APPLAUDS: PATRICIA MORISON

PATRICIA MORISON (right) young Paramount star now engaged in making "The Morning After," has hit upon an idea for making the life of America's service men easier, more pleasant, and warmer at a time of the year when everybody needs a friend—Christmas. Miss Morison, who has relatives in England that have known a couple of pretty unpleasant Yuletides recently, is heading a national campaign for everyone to "Entertain a Soldier for Christmas."

The idea will be executed simply by calling for volunteers, preferably living near the large training-centers, who will offer to share their Christmas spirit and dinners with one or more soldiers, sailors or marines. It won't be difficult to enlist public-spirited citizens, we are sure, and those of the MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE readers who wish to do their part need only write to Miss Morison, care of Paramount Studios, Hollywood.

For six months now the editors of this weekly and many of their friends have been turning over their house-keys and ladders to the lads in olive drab or blue who are lucky enough to get week-end passes. The cockles of your hearts would warm to see how the service men enjoy a taste of home now and then for as little as twenty-four hours.

Gene Raymond and Jeanette MacDonald started doing something of the sort recently when they inaugurated a series of bi-weekly parties for service men at their Hollywood home. Games, dancing, swimming, eats, and dates for soldiers are provided by Gene and Jeanette.

To Patricia Morison, therefore, and to the Raymonds and others who we know will follow their good suggestions and examples, the Editors of MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE vote their hearty applause.

BACK ON THE air with more laughs than ever, Bob Hope is beginning his fourth year for the same sponsor. Another event is the portrait of Hope by Eugene Robert Richee on this week's cover. Bob's current film is "Nothing But the Truth," with Paulette Goddard. (For exclusive pictures of Hope's show cast, see page 37.)

The EDITORS' NOTE

GILBERT SELDES, in the current issue of a contemporary magazine which costs too much to be read (except on loanout) by the general public, lists six reasons why the public isn't patronizing the movies the way it used to. We have no fight to pick with Mr. Seldes. Some—maybe all—of his reasons may be quite correct. But we'd like to put the following on record as the most delightful movie evening we have spent in some time:

We were invited to Warner Bros. to witness a preview showing of the R. A. F.-made short feature, "Target for Tonight." But when we arrived, we first were treated to a most interesting, informative and humorous Technicolor short, "The Tanks Are Coming." Then followed a streamlined, thirty- or forty-minute remake version of the old Richard Barthelmess starring yarn, "At the Stroke of Twelve," by Damon Runyon, and capping the climax, the most interesting British-made "Target for Tonight" in which actual members of the R. A. F. enact a typical bombing raid into Germany, showing each step required—and the result.

We thoroughly enjoyed every picture of the three, which were shown in exactly ninety minutes—one hour and a half. We drove leisurely home, with time to eat a light snack before retiring.

Maybe that's another trouble with the movies. They take too long to get to the point in this streamlined day of speed.

BUT rather than find fault with movies, nearly all of which we like, we'd rather do a bit of boasting about our own discovery, war correspondent Edwin Hartrich, former CBS radio reporter from both the German and Allied fronts, the only two-front war observer available in these so-far peaceful regions. He is here because the Nazi Gestapo didn't like his sharp mind, his ability to get the truth through to America. He was asked to leave Berlin last December.

When we heard about him we proposed that he write the current series of articles and supervise the drawing of war maps which would make it possible for the average American radio listener to understand the war communique broadcasts better and, at the same time, provide the real inside stories that have not been told here yet because of military censorship. He has done both nobly, and—please note—his sense of timing has been uncanny!

Last issue he gave the lowdown on "Hitler's Tragic 'Victory,'" the story of why Hitler went after Russia and why his "victory" is a hollow one. This week, young but experienced Mr. Hartrich will unfold "Why Doesn't England Invade Now?" Don't miss his analysis and behind-the-scenes material. If we weren't writing from Hollywood, we'd say he's terrific!

NEXT WEEK, with lovely Ann Sheridan on the cover in color by the expert Jack Albin, the "Truth About Ann Sheridan's Non-Engagement Ring" is revealed. Gene Autry's working day at Republic Studios is told in pictures. Oh, yes, and there's a war map. You'd better order it NOW.—The Editors.

EXCLUSIVE: MICKEY ROONEY'S JIVE HOEDOWN

MICKEY ROONEY and Judy Garland danced the La Conga in "Strike Up the Band," and the dance swept the country last year as a national favorite. Now in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Babes on Broadway," to be released early in 1942, they are introducing a modern version of the old-time hoedown to a new song, "Hoe Down," written by Roger Edens and Ralph Freed. Anyone can dance the Rooney hoedown. It's fun, too!

Steps of the new dance combine some of the old-fashioned hoedown with the latest rug-cutting jive. While it is given a spectacular production in the picture, its basic steps are simple enough to catch on quickly in dance halls, night-clubs everywhere. Mickey and Judy hope it will prove even more popular than the Conga.

Words of the song's opening chorus (italicized) best describe the dance as shown by these pictures—

1. "Hoedown! The country's gone hoedown!"

The boy and girl start out in the dance's key step, a shuffling step forward with a new twist of the body and backward jerk of the thumb.

2. "It's putting its toe down, and kickin' its heel."

They do exactly what the words say, first pointing toe at the floor, then stamping heel, meanwhile dancing and tapping wildly about each other.

3. "Hoedown! Is really a rare dance."

Again it's a shuffle forward in a variation of the first hoedown step. This time the toes are pointed in, the arms straight down and crossing in front of the body.

4. "A pioneer square dance, but with a new deal."

Here they really swing into action, frantically circling each other, then coming together suddenly again. When dancing in a crowd, they even change partners in what amounts to a speeded-up version of the early-day square dance.

5. "One . . . two . . . Swing your partner lightly . . ."

After coming together, the boy grabs the girl around the waist, swings her off the floor around him onto his knee. This is where the modern swing fans will come into their own.

6. "While you hold her ever so tightly."

From his knee the boy gives the girl a spin away from him, then pulls her back and lets her drop with legs stretched out in front of him. If he's good he catches her just before she hits the floor.

The rest of the song is:

*"Go down and bring your best beau down.
We're facing a showdown and got to make hay . . .
'Cause hoedown's on its way!"*

As the chorus continues, the basic steps of the dance are repeated. It ends in a shuffle step forward with one arm stretched forward shaking a finger as though to say——"See, didn't I tell you so?" —E. P.

Why So Many Pretty Girls

"WHY," inquired the editor, "do so many pretty girls come from Texas? There's Ann Sheridan from Denton and Dallas, Ann Miller from Chireno and Houston, Mary Martin from Weatherford, and Linda Darnell from Dallas. They're standouts. Then there's Helen Vinson and Adrienne Ames from Beaumont and Fort Worth. Among the starlets are Evelyn Keyes, Georgia Carroll, Judith Barrett, Lynne Roberts and Ann Morriss, all from Texas. Find out why."

So we set out to investigate. Our first call was the World Almanac. "The peach," the almanac stated dryly, "is the leading Texas fruit."

Next we turned to the U. S. weather bureau. Here a diligent young lady uncovered some interesting facts. Dallas, a predominating beauty spot, it seems—after a look at the source of Misses Sheridan-Darnell-Miller-Martin—up to 1920, about the time they were born, had a mean temperature of sixty-five degrees. The thermometer had never gone below ten degrees. Mean maximum temperature was 74.7 and mean minimum 55.3. Denton and Houston temperature was about the same as Dallas. Chireno and Weatherford were too small to have temperatures taken.

But the young weather lady imparted, "Texas generally has moist, warm tropical air, particularly near the Gulf. Winters near the Gulf are moderately mild." There, we thought, we have it. Texas beauties grow up without being blighted.

But that's as far as we proved anything in our investigation, for when we looked into the beauty foursome's childhood diet, upbringing, here's what we found:

Linda Darnell's favorite childhood teething was done on beefsteak, black-eyed peas with pepper sauce and lots of milk. The Darnells always spent

LINDA DARNELL: Beautiful in a straightforward sort of way. Wholesomeness is Linda's appeal, clear-eyed without anything superficial or sensational about her. Five feet five inches, Linda (left) as a charming glamour girl was Hollywood's No. 1 Cinderella girl of 1939, being cast in a leading role in her first film. Above: Linda in her latest, "Rise and Shine"

ANN SHERIDAN: There's no pretense or affectation about her. Ann (above) is Texas' glamorous redhead and a 1941 American girl. She likes all things an average girl enjoys—swimming, horseback riding, dancing, especially the rumba—will tell you she was born in Dallas. Left: Ann with Ronald Reagan will be seen in "Kings Row" considerable time at picnics, riding horses and out in the open air.

Come From Texas

Ann Sheridan gave the climate and general Texas good health as the determining factor, added: "We from Texas eat good, wholesome food, including lots of fruit and vegetables. It's really only a little time since Texas was a frontier and girls from there today are but two or three generations removed from pioneers who settled the plains. That's where we get sturdy bodies and qualities like courage, initiative, self-reliance and poise," she explained.

Ann Miller, on the other hand, had a puny start in life despite Texas. Dancing lessons, given her when a baby, overcame that handicap, developed her lithesome figure. She admits eating man-sized steaks when but ten years old, lots of fresh vegetables at her grandmother's. She also drank barrels of clear well water, spent many nights camping.

Mary Martin somewhat disproved the trio's backgrounds. She said she'd hardly recommend her diet as a youngster as a beauty formula. "I ate too much candy, peanuts, crackerjack, drank too much pop, had my share of green apples. I also had all varieties of measles, but I do think Texas climate is a beauty aid." Mary likewise took up dancing, even taught it at her own school and so improved her figure, vitality.

And there you have the Lone Star state's secret of pulchritude. All you have to do is add up the stated advantages, divide by two, and you'll still have a very sharp set-up. There's one thing we did not do in pursuing our investigation. We didn't write to the Texas Chamber of Commerce. We know what their answer would have been. Something like:

"Beautiful girls from Texas, sir? Why, what other kind of girls do you think we raise down heah?"—E. P.

MARY MARTIN: A vivacious and statuesque beauty whose flashing brown, mischievous eyes reflect her every mood. Mary (top photo) is a Weatherford, Texas, contribution to the long parade of the Lone Star state's pretty damsels in the movies. Mary's refreshing personality, democratic manner plus her drawl add greatly to her increasing popularity. Mary (above) with Bing Crosby and Carolyn Lee will soon be seen in "Birth of the Blues," story of the origin and development of blues music

ANN MILLER: This brunette beauty and nimble dancer is a true picture of what the healthy atmosphere of Texas can do for a girl. A sickly child, Ann (above) blossomed into a comely young lady by spending lots of time on Texas' wide open ranges, eating plenty of Texas' green foods. This, plus her dancing-school work, has made her one of Hollywood's most sensational dancers. Ann (right) in the role of a dancer in "Go West, Young Lady" will win new laurels

MOVIE-RADIO SPOTLIGHT:

"BIG TOWN" Editor ROBINSON Crusades on Screen

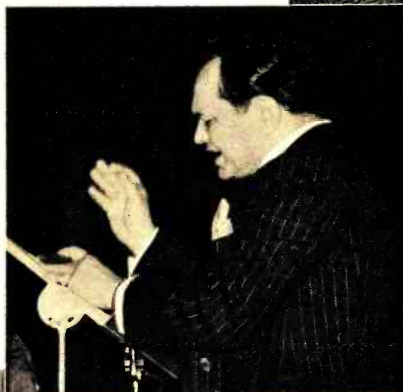

FOR those who know Edward G. Robinson chiefly as Steve Wilson in the Columbia Broadcasting System's "Big Town" radio program it is difficult to think of the veteran Hollywood actor as any type of character except a hard-boiled, square-shooting newspaperman. But with the many moviegoers who consider Robinson films must-go-see items it's a different story. If you check the roster of Hollywood artists and the list of their pictures you'll see how astonishingly versatile the little giant really is. Take the cases of last year's "Brother Orchid" and "Dr. Ehrlich's Magic Bullet." In those he played a thug turned monk and a medical benefactor. Then there was his brutal role as a sea captain in "Sea Wolf." And remember "Little Caesar" and "The Hatchet Man"? One of Robinson's outstanding film portrayals of a newspaperman was in "A Dispatch From Reuters." Now it's good news for radio and movie fans alike that his new M-G-M film, "Unholy Partners," is another newspaper story of a hell-bent-for-copy newspaperman and his fight against the underworld—pitching hot lead type in reply to hot lead slugs from the triggermen. The story is laid in the days of post-war inflation and prohibition, of "bunion derbies" and marathon dances, of the big bull market in Wall Street and of tons of ticker-tape fluttering from skyscraper windows upon returning heroes, of transatlantic flights, that fateful day of the market crash and the dramatic climax of the editor's (Robinson's) answer on the most vital question concerning life. Those who like Robinson best as radio's Steve Wilson will enjoy this new movie; those who like Robinson's screen portrayals won't be disappointed either—because M-G-M's new picture, "Unholy Partners," is thrilling, dramatic Robinson action all the way. —D. M.

BIG NEWS is breaking fast and furiously again in radio's "Big Town." And Steve and Lorelei are on the job (above) with telephone and teletype—and plenty of other resources—getting the news and fighting for justice. The whirlwind dramatic program is back on CBS Wednesday nights for its fourth successful season. As in ROBINSON puts into his radio acting (right) the same fire, the same genuine intensity without overacting that he has always given to his roles on the screen. Listeners like the way he makes "Big Town" crackle with human events

"UNHOLY PARTNERS" presents Edward G. Robinson (l.) and Edward Arnold as enemies in a newspaper partnership 6

ROBINSON, as an honest newspaper editor, shoots his crooked partner (Arnold), gets drop on the triggerman (Joe Downing), escapes to safety

A TRANSATLANTIC flight in which Robinson sacrifices his life for a friend and his sweetheart (Laraine Day) is the thrilling climax

ONA "LORELEI" MUNSON Has Bad-Girl Problem

ONA MUNSON, petite, pretty and amiable, is one of Hollywood's best "bad girls" as far as screen activities are concerned. The blond actress has done a succession of villainess roles with such finesse that she has become virtually typed on the screen. And her success in such evil roles has been achieved over the handicap of her slight frame, which isn't exactly the type for the heavy roles Miss Munson has been portraying in pictures. However, in spite of such typing in a series of screen roles, Miss Munson's versatility, well established on both stage and screen, is demonstrated to the many loyal followers of the "Big Town" radio show.

On the air she is an ideal team-mate for Edward G. Robinson, playing the part of his valuable girl reporter, Lorelei. In that role she is not a siren, though she does let her romantic emotions break through now and then. She is not languorous; she is brisk. As the dependable sob-sister she has the chance to emerge, at least through her voice, from the bad-girl complex and demonstrate the range of her ability, at the same time finding a creative thrill herself in the contrast. In "Gone With the Wind" Ona, who is five feet two inches and weighs an even hundred pounds, had to have her clothes padded heavily and lifts placed on her shoes to create the illusion of the buxom Belle Watling. Now in "Shanghai Gesture," she is portraying a sly-eyed Chinese woman of the world, Madame Gin Sling. Regarding her versatile roles, Ona said: "Being first and foremost an actress, trained in the theater, it is only natural that any colorful role offers challenge to my imagination and instincts in that line." Ona passes the situation off lightly by ascribing her dual dramatic nature to the fact that she was born under the sign of Gemini, the Twins!

—D. M.

the past, Edward G. Robinson is Steve Wilson, driving but humane editor of the "Illustrated Press." Blond Ona Munson for the third season is Lorelei, Steve's assistant. In addition to "Big Town," Robinson and Miss Munson are busy on movie lots. Robinson's next is "Unholy Partners," Miss Munson's is "The Shanghai Gesture"

LEFT: Ona Munson at the microphone during a CBS "Big Town" dramatization is casual but alert, just as girl-reporter Lorelei, the character she portrays, would be in the editorial offices of the fictitious "Illustrated Press"

ONA MUNSON had to have her figure padded as Belle Watling in "Gone With the Wind." But her acting needed no artificial aid!

IN "Lady From Louisiana" Ona played Julie Mirbeau, a southern belle whose activity in a lottery was due to misunderstanding, not vice

"WILD GEESE CALLING" was another picture in which Ona played the part of a woman of low reputation, though the character was a sympathetic one

AND NOW in "The Shanghai Gesture" Miss Munson will be an almond-eyed, worldly Chinese woman, Mme. Gin Sling

OVER AT PARAMOUNT where they are filming "Reap the Wild Wind," Paulette Goddard is again the center of attraction—this time for getting a spanking from Ray Milland. The picture, filmed in Technicolor, directed by Cecil B. DeMille, is a saga of the Florida Keys during the swashbuckling days of sailing ships—the 1840's. Paulette has just told Milland she'd been playing him for a sucker romantically when (1) Ray decides to spank her. But Paulette (2) fights back and is literally (3) swept off her feet by Milland and (4) onto his knees, spanked properly

SALUTING UNITED STATES' youth and starring winsome Jane Withers (above), 20th C.-Fox in "Young America" will soon bring to the screen the colorful history-making activities of our famous 4-H clubs. In this film many Americans will discover vital facts about their country just as Jane Withers did while making it

BETWEEN PICTURES at her home lot (Warners) Ann Sheridan (left) recently lunched with two top M-G-M glamour girls, Ann Sothorn (center) and Hedy Lamarr (right), at the M-G-M commissary. Talk was divided between such topics as new pictures, new roles, new hair-dos (notice Hedy's), and a good time was had by all

PERHAPS WE'D better tell you right away or you'd never guess that the young lady above is Veronica Lake, of the beautiful honey-blond hair. Taking advantage of her boyish figure, Veronica has donned a hobo outfit for "Sullivan's Travels," a story of a rich youngster who learns that there's great need for laughter in the world. The picture is now in production at Paramount Studios

AT UNIVERSAL, where she is co-starring with Charles Boyer again, this time in the comedy romance "Appointment for Love," diminutive Margaret Sullivan (above) is chugging around on a motorcycle, has become a familiar sight riding the motor-bike on the lot. Mother of three, Miss Sullivan spends considerable time piloting a plane besides making at least one picture a year

and Victor Mature

"Hot Spot"

Cast: Betty Grable, Victor Mature, Carole Landis, Laird Cregar, William Gargan, Alan Mowbray, Allyn Joslyn. Directed by Bruce Mumberstone; produced by Milton Sperling. Screen play by Dwight Taylor. From the novel "I Wake Up Screaming," by Steve Fisher.

This is the Story: "Hot Spot" is something like a one-cent sale. For the price of one, movie-goers will not only thrill to a superb murder mystery thriller but they will also witness some very sterling acting. The story revolves around the murder of Vicky Lynn (Carole Landis). Although Carole is a morgue candidate as the picture opens, she gets plenty of acting opportunities through use of the flash-back technique. Through the fanatical efforts of detective Ed Cornell (Laird Cregar), circumstantial evidence points out Frankie Christopher (Vic Mature) as the murderer. The unraveling of the story is tense, makes it a chair-holder until the final few feet of film, but to tell more of the story here would only deprive it of much of its suspense.

Verdict: Under the Zanuck roof, Grable, Mature and Landis have all three blossomed into box-office names. Their histrionic efforts in this picture warrant that popularity, but a special bit of praise must be set aside for Laird Cregar, who does one of the finest pieces of character acting that Hollywood has seen.

"Dumbo"

Credits: A Walter Disney full-length Technicolor cartoon feature; released by RKO-Radio Pictures. Screen story by Joe Grant and Dick Huemer. Music by Frank Churchill, Ned Washington, Oliver Wallace and Arthur Quimper.

Type of Picture: An animated cartoon comedy-drama in color, full-length feature size, with a traveling circus as its locale.

This is the Story: Dumbo is an amazing baby circus elephant who brings disgrace to his mother by being born with such huge, flapping ears that he is looked upon as a freak, and is always stumbling on his ear tips when he goes to do a trick. How he triumphs over his difficulty would spoil the story—so go and see.

Verdict: "Dumbo" comes close to "Snow White" as Disney's next best feature to date.

Waiting for Rejection

Humphrey Bogart is waiting for someone to turn down a role so that he can go back to work. Some of the best roles that Bogart has had have been rejects by other actors. Paul Muni turned down "High Sierra." George Raft turned down "The Maltese Falcon." John Garfield turned down "All Through the Night." So when friends asked Humphrey what his next picture would be, he answered them by saying he was waiting for some other actor to turn down had a line strung right to Ann's dressing-room. Now they have resumed their nightly tete-a-tete.

Tahitian Surprise

Out at 20th Century-Fox they are shooting a picture called "Son of Fury," starring Tyrone Power and Gene Tierney. In one sequence one hundred extras were required for a Tahitian ceremony. The nationality breakdown of the extras makes an interesting oddity. There was one Eskimo, three Italians, thirty-five Hawaiians, eighteen Hindus, sixteen Mexicans, twenty-five Spaniards and but TWO Tahitians!

Footprints for Posterity

When Bud Abbott and Lou Costello have their footprints recorded for posterity in the cement foyer outside of Grauman's Chinese Theater next month, and thus take their places with the greats of movieland, they will not forget to carry the ball for Uncle Sam. Under their signatures and footprints the comedians will urge those casting their eyes cementward to "Buy Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps."

Leave It to Hollywood

A Hollywood theater last week came through with a very unique way of advertising its show. On car seats, in letters and many other and odd ways, small cards were placed reading, "Confidential tip—for a very entertaining evening, call Rosebud HO-5204." The curious and others upon calling were told to be sure and see "Citizen Kane," now playing to overflow patronage at the Hawaii Theater.

HONEYMOONERS: Rosalind Russell and actors' agent Frederick Brisson are honeymooning in Miami and Cuba after their long-awaited marriage came off October 26. It was a formal wedding, took place at the 137-year-old Santa Ynez mission at Danish community of Solvang near Santa Barbara, Calif., with more than a hundred friends, including many Hollywood stars, present. They will return to Hollywood in two weeks, live in Beverly Hills local draft board. An appeal agent has asked for a review of Martin's classification, acting both for Martin and M-G-M, where he is under contract. He will have ten days in which to submit evidence in support of his appeal.

Correspondent Markey

Gene Markey, on naval duty in Panama, has found time to write to only three women in Hollywood and two of them are former wives, Joan Bennett and Hedy Lamarr. The other feminine missive-receiver is Carole Landis, who has just said good-bye to an ex-husband who joined the R. A. F.

Army to See Film Stars

High-salaried Hollywood stars soon will be appearing twice weekly in entertainment programs before Army and Navy camps throughout the country. This was agreed upon when the Screen Actors Guild held its annual meeting in Hollywood recently. Under the guidance of Guild president Edward Arnold, the camp programs will be outlined and put on the road before the first of December.

LIFE STATISTICS

Gables Happy and Adopting

Back from a hunting trip in the Black Hills of South Dakota, the Clark Gables were immediately deluged with a barrage of rumors hinting at a separation. Scoffing at such talk, the Gables immediately left on another hunting junket to northern California. Everything is really very hunky-dory between the two and rumors that the couple has applied to the Cradle in Evanston, Ill., for twin babies are more likely than the separation pratings.

Stork to Visit Astaires

Sometime in February the Fred Astaires are expecting another visit from the long-legged bird. The new arrival will mark their third child, the family already including a five-year-old son, Fred, Jr., and a thirteen-year-old stepson, Peter. You can bet they are pulling for a girl.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Jinx Falkenburg and Randy Scott continue to see a lot of one another . . . Cesar Romero and Ann Sothern are becoming a regular twosome. Meanwhile, Ann's soon-to-be ex, Roger Pryor, is twining with Priscilla Stillman. Priscilla is a long-time girl friend of Romero's, and Romero and Pryor are supposed to be pals! . . . The Franchot Tones were guests of the William Powells at the Hollywood Tropics . . . Hedy Lamarr and Charlie Chaplin were an eye-opening couple at Mocambo . . . Gloria Vanderbilt and Howard Hughes rumbaing at Ciro's . . . Russ Stoneham of the New York Giants Stonehams hitting the Hollywood niteries with Georgia Carroll . . . Ginger Rogers and George Montgomery still seeing plenty of each other and now dining where news cameras are barred.

HOSPITALIZED

Gene Tierney Stricken

Collapsing on a set at 20th Century-Fox, Gene Tierney was rushed home and given immediate medical attention. She was found to be suffering from nervous exhaustion aggravated by a severe cold. Schedules are being revised based on Miss Tierney's being out for at least ten days.

Re: Lou Gehrig Ballot

Movie-Radio Guide wants at this time to thank its many readers who have sent in ballots for the Lou Gehrig casting poll, and to tell them that all ballots and letters are being counted and forwarded to Samuel Goldwyn, producer of the picture. Results of the Movie-Radio Guide poll will be published for our readers in an early issue. Thank you.

keep Bette Davis in Hollywood when she heard that her husband, Arthur Farnsworth, was critically ill with pneumonia in a Minneapolis hospital. Forced down by a dense fog and having to drive the final ninety miles, Miss Davis was just the prescription Farnsworth needed to stage a phenomenal recovery. Today he is practically a well man. Miss Davis, at the time her husband's sickness became acute, was not aware that his condition was as serious as it turned out to be. As soon as she heard about it October 22, she dropped everything to fly to him. It was Bette's first plane trip and she experienced some of the worst flying weather of the year.

STUDY: Judy Garland, going over her "Silver Theater" script—for performance of "Eternally Yours"—atop a table in CBS Hollywood studio, is a study in concentration. Currently Judy is completing her work with Mickey Rooney in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Babes on Broadway," which has Judy and Mickey dancing a new jive hoedown (see page 2) in "Bedtime Story," has gone on to New York, where he will start rehearsals for the play "Hope for a Harvest" in which he will be co-starred with his wife, Florence Eldridge.

ASSIGNMENTS

New Life for Mr. Cregar

One of the finest character actors to turn up in Hollywood in many a day is 20th Century-Fox' talented Laird Cregar. Enormous in size, Mr. Cregar can just barely get his bulk into a telephone booth and, equally enormous in talent, he has literally "stolen" every picture he has appeared in so far. In "Hot Spot" he shines above an excellent cast. In "Paris Calling," as a Gestapo chief, he was slated for death in reel two. However, his performance was so worthy that the picture's director had the script revised so that Cregar could live until the picture's end.

Contract Troubles

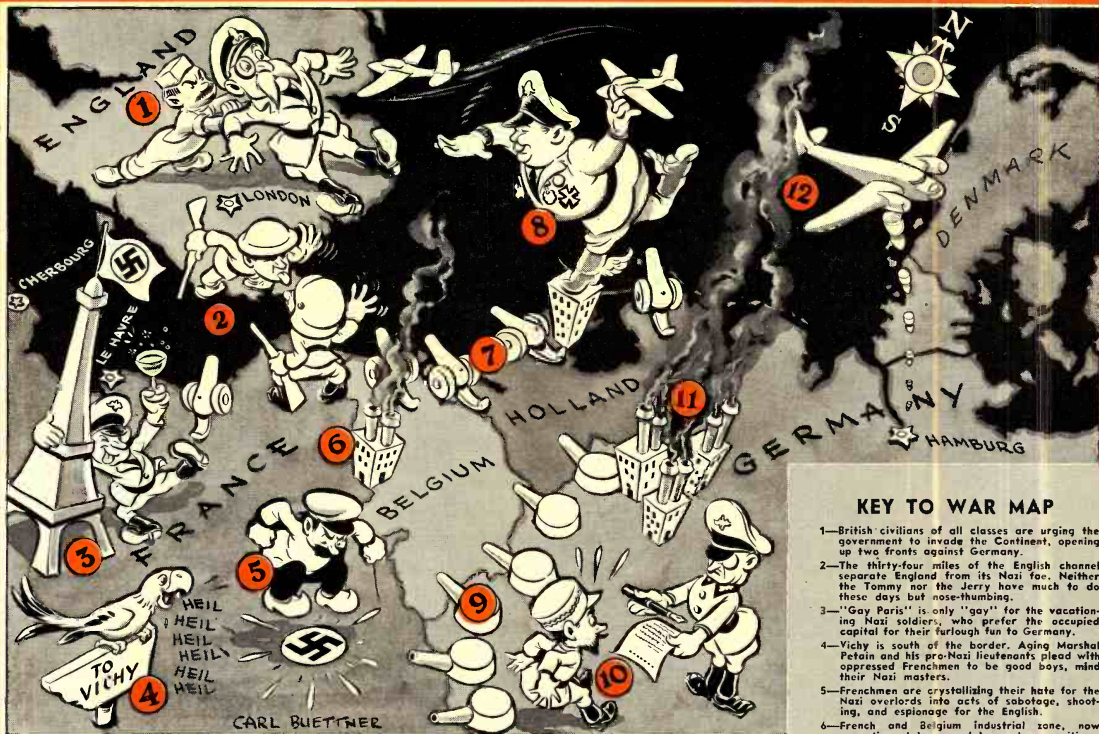

Two of Hollywood's well-known leading men are having contract troubles with their respective studios but over different problems. Preston Foster, irked by too many "B" pictures, may ask his studio to release him from his contract come December option time. On the other hand, Robert Cummings is having the same troubles as did Victor Mature. He is being loaned out to other studios for almost ten times the salary he receives from Universal.

Mickey and Judy Again

Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland are going to be co-starred in another musical. This time it will be "Girl Crazy," the George Gershwin musical that once featured Ginger Rogers and Ethel Merman. The production is some time off, as Judy has a vacation coming and a commitment for "Very Warm for May" before starting this . . . Ginger Rogers and Cary Grant, two top box-office personalities, have been signed by Gabriel Pascal to co-star in his RKO production of George Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man" . . . Screen rights to "Ethan Frome," Edith Wharton's famous novel, have been purchased by Warner Bros. as a starring vehicle for Bette Davis. This means that Miss Davis, who has been threatening a lay-off, will not take one. At the present time she is just starting work on "In This Our Life," another best-seller.

CUTTING-ROOM CLIPS

The Andrews Sisters' cocker spaniel presented them with a litter of five puppies which they promptly named Yvonne, Ytwo, Ythree, Yfour and Yfive . . . Carole Landis' publicity portraits have the highest mortality rate of those censored by the Hays office . . . Loretta Young had her twenty-fifth leading man in "The Men in Her Life," an apt title . . . Ann Sheridan was once a Sunday school teacher . . . Walter Pidgeon is an accomplished pianist . . . Like Clark Gable, Dennis Morgan once worked in a lumber camp.

KEY TO WAR MAP

- 1—British civilians of all classes are urging the government to invade the Continent, opening up two fronts against Germany.
- 2—The thirty-four miles of the English channel separate England from its Nazi foe. Neither the Tommy nor the Jerry have much to do these days but nose-hunting.
- 3—"Gay Paris" is only "gay" for the vacationing Nazi soldiers, who prefer the occupied capital for their lurching fun to Germany.
- 4—Vichy is south of the border. Aging Marshal Petain and his pro-Nazi lieutenants plead with oppressed Frenchmen to be good boys, mind their Nazi masters.
- 5—Frenchmen are crystallizing their hate for the Nazi overlords into acts of sabotage, shooting, and espionage for the English.
- 6—French and Belgium industrial zone, now operating at top speed to produce munitions, etc., for the Nazis.
- 7—Rotterdam with its deep-water approaches to the interior is a likely invasion spot when the English decide to return to the Continent.
- 8—Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering, boss of the Luftwaffe, has headquarters for the Nazi air force in the swank Carlton Hotel in Amsterdam.
- 9—The Siegfried Line from Switzerland north. It is the most formidable line of fortifications in Europe, an effective protection to the vital Ruhr industrial basin lying behind it.
- 10—Wiesbaden, where the German-French armistice commission meets. Nazis prefer an armistice to peace because they can continue to demand and receive fresh concessions from Vichy.
- 11—The Rhineland and Ruhr industrial basin. If it can be crippled, Germany cannot win the war.
- 12—The R. A. F. continues to attack Hamburg, a vital naval and submarine base.

WHY DOESN'T ENGLAND INVADE NOW?

By EDWIN HARTRICH

Editor's Note: Edwin Hartrich is the only American radio reporter who has covered both sides of the European war on regular assignment. As a member of the CBS foreign staff he was a roving war correspondent, reporting the war in France, in Finland, in Holland during the blitzkrieg, and then in Germany. He has also visited the occupied countries on three different occasions.

ADOLF HITLER has sent his great war machine into the depths of Russia, seeking to deliver a knock-out blow before the dark and cold winter of northern Europe immobilizes his blitzkrieg. In his bloody chase of the elusive Soviet armies he has stripped the barracks of Germany of millions of soldiers to get them fighting in Russia. His air bases in Europe no longer respond to the hum of Messerschmitts, Dorniers, Heinkels and Junker planes; now they are in the air over Moscow and the Donets basin. The snow- and mud-covered steppes of Russia shake under the thousands of tanks and armored cars which have been rushed into battle direct from the factories in Germany, Czechoslovakia, Poland and France.

Adolf Hitler is recklessly spending his men and equipment in the furious victories thus far gained in Russia. Behind him lies a conquered Europe seething with revolt and unrest. Across the channel lies a resurgent Britain. The English have emerged from their crisis of a year ago, armed with the knowledge of how the Nazis fight, and with the men and equipment to defend themselves. The British Isles are virtually impregnable if we are to believe our own military experts who have seen the fortified "right little, tight little isle." Strong at home, the British should be ready to take the offensive. While the Russians plead for an invasion of the Continent London hesitates. Why?

Obvious military strategy calls for a war on two fronts against Germany—something which the Nazi generals fear more than anything else. Why doesn't England invade now?

From the North Cape above the arctic circle to Hendeve on the French-Spanish border stretches a line of heavy fortifications. Thousands of French, Dutch, Belgian and Norwegian guns, now manned by German soldiers, are pointed toward the British Isles. I have seen the great chain of steel and concrete pill-boxes which the Nazis have constructed to defend the occupied coasts, extending miles inland at vulnerable points. Behind the fortified zone are the numerous camouflaged air bases from which the Luftwaffe may bomb any invasion force. The harbors of Brest, Cherbourg, Le Havre, Boulogne, Antwerp, Rotterdam, Den Helder, Trondheim and Narvik conceal hundreds of "schnellboote" (fast motor torpedo boats) and flotillas of "baby submarines." Working with the Luftwaffe, these craft could work with a deadly effectiveness at short range.

To transport an invasion force to the Continent would require hundreds

WAR QUESTION BOX

QUESTION:

If Russia should capitulate, would England sue for peace?

ANSWER:

I wouldn't bet my money that the British would have much enthusiasm to keep up the fight for "dear old democracy," provided that America had not entered the war. However, if the United States comes down from the grandstand into the arena, we would force the British to keep on fighting. If we don't enter the war, the British have what they consider an air-tight alibi for a "negotiated peace" with Hitler—America failed to provide the sinews of war to defeat the Axis. By "sinews" Britain means more than planes and tubs of butter—she means our Navy and Army.

Readers wishing to ask Mr. Hartrich questions may do so by writing him care of Movie-Radio Guide, 9059 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood, Calif. Personal replies cannot be accommodated. Only such questions as space permits can be answered.

ROSE BAMPTON, operatic soprano, will be guest soloist on "Ford Sunday Evening Hour" over CBS this week

THIS WEEK IN RADIO Armistice Day and Red Cross broadcasts Tues.

For broadcast times of the programs mentioned on this page see the program pages and "Best Listening" boxes in the program section.

Saturday, November 8

Singer Dick Powell, who is reported just about signed for a new show starring himself and his wife, Joan Blondell, will be guest of Dorothy Kilgallen's "Voice of Broadway" on CBS. . . . Listeners will be taken on a microphone tour of London by NBC this Saturday evening in order that they may get a true and comprehensive picture of the British capital. There will be pickups from air-raid shelters, restaurants, hotels and government offices. It will be interesting to compare this picture with that of last winter when London was earth's hottest spot. . . . Herbert's "Fortune Teller" will be presented on MBS' "Chicago Theater of the Air," with Marion Claire and Igor Gorin singing lead roles. . . . The one-millionth paid visitor to the "National Barn Dance" will enter the Eighth Street Theater in Chicago for this Saturday's show on an NBC network and will be honored by the veteran program on its broadcast.

Sunday, November 9

Pierre van Paassen, distinguished

Dutch-born author of "Days of Our Years" and the current "That Day Alone," will be guest of "I'm an American" (NBC). . . . Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland will appear together on "Screen Guild Theater" (CBS) in a radio version of the M-G-M picture "Babes in Arms". . . . A new defense program called "Keep 'Em Rolling" will feature Clifton Fadiman as master of ceremonies, Morton Gould's orchestra, and guest stars in special sketches written by such noted authors as Stephen Vincent Benet, William Saroyan, Robert E. Sherwood, and Lillian Hellman. This week's initial program will present as guests actress Ethel Merman and Donald Nelson, director of Defense Priorities. There will also be a dramatization of Maxwell Anderson's "Valley Forge," starring Maurice Evans (MBS). . . . Alec Templeton, blind pianist, missed by many listeners as a regular radio performer this season, will return to the air as a guest soloist this Sunday on the "Pause That Refreshes" program on CBS. . . . Madeleine Carroll will appear on "Silver Theater" (CBS) this Sunday, and an audience of soldiers will get a break by watching the program. . . . Lovely Rose Bampton, Metropolitan soprano, will be guest soloist on "Ford Sunday Evening Hour" and Jose Iturbi will direct the orchestra on the CBS musical show. . . . "Radio City Music Hall of the Air" will have Ossy Renardy, violinist, as guest (NBC).

Monday, November 10

"A House in the Country" is a new dramatic serial which began October 27 on NBC. It is written by Ray Knight, whose "Cuckoo Hour" was one of the comedy sensations of early broadcasting, and it stars Frances Chaney and John Raby.

Tuesday, November 11

President Roosevelt will speak Tuesday morning during the American Legion Armistice Day ceremonies broadcast from Arlington National Cemetery and the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier (NBC, CBS, MBS). . . . Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy will visit Fibber McGee and Molly on the latter's program this Tuesday (NBC). . . . The annual Red Cross Roll Call program will be heard this Tuesday. Participating in the show will be President Roosevelt, Vice President Henry Wallace, Secretary of War Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Knox, Red Cross head Norman Davis and numerous radio celebrities (MBS, NBC, CBS). . . . The Veterans of Foreign Wars will present a special Armistice Day program over an NBC network.

Wednesday, November 12

Edward G. Robinson will present on CBS "Big Town" a dramatization of "Manhattan Midnight," a magazine story by William Cochrane in which

Steve Wilson gets mixed up in an underworld fight that involves an innocent clergyman and Lorelei's sister. . . . Dashing Errol Flynn will be Eddie Cantor's guest on NBC's "Time to Smile."

Thursday, November 13

Rudy Vallee's program will have as guests Joan Davis and Edward Everett Horton in a sketch called "Hotel Hi-Ho" (NBC).

Friday, November 14

A light-heavyweight championship bout between Gus Lesnevich and Tami Mauriello in Madison Square Garden will be broadcast by MBS. . . . A new five-minute sponsored news program over a huge Coast-to-Coast NBC network is now heard on Friday nights. . . . Friday marks this season's second broadcast of the "Rochester Civic Orchestra." Guy Fraser Harrison is on the podium (NBC).

SCHEDULE CHANGES

Mary Small's songs are now heard at 9:15 p.m. EST on Monday night over MBS.

"Danger Is My Business" is now heard at 9:15 p.m. EST Wednesday over MBS.

"Mystery Hall," formerly heard on Tuesday, is now heard on Wednesday at 10:30 p.m. EST over MBS.

of ships. The British have them, but most of their shipping is busy carrying lend-lease supplies and munitions from America to British ports. If an invasion of the British Isles is almost an impossibility, or so costly that it is hardly worth the price—the same can be said for an invasion of the Continent. However, the Germans are handicapped because they have thousands of miles of coast to watch, while the British have only hundreds of miles of coast to watch.

An expeditionary force, to be successful, must be prepared to fight its way into Germany to win its final victory on the soil of Hitler's Third Reich.

The Nazi armies may fail to conquer Russia. But to expect the Hitler regime to collapse as a result is a sheer flight of wishful thinking. That is one of the lessons the Allies have learned from World War I. The Nazi bible, "Mein Kampf," preaches that every German wants to believe, that the Kaiser's armies were not defeated on the field, Germany, it says, lost the war because of traitors and weaklings on the home front. In proof, Hitler points out that Germany was not invaded. So, only when enemy troops in World War II are actually fighting in "der Vaterland" will the Germans realize they have lost all chances of victory as promised them by one A. Hitler.

IF THE British and their allies can breach the coastal defenses and fight their way through the occupied countries to the German border, they still have a major obstacle to hurdle. Remember the "Siegfried Line"? The English once were "going to hang their washing" on it. They will have to do just that if they want to win this war decisively. The vital Ruhr basin, center of Germany's heavy industry, lies behind those fortifications, 250 miles as the crow flies from England.

The answer to the question "Why doesn't England invade now?" was given to us in America several months ago.

General Sir Archibald Wavell and his successor as commander of the British Near East armies, General Auchinleck, who are responsible for winning the war and not for its propaganda, gave us the clew to this question. In embarrassingly frank interviews they said in effect that the British expected and would need another American Expeditionary Force to help them defeat Hitler's armies in the Old World. The British could not defeat Germany alone. They could not plan an invasion unless they had America as a working partner.

Winston Churchill had said that the English only needed American supplies, not its man power. But that was a propaganda political speech in the House of Commons. Now he has privately applied to join "The Word Eaters' Club."

THE British army still smarts from the evacuations from Namsos, Andalsnes, Dunkirk, Greece and Crete. The initials B. E. F. were parodied from "British Expeditionary Force" to "Back Every Fortnight."

When the United States is IN the war, when our troops are ready and available to fight in Europe, then we will see an all-out attempt to defeat Hitler on his home grounds. Until that time, Josef Stalin will have to carry the ball all by himself.

Next week Mr. Hartrich will discuss "How Germany Can Be Invaded" as a sequel to his subject of this issue. In it the two-front war correspondent will expose the soft spot that Hitler's generals most fear.

Peace in Music War

NEW YORK.—Music from the extensive catalog of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers became available October 30 for broadcasting over networks of the Columbia Broadcasting System and the National Broadcasting Company for the first time since midnight of December 31, 1940. Return of ASCAP music to these networks was permitted by terms of voluminous papers signed by executives of the networks and Gene Buck, president of ASCAP, the afternoon of October 29 in the board room at ASCAP's headquarters in New York City.

Contracts for both networks are identical and provide that they shall pay ASCAP two and three-quarters percent of net receipts and that their managed and operated stations shall pay two and one-quarter percent of their receipts.

Provisions of the new contracts result in a victory by the broadcasting chains over ASCAP, as ASCAP originally demanded seven and one-half percent of network income for commercial programs.

During the long period when ASCAP music was off the air the National Association of Broadcasters established its own music-publishing house, Broadcast Music, Incorporated. This organization will continue to function, but now in competition with the many publishing houses that are members of the Society.

The Mutual Broadcasting System, which had come to a separate agreement with ASCAP several months ago, may, if it wishes, receive the same terms as those provided in the new contracts. These contracts are effective through December 31, 1949, and are renewable for another nine years.

GENERAL

Fighting Over Fun

HOLLYWOOD.—Veteran comedy ace Bob Hope and new comedy threat

Red Skelton are battling over the services of a gag-writer. Hope maintains that Jack Douglas is under contract to write exclusively for him, seeks to prevent Skelton's use of Douglas' material. Douglas asserts that he advised Hope he was leaving last September 30. The question as to which comedian is entitled to the writer's services was scheduled to be settled November 24.

Stratosphere Broadcast

CHICAGO.—When Arthur H. Starnes made his world-record delayed parachute-jump of more than 30,000 feet October 24, station WLS was in constant touch with him in the plane up to the moment he leaped and called "All clear!" The station also picked up and broadcast Starnes' heartbeats as he plummeted almost six miles downward before opening his parachute for the last 1,500 feet. The WLS mobile unit was the first car to reach the spot where the parachutist landed. And during the eighty-five-miles-an-hour ride announcer Jack Stillwill kept up a running commentary on the leap. Starnes' only injury was a bruised lip, bitten when his chute opened with a sudden jerk.

AFRA Antics

CHICAGO.—The AFRA Antics, annual event of the American Federation of Radio Artists in Chicago for the benefit of the organization's charity fund, is scheduled this year for November 7 at the Grand Ballroom of the Sherman Hotel. At this gay party radio personalities act as hosts to the public, and most of the city's radio a mammoth floor show headed by Zorina, the dancing sensation of the screen; Joe Lewis, one of the country's top night-club comedians; magician Harry Blackstone; songstress Marian Mann, the Vagabonds quartet and other radio entertainers; and numerous actors and actresses from Chicago legitimate-theater shows. There will also be dancing to the music of Bob Strong's orchestra.

Stokowski—Cash Customers

NEW YORK.—Because of an unusually large public demand for tickets to the NBC Symphony Orchestra's concerts, a policy of paid admission has been temporarily adopted. The policy holds during the series being conducted by Leopold Stokowski. The great demand for tickets for the Stokowski concerts caused NBC to move the performance to the Cosmopolitan Opera House, seating over three thousand. It was to pay for renting this auditorium that the admission charge was adopted.

Windsors Watch Cantor

NEW YORK.—Unexpected visitors to the repeat broadcast of Eddie Cantor's "Time to Smile" program recently were the Duke and Duchess of Windsor. The audience upon spotting them was demonstrative. Cantor rushed out and cried, "Stop! I'm the chief here. Don't you know me? I'm the Duke of the Bronx!" Then he went to the booth and exchanged compliments with the British royal couple. Said comedian Eddie, "Anything I do now is anticlimax." Said Duke Eddie and his wife Wally, "We'll never be as popular as you." And they proved they meant it by laughing as hard as anyone in the studio.

SIDELIGHTS

Taylor's Get Extra Laugh

HOLLYWOOD.—The laugh that stopped the CBS "Screen Guild Theater" presentation of "Nothing Sacred" October 19 was the result of good-natured banter between Robert Taylor and wife Barbara Stanwyck. Robert Taylor as Wally Cook, reporter, is supposed to slap the girl he loves,

—NBC

—Gus Gale
"THE GOLDBERGS," Jake, Molly and Rosie—played by, l. to r., James R. Waters, Gertrude Berg and Roslyn Silber—stepped out of character the other day to celebrate Mrs. Berg's birthday. Sammy was around, too, when photo was taken, but he was in a corner eating birthday cake!

played by Mrs. Taylor, and demand, "How can I raise your pulse to a hundred and sixty?" When he read the line, Barbara muttered, "Just send in Clark Gable." "Robert Taylor isn't bad, either," retorted that Mr. Taylor. "That's what you think," ad-libbed Barbara with a grin. That's when the house roared.

Steve Wilson Gets Order

HOLLYWOOD. — Mannie Robinson, young son of Edward G. Robinson ("Big Town's" Steve Wilson), has already put in his order for Christmas, informing his dad he wants a full-sized airplane. The lad got his first taste of flying when his father took him to San Diego in an Army bomber when Robinson took a recent trip to address aircraft workers. Mannie's chances of getting an airplane this Christmas are, however, pretty slim. Eddie will explain that even Santa Claus has to ask the OPM for priorities!

Words or Music?

CHICAGO.—It isn't every girl who has to decide—or has the opportunity of deciding—between singing and acting. But that was the decision which faced Marilou Meunayer recently. Her radio work before coming to Chicago included both music and dramas. When the Smoothies singing group was in town recently, they needed a girl singer. Marilou auditioned, won the assignment. But the MBS sketch "Captain Midnight," in which Marilou plays the part of Joyce, was coming back on the air and the Smoothies were leaving town. Hence the necessity for a decision. Her choice? You hear her in "Captain Midnight."

AILING

Mrs. Burns Hospitalized

SAN FRANCISCO. — Mrs. Harriet Burns, wife of comedian Bob Burns of "Arkansas Traveler" broadcasts, is recovering from a major operation performed in a San Francisco hospital. Burns has been commuting between San Francisco and Hollywood for his Tuesday night CBS program.

Great Profile—Great

HOLLYWOOD.—John Barrymore, always the trouper, gave October 23 what Rudy Vallee called his best performance in the year he has been on Rudy's show. Barrymore had been bedridden for the past two weeks with a serious intestinal ailment. He gave this performance from a wheel-chair and then returned for another week or so in the hospital.

PROGRAMS

Show for Dick Powells

HOLLYWOOD.—The Dick Powell-Joan Blondell radio serial, "Miss Pinkerton and Company," which was auditioned last week for several prospective sponsors, will probably be signed up very shortly. Announcer Don Wilson worked up the show idea and will probably handle the production. Powell is rehearsing for a Broadway musical, "And So to Bedlam," and wife Joan will join him in New York after she completes her Republic picture, "Lady for a Night."

Time Shoots On

NEW YORK.—"The March of Time" is a program which believes in being as authentic as possible when it presents its weekly dramatization of the news. At a recent broadcast the script called for the use of a .32-caliber revolver. Only gun on hand in NBC's production department was a .22, usually used when radio gun killings take place. However, the producers of "The March of Time" were unwilling to deviate from the script's requirements and insisted that only a .32-caliber revolver could be used, since the victim in the dramatization, according to police report, was shot with a .32. As a result, five guns were rounded up, including a .32, for use in future "killings."

People and Figures

NEW YORK.—To commemorate its sixth year on the air "We, the People" offers the following statistics:

More than 3,000 persons have appeared to tell their interesting stories; 1,883 of them journeyed more than 2,400,000 miles by rail and 700,000 miles by air; 733 have visited the Statue of Liberty; 481 have taken their first Pullman ride; 367 have taken their first airplane trip; and uncounted are the questions they have asked Times Square policemen about this and that!

Next Week's Cover

It requires all of the wizardry of color photography to do justice to Ann Sheridan's vital loveliness, but MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE's cameraman rises to the occasion with a rare shot on next week's cover. Inside, the much-talked-about Annie is examined in a picture-story which tells the interesting details of her "non-engagement ring." Also, look for new, exclusive pictures of Jack Benny, Gene Autry, Jean Hersholt. It's all waiting at your nearest news-stand.

BOMB-BATTERED "VOICE OF CHINA" CARRIES ON

Radio Maroc in Tropic Paradise

Latins Hear "March of Time"

Moscow Station Vanished?

Edited by

Charles A. Morrison

President, International DX'ers Alliance

THERE are numerous short-wave stations in China. There are large stations and small stations; stations operated by Chinese, Japanese, French, Italian, German, British and even American interests. There is only one official broadcasting station. This is international station XGOY-XGOX, "The Voice of China," located in bomb-riddled Chungking, West China. Although its equipment has reportedly been damaged several times during air raids, this station has never been forced completely off the air and despite tremendous odds it maintains the following extensive schedule of transmissions each day (EST):

5:00 to 5:55 a.m.—To Asia on 11.90 meg (English news at 5:15 a.m.)
6:00 to 6:45 a.m.—To Japan on 11.90 meg
6:45 to 7:20 a.m.—To eastern Asia on 11.90 meg
7:20 to 8:55 a.m.—To South Seas on 5.95 meg (English news at 7:30 a.m.)

SEE SHORT-WAVE PROGRAM LISTINGS OPPOSITE PAGE

9:00 to 10:25 a.m.—To North America on 9.63 meg (English news at 9:00 and 10:00 a.m.)
10:35 to 10:55 a.m.—To U. S. S. R. on 11.90 meg
3:00 to 4:00 p.m.—To South Seas on 5.95 meg
4:05 to 5:00 p.m.—To Europe on 11.90 meg (English news at 4:30 p.m.)

The following items are featured in the Chungking transmission to North America: 9:00 a.m., English news; 9:15 a.m., music; 9:30 a.m., talk in English; 9:45 a.m., Cantonese news; 10:00 a.m., English news; 10:25 a.m. EST, national anthem and sign-off.

The most powerful of the independent short-wave stations in China is a newcomer, XGDN (11.93), "The Voice of Democracy," whose transmitter is located atop the North China Daily News Building in Shanghai. This station—extremely pro-democracy in sympathy—is supported by voluntary subscriptions from Britishers in Shanghai. XGDN is a welcome reply to the German Club-owned short-wave station XGRS and the Italian-supported station XIRS, both in Shanghai. XGDN operates daily from 3:30 to 10:00 a.m. EST. The BBC's English news bulletin is re-broadcast at 6:00 a.m. EST. Popular David Conway reads additional English news bulletins at 7:00, 9:00 and 9:40 a.m. EST. XGDN is heard with loud signals in western United States and with fair regularity throughout the rest of the country.

"Radio Maroc"

Letters from North Africa have been received only at very infrequent intervals since the beginning of the war. This week I received a communication from L'Inspecteur Principal Charge de l'Exploitation de la Radio-Diffusion, Rabat, Morocco, which includes interesting details concerning international station "Radio Maroc." This station consists of two transmitters—each powered with from 15,000 to 25,000 watts—which transmit on 8.03 and 11.94 megs, respectively. The two transmitters can be used either simultaneously or separately. At the present time only the 8.03 megs frequency is being heard in the United States. The studios, transmitters and aerial towers of "Radio Maroc" are situated in an unbelievably green and beautiful tropical oasis, the dazzling white stucco buildings showing up vividly above the small palms and ornamental hedges, the whole plot surrounded by the barren, shifting sands of the desert.

"Radio Maroc" (8.03) operates at present from 2:15 to 2:45 a.m.; from 7:00 to 8:00 a.m.; from 9:00 to 10:00 a.m.; from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. and from 6:30 to 7:00 p.m. EST. French, Spanish and Arabic are the three languages normally employed over the station, although an English transmission is made on Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays from 1:00 to 1:30 p.m. EST. News in French is broadcast daily at 2:30 a.m., 7:30 a.m., 1:30 p.m. and 3:00 p.m., with the official communique broadcast at 6:30 p.m. EST.

The other important station in North Africa, namely, TPZ (12.12), Alger, Algeria, continues to be heard daily from 1:30 to 6:00 p.m. EST, with the best reception afforded during the latter two hours of the broadcast.

New CBS Latin-American Network Nearing Readiness

CBS' new inter-American network will be functioning by the first of the year, according to Edmund A. Chester, CBS director of short-wave broadcasting and Latin-American relations. Affiliation contracts have been successfully negotiated with seventy-two stations to date and deals with additional stations below the U. S. borders are now under way. Construction has already passed the eighty-five percent mark on the two 50,000-watt transmitters CBS is building for its Latin-American network. The two new transmitters—WCBX and WCRC—are located on a big tract at Brentwood, Long Island. Their eight directional antennae are designed exclusively for transmissions south of the United States.

Program Particulars

One of the most popular factual broadcasts on the air, "The March of Time," is now being transcribed and rebroadcast to Latin America succeeding Saturdays at 6:30 p.m. EST over WGE0 (9.53), Schenectady, New York, and at 8:00 p.m. EST over KGBI (15.33), San Francisco, Calif.

On the second Saturday of each month at 10:00 p.m. EST (the next will be Saturday, November 8), HCJB (12.455), Quito, Ecuador, broadcasts a very interesting English program entitled "Off the Record" . . . Cuban station COK's (11.616) weekly goodwill program in English, broadcast on Saturdays at 10:00 p.m. EST, is dedicated on November 8 to the Grand National Shortwave Listeners Club of Cincinnati, Ohio . . . The United States is not the only country in which football is popular. General Notes

LEOPOLD STOKOWSKI has a world audience as he conducts NBC Symphony Orchestra Tuesday nights over WNBI, WRCA

"What has become of RV96 (15.18), Moscow?" This station, which up to about the middle of October furnished the best Soviet reception in North America, seems to have vanished. Fair English reception from Moscow is still afforded United States listeners from 6:00 to 7:55 and from 8:30 to 9:55 p.m. EST on 15.11 and 15.23 megs. The only catch here is that the 19-meter band is usually dead at this time of day. If any of our readers-listeners are hearing English transmissions from Moscow, kindly drop a line at once to the writer of this department stating times and frequencies. This is urgent! . . . From our correspondent in Zurich, Switzerland, comes word that Deutscher Kurzwellen-Sender ATHEN (7.09) is broadcasting from Greece daily from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. EST—and so another once free voice has been added to the Nazi propaganda network. Our correspondent also informs us that "Radio Mediterania" (7.037), located at Valencia, Spain, is being heard near 2:40 p.m. EST.

Lum and Abner's Hallowe'en Ranch Party

IT DOESN'T LOOK like Hallowe'en, but it is—a Hallowe'en party that lasted all day. Lum and Abner gave it at Lum's San Fernando Valley ranch.

Until the sun went down the crowd enjoyed ranch sports. Watching Bill Goodwin try to tame a young colt here are (left to right, front): Sybil Chism,

Irene Rich, Kathleen Wilson, Mercedes McCambridge. Behind the fence: Lew Crosby, Tommy Riggs, Lum (Chet Lauck) and Abner (Norris Goff)

HALLOWE'EN in Hollywood, under the sunny skies of southern California, is no congenial atmosphere for goblins, pixies and pumpkin lanterns, but notwithstanding there were plenty of parties in these parts on All-hallow eve. One of the best was Lum and Abner's, given at the San Fernando Valley ranch of Chester Lauck, who is Lum.

Lum and Abner (Norris Goff) made it an all-day affair, invited Irene Rich, Kathleen Wilson, Tommy Riggs, Lew Crosby, Sybil Chism, Mercedes Mc-

Cambridge and Bill Goodwin, among others. All day the guests—sporting gaudy dude ranch clothes—had fun lassoing, riding bareback, playing cowboy.

Irene Rich, who is one of the best women riders in Hollywood, had the time of her life, not only rode the boys' prize saddle horses but even took a crack at riding a couple of Lauck's race horses.

Sybil Chism, who does organ background music on Lum and Abner's program (Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday over NBC), proved herself a smart hand with a lariat. Other guests found plenty to occupy them.

As the sun went down and twilight settled over the ranch, Lum served a barbecue supper which grew into a ghost-story session intended to scare the women.

After supper the music struck up for a good old-fashioned barn dance and Hallowe'en games were played. The girls had brought along smart western outfits for the dance, made a pretty picture doing square dances.

Mercedes McCambridge, NBC dramatic star, wore a cowgirl suit of beige suede with brown suede fringe trimming. Sybil wore a corduroy suit with gabardine shirt of blue and blue Justin boots. Miss Rich dazzled the crowd in a two-piece white suede suit with turquoise blue gabardine shirt.

It was all thoroughly unorthodox as Hallowe'en parties go, but Lum and Abner planned it that way and everybody seemed inordinately happy over the whole affair. —J. C.

BOB HOPE is back on the air with a souped-up model of his high-powered Tuesday night laugh machine. Three old faces are gone; two new ones have taken their places. Lush, sweet-voiced Frances Langford is a brilliant newcomer. Battered beauties Brenda and Cobina have departed to tour the vaudeville circuits. Ben Gage, six feet six inches of good looks and personality, has taken up as announcer-stooge where Bill Goodwin left off to busy himself about other Hollywood broadcasts.

Still a star feature of the new model, with his "Greetings, Gates" and his handlebar mustachios, is Professor Jerry Colonna. Also, the Six Hits and a Miss and Skinnay Ennis' orchestra. Also—let it never be forgotten—Yehoodi! Supercharging the whole is a schedule of guest stars, such as Paulette Goddard, who made her appearance October 14, the night MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE visited Bob's show. On the new series, too, Bob's tongue-in-cheek autobiography, "They Got Me Covered," of which two million copies were printed in the first edition, is being humorously dramatized in serial form.

Here's the 1941-42 line-up as exclusively photographed by MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE's Walt Davis.

HELEN HAYES' FANTASTIC LOVE-STORY

Her marriage to madcap MacArthur reads like fiction — but it's fact!

WHEN playwright Charles MacArthur and actress Helen Hayes were married, he promised her, "No matter what happens, dear, you will never be bored." And she never has been, according to her own admission.

"It has been glorious," says Miss Hayes. "Of course, I probably shall kill Charlie ultimately. I don't see how it can end any other way. Imagine being married to a man who has never, never bored you!"

A husband's pledge that his wife would never be bored and the wife's avowal that she never has been—that should be enough to stamp a marriage as one of the most fantastic of love-stories. So truth is stranger than fiction—even for a man who writes fiction and a woman who interprets it in action.

This story begins the day the distinguished stage and radio actress accepted an invitation to attend a party that when the party broke up she allowed the peanut-eating man to take her home. He was Charles MacArthur, who was later, in collaboration with Ben Hecht, to write "Front Page" for far more than "peanuts" because it was one of the most successful of all plays about the newspaper profession.

Two days after the meeting at the party, a knock sounded on the door of Miss Hayes' dressing-room at the theater where she was working. It was MacArthur. As he walked in, he casually asked, "Did I by any chance ask you to marry me the other afternoon?"

"Of course not!" Helen gasped. "Why?"

"Oh, I just wondered," he shrugged.

That incident is typical of Charlie MacArthur. It is his penchant for devilishness that makes the Hayes-MacArthur love-story sound so utterly fantastic. Try to envision, if you can, two people in love—one a quiet, serious, hard-working little actress; the other a hulk of a man, dynamic, erratic, a prankster extraordinary. Most people—and perhaps one school of psychologists—would say that they are totally unsuited to one another. Yet, after thirteen years of married life, Helen and Charlie are still much in love, still getting along well, still not bored.

GREATEST ROLE of Helen Hayes' illustrious career was that of Queen Victoria (left, above) in "Victoria Regina." In addition to her CBS radio program on Sunday evenings, Miss Hayes is now appearing in the play "Candle in the Wind"

LEFT: Wife Helen gives husband Charlie a proud smile as the crowd roared approval of gibes at Nazism in sketch "Fun to Be Free," written by MacArthur and Ben Hecht for an aid-to-Britain pageant held in Madison Square Garden recently given by Neysa McMein, the noted illustrator. Entering the living-room of Miss McMein's apartment, Helen stopped short and gulped at the sight that met her eyes. A man was sitting cross-legged on the floor eating peanuts! The spectacle intrigued her after she recovered from the momentary shock. She promptly went over to him and asked what he was eating.

"Peanuts," he said, offering her some, "but I wish they were emeralds."

SO WHO is this man who has so continuously held the interest of America's long-leading actress? Everybody knows he's a prominent writer of plays, films and fiction, especially in partnership with Ben Hecht. Not so many, perhaps, know he is the same MacArthur who on dull evenings in Hollywood used to throw empty bottles at the houses of friends; who once knocked out his managing editor on a newspaper staff because he forbade Charlie to keep a bicycle in the local room; who chased dignified Charles Evans Hughes, then Secretary of State, down Fifth Avenue, yelling as he ran, "Yah, yah, Secretary of State! What are you doing here if you're Secretary of State? Yah, yah, Secretary of State!"

During his newspaper days in Chicago, Charlie was known as "Bugs" MacArthur, for the main and simple reason that quite a few people considered him slightly balmy. His passion for playing practical jokes had a lot to do with that impression.

Helen Hayes and Charles MacArthur

were married in the fall of 1928, after an engagement which lasted over a year. Miss Hayes was appearing at the time in a play called "Coquette," and MacArthur's play, "Front Page," had been open two weeks.

Much has happened to complicate Helen Hayes' life since that memorable afternoon. She has carried on her dramatic career and soared to heights achieved by few American actresses. In addition, she has had one child of her own and adopted another. Yet she has also found the time and understanding to love and retain the love of a husband whose talent for writing is outweighed, perhaps, only by his knack for doing the bizarre and remarkable.

She has had a full-size job for a woman.

THERE was the time Charlie bought her a gift when she was in the hospital awaiting the birth of Mary, the famous "Act of God" baby. "Darling," he told her in a hushed voice, "I've got the most wonderful present at home for you and the baby. Wait until you see it!" When mother and baby came home, Helen walked into the green-and-peach nursery, and there in the middle of the floor was the present—a huge billiard table! If the actress had been less in love with her husband—or a much stronger woman—she might have tossed it out. As it was, it remained. When Charlie and his friends played billiards, the baby slept in another room.

Only a woman who loved a man deeply could remain calm in the face of such repeated eccentricities. Charlie in turn is sincerely devoted to his wife, but he just can't resist doing such things as pasting flies on the doors. Imagine that! The couple were having the finishing touches put on the beautiful Victorian home they built in Nyack, N. Y. The decorator had just finished doing the living-room doors in egg-shell white. Shortly afterward Helen came along and discovered Charlie trimming the doors with decalcomania flies.

"I don't think these doors look natural without a few flies hanging about," he said nonchalantly.

Then there was the time that MacArthur and co-writer Ben Hecht, who is also co-prankster, decided the best way to keep cool on a hot day was to remain on the bottom of a pool near the MacArthur place. And no sooner did they get the idea than they bought a diving-suit and a pump to go with it. Putting on the helmet, Charlie dived to the bottom of the pool. While down there, he amused himself and visitors sitting around the swimming-pool by sending them messages with gurgling noises.

FINALLY tiring of the sport, he came up. He immediately began regaling his wife with the rapturous, luxurious thrill of the experience. "Please try it, darling," he pleaded.

Helen didn't want to go down in the infernal contraption, but she was game, and besides she had learned that she might as well give in and get it over with when Charlie got an idea like that in his head. So she went down in the pool.

"What a horrible experience!" she exclaims about it. "The air was simply foul with heat. Now I know Charlie's crazy!"

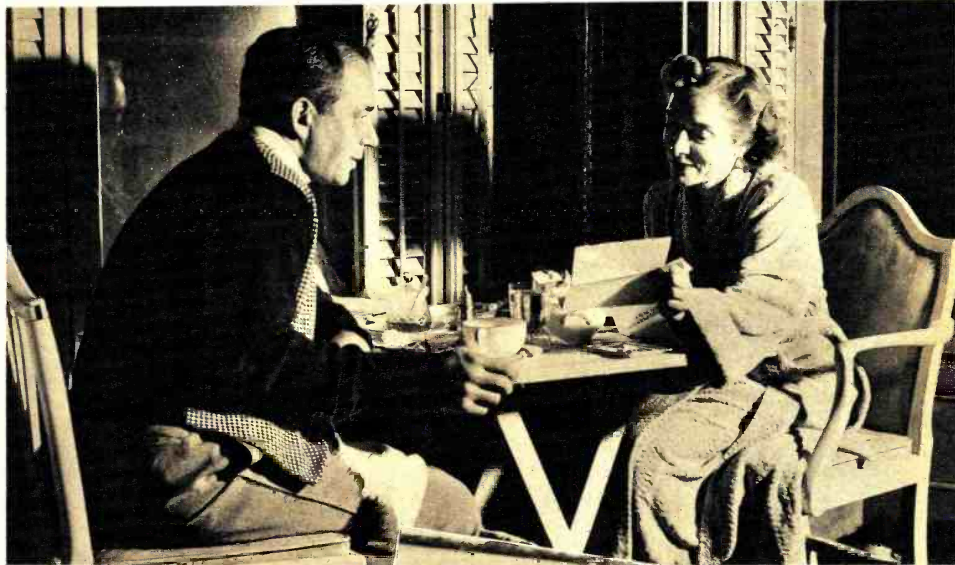

Yes, indeed—truth is stranger than fiction! At least, it is in the love-story of actress Hayes and playwright MacArthur. Stranger, yes. But the true story is also as happy as any story that he could write or she could act out.

The PERFECT ELIGIBLE BACHELOR

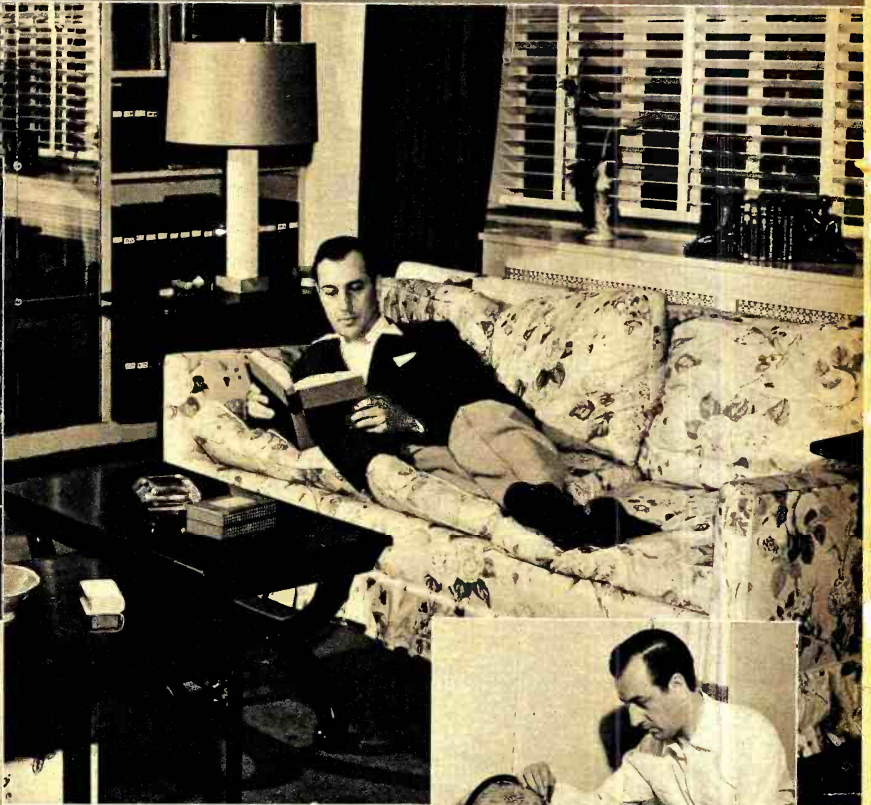

Baritone Conrad Thibault lives alone and likes it—cooking and all!

NEIGHBORHOOD food provenders are no longer surprised at Thibault's shopping-habits. He literally knows his onions, personally selects meat and vegetables rather than phones order, claims he can market as well as a woman

NOT FOR ECONOMY but because he likes home cooking, Thibault prepares his own meals in spotless little kitchen. Guests can testify to delicious roasts (below), chicken dinners he serves them. A big man, he enjoys big meals

THE RICH, COMFORTABLE furnishings of Thibault's Manhattan apartment were selected by himself. Prominent in the 30 by 40 living-room are books and his large collection of recordings. Thibault is a great reader, likes musical history

Photographs by Arsene Studio

THIBAUT follows events in Europe avidly (above), when not busy with broadcasts or rehearsals. Below: With voice coach Emilio de Gogorza, famed opera singer of Caruso era, who met Thibault in Europe, proteged him

A NICE catch for some pretty, young husband-hunter is Conrad Thibault, whose baritone voice has been heard on a dozen big musical broadcasts and is currently featured on "Manhattan Merry-Go-Round" Sundays on NBC. Trouble is, baritone Thibault gives no evidence of needing a helpmate. His bachelor apartment, a four-room affair in the heart of Manhattan, is beautifully furnished. His guests like to talk about the excellent dinners he prepares. His butcher and groceryman know him for an expert, discerning shopper. Handsome, recognized as an outstanding singer, Thibault seems to have everything but a wife.

Calvin Coolidge started Thibault on a serious musical career by helping him to secure a scholarship at Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia, which was renewed for five semesters, with two seasons in Europe under leading Continental instructors. One of the instructors was Emilio de Gogorza, a contemporary of Caruso. De Gogorza became enthusiastic, took Thibault under his wing, taught him opera, is now in New York as his teacher. The young bachelor got his first radio experience over Philadelphia's WCAU as "The Mysterious Vocalist," at same time sang in Philadelphia opera. During the past ten years he has been heard on "Show Boat," "Magic Key," many other shows.

Mr. Thibault has been just too busy to be anything but a bachelor.

BANDSTAND NOTES

By Maurice Granger

ONE of the curiosities of the theater world is the fact that no matter how topnotch a play may appear to theater audiences in Boston, Philadelphia or Atlantic City, the producers are not certain they have a hit until it has passed in review before New York theater-goers. However, this rule works in reverse when it comes to determining the relative merits of certain popular songs.

Although most of our tunes are manufactured in New York's Tin Pan Alley, it is not until the boys and girls in Bemidji, Minn., and Medicine Lodge, Kans., begin praising them that New Yorkers get excited.

The reason for this, perhaps, is that in places like Bemidji, Minn., the residents are more apt to be concerned with music than the average New Yorker. They are more concerned because they listen to the radio more frequently, are the juke-boxes' best customers, and purchase more phonograph records than the New Yorker.

A good example of this is "Elmer's Tune." In the South and Midwest, recordings of this song are selling like wildfire. Yet in New York the sale is only moderate. It is Main Street, not Broadway, that determines which tunes shall appear on "Hit Parade."

Bandata

The Paul Whiteman band is having to commute back and forth between

San Francisco and Hollywood by sleeper bus. The band, filling an engagement at the Palace Hotel in San Francisco, is also on the Burns and Allen program, which emanates from Hollywood. Because of their Tuesday night radio show, the boys must forego their Monday and Tuesday personal appearances at the hotel and travel to Hollywood in a special bus . . . Ozzie Nelson's Boy Scout training came in handy the other day when his young son was nearly smothered by bedclothes. Ozzie applied artificial respiration until a trained crew arrived to take over. The doctor was quick to praise Ozzie, saying that his son might have died before help could arrive . . . Lawrence Welk celebrated his birthday in an unusual manner recently. Instead of waiting to receive presents (don't we all?) he threw a birthday party for the patrons of the Trianon Ballroom in Chicago, passing out to lucky ticket-holders two dozen albums filled with his recordings, and cutting a 150-pound cake . . . Although his other bandmen were dressed in tuxedos, John Scott Trotter, the "Kraft Music Hall" bandleader, allowed one of his men to play at a dance in a hunting-suit and with a four-day growth of beard. The saxophonist had been hunting, was delayed when his car broke down. Said John Scott, "Come on in and go to work. I'll introduce you as Daniel Boone!"

Question Service

Mr. Fairfax will give personal answers to all readers who send self-addressed stamped envelopes. Address, Arthur Fairfax, MOVIE-RADIO GUIDE, 731 Plymouth Court, Chicago, Ill.

Miss Joan Frances Hall, Brooklyn, N. Y.—NANCY MARTIN was signed by NBC in the summer of 1938 and she has been heard regularly on the network since that date. Born July 15, 1913, in Wheeling, W. Va., Nancy studied piano until she graduated from high school, and in Western College she augmented her piano lessons with vocal instruction. In 1934 she went to work at KDKA, then progressed to WCAE before signing with NBC. Nancy is five feet four inches tall, weighs 115 pounds, has brown eyes and curly hair.

Miss Henrietta Rothschild, New York, N. Y.—At this time "Those We Love" has not been scheduled to return to the networks.

Miss Mary Morton, Winnipeg, Man., Canada.—The theme of "Dear John" is "CHANSNETTE IRENE" written by PAUL CARSON, organist of this program.

"Pepper Young's Family"

PART II

ALL Elmwood is agog over the decision of a New York philanthropic group to locate a housing project for refugee children in the town. The Youngs have a special interest in the venture because Mr. Young has been employed to supervise the work, and his wife Mary has volunteered to assist in raising funds to cover cost of transporting children to the U. S.

This fund-raising campaign is the only expense Elmwood has been asked to be responsible for, and it is taken up as a humanitarian challenge by the citizens. At the center of the excitement are the Youngs, Sam and Mary, with their children, Peggy and Pepper.

Only questioning voice is Pepper's, who at first questioned the integrity of the New Yorkers but is now convinced that he had no reason for suspicion. Curt Bradley, father of Pepper's chum Biff, also was skeptical, but he is working in Chicago, preoccupied with his courtship of Nancy Wayne. These events on NBC's serial "Pepper Young's Family" are covered in Movie-Radio Guide's picture story. Use it as you listen Monday through Friday this week.

THE CAST

The Character	The Player
Pepper Young.....	Curtis Arnall
Peggy Young.....	Betty Wragge
Mary Young.....	Marian Barney
Sam Young.....	Thomas Chalmers
Curt Bradley.....	Ed Wolfe
Nancy Wayne.....	Grace Albert

Next Week: "Joyce Jordan, Girl Interne"

1. PEPPER rushes into the living-room to show his mother a story the local paper has published about her fund-raising campaign. In the write-up Mrs. Young is praised for her civic spirit

2. THE YOUNG FAMILY, Peggy, Mrs. Young, Pepper and Mr. Young (l. to r.), go over figures which tell the story of campaign's success. Chummy with their parents, Peggy and Pepper are elated over their mother's work. Sam, as always, is inordinately proud of Mary

3. FROM CHICAGO, Curt Bradley talks to his son, Biff, in Elmwood. Curt pleads with Biff to change his opinion of Nancy Wayne, whom Curt would like to marry. Biff stubbornly sticks to his prejudice against Nancy despite efforts of the Youngs to win him over

4. MARY YOUNG thinks marriage would be a fine thing for Curt. At Curt's request she prepares to come to Chicago, try to reason with Nancy, who is refusing to go through with marriage as long as Biff feels as he does. Mary packs overnight case for trip

5. WHILE THEIR PLANS are still unsettled, Nancy is directed by her employer to go to New York on business. About to board a plane, she listens to Curt's plea that she marry him before leaving. For her answer, listen to "Pepper Young" on NBC

Speaking of Eyes

*JEAN ABBEY SAYS CONFIDENTIALLY

Try Maybelline today. See what a difference it makes... what thrilling things it can do for your eyes! Be sure you get genuine Maybelline—the Eye Make-up in Good Taste. The Solid or Cream-form Mascara, 75c. Solid-form refills, 35c. Maybelline Mascara, smooth-marking Eye-brow Pencil and Eye Shadow come in the popular harmonizing shades. Attractive purse sizes at all 1c counters.

"If I had to choose just one item of make-up, I'm sure it would be mascara. Not only are my eyelashes light and very fine, but my eyes are small... so mascara does wonders for me. I like Maybelline for several reasons... It doesn't smart or get runny—it's easy to apply—and what it adds in appearance is amazing! By applying it defily, I can even make my eyelashes curl right up over my eyelids."
