 FORMER MOVIE STAR Eleanor Powell, now Mrs. Glenn Ford, lounges near her pool in Beverly Hills. (Color by NBC-KRCA, color cover by Elmer Holloway)

 SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER Eleanor, of KRCA's Faith of Our Children. Always before the program goes on the air, Miss Powell's director reminds her, "Let that light shine!"

ONCE A MONTH there's a rollicking roller skating party near Hollywood. Some forty energetic youngsters tumble and whiz around the rink as special guests of their Sunday School teacher. Teacher herself skims the rink happily and with exceptional grace, for her body was endowed with superb coordination and suppleness which helped make her the great dancing star, Eleanor Powell.

Now far removed from the motion picture stages where she sometimes used to work sixteen hours at a stretch, Eleanor Powell is up to her pretty forehead in her TV project, KRCA's Faith of Our Children. The monthly roller skating party is Miss Powell's treat for the children who have appeared during the month on her telecasts.

Eleanor is frank to admit that after she had married Glenn Ford and had Peter (now 11), she was content to settle down and forget her career. But after, she missed the activity dancing had entailed and she couldn't understand the direction of her life.

"I now feel that the dancing was simply a prologue to Faith of Our Children," she admits. "I was given a great talent by my Creator and built up to the place where I could achieve. If I'd been May Smith, this whole thing wouldn't have had the importance it did being Eleanor Powell. I imagine it was rather hard for some people who'd remembered me as a movie star to adjust when I reappeared with a Bible on TV. But I know now that I've had a Partner in this whole thing and that what I'm doing now is the fulfillment of my life."

Joys and Sorrows

Eleanor doesn't need to tell anyone how much she loves her work. It oozes and radiates from her whole being. She is especially thrilled when the children swarm around her after the program, hugging and kissing her—even usually reluctant lads of thirteen and fourteen. "I fill up every Sunday when this happens," she admits. "I know I sound crazy," she continues, "but this love, this devotion to the program, this giving-up for it, like the Boy Scout who gave up his baseball team to have a part on the show—make me overcome obstacles. I fill up again when I think of Mary, who had a 105 fever and cried. She wasn't crying because she was sick but because she was afraid she'd miss the program."

"Ellie," as her friends call her, has had love and devotion on Faith of Our Children, and recognition coast to coast. But she has also had to meet obstacles like racial prejudice and denominational jealousy. In this regard she can relate stories which are jolting in their un-Christianlike details. When she was experiencing the throes of organizing her first program, she was coldly rebuffed by a church member from whom she sought aid. Ellie cried for two days in hurt and amazement until the Rev. Clifton Moore, who was producing the program, convinced her it was an individual, rather than a church matter.

Background

Eleanor first became interested in Sunday School when she started taking her own Peter to the Presbyterian church in Beverly Hills. "After sitting by for two Sundays I was a nervous wreck," she laughs. "The children squirmed and were restless and there was so much to be done and so few teachers to help. Finally I asked if couldn't I please do something like pass out crayons. They were so desperate they let me do that. Then I started picking up the little coats and galoshes and next Sunday I asked if anybody would mind my bringing a rack to hang them on. I did things like this for a year. Then I was asked to teach. I took the training course at Pacific Palisades and started teaching second grade. I've missed one Sunday in seven years."

At a dinner at which teachers were participating, Rev. Moore met Eleanor Powell and asked her to tape a guest spot on a radio show he fostered. The Faith of Our Children TV program resulted from their collaboration on this effort.

"My greatest joy in doing this program is in teaching children faith and belief in God. I don't mean just the children in the studio. I mean all the youngsters watching. Then, the second joy is in teaching the essence of brotherhood — there's only one God."

The other day a reporter asked Eleanor Powell "Howja get into this racket? What kicks ya gettin' outta this?"

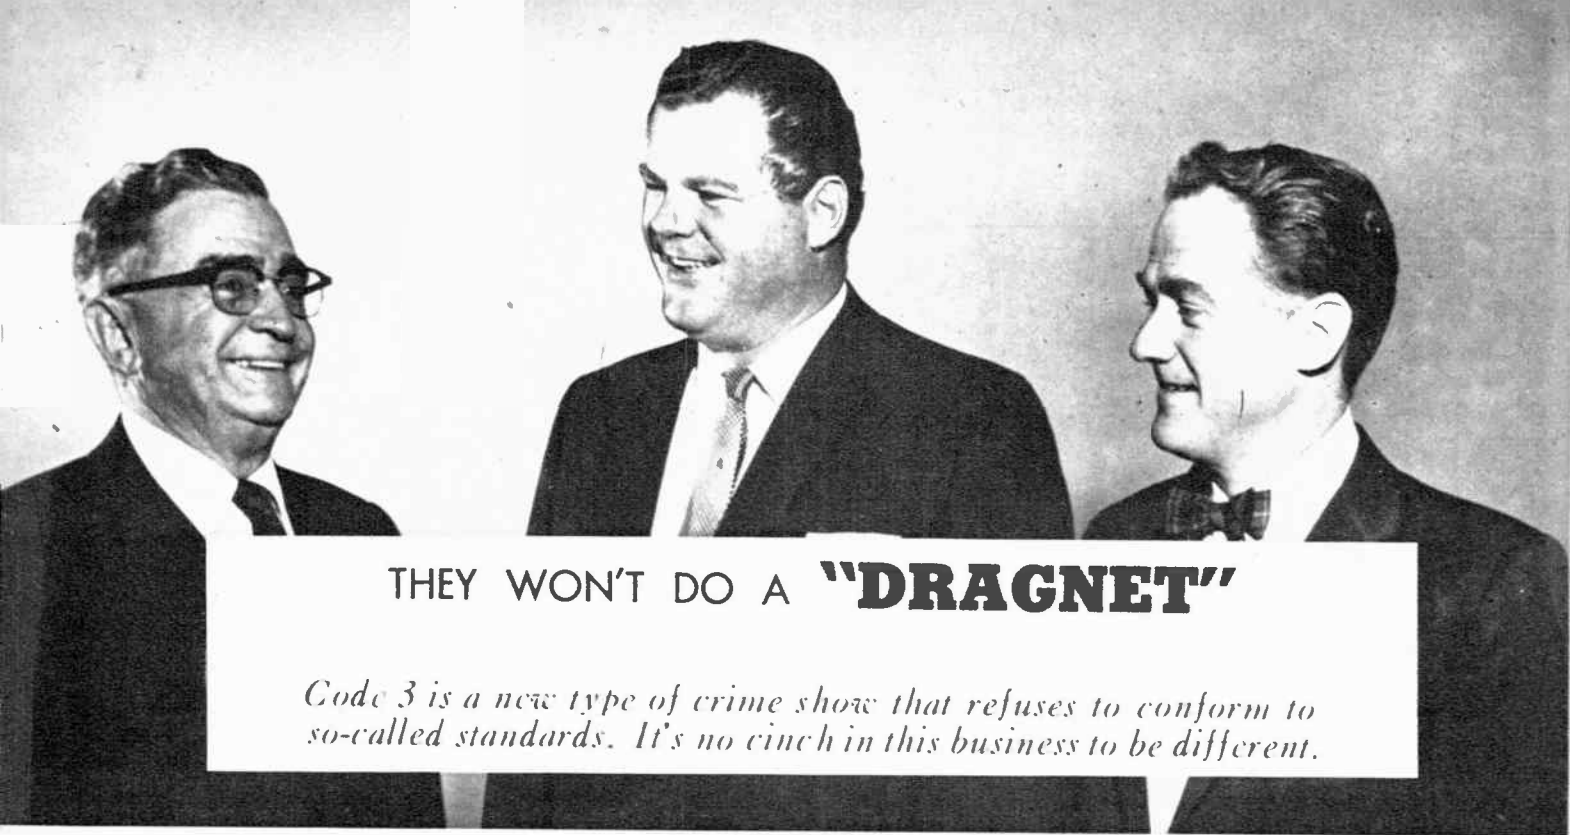

Eleanor looked at him and wondered if he'd understand if she told him. Then, after a pause she said, "It's my way of saying thanks to God for all the blessings in my life."

The reporter heard and was very quiet.

THEY WON'T DO A "DRAGNET"

Code 3 is a new type of crime show that refuses to conform to so-called standards. It's no cinch in this business to be different.

By Jack Holland

THE THREE MEN BEHIND KTTV'S NEW CODE 3 show left to right, Sheriff Eugene W. Biscailuz, executive producer Hal Roach, and producer Ben Fox. The new series is a standout on the TV scene.

WHEN THE IDEA for Code 3 was submitted to M. Bernard (Ben) Fox, producer of the highly successful Waterfront shows, he wasn't too enthusiastic. After all, crime shows were no TV novelty—and even though the projected series was to be based on the files from the Sheriff's Office, the premise was still the same.

Conclusions

But he did some investigation anyway. He spent several days talking to various officers at the Sheriff's Office—and he came away with three definite conclusions: (1) that this force covers not only the largest beat in the world and over every kind of terrain, but that the men who do the work have to have unusual initiative; (2) they have the widest variety of activities of any law enforcement agency, as far as Fox could tell. Some of the fields covered are the same as those handled by Dragnet but the area is wider. Also, the Sheriff's Office was the only force to have its own aero squadron.

The third interesting bit of information Ben got as a result of his conferences was that the force works in close co-operation with the Coast Guard, that it has its own extensive honor farm in Castaic where men of all ages are rehabilitated in key basic industries, that it runs a woman's county jail at Terminal Island. There is also a Sheriff's Posse which is a reserve of men subject to 24-hour call for emergency missions of all kinds.

"With such a broad scope the possibilities for different and off-beat stories were limitless," Ben remarked. This young man who has carved such a niche for himself in TV and who is considered the highest-paid creative producer in TV was obviously enthusiastic about his new property, which he does with Hal Roach, Jr., and which is now gaining in popularity on KTTV.

"Naturally, all of our stories are based on actual files, files which have never been released before. The cases I've studied have interested me for one big reason—many contained excellent character type stories. I found that strong characterizations had a lot to do with the success of Waterfront, and I wanted to continue along the same lines in Code 3.

Different

"I have definitely tried to make Code 3 different from Dragnet and other such shows. I know it's not possible to hit an off-beat track each week but I want to do it as often as I can. There is one way in which we can avoid being ordinary. We have no one star running through the shows—with the exception of Richard Travis who is the narrator. Our stars are a group of men. Occasionally, some of the same men will be on various shows but not very often.

"I'm trying, too, to center attention more on the personal interest kind of problems. On 'The Search,' which dealt with a little girl who was missing, we showed step by step the large number of men and the extensive equipment that go into action when a child is reported lost. However, at the end we asked viewers to call the Sheriff's Office if they saw a child wandering alone at an unreasonably late hour at night.

"When I thought of doing this, I talked with Sheriff Peter Pitches and asked if he'd mind having this inserted. He said he would be glad to have it in. I reminded him he might get a lot of nuisance calls.

"I'll take 1000 nuisance calls if only one could save a child," he added. "Such calls could cut our missing-child cases at least 30 percent."

"It's good to know that a TV show can be of help in instances like this. So, in a way, we're trying to be of service as well as to entertain."

Ben has found working on Code 3 is not any different from his job on Waterfront. He brought the same cutter, Danny Landres, with him, and directors Ted Post and Paul Landres, who had also worked with him on the Preston Foster starrer.

Now that Code 3 is under way, Ben is currently readying two other properties—Harbor Inn and The Forest Rangers. He also has several other ideas ready to roll.

Any producer who sets out to follow no set pattern, who doesn't want merely to imitate already successful shows, should be given a big salaam. This is the kind of thinking that will keep TV from degenerating into the commonplace.

How They View the News

(Part III)

Two of Los Angeles' most prominent newscasters compare techniques. One is a newcomer to the area, the other has been here 18 years. How do they differ in their views of the news?

By Bill Kelsay

KCOP'S NEWS EDITOR and newscaster, Baxter Ward, has built a strong following with film clips and a studied approach to his job.

LEE WOOD OF KHJ-TV looks to the years to build a friendly audience of listeners who respect him for the way he does his job.

IT IS ALWAYS interesting to compare the views of two experts in any field. When one of them has been a newscaster on the local scene less than a year, and the other has broadcast and telecast news from the West Coast for more than 18 years, their opinions on certain aspects of the business are bound to vary.

Baxter Ward of KCOP is the comparative newcomer; Lee Wood of KHJ-TV the California veteran newsman.

As part of their program build-up, KCOP brought Ward here from Baltimore, Md., last year. He had 20 years experience behind him in the East, in London with the BBC and in his home state of Washington.

Different Approach

"There is a different approach to the news in Los Angeles than there is in Baltimore," he declares matter-of-factly. "Back east, the emphasis is on conservatism; here sensationalism is the order.

"If you don't believe me, look at the banner lines on the so-called conservative newspaper here. It's the headlines that sell the paper on the street, and I think the emphasis on sensationalism reflects the demands of the public. It's my feeling this is the result of the newness of this area, the tremendous growth. After all, how many native sons do you know? Outside of Washington, D.C., I know of no other place where the conversation invariably includes "Where do you come from?"

"Now, don't misunderstand me. I don't seek out the sensational. But I am aware of it. When I came to the Coast last May as news editor of KCOP, I had to get the feel of the area. I analyzed the news as it was presented by others—and I faithfully read the letters to the editor columns in the newspapers. It's amazing how often they touched upon a subject that would become a big issue the next day."

Lee Wood

Lee Wood takes a somewhat different slant on news dissemination. He had his first taste of radio and the news in Denver in 1926. Later he followed his trade in Cincinnati and finally here in Los Angeles and San Francisco. He now handles the local segment of Don Lee World News and writes the radio news for Frank Hemingway.

"I don't point with pride and view with alarm," he avers quietly. "On our late telecast, I bear in mind that the viewer has been entertained for several hours before I come on. And I see no point in scaring him to death.

"Not that I steer clear of the shocking or distressing. I merely try not to emphasize it. Good taste is the basic approach to news, which is really very simple. My attitude is that I happen to know the latest developments in the news, and now I am going to pass that information on to you in as straightforward and objective a manner as possible.

Friendly Audience

"I think it takes years to develop a friendly audience of listeners who respect you because they know they can rely on you. And that is what I am constantly trying to build.

"If I have any one rule in the presentation of the news, it is that any item must conform to the three 'I's'—it must be interesting, important and informative, in that order."

Here, then, are two men who have embraced different approaches to similar jobs. They are not dissimilar, however, when it comes to the fact that they have given much thought to the manner of their individual presentation.

They are both doing work they like and for a very simple reason. Baxter Ward probably best expressed it:

"I learn something every day—and I'm grateful for the job."

The Real Reason Behind the Success of the $64,000 Question

By Jon Bruce

LOUIS COWAN was the creator of the highly successful $64,000 Question. He more than anyone else, knows the secret behind this sensational hit.

IN NEW YORK, Louis Cowan, the genius who created the $64,000 Question and who was in on the initial discussions for the Big Surprise, was sitting in his office at CBS. There was no desk to be seen, only comfortable chairs and a couch. His paper work was all neatly piled into a brief case. When asked why he had no desk, Louis Cowan remarked in his quiet, self-effacing manner, "I don't like desks. They put up barriers between me and the person to whom I am talking. They're just too formal. Besides, papers on a desk annoy me."

Oddly enough, Cowan had just come from making a speech about the reasons for the success of the $64,000 Question. But before he went into that he made it quite clear that the Big Surprise was not his baby.

"When I switched on to see the first Big Surprise show I was as much in the dark about what to expect as was the average viewer. I didn't know what it would be like. It's true I was in on the initial discussions, but the format I saw on the first show was entirely different from the show I had discussed."

It was obvious that Cowan didn't want to revel in the success of the $64,000 Question, but he didn't evade any discussion of the program. This was not a man who felt as though he had created the atomic bomb or any such fantastic world-shaking event.

Money?

"I was asked recently if the amount of money given away was the answer to the success of the show," he said quietly. "I could only say 'yes and no.' Basically, I just took the idea of the old Take It Or Leave It show with its $64 prize money and added three zeros. The $64 part was already in the common vocabulary, the three zeros merely dramatized the idea.

"When I was trying to think of a new idea for a TV show I somehow drifted to the contest thing since I have always felt there is an interest in contests. After all, about 20,000,000 people, according to statistics, are engaged in entering contests.

"But, at the same time, I felt merely giving away a lot of money wouldn't be the answer to a show's success. I felt the emphasis had to be on getting interesting people, and certainly contestants like Mrs. Kreitzer, Gino Prato, Bishop Kershaw, and our Marine raptain proved that. Audiences have to care about the people on a show—that's the primary consideration.

"As for the quiz part of the show itself, I felt too that the device used had to be simple, something that people could understand and be sympathetic with. Money isn't the sole answer. It only creates the news. TV must create people who add to and create a different kind of news."

It was no mere accident that such people were chosen to appear on the program. The possible contestants were screened very carefully, and only warm, intelligent, and interesting people got the call for the show.

When the letters were received from those who wanted to appear on the show, a rigid program was followed. First, the likely prospects were contacted by phone. Then someone involved in the $64,000 Question either went to see the contestant or had him brought to New York for further screening.

"With this process of elimination, we managed to choose the best," Cowan went on. "Yet, even with such careful screening, we have almost missed a couple of times on good bets. Our policeman, O'Hanlon, was considered not a good contestant, but he was re-interviewed, fortunately, and chosen. Before we put on Bishop Kershaw, who was an authority on jazz, we got permission from his Bishop for him to appear on the show since we didn't want him to be criticized for going on TV with such an alien subject. He has been criticized, it is true, but he has felt all right about the whole thing."

The $64,000 Question will be remembered longer for its men and women than the amount of money it dished out.

Book Review

Six Television Plays
by Reginald Rose

Reginald Rose's "Six Television Plays" hit the bookstands this week.

Altogether six of the TV writer's works (all written during the period January, 1954-April, 1955) are included: "Twelve Angry Men" (the Emmy award winner for 1955); "Crime in the Streets" (now being made into a movie and the only one in the book Studio One considered too controversial to handle); "The Remarkable Incident at Carson Corners"; "An Almanac of Liberty"; "Thunder on Sycamore Street," and "The Incredible World of Horace Ford."

Rose's book follows the pattern started by Paddy Chayefsky and is quite similar in format: a preface by the author; the plays themselves; and then some illuminating commentaries at the end of each play.

In general, the book should please the layman and the professional or aspiring writer. He has much to offer for both groups.

Two things were verified by this reviewer in the reading of the plays. First, as Mr. Chayefsky is the "master of characterization," so Mr. Rose is the "master of plot." He builds drama and suspense beautifully. To Chayefsky, the plot is almost incidental. To Mr. Rose it is all-important.

Secondly, the top TV dramatic writers (not the boys who pound out the stereotyped junk we see each week) are blessed not only with talent, but also, thank God, with integrity. They want to say something worthwhile. And they usually do.

They have their problems (as Mr. Rose points out in his squabbles with agencies and other "censors.") However, in general, they (including all those who have contributed to dramatic shows on TV) have done more for TV than any other single group.

At one point, Mr. Rose comments about "the incredible power of the written word and the responsibility that befalls the man who decides to write." As long as the "responsibility" rests with such men as he, TV has little to fear. T.H.

Holland's Tunnel

Dug by Jack Holland

Edward R. Murrow's report on Africa was quite an amazing show. The first installment (the second will be shown in a few weeks) showed the greatest detail in preparation and did more to explain Africa and its people than any dozen authoritative books on the subject. Of particular interest were the interviews with some of the natives themselves. But didn't you get a cold chill when you saw the Nazi-type government now in existence in the Union of South Africa? This was really a shocker. This sort of dictatorship you could assume had been ended, but apparently not. As for Murrow, he is a controversial figure. Some like him and some can't take him at all, but you have to admit he knows how to cover a story and that he doesn't mind diving head-long into a hot issue.

I have always been a skeptic about these flying saucers. Well, I'm not any more. This past week Clarence Greene and Russell Rouse unveiled their documentary picture, "Unidentified Flying Objects." The films were obtained after the Pentagon had put them through every laboratory test known to science—and they prove conclusively that flying saucers or unknown objects are no fantasy. This is an exciting, provocative picture and will soon be released. I'd advise you to see it before you poo-poo the whole idea. Your government isn't laughing. For the past several years the Pentagon has been secretly investigating reports of "unknown" objects in the skies and now you can see the results of that investigation. If only this film could be shown on TV too! Everyone should make it a point to see it.

More Mail Bag: James Vogel wants to know what has happened to Fred Waring—and why he's not on TV. Mr. Waring has been on tour and he has also not found the right show. But he's certainly not starving. All he has is talent!

In last week's column, Sal Mineo's name was spelled Sal Minee. This is just to inform you that the Minee was the result of a dirty "e" on my typewriter that came out like an "o."

Jane Froman may not be on TV any more—and hasn't been since there was all that revamping of network schedules a while back—but this is not bothering her. She figures that after three years of a steady TV diet she can take it easy. Jane is not in any hurry to go back on the medium on a regular basis because she feels that you can get engulfed too quickly. Right now, she's socking across a fine act at the Coconut Grove. What heart this woman has! And what a

Pick of the Pix

By Aubrey Dahl

Too many movies this week, so will have to forego opening statement, except for foregoing.

"Brief Encounter." (13) May 8, 8:30. Must say it again... station will probably cut this one so beware. Adapted from a story by Noel Coward, this study of mature love is so good that it has become almost a legend to those who have seen it. It tells of the chance meeting of a married woman, Celia Johnson, and a doctor, Trevor Howard, also married, in a railroad station and the growth of their affection until finally they are forced to a choice between the status quo and running away together. There are many excellent scenes helping to tell this tale... their one really private moment in a friend's apartment, an important conversation in the station continually interrupted by a well meaning, gabby woman, the humorous byplay between the tea shoppe woman and the stationmaster, Stanley Holloway... all contribute to a whole that is at once sentimental and intelligent, tasteful and revealing. Perhaps the principals' reaction to passion is a bit too controlled for American audiences, but then, not everyone in the throes of it pants.

"Too Many Girls." (9) Beginning May 8, 9:00, 1940. As I remember it, this was a funny picture, but I was very young when I saw it. Even younger than I am, now. Lucille Ball is a wealthy playgirl who goes to a small college in order to be close to her current flame, who owns a ranch nearby. Her father sends four football players, Richard Carlson, Hal Leroy, Eddie Bracken and Desi Arnaz, to guard her from the wolves and they turn the small college into a national football power. There are lots of farcical football shots, many songs by Rodgers and Hart, among them. "I Didn't Know What Time It Was." and some typical direction by George Abbott... everything moves fast. Desi and Lucy supposedly met while making this picture and I'm sure if you look closely you won't be able to get an inkling of what was going to happen to them.

voice! If you have missed hearing her, give her a listen at the Grove. She's really what is known as show business!

Another show is reportedly about to fall the victim of the rating system. Words About Music, the KNXT offering, is said to be shaky because of no rating. Another argument against the system because many people have been saying they enjoyed this show. If you're a fan, you'd better let KNXT know how you feel about the possible demise of this one! And fast!

"The Final Test." (7) May 9, Noon. It's an old saw that no one can poke fun at the British better than the British and this movie is a case in point. Jack Warner is a famed cricket star playing his last match, but his son, who thinks cricket is silly and is bent on a literary career, skips the match and goes to see Robert Morley. Morley is an eccentric writer of some repute who turns out to be polly about cricket and is appalled that Warner's son would miss the final test, as the match is called. The boy then sees his father in a different light, takes Morley to the match and everything ends happily. There is much spoofing of both sports fandom and literature, most of it very amusing, especially a TV show devoted to Morley's precious dramatic poetry which confuses everyone, Morley included.

"The Amazing Mr. Williams." (11) May 8, 7:30, 1940. Melvyn Douglas is a smooth detective who keeps deserting his fiancée, Joan Blondell, to run down a culprit. He does his best to keep up courting appearances, however... he shows up for a dancing date handcuffed to a con sentenced to forty years. Other adventures include dressing as a woman to capture a degenerate and helping an innocent suspect to escape. Oh, yes, on their wedding night, Joan becomes a deputy and goes out on a case. Clever?

"The Fuller Brush Man." (11) May 6, 6:00, 1948. This should be just the thing for you Red Skelton fans, who are loyal, I'm sure, as well as legion. Red is in love with Janet Blair, but she seems to be more responsive to Don McGuire, a FBM, so Red joins the force. Of course, he gets into all kinds of trouble as he goes knocking at people's doors, even to discovering the murder of his former boss, detecting an important clue and getting kidnaped by the murderers. A great deal of slapstick accompanies the final rescue by the cops and Red gets the girl. This picture was once a hit and it's up to you, the public, to decide whether it still is.

COWARD ON GROWING OLD

Noel Coward ages from 35 to 55 in "The Happy Breed" (Ford Star Jubilee, May 5). "On the stage as you take make-up off your complexion ages under the lights," he explains. "But in color television, it's just the reverse. If you remove make-up down to your own skin, you televise as ruddy as a tomato and as healthy as a Normandy schoolboy. Consequently, for this show ("Happy Breed") I'll have to put make-up on every few minutes—nice gray make-up—to grow older."

GALE'S GIRL

Gale Robbins has christened her new daughter Cynthia Lee. Gale just completed the starring role in "Dark Legacy" for Screen Gems, and soon re-enters the recording field.

BY EVELYN BIGSBY

ARE THE FANS WHO VIEW the $64,000 Question and then buy Revlon products being nipped to help pay the winner's check?

LAST WEEK I HAD A LETTER from Mrs. G.J.K. of La Crescenta. It was provoked by a recent article I did showing exactly how much the $64,000 Question cost.

"WE HAVE BEEN CONSUMERS of Revlon products for over 12 years," the lady wrote, "but you may be sure there will be no more of them in our home—ever again.

"THREE WEEKS AGO WE WENT into our neighborhood pharmacy to purchase a jar of nail cream, one of the items we use regularly. We have always paid 60 cents. They are now charging 75, an increase of 25 per cent. I questioned the increase and the clerk said, 'Oh, yes. All of the 60-cent items are now 75 cents, and it went into effect after the last $64,000 check was paid out.'

"ON MY RETURN HOME I phoned another drug store and the clerk verified the increase on many Revlon items and when I questioned why the increase, the clerk said, 'I guess that's the public's contribution toward the winner's check.'

"I WISH THAT YOU WOULD enlighten your readers and if you check as we did you will find that cosmetics generally have not gone up in price."

MAYBE SOME OF OUR READERS can help answer Mrs. G.J.K. I called the cosmetic department of one of our biggest department stores and was told that Revlon products had not gone up in price as much as some of the others which do not have a TV show. The saleslady named four or five comparable brands, pointing out that one of them had gone up on every item. Her only quarrel with Revlon was "we can't get merchandise from them fast enough."

I THEN CHECKED WITH MY own beauty salon and was told that most of the better lines had risen in price and that Revlon had gone up on certain items like eyebrow pencil (10 cents), bath powder, liquid rouge. My shop had never heard a Revlon salesman say that price had been increased to take care of the $64,000 Question.

THE LOS ANGELES SALES OFFICE of Revlon declined to give out any specific information on price increases and referred me to the New York office, which I have written. The decliner did admit that there had been price increases, but thought they were made "prior to the $64,000 Question."

THAT'S ALL I KNOW SO FAR. What many viewers and listeners appear to overlook is the fact that TV and radio, when you dig to bedrock, are forms of advertising and their cost, like that of any ads, is ultimately passed on to the consumer. I'm wondering if our La Crescenta friend might not have taken too seriously remarks made facetiously about there being an immediate cause and effect between Revlon's handing out the $64,000 and raising prices to cover this. Certainly my article proved there was no basis for such a move as this.

SAT IN SUNDAY AT KNXT for a colorcast of Dr. Baxter's Renaissance on TV. Inasmuch as the program concerned medieval art, with use of color slides for illustration, the whole thing came off beautifully. Dr. Baxter dropped into the conference room to chat after the show. What an incomparable speaker! Both on and off lens. He was wearing a gray suit, blue shirt and plain dark tie. I asked him where his bright neckwear was (for color TV), and he flashed back. "I wouldn't be caught dead wearing a red tie."

LIFELINER HAS BEEN ASKED to participate on a committee to select the 600 radio greats whose names will be placed in the three-foot squares to adorn Hollywood sidewalks (part of the giant beautification project). I started leafing through TV-Radio Life files as far back as 1940 and was swallowed up in memories—for example, Jane and Goodman Ace, Tom Brenneman, Major Bowes, Meredith Willson, and many more. The committee realizes it has a rugged job—our chairman, KMPC's genial Mark Haas, calls us "The Legion of Condemned."

"This Happy Breed," the Noel Coward hit, is the story of Frank and Ethel Gibbons from the day in 1919 when they move their young family into a small South London house, until 1939 when, after persevering through years of crises, they move away.

Coward directs and co-stars as Frank Gibbons in this, his third "Ford Star Jubilee" production. Edna Best, distinguished actress of both the London and New York stage, co-stars as his wife, Ethel.

Coward wrote "This Happy Breed" in 1939, starred in it himself during a six-months tour of England and then for another three months in London. The play has been performed more than 800 times in Great Britain, where it ranks as a classic, and it was made into a successful motion picture. However, the Ford Star Jubilee color production is its first 'live' performance for American audiences.

The drama presents Noel Coward in a serious role, as the father of a middle-class suburban family, who strives through the years to accomplish what is best for his wife and children.

In the play Frank and Ethel Gibbons, their three children, a sister-in-law and a mother-in-law, grow up to encounter most of the situations of the average family; the young romances, the mother-in-law conflict, the weddings, the illnesses, the arrival of the grand-children, the parties with the neighbors, the unexpected accidents—all the sadness and happiness and affection within this group.

"This is not the story of a particular English family," says Coward, "so much as it is the story of every family, it could take place in South London or, just as easily, in South Orange, N.J. It is mostly a salute to human beings for how they manage to get along with each other."

"This Happy Breed" is presented 'live' in color from New York. A Lance Hamilton-Charles Russell production, it is produced for CBS Television by Richard Lewine.

"The Cradle Song" was originally written in 1911 in Spanish under the title, "Cancion De Cuna," by GREGORIO and MARIA MARTINEZ SIERRA, husband and wife. However, it did not become well known in America until 1927 when EVA LE GALLIENNE starred in the Civic Repertory Company production.

It is the poignant story of a baby girl who is left at the door of a convent in Spain. She is carefully reared under the supervision of the sisters until she is 18, when she announces her decision to marry Antonio, the young man of her choice, and go off into the world. Her leave-taking, though completely understood by the nuns who love her, nevertheless leaves them with a touching sense of loss.

JAMES COSTIGAN has adapted the original English translation of JOHN GARRETT UNDERHILL to television. GEORGE SCHAEFER directs. MILDRED FREED ALBERG is associate producer. JOSEPH CUNNEFF is production supervisor. S. MARK SMITH is editorial supervisor. ROBERT HARTUNG is associate to Mr. Schaefer. "The Cradle Song" costumes were designed by NOEL TAYLOR. ROBERT WIGHTMAN did the settings.

UNUSUAL TV PLAN ATTRACTS INTEREST

GROUP BUYING PLAN OFFERED BY LOCAL FIRM MEETS WITH ENTHUSIASTIC RESPONSE

Many of us have found that by cooperating with our neighbors and friends, by joining together as a group, we can accomplish more. Thus we find groups are able to purchase merchandise or services, at a lower price. We're all familiar with group insurance plans, cooperative buying, etc. With this thought in mind, one of the local TV service organizations announces a plan of particular interest to those people who own television sets.

By using the group purchasing power plan, and obtaining tubes, parts, etc., at maximum discount, the organization is able to pass along tremendous savings to its members. Here's how the plan works for members of Television Industries Protection Plan.

Let's suppose your TV picture tube burns out. To replace a 21" to 24" picture tube, could run well over $100.00. This could present a severe financial hardship to many a family, especially low income families. Yet, there's a simple answer to this problem! How?

By joining Television Industries Protection Plan for only $10.00 a year (on a 2 yr. basis), your picture tube, up to 24" is automatically warranted for 2 full years. The replacement of power transformer, tuner, small tubes and all parts can also be guaranteed for 2 full years at a slight additional cost. No more worries about big TV repair bills—you will never have to pay more than $3.50 for any home service call, including all parts necessary to repair your set in the home.

Already, more than 14,000 Southern California families belong to this excellent group plan. It will pay you to find out how this plan operates. Offered by a company who has been in business since 1949, you are assured of complete satisfaction at all times. A simple phone inquiry to RI. 9-0301—will bring you full information without obligation, or you may write to Television Industries, 4031 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles 5, Calif.

ACID ACCIDENTAL?

Suspense comes up with a timely program this week. (Tuesday, May 1, CBS-KNX). It's called "The Man Who Threw Acid." No connection with the recent acid thrown into the eyes of columnist Walter Riesel—but it does make you think of it.

BUSY MAN

Jesse White has called off a Southern legit tour due to new commitments with the Danny Thomas and Ann Sothern TV programs. Oddly enough, he plays a comedy Hollywood agent on both shows.

BACK HOME

Stanley Niss, writer-director of CBS Radio's 21st Precinct has just returned to New York after a 10-day stay in Hollywood, where 21st Precinct emanated for two weeks to accommodate members of the cast who had motion picture commitments at MGM Studios.

Radio in Review

For Love o' Mike (General Comment)

More Moore, Yet

In addition to his three TV shows on KTV (including his filmed Life With Elizabeth series starring Betty White), Del Moore "broke in" his disc-jockey show at KLAC, replacing Jim Ameche. So far, and from what we heard, funnyman Moore is playing it pretty straight as a deejay. We hope he stays that way; no man (not even clever Del) can be funny for that long.

Ameche, in case you're looking for him on your radio dial, has moved over to KDAY.

Time Honors Freud

As happens so often, Dr. Sigmund Freud was a prophet without full honor in his own times. Time, fortunately, has done him justice. Just as a few small examples right here in America: This week the founder of psychiatry was featured on the cover of Time magazine.

On Sunday, on both April 29 and May 6, Dr. Ernest Jones, Freud's distinguished biographer, will be presented in two New World programs on NBC-KFI.

"Churchman of the Year"

One prophet who is not without honor in his times—we're speaking of Dr. Billy Graham—was selected as "The Churchman of the Year" at a dinner given by the Washington Pilgrimage at the Willard Hotel in Washington, D. C. The broadcast, including a special congratulatory message by President Eisenhower, was carried on ABC Radio.

Same Station New Name

FCC has approved KOWL, 10,000-watt Santa Monica station, change in call letters to KDAY effective May 1.

New Show

KFWB kicks off a new show, Sports Detective, emceed by Fred Hessler, effective May 1.

Detective will be a 10-minute sports show and will follow each of KFWB's broadcasts of the Hollywood Stars baseball games.

On Tape

Jane Pickens is sailing (in her new yacht) and touring Europe, but you can still hear her (via tape recordings) on NBC Radio's Weekday show.

Radio programs come and go, but One Man's Family continues on like Ole Man River. This past week the Carlton E. Morse creation celebrated its 25th anniversary on radio. Three of the original cast members remain with the NBC program: J. Anthony Smythe as "Father Barbour"; Page Gilman as "Jack"; and Bernice Berwyn as "Hazel." Truly, an amazing record.

Bergen Celebrates

Edgar Bergen has really been living it up. And why shouldn't he? He celebrates 20 years as a radio star this month and that's something to shout about.

Many festivities for Bergen and his pal Charlie McCarthy are on the agenda. The Los Angeles City Council passed a resolution honoring "the two great stars who have contributed much towards creation of high standards in radio. . . ."

A luncheon celebration in his honor was given by the Radio-Television Executives Society of New York on April 26 and on May 2 Northwestern University, his alma mater, cites their illustrious son.

Following the honors at Northwestern, Bergen and McCarthy will present a special anniversary broadcast on their regularly scheduled CBS-KNX program. Broadcast will re-create some of the greatest comedy in the history of radio, including famous scenes with Marilyn Monroe, Don Ameche, John Barrymore, Nelson Eddy, W. C. Fields, James Stewart and Rudy Vallee.

AFTER GAME

URCAP (United Rubber Corporation) has bought KFWS's Star of the Game through Robert Culbertson agency for the season's Hollywood Stars baseball games.

On the 10-minute program after games, Erik Paige interviews a prominent newsman or baseball expert, discussing the star of the day's game.

CAST GROWS

Castings for Walt Disney's Hardy Boys series was announced last week. Carol Ann Campbell, 12-year-old juvenile actress, was selected to portray Iola Morton, a mischievous tomboy. Carol Ann received national acclaim recently for her fine performance as Lillian Roth as a child in the motion picture "I'll Cry Tomorrow."

Tommy Kirk, 14, a movie moppet from the Kentucky blue grass country, has been chosen to portray the role of Joe Hardy, the younger of the two Hardy boys. Tom Considine essays the role of Frank Hardy.

MARION MARLOWE

It's been a little more than a year since Arthur Godfrey fired Marion Marlowe. In the past 12 months there have been many wonderful experiences and changes for the gifted Marion.

Although Marion is riding the crest now, it wasn't all sweetness and greenbacks during the intervening year. At first, Marion was said to be drawing night club crowds only because of the headlines concerning her previous affiliation. She had a lot of living down to do and a lot of reworking of her real potentials as a performer.

Her Godfreyite personality was that of a semi-operatic prima donna. Her demure attitude and sedate gowns were as limiting as her vocal repertoire. Little of her basic charm, and nothing of her talent as a comedienne was exploited.

Through the invaluable experience of appearing on Ed Sullivan's show several times and through touring in the country's top supper clubs, Marion developed and broadened her horizons.

Sheer hard work and the encouragement of her manager-husband Larry Puck (another Godfrey veteran) have taken Marion a long way in one year. The lovely singer and her husband have formed their own company, Puckmar, and are planning to launch their own TV series by the first of next year.

BOHRMAN BACK

Announcer Stan Bohrman is back in Hollywood after making the "grand tour" of San Diego, Chicago and New York. He was formerly featured on his own show on KHJ-TV, Channel 9, and has appeared at one time or another on every TV station in Los Angeles. In the classical language of show biz, Stan says he is now "between jobs."

Around the Sports Circle with Tom Harmon

TOM'S FIRST GUEST on his Texaco Sports Finals some two years ago was the late Connie Mack (left) whom Tom and Len (center) are now viewing. (CBS Gabor Rona photos)

NO MATTER how great an announcer Tom Harmon is or will be, the football fans of the nation will never forget his record breaking running feats as Michigan's famous number 98. Tom still uses 98 as his office number at his CBS headquarters.

BEHIND THE SCENES, writer Panella (seated) and director Corbosiero are busy at work preparing Tom's nightly broadcast over the regional network.

ON THE HOME FRONT, Tom and his beautiful wife, Elyse Knox enjoy a dip in the family pool. They first met when Tom came to Hollywood to make a picture of his life's history.

Jerry Colonna: New King of the Kids?

The kids love Jerry Colonna in his role as ringmaster on Super Circus. But adults may wonder if this isn't a "step-down" for the big-name comedian. Here's the answer.

EVERY WEEK now a man with rolling eyes and a big thick mustache (his trademarks) performs the role of ringmaster on ABC-TV's Super Circus.

If you're adult and happen to tune in some afternoon you won't have to do a double-take. You are NOT seeing things. It is Jerry Colonna—the one and only, in the flesh. He's been the ringmaster on the eight-year-old show ever since Christmas Day last year.

Through the years, especially because of his movie and TV roles, and his many appearances with Bob Hope, the shrill-voiced comedian has almost become an institution in the world of show business.

"I'm actually playing to a third generation now," Jerry explained during an interview. "The first generation was during my early days. Then the second was during the forties, and especially the boys overseas. When they see me now sitting at home with their children (the third generation) they reminisce about the days when they first saw me."

Offhand, Jerry's new role on a children's TV show may seem to many as a "stepdown" for the big-name comedian. Jerry doesn't look at it that way. In fact, he considers it just the opposite.

Looking For Long Time

"I've been looking for a kids' show, such as Super Circus, for the past eight years—or ever since everyone knew that TV was going to click. As a matter of fact I submitted two formats for children's shows that are on the air today!" (For diplomatic, as well as libel reasons, no names were mentioned.)

"So I in no way consider this as a stepdown. It's the kind of job which blends in perfectly with all the different types of roles I've ever had.

"I'm really just an emcee with a red coat and a silk hat," he smiles.

If the quotes aren't enough to convince anyone that this is really the kind of show that Jerry has always been looking for, then maybe the facts behind the story of how he landed the role will.

Some Changes Made

Strictly an ABC-TV property, Super Circus originated live from Chicago for eight years. However, longevity—especially in TV—is no criterion for success. Super Circus began to slip—badly.

The proven format was too good to scrap. As a result, producer Martin Stone began to look for new acts and new personalities to "hypo" the program.

It was at this same time that Colonna himself was in Chicago trying to sell his own children's show. It wasn't quite what the network officials were looking for—but HE was.

In addition to Colonna, pretty Sandy Wirth (Miss Florida and runner-up in last year's Miss America pageant) was added to the cast. It was also decided to originate Super Circus out of ABC-TV's New York studios live every Sunday. (Californians see it over Channel 7 one week later.)

The result has paid off for everyone concerned—especially ringmaster Colonna, who commutes each week between New York and Hollywood.

Colonna has not only helped Super Circus get back into the big time TV-wise, but the show is giving him a chance to gain new fans in "the third generation"—especially through some merchandising schemes which are planned.

So if you belong to Jerry's "first or second generation," and think that poor Colonna has slipped because he's performing mainly for kids—save your sympathy.

Instead of tears, those big round eyes of Jerry's are rolling more than ever in dough and delight.

Does Hollywood Ruin Great Writers?

Rod Serling, CBS-TV playwright who was "discovered" by TV, and who is also writing for the movies in Hollywood, doesn't believe anyone is trying to "put his soul in a cash register"

By Ted Hilgenstuhler

WIFE CAROL is not only a companion and inspiration for successful TV writer Rod Serling, but as you can see here she also comes in handy during his "coffee break."

Hollywood is a nasty word in the literary world.

First of all, the film capital of the world has been called the greatest factory in the world for the manufacturing of poor and mediocre stories. Part of the fault, of course, can be blamed on volume. The American public and the world have demanded mass production and Hollywood has supplied it.

The second and far more lamentable point is how some of the small money-minds of Hollywood have ruined the great and potentially-great literary minds of some of America's finest writers.

The prime example was F. Scott Fitzgerald. The famed "historian" of the gay 20's may have had one foot in the literary grave before he came here to write for the movies. But Hollywood did a quick and merciless job of putting the other foot in, and even began hammering in a few of the alcoholic nails.

There were others; the Dreisers, the Odets and a horde of other established writers who seemed to have lost their "squeal" (as Thomas Wolfe expressed it) as soon as they donned their sun glasses and sat beside a water-filled pool and an empty typewriter.

These somewhat pessimistic thoughts (Hollywood has produced some good writers and some great stories, but they have been relatively rare and hardly balance the literary scale) were brought about when we recently interviewed Rod Serling.

Rod is far from a great writer yet (at least in the Fitzgerald-Dreiser-Odets class) but judging from his work so far he does have the potentiality of greatness.

This "potentiality" was developed first by radio (he sold his first script for $150 to the old Dr. Christian series back in 1949 and then television. To date the 31-year-old playwright has sold over a hundred TV originals. "Patterns" and "The Rack" (both of which are being made into full-length movies) are probably the best known.

Signed by CBS-TV

Last year, Serling was signed exclusively by CBS-TV to pen six or seven plays for the network each year. As part of the contract, he was allowed time to write for the movies. His first assignment was "52 Miles to Terror."

That was when we interviewed him in his plush office at the Irving Thalberg building on the MGM lot.

The short (five-foot, five-inch) dark-haired son of a Binghamton butcher doesn't waste any time in letting you know what kind of a guy he is. He's smart (he doesn't have to prove that; his work speaks for itself). But he doesn't belong to the "arty" group of writers. When he's searching for the right word or description, or when he wishes to emphasize something, he swears. Nicely and with a certain degree of dignity—but still he swears. (A paratrooper during World War II, you could hardly expect otherwise.)

"Don't get me wrong, though," he smiles. "The rest of the boys were the fighters; I was the lover in the outfit.

"Seriously, to get to the subject which you've asked about, I honestly don't think Hollywood will spoil me. I earn a yearly salary which amounts to six figures—let's say, I drive a bigger car. And I drink my beer now at Ciro's.

"But I got a bigger thrill out of that first $150 check I received for my first script than the much bigger check I pick up here at MGM and from CBS-TV."

No 'Big Knife'

More important to Serling, however, was the fact that Hollywood itself has changed.

"I don't think this town can spoil anyone. The 'big knife,' so to speak, is out.

"Back in the old days of Hollywood, it seems, they took your creative soul and stuck it in the cash register. I haven't found that to be true at all. No one has tried to stick my soul in a cash register. I find the people I associate with not only extremely literate, but kind and considerate. They respect me for what I am. And are not trying to change me in any way.

Many writers, such as Norman Mailer, and Ben Hecht, who have either lived in or off Hollywood have later written some sharply critical stories on the film (and now TV) capital.

Does Serling (who incidentally is married; lives in Westport, Conn. with his wife and two daughters; and who merely comes to Hollywood for an assignment now and then) plan to do the same sort of bitter or satirical work someday?

"No. I don't think so. That requires negative thoughts on Hollywood. I don't have any."

Maybe (hopefully) Mr. Serling will never change. However, he is still a young man.

Ear, Eye Inspire the Pen

G. N., Pasadena

I do wish you would have more articles on Jack Mahoney and Dick Jones. It would also be nice if you would mention that anyone may join their fan club by writing to Joanne Collins, 3850 Bradley Road, Westlake, Ohio. It costs $1.00 and five three-cent stamps a year. I know that sounds like quite a lot, but it's worth it. You get an 8"x10" picture of Jack and Dick Jones, two journals, two bulletins and all club privileges.

Mrs. R. C., National City

According to any articles I've ever read, I think the younger Crosby got where he is the hard way. He hasn't the great singing voice that Bing has, I will agree. But he has something which to me is greater, and that is personality, with a big plus. As for big brother, well, he has the personality of a dead fish, and I'd sooner listen to Bob for 15 minutes than Bing for an hour.

Mrs. M. L. S., Maywood

Nothing "gripes" me more than these "before" and "after" cosmetic, shampoo, or soap commercials. Why is it that they always show the "before" girl sad and serious looking, but you can bet your life the "after" girl is ALWAYS smiling? (Which in itself makes a world of difference.) Why not put both gals on an even basis, either both serious or both smiling—to be fair (or wouldn't there be enough difference to prove their point?)

F. W. B., San Bernardino

I was so shocked to think anyone could be shallow enough to say such things about a show as wonderful as the Bob Crosby Show. It's clean, wholesome and full of talent that is so superior to some that my family and I look forward to it each day.

Mrs. F. L., Inglewood

Now we have a program on radio that is so wonderful I hope everyone who likes midnight listening will tune in on Jack Rourke's Party Line to hear what the people who call in are saying of this very worthwhile program. I think it beats anything I've ever heard on radio or TV. I would rather miss a couple hours of sleep than miss one word of this Midnight Party Line. Wonder how many other TV-Radio Life readers are listening to it?

V. M., Alhambra

I have a gripe that I get so mad about that I have to "let off steam!" I wonder if any other readers have felt the way I do on this subject, i.e., Panorama Pacific. I watch the program every morning, almost, and I always enjoy the features, guests and everyone connected with the show regularly. Red Rowe, Helen Parrish, Grant Holcomb and George Wolfe. However, I am so tired of the way they interview people when they make a guest appearance that I feel like watching Today from New York! Red is the worst offender—always interrupting and absolutely doing MORE talking than the guest it times. George has done the same thing several times also.

Mrs. B. McK., Los Angeles

Sorry, I cannot agree with the remarks of Louise Peters of Altadena who wrote entering her protests against all sponsors of TV shows. To me, her attitude is wholly unrealistic and illogical.

Business is part of, if not OUR WAY OF LIFE, and if it weren't for these sponsors who pay for the time and pay for the salaries and for everything that goes into the entertainment on TV, we viewers would in all likelihood have to pay for it. So why so much of the BIG MOUTH?

Personally, I not only am grateful to the advertisers for giving me all this wonderful entertainment (except for the reruns) on TV, but I also enjoy the commercials. I think some of them are exceedingly clever.

Mrs. A. G. C., Torrance

I am writing this for the benefit of all unhappy, discontented TV viewers who are continually griping about different programs and commercials. Now commercials are put over in such a cute way that I am sure children are so interested in the cartoon part, they pay little attention to the product, even if it be beer, cigarettes and such. (This is directed toward the party who wrote in and claimed commercials are tainting our children.)

T and M. J., Los Angeles

In your Radio in Review article in regard to Fearless Format you forgot to mention KHJ-Radio where "Fearless Fred Forgetting" has that warm early morning "waker-upper" Fearless show.

Mrs. L. D., Azusa

A letter appeared in the Ear, Eye Inspire the Pen column from a person from Altadena and it really got my goat. All sorts of sponsors were berated and the last sentence took the cake—"I could go on writing pages about the action of teenagers." Having just had my twentieth birthday, it is a subject very close to me. I've heard so much said against "teenagers" I couldn't begin to write about it. Why should people always be so harsh about them? They are people in every sense of the word. It's a big job, the business of growing up. I have an 18 month-old son and I certainly hope that by the time he grows up and enters that precarious age between childhood and adulthood there will be more tolerant people in the world to help him grow up to be a respectable person and not make him feel like he's a plague.

I don't believe television can have any harmful effects on children of any age if they have the proper guidance of loving parents.

J. D., Hawthorne

I don't believe a person has to be called "more holy than thou" to agree with Doye O'Dell, when he announced on the show last night, that Western Varieties did not sponsor or knowingly permit any routine or script to be used on his show belittling or ridiculing any part of any religion, the reason for the announcement being a part of the script used on a performance by the so-called "Most Colorful Hillbilly Band" on the show of February 24, 1956.

While the above quote may describe the looks of the group, and their music is snappy, unless one is familiar with the song sung, one has to guess what the words are, as for the most part they are unintelligible. However, when a viewer has a show of this type tuned in on a set, one must expect to like some acts better than others, so we are glad that we have a wonderful medium as television, and don't mean to be critical, except to express an opinion.

E. P., West Covina

Why do not more people write about the wonderful program on Channel 4 at 4:00 p.m. on Sunday? It is Faith of Our Children with Eleanor Powell. It is such a nice program. Also The Lighted Window at 4:00 p.m. on Channel 7.

Mrs. P. J., Los Angeles

I want to say a good word about Groucho Marx's exceptional contestant, Mrs. Esther Bradley. She was such a treat to listen to and watch. She stood up there and talked to Groucho just as if they were friends of long standing. And she had such an unusual humor. I sat in my chair and laughed until I ached.

Groucho must have considered her unusual and interesting, too, because he gave her and her partner the entire program. I've never seen him do that before and I've been watching that show for years and years.

Label Talk

By IERREA LEA

How would you like to open a bank account without money?

Most people will think this a fine, but impossible idea. Well, it is a fine idea and it is possible. You can open a bank account at Label Bank and instead of banking money, you bank labels. In return for your labels you receive nationally advertised premiums at no cost to you.

There are 41 grocery items that have labels that can be banked at Label Bank. Labels from Chicken of the Sea Tuna, Buisman's Coffee Extender, Sioux Bee Honey, Doodle Dandy Pickles and many other quality products are worth money to you right now at Label Bank.

If you would like to open that account why not do it right now? Drop a postcard to Label Bank, Dept. TVRL, 727 No. La Brea Ave., Los Angeles 38, Calif. You will receive a free premium catalogue with a label list of products and complete information.

It's a wonderful plan folks so don't be a label waster. Save those labels and turn them into that new steam iron, electric razor, bicycle, or patio furniture you've been wanting. And don't forget to save the cover from TV-Radio Life because it's worth one point to you at Label Bank.

Here is another way you can benefit from Label Bank. Each week I make a personal appearance at a super market. I conduct a Label Bank drawing for valuable prizes and 50 giant bags of Label Bank products. You'll find my next market appearance listed elsewhere in this issue. Go to the market now and register for the big drawing. I might suggest that you take advantage of the wonderful values you'll find there too... especially the Label Bank products.

Remember to watch the Label Bank TV show on KNXT... Channel 2, Wednesday at 2:00. Come down and see the show in person... I'd love meeting you and presenting you with a Label Bank catalogue. Also, tune in KABC radio... Monday through Friday nights at 10:30. So until then, 'bye for now.

SALUTE

Science class at Trenton, New Jersey High School affectionately named there new skeleton Edward R. Morrow.

CBS-TV's The Line-Up came out at a time when anything remotely involved with cops and crime was compared to Dragnet. The comparison was inevitably handed to Line-Up, but producer Jaime del Valle didn't mind. He knew he had a different show, one that could more than stand on its own two feet, and he has nicely proved in the last two years he was right.

The Line-Up has become one of TV's more popular shows. It has gradually climbed to its present peak mainly by word-of-mouth. KTTV runs the series too under the title of San Francisco Beat.

"Our point of attack is the same now as it was when we first started," the very interesting Jaime del Valle commented. "We were determined to be unlike Dragnet, we were firm about being factual, and we wanted to give good entertainment. As far as I'm concerned, the only similarity now between our show and Webb's is that both of us have two cops.

San Francisco

"At times I have wondered if I were really wise to do a show that had to be largely filmed in San Francisco. I spend my life commuting, but you can't put on a show based on files from the San Francisco police, use the right locales, and not work in the Bay City.

"We work in close co-operation with the police in San Francisco. We can't put on any show if the Board of Review hasn't okayed our paraphrase of the actual case depicted. When we first started Line-Up we asked for access to the files of the Police Department. This was granted. But, to facilitate matters, we thought it would be wise to ask individual inspectors to tell us of cases with which they were familiar.

"At first, these inspectors resented us. They looked on us as another outfit from Hollywood who were going to make cops look ridiculous. There was also animosity about Hollywood producers making San Francisco look silly. We managed to explain to them that we wanted to do a good job, that we were sincere, and then the cases poured in.

"At first, they couldn't understand why we had to disguise some of the cases for legal reasons, why we had to change characters. And they could not see why certain cases could not be done at all. About 65 percent of those submitted were not right for us. The Board then clarified a good deal for us. Yet, even here we had some difficulty since the Board was made up of members of the department, all of whom had different methods of operation and felt that certain scenes should be changed in the scripts to match those methods. Their ideas, however, did help later in the writing of our shows.

"We've had excellent co-operation from the department — and from the people in San Francisco. When we started the show the Mayor of San Francisco even wrote to mayors in

It's Worth the Headaches

Jaime del Valle, producer of the popular Line-Up show, doesn't mind problems as long as he can go on giving TV a stand-out production like this.

By Jack Holland

50 other cities telling them that Line-Up was going on and asking them to send him their comments. Ordinary citizens have helped too, mainly in letting us use their places for location. In two and a half years of shooting we have been turned down only three times on requests for certain locations."

Jaime astutely tries to avoid the obvious or the cliché on the show, although this is not at all times easy. For one thing, he wants Warner Anderson and Tom Tully, the stars, to be completely believable as inspectors. In the same way, he tries to avoid overly written or overly acted scenes. As Jaime put it with a smile, "It's also a tribute to the directors I've used that they've been able to handle all my whims and get the results on the screen."

Cliché dialogue is a real pitfall in crime shows, but Jaime watches it.

"We are lucky in one way," he remarked, "because some of the terms in our dialogue are typical of the expressions used by the San Francisco police. This gives a fresh approach for other parts of the country. In the Bay City, for instance, a drunk is called a guy with a 'heat on.' A 'roof job' is a person who is off his rocker."

Jaime spends three weeks in San Francisco and two weeks in Hollywood. This gives him little time for any family life. His wife, Virginia Gregg, is an actress and is busy most of the time and her activities further complicate the del Valle routine. He practically has only a nodding acquaintance with his three youngsters, Gregg, 7; Jaime, 5, and Ricardo, 3. When Jaime is at home he likes to spend his time cooking up some intriguing dishes. He really knows how to handle the kitchen department. One of his specialties is a soup that cooks for over 24 hours.

The Line-Up keeps Jaime busy, but he's thinking of adding to his already busy schedule. He has in mind a show based on cases of the rehabilitation of criminals. He still does not know where he'll film that one, but you can bet it will not be a local job. That would be too simple for Jaime del Valle.

WHAT'S NEW WITH Liberace?

What is Liberace planning now for the future? Is his TV life secure? How does he view his career, his accomplishments?

LIBERACE keeps as busy as ever. Here he does a stint with Groucho on You Bet Your Life. "Lee" has several projects brewing these days. (NBC photo—Herb Ball.)

LIBERACE is probably the least known person on TV. It has become a habit to assume he's just a man with a smile, a brother, and a charming mother. Yet, he is one of the medium's most ingratiating personalities and one of its shrewdest artists. Lee is not ever going to be caught napping.

"I have always made a point of keeping track of what the public likes and dislikes and then I try to give it what it wants," Lee commented at his spacious home. "It may be surprising to some but at first I didn't dare do much classical on my KTTV shows because there was apparently little demand for it. Now I find more and more people want this included.

"To please the public takes serious consideration. Its tastes change constantly and unless you keep up with those changes you soon become a has-been. This I don't intend to be.

Challenge

"My work, therefore, has an ever-present challenge. I can't ever sit back and dwell on what success I have been fortunate enough to acquire. Once I do that I'll let the passing parade walk right past me. There are too many things I want to do to become complacent and contented."

One of the biggest changes in Lee's career is his announced plan to do a legitimate concerto with a symphony at the Hollywood Bowl this summer. For too long audiences have thought of Lee as more of a showman than as a musician. He, therefore, feels the need to revitalize this phase of his musical career and to remind others that before he ever became a TV star he was known as an accomplished pianist.

"I am actually doing this concert to satisfy people who want me to play a legitimate concerto all the way through," he continued. "I've had several letters from fans saying they liked a certain theme and want me to do the entire composition. I think people now are sufficiently interested in good music to make this move feasible. For a long time, I was convinced that the general audience to whom I appeal just wasn't interested in classical music.

"I am also working on a show in Las Vegas. In fact, I should be playing there by the time you read this. I'm going to present a production with an actual story line. At present I'm calling it 'Liberace Takes A Bridey.' I'll play different episodes in my present life and then act out other lives I could have possibly led—all done with a certain comic touch. For instance, I'll be doing characters like Gallagher and Shean, a court jester, and others. There is also the definite possibility that this show will go on TV as a spectacular.

"I have no further plans for my TV shows. But I do intend to be on fewer productions. I'll be a little choosy about making guest appearances and I'll try to present something different in each show in which I appear.

"In some parts of the country, I have been seen too much. Some sponsors can't afford to buy the first runs of my shows so they have bought second and third runs. In these instances, my ratings have suffered and there has been too much saturation. There is little I can do about this, but I can see to it that when I do anything new it is at least off the beaten track."

Movies

During the past year Lee did a motion picture—"Sincerely Yours." To date it has been a disappointment—box-office wise. He doesn't intend to drop this new career but he is going to be cautious before he hits the silver screen again.

"For one thing, with the actual shooting of the picture and the time spent on tour with it, I was tied up for about sixteen weeks," Lee explained. "Yet, since my own company was co-producer I don't realize much money from all this time unless the picture pays off eventually—which I still think it will. Therefore, I cannot afford to do another right away. I lost about a half million dollars in contracts when I was making the picture—and I can't take that kind of loss too often," he added with a smile.

"Yet, 'Sincerely Yours' did me a lot of good in that it brought interest from places I had not hit on TV. For instance, Australia bought 117 of my TV shows just because my picture was successful there. I am disappointed about the showing of the film so far but I am in no way discouraged."

No one need ever think that Lee is a TV fad. His approach to his work is too sound, too wise. He knows the vagaries of the public, he knows how fleeting success can be, but he will never believe that he has "had it." You don't count Liberace out if you know this delightful man and his admirable determination.
