Famous TV Mothers:

THEIR KIDS ARE ON THE SPOT

WHAT BOB CROSBY HAS THAT BING HASN'T

BOB CROSBY
MRS. VIRGINIA CUMMINGS was married at 14, had her first child at 15, and now has four children. She has never been to a beauty shop. Jack McCoy's KABC-TV Glamour Girl Show gave her royal treatment.

WHEN KABC-RADIO'S "BEAT THE RECORD" show celebrated its third anniversary, "Gal Friday" Maryann Stonart gave emcee Reed Browning a hefty hunk of the birthday cake.

IT WAS QUITE A CELEBRATION for Jerry Lewis at Ciro's. His pals gathered around to congratulate him on being a proud papa again. The Ritz Brothers are among his well-wishers. (Ciro's photo.)
Hollywood's Best gets the stars talking and it has earned the reputation as:

The Show That Tells secrets

By Mildred Ross

KRCA'S HOLLYWOOD'S BEST is becoming known as the program which recreates important turning points or highlights in the lives of various celebrities and which comes up with the unusual, the unexpected and the unknown.

When Katy Jurado appeared on the program she told host Bob Paige the story of her self-imposed training schedule. The Mexican star was signed to do a picture, her first in America, without knowing more than a few words in English. She had the script but couldn't make any sense of it. Finally she hit on a unique way of learning a new language in a hurry: "I would sit and watch the same American movie six times in one day until it finally made sense," she explained. "In this way I learned your language along with some valuable slang and valuable knowledge of movie technique. Motion pictures themselves were actually responsible for my motion picture performance in High Noon, my first American movie and a very important turning point in my career."

Dan O'Herlihy had the most unusual story to tell to Hollywood's Best viewers. Dan had come to this country from Ireland to appear in Orson Welles' version of "Macbeth." He expected great things to come from this role but for eight years nothing or nearly nothing happened. With his career at a low ebb Dan came home one day to find that O'Bach's department store was trying to contact him. Realizing it couldn't be a credit to him, Dan returned the call and learned that it was the New York branch of the store that wanted to talk to him.

It seemed that an independent film producer had just seen a re-run of his eight year old picture "Macbeth" and had selected him to be the lead in their new production. Not knowing how to contact him, the producer asked a friend who was a top executive in the New York store to use their telephone in with their Los Angeles branch and try to locate Danny. This contact was the beginning of a role that brought an Academy Award nomination. The role of course was Robinson Crusoe and as Dan commented, "It was an actor's dream...a chance to ham it alone on the screen for an hour. I'll wager I'm the only actor to ever get a starring role delivered from a department store."

One would never suspect that Danny Thomas could become so frightened that he would literally shake in his boots. But that's exactly what happened to Danny when he appeared at a Madison Square Garden benefit many years ago. After a big build up he was unwittingly introduced as Danny Kaye. The moment the audience heard the name they cheered enthusiastically. But the polite perfunctory applause that greeted him when he was correctly re-introduced was chilling. So chilling, in fact, that Danny started to shake nervously. To hide his nervousness he went into his bus routine story. The shakes enhanced the story and the audiences howled. From that moment on the shakes became identified with the bus routine and it's become one of Danny's best stories.

The talented team that ferreted out these secrets are lovely Helen Winston and Herb Golden, co-producers of the series. Canadian-born Helen is an actress-publicist-producer. Herb Golden started in radio with the Armed Forces Radio Service in Korea. He entered television in Chicago where he produced and directed some of the Windy City's top TV shows. The young producers met on the Coast and when they discovered their mutual interest in television and when they learned they complemented each other's talents and abilities they formed their own Harlequin production firm.

"We enjoy producing Hollywood's Best because its element of surprise is so appealing," says Herb. "We never know what to expect from some of the stars and must admit they rarely disappoint us."
TV's famous mothers have one problem not faced by other mothers. And how they solve it provides interesting sidelights on the kinds of people they are.

By Jack Holland

You would think that the children of notable TV star mothers would have a real gravy routine. They have all kinds of physical comforts, they want for little, they have the best education at their disposal. And they also have mothers admired the world over. As such, other children look on them with envy. Therein lies the rub. How the TV mothers, then, keep their kids on a normal keel, how they prevent them from thinking they're special stuff is a problem that is not as easily solved as you'd think.

Betty Grable

Betty Grable, who has done several TV stints, the last being CBS-TV's "Twentieth Century" with Orson Welles, has managed successfully to keep the limelight off her two daughters. She does let them visit her on the set and she does discuss her work with them, but at no time does she ever let them think they're different from other children. At one time Vicki got to thinking she was a pretty hot young lady because her mother was Betty Grable. Betty quickly straightened her out on this.

There are several things Betty does to keep her daughters' lives normal. One of the most effective is her attitude when she picks up the girls at school. Other famous mothers often make a big point of letting the other children see them at school —and going through the star routine. Betty, on the other hand, parks her car away from the grounds in a secluded section and her girls meet her there. In this way, she avoids any undue fuss.

Gale Storm

Gale Storm has her system, too. And it has worked because Philip, Paul, and Peter are exemplary kids with no phony ideas.

"I try to center all my activities with my boys as Mrs. Lee Bonnell, not as Gale Storm," Gale remarked recently. "We are doing the same things at home that we used to do before I went on TV. I work steadily...

May 11, 1956
in church activities. I'm active in Operation Youth, in Cub Scouts, and in the Little League. When we go away on a trip, we go in our car rather than on an airplane. Even when I'm working in a night club, I won't stay at the club where I'm playing but will live at a dude ranch instead or some other place removed from the club itself. I also go hiking and fishing with the boys. In this way, they think of me as their mother and not as a TV star. They are naturally interested in my work, especially when I wear clothes they think are too revealing. They let me know soon enough how they feel about such matters. Their reaction? They don't like it.

Lucille Ball

Lucille Ball has gone to great lengths to keep her children away from the spotlight. She now refuses to have any pictures of her youngsters published unless it's for a very important occasion.

"My children stay in Palm Springs at our home that's in the winter months," the CBS-KNXT star explained. "Desi and I, of course, are with them for a good part of the week after we have finished shooting. For all they know about our work, their father is just a golfer since Desi does little but play golf when he's at the desert."

"We haven't been able to do much about their seeing the Sunday Lucy Show. That's on a time when they can watch TV. But we play down our careers before them. In addition, Lucie goes to Marymount school and the people there aren't too receptive to any attention given to children of stars."

"Desi and I feel this problem can be taken care of—if the home is kept separate from the studio."

Dinah Shore

Dinah Shore has never let her work as a star interfere with her role as a mother—and therein lies the reason for her avoiding any problems with Missie.

"I see Missie as much now, if not more than the average mother sees her child," Dinah said. "I take her to school every morning since I'm not due at the station early, and I get home at 5. I always try to teach Missie to distinguish between Mrs. George Montgomery and Dinah Shore. In fact, we almost speak of Dinah Shore as though she were a third person."

"I don't believe it is difficult to keep a child's life on a normal keel if the home is made the center of all activity and interest instead of the TV camera or the make-up."

Eve Arden

Eve Arden is another who has not found the problem too difficult. In fact, she's not aware that there is any real problem. Her children live on the farm Eve and Brooks recently bought, they never go to see her show, and they are not exposed to her work as an actress.

As Eve remarked, "I'm too glad to get home where I can relax and be a mother and a wife. I'm certainly not going to carry my work home with me."

Harriet Nelson

Harriet Nelson has probably the toughest time since her sons, Ricky and David, work on their KABC TV show with them. But they're still normal guys.

"Ozzie and I decided long ago that it was to the best interests of Ricky and David never to let our show interfere with their development as normal human beings," Harriet said sincerely. "Their contract stipulates they can quit any time they want to. At one time, we thought we had lost Ricky for sure. He was ten—and he discovered that Uncle Sam was taking more money than he was keeping!"

"If we have managed to keep our sons from 'going Hollywood,' and we think we have, it's due in part to the fact that the TV show has always been placed second in importance to their development as well-adjusted, healthy, human beings."

That about sums up the attitude of all the TV mothers. Maybe that's why they haven't a precocious brat in the lot.

The Personal Life of Dave Garroway

He doesn't have much time for any private life, but Dave reveals a few sidelights about the kind of a guy he is away from the camera and the mike.

DAVE GARROWAY can best be described as a man on the go. With his stint on NBC-TV’s Wide Wide World and his early ayem show, today, he never seems to have time to light in one spot.

He has about two free hours a day, between 7 and 9 p.m.—except for the times when he has to work at night, too. He’s up at 4 a.m., leaves for work at 4:30. He gets about five to six hours’ sleep usually, starts rehearsals at five, remains on the air until 10, then goes to meetings and creative sessions to prepare material for the next day’s show.

Marriage

Dave may be married to Pamela Wilde by the time you read this. He didn’t take the leap without a good deal of thought.

“I’m a fair marriage bet, I guess,” he said. “I have no habits that I know of that might not lend themselves to marriage. I am fussy about being places on time, about women’s hats, bad drivers, and keeping my desk clear of all papers, but none of these things should wreck a marriage adventure.

“Occasionally, I’m moody, but not more than the next man on the street. Pressure doesn’t seem to bother me any, however, and, in fact, I am more comfortable on the air sometimes where I feel protected from the world than I am off. I’m the least fussy guy I know about most things—food in particular. This kind of worries me. To me, the simpler the food the better and nothing is better than a bologna sandwich and a bottle of orange pop while I’m working on my SS100 Jaguar at home.

“My fondest hobby is sports cars, and I am currently installing a D type XK140 engine in my 1939 SS100 racing roadster. This will have taken me eight months by the time I finish. After that I have a Rolls Royce I want to start on. This working with the hands is very refreshing after working with your head all day.

“I do have another hobby—pets. I have had both dogs and cats but the cats were Siamese and wouldn’t quiet down all night for love or money and the dog tore up $1400 worth of upholstery so I am pelless, except for a praying mantis who once dropped in from the terrace. I put him in a glass bell and fed him and he lived for several months.”

Habits

Neither Dave nor Pamela cares for night clubs so they both remain home. “We sit around the house and read or go to the movies,” Dave commented, “or have friends in for dinner. She is the kind of woman I like. I especially admire her because she is not shrill-voiced. I can’t stand shrill-voiced women. I have always liked Cordelia in Shakespeare’s ‘King Lear’ whose voice was ‘ever soft, gentle, and low: an excellent thing in a woman.’

“Pamela will find I am not much of a cook. When I do prepare food I no longer have an appetite for it. After smelling it for a couple of hours I stay out of the kitchen, except to make bologna sandwiches.

“As for other habits of mine, I’m clothes-blind. I have a medium-sized wardrobe but I hate to shop for clothes. I don’t care much because I find that anything I put on looks like a burlap bag. Clothes always have on me — I don’t know why.”

Dave admits he’s as easy-going as he appears on TV. As he says, “You almost have to express your true personality on a show that lasts three hours. You can’t do an act for that long five times a week.

“I do have a problem, though—overweight. I don’t like this tendency in me because, coupled with a startling weakness of will when it comes to going on a diet, I find I’m at odds with myself. I also have another shortcoming—I split hair too fine. I demand an exactness in people to too great a degree.

“In addition, I can’t think of a thing to say to a sponsor and I wish I had better taste in bow ties.”

Dave is very happy on his two shows but he can’t choose one over the other. He puts it this way. “Today and Wide Wide World are like two pretty girls, one quite different from the other, and both most beautiful. The shows are ideally suited to what I can do best, and I hope they go on forever. At the moment, it looks as though they will.”

ONE OF DAVE’S passionate hobbies is tinkering with sports cars and foreign automobiles. He claims to be a pretty good mechanic.
Spectaculars.

Orson Welles busy at Desilu with Volpone, the first vehicle in his televised theater series. Don Porter's 17-year-old daughter Melissa Colored makes her acting debut in a Private Secretary segment. Noel Coward is sold on television. He's adapting many of his plays.

Big Surprise simplified their format because it was too complex to hold viewers. Buster Crabbe and his son, Cuffy, off to Africa next month to film new adventures for his television series. NBC is selling the famous singing-comedian Ray Bolger for a series of live shows starting next fall.

Jack Carson is making a pilot for NBC. Don Fedderson is hitching on to an old Alfred Hitchcock practice by casting his beautiful wife, June, in a walk-on role in every episode of The Millionaire. Spring Byington takes off next month to attend the Science Fiction Writers convention. Saucy Spring is a great believer in saucers.

Jimmy Dodd and company just back from a successful tour and ready for production on more of the Mousetleater series. "The Beautiful Radio Workshop of the Ford Foundation has been made available to educational TV stations 23 of its Omnibus film features.

Lucy and Desi and Bob Hope swap guest appearances next season. Frankie Carle may be Dinah Shore's summer replacement. Arthur Godfrey will do one-hour specs for CBS next fall. Ford Star Jubilee has been replaced by Playwrights '56 half-fallen by the wayside. Kraft Television Theater begins its tenth continuous year of telecasting this month.

Harry Sukman replaces Mario Bragg as the new boss out of Playhouse because of conflicting commitments. M.E.

Gerry Gaylor—
The Go Get 'Em Gal

Gerry Gaylor is a TV actress with a lot of spunk—and pretty too. We could see that the moment she walked into our TV-Radio Life offices.

Now most actresses in TV (if they've been successful as Gerry has) hire a press agent to do their legwork. Not so with Gerry Gaylor. She came to Hollywood four years ago with aspirations to be an actress.

She came in this week to tell us she's going to co-star in The Man Called X" (Channel 9, 8:30 p.m., Monday) on May 21.

"Because I still have a slight foreign accent" (who was looking at her accent?) "I find it much more difficult to get roles. Right away I only have a 25 percent of a chance—in comparison to other girls.

Accent or no accent, if it takes a little bit of spirit, a little bit of pulchritude, to make a TV success, Miss Gaylor should be well on the way. As far as the talent goes—you (and we) can judge for ourselves this Monday on "The Man Called X."

Skelton Flicker

When Climax bought an original yarn, Public Pigeon No. 1, by Larry Berns and Don Quinn for Red Skelton some months ago they never anticipated that the property would be bought by a major motion picture studio.

Following the trend of making feature movies from successful television vehicles RKO is currently producing the Climax yarn with Skelton re-creating his TV role. Co-starring are Vivian Blaine and Janet Blair. Red hasn't made a movie in years. It'll be good seeing him back on a full screen.

Bill "On-the-Ball!" Burrud

Bill Burrud, narrator and producer of KTTV's Assignment America and KCOP's Wanderlust, has been doing TV shows for the past six years.

But as Bill expressed it to us this week, "he's never had it so good." This time he's starring himself.

His small, but enlarged production company, moved into new offices two weeks ago.

Last week, when the ARB ratings were released, they showed that Bill's KCOP show had zoomed to a 12.3 rating.

This week, Bill announced that his company was also starting a new show on KCOP. Wednesday night at 7:00 p.m. It's going to be called Vagabond, and is a travelogue-documentary program. First showing: May 16.

What about next week?

"That's when I'm going to have the biggest and best news," Bill beamed during our conversation. "Sorry—can't tell you yet."

(We have a hunch, however, that he's going to announce another new show—also to be seen on Channel 13.)

That'll mean Bill Burrud Productions will have four TV shows on the air—with Bill himself doing narration on three of them.

Kiddingly, Bill's friends used to refer to him as "the boy genius of TV." If he keeps up the pace he has set in the past three weeks, it may yet come true. If no genius, he's at least proving he's good.

Mrs. E. L. F., Los Angeles
The very idea of any Catholic priest telling a great organization like NBC to release over its network! Don't let us have this kind of dictatorship.

Mrs. P. K. B., Torrance
I don't know why people complain of TV commercials. After all, there wouldn't be any programs without the sponsors and most commercials are very clever. I'd like to take this opportunity to let Jackson Wheeler know that we all miss him and sincerely hope he will be back on KTTV soon.

Mrs. J. J., Alhambra
I enjoyed "Jeaninne" so much with Michael Redgrave. I would like to see it shown again and again.

Mrs. S. J. H.
What's wrong with that wonderful program Life with Father showing us all rerun programs? It looks like summer replacements.

D. R., Los Angeles
The sour grapes emanating from the Hollywood column concerning Phil Silvers coup on the Emmy night are too much. No one made disparaging remarks when George Gobel received almost every award in the books for doing on television the same thing he was doing in Chicago clubs 15 years ago. Phil Silvers is one of the truly fine comics in show business and has been for a very long time.

Mr. H. E. C., Hawthorne
Why do people continually rant and rave how poor some people's favorites are or how they should take them off the screen or put them on? No one in this world can think of the same things exactly the same way. If they did the world wouldn't be worth living in.

Mrs. H. L. W., Sun Valley
Last night we watched the Judy Garland Show. In the seven years that we have watched TV nightly, we have never seen a more deplorable exhibition or lack of talent. Whoever told Judy Garland that she can sing must be deaf to proper tone placement. Her so-called voice is full of off-key vibrato which is very distasteful to the ear, to say nothing of the silly gyrations she went through.

Mrs. V. M. S., Long Beach
I believe that all the crying by the motion picture people about the Oscar sponsor is simply the old one-two punch to throw the viewer off guard regarding placement of the Oscars. They think if they yell loud and long enough we'll forget where the Oscars went. All I'll forget will be to turn on the TV next year at Oscar time, also to bother with movies in '56. Their treatment of James Dean was entirely heartless and unforgivable.

Mrs. G. A. R., Torrance
I have two children. I had them normally and I'm curious to know the way of Caesarian birth. I say let these people who object to the Medic film turn off the set and go to bed. We are the public and we want to see it. I am 100 per cent Catholic and a good one. I think the church should not protest against a wonderful thing.

P. D. D., Anaheim
I understand that in 1929 a film short circuited the country several times and was seen on television several times. It was a film short on the life of a Roller Derby skater starring Jean Porter. I was wondering if it would be possible to have a re-run of this film? I think that if several people would write to the KTLA studios asking for this film it might be re-shown. Come on, Roller Derby fans, write to KTLA, 5451 Marathon, Los Angeles, 38.

Mr. and Mrs. R. K. P., Van Nuys
One of our favorite programs is the Jimmy Durante show. Could you tell us about "Mrs. Kalabash" as he always says good night to her in his own special way.

Mrs. L. C., Anaheim
I also am a Caesarian mother since December 12 when my second child arrived. I wonder if those people who object to the Medic film realize the importance of such an operation.

TV-RADIO LIFE
HOLLAND'S TUNNEL
DUG BY JACK HOLLAND

There has been a good deal of talk pro and con about the Producers' Showcase production of Dodsworth. In spite of some technical flaws, such as cameras and mike getting into the picture, I thought it was a grand job. Anything with Fredric March in the cast has a stamp of brilliance, and he did his usual superlative job. Claire Trevor was also a standout. The interesting thing about the production was that it did not show itself. There was no creaking in the joints which could be expected from a play that is now over 20 years old. This is the kind of TV that makes you sit up and take notice.

Candid Interview: Wendell Corey has been seen a good deal on TV of late in a series of live shows, among them Studio One and Climax. He was in town for an assignment but was flying back in a day or so to his home in Connecticut where his wife and four children live. This is probably the "commutingest" actor around. He has made so many trips back and forth that he ought to be given a special rate by the airlines. He has, on several occasions, while working in a picture or doing a TV show has been faced just to spend the weekend with his family.

"I think I'll be a little scarce on TV for a while," Wendell remarked. "There's a lot to be said for that saturation business nowadays while I love making pictures, I have to admit I like doing live TV better than filmed television. Most film shows look too canned and an actor has to work so fast he can't possibly develop a performance the way he'd like to. Then, too, film TV uses so many close-ups it's distracting, but the reason is obvious—there's no budget for sets.

"Sure there's more pressure doing shows live but there's also a lot more excitement as a result—and any actor likes that kind of stimulus." Wendell doesn't believe that New York is any longer the place for the best in live shows. He thinks that Hollywood has made great strides in this direction because the crews are now trained better in the medium. His favorite shows to work on are Studio One, because of producer Felix Jackson's ability and understanding, and Climax. His most satisfying job, though, as an actor was in "Still Life" for Lux.

Wendell may be around here more now since he has made a pilot for a series called The Probe. He's still not sure he was wise to have done the film since he's not at all convinced a series is a good idea for an actor, but he's taken the step and it looks like he has himself a regular job. He'll have that problem if and when it comes.

He's not giving up the movies, however. He is still under contract to Hal Wallis and will be doing another picture this summer. In the meantime, TV is happy to use his undeniable talent.

Odds and Ends: Bob Cummings will fly back to his home town, Joplin, Missouri, next weekend to celebrate a Bob Cummings Day. Joplin is justly proud of its favorite son... Ken Murray's signing with NBC is not at all unexpected. And neither is the fact that he'll be handed the job of hosting on a show to compete with Ed Sullivan. Ken is just the guy to do what has been an impossible task up to now. This man is Mr. Show Business... Friday and Saturday, May 11 and 12. St. Stephen's Episcopal Church will present a musical revue, a satire on TV called Television Follies. Arthur Fierson, producer with Roland Reed, is staging what should be a vastly entertaining show.

Give it a look.

Junior Genius Jolts the Press

Leonard Ross, 10-year-old expert on the stock market, is finding fame fascinating but he also wishes it could be fleeting.

Leonard Ross was eyeing a huge Wil Wright banana split being prepared for him at the ice cream parlor during a press conference. Standing near him was William Lundigan, host on Climax! The occasion was a press conference for Leonard's upcoming May 10 appearance on Chrysler's Shower of Stars with Jack Benny.

Bill Lundigan said to Leonard, "Aren't you kind of tired of all this fuss?"

The quiet-mannered little boy gave a hesitant smile and remarked, "Yes," and then pointing to the banana split he added, "But that kind of refreshes me."

He had been spending most of the morning answering a barrage of questions from an awed press. That he was tired, confused, and possibly a little overwhelmed was obvious.

Ever since he won the $100,000 on the Big Surprise life had not been the same for the young genius with the phenomenal memory. He was the center of attention in New York and now Hollywood was giving him the works.

Leonard is not exactly an ordinary little boy of 10. After all, what youngster of the ripe old age of seven would start being interested in the stock market to the extent that he would listen to all the broadcasts on stocks, read all available books, and even watch the market? To be even more exact, what boy of 10 is in the seventh grade and gets all A's in school—except for a "C" in gym?

"I've always liked studying," Leonard said quietly. "I want to specialize in math, but my ambition is to go into politics. I'm a Democrat, you know."

"I don't have time to do much outside of school since I am in classes from 10:17 to about 4:45. Sometimes I start at 10:23." He smiled, "That's when the tardy bell rings."

Leonard does listen to the radio a good deal and he watches some TV, but on a selective basis. He never turns on westerns, but he enjoys Climax! and other dramatic shows, quiz programs, and some mysteries. He is also fond of reading mystery books.

Leonard got on The Big Surprise simply by writing a letter. No one gave him the idea. He asked first to be entered in the politics or history category but was later put into the stock market section. Winning the $100,000, however, has not changed anything for him. After taxes he'll wind up with about $30,000, which is being put into trust for him to use in college and anything else he might need later.

His mother was also at the conference and was being besieged with questions. She, too, showed signs of being a little weary of the whole thing.

"I'm going back to work within a week," she said. "I'm an official court reporter in the Superior Court in Los Angeles. My husband is a CPA. Frankly, I'll be glad when we can all return to normal living. My oldest son, 17, who is a remarkable math student, is taking all the fuss with what amounts to indifference. None of us, as a matter of fact, feels any different from the way we did before Leonard ever went on the show."

Leonard didn't even want to buy any special thing with his winnings. His biggest thrill was getting a subscription to the Wall Street Journal. As he said with a certain amount of pride, "They gave it to me."

And with that he proceeded to finish his banana split.

HAVE YOU EVER BEEN A "BAIT-SWITCH" VICTIM? Have you heard what you thought was a legitimately enticing ad on radio, TV, or seen it on the printed page? Snapped at the bait, gone into the store only to find the advertised item is a "booby trap," or perhaps the advertised item is really priced half the price? Instead he tried to switch you to another "better," higher-priced item? If you've "had" or, rather, from my readers more than three or four calls on any one radio or TV commercial, I would carry the case to them direct, so let me know if you've first-hand experience with bait-switch or any other unethical pitching. I don't think you'll come up with too much, as I said before, because the airlines have been pretty discreet about what was or wasn't put on. The stations have to be, because if they knowingly accept false or misleading advertising, they may be held accountable alike same as the sponsor. Speaking of the perpetrator of evil plugs, KBIG's John Poole came up with a suggestion which didn't sound too afield: let the Better Business Bureau police businesses which cook up the bad ads!

THIS IDEA SEEMS SOUND. Its pursuance could get to the root of the trouble.

INCIDENTALLY, TV-RADIO LIFE does its best to police all its advertising. We've turned down more than $5000 in ad revenue in the past year or two, just because we wanted to protect our readers and keep our magazine completely acceptable.

UNUSUAL TV PLAN ATTRACTS INTEREST GROUP BUYING PLAN OFFERED BY LOCAL FIRM MEETS WITH ENTHUSIASTIC RESPONSE

Many of us have found that by cooperating with our neighbors and friends, by joining together as a group, we can accomplish more. Thus we find groups are able to purchase merchandise or services, at a lower price. We're all familiar with group insurance plans, cooperative buying, etc. With this thought in mind, one of the local TV service organizations announces a plan of particular interest to those people who own television sets.

By using the group purchasing power plan, and obtaining tubes, parts, etc., at maximum discount, the organization is able to pass along tremendous savings to its members. Here's how the plan works for members of Television Industries Protection Plan.

Let's suppose your TV picture tube burns out. To replace a 21" to 24" picture tube, could run well over $100.00. This could present a severe financial hardship to many a family, especially low income families. Yet, there's a simple answer to this problem! How?

By joining Television Industries Protection Plan for only $10.00 a year (on a 2 yr. basis), your picture tube, up to 24" is automatically warranted for 2 full years. The replacement of power transformer, tuner, small tubes and all parts can also be guaranteed for 2 full years at a slight additional cost. No more worries about big TV repair bills—you will never have to pay more than $3.50 for any home service call, including all parts necessary to repair your set in the home.

Already, more than 14,000 Southern California families belong to this excellent group plan. It will pay you to find out how this plan operates. Offered by a company who has been in business since 1949, you are assured of complete satisfaction at all times. A simple phone inquiry to Rl. 9-0301—will bring you full information without obligation, or you may write to Television Industries, 4031 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles 5, Calif.

DO YOUR SQUAW & PAPOOSES GET ON THE WARPATH?

RECORD Notes to You

By ANDY MANSFIELD

(KFI, Monday thru Friday, 9:45 a.m.)

(Saturday, 9:30 p.m.)

This week, Mercury's Olympian series of high fidelity classics is greatly enhanced by two Tchaikovsky favorites, "Capriccio Italien" and the celebrated "1812 Festival Overture." Seldom has "1812" received the production that went into this recording of Tchaikovsky's original scoring, for in addition to American conductor Dorati conducting the Minneapolis Symphony, a guest of the University of Minnesota Brass Band, the bells of Harkness Memorial Tower at Yale University, and the ancient bronze cannon of sixteenth century France, are used in its stirring finale. Deems Taylor adds an interesting commentary on how these effects were integrated for one of the most thrilling performances of "1812" you'll ever hear.

Maybe "Tribute to Benny Goodman" (Atlantic) was the last to appear in the Goodman LPs, but it more than makes up in quality for its tardiness. Backed by BG's famous sidemen (Elman, Musso, Russin, Reuss, McEachern, Beau, Vosely, and Fatool) pianist Jess Stacy is featured standards from the old Goodman book that every swing fan will delight in hearing. "Roll 'Em," "Don't Be That Way," "Sometimes I'm Happy," "King Porter" and the rest of the 14 tunes are played with the enthusiasm of a college reunion. All the boys shine, but there's an extra sparkle to Stacy's keyboard that hasn't been heard since his big-band days.

The greatness of Harry Belafonte's talent has seldom been captured as it has on his new RCA-Victor Long-Play album of folk favorites. On some selections a full choral group has been added for further beauty; on others it's simply Belafonte who, with his sincerity and warmth has justly earned the title of America's foremost balladeer and folk singer.

New on Vik label this week is a collection of 12 re-issues titled "The Fabulous Eddy Duchin." All recorded during his Victor days of the '30s, it's a great nostalgic tribute to the orchestra and vocalists of The Magic Fingers of Radio, Eddy Duchin. A.M.

Seen on the Hollywood Scene by your Wandering Reporter (with apologies to no one): The new Capitol Records building is round, like a record; Humphrey Bogart contemplates no name change; saw Anita Ekberg coming out of you know where with you know who; an airline ticket office is opening at the corner of Hollywood and Vine. That's what I call flying for the stars, ha, ha. In spite of what you may have read elsewhere, Metro is not buying Paramount; saw Yvonne De Carlo waiting to make a right turn in her cute little foreign job the other day. She had to wait behind another car (domestic) which was waiting for some pedestrians to cross and she was honking like mad. Nice to see movie stars acting like movie stars, again.

"Adam Had Four Sons." (11) May 13, 6:00. 1941. One of Ingrid Bergman's earlier pictures, this one presents her as a self-sacrificing governor of four boys fathered by Warner Baxter. The time is 1900 and Ingrid is just over from the old country when she goes to work for Baxter, but before dating she finally achieves permanence, in the role of wife to her employer, she has to see the family through the mother's death, a series of financial reverses and the philandering of a son's wife, Susan Hayward.

"The Gentle Gunman." (7) May 16, Noon. 1953. John Mills and his brother, Dirk Bogarde (not contemplating name change), are members of a terrorist band of the Irish Republican Army, which plants time bombs in railroad stations and phone booths in an effort to hasten Irish independence. Mills becomes convinced of the futility of this program, but before he can convince brother and compatriots of this, he has to rescue a couple of Irish prisoners in a non-violent manner to prove his point. The picture lacks any real suspense, but it does offer in the usual British manner an interesting array of well-acted characters, and is playing in this country for the first time anywhere on this program.

"Nocturne." (9) Beginning May 15, 9:00. 1946. George has been in a Raft of movies, and this is one of them. A Hollywood songwriter is killed and the police department labels it suicide. Cop Raft thinks it murder and is kicked off the force for continuing the investigation. He discovers that the killer was one of the tunesmith's girl friends, all of whom the composer had dubbed Dolores, and so he simply eliminates, scientifically, of course, all but one. Joan Harrison produced, Edwin L. Marin directed and have managed to make this one come off fairly well. This is not a paid advertisement, damn it.

"Strangers." (13) May 15, 8:30. 1955. Miss Bergman, again, this time in a very recent Roberto Rossellini production co-starring George Sanders. It is a slow moving affair having to do with a British couple coming to Naples, discovering they're no longer in love after eight years of marriage and then finding each other again. Along the way there is a lot of museum trotting, some nice street shots of Naples, and a religious ceremony that prompts the final reconciliation. Not a film to add luster to the name of any of the three principals.

"Escape to Glory." (11) May 15, 7:30. 1940. This is one of those things in which there is a mode of transportation, a group of assorted characters and a common danger that pressures them into behaving this way they really are. In this case it's a ship returning to the U.S. at the beginning of the war with a load of Americans who are menaced by a pack of sub-marines. Pat O'Brien is an adventurer, whatever that is. Constance Bennett is a secretary and Alan Baxter is a killer out to get district attorney John Halliday. There's lots of action, suspense and I tell you that ship is just like a big city.

Radio in Review

For Love o' Mike (General Comments)

Radio Ramblings

Pretty Princess Bubbling Brook passed the peace pipe to the press, officially launching KABC's Fred Beck's fun and nonsense campaign. Young ventriloquists Laura Neuman, 10, Pauline Hahn, 13, and Roy Langer, 17, guest on upcoming Edgar Bergen shows.

John Daly narrates The Happy Land, documentary on modern Asia, second part, on ABC May 11. Lowell Thomas has been appointed President Eisenhower's Special Ambassador to the coronation of the King of Nepal. William Froug, producer of CBS Radio Workshop and Gunsmoke, has been upped to CBS Radio vice-president in charge of network programs, Hollywood. A rather lengthy title, but it couldn't have happened to a nicer guy.

Newest honor to be garnered by Bing Crosby is membership in the Mayflower Society of Spokane, Wash. Bing qualifies for the elite organization by virtue of being a direct descendant of William Brewster, a psalm singer and passenger on the Mayflower, the one that dropped anchor in 1620. M.E.

Words of Wisdom From Wilson

Dr. Ernest C. Wilson, whose Christ Church Unity program is heard on KRKD and KLAC, has signed with Freunstel for a 60,000 play book. "Have You Lived Other Lives?" Dr. Wilson's booklet "The Great Incarnation" also explores the reincarnation theory. Dr. Wilson recently guested on the "Unity Treasure Chest" on KNXT's Cavalcade of Books.

Fein Exits Radio

Irving Fein, CBS Radio vice-president, exits the net for the presidency of J & M Productions. This company, which produces the Jack Benny television programs, will immediately embark on a great program of expansion. In addition to producing the packaging and distribution of other TV and radio properties, J & M is also planning to produce Broadway theatrical productions and explore other facets of the entertainment industry.

Mysterytime

Mystery fans take heart. ABC-KABC has your interest in mind. They've launched a five-a-week series of whodunits with Don Dowd acting as host. The mystery block includes Mike Malloy, Private Eye; The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes; Masters of Mystery; Mystery Classics, and Police Blotto. Some time ago KABC had a similar successful mystery block hosted by Orval Anderson.

Each night at 11 p.m., KCOP, Channel 13, Monday through Friday, controversial Tom Duggan gets a chance to give his opinions on various subjects.
TV-Radio Life is devoting this column to those viewers who disagree with Mr.
Duggan's opinions. We think it's only tasteful and feel certain Mr. Duggan would have to agree with us on that—in principle if not in fact.
Please keep the letters brief and to the point, and address them to "We disagree

North Argyll, Hollywood 28, Calif. We shall print as many as space permits.

you are a stranger in our

Who cares what Duggan's politics are. The people of Dem. States wish he would shut his mouth. Thank God he is not a Republican.

A Listener No More
We think Duggan is nuts. Send him back to Chicago. He doesn't know what he is talking about, especially about narcotics. He'd better shut up on that score when he says it is "nothing to be disturbed about." He likes himself too well. And who cares about his political affiliation?

No name
Duggan gives me ulcers. He is about as funny as "a cry for help."

a cement overcoat? And if gambling is so crooked, why do you gamble?

Around the Sports Circle with Dick Tufeld

FORMER middleweight champ Tony Zale was one man who knew what he was talking about when he discussed the fistic world with Dick.

FOLLOWING the popular Wednesday night fights over Channel 7, Dick Tufeld has built up a vast sports audience and has become one of the top local sportscasters. He’s explaining to Manager Chuck Dressen of the Washington Senators which lens is actually used when “on camera.”

ANOTHER big-name guest on Dick’s show: Milwaukee Brave coach Fred Haney who reviewed the National League pennant race with Dick.
When Bob Crosby was appearing in Las Vegas recently at the Sahara and flying back that morning for his CBS-TV-KNXT show, many people thought he was barmy to do so much. His mother, in particular, viewed the proceedings with alarm.

"You shouldn't do all that work," she said. "Why look at Bing; he's had a lot of offers to do shows in Vegas and he won't do them."

To which Bob replied, "Yes, I know, mother, but Bing doesn't need the money. I do."

That is one thing Bob has that Bing hasn't—concern for money. You could also say that Bing has hair while Bing's is sparse; Bob has daughters and Bing has only sons; Bob has a wife and Bing is leading the solitary life. In addition, Bob has headaches that Bing will never have.

Schedule

Take Bob's five-day-a-week TV show: a murderous job. He's doing it for several reasons, he explained one day when he said, "This show has been my one chance to become an individual on my own and not be referred to as Bing's brother. This is one thing Bing hasn't taken on so it was a case of doing this or taking the first rocket to the moon." Bob laughingly added, "After all, I can't sing and I can't dance and I have no talent so I have to hustle."

Bob's days are hectic. He's up around seven, he's at the studio around 8:30 or 9, he starts a run-through at 9, that he has a 45 minute session with camera rehearsal. He does five songs on each rehearsal and the production set-ups for each number take about 10 hours. At 10:15 he has a rehearsal for the commercials (he does them all on the show since his sponsors like the personal approach). From 10:45 to 11:45 there is a dress rehearsal which sometimes runs over until 12. He then goes down to make-up and for a shave. Even though he shaves when he leaves the house he always runs the razor over his face again anyway. After this he has ten minutes to figure out what cuts or additions to make on the show.

Bob paused, and with a broad grin added, "And then there's the elevator. We've got a very temperamental one here and once in a while it gets stuck. I've almost arrived late for a couple of my shows as a result."

At 1:30 we have a music rehearsal during which we check all the arrangements. One day a week we have a production meeting from three to five and two other days a week are spent in staging and music meetings. The ideas for our musical numbers, incidentally, don't come from any organized gatherings as much as they do from suggestions freely given us by everyone on the show—including the crew.

Cathy Crosby has achieved prominence of her own as the result of her work on Bob's show, seen on KNXT. Bing's son, Gary, has also carved out a career for himself but not on his father's program. (CBS photo: Gabor Rona.)

What Does Bob Have

Bing Crosby has about all any guy could want, and yet Bob Crosby has him topped in a few respects.

"The show is on my mind practically all the time. When I'm driving home I'm thinking of ideas and many is the time I have awakened in the middle of the night with an idea. I dash downstairs right away to jot it down so I won't forget it."

"I'm supposed to have Saturday and Sunday off, but half the time I'm doing one job or another. And always on the weekend I have to spend several hours giving the kids a run down on what happened on the show during the week."

"I used to be able to play a lot of golf but I haven't touched a club since I began this show about three years ago. I miss the game, of course, but I miss more not having the time to spend with my children, especially with the boys who are at the age where they need a close association with a father. I've been away so much, in fact, that when I came back from Las Vegas, my dog bit me."

Bob was looking very tired the day I saw him. On one corner of the CBS-TV stage his orchestra was blaring out, and in the midst of all the confusion he was trying to make with the conversation. He managed to do okay, and I gathered he could sort of close his ears to outside noises. Yet, pressure and tension have affected him.

"Because I'm doing a TV show so often it's like New Year's Eve every day," Bob went on, "I'm on a constant merry-go-round. I've only had two weeks off in three years—then I got off then because I was in the hospital with pneumonia. Trying to get a vacation is a problem because I have about 13 different sponsors to consult, and no two want me to be off at the same time. As a result, just stay on."

"Sure I have problems, but I'm grateful for the show. In one way, I have a break in that we have no set format on the program and we can go in any direction. Also, I have great help in Greg Garrison, our director, who is an idea-a-minute man."

When Bob is home, he is seldom still. Recently the phone has been ringing at all hours. "I attribute this to Cathy's being a teen-ager," Bob smiled, "and to the fact that my younger son, Chris, also known as The Torch, is at the age where he's making calls."

"I do watch TV at home, but always analytically. This has destroyed my ability just to enjoy a show."

"I admit it's hard for me to relax, but I do make a point of reading at least an hour a night before I go to bed. My reading tastes are m peculiar, ranging from cheap pulp books to Shakespeare and Edgar Allan Poe.

That Bing Hasn't?

By Jack Holland

“My wife and I have had very little time to go out either. In the last year we may have gone out alone about 20 times. Yet, in a way it isn’t so bad. I think one of the reasons our marriage has been a success is because she is wrapped up with our five children and our home. We don’t actually need any outside interests to keep us happy. We were alone recently for five days when I was in Las Vegas. The kids arrived after that.

“I won’t forget the day I took the boys fishing and to a tour of Boulder Dam. A guide was taking us through the dam explaining various technical facts about the project. When he finished, he said, ‘Any questions?’ Chris cracked, ‘Yes, do you get any charge taking people through here?’ I could have fallen through the dam.”

Bob and Bing do have one thing in common—a houseful of children. Bob was the punch when Junie Malia was born. At the time he wired, “I’ve finally got you beat. I’ve got a full house—three boys and two girls.” To which Bing wired back, “You’d better insult your poker rules. Four of a kind still beat a full house.”

TV Is an Interior Decorator

According to Robert Tyler Lee, CBS-TV's art director, "television is the most fiendish propaganda ever invented.

"You are sitting in your living room, with open pores," he explains. "completely unaware of the others. Your barriers are down, and then something flashes on your screen and you say, 'Hey, I like that!' You are sold a piece of furniture, a chair grouping, a particular picture on the wall.

"This of course happens before those burns, the actors, can get in front of it," he adds puckishly.

"TV has had and will continue to have a constant influence on home decoration. For one thing, your room arrangement now centers around the picture set. You may want to put your love seat by the window, but you can't because from there the television screen is out of sight.

"On the other hand, the aesthetic influence is immeasurable. Most people think art is an esoteric thing, but it isn't. It's something that belongs to everybody. It is living. And television offers you a three-dimensional catalogue of living art. You can get more ideas for your home in a week from that screen than you could in six months of deliberate searching.

"Of course, it is then the art director's job to present those things that are in good taste. Not necessarily high style, but pieces that are comfortable and appealing esthetically.

"The trend now is toward what might be called 'modern eclectic.'

"That's a terrible word," he adds in a wry aside, "but I can't think of any other that fits. What it means is that we take pieces and ideas from any of the periods and use them as long as they are adapted properly. The main consideration today is comfort and appeal. Appeal meaning emotional appeal, which after all is the basis of aesthetic sense. Art itself is an expression of controlled emotion.

"On our modern studio sets, we use a Brentwood, Connecticut, 'never never land' decor. We try to reflect the feeling of the story and the characters.

"Similarly, on a Victorian set, we try to establish the mood of the piece.

We could never duplicate physically a Victorian room because our perception and approach are different from those of the people in that era. We see things differently, we react differently, and so to set the mood we necessarily approach it differently than a true Victorian would.

The program that is a stammering one to Bob Lee. Everybody has a personal sense of color," he says. "A particular color or a particular shade creates a different mood in various people. However, color can be relied on to set a scene just as effectively as physical props. For instance, most people are comfortable with the cool colors because subconsciously they are reminded of the blue of the sky and the green of the grass.

"When color is in general use, I am counting heavily on it for establishing moods.

Bob is a native Californian. He was born in Santa Monica and attended UCLA for six and a half years.

"I was a low sophomore," he explains. "The trouble was I was too interested in the theater to bother with the mathematics."

However, he returned later to his alma mater as an instructor in related arts and physical education. "Actually," he says, "I taught dancing, but at the time that was part of the physical education curriculm."

Between times, he spent six months in South America, was art director for the Pasadena Playhouse and the La Jolla Playhouse, produced 'Dr. Faustus' for the Experimental Theater, designed textiles and wallpaper and presented dance recitals and fashion shows.

He spent ten years on the faculty of UCLA and then decided "life is for living," a decision which brought him to CBS some five years ago.

He is firm in his conviction that everyone can appreciate art.

"However," he adds, "most people lack confidence in their own tastes. They are afraid to create.

"Then, too, they are so absorbed in the delights of living, they never have time to make the effort."

And, of course, Bob is one of the men responsible for furnishing those "delights of living," which he does most effectively.
Cashing In On The CLASSICS

Tom Baxter, KABC’s classical disc-jockey, has made a hobby pay off.

On September 12, 1955, Tom Baxter, a regularly employed director at KABC radio, started an experiment on the ABC outlet in Los Angeles. Few people, especially the commercially minded, thought it would last.

But it has. Why and how his Classical Disc Jockey program has turned into a success makes an unusual story.

Although it was no surprise that classical music has a vast audience (the success of strictly classical KFAC is proof of that), it was surprising—even to Baxter—the type of audience which began to become his fans.

Big Response

“At least 50 per cent of the mail I receive comes from teen-age high school and junior college students. I verified this fact—and the popularity of the program—when I made a small pitch on the air last fall for an audience-participation contest I conceived.

I merely asked the people at home to drop me a card with their name and phone number. On the air, I ask them a question on classical music. If they answer it correctly they receive a classical recording. The prize may not seem too big—at least in comparison to other giveaway shows—but it does mean a lot to real music lovers.

“Not only did I get enough of a response to last me even up till today—so that I even have to apologize on the air for being so far behind in calling these people—but when I call them at home I am always surprised and gratified to learn how young so many of them are.

No Long-Hair

“What they lack in age, however, they make up for in intellect and enthusiasm. Kids who truly like classical music may not go around making as much noise as some of the bebop and rhythm and blues fanatics, but believe me, in their quiet way, they are zealous and rabid in their musical tastes and beliefs. Their knowledge of classical music never ceases to amaze me.”

Not an intellectual snob himself, Baxter tries (and successfully so) to get away from the long-hair approach to classical music.

“When people call me,” Baxter says, “and tell me that they get the feeling from my program that they have been invited over to a friend’s house for an evening, then I feel that I’ve done a good job.”

The Baxters, then, (Dr. Frank Baxter and Tom), although they are unrelated, might be looked upon as “pioneers of culture” on both radio and TV. Dr. Baxter, of course, for his “Shakespeare” and other programs on television. And Tom, on radio, for his KABC Classical Disc Jockey show.

The “commercial potential” of the countless number of people so intellectually-inclined has always been there. However, it took the good doctor and the energetic deejay to bring it to the TV-radio forefront.

You’ve Seen the Face:

June Vincent

If you have ever watched Ford Theater or Schlitz Playhouse or Fireside Theater or Matinee or The Millionaire or Private Secretary or Screen Gems’ Damon Runyon Theater or any other TV dramatic shows—then you have seen June Vincent.

June is just one of hundreds of TV performers whom millions of people see time and time again, but who, unfortunately, because they do not have the very top roles (or the very top press agents) seldom get the recognition they deserve. June Vincent is one of these unsung stars of TV.

A minister’s daughter, ironical enough, because of her sleek sophisticated appearance and worldly poise, she is usually cast in “other woman” roles. A direct descendant of Pocahontas, she was born in Harrods, Ohio, in 1920, the daughter of Willis C. and Sybil Smith.

After living in Massachusetts during her childhood, she later attended Oberlin College in Ohio and received her B.A. degree in drama. Her first professional job was as a model for Harper’s Bazaar. Her first Broadway production was in “The Family” with Richard Conte. As a result of this role, she landed a five-year contract with Universal Pictures, and was seen in “Honeymoon Lodge” with Ozzie and Harriet Nelson.

For the past three years, she’s been sticking strictly to TV work. Her latest and biggest role to date is the top feminine part in Screen Gems’ upcoming series The People vs. Anne Tobin.

In private life she married William M. Sterling in 1944. They have three children, Tad, 11, Tina, 7, and Midy, 2.

The next time you see the face— and if the past is any criterion, you’ll see it soon—remember the name is June Vincent.

Now Here’s the Name:
