Sex Education Must Be Barred From Using the Air

WE ARE informed that a determined effort will be made soon to persuade broadcasters to present programs on sex education. Our parlors, in brief, may become open forums for talk about sexual irregularities. The plan's followers are sincere in their belief that bringing sex to the airwaves will solve all adolescent problems.

But they are as wrong about their method as a "Literary Digest" presidential poll. We agree that sex should be brought into the open and the hush-hush attitude abolished, but never, never on the kilocycles which ride into our homes.

Once upon a time sex education was a responsibility of the father or the mother. Frequently that responsibility was not properly discharged, but that does not alter the fact that the duty was rightfully placed. Others may believe differently, but we are still old-fashioned enough to maintain that sex education will always be a proper subject chiefly for the family circle.

That circle was first broken, remember, when educators suggested that schools could do a job at which families were failing. Let us talk about it openly, they said, and we will solve your problems. Some lazy mothers and ignorant fathers believed them and were relieved to be free of an embarrassing obligation. But has open discussion of sex problems in school solved the problem as promised? Authorities tell us conditions are as bad as ever. A typical New York high school, for instance, is said to be sending two girls each month to a home for expectant mothers.

Could a radio program, no matter how artfully contrived or how chocolate-coated, prevent that? We doubt it. We doubt that anything will prevent it except the shouldering of their proper duties by every father and every mother.

Sex education must begin at home. So far as broadcasting is concerned, it must stay there. We believe all broadcasters will join in barring such a crack-brained plan and its addle-minded advocates from the air.

RUDY VALLEE has a distinguished record. The stars he has introduced to radio are among our brightest entertainers. Recently he changed the format of his broadcast. Instead of presenting stars, he presents ideas. One significant and important one came to us in the form of a song. Written by Paul Henning, Abe Burrows and Frank Yalen, it was sung on November 21. We present the lyrics herewith.

LET'S GO TO PRESS, AMERICA
Extra! Read all about it, see what's going on in the world today.
Extra! We never doubt it, thank your stars for the press of the U. S. A.
"BOSS MARRIES STENO" ... "BATTLES RAGE"
It's there for us to read on America's front page.
Extra! I'm glad to shout it.
It's a true press, a free press, print-it-for-you-and-me press.
It's news the American way.

ODDLY, THE STARS rise to new heights on "Screen Guild Theater" where they work for others. Examples: La Dietrich, Jean Hersholt

Mr. John Q. Public, you're a lucky man indeed. When you're at the breakfast-table, think of all the facts you read.
Weather reports, the world of sports, the latest fashion creation,
Movie romance, high finance, the foreign situation,
Cheese-cake photos in the rotos, exposes of graft,
Federal expenses, national defenses, your number in the draft.

Freedom of the press, the right to print the truth and read it.
Don't give up, the Bill of Rights has guaranteed it. Extra! It's America's greatest blessing.
Extra! Let's see there's no suppressing Of news ... the American Way.

HOLLYWOOD'S HEART is the biggest in America. Proof of it, if any is needed, is the weekly "Screen Guild Theater" broadcast. We have mentioned it before, but once again we want to remind listeners that stars appearing on this program are never paid. They work for the love of their fellow men in order that funds may be available to take care of the unfortunate and aged of the acting profession.

But the "Screen Guild Theater" does more than provide for charity. It also brings to listeners a galaxy of stars who are appearing at their best. Many observers have reported the phenomenon. Players rise to new heights on this broadcast, find new ease before the mike, and give amazing performances. Perhaps it is that a great heart is so often the measure of a great talent.

GIRL ON COVER: If it hadn't been for Mary Martin's mother, the dancing-singing star who became famous as the lady whose heart belonged to daddy might have been just another school-teacher in her native Weatherford, Texas. Her father, a well-known Texas lawyer, insisted upon the teaching career. Her mother, feeling that Mary had the stuff stars are made of, insisted upon her following the dancing-singing career for which she was so adequately equipped. Mary compromised. She agreed to teach, as her father wished, but the sort of school she agreed to teach was dancing-school. And in a short time she was well established in Texas with three dancing-schools to her credit. On a visit to Hollywood, the manager of a famous night-club heard her sing, offered her a job in his club. There she was spotted by a talent-scout, who recommended her to Buddy Rogers. The next week Mary's voice was heard on the "Twin Stars" radio show. Cole Porter, hearing her on this program, engaged her for a new show, "Leave It to Me." It was this show which won her a part in "Victor Herbert," in which she co-stars with Jack Benny and Fred Allen. Color photograph by Hal McAlpin.—C. M.

LOVERS AGAIN

VIVIEN LEIGH AND LAURENCE OLIVIER are seen as screen lovers in Alexander Korda's "Lady Hamilton" for the first time since "Twenty-One Days Together." The love-story of Emma Hamilton and Lord Nelson is one of the greatest of history. Vivien Leigh, in authentically reproduced gowns and jewelry, portrays the brilliant, daring and beautiful Lady Hamilton to Laurence Olivier's characterization of the impatient hero, Lord Nelson

TWO LETTERS to Santa

Dear Santa:
Please bring me a tricycle. With a bell. I like the bell. It says I'm coming. I like to go fast.
I'd like a new dolly, too. That can talk. And sleep. When I put her to bed. And blue bow for my hair. I had one. I lost it.
And pretty pencils.
I want to see you. Mommy says I may. I am a good girl. I am three years old.

Baby Sandy
"Baby Sandy"
(Sandra Henville)

TO CHILDREN, Santa Claus is a real person. His twinkling nose, his elfin personality, his all-encompassing knowledge are as real to kids as Christmas shopping-bills are to grown-ups. To reflect the peace of mind, the assurance and happiness which are the heritage of only the very young, we have chosen Baby Sandy's letter to Santa Claus as a means of recalling to us all our happy childhood days. Baby Sandy is not quite three years old this Yuletide. She has still to meet the three R's, yet to learn the meaning of world fame, although she already has been starred in five successful motion pictures. A happy child, her two outstanding characteristics are her ready laughter and her quick "Why?" when she doesn't understand. Now that she has heard the story of Santa Claus, been shown a picture of him standing before a trimotored plane, and has been told how he is going to land on the roof of her home in a parachute, she's the most excited little girl in Hollywood. She tells everyone she meets about it. The idea of writing a letter to Santa intrigued her. She knew exactly what she wanted. She didn't question the fact that her mother was going to write the letter for her, but her blues eyes sparkled and grew as large as old-fashioned sauce-plates while she waited for her to get the pencil and paper. She thought hard for a few minutes, then dictated the letter. We reproduce it in the hope it will cause readers to think back, perhaps recapture the childhood sensation of the fitness of things that has been lost by too many people in too many lands. The wording—and the signature—are Baby Sandy's own.

ALTHOUGH Santa Claus is only a legend to grown-ups, the meaning of Christmas in its full and true sense is one which remains always. Asked what she'd like to have for Christmas, May Robson, the grand old lady of the screen, smiled softly. Her alert eyes twinkled. "Well," she chuckled, "what I'd really like is a blue hoop and a toy electric railroad with all the gadgets." Then she sat down and wrote a real letter to Santa, at MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE's request. Her letter is that of a wise and experienced woman who has worked out a philosophy of living which, in its own way, is just as simple and serene as is Baby Sandy's. But from the fullness of her seventy-seven years of kindly living and experience, Miss Robson also made concrete suggestions. She believes that children, wherever possible, should always have some kind of a Christmas—and more than ever in the world which greets a child in these times. She herself is donating to charity the money she ordinarily would have spent on holiday greeting-cards, and suggests that others who approve of her plan do the same. Said Miss Robson: "When today I hear so many voicing all the unpleasant things they consider would be the just desserts for the dictators of the Old World, I think of the small boy who listened intently to many of the same remarks about Kaiser Wilhelm during the last World War, then looked up earnestly into his father's face and said: 'Maybe you're right, Dad, but if I had my way I'd make the Kaiser a very good man!'" The world could do worse than to follow the simple wants of youth and the philosophy of age, couldn't it?

Dear Santa:
I am seventy-seven years old. This is the first letter I have written to you in almost three quarters of a century.
I have enjoyed many fine Christmases. This year, for myself, I want but one thing. That is the courage to continue my effort to be the person those who love me think I am.
For others, however, I can ask for many things:
I can ask for security for little children.
For sanity among war-mad men.
For health in a heart-sick world.
I add my feeble voice to the plea of millions.
For peace on earth, good-will toward men.

Ratoff is a

THE INCREDIBLE Ratoff's face mirrors the emotional maelstroms through which he passes

IMAGINE and Goldwyn rolled into one—and that could only be Gregory Ratoff. He behaves like Orson and talks like Sam, and since either of them is colossal by himself that makes Gregory simply incredible.

Remember "Lancer Spy"? Gregory wrote it. "Intermezzo"? Gregory directed it. "The Great Profile"? Gregory acted in it and undoubtedly would have stolen it from anybody except John Barrymore, who is no slouch at mugging, either. As it was, the point and counterpoint that went on between that pair during the making of that picture hit a new high even for Hollywood, but the foregoing are just a few of Mr. Ratoff's more recent activities. In addition to writing, directing and acting, he also does a bit of producing on the side; he has a four-way contract with 20th Century-Fox calling all those chores, and he's happiest when he's doing them all at once. Mr. Ratoff thrives on confusion and loves to have not the faintest idea where he's at.

As though Gregory's endeavors weren't enough for any one family, Mrs. Ratoff works too. She is Eugenie Leontovich, whom you may have seen as the mother in "Four Sons," which part she won from among six other top-flight character actresses who were tested for it. Her performance has already been mentioned as a possibility for an Academy Award, and Mrs. Ratoff learned her art in the same hard school as her husband. She was widely celebrated in Europe before coming to the United States in "Grand Hotel" and "Tovarich," and she and Gregory were married in 1922, when they were in separate troupes playing different towns. They arranged the ceremony in a third town, to which each came half-way, and after a week-end honeymoon they didn't see one another again for two months.

"Of course the show had to go on," grimaced Mr. Ratoff as he related the incident. "What's a marriage?" Then, with the inimitable Ratoff shrug: "Just two people's lives!"

ONE of the choicest stories ever to come out of Hollywood—and that's taking in a lot of choice stories—gives you Gregory Ratoff in a nutshell. It happened soon after he went out to the cinema coast from New York, and at that time Mr. Ratoff was most unhappy. In New York he had become something of a Broadway big-shot and so was used to a lot of adulation, but in Hollywood nobody seemed ever to have heard of him and he was left largely to himself. Hell hath no torture like leaving an actor to himself, and it wasn't long before Gregory picked up a phone and called Eugenie at their hotel.

"Hollywood doesn't like us and we don't like Hollywood," he told her in his most melancholy voice, "so we are going back to New York right away. Pack all our things and I'll meet you in the lobby. We catch the five o'clock train."

Eugenie, used to such sudden developments, obeyed instructions to the letter. At four-thirty, surrounded by piles of luggage, she was downstairs waiting. Came five o'clock, five-thirty, six o'clock and still no Gregory. At six-thirty his bulky figure came twirling blithely through the revolving door, and as he caught sight of Eugenie and the mountain of luggage he stopped short and threw his arms tragically asunder.

"So," he groaned sepulchraly in his best Hamlet style, "you're leaving me again!"

Such incidents are the rule rather than the exception with the mercurial Mr. Ratoff. His five years in Hollywood have been one emotional maelstrom after another, and not only for Mr. Ratoff but for Hollywood as well. Used as it is to temperament, Hollywood has never seen anything like Mr. Ratoff's swift changes from frolicsome gaiety to thundercloud wrath; he slithers from one to the other upon the slightest provocation like a pianist skidding from treble to bass. His favorite trick during the transition is to tear from his head the yachting cap which he inevitably wears while directing, throw it upon the stage floor and jump on it. Inasmuch as those natty caps cost ten dollars apiece a really bad day for Mr. Ratoff runs into money.

There was, for instance, the time when Mr. Ratoff was directing Lionel—not John—Barrymore in a recent picture. Lionel has put in his time on the speaking stage, too, and is conceded to be one of the best actors in Hollywood, but all that made no difference to Gregory; he always has to go through every scene for everybody, so he proceeded to show Lionel how. It was a very long scene and Mr. Ratoff made the most of it, speaking every line of dialog, acting out every gesture, giving every word and every motion all the oomph he has. When he had finished he peered down closely into Lionel's face, only to learn that the latter's eyes were closed in peaceful sleep.

That time Mr. Ratoff didn't explode.

he would give him a picture in which to do both and that would be the last of him.

Just the same, and notwithstanding all his spectacular idiosyncrasies, Gregory Ratoff is a troupier of the old tradition who yearns with all his being to make good motion pictures. He cries or he clowns, as the mood moves him, but always he is trying to give expression to the chaotic feelings that seethe in his Russian soul. It is true that he mutilates the English language second only to Sam Goldwyn, true that he's either riding a cloud or groveling in some deep abyss he's just dug for himself—because for Gregory there is no half-way point of sanity, and his volatile spirit leaps or plunges as things go right or wrong. All that is because with him creative agony is synonymous with artistic ecstasy, and he's always seeking something that is never there.

Ever since he can remember he has been trying to grasp that elusive something which remains just beyond reach. He doesn't know what it is nor why he wants it, but it has led him from the St. Petersburg Dramatic School, where he began his theatrical career in the days of the czars, half-way around the world to Hollywood.

Gregory was born in Samara, in the provinces, and went to dramatic school only after he had graduated with honors from the school of law at St. Petersburg University. Why he studied to be a lawyer he doesn't know either, since he always wanted to be an actor—although he says now that a lawyer is a man who has to act innocent when he knows his client is guilty—and when he got his first been thought of elsewhere.

The experiment was moderately successful, and from Berlin Gregory went to Vienna, which even in those post-war days was still the gay capital of the movies. From Vienna he went to Budapest, from there to Paris, and from Paris to London. There he was discovered by Lee Shubert, who brought him to New York. And in New York, for the next several years, Gregory was pretty busy appearing in some thirty-odd Shubert plays, not to mention half a dozen or so others, including "Candlelight" and "The Kibitzer," which he produced himself. While he was holding forth most dramatically in "Symphony of Six Million" Hollywood gave him the eye and a one-way plane ticket, and, with the exception of one walkout to London and British films, Gregory has been there ever since. As an actor his credits include innumerable parts, and as a director such recent successes as "Wife, Husband and Friend," "Everything Happens at Night," "I Was an Adventuress," "Hotel for Women" and "Daytime Wife."

IT WAS during Gregory's trouping days that he and Eugenie first met—as a matter of fact Gregory was taking a busman's holiday by going to the theater where Eugenie was playing, and with him, at least, it was a case of love at first sight. His courtship was typically in the Ratoff tradition; as an introduction he sent practically an entire florist's shop. Eugenie, as it happened, was about to go on a European tour and she thought the flowers were from all her admirers. Looking at the cards she saw that all bore the same name.

"That kind of made her Ratoff-conscious," grinned Gregory.

Even now, however, Eugenie's love for him and marriage to him is one of those things which Gregory can't quite believe. They adore each other—anybody would have to adore Gregory to live with him—and when he's with Eugenie he's an entirely different man. So much so that instead of getting his way by sheer weight of his own ego, which is his procedure in all other cases, he'll glance at his and his laundry bill is staggering. Particularly was this true when he was working in "The Great Profile," in which, as he said later, every scene was a duel. He and Jack Barrymore crossed their Thespian swords every time they were before the camera together, and the clash of their witticisms could be heard clear to the front office.

"That was really an engagement," sighed Gregory when the film was finished, "you know, an engagement between lovers like Hitler and Churchill. We tossed each other bouquets that went off like bombs."

Not long ago Gregory bought Eugenie a grand piano. Eugenie, of course, was very pleased at her husband's thoughtfulness, but since she plays beautifully she was a bit hurt when Gregory proudly pressed a button and the piano began to play by itself.

"Why did you buy me an electrical piano, Gregory?" she asked. "You know I like to play."

"Well, m'dear, I'll tell you," Gregory mollified her. "I know you play lovely and nobody likes to listen to you play half as much as I do. But you see," he explained, "we're up in the money and in Hollywood none of the best people play their pianos by hand."

Being an artist Mr. Ratoff can scarcely be expected to shine as a businessman as well and he most emphatically doesn't. He makes lots of money, to be sure, but he spends it so fast that he's practically always broke. Accordingly when some time ago a friend recommended a business manager, Mr. Ratoff promptly hired him. The first thing that the business manager insisted upon was that Gregory should limit his personal expenditures to a moderate allowance. Gregory promised faithfully that he would.

Came the first of the month and Mr. Ratoff handed the business manager a sheaf of mail. The latter was amazed to open it and find a flock of bills.

"But I told you that you had to stay within your allowance," he said to Gregory indignantly. "What are all these bills for?"

RATOFF

Here is the uproarious portrait of a mad Russian who thrives on confusion and chaos

BY REGINALD TAVINER

distinctly unmatinee-idol-like face and form in any convenient glass.

"I must have fascinated her," he breathes wonderingly.

Gregory took out his American citizenship papers long ago, but no papers could deprive him of his accent. He clings to that over the bridge of years because, he says, it retains his individuality. So his "whys" are "vys" and his "vegetables" are "wegetables," and his pronunciations in general are so mixed up that a casting director, recently requisitioning twenty Russians for a Cossack scene, wrote instead, "twenty Ratoffs." Central Casting knew immediately exactly what was wanted.

Whether he's actor or director, not to mention when he's both, Gregory works himself into a sweat—literally. He perspires so much that he has to change his shirt at least every hour,

"I did exactly as you told me," Gregory retorted, "I didn't spend any money. When I bought anything I just charged it."

Now the business manager, as well as Mr. Ratoff's business affairs, is in a chaotic condition.

Mr. Ratoff can no more help doing the things he does than the earth can help going around the sun. He's a man of parts, figuratively, literally and psychologically, and he never stops acting even when he's asleep. He's acting for himself as well as for Hollywood—so much so that not even Mr. Ratoff, much less his friends, knows where Gregory leaves off and the act begins or vice versa. Only Eugenie has him figured out completely.

"Gregory?" she smiled. "You've got to take him as he is—you just can't translate him from the Russian."

THIS WEEK IN HOLLYWOOD

Velez-Williams marriage is not in the stars; Sheridan feud nears end

OMPH-GIRL Ann Sheridan, still feuding with Warner Bros. over her salary, has rejected the studio's latest offer of $1,500 a week and is holding out for $2,000 and an outside picture each year. Indications are that her demands will be met. Meantime, she and George Brent are week-ending on Brent's yacht, The South Wind, and keeping calm about it all. Interesting sidelight about it is that during the shootin' Warners have signed up Ann's ex-husband, Eddie Norris, and assigned him to the leading part in "Here Comes Happiness." Also, Rita

Hayworth, who succeeded to Annie's part in "Strawberry Blonde," is now so well liked by the brothers Warner that they are negotiating with Columbia Studios for half her contract. If Columbia accedes, Rita will get the leading-lady part opposite Jimmy Cagney in Warners' "The Bride Came C. O. D."

Flu Epidemic Hits Movieland

So serious has the flu epidemic become in Hollywood that the studios are using preventative measures, and in some cases shooting scenes outside the sound-stages to combat the bug. Last week's victims included Warner Baxter, Irene Dunne, Carole Landis and Sidney Blackmer, all of whom were taken ill at work and had to be sent home for medical attention. Fay Wray, playing the part of a nurse in the next "Dr. Christian" picture, went to work with a real nurse and doctor in attendance. Eleanor Powell is another who is fighting influenza, and Mary Martin spent her birthday nursing her husband, Richard Halliday, who was bedded by the infection. The epidemic is reported to have traveled to the United States from Hawaii, where it reached serious proportions, and first made its appearance in San Diego. The flu fortunately is not the virulent form suffered by this country in 1917-18.

Events of the Week

Sixty-five guests responded to their invitations to the Frank Morgan home for the wedding November 30 of Chester Morris and Lili Kenton Barker. The ceremony was simple and fun—with comedian Morgan and leading man Morris doing their best to win laughs. Said Morgan to arriving guests, "I've been giving myself away all of these years, now I'm giving the bride away." Following the ceremony, the bridegroom fell to the floor, after kissing his comely bride, in a mock faint. Party followed downstairs in the Morgan playroom, where champagne and an orchestra enlivened the evening. Came next a delightful supper, surmounted by a three-deck wedding cake, and afterwards Morgan led a community sing with "Home on the Range" and other ditties he could recall. Among the guests were Katharine and Ralph Bellamy; Laura La Plante and Irving Asher; the bridegroom's mother, Etta Morris; and Jimmy and Billie Cagney.

The Cobina Wrights, Junior and Senior, brought New York social technique to Hollywood during the past fortnight when they gave a dinner in their Hollywood apartment in honor of piano team Jacques Fray and Mario Braggiotti. Bridge tables were covered with bright checkered cloths for cocktails and Italian food, after which guests took turns entertaining. Chef Peppino imitated Maurice Chevalier singing "Louise," and Cobina, Sr., likewise sang. Reggie Gardiner gave his rib-tickling burlesque of Stokowski conducting the Philadelphia Orchestra, and Gracie Fields sang some of her best tunes. Included in the guest list were the Edward G. Robinsons, Gloria Vanderbilt, Bob Stack and his mother, Mrs. J. Langford Stack, the Basil Rathbones, the Walter Pidgeons, Burgess Meredith, Zoe Akins, Daniel Sickles, and Elise Curtis.

Third event of the socially filled week was Rex St. Cyr's bon-voyage dinner at Ciro's for Hedda Hopper on her departure for New York for three weeks. Included at the gala dinner table were the Cobina Wrights, Count Cassini, Robert Stack and his mother.

"The Philadelphia Story"

Cast: Cary Grant, Katharine Hepburn, James Stewart, Ruth Hussey, John Howard, Roland Young, John Halliday, Mary Nash, Virginia Weidler, Henry Daniell, et al. An M-G-M picture, produced by Joseph L. Mankiewicz; directed by George Cukor, who also directed "Susan and God." Based on the play by Philip Barry.

"PHILADELPHIA STORY" is star-studded story of "main line" society

Weidler), and her uncle, "Pincher" Willie (Roland Young), are aware that she cherishes a secret torch for her first husband, but it takes much telling-off and a party at which she imbibes too much champagne in self-sympathy before she finally lets her hair down and admits that she has been wrong all along.

Miss Hepburn and Jimmy Stewart, in a scene in which he proves her "undoing" which eventually proves her regeneration, provide a love episode which has few superiors in screen history. It really is something. Likewise is the dialog, which is smart from beginning to end.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Los Angeles Times (Edwin Schallert), "It is a delightfully errant comedy, stemming from drawing-room origins . . . comes near being Katharine Hepburn's champion achievement." Los Angeles Daily News (Virginia Wright), "It's even pleasanter on the screen than on the stage." Los Angeles Examiner, "Entertainment magic . . . Katharine Hepburn has more movie charm in her little finger than most movie sirens in their sweaters!" Variety, "Of Academy Award caliber."

"The Son of Monte Cristo"

"SON OF MONTE CRISTO" is lavish, fast-moving entertainment

FOR exciting, fast-moving and lavish entertainment, "The Son of Monte Cristo" takes high honors in recent screen fare. The millions of fans of the "Count of Monte Cristo" will revel in this version of the adventures of his son, the young Count of Monte Cristo.

One criticism of the picture might be that there is so much action and continued suspense that it gets tiresome. However, the picture as a whole is grand entertainment.

Plot concerns the chance meeting of Louis Hayward, as the Count, and Joan Bennett, the Grand Duchess Zona. Although their meeting is brief, it is long enough for Hayward to discover that he is in love. When he learns that she is in danger, he hurries to the palace where he becomes involved in intrigue involving George Sanders, the army chief; Montagu Love, the premier, and the Countess Zona.

To aid Zona, the Count assumes a foppish disguise as the Count of Monte Cristo, and tries in secret to liberate her from her trap by doing undercover work as the masked leader of the revolutionary forces. He succeeds, of course, and finally gets the girl, but not before he puts himself into many tight spots.

Louis Hayward is exceptionally well cast as the romantic Monte Cristo and gives a beautiful performance. Joan Bennett is very good as Zona, but seems rather cold in her general attitude. George Sanders gives a standout performance as the uncompromising Gurko Lanen, virtual leader of the country. The strong supporting cast includes Florence Bates, Lionel Royce, Montagu Love, Ian MacWolfe, Clayton Moore, Ralph Byrd and Rand Brooks. Jack Mulhall, old-timer from silent-picture days, does an excellent job as one of the rebels. It is produced by Edward Small.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Los Angeles Daily News, "A box-office winner." Los Angeles Evening Herald-Express (Jimmy Starr), "A neat package of bang-up entertainment." Hollywood Reporter, "'The Son of Monte Cristo' possesses none of the fine workmanship of 'The Count of Monte Cristo.'" Variety, "More-than-worthy successor to 'The Count of Monte Cristo.'"

June Duprez, the Basil Rathbones, Dorothy Lamour and Gregory Bautzer, Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt, Lady Furness, Elise Curtis and Tim Durant, Ashton Brody, and Dudley Murphy.

No Bells for Lupe Velez?

In Universal's "Six Lessons From Madame LaZonga," Lupe Velez has to say to her fiance, "Big Boy" Williams, who is playing opposite her in the picture, "I wouldn't marry you if you were the last man on earth." Perhaps Lupe and "Big Boy" Williams won't marry one another, if the prediction of a famous astrologer holds true. The studio asked the astrologer to chart Lupe and "Big Boy," who preferred not to get married in October because Lupe's marriage to Johnny Weissmuller took place in October and ended in divorce. Universal cherished the hope that the astrologer would agree with Lupe's own prediction that she and Williams would wed in November and have a baby the first year. Instead, the seer predicted not only Lupe and "Big Boy" would not have a baby—but would not even wed, ever!

Jam Session Versus Square Dance

A few nights ago a gang of Jackie Cooper's friends dropped in at his home and immediately started an impromptu jam session, with two pianos going at the same time, Dick Winslow playing the vibraharp, Jackie doing his best skin-beating, the muse inspiring songs to be composed and the best of jitter-bugging to be done by young swains and their gals, who included Bonita Granville, Judy Garland and Lana Turner. Dave Rose, Tony Martin, Mickey Rooney, Buddy Pepper and Dan Dailey were there too. A few nights later, practically the same mob of youngsters were invited to a western party following the Republic preview of Roy Rogers' latest picture, "Border Legion," where guests were to dance square dances. Guess what? You're right—the kids didn't know how!

"Little Men"

Cast: Kay Francis, Jack Oakie, George Bancroft, Jimmy Lydon, Ann Gillis, Charles Esmond, the cow "Elsie," Richard Nichols, Johnny Burke, Lillian Randolph, et al. An RKO-Radio release, produced by Gene Towne and Graham Baker and directed by Norman Z. McLeod, who also directed "Topper" and "Topper Takes a Trip."

THIS picture, which is tailored to please the entire family and does, most entertainingly, is the one which for several months tied its national fame onto the swishing tail of "Elsie," the celebrated Borden glamour cow which plays in the production.

"Little Men" is a broad adaptation of Louisa May Alcott's much-read book, salted with extra melodrama and peppered with an abundance of comedy. And it is to Jack Oakie that much credit for scene-stealing must go. Oakie, who has clicked big lately in "The Great Dictator" and "Tin Pan Alley," is a smash hit again in this picture. Kay Francis is excellent in her sympathetic portrayal of Aunt Jo, George Bancroft is quite adequate as Major Burdle. Jimmy Lydon and Ann Gillis capture juvenile honors.

Good incidental and supporting performances are likewise chalked up by new actor Charles Esmond, tiny tot Richard Nichols, vaudeville veteran Johnny Burke, and Lillian Randolph.

It hardly seems necessary to recount the plot of "Little Men," but for the younger generation it might be well to say that the screen version concerns itself with the adopted infant Dan's reforming of the somewhat "within-the-law" operations of Major Burdle, who is heartbroken when the citizenry insist that he must place the youngster in school. Plumfield School, good, but operating on a shoestring under the management of Aunt Jo and Professor Bhaer, is selected, and the somewhat tough Dan is made over by the influences of Aunt Jo, Nan and others at the school. Meantime, Dan's father puts the school in a precarious predicament by losing funds with which he had been entrusted to invest. Seeking to replace the money, Major Burdle commits forgery, exits the hero to take his punishment along with housebreaker Willie, while young Dan becomes the fair-haired pupil of Plumfield.

"LITTLE MEN" is a wholesome, family film by Towne-Baker team

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Los Angeles Times (Edwin Schallert), "A picture of down-to-earth popular merit . . . no one will find it a dull tale." Los Angeles Daily News (Harry Mines), "A completely satisfactory audience picture." Variety, "A masterpiece of heart-warming hokum and homespun comedy."

"Comrade X"

Cast: Clark Gable, Hedy Lamarr, Oscar Homolka, Felix Bressart, Eve Arden, Sig Rumann, Natasha Lytess, et al. An M-G-M picture, produced by Gottfried Reinhardt and directed by King Vidor, who also directed "Stella Dallas" and "The Citadel."

"COMRADE X" has Clark Gable, Hedy Lamarr poking fun at Soviets

"COMRADE X" burlesques the whiskers off the Soviet government through three chiefs of secret police, and packs such a comic wallop that it will make a stone-faced man laugh. As it unreels, one is not only reminded of Gable's and Bressart's flair for comedy but Hedy Lamarr steps up to bat and knocks out a laugh home run that long will be remembered.

Miss Lamarr has her first opportunity to prove her talent for characterizations in "Comrade X," and the way in which she succeeds unquestionably will elevate her to permanent stardom. Her acting stands out in spite of rather than because of her beauty.

The story: The mysterious American newspaperman Comrade X, identity unknown to the Russian secret police, has been slipping true stories about what goes on past the censors, and as a result all correspondents are told that no stories will come out of Russia until Comrade X is apprehended. Gable is Comrade X, and that fact is known to no one, he thinks, but really is discovered by his valet, Vanya. The latter finds the camera concealed in Gable's portable radio and detects the coding and decoding system he uses. As the price of his silence, he orders Gable to take his daughter, Miss Lamarr, out of Russia to save her life because he is convinced that his daughter has too many ideas about Communism to be a good Communist! Gable meets Miss Lamarr, sells her a phony bill of goods about coming to America with him to spread communistic propaganda, and, in the process, falls in love with and marries her. Meantime, before he has a chance to flee Russia, the secret police discover the portable radio-camera in the possession of valet Vanya, and all three are hailed to the headquarters of the secret police for questioning. They are condemned to be shot, but are saved miraculously and make their escape in an uproariously funny scene.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF IT: Los Angeles Times (Edwin Schallert), "A rousing burlesque of the Soviet attitude of mind . . . proves the talents of Miss Lamarr as a screen actress." Hollywood Reporter, "A gay satire . . . Hedy Lamarr simply knocks over her role of Theodore."

LET THE FLAG Wave

Entertainment, Inc.: Meet the Brothers Warner

A COUPLE of years back, when Warner Bros. sent out into a world not yet fully awake to the incipient dangers of Nazism a film called "Confessions of a Nazi Spy," starring Edward G. Robinson as the Little Caesar of the G-men, many people called them alarmists. Particularly the far-flung membership of the German-American Bund called them alarmists, and Herr Hitler promptly and forthwith banned Warner pictures from the theaters of the Third Reich.

Subsequent events show that the Brothers Warner, who have seen the Third Reich grow until it encompasses most of Europe with the ban still unlifted, are alarmists in just the same sense that Paul Revere was an alarmist, and they followed that first warning, "The Nazis are coming," with a series of grand patriotic short subjects, all driving home to Americans the manifold advantages they enjoy under a flag Warners has been proud to wave.

The Brothers Warner are three in number—and widely diverse in their tastes and talents. Guiding light of getting headlines into film—Warners is noted for this business of making timely pictures—is Jack L. Warner, vice president in charge of production. Youngish, with a famous smile and a way of putting his finger on hidden troubles quickly and unerringly. Jack Warner knows the faces and most of the names of the 3,500 men and women who labor in his vineyards. No employee ever doubted that he was the real boss of the lot.

President of the outfit is Harry M. Warner, oldest of the brothers, whose principal interests are Americanization work and charity. As president of the company he is largely responsible for the making of the many patriotic short subjects. Third brother and financial wizard of the trio is Major Albert Warner, who seldom sees the studio but spends his time in New York or Florida as vice president and treasurer of the family institution.

Not a Warner, but associated with them for fifteen years in the making of films and money, is executive producer Hal Wallis, known as the hardest-working man in Hollywood, who, together with such associate producers as Mark Hellinger, Jesse Lasky, Henry Blanke, William Cagney, Robert Lord, Bryan Foy, Wolfgang Reinhardt, Harlan Thompson and others, turns out some fifty feature pictures a year and a steady stream of short subjects at a cost estimated this season of $35,000,000. This included the sensational Bette Davis film, "The Letter," James Cagney's "City for Conquest" and "Knut Rockne—All-American."

The one hundred ten acres which comprise the main Warner lot in Burbank was once an alfalfa patch. Today it is a magnificent and not too crowded group of buildings done in Spanish architecture, with twenty-two soundstages of the same architectural style and built of stucco, steel and concrete.

On the famous back lot at Warners stands a battery of dressing-rooms for the forty stars and more than fifty featured players who make Warners' films. On the doors may be seen such names as James Cagney, Bette Davis, Errol Flynn, Miriam Hopkins, George Raft, Edward G. Robinson, Ann Sheridan.

Warners also took the lead in turning out the monumental and deeply impressive biographical films, such masterpieces as Muni's "Zola," and "Pasteur"; Edward G. Robinson's "Dr. Ehrlich's Magic Bullet" and "The Man From Reuters." But even such an impressive line-up as this may have been lost in the Hollywood shuffle but for the vigorous breast-beating of S. Charles Einfeld, vice president of Warners in charge of publicity and advertising. Einfeld is rated one of the finest publicity executives in America, and together with Robert S. Taplinger, who handles publicity from the Hollywood end, was responsible for starting the junket premieres with "Dodge City," a star-studded affair held in Dodge City, Kansas.

Big films to be turned out during the year include "High Sierra," with Humphrey Bogart and Ida Lupino; "Fiesta in Manhattan" as yet uncast, and "The Fabulous '30's," also uncast to date, but to be made from a story by Mark Hellinger, who will also serve as associate producer; "Her Great Lie," with Bette Davis and George Brent; Edward G. Robinson, John Garfield and Ida Lupino in "The Sea Wolf"; "Strawberry Blonde," with James Cagney and Olivia de Havilland, and "The Wagons Roll At Night," with Humphrey Bogart.

SEVEN REELS

Benny, Fred Allen in "Love Thy Neighbor"

TO A DRAW

Movie-Radio Guide Picture of the Week

JACK manages to extricate himself by marrying Mary despite Fred's opposition, and the film ends much as it began—with bigger, better Benny-Allen feuds in the offing

AN AUTOMOBILE-bumping contest in which Fred's big car reduces Jack's Maxwell to a heap of junk follows, the feud becomes furious, and Mary, annoyed by their childishness, determines to put an end to the feud and make peace

FLAMES are added to the feud when Jack learns that his faithful manservant, Rochester (Eddie Anderson, below), has been hired away from him by Fred in spite of Mary's peace efforts. This means war to the bitter end

WHEN Fred Allen arrived in Hollywood by train instead of by parachute to commence work on "Love Thy Neighbor," the misnomer applied to the Paramount film he has just completed with Jack Benny, his bitter radio rival was not on hand to greet him. Benny was represented, however, by pretty girls with insulting signs, a floral wreath, and a city official who turned out to be a street-cleaner. Three years ago, the Benny-Allen feud started when Allen belittled the Benny violin-playing ability. The boys have been at it hammer-and-tongs ever since to the amusement of America and with no small profit to themselves. This feud has been made the basis for this film, a sparkling piece of comedy that will convince movie-goers that Allen should make more excursions into cinemaland. On only one point during the filming of the entire picture did the two feudists find themselves in agreement—and that was when Allen proposed to give the singing Merry Maes, of his radio show, a part in the film. Benny heartily agreed. Also in the cast is the inevitable Rochester; Mary Martin, who not only sings the new Johnny Burke and Jimmy Van Heusen numbers written for the show but does her famous "My Heart Belongs to Daddy" number which first brought her fame. "Love Thy Neighbor" is scheduled for national release during this month.

THE DASTARDLY work, however, is not one-sided, for Jack had already hired the singing stars of Fred Allen's radio show—the Merry Maes (Joe, Ted, Judd McMichael and Helen Carroll)—for his own radio show

THE PRIVATE PAPERS OF DETECTIVE MCGINNIS

Our Hawkshaw runs the Cisco Kid to earth and finds a likable Latin, Cesar Romero

By Gordon Swarthout

INTEROFFICE MEMORANDUM
To: Evans Plummer, Western Representative.

FROM: Curtis Mitchell, Editor.

Please go down to the police station and arrange for the release of Tim McGinnis, the lame-brained flatfoot I assigned to shadow and report on Hollywood personalities. Put him on the trail of Cesar Romero—and don't let him out of your sight until his report is completed and in the mail. Then you can find a nice, quiet corner and have a nervous breakdown for yourself.

Mitchell.

DAY LETTER—COLLECT
Curtis Mitchell, Editor,
Movie-Radio Guide,

McGinnis hailed out by director, who is giving him screen test for role in quickie production. Can't get near the guy. Advise.

Must have Romero story. Use your own judgment.

Mitchell.

Curtis Mitchell, Editor,
Movie-Radio Guide.

McGinnis has picture role. Gone completely Hollywood. Now calls himself Timothe McGuinness. All he will consent to is his own story to be run under title quotes My Pal, Cesar Romero unquotes. Do you want it?

INTEROFFICE MEMORANDUM
To: Curtis Mitchell, Editor.

FROM: Evans Plummer, Western Rep.
Well, here is the McGinnis story. Personally, I don't think he has even met Romero, but I do know that what he says about him is true. You can run the story if you want to, because Cesar is such a good egg I know he won't mind.

As for McGinnis—he is the most stupid, feather-headed half-wit it has ever been my displeasure to work with. For the sake of my sanity, I will have no more to do with him. I am assuming this is the last story he is doing for you. If it isn't, please consider this my resignation.

Now I'm off to Palm Springs to have that nervous breakdown you promised me. Hadn't I better reserve a room for you?

Regards,
Evans Plummer,

P. S. Can you imagine a cop with a butler? McGinnis now has two!

MY PAL, CESAR ROMERO

By TIMOTHE MCGUINNESS

Cesar Romero is the "Cisco Kid" to millions of movie-goers, but those of us who know him well call him "Butch."

He is a good Joe in every sense of the word, and while some people (mostly writers) sometimes get annoyed with him because he won't talk about his private life or his dates with Hollywood glamour girls, he's respected for it. If you don't want to take my word on this, all you have to do is watch him fooling around with "Ty," his pup, his kitten, "Minnie," or "Satan," the big black horse he rides in the "Cisco Kid" pictures. These animals all think that "Butch" is just about it, and while a clever guy can usually fool another person, he don't get far handing the old malarkey to a dog or a horse.

When Romero works he works hard, and does about the same things most Hollywood stars do. But when he's between pictures, he has a pretty good time for himself, as I will explain. Right now he has finished "Romance of the Rio Grande" with Patricia Morison. His next picture will be "Ride on, Vaquero" at 20th Century-Fox, where he is under contract.

He gets up at 11 a.m., although he'll sleep longer if the phone doesn't ring, which it usually does. His bedroom has blue wallpaper, white ceiling, rag-rug carpeting, a four-poster bed without a canopy, a desk, two easy chairs and one lounge. He wears gray pajamas.

First thing he does upon getting up is take a shower. (His bathroom is unusual in that it has no tub in it.) Next thing he does is light a cigarette (Chesterfield).

He smokes while he shaves, using a safety razor, Billy Gaxton's "charvet" soap, and finishes with a dash of Kinze-Ten cologne.

By 11:20 he's downstairs for breakfast. He eats breakfast from dishes that were won by a former houseboy on a punch-board, and stows away sliced peaches (or some similar fruit), scrambled eggs and ham, toast with strawberry jam and coffee, which he drinks with cream and one lump of sugar.

After breakfast he looks over fan mail (and he gets plenty), then likely as not plays with his puppy "Ty." He named this pooch "Ty" after Tyrone Power, who gave it to him. The pup's mother is Tyrone's German shepherd, but the father is unknown. "Butch" is waiting for the pup to grow up to see if he can figure it out.

Next he reads the trade-papers: says he always looks through them to see if he can find anything about Romero—but claims he never does. Trade-papers disposed of, he carries the dailies into his den—and leaves them there. He never reads the morning papers until just before dinner.

After hanging around the house for about an hour and a half, his conscience begins bothering him, so he slips on a robe and goes out into the patio to take some exercise. He has a bar-bell there (forty-two-and-one-half-pound weights on each end) and he starts out strongly. After he pushes the bar up from his chest about three times his conscience is salved and he considers himself exercised.

He then goes in, changes to sport clothes, and leaves the house about one o'clock. He'll take the dog to the vet, go to the bank, do any errands he has on his mind, or just go for a ride. He drives a 1941 maroon Buick convertible sedan with white-sidewall tires. Practically new, the car has about one thousand miles on it already.

"Butch" was one of the first actors in Hollywood to be asked to produce his conscription registration certificate. It happened when a cop stopped him—not to arrest him for speeding but to give him a friendly warning. The age on his card is thirty-three.

"Butch" draws a check in four figures for his week's work, and deposits it regularly. He's pretty good on money matters. He's an avid reader of magazines, subscribes to Life, Look, Esquire, Saturday Evening Post, Reader's Digest and Town and Country, buys the movie-fan magazines and MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE at the newsstand, which he checks almost daily for new issues when he isn't working.

He usually drifts over to the West Side tennis club about four in the afternoon, as likely as not plays gin rummy with some pals; about every so often he gets on a tennis-playing spree, then he plays so much and so hard his feet hurt him. When that happens, he goes easy on the tennis for a few days. His favorite drink at the club (and usually at the night-clubs) is a Coca-Cola with half a lime in it.

Cesar Romero is "Butch's" real name, although the movie-makers tried to get him to change it when he first came to Hollywood. He's a true Latin from Manhattan, since he was born in New York and is the son of an exporter and the Cuban opera singer, Maria Mantilla. That accounts for his continual gesturing with his hands when he talks, his habit of slouching in his chair when seated, and probably for his restlessness, which exhibits itself in the continual crossing and recrossing of his legs.

"Butch" seldom eats dinner at home, preferring to eat out, or at parties—and all you have to do is watch the gossip columns to know that he usually has charming company (feminine) with him. A typical evening for Ro-

COLUMBIA WORKSHOP, CBS. Norman Corwin's "Plot to Overthrow Christmas."

Norman Corwin is one of the perceptive creators of whom radio could use many more. He has contributed a number of radio masterpieces of writing, narrating and producing on such dynamic series as "Pursuit of Happiness" and "Words Without Music" (too bad both programs are not now on the air). Corwin's anti-war "They Fly Through the Air With the Greatest of Ease," performed on "Columbia Workshop," is considered one of the most eloquent contributions to the radio voice.

Some of Corwin's finest work has been done on "Columbia Workshop," one of radio's finest drama series. This Sunday he will direct a revival of his own "Plot to Overthrow Christmas" on that series.

And here it becomes a painful duty to point out that the dramatic glory that was "Columbia Workshop" is shaded, though not dimmed, for most of the country, being heard at present on only a few stations in the eastern section of the country. Here is cause for a crusade.

FIRST NIGHTER, CBS. Starring Barbara Luddy and Les Tremayne in "Little Town of Bethlehem."

Here is a real perennial Christmas highlight. For the sixth year the ever-popular "First Nighter" program will present "Little Town of Bethlehem," all the more significant this year because the program's regular performance falls on Christmas Eve.

When "Little Town of Bethlehem" was first enacted on "First Nighter" in 1933, the sponsor and producers were not sure how listeners would accept it. They know now. Anthony Wayne's devout play, the reverent simplicity of Barbara Luddy and Les Tremayne playing Mary and Joseph, and the departure from the Broadway fanfare and commercial announcements made "First Nighter" history. Now each year an avalanche of mail from all parts of the country, from persons and organizations demands another special performance of the play. "First Nighter" will again oblige.

CAVALCADE OF AMERICA, NBC. "Green Pastures."

Master playwright Marc Connelly has adapted for radio the rich, simple charm and kindly humor of his stage hit, "Green Pastures." The radio presentation will feature the especially well suited singing of the famous Hall Johnson Choir.

"Green Pastures," with its authentic picture of the American Negro's imaginative conception of things spiritual, certainly is part of America. Certainly also is radio integral in the American scene. Their combination is fitting for "Cavalcade of America"; and "Green Pastures" can't miss being forceful and appealing in radio's imaginative medium.

THE METROPOLITAN OPERA COMPANY PRESENTS "DON PASQUALE" BY GAETANO DONIZETTI, NBC. The cast: Norina, Bidu Sayao, soprano; Ernesto, Nino Martini, tenor; Dr. Malatesta, Francesco Valentino, baritone; Don Pasquale, Salvatore Baccaloni, bass; The Notary, Alessio de Paolis, tenor. Conductor, Gennaro Papi.

Donizetti (1797-1848) was one of the best composers of the style of opera called "opera bouffe," which, freely translated, means "farce opera"; and this is one of his best examples. The characters involve themselves in all sorts of impossible comic situations which untangle smoothly in the end, with everyone alive and well instead of expiring in a welter of blood. Don Pasquale, a crusty old bachelor, has decided to marry, but forbids Ernesto, his nephew in love with Norina, to do so. Dr. Malatesta, a scheming family friend, sides with Ernesto and cooks up a plot to bring Don Pasquale around. He has Norina pass herself off as his sister and marries her to Don Pasquale in a mock ceremony. A sweet and shy girl until the marriage, Norina turns into a terrible shrew afterwards, running up bills, upsetting the household and making life generally miserable for the old Don. When he discovers the hoax, he is so relieved to be free of the whole mess that he lets Ernesto marry Norina with his blessing.

THE NEW YORK PHILHARMONIC ORCHESTRA, CBS. Dimitri Mitropoulos, conductor. Three Fugues from "The Art of the Fugue" (Bach-Darmstadt). The Coliseum at Night (Frederick Woltmann), Sinfonia Domestica (Strauss).

The regular conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony, Dimitri Mitropoulos, is making some guest appearances with the Philharmonic while John Barbirolli takes his annual winter vacation. Beginning with three excerpts arranged for orchestra from Bach's last work, "The Art of the Fugue," Mitropoulos goes on to a contemporary American composer, who wrote his work while he was a fellow of the American Academy in Rome two years ago. Mr. Woltmann was born in Flushing, Long Island, in 1908. Richard Strauss' "Domestic Symphony" professes to describe the composer's married life, and is cheerful and gay (probably because his marriage has been a happy one).

THE PHILADELPHIA ORCHESTRA, MBS. Eugene Ormandy, conductor. Symphony No. 5 (Tchaikowsky).

This is one of the prize programs of the week. Some people prefer this symphony to the Sixth (Pathétique), claiming it to be more dramatic. The Philadelphia Orchestra does it magnificently and you should be completely thrilled by the performance. A popular song was based on the second movement, which has made the melody familiar to thousands who might never have known about it otherwise. However, I think they'll prefer the original which certainly couldn't be better played than it will be today.

SCHUBERT'S SONG CYCLE, "Der Winterreise," as sung by Mme. Lotte Lehmann of the Met is a Victor record gift suggestion

Records and Books for Christmas

LAST week I mentioned a new life of Bach by Hendrik Willem van Loon and Grace Castagnetta, due to appear on December 16. Called "The Life and Times of Johann Sebastian Bach," it is published by Simon and Schuster, New York. Anyone familiar with the books of Van Loon and Castagnetta know how enchanting they are. With text and exquisite illustrations by Van Loon and musical selections carefully chosen and arranged by Miss Castagnetta, one of America's most gifted young pianists, these books, "Christmas Carols," "Folksongs From Many Lands," "The Songs America Loves to Sing" and "The Last of the Troubadours," make ideal Christmas presents. But unquestionably the best one they have produced is their latest. As usual, Van Loon wrote and illustrated the text. But in place of the printed musical numbers, Miss Castagnetta has made four ten-inch records of Bach music, which come with the book in a separate album. Together, book and album cost $5.00. Apart from the book is $2.50 and the album $3.00. This is a completely new idea and may open endless possibilities to musical biographers. By all means, buy this for your most exigent musical friend, who will get endless enjoyment from it.

Grace Castagnetta

OTHER recent books to stuff in any music-lover's Christmas stocking will certainly include "A Treasury of American Song," by Elle Siegmester, American composer, and Olin Downes, music critic of the New York Times (Howell Soskin, New York, $5.00), a wealth of old song favorites arranged simply but expertly by Siegmester with informative text by Downes; "Approach to Music," by Lawrence Abbott (Farrar and Reinhardt, New York), the very best book on music appreciation in recent years, by the man who has written all the continuity for Walter Damrosch's NBC "Music Appreciation" programs; and "Fantasia," by Deems Taylor (Simon and Schuster, New York, $3.75), the story of the great Walt Disney film, with text by Taylor, wonderful colored illustrations by Disney and a foreword by Leopold Stokowski.

As a complementary gift with "Fantasia" you might give either Stravinsky's "Rites of Spring," conducted by Stravinsky himself (Columbia M-417), or Tchaikovsky's "Nutcracker" Suite, Chicago Symphony, Frederick Stock, conductor (Columbia M-395, $3.50), both pieces that were used in the Disney picture.

Two other superb Tchaikovsky recordings, one a few months old, and one appearing in January, are musts for every record collection. The Tchaikovsky 5th Symphony, Chicago Symphony under Frederick Stock (Columbia), is outstanding, and advance reports of the new Stokowski-All American Youth Orchestra recording of the "Pathétique" (No. 6) (Columbia M-432) are sensational.

IF YOU know someone whose musical taste is violently modernistic, give him or her "Contrasts for Violin, Clarinet and Piano," by Bela Bartok (Columbia X-178, $2.50), played by Bela Bartok, Joseph Szigeti and Benny Goodman. Nothing could be more modern than that!

A slightly more heart-warming and enduring gift would be Schubert's song cycle, "Der Winterreise" (The Winter Journey), as sung by Lotte Lehmann (Victor M-692, $4.00). These songs are some of the most beautiful ever written. Mine. Lehmann, by the way, will sing the entire cycle on the air sometime in February with the New Friends of Music.

And last but not least, the most amusing and entertaining record present of the year is Ted Cott's album of the popular "So You Think You Know Music" radio program (Musicraft). This comes complete with three records (six sides) and score sheets. Any number of people can play the game. Cott asks the questions, allows a short space of time for you to jot down your answers. A gong sounds time, and he goes on to the next question. This would be an attractive feature for your Christmas party.

These are a few suggestions, and they may provide the spark of inspiration you need if presents for those music-loving friends are still worrying you. —V. L.

Musician of the Week David Smith

First broadcast of a genius—this teen-age lad may make it Saturday

IF YOU listen to the program of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music on Saturday morning, December 21 (CBS), you may find that you have heard the first broadcast of a genius. At least, that's the opinion of three musical experts—but here's the story.

About a month ago three eminent New York musicians gathered at the home of one of them to pick a winner for the Edgar Stillman Kelley Junior Scholarship presented by the National Federation of Music Clubs to talented young music students up to the age of fifteen. Thirty-four contestants from nine states had taken part, and all but six finalists had been eliminated. These six had sent in recordings of their playing, from which the final decision was to be made. The judges were Adelaide Geschiedt, noted voice teacher and coach; Henry Holden Huss, pianist-composer; and Leonard Liebbling, editor-in-chief of the Musical Courier, and formerly editor of this department.

The three judges listened to the records, forming their opinions. They arrived at the last batch, three sent by a contestant from Cincinnati, a pianist. The selections were Chopin's F minor Ballade, a Paganini-Liszt Caprice, Rimsky-Korsakoff's "The Bee," all of them difficult even for a virtuoso, much less a fifteen-year-old student. The first piece played was the Caprice. The judges listened in silence for a few minutes, the expression on their faces changing from studious attention to bewildered astonishment. Leonard Liebbling jumped up.

"I don't believe it," he said. The other two judges also rose from their seats.

"Who did you say played this?" Liebbling asked.

Mme. Geschiedt stopped the

DAVID SMITH of the Cincinnati Conservatory

record and they crowded around. The record read, "Played by David Smith." The judges looked up what information they had received on David Smith: "Fifteen years old, a pupil of Dr. Karol Lisz-niewski of Cincinnati."

"It's a fake," declared Liebbling flatly. "It's simply incredible that a boy of fifteen could play like that and not be internationally famous. I have heard some of the greatest pianists when they were fifteen and they didn't do any better than this young Smith. I can't believe that Eugene Goossens (conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony) wouldn't know about such a talent and have presented him publicly."

The other two judges reluctantly agreed with him, but even their reluctance faded when they heard the other pieces. They unanimously declared that either it was a colossal hoax, or an unknown genius was hidden in Cincinnati. They finally decided to award David Smith the scholarship if it could be proved that there was such a person, and that he had actually made the records.

A week later a letter from Dr. Lisz-niewski was received by the judges. It not only proved conclusively that there is a David Smith but also that he had made the records. Dr. Lisz-niewski added:

"The boy is a phenomenal talent whom nature has endowed in every respect. He lives at my house and goes to high school, where he is an outstanding student. David will play the Chopin E minor Concerto with the Cincinnati Conservatory Orchestra on one of our Saturday Columbia broadcasts shortly."

"Shortly" will be on December 21. Listen and see if you concur with the judges' amazing decision. —V. L.

FIRST FAMILIES OF RADIO

FROM HOLLYWOOD, each Monday evening over CBS, this radio troupe brings listeners "Those We Love." Seated, left to right, are John Marshall (played by Oscar O'Shea), Kathy Marshall, the heroine

"THOSE WE LOVE"

"THOSE WE LOVE" is the story of a family whose roots are deeply embedded in the small New England town of Westbridge, where traditions are treasured and life is lived graciously. The John Marshalls are a normal family, fun-loving and mistake-making, but exceedingly wary of anyone who smacks of being a stuffed shirt. Some people think Mr. Marshall (Oscar O'Shea) is stern, but Agnes Ridgeway, author of this CBS

(Monday) dramatic show, now in its third year on the air, says, "Really, it's just dignity, and dignity is not as bad as you might think. A lot of nice people have been dignified. George Washington was." Mr. Marshall's daughter, Kathy (Nan Grey), is the main character. Kathy is more than a little in love with Dr. Leslie Foster (Donald Woods) and seriously concerned with his well-being—but not quite sure of her own feelings. Her pal is Aunt Emily (Alma Kruger), who's cared for the Marshall household, twins and all, since the death of Mrs. Marshall, and who is aided by Martha (Virginia Sale), the maid, who can cook for company either way—so they'll come again or so they'll stay away. Mrs. Emmett (Mary Gordon) is Dr. Leslie Foster's likable housekeeper, runs his home and cares for his 'little daughter Amy (Ann Todd). Elaine (Helen Wood), another "Those We Love" character, operates an antique shop with Kathy, is interested in Kathy's twin brother Kit (Richard Cromwell). Not to be forgotten is Rags, the Marshall dog (played by old-time vaudeville troupier Lee Millar), who tags Martha's footsteps from morning until night. "Those We Love" is a serious story—but not too serious. It has comic moments and tragic ones, but through it all persists a fine, clean story of life in the little village of Westbridge.

TOMMY DORSEY is typical of scores of maestros who may soon be forced to discard costly music libraries

HARDEST HIT in any all-out ASCAP-BMI war will be bandleaders, thinks Fred Waring, who urges peace

AFTER January 1, 1941, your radio listening won't be the same. Better or worse? That awaits your judgment. But, at least as far as music is concerned, you're in for a radical change in your musical status quo. The change will be the result of what is perhaps the most revolutionary step in radio entertainment since the birth of network broadcasting.

For over a decade you've heard "Amos 'n' Andy" ushered into your home by the strains of "The Perfect Song." Maybe you didn't know the title, but you certainly knew the tune. You'll have to get used to another theme.

Can you imagine Kay Kyser's band bowing onto the air without sliding in on the trombone's "Thinking of You" glissades; or Tommy Dorsey greeting you without his own trombone sighing "I'm Getting Sentimental Over You"; or Shep Fields blowing bubbles in a bowl of water without the music of "Rippling Rhythm" for a background; or—yes, even this—Rudy Vallee vocally pledging something besides "My Time Is Your Time"?

You won't hear on the air "Trees," "Stardust," "Oh Johnny, Oh Johnny, Oh!" "The Stars and Stripes Forever," Malotte's musical setting for the Lord's total ASCAP income. The five-year contract between the broadcasters and ASCAP expires at the end of this year. In presenting its terms for the new contract, ASCAP raised the figures to such an extent that radio would pay in 1941 between eight and ten million dollars, about twice as much as in 1939 or 1940.

Radio, which has often kicked at ASCAP's terms, this time finally said a flat "No," through its official voice, the National Association of Broadcasters. The broadcasters proceeded last April 1 to form their own music-publishing organization, Broadcast Music, Inc., in direct competition with ASCAP and its member publishers. Then the music-war baby set out to prove it was no April Fool joke, to produce enough non-ASCAP music to take over the airwaves completely after January 1, 1941.

When we call this transitional move a revolution, we mean just that. It is an all-out battle for musical control of the air. The BMI rebels are rising to challenge the power of the ASCAP rulers. Both are powerful forces, make no mistake. Since its organization by Victor Herbert, John Philip Sousa and others in 1914, ASCAP has beaten back attack after attack, legal and otherwise, to entrench itself as one of songs on NBC and CBS sustaining programs. For months you've heard such tunes as the high-ranking "Hit Parade" hit, "Practice Makes Perfect," the haunting "Here in the Velvet Night" and "We Could Make Such Beautiful Music," the lilting "There I Go" and "The Same Old Story," and the catchy "Madame Will Drop Her Shawl." Such are examples of the songs the high-g geared BMI music-mill, at 580 Fifth Ave., New York City, is grinding out at the rate of two a day.

In addition to the operating stock of new original music, BMI expects to have by the end of 1940 at least 1,000 non-ASCAP arrangements of well-known public domain songs, that is, songs free for public use through expiration of copyright or because they have not been copyrighted at all. These include such old favorites as "Home on the Range," "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," "Home, Sweet Home," "Silver Threads Among the Gold," "Ciribiribin," Stephen Foster's songs, Strauss waltzes, the classics and light classics.

MOREOVER, BMI is licensing some 14,000 copyrights in catalogs bought up from four publishers. These include western and hillbilly folk ballads, religious selections, concert music and a large share of characteristic Latin and South American music.

Since BMI declared open house for song-writers it has been flooded with manuscripts, at the rate of more than a thousand a week, from both bona-fide and would-be composers, most of them publicly unknown. This come-one-come-all principle has, at least, already proved a stimulus to freshness of inspiration and creative vitality.

The roots of the struggle spring primarily, of course, from business factors. ASCAP wants more money, contending that radio is substantially dependent for its revenue on ASCAP music. Radio, through the NAB, says ASCAP music isn't worth the demanded price, that ASCAP is more dependent on radio than radio upon ASCAP.

Of course both rival camps carry crusade torches to shed a halo around their commercial causes. ASCAP accuses the broadcasters of being greedy monopolists trying to gain a still more dictatorial grip on musical entertainment; and the society maintains that it contributes to justice by protecting the rights of "qualified" composers against parasitical use of their music.

The broadcasters accuse ASCAP of being a self-perpetuating monopoly by a small, inner circle, seeking an exclusive and exorbitantly priced control of radio music. They maintain that the society is unjust within itself, because of its method of distributing proceeds according to considerations such as seniority, the number of hits written, and the nature of musical contribution, rather than on the sole basis of the income-value of each song, and because of its exclusive power to judge who is "qualified" for membership and who is not.

It is the righting of this last-mentioned alleged injustice and the opening of the doors of opportunity to a greater number of talented composers that furnishes the torch for BMI. The new organization promises judgment according to merit alone and payment according to extent of professional use.

Thus are the battle lines drawn for an intense and perhaps long struggle. There is at least partial truth in the accusations of both sides and at least partial justice in the separate positions. But both are determined and both well equipped. It looks now as if

TIN PAN ALLEY GOES TO WAR

What M-Day in the coming BMI-ASCAP crisis may mean to you, the listener

By Don Moore

Prayer, "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," or even "God Bless America."

Instead, you'll be treated to a teeming pagant of new music parading through the air, in company with a host of the old musical numbers rejuvenated.

Now, what is this all about? Here in a note-shell is the kernel of the musical revolution. The American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers—more familiarly known as ASCAP—calls itself "a voluntary, unincorporated, non-profit association of qualified and recognized composers, authors and publishers of musical works." The organization's opponents have called it a racket and a musical parasite. Federal and state governments have demonstrated by frequent legal action that they consider it a monopoly in restraint of trade, or at least suspect it of being such.

Whatever its true or alleged nature, ASCAP controls the performance rights of several hundred thousand musical compositions, among which are the vast majority of all the popular songs heard on the air—the songs of Irving Berlin, Victor Herbert, Hoagy Carmichael, Jerome Kern, and most of the other well-known popular-music writers. For the right to use this great store of copyrighted music radio must pay. In 1923 the broadcasters paid $9,750; in 1922, $860,000; in 1939, over $4,000,000, or about two-thirds of the the most dominant-in-its-field of collective bargaining agencies. But BMI, in spite of its youth, is no weakling. The broadcasters, led by the powerful networks—which themselves have been investigated as possible monopolies—have poured over a million dollars into the new enterprise and have lifted it completely out of the bluff stage. Both sides are strong enough, both stubborn enough for a knock-down-drag-out finish fight.

THERE have been attempts at arbitration, instigated chiefly by dance-band leaders, particularly Fred Waring, because the orchestras, with their expensive ASCAP libraries, will be among the hardest hit victims of the revolution. But at this late date of writing there has been no real indication of compromise between the belligerents. There probably will be none before the deadline date.

The weapons in the battle of the music-makers are pens and pencils spattering barrages of black dots against reams of ruled paper. The outcome will have far-reaching effects in America's entertainment world—effects upon not only your listening but upon your work, if you're a musician, and perhaps upon your future, if you aspire to be a song-writer.

Perhaps you hadn't noticed a radical change, but already for some weeks you've been hearing only BMI THRILLS? Sure you can listen for them. Even when you are on the go almost constantly as I am. I'll not soon forget last week.

"This is station KOIL," the voice said. "Station KOIL, Omaha, calling. We have a message for John Smith of Beatrice, Nebraska. Can you hear us, Beatrice?"

I had been sound asleep in my berth aboard the Pacific Limited. It was the morning of November 11, 1940. Dimly at first and then the sentences rounded themselves out, and I began to catch their symphony.

Twice before such a thing had happened to me. On both occasions they spelled D-I-S-A-S-T-E-R. The first was the Morro Castle fire. The second the great Ohio River flood. On both of those previous occasions, as on this one, I had gone to sleep with the radio on. On all three of them I had come from under the pale shadow which obscures life from darkness into the realization that all was not well with the world.

I rang my bedside bell. The porter was reassuring.

"Nothin' done happened, Mister," he said. "'Cept we's caught in a snow-storm."

Snow-storm?

Why, when I went to bed in Cheyenne last night it was as warm as midsummer!

"Snow-storm," I said mechanically. "How come?"

"I dunno, Mister. Et jest come."

"How late are we?"

"Well, Mister, right now we's about three hours late."

He was interrupted by my Zenith, which began a veritable rain of messages to persons all over Nebraska, evidently out of touch with loved ones. The Wavemagnet glued to my berth window was doing an excellent job.

"If Joe Zilch is listening in at Kearney, Nebraska, his brother would like him to know he is safe and sound at the Omaha Y. M. C. A.," it said.

"Please tell Mrs. John Doe in Albert Lea, Minnesota, that John has reached a farm-house on Route So-and-So," and the announcer added laughingly, "but there's no farmer's daughter there right now!"

And after a bit, out came the following: "Newspapers in the vicinity cut off by the blizzard will be permitted to reprint this exclusive United Press news whether they be members of the United Press or not."

And what do you think the news was? None other than the death of former Prime Minister Chamberlain, and almost simultaneously the news of the death of Key Pittman, chairman of the United States Senate Foreign Relations Committee!

ON AND on rambled the announcer at station KOIL, in Omaha, Nebraska. Town after town cut off from the outside world by telephone, telegraph, teletype became conscious of the fact that many sections of America knew exactly their plight.

Some of the radio stations in some of these towns responded. If their voices did not come in clear enough for the radio audience, the announcer at KOIL told of receipt of the message and oftentimes delivered a reply.

Along about 2 p.m. the Pacific Limited crept forward. Conductor George J. Elsner of Glendale, California, with whom I have made many transcontinental jaunts, was aboard. We had been stalled in the yards outside of Omaha, he said, and now we would make our way across the river to Council Bluffs.

We did so but it took us three hours

MORE THAN ANY other American, Cornelius Vanderbilt has pioneered the pleasures of listening on land, sea and air via a portable radio and ten minutes to cover twelve miles!

We reached Marshalltown, Iowa, seven hours late. The gale was blowing at fifty-five miles per hour, a ten-inch snow had swirled into three- and four-foot drifts in places.

E. F. Durkin, my man Friday, was waiting on the station platform, and my car was near by. We set off for Ottumwa, Iowa, where I was to deliver an Armistice night address. As we began to move we switched on the radio.

Station WHIO in Des Moines was talking. "All motorists are advised to keep off Iowa highways. All motorists are advised to keep off Iowa highways. This is station WHO, Des Moines, calling. All motorists are advised to keep off Iowa highways."

We roared against the wind; we slipped and slid; once caught on a solid cake of ice we nearly jack-knifed.

"This is station WHO, Des Moines, calling. Highways 5, 65, 63, 71 (and so on, enumerating each one of them) are completely blocked (so many miles from Des Moines). Highways 44, 30, 50 are blocked. On highway such and such eighteen cars are stalled near such and such. Tow-cars are operating in the vicinity of ——. The regular price for being towed out of a drift is one dollar; most tow-cars are charging from five dollars up. Keep off the highways unless you have urgent business. Keep off the highways. This is station WHO, Des Moines, calling."

We slackened speed. Sheet-ice extended ahead. It was as warm as toast inside the Buick, and the defroster was working properly, but we had already done a couple of figure eights.

Said Durkin gravely: "I think, boss, we'd better call ourselves licked. It's going to be tough enough turning around as it is."

IT WAS. For half an hour the wheels spun. Then we put an old rug under them, and got traction again.

Back to Marshalltown's Tallcorn Hotel we crept. Its lobby was crowded to capacity. Durkin had retained two rooms. He too had been listening all day to the blizzard. The Boss will try it, he had said to himself, but he'll never make it. We were lucky we still had those rooms. We could have sold them a dozen times. People dozed in chairs, on stools in the drug store, even on the marble stairs. I remembered that it resembled the swimming-pool aboard a vessel evacuating tourists from Europe at the start of the war.

Up in my bedroom at the Tallcorn, the window was frozen solid. Icicles more than eighteen inches long hung in front of it. I attached my Zenith aerial to the window and in a few moments the whole wide world was coming in. Town after town in the path of the storm was reporting. Trees had been uprooted, houses unroofed, signs blown down, more than two hundred line-poles of a big midwestern utility company downed, telephones put out of commission.

Next evening the Great Western train I was to take from Marshalltown to Kansas City was still stuck in a snowdrift in Minnesota. Most snowplows were still wrapped in heavy grease, much of which had frozen during the sub-zero drop. And since the day previous had been a holiday in many states, hundreds of laborers were still off duty when the heaviest bit of the blizzard had struck. No one expected temperatures to drop fifty degrees in a few short hours, and transportation companies as well as communication concerns had been caught napping.

Through my radio came the highly entertaining information that Father Hubbard, the glacial priest from Alaska, was snowbound at Father Flanagan's Boys Town where he was showing his latest Alaskan movies.

We motored next evening to Des Moines to catch a train. The Cowles road from near Marshalltown to Des Moines had been repeatedly cleared of snow during the day but it drifted in again. All the way down we noticed cars stalled in drifts on both sides of the road—cars which evidently had not been radio-equipped. In places where the thermometer touched eight,

ON THE BANDWAGON

BAND OF THE WEEK is Lou Breese and his "Breezy Rhythm" outfit. Boston-born, Lou (in white coat) made his musical fortune conducting at the swank Kit Kat Club in London, was there snatched up by a theater talent-scout, who brought him to America to conduct a band already formed for him. The smooth, danceable music of this, his present band, has brought him long engagements, a big network hearing. Line-up given below

A BANDLEADER who refused to heed Horace Greeley's admonition to "Go West, young man," is Lou Breese. Instead he went to London, where, while conducting an orchestra in the fashionable Kit Kat Club, he was discovered by a talent-scout for the Paramount-Publix theater chain. To put it correctly, Breese was rediscovered, for previous to his journey Londonwards he had been a featured soloist in the stage band at the Paramount in New York! Lou, incidentally, is a native of Boston, can play the banjo, trumpet, violin and clarinet. First job as an orchestra director was with his own band in the aforesaid Boston. His solos attracted so much attention that the Capitol Theater in New York offered him a job as a featured soloist in its pit orchestra. Breese accepted and remained for two years, after which he moved down Broadway to the Paramount. Then came an offer to head a band in London, which put him back in the ranks of the band-leaders. After his return to America to take over a band formed for him, Breese and company started going places. They've played long engagements at the Chez Paree in Chicago and the French Casino in New York, in addition to numerous NBC broadcasts. Band's current style is a rhythmic pattern that is easily recognizable—and danceable—the latter accounting for their consistent popularity as a dance band. Rhythm, incidentally, is six-eight tempo, as contrasted with the four-four of ordinary bands. In addition, the band makes effective use of counterpoint, highlights many arrangements with

The Breese band also has its music waxed on the Varsity label. For its origination of the "Breezy Rhythm," and all-around smooth proficiency of playing, MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE nominates the Lou Breese orchestra as the BAND OF THE WEEK! Next week: Henry Busse.

advertising business that a sponsor would be very smart if he put a program on the air featuring rumba, tango and conga music. In the past year this type of music has become extremely popular and the dancers love the rhythm. Therefore it was pleasant news to learn that on January 9 Xavier Cugat and his orchestra will start a new weekly series featuring Latin-American music. This program replaces Bob Crosby's Dixieland Band. While I think of it, I'd like to suggest to the ciggy sponsor that they hire Arthur Murray, the dance instructor, and have a five-minute spot on the program for Mr. Murray to give a course of instruction in the three above-mentioned dances. In our opinion this would do much towards building a huge audience for the program.

Count Basie has straightened out his difficulties with his booking agency and therefore will not disband his orchestra to join Benny Goodman's new outfit as featured pianist . . . Some of Ray Noble's bandmen got lonesome for sunny California, their home state, so packed up and left their boss. No doubt the recent cold wave in Chicago had much to do with the decision of the boys to leave the band . . . Eddie Lange is a bandleader again after taking it easy for more than a year. His last radio work was on the Phil Baker program.

Purely Personal

Milt Yaner, first sax player with Jimmy Dorsey's orchestra, has an eye for beauty. He has taken unto himself a bride known as Barbara Knowlton, the pretty model whose face has adorned many magazine covers . . . Al Klink, tenor sax player with Glenn Miller, is another bandman with a "model" eye. He was married to Patricia Moarhead . . . His colleague in the band, Jack Lathrop, also tied the knot with Barbara Jane Mitchell, a secretary, who will be taking her husband's "notes" from now on . . . Horace Heidt reveals only seven bachelors left in his band.

New York By Wilson Brown

Nazi bombs hit CBS and NBC London headquarters December 8. Earlier in the day Fred Bate, head of NBC's London staff, suffered cuts and bruises from bombing. Shortly after Larry Lesueur left the CBS office it was wrecked; other employees, not in, escaped injury.

THE song "God Bless America" has had two setbacks; is due for another. Kate Smith, on NBC December 2 to salute the 4-H Clubs, wanted to sing the song she made famous. NBC would have no part of it because it is controlled by the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers (ASCAP), with whom the networks are feuding. The same week from Los Angeles came the news that Alfred H. Aarons, eighty-year-old composer, is suing Irving Berlin, charging that "God Bless America" incorporates parts of a song Aarons wrote and copyrighted in 1918, "America, My Home So Fair." Also named as defendants are Kate Smith, who popularized the song; NBC and CBS, who have aired it, and ASCAP, which controls it. The third setback to come is that CBS has already given notice that no program on its network may use any ASCAP song after December 31, which means Kate must take "God Bless America" off her program despite the fact it has been her weekly feature for nearly three years.

Pinza Surprises

Music circles took for granted Ezio Pinza, Metropolitan Opera bass, would marry Elisabeth Rethberg, Met soprano, as soon as his divorce became final. It therefore was a complete surprise when, on November 28, the forty-odd-year-old singer motored to Larchmont, N. Y., and married twenty-two-year-old Doris Neal Leak, a non-professional. Pinza's first wife is in Italy with their daughter. It is Miss Leak's first marriage.

The Wallingtons Split

James Wallington, the Texaco announcer, and Mrs. Wallington, the former Betty Jane Cooper, have separated. According to James, with whom we talked, it is all because Mrs. Wallington, one of the nation's top-notch tap-dancers, wanted to return to the stage while her husband wanted her to devote her full time to their two children, a three-year-old girl and a two-year-old boy. This is Wallington's second marriage. His first wife, also a dancer, died in 1935.

Carol Bruce Contributes

Most persons give to charity because they wish. Carol Bruce, vocalist on the Ben Bernie program, does because she must. Carol, you may recall from a previous column, had signed a contract with Buddy DeSylva to appear exclusively in his Broadway production, "Louisiana Purchase." When she appeared on the radio, contrary to the contract's provisions and without Mr. DeSylva's permission, Equity (her union) fined her. DeSylva wanted her to continue in his show and her radio sponsor wanted her to continue on the Bernie program, and so this final settlement was made: Mr. DeSylva would permit her to continue on the radio provided she gave fifty percent of her radio salary to the Actors Fund. This Carol agreed to do, and so each week her check for $212, which is fifty percent of her radio net earnings, helps to swell the actors' charity fund.

Tibbett Takes a Chance

... Again a United Air Lines plane crashed. Again Boake Carter, United's radio commentator, reported it, illustrating great freedom of sponsor-artist cooperation. . . . William L. Shirer, CBS Berlin correspondent, is en route to America for the Christmas holidays. . . . Osear Levant ("Information, Please") and Barry Wood ("Your Hit Parade") are brothers-in-law. . . . Lily Pons became an American citizen December 6. She was French, though her heart belonged to America. . . . Kay Kyser and Ben Grauer have been renewed by their cigarette sponsor, assuring that program's continuation throughout the winter regardless of the outcome of ASCAP versus radio-music fight. . . . Ralph Dumke, of the pioneer East and Dumke team ("Sisters of the Skillet"), is recovering from a throat operation. . . . "Cavalcade of America" cut its commercials when Alexander Woollcott presented "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" when advertising would have interrupted the dramatic effect.

Who's Yehudi?

Anyone who tuned late to the December 1 "Chamber Music Society of Lower Basin Street," NBC's swing burlesque of the classics, must have been shocked and bewildered. The "Chamber" was canceled at the last minute to make way for a benefit program by Yehudi Menuhin, violinist, from Carnegie Hall. After a very brief announcement that "Basin Street" would not be heard, Yehudi went on the air with the usual high-brow commentary. The "Chamber's" swing musicians are now saying they've found out who Yehudi is—he's the guy who canceled their show.

PATHOS, colored with heroism, came to "Breakfast Club" recently. Don McNeill, passing through the audience with portable mike, discovered a woman visitor who was getting a last taste of Amerieau fun before heading back to England and grim warfare. The woman, Mrs. M. Davis, had arrived in Chicago a few weeks before to leave her six-year-old son, Michael, with relatives. The day of her "Breakfast Club" visit she was heading for an unnamed port and an unnamed ship bound for England, where she would be on Red Cross duty in the bomb-blasted Midlands.

If those bomb blastings do not have Mrs. Davis too busy, and if short-wave reception is good, some time in a few weeks she will hear, from somewhere in England, her boy's voice chatting with McNeill on the "Breakfast Club."

Santa's Secret Out

Jolly old Santa must have had a merry chuckle over the letter he got from Nancy Ann Bering, seven, for herself and four-year-old brother Frank (they're children of actress Joan Winters, Mrs. Frank Bering). The letter began, "To all the Santa Clauses," and closed with "P. S. I know your secret!" . . . Bob Trendler, PARING THE BUDGET of "Maxwell House Coffee Time" with the new year will eliminate cinema actress-songstress Mary Martin from the cast. Dick Powell may possibly stay, and others, including Fanny "Snooks" Brice, definitely will remain after the pencil-sharpening.

WITH the break between ASCAP and radio near, theme songs already changed are those which introduce "One Man's Family," "Fibber McGee" and "Coffee Time." Rudy Vallee has a BMI (Broadcasters' Music, Inc., the broadcasters' rival music mill) tune ready to replace "My Time Is Your Time," which for ten years has been his air trade-mark but is ASCAP-controlled. While CBS has not changed any theme numbers yet, that network is using BMI music one hundred percent on its sustaining and eighty-five percent on its commercial programs—with no complaints from listeners! When the music battle begins January 1, CBS' "Amos 'n' Andy" will substitute an old Italian song, "La Serenata" (The Angels' Serenade), for "The Perfect Song," which for years has identified them. But—when "La Serenata" is played on the organ it is so much like "The Perfect Song" (which it probably inspired) that most people wouldn't be able to tell the difference!

Bergen and Bing Sign Again

Ventriloquist Edgar Bergen and Bing Crosby have been renewed by their current sponsors through the calendar year of 1941, which ends many rumors, especially about Bing. Crooner Crosby's next option pick-up date comes August 1, 1941, and, even if his contract were allowed then to lapse, he still would continue selling cheese through December 31. According to his new deal, Bing next year will have more freedom to make trips afar, such as to Gonzaga College or the Kentucky Derby, and to do his Kraft chorals from such remote points. Contractual clause terminology is as nothing, however, compared to the decoding job Crosby ran into the other day when he received a telegram from Chicago-appearing hepcat Wingy Manone, the one-armed trumpeter who made two KMH guest appearances following his film with Bing, "Rhythm on the River." Rechecking with the telegraph company still left the message reading: "Man man the people here is crowding me since the picture and radio killer you sent me out of. I sho miss you and will be listening tonight."

Flu Bug Bites Hollywood Rodlo

Chicagoans and New Yorkers are warned (too late?) to beware of Jack Benny, who did his December 8 broadcast while still suffering from the flu and departed next day for the East. The epidemic, said to have been carried from Hawaii to southern California by the Navy, also downed Irene Rich, Al Pearce and Tommy Dorsey, all of whom carried on with their shows despite temperatures.

Purely Personal

Bandleader "Curly" (Phil) Harris has been dating Marie (Figgerful) Frye since his divorce . . . Tunesmith Jimmy Van Heusen is teaching actress Sharon Douglas (lead of CBS Pacific serial "Second Wife") to fly when she isn't busy lunching with radio director Bob Longnecker.

Parties and Parties

Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Morse entertained their "One Man's Family" cast and friends at cocktails December 7 at the American Room of the Brown Derby . . . The newly wed Don Wilsons were guests of honor of a dinner party at the Hollywood Tropics given by Jell-O writer Bill Morrow . . .

Members of the CBS "Those We Love" cast improvised a birthday party December 2 for Donald (Dr. Leslie Foster) Woods which yielded him a fever thermometer from star Nan Grey and a stethoscope from Richard Cromwell! . . . The reel "Mrs. Knute Rockne" (Gale Page) was hostess December 7 at dinner to the real Mrs. Knute Rockne when the late coach's wife came west with the Notre Dame team for its annual game with the U. S. C. eleven . . . Fibber McGee (Jim Jordan) and wife have been entertaining two of Jim's sisters and a brother now visiting Hollywood.

Barrymore's Disappearing Lunch

At Vallee show rehearsal last week a stranger, conservatively dressed, wearing a derby hat and carrying a basket, appeared and asked for John Barrymore. John wasn't on hand, so the man—who said he was Barrymore's butler—was asked to wait. He was also asked by the Vallee show workers what was in the basket. "Mr. Barrymore's lunch," he replied. "What," questioned the Vallee program-makers, "would a great actor like Barrymore be eating?" The butler opened the basket and proudly revealed chicken sandwiches, etc. In a few minutes the cast had "tasted" Mr. B.'s lunch so thoroughly that it had quite disappeared. Then came John and forthwith requested his vittles. "Sir," said his man, "they've eaten it all up!"

Tagline

Mrs. Pasquale, new Pearce Camel show addition, is really Minerva Urecal, stage and stock veteran of years' experience, who really can't speak a word of Italian!

musical director of "Show Boat," "Wings of Destiny," and more other shows than you can shake a baton at, took time from studying musical scales to beam at the baby-scales when an almost-eight-pound boy was born recently to his wife, who is Anne of the Anne, Pat and Judy trio of "Barn Dance" . . . Francis "Dink" Trout has gone to Hollywood to play his air-serial role of Pliny Pickett in the movie version of "Scattergood Baines."

Don't miss "Breakfast Club" on Christmas Day for Don McNeill's very understanding interpretation of the famous Santa Claus editorial which appeared originally in the New York Sun and is reprinted in Don's "Memory Time" book . . . And thanks in advance to Don for reading one of my Christmas poems on the Monday before Christmas . . . Phil Stewart, announcer of the Wayne King program, is an associate producer of the new "Hidden Stars" show and will serve as coach for Orrin Tucker, band-leader-emcee . . . WGN has received a license for FM (frequency modulation) broadcasting . . . "Fibber McGee" comedian Bill Thompson will, as always, spend Christmas with home folks and his many friends in Chicago.

Santo Tips His Hand

Santa Claus gave us an advance peek into the pack he expects to unload at the Crossroads—though there may be some delay before he gets around to it, considering that he has more important business among the kids and poor folks.

Tucked into the sack is that commercial poetry show that Franklyn MacCormack deserves and that his admirers have long asked for . . . In the bag also appears to be a sponsor for Joe "Josh Higgins" DuMond and others for Durward Kirby and the Romeos and Eddie Dunn's WBBM "Saturday Open House."

It looks like nothing but a bundle of switches for everybody who may be responsible for kicking "Club Matinee" around . . . Ditto for Papa Petrillo of the American Federation of Musicians if he does force "Breakfast Club" back to sustaining status . . . There'll be lots of nice things for the "Quiz Kids" and "Bud Barton." The "Quiz Kids" came through with the best new show of 1940; and the "Story of Bud Barton" (one year old Christmas Day) was the most vital contribution to serial drama of the past year. Bless the kids! and so, as Tiny Tim observed, God bless us every one!

THE NATIONAL BROADCASTING STATION OF GUATEMALA

INTERNATIONAL station TGWA, "The Voice of Guatemala," is making an outstanding contribution in the fostering of friendly relations between the United States and Latin America. To fully appreciate its broadcasts one must understand something about colorful and picturesque Guatemala, the northernmost state of Central America.

Guatemala is a land of contrasts where the ancient and the modern meet. Here are jungles whose thick underbrush overgrows and almost conceals exquisite ruins of old Mayan habitations; whose trees abound with howling monkeys, green parrots, and the brilliantly plumaged Quetzal bird—Guatemalan national emblem and symbol of freedom, since it can not live in captivity . . . Here are beautiful, sparkling blue lakes, such as Atitlan, on whose shores rise gigantic volcanic mountains . . . Here are broad, fertile valleys with many plantations, where coffee, bananas and chicle gum are grown (thirty to forty percent of these plantations are owned by Germans who have gained a strong foothold in this country) . . . Here are good roads, good hotels, excellent hunting and fishing, a mild climate, and twenty-four-hour plane service with New York . . . Here the population is seventy percent Indian. They are well educated, colorful and musical—Indians, whose marimba music has now become world famous.

TGWA is a 10,000-watt ultra-modern short-wave station at Guatemala City, the capital of Guatemala. The transmitter was installed by and is operated by United States radio engineers. By means of directive antennae, the station's programs are beamed on the United States, Europe or Latin America at will. All broadcasts to the United States and Canada are announced in English and Spanish; those to Europe in English, French, German, Italian and Spanish; those to Latin America in Spanish only.

GENERAL NOTES: According to Robert Skyten of East Brookfield, Mass., a new station, "Radio Algiers" (8.86), is broadcasting French and Arabic programs, daily from approximately 2 to 4 p.m. EST. The interval signal is one stroke on a Gong. The announcer is a woman . . . "Radio Maroc" (11.94), Rabat, Morocco, is still being heard with fair regularity intermittently from 12 noon to 5:30 p.m. EST. Four strokes on a Gong is the interval signal . . . Don't miss the colorful broadcast of Christmas Eve on Beacon Hill, to be aired over Boston station WRUL (11.73, 6.04), on Tuesday, December 24, starting at 9 p.m. EST. This quaint tradition of an old English Christmas with carols, bell-ringers and Yule cheer carries across the sea the reassurance that New England has not forgotten . . . According to the New Zealand DX Radio Association, the Italian news period broadcast over London stations, GSE (11.86), GSN (11.86) and GSL (6.11), daily at 6:15 a.m. EST, is being jammed—presumably by the Rome stations—with interference akin to the tinkling of sleigh-bells . . . The "American Hour from Rome" is now broadcast daily from 8:10 to 10:30 p.m. EST, over 2R03 (9.63), 2R04 (11.81) and 2R011 (7.22), with the news bulletin in English at 10:15 p.m. EST . . . The new Chinese station XGRX (11.92), in Shanghai, recently mentioned in this column as broadcasting daily from 4 to 7:30 a.m. EST, it has now been established is the Nazi mouthpiece in the Far East, is located in the German Club and is under the direct control of the German Embassy in Shanghai. The programs are composed chiefly of talks in English, Russian and Italian . . . DX listeners tune for FO8AA (7.10), Papete, Tahiti, Tuesdays and Fridays at 11 p.m. EST.

The programs of TGWA, especially those broadcast daily from 12:45 to 2:00 p.m. EST, on a frequency of 15.17 megs, are received in this country and Canada with amazing signal strength. Following is a resume of the regular program features broadcast over TGWA (all time is EST).

MR. FAIRFAX REPLIES

Mr. Fairfax will give personal answers to all readers who send self-addressed stamped envelopes. Remember that he must confine himself exclusively to network personalities and programs. Address Arthur Fairfax, MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE, 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Ill.

Miss Grace Downs, Kankakee, Ill.—Yes, HUGH STUDEBAKER now has the role of Dr. Bob in "Bachelor's Children." He portrayed this role formerly, was replaced by Art Kohl for a while.

Mrs. Walter Mauring, Frankton, Ind.—ART KOHL, former Dr. Bob on "Bachelor's Children," plays Fred in "Right to Happiness" . . . HUGH STUDEBAKER's only regular role at this time is that of Dr. Bob.

Mr. Clarence Ecker, Stanford, Montana—HORACE HEIDT may be addressed at NBC, RCA Bldg., Radio City, New York City.

Miss Ellen Gundrum, Quintin, Pa.—On "Hilltop House" BESS JOHNSON plays Bess Johnson; DOROTHY LOWELL is cast as Linda; SPENCER BENTLEY is Robbie Clark; DAVID GOTHARD is Capt. John Barry; EVELYN STREICH is Gwen Barry; JERRY TUCKER portrays Roy Barry; MARGARET CURTIS is Hazel; NANCY PETERSON is Shirley; WALLACE WARNER is Bill Grey, and RAY WALKER has the role of Duke.

Miss Gene Gilbert, Austin, Tex.—RUDY VALLEE was born July 28, 1901, at Island Pond, Vermont. He is five feet eleven inches tall, weighs about 150 pounds. He has light-brown hair and blue eyes.

Mrs. W. Bisterfeldt, Forest Park, Ill.—JACK BAKER's real name is Ernest Mahlon Jones. He was born in Shreveport, La., on June 29, 1908. He moved to Oklahoma when a youngster and began studying and singing in choirs at Broken Bow when sixteen years old. He graduated from the Henderson State College Conservatory at Arkadelphia, Ark., in 1930, then went to Memphis and auditioned at WMC after spending two hungry weeks looking for other work which would enable him to continue his studies. After a year he returned to Oklahoma to become a teacher and a baseball coach. However, once again he answered the call of radio by going to Detroit. He appeared first on WMBC, then on WXYZ. While at the latter station he came to NBC's Chicago studios for an audition in June, 1936. Jack heard nothing from this audition until he was called to take over the tenor spot on the "Breakfast Club" broadcasts on December 21, 1936. Jack is five feet seven inches tall, weighs 158 pounds, has dark complexion, dark hair and dark eyes. He is married, has no children. Jack wants to own a theater in some southern town when he retires. We wonder if it's because his greatest extravagance is shows.

Mrs. Grace Berry, Butler, Ill.—RAYMOND EDWARD JOHNSON portrays Ed Spalding on "Man I Married."

Miss Marion Hill, Elgin, Ill.—BARBARA JO ALLEN, Beth Holly in "One Man's Family" and "Vera Vague" the comedienne, first started her dramatic work on the stage. She made a nationwide reputation in such plays as

"The Shanghai Gesture," "The Trial of Mary Dugan" and other hits. She played in Henry Duffy's company in Hollywood and San Francisco. Her first radio role was in Carlton E. Morse's "The Witch of Endor." She was heard later in many Coast and transcontinental programs, including "Hawthorne House," "Death Valley Days," "Winning the West," and "One Man's Family." The first appearance of Vera Vague, Miss Allen's most famous character, was the result of a visit she made to a woman's club. She found the speaker, a nervous woman, highly amusing, and she tried to recreate the character. Born in New York, September 2, Miss Allen traveled widely, and she gained her education at Stanford, U. C. L. A., the University of California and the Sorbonne. She is married to Vernon Patterson, author, and has a small daughter, Joan. She has never been married to Barton Yarborough, Clifford of "One Man's Family."

Mrs. G. E. King, Winnfield, La.—At present "LUM AND ABNER" are not on any of the networks and do not have a contract to return to the air. When this does occur it will be listed in MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE.

Miss Lillian Smith, Milwaukee, Wis.—The network will not divulge who plays the part of rich widow Armbruster on "AMOS 'N' ANDY."

Miss Dorothy Hill, Elgin, Ill.—KAY CHASE, Joyce Foster in "Painted Dreams" and also author of this serial, is five feet two inches tall, weighs 110 pounds, has brown hair and brown eyes. Her full name is Katherine Martha Chase or (married name) Katherine C. Goodrich.

Miss Clara Barron, Freeport, Ill.—CARLETON SMITH, by enthusiastically pursuing a hobby, made a place for himself in the radio world. While studying economics and accountancy at the university, he served as music critic for the student newspaper. When the president of the university inquired why anyone interested in music should be studying accountancy, the reply was, "There are numbers in music, and there is music in numbers." The young student, believing radio was soon to revolutionize the concert business and eventually control it, wrote his dissertation on "Economic Aspects of Broadcasting," and later published several articles on the legal phases of radio, in conjunction with Louis G. Caldwell, first legal counsel of the Radio Commission. He has appeared widely in the United States as a lecturer, and was formerly a professor at De Paul University.

Mrs. Martyn Duff, Boston, Mass.—JOHN J. ANTHONY was born in New York City on September 1, 1896. After preliminary school work he decided to make law his life career. During his legal studies he recognized what he called "inequalities" in the marital laws of the nation. These inequalities had their origin in lack of understanding between married couples and those who frame the marriage laws. He made a special study of the legal and social aspects of marriage in such European centers as Paris, Vienna and Berlin, as well as the large cities of the United States, then opened the first Marital Relations Institute in the United States. The Institute was operated as a modern hospital, for, as Anthony explained, it concerned itself with certain ailments of our social life. People who could afford to pay for the services were charged fees, others received attention in the special clinic. Treating these people gave Anthony an unforgettable insight into human values. He has lectured extensively on reform in marriage and divorce laws and has written numerous magazine articles, books and newspaper features. Mr. Anthony is married, has one child.

Miss Helen Taylor, Chicago, Ill.—BOB EBERLY, vocalist with Jimmy Dorsey, and RAY EBERLE, vocalist with Glenn Miller, are brothers.

Mrs. E. F. Wells, Southport, N. C.—On "Gene and Glenn" GENE CARROLL, vocalist, portrays Gene, Jake and Lena. GLENN ROWELL, pianist-vocalist, portrays Glenn.

Miss Anne Smith, Joliet, Ill.—Following is the cast of "Amanda of Honeymoon Hill": Charity Amanda Dyke, JOY HATHAWAY; Joseph Dyke, JOHN MACBRYDE; Edward Leighton, BOYD CRAWFORD; Col. Leighton, JOHN CONNERY; Sylvia, HELEN SHIELDS; Susan, IRENE HUBBARD; Aunt Maizie, FLORENCE EDNEY; Charlie Harris, ROGER DEKOVEN; Jim Tolliver, JACKIE KELK; Job, JUAN HERNANDEZ; Roger, JOHN JAMES; Mrs. Leighton, ELIZABETH LOVE; Olive Courtleigh, RUTH YORKE; Walter Courtleigh, GEORGE LAMBERT; Bret Allen, RICHARD RIDER; Dot, LINDA

WATKINS; Nat Tallifer, EDWARD ANDREWS; E. Lenord, JOHN BROWN; Mrs. Lenord, RUTH GATES; Mrs. Gilder, FLORENCE MALONE; Roy Calvert, JOHN RABY; Marion Leighton, JOY MEREDITH.

Miss Grace Gray, Louisville, Ky.—The role of Father Barbour's secretary in "One Man's Family," which was introduced into this weekly serial Sunday, December 1, was played by MERCEDES McCAMBRIDGE, former Chicago radio star. She and her husband, BILL FIFIELD, announcer and author, have now settled in Hollywood.

A. Thompson, Kankakee, Ill.—On "Life Can Be Beautiful" Henry Bristol (Hank) is portrayed by IAN MARTIN, RUTH YORKE has the role of Marybelle Owens.

Mr. M. T. Tron, St. Marys, Pa.—MYRON McCORMICK portrays Paul Sherwood on "Joyce Jordan, Girl Internec." He came to radio with an enviable record on the legitimate stage and also worked in Hollywood, appearing in the pictures "One-Third of a Nation," "Winterset" and "The Fight for Life." He was born in Albany, Ind., February 8, 1907. Myron attended New Mexico Military Institute, at Princeton played in Triangle shows with James Stewart. His first big break in the theater (and for Stewart, too) was in "Goodbye Again." Myron is five feet eight and one-half inches tall, weighs 150 pounds, has blue eyes and reddish-blond hair. He is a bachelor.

VOICE OF THE LISTENER

Express your opinions. Write V. O. L., 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Ill.

Who Pays for Whose Plugs?

Dear V. O. L.:

When will they call a halt to radio artists using up valuable radio time plugging their own motion pictures? Recently Jack Benny spent about twenty minutes of his sponsor's radio time plugging for himself in a forthcoming picture, while the Jell-O sponsors who paid the radio bill got by with the usual two or three minutes.

In ordinary life it is a commonplace saying that people get tired of someone who is always talking about himself. Yet we are constantly hearing how this or that radio star is about to exhibit himself at some "prumeer." Is it pertinent to ask if the producers of these so-called celluloid classics help to foot the radio bill of the sponsors?

Incidentally, after listening to the "Chase and Sanborn Program" I suggest Mickey Rooney stick to acting and let Donald Dickson do the singing.

Francis P. Burns, New Orleans, La.

● They could at least plug the specific radio programs in the movie publicity and give them credit on the screen, couldn't they?—V. O. L.

The Same Old Story

Dear V. O. L.:

Could something be done to get more similarity of tone between actors on a program and the announcer? That is, why do some announcers almost shout in comparison to the ordinary tone of the characters in the sketch?

It's very annoying to have to run from the kitchen and turn down the volume, then run in again to turn it up. We don't always stay by the radio all through the programs, and we do have neighbors who don't care to hear our radio programs.

Mrs. I. A. Ambrose,
Los Angeles, Calif.

● The same criticism applies to the frequent lack of balance between musical volume and speech volume on the same show. It seems like a hopeless crusade, but we still welcome marchers.—V. O. L.

Three for Mal

Dear V. O. L.:

I read Mrs. McKenzie's letter concerning Malcolm Claire's return with great interest. I heartily agree with her.

I have four children, ages four to nine. They have listened eagerly to Uncle Mal's splendid stories, sent him greetings, and proudly own an autographed copy of his book, "Tune-In Tales." Of course they want him back!

It would be a happier Christmas for many children if Uncle Mal could return to the air before then.

Mrs. LaVerne Brown, Maunie, Ill.

● See below.—V. O. L.

Dear V. O. L.:

I want to hear Malcolm Claire's program again. I always liked it when he was on the air. I hope he can soon be back.

Miss Mary B. Brown (9), Maunie, Ill.

Dear V. O. L.:

I would like to have Uncle Mal back on the air. I like the stories he tells. David Brown (7), Maunie, Ill.

Speaking Up

Dear V. O. L.:

I have just heard the new program called "Speak Up, America." I am indeed glad to find such a program on the air. It fits so well into my work as an English teacher. It presents word study and grammar in such an interesting way. I feel sure my students will enjoy it. Let's have more of this type of educational program.

Mary Clark, El Dorado, Ark.

Christmas Correction

Dear V. O. L.:

I have noted with interest the letter of F. E. S. of Chicago, asking for Christmas music from Thanksgiving on. The writer's sentiments are well intended, but are based on a popular misconception as to the time when the Christmas season occurs. Our commercial interests, with their exaggerated emphasis on advertising and decoration in an effort to cash in on the Christmas spirit, have so perverted and secularized the whole outlook on Christmas that in the public mind the Season of Advent has come to be regarded as the Christmas season.

This is all wrong. The Christmas season does not begin until the Festival of the Holy Nativity, which falls on December 25 (January 6 in the Eastern Church). It continues twelve days; that is, to the Eve of the Epiphany. This is the time, beginning with Christmas Day, when we should be hearing the most of our lovely Christmas music.

As it is now, we hear our Christmas music and hold our Christmas celebrations during Advent, which, after all, is only the preparatory season. Then when the great day finally arrives and the Yuletide has actually begun, the "Christmas spirit" suddenly collapses and expires, and we hear nothing but "Jingle Bells" and "Auld Lang Syne"! The Christmas season itself is for the most part disregarded.

I think a movement should be launched to restore the proper conception of the Christmastide.

Theodore J. Schneider, Th.D.,
Littlestown, Pa.

● How about Christmas music before and after? We surely can't have too much "peace on earth, good will to men" music either as a build-up to Christmas or as an observance of the literal Christmas season.—V. O. L.

Bedtime in Brazil

Dear V. O. L.:

The number of children between the ages of five and ten in these United States runs into the millions. They enjoy the radio as much as we older people, but where is there a program appropriate for this age group?

My youngster is only six, but there are thousands the same age who would certainly look forward every evening to bedtime stories if they were available, and mothers would not have such a hard time getting their children to bed.

I have recently returned to the United States from Brazil, where I have lived some ten years, and I'm surprised to find in this country no children's hour at the bedtime hour. In Brazil the children are given a full half-hour of bedtime stories and songs.

Mrs. Laneta Jewell, San Jose, Calif.

I LISTEN FOR THRILLS

ten and twelve below, great flocks of turkeys were frozen solid alongside roadside fences. At Griswold one thousand stood thus like statues near a barn; near Peterson seven thousand died, and at Paulina 2,200 more. Less than twenty-five percent of the total Iowa brood being fattened for the holiday market survived.

Then another station in the farm-belt told one that the Iowa hog market had strengthened greatly as a result of the blizzard. The price had risen ten cents; the week's receipts were fifty-two thousand head, the largest, with one exception, since last February.

In Des Moines, only one sleeper had turned up for the Kansas City run, and as all planes had been grounded, this one sleeper worked overtime. I was only able to secure an upper.

Again, I fixed my Wavemagnet to the side of the train and went to work, listening to the blizzard. Tragedy came with the laughs. Wives in little towns along the Mississippi were broadcasting to husbands who had gone duck-hunting a day or two before and hadn't been heard from since. They sounded not unlike British mothers talking to their loved ones in these United States from the United Kingdom; and I wondered as I listened to them if we could take it, if the Nazis were doing to us what they have been doing to them so ruthlessly.

A small resort town on the edge of Lake Michigan took advantage of the storm to tell about its many winter advantages. Rolla, Missouri, where that state's School of Mines is located, was telling the outside world of a new School for Army Skiers which it was reported would soon be stationed there. Up in Wisconsin manufacturers of choice cheese came on little stations to advertise the calories in their wares and to inform the public they could not go wrong if they were to purchase their holiday products from them. Charlie Chaplin's "Dictator" in Chicago was being advertised in a clever review of the picture.

All this meant just one thing. The big blow was over, but while millions were still listening, clever advertisers were getting their messages on the air.

In Kansas City next morning, a cheerful announcer reported rising temperatures. I patted my portable as I swung aboard an Oklahoma train. On the run, lecturing here one night and there the next, I nevertheless carried the world with me; a world of news, fun, good music and goose-pimple thrills.

DISCARD YOUR OLD AERIAL

It is Most Likely Corroded and Has Poor or Loose Nalay Connections No MORE BUZZES, CLICKS and shorts from summer rains and winter snow and sleet when using an F & H Capacity Aerial Eliminator. Anyone can connect it in a moment's time to the radio set—occupies only 1 1/2 inch by 4 inch space behind the set, yet enables your radio to operate without an aerial and tune in stations over the entire broadcast band frequencies and short wave channels. ELIMINATE THE AERIAL FOR GOOD Attach this unit in your radio—make your set complete in itself—forget aerial wires and troubles—move your set anywhere—no more roof climbing, unsightly lead-in or aerial wires. VALUE PROVED On the market five years. 150,000 customers in U. S. and foreign countries. In use from the Arctic Region of Norway to the Tropics of Africa. Each factory tested on actual long distance reception. Can be used in any radio—easily connected to any radio, including radios having no ground or radio for doublet aerial. Note: The Eliminator will also greatly increase the power of radios with Built-In Aerials—usually doubling the distance. Note: It will not operate on battery or automobile radios.

mero is one he recently spent with Patricia Morison shortly after the conclusion of their picture, "Romance of the Rio Grande."

Arriving home from the tennis club about six o'clock he first took a shower (whistling a tune which didn't have any tune to it), and by seven-fifteen was togged out in a dinner-jacket, and pretty darn handsome, too.

He picked "Pat" up at her house at 7:30 and they went to a charity affair known as "party of the month" at Alton (Steve) Brodie's house. These are private parties, sponsored by a group of prominent picture folk, with each member of the group throwing a shindig at his house when his turn comes. Drinks sell for fifty cents, dinner is $1.50 per plate. Proceeds go to charity.

From about 7:30 to dinner at nine o'clock, "Butch" sat around, had a couple of drinks and talked to pals. Miss Morison was one of those selected to sell drinks and food-checks to the guests, so she was busy.

Dinner was buffet style, consisting of turkey, shrimp en casserole, mashed potatoes, peas, tomato salad and coffee. "Butch" was one of the few who had a second helping, but he had only turkey and shrimp the second time, skipping the rest.

Following dinner, he and "Pat" did a bit of fancy dancing, kidded with friends and had a good time for themselves. His bill for the evening's entertainment was $10.50, which figures out $3.00 for food and $7.50 for drinks, and might have not been that large if the proceeds didn't go to charity.

When the party broke up, "Butch" took "Pat" home and, without stopping at any of the late spots or at her house, plugged on to his own place in Brentwood (about half-way between Beverly Hills and the ocean), arriving at 3:30 a.m.

Sliding out of his clothes and hanging them up ("Butch" is pretty neat for a bachelor), he tumbled into bed. He then smoked his last cigarette of the day, putting the ashes into a tray at the side of his bed upon which is written:

*L'homme declare son amour;
La femme confesse le sein*

All of which brings me back to my original statement that "Butch" Romero is a good Joe. I like him. The people who work with him like him. Animals like him. Hollywood respects him. And gals go for him in a great big way.

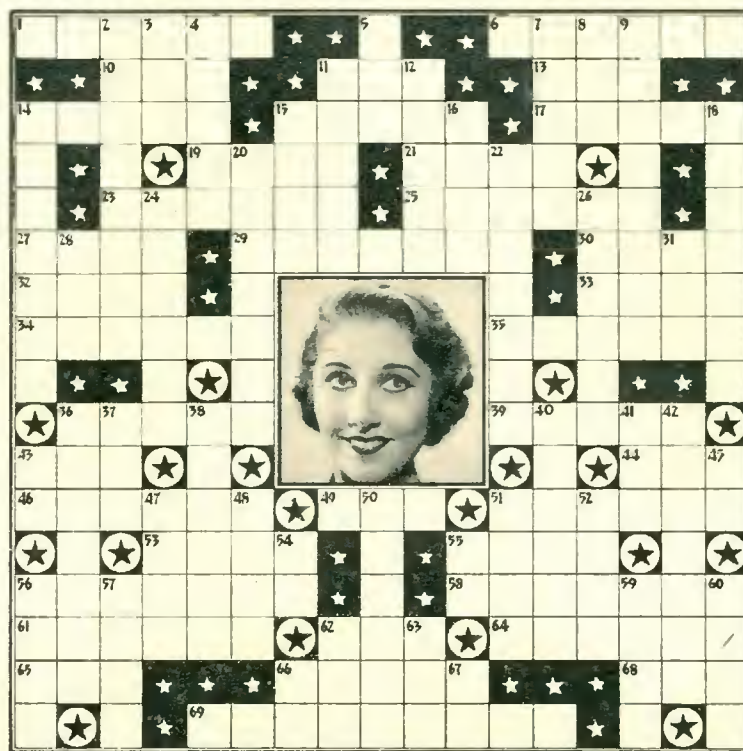

If that seems to be an awful lot for one guy to have, don't forget "Butch" is one guy who deserves only the best. That's my story and I'm sticking to it!

BULLS & BONERS

Bulls and boners are a part of broadcasting. No matter how experienced the performer or how famous the star, chances are that he will make an occasional slip or a statement with twisted meaning which is extremely funny. See how good your ears are. Try to catch broadcasters in some error—the funnier the better—and send your entry to MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE, 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago. The most humorous entries will be printed in this column. Watch for your contribution!

Nancy Craig: "You shake and shake and shake and what comes out is mighty delicious!"—Madge Werkheiser, 516 Wallace Street, Stroudsburg, Pa. (November 5 over Station WJZ.)

the new order is set to take over the first of the year. There is always the possibility, of course, that sometime a compromise might be effected whereby both ASCAP and BMI would make some concessions toward cooperation. This would seem to appeal to many people as the most logical and satisfactory solution in the long run. (In the words of a BMI song, they "could make such beautiful music together!")

Of course you still want to hear "St. Louis Blues" and "God Bless America" on your radio. But you probably believe also that there should be an opportunity for any other American who thinks he can write better blues than "St. Louis Blues" or a greater song of the nation than "God Bless America."

YOU ASKED FOR THEM AND HERE THEY ARE

Dear Sirs: Is it true that Doris Dudley, much-spanked daughter of John Barrymore in his recent play, is now in radio? If so, where, and her picture, please.—James Dunn, Cairo, Ill.

A Money-Making Opportunity for Men of Character

EXCLUSIVE FRANCHISE FOR AN INVENTION EXPECTED TO REPLACE A MULTI-MILLION-DOLLAR INDUSTRY

Costly Work Formerly
"Sent Out" by Business Men
Now Done by Themselves at a Fraction of the Expense

This is a call for men everywhere to handle exclusive agency for one of the most unique business inventions of the day.

Forty years ago the horse and buggy business was supreme—today almost extinct. Twenty years ago the phonograph industry ran into many millions—today practically a relic. Only a comparatively few foresighted men saw the fortunes ahead in the automobile and the radio. Yet irresistible waves of public buying swept these men to fortune, and sent the buggy and the phonograph into the discard. So are great successes made by men able to detect the shift in public favor from one industry to another.

Now another change is taking place. An old established industry—an integral and important part of the nation's structure—in which millions of dollars change hands every year—is in thousands of cases being replaced by a truly astonishing, simple invention which does the work better—more reliably—AND AT A COST OFTEN AS LOW AS 2% OF WHAT IS ORDINARILY PAID! It has not required very long for men who have taken over the rights to this valuable invention to do a remarkable business, and show earnings which in these times are almost unheard of for the average man.

Not a "Gadget"—
Not a "Knick-Knack"—

but a valuable, proved device which has been sold successfully by business novices as well as seasoned veterans.

Make no mistake—this is no novelty—no flimsy creation which the inventor hopes to put on the market. You probably have seen nothing like it yet—perhaps never dreamed of the existence of such a device—yet it has already been used by corporations of outstanding prominence—by dealers of great corporations—by their branches—by doctors, newspapers, publishers—schools—hospitals, etc., etc., and by thousands of small business men. You don't have to convince a man that he should use an electric bulb to light his office instead of a gas lamp. Nor do you have to sell the same business man the idea that some day he may need something like this invention. The need is already there—the money is usually being spent right at that very moment—and the desirability of saving the greatest part of this expense is obvious immediately.

Some of the Savings
You Can Show

You walk into an office and put down before your prospect a letter from a sales organization showing that they did work in their own office for $11 which formerly could have cost them over $200. A building supply corporation pays our man $70, whereas the bill could have been for $1,600! An automobile dealer pays our representative $15, whereas the expense could have been over $1,000. A department store has expense of $88.60, possible cost if done outside the business being well over $2,000. And so on. We could not possibly list all cases here. These are just a few of the many actual cases which we place in your hands to work with. Practically every line of business and every section of the country is represented by these field reports which hammer across dazzling, convincing money-saving opportunities which hardly any business man can fail to understand.

EARNINGS

One man in California earned over $1,600 per month for three months—close to $5,000 in 90 days' time. Another writes from Delaware—"Since I have been operating (just a little less than a month of actual selling) and not the full day at that, because I have been getting organized and had to spend at least half the day in the office; counting what I have sold outright and on trial, I have made just a little in excess of one thousand dollars profit for one month." A man working small city in N. Y. State made $10,805 in 9 months. Texas man nets over $300 in less than a week's time. Space does not permit mentioning here more than these few random cases. However, they are sufficient to indicate that the worthwhile future in this business is coupled with immediate earnings for the right kind of man. One man with us has already made over a thousand sales on which his earnings ran from $5 to $60 per sale and more. A great deal of this business was repeat business. Yet he had never done anything like this before coming with us. That is the kind of opportunity this business offers. The fact that this business has attracted to it such business men as former bankers, executives of businesses—men who demand only the highest type of opportunity and income—gives a fairly good picture of the kind of business this is. Our door is open, however, to the young man looking for the right field in which to make his start and develop his future.

Profits Typical of the Young, Growing Industry

Going into this business is not like selling something offered in every grocery, drug or department store. For instance, when you take a $7.50 order, $5.83 can be your share. On $1,500 worth of business, your share can be $1,167.00. The very least you get as your part of every dollar's worth of business you do is 67 cents—on ten dollars' worth $6.70, on a hundred dollars' worth $67.00—in other words two thirds of every order you get is yours. Not only on the first order—but on repeat orders—and you have the opportunity of earning an even larger percentage.

This Business Has Nothing to Do With
House to House Canvassing

Nor do you have to know anything about high-pressure selling. "Selling" is unnecessary in the ordinary sense of the word. Instead of hammering away at the customer and trying to "force" a sale, you make a dignified, business-like call, leave the installation—whatever size the customer says he will accept—at our risk, let the customer sell himself after the device is in and working. This does away with the need for pressure on the customer—it eliminates the handicap of trying to get the money before the customer has really convinced himself 100%. You simply tell what you offer, showing proof of success in that customer's particular line of business. Then leave the invention without a dollar down. It starts working at once. In a few short days, the installation should actually produce enough cash money to pay for the deal, with profits above the investment coming in at the same time. You then call back, collect your money. Nothing is so convincing as our offer to let results speak for themselves without risk to the customer! While others fail to get even a hearing, our men are making sales running into the hundreds. They have received the attention of the largest firms in the country, and sold to the smallest businesses by the thousands.

No Money Need Be Risked

in trying this business out. You can measure the possibilities and not be out a dollar. *If you are looking for a business that is not overcrowded—a business that is just coming into its own—on the upgrade, instead of the downgrade—a business that offers the buyer relief from a burdensome, but unavoidable expense—a business that has a prospect practically in every office, store, or factory into which you can set foot—regardless of size—that is a necessity but does not have any price cutting to contend with as other necessities do—that because you control the sales in exclusive territory is your own business—that pays more on some individual sales than many men make in a week and sometimes in a month's time—if such a business looks as if it is worth investigating, get in touch with us at once for the rights in your territory—don't delay—because the chances are that if you do wait, someone else will have written to us in the meantime—and if it turns out that you were the better man—we'd both be sorry.
