maureen O'Hara, Louis Hayward, Lucille Ball, Virginia Field, Ralph Bellamy, Maria Ouspenskaya, Mary Carlisle, et al. An RKO picture, produced by Erich Pommer; directed by Dorothy Arzner, who also directed "The Bride Wore Red"; adapted from the story by Vicki Baum.

CINDERELLA, in her reincarnation by Maureen O'Hara in this fluffly and amusing dance romance, is a ballet student who has a rough time making progress, thanks largely to the unwitting hindrance of fellow-student Lucille Ball who, with a marked flair for comedy, turns her career arrow towards the bawdy and winds up as burlesque queen. Ralph Bellamy plays Prince Charming to Miss O'Hara's Cinderella.

"Dance, Girl, Dance" packs a lot of action, good tunes and dances into its story of the two girls seeking fame as ballet dancers. Maureen, sticking it out, finds success after many heart-breaking detours. Mme. Ouspenskaya is superb as the ballet mistress, and Louis Hayward convinces as a wealthy man-about-town.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Los Angeles Times: "... A picture that has marked impromptu charm that skirmishes away whimsically from ordinary pathways ..."

LUCILLE BALL, in "Dance, Girl, Dance," plays a burlesque queen

"Men Against the Sky"

Cast: Richard Dix, Kent Taylor, Edmund Lowe, Wendy Barrie, Granville Bates, Grant Withers, Donald Briggs, et al. An RKO picture, produced by Howard Benedict; directed by Leslie Goodwins, who also directed "Tarnished Angels."

TWO old-time favorites, who still have plenty on the ball, get a fresh break in this film business in "Men Against the Sky," a really different and quite satisfying film of the airplane industry which—unlike fellow films—boasts of not one saboteur. The duo is Richard Dix and Edmund Lowe.

Dix plays a devil-may-care stunt flier who gets drunk once too often, crashes, is grounded. Meanwhile, an airplane manufacturer has spent his entire fortune in striving for a perfect plane for the government, but his effort is a failure. Dix's sister persuades him to accept as a gift some inventions of Dix. They turn out to be just what the plane needed.

The big excitement comes at the plane's test. The landing gear becomes frozen and Dix takes up another plane, transfers the disabled gear. When he attempts to bail out, the chute tears and Dix is fatally injured.

There is thrill and breath-taking interest in the picture which takes us, in timely fashion, behind the scenes in the airplane-building world with a wealth of technical detail and many fresh angles. Edmund Lowe is a jaunty wise-cracking promoter.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Variety: "... A timely tour behind the scenes in the airplane industry ... Hollywood Reporter: "... Seventy minutes of film with a laugh, a thrill or a sigh per minute ..."

"Public Deb No. 1"

Cast: George Murphy, Brenda Joyce, Elsa Maxwell, Mischa Auer, Charlie Ruggles, Ralph Bellamy, Maxie Rosenbloom, Berton Churchill, Franklin Pangborn, et al. A 20th Century-Fox picture, produced by Darryl F. Zanuck; associate producer, Gene Markey; directed by Gregory Ratoff, who also directed "I Was an Adventuress."

"PUBLIC DEB NO. 1" is a swell yarn about a "wacky" debutante who goes off on a tangent for the cause of communism and is finally brought to her senses through the level-headed efforts of a waiter (George Murphy), who thinks she needs his personal attention and forces himself upon her. The plot is light—at times almost non-existent—but the whole effect is one of light and amusing quips at communism, which are more effective than Martin Dies in quelling the subversives.

Both Brenda and Murphy give grand performances to make the flimsy tale come alive, and Elsa Maxwell gives a party.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Hollywood Reporter: "... Kidded the pants off communists and communism and everyone seemed to like the idea of the kidding ... Los Angeles Times: "... Brenda Joyce is undoubtedly 'on the way' ..."

ON THE SCREEN

Romance, adventure, history are highlights of the week's new films

FRANCES FARMER, JOHN GARFIELD star in "Flowing Gold"

"Flowing Gold"

Cast: John Garfield, Frances Farmer, Pat O'Brien, Raymond Walburn, Cliff Edwards, Tom Kennedy, Granville Bates, et al. A Warner Bros. picture, produced by Jack L. Warner; directed by Alfred E. Green, who also directed "Shooting High"; suggested by a story by Rex Beach.

FAST and action-packed is "Flowing Gold," a tale of the oil fields filled with dramatic moments well carried by a capable cast, which has John Garfield as an oil-field worker wanted by the police for a murder he committed in self-defense; Pat O'Brien, well-driller, who befriends and protects him, and Frances Farmer as the daughter of a wildcat oil promoter and O'Brien's fiancée.

O'Brien, going to Texas to drill a well for Raymond Walburn, Miss Farmer's father, takes Garfield along. Garfield and Frances get off to a wrong start, dislike each other intensely only to learn later that it's really love.

The oil-drilling sequences are authoritative and add much to the value of the picture. For this production, an oil well was actually drilled on the Warner Ranch at Calabassas, Calif.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Variety: "... A moderate degree of entertainment ... Hollywood Reporter: "... An unpretentious action melodrama of the oil fields ... Los Angeles Times: "... An interesting story with spectacular shots ..."

From BUM to BUM

An election-year hit, "The Great McGinty" is keen political satire-comedy

"THE GREAT MCGINTY" is that rare phenomenon, a motion picture which ribs the politician with a sharp satire and at the same time keeps its audience in stitches with funny-bone-tickling situations so close to the average American voter's life as to make this unheralded film verge on classical Americana. Revealing the rise of a bum from the breadline to the highest office in the state by crooked politics, it gives to the usually villainous Brian Donlevy his first really sympathetic role. Donlevy fans may be shocked to learn, incidentally, that Brian, in private life, writes poetry, raises flowers and refuses to hunt because he cannot bring himself to kill a living thing. Akim Tamiroff, seemingly out to out-Lon Chaney the late Lon Chaney as a man of many faces, does his piece as the political boss straight and without make-up here. Muriel Angelus, blond English player, adds to her accumulating laurels as Donlevy's secretary, later his wife.

AS A BUM who gratifies the political boss, Brian Donlevy (with Harry Hayden, l., Sylvia Andrews) votes many times

HIS CROOKED efficiency takes him to the governorship but he ends up as a tramp bartender in a tropical port

—Eugene Robert Richeo

DOWNFALL OF MCGINTY starts when he marries Muriel Angelus for political reasons, then really falls in love with her and gives up crooked politics. The "boss" objects, ousts him and makes a bum of him—again!

The Greatest Man I Ever Knew

By GLADYS YOUNG ORLOB

*Granddaughter of Brigham Young;
as told to Kay Proctor*

Based on the history of the Mormons, the 20th Century-Fox film now being released under the title "Brigham Young" deals principally with but one portion of their history—the sect's settling of Salt Lake City under the leadership of Brigham Young. Although Brigham Young is the greatest personality to grow from this era, and while it is true that Mormonism exists today because of his genius, he neither founded the religion nor was responsible for the practise of polygamy with which the Mormons are always identified. Mormonism was founded in 1830 by Joseph Smith; Brigham Young was not baptised into the faith until 1832. But it was he who led the faithful on their historic trek to Salt Lake City in 1847; he it was who had the genius and character which made the faith enduring. This story, giving intimate details of this great man's later life (not touched upon in the movie), is told for MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE by one of his granddaughters. In it she describes the real man who, as a historical character, is immortalized on film in "Brigham Young."—Editor.

BRIGHAM YOUNG was my grandfather. My father, Joseph Don Carlos Young, was the sixteenth of his twenty-five sons.

Although he was persecuted and hated by many during his lifetime, the world at last has come to recognize the powerful part Grandfather played in American history. Economists, historians and sociologists have lauded his greatness as an empire-builder, a colonizer, a statesman and a religious leader. I know he was all these things, but to me he will always be the greatest man in the world because of his qualities of soul—gentleness, kindness, generosity and fairness.

I want to tell you something of those qualities here, because the new motion picture dealing with his life of necessity must present the sterner aspects of the man. To lead a little band of 143 men, women and children across the thousands of miles of barren wastelands that was midwestern and western America in 1845 required indomitable courage and a will of steel, and it is that heroic part of his life which the 20th Century-Fox picture will show. When I think of Grandfather, however, it is just as you think of yours, remembering human little anecdotes of the family man.

I can understand why many outsiders always think "Oh yes, he was that man with all those wives" when they first hear the name of Brigham Young. The idea of one man being married to twenty-seven different women is bound to intrigue the imagination. But if you will be tolerant with me, try to remember that plurality of wives was an integral part of the Mormon faith at that time (of course you know the practise was discontinued in 1890) and as such was accepted by our people as a natural part of life.

Grandfather had twenty-seven wives, the first of whom he married in 1824 and the last in 1868, nine years before his death in 1877 at the age of seventy-six. Of those twenty-seven, ten were wives "in name only," widows of fellow church members whom he married to give financial protection and a home. Of these unions, twenty-five sons and thirty-six daughters were born, and descended from them were 315 grandchildren and 658 living great grandchildren. Among that many blood relations it would be a miracle if everyone agreed on every point concerning Grandfather and his life. Six people can be sitting in one room when an event occurs, and six people will give six different versions of what happened, and in all sincerity will believe they are telling the truth.

Thus, in our family, you will find members disagreeing on such things as whether Amelia Folsom, Grandfather's twenty-fifth wife, was his "favorite," as has been said, or whether his wives loved him and were loved in return as we understand married love today. It's all a matter of viewpoint, I suppose. But this I do know: Never once in all my life have I read or heard of one member claiming Grandfather was anything but a kind and thoughtful husband and a tender and generous father! It took a lot of love to go around that far, but quite evidently Grandfather's big heart was capable of it.

WE HEAR a lot about "thoughtful husbands" today; they get the palm if they are home to dinner on time and remember to open a car door or send flowers on a wedding anniversary. I don't know how Grandfather was about such things; probably he and his wives forgot all about them in the struggle to grow food to eat, get clothes to wear, and keep a roof safely over their heads. But I do know, for instance, that he always thought the average chair was built six inches too high off the floor for a woman to sit in comfortably. Therefore each time he established a wife in her home he took her to the carpenter shop to be measured, and chairs were built to fit her individual needs! I know, too, that he once left an important council meeting, where vital matters were being discussed, when word was brought to him that one of his baby daughters was ill and crying for him.

"Gentlemen," he told the meeting, "business can wait. A sick child cannot."

Then there was the time his fifty-first child was born. Certainly the birth of a baby in the family was no novelty by that time, yet to Grandfather, apparently, it still had the importance of the arrival of a first-born. The date was July 23, 1860, and in connection with the annual church outing to celebrate the anniversary of the pioneer arrival in Utah on July 24, 1847, Grandfather had made the laborious journey to Brighton, some thirty miles away. Today, on the paved roads, the trip would require less than an hour. Then it was a question of jolting over narrow and rocky mountain roads in rough wagons or walking the entire distance.

After ten weary hours of travel, Grandfather arrived at the campsite only to have word reach him that his wife, Lucy Ann, was in labor. Without a word, he turned around and retraced the long journey, ignoring his own fatigue and gladly foregoing the joyous festivities. According to his code, his wife needed him and his place was at her side.

It was that fifty-first child, little Clarissa, who used to climb his knees each morning, a few years later, to revel in the ceremony of tying on his beard bib. What a gala occasion he always made it for them both, with his little jokes and antics! Grandfather was almost fanatically fastidious about his personal cleanliness and appearance, and donned the big cotton bib over his beard before the morning meal lest one stray crumb from his breakfast bread escape undetected in the short silky curls which ringed his chin and cheeks.

Grandfather was not an exceptionally tall man; it was his large bones and, in the later years of his life, his increased weight which made him seem a big man physically. He had clear blue eyes which would crinkle up with laughter or secret amusement most of the time, but when the occasion demanded it, could be hard and cold. After one interview with him, Mark Twain wrote of Grandfather: "He seemed a quiet, kindly, easy-mannered, dignified and self-possessed old gentleman of fifty-five or sixty and had a gentle craft in his eye that probably belonged there." A little later in the interview Mr. Twain must have attempted conversational subjects not to Grandfather's liking, for he wrote: "He merely looked at me at distant intervals, something as I have seen a benign old cat look around to see which kitten was meddling with her tail."

Even at his death, Grandfather's hair still was a beautiful light brown, fine in texture and curly. There was a good sweep to his brow, his nose was long and straight, and his squarish chin had a set to it that boded no good for you if you tried to cross him in the accomplishment of one of his aims. Despite the hardships they underwent a good part of his life, his feet and hands were well shaped and slender and he kept them immaculately groomed. He was barbered every morning in his private room, insisting his hair be singed rather than cut because he harbored the notion that cutting the hair made it "bleed." Realizing how little girls love such things, he would sprinkle a little bay rum or cologne on Clarissa as she stood, wide-eyed, watching the tonsorial ritual.

Invariably in winter Grandfather wore a high "topper," a Prince Albert coat of fine broadcloth, and over his shoulders a shawl or a heavy, long cape which had two enormous pockets on the inside. In those pockets, as a rule, were tucked a few pieces of candy, ammunition against his own sweet tooth and chance meetings with the children of his friends as well as his own sons and daughters. In the summer months he preferred sack suits of light-cream prunella cloth, with white shirts, neckcloths and Panama hats. Since strict economy was practiced in his home as well as in the homes of the other pioneers, his discarded clothes were cut down for the children, the boys getting suits of broadcloth and the girls outfits from the washable prunella, which was a smooth-finish, light-weight wool, used in later years for the tops of ladies' shoes.

Oddly enough, in view of his great power in the community—he was a temporal as well as spiritual leader, and in many respects looked upon almost as a king—Grandfather seemed to have little personal vanity. Once, when he was buying a new hat, he was heard to muse, "I wonder if I am worthy of such a splendid hat."

On the other hand, he had no patience with false humility or modesty, and in a fatherly talk with one of his daughters one day advised her never to talk about her shortcomings of character, or what she believed to be shortcomings.

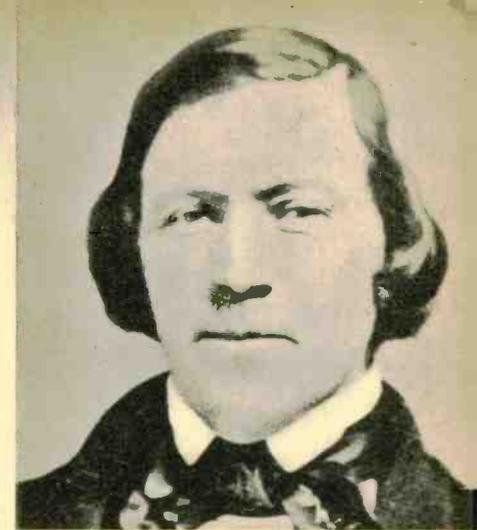

"It is not necessary for us to talk about our faults," he said. "We all have them. The important thing is to recognize them ourselves and then try to do something about them."

As any great man does, Grandfather had his faults. He had a temper which, when roused for good reason, was terrifying to face. He had a biting sarcasm and would flay an enemy with it. He formed quick prejudices, was slow to forgive a deliberate injury, and was stubborn as a mule in his opinions. Rarely, however, did his immediate family see that side of him; those characteristics, in a sense, were his "office personality" with which he dealt with an outside and hostile world. The family knew, rather, his understanding, generosity, loyalty, courtesy, sense of humor, and open-minded fairness as it was shown in their lives and in their homes.

Before I tell you some of our favorite family stories which exemplified those qualities in Grandfather, let me briefly sketch something of his households and how they ran. Let me, too, give you the truth about some of the fantastic legends about his private life which the world has chosen to believe as fact.

ALTHOUGH only one of Grandfather's wives made the initial pioneering trek across the plains with him in that period of 1845 to 1847, he was then married to eighteen women, some of them, as I said, widows of Mormons who were killed in early persecutions and who became his wives "in name only." As soon as was possible, his other wives joined him in Utah. Their first homes were rude log cabins in "Log Row," a row of rooms built in the form of the letter L. As quickly as time permitted, however, their new and permanent homes were built.

First of these was the large adobe house called the White House, which became the home of "Mother" Young, the eldest of Grandfather's wives in seniority. I believe Miss Mary Astor plays the part of this wife in the movie. Incidentally, the problem of what the children of one wife should call the other wives was easily settled; the endearing term of "Aunt" was used. Thus they spoke of Aunt Twiss or Aunt Emily or Aunt Lucy, and large though each Aunt's own family may have been, she invariably found time to help care for the children of the other wives and loved them with a deep affection. In the truest sense it was "one big happy family," for the children all played together and had the free run of each other's homes.

The second home to be built was the Beehive House, so named for the emblem of thrift and industry which stood atop it. This was a large house with fourteen spacious rooms, and because it served as Grandfather's official residence during his lifetime and the place where all his entertaining of important visitors was done, it was, perhaps, a little more elaborately furnished than the others. Nottingham lace curtains hung at the windows and on the floor was gray carpeting which had wonderful big pink roses for decoration. One wife and her family lived there with Grandfather, and it was there he had his private sleeping-quarters and ate his breakfast. His other meals were eaten at the Lion House.

The Lion House holds the greatest interest for me because it was there my grandmother, Emily Dow Partridge, lived, and there my own father was born.

The Lion House was a daring experiment in communal living. Beneath its roof, on an average, lived twelve different women and their families, each the wife of the same man! Side by side, they ate their meals each day, and together they shared the housework and social life of the household. What's more, they did it with peace, harmony and happiness all around! I've often thought Grandfather deserved a place in history for accomplishing that miracle!

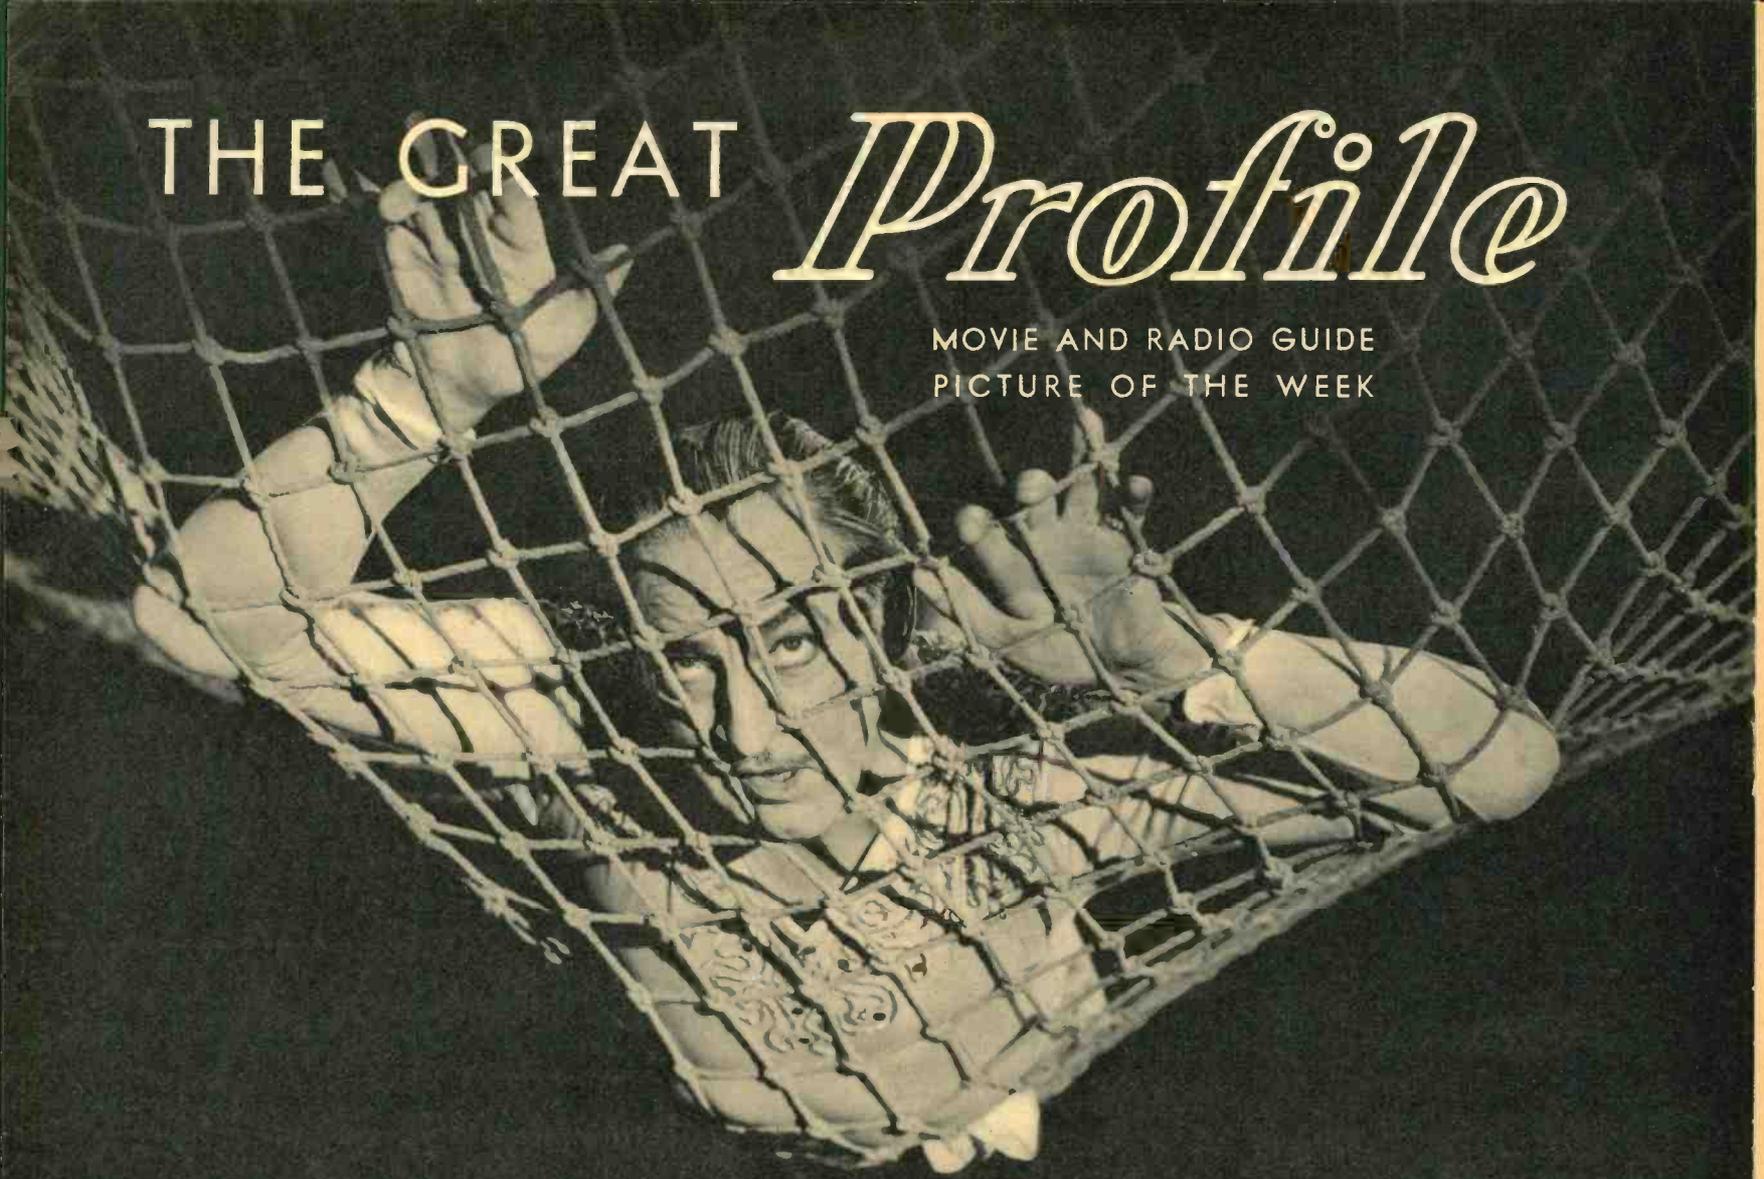

"It's not humanly possible," I've had friends say to me. "After all, the women were women! There must have been jealousies, bickerings, friction and quarrels."

Certainly there must have been those undercurrents at times. There is in any home where there is only one wife. But incredibly enough, life moved along serenely for the most part, and I think there is a logical explanation for it. In the first place, those women were motivated by a religious faith that had been great enough to stand unbelievable persecution for almost twenty years, and they saw it as their religious duty to live together peaceably and in contentment. In the second place, Grandfather organized the household on a basis of absolute equality. No wife had more than another. Each had equal rights and privileges and each was assigned a fair share of the work and did it according to her individual talents. One supervised the cooking, another the spinning, another the upkeep of the furnishings. One was the

THE GREAT Profile

MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE
PICTURE OF THE WEEK

"THE GREAT PROFILE" is a rowdily told tale of a celebrated theatrical star whose return to Broadway is a great event not because of his art but because of his not-so-private life—a grand march from one escapade to another, which is climaxed by a ferocious battle between his daughter and his most recent wife, both with theatrical ambitions, both seeking the same role in his show. 20th Century-Fox scored a scoop by inducing John Barrymore (whose life is not entirely unlike that of the leading character) to play the erratic star after a two-year absence from pictures. Blond, lovely Mary Beth Hughes is the young, headstrong wife; Anne Baxter, last seen in "20 Mule Team," plays the daughter. Gregory Ratoff left off directing long enough to play the role of Barrymore's perpetually disgusted manager.

KNUDSEN, who came to this country from Denmark and rose from shipyard riveter to the presidency of General Motors Corporation, and who is now contributing his services to his adopted country as coordinator for the National Defense Commission, is scheduled this Saturday to make his once-postponed visit to the "I'm an American" program. "MARRIAGE CLUB," veteran Haven MacQuarrie's idea program which has just completed a successful run on NBC, now moves over to CBS and takes on a sponsor this Saturday, filling the spot left vacant by "Sky Blazers," which is grounded at the end of its flight. MacQuarrie is well remembered also for his "So You Want to Be an Actor" program a few years ago. It is reported that the "Marriage Club" will become an itinerant institution, covering much of the country as a road show. CBS.

Monday, September 9

JOHNNY GREEN, young maestro who knows enough about music to be presented by "Johnny" over the networks and to write such song hits as "Body and Soul," will get a chance to show how much more than that he knows about music as guest of "So You Think You Know Music" this Monday. Another headline guest will be David Ross, mellow-voiced announcer who writes poetry and has won the coveted Diction Award. This pair was originally scheduled for an earlier date. CBS.

Willkie Speech Sets Record

ELWOOD, IND.—Wendell L. Willkie's acceptance speech at Elwood, Ind., drew the largest radio audience recorded by the Cooperative Analysis of Broadcasting (commonly known as the Crossley survey) for a strictly political speech. Only when King Edward VIII abdicated in December, 1936, and when President Roosevelt scored Italy last June for knifing France in the back, had the CAB recorded higher ratings. The President, according to that day's rating, had the largest radio audience.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Such coincidences as the following happen only once in wartime. Recent MBS press releases told of a cable from the network's London correspondent, John Steele, reporting that a Texas pilot he had scheduled for a Mutual broadcast was no longer available for radio: He had been shot down. There were no further details—neither the pilot's name nor the extent of his injury. A few days later the Mutual publicity office received the following telegram:

TEXAS PILOT REFERRED TO IN RELEASE IS MY BROTHER, WHO IS AT CHARLTON HOSPITAL, KENT. DO NOT KNOW EXTENT OF INJURIES BUT BELIEVE NOT SERIOUS AND MAY BE AVAILABLE SOON FOR BROADCAST.

The wire was signed by Robert Donahue, program director of WLLH, the Mutual station in Lowell, Mass.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—A majority of people are spending more time listening to the radio this year, according to figures released by the American Institute of Public Opinion on a recent Gallup poll. The figures also indicated that even during the summer three times as many people say they stay at home particularly to listen to the radio as say they go to a movie.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Nature seems to have furnished an ally for the Americas in the world's war of words. Government scientists of the United States and Argentina have made a joint report of the discovery of a radio phenomenon linking the American continents more solidly. Because of disturbances in the ionosphere, (electrified upper layers of atmosphere) radio signals going north and south, according to the report, are twenty-five times greater and fifteen times less variable than broadcasts between the U. S. and Europe during the northern winter and southern summer.

CHICAGO, ILL.—As a result of a recent meeting in Chicago, FM Broadcasters, Inc., announced that at least fifty FM stations would probably be in operation by January 1, 1941, when FM gets full commercial status. More than 150 applications, moreover, are expected to be filed for FM stations by the first of next year.

ANDRE KOSTELANETZ, conductor (heard last season in CBS "Tune-Up Time"), and wife Lily Pons, famous soprano, drink pineapple-juice toast as they arrive in Honolulu, to rest after a joint-concert tour across the United States

IN NEW YORK

with Arthur Miller

Ward Wilson, we learned exclusively, may be Fred Allen's chief foil on the new Texaco stanzas. Ward ably worked with Phil Baker under the guise of The Man in the Box, the character who constantly chided and exasperated Baker last year. . . . Toscanini will be on the air for NBC again and reports that he'll reside in Mexico are untrue. The network is already scanning its program schedule for a spot to switch Paul Laval's "Melody in the Night," which occupies the latter half of the hour Toscanini used Bea Wain's golfing at Shawnee, Penna., under the tutelage of Sam Sneed, the champ. Her husband, announcer Andre Baruch, will present her with a new fur coat and car if she breaks ninety. He'd better start shopping. We've seen Bea on the links.

O'Keefe Has New Kind of Mike Fright

Walter O'Keefe was in bad shape suffering from indigestion when he guested on Rudy Vallee's program. Walter broke a long-standing habit when he ate shortly before going on the air. Backstage, just before the program went on the air, he tossed down a couple glasses of bicarbonate of soda in an effort to stymie the pain. He later told us the temporary relief was shattered when Hope Emerson, the actress who portrayed the hillbilly mother in the sketch, turned from the microphone screaming (as she was supposed to do), and not seeing Walter just behind her continued her scream right in his face. Walter, as everyone present could have observed, was shocked and befuddled momentarily.

Major Bowes, besides being head man on the amateur hour, is managing director of the Capitol Theater on Broadway. The Roxy Theater, not far distant, has long been the rival of the Capitol. No wonder we were surprised when one of the Bowes amateur units, appearing here for the first time in four years, was booked into the Roxy. . . . We weren't surprised though, to hear that the Major was present at services for the late Walter P. Chrysler. In addition to being one of the highest-paid persons working for the Chrysler Corporation, Bowes had long been an intimate of the automobile magnate. . . . Lily Pons' mother returned to the Silvermine, Conn., home of her daughter and son-in-law (Andre Kostelanetz) after a Yankee Clipper trip from Europe. . . . Joan Blaine, star of "Valiant Lady," is talking business with a cosmetic manufacturer. . . . and Republic Pictures is likewise talking business with the owners of the "Mr. District Attorney" program. Republic would like to purchase the title.

CBS special events officials were disappointed with the programs broadcast last year during the Army maneuvers. In an effort to improve the entertainment value of the more extensive maneuvers this year, CBS, we learned from a reliable source, had Army cooperation to such an extent that at times 3,000 men participated in operations solely to rehearse some programs! Broadcasts from the scene at times picked up the noise of dynamite exploding, which was supposed to be the sound of the firing of a 155-mm. gun. The Army has no blank shells for these guns and, to satisfy the broadcasters, synchronized the firing of the dynamite with the "firing" of the big guns.

Lester May Have Own Show

Jerry Lester, the comic substituting for Bob Hope, is heavily optioned and the chances are better than even he'll be resigned to star on another program. . . . Vicente Gomez, perhaps the world's greatest guitarist, is concert-touring in Mexico, due to return to NBC about the middle of October. . . . "Court of Missing Heirs" actors are having fun playing the new toy game inspired by the program and bearing the same name. Idea is that to claim fortune, player must overcome many obstacles. . . . Fred Allen hasn't selected the girl to sing on his new show, and we're wondering if he's going to overlook Wynn Murray, the young lady whose singing was so pleasing on his former series.

Party for Ralph Edwards

Ralph Edwards' wife planned to surprise him with a party to celebrate their first wedding anniversary. It was to be held the night Ralph's program, "Truth or Consequences," premiered on NBC. When she told the sponsor of the radio show her plan and invited him, he surprised her by telling her he had already made arrangements for a party the same night. His party was to celebrate the program's NBC debut (it had been on CBS a number of weeks). So they compromised. The sponsor had his party between the early and repeat shows, and Mrs. Edwards had hers after the late one.

IN HOLLYWOOD

with Evans Plummer

Claudia Bid for by Movies

Claudia, of "One Man's Family," played by Kathleen Wilson, is being fought over both by Paramount and Warner Bros. studios as a screen-acting find; Columbia Pictures also wants to get her. Her impending screen career will not interfere with her radio work . . . Broadcast Music, Inc., fighting the ASCAP music combine, has been offered a number of outstanding songs on new 20th Century-Fox pictures which are not tied up yet by ASCAP . . . Jell-O announcer Don Wilson also will announce "Good News of 1941" when that show resumes September 5; the same company sells both Jell-O and Maxwell House Coffee . . . Now it looks as if Burns and Allen will be unable to take their show to New York for several weeks of airing, because band-leader Artie Shaw, their maestro, is tied up with band dates on the West Coast; Charlie and Little Ryan, of the B & A "Smoothies," are disappointed too, because they expected to be with their wives, now confined in the East and expecting the stork . . . Mrs. Don Ameche has been released from the hospital with her new son, but she must stay at home for six more weeks.

Stork Locates Jack Benny

Jack Benny and his wife, Mary Livingstone, his foil and comedienne on the Jell-O show, have been notified following their return from a Hawaiian vacation that they may expect a baby to arrive next April at their house. Asked by this writer if the rumor were true, Mary verified it and said, "I'm so thrilled. Wouldn't you be?" He replied: "I don't know, Mary. I've never been a mother." Following an announcement of the good news, which occurred after almost fourteen years of wedded life, the office boys at the Paramount lot sent a committee out to Jack's "Love Thy Neighbor" set to congratulate him. There that day too was little Joan Benny, their six-year-old adopted child, and Jack was working himself into a lather to entertain her. Said that young lady, "Daddy, you're acting awfully silly today!" . . . Add Benny show news: Eddie (Rochester) Anderson is having a ten-thousand-dollar yacht and a Southern Colonial home built for him and his bride.

Edgar Bergen Sends for Protege

Edgar Bergen, mentor so far only of Charlie McCarthy and Mortimer Snerd, this week sent his generous check to Judge Sam Tatum, of the Nashville Juvenile Court, to finance transportation of Bergen's twelve-year-old protegee, Thelma Jean Graham, and her chaperone to Hollywood . . . Incidentally, the other day, MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE made an appointment to take new natural-color photographs of Charlie McCarthy. The time was set for 1 p.m. Close to that hour, however, Bergen's secretary, Mary Hanrahan, called and in an excited tone of voice said, "Don't know what we can do. We will have to wait an hour or two because Mr. Bergen isn't here and he has Charlie locked in the safe!"

Most Embarrassing Moment

Most unusual and unexpected sound-effect, and the most embarrassing moment in her life, were all experienced by Frances Scully the other day on her NBC "Speaking of Glamour" program. Miss Scully's script called for her to display the new miniature RCA portable radio, size four by four inches and nine inches long, which has suddenly become the rage of Hollywood celebrities. Forgetting that opening the lid switches on the radio set, Frances opened it to show her announcer, Joy Storm, how it worked, with the surprising result that music began floating through the air. It wouldn't have been so bad had it not been for the fact that the set was tuned to the program on a rival network!

IN CHICAGO

with Don Moore

Serial Star in Real Peril

Betty Ruth Smith, feminine lead in "Woman in White," got her serials all mixed up and got caught in "Midstream" in a Lake Michigan mishap August 22. She was one of a four-some yachting on the lake. The sailboat pitched in rough water and tossed the skipper overboard. The other man jumped in to the rescue.

DON McNEILL (center), Jack Baker, Evelyn Lynne, all of "Breakfast Club" (NBC, Mon. through Sat.), take cue from Chicago kids practising for Hi-Li contest on NBC's station WENR, and get tangled up in the ball-bouncing sport

Green Hornet Returns to Screen

"The Green Hornet," long popular on Mutual network stations, will come to the screen again, this time as a fifteen-part serial, with Warren Hull in the star part . . . Kenny Baker is finding out what motion-picture acting is like from his work on the Republic lot, where he is starring with Frances Langford in "Hit Parade of 1941." A scene he had to do in the picture last week called for him to drink a full glass of Bromo-Seltzer, but the scene was taken from three different camera angles and each angle was photographed three times. Kenny drank nine Bromos!

Queen to Return

Queen-of-the-Lakes Joyce Moen, who visited in Hollywood recently, was offered a stock contract by a major movie lot; she returned home to Minneapolis, but will come back to Hollywood shortly for her test.

Meanwhile the boat drifted rapidly out of reach, with Betty Ruth and the other girl, both inexperienced sailors, helpless aboard. Coast Guardsmen came to their aid and beached the boat, while the two men were swimming ashore. The actress was on hand for her broadcast the next morning, with her face still just a few shades darker than her fictitious nurse's uniform.

Crossroads Court of Honor

The ceremonies which you'll hear this Thursday on "National Farm and Home Hour," dedicating a park to "Josh Higgins of Finchville," is just one tangible demonstration of the popularity of both Josh Higgins and his creator, Joe DuMond. You'd think—wouldn't you—that sponsors could see things like this right under their noses instead of groping in distant space for colossal ideas and glamorous names all the time? . . . A similar situation applies to Ransom Sherman, one of the few genuine, spontaneous humorists in radio, and the only sustaining comedian to place (seventh) in the first ten in the MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE Star of Stars Poll for 1940.

In passing the 1,500th broadcast recently of the "Jack Armstrong" sketch, a recapitulation of adventures to date turns up that Jack and buddies have explored ruined Indian temples in South America, seen the mystic civilization of Tibet, hunted treasure in the Caribbean, struggled with African jungle life, shivered through the frozen Arctic and panted across the Gobi Desert. Yes, indeed, the all-American boy knows the world beyond! . . . Speaking of traveling, Don McNeill and his "Breakfast Club" gang have been packing their breakfast stuff around with them plenty in recent months. Covering the country like a dozen Bowes units, they've visited a score of cities. Everywhere they get a tremendous glad hand—but Don still doesn't know whether to point with pride or view with alarm about the fact that in every city they're escorted into town and back out by the police!

Prentiss, Two-Day Wonder

Crossroads Who's Who: Ed Prentiss is one actor who accomplished the impossible—crashed network radio in two days. Six years ago Prentiss, just out of the University of Iowa and its kitchen's dish-washing department, came to Chicago with a sudden ambition to be a radio actor. He immediately collared a director—in itself no mean accomplishment—and gained an audition on the grounds that he had money enough for only two days in the city. He got not only the audition, but a lead part in a serial, and he was on the air within the two-day budget limit. Now the thirty-two-year-old Cedar Rapids, Iowa, actor is Dean Harwood in "Road of Life," John Stewart in "Painted Dreams" and Ned Holden in "Guiding Light."

Banjoist Drums Up Recruits

Lieutenant Eddie Peabody, veteran banjo virtuoso, has returned to active duty in the U. S. Navy, with which he served in the submarine corps during the first World War. He is retaining his spot on "National Barn Dance," while his defense duties for the present consist of recruiting activities in this area . . . Announcer Charlie Lyon and wife are back from their vacation in the Canadian wilds, and Charlie looks fit from battling muscular muskies . . . Marriage vows recently consummated: NBC announcer Don Dowd and actress Betty Anne Brown (August 22); actress Peg Wall and a Florida dentist (August 31).

Corrections, please! Setting a couple of things right in the interests of truth, justice and good grace. (1) It was implied in an item in this column back in May, when the "Avalon Show Boat" was launched, that the theme song, "Here Comes the Show Boat," was a Jerome Kern number. It was, rather, written by Maceo Pinkard and Billy Rose and published by Pinkard. (2) In a feature story in this publication (issue of August 17-23) it was stated that the song "God Bless America" was presented once on the "Musical Steel-makers" program. Six times is correct.

Crossroads Comments

I'd like to see the competitive scoring feature of "Quiz Kids" eliminated . . . The Dinning sisters, who clicked resoundingly in their first stage appearance at the Chicago Theater recently, still look like the top female threesome in radio to me.

Star in program listings indicates news highlights.
NOTICE: The information contained in the program schedules presented in these pages is supplied by the stations broadcasting those programs. MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE should not be considered responsible for errors in announcements due to failure of stations to advise of weekly program changes.
If your favorite station is not listed at quarter- or half-hour periods, consult the time listings immediately preceding. The chances are that a network program of 30 or 60 minutes' duration is on the air at a quarter-hour when you do not find your station listed.

PLEASE NOTE: Symbols in parentheses, such as (sw-9.53), after a program listing indicates that this program may be heard by tuning in 9.53 megacycles on your short-wave dial. For foreign short-wave programs, please see page 40.

ONLY 7 MORE DAYS
 to wait for return of
"THOSE WE LOVE"

DISCARD YOUR OLD AERIAL
 It is Most Likely Corroded and Has Poor or Loose Noisy Connections
 No MORE BUZZES, CLICKS and shorts from summer rains and winter snow and sleet when using an F & H Capacity Aerial Eliminator. Anyone can connect it in a moment's time to the radio set—occupies only 1 1/2 inch by 4 inch space behind the set, yet enables your radio to operate without an aerial and tune in stations over the entire broadcast band frequencies and short wave channels.

ELIMINATE THE AERIAL FOR GOOD
 Attach this unit to your radio—make your set complete in itself—forget aerial wires and troubles—move your set anywhere—no more rot climbing, unsightly lead-in or aerial wires.

NOT NEW—VALUE ALREADY PROVED
 On the market five years, 100,000 customers in U.S. and foreign countries.
 In use from the Arctic Region of Norway to the Tropics of Africa. Each factory tested on actual long distance reception. Cannot harm set—Easily connected to any radio, including radios having no ground or radios for doublet aerial. Note: It will not operate on battery or automobile radios.

5 DAYS TRIAL Mail coupon at once. Pay postage $1.00 plus a few pennies postage on delivery. If not entirely satisfied, return within five days and your dollar will be refunded without question.
JUST MAIL THIS COUPON

F & H Radio Laboratories, Dept. 97, Fargo, N. Dak.
 I Send F & H Capacity Aerial. Will pay postage $1 plus few cents |
 postage, if not pleased will return within 5 days for $1 refund. Check |
 here if sending $1 with order—thus saving postage cost—same re- | fund guaranteed. Check here if interested in dealer's proposition. |

Davenport, Ia. Received your Radio Aerial Eliminator and it sure works fine. Also works swell on Short Wave band. Wish I had found it long ago. Signed:.....

WHAT USERS SAY
 Complete
 Does away with Aerial entirely
 —Just place an
 F & H Capacity
 Aerial Eliminator
 over (size 1 1/2
 in. x 4 in.)
 within your set.
 Simple instructions
 furnished with unit.
 Easily connected by anyone to aerial and ground of set. Your radio will then operate and tune in the same manner as if it were connected to an aerial. Operates on both short and long waves.

3 in 1 RADIO TUNER

Only $1.00 Postpaid

1. Aerial Eliminator
2. Antenna Tuner
3. Wave Trap

Eliminates noise, interference, static, etc. caused by electrical home appliances, rain, wind, etc. Increases and intensifies aerials. Anyone can operate on a minute's notice. Permits you to move your radio anywhere. The 3 in 1 will improve the reception of weak stations, give you greater volume and increase selectivity. The day free trial—$1.00 postpaid.

3 in 1
Converts Into Practical Radio

Simply add two parts and the 3 in 1 will bring you music, news, sports, drama, etc. Sold on 5 day free trial money back guarantee. Complete with necessary parts and full instructions $1.99 postpaid. SEND NO MONEY—Simply pay postman following prices plus few cents postage. On each order we pay postage. 3 in 1 tuner alone $1.00; 3 in 1 with parts for making complete radio $1.99.

TITE DENTAL WAFERS HOLD PLATES FIRM

TITE DENTAL WAFERS are Guaranteed to keep your plates tight and snug in place. Close any food, drink, touch, noise without the slightest worry of embarrassment. Not a powder or paste-but a soft, velvety wafer that relines the plate making it as gently and firmly to the contours of your mouth. Natural flesh color. TITE is tasteless, non-toxic. Reasily applied. Sent postpaid for $1.00 or C.O.D. plus charges in plain sealed wrapper.

SOUNDS IN THE NIGHT

A year of strangeness, and nine years of service, and things that were said intentionally and otherwise

Quote:

"Sometimes even the distant past has lessons for the present." That was one of the low-voiced utterances clipped from the lips of H. V. Kaltenborn (NBC, Sun., Tues., Wed., Thurs.). The commentator had been quoting from The Nation, which in turn had quoted from Demosthenes, the ancient Greek orator, whose startlingly modern-sounding warning to the Athenians to prepare against the dictator Philip of Macedon might have been a page from the news of today. The clear-sighted thinker's warning fell on indifferent ears—and Athens was conquered. Truth in ten words plucked from the air: "Sometimes even the distant past has lessons for the present."

"The subject of my book review for today will be: 'All This, and Heaving Too'—a story of life on the ocean." Credit Ransom Sherman on "Club Matinee" (NBC, Mon. through Sat.) for that classic.

"The lovely voice of Vivian, with Maxine and the All-Girl Chorus." I don't know how that excerpt from the opening announcement on "Hour of Charm" (Sun., NBC) strikes Maxine, whose low, charming voice used to be spotlighted on the show, but to this listener the phrasing and intonation sound like unwarranted discrimination, almost prejudicing me against the undoubtedly lovely soprano voice of Vivian.

It's a Curious World

One thousand five hundred and sixty minutes of bizarre events and unusual stories of personal experience have flowed from the microphone of "Strange as It Seems" on Thursdays (CBS) for the past year. The program, based on facts supplied by the famous newspaper columnist, John Hix, has brought a host of interesting people to the microphone—people like the following: A man who makes prophecies based on the Egyptian pyramids; a famous Negro scientist who was traded for a horse; a man who trains insects; a man who controls his pulse-beat; a woman who is usefully and happily living "on borrowed time"; a Russian princess.

Many tales have been told that not only stir the imagination but also prod the curiosity in the mysterious unknown. There was the dramatization that dealt with the death curse of the buried treasure in California's Caahuenga Pass. It pointed out that seven men had died digging for the gold and that an eighth prospector was then working the mine. A month later this prospector died by his own hand.

There was the story of the Vermont editor who forecast snow in July, and then saw it come true; the dramatization of Jacques Gazotte, French Revolutionary poet, foretelling the tragic deaths of his six dinner guests; and the theory of the famous curse of the King Tut tomb put forward by the only survivor of that curse.

Put this program with "We, the People" (Tues., CBS) and Ripley's "Believe It or Not" program (Fri., CBS) and you have a three-cornered prism that reflects life and the world in its most colorful hues. That's one of the beauties of radio.

MARJORIE MAINS took it seriously when the cameraman told her to get in character. Above, the tough housemother you've been hearing on "Kraft Music Hall" campus (Thurs., NBC) shows how she keeps announcer Ken Carpenter in hand at Rappa Tappa Gong

Slips That Pass

With all of radio's close surveillance, now and then little things are said in spontaneous speech that would undoubtedly be deleted if written into a script beforehand. These faux pas may be unintentional double-meaning statements; they may be slips of the tongue; they may be deliberate ad-lib attempts to be clever. It's hard for the listener to distinguish which is which. You may be your own judge of what category the following recent fugitives from the blue pencil belong in:

On "Truth or Consequences" (Sat., NBC): Emcee Ralph Edwards asked a contestant his occupation. It was cleaning and dyeing. The answer: "Yes. Women frequently call me up and tell me to come around and pick up their dresses."

On the "Rudy Vallee Program" (NBC, Thurs.): Rudy said, "Can you smell—spell cat?" Walter O'Keefe came right back, "Well, I smelled something, but I didn't know just what it was."

On "Quiz Kids" (Wed., NBC): Emcee Joe Kelly engaged eight-year-old Gerard Darrow in conversation to kill time at the close of the show, and referred to a previous question on the program. Said Gerard, "I know the man that sent in the question." The subject was promptly changed.

On "Major Bowes' Amateur Hour" (Thurs., CBS): Bowes: "Have you any children?" Contestant: "Yes, three in the last three years." Bowes:

"What will you sing?"
Reply: "Lord, You Made the Night Too Long."

Religion by Radio

Sunday after Sunday for nine years the Columbia Broadcasting System's "Church of the Air" has broadcast to far-flung audiences two services with sermons delivered by clerics representing all the established faiths in the United States.

The CBS presentation, in which many eminent prelates have participated, entered its tenth year on September 1, and church leaders of all denominations have sent congratulatory messages, emphasizing their appreciation for what the "Church of the Air" has done and is doing for the cause of religion.

During the existence of this religious program its services have been listened to by many millions—in homes, hospitals, camps, boarding-schools, infirmaries—by persons dwelling in desolate areas in this country and in Canada, and also by those in distant lands who have heard the messages over Columbia's short-wave stations.

Since the launching of the first broadcast of the "Church of the Air," its appeal has grown greatly, a fact that is attested to by the many thousands of letters (14,000 were received in one week) that pour into CBS headquarters from correspondents who for the most part tell of the inspiration and comfort they have derived from the sermons.

In a statement of the policy of this program, William S. Paley, CBS president, writes:

"When the Columbia Broadcasting System, in September, 1931, offered its facilities for the creation of a Church of the Air, it was generally recognized that religious broadcasting should not be haphazard but, in fairness to all concerned, should follow a carefully predetermined policy. That policy, as it was then conceived, and as it stands today, is based on the simple premise of religious freedom.

"It provides that the pulpit of Columbia's 'Church of the Air' shall be made available, impartially, to all established religious faiths in America; that speakers who use this pulpit shall enjoy freedom of expression, so long as their messages in no way attack the religious faith of others; that no charge shall be made or payment accepted for religious broadcasts.

"The reasoning behind our religious policy is, I believe, self-evident in its terms. Here is nothing more than a straightforward guarantee that the principle of religious liberty, so vital in the founding of this country, shall determine the course and character of religious programs. The plan has worked well. We are confident it shall continue to work well."

Here is dynamic, democratic religion. Listen and grow.

Notes on the Log Margin

NBC, Thursday, August 22: Dinah Shore's second successful appearance, both acting and singing, makes me want to hear her on the new Eddie Cantor show when it begins, and makes me hope they'll give the Dixie Blaze of Blues room for her talent.

CBS, Monday nights: Most of the much-ballyhoed displays in the "Forecast" showcase are better as one-time performances than as the bases of prospective commercial series, which is what they were meant to be. The program, built around P. G. Wodehouse's "Jeeves," with Edward Everett Horton starring, seems to have hit the nail most solidly for permanence.

NBC, Tuesday night: Jerry Lester, appearing with Tommy Dorsey on the summer substitute show for Bob Hope, is getting more raves from columnists than any other prospective new comedy star. For me he's a carbon copy of Hope in voice, delivery and material, though without doubt that's coincidence.

NBC, Thursday night: Having seen Marjorie Mains as the hard-boiled ranch-keeper in "The Women" makes her all the more vividly enjoyable as "Kraft Music Hall's" housemother.

First Families of Radio

"The Goldbergs," happy-go-lucky East Siders of the serial shows, pose for their friends

MOLLY GOLDBERG (Gertrude Berg), with her pleasingly imperfect family, with her generous but embarrassing plans for other people's happiness, and with her mirth-provoking malapropisms and mistakes in grammar, has been a perennially popular visitor in listeners' homes since 1929, when serials were young.

Always, Molly has been the dreamer, the onrushing idealist of the family, and always Jake (James R. Waters), her crotchety but lovable spouse, has restrained her and warned her of impending disaster if she would insist upon flying in the face of facts. The odd—and delightful—part of it is that Molly's dreams often do fly in the face of facts—and come true!

In the main, the story of the Goldbergs has concerned Molly and Jake and their two children, Rosie (Roslyn Silber) and Sammy (Alfred Ryder). Through the conversations of these four, a hundred involvements with relatives, neighbors and complete strangers have been woven into the plot. For many years New York's East Side was their home. Then Jake's business, Molly's Ladies' Society and the children's playmates figured largely. Now they live in the country, where listeners are absorbed in Molly's nephew Solly's romantic recapture of the youth he never had through his interest in Jane Brown (Joan Tetzl), one of the unemployed actresses staying in the neighborhood. As usual, Molly has gotten tangled up in the complications which follow, as well as in the fate of the actress. How she will fare in this experience is worrying Jake and listeners-in Mondays through Fridays (CBS).

RAINBOW'S

End

Easiest of all to reach is radio's "Pot o' Gold"—but are those who reach it worthy? Read their stories here

By DON MOORE

IT WOULD be good, indeed, to know that always the most worthy receive the prize, whether the prize is victory in war, election in politics, or the "Pot o' Gold" in radio.

Who does find those free treasures at the end of radio's rainbow program? Rather, who are the people that are found by the rainbow? For in this case the traditional procedure is reversed. The seeking of the reward lies in just staying at home while the rainbow swings around with the giant selector used on Horace Heidt's "Pot o' Gold" program (Thurs., NBC). Chance riding on the selector picks out someone. The rainbow's end becomes the end of someone's telephone line. And the pot o' gold is dumped in a waiting hand.

Yes, it would be good to know that always those waiting hands are the most worthy. That would be hard to discover or to prove. And if proved either affirmatively or negatively, it wouldn't much alter the entertainment value of the music-and-money program. Yet after all, people are the most interesting things on earth—much more interesting even than money. So let's examine a cross-section of the people who have won the "Pot o' Gold" prizes and see with what measure of justice Dame Fortune has turned the wheel.

Case number one:

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Houston with their children came to Marblehill, Missouri, fifteen years ago to be near Will Mayfield College so the children could get college educations. Mr.

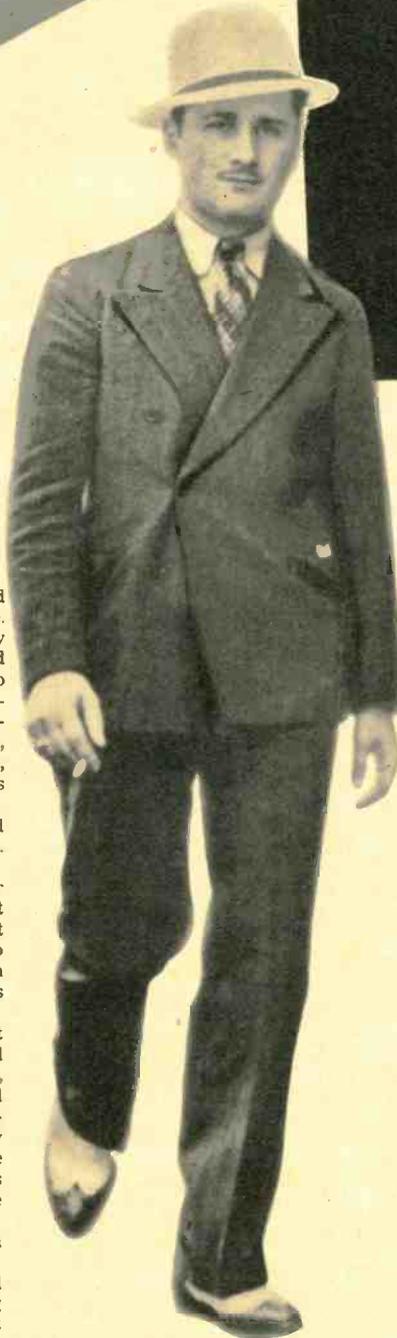

Houston got a job as mechanic and maintenance man at the college. Things went along all right for a few years. Then the depression swooped down on the country. People could do without education easier than without food. College endowments and enrollments shrank; and Will Mayfield, like many other small institutions, was forced to close. Mr. Houston was one of the unemployed multitude.

"The home was mortgaged and sometimes we nearly starved," Mrs. Houston says.

For several years they went deeper into debt and deeper into despair. But Mrs. Houston finally pulled herself out of it with the resolution, "I'm going to stop worrying. I'm going to leave it in the hands of Providence." That was early in 1940.

One night Mr. Houston was out working on the first odd job he had landed for some time. Mrs. Houston, daughter Nina, and sons Ray and Douglass were sitting in the living-room. Suddenly the phone rang (they had held on to the phone for the sake of job-seeking); leisurely Douglass answered. It was Horace Heidt. The "Pot o' Gold" had found them home—and dumped the thousand dollars in their needy hands.

They paid off the mortgage, and they put the coupe back in running order so that Mr. Houston could get occasional work as substitute mail-carrier. Thus the Houstons were put happily back on their feet to tackle the struggle with renewed determination.

JACK BESBRIS, with debts and a sick mother, had a headache. The $1,000 phone call cured it!

INGEMAN R. RENSVOLD, Arlington, S. Dak., owns his own farm, taxes paid, after the selector brought him to rainbow's end

Case number two:

Henry Wilpolt, of Kaukauna, Wisconsin, has seven letters in his last name and he was born on May 7. Mr. Wilpolt was never exactly superstitious, but when he was laid off after working as engineer for the Chicago and North Western railroad for thirty-three years, he naturally cast about for every vestige of promise to anchor some hope to. He couldn't help thinking about seven being a lucky number. After twenty-two months of unwelcome idleness, however, it began to look as if it would take a more solid piece of fate than a combination of sevens to give Mr. Wilpolt a new lease on security.

He didn't realize that six persons had won the "Pot o' Gold" prizes, and he didn't even think about it being November 7 when he tuned in the program one night. But Dame Fortune couldn't miss a natural like that, and Mr. Wilpolt became the seventh winner. He collected the largest amount to come out of the "pot"—$2,800. With it he paid off debts, finished paying son Ralph's tuition at Lawrence College, fixed up the home, and salted down the remainder for old age.

Case number three:

If Ingeman R. Rensvold grew corn twelve feet tall on his Arlington, South Dakota, farm, he'd probably describe it as a sprout—for Mr. Rensvold is an addict of understatement. At least he was when he said farming "had not been as profitable as it used to be." In reality it had been definitely unprofitable for Mr. Rens-

G. R. HOUSTON, Marblehill, Mo., was jobless, his home mortgaged, his children hungry, when $1,000 came out of the air!

HENRY WILPOLT, Kaukauna, Wis., has seven letters in his last name, and he was born May 7. Out of work and worried, he got "Pot o' Gold's" seventh pay-off call, received $2,800. Lucky Mr. Wilpolt is seated beside his wife and children (l. to r.): Ralph, Mrs. Adele Noie, Dorothy vold. He was at home brooding about it when the "Pot o' Gold" selector picked him out of the millions.

With the gift he paid taxes on his 160-acre farm and a lot of other pressing bills. Mr. Rensvold now owns his farm, rents another 160 acres, and is happy in the community where his father homesteaded sixty years ago.

Case number four:

A headache turned into a delirium of joy for Jack Besbris. He was lying down one night listening to the Tums program, thinking vaguely that it would take more than Tums to cure his headache. It was not the kind that was caused by the stomach. It was caused by worries. He had his share of the troubles that haunt the lives of so many young married couples today. He was manager of an exterminating company in Jacksonville, Florida; doing well for a youth of his age. But he had had a rough road getting there, and there were still plenty of debts to pull out of.

On top of that, Jack's mother was ill in the severe winter climate of the Pennsylvania mountains. It looked as if things were beginning to pile up on him. And here was his wife urging him to go out to a movie. A movie, and him with this headache! As a matter of fact, he was virtually on the point of turning off the radio because it annoyed him. A movie!

As they started to the movie Jack still hung back just a little. Just long enough that he heard the phone ring.

Now the Besbris' debts are clear; Jack's mother has been brought to sunny Florida to recuperate; and the Besbrises have decided that a little family bickering may have a silver lining. If Jack hadn't held out against his wife's wishes long enough to hear the phone ring, they would have been on their way to the most expensive movie of their lives when the $1,000 call came.

Case number five:

Otto Ransom didn't know much about the "Pot o' Gold" program. When he answered the phone one night and was told he would receive $1,000, Mr. Ransom said, "Oh, yeah?" He didn't mind the kidding, he could take it; but he was a little perplexed. Then the phone started ringing again, and it rang till after midnight almost continuously. Mr. Ransom discovered the first caller hadn't been kidding him, and the citizens of Mt. Vernon, Ohio, weren't kidding when they all called up to congratulate him.

Mr. Ransom's first act was to put his modest fortune into something secure, his home. Then he paid some bills and bought his daughter a wrist-watch as a reminder of their good luck.

Mr. Ransom, who is a painter and paperhanger and a 37th Division veteran of World War I, says: "That pot certainly looked good to me. I've had my share of hard luck since I got married. We have all three been operated on and have had a lot of other sickness too. We're feeling swell now, though!"

Case number six:

This is the pathetic story of the colored preacher who wanted to pass on the smile of Dame Fortune for the sake of souls but had to bow to the leer of business obligations.

"I was born of slave parents," begins the story of Reverend W. H. Lash, of Salisbury, N. C. From the time he was twelve until he was eighteen, Lash was hired out by his father at wages as low as three dollars monthly so he might earn a bare livelihood for the family of nine. Then he left North Carolina, and with scarcely any suitable preparation he studied in high school and theological seminary in Springfield, Ill.

FOR seven years he studied night and day, never receiving a cent from home. He often arose late at night and washed his clothes in the basement, dried them overnight, and got up before everyone else in the morning to put them back on. This he did so no one would know how meagerly he lived.

In 1904 he graduated and took charge of a Lutheran mission at Salisbury, teaching parochial school five days a week, preaching three sermons on Sunday, for thirty-five dollars a week. Reverend Lash married, but his salary didn't increase with his family. He and his wife opened a tiny store in their back yard and stocked it with thirty-seven dollars' worth of merchandise. By 1928 he had seven stores in the town and property in neighboring towns. The year of 1929 wiped out his business interests, leaving him only his religious work, which he had pursued continuously. He went to work for one of his sons at a small salary.

When the "Pot o' Gold" unloaded its $1,000 before Reverend Lash's bewildered eyes, he thought immediately not of his former business enterprises but of his struggling mission. The entire amount was deposited to the credit of St. Paul's Congregation of Salisbury to build a much-needed chapel. But Reverend Lash's worldly creditors stepped in, demanding more payment on the debts for which they had already taken everything he owned. The church returned the money to Reverend Lash, who turned it over to his creditors, then filed a petition in bankruptcy.

Reverend Lash and the congregation still work and pray for the chapel.

These are only six cases, only a few of the people who have received the "Pot o' Gold" prizes, but they form a representative cross-section of all. There are perhaps other cases where the reward was not so strikingly needed or so worthily used. Perhaps there are some more striking.

At least these cases discredit the skeptic who is always ready to cry, "The prize always goes to the one who doesn't need it!" And they furnish a comforting clincher for the belief of those who hold that Dame Fortune's beneficent smile most often seeks out the deserving.

"Pot o' Gold" may be heard Thursdays over an NBC network at:

 CDT 7:30 p.m. — CST 6:30 p.m.

Josh Higgins Everybody's Neighbor

GRANDMA PASHBY asked them to carry her near the radio so she could hear Josh Higgins sing "In the Sweet By and By." She smiled then and said that she wished when she passed on Josh Higgins might come and sing that same hymn.

It was the last wish Grandma Pashby made. She died peacefully the next day. At the funeral the neighbors all gathered and quietly talked. There were no tears. The lovable old lady had gone willingly to her eternal reward. And Josh Higgins had come as she had wished he would. It was just a simple, subdued reunion, that was all.

Josh Higgins sat beside the casket. The preacher made a talk about Grandma, and neighborliness, and Josh. Then Josh sang "In the Sweet By and By." The neighbors went home, feeling more inspired than sorrowful.

That was a number of years ago. This Thursday Josh Higgins, the same radio character who fulfilled Grandma Pashby's last wish and has had many other such heart-warming experiences, will be cast in a different role. He will be the recipient himself of a truly unique honor.

The millions of listeners to the "National Farm and Home Hour" (NBC, this Thursday) will hear the ceremonies. On that day the state of Iowa, with 20,000 people present, will formally dedicate a one-thousand-acre park at Cedar Falls as Josh Higgins Parkway, thus honoring its "Good Neighbor" ambassador and one of its favorite sons—whose real name is Joe DuMond.

At first thought it may seem strange that such an honor should be bestowed upon a mythical character. True Joe DuMond, creator of the radio character known for the past decade as "Josh Higgins of Finchville," was a solid Iowa citizen, liked and respected personally throughout the state. True also that his hymns, poems and shrewd human chats on the air have established his Josh Higgins character as a personality so popular that the offer of a baby poem once brought 10,000 requests—and so real that his own children talk about Josh as a person entirely separate from their daddy. Yet the honor signifies something far beyond those characteristics.

Beyond is this indisputable fact—the fact that Joe DuMond resolved back in his home town of Finchford, Iowa, to prove: The world today needs more than ever a common-sense, bed-rock, good-neighbor creed. Vaguely the

JOE DuMOND is the real-life "Josh Higgins" (NBC, Mon.—Fri.)

Call him Joe or Josh or just neighbor—he's a prophet who is honored in his own country

By Maury Aldon

world wants it. And gratefully the people in Iowa and far beyond Iowa look to any man who can help them even just a few steps toward solid ground through the deepening fog of human relations.

JOSH HIGGINS does not belong merely to Iowa. Josh and his simple knack of reaching into people's hearts—as he did Grandma Pashby's—belong to the world. Perhaps it is a touch of destiny that DuMond's NBC "Josh Higgins" program is carried around the world by short-wave. DuMond pretends that his radio alter-ego lives "By the Bend of the River." But he himself says the bend of the river and Finchville may be anywhere you may be if your heart is right.

The bend of the river turned out once not long ago to be at 1 P'an Long Lane, K'unming, Yunnan, China. Mrs. Lester Van Meter wrote to Josh:

"We heartily enjoy your fun, your talks, and especially your songs. We lived in isolation and loneliness until we recently bought a radio. It only has six tubes, but we get your program easily. We look forward all day to your broadcast, which comes to us late at night. The air-raid alarms here get monotonous—to say the least—and we like to slip away from China each evening on our 'Magic Carpet' and forget our danger and troubles for a while. You help in a grand way."

At other times the bend of the river, as expressed in friendly letters of earnest appreciation, has been in Juneau, Alaska, where Josh's invitation to join the neighborly circle warmed the heart of a lonely man in the frozen wilderness; and in a village in South Africa, where Josh's cool-headed counsel relieved the heat of approaching war for a worried mother; and in many places between the arctic and the tropics.

Yet with all the serious experiences, Josh Higgins leans toward the chuckle side of life—wisely so in a world unbalanced with heavy thoughts. DuMond writes and sings hymns, to be sure, but the kind that lift and brighten; and he balances them with other songs of sentiment and nature. His poems are not so much philosophy, just common sense, touched up with real-life experiences and humor.

Joe DuMond is an "old softie" about home and children—especially about his own wife, Irene, and his own children, Jean Ellen, eleven, and Joe, Jr., seven. It's natural, therefore, that he should have his Josh Higgins devote one day each week on the air to "Baby Day," of which the special feature is the reading of verses to or about kiddies. It was one of these poems that drew 10,000 requests for copies.

Josh Higgins probably gets more mail from executives and nationally known figures than any other radio personality. On stern business letterheads come typed letters, many of them dictated, from all kinds of professions, businesses and industries, proving there are still many soft hearts under the world's hard shell.

The character of Josh Higgins has been so substantially established as a real individual with silvering hair and whiskers and a midwest twang in his speech that most of Josh's radio neighbors would be surprised to find him in reality a middle-aged, clean-shaven, black-haired man with eyes so penetrating they can almost look through your loud-speaker.

But under the surface Joe DuMond and Josh Higgins are the same man. Working together with a singleness of purpose—one privately and modestly among his own acquaintances, and one publicly with only the equator as a circle of neighborliness—they have been rewarded not only with the joy of well-doing but with tangible honors.

Thursday's broadcast is only the timely focusing of the world's utter need of simplicity, sincerity, tolerance and the rare quality of understanding best expressed in a firm handclasp of old-fashioned neighborliness.

ON THE BANDWAGON

By Martin Lewis

GUY LOMBARDO is going on the road after taking it easy all summer. He and his band will play a week's engagement at the Chicago Theater starting September 13, and then hop on their bandwagon bound for a week's stay at the Palace Theater in Cleveland. . . . Hail the Duke! Ellington is back in Chicago, broadcasting from the Panther Room of the Sherman Hotel. . . . Two blocks down on the other side of the street, Phil Levant is back for another season, which is "just like coming home" according to Phil. Incidentally, his new vocalist, Gale Robbins, is plenty easy on the eyes and ears. . . . Lawrence Welk and his "Champagne Music" have returned to their familiar haunt, the Trianon in the Windy City, and can be heard over MBS. . . . Clyde Lucas, the airplane modelmaker, follows Eddy Duchin at the Coconut Grove in Los Angeles. Eddy, by the way, broke his last record made at this same spot, which has made him "veddy happy."

News and Notes

Ben Bernie and Metro are in a huddle over a motion-picture deal. . . . Buddy Rogers is giving up the band business and this time he means it. He's going to devote his entire attention to the job of Associate Producer for United Artists. Nice work if you can get it. He would also like to be known as Charles Rogers instead of Buddy. Okay, Charlie! . . . Mentioning pictures, RKO wants Ginny Simms to stay on for another picture after completion of "You'll Find Out," but she won't leave the band. Which is another way of saying "friend" Kay Kyser won't let her. . . . Andre Kostelanetz is going to get a movie job. He's going to do the music for the Puppet Tunes (cartoons) at Paramount, which will be produced under the supervision of George Pal, an old pal of Kostelanetz who used to make the shorts in Holland, but has migrated to Hollywood as a result of the war. . . . Fletcher Henderson, who is quite a swing bandleader himself, has joined Count Basie as chief arranger, which means that Basie's tunes will be even better than now.

Tommy Dorsey is talking to a sponsor about a new radio program which would give the amateur song-writers a chance at crashing into Tin Pan Alley. . . . Tommy, by the way, is going to help break in the dance floor of the New Palladium in Hollywood. Next Tuesday, the bandleader is going to play the music broadcast from New York for a few guest couples of local college students. . . . Songstress Louise Tobin has left the Will Bradley band, which she only recently joined. . . . The rumor is still going around that Ronny Kemper, featured member of the Dick Jurgens band, is going to leave Jurgens and form a band of his own. Tony Leonard, new vocalist with the Eddy Duchin band, is one of

MEREDITH BLAKE is vocalist with Gray Gordon

Duchin's sax players.

Don't Believe Your Ears

Whenever a band comes on the air and you hear a lot of applause, cheering and whistling, don't think it's spontaneous. In most instances the announcer makes a prebroadcast speech, urging the customers to give the bandleader a tremendous reception. If it happens to be on a night when business is bad, the waiters mill around the microphone and join in the applause and cheers.

Bob Trendler Busiest Bandleader

My nomination for one of the busiest, if not the busiest, musicians in radio goes to Bob Trendler, orchestra director of such shows as "Show Boat," "Plantation Party," "Uncle Walter's Dog House" and "In Chicago Tonight." Total time on the air of these shows is five and one-quarter hours. But behind that five-and-one-quarter-hour period are fifty and one-quarter hours of preparation; time spent in arranging music, auditioning vocalists, coaching vocalists, rehearsal of orchestra and singers, and finally arranging the draft of the programs as they are heard on the air. Total time, including air time, is fifty-six and one-half hours. But that isn't all: To fill in a few spare hours of his schedule, Bob plays records back that have been taken off the air during broadcasts and listens to new recordings of late numbers! So you want to be a bandleader when you grow up, eh?

Discussions

GLENN MILLER—"Crosstown" and "What's Your Story, Morning Glory?" (Bluebird B-10832)—Glenn gets back into the recording harness once again with these two waxings. Guitarist Jack Lathrop sings in the first named, with Tex Benecke, tenor sax in the Miller band, rendering the lyrics to "What's Your Story?" A "must" addition to your Miller collection.

KATE SMITH—"Trade Winds" and "Goodnight Again" (Columbia 35638)—The "Songbird of the South" singing two distinguished ballads, with musical accompaniment by Jack Miller. Kate is superb.

HORACE HEIDT—"God Bless America" and "Stars and Stripes Forever" (Columbia 35637)—Splendid arrangements of two songs that are in tune with the times. Heidt's crew and the Ensemble (vocalists) join together their talents to produce an arrangement of Irving Berlin's classic that will thrill every patriot. On the other side, "Stars and Stripes Forever."

Recordmended

"Breezin' Along With the Breeze" (Varsity 8406A), by guess who?—Lou Breeze, of course! "Melody of Love" (Victor 26695), by Wayne King; Abe Lyman's "Roses of Picardy" (Bluebird B-10818); Harry James' "Exactly Like You" (Varsity 8411); "The Pan-American Way" (Columbia 35642), a conga by that conga specialist, Enric Madriguera and band; Count Basie's swinging of "Moten Swing" (Okeh 5732).

TREASON

On Your Dial

Here's how Goebbels' broadcasters woo American listeners with free beer, soft music and dire threats

By Francis Chase, Jr.

HERMANN L. SCHWINN, who bought and directed radio programs over a number of West Coast stations (radio station KRKD, Los Angeles, among these), is the Little Fuehrer of the West Coast. The Big Fuehrer is Captain Fritz Wiedemann, Consul-General at San Francisco and close personal friend of Adolf Hitler. Schwinn and Wiedemann worked together in close contact, and it was one of Schwinn's duties to smuggle from ships arriving at West Coast ports from Germany propaganda material from the Propaganda Ministry. This material soon found its way to American ears over Schwinn-directed radio programs on American stations.

Today, Schwinn is being held by immigration authorities for deportation to Germany on grounds of obtaining his naturalization papers by false information. He is a lucky man. In Germany—or even in England today—Herr Schwinn would be stood against a stone wall and summarily shot for his nefarious activities, so freely carried on in this land of liberty. Herr Schwinn carries with him letters from Hitler, praising him for "what he has accomplished in the United States."

Let those who consider that Adolf Hitler has no designs upon this hemisphere solemnly and honestly ponder the works of Herr Schwinn and the praise Hitler saw fit to give him for such works. Let them consider that Schwinn was the leading light of the vicious German-American Bund for the West Coast; that, appointed to his task by Paul Goebbels, he had built up one of the most efficient smuggling machines in the land and a group openly and notoriously antagonistic to all that America stands for. Let them consider that this Berlin-trained propagandist and gauleiter bought American radio time to assure Americans "that Chancellor Hitler has no designs whatsoever upon the western hemisphere" at the very moment he was busily engaged in building an armed and secret German-American Storm Troop; that he deliberately falsified English translations of German talks given on radio station KRKD, in Los Angeles.

Schwinn was shrewd and dangerous. It was not only what he said on the radio—and what he said was plenty—but the shrewd means he devised to use radio in other ways that marked him as an evil genius. For the most part, his radio programs were used simply to announce picnics in Hindenburg Park. These were glowing announcements of fun fests, with free beer, dancing, games. Naturally, many listeners turned out for what promised to be a gay holiday, but it was no holiday for the paid Nazi propagandists who circulated through the crowd preaching Naziism and distributing choice pieces of literature fresh off the boat from Germany.

This has been one of the most insidious phases of Nazi radio activity. Throughout the nation, radio stations having German-American hours have been used in precisely this way. Radio may not, in itself, be used to propagate Nazi philosophy, but radio is used as a come-on for listeners, attracting them to picnics and meetings which are beehives of Nazi activity. In Chicago, for example, German language broadcasts over two stations in July (WHIP and WIND) invited listeners to attend a German Day picnic in Riverview Park. The WHIP broadcast ordered its listeners to attend.

The writer went to Riverview Park on that Sunday afternoon. He found a milling mob, policed by gruff, strong-arm men uniformed in boots, white shirts, Swastika-embazoned buckles, and armed with heavy clubs in case of trouble. Wherever four or more people congregated, a Nazi propagandist spoke his carefully prepared words. Most amazing, however, was the spectacle of Mayor Kelly, of Chicago, standing side by side with the German Consul under the Stars and Stripes and the Swastika hung side by side, hoping "that the fine friendship between our two nations will continue!"

THUS, from Coast to Coast, Nazi propagandists use our airwaves to further the Hitlerian cause. Best example of how they have converted a perfectly innocent German-language broadcast into a subversive weapon of Naziism occurred at radio station WCBM, in Baltimore. A German-language broadcast consisting mostly of German music had long been broadcast over that station. It was even sponsored by a Jewish furniture dealer. Then, suddenly, the Jewish dealer began to note a definite anti-Semitic quality in the program. He dropped it at once.

Connected with the Hamburg-American line office in Baltimore was a

Carl Frederick Klein. When the Jewish dealer dropped the program, Klein picked it up, paying its way and giving it, definitely, a Nazi tone. This innocent program now became so rabidly anti-American that the station took to strictly blue-penciling it and, a few weeks ago, refused to let it be broadcast in the German language.

Where did Herr Klein get the money to pay for such a program when the steamship line with which he is connected has not been able to book German passages in more than a year? Where, too, did Bert Weisflog, Milwaukee operator of a German travel bureau, get the money to pay for his radio program over station WEMP? Is it not logical to conclude that travel agencies make excellent disbursing agencies for the far-flung Nazi fifth column in America?

The bright spot in all of this is the courageous action of the American station managers who, the moment they were aware of the uses to which their stations were being put, banned such programs. In Milwaukee, WEMP's management kicked Weisflog off the air and he has been unable to find an outlet for his rantings since. But there are many stations which do not—despite their knowledge of what is going on—refuse to permit such broadcasts.

In Chicago, the German-American Alliance found outlet until recently over radio station WHIP, in Hammond. That station's facilities were denied to the alliance recently only after numerous civic groups had made vigorous protests and a local newspaper, for a period of two months, had campaigned against use of the air for such subversive purposes. There was never any doubt as to this program's close alliance with the Wilhelmstrasse and—next to the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin and the Rev. Gerald Winrod, with whom we shall treat later—the alliance broadcasts more nearly followed the pattern laid down in "Mein Kampf" than any others.

On Sunday, June 16, for example, M. Sprengling, Senior Professor of Oriental Languages and Literatures at the University of Chicago—a man entrusted with the teaching of American youth—said over WHIP's facilities:

"... I am proud of General Pershing who, as a true soldier at the behest of his commander-in-chief, makes pro-French and anti-German propaganda speeches even though, as a proper soldier, he is not an expert on civilization and foreign affairs..." and "... Once more good, American citizens, German-Americans, are being stabbed in the back from within and without this great, peace-loving country..."

Over that same station and program on July 9, Walter Silge, an optometrist (who undoubtedly speaks with greater authority about civilization and foreign affairs than General Pershing) had this to say:

"Happy signs already exist here that these nationality groups (Danes, Norwegians, Dutch, French, Belgians) are beginning to understand that our fight is theirs... Those of us who will join the German-American Alliance will have nothing to fear in the least. Only those who still choose to stand aside will have to fear for their future... You are defenseless against and exposed to onslaughts if you choose to stand on the sidelines..."

By what right does any person, using the free American airwaves, dare to threaten American citizens with reprisal or fears for their personal welfare? Are we living in America—thousands of miles from Berlin—or in Czechoslovakia or Poland, overrun by ruthless German storm troopers? Or does it mean that Dr. Silge knows of a German-American storm troop, armed with weapons and long lists of names, who await only the coming of der Tag for their initial reprisals?

THESE are questions to which Americans must find the answer. We question the right of any person to say to Americans, "No one dare or shall fail to attend the great peace meeting to be held in Soldier Field on Sunday!"

Yet those are the very words of Henry Jonk, alliance announcer and a one-time WPA musician, speaking to a million and a half listeners in Chicago on July 14. The meeting he commanded his listeners to attend was addressed by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh who, on that occasion, spoke so forthrightly on behalf of the Nazi cause that many newspapers next day called him the No. 1 Fifth Columnist in America!

Next week meet—by name and with the stations over which they broadcast listed—radio's Cliveden set, American radio figures who fight for Hitler and Naziism.

THE AROUND-THE-WORLD BROADCASTING SERVICE OF THE GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY (Part 2)

THE San Francisco international station of the General Electric Company, inaugurated in March, 1939, is located on Treasure Island. Its ultra-modern transmitter and attractive studios, situated in one of the huge buildings of the Golden Gate International Exposition, have been viewed by thousands of visitors from all parts of the world. The Treasure Island location has proved so satisfactory in every sense that it will probably be utilized as a permanent site for KGEI's new 50,000-watt transmitter to be installed in the near future. Treasure Island will become a terminus for Pan American's Clipper ships after the fair closes.

Under the management of capable and cheerful ex-newspaperman Buck Harris (who entertained the writer royally when he visited the station), KGEI has proved a tremendous success. It is not only the only North American station that can be heard consistently in the Orient, but it also furnishes excellent reception in Latin America and even in South Africa. From its listeners come thousands upon thousands of letters bearing strange and picturesque postmarks from such places as Macao, Tahiti, Borneo and Madagascar.

KGEI operates on 9.67 megs, directed to Asia and Oceania, daily from 11 p.m. to 2 a.m. and from 6 to 11 a.m.; and on 15.33 megs, directed to Latin America, from 5:30 to 10:15 p.m. CST.

English news bulletins are given daily at 6:30 and 8:30 a.m. and at 12 mid., and weekdays at 9:30 a.m. CST, on 9.67 megs, and daily at 6:45 p.m. CST, on 15.33 megs.

One of the most interesting and colorful programs to be heard over KGEI is "Clipper Departure," broadcast Wednesdays at 7:45 a.m. CST, on a frequency of 9.67 megs. This program is a dockside commentary describing the actual departure of the China Clipper for Hawaii, Guam and points westward. The captain and various members of the crew of the Clipper are interviewed, each contributing some bit about the interesting aerial journeys to and fro across the Pacific. Passengers ready to embark give their reactions as they prepare to set forth on their fascinating trip. The program concludes with the roar of the Clipper's motors as it moves down the ramp and into the bay off to Hawaii on the first leg of its voyage to Manila and Hongkong.

KGEI programs most popular with national and international audiences are (time is Central Standard):

VOICE OF THE LISTENER

Express your opinions. Write V. O. L., 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Ill.

Quiet, Please!

Dear V. O. L.:

The performance of an orchestra should never be more prominent than that of the singer. When listeners cannot distinguish the words of a song because of the blare of brass, there is little pleasure in listening. All of which is just by way of saying that some radio orchestras play too loud!
Frank K. Young, Pewamo, Mich.

Junior Jackpot

Dear V. O. L.:

I can't resist writing to you about those "Quiz Kids." Aren't they wonderful? Do the three who have won most often—Cynthia, Gerard and Van—receive the $100 bond every week? If they do, they'll soon be sitting pretty.

Frances Blanchard, Albany, N. Y.

Yes, every child on the program gets $100 each time he or she appears, whether it's once or many times. That's one of the fine things about the show. More power to the kids—we're happy for them. We happen to know that most of them are saving for future education, and that they and their families are worthy and in many cases needy.—V. O. L.

Bark Worse Than Bite

Dear V. O. L.:

I went to the expense three years ago of buying a $45.00 radio, hoping that I would enjoy the entertainment over the air, but if this nuisance continues, I will take down my radio and sell it for what I can get, as these advertisers are getting to hog the air with their hot-air advertising.

When radio first came out back in the twenties, they only barked their advertising when they first came on the air and that was the end of it. Then they decided to bark at the beginning and again at the end. But now they bark at the beginning, then every five minutes, then at the end. Some stations even stop in between a song to bark; they might as well take up their fake patent medicine. I was a sucker once and tried some of that medicine, and I had such pains in my stomach that I thought my time had come. I had to go to the doctor and he told me to leave that kind of medicine alone.

Robert L. Morris,
Colorado Springs, Colo.

Too Right

Dear V. O. L.:

I don't like to criticize too strongly, but I do get tired of stories when the characters always do the right thing. "Ma Perkins," for instance, always does the right thing. That serial is supposed to be true to life, and there isn't a person living who is always right. I like the story, but I get tired of knowing Ma Perkins is never going to make a mistake.

Mary G. Branan, Muskogee, Okla.

This is an unusual complaint. The more frequent charge against the serials is that the characters too often do the wrong things (such as cheating on their husbands or wives) or are themselves victims of adverse circumstances (such as loss of memory, murder, etc.). Which just goes to show you. Or does it?—V. O. L.

LUCILLE MANNERS (above) and Margaret Speaks (right), two of radio's loveliest blondes, tell hair-grooming secrets

THIS week I want to tell you how the clever, up-to-date career girl keeps her golden or ash-blond locks in order. And I have asked two outstanding radio performers with shimmering golden tresses to be gracious enough to share their hair-grooming secrets with us.

Lucille Manners has a head that is quite literally sunned over with golden curls. She tells me that her hair beauty is primarily determined by her state of health, and therefore she is careful at all times to have a sufficient amount of fresh air and exercise in order to keep her body bubbling over with pep and vitality.

Secondly, she brushes her hair regularly to stimulate scalp circulation, and afterwards massages her scalp for about five minutes, using her two thumbs for balance and moving her fingers over her scalp in a rotating motion. Between shampoos she uses a lubricating lotion made of two parts of castor oil and one part of alcohol, in conjunction with the scalp massage. Only a small amount is necessary, she cautions, for what you want is to have it on your scalp rather than your hair.

The night before you shampoo the latter, anoint the scalp generously with warm almond or olive oil. Keep it on all night. The next morning wash your hair with castile-soap jelly. (Palmolive jelly is equally good and Drene can be recommended, also.—B. A.)

Margaret Speaks, the NBC Firestone lark, has ash-blond hair which she wears in the serenely gracious manner that characterizes everything she does. Blond hair is usually so beautiful in itself that it requires little decoration to set off its color and luster, and Miss Margaret's is no exception. Her pale-gold locks are brushed until every ringlet and wave falls shinningly into place. (Brushing your hair with your head leaning over the side of the bed in order to send the blood into your scalp cells is suggested by the Hudnut Success School.)

Previews!

Dorothy Gray has a streamlined, peach-colored product that is like liquid velvet and will do wonders for summer-parched skin. Girls, note! LeLong presents us with a fragrance that is cool, teasing and habit-forming! Once you have succumbed to Tail-spin, you can't be without it. It has sparkle and richness, with a floral base that is dry rather than sweet. I like it! . . . Imra, delicately scented and so-o easy to use, will remove unwanted hair within fifteen minutes . . . For those who shop early and most efficiently, the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Co. is offering a special Christmas box of toiletries containing three cakes of Cashmere Bouquet soap—the same dainty, particularly feminine soap you have loved ever since you can remember—plus a huge box of dusting-powder, for considerably less than a dollar in price! The special Christmas box is most attractively boxed and will undoubtedly cost you a pang or two to give away! . . . Another modern miracle with a particularly feminine slant is achieved in Elasti-Glass, the newest and most glamorous medium for dress accessories, shoes and eventually clothes. Elasti-Glass, made of gas and salt, might have gone into the making of Cinderella's slippers. We know that it is responsible for some of the smartest and most individual-looking belts, suspenders and wrist-watch bands we have ever come across! . . . Jergens, who has done so much to make our hands ornamental as well as useful, presents us with a three-purpose cream for our faces. It not only cleanses, softens and acts as a powder base but will correct a dry skin "while the patient sleeps." This is about as much as can be expected of any one cream, but in addition Jergens All-Purpose Cream has a fine consideration of one's pocketbook!

BULLS & BONERS

Bulls and boners are a part of broadcasting. No matter how experienced the performer or how famous the star, chances are that he will make an occasional slip or a statement with twisted meaning which is extremely funny. See how good your ears are. Try to catch broadcasters in some error—the funnier the better—and send your entry to MOVIE AND RADIO GUIDE, 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago. The most humorous entries will be printed in this column. Watch for your contribution!

Dean Maddox (describing fashion show with Billy Rose's Aquacade girls as models): "Esther Williams will wear a real pearl dress worth $250,000. It's open to the public."—Robert Lamb, 76 Duane St., Redwood City, Calif. (August 3 over Station KFRC.)

Testimonial on John J. Anthony's "Good Will Court": "I've gained nine pounds and feel like a million!"—Miss E. F. King, 78-12 Cypress Hills St., Glendale, Queens, N. Y. (August 4 over NBC.)

Announcer: "Fit a pair of water-tight goggles over your eyes if you have any."—Mrs. Rachel A. Cooper, Cary, N. C. (July 25 over Station WPTF.)

News commentator: "A man whispered a demand for the key in her ear."—Mrs. Ralph O'Connell, Baldwin, Wis. (August 10 over Station WTCN.)

Captain E. D. C. Herne (describing an old Model T Ford): "It had a light at the back so that your posterior would glow."—Mrs. Harry Heite, Woodward, Okla. (August 2 over NBC.)

Announcer: "If you had your choice, you'd choose the beer that had been aged—without a moment's hesitation."—Jesse B. Savre, Stanley, Wis. (August 5 over Station KMXX.)

Announcer: "Grove's tasteless chill tonic tastes so good even children don't mind taking it."—Mrs. Joe C. Grubbs, Box 462, Houston, Tex. (July 5 over Station KGKO.)

Baseball announcer: "French throws up at the plate."—Richard Toren, 1761 Williams Ave., Norwood, Ohio. (August 8 over Station WSAI.)

Wally Butterworth to Fred MacMurray on "Vox Pop": "Can you remember the name of the very first movie in which you appeared for a dollar?"—Anne H. Jones, 1168 Union Ave., Bronx, N. Y. (August 8 over CBS.)

YOU ASKED FOR THEM

And Here They Are

ABOVE: PHIL HARRIS, as orchestra-leader of the Jack Benny program (returning Sun., Oct. 6, NBC), takes a lot of lady's-man kidding, but it's really his man-of-the-world virility that makes him a favorite of both men and women

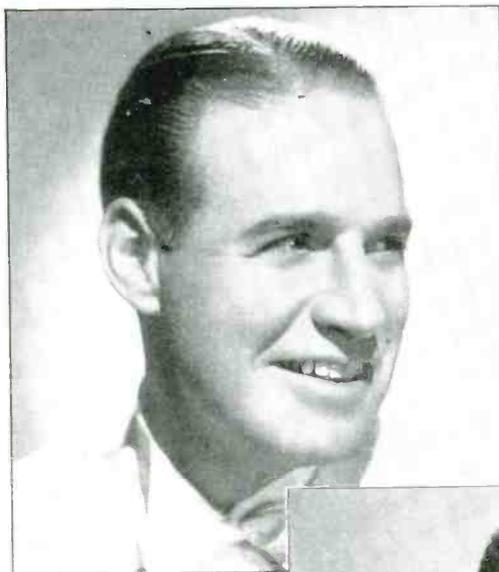

ABOVE: GUY LOMBARDO'S quiet reserve adds charm to the perennial appeal of his "Sweetest Music This Side of Heaven." The Lombardo band (Mon., CBS) is consistently rated at or near the top, and Guy's personal following is huge

Dear Sirs:

You've been publishing pictures of radio's glamour girls. Now let us see some pictures of glamorous bandleaders.

Faye, St. Louis, Mo.

LEFT: Horace Heidt (NBC, Tues. and Thurs.) possesses behind his ingratiating air personality the firm assurance of the man who has conquered odds—a spinal injury that forced him to give up college football and take up music

RIGHT: Eddy Duchin, acme of artistic polish from wavy black hair to the tips of his piano-playing fingers, is the idol of girls from Pumpkin Center to Park Avenue. He doesn't have a pick-up airing just now, will undoubtedly soon

RIGHT: Artie Shaw interests many with his artistic temperament, which has kept him an in-and-outer in health, romance and music. As far as radio is concerned, he's in at present, featured on the Burns and Allen program heard over NBC Monday night

LEFT: Orrin Tucker is verve personified. With or without Bonnie Baker, over and above his band, he's an attraction with his dashing handsomeness, magnetic stage presence and jaunty crooning. His band and Bonnie Baker are heard on the "Hit Parade" (Sat., CBS)
