Early american in late Saint Louis

St. Louis Wick Furniture Company is a high class specialty furniture outlet. Early American, to be specific.

Wick had tried all forms of advertising before, but not with much success.

Then a KSD Radio salesman suggested Wick buy part sponsorship of Howard DeMere's "Mem'ries Til Midnight." A program of quiet, shimmering music for the late, late hours.

Heard by the younger set—driving around late at night. Thinking about marriage, furniture and that sort of thing.

Heard by the older set at home relaxing from the fast pace of the day. Thinking about adding furniture.

Wick said OK. For 4 weeks we'll try it. That was last March. Wick still sponsors the program. And it's still the only broadcast advertising Wick does.

"... We created the god of program ratings.
"Now we are preparing to completely automate Mount Olympus and make a god out of a computer."

Robert Enoch, who made this statement, is president of WXLW, Indianapolis, a founder of the RAB, and an astute participant on the broadcast scene for more than 30 years. His fears mirror those of hundreds of other broadcasters who note beginning of the "computer age" and wonder what to make of it.

Media men at advertising agencies view the frantic efforts to bring the big train into focus with mixed emotions. For every media department employee who welcomes the advent of the computer there are 50 who wonder who will feed it, what it will be fed, and how it will affect their jobs.

So a little straight talk about computers is in order.

First, as expressed by Mel Goldberg, research head of NAB, careless use of the computer may result in GIGO. This means "Garbage In, Garbage Out" and emphasizes the importance of feeding the monster valid data.

But from the evidence to date (see lead stories in SPONSOR 28 January & 4 February) the computer age will bring new emphasis on qualitative rather than quantitative information. We've been satiated with easy to compute cost-per-1,000 and the like. Now enters the depth data and, from the broadcast side, the new breed of analytical media salesman, the "sales executive" described by Jack Duffield of RKO General Broadcasting in the 4 February sponsor (page 67).

As we see it, which station in the market gets the national spot nod in the computer age will depend on two sets of information: (1) the needs of the client and statistical evaluation of the station as registered by the computer, (2) a whole set of human equation factors that no machine can measure. Point two will allow the timebuyer and media director to evaluate for himself audience receptivity, staff know-how, public service record, good station practices, viewer and listener loyalty, prestige, area reach and the like. These flesh-and-blood equations are part of the stock-in-trade of media specialists and frequently will decide choice of station in the computer age.

Man is master of the monster.

READERS CALLED FORTUNATE

I have just finished reading your story on video tape in the January 28th issue. I think it is extremely well done.

Your readers are fortunate in being able to get such a clear, accurate and thorough picture of the growth and current capabilities of the tape medium.

It is no small task to assemble this kind of balanced, informative and comprehensive story. In behalf of my company and the entire video tape industry, I want to express my warmest congratulations.

JOHN B. LANIGAN, Videotape Productions of New York.

FURTHER INFORMATION

The article "CBS Measures Media Effectiveness" in the 28 January issue of sponsor is interesting—as far as it goes.

However, it does seem to me that your readers would like to have a bit more real information.

As stated, two matched samples were selected, one was interviewed before exposure to the ads and the other afterwards. From these interviews, it was found that television is much more effective per dollar than advertising in the four large-circulation magazines listed.

The product advertisements appeared in these four magazines and the product commercials were broadcast on different nighttime television programs on all three networks.

But your article does not explain how it was determined whether the "People Influenced per Dollar" were influenced by the magazine ads or the tv commercials.

CBS always does an excellent research job so I am confident that the "net-net-net" figures are correct. But I would like to know just how the conclusions were reached. I have an idea that quite a few others of your readers would be interested in this information, too.

- Two separate matched samples were used, one for magazines, one for television. Influence of each medium was determined by the separate samples. For the full details, copies of the study are available from CBS TV.

'EXTREMELY COMPREHENSIVE'

Our congratulations on an extremely comprehensive look at the television tape recording industry.

Your fair appraisal of the tape technique is bound to cause many people to re-assess their opinions on the relative values of tape and film. Again, our congratulations on your article and your fine publication.

JAMES E. WITTE, general manager, Tele Tape Productions.

SPEAKING OF COVERAGE

It is with a great deal of personal pleasure that we enclose a check for our initial subscription to sponsor. How many does this make? During the past eighteen years or so, since Norman Knight first brought me into the business in Morgantown, West Va., I have never worked for or with an organization that did not subscribe to sponsor.

HOWARD "JEFF" FORBES, president, Sight Sound Motion Productions, St. Petersburg, Fla.

KUDO TO AGENCY

Thank you for printing the picture and story (see 21 January, page 61) of KBAT's outdoor sign in Dallas.

I would like to give recognition and thanks where it's due. The unusual and effective design of the sign is the work of KBAT's very fine advertising agency, Waghorne, Scherweke, and Associates of San Antonio. It was work like this that brought the agency the first place award for creativity in national competition sponsored by the Junior Outdoor Poster Association.

CHESTER MAXWELL, sales manager, KBAT, Dallas, Tex.

SPECIAL HANDLING

Many thanks . . . for the fine way you handled the article ("The 10 Best Agency-Net Negotiators") in the 17 December sponsor.

"KIND TREATMENT"

Thank you very much for the kind treatment which you accorded Daniel & Charles in your recent item ("Ten Hot Young Agencies to Keep an Eye On," 14 January) on the "creative" agencies.

Everyone makes much about the tenth anniversary... it's a real tizzy when the twenty-fifth is reached... and they commission bards to pen immortal ballads for the fiftieth anniversary. So, why all the fuss about WTIC Radio being thirty-eight years old which it is, by the way, on February 10. Maybe it's because this is the last year we'll have a chance to claim that we're younger than Jack Benny... or perhaps it's because we'd like to remind you that you can still rely on WTIC for top radio advertising this year, just as you have in the past thirty-eight. Incidentally, we're not showing any signs of age. Perhaps it's because we're too excited about the future to dwell too long on the past.

AFA NAMES COOPER PRESIDENT

While in Washington for the annual AFA/AAW Mid-Winter Conference last week, the AFA elected Mark F. Cooper to the presidency, which has been unfilled since last September. For the past five years public relations director of the General Telephone Co. of the Southwest, San Angelo, Tex., Cooper was selected from a field of more than 40 qualified candidates by a 10-man AFA Committee. He has had wide experience in advertising, public relations, and in state and national legislative matters. He will soon move to New York with his family to take up the new post.

LATE NEWS SHOWS GAIN MOST DURING NEWSPAPER BLACKOUT

Available data on television viewing during the New York newspaper strike indicates late news shows are the big gainers. Two weeks prior to the strike, an average of 47.1% of New York homes were using television in the 11 to 11:30 p.m. time period, according to A. C. Nielsen. Two strike weeks in December and January show homes using television at 50.6% in the 11 to 11:30 p.m. period. The same strike weeks a year ago found 48.9% of the homes using television from 11 to 11:30 p.m. No clear-cut gains are shown in the 6 to 7 p.m. time period. Meanwhile, the Bureau of Advertising of the ANPA has released figures which it says document a steady decline in retail sales in New York since the start of the strike. In comparison with Federal Reserve tabulations of department store sales in the total U. S., the New York City average was 4 percentage points lower during the five weeks preceding the strike; 5.5 points lower during the two weeks preceding Christmas; and 10.2 points during the five weeks following Christmas. In the wake of these and various reports of the effect of the newspaper blackout, RAB commissioned Richard Manville Research to study buying habits of adult women during late January in Cleveland and New York. The report indicates that 81% of women in Cleveland said they were spending as much or more in January 1963 as during January 1962. RAB administrative v.p. Miles David commented that "the radio industry does not seek to make this abnormal period a test. But claims made for newspaper 'indispensability' in a manner derogatory to other media made it necessary that we provide a balanced analysis."

BENDIX MARKETS NEW CLOSED CIRCUIT TV SYSTEM

A new closed circuit television system for industrial and institutional use is being marketed by the Bendix Corp. Known as the BX-7, the system was first developed for military and space operations. It automatically adjusts to light conditions varying from brilliant sunlight to virtually total darkness without loss of picture, says Bendix. Applications include close scrutiny of the manufacturing processes in production of paper, synthetic yarn, steel, and chemicals, as well as night surveillance of industrial property. Other uses, anticipated by Bendix, are underwater search, study of x-ray and operating procedures in hospitals, and in schools and colleges.

GO EASY ON CONTROLS: BELL & HOWELL PREXY

Praising the performance of "Madison Avenue" and its contribution to our national economy, Peter G. Peterson, Bell & Howell Co. president, last week told the 5th Annual AFA AAW Mid-Winter Conference in Washington, "... But, beyond this obvious exercise of authority against fraud, we must tread very gingerly indeed."

NBC TV SEES SHARP AUDIENCE UPSWING IN NEWS, ACTUALITY SPECIALS

Using the Nielsen fourth quarter reports for the two years, NBC notes that news and actuality specials in 1962 picked up a good deal of audience momentum over those in 1961. The average fourth-quarter 1961 tv news special on the network delivered 8.8 million total homes, 6 million homes per minute and a 23% share of audience. This compares with 10.9 million total homes, 7.7 million homes per minute and a 29% share of audience in the 1962 fourth quarter.

SPONSOR/11 FEBRUARY 1963
Judging from information culled by SPONSOR-SCOPE from several top agencies, the outlook for spot tv come the fall and even the first 1964 quarter is even lusiter than it's been this season.

To put what these agencies are saying in a nutshell: the budgets of their big package goods advertisers as they're now being set up accord heftier shares for spot as against network tv.

This sharper trend toward putting more of their blue chips on spot is traceable to these lines of advertiser re-evaluation of their role in the medium:
- Generally speaking, the rewards in homes impressions and cost-per-1,000 from nighttime network tv turned out far below expectations and to avoid a repetition of such an eventuality, prudence calls for a reduction of the risk there and transferring some of the eggs from that basket into spot tv.
- Good marketing dictates that greater stress be put on market variability and hence added allowance should be made for augmenting network with strategically-timed spot tv flights, thereby insuring to each brand the rightful measurement of promotional flexibility in terms of both individual market and special occasion.

Note: ABC TV has adopted the flexibility theme for itself. In a brochure on regions that the network has just put out, emphasis is laid on the ability of such regional purchases to render “maximum impact in selected areas.”

The Four A's broadcast media committee, with its suggestion about protection for preemptible spots, may have opened the door for something that the SRA has been seeking for some time.

And that something has been an opportunity to review the provisions in the standard spot contract for tv stations, which the association deems somewhat outdated.

The SRA would like to make this examination of the standard form part and parcel of any discussion of a more favorable viability of preemptibles for advertisers.
(See page 25 for an in-depth analysis of the preemptible spot problem.)

Chicago reps have taken up the slack in new spot radio business which has befallen the New York sector so far this month, after a lively January.

The action in Chicago the past week included Kellogg (Burnett), Englander Mattress (North), Mystik Tape (Hartman), and Rath Packing (Ludgin).

On the national spot tv side the February pace, as far as the New York reps are concerned, is promising enough to indicate a consecutive record month for the medium.

Two agencies that have been keeping tv reps definitely on the hop these past weeks are Young & Rubicam and Compton.

Madison Avenue's lifting its eyebrows at the prices being quoted for new nighttime fare scheduled by the tv networks for the fall.

Rep. salesmen might as well face up to the fact that under the new procedure in Y&R spot tv buying there’s no such thing as a personal pitch once a timebuyer issues a call for availabilities on a new schedule.

The rule now in effect—what with the widening application of computer to the buying process—limits the salesman’s function to submitting avail. If he has any further enlightening data, he’ll have to impart it in a covering letter attached to the avail.

What the agency’s media chiefs, Warren Bahr & Joe St. George, are trying to tell the reps is this: the worst time to see a Y&R timebuyer is when the buying’s being done and that the time to sell a timebuyer on a station or market is any time before a buy goes into the works.

Personal relationships are encouraged and timebuyers should be kept updated on a station or market story, but not when the station or market is under the buying gun.

That reshuffling in the media department of Ogilvy, Benson & Mather was mostly spurred by an urge to streamline and tighten the buying process.

As explained to SPONSOR-SCOPE, the revised setup, which allocates authority among three associate media directors instead of spreading it among five supervisors, will give the department more of a vertical mode of operation.

The three associate directors: Jules Fein, Pete Triolo, and Cliff Bottomway, the first promoted from media analysis and the other two having come up from timebuyer.

This is the period that the sports side of the tv networks unlimber their sales artillery for the events they’ve lined up for the coming season.

It could have been due to the severe cold spell at the time but bowl football on New Year's day delivered all-time record audiences.

All three TV networks, Madison Avenue negotiators note, have one thing in common about their selling strategy for the 1963-64 nighttime season: they're each putting inordinate effort into getting orders for half-hours as against minutes.

Obviously, ABC TV and NBC TV are taking a leaf out of CBS TV's stratagem of the moment and that is telling prospects that their only chance of getting on the fall schedule is via alternate hour or half-hour segments.

Observed the negotiator for an agency which is among the top three TV billers: "You can't blame the networks for trying to sell half-hours as a minimum segment, but you can be sure that if anybody walked in with a substantial order for minute participations he wouldn't be directed to the nearest exit.

According to Nielsen, the number of network TV advertisers given to buying into minute participation programs only has taken quite a hop this season.

For P&G agencies these two months of February and March have the pressure and bustle that's without comparison in the business.

What keeps 'em on the tightwire: looking at network pilots, negotiating for fall time and programs, and at the same time getting their portfolios in order for the Cincinnati meetings next month at which budget recommendations are discussed.

Only two specials of an entertainment nature scored appreciable TV audiences during the past December, that is, during the periods measured by Nielsen.

NBC TV, assuming from the lineup that it was showing around the New York agencies last week, will retain 15-16 of its present shows for the coming season.

There’s still some repositioning to be done and there’s some question as to whether Hazel will be moved to CBS TV (Tuesday, 9) by Ford and whether GE will alternate with du Pont with an hour version of True.

The 1963-64 lineup as the agencies viewed it:

SUNDAY: 7:30, Disney; 8:30, P&G series; 9, Bonanza; 10-11, DuPant Show of Week.
MONDAY: 7:30, Feature movies; 9:30, TBA; 10-11, Mitch Miller.
TUESDAY: 7:30, the Matchmaker; 8-9, Mr. Novaks; 9-10, Clifford Odets-Richard Boone; 10-11, Bell Telephone Hour (alternate weeks).
WEDNESDAY: 7:30, the Virginian; 9-10, Kraft Hour; 10-11, the Eleventh Hour.
THURSDAY: 7:30, Robert Taylor; 8:30, Dr. Kildare; 9:30, Hazel; 10-11, Jack Paar.
SATURDAY: 7:30, Joey Bishop; 8:30, Bill Dana; 9-11, Feature movies.

Spot tv should find exceptionally good pickings this spring from among advertisers who gear their spending mostly to seasonal pushes.

The business climate may be an important factor, but from agency reports there’s an abnormal number of Father’s Day and graduation and wedding gift schedules on the shelf ready for buying action when confirmation dates are feasible.

A couple of cases in point: (1) Norelco, Remington, and Schick, among electric shavers, are each poised for the May-June gift-appeal sweepstakes; (2) Gulton (Compton) will use 15 markets (this is double the last promotion list) to sell its renewal-battery line of radios, flashlights, and lighters. The Gulton schedule will run seven weeks.

Look for the toymakers to lean more toward spotting their commercials in adult-appeal programming when they do their buying for the fall.

The new tack is due to their discovery that parents are exerting more influence in the choice of their progeny’s toys and it’s become pretty much a family concern as to price, quality, and performance. It’s all probably due to past abuses by some members of the toy fraternity.

At the moment the big tv users among toy manufacturers feel rather frustrated. They’d like to announce to jobbers and dealers at the New York Toy Fair slated for the week of 11 March what their tv buys will be for this fall, but they find that the networks can’t cooperate because they themselves don’t know what they’ll be scheduling at that time, particularly in Saturday kid shows.

The FCC may have opened a can of worms in advising licensees that stations which serve substantially the same area violate the public interest by organizing to sell themselves at a group rate.

Where the rub could come for the commission: determining what are gray areas in such combination rate agreements. Particularly with respect to such combined stations whose coverage sort of overlaps, but have different markets for their basic service area.

In radio, an instance would be the Philadelphia suburban group put together by Avery-Knodel and in tv, the Triangle Pennsylvania-Delaware uhf trio obviously set up to compete with WGAL-TV. CBS TV advised SPONSOR-Scope that its legal department was studying the FCC’s notice with respect to its application to the three uhfers.

About the only rep directly and unquestionably affected by the notice is Robert Meeker, who about a year-and-a-half back organized combination rate station clusters within Denver, Salt Lake City, and Seattle. Meeker expressed surprise at the FCC’s action. He had checked his project with the FCC a year ago. No objection was expressed, but he was told he’d hear from the commission. The preemptible system in its fullest development

This chart is prepared from portion of a rate card, in which local viewing patterns are apparently reflected by the station's charge for prime-time 20-second announcements. In this particular system, all announcements are "preemptible" in the sense that they are subject to price-reclassification, with due notice to the advertiser, and with the option to retain the spot at its reclassified rate. In this chart, the distribution of lightest areas (highest-priced spots) indicates the peak viewing.

Buyers want changes in spot tv

- 4A's perturbed about preemptible practices
- Agencies ask for guaranteed run
- Cool response from stations and rep firms
- General overhaul of standard contract form?

The buying and selling practices of spot television may come under review this year.

A first move toward such a review was made last month by the American Assn. of Advertising Agencies. The 4A made two "suggestions" to stations about the handling of preemptible spots. Stations now are giving their individual reaction to reps, whose collective body—the Station Representatives' Assn.—will in turn give a considered reply to the agency group.

Although the buyers of tv time have limited their "suggestions" to one section only of spot business, knowledgeable observers point out that the preemptible spot lies close to the heart of the price adjustment process. Any review of preemptible spots must, therefore, touch on broader issues: not only the mechanics of price resolution but also the concepts which underlie it.

Because of this, it's probable that the 4A's and the SRA will sit down for extended sessions at the conference table. (One result of this, hopefully, may be a thorough revision of the standard contract form. Apart from the preemptible question, both groups have other matters which they feel could bear adjustment. This is likely to pro-
A backward look at tv and preemption

WHO FATHERED PREEMPTIBLE SPOT? Bouquets and some brick-bats can be spread around: some should go to John P. Denninger (left), erstwhile vp and Eastern sales manager of Blair TV. It was in 1959 that Blair picked up the idea, which had been put into effect three years earlier at WABC TV, New York. (Joseph Stamler, now vp, then was station sales manager.) Another early advocate of p-e was rep firm Adam Young.

Denninger now heads a financial counselling service, Executive Capital Planning Inc. Looking back on preemption, he says "It allowed the law of supply and demand to come into effect. I'm not surprised at its widespread adoption: We thought it was inevitable because of the unreality of the pricing structure."

Another rep expert, Katz vp Daniel Denenholz (l., below), comments indirectly on the current 4A recommendation by saying that "Rate cards will be subject to special terms and conditions for as long as a station's audience fluctuates from period to period—and so long as advertisers and agencies place the emphasis they do on CPM. . . ."

Liked or not, p-e spot can't be ignored

"The preemptible system is valuable, but it can be abused. It's here that stations often lose their virginity."—Jay Heitlin, WNBC TV

"We use it to correct a temporary cost-inefficiency. A major realignment is best handled by a rate card change."—Scott McLean, Crosley Broadcasting.

"P-e will be affected by the new monitoring systems. Advertisers will check the turnover of any given spot." Roger O'Connor, Boiling Co.

"A lot of major-market spot is sold this way, where it can't be discounted too openly. It suits us, of course."—Bob Liddel, Compton.

"If properly designed it gives flexibility with respectability. But it's not suited to every situation, and it can become a problem in the hands of weak salesmen."—James O'Grady, Adam Young.
spots as long as there's a chance of making sales at the fixed rate. But agency buyers report that the sellers—under strong competitive pressure in the last 12 months—have tended to use the p-e rate as a first line of defense. The agency picture is of stations and/or reps clutching at any straw to assure a quick buy. With the base secured through preemptible booking, the seller then begins the serious business of finding buyers at the higher, fixed rate. The result (it's claimed) is an alarmingly high rate of recapture as the fixed-position buys are subsequently brought in.

Buyers also complain they have not been getting enough warning when their spots are recaptured. This is not a criticism of the Section Three run-of-station, or "sudden death" type of buy, in which the agency knowingly runs the risk of immediate recapture without warning. The complaint is rather that too many "Section Two" buys, in which the agency is guaranteed a fixed period of advance notice of preemption, have in practice been treated by stations as a sudden-death spot. "Often," laments a typical buyer, "we find out about it only when the bills come in..."

This is the background against which the 4A's broadcast committee makes its recommendation for a standard, seven-day notice of preemption. Purpose of the suggestion is to tactfully draw the station's attention to the view that a problem exists, and also to standardize the minimum period of notice. (In the present proliferation of p-e schemes, Section Two warnings run anywhere from seven days to 28 days.)

There were a few startled yips of protest when the 4A's opinion was made public, last month. However, the seasoned members of the rep community are generally convinced that there's no essential change involved in this part of the 4A suggestion, and that if there's any abuse of preemptible spots it will be self-correcting as buyers sharply lose interest in the stations and reps that are responsible.

A reasonable notice. This appears to be the case. To borrow a military metaphor, the 4A memo is not a front-line dispatch, but an official bulletin released after the battle. A good deal of the offending practice had already been rectified by the time the 4A's got around to notifying the stations. "It's now an isolated problem," reports Robert Liddell, Compton Agency v.p. and 4A committeeman. "Most stations today, via their reps, do offer and maintain a reasonable notice of preemption. But we'd also prefer the added stability of a guaranteed two-week run at the start of the campaign."

The consensus gathered by sponsor is against the agencies achieving a guarantee. There's a strong practical reason for sellers to object, and a no-less strong point of principle.

The suggestion comes out of a natural dislike of wasted effort; once a schedule has been set it should never, even through preemption, become a total loss. Sta*

The time periods also affect total viewing level

Two charts prepared by the A. C. Nielsen Co. illustrate the range of viewing. Not only does the total national audience vary from program to program, but there are also basic fluctuations within the broad time period. TV spot pricing takes account of these changes.
Public and trade response to theme was enthusiastic
Cunningham & Walsh conceived “Walking Fingers” theme for Yellow Pages. Here is frame from TV commercial introduced in 1962 on the Bell Telephone Hour. Enka Films, Inc., produced it for AT&T

Yellow Pages zoom with ‘fingers’

» B’odcast media play big role in promotion
» Cunningham & Walsh creates ‘Fingers’ idea
» Awareness study proves theme’s impact

The dramatic growth of telephone directory advertising in America has been described as one of the significant advances in mass marketing. And what was once essentially a local marketing service has become a major national marketing and advertising tool.

Most, if not all, of America knows it as the Yellow Pages!

The growth of Yellow Pages from its first telephone subscriber directory in 1878 (with its proud Victorian listings of hacks and boarding stables) to its position as an almost indispensable buyers’ guide is no accident. It is due to three decades of consistent and intelligent promotion.

In 1962, the Yellow Pages, through C&W, spent between one and two million dollars for national advertising and promotion in all media. This was supplemented by three to four times that amount spent by the 21 associated Bell System telephone companies in the areas they serve.

Reportedly, nearly half of this combined sum was allocated to the broadcast media, with the emphasis on television, and mostly in spot. Radio's share of Yellow Pages' promotion came to approximately 15 per cent of the budget.

As indicated above, Cunningham & Walsh handles the Yellow Pages account on a national level, an assignment it has carried out with conspicuous success for some 35 years—indeed, something of an enviable record along Madison Avenue. Member telephone companies have their own advertising agencies which, in many instances, use the basic C&W advertising and promotion campaigns as springboards for local, state and regional efforts to point up the flexibility of the Yellow Pages as an advertising medium.

Constant flow of ideas. Though the Yellow Pages account may be a venerable one in the C&W shop, there is an unending flow of new ideas from staffers. Perhaps the most notable of the C&W efforts to promote the Yellow Pages was the introduction of the "Let Your Fingers do the Walking..." theme in all of the advertising and promotion.

In the opinion of veteran observers of such matters, it marked the launching of one of the most successful pieces of communications in order to reach the consumer via television, radio, general magazines, newspapers, car cards, foreign language press, outdoor posters, etc.

Circulation of the classified directories zoomed about 40 per cent in the past five years. It is estimated that Yellow Pages circulation today is 70 million.

In order to make greater use of the Yellow Pages among the masses in search of goods and services, C&W feels it has come up with a most effective theme—a theme launched in early 1962 and instantly accepted here and there with minor modifications by 19 of the 21 telephone companies.

The "Fingers" theme last year was used by some 11 companies in tv spots; 18 companies used it in radio spots and nine companies participated in the 24-sheet poster offerings, coupled with solid participation in display material made available by the C&W agency.

It was apparent from the outset of the "Finger" theme, that Yellow Pages was falling heir to a powerful attention getter. Shortly after its introduction, C&W sought to determine its level of awareness and advertiser identification.

Awareness study made. Two months after the "Walking Fingers" theme had been launched nationally, C&W asked R. II. Bruskin Associates to conduct an awareness study. The study was launched March 28, 1962. Some 2,535 personal interviews (1262 male and 1278 female adults) were conducted throughout the nation. The study showed that after nine weeks (campaign was actually introduced on 19 January), 29.5 per cent of the population could complete the phrase "Let your fingers do the walking through..."

In the Northeast, this percentage ran as high as 46.3 per cent and as low as 18 per cent on the West Coast. The division between male and female who could answer correctly was about equal.

On 12 November of 1962, C&W asked the Bruskin researchers to conduct a second awareness study. In this instance, 2,531 personal interviews were conducted (1253 male and 1278 female adults), again on a nationwide basis.

The progress report was nothing short of amazing. This time the study showed that 17.3 per cent of the total population could complete the phrase "Let your fingers do the walking through..." (13.9 per cent male and 20.7 per cent female).

Again, in the Northeast, this figure ran as high as 60.7 per cent (51.4 per cent for males, 66.6 per cent for females). In the Far West these figures were lower, 22.4 per cent (18.1 per cent for males and 26.1 per cent for females).

Why had the "Walking Fingers" theme scored such penetrating results among the American people? In discussing the present national campaign with a sponsor editor, F. Malcolm Minor, account executive for the Yellow Pages at Cunningham & Walsh, observed that (Please turn to page 66)
More commercial creativity at lower production cost

New use of still photographs allows great flexibility;

N. W. Ayer team produces bank commercials with unusual motion, mood through photomation; technique faster and more economical

New uses of a technique called squeeze-motion or photomation have allowed many advertisers to produce creative commercials at a low cost and in record time. The technique, which turns still photographs and artwork into a movie, has been catching the attention of such major advertisers as Breck, Listerine, Betty Crocker, Colgate, and the First Pennsylvania Banking and Trust Company in Philadelphia. Only five years old, animation producers claim the process is currently ten times more popular than the straight cartoon commercial.

The First Pennsylvania commercials, handled by N. W. Ayer Agency, have achieved unusual creative levels by adding agency innovations to commercial production using photomation. The results are something new in the normally-staid bank advertising, and more important, something new in mood and motion for all advertising.

The commercials the bank wanted involved special consideration. Nine one-minute spots were needed on such services as savings accounts, personal loans, home improvement loans, automobile loans, etc. Nothing obvious was wanted such as the usual man-behind-the-desk approach in a loan situation, or routine before-and-after-loan pictures.

Creating a mood. "We wanted to create a mood and say something subtly through visual elements," said Conrad White, agency producer on the account. "It involved a way of looking at people and capturing them under natural circumstances. We wanted to show that the customer was more than just a man with a starched collar visiting the bank, and people in the bank were interested in him as a human being. What we were after was a feeling of friendliness and casualness."

Executives at the agency felt that the usual storyboard should be jettisoned in favor of a broad description of the mood the agency team would try to achieve in each segment of the spot.

"Most clients expect the finished product to be like the storyboard," White continued. "We didn't want to lock ourselves into something where we would have to photograph exact scenes with people posing in pre-determined positions."

The agency presented the client with a description for each commercial similar to the following on auto loans:

(First 20 seconds) Location is new car showroom. The photos depict a young family looking at a new car. Our viewpoint is toward the people, not the car. We are not really trying to tell what they are doing at this point. Our aim is to record the actions and reactions of these people in a warm, human, and arresting way.

(Last 20 seconds) Location is bank interior. The photos show the same family applying for an auto loan. We are an observer of the attitudes and responses of these people. We see that the customer has been put at his ease; that the bank people are friendly and sincerely interested. The sequence of stills does not tell a story, as such, but establishes a mood and feeling that reinforce our claim.

The mood would have to be captured in candid photographs—the exact photographs that would make up the commercial. Carefully selected photos would be chosen from the contacts and synchronized with an especially-prepared pre-recorded jingle.

Accent on naturalness. The photos were taken by a single photographer who was versed in the mood he needed to capture, eliminating the expense of a large camera crew. Limbs of people, backs of people, aerial shots, out-of-focus shots—almost anything was permissible if it captured the warm friendly feeling necessary. Noted photographer Donald Mack visited many First Pennsylvania banks and homes of clients, taking over 1200 shots for each commercial with a 35mm camera. The bank employees played themselves; no models were used here. Nor was special lighting considered necessary. The bank and the creative team at the agency wanted the pictures to be as natural as possible.

Contacts were then assembled and looked over by art director Wes Shaw, copywriter Chris Conway, and the producer Conrad White.

Photoboard. A storyboard never came into being, neither for client approval nor agency use. The creative team decided to make up a photoboard or shooting board from the contacts chosen. This would be quicker and more graphic than the usual process. The contacts were tacked on to a board over the words and beats of the jingle.

Pictures to music. The commercials involved only stills with musical effects such as obvious beats, crescendos, and accented cuts to lend themselves to the video element. Where the music suggested zoom-ins, a quick succession of stills, stop-motion, or moving titles, appropriate pictures were selected. Key actions were fit to move on musical cue: musical emphasis thus pinpointing salient facts, such as the name of the bank. Where there were no words in the jingle, merely beats, pictures were found to fit them. About 50 photos were used for each spot, in contrast to the usual 10 or 12.

Blow-ups of the selected stills, usually 8" x 10" were then made. Where zoom-ins or cut-backs were required 11" x 14" were used. A field guide was then marked up for the aerial image camera, indicating where special effects were to take place. Then they were numbered according to the footage count for animation stand shooting.

The illusion of motion was created with the aid of an aerial image camera, complicated photographic machine worth about $25,000. As the camera assembly moves up and down on racks, the lens continually stays in focus. The "stage" below, on which original material is shot, moves on command as well. With an electronic control board, the technician directs the machine to achieve effects.

Client reception. The photomation technique proved a hit with the bank, which ordered eight or nine one-minute commercials and three 20s using the same process, about half of which are completed.

Mrs. Esther Jackson, Krewson vice president in charge of advertising and public relations at the First Pennsylvania explains: "We really took the whole production on faith. We wouldn't use an agency that wasn't competent, creative, and imaginative.

"We wanted something different in bank advertising to give us distinction in the field, and N. W. Ayer has supplied us with what we were looking for. The still photograph technique has been very effective: our staff is very enthusiastic and we've had many favorable comments from the public."

Speed and economy. Aside from the many creative possibilities photomation offers, advertisers such as First Pennsylvania utilize the process for speed and economy. Conrad White of Ayer states: "The production process cuts down to a bare minimum the number of people involved. No large camera crews are necessary, just one camera man. Production costs for each bank commercial ran about $3,500 (excluding cost of talent and music). Live action, the only other way we would have done it, would certainly have cost double, especially if we shot on location. Using photomation, a one-minute commercial can be produced for about $500 to $1,000, if it is not complicated. Although we used many photographs to capture the right mood, the process generally requires fewer photos than standard film production requires original material.”

“As for speed, White continued, “the actual production time of our first commercial took two days. This is possible because the greatest amount of work involved is in shooting stills and organizing the contacts for the photoboard. The photoboard doubles as a true animation stand shooting board, we eliminated the complete process of visualizing the commercial through sketches.”

“The speed and economy involved in the final techniques, has been recognized by several other accounts our agency handles,” White stated.

Photomation technique. In general, photomation is an animation and semi-live technique whereby most animation stand shooting is done at live-action speed, instead of the single-frame stop-motion photography normally used in animation production. The name photomation is generally used. Other names such as squeeze-motion, still-motion, and limited-live action have been coined for the same technique.

By utilizing the process producers may turn to various sources of material, such as all kinds of photographs, stills, drawing charts, logos, newspaper and magazine clippings, and limited animation cartoon cells.

The process also allows for a great deal of movement. In addition, limited cartoon animation, pop-ons, slide motion, squeeze-animation, zooming product shots, as well as every possible camera movement, can be employed. Since the special visual effects, dissolves, wipes, etc. are combined during the original animation stand photography, the amount of money needed for any photomation production is less than that of regular film production.

Whether for economy, speed, or flexibility, use of photomation is growing, animation producers claim. As one producer put it: “It is the fade now. Regular cartoon animation is ‘yesteryear.’”

WSB wins BP Mike Award

- Atlanta station cited for community service
- Award dinner to be held 25 February

Station WSB, Atlanta, is the 1963 recipient of Broadcast Pioneers’ annual “Mike Award” for typifying the Pioneer group’s standards for excellence in community service. The “Mike,” a gold-plated actual ribbon microphone of radio’s early days, will be presented 25 February at the third annual Broadcasters’ Foundation banquet, at the Americana Hotel, New York.

James M. Cox, president of WSB (AM-TV), will accept the award. Other station executives who will attend the dinner include J. Leonard Reinsch, executive director; Frank Gaither, general manager, WSB, and Marcus Bartlett, general manager, WSB-TV. President and Mrs. Kennedy are expected to attend the banquet, as well as members of the FCC.

WSB is the third 50,000 watt clear channel station to be so honored by the Broadcast Pioneers. The first was WLW, Cincinnati, in 1961. Last year’s recipient was WGN, Chicago.

Financial aid. Aside from the annual opportunity for an industry-wide salute for outstanding achievement in radio, the “Mike Award” dinner serves as a major contributory source for the Broadcasters Foundation fund, an arm of Broadcast Pioneers that provides financial aid to indigent broadcasters.

In the spring of 1961, he continued, Broadcast Pioneers agreed (Please turn to page 61)
Top tv brass at Metromedia briefed on results of study

$1 million a year for research is key to growth at metromedia

- Studies help Metromedia win recognition
- Research outlays equal network average
- Woman at helm earns respect of colleagues

When Metromedia’s WNEW-TV thrust into the third slot in the ARB New York rankings last fall, a lot of people in the industry began to wonder where the independent station was getting its vitamins.

Metro executives, however, knew where WNEW and other company properties were getting much of their new muscle. The answer was research—$1,000,000 worth of research a year.

While Metromedia is a growing communications empire, it is still far from being a giant in the industry. The $1,000,000 research budget, therefore, represents quite a sizeable chunk of operating expenses. The figure assumes even larger significance when one considers that a recent estimate puts the combined research outlays of the three major networks at $3,000,000. Of course one network may spend more or less than another, but on the average, network research expenditures are the same as Metromedia’s.

Money well spent. Metro’s heavy investment in research can be traced to the background of John W. Kluge, president and chairman, in the food brokerage business. “In food marketing,” Mr. Kluge told SPONSOR, “research is an absolute must—it is a way of life.”

In Kluge’s opinion, what is true for the food business is at least equally valid for the communications business. “We ought to know more about our product than any one who buys it. We have to give our salesmen the tools that will enable them to have confidence in their product and its value to their customers. Any amount of money we spend in this direction is well spent.”

Metro’s track record in recent years strongly supports the validity of Kluge’s marketing philosophy. In 1956, the company consisted of two television stations WABD (now WNEW) and WTTG in Washington. That year the company took a net loss of over $1,500,000. By 1962, earnings amounted to about $2,500,000—double the 1961 results—but gross revenues of some $33,000,000.

Metro today has a lot of iron in the fire. In addition to WNEW and WTTG, it has acquired television stations KOVR-TV in Sacrament; WTVH, Peoria, Ill.; WTVP, Decatur, Ill., and KMBC-TV in Kansas City. Acquisition of KTTV in Los Angeles is awaiting FCC approval. Its radio stations include WNEW, New York; WIP, Philadelphia; WHK, Cleveland, and KMBC in Kansas City. It also owns Foster & Kleiser, the largest outdoor advertising company on the West Coast and the second largest in the country. Metro Broadcast Sales is the company's station representative division.

At all levels. At Metro, research plays an important role at all operational and corporate levels. Reach and frequency studies and program analyses are conducted on a regular basis and are supplemented by frequent specials. All planned acquisitions or property sales are carefully examined. "We'd do a thorough research job before we bought a flea circus," Kluge asserted. A $30,000 research project recently revealed that WRUL, the company's international broadcasting station, was something less than an ideal property for Metro, and it was promptly sold. The company also engages in basic research in areas such as materials handling.

Last year, WNEW-TV claimed some $100,000 of the total research budget and close to $200,000 was invested in outdoor advertising research for Foster & Kleiser. The rest of the budget was distributed among the other Metro stations, corporate projects, and also maintained the company's research staff of 13 men and women.

The head and guiding spirit of Metro's research operations is Mary L. McKenna, vice president and director of research and sales development. In this position she is responsible for planning, executing, and often personally presenting Metro's research projects. In addition, Mrs. McKenna trains the Metro sales force in the effective use of research data.

Mrs. McKenna's advertising career extends back to 1938 when she joined Young & Rubicam as a media secretary. A graduate of the Columbia University School of Business, she has served as head of the media research department and as broadcast media supervisor for Attractive and soft-spoken, Mrs. McKenna looks much more like a young Westport matron than a successful and highly regarded executive in one of the world's most competitive businesses. Yet in her gentle hands, research is often wielded as a bludgeon to win recognition and billings for Metromedia.

Research gets the client. For example, last December WNEW-TV was engaged in a dog-fight with another New York station for a $250,000 Bosco one-station campaign on children's programs. Both WNEW and the other station presented

New spot radio estimator published

- Katz Estimator ±6 based on NCS '61
- Designed to estimate radio campaign costs
- Tabulates minute-spot costs in top 150 markets

Radio rates appear to be holding the line. Indications of this are to be found in the all-new edition of the “Spot Radio Budget Estimator” (±6) prepared by The Katz Agency and released last week.

Designed to provide quick answers for advertisers planning a radio campaign, agency timebuyers and other media planners, the estimator tabulates the cost of 12 one-minute announcements per week for 13 weeks in 150 markets, in traffic, day and evening time classifications. It also adds a formula for estimating the cost of 12 or 24 announcements per week for schedules of one, six, 13, 39, and 52 weeks.

NCS '61 used. Because of one important change in the Estimator, however, exact comparisons between this edition, the sixth, and the previous five cannot be made, Daniel Denenholz, vice president and director of research for Katz, emphasizes. “This change is the use of data from NCS (Nielsen Coverage Service) '61 for the first time,” he notes. “Previous editions were based on NCS No. 2 (1956). The estimator was not designed for trend purposes, but as a working tool.”

Denenholz adds that budgets based on this estimator will be on the high side since the stations covered in each of the top 150 markets are those having the largest total daytime weekly circulation and tend to be the higher cost stations. “A timebuyer would not necessarily use all of the top stations for his schedule which could lower costs somewhat.”

Among the highlights of the new edition were:

- A minute announcement, based on 12 per week for 13 weeks, can be purchased in traffic time (rates covering, generally, the most time between 7 a.m. and 9 a.m. and between 1 p.m. and 6 p.m.) in the first 50 markets for $2,211.21; in the first 100 markets for $3,053.13, and in the first 150 markets for $3,509.14.

- A minute announcement, based on 12 per week for 13 weeks, in daytime (rates covering, generally, the most time between 9 a.m. and 11 p.m.) costs $1,847.84 in the first 50 markets; $2,533.13 in the first 100 markets, and $2,950.95 in the first 150 markets.

- A minute announcement, again based on 12 per week for 13 weeks, in the evening (rates covering, generally, the most time between 6 p.m. and 11 p.m.) is $1,320.46 in the first 50 markets; $1,880.10 in the first 100 markets, and $2,231.85 in the first 150 markets.

Rate equivalents. The spot radio estimating formula provided by Katz shows the one-time rate in traffic time to be equivalent to 120% of the daytime rate, while the evening rate is but 75% of the daytime rate. Using 12 announcements per week for one week, the rate for traffic time is 98% of the daytime one-time rate, according to the formula, and scales down to 84% for 12 announcements per week over a 52-week period.

Similarly, the daytime rate for 12 announcements per week ranges from 81% of the daytime one-time rate to 70% when 12 announcements per week are run over 52 weeks. The range for 12 announcements goes from 60% of the daytime one-time rate to 51% when a 52-week schedule is used.

With 24 announcements per week, the traffic time rate is 88% of the daytime one-time rate over one week while for 52 weeks, the formula shows it to be 75%.

The estimator is based on a special tabulation of stations prepared by A. C. Nielsen on special order by Katz. Using the list of the stations in each market with the largest daytime circulation, Katz compiled rates from the 1 November 1962 issue of SRDS Spot Radio Rates and Data. Rates are tabulated for the 150 markets, based on the use of one station in each market.

According to Katz Agency, "markets are ranked according to the station in each metropolitan area or home county with the largest total daytime weekly circulation. However, because of statistical limitations in the NCS data, it was not deemed advisable to show a precise ranking of markets. Accordingly, they are arranged in rank groups of ten, with individual markets listed alphabetically within each rank group."

Since the publication of NCS No. 2 in 1956, Denenholz reports, many changes have taken place prior to the preparation of NCS '61. These include new market rankings, new stations, changes in the power of the facilities, etc. These changes resulted in a number of different stations being used for the cost tabulations in the sixth edition.

One-time rates are also included in the estimator. A one-time daytime announcement in the top 50 markets would cost $2,401.00; in the top 100 markets $3,299.00, and in the first 150 markets $3,873.11, the estimator shows.

In arriving at discount, all plans, including run-of-station, were used where available, except in two situations; ro-s or "fixed but pre-emptible" plans were not applied to traffic time unless the conditions of the plans clearly held for this area, and special weekend plans were not used.

Rates for one time only in the daytime ranged from a high of $165 in New York to $6 in El Paso, Tex.

In traffic time, rates range from a high of $128.25 in Detroit to $5.60 in Abilene, Tex.

Hottest rumor of the week has it that Ed Papazian, Gray and Rogers (Philadelphia) media director, is getting ready to swap buying for selling. Reports persist that he has been tagged to man Katz's soon-to-be-unwrapped new tv sales shop in Philly. Word of caution: This Papazian is not to be confused with BBDO's same-name man who is still very much in action in the Gotham office of this agency.

If McCann-Erickson's (N.Y.) recent reconversion to the group plan had been contrived solely to throw unsuspecting reps into a state of utter confusion, they couldn't have been more successful. Reps report the account reshuffling has caused frustrating instances like subjecting avails to the wrong buyer, etc. So, as a public service to this league of befuddled brethren, we present here a dossier of what accounts now go with which buyers.

And in the you-never-can-tell-what-will-happen-next dept.: After handing in his resignation to his agency a couple of weeks back, Jason of Del-Wood (New York) exploded a happy bombshell by announcing that he had changed his mind and would stay on. All of which sounds like a nice, normal thing to do except in this instance, Jason stated these intentions at a farewell dinner (which set the company back something like $120) and after he had been presented with a gold desk set poignantly engraved “To Jason of Del-Wood from your friends and co-workers who love you very much.” But no one at Del-Wood seems to mind one little bit: his colleagues there all happily report they’re delighted he changed his mind.

In the mean time, back at OBM, the recent reorganization of its media department has resulted in a bit of account reshuffling and title changes. For example: Art Topal turned over his Tetley Tea leaves to Cliff Jahn and was named media supervisor on Bristol Myers, Lever Bros., and KLM; senior media research analyst Steve Salonites was made media supervisor on General Foods; and Frank Menner went from buyer on Shell Oil to media supervisor on that account.

America's first wheeled vehicle to move under its own power puffed slowly, with great shrieking sounds, to the river's edge and away it sailed. The versatile 15-ton Orukter, first steam-powered master of road and river, was air-conditioned but had no radio.

*Represented by Katz Agency
The advertising industry appears to have revised its opinion of the Kennedy Administration, moving from "a climate of fear to one of quiet confidence." The 5th Annual Mid-Winter Conference, co-sponsored by the Advertising Federation of America and the Advertising Assn. of the West, was told last week in Washington by Arthur C. Fatt, Grey Advertising chairman and Conference chairman.

Basing the remarks in his keynote address on a survey he took of 16 presidents of America's leading advertising agencies, Fatt also said he received a few negative comments about "frustrating delays in the Food and Drug Administration," "the method of FCC pronouncements in respect to their-guardianship of public taste," and "the viewpoint of the FTC that the FTC should have the power of injunction."

The FTC's position on the latter point was explained by FTC chairman Paul Rand Dixon. Temporary cease-and-desist orders, he said, speed up the process of war to ensure that no "imprincipled advertiser can delay justice long enough to make a killing."

Earlier, Dixon said, "...I think you can already see that the commission is moving strongly toward its original purpose of preventing law violations instead of riding on a white horse to make a futile example of an unfortunate few. We are quite aware that most violations of the law result from competitive pressures."

Speaking for the food industry, Paul S. Willis, Grocery Manufacturers of America president, claimed the industry has emerged as the "leadership industry"—preceding steel and autos—and said, "... advertising is one of the key factors in the industry's fabulous and steady growth. In fact, promotion and advertising are the lifeblood of this industry."

Willis (whose talk before the TVB last fall about more "cooperation" from the TV industry incited much impassioned protest) also told the AFA-AAW Conference, "Realistically, it makes good sense for government to recognize that advertising is a real force for business expansion, because government depends upon private enterprise to provide nearly all of our industrial development, employment, goods and services, and government revenue."

Fatt told the assemblage of 1,000 advertising executives and government officials that, in his opinion, government and advertising "can't afford the luxury of being antagonists." We have a massive job before us in this country of getting our economy moving upward, of increasing the gross national product, of creating more jobs.

"Our industrial economy," he continued, "based as it is on mass production, cannot be sustained without an economical method of mass selling, THAT is advertising. Simply that. This administration has shown its awareness of that fact. The advertising business has in turn shown ITS awareness of that understanding."

Of the 16 respondents, whose agencies handled an estimated $1,970,000,000 in U. S. advertising in 1962, 11 felt that the advertising industry's relations with government were much the same under the present administration as they had been during the Republican Eisenhower Administration.

Five of the 16 presidents thought government-advertising agency relations had worsened since the Kennedy Administration began, one of which added "but not significantly."

Among the hopeful signs spotted by the agency heads were:
1) The President's defense of Douglas Aircraft's right to advertise Skybolt.
2) Commerce Secretary Hodges' expression on the need for advertising and its importance to the growth of our economy.
3) The President's 14 December speech before the Economic Club.
4) The fact that the Kennedy advisors whose names were most disturbing to the advertising industry do not seem to be in influential positions.

Higher education sought for communicators

The communications industry can no longer "fly by the seat of its pants" in recruiting new leadership, Jacob A. Evans, vice president of TVB's central division, told the St. Paul Advertising Club in a speech prepared for delivery there today (11 February).

Noting that the communications industry—tv, radio, newspapers, magazines—historically has trained its own professionals, Evans asked, "Can we continue to do it? Is our profession less mature than, say, automobile mechanics, where trade schools train people before they enter the trade?"

"Is communications a less important profession?" he went on, "Are we to continue to 'fly by the seat of our pants' in recruiting and training people who will be our communicators in a society so much more complex than today's?"

The responsibility must be shared by colleges and universities, Evans
$1.5 million campaign set for canned soft drinks

The steel industry will launch a $1.5 million consumer promotion this summer to advance the use of tinplate for soft drink cans. Television will receive between 40 and 50% of the budget, with the remainder shared by newspapers and outdoor billboards. The campaign will concentrate in the top 40 soft drink selling areas, beginning 20 May and ending 20 August.

A total of 52 ten-second spots will be broadcast in each market. Four spots per week will be aired in each market on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday evenings in prime time. Comedian Milt Kamin will demonstrate the advantages of canned carbonated beverages in the television commercials. In-store merchandising will feature a 10-foot display with three large cans rotating to create attention in the center of a mass display of canned soft drinks. It will appear in 7,000 supermarkets.

Ten tinplate producers are sponsoring the campaign, to be conducted through the American Iron and Steel Institute. The participating companies are Bethlehem Steel, Granite City Steel, Inland Steel, Jones & Laughlin Steel, Republic Steel, U. S. Steel, Wheeling Steel, and Youngstown Sheet & Tube. Agency is BBDO, Pittsburgh.

PM launches new filters new "humiflex" package

Philip Morris, Inc., last week introduced a new packaging concept into cigarette marketing with the debut of two new filter brands—Saratoga and Paxton—in four markets.

Both radio and television are being used extensively to introduce the two brands. Introductory markets for mentholated Paxton are Fresno and Tulsa. Saratoga is being introduced in Hartford and Sacramento.

'Tv and radio commercials for both products are emphasizing the new "Humiflex" package, which is made from oriented polystyrene, is seamless, and has a reclosable cap. Television commercials show the package submerged in water to dramatize its water-proof qualities. Copy also stresses the moisture, flavor, and aroma retention qualities of the package.

Commercials for both brands point out the advantages of a double filter. For Saratoga, copy says of the first filter that it "scrubs the flavor to make it clean," and "it smooths the taste"; the second filter "makes Saratoga extra mild." For Paxton, the first filter is described as a humidifier that "freshens the flavor with every puff"; filter No. 2 makes Paxton "extra mild."

Agency is Benton & Bowles.

Advertisers

Philip Morris is providing the first financial breakthrough for WNDT, the new educational tv station in New York.

A special service grant, effective today, 11 February, is for underwriting the costs of "The World at 13," televised live every night at 10 p.m.

Dr. Samuel B. Gould, president of Educational Broadcasting Corp., which owns the station, made an on-the-air plea for financial assistance.

There are still four days to go until entry deadline (15) for the American TV Commercials Festival.

And this special incentive is being offered to local advertisers, their agencies, individual tv stations and production companies: all entrants of local or single market commercials will be eligible to book, without charge, the reel or reels of entries in that category after the Festival has taken place in New York on 21 May.

On price discrimination: The FTC has issued its final order requiring Borden to stop discriminating in price in selling any of its food products. Adopting a proposed order issued last 28 November, the commission disallowed the objections to it filed by Borden.

Agencies

A subject of immediate concern to agency people who travel and entertain will be clarified at the 20 February meeting of the 4A's Central Region in Chicago.

John P. Lindgren, of Arthur Anderson & Co., Chicago accounting firm, will interpret for the Chicago 4A Council substantiation requirements of 1962 Internal Revenue Act regarding travel and entertainment expense.

There will be time for questions from the floor.

FCC was guilty of an oversight in its recent complaint against Sterling Drug and Dancer-Fitzgerald-Sample for advertising based on a comparative study of Bayer Aspirin and four competitors.

Commission forgot to mention Thompson-Koch, New York, the other Sterling agency which participated in the preparation and placement of the challenged advertising.

It isn’t often that the head of an ad agency does some public finger pointing on the subject of media departments but Daniel A. Whitney did just that before the February meeting of the Assn. of Publishers Representatives.

Lauding media representatives, Whitney said they rarely get the attention and cooperation due them by many media buyers. He blamed agency management attitudes as the cause of the problem, saying low wages paid media personnel often attract poorly equipped people to the media buying field. “These underpaid, relatively ineffective people do not understand their job in the fullest sense and cause media representatives a great deal of useless effort and anguish.”

For after-hours scholars, a course in the broadcast commercial, featuring lectures by industry leaders, will be conducted by Boston University’s division of continuing education, beginning February 20.

Under the instruction of William H. McIntosh of Kenyon & Eckhardt, the 12-meeting weekly course will seek to explain the strength and limitations of radio and tv advertising and provide practical experience in writing broadcast commercials.

Course sessions will be held on Wednesday, from 7-9 p.m.

Purex specials to probe ministry, gambling, and the Kremlin

Purex Corp. will tackle three highly controversial subjects—gambling, the Kremlin, and the ministry—in a new series of special programs last week on NBC TV. The Purex sponsorship was one of many signed by the network in the past month, a period in which some $12 million in business was recorded.

Winner of many awards for such programs as Purex Specials for Women and The World of Bob Hope (and others), the advertiser will schedule a total of 15 specials on NBC TV in 1963 from April through September. All in the time period 10 to 11 p.m. NBC White Paper: Business of Gambling leads off 28 April, followed by Moscow: Kremlin on 24 May and The Quiet Revolution, “an objective picture of a significant trend among America’s clergymen: their increasingly active role in tackling social problems, from civil rights to juvenile delinquency,” set for 27 June. All are new programs.

Through the summer, Purex will feature 12 repeats including eight from The World of series. Will Rogers, Mark Twain and The Real West will complete the schedule.

Purex, which sold $72 million in grocery products or three-fifths of total sales last year, currently spends 10.42% of sales on advertising, promotion, and salesmanship, with the concentration on network tv programming. Purex president Alan C. Stone- man recently summed up advertising philosophy in a report to Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner Smith, this way: “Just to have exposure is not enough. Our approach to advertising is the influence and depth of impression our programs make.”

Among other new buys at NBC TV which produced the $12-million month were: Ford Motor, Liggett Myers Tobacco, and Leh & Fink for Monday Movies; L & M and Polaroid for Art Linkletter; Timex for a December 1963 repeat of Mr. Magoo’s Christmas Carol; Colgate-Palmolive on House of Hope, and Procter & Gamble for Truth or Consequences.

Don Coyle, president of ABC International Television, coined the word “Worldvision” to describe the powerful force of international tv in advertising today.

Speaking before the International Advertising Assn., Coyle pointed to these facts while predicting “worldvision’s” more dominant role in the future:

• After World War II, only J. Walter Thompson and McCann-Erickson were operating overseas. Today over 50 major U.S. agencies are active.

• In 1949, advertisers invested $57 million in tv; last year, it rocketed to more than $1.6 billion.

• Last year, free world stations, exempting the U.S. and Canada, increased from 1,211 stations to 1,666 stations. The USIA reports a world set count increase of some 11 mil-
Omaha inquiry to have wide effect

The FCC inquiry into local live programing by Omaha's three television stations was concluded after seven full days of testimony Tuesday with presiding Commissioner E. William Henry indicating similar inquiries may well be held in other cities.

Beginning 28 January, Commissioner Henry and three FCC attorneys took testimony and interrogated some 125 public witnesses as well as executives of stations WOW-TV, KATT, and KETV.

At the conclusion of the inquiry, Commissioner Henry characterized the information obtained as "desirable and useful" and said other hearings in other cities "might be helpful." The Omaha inquiry, he said, "should effect the entire industry." Henry predicted that as a result of the Omaha inquiry "the whole area of local live programing will come under careful scrutiny" by the Commission.

Commissioner Henry declined to specify any conclusions he personally may have come to as a result of the Omaha inquiry, indicating he would want to study the record of the inquiry in detail before doing so. But he promised there would be conclusions reached, saying, "we will have wasted the stations' time and our own time if we do not draw conclusions."

Such a statement of conclusions, he thought, might be forthcoming in "two or three months." And if the Commission, itself, is not able to agree on such a statement, Henry indicated he would probably offer his own personal conclusions.

Commissioner Henry described the Omaha inquiry as "more fruitful" than the Chicago hearings. The latter, he noted, were based on complaints to the FCC about Chicago programing. The Omaha inquiry, he reiterated, did not result from complaints and "thus could cover broader areas" of programing.

Commissioner Henry also expressed his belief that as a result of the way the inquiry was conducted, citizens were "reassured to a great extent that we did not come here to dictate programing." Several of the public witnesses, however, did question the need for such an inquiry in Omaha and the Commission's motives in conducting the inquiry. Prior to the inquiry, vigorous protest had been voiced by NAB president LeRoy Collins, Nebraska Governor Morrison, the state legislature, and other groups. Commissioner Henry indicated he felt that Governor Morrison, for one had come to feel the inquiry was of some value.

A chief bone of contention during the inquiry was the different manner in which the Commission and local broadcasters interpret "local live" programing. Frank P. Fogarty vice president and general manager of WOW-TV, challenged at the outset the Commission interpretation which calls for at least 50% live talent participation in local live programing. Henry conceded that the Commission's interpretation of such programing would probably come under review as a result of the Omaha inquiry—but again declined to say what revisions, if any, he thought might be anticipated.

FCC attorneys also questioned public witnesses as well as station executives closely about the weight of programs in support of community projects as opposed to spot announcements. Fogarty cited the behavior of advertisers in this regard in defense of spot announcements. "Commercial advertisers," he said, "increasingly are buying participation rather than sponsoring programs. The man who spends his money for television time usually has a good sense of value, as well as machinery for..."
measuring results. If announcements are valuable commercially, they are useful also in the field of public affairs."

Earlier, a public witness, retired advertising executive Adam Reinemund, attributed business gains in Omaha in recent years to the advent of television as an advertising medium. He also commented on the question of "prime time," contending that it is not always in the evening hours. In his own case, he said, when allocating funds from an advertising budget, he frequently planned for three or four commercials in the evening "when the sponsor can see them." But the bulk of his advertising money he said would be concentrated during the daytime hours "for best attention." Reinemund cited statistics, in this regard, indicating that "85% of the wage-earner dollar is spent by women."

Reinemund concluded "that we appreciate our present television programing in Omaha is indicated by the response we make to business men who sell their wares on to democratic rights.

3 New York stations reply to Liberal Party charges

Charges have been filed to the FCC by the Liberal Party of New York State against three New York City radio stations, alleging that they refused to sell time to the party.

The political group sought to buy a 15-minute block from WMCA, WNYC, and WQXR to be scheduled once every two weeks. When unable to obtain the time party executive director Ben Davidson filed the complaint, citing that the stations' "refusal to sell time" constituted "censorship" and a danger to democratic rights.

One station, WMCA, is known to be considering a libel action against the party. Station president R. Peter Straus last week called the charges "irresponsible and illiberal" and asked the FCC to "give this complaint prompt consideration and a hearing at the earliest possible date." He said the time period requested was unavailable because public service programing was regularly scheduled at that hour. Straus also commented that the stations reserve the right to determine what programing should be aired and that the party presented no information as to the contents of the proposed program.

Elliot Sanger, vice president and general manager WQXR, stated that "it has always been the policy of WQXR to sell time to political candidates only prior to an election."

George Dietrich, WNBC station manager, commented that "during political campaigns WNBC sells time for presentations by or on behalf of political candidates. When political campaigns are not being conducted, the station follows NBC's long-established policy that programs on news and public issues are produced by NBC News or under its direct supervision."

Transcontinental Television reports '62 income up

An increase in net income of 22% over the preceding year was reported by Transcontinental Television Corp. for the year ended 31 December 1962.

The report indicated that part of the gain might be attributable to the acquisition of three stations, WNEP-TV, Scranton-Wilkes-Barre, and WIKSI (AM & FM), Cleveland, all purchased during the year.

The 22% hike brought 1962 net income to $1,620,583 from $1,331,179 in 1961. Total revenues during 1962 amounted to $15,644,254, an increase of $180,000 over 1961 revenues.

Earnings per share of common stock in 1962 were 92 cents on the 1,765,012 shares outstanding at year end, compared with 75 cents per share, based on 1,770,772 shares.

Tv presentation released on Jacksonville market

"Five Wonderful Years in Color" is the title of a new presentation prepared by WFGA-TV, Jacksonville, Fla. The book covers the growth in Jacksonville, the metropolitan market, WFGA-TV television market, public affairs, news, weather, sports, Cape Canaveral, awards, entertainment and facilities. The metro population gained 9.8% in the last ten years, retail sales rose 148%, and net effective buying income grew 219%, the presentation reports.

Radio Stations
WLW, Cincinnati, has swung over to the talk format in weekday evening programing.

The revamping called for a two and three-quarter hour live and taped broadcast consisting of a dozen or more short, pungent "talk" features on a broad variety of subjects by people in government, education, and entertainment, with an interspersing of music. Wrap-up title is "An Evening at Crosley Square," 8:15-11 p.m.

Prompted by the New York newspaper blackout, one-time radio performer and now realtor Helen McGregor, turned to WMCA to advertise both high-priced town houses and professional buildings.

This somewhat unorthodox use of a medium usually used to promote large volumes of low cost items has proved highly successful, according to Miss McGregor. She intends to continue with the "Barry Gray" show even when the newspaper strike ends, she says.

Schedule was placed via Edward Weiss.

In order to learn of upcoming events at the new session of Illinois' State Legislature, and to get the thinking of key members on vital issues, WIND, Chicago, again hosted a dinner for 30 important State Senators and Representatives.

"The primary purpose of these annual dinners," according to Edward Wallis, general manager, "is a continued maintenance of our direct relationship with the legislators, with whom we share the common goal of interpreting and communicating the problems, objectives, and activities of state government to the people."

Both the interest by radio stations and the success of its initial efforts has encouraged the Pennsylvania Assn. of Broadcasters to plan further efforts at state-wide coverage of important events.

Cleveland fund drive sets record
The Cleveland Press Charity's annual Mid-America Boat Show, despite the absence of newspapers, set new attendance records, thanks to radio and television support. Richard P. Overmyer, associate director of The Welfare Federation, said "the unforeseeable lack of newspaper promotion would have made the exhibition a difficult one to stage without the cooperation of broadcast media." Attendance this year was 115,600, topping last year's record of 104,210. WJW-TV's "Dale Young Time," the only show broadcast live from the exhibition, was hailed by Overmyer. Above, center, Overmyer presents a citation to Robert S. Buchanan, WJW-TV general manager (right), with Dale Young (left), following the successful charity drive. Overmyer also noted the fund was "deeply indebted to the radio and television industry."

Questionnaires have gone out to stations in the U. S. and Canada from the Country Music Assn.
CMA will use the survey to help promote country music. The group will also mail about 5,000 radio kits containing sales and promotion aides.

Tv Stations

No personnel changes are anticipated in the management of WREX-TV, Rockford, following sale of the station for $3,120,000 to Gannett Co.

Seller Greater Rockford Television has operated the station since it first went on the air in October 1953.

Gannett already owns WHEC (AM & TV), Rochester, WINR (AM & TV), Binghamton, and WDAN, Danville.

The transaction, subject to FCC approval, was negotiated by Philip L. Kelser & Associates, financial counsel of New York.

Los Angeles will have two ethnic uhf stations when the all-Negro format KHX (ch. 22) makes its debut there the latter part of March.

The other is all-Spanish KMEX-TV, which has been operating in L.A. for the past several months.

Owners of the new station are H. C. "Cal" Young, Jr., and Jerome Glaser of Central Broadcasting Co., whose purchase of the facilities from John Poole Broadcasting was approved recently by the FCC.

They also operate country-western stations WENO, Nashville, WYAM, Birmingham, and WGSU, Augusta.

Young and Glaser, by the way, expect to file for three more uhf stations in major markets in the near future. The owners of KMEX-TV, Spanish International TV Network, also have another all-Spanish uhf operating in San Antonio, and have filed for a third in Paterson, N. J.

Kaiser Industries also are going for a total of five major-market uhfs, three already having been granted.

Pay tv makes its debut in the Denver market this spring over KTVR, headed by J. Elroy McCaw, who also owns KTVW-TV in Seattle-Tacoma.

Initial programing will consist of 2½ hours of pay tv seven nights a week, to be expanded contingent on new subscribers.

William Daniels, head of Daniels & Associates of Denver, will head up a new corporation to operate the station and will become chief executive officer and part owner.

McCaw was the former owner of WINS, New York, which he sold for $10 million.

WBBM-TV, Chicago, has undertaken a new dimension in broadcasting believed to be the first of its kind.

Special project involves a direct, two-way communications research endeavor, along with a specially produced film and videotape presentation on Chicago's transportation facilities. Viewer participation was conducted via ballots distributed publicly as well as appearing in newspapers, and requiring entrants to watch the program called "The Strangling City." Ballots will be analyzed by the University of Chicago School of Business, and reports made to the city and transportation department.

Sponsoring both the program and the research is the First Federal Savings and Loan Assn. of Chicago.

as am when general radio buys are made, WFMJ, Chicago, has appointed the George P. Hollingbery Co. as its national sales representative.

WFMJ, which has billed itself as Chicago's fine arts station since its founding in 1951, makes the third classical music station in the top seven markets repped by Hollingbery.

The station will continue its policy of limiting commercials to an average of three minutes per hour, as well as broadcasting nothing but live commercials, under national representation.

WCLK, Cleveland, has published a fm dial card for the market, with the 15 Cleveland fm stations indicated by call letters.

The harlequin trademark of WCLK locates the station's 95.5 position.

On the reverse side the station has prepared a chart showing optimum stereo speaker placement in rooms of various sizes, and best locations for stereo listening in those rooms.

An old, familiar name returned to Florida the first of February, with the change in call letters of WCKR (FM), Miami.

The station went back to its original letters of WTOD, used from 1926-1956.

WCKR (AM) also plans a return to the original call letters, but not until 1 April.

The QXN Network's first national affiliate meeting held in New York recently brought together 28 of the year old network's 43 station affiliates.

The two-day meeting was devoted to sessions on research, promotion, sales, and formation of an affiliates' Advisory Board to develop rate structures, programing, and technical standards for the network.

A second meeting planned for 30 March, just ahead of the NAB convention in April, will cover technical stereo standards and a report on the network's expanded programing plans.

Latest station to expand to full-time stereo broadcasting is WKJF, Pittsburgh.

The move comes after one year of part time stereo operation.

PEOPLE ON THE MOVE: James Kerney Kuser to general manager of WFOX, Trenton.

Transaction includes the entire news film library throughout the world, which contains more than 10 million feet of film and covers every news event of the past 36 years.

New name of the company is Wolper Newsfilm Library.

Ray-Eye Productions has moved its tv commercial and film producing studio from Kansas City to Chicago (Evanston).
The Cellar hearings on concentration of ownership of news media will begin on 13 March with FCC chairman Newton Minow who will be the first witness.

Rather than these two facts, the long-delayed hearings remain just about as much of a mystery as ever. Rep. Emanuel Cellar (D., N. Y.), chairman both of the House Judiciary Committee and the antitrust subcommittee which is conducting the probe, would say only that subsequent hearing dates and witnesses will be announced at a later date.

It is expected, however, that there will be hearings for two or three weeks at least from the 13 March starting date.

Celler has made it clear that he will consider the effect on the public of the dwindling number of independent editorial voices, and also what effect radio-tv competition has had in causing them to become fewer.

The Minow appearance means that the hearings will at least start off with another question which has bothered Cellar since long before he came up with the idea for the current probe. That is the desirability of permitting newspapers to own broadcasting stations, especially in one newspaper-one station communities.

The FCC has warned stations that it has information some broadcasters serving substantially the same areas are offering combination rates to advertisers, and that it considers the practice illegal and contrary to the public interest.

FCC said there is in the practice the element of price fixing by independent parties who should be competing with each other, and although it concedes it doesn't enforce the antitrust laws, it says it has a duty to consider them in the course of its regulating.

Because advertisers should be assured benefits of free and open competition, and because broadcasters not parties to such agreements should be able to compete with individuals rather than combinations, the FCC concluded, stations engaging in the practice should stop it immediately.

Echoes of the Appeals Court decision holding that the FTC went too far in its order against the Palmolive "sandpaper" commercials were heard in General Motors and Libby-Owens-Ford battling against an FTC complaint against their "open window" commercials.

The court had held FTC should not outlaw all mockups, since the consumer buys the product and not the commercial, but only those which are actually false and misleading with respect to the character of the merchandise.

GM and LOF at FTC hearings here claimed there is no difference in film through plate glass and through an open window in this context. The consumer does get glass which doesn't distort.

GM warned that the hearing examiner's order against the commercials would also be found to ban use of all substitutions in photography. The Appeals Court in the "sandpaper" case had objected to such an all-inclusive order, though upholding the FTC on the single commercial because Palmolive was found not to be able to shave sandpaper.

This case along with the FTC's eventual final determination in the remanded Palmolive case may do much to outline the rules for use of props and mockups in place of the real thing. This will be more definitely true if the final FTC rulings are again taken to court, and if the courts give rulings which are more exact and easier to interpret.

A round-up of trade talk, trends and tips for admen

One of air media’s oldest oil accounts will be leaving the agency that has handled it for many years.

An old-line officer in the agency who controls the account is shopping around for a deal on it. He’s more interested in a stock arrangement than a share of the account’s commissions.

The NAB’s code authority made an unusual request of Y&R’s latest bra-girdle commercial for Sarong (International Latex).

The agency was asked to let the authority have a list of the 20 stations on which the commercials will be run for eight weeks to give the code official who okayed the blurbs a chance to test his judgment against the critical reactions, if any, of viewers.

After she’d been on the job for months, Y&R discovered that its traffic personnel included a daughter of Lever Bros. chairman W. H. Burkhardt.

Her name’s Diane and Y&R has the P&G account.

If it happens it would certainly be the first of its kind in that field: the head of a rep firm is reported as exploring the matter of going public.

The stock issue, obviously, would be an over-the-counter one.

Agency hands specializing in the commercial vineyards have a suggestion for those who will have the task of negotiating new contracts with the Screen Actors Guild and AFTRA this fall.

It’s this: instead of retaining a lawyer expert in union matters, they do a lot of homework in advance documenting the technicalities and economics of the business of commercial usage and thereby establish a stronger position to counter illogical and spurious positions taken by the talent spokesmen.

The present SAG and AFTRA codes expire 15 November.

The passing years bring their own cluster of industry-minded individuals who tackle and articulate the problems of their business on a broad plane—most often through trade associations and kindred groups.

In advertising, such a list of “solid citizens” nowadays would have to include:

Bruce Curtis, of Leo Burnett, joins the Tricorn Club

Membership in the Tricorn Club stands for professional savvy about North Carolina's Golden Triangle Market. Bruce got tapped by correctly answering these two profound questions: (1) What is the Golden Triangle Market? (2) What is North Carolina's No. 1 metropolitan market in population, households and retail sales? In case you're pining to make this elite fraternity, the answer to both questions is the combined three-city "golden triangle": Winston-Salem, Greensboro, High Point. You'll pass if you also know North Carolina is our 12th state in population. So — what does knowing the No. 1 market in the No. 12 state add up to? A sure sales scoop for clients. schedules purporting to offer maximum coverage and top frequency of children in the New York market. Mrs. McKenna, however, went further and commissioned ARB to analyze the proposed schedules for reach, average frequency and frequency by quintiles. What emerged was a thick booklet filled with figures that showed WNEW had about one-third more child impressions per week, higher unduplicated coverage and better average and quintile frequency, as well as other favorable data.

The $250,000 Bosco billings went to WNEW-TV. Research cost: something less than $1,000.

Research also proved to be a potent weapon in another special project aimed at Chock Full o' Nuts spot billings. When asked to give serious consideration to WNEW-TV for its 1962 spot schedule, Chock replied that it would, but that WNEW was unlikely to be included because the company felt that while the station would add frequency it would concentrate on a minor fragment of the tv market.

Mrs. McKenna undertook a special study which, when completed, indicated that a schedule that included WNEW would give Chock 4%, more unduplicated houses with 29%, additional frequency in four weeks with a material improvement in cost-per-1,000 home impressions. The study also uncovered a variety of other factors operating to WNEW’s advantage.

As a result, Chock Full o’ Nuts was well represented on WNEW in 1962.

Data is basic. “I can’t recall that we have ever flunked out on a special research project,” Mrs. McKenna said with quiet satisfaction. “We know we have good media. All we need is a chance to prove it.”

It is Mrs. McKenna’s contention that 80%, of the media salesman’s argument rests on the research data he can provide. “The only way a medium can demonstrate its worth is by research,” she declared. “We can’t ask people to believe that we are honest. We have to show them proof.”

Mrs. McKenna believes in a straightforward approach to research. “We just present the facts as they emerge, whether they are favorable or unfavorable to our interests. We don’t believe in glossy, four-color brochures. We’d rather spend the money on more research.” We are constantly pressing for better measures of our product.”

She also is pressing for data to fill the research vacuum that exists in many parts of the country. “In places like Decatur and Peoria there just isn’t enough information available for us to work with. Even in Washington, D. C., research is dragging its feet with old and in-

Charles R. Denny has been named vice president and managing director, RCA International Division. He succeeds Douglas C. Lynch. An RCA vice president since 1958, Denny has served RCA and its wholly owned subsidiary, NBC, in various executive positions. Before joining NBC in 1917, he had been chairman of the FCC.

Joseph P. Costantino, promotion director of KTVU, San Francisco-Oakland, has been named general chairman for the 1963 Broadcasters Promotion Asso. Convention to be held in the Bay City 17-20 November. Over 400 radio-tv promotion managers are expected at the meeting, which is the BPA’s first on the Pacific Coast.

Dan Lindquist, tv commercial producer for Guild, Bascom & Boufigli for the past five years, has been named broadcast production manager of the agency’s Hollywood office. Prior to joining G&B in 1957, Lindquist was head of production at KCOP-TV, Hollywood. Previously, he was an art director and film director there.
efficent techniques. We are willing to spend $100,000 to get Arbitron in Washington, but we haven't been able to get it.

As far as Mrs. McKenna is concerned, there has never been a wasted research dollar spent at Metromedia. "Research always pays back more than it gets, both in sales and in improved programming." Mrs. McKenna asserted. "Every time we complete a research project, we have a better product to offer the advertisers."

"The key to our research philosophy here at Metromedia," Mrs. McKenna declared, "is that nothing is impossible to measure. We are willing and even eager to give everything a try."

Mrs. McKenna has earned a considerable reputation as a pioneer in media research. One project she was especially pleased with was in initiating quintile analyses for an independent TV station. "Most people thought that an independent station had high coverage of a small segment of the market, but quintile analysis showed that we could equal the best in prime net carriers. This was an earth-shaking revelation, and nobody wanted to believe it. But we had the Nielsen figures to prove it."

Mrs. McKenna has spearheaded a drive toward new and improved methods of counting outdoor reach and frequency and has proposed a technique which will enable measurement of outdoor audience composition for the first time. It was Mrs. McKenna who was one of the first to suggest to Pulse the study for measuring the real reach and frequency of radio audiences. She also has pioneered research on short-wave radio audiences.

"Mary McKenna is not locked up in an ivory tower," Kluge commented. "She and her department have created at Metromedia a firm belief in research as a powerful selling tool. People who have worked with her research have found that they can rely on it."

"Despite the fact she is a woman in a man's world, Mary has earned the respect of the entire media fraternity as one of the top research executives in the country."

Through the efforts of Mrs. McKenna's department, Kluge explained, Metro hopes to establish a "New York Times type of reputation for honest reporting. We realize we still have to earn that reputation," Kluge continued, "but we will spare no expense in money or patience to achieve it."

Kluge believes in research that will describe the values Metro has to offer to advertisers, but he is strongly opposed to research that attacks competitive media. "At Metro," he said, "we present the facts as they are, and let the chips fall where they may."

"Our credo here is, 'never let our promises exceed our performance.' Research enables us to live up to this credo."

Fred Frost (l), Mark Strook, and Robert Hussey have been elected vice presidents at Y&R. Frost joined Y&R in 1944 as a radio commercial writer and was most recently supervisor of TV films. Hussey has been manager of talent in the agency's Hollywood office and will now be associate director of programming. Strook joined the agency in 1962.

John M. Fouts, sales director of WHAS, Louisville, has been appointed manager of the Detroit office of Henry J. Christal Co., effective next month. A former director of the Sales Executive Club of Louisville, Fouts joined WHAS in 1950 and was promoted to sales director in 1952. He is a graduate of the University of North Carolina.

John R. Rockwell, marketing services director of Doherty, Cliffor, Steers & Shenfield, has been elected executive vice president. He also is a member of the board of directors, chairman of the marketing plans board, and supervisor on several accounts. Rockwell joined DCS&S in 1952, starting in the media department.

Ben Margolis has been elected a vice president of Television Advertising Representatives. He joined TVAR in 1961 as administrative assistant after serving with CBS since 1927. At TVAR, Margolis has made significant contributions "in the philosophy and practical application of rates and pricing for spot TV" and in administration.
Why it pays to advertise your station in a broadcast book

BECAUSE THE TIMEBUYER IS KING

There's nobody better qualified to advise you how and where to invest your national advertising dollars than your own national representative.

He'll tell you that the time-buying system really works. Which means that at any of the top 50 (or top 100) advertising agencies placing national spot business the recognized time-buyer, backed up by his supervisors, decides which stations get the nod. Sure, there are exceptions to the rule. Of course there are some account executives and ad managers that exert a heavy influence. But, by and large, the timebuyer is king.

Reaching the timebuyer, and the other men and women who strongly influence a spot buy, is a job for a specialist. That's why the several thousand time-buyers (by job title and job function) who buy national spot read the broadcast books. Moreover, they rely on them. They rely on one or two favorites almost to the exclusion of all others.

Buy broadcast books to give your national campaign impact where it will do the most good . . . at least cost.

that the Foundation would become associated with the group at a national level. The necessary legal arrangements were made through Sydney Kaye's law firm, and in the summer of 1961, the Broadcast Foundation, Inc., became a wholly owned subsidiary of Broadcast Pioneers.

The Foundation's fund is administered by a nine-man board, Quaal explained. This board, comprised of Broadcast Pioneers officers, is responsible for decisions concerning fund administration.

"Operated entirely on a business-like basis," Quaal points out, "the responsibility for accounting to members is in the hands of an auditing firm."

Thus far in the Foundation's short history, three individuals unable to help themselves have been aided by the fund, says Quaal. They include Clem McCarthy, who spent his last days in a west coast sanitarium with a prolonged illness; a station salesman in a major market; and the widow of a notable technical figure in television.

Fund's goal. The immediate goal is to achieve a reserve of $100,000. He feels that in the short lifetime of the fund effective headway has been made toward that goal. The Foundation's ultimate aim is to invest $75,000 as a working reserve. So far contributions have been encouraging, Quaal reports, and bases his enthusiasm on the fund's three year progress, as compared to the 40-year achievement of the Motion Picture Fund (established for the same purpose) which now totals $500,000.

The bulk of contributions to date have come from the "Mike Awards" dinners; the Hearst Foundation; H. B. Kaltenborn (founder of Broadcast Pioneers, who has contributed personally): Edward Petry & Co.; WSAU AM-TV, Wausau, Wis.; and from individual contributions, many in lesser amounts of around $25.

CHANGES IN SPOT URGED

tions and reps agree wholeheartedly, but they also point out that with today's vogue for shorter campaigns, a two-week guarantee would verge on converting preemptible spots into fixed-positions.

An appreciable number of spot campaigns now are planned in flights as short as two, three, and four weeks, and a blanket protection would appear likely to give the short-term buyer of p-e spots an unfair advantage.

Thus, when the rep or station is confronted with demands for a guarantee, the reply is certain to be that it's unworkable. And on another level, the policy-makers have a more basic objection: that the buyers, wittingly or not, are trying to distort the essential nature of spot television.

Audience levels. In this view, the 4A's are making two suggestions, each of which might separately have some merit but which combined are unacceptable. The coupling of uniform notice of preemption together with a guaranteed run adds up to a package of "stable time." When the semantics are stripped away, what's left is spot time sold on a fixed position at a fixed price—or, television, circa 1953.

"The preemptible spot," claim these proponents, is the only device that we've yet developed to bring flexibility into the price structure. It's needed, not for discounting and dealing (though it is widely used for this) but for the quick adjustment of costs to changing audience levels.

Is this a case of rarified thinking? Its advocates suggest, instead, that it's only common sense when seen in the perspective of tv development.

Their understanding is that tv selling grew up, more or less ad hoc, on the broad-time principles derived from network radio. There was a nighttime tv rate which, perhaps sub-consciously, was arrived at in the belief that shares-of-audience were reasonably stable. ("Measurement techniques," as one researcher wryly recalls, "were slightly intuitive...")

With the evolution of two networks, followed slightly later by a third, and the consequent turmoil of programing and counter-programing, viewing habits could no longer be taken for granted. Concurrently, the measurement techniques were both expanded and refined—completing the ingredients for a revolution in time sales.

Fortunately or unfortunately, the revolution hasn't arrived. The spot structure is still primarily based on the highest audience levels within a broad time period. The downward fluctuations within the base (and the troughs now tend to occur more frequently, more sharply, and with less advance notice) are—in the major markets where competition is toughest—often adjusted by means of the preemptible spot.

Simpler rate cards. "It's a left-handed way of doing things," says a rep, "but it's really the same as selling a magazine or newspaper insertion. Print rates are based on lowest, ROP schedule; if you want preferred position then you pay more. In tv, it's merely reversed; we take the highest rate as the norm, and make special arrangements for the less-desirable "positions"."

The preemptible spot is, of course, a complicated way of handling the problem. It makes the rate-card simpler, in theory, yet in practice it becomes one of the most time-consuming and irritating of the buyer's chores. That's why there is a good deal of sympathy among stations and reps for the purpose of the current agency recommendations. To achieve the desired effect, however, will (in the sellers' view) take more than just a modification of p-e terms.

"It's the nature of the beast," says Katz v.p. Daniel Denenholtz, "since advertisers and agencies seem obsessed with cpm and expect stations to adjust their rates to match competitive cpm figures. Considering the statically limitations of rating reports, all concerned: agencies, advertisers, and stations, in my opinion place too much emphasis on cpm variances from rating-report to rating-report.

"But the condition is with us, all of us, and it contributes enormously to the complications of todays rate structures. We can only cross our fingers and hope that, with the growing awareness of these problems on the part of all concerned, television rate structures won't become much more complicated."

the marriage of the unusually effective copy line and visual was a natural attention-getter in practically all media. Starch readership of print ads has been unusually high. Radio and television commercials can take credit in large measure also, for the high level of awareness. "Particularly, in television, it was most effective," Minor said. "As a visual, it certainly went over big."

The first appearance of the new theme in national media came on 19 January (62) on the Bell Telephone Hour with a C&W one-minute color tv commercial.

The color spot won many plaudits from editors, film festival judges and, yes, rival advertising agencies. At the American Film Festival it was singled out as one of the finest commercials of the year. It was entered by Farkas Films, production house, in the Venice Film Festival and Eastman Kodak used it in its ad series on "Film Does the Unusual."

Praise from rival agencies. Agency executives were more than ever convinced that they had a hit on their hands when they learned Foote, Cone and Belding used the "Walking Fingers" commercial in a Creative Seminar as an example of excellent creative conception, writing and production.

Additional honors will be heaped on C&W staffers when the commercial finds its way into the pages of "Modern Advertising" to be published shortly by McGraw-Hill. The author, Prof. H. W. Hepner of Syracuse University describes it as an "outstanding commercial worthy of study by students of advertising."

And it is common knowledge in the communications sphere that when performers start making parodies and basing sketches on an advertising theme, you've arrived, so to speak. This happy lot befell the creators of the "Walking Fingers" theme last spring when Garry Moore collected a sparkling Japane take-off on the Yellow Pages and the "Walking Fingers" theme.

Where the "Walking Fingers" theme will end, no one can predict, but one thing appears certain. The "Walking Fingers" undertaking has generated an astounding degree of awareness, all agree, and this year will see it grow even greater in its impact on consumers. Moreover, it is agreed among many informed observers, that the favorable reception accorded the "Walking Fingers" by the consumers of the land, will have a profound effect upon management leaders who play a major role in the advertising, marketing and/or sales decisions of firms whose products or services are sold nationally or regionally.

The philosophy as enunciated by both C&W and its client, Yellow Pages, is that Yellow Pages was now firmly established as a directory medium and looked upon with high esteem by advertisers, especially on the local level. A tremendous breakthrough, however, occurred two years ago when Yellow Pages presented itself as an inviting marketing/advertising tool for national advertisers. For the first time in its history, display advertising in all or part of more than 4,000 directories could be bought with one contract through one contact point and from one central location and one monthly bill.

Broad circulation basis. Briefly, the purchase of directories in two or more telephone company areas under a single contract was called National Yellow Pages Services and could henceforth be looked upon as an important national advertising medium in that it provided a directional and selling service on a broad circulation basis.

As proponents of NYPS see it, the medium has unique characteristics—attributes which do indeed distinguish it from other media. This is the way they see it: 1) It provides national advertising with a penetration down to the level of individual dealer, his address and phone number; 2) it extends the benefits of display and product advertising at dealer level; 3) it generates for advertiser/users its own merchandising in two areas; first, through the advertising and promotion of Yellow Pages by the telephone companies, and secondly, through the Yellow Pages references by national/regional/local advertisers in their own advertising and promotion copy; 4) NYPS is also a selling medium; 5) NYPS also has point-of-sale effectiveness and 6) because of the referral characteristic of the directory medium, is not competitive with other media... and actually complements other national and local media.

Salesmen for the Yellow Pages, including the Reuben H. Donnel cy Corp., which is the authorized directory advertising sales representative of the New York Telephone Company and several other telephone companies, do not sell space in competition with other national media.

NYPS salesmen, moreover, will shortly have additional information on the effectiveness of their medium, according to C&W staffers.

"The Bell System is planning to undertake a major national study to determine how the consumer uses the Yellow Pages," Minor told SPONSOR. "The survey will seek to determine frequency of usage by Yellow Pages headings and by the standard media demographic breakdowns. This will provide us with Yellow Page usage information on a national and regional scale that will be helpful to the national and regional advertisers."

Last year, the effectiveness of the "Walking Fingers" theme on television was demonstrated by the spot schedules bought by the local operating companies.

The evidence now in seems to indicate that the "Walking Fingers" campaign is indeed off to a galloping start and that in this year's advertising plans, broadcast media, notably television will play a dominant role. One fact is certainly ineluctable: the "Walking Fingers" theme has apparently become entrenched in the public's consciousness.
A peek at radio's future

What year is this? (a) 1965? (b) 1975? (c) 2000?

Radio stations... have each found their 'niche' and are no longer fighting among themselves. Management finally discovered the value of unified efforts. They've also learned to become an active member of the client's local sales staff. The fact that radio is able to deliver exactly what clients want has played an important role in the current success of the medium. It seems impossible to believe that only a short time ago, radio billings accounted for a mere $500,000,000 a year! Who would ever believe that in 1962 national advertisers, all combined, spent only about $1.00 per working set per year?

Listeners... continue to purchase new radios at the rate of 20,000,000 a year. Radio came back to the living rooms as a result of fm stereo, described as "swimming sound." Children have discovered wonderful programs which can be enjoyed while playing at the same time. Music, news, and sports continue to lead in popularity—but programs with imagination-appeal are gaining rapidly. Entertainment programs on radio delight millions and millions weekly—especially the comedy shows. Remotes have captured the imagination once again as listeners drop off to sleep to the live music of the big bands from famous places. All night "sleep teaching" courses are one of radio's major contributions to adult higher education.

Radio set manufacturers... are constantly amazed at the demand for radios. Why, they're selling at the rate of two per second of the normal business day—that's 64,800 a day! $88,800 a week! 1,684,800 a month! Over $20,000,000 a year! What a business!

Rating services... once used merely to measure the estimated radio audience, are now reporting many more valuable statistics, like:

(1) Interviews with local advertisers.
(2) Characteristic differences in audiences by station.
(3) Results per dollar invested in radio by product movement-studies.

Agencies... are recommending radio as a primary medium to all clients who want to sell more goods at lower cost. They have discovered a method of handling radio budgets at their normal 15%...and make a fair profit. They enjoy working with radio people and have found them extremely cooperative and well grounded on how best to sell the client's product to 'their' listeners. Some advertising agencies are specializing in radio exclusively.

The radio timebuyer is respected highly. Other agency staffers still wondering how this happened—years ago the buyer was an extension on the calculator, now he's a key executive! They also wonder how a radio buyer can possibly know so much about so many stations (the answer, of course—he has been learning for years, but very few recognized his true value).

General advertisers... are getting better results since exposure took a back seat to on-target salesmanship. The whole thing started when the bellwethers were caught in a profit squeeze and demanded that wasted coverage be eliminated. Research taught them exactly what their prospects were (women buy soap—why pay so dearly for male circulation)? Radio was the one medium with the necessary flexibility and it was able to produce programs for special prospect-filled audiences. Among the outstanding examples are: Dr. Spool's Baby Care (Johnson & Johnson, Clapp's Baby Foods), Secretaries Daily Guide (Royal Typewriter, The Wyrig Line, steno bks.), Mechanics Helper (Craftsman Tools, Lava Soap), AMA Journal of the Air (Pfizer Chemical, Bayer Aspirin).

Product salesmen... have welcomed radio as a fellow member of the sales staff. They now have the answer to "What have you done for me lately?" Radio is local, just as their prospects are. They've found that every prospect they have is a radio listener, and here's radio driving home the old sales message as a reminder. Salesmen on-the-road fully appreciated the following of the local Radio announcers. They recommend a product and in pour the orders.

Radio reps... are no longer in business—they've all earned (and I do mean earned the hard way) so much money they're now enjoying a life of luxury.

What year is this? How the hell do I know—sure hope it's soon! You know what, though? Everything mentioned on this page is sure to come, it's just a matter of selling the greatest product-mover around... radio!
Color tv spots will play a prominent role in the expenditure of $1 million coast-to-coast by Earl Scheib, Inc., of Los Angeles, operator of auto paint shops in 42 markets.

Scheib, through its Los Angeles agency, Stahl, Lewis & Patton, is seeking out spots in color movie programs and is shooting all the spots in color, many of them in the cities where the firm has outlets.

Spot radio will come in for a 10% share of the total budget.

Stahl, Lewis & Patton, incidentally, is also preparing color tv spots for another L.A. client, Vic Tanny Gym and Health Clubs.

Although spot tv buying has hit a snag in the Chicago area—a condition considered normal for this time of the year—action has not come to a complete halt. Routine buys are being made by a number of top advertisers. For example: Wrigley (Meyerhoff) is adding a few additional markets; Mogen David (Weiss) is buying; P&G’s Head & Shoulders (T-L) is continuing its market-by-market push, recently entering the Midwest.

Food Manufacturers, Inc., is buying nighttime minutes slotted in adult audience time periods for a six-week campaign for its Uncle Ben’s Rice. Starting date for the campaign: 21 February. Ted Bates is the agency. The buyer: Jim LaMarca.

Lever Bros. is readying a 35-week campaign to woo the women’s audience for its Handy Andy. Schedules call for early and late evening minutes. Starting date for the campaign is 3 March. J. Walter Thompson is the account’s agency. Herb Mosowitz is doing the buying.

Significant news, trends, buys in national spot tv and radio
What happened when Davidson met Goliath?

Even come what did, a lot of WSOC-TV viewers went to bed warm and satisfied.

It happened this way:

Tiny Davidson (N.C.) College, a thousand students thereabouts, and a love of nearby Charlotte, had knocked off nationally ranked big Duke U. Next on schedule, giant No. 1 Cincinnati in Ohio. And the faithful dreamed.

Alas, the vision did not come true. Davidson lost. But the fans won, for in a special telecast direct from the Bearcat fieldhouse, WSOC-TV had brought the game to thousands of Carolina supporters.

Good public service programing in every area of public interest is a forte of Charlotte's WSOC-TV. Wins fans for the station—and its advertisers, too.
