PROGRAM GUIDE

AM 820 • WNYC-TV • FM 93.9

JANUARY 1996

Laura Walker
President

January 1996

To My Fellow WNYC Members:

As WNYC begins a new year, I want to introduce myself as the new President and Chief Executive Officer of the WNYC Foundation, which has agreed to buy WNYC AM820 and FM93.9 from the City of New York. I am honored to be the first Foundation-appointed President and am enthusiastic about leading the stations into a new era of independence. Although I've spent the last decade at Children's Television Workshop and in the business world, I am in many ways a creature of public radio. I grew up listening to public radio, I had my first professional job as a producer at NPR, and I've been a longtime member of WNYC.

We face a historic opportunity at this time. Independence allows us--in fact challenges us--to dream about what these stations and this institution can be. I believe WNYC AM and FM can be nothing less than the best radio stations in New York and the flagship public radio stations in the country.

To achieve these goals, we will need to establish an even greater level of understanding and trust with you, our members, especially since we are asking you to help us fund the $20 million purchase price for these stations.

Some of my goals are:

- to better understand WNYC listeners' views about the stations
- to produce and broadcast the highest quality music, news, and public affairs programming that combine substance and entertainment-programming that will be an important part of your daily lives and will keep you tuning in to the stations
- to plan for WNYC's Independence Campaign, raising the full purchase price for the stations.

Laura Walker

Independence will matter only if it guarantees programming excellence and economic viability. In my eight years at Children's Television Workshop, I learned to combine business opportunity with creative inspiration to achieve results that were both greatly entertaining and financially sustainable. Now, as I return to my first love, public radio, I want to foster such results at WNYC.

I'd like to know your thoughts about WNYC's future and about the stations. (Please send correspondence to One Centre Street or electronically respond at laura\_walker@wnyc.pbs.org). We're counting on you to continue to support us as we work to make two great radio stations, WNYC AM and FM, even greater.

Sincerely,

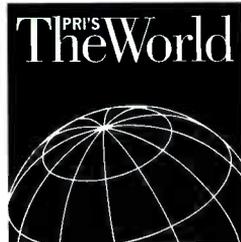

Laura Walker
 President and Chief Executive Officer
 WNYC Foundation

The World Premieres

Premiering on January 1 is The World, a one-hour daily news program that presents the voices, ideas, and concerns of people from various countries. Not just another news program, The World connects the American audience to people in other nations regarding critical global issues, as well as reports on native sports, the arts, and popular culture. Utilizing a team of international producers, editors, and correspondents, this program is a coproduction of WGBH in Boston, the BBC World Service, and Public Radio International.

The World, AM820, Mondays-Fridays, 6pm.

Transformation

Black Radio: Telling It Like It Was, hosted by Lou Rawls, is the untold story of radio's role in the transformation of the African-American community in the 20th century. Through interviews, historical airchecks, comedy, drama, and music, the series reveals the remarkable correlation between milestones of black-oriented radio programming and African-American culture. Listeners hear powerful stories from veteran broadcasters, as well as explore the role of radio from the great migration of Southern blacks to the state of black radio today.

Black Radio, AM820, Sundays, Noon, repeats Tuesdays, 12:30am

A Decade of The Radio Stage

The Radio Stage celebrates its tenth anniversary this year. In the decade since its inception, The Radio Stage has presented more than 25 original works for radio by a wide range of contemporary playwrights whose diverse and passionate voices represent the complex inner and outer landscapes of our time. According to Sarah Montague, producer for the series, "Radio, the theater of the air, is a medium, both infinite and intimate, bringing the furthest reaches of a writer's imagination to the ear of a single listener. Radio plays transform time and space, break down barriers between waking and dreaming, and create new languages unifying sound and text."

January 7 & 8 Romance Concerto, by Daniel Therriault. A concert violinist is haunted by the memory of lost love. Featuring Lesley Lyles and David Strathairn, directed by critically acclaimed independent film director Sergio Castilla; in cooperation with New Dramatists.

January 14 & 15 The Table of Liquid Measure, by Ana Maria Simo. The hate killing of a gay/lesbian couple is the basis for this powerful dream play by a Cuban-American writer. Directed by Karen Frillmann; in cooperation with New Dramatists.

Liana Muccio

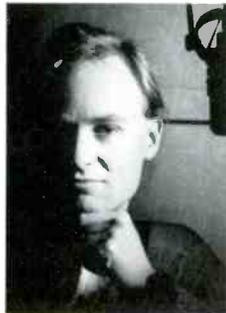

Adam LeFevre and Renee Joshua Porter rehearse Ana Maria Simo's The Table of Liquid Measure

January 21 & 22 The Sound of Fear Clapping, by Charles Borkhuis. Film noir meets classic radio in this existential caper play. Featuring Laura Esterman and Bill Raymond, directed by Juanita Rockwell; in cooperation with Company One Theatre, Hartford.

January 28 & 29 The Rehearsal, by J. Rufus Caleb. Jimi Hendrix and Little Richard trade music, barbs, and visions on a rainy night in Georgia. Featuring Jerome Preson Bates and Michael David Gordon. Directed by John Pietrowski; in cooperation with Playwrights Theatre of New Jersey.

The Radio Stage, AM820, Sundays, 12:30pm, and FM93.9, Mondays, 8 pm

Schaefer's Sounds

John Schaefer, Director of Music Programming, is the producer and host of New Sounds and creator of Around New York. "I've spent virtually my entire adult life doing New Sounds at WNYC", says John Schaefer (left) who, in 1982, started the program at age 22. Billboard magazine calls New Sounds, "The #1 radio show for the Global Village." After thousands of hours listening to CD's, cassettes, and tapes, he's developed an instinct for discovering music that goes beyond the mainstream. He has written numerous magazine articles, CD booklets, and liner notes, and two books. He lives in Brooklyn with his two daughters, 5-year-old Saratoga and 6-month-old Isabella, and his wife Ellen Shea. Schaefer's passion for horse racing is a poorly-kept secret, and when he's not in the studio or at home, he can often be found at the racetrack. Occasionally, of course, he finds his way to the concert halls; see New Sounds Live, below.

Monteverdi's Orfeo by ARTEK, Gwendolyn Toth, director

From NPR's "Performance Today" October 27, 1995

"The acoustics of this recording grab you from the start. But it is the dramatic expression here that holds you right through the end. ... the ensemble work, the instrumental playing, and certainly that vivid sense of living theater, put this Orfeo right at the top of the heap!"

Barrymore Lawrence Shearer

From Billboard, September, 1995

"A luminous account of this magical opera in its first American recording. Toth's fine period-instrument ensemble lets the music dance and breathe, yet her expansive, almost Romantic conception of the piece sacrifices no emotional detail."

Doesn't your collection deserve the best Orfeo?

EastEnders Fans, Albert Square takes on a new residence!

The long-running soap, a staple of WNYC's schedule for the past eight years, has found a new home on WLIW, Channel 21 in Long Island. Beginning in January, with no interruption in the storyline, EastEnders will continue to be available to most of its New York viewers. Consult your cable guide for more information, or call WLIW at (516) 367-2100. Wednesdays, 10pm, begins January 3

While space allows us to list only donors of $1,000 or more, we extend deep gratitude to all those who support the WNYC Foundation.
