October Medal of Merit Goes to the "Quiz Kids" Program

THE "Quiz Kids" are incredible youngsters, and the "Quiz Kids" program is a radio contribution that the radio audience has taken to its heart. We know because we visited the "Quiz Kids" in their natural habitat.

At the invitation of the sponsor, we attended several broadcasts to assure ourselves that no preliminary rehearsals were held and that the children had no access to the questions prior to their presentation on the air.

We visited. We snooped. We asked questions. We even made the personal acquaintance of some of the kids. In reporting our findings on the air, we called these youngsters legitimate brain-trustlings and vest-pocket prodigies who are proving that a big brain need not produce a big head.

But more important from the radio point of view, they are fitted into a program which is amusing and inspiring at the same moment. Both solemn erudition and unpredictable witticism are born in the flash of an irrepressible tongue. Definitely here is a program which is good listening.

Because it is good listening, because it brings to our homes the lift of eager voices which roll back the horizon of our knowledge, and because it is teaching all parents a new respect for their own children, we name the "Quiz Kids" as broadcasting's best new program and award to it our Medal of Merit.

DRAFT DODGES are already being worked by timid young men all over America. Except in Hollywood. No star in movies or broadcasting has taken any action which would keep him from the patriotic service of his country. We are printing the picture of Jimmy Stewart because he personifies the sort of chap who might suffer most from indiscriminate drafting. Jimmy Stewart and others like him have given great pleasure to others through his pictures. To put a rifle on his shoulder would turn him into a fine fighting man, no doubt, but as a soldier he would be no better probably than a million others. On the screen he is unique. In the beginning of this national emergency, this nation certainly does not need to turn its stars into soldiers. It does need entertainers and singers and comedians who can make us forget fear and worry. "Johnny, Get Your Gun" is a good slogan, but so is "Johnny, Get Your Grease-Paint." Unofficial Washington says there will be no draft of stars. Let's make it official. To the tune of "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, the Boys Are Making Patriotic, Morale-Building Pictures."

THAT SMELLY DECISION in Chicago not to permit the showing of "Pastor Hall" has been reversed. The official K. O. has been turned into an O. K. Mayor Kelly, who keeps an ear everlastingly close to the political ground, heard the rumblings of protest over his police censor's decision. He called a meeting and gave "Pastor Hall" a clean bill of health. Stick another feather in the cap of the free press. Movie-Radio Guide was one of the publications which protested. The public was informed and the public raised hell. So "Pastor Hall," which was a picture too dangerous for Chicagoans to view, gets off the official carpet and on the screen. We congratulate the press and the public both.

WYTHE WILLIAMS' WAR should be an entertaining one. It is to be fought around a round-table, according to rumor. President Roosevelt has asked him to inform the American people of the progress of defense preparations through talks which will be presented over the networks. Early reports have Wythe and his talkers scheduled for a ninety-minute show each Sunday night. We don't believe it. No American, however interested, will listen to ninety minutes of talk without being tied down. This program has been called "official," and if the ninety-minutes-of-talk rumor is true, the show is already damned with the fault of most "official" broadcasts. It will be deadly dull, and nobody will listen to it.

America wants a good show on its radio. England wanted the same thing and, when the war started, told the British Broadcasting Corporation so. But the British broadcast a lot of "official" stuff until public protests brought back entertainment.

Mr. Williams is a showman and a newspaperman. We are an audience hungry for reassurance and information. His program should fill a vital need in our lives. But let him remember that he must be entertaining and not too educational, and that the flies are thickest where the honey is sweetest.

THE GIRL ON THE COVER: Sign of the passing time in Hollywood is the growing up of Judy Garland, who can be seen almost any night jitterbugging with Dave Rose, ex-husband of Martha Raye. Most Hollywoodites remember Judy as the twelve-year-old who walked onto the M-G-M lot one day—it seems only yesterday—and told them she was an actress looking for a job. Her father, a former vaudevillian, was operating a theater in Los Angeles, and an assistant casting-director jokingly ran off a test of the youngster because he knew her dad.

When Judy finished doing her stuff, however, executives agreed that she was an actress and gave her a job forthwith. Judy has been an important fixture at M-G-M ever since, starting in a short subject and progressing to a point where she was co-billed with Mickey Rooney. In "Strike Up the Band," the latest Garland-

Judy Garland

Rooney film, she makes the scene-stealing Rooney work hard to keep up with her. Judy also became a top radio songstress with Bob Hope. Her real name is Judy Gumm. George Jessel gave her the Garland when she was appearing with him in Chicago in vaudeville. Baseball, riding, swimming and golf are her favorite sports. Dancing and singing are her favorite recreations. Chocolate cake and ice cream are her favorite foods. Show people are her favorite kind of people. Natural-color photo is by Eddie Cronenweth. —C. M.

The STUBBORN REBEL

A sore throat got Margaret Sullivan her first stage job; good acting won her stardom in a Hollywood she hated

By James Street

A HOLLYWOOD-HATER, rebellious Maggie Sullivan has, nevertheless, made a good thing of her Hollywood career. She carefully hand-picks her roles, has never had a poor one gie—showed talent for dancing at the age of three. At nine she began a siege of private schools and wound up at Hollin's College. Her streak of rebellion, or stubbornness, cropped out when she was young, and she took a particular delight in going against the eddies. In a school play called "Bab, a Sub-Deb," she jumped her lines during the performance and took the opportunity to pillory her classmates. Really, it wasn't quite sporting. Something like shooting quail on the ground. A role is a trust and shouldn't be violated. In 1928, over the protest of her people, she went to Boston, worked in a book store, refused to accept money from home, and joined the University Players to do a stretch down on Cape Cod. She was paid eight dollars a week. Jimmy Stewart and Hank Fonda were in the cast.

AFTER a year or so of priming, the Shuberts offered her a job. She was suffering from laryngitis but read her lines.

A sympathetic listener in Shubert's office asked, "Sore throat?"

"Sore throat, nothing," the boss said. "That's an Ethel Barrymore voice. Lady, you're hired."

Miss Sullivan went out and walked in the rain to keep her Barrymore voice. Her voice, however, couldn't save the show she was in, and she really didn't click until she worked in "Chrysalis" and "Dinner at Eight."

She married Henry Fonda on Christmas Day, 1931. They parted less than a year later.

Hollywood bid for her in 1933, but she said she was not interested. Hollywood persisted to the tune of about $1,250 a week. Miss Sullivan broke under the strain of persistence. Hollywood objected to her pet mole and she had it removed. Out west to make "Only Yesterday," she memorized her part only to discover the labor was lost. Somebody should have told her not to memorize her part, or she should have known it. Movie lines are changed on the spur of the moment to fit conditions. Anyway, it upset Miss Sullivan.

John M. Stahl, her director, made fourteen tests of her with ten different cameramen before the picture started. Her nerves blew up. They were trying to make her beautiful and she thought she wasn't beautiful. They told her to relax while they shouted orders and fussed over her. Miss Sullivan has the temperament of a piano-player and not a piano-mover, and the giddy whirligigs of Hollywood frayed her nerves to a frazzle. On the stage, they

MISS MARGARET SULLIVAN, the Virginia rebel who often bites the hand that feeds her, says she likes her friends to be brutal. That's quite a chore, even for friends, inasmuch as a brutal friend (one of Miss Sullivan's pet expressions) must be, if the dictionary knows its stuff, inhuman, vindictive, rude and coarse.

What Miss Sullivan apparently means is that she wants her friends to tell her the truth about herself, to let the chips fall. So, as a brutal admirer, I report that Miss Sullivan used to make eight dollars a week as a legitimate actress, playing to the broad-A citizenry. Now she makes several thousand a week in Hollywood and thinks the movies dispense canned tripe and stewed corn. Perhaps a difference in eight bucks a week and several thousand a week might explain why Miss Sullivan stays in the insufferable business of making canned art for the entertainment of the flat-A masses, which include about 120,000,000 Americans and two guys in Wahoo, Nebraska, where Zanuck comes from.

Miss Sullivan says she's in the movies because they wanted her to be and not because she wanted to be. The show business is like politics in one way—no person is indispensable. I haven't heard a news report in thirty minutes and things are changing so fast that anything might have happened, but so far as I know there still is no law in this country that makes a person stay in a business she hates.

To be brutal, I'm a bit bored with folks who cuss Hollywood from A to izzard but continue to slave in the galleys and are always threatening to quit but who never make it stick.

Miss Sullivan is every inch an actress, but we do not believe her condemnation of Hollywood is an act. She says she likes frankness, so we have been frank. Sometimes she has acted like a spoiled child, but she's an actress, and I'll trudge through Connecticut snows any time to see her work.

Miss Sullivan's opinion of Hollywood is summed up in the words of Terry Randall, the stage-struck girl of "Stage Door," a part Miss Sullivan played:

"Working in the movies isn't acting. It's piece-work. You do a little piece every day and then they assemble you all together, put your voice in cans and send you all over the country."

She was born in Norfolk, Virginia, on May 16, 1911, the only daughter of Cornelius Hancock Sullivan. Being from Virginia, folks expect her to tell about the family. Miss Sullivan is too well bred to brag on blood, so I'll whack through a sprawling tree and report that the Sullivans belong and are kin to the Lees, et al. Southern and New England families are supposed to raise heck when their daughters stoop to acting for dough. Having spent most of my life in the South and the balance in New England, I've never noticed that practise, but it makes good reading. Therefore I report, quite dutifully, that Miss Sullivan's family objected to her career. One time the family saw her take off a few clothes on the stage and, politely waiting until the curtain fell, walked out in a huff.

Margaret—everybody calls her Mag-concentrate on your acting. In Hollywood, they concentrate on your face. Miss Sullavan hated it.

She got off on the wrong foot in Hollywood and several times she was on the verge of walking out on her job. Once, in the midst of production, she engaged passage to New York, but her agent persuaded her to finish her job. Some of the scenes were made twenty times and she felt it was her fault. A cameramen's strike held up production. Then one day, away from it all and trying to forget, she carelessly tossed a cigarette butt onto a highway in a government reservation and was arrested and put in jail. Her agent got her out quickly. But the cop who nabbed her had worked in her picture the day before as an extra and hadn't recognized her. He laughed about it all, and it wasn't a laughing matter. A week later a radio talk about the picture provoked her. Then she was at a neighbor's house and some man was telling about the big fish he caught. He swung out his arms to emphasize the size of the fish and clipped Maggie on the ear. She had to call a doctor and had a headache for the balance of the picture. As soon as the picture was finished, she flew to New York without seeing it.

They called her back to Hollywood and she threatened to sail to Europe, but compromised by sailing to California. She announced publicly that she hated the place. Her next job was "Little Man, What Now?"

During a breathing-spell on this job she stuck a fish-hook in her cheek and cut her right foot. The picture done, she did go to Europe, and, back home again, she returned to the stage with ex-husband Fonda.

Hollywood whistled again, however, and she went out for "The Good Fairy," and Miss Sullavan said she felt she was playing a stooge for Herbert Marshall, Frank Morgan and Reginald Owen. William Wyler directed the show and he and Miss Sullavan clashed. She walked off at least twenty-two times. Finally Wyler cracked down. "You're not going to underplay this part," he said. "You're not going to suffer silently. You're going to stand on that chalk line there and cry."

She did as she was told, but she and Wyler spat back and forth.

A week later they were married.

SOON thereafter the marriage exploded.

When Miss Sullavan first knew Leland Hayward, the agent, she is reported to have disliked him. But in 1936 they were married, and a year later their first child, Brooke, was born.

The baby put shackles around Miss Sullavan's heart and a ball and chain on her bitter tongue. Miss Sullavan has tamed down. She still will not compromise too much with Hollywood, but admits she rather likes the place and her work.

It may sound cockeyed, but the stubborn rebel is an ideal mother. They usually are. A tigress is the best mother in the world.

The Haywards have two children now. Brooke is three and Bridget is one.

Her studio, M-G-M, recently asked her a few simple questions and got a few simple answers, to wit:

Closest friends? The birds and the bees and the flowers.

—Clarence Bull

MOST EFFECTIVE Sullavan portrayal to date was as the half-Jewess in "The Mortal Storm." A grimly tragic part, she invested it with a simple realism audiences will not soon forget. Above, in a scene from that film, she is seen with James Stewart, left, and Robert Young

A FAY-LIKE QUALITY in Miss Sullavan makes wistful comedy strangely adaptable for her. It was her performance in such a part in "The Shop Around the Corner," also with James Stewart (above) that won her the more important and much-coveted role later in "The Mortal Storm"

What living person do you most admire? Leland Hayward.

Hobbies? Looking at houses.

Favorite scent? Brooke and Bridget.

Greatest ambition? To be an actress on the screen, a person off.

Occupation? Housewife.

Miss Sullavan used to ride around in an old car and wear droopy corduroy pants and a dirty shirt. She lived by herself then and refused to mix with Hollywood.

Now she and Hayward live in Brentwood, in a conservative house.

Their friends are distinctly un-Hollywood. She made more than $8,000 a week while doing "So Red the Rose" and said she didn't think anybody is worth that kind of money. She doesn't like to night-club but does enjoy fishing. She plays tennis, badminton and swims. She likes to window-shop and to look at old houses that are for sale or for rent. She has no desire for the houses, but just likes to look at empty houses.

She likes all animals except cows and hates Hollywood social events and is not very fond of motion pictures.

Miss Sullavan has never had a bad story and has never turned in a bad job. If "The Mortal Storm," which starred her, had not been anti-climactic, it could have been one of the great pictures of all time. In 1938 New York critics voted her work as the best of the year. She simply will not play in bad pictures, and now is doing Remarque's "Flotsam."

Her friends are very loyal and say she is just difficult to understand. She wants to live her own life.

However, she has a way of hurting some people, obviously without intending it. The same streak that prompted her to pillory her classmates sometimes crops out.

ONE night she met the late Lillian Tashman, and Miss Tashman introduced herself and congratulated Miss Sullavan on her latest picture.

Miss Sullavan blushed, thanked her and walked away.

Miss Tashman was amazed that Miss Sullavan didn't linger and chat, and remarked that the lady's manners might be better.

A paper commented on the incident and Miss Sullavan was upset. "What could I have done?" she asked. "If I had stayed there and talked with her all night with all those people looking at us, the most I could have meant was exactly what I said, 'Thank you.' Possibly I seemed rude and I did appreciate the compliment, only I just couldn't make conversation."

Another time she refused to sit for portraits and her contract was suspended, her salary was held up and other punishments were threatened. Miss Sullavan sat.

A friend once told her, "Stardom will mean a fortune to you in a short time."

Miss Sullavan said, "It's silly. I'm not in pictures for glory. If I give a good performance, they'll like me; if I'm bad, they'll go somewhere else."

Mr. Hayward wasn't exactly a calm guy when he married Miss Sullavan, but they both have settled down. They seem to enjoy their marriage. They spend most of their leisure time with their children, and their marriage is one of the few sane things in town. Incidentally, her husband is business manager for her two former husbands.

Each has a great deal of respect for the opinions of the other, and Miss Sullavan, who prides herself on giving yes and no answers to questions, gets a dose of her own medicine from her husband. Neither is exactly subdued, but they are quieter.

Apparently a happy marriage and children are what Miss Sullavan needed. Heavens knows she is not a glamour girl, and thank heavens for that.

A natural actress, Miss Sullavan knows when a part is bad and she refuses to play it. Therefore she hasn't a single black mark on her record as an actress. But as an individual, her record is stormy. She's an unreconstructed Democrat and is married to a dyed-in-the-wool Republican.

My grandfather, who helped her grandfather with a little chore of fighting, used to say, "Good women and good horses are headstrong and frisky. And there's nothing wrong with any skittish girl that a couple of babies can't cure." Maybe the old man was right. He was a rebel, too.

PERFECT PAIRS

—C. Kenneth Lobber

TEAMING of film and stage veteran Fredric March with film-dom's youthful newcomer, Betty Field, in Joseph Conrad's great dramatic romance, "Victory," will prove something new for movie-goers. This flaming love-story of youth and middle age is played against the colorful tropic background of the Dutch East Indies

LOVELINESS OF DEANNA DURBIN—and her singing voice—is oddly offset in "Spring Parade" by casting her opposite the comic Mischa Auer. In this gay, romantic comedy of the royal era in Austria-Hungary, the teaming of Durbin and Auer is freshly different, highly effective, completely captivating

—Eugene Robert Richee

FOR ROMANTIC PURPOSES, the movies have studiously avoided marriage except at film's end. Notable exception to that rule is the "Blondie" series, in which the romance of Penny Singleton as Blondie and Arthur Lake as Dagwood, her husband, is a perennial affair. Next "Blondie" film is "Blondie Plays Cupid"

—A. L. Schafer

BACK IN 1934, Ray Milland and Claudette Colbert played to-gether in "The Gilded Lily," and at that time Ray lost Colbert to Fred MacMurray. In the soon-to-be-released "Arise My Love," Ray and Colbert are teamed again, but this time Ray makes up for lost time in a drama set against marching legions in today's Europe

Never a Dull Moment

Here's the Hollywood nobody knows — a Jokester's Paradise

By Gladys Hall

SCRATCH an actor and you will find a practical joker. Maybe it is in the blood. Maybe it is the combination of hot sun and clear air and frantic work. It is admitted that the practical joke grows higher, wider and handsomer in the canyons and valleys around Hollywood than anywhere else in the world.

The town is loaded with boys who will give you a hot foot, girls who will give you sneeze-powder, and old men who will hire themselves out by the hour to embarrass anybody you care to name. Here is the world's only city where a practical joker can make a living out of it.

The disease touches everyone. Myrna Loy rigged up a gag with Bill Powell designed to embarrass dignified Harry Albies, propman. They were shooting "I Love You Again." Harry was going sedately about the performance of his duties as an honest workman should when a beautiful blonde snaked up to him and asked, "Pardon me, can you tell me the name of this picture?" To which Harry replied, doffing his cap, "I Love You Again." The exotic one threw her arms around Harry and cried, her voice a shiver of emotion, "Oh, Harry, I didn't know you cared!" Cute, eh?

Not only when screening do Loy and Powell behave thus in waggish wise. For a scene in "I Love You Again" Powell had to coo like a lovebird. This went on all one afternoon, as Bill had difficulty billing. The next morning Myrna sent him three cages with lovebirds in them. The tags read: "We'll teach you how to make love!"

Not only in the studios does Hollywood practise its dupes and gulls. When Carole Lombard was in bed recently with poison ivy, she pulled what can only inadequately be described as a "Lulu" on Clark, for when the big fellow arrived home one evening, from the set of "Boom Town," Carole was in her room wearing—a large, life-size mask of Joan Crawford!

WHENEVER Pat O'Brien has guests and oysters for dinner at one and the same time, he puts artificial pearls in the oyster-shells! There's nothing like it, he maintains, for pepping up the first course! Wayne Morris will tell you that he nearly drowned the other day. Wayne had a habit of taking his siesta parked on the floating air-mattress in his swimming-pool. On this nearly fateful day of which I speak, the air-mattress suddenly deflated and Wayne, with a snore and a gurgle, went down like a plummet to the bottom of the pool. Only bubbles remained to mark the spot where he had been. And I do not, of course, mean Bubbles Schinasl. Wayne doesn't know to this day or, assuming that he is reading these words, until this day that Eddie Albert's being on hand to "save" him was no mere coincidence.

Humphrey Bogart and George Raft are pals as ever were but they do dote on ribbing. One night, Georgie had a special date with his special Shearer and Bogey fixed him. Norma was dining at George's house. Bogey had his houseman drive over to Raft's, slip one of those "Bronx cheer" attachments on the exhaust pipe of George's car, which was standing out in front. When George started out with the First Lady of the Screen to attend a big premiere, he started the car and stepped on the gas. A razzberry that could be heard up where the bear and the buffalo roam filled the night. Just what Mr. Raft contributed to the subsequent sounds has been, unhappily, deleted by the censors.

In line with licentious behavior in the name of good, clean fun, the Errol Flynn set is always a perfect killer-diller. Flynn is always asking someone to smell a flower that squirts water, or to look through a telescope that leaves a black ring around the eye, or to sit on a seat that's hot. One fine and fancy day, his friends fixed him good. When he had an important love-scene to do, a sign was pinned on his, ah, fanny. It read, "This is my best feature." With touching unconsciousness, Errol turned that beautiful face of his to the camera and gave out with lyric lines. The company whooped and roared. Errol is still sleuthing about for the jocose Joe who pulled that one.

But to go back to the home again, Harold Lloyd, master mind of the rib and gag, keeps his hand in at home. Mildred (Mrs. Harold) has always had a yen to play Topsy. She is, she says, "just the type." She gave up her screen career some years ago to be Mrs. Harold, the mother of Gloria, Peggy and Harold, Jr. Nonetheless, the suppressed desire to play Topsy remained, irrepressible. On her last birthday she woke with a gleam in her eye which rapidly became a lack-luster stare. For unlike all preceding birthdays, nary a gift was spread out for her delight, no one caroled "Happy Birthday to You!" Why, so far as the household went, it might have been any old day! Pret-ty funny, thought Mildred, feeling self-pity stealing o'er her. She was just finishing her bath and dressing when Harold called her, the summons peremptory. Clad in nothing but a scrap of satin slip, Mildred ran down the hall to Harold's room. The door was flung wide and there stood—thirty grinning Negroes! After the first startled moment, Mildred, as she is affectionately called, recognized the lineaments of her lord and master and of her familiar friends under the burnt cork and frizzed top-pieces. And the party was on with Mildred as the star of the occasion, clad in her Topsy costume, which she had stowed away among her souvenirs!

Birthdays are the times when the buffoons ride around on broomsticks in harlequin Hollywood. It was Rosalind Russell's birthday on the "No Time for Comedy" set. On the morning of her birthday, Roz felt so ill she couldn't hold her dark head up. She was planning to stay at home, when Hazel, her maid, told her she had overheard the company planning a party. Roz never lets a pal down, so into the studio she came. Jimmy Stewart had hired "Sailor Vincent," formerly a battler in the navy, now a stuntman, to dress up as a baby. Baby came over to Roz, blew a little tin horn, sang "Happy Birthday to You," then went back, got the huge cake and started back toward Roz. He started to stumble. Roz' face froze with horror. When Baby got right in front of her he felt smack, face down into the cake, which was just flour-and-water dough inside. Roz' tortured tummy did nip-ups the remainder of the day.

Night-clubs hatch a hoax now and again, too, as one night when they were all dancing at Ciro's. Annie Sheridan was there with Cesar Romero, "Butch" to his pals (those were the pre-Brent days for Annie). Annie Sothern was there and, quite properly too, with Roger Pryor. Just that day, Annie Sheridan had read an article where the other Annie referred to herself as the "Scroomph" girl. Neither had ever met the other. Each udmlred the other. Their eyes crossed, in a nice way. Both grinned. "Hi, Scroomphile," said Sheridan. "Hi, Oomphie," said Sothern. So a beautiful friendship was begun. When Sothern was loaned to Warners to play in "Brother Orchid," the first day on the set she received the tired-looking orchid corsage from Sheridan. Just to make it more elegant, it was loaded with sneezing powder. The card read, "To the Scroomph Girl—wear these where they will do the most good." Then Sheridan started to work in "Torrid Zone," and Sothern, not to be outdone in the finer gestures, sent Sheridan a gorgeous cellophane-covered basket with satin bow. When the Oomph Girl opened it, it was filled with onions, garlic, chili peppers and a bottle of iron tonic. It was, "To Oomphie. Use your own judgment."

METRO-ITES are merry-makers at heart. Adrian, who dresses Garbo, Shearer, Crawford, Massey and Lamarr for pictures and gets paid for it (of all the seductive sinecures!), is always playing gags on his wardrobe workers. So one day when he had a very important fashion expert from New York out to lunch at the studio, they framed him by having a fancy salad (Adrian always eats a green salad at luncheon) made of old glazed leaves used on hats and other decorating ornaments, the whole disguised in lettuce and French dressing, served to him in the commissary. Adrian ate the salad. And to this day they don't know whether he had salads switched or whether he ate the hat-ornaments!

Mebbe there's a method to Hollywood's playful madness, for many's the time gags and gulls have put stars at their ease when frayed nerves were playing didoes with their "drammer"—like when Alice Faye, worried and nervous over her role as Lillian Russell, began to show visible signs of her strain. It was Hank Fonda, Don Ameche and Edward Arnold who cused Alice by kidding her, mercifully, throughout the life and loves of Lillian. They began by upsetting her dressing-room, tacking up ludicrous signs such as "Stop, Look and Listen!" "Bridge Out!" "Men at Work!" "Detour Here!" and other drolleries.

Finally, I must tell you the one Basil Rathbone pulled on Nigel Bruce and how it backfired on Basil. Basil found Nigel asleep one day, behind a flat, on the set of a Sherlock Holmes pitcher. He decided here was a time, divinely appointed, to apply the old hot-foot sculduggery. He inserted seven matches in Nigel's shoe without disturbing him. The matches flared furiously, no reaction. Discouraged, Basil awoke the sleeper. "I say, old boy, what does it take to wake you up?" When Nigel understood what it was all about, he bellowed with laughter. "A piece of shrapnel got into my leg during the war," he said. "It destroyed the nerve structure, I can't feel anything in that leg. You could have sawed it off with me none the wiser!"

HOLLYWOOD HEARTBEAT

SCREEN actress Binnie Barnes and the former football star, Mike Frankovich, have announced their intentions to wed early in October after a two-year courtship. While at the courthouse, Miss Barnes remarked that she had fallen in love with Mike after he criticized her bridge game at a party, so there's a tip, fellows . . . Joe Leroy Brown, son of Joe E. Brown the comedian, and Virginia Lee Newport, of Beverly Hills, who met while they were both students at the University of California at Los Angeles, were married on September 24 at the Westwood Community Church, three hundred invited guests attending . . .

Wed: Joe Leroy Brown and Virginia Newport

Unusual twosomes of the week: Fred Brisson and Rosalind Russell; Ellen Drew and Bob Preston . . . Ann Sheridan now seems definitely to have postponed her Honolulu trip, and gossips are hinting that the real reason is Georgie Brent . . . Rumors that Constance Bennett and Gilbert Roland may get together again are hot and heavy . . . Lupe Velez, the Mexican firecracker, and Big Boy Williams are having fun together . . . Brenda Joyce, who is suffering from poison oak, and Owen Ward, sporting a black eye which he received in a boxing match with a friend, have been going places lately in spite of everything.

EVENT OF THE WEEK

MOST touching and most effective of all of the events which have been arranged in Hollywood to raise money for the Red Cross was the Will Rogers Memorial Polo game and the opening of the Will Rogers ranch-house to the public on September 14.

It was one of the few affairs of this kind in which both local society and the picture colony cooperated. Carl Schurz, the general chairman, was assisted by Charles Farrell, who arranged the polo games, Liz Whitney, who arranged for "wild west" entertainment between chukkers, and Mrs. Will Rogers, widow of the late humorist, who presented cowhide-framed photographs of Rogers to members of the winning polo team.

The polo game itself was used as a springboard for the opening of the Will Rogers ranch-house, where his collection of cowboy paintings, sculpture, gifts and manuscripts was placed on public view for the first time. The house will remain open for the next three months, and all money accruing from the small fee charged for entering, as well as from the polo game, will be turned over to the Red Cross. Among patrons and patronesses were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Benny, Charles Boyer and Mrs. Boyer (Pat Paterson), the Robert Taylors and the Spencer Tracys.

Paul Muni takes a tip from the Great Profile; Tyrone Power's lawsuit reveals money troubles

Tyrone Power, defendant in a $230,000 suit recently brought against him by his former attorney-manager-guardian, Francis D. Adams, has filed a cross-complaint, stating that Adams had so badly managed his business that checks made out to the servants "bounced." He also claimed that the attorney had made huge, secret profits from enterprises financed with Power's money, demanded thirty-five thousand dollars he claims is allegedly due him from Adams.

When Tyrone's father, Tyrone Power, Sr., died in 1931, Ty lived at the Adams home and the attorney eventually became guardian of his estate. Following Power's reaching his majority in 1936, he permitted Adams to continue to manage his affairs without a written contract until February 7, 1939, when the one now in controversy was signed. Power said that Adams received, managed and disbursed all of his earnings, estimating that the amount had been close to $400,000 since 1936.

Lombard-Gable Gags

Clark Gable and Carole Lombard, continuing their merry lesson on how to be happy though married, are still pulling gags upon each other. Latest stunt was Gable's, who sent a truck carrying a large sign reading "Culver City Welcomes Carole Lombard (Mrs. Rhett Butler)" to the Pathe studio where Carole was at work. Gable's stand-in, Lou Smith, made a speech of welcome and presented Carole with a bouquet of vegetables. Carole, who once sent Gable a broken-down Ford as a valentine, another time a ham with his picture on it, is a cinch to get even.

Competition for the "Thirteen Lucky Baby Stars of 1940," a talent quest which will be a successor to the former "Wampus" selection, will be held on October 15. At that time, each girl will be given a one-minute audition to present her talents to the committee. The event is being sponsored by a screen directors' committee under Raoul Walsh. The long-abandoned "Wampus" competition launched such stars as Clara Bow, Dolores Del Rio, Janet Gaynor and Carole Lombard on the road to fame.

Betty Field, John Wayne, Harry Carey and others of the cast of Paramount's "The Shepherd of the Hills" recently found a location trip to Moon Ridge, nine thousand feet up in the San Bernardino mountains, too strenuous. Not for the cast but for the equipment. Attempting to take scenes for the picture at this altitude, a high wind rocked the camera and sound-effect equipment so seriously that work had to be halted. The entire troupe was forced to retreat nine miles down into a sheltered valley, where other scenes were taken while they waited for the wind on the mountaintop to abate.

Edward Arnold, former third vice president of the Screen Actors Guild, has been elected president of that organization, succeeding Ralph Morgan. Other officers are: George Murphy, first vice president; Paul Harvey, second vice president; Walter Abel, third vice president; Lucille Gleason, recording secretary, and Porter Hall, treasurer.

Paul Muni hasn't been taking acting lessons from John Barrymore, but he has adapted one of the veteran Thespian's tricks to his own use in 20th Century-Fox' "Hudson's Bay." During the filming of "The Great Profile," Barrymore, in order to be certain to remember his lines, read them from a blackboard. Muni, who had to sing a French song in the picture, made things easier for himself by borrowing the blackboard and putting it to use. While Barrymore used the board in practically every scene he appeared in, Muni will depend upon his memory for every scene in "Hudson's Bay" with the exception of his singing chore.

Signe Hasso, a beautiful Swedish actress imported by RKO to become that lot's next glamour girl, was brought to Hollywood some time ago and established in luxurious surroundings to await the date when she would be publicly built up and brought to the screen. Just recently the studio discovered that Miss Hasso had moved from her glamorous surroundings and had taken a simple modern apartment. Consternation reigned for a short time, because that certainly was no way for a future glamour girl to act. Then the real reason for her move came out, and those who heard her story decided that Miss Hasso had qualities even more attractive than glamour. The reason she moved: Miss Hasso's husband and child are in Sweden. Ever since she has been in this country, she has telephoned them once a week. Because these phone calls have to be routed in a roundabout way and are very expensive, she simply decided to save money on her living expenses—and spend it on telephone calls!

Arthur Lake and Penny Singleton, "Dagwood" and "Blondie" to millions of movie-goers, are now studying Spanish and rehearsing the Conga. This is for the next in the series, "Blondie Goes Latin," which the producers are Latinizing a bit to make it more effective in the South American market.

Elsie, the "oomph girl of the pastures," the Borden cow imported from the New York World's Fair to play a role in RKO's "Little Men," has completed her movie assignment and left Hollywood. What isn't generally known is that Geraldine, described as "the Jersey cow with the photogenic eyes," was in Hollywood and at work in pictures at approximately the same time. Geraldine appears with Cary Grant, Katharine Hepburn and James Stewart in "The Philadelphia Story," and as a result of her work in that picture she will be seen again, next time with Clark Gable and Hedy Lamarr in "Conrade X."

Cesar Romero, who stars in "The Cisco Kid" series at 20th Century-Fox, likes to go dancing of an evening—and it is this hobby of his which has given him a real break. On the strength of his dancing with glamour girls at the various Hollywood night-spots, which oftentimes is spectacular enough to cause other couples to leave the dance floor and watch, Romero has been set for "They Met in Rio," a musical comedy dealing with an American show troupe stranded in South America. It was rumors of Romero's dancing prowess, as well as a secret personal investigation by Darryl Zanuck, which brought Romero this opportunity.

Odds and Ends—Mostly Odds

When "Philadelphia Story" was previewed at Pomona recently, among those who filled out the audience-reaction preview cards in the lobby were Vivien Leigh and Laurence Olivier. What they said is being kept secret . . . Vera Gilmer, discovered working as a model in New York, and now back in Hollywood to be tested by Cecil B.

DeMille, used to live two blocks from 20th Century-Fox studios . . . Barbara Stanwyck and Bob Taylor have removed the "For Sale" sign from their ranch. Bob, who is taking flying lessons, is planning to make it into a private landing field . . . Gene Tierney, the stage actress recently signed by 20th Century-Fox, has a clause in her contract which forbids the studio from ordering her to have any teeth pulled . . . Errol Flynn plans to Clipper to Honolulu immediately upon completion of "Sante Fe Trail" to look after the pineapple plantation he owns there . . . Selected from a group of extras on the "Meet John Doe" set, a young lady was given the job of throwing her arms around Gary Cooper's neck and kissing him. She did the scene to everyone's satisfaction, but later demanded twenty-five dollars for doing the bit, standard pay for short scenes of this nature . . . Among the problems Paramount studios has had recently were: (1) Finding a flock of sheep that "looked like Jack Benny" for a sequence in "Love Thy Neighbor," and (2) faking the sound of elephants crashing through a forest. (It seems that elephants run so quietly that they cannot be heard, so that was one the soundman had to figure out.)

What They're Doing

Bette Davis returned from her vacation on October 1 to start work in "January Heights" at Warner Bros. . . . October 7 has been set as the starting date of Columbia's "Penny Serenade," with Cary Grant and Irene Dunne . . . John Howard, formerly of Paramount, has been signed to a term contract by Universal . . . Sylvia Sydney, in private life the wife of Luther Adler, will appear in "Carnival," with Humphrey Bogart, Eddie Albert and Joan Leslie . . . As a result of his work in "No, No, Nanette," Victor Mature is being mentioned as the lead opposite Anna Neagle in "Sunny" . . . Barbara Stanwyck, instead of Paulette Goddard as was previously announced, will be seen in "The Lady Eve," the latest Preston Sturges picture at Paramount . . . Don Ameche has been set for the starring role in a musical, "Rings on Her Fingers," which will be done in Technicolor. This follows his return to his home lot, 20th Century-Fox, after he completes "Kiss the Boys Good-Bye" for Paramount . . . Peggy Moran and Helen Parrish have been assigned to Deanna Durbin's next starrer, "Nice Girl" . . . 20th Century-Fox has announced "The Last of the Duanes" as a super-western. This is a Zane Grey story, which will be given elaborate production . . . Larry Nunn, who appeared for the first time on the screen in "Strike Up the Band," has been signed for "Babes on Broadway," which will be a sequel. Nunn, who is eleven years of age, comes to pictures from radio. He formerly was heard on the Irene Rich show . . . James Roosevelt has signed Franchot Tone and Geraldine Fitzgerald to co-star in "Martin Eden."

Fashion

MARY MARTIN wears this latest style gadget for use at cocktail parties—the cocked belt, made of red and black suede and buckling with a complete miniature bar. Bottles have stainless-steel shafts for spearing hard cures.

JANE WITHERS wears this tailored fall sports suit of red corduroy with matching accessories of a revolutionary nature. The pocketbook, shaped like an auto, is red and black patent leather. Baseball cap is of red and black felt.

GARY COOPER'S leading lady in "The Westerner" is Doris Davenport, an extra selected for the role

"The Westerner"

Cast: Gary Cooper, Walter Brennan, Doris Davenport, Fred Stone, Forest Tucker, Paul Hurst, Chill Wills, Lillian Bond, et al. A Samuel Goldwyn production, released through United Artists; directed by William Wyler, who also directed "Come and Get It."

THIS is the picture that Sam Goldwyn finished about a year ago but has withheld from the screen because of legal difficulties with his releasing corporation. Movie-goers who will be seeing "The Westerner" within the next few weeks will feel that the wait has been worth while.

A lavish-scale western, with Cooper and Walter Brennan slugging it out in every inch of footage for top acting honors, the film is absolutely unorthodox, as western pictures go—and for that reason must be cataloged as one of the most entertaining films of its type of the year.

The era the picture represents is fantastic, the motivation of the characters is for the most part unbelievable, the humor is based on such things as death and disaster, but the picture gets away with it and, therefore, by a process of logical reasoning, must be a truthful interpretation of the historical period it represents.

Basically, the story deals with the bitter warfare between cattlemen and invading homesteaders in the days when the only effective law was a speedy trigger finger. Its locale is a small cattle town, high-handedly ruled by a self-appointed judge, Roy Bean (Walter Brennan), whose admiration of actress Lily Langtry colors every ruling he hands down. Into this town (where hangings are the rule and the undertaker is a comedian) comes Cole Harden (Gary Cooper), a glib-tongued cowboy on his way to California. Accused of horse-stealing, Cooper is brought to trial before Brennan, where he meets Jane Allen Matthews (Doris Davenport), daughter of the leader of the homesteaders who are attempting to settle in the valley, despite the violence perpetrated upon them by Roy Bean's hand of cut-throat cattlemen.

Cooper again proves there is no cowboy in the world like Cooper; Walter Brennan as the unbelievable Judge Bean turns in another performance of Academy Award stature; more—much more—will be heard of Doris Davenport, a newcomer to the screen.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Louella Parsons: "... Mr. Goldwyn, who doesn't make very many pictures in the course of a year, has a winner in this one." Hollywood Reporter: "... top-flight entertainment." Variety: "Carefully made and fittingly cast, it will please the discerning..."

A Goldwyn western, a Warner biography are week's best bets

"Youth Will Be Served"

Cast: Jane Withers, Jane Darwell, Joe Brown, Jr., Elyse Knox, John Qualen, Charles Holland, et al. A 20th Century-Fox picture, produced by Lucien Hubbard; directed by Otto Brower, who also directed "Under Two Flags."

THERE'S plenty of excitement in "Youth Will Be Served."

Jane Withers, playing the role of a little swamp girl of the South, does one of her best characterizations to date and is a bit more "grown up" than previously; surprise of the picture is the singing of Charles Holland, a Negro baritone with a really fine voice, due to be rated as a new "find."

JANE WITHERS is growing up, as "Youth Will Be Served" shows

The story involves Jane's adventures in a NYA camp after her "pappy" has been sentenced for moonshining. Villainy is present in the efforts of a southern big-shot to buy up the land upon which the NYA and a neighboring CCC camp are situated. The boys and girls stage a show which softens the heart of the big-shot. Jane's "pappy" escapes from jail and helps to capture two bandits who have stolen his pay-roll—and everything ends happily.

Jane does some fine singing and dancing, carries on a puppy-love affair with Joe Brown, Jr., and scores solidly in singing "Hot Catfish 'n' Corn Dodgers," the number in which young Holland displays his talent.

This is a "growing up" picture for Jane. She can be expected to appear in more mature roles before many months pass. Incidentally, it marks the first time that a child star has lasted longer than the term of her contract. Jane's contract, like most others in Hollywood, runs for seven years with annual options. During the making of this film, Jane's option was taken up for the seventh time.

During the course of the film's making, Jane was a little sensitive about her dress. The script called for her to dress like a boy—which would have delighted her a year ago. Today Jane would change into dresses designed for her by Herschel before going to lunch in the studio.

As usual, Jane handled her part with ease, was thrown offstride only in the light love-scenes with Joe Brown, Jr.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Variety: "Ranks with the best of the Jane Withers starers." Hollywood Reporter: "What she is given a chance to do, Jane does excellently..." Los Angeles Times: "... surprise of the evening was the rich, clear tenor voice of Charles Holland..."

"The Gay Caballero"

Cast: Cesar Romero, Sheila Ryan, Robert Sterling, Chris-Pin Martin, Janet Beecher, Edmund MacDonald, Jacqueline Dalya, et al. A 20th Century-Fox production, directed by Otto Brower, who also directed "Youth Will Be Served." Associate producers, Walter Morosco and Ralph Dietrich.

CESAR ROMERO continues to improve in his role of the Cisco Kid, and in this latest of the series is more dashing, romantic and picturesque than ever before.

In "The Gay Caballero," although everyone is distinctly given to understand that the Cisco Kid is up to no good, he becomes involved in the safeguarding of an English girl (Sheila Ryan) and her father, whom he rescues from other bandits. In seeing that this couple is taken care of and that they are able to buy the ranch which they have come all the way from England to live on, he goes through many exciting situations, even to the extent of actually being captured and held as a prisoner by the local sheriff. When he hears that there is a plan for bandits to rob the Englishman of all his money, he breaks out of jail and saves them as they are being attacked.

Jacqueline Dalya, who plays the part of a Mexican maid in "The Gay Caballero," is the American-born daughter of French parents, and to date has appeared in four films—in all of which she has spoken with a strong foreign accent. Actually, she speaks flawless English.

The presence of Miss Dalya in the film was an especially important event for Chris-Pin Martin, grand Mexican comedian who plays Romero's sidekick, for the Mexican funnyman was given his first love-scene opposite her. Although the scene was comical, Chris-Pin took it very seriously. Before starting the amorous sequence, he had make-up artists completely glamorize him. His unruly mop of slick, black hair was plastered down and parted in the middle, his lips were painted, his eyelashes blackened. Martin fans will get a big bang out of his sudden turn towards the romantic.

Production of the film was halted for several weeks when Cesar Romero became ill of paratyphoid while on location at Lone Pine. He was rushed back to Hollywood to recuperate.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Hollywood Reporter: "... Dialog is banal..." Variety: "... A bang-up film for fan satisfaction..."

EDWARD G. ROBINSON (r.) and Eddie Albert talk news scoops in "A Dispatch From Reuter's"

"A Dispatch From Reuter's"

Cast: Edward G. Robinson, Edna Best, Eddie Albert, Albert Basserman, Gene Lockhart, Otto Kruger, Nigel Bruce, et al. A Warner Bros. picture, produced by Henry Blanke; directed by William Dieterle, who also directed "Dr. Ehrlich's Magic Bullet."

BECAUSE "A Dispatch From Reuter's" deals with the founding of a news service and preaches the doctrine of a free press, newspapermen everywhere will like this picture and recommend it. For that reason, the brothers Warner will have a solid hit—and a money-maker.

Not as elaborate or as effective as some of the biographical studies to come from this studio ("Pasteur" and "Zola"), "A Dispatch From Reuter's" is nevertheless a fascinating portrait of an era, and an effective characterization of a man.

The story is that of Paul Julius Reuter (Edward G. Robinson), who founded the Reuter's News Agency. The action spans thirty-two years, from 1833 to 1865, shifting from Aachen, Brussels, Paris, London, Crookshaven, New York, Washington, and back to London again. The dissemination of news progresses through special carrier, carrier pigeon, steamship and telegraph.

The two high spots of news dissemination are reporting a speech of Napoleon III in Paris almost as soon as he has given it, and the announcement in London of the assassination of Abraham Lincoln before the news has been officially received.

Through it all is the portrait of the man Reuter, a dynamically stubborn cold-fish individual with a streak of impracticality, but a man of the highest integrity and ideals.

Differing from most biographical films, "A Dispatch From Reuter's" concentrates more on action than on characterization, and the weaknesses and strength of Robinson's Reuter are observable more through the reactions of his wife (Edna Best) than through the actor's actual interpretation. Unusual casting finds Eddie Albert as his slow-witted assistant; Albert Basserman, the great German actor, in a semi-comic role.

In his second role-with-a-beard, Robinson adequately takes over the mantle of Paul Muni (who has left the lot) as Warner Bros. character actor number one.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Los Angeles News: "... the film is dignified, informative and quietly arresting." Los Angeles Times (Philip K. Scheuer): "... as excitingly factual as a bulletin from Europe and as inspiringly romantic as progress itself." Hollywood Reporter: "A beautifully done picture..." Variety: "Important, impressive, and absorbingly entertaining."

The Inside Story OF THE LINDBERGH BROADCASTS

A story for skeptics and sympathizers, for all puzzled Americans

By Francis Chase, Jr.

drawn throughout the Lindbergh address to avoid comparison. Newspaper editors and the general public asked: Why does Lindbergh break his long silence now to defend Hitler? Who wrote his speech? Who is paying him to speak, and how much? Why did Hermann Goering, Nazi Reichsmarschal, decorate Lindbergh when he was in Berlin shortly before the outbreak of war? What has happened to change this one-time epitome of virtue Americanism into the number one fifth-columnist and a twentieth-century Benedict Arnold?

But all the Lindbergh comment was not adverse. Fervently vocal and equally partisan were those who maintained that his words were words of the greatest wisdom and that, in proposing such a course, he had again proved himself our number one patriot. The strongly isolationist Chicago Tribune passionately upheld him and Lindbergh was the week-end guest of Col. Robert McCormick, the Tribune publisher, during his stay in Chicago. Other voices—large and small—joined in the defense.

It would be difficult to say who was the most muddled—those who assailed the Colonel, those who defended him, or the Colonel himself. In order to clarify the muddle and bring light to heated claims and counterclaims now being bandied about, Movie-Radio Guide has gone behind the much-mooted Lindbergh broadcast to present the cold facts to its readers.

The first Lindbergh broadcast was made late in the summer of 1939, just before the outbreak of the war in Poland. President Roosevelt had recalled Lindbergh from his self-imposed exile in England that spring to serve as advisor to the army on aircraft production. While in Washington completing his report Lindbergh—at his own request—met Fulton Lewis, Jr., MBS Washington correspondent, at a dinner in the home of William Castle, Jr., former under-secretary of state in the Hoover administration and now a Washington attorney.

DURING the dinner, Lewis, planning his vacation and busy lining up important people to substitute for him on the air, asked Lindbergh if he would care to do a broadcast. Lindbergh had never been on the air, and Lewis was himself astonished when the Colonel said, "Perhaps later I'll have something to say on my own, but not now." Lewis told him that any time he wanted to go on the air, he'd be glad to arrange it.

Late in August, Lindbergh called Lewis at his Maryland farm.

"I'm worried about the turn of events in Europe," he said, "and I believe it's time for someone to try to caution the American people not to be stampeded by propaganda if war comes."

It seemed a good idea to Lewis, and he arranged the broadcast. It was heard over all three of the major networks, and Lindbergh sounded a warning to Americans then, as he has since, against foreign entanglements. For the record, Lindbergh did not ask or receive a cent for his broadcast and he absolutely refused to accept aid from Lewis in its preparation. In fact, Lewis did not see it until lunch-time the day it was put on the air. Then, at table with Lewis and his wife, Anne Morrow Lindbergh, Lindbergh said that it might be a poor speech, but it was his own. Anne, alone, had inserted one paragraph and transposed a few words.

Having once broken the ice, Lindbergh followed this radio address with others. Progressively he became more the isolationist and opponent of British alliances and commitments, and a public feeling that Lindbergh had pro-Nazi tendencies had begun to creep into the public mind. It was after the second broadcast that Lewis, meeting Lindbergh in the Army and Navy Club in Washington, asked him if he wasn't receiving some heavy criticism.

"After all, Fulton," Lindbergh told him, "I am not on the air to increase my popularity. I don't care a hang whether the public likes me or not. I feel that the country is badly in need of some truth-telling and that as long as I can command an audience and am able to tell the truth, I can be of service to this country."

Whether you consider Col. Lindbergh a fifth-columnist or a fine patriot, you cannot afford to ignore this statement. To me it is an insight into the soul of the man which, regardless of what followed or follows in the future, marks him as one who, with deep sincerity, is following the course he feels is the best for his country, just as his father, pacifist Minnesota congressman in 1917, followed the dictates of his conscience in opposing American entry into World War I. Neither can his most bitter enemies deny that Lindbergh spoke other than the truth when he said that he was impervious to public opinion. Never has a hero soared to such heights as has the Lone Eagle with such a bitter disdain for the press in his heart.

Whether Lindbergh is actually doing a patriotic and noble deed in speaking as he does is quite another matter. After his second broadcast, ugly rumors began to circulate. The press, forgetting that Lindbergh wore decorations from many countries, remembered only that he wore one from Nazi Germany, and a hunt to find the Goebbels agent responsible for his speeches was on. Lindbergh critics learned that his friend, William Castle, Jr., on trips to England had been the guest of Nancy Astor at Cliveden. They recalled that one of Lindbergh's close Washington friends was Major Truman Smith, former military attache at the American Embassy in Germany, who also wore a medal given him by Goering with an inscription on the back which read: "To a true friend of Nazi principles." Rumor said that Castle and Smith helped Lindbergh with his speeches. There is no fact to warrant such assertions.

Then on May 19 Lindbergh made a fatal mistake in referring to a small and powerful group interested in getting America into the war. Critics were quick to leap to the conclusion that he was an anti-Semite. In that

ON SUNDAY, August 4, in Soldier Field, Chicago, a lonely and bitter hero stepped to the microphone to write a tragic addendum to a career already suffering from an overdose of tragedy and bitterness. The words Col. Charles A. Lindbergh spoke that afternoon—words which defended the course of conquest followed by Hitler and pointed a path of appeasement for Americans to follow—fell like a thunderbolt across a country awake and alert to a subversion which had felled, in quick succession, eight sovereign nations.

"There is a proverb in China," Lindbergh said, "which says that 'when the rich become too rich and the poor too poor, something happens.' When I saw the wealth of the British Empire, I felt that the rich had become too rich. When I saw the poverty of Central Europe, I felt that the poor had become too poor . . . If we refuse to consider treaties with the dominant nation of Europe, regardless of who that may be, we remove all possibility of peace . . ."

Newspapermen remembered that the German short-wave station DXB had said, "The wealthiest country in the world with the unhappiest people is fighting the poorest country in the world with the happiest people." They remembered, too, that this same German station, broadcasting to America in English, had also said, "If this abuse (expression of pro-British sentiment) keeps up, Germany can't be blamed if she takes her business elsewhere after the war. Germany will only trade with her friends."

The parallels between what Col. Lindbergh had said and what the stooges of Reich Propaganda Minister Goebbels had said were too clearly speech, heard over CBS, he said: "... powerful elements in America desire us to take part (in the war) ... They represent a small minority of the American people, but they control much of the machinery of influence and propaganda ... It is time to strike down these elements of personal profit and foreign interest."

There is a strong similarity to the Coughlin-Winrod-Jeffers school of "international Jewish bankers" propaganda in this paragraph and probably Lindbergh did mean it as a slap at the Jews. At any rate, it would have been a simple matter for him to refute such charges. To date he hasn't raised his voice to do so.

THEN on August 4 Lindbergh made his now-famous speech defending nazism in Chicago and those who had dubiously shaken their heads about Lindbergh before became passionate in their denunciations of him now. The New York newspaper PM printed the Lindbergh speech side by side with parallel statements made over German radio by Goebbels and his helpers. Criticism was widespread. His mother-in-law, Mrs. Dwight Morrow, hastened to make her position of favoring aid to Britain clear in the light of her son-in-law's stated position. So did Lindbergh's attorney, Col. Henry Breckinridge, who is also the attorney for William Castle, Jr. Mrs. Lindbergh has made no statement. Neither did she accompany her husband to Chicago. Because he has been so widely condemned as a fifth-columnist as a result of this address, it is well to look at the facts behind it.

The Chicago broadcast came from Soldier Field, where forty thousand people had assembled in the name of the Cook County Keep America Out of War Committee. This committee is of vague origin with an equally vague membership. It is headed by a Chicago attorney, W. J. Grace.

When I called upon Mr. Grace, he himself was quite vague about who composed the committee. He said that it had started as a resolution of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Chicago, and that anyone could belong to it. He said that its membership included members of the D. A. R., G. A. R., Daughters of Union Veterans, Sons of Union Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Gold Star Mothers, Patriotic League of Women, members of Father Coughlin's Social Justice party, Townsmites, et cetera. He said that the committee had no axes to grind, no political implications. Mr. Grace is himself a candidate for municipal judge in Chicago on the Republican ticket. One of the recent actions of the committee was to get its members to write a three-point letter to the Speaker of the House of Representatives calling upon Congress to (1) repudiate Roosevelt's destroyer deal, (2) allow no other deals of a like nature and defeat the conscription measure, and (3) impeach the President for his "unconstitutional" acts.

The committee's idea was to have the rally in answer to a Flag Day Association rally held in June at which Senator Pepper had urged aid to Britain as a defense measure for America. They wanted the greatest patriot they could find, so Grace wrote Lindbergh asking him if he would speak to this group of ordinary Americans with the sole purpose of keeping America out of war. Lindbergh agreed. He refused to take a cent for his appearance.

Prior to the meeting the announcer for the notorious Einheitsfront, a pro-Nazi German-American group, commanded members of the Front to go to the meeting. Whether he had prior knowledge of what Lindbergh would say that day or whether he was relying upon past performances in issuing such an order is not known. Mr. Grace said that if the fuhrer of the Einheitsfront had issued such an order and if the Einheitsfront has the three hundred thousand members claimed for it, then they disobey their fuhrer with impunity, for the total attendance fell far short of that number. Mr. Grace also said that any persons entering Soldier Field with packages were searched, their packages opened, for they had expected disturbances. There was no trouble of any sort.

What did Lindbergh say on that afternoon to cause such a furor? What did he say to his vast radio audience which caused the Nazi propaganda-distributing Germania Book Store in New York to have his speech reprinted and distributed to every person entering that store? Let's look at some actual quotations.

"There are still interests in this country and abroad who will do their utmost to draw us into the war. Against these interests we must be continuously on our guard ... No foreign nation can invade us and if we do not interfere with their affairs, none will desire to ... In the past, we have dealt with a Europe dominated by England and France. In the future, we may have to deal with a Europe dominated by Germany, and if we desire to keep America out of the war, we must take the lead in offering a plan for peace ... We have participated deeply in the intrigues of Europe and not always in the open, democratic way ..."

THESE are words familiar to all who have used the short-wave band of their radio sets to listen to Nazi broadcasters in English from Berlin. When they were taken up and repeated by Nazi propagandists here in America, we termed those Nazi propagandists fifth-columnists. On the face of his performance it is difficult to distinguish between Lindbergh and such men.

But a line can be drawn and, in all justice, it must be drawn. I cannot help but feel that Colonel Lindbergh drew that line himself when he said, "I don't care whether the public likes me or not. I feel that the country is in need of some truth-telling ... It is not so important that the paid propagandists of Goebbels and Colonel Lindbergh speak the same words. What is important is that the paid propagandists speak their lines for gold or for the patriotism they owe their fatherland. They speak such words with

TWO LINDBERGHs:
Hero of 1930 (above with Anne) becomes appeaser of 1940

their tongues in their cheeks, knowing that their propaganda is a lie and a prelude to conquest. They speak their lines as a duty to their Fuhrer.

Lindbergh, on the other hand, speaks the same lines with sincerity and a faith in his own judgment that, regardless of what befalls him, he is doing a duty to his country, America. There is still something magnificent in a man who can so fly in the face of public opinion as to preach a doctrine rejected by nine out of ten of his fellow men because he feels it is the right doctrine for them. There is also a deep tragedy about such a man who, at the very least, must be called an appeaser and the leader of America's Cliveden set ... and at the most, America's number one fifth-columnist.

Star Sparkles

● JANET BEECHER of the cast of "Dear
John," Irene Rich's dramatic series heard on Sunday nights, has played important roles in scores of motion pictures and in many radio dramas. She has been cast as the screen mother of Tyrone Power, Herbert Marshall and many others.

● A signet ring is one of the favorite souvenirs of ALBERTO SALVI, "Carnation Contented" program harpist. It was given to him years ago, in front of his home in Venice when he was playing a diminutive harp, by King Victor Emmanuel of Italy who was impressed by the young man's ability.

● Emily, MEREDITH WILLSON'S cat, has been immortalized in bronze by a sculptor friend of the NBC orchestra-leader. Emily's bronze likeness now serves as a doorstop in the Willson home. Totally ungrateful, Emily hisses at the statuette every time she passes the doorway.

● IAN KEITH, "Caesaro" in the "Thunder
Over Paradise" cast, is one of the world's few actors who don't keep press clippings. All through his brilliant career on the stage and screen he's failed to keep a single scrap of paper as a memento.

● One of the most valuable Rolls Royce cars in America is driven by newscaster Captain E. D. C. Herne. The car was a gift to him from the company when he was with them as their chief service engineer. The bumpers on his Rolls are gold-plated.

● VIRGINIA CLARK, star of "The Romance of Helen Trent," rehearses her following day's script in her own sitting-room to a group consisting of an aristocratic collie, "Toby" and a peppery little terrier, "Babe" and her three puppies "Tit," "Tat" and "Toe."

● GRACIE ALLEN plans to collaborate with William Riley Burnett, author of "High Sierra," on a booklet entitled "A Few Serious Moments." It will feature Gracie "away from radio."

● In her nine years in radio, BESS FLYNN, star of "Hilltop House," has been off the air and payroll only three weeks. In that time she has risen from an actress in a minor part in a new sketch to one of the best paid women in radio—and although she works fourteen hours a day, she still has found time to rear her family and run her home, from the supervision of her kitchen to the education of her children.

● JAMES MEIGHAN, John Tenison in "By Kathleen Norris," is a nephew of the late Thomas Meighan, idol of the silent screen.

First Families of Radio

Mother and daughter dramatize their own lives in "Myrt and Marge"

BACK in the 1920's, Mr. and Mrs. George Damerel and their daughter Donna were doing all right on the vaudeville stage. In 1931 they were so well fixed that they retired to enter the real-estate business. Then came depression and bank failures and financial distress for the Damerels. That was when Myrt got her "million-dollar idea." She turned back to the only thing she knew, created, wrote and directed a radio serial show—one of the first—which, with several novel changes, retraced the experiences of herself and daughter Donna. Almost a decade has passed, but the "Myrt and Marge" show (CBS, Monday through Friday) which she created, continues to be a favorite with serial listeners. It is the story of the careers of two show-girls in a theatrical company. Myrt, a wily veteran of ten seasons, meets and makes friends with Marge, a shy, uncertain beginner. Later, they discover that they are actually mother and daughter. Passing time brings them success beyond the fondest dreams of their tinselly vaudeville days, for they both become top-ranking radio and film stars. But Myrt is still the warm-hearted trouper of old and Marge has lost none of her youthful charm and enthusiasm. Current episodes find Myrt and Marge about to be involved in the nefarious activities of one of the backers of their latest theatrical enterprise. "Pop" Tiffingtuffer, excitable costume designer, is their most devoted friend, he is also the comic relief of "Myrt and Marge."

Player of the Year Tommy Harmon is out to make Michigan U. Team of the Year. Above: Carrying the ball

Pigskin preview

For "fifty-yard dialers": Movie-Radio Guide's expert dope on the 1940 season

By Marvin
McCarthy

TTEAM of the year: Michigan University.

Coach of the year: Clark Shaughnessy of Leland Stanford.

Football player of the year: Tommy Harmon of Michigan University.

"Forgotten Men" of the year: Chicago Maroons!

Football has come again and the Old Grad is making the most of his annual fiesta. You can hear his shouts of jubilation, his cries of magnificent prophecy, his call for "two on the 50," his challenges to a showdown in cold cash and all he's asking is "six points," his vocalizing of the song that was so sweet in the days of youth—"Alma Mater."

Forty-five million Americans are ready for football, some of them actually armed with "two on the 50." A purse of sixty million dollars is waiting to be split up by the college exchequers, and tank-car reserves of printers' ink are on hand for the season's headlines.

A tremendous battery of the nation's microphones is tuned and waiting for the big Saturday afternoons, and a host of silvery-voiced commentators is applying itself assiduously to the mastery of such tongue-twisters as Kaczorowski of Columbia, Vrhovac of Duquesne, Gurczenski of Pittsburgh, and Juralewicz of Temple.

It is kick-off time again and the captains are ready. In a moment the referee's whistle blows and we'll be off on another fall hysteria whose mass magnetism is such that he who does not see some game, hear it on the radio, or read about it in the newspaper is a lost Saturday afternoon soul, indeed.

If, at this preliminary writing, we were asked to designate the nation's football capital, we would have to write the dateline as follows: "Ann Arbor, Mich.," because it is there that the provisional gridiron government sits. It is there that Fritz Crisler, the generalissimo, polishes off maneuvers of what may be one of the great teams of a long line of Michigan champions.

Out in the Middle West an ancient football axiom is being revised. They used to say that all Michigan had was "a pass, a punt, a prayer." Today they are saying that Michigan still has its pass, plus its punt, but it also has a player of such prowess that the other teams now can have the prayer.

Tommy Harmon—there's the lad. Football's "Man of Steel." Born and reared hard by the hot blast furnaces of Gary, Indiana, Harmon went to Michigan as a little-publicized prep-school player. In one varsity season he emerged as a case-hardened, chill-stepped touchdown star. Long limbed and muscular of torso, Harmon weighs 194 pounds, but conducts this battering-ram poundage from one goal line to the other with the speed of a pony back.

Harmon—and the microphone boys should have no difficulty pronouncing that—is the name which will be broadcast from Coast to Coast—thrilling to some, definitely ominous to other listeners scattered across the continent from farthest East to remotest West. Michigan is playing that kind of schedule this year, which is one of the prime factors in the Wolverines' chances to win the quite mythical, nevertheless quite coveted and intriguing "national championship."

All-American last year, when he led the Western Conference scorers with sixty-one points and all the ground-gainers with an average of 5.84 yards per rush, Harmon will have ample opportunity to "blitzkrieg" the nation this fall. Michigan, in its title campaign, will encounter California, Michigan State, Harvard, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Minnesota, Northwestern and Ohio State. Should Michigan conquer all, no team in the country would have a more representative, or more impressive, record—and it is on just those two factors that nation-wide championships are founded.

AS WE attempt to chart some sort of course through the coming campaign, let's spin the compass for a few quick readings. We have explored the North and "discovered" Michigan and Harmon. Now, to the East, we find Cornell, the Big Red of Carl Snively, surprise team of 1939 but no surprise now. Eleven veteran seniors have returned. Snively has his man-power banked three deep at each position. He has a whirlwind spirit going, churning up inspiration in his own ranks, twisting necks on the opponents' side. And he has also one of the other "backs of the year"—Howie McCullough, who won't soon be forgotten down Columbus, Ohio, way.

McCullough and his companions in Red crime—Whit Baker, now graduated, Walt School and Walt Matuszczak—left debris in Columbus which no mere construction gang could repair when they wrecked Ohio State in one of the standout devastations of last season. How the Big Red came back from a terrific "first punch" to kayo the Buckeyes was football's saga of the decade.

Ohio State, perennially the symbol of all that is muscle and might in football, struck with terrible force in the first few plays after the kick-off. With its bruising Don Scott, Jim Strausbaugh, Jim Langhurst and Frank Zadworney running so hard they would fall forward an extra five yards when tackled, Ohio State literally pulverized the comparatively pigmy-like Cornell line. In savage thrusts of ten, fifteen and twenty yards, the Buckeye juggernaut crushed over two touchdowns within five minutes!

Workmen in the press-box sighed and prepared for "one of those afternoons" of a typical Coach Francis Schmidt score, with the Buckeyes gobbling ground in one-hundred-yard lots and the writers consuming columns of precious news space to describe the details.

Cornell was a woful team as it lined up after the second touchdown. Betting odds would have been at least twenty-five to one that it was a beaten team. What the press-box boys did not realize was that a gridiron "miracle" was on the verge of unfolding itself before their eyes. They did not realize it even when Cornell took the ball and struck back in a flash. On the first scrimmage play after the kick-off, the Big Red executed one of football's rare "perfect" plays—with every man performing his function—to crack the kid named Scholl loose for a seventy-two-yard touchdown run. The "perfect" play is a thing of beauty—a blackboard diagram come to life. Every lineman blocks his opponent, every interfeerer splits his man, and the ball carrier follows down the field the course that has been visualized for him in his coach's mind.

Such was the swift blow that Cornell dealt Ohio, and it won the ball game. All Buckeye morale vanished, the previously vicious slashes of the burly backs fizzled, the stout defense crumpled. With the confidence and deliberation of warriors who know they have the enemy in the bag, Cornell scored a second touchdown, on a pass thrown by Scholl, the very next time they took possession of the ball. Then McCullough added a third touchdown, Drahos kicked a field goal, and Cornell had won, twenty-three to fourteen.

It is only necessary to remind that eleven of the veterans of that remarkable triumph have returned to Cornell, to let the rest of the grid world know what to expect. It is not necessary to remind the Buckeyes that on October 26 they must visit Cornell to see if they can do any better away from home than they did last fall in the full view and with the full support of eighty thousand of their own fans.

A swing of our journalistic compass and we arrive way down south, in the land of the Lone Star razzle-dazzle. At College Station, Texas, we find the town a-bustle, the air charged with the tension of anticipation. Coach Homer Norton and his Texas A. and M. buckaroos are riding again!

The Texas Aggies enjoyed one of the outstanding streaks in all football a year ago. They steamrolled through an eleven-game schedule undefeated and untied. On New Year's Day they climaxed the big season by outscrambling Tulane, fourteen to thirteen, to win the Sugar Bowl game. And now, with eight of eleven regulars returning, all College Station is sworn to make one big bum out of a certain loose talker from up North who suggests "Ann Arbor, Michigan," as the magic date-line of griddom.

Once again it is the genius of a super-back that carries forward the hopes of his team for another victorious spurge. This "back of the year" is John Kimbrough, a throwback to the era of powerhouse fullbacks whose sheer drive carries him through the best plotted defenses. Kimbrough's runs are the delight of all Texas. Six feet two, weighing 220 pounds, he goes into the line for A. and M. like a Big Bertha shell at maximum velocity. Usually he hits between tackle, low and hard, scattering guards and tackles like stamped poultry. In the open, he straightens up and runs in the style of a fullback of the old school—his knees driving waist-high, his stride a buzz-saw of motion calculated to knock out cold any one man attempting to stop him alone.

We may as well follow the Aggies to the fourth and last point of our football compass—out West. There on October 12, will be played one of the key games of the season, which will test championship mettle and certify or reject them. This contest will be a head-on crash between Texas A. and M. and U. C. L. A. (University of California at Los Angeles). What happens when A. and M., pride of the South, encounters U. C. L. A., co-threat of the West with Southern California, will have important bearing on the question of who actually possesses the favored date-line in these football lands.

Last season U. C. L. A. was undefeated, though tied four times. With two great Negro backs, Kenny Washington (now graduated) and Jackie Robinson (returned chock-full of "back of the year" ambitions), U. C. L. A. dealt misery to one and all, and whimsically summed up its own season in the following well-chosen words: "We came within six feet of Rose Bowl."

And six feet it was, to the inch. In the final game of the regular season, U. C. L. A. played a scoreless tie with the Southern California behemoths, averaging 208 pounds to the linemen, 187 to the back. U. C. L. A. launched an offensive that almost got them to Rose Bowl. They came within six feet of a touchdown that would have defeated the Trojans, only to be stopped there. As the game went into the records "0 to 0," Southern Cal. got the Bowl call, due to its Pacific Coast record of no defeats and only two ties.

Out on the Pacific slopes, where football players grow like redwoods, the 1940 fight again looks like the same rivalry—Southern California vs. U. C. L. A. Howard Jones, U. S. C.'s famed "head man," won't have such monstrous men as the ones who awed Elmer Layden in last year's game at Notre Dame. Speaking for publication at conclusion of that contest, Layden said: "We (the Irish) did all right in the first half, and then something happened that I thought was an earthquake. The ground actually trembled under my feet. I heard a loud rumbling, then felt a severe shock. Opening my eyes I discovered it wasn't an earthquake . . . only Howard Jones' giants trampling down the field."

The "Jones giants" won't be so large this time, but they still won't appear anemic with their line average of 195 pounds per man and backfield average of 182. And this is the year that Jones is supposed to spring his "sleeper" quarterback on Trojan foes—Mickey Anderson, an ace sprinter who can run like Paddock and dodge like Br'er Rabbit. The story is that Anderson has been held under cover while U. S. C.'s noted backfield trio of Greuny Lansdell, Amby Schindler and Doyle Nave was serving out its time. Now, with these three gone and his own green light flashed on, Anderson is supposed to go.

Because Jones is well known for coming up with what he needs from the Trojan player reservoir, Southern California is being accorded an edge over U. C. L. A. in the Pacific Coast "futures," and that completes the swing of the compass with these first readings:

North—Michigan.

South—Texas A. and M.

West—Southern California.

East—Cornell.

FURTHER, it completes the first survey of "backs of the year," all deserving young fellows who should be the delight of announcers, because there's nothing difficult about getting these names right: Harmon of Michigan, Kimbrough of Texas A. and M., Anderson of Southern California, and McCullough of Cornell. And it is not difficult, either, to envision exactly those four as the ultimate all-American backfield of 1940.

Football is a game in which anything can happen and about everything does, which is reason No. 1 why a sporting nation loves it so. Always there is the probability that the underdog will rise and prove himself underrated by smacking down the chosen teams of the "experts." Such a sensation was the uprising of the 1939 Iowa Hawkeyes, who took a sound drubbing from Michigan, 27-7 (four touchdowns by Harmon!) early in the season, then went on behind the leadership of Nile Kinnick to establish themselves as the "miracle" team of the year.

And just such a sensation may be provided this time by Stanford, which won only one game in 1939 but is in a beautiful spot to command nationwide attention by performing a comeback behind its new coach, Clark Shaughnessy. All football has its fingers crossed in the hopes that Shaughnessy, who for five years has been a "lost coach," can refind himself out West. As mentor of the Chicago Maroons, Shaughnessy lived through a football nightmare, starved for material, hand-

EFFECTIVE immediately, you're going to hear a great many brand-new tunes on the airwaves mixed up with a lot of old songs which come under the category of "Public Domain" numbers. NBC has issued orders that all orchestras broadcasting on non-commercial programs must play at least three times in the above-mentioned category. Because of the broadcasting industry's battle with ASCAP which seems to be getting nowhere fast, their own music-publishing firm, Broadcast Music, Incorporated, is determined to have the public thoroughly familiarized with their new tunes by the first of the year when their contract with ASCAP expires. That's why such songs as "Practice Makes Perfect," "Same Old Story," "I Give You My Word" and other BMI tunes have been heard over the airwaves so many times in past weeks. If they don't come to terms, all current band-theme songs will have to be discarded, and orchestra-leaders are being urged to arrange for new themes to be used after the first of the year.

Bandnote

Orrin Tucker's band and Bonnie Baker were dropped from the "Hit Parade" show because it cost the sponsor an additional $1,500 per broadcast to cut them into the program from San Francisco. Vincent Lopez is making trouble for his former vocalist, Betty Hutton. He's brought suit against the gal for money he claims she owes him and to restrain her from using the Hutton name, which he states belongs to him because he "discovered" Betty and her sister Marlon. I'm just wondering out loud if there isn't a personal reason behind all this. . . . When Jack Tea-garden left Paul Whiteman to form a band of his own, brother Charley promised that some day he would join up with him. He kept his promise a couple of weeks ago and brothers T are now working together. . . . While on the subject of band brothers, here's an interesting note. Bandleaders Glen Garr and Guy Lombardo have this in common: They were born under same sign of the zodiac, have "sweet" bands, neither uses a girl vocalist and they each have three brothers playing in their bands.

When Artie Shaw opened at the Palace Hotel in San Francisco recently, he introduced five members of his band whom he called the "Gramercy Five." You will see the quintet in Artie's new movie, "Second Chorus." From what I hear they're pretty hot stuff and I just learned that they signed a contract with Victor to make recordings. . . . By the way, Jack Jenny has disbanded his band and joined Artie Shaw. . . . Don Huston, vocalist with the Lou Breese band, left the outfit to organize a crew of his own.

Freddy Martin has signed to do a musical short for Warner Bros. . . . Sammy Kaye and his bandmen voted to take a much-needed vacation before opening at the Hotel Commodore in New York, thus canceling some attractive offers. They've been on the road all summer and are entitled to a rest.

Eddy Duchin is surprising his friends these days by his doubling from his piano to the saxophone. He's been taking sax lessons without telling anyone about it.

Bookings

Guy Lombardo and his crew are playing once more at their old stamping grounds, the Hotel Roosevelt in New York. . . . Raymond Scott's recent Chicago appearance made a big hit with the Windy City steppers, so he'll come back after his current engagement at the Chase Hotel in St. Louis, but this time he'll play at the famous Blackhawk in Chicago. . . . Handsome Ted Straeter, choirmaster on the "Kate Smith Hour," takes his band into the swank Hotel Pierre in New York November 1. . . . Hal Kemp follows Clyde Lucas into the Coconut Grove in Los Angeles on November 22. . . . Henry "Hot Lips" Busse is making music at the Casa Manana in Culver City, Los Angeles.

Singals

Edith Hendrick, a vivacious young lady from Arkansas who has been a staff vocalist in the Chicago studios of CBS, is now the regular female warbler with Ray Noble's band. . . . Anita Boyers, recently with Leo Reisman and before that with Tommy Dorsey, is now singing with the Artie Shaw band. . . . Sammy Kaye finally weakened and has hired a gal to sing with the band for the first time. Her name is Louise Lorraine, a Canadian lass.

Discussions

WAYNE KING—"I'm Waiting for Ships That Never Come In" and "Some of Your Sweetness" (Victor 26749)—

Two tunes in the Wayne King manner, which means they are medium low. Wayne appears as vocalist on the top side; on the reverse he demonstrates with his fained alto sax.

ALEC TEMPLETON—"Vocal Impressions" and "Caprice in Old Style" (Columbia 35723)—If you like satire, then in listening to "Vocal Impressions" you're bound to like Alec's version of a Russian ballad and an English ballad singer rendering typical selections. "Caprice in Old Style" reveals the blind pianist's amazing piano technique.

TOMMY DORSEY—"We Three" (Victor 26747)—A new tune by Robertson, Cogane and Meysels, which Tommy plays in a soft, sweet manner. His famous trombone is heard leading the first chorus, over low-keyed clarinets. Frank Sinatra, Tommy's singer, voices the lyrics against a background of brass. Reverse: "Tell Me at Midnight."

EDDY DUCHIN—"Our Love Affair" (Columbia 35724)—A tune from the newly released film musical, "Strike Up the Band." Duchin's arrangement of this strictly "pop" tune is one that gives it distinction. Vocal chorus is sung by June Robbins and John Drake, who make listening to them a pleasure.

Recordmended

Larry Clinton's swinging of "Dig Me Honey" (Bluebird B-10868); Orrin Tucker and (oh, yes) Bonnie Baker's smoothie of "I Love Ya" (Columbia 35722); Count Basie's album of piano solos, with guitar, bass and drums (includes "Hoogie Woogie," "Hey Lawdy Mamma," "Dupree Blues" and others—Decca album No. A-152); Mary Small's great vocalization of that favorite, "Some of These Days" (Decca 5704). Last but not least, Gene Krupa's thrilling swing arrangement of "Rhum-booogie" (Okeh 5788).

WYTHE WILLIAMS AND JOHANNES STEEL are among the commentators starting a new magazine, Treason, Inc., to expose Nazi un-American activities. Williams was recently asked by President Roosevelt to head a group of war commentators to handle a radio series on national defense.

MOST dramatic broadcast of the week was Edward R. Murrow's report from London the night his CBS offices were bombed. In a trembling voice that, at one point, broke into sobs, he reported the hell that is war. "Five times in ten blocks I've gone flat on the pavement," he said. "The individual's reaction to the sound of falling bombs cannot be described. That moan of stark terror and suspense cannot be encompassed by words." It's lucky, he told Americans, to be able to pick oneself up out of the gutter without the aid of a crutch party. That night, bombs ripped into the two top floors of the seven-story building that houses the CBS offices, forcing Murrow to seek refuge in borrowed rooms. "The extent of the damage to our building can't be ascertained until we're able to enter the building, and we can't do that until the surveyors have checked the remains and decided whether the rest of it is likely to fall," he reported.

"Injuries Unserious"

Further news regarding John Steele's injuries came this week in the form of this cable to MBS: "Injuries un-serious. Nose and forehead cut, and some shock. Okay after day's rest. Will try to continue live broadcast but warn may prove impossible reach studio during night raids when traffic stopped. Am thinking not of danger so much as possibility of letting you down. Of course conditions may improve any time." Steele's injuries were from flying shrapnel.

Walter O'Keefe is in the employment of the Wendell L. Willkie organization . . . Senator James M. Mead of New York put into the Congressional Record a description Edwin Hill gave over the air of the beauties of New York State for which taxpayers must pay approximately $200 . . . Raymond Gram Swing will go on the British Broadcasting Corporation network one Saturday each month until 1941 to inform the English of American activi-

With Those Who Sing

Lucille Manners was made official soloist for the 1940 American Legion National Convention in Boston . . . The fight between the Guild of Musical Artists, headed by Lawrence Tibbett, and the American Federation of Musicians has brought out the true salary figures of top-flight singers. Lily Pons gets $5,000; John Charles Thomas, $4,000; Helen Jepson, $3,000. All others were below $2,500. And that is per week or per concert. Tibbett, by the way, will be out of circulation this fall because of a throat ailment. It will cost him $50,000 in fees . . . Now it appears that Bing Crosby will be back on KMH sometime in November after all. At first there was doubt because Crosby is worried about what will happen if the networks do not renew contracts with ASCAP, the composers' union, which will mean many of his choice songs will be ruled off the air . . . Kate Smith says she will sing "God Bless America" on all of her Friday night shows for the third season.

Eddie Cantor gets ten thousand dollars weekly to put on his show. He pays the others in his cast . . . Jack Benny made a quick trip east to see some shows . . . Oscar Levant is receiving movie offers after his success in "Rhythm on the River" . . . Mary Margaret McBride gave a party in the Waldorf-Astoria to say good-by to her WOR program and hello to her new network show which goes on CBS October 7. Among her guests was L. Mitchell White, editor of the Mexico, Mo., Ledger, her first boss . . . We didn't hear it, so we can't vouch for its truth, but someone tells us that Ted Husing, in reporting recent tennis matches on CBS, said: "I don't mean that literally, I mean it actually."

I'M SURE you've been listening when a political speech ran short or something went wrong with a remote pick-up, and you heard the interim filled by piano or organ music. You probably didn't realize—neither did I—how much work and organization is behind these occasional few minutes of fill-in entertainment. I dropped in the other night at NBC's studio 11, called a "stand-by" studio. There June Lyon and Jerry Marlowe, popular piano team, were on duty, as they are many hours each week, just because of the remote possibility that a few minutes of fill-in music might be required.

They showed me how they get their cue to go on the air by the flashing on of a white light, their signal to keep playing as long as the light is on. They played for me intricate arrangements, which they write themselves, of all kinds of music from barrel-house to Beethoven. They love to play, and say, you can't appreciate the artistry of this young team unless you see their fingers fly! And they told me some interesting anecdotes about their stand-by experience—how the directors as a gag let June Lyon toll through a tense half-hour her first time filling in, when she had actually been on the air only a minute and a half; how Jerry Marlowe once followed a senator's speech with "You Leave Me Breathless," leaving the senator speechless.

BECAUSE of the fine reception given Gale Page and Jim Ameche on the summer Woodbury "Hollywood Playhouse," they have been re-signed for an additional thirteen weeks. New series will offer an original drama each week. Gale will sing on the show (and perhaps Jim will, too) . . . For several weeks (until actual registration begins) the Barbour's of "One Man's Family" will talk about the draft as it may affect them. Movie Angles . . . on Radio Personalities

Lum and Abner's first picture, "Dreaming Out Loud," packed the six-hundred-seat theater at Mena, Arkansas, six times in one day, when the picture was premiered there. There is such a demand for the film that one distributor has booked it solidly for 140 theaters . . . Bob Hope emceed all ceremonies at the premiere of "Knute Rockne—All-American" at South Bend on October 4. Hope was part of a Hollywood delegation which included Pat O'Brien, Gale Page, Donald Crisp and Ronald Reagan, from the picture, as well as James Cagney . . . Ken Niles, who announces Kay Kyser's "College of Musical Knowledge," has been assigned to appear in Kyser's picture "You'll Find Out." Role calls for him to do one line of dialog, introducing Kyser as he has dozens of times on regular broadcasts. Said Niles: "I've been yelling the line every Wednesday for nearly five months—so this is one time I'm well rehearsed!"

Purely Personal

Walter White, Jr., has had his guest book, which is filled with autographed comments of those who have appeared on "Nobody's Children," insured for twenty-five thousand dollars . . . The Victor Hugo has instituted Radio Nights on Wednesdays, giving radio performers an opportunity to entertain in a manner similar to that accorded movie stars on Sunday nights. Don Wilson, of the Jack Benny troupe acted as master of ceremonies of the first show . . . Arch Oboler, who broke

This Must Be Fome

When Bob Burns, the bazooka-blower of the Crosby show, visited the Pomona County Fair he fell for a barker's spiel and entered a tent to see a fire-eater advertised by the speller as the Fair's biggest attraction. Burns was no sooner in the tent than the barker changed his sales talk, shouting: "Step up, ladies and gentlemen, and see the biggest attraction at this Fair—the man eating fire—and also that great motion-picture and radio comedian, Bob Burns!" (He raised the price from ten to twenty cents, too!) . . . The village of Big Town, Alaska (population ninety-four), invited Edward G. Robinson, star of radio's "Big Town," to be guest of honor on the occasion of its Old Home Day celebration Saturday, October 19, offering to buy him a round-trip plane ticket to Nome, Alaska. Opening of the "Big Town" radio season October 9 prevented Robinson from accepting.

Rom-antics

Phil Harris was described as a "penny-pinching, career-engrossed husband" by his wife (formerly known as Marcia Ralston on the stage) when she obtained an uncontested divorce on September 18 . . . Bandleader Garwood Van has found his way backstage at the Earl Carroll Theater and is dating Myrna Dell, one of the cuter cuties . . . Mary ("Good News") Martin and hubby Dick Halliday are honeymooning on a chartered yacht, Mary returning to Hollywood each week for her broadcast . . . Martha Scott and Carlton Alsop, producer of her radio series, "The Adventures of Alice Blair," were married in New York on September 16 . . . Bonnie King, of the Bob Crosby band, and Wilfred Wehrle, the golfer, will bear watching.

Toglines

Arthur Lake (Dagwood in the "Blondie" broadcasts and films) is preparing to enter his fifty-eight-foot racing schooner, "The Sea Hawk," in races scheduled for fall and winter off the California coast . . . Which reminds that Dick Powell and Ken Niles, "Kay Kyser College" announcer, have formed a two-man sailing-race team; one week they sail Niles' boat and the next week repair the workout to Powell's schooner . . . The name of the mythical girl friend who has been threatening (on the air) to sue George Burns for failure to engage her as his partner, was selected carefully from double-talk vocabulary so as to avoid any similarity to the name of anyone living and listening: it is spelled Tralafas . . . Some statistics: 332,446 tourists paid fees to visit the CBS Hollywood studios in seven months.

Daughter" . . . Sunda Love, formerly star of "Stepmother," is back on the air as Miss Bennett in "Bachelor's Children" and Adele Carmody in "Right to Happiness" . . . Davy Marlin, baby of the "Mary Marlin" sketch, has finally grown up enough that a real boy, Jerry Spellman, can play the part as a successor to the girl-voices of Loretta Poynton, Dolores Gillen and Patti Willis . . . Arthur Peterson, star of "Guiding Light," has a gleam in his eyes from a new little ray of sunshine named Paul Warren, the Petersons' first child . . . Connie O'good, CBS actress, has announced her engagement to Irving Bennett, New York banker. She'll become Connie Bennett this fall.

Fran Allison has joined the CBS Chicago staff to sing on regular network musical shows with the same contralto voice, but Fran has a slightly different face. Some years ago an automobile-accident injury left a bad scar on her forehead. Dr. Milton Adams, a well-known Memphis surgeon who had long been a Fran-fan, was in Chicago visiting when Fran was singing on "Breakfast Club." He met her at a broadcast, offered to do a plastic-surgery operation on her forehead. Recently the singer took Dr. Adams up on his offer, with very satisfactory results. Fran will star especially on a new two-hour Saturday afternoon show, starting this week.

O'Malley's Gog Backfires

Pat O'Malley for once was embarrassed. He was telling a pre-program joke to the studio audience at a recent "Alec Templeton Time" show. Announcer Fort Pearson stood behind him and motioned the audience not to laugh or applaud. When Pat finished there wasn't a ripple. His naturally rudely face and neck flushed at least three shades deeper. He thought everybody had missed the point. Pat is an irrepressible clown and heckler and he gets heckled plenty by Noble, Pearson, the musicians, even Alec. They're all good sports and have a lot of fun.

A Glorious End

While Charles Laughton, distinguished motion-picture actor, was here rehearsing for a recent appearance on an MBS program, he received news that a huge Nazi Junkers "88" bomber had fallen on his London home and done severe damage when British anti-aircraft downed the plane. Said Laughton: "To — with the house, if they can bring down the bombers. It was a glorious end for the house."

On Short Waves

Programs from foreign countries subject to change without notice

AUSTRALIAN RADIO SUPPORTS THE EMPIRE

GREAT BRITAIN'S cause is being vigorously supported by the radio voice of her great colonial ally—Australia. The Department of Information of the Australian Broadcasting Commission at Sydney is now broadcasting ten different short-wave transmissions daily. Each is directed to some specific corner of the world by means of a directional antenna. The broadcasts to North America can be heard with excellent signal strength these days, since reception of Australia in the United States and Canada is most favorable near the autumnal and vernal equinoxes.

The Sydney station can be easily located by means of the constant tone note which is sounded in its channel for ten or fifteen minutes prior to the opening of each broadcast. Let us suppose you have tuned in VLQ5 (9.68)—at the high-frequency end of the 31-meter band—at approximately 6:20 a.m. or just before the start of the early-morning broadcast to eastern North America. At 6:24 a.m. the tone goes off, then complete silence until 6:25 a.m., when you hear these words, "Hello, America, this is Australia calling." Don't be startled by the weird call of the kookaburra bird which then bursts forth from your loudspeaker. (There is no other sound like the call of the kookaburra—the chattering of a monkey, the howl of a hyena and the crowing of a rooster all mixed together.) After station announcements and a short recording, the English news bulletin is read at 6:30 a.m. This is followed by a brief commentary on the news, and the balance of the program consists of musical selections. After station identification, the broadcast concludes at 7 a.m. CST. All other transmissions follow this same general formula. Reception reports are welcome and should be addressed to the Australian Broadcasting Commission, Sydney, N.S.W., Australia.

The complete list of all short-wave transmissions from the Empire station at Sydney follows (all time is Central Standard):

TRANSMISSION 1. 4:55 to 5:30 a.m. to New Caledonia and French Oceania, over VLQ (9.615).
TRANSMISSION 2. 5:40 to 6:15 a.m. to North and East Asia, over VLQ (9.615).
TRANSMISSION 3. 6:25 to 7 a.m. to Eastern North America, over VLQ5 (9.68); News in English at 6:30 a.m.
TRANSMISSION 4. 7:10 to 7:45 a.m. to South-East Asia.
TRANSMISSION 5. 9:25 to 10 a.m. to Western North America, over VLQ5 (9.68); News in English at 9:30 a.m.
TRANSMISSION 6. 10:55 to 11:30 a.m. to South Africa, over VLW4 (9.635). Perth, West Australia.
TRANSMISSION 7. 11:55 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. to Southern Europe, over VLQ3 (11.87).
TRANSMISSION 8. 1:30 to 3 p.m. to Northern Europe, over VLQ7 (11.88).
TRANSMISSION 9. 5:10 to 6 p.m. to Eastern North America, over VLQ3 (15.315); News in English at 5:15 p.m.
TRANSMISSION 10. 11:55 p.m. to 12:45 a.m. to Western North America, over VLQ8 (17.80); News in English at 12 mid.; talk in English at 12:20 a.m. CST.

On Sundays, at the conclusion of each transmission, details will be given of the talks which are to be broadcast in that transmission during the following week. Any changes in this program of transmissions will be announced on Sundays.

IMPORTANT CHANGES IN LONDON SHORT-WAVE TRANSMISSIONS. On Sunday, October 6, extensive changes will be made in the daily transmissions of the Empire station at London. The new schedule of broadcasts will be as follows: Pacific transmission, 12:10 to 4:15 a.m.; First Central transmission, 4:40 to 10:45 a.m.; Second Central transmission, 10:55 a.m. to 4:25 p.m., and NORTH AMERICAN TRANSMISSION, 4:42 to 10:35 p.m. CST. The frequencies GSO (11.75) and GSC (9.58) will be directed to North America. GSA (6.05) will be in use from 8:30 to 10:35 p.m. only. English news bulletins will be broadcast at 4:45, 7, 7:45 and 10:30 p.m. CST.

THE INDO-CHINA SITUATION: For first-hand English news bulletins from those countries concerned in the critical Indo-China situation, tune for: JAPAN—at 11:03 p.m. over JZJ (11.80); 6:30 a.m. over JZJ (11.80) or JZK (15.16); 7:15 p.m. over JLS2 (17.845). CHINA—at 8 a.m. over XGOV (9.625); at 6:20 and 7:30 p.m. over XGOX (15.19). INDO-CHINA—at 9:30 a.m. over "Radio Saigon" (11.78). THAILAND—at 7:50 a.m. (except Mondays) over HSP5 (11.715). These stations will be received best along the western coast of the United States and Canada.

 12:55 a.m.—New York City—Philadelphia—News (English): WCBX (16.21) WCAB (6.06).

PARAMARIBO, DUTCH GUIANA, ON THE AIR: Tune for the new Paramaribo station which is broadcasting to North America daily from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. CST, on a frequency of 11.383. An English announcement such as the following is repeated several times during the course of the broadcast: "Hello, listeners in the United States; hello, all good Dutch citizens in the United States; hello, NBC, New York. This is Paramaribo testing on 26.36 meters. We would appreciate any report on reception from any listener anywhere in the world." A critical situation exists in Paramaribo, for not only is the Dutch colony of Dutch Guiana (Surinam) completely isolated following the fall of the Dutch central government, but residents of this city live in fear and trembling that at any moment thousands of convicts may break out of the nearby penal colony of Devil's Island, near Cayenne, French Guiana. According to American journalists, these prisoners are in a half-starved and desperate condition since the removal of all financial aid by the French government. These broadcasts from Paramaribo seek to foster better relations with the United States, since it is only to us that these stricken colonies can look for any aid at this time.

cuffed by his university's anti-football sentiment, punished by a he-man's schedule which he was forced to meet with boys.

The Maroons' destiny is that of football's "forgotten men," because Chicago has abolished the sport and the big stadium on the Midway now is only a monument to the dead traditions of Eckersall, McCarty, Thomas, DesJardines, Steffan, Berwanger, etc. This being the net result of President Hutelins' campaign against what he terms professionalism in collegiate football. Although Chicago had long since ceased to be a considerable factor in the national football picture, the sentimental loss of one of the Big Ten teams, together with the implied indictment against college football generally, has not been relished by footballers in general.

BUT Clark Shaughnessy no longer is a "forgotten coach." As he departed Chicago last winter and headed west toward Stanford, "Shag" told the writer:

"I'll see you again, in Rose Bowl on January 1, 1941. If I don't see you there, it will be your fault, not mine. I'll be there with my football team. I feel like a man who has just been set free."

So football is back, faster, wider-open, more exciting, and safer than ever before. Most important change in the rules since last season is designed to speed up the game—reduction of the time limit between plays from thirty to twenty-five seconds. Trend of the game's strategy continues in the direction of precision passes, frequent laterals and wider runs. Its psychology leans more and more to staking victory or defeat on daring offense. All of this contributes to a more rousing spectacle of scoring and, at the same time, a safer game.

With the ponderous, smashing style of play steadily receding, football's fatality score has attained new low levels. The last survey showed that a 48.4 percent decrease in deaths had been accomplished since the peak year of 1931, when thirty-odd boys lost their lives on America's gridirons. All-time low was reached in 1938, when the fatalities numbered only seventeen. We can thank the rule-makers, better equipment, competent coaching, and development of the "open" game.

SO THERE you have an advance peek at football season 1940. You know, of course, not to pay off on it yet. If you are a wise football fan, you know not to pay off on anything until the final gun. Football's standout characteristic is its uncertainty, its flair for producing the totally unexpected, such as what we remember as last season's odd-quirk-over-all. Iowa and Purdue were scoreless and getting nowhere. A Purdue man dropped back to punt. There came a bad pass from center, a mad scramble, and the Purdue punter was downed for a safety. The explanation: Jack Brown, the Purdue punter, was a left-footed kicker; in the moment's stress, the center forgot and made the normal pass for a right-footed kicker!

Consult MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE program listings for complete details of stations broadcasting football games this Saturday and for time at which broadcasts may be heard.

DO YOU LOOK and feel wretched when you have a cold. Lovely Francia White doesn't—and tells you why!

Help Yourself to Loveliness! Can I help you "pretty up" for the holidays? Suggest a new hair-do, or make-up, or foundation garment that will give you a poured-into-your-gown figure? Would you like our Charm Questionnaire to discover what may be wrong with your individual C. Q.?

All this (and glamour, too!) can be yours for the asking, if you will include the familiar three-cent stamp.

Address your letter to Betsy Alden, MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE, 551 Fifth Ave., New York City.

DO YOU remember Ella Wheeler Wilcox' popular jingle of a few years ago?

*It is easy enough to be pleasant
When life flows on like a song,
But the one worth while is the one who will smile
When everything goes dead wrong!*

I thought of that poem a few days ago when I had the good fortune to meet Francia White, the slim, starry-eyed soprano on the NBC "Telephone Hour," and she apologized to me for having such a bad cold! I couldn't help thinking, you see, that a girl who could remain so poised and so charming at a time when most of us feel red-eyed and irritable must be worth while indeed!

Miss Franela, however, explained it to me in this manner (though I adhere to my original statement!). It seems that in Hollywood, where she served her apprenticeship in singing, if you have an unbreakable date with the camera, you learn to look attractive, no matter how wretched you feel.

She confessed demurely that she had picked up a few ideas on the subject of how to have a cold and your good looks at the same time, and was willing to let me pass them along to the readers of MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE.

So, if you have a date with Jim or Harry and Rhinitis (that Greek again!) insists upon accompanying you, here are Francia's timely hints on how to make a smiling appearance "when everything goes dead wrong."

Betsy
Alden

The most important weapon against a feverish appearance is time. If your date is for eight o'clock, she advises you to start preparing for it at five-thirty. Take a warm, not hot, bath. Luxuriate in the tub, making certain that all windows and doors are shut to prevent drafts. Blot yourself dry, and pat lightly with toilet water. Avoid all hurried movements which might tend to stimulate circulation.

After the bath, Francia continues, pin your hair out of the way and pat a thick layer of lubricating cream over your face and neck. Remove the excess cream with cleansing tissues, allowing a thin layer to remain on the skin. Saturate two pads of cotton with an eye-lotion or witch-hazel, and place them over the eyelids. Lie down for at least twenty minutes.

Upon arising, remove the remaining cream gently, remembering not to rub or massage. Pat on an ice-cold skin tonic and blot dry. Now you're ready to apply make-up.

This is the time to experiment with that new foundation cream, says Francia, inasmuch as a scaly skin invariably accompanies a cold. Use it sparingly, however, and apply to face and neck evenly. Here are a few additional make-up tips:

1. If face is flushed, omit rouge. Otherwise, use lightly and blend carefully. Pat powder on skin and use a powder-brush to remove excess.

2. Apply eye-lotion with dropper. If your eyes are swollen, use no mascara; if not, use lightly. No shadow or vaseline on the lids, as this will only serve to emphasize their heaviness.

3. Smooth a bit of cream on your lips before applying lipstick, to counteract dryness. Blot off excess. A fresh, soft appearance is infinitely more flattering in your present condition than a lacquered finish.

4. Be sure to use an under-arm deodorant before donning your frock.

This is always an important item, but when you're feeling under par, excess perspiration makes it indispensable.

Now, concludes the pretty singer, if you'll wear a warm wrap, carry plenty of handkerchiefs, and leave the rumbas and other strenuous dances for another occasion, there's no reason why you shouldn't have a pleasant evening!

The Answer Shop

A new ensemble of cosmetic and fragrance accessories in a romantic pink theme is most appropriately dedicated pour la jeune fille. The "pink-party" perfume could quite well have been what Cinderella wore on her historic date, and the packaging of the entire line is in a gay, chic manner.

Wigwam shades for the dainty fingertips of American pale-faces! Here's a new fashion trail that might have been launched by Laughing Water. Three vibrant new shades in polish colors, to complement the Indian fashions forecast for autumn—one, a tawny, golden-tinged red; another, a rich, burnished tone to spice the fall's plums, purples and benedictine browns; and, thirdly, a vivid clear red to dramatize blacks and make you feel like a femme fatale when you wear it.

Ripe cherries have been utilized as the fashion theme for a new lipstick with matching rouge, nail polish and face powder, that has been most cleverly packaged in a three-inch sphere that is the facsimile of a mammoth ripe cherry. This new ripe-cherries ensemble is lively and luscious and contains a sufficient amount of blue in its redness to harmonize with the various fall colors.

A new amber perfume will set off your benedictine browns and make you feel like the heroine of a Bombay night. Amber is a sophisticated fragrance, particularly suited for autumn moods. You will adore it on your furs and he will adore it on you!

VOICE OF THE LISTENER

Express your opinions. Write V. O. L.,
731 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Ill.

World Is Mine

Dear V. O. L.:

I live alone on a sandy hill several miles from town. I don't have time and money for the magazines and papers I'd like to read. While I'm busy about my work, the radio brings the latest news flashes, so my eagerness for news in these trying times is satisfied.

I don't get to run around much to dances, but I do find my iron sliding gally over the board as a master of swing leads his orchestra. Sometimes, I find myself cutting a few steps as I dust. I don't have anyone singing love songs to me, but when "Jeanie With the Light Brown Hair" floats over the air, I imagine that I do.

My budget doesn't permit many shows, but I find myself tensely trying to solve the detective drama, thrilling to a weird mystery drama, or giggling at humor.

Yes, even the walls of my tiny room are pushed back and I become a world traveler. I visit the Antarctic with Byrd, the pampas of Argentina, far-away Japan, go to church in England, to opera in Rome, even visit the "starry solitudes."

Poor? No, the world is mine, at my fingertips. I know just where I want to go, for my tours are mapped by MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE.

Eugenia F. Harper, Columbus, Ga.

"Pepper" Pot-Shots

Dear V. O. L.:

I've listened to "Pepper Young's Family" for ever so long—and I think it's about time they oiled their front screen-door. It has been squeaking for ages.

What kind of house do they live in, anyhow? I've never seen an average house where the living and dining rooms have doors that can be slammed on the way out as Pepper does so often when he's mad.

Janette Yoder, East Orange, N. J.

Dear V. O. L.:

My girl friend, who lives just upstairs, is writing a letter to you picking apart "Pepper Young's Family," and I'm going to put it together again.

What if their door does squeak? Isn't there usually something like that around the house that families "just let go"? Before we moved from our house to the apartment in which we now live, the bottom post of our stair banister was loose for two years. Of course it took just a little while to fix it, but you see, it was "just let go."

And I think the slamming of doors adds emphasis. What if dining and living rooms don't have slammable doors? It's too trivial a thing to bother about; besides, they could be made that way.

Gwen Holder, East Orange, N. J.

● Girls, girls! Don't ruin a beautiful friendship with squawks about squeaks and slams and counter-slams. Those things are only make-believe sound-effects, you know.—V. O. L.

Should Be Repeated

Dear V. O. L.:

"Who You Pushin', Brother?" played on "Listener's Playhouse" August 31 was a sharp standout in radio drama. I think it should be repeated.

Ernest Wayne, Pittsburgh, Pa.

BEFORE USING MAYBELLINE

What a Difference Maybelline Makes Maybelline Solid-form Mascara in stunning gold-colored vanity, 75c. Refills 35c. Shades — Black, Brown, Blue.

Maybelline Cream-form Mascara (applied without water) comes in dainty zipper case, Black, Brown, Blue—75c.

Maybelline Smooth-marking Eyebrow Pencil in Black, Brown (and Blue for eyelid liner).

Maybelline Eye Shadow in six flattering shades, Blue, Gray, Blue-gray, Brown, Green, Violet.

Stop — Look — Compare these two pictures of the same girl. Hair, nose, mouth, complexion — exactly alike. Everything the same, except her eyes. It's easy to see what Maybelline eye make-up means. The difference between blankness and beauty. Between dullness and sparkle. Between hidden charm and instant attraction!

Don't doubt your own eyes. See what Maybelline Eye Beauty Aids can do for you. Lashes always take on this dark sweeping loveliness with Maybelline Mascara — and notice how this makes the eyes appear larger, more brilliant. Depth and color are subtly accented with Maybelline Eye Shadow — and brows are tapered so naturally with Maybelline Smooth-marking Eyebrow Pencil. Bring out the beauty of your eyes to your own thrilling satisfaction — today! You can get generous purse sizes of Maybelline Eye Beauty Aids at any 10c store.
