HOW LORETTA FACES
THE NEW YEAR

15c

Ear, Eye

INSPIRE
THE PEN

D. M. H., San Diego

Will you kindly explain why for the second week "People Are Funny" is shown at 7:30—or any other time? Instead we viewers have thrown in our faces taped sports pictures which we've seen a dozen times or more. All of the entertaining programs worth viewing are slowly disappearing—making TV viewing boring. Thank God for Radio. Please tell Mr. Holland to brush up on his English. In this week's magazine part of his article says, "the consensus of opinion"—he should know the last two words are superlative!

You mean superfluous. Pre-emption is prevalent. It happens to our favorite shows all the time.

BOB CUMMINGS

... on opposite Nightmare

J. S., Baldwin Park

Why did they go and put the "Bob Cummings" show and "Nightmare" on at the same time? I, and many others, like them both very much. This makes it difficult to choose. The hostess on "Nightmare" should not take up so much time.

Ed Sullivan, Steve Allen, Maverick et al create the same problem on Sunday nights—so you're not alone.

PERRY COMO

... TV's Relaxaciser

Mrs. J. A. B., Harbor City

I enjoy your magazine very much—your serious attitude toward utterly unimportant TV and radio programs, most of which are complete trash. The ungrammatical errors and misleading information about shows in the day-to-day schedule. By now you are probably wondering why I am renewing my subscription! Well, we have the thing (TV) and your magazine helps us to keep up with the few shows worth watching, through time changes, etc. So keep up the good work, for three years at least.

This is the kinds of reader we like to hear from. Thank you for renewing.

... does he out-relax Perry?

D. M., Altadena

Just viewed Dean Martin's show and words of mine cannot express how thrilled I was with his performance. For my money he wipes Perry clear off the map. My only regret, he didn't sing enough. He doesn't need guests. He eludes more charm and sex-appeal than anyone on TV. For the first time in years of watching TV I feel completely relaxed.

Miss K. D., South Pasadena

I am a teenager and I was shocked today when reading an article that said invisible advertising might be used for television commercials. The article also said this is a form of brainwashing. As you probably guessed, if this got into the wrong hands it could be dangerous. Is this true?

In simple language, what you read was a description of a new broadcast technique in which a message is flashed on a screen at such tremendous speeds for a short period of time that it is practically invisible. The developers of this technique, however, claim that even though a viewer may not be aware of it, it does sink into his mind. But don't worry, it's not in use. Besides, you wouldn't watch a blank screen anyway, would you?

What Peter Potter Predicts for 1958

music to come.

by Dave Vowell

IN THE WORLD of music where a fad or a gimmick can cause a little known recording artist to become a nationally known star practically overnight, there is no one better qualified to comment on the changing trends of popular music than KLAC disc jockey and KRCA Juke Box Jury host Peter Potter.

He has seen both come and go, the 'catch in the throat' singers who make one hit and never make it again and the song crazes that reach national proportions before dwindling into nothing. This year saw Rock 'n Roll reach a leveling out place and also witnessed the tremendous upsurge of calypso and its subsequent ebb. What does 1958 hold in store? Will R & R still remain king? Will calypsonia rise again? How about the waltzes and ballads, will they once again return to popularity? These are some of the questions asked of Peter Potter. And these are his answers.

"This will floor you," Pete said, as he sat behind his desk in his KLAC office, "but I think Polka will be 'it' in 1958.

Why? Because the kids can dance to it. That's why calypso didn't stay — it's listening music not dancing music and 85% of the singles, or popular records, sold in this country are bought by teenagers. To use a slang phrase, if they can't dance to it, it's bombsville.

"The reason I say that Polka is the next big craze is because it's got an infectious beat, it's fun to do and it's something that hasn't been done in a while. They're popular even now. Lawrence Welk plays a polka on his show almost every week and you know how many people watch his show. But mostly I feel it's the dance that sells the record. People got tired of the Charleston and the Big Apple. They got tired of the boogie and shuffle. They'll more than likely get tired of the bop which is what they call the dance done to the R & R beat. And when they do get tired of it, they're going to want something different. It looks like the Polka is going to be it."

While on the subject of Rock 'n Roll, Peter commented that it is "the only field where a singer can become a star over night. But," he continued, "they are oftentimes just as quickly forgotten. For instance, just recently, George Hamilton IV had a hit with 'A Rose and a Baby Ruth' and none since. Then there is the Diamonds who went over big with 'Little Darling' and haven't had another. And how about the Chords who practically started the whole movement with a thing called 'Schboom.' They haven't had another hit since. Of course," Pete pointed out, "Rock 'n Roll is sort of smoothing out. The honking saxophone that was heard so much isn't as prevalent now and the lyrics have really improved. In the past it has happened that I couldn't play a record on the air because of the lyrics, but that hasn't happened now in months."

Up to this point, Pete had been commenting essentially about the popular music field, not to include albums. "Teenagers," Pete explained, "don't buy too many albums — and the reason is strictly financial, although they do buy the Extended Play 45s. Most albums are bought by adults. Sweet music gets its biggest play on albums and singers like Sinatra, Como and Cole always do well on albums and with singles too."

In one sentence Pete answered the question: Why are there more successful male singers than female singers? with, "The boys get the best material."

Back to his predictions for 1958, Pete closed the interview with this comment: "Music is basically a 'joyful noise' and when the kids can dance to it, they buy it and when it hits, there's a big 'joyful noise' at the cash register — and I think the Polka will make the loudest ring."

NO NEW YEAR RESOLUTIONS FOR

Loretta!

1. What New Year was the most important in your life? The one with the most meaning?

There's a trio of most important new years in my life. The first, 1940. Tom and I knew each other for a year before we were married — July 31, 1940. Not long before New Year's Eve, 1940, Tom, who was in New York — had been for several weeks — called me long-distance. He asked about my plans for celebrating New Year's Eve. I told him I was going, with a group of friends, to the large party Myron Selznick was giving at his house at Lake Arrowhead. "I'll see you there," Tom said. I thought he was kidding and forgot all about it. Later I decided not to go to the Lake. About eleven o'clock on New Year's Eve, the phone rang. It was Tom — calling from Myron's "I'll be right there!" I carolled and rushed to dress and tore out to my car and drove like mad. I'd almost reached the Lake before I realized I hadn't even thought to ask Tom to make the long drive down to get me. That's when I knew how I felt about Tom Lewis!

We were married in July. The other two of my meaningful trio of new years aren't exactly new years but most-meaningful they truly are. Christopher was born in August 1944 and Peter was born in July 1945.

2. Why do you not make resolutions? Did you ever make them?

I've never believed in making resolutions — that is, New Year resolutions. Why wait till the New Year if a resolution is indicated? Actually, I think it's better to decide to do something — and do it. Resolving to do it not only blows up its importance — it leaves the resolution open to the temptation to break it! At least it seems that way to me since the casual acceptance of "resolutions are made to be broken" seems pretty general these days.

3. How do you feel people should look upon a New Year? What should it mean to them other than the start of another year?

I think a New Year has a kind of freshness about it, and it's a sort of symbol of the renewal of hope to some people. I feel that the new year can't mean much or turn out to be much unless we're as determined as possible to make the most of each new day. Each new day is the only real chance we have, isn't it? What with yesterday

The popular NBC-TV star faces this New Year and all new years with optimism and enthusiasm. And in so doing she hands out a few illuminating remarks about resolutions and the like.

LORETTA YOUNG co-stars with Craig Stevens on her NBC-KRCA show January 5. Beginning her fifth year on TV, she's as popular as ever.

gone and tomorrow not yet here? NOW is the only everpresent we can know. So, to me, the new day is all that really counts.

It seems to me that no matter how hard we try, we do less with each day than we should—or could. "There's always tomorrow" is, of course, a blessing when today gets cluttered up with all the things we've failed to do. And I guess failing is something human beings will always have in common—and plenty of! Paradise isn't yet! And when it is, I'm sure we'll have become something far beyond being humans—we'll be Angels!

4. How do you manage to get so much out of life? What is your philosophy for a full life?

I know I've been very fortunate. And I know I'd better be grateful! Gratitude is an imperative ingredient for getting the most out of every day—and that's what life's made of, isn't it? I believe that religion is the essential governor of one's life and conduct. If it isn't, I just plain can't see how one's life can mean anything much.

I know, as I said, that I've been very fortunate. And I know that everything worth while that has happened to me has been the result of prayer. Even when my prayers have been answered with blessings so disguised it seemed like they hadn't been answered at all! I've discovered these prayers have been answered in the most important way of all. It isn't ever easy to recognize these answers, no matter how sure you are about prayers always being answered. We still ask for what we want—even when we know we should seek His Will. And, when we don't get what we ask for—well, sometimes we're pretty dense about accepting what we get.

I love the quotation written in our guest book a few years ago by a very brave man. He is a priest—a missionary who worked with the underground in China in World War II. He effected the rescue of some of Doolittle's flyers from the Chinese Communists. He's the happiest man I know. He hasn't a material possession in the world. Once I wanted to give him a book. He shook his head. "Every six months I give away everything I own. I'd only have to give it away in six months."

I've since read several versions of what he wrote in our guest book, but I love best the version he wrote.

"Give us the strength to accept with serenity the things that cannot be changed; give us the courage to change the things that can and should be changed; give us the wisdom to distinguish one from the other."

After he'd been our guest he returned to his missionary—and underground-work. He was taken prisoner and held for a long, long time. About three years ago he was released. We've not seen him again, but he left us a very vital, valiant example—and a prayer.

5. Do you think there should be a spiritual emphasis in a new year?

I think there should be an emphasis on spiritual values every day. To me this is a simple fact: without spiritual growth we'd be lost. And I'm sure that it is a fact which is becoming more and more apparent, and is being accepted more and more.

I think that the simplicity and sincerity of our President's emphasis on spiritual values has had a greater impact on our time than many people realize.

6. Do you like the Chinese idea of clearing up all debts for the new year? Could this be done among us—a sort of cleaning house?

I think clearing up all debts is a wonderful idea! The Chinese are very wise—those that are true to their great and ancient civilization. But I don't think clearing up all debts should await the new year, necessarily. I like to get rid of debts as fast as possible—and when I can do it any old day will do!

7. What do you think of the new year as far as TV is concerned? What changes do you see ahead? And do you plan any on your show?

I think the new year will be a wonderful one for TV. There'll be some fine progress—and this will be true of TV from now on—and on. In new year after new year, TV's an integral part of our lives and its refinements will continue.

I believe that the motion picture did a tremendous job in education—beyond the power of words—and I'm sure that television has got to carry on that work—and none can do it faster—than motion pictures. We'll still need motion pictures galore, but TV will soon let us see world news when it's happening, wherever it's happening—any place on earth! Maybe this new year will be the year when the barriers of distance will be overcome. But whether it's this new year or the next, it's for sure.

As far as THE LORETTA YOUNG SHOW is concerned this new year won't be the time setting for any radical changes.

It's hard to realize that we're in our fifth season.

I know that's the fact—but it's hard to realize it wasn't longer ago than just yesterday when we all stood on the brink of that Great New Adventure—excited, confident, tense with anticipation—starting our first season on television—in a spirit not unlike. I imagine the '49ers once started across the Mississippi-headed for California's gold.

Now, 170 programs later, we are IN that Great New Adventure—and it's like reading tomorrow's news today.

My years in television have been wonderfully rewarding, even though they've brought inevitable changes to my life. Why not? During those years television has changed the awareness and contacts of the world. No wonder time has flashed by speedy as Sputnik!

SHE MAY LOVE TO WORK—she likens herself to a race horse at the gate—but even Loretta has to take time out for a bit of refreshment.

The constant challenge of an anthology show has to be lived to be believed. Television is the place for those who love to work and love their work—it's no place for the lazy, languid and/or malcontent. And an anthology show gives nothing but opportunities to prove it.

We have fun making NBC-TV's THE LORETTA YOUNG SHOW. As far as I'm concerned, our company and crew is the greatest in the world and we're all possessed by an enthusiastic ambition to make each teleplay—for the smallest screens in the world—as production perfect as anything filmed in Cinemascope, Vista Vision, Cinerama, or Todd AO!

Five years ago, I suspected television would be the most exciting medium in the world. That suspicion has been fully confirmed! It took me nearly 25 years to make 87 motion pictures. In one-fifth of that time, by the end of my fifth TV season, I'll have made twice as many television films! No wonder motion picture-making seems SLOW to me, now.

Let's face it—I'm a ham. And I've got an actress' dream-job—the chance to play, in one season, from twenty to thirty different roles, with only one thing in common—they musn't bear any resemblance to each other! That keeps our writers on their toes, believe me. And it keeps me—on tip-toe.

I'm happiest when the cameras are rolling—the cameras roll all the time in television—and some nights our show reaches 45,000,000 people at a single crack. To an actress who's a ham that alone is reason enough to love television madly. And to go on doing television forever!

I hope!

From the Bard... to Brawn

Robert Culp is a new face to TV this year, but he has already made a good-sized impression on viewers.

of western. The character I play isn't a typical one. He's a rugged guy but he doesn't hang around a horse forever. He spends his time romancing the gals — which is a refreshing change. Also, I'm not the flamboyant type with a gun. The human elements are stressed more and the stock characteristics are dispensed with — we hope."

Bob, a tall, lean guy with a classic and interesting face, seems to be enjoying his TV stint now, although getting used to film was difficult. His Zane Grey job was the first time he'd ever worked before a camera.

"This was tough for me," he commented. "I've never been used to playing any scene twice the same way and yet on film you have to because the scenes have to match. I had also developed a technique of deliberately not learning my lines and working more on the thought behind the scenes. Then the lines were almost ad-libbed. The theory here is that you get a freer performance in such a manner. This is, of course, impossible on film."

Apparently Bob has fallen into the new kind of work very easily, though, since both CBS and the sponsor are very happy with him. As is his wife of less than a year, Nancy. She is an actress too and is, consequently, very interested in her husband's career.

When Bob isn't working, which is seldom enough considering his schedule, he likes to spend his time with his sports cars, his bike or his motorcycle. When he first came out here he was busy learning to ride — horses — since he hadn't been on a nag for years.

He even manages to handle a gun very well, thanks to some initial tips by Rod Redwing, an expert with the gun. After these first pointers, Bob started practicing on his own and wound up a good shot.

Nothing seems to throw this Mr. Culp.

ROBERT CULP STARS IN THE CBS-KNXT WESTERN, TRACKDOWN

By Jon Bruce

ROBERT CULP is probably the last person you'd ever expect to see doing a western.

As a matter of fact, it's the last thing he ever thought he'd be doing. For one, he got most of his training in classical acting — doing things like Shakespearean plays. He had never even come close to being in a western — and yet he's done practically every major TV show in New York.

Perhaps, then, considering all this, his success on CBS-KNXT's Trackdown is due to the fact that he is different, that he doesn't fall into the usual cowboy boots-spikes-holster routine.

"I had never seen myself as a western actor," Bob commented. "It was the furthest thing from my mind. It was even more foreign for me to give any thought at all to playing in a TV series. So here I am — in a western series.

"It all happened when I came here from the east to do a Matinee Theatre. While here, my agent suggested I see about a part in a Zane Grey Theatre — which I did. I was given the role — in a western. I thereupon returned to New York and forgot all about the Zane Grey show I had done.

"The next thing I knew I heard that the episode in which I had appeared had been sent to New York as a pilot for a projected new series and had been promptly sold. I was suddenly on my way back to Hollywood.

"I agreed to do the series primarily because it wasn't to be an ordinary kind

Lifelines

BY EVELYN BIGSBY

RALPH EDWARDS has two shows hitting TV screens. One isn't really new. Actually it has a weekly format, in addition to a daily, and a new emcee. Truth or Consequences, that hardy standby, is now on Wednesdays (delayed here by 5 days) with Steve Dunne guiding contestants through their tricks. This series doesn't disturb the Monday through Friday stint emceed by Bob Barker.

THE OTHER PROGRAM, already previewed on the air, is End of the Rainbow with Art Baker. This show, starting Jan. 4, will feature the little people throughout the country — the worthy, humble, hard working kind who need that extra push to a pot 'o gold. The preview segment starred a small-time grocer and his wife who were whisked out of town only to return and find their store completely remodeled and restocked.

STEVE DUNNE IS EXUBERANT over landing the emcee spot on T. or C. He told me joining the Edwards organization is like being invited to join General Motors. Says he's now included in "the Ralph Edwards halo."

THE NEW CHORE CAME UP for him right after he'd gone to New York for a Kraft Theater role. Steve will continue to do acting as well as his T. or C. job. He's experienced in handling people on the air, so expects to enjoy his work. Has had only one bad time on another series when an ex-serviceman who was convinced his Italian wife was a Communist was brought on Steve's show to be told that what the chap so greatly feared and was so secretive about wasn't true: that actually the wife was a counter-spy for the F.B.I. Steve had some bad moments when the guy refused to believe the facts.

THE NIGHTTIME T. OR C. will rate a larger budget than the weekly series, so look for the stunts to be quite elaborate. On the opener, Steve flourished a $1000 bill which he forgetfully stuck into one of his pockets. When he discovered it at home, his girl, 11, and son, 15, were very awed and soon had queues of youngsters lined up for a glimpse of so much money.

"I COULD JUST HEAR the neighbors when their kids went home," Steve commented. "They probably said, 'What a big show-off that Dunne is.'"

SEVERAL DAYS LATER Steve was still looking for the show producer so that he could return the money. Meanwhile he was facetiously toying with the notion of offering the bill as "the smallest change I have on me."

FROM THIS YOU MAY GATHER, and correctly so, that Mr. Dunne is one happy fella. He sums it up by saying "I think I have a guardian angel on my shoulder directing my traffic."

CONTRARY TO SOME TRADE REPORTS, Date with the Angels is not being cancelled. So Producer Don Fedderson told me at luncheon the other day. The show is being moved to Wednesday nights so that it may be slotted in a more compatible climate. Thinking is that the Sinatra, Munsel and other programs are too sophisticated company for the Betty White series.

ALSO, BETTY'S SHOW WILL GO live to give it that extra sparkle. The vignette type of skit employed on Life with Elizabeth will be part of the new format, but the sketches will be tied together with a central theme.

DON FEDDERSON AND KLAC's Mortimer Hall came along to my luncheon date with Danny Thomas and thus mystified many at the Vine Street Derby who couldn't imagine why this assorted group. Actually, I had the date with Danny

"On Camera"

BY BILL WEBER

20TH CENTURY
 Sunday, 6:30 p.m.
 KRCA, Ch. 4

Twentieth Century is one of those rare things in television — or in any other entertainment medium — a program of distinction that is not subject to current fads and trends governing entertainment. The viewer of this show feels that its producers have a respect for the intellectual equipment of an audience and that he is not being railed at by cheap stuff cunningly calculated to reach the so-called mass mind.

It is time that recognition be given those advertisers who consistently bring only the best before the public. The sponsor is Prudential Life Insurance, a firm that has long been known for excellence in radio and television fare. Recognition should be granted those who steadfastly hew to a line of quality, who refuse to capitulate to shifting entertainment idiosyncracies.

And though it might be heresy to many an advertiser, I have a strong hunch that quality in advertising does pay off, for there is an inescapable association that relates the quality of an advertiser's television efforts to the quality of his product being sold. It is this reputation of quality that Prudential has built up over the years.

Twentieth Century is a documentary of important stories and events of this century as seen through the eyes of contemporary newsreel and other motion picture film. The beautifully edited result illustrates that history can only be dull thanks to dull texts.

The recent showing of the rise and fall of Mussolini had a peculiar fascination. Mussolini is now history, his brief page written and done. But there was a special excitement to viewers who though they may have participated only distantly in this episode of history, nevertheless were a part of it if only on stage at the same time.

Dramatically speaking, this modern story of a dictator followed the lines of the classic drama of old . . . the rise of a man to great heights only to be brought to destruction through the flaws of his own character.

Perhaps the most significant aspect of this episode was the apathy of the world's people to what was going on, a refusal to face the inevitable tragedy, and the complete absence of moral judgment and courage to speak out with action. But perhaps this quality of the human animal pertains not only to things past.

However, whatever speculations the viewer may derive from Twentieth Century, he will have the satisfied feeling that not only has he been entertained, but that his perspectives have been enlarged.

Fred Beck says:

If your little boy is suffering from Santaclaustrophobia, cure him quick with KoldKist Creamed Chicken!

There are so many Santa Clauses around, each with an invisible hand in Pop's Pants Pocket, that many children have a SURROUNDED feeling. This is known as "Santaclaustrophobia," according to Dr. Michael Jackson of Laguna Beach.

The cure is fast and sure. Give the poor kid a big helping of KoldKist Creamed Chicken on toast — one of our 11 delicious Koldkist FRESH Frozen Cooked Foods and Meat Products. Doctors everywhere know that creamed chicken is better for kids than candy canes.

Have you heard about San Fernando Sam's solution to the problem of where The Dodgers will play ball? Sam says "drain the water out of the Sepulveda Dam and you got yourself a ready-made ball park." Sam's plan also calls for barring hot dogs from the park and selling Chili Con Carne instead. He wants to make a deal for the KoldKist chili concession. "Best Chili Con Carne by a Dam Site," says Sam.

Okay, but for a WHITE CHRISTMAS try our KoldKist Creamed Chicken.

A lot of camels and Cadillacs have run the stop lights of Rabat since King Mohamed V of Morocco visited the United States and Disneyland. His Highness is now back home with the little women and no doubt dreams of the wonders he saw here. You will recall that he barged suddenly into a local market and gaped aghast at the wonders galore — but The King, for all his mineral millions, cannot have these good things to eat that YOU can have for dimes and quarters. There are no frozen food sections in the Bazaars of Morocco — yet.

Lucky you — especially when you stick in your thumb and pull out such plums as KoldKist FRESH Frozen Foods and Meat Products.

JUNIOR MISS presented a young girl of only 15 who looks like a cinch to be one of our top stars in short order. Her name is Carol Lynley and she is a charming, un-sophisticated little girl with a good deal of maturity.

CAROL began her career as a model but she prefers to play that down since, as she said, "Models aren't supposed to be able to act." Carol needn't worry about that. She has already proved, notably in a recent Alfred Hitchcock show, that she can act.

She has done over 20 shows on TV and most publicity releases have had her starring in them. "This is embarrassing," she said, "because I only had featured roles. I was never really starred." CBS-TV left no doubt of its feelings about her, though, when they starred her in Junior Miss. She was also starred in her first picture, Walt Disney's "Light in the Forest." She is now back on Broadway rehearsing for a co-starring role in the Joshua Logan production of "Blue Denim."

Carol is an interesting combination of the little girl and the young lady. The little girl part is the one who dotes on coffee ice cream and she usually eats about two pints a day. When she was doing a show on Broadway last year she used to dash across the street between acts to get some ice cream. She is becoming aware of glamour because her hair upsets her a good deal. She can't curl it. No matter how many curlers she uses, nothing happens. As she said, "I do wish it would bend a little." She claims she has trouble with gaining weight. "I've tried every diet in the book but I can't stick to one," she sighs. While she likes coffee ice cream, she can't drink coffee. "Two cups of coffee and I'm in a different world," she remarks. She approaches her career realistically — and she makes most of her own decisions about what shows she will do and won't do, although she says she is a terrible judge of scripts. When she sang in Junior Miss it was her first attempt as a singer. She doesn't take lessons because, as she remarked, "I can't sing, so why waste money on lessons? I took dancing lessons for eight years and never have danced." This girl is really on her way.

Joan Shawlee, the tempest and the storm and the personality kid of all time, was being strangely meek when I saw her — at least for a few minutes. She was worried about her new KTTV show, Aggie. Now, I take the viewpoint that Shawlee could make almost any show look good. She has enough personality for ten shows. But along with her interest in Aggie there is her even more vital interest in Eddie Barchet, Capri hotel man whom she will marry come spring. Joan said, "Now I have it all set. Eddie will arrive here in March, I'll show him my country, and then if he likes it here as much as I like Italy, we'll get married." She grinned, "You know what — he'll get off that boat and I'll probably marry him five minutes later. That's how I stick to my decisions."

Too bad that the Mae Williams show on KTLA had to go off. Mae is a great performer and her program had definite appeal and interest. There is talk that it may wind up on a different station. Let's hope it does because Mae deserves some good luck for a change. Dick Robbins' writing on the show was also deserving of special plaudits.

Bob Crosby came into the Cocoanut Grove with the Modernaires and the Bobcats and did a nice job. He was plenty worried about the stint but he uncorked some good enter-

Happy View Year!

"The Awful Truth." (5) Dec. 29, 7:30. 1937. Whenever Hollywood advertises a new comedy, a reference something like, "As great as 'The Awful Truth,'" is usually made and now you have a chance to check the reference. Irene Dunne and Cary Grant are man and wife until neither believes the other about their manner of spending an absent evening and a divorce is obtained. Irene wins custody of their pooch, Mr. Smith, but Cary receives reasonable visiting privileges and thereby hangs the tail. Irene becomes involved with a mother dominated oil tycoon, well played by Ralph Bellamy, but Cary matches her by snaring an heiress and from then on each tries to break up the other's romance. Whether the comedy has stood the test of the years remains to be seen, but in its day it was hailed as the best sophisticated comedy since "It Happened One Night."

"Possessed." (2) Dec. 28, 10:00. 1947. Joan Crawford is a nurse in love with a rotter, Van Heflin, and when he leaves her while she is nursing millionaire Raymond Massey's wife and the wife drowns herself (no connection, I believe) Joan loses her senses, marries Massey and then kills Heflin when he makes a play for Massey's daughter. Clear? A woman's picture and I'd like to know who took it from her.

"Sunday Dinner For A Soldier." (11) Dec. 29, 9:00. 1944. This modest, sentimental effort features Anne Baxter as the hard working daughter of profligate Charles Winninger, whose monthly squandering of his pension check leaves the whole family living in a state of barely respectable squalor. Nevertheless, they register with the USO to give a soldier a weekend dinner and after much preparation and deprivation, the repast is finally ready. The soldier doesn't show, however, so the family collars a strolling doughfoot, John Hodiak, who is delighted to be their guest and proceeds to change their lives. As I said, a modest effort that proves quite entertaining.

Pick OF THE Pix

BY AUBREY DAHL

"Dance, Girl, Dance." (9) Beginning Dec. 30, 9:00. 1940. Maureen O'Hara and Lucille Ball are a couple of hoofers in a nightclub who both go after the same wealthy playboy, Louis Hayward. Lucille becomes a stripper and Maureen has aspirations for the ballet and I guess Lucille does better because she just bought the studio that made this film and the songs include such songs as "Jitterbug Bite," and "Mother, What Do I Do, Now?" Who could ever forget those famous hits of yesteryear. You could? Tsk, tsk, as the elephants say.

"The Three Musketeers." (11) Jan. 3, 8:00. This version of the famous classic stars Gene Kelly, Lana Turner and June Allyson, and the first half is very enjoyable as the adventures of the infamous gallants are recounted with much of the tongue in the cheek. The last half, however, settles down to the usual melodramatics and loses style.

"I Love You Again." (11) Jan. 1, 7:00. 1940. Stuffy, small town do-gooder William Powell regains his memory and discovers that he is really a con man. So, he proceeds to devise a scheme to fleece the townspeople while he falls in love with the wife he has known for seven years in his old identity. A fairly amusing comedy.

"Sadie McKee." (11) Jan. 2, 10:30. Her middle name is Yahav and she's a room clerk.

BIG NEWS AT KNXT IS THE joint series with UCLA starting in January. A weekly (Saturday) program titled Thresholds, the one hour is to be divided. First portion will deal with the atomic and space age and the second part will devote itself to practical aspects of what is brought out in Part I. Station feels that with citizens crying for more scientific research and advance that such a series will fill a crying need. We are assured that program will not be dry and will be slanted so that ordinary viewers will be able to understand it.

IT MAY BE A LITTLE LATE for a Christmas item, but maybe you'll chuckle, too, over the P.S. on Betty White's invite for the party at which she entertained some 50 department store Santas. Program listed the times for viewing Betty's Yule show, judging of Santas and the 10:15 p.m. dinner. Then a P.S. which read: Since Santas cannot eat with their beards on, will photographers please ask for picture set-ups AFTER dinner.)

tainment. Andy and Virginia Mansfield were in the audience and were oh-ing and ah-ing over the Bobcats and wishing there was more from them. That was a real testimony to Bob's expert show. Jack Benny and the loooovely Maureen O'Hara (and what a wonderful person she is) were on hand to wish Bob luck, but where was Bing? Bob remarked rather lamely that Bing "was busy" obviously referring to Bing's honeymoon, but it would have meant a lot to Bob to have him there. Too bad The Groaner couldn't quite make it.

Reports coming out of New York (originated by a columnist in need of material for his column) have Roddy McDowall and Dean Stockwell feudin' and fussin' in their play, "Compulsion." This story has been checked and found to be utterly ridiculous. The two not only get along on stage but are very close friends who respect each other's talents. Equally phony is the report that Roddy is about to get married. His only comment about this one was, "It's a good idea, but who's the girl?"

SKIPPER FRANK'S SCAM-O-GRAM

HI!

Here is news about our first big outing that you and your family will want to share during the remainder of the Christmas Holidays. You and your parents are invited to take a cruise of the Los Angeles Harbor on the SS Shearwater. Already many of our club members have taken advantage of this opportunity, and to take care of the rest of you the people at Pierpoint Landing are expanding their offer. Every day this week (December 23-29) except Christmas, any "Cartoon Carousel" viewer and their parents may take a harbor cruise at Pierpoint Landing by asking for the "Skipper Frank Boat". This boat will leave at 12:00 noon every day, Monday through Sunday, and return approximately 1:00 p.m. Remember, this harbor cruise is FREE for both parents and children on any of the above days.

We will be showing you a picture of the Shearwater on "Cartoon Carousel". It is a very handsome craft and will be sporting a banner which identifies it as the "Skipper Frank Boat". I know you and your friends will enjoy the trip and it should provide lots of material for your school compositions in the next semester. To reach the Los Angeles Harbor and Pierpoint Landing for this free excursion, take the Santa Ana Freeway to the Atlantic Boulevard turnoff, and go South on Atlantic to the Long Beach Freeway, which ends at the Pierpoint Landing parking lot. Be sure to take the Long Beach Freeway and not the Harbor Freeway. From points East, take Lakewood Boulevard to Highway 101, go right for five miles to Long Beach Freeway and then South to Pierpoint Landing. I plan to enjoy this cruise myself on Friday, December 27 and hope some of you can join me on that day. Be sure to save this column and show it to your folks to simplify the proper days and directions for sharing this treat.

See you next week,

SKIPPER FRANK

THIS TIME—TV HELPED ATTRACT NEW CUSTOMERS

The historic Aragon Ballroom, the musical home of Lawrence Welk, has completed its two biggest years and now is the nation's largest dance center. More than 750,000 full paid customers have visited the dance center during 1956 and 1957, making it the largest dance operation West of the Rockies. "Night for night, we rank as the top in the nation," veteran manager Walter K. Lange added. The forty-year-old Aragon operates on Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings.

Much of the ballroom's phenomenal success can be attributed to the popularity of television star Lawrence Welk. The champagne musicmaker and his organization play on Friday and Saturday nights, with Ray Robbins and his band appearing on Sunday evenings.

Welk was signed in 1951, when Aragon management elected to build a house band. Prior to this, a variety of the nation's great orchestras had appeared at the site. Among these were Count Basie, Harry James, Duke Ellington, Tommy Dorsey, Cab Calloway, Woody Herman, Les Brown, Xavier Cugat, and Glen Miller. In addition to the musical groups, the Aragon supports 108 employees.

Located at Lick Pier, Pacific Ocean Park, the Aragon recently changed owners—and is part of the new CBS-L.A. Turf Club family amusement development.

The ballroom was known as the Bon Ton in 1924, before it was swept by fire and rebuilt.

Ten years later, the dance emporium was renamed the Lick Pier Ballroom, in time for the nickel-a-dance era. Precision timing was required of band leader, Jack Dunn, to fill a certain quota of dances each hour.

During the early years, the Aragon became the birthplace of the National Smooth Dancers association, and many terpsichorean folk still make the ballroom their headquarters.

Weekly dance contest winners in 1957 were given 226 trophies, and two national ballroom dance champions were produced by the Aragon.

'NO RAIN TODAY' SAYS GEISE

"No rain" is the prediction for Pasadena on New Year's Day. The man who says so is CBS-TV and radio weather forecaster Harry Geise, of Dr. Irving Krick's staff. UNIVAC, the electronic brain, was used to arrive at the prediction.

Not only the thousands planning to view the Tournament of Roses and the Rose Bowl Game will be assured by Mr. Geise's prediction of a showerless day but the CBS television crews also will be glad. Imagine four camera troops coping with California's "liquid sunshine" during telecast of a huge procession and gridiron fracas!

If Geise's forecast holds water, so to speak, this 1958 New Year's will join an impressive array of non-rainy Jan. 1's. Since 1890 there have been only five Rose Queens who had to carry umbrellas. Between 1934, the year of a flood and 1955, when there was a discreet drizzle, there was no rain. Apparently it went away and "came again some other day."

BILLY LIEBERT IS

ON-THE-SPOT TUNESMITH

Talented Billy Liebert, accordion-playing musical director on KNX Radio's "Matinee" program has developed a novel way of adding to the orchestra's repertoire of original compositions.

Announcer George Walsh calls on a member of the studio audience to come to the stage and asks for his or her phone number. Liebert jots down the digits and while Walsh proceeds with the interview, he (Liebert) quickly sketches a tune using the numerals mentioned.

Number 1 becomes Middle C, 2 becomes D, 3 becomes E and so on up the scale. The melodies are pretty, musical and according to Billy's whim, may be a waltz, fox trot or mambo. Of course, he hasn't as yet run up against a person who's telephone number contains five 9's or five 3's but he's capable of crossing that bridge when and if he comes to it.

"All I need now," says composer-arranger Liebert, "is a clever lyricist and I could make a fortune."

SALLY AND ELVIS

There's a remark often heard in Hollywood to the effect that, "This studio can easily be turned into a motel or a garage." On an upcoming episode of Sally the reverse actually happened. Unless they happen to see this item, viewers of this segment will never know that a Swiss chalet set used for a wedding scene just a few weeks ago was a motel set for Elvis Presley's latest movie. Incidentally, the beautiful Alp background was first used in "The Mountain," starring Spencer Tracy.

KEEPING PACE WITH SPEEDY SPORTS CARS

SPORTS Car Review telecasts, which are aired each Monday evening following KHJ-TV's "Don Lee World News," are good examples of programs that take on a whale of a behind-the-scenes job to provide viewers with a half-hour program.

Each week the producers head for an outstanding sports car event and rush the film thru processing to come up with late footage for the Monday telecast.

This job is not without an element of danger, as you can see in these pictures taken on a typical assignment. The producers have found that the only way to capture the tempo and thrills of the events is to be right on top of the action.

Needless to say, all of the cameramen are fleet of foot and hot contenders for honors in the 100 yard dash division.

JACK CROSBY, nephew of Der Bingle, handles the master of ceremonies duties for the KHJ-TV telecasts of Sports Car Review as he coordinates action film and interviews sports car enthusiasts from the Southern California area.

MG IN A HAYSTACK spells the end of the race for one driver whose progress comes to a screeching halt after only a few laps.

SPORTS CAR REVIEW'S photog outdistanced other shutterbugs and snapped this shot from a "safe" spot when a spunky MG took to the shoulder on a tricky turn.

THE "CATBIRD SEAT," high atop remote truck, provides Channel 9 viewers with long shots of racing activity and captures the thrill of head-to-head starts and flashing finishes.

WOOSH! . . . ROD GAGE TAKES UP a dangerous post at trackside to garner footage of the action at the straight-away where speeds pass the 100 mph mark.

The Bill Kemp Show is vital to

The New "Live" Look on Radio

"HELLO AGAIN," says comic Bill Kemp. He and Betty Holt, upcoming girl vocalist on his new ABN radio show, are listening for reaction to their one-hour musical-variety format. So far, the Bill Kemp and other ABN "live" programs are the best things that's happened to radio since Marconi.

IT COULD well be. That so goes Kemp. So goes the whole kit and kapoodle.

Doubletalk? Not quite. In plain radio terms it simply means that if the Bill Kemp Show, heard every week night on KABC radio, goes over, it could revolutionize the radio business.

For that's what the ABN is trying to do: bring back musical and variety shows. Actually, it's a counter-revolution, because this type of entertainment was radio's mainstay before that monster called TV came along.

For the past ten years one of the biggest cliches in the world of show business has been: radio is dead. Actually, it never has, financially speaking, because radio stations, local and network, have been making more money, gross, than ever before in their history.

TV did hurt the potentiality of radio. And for the past ten years it has forced radio stations to concentrate mainly on the fairly static, non-creative formula of news — commercials — canned music — more commercials — sports results — more commercials — some deejay yak-yak — more commercials — and a very brief station break. It's formula that made much moola, but which has been about as creative and entertaining as a mannekin in a ghost town.

All "Live"

That's why the ABN decided to bring back "live" musical and comedy shows. And that's why the Bill Kemp show is so important. Altogether four top one-hour programs were added to the coast-to-coast lineup of ABC radio shows. They included Herb Oscar Anderson, Jim Backus, Merv Griffin, and last but not least, Bill Kemp.

All of these programs have basically the same format: a few laughs, lots of music, and a spattering of weather, with the news thrown in-between.

Of all four shows, Kemp has the most strategic spot. He's heard at the latest hour (at 8 p.m.), the "clean-up man" in the new radio lineup. Because of TV, radio listening habits have changed. In the old days, the night time was the prime time. But not so on radio, anymore. The morning — with the busy little housewives half-dusting and half-listening — is now the key spot. As a result, Herb Oscar Anderson's program, at the time of writing, has already picked up a sponsor, and is considered the most successful, and the "showcase" in the new lineup.

These new hour shows can't go on as sustainers ("without a sponsor") for very long. Because they're just too expensive — costing as much as $5,000 per program for production alone. In a nutshell, the story is this: if Kemp can make it, so can the rest. Because he's the one with the biggest challenge. And so far, he seems to be holding his own.

One of the great things in his favor is that he doesn't talk-down to his audience. TV comedy, these days, for the most, is for idiots, not adults. As Kemp explained during an interview with one of our reporters:

Doesn't Underestimate Audience

"I write and say what I think is funny. Sure, I want the audience to enjoy my routines. But if I don't like it, I don't think they will."

A hard worker who labors fatiguing hours, Kemp specializes in offbeat material. He finally has hired some writers to help him, but in the beginning (and still under his constant censorship and guidance) he wrote all his own material. "People ask me, why don't I just write for other people," the tall Canadian explains. "It would pay big money. But my real kick comes in doing the routines, not just writing them."

As with the rest of the new ABN shows, a carefully picked cast is used to aid and abet funnyman Kemp. There's lovely songstress Betty Holt, formerly on the Johnny Carson show and an Arthur Godfrey Talent Scout winner, who sings all types of songs (at least four within the hour) with professional poise. Comedy-wise, she also gives the right feminine touch to some of Kemp's comedy routines. Sharing solo vocal honors with Betty is Peter Handley, a familiar name to radio and TV fans, who never gives a bad performance. Rounding out the musical team is arranger-conductor Neal Hefti and his orchestra, the upcoming quartet temporarily called The Upbeats, with all intros (plus the weather news and other announcements) handled by capable and congenial George Ansboro.

All in all, the Kemp show, as well as the other ABN new "live" programs, deserve the listener's attention. They are good enough to last for a long time — and possibly even be simulcasted. The only thing that will kill them is an apathetic public. A public which will never be able to complain that radio, a la Frank Buck, didn't at least attempt to "bring 'em back — alive."

Since Lori Nelson has been engaged in making the new series, "How To Marry A Millionaire," she has learned some facts about catching a man . . . and one lesson, she says, is . . .

"I Know What Not to Do"

By Jack Holland

LORI NELSON, delectable blonde charmer of movies and now of the new 20th Century-Fox TV series, "How To Marry a Millionaire," is very glad she got the plum assignment in the show.

"At least, from the things we girls do in this show I'll know what not to do to catch a man."

Lori, Merry Anders, and Barbara Eden play the three girls who are in search of a millionaire to marry. They won the parts after almost every young actress in town was tested.

Lori frankly admits she'd like to get married. But she has no serious romances, although she came close to taking the fatal step a while back with publisher Bob Petersen. She was also more than slightly interested in Lloyd Kolmer.

Marriage For Her?

"I'm not hard to please, that isn't why I haven't married," she said. "And it isn't I'm looking for any certain type. I've gone with every type of man. It's just that the big spark hasn't hit me yet."

"I live with my mother and father in a home we all designed and I'm frankly spoiled. I've never lived alone and I have no desire to now. I'm afraid I like the conveniences of my home too much. When I get up in the morning, the heat is on, when I get home at night, the lights are on, when I get back from the studio, dinner is on the table. What more could I want?" With a slight but thoughtful pause, she added, "It's possible I might find it hard to take on all these duties myself if I got married."

"Not that I wouldn't be able to do household chores. I like to wash clothes and I iron beautifully, I do a mean vacuuming of the floor, but I absolutely hate to cook. Probably I dislike it because it takes too much imagination and patience. I do love to eat, though."

She was lunching at the moment on a pastrami sandwich and a cherry coke, real health food.

"I don't think I have too many habits either that would make me a bad wife—except being late. I'm always about fifteen minutes late. I get started in the morning behind time and I just never catch up. But, of course, I understand all husbands expect to have to wait for their wives."

Lori is enthusiastic about her series and not in the least concerned about over-exposure. As she put it, "I don't feel I've been over-exposed at all. I think I could use some of the same for a while. I don't know how I'll feel after 39 of these shows have been run."

The series naturally would appeal to any young actress since she is engaged in little else but romance and glamour. This is really playing in an ideal set-up.

Perhaps all the romances Lori will experience on the show will rub off on her in real life. She might even fall in love with a millionaire.

The name, "Spectacular," still clung to the expensive 90-minute-type TV program, though efforts were made to change it to "Special." One spec-special well received during the year was "Cinderella," starring Julie Andrews, on CBS, March 31.

ONE MAN'S FAMILY, radio's hardy series, celebrated 25 years of broadcasting on NBC.

AN ERA WAS FINISHED when TV pioneer Sid Caesar after nine seasons on the home screen (and three video wives) called it quits with NBC. Plans for his return on ABC-TV are jelling for January.

Adds Its Page to History

By Evelyn Bigsby

VIEWING the 1957 scene in TV and radio, the spectator sights certain events, trends or personalities which dominated the year.

Perhaps the largest of these was Pay TV, or "Feevee" as some now call it. We'll remember the pros and cons, the indecisions of this question long after a final word has been given. The continued flood of old movies, the stampede to Western style programming, the rise of ABC-TV with its new fall programming, the continued interest in quiz shows giving away frighteningly huge sums went down on '57's pages, too. The TV shift from New York to Hollywood became an acknowledged reality.

TV fell on its face several times, notably during the summer months when "re-run" became a dirty word in countless homes. It saved face by several well done special shows, some excellent news and special events reporting, some revealing documentary (See It Now) and news panel (Khrushchev on Meet the Press) presentations which showed TV's impact and potential.

On the radio scene it was a good year, especially in this area of private car transportation requiring as much a radio as a steering wheel. Radio network reappraised itself, began a vigorous campaign to originate live shows. FM radio had its biggest push, thanks to HiFi and L.P. records. TV-Radio Life, alert to the constant changes and progress of the media it covers, ended the year logging not only all Southland television outlets, the major AM radio stations, but 18 FM outlets.

All in all, 1957, may rate a grade of "Passing."

BIGGEST LAWSUIT OF 1957 was directed at ABC's Mike Wallace by L.A. Police Chief William H. Parker and Capt. James E. Hamilton following appearance on Wallace's show of notorious Mickey Cohen.

December 28, 1957

ARTURO TOSCANINI, world's outstanding conductor and maestro of NBC's Symphony Orchestra until April 4, 1954, passed on, January 16, 1957, at age 89.

THE WESTWARD TREK of shows and stars from New York to Hollywood took on such sizeable proportions that the eastern TVites finally admitted they had lost the battle. All networks pushed expansion plans; NBC opened elaborate additional facilities in Burbank, where George Gobel and other stars mingled with President Robert Sarnoff at dedication ceremonies.

BIG MONEY QUIZ shows continued to hold viewers' interest. One of most popular (and brilliant) contestants was Twenty-One's Charles Van Doren, who walked off the NBC-TV show with $129,000.
