Weather Forecasting →

TWICE A DAY at exactly the same times throughout the country—8:00 a.m. and 8:00 p.m. E.D.T.—hydrogen-filled weather balloons like the one in this photograph are released from twenty-five scattered stations. Each balloon carries expendable radio equipment which transmits temperature, humidity and pressure readings as it rises. Balloons are seldom recovered but there is a reward of $2.50 for each one found and returned. The readings help the weather man to make the forecasts which are a regular public-service feature of radio stations across Canada.

CBC Weather Reports Have Huge Audience

It's early morning and the CBC announcer is just beginning to read the weather forecast. "Rising temperatures . . . increased humidity . . . clear skies." You unbutton one eye and glance out the window. If you're a candy manufacturer, you glower because your chocolate shipments will have to be delayed; and if you're an ice-cream salesman, you smile in quiet anticipation.

But if it's pouring cats and dogs and has cooled down by noon, don't blame the announcer—all he does is read the telegraphed message from the nearest Dominion Public Weather Office.

If you are determined to take it out on someone, you may be impelled to write a scorching letter to your radio station or weather bureau. Even then, however, your letter is likely to be offset by others in a very different vein—from farmers, manufacturers and lumbermen who have been saved time or money by the weather man's warning of coming atmospheric changes.

Four times a day the teletype wires of the Dominion Public Weather Offices send up-to-the-minute forecasts to CBC stations and newspaper offices across the country.

The first reports—from about four hundred observation stations all over Canada—arrive at the meteorological offices shortly after midnight. They are sent in by farmers, teachers, fishermen, housewives and others retained as weather observers.

Immediately, plotters begin the job of writing each report in "met" shorthand on special weather maps. Each entry is written in (Turn to page 8)

I.S. Librarian Pays First Visit To West

The Fourth Annual Conference of the Canadian Library Association held in Winnipeg June 20-25 brought Mme. Juliette Dupont, librarian of the CBC International Service in Montreal to the west for her first visit. A member of the association and of the council of the Quebec Librarians Association, Mme. Dupont attended the conference as the Quebec Association's delegate to the special committee on public relations.

In addition to this being her first trip to Winnipeg it turned out to be a first experience in another line—trying her hand or rather her thumb at hitch-hiking. Arrangements had been made for her to broadcast a report on the conference for the French network's news roundup but a short while before broadcast time found Mme. Dupont at the University of Manitoba in Fort Garry, a good seven miles from the CBC studios with no bus in sight. That's when she and another delegate tried the thumb method which brought them into town in time for her to go over the script and do the broadcast.

Mme. Dupont's experience as a radio speaker dates back to the war years when she was lecturer and co-ordinator in Quebec for the Consumer Branch of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. She gave many talks on the air in connection with her work. A librarian by profession, she is a graduate of McGill University, joining the CBC when the International Service was being organized.

GILBERT AND SULLIVAN

Trial by Jury will conclude the thirteen-week series of Gilbert and Sullivan operas by the CBC Light Opera Group directed by Geoffrey

Waddington. The cast includes Jean Haig as the plaintiff; William Morton as the defendant; Edmund Hockridge as the judge; Gordon Wry as the counsel for the plaintiff; Eric Tredwell as the usher; and Ernest Berry as foreman of the jury. Trial by Jury is the story of an hilarious breach of promise suit. It is historically important for three reasons—it is the only Gilbert and Sullivan opera in one act, the only one without dialogue, and it marked the first successful collaboration of Sir Arthur Sullivan and Sir William Gilbert. Rupert D'Oyly Carte suggested that the two men work together as a musical team and they managed to write all the words and music and to complete the rehearsals for the premiere in three weeks. The opera was a tremendous success when it opened in March, 1875, and on the strength of its popularity D'Oyly Carte formed his famous Comic Opera Company. Since Trial by Jury is a short opera—it lasts only forty minutes—there will be time for a glance back at some of the series' highlights. Geoffrey Waddington and the group will present some of the most popular Savoy Opera overtures. Ernest Morgan, producer. From Toronto.

The Prairie Gardener

Summary of Broadcast of July 17, 1949.

Late Summer Activities in the Garden

1. It is time for the last "weed round-up" in the garden area. Every weed prevented from going to seed means fewer weeds in the garden next year and less work controlling them.

2. The last summer cultivation should be completed in the next ten days. During August cutworm moths lay their eggs in weedy, rough ground. Clean cultivation that leaves the ground level and firm during August will reduce likelihood of cutworm infestation next season. There should be no cultivation done during August.

3. Reduction in watering is in order for late summer. By mid-July the making of new growth which requires plenty of water is over or almost over for most plants. Reduction in watering will encourage flowers and fruit and the maturing of the crop. Fruit trees and shrubs especially should have less water in late summer so that they will ripen their wood and form good strong buds for next year. There are some exceptions in this program. Dahlias and gladioli for instance require additional watering in quantity for another month as they don't mature until late August or early September.

4. In dry districts, or in any district to conserve moisture in the soil, plants such as dahlias and gladioli should be mulched now. If necessary water well before mulching. Fine rotted manure or short chaffy straw makes a good mulch.

5. Late July is the time for planting iris, dividing old clumps and setting out divisions. Prune out any rot in the rhizomes and dust cuts with powdered sulphur.

6. Plant peonies between September 10 and 15.

7. Keep flower borders tidy and plants productive by removing old flowers and bloomed out stems.

8. Make up bouquets for table decoration and as gifts to friends and neighbours, including the sick. Practise flower arrangement in preparation for the local horticultural show.

9. Plan entries for the local Horticultural Show.

10. Visit other gardens to exchange ideas and gather suggestions for the improvement of next year's gardening operations.

CBC Wednesday Night OUR COUNTRY WOMEN

Women of Italy, Iceland and South Africa, all of whom have visited North America, will speak in the next three broadcasts of this series. Each will talk about the lives and accomplishments of rural women in her own country. Today, Mrs. Luisa Astaldi, well-known Italian author, will tell Canadians about life in the farming communities of Italy, where some strange customs dating back to the Middle Ages still exist. Mrs. Astaldi edits an international cultural magazine called Ulisse. She visited North America in 1923 as Italian delegate to the University Women's Congress in Chicago. Alla Johnson of Iceland will speak on August 3; and Bettie Van Deventer of South Africa on August 10.

3:48 p.m.; 3:48 p.m.; 2:48 p.m.

MUSIC FROM EUROPE

Recorded program of works of four contemporary European composers—William van Otterloo of the Netherlands, Othmar Schoek of Switzerland, Dag Wirén of Sweden and Karl Orff of Germany. Introduction and Allegro (van Otterloo), performed by the Radio Philharmonic Orchestra of Hilversum, Holland, directed by the

Heard On BBC News

JAMES URQUIHART, staff announcer with the BBC's Overseas Service, is heard frequently in Canada reading the BBC News which is broadcast daily on the CBC Trans-Canada network (CBW 11:00 a.m.; CBK 10:00 a.m.; CBX 9:00 a.m.).

composer — both compositions were written in 1937 and show the composer's unusual ability for instrumentation; Peregrina for baritone and orchestra (Schoek), performed by the Berne City Orchestra conducted by Felix Loeffel with Kurt Rothenbuehler as soloist; Serenade for String Orchestra (Wirén), performed by the Swedish Radio Chamber Orchestra directed by Lars-Erik Larsson, who is himself a well-known composer as well as a conductor; Carmina Burana (Poems of Burana) by Orff, performed by the Northwest German Symphony Orchestra. Carmina Burana is scored for choir, solo voice and orchestra. It is based on a Latin text after an old script from a Bavarian monastery. From Montreal.

7:00 p.m. 10:00 p.m. 9:00 p.m.

LIFE HISTORY OF A DELUSION

Of all the complexes that afflict the human mind, the persecution complex is one of the commonest, and the study of its development can be fascinating and revealing for the layman as well as for the expert. In this broadcast, a BBC production, Nesta Pain and Kenneth Alexander trace the course of a persecution complex from a fantasy in childhood to a fixed idea in manhood. At the end of the program, Professor Alexander Kennedy, who lectures in psychological medicine at Durham University in England, comments on this type of mental disorder.

8:00 p.m.; 9:00 p.m.; 8:00 p.m.

POETS LOOK AT CANADA

Earle Birney of Vancouver will talk about and read examples of Canadian poetry dealing with our people at work. Dr. Birney points out that Canadian poets have been more inclined to write about the mouse or the daisy than about the plumber or the lumberjack. However, he has found enough poetry about Canadians at work to justify devoting a period to that theme. He will read and discuss excerpts from poems describing such occupations as hunting and corn-husking (Pauline Johnson), ploughing (Paul Hebert) and ship-building (Dorothy Livesay). From Vancouver. 9:15 p.m.; 8:15 p.m.; 7:15 p.m.

DISTINGUISHED ARTISTS

Elizabeth Benson Guy, soprano. Three Mozart arias, including the Et Incarnatus Est from the C Minor Mass; three songs by the Canadian composer, Oscar Morawetz; and Hugo Wolf's settings of two poems by the 19th century German writer, Gottfried Keller—Wie glanzet der helle Mond and Das Koehlerweib ist trunken. A native of Bridgewater, Nova Scotia, Miss Guy began voice training at the age of twelve. Her first teacher was her mother, also a concert singer, and she later studied with Dr. Ernesto Vinci. Miss Guy has to her credit many stage and radio operatic performances, as well as concerts and recitals on both national and international CBC broadcasts. A member of the CBC Opera Company, she sang leads in recent CBC Wednesday Night productions of La Traviata and Don Giovanni. From Toronto.

9:30 p.m.; 8:30 p.m.; 7:30 p.m.

BERTRAND RUSSELL

In the second in his series of six talks on the general theme Authority and the Individual, Bertrand Russell will discuss Social Cohesion and Government. In his first talk last week, he discussed social cohesion and the impulses in human nature that make it possible. Tonight, Lord Russell deals with the development of different forms of government in historical times.

10:00 p.m.; 7:30 p.m.; 6:30 p.m.

OPPORTUNITY WINNER

Coloratura soprano Marthe Letourneau, winner of the CBC talent show, Opportunity Knocks; baritone Roland Legault and Les Quatre, runners-up; with an instrumental trio headed by Jack Bristowe. Marthe Letourneau: Quel rescelletto (Paradisi); Una voce poco fa (Rossini); Gavotte, from Manon (Massenet). Roland Legault: Peg o' My Heart; It's Magic. Les Quatre: Begin the Beguine; Alouette. Marie-Therese Lenoir is its founder, director and one of its members, and is responsible for the arrangements; and the other members are Mimi Catudal, Marielle Lefebvre and Raymond Cardin. Roland Legault, first appeared publicly in the Canadian Army Show and since the war he has been singing in Montreal night clubs. Frank Heron, producer. From Montreal.

Dom. 9:30 p.m.

New Music By Modern European Composers

CBC Wednesday Night To Present Works By Contemporary Composers Of Four Countries

Through CBC International Service shortwave broadcasts and recordings, and as a result of expeditions by our musicians, audiences in Europe have recently heard many examples of the work of Canadian composers.

This Wednesday Night, July 27th, by co-operation with the International Service, the signals are to be reversed—the works of contemporary European composers of four different nationalities are to be heard by Canadian listeners in an hour-long recorded concert (CBW 7:00 p.m., CBK 10:00 p.m., CBX 9:00 p.m.).

The composers represented in the program are William van Otterloo of the Netherlands, Othmar Schoeck of Switzerland, Dag Wiren of Sweden and Karl Orff of Germany.

One of Holland's most prominent younger conductors and composers, van Otterloo was born in 1907 and first made a name for himself when he received a prize from the Amsterdam Concertgebouw for an orchestral suite. He is the regular conductor of the Hilversum orchestra and directed it for the recording of his own music which is to be heard on the program. Othmar Schoeck has the reputation of being one of the last European composers in the tradition of Schumann and Hugo Wolf. He has written many a goddess and is part of the Aztec mythology. Today in Mexico it is told about a woman called La Llarona who is supposed to have been executed a few hundred years ago and still walks the streets looking for her children. And, according to the tale, anyone who talks to her will die. From Montreal.

10:00 p.m.; 9:00 p.m.; 8:00 p.m.

songs and operas, as well as chamber and choral music.

Dag Wiren is one of Sweden's best-known contemporary composers. He was born in 1905 and studied at the Conservatory of Stockholm from 1926 to 1931. Since 1938 he has been music critic for one of Sweden's leading newspapers.

Karl Orff, who was born in Munich in 1895, has been engaged for the last twelve years in creating a new musical style, one that is mainly concerned with rhythm and gives the drums great prominence. He has composed much music for the modern theatre in Germany.

All the recordings to be heard in this program were supplied to the CBC by the national radio organizations of the countries concerned. The CBC International Service has been in close touch with these organizations for some time through its shortwave broadcasts to Europe, many of which have been relayed to national audiences in Sweden, Germany, Switzerland and the Netherlands.

GEORGE HARCOURT KENT, CBC announcer stationed in Winnipeg, is a native of that city whose radio work has been mainly with western stations except for a period during the war.

his first actual radio job in 1941 when he won an announcer audition conducted by a Winnipeg band leader. It consisted of writing and announcing the band's nightly dance broadcasts from the Winnipeg Civic Auditorium for a local station. That led to a job as staff announcer in Yorkton where he gained experience doing sportscasts and play-by-play descriptions of hockey games.

George enlisted in the R.C.A.F. in 1942, serving in Gander, Newfoundland, where he was instrumental in the organization and establishment of the R.C.A.F. radio station VORG, a station which served the Canadian Army, the R.C.A.F. and the U.S. Army Air Forces there. He later became assistant to the officer-in-charge.

Following his discharge in 1945, George joined CKY and his assignments included CBC newscasts and several other network broadcasts. From there he went to another Winnipeg station in 1946, and then to Brandon, two moves which gave him further experience in sports broadcasts, interviews and on-the-spot reports along with other types of programs.

George joined the CBC in October, 1948, and partially realized a long ambition when he broadcast a play-by-play report of the sixth and seventh games of the 1948-49 Memorial Cup Final between the Brandon Wheat Kings and the Montreal Royals. He now has his own daily sports broadcast on CBW in which he reports on current sports events and interviews celebrities. His main ambition now is television sportscasting. Outside of sports, George's interests run to radio, movies and music—he's a devotee of jazz. He enjoys poetry and does a fair amount of reading.

Mass Listening

An eight-year program has been launched to extend the use of radio throughout India. When the program of expansion is completed, broadcasting stations in India will serve 10 times their former areas. The number of villages served will be 80,000 compared with 5,000 at the present time.

But there are not enough radio receiving sets to bring programs directly into the average home in India. That is why the government provides receiving sets and loud speakers. This equipment is set up in the centre of the village. Hundreds of people can then listen to a single set. In four provinces alone this community listening plan has brought radio within the reach of sixteen million people who would otherwise not be able to listen.

And this means more than you might think to India's national life. For the Indians use their radio to present special programs on health and to discuss the economic problems which come very close to the lives of the people.—From the Saturday program, UNESCO World Review.

and this one is used in farm broadcasts and noontime newscasts. Another at tea-time is for the convenience of people planning their evening's activities; and the late night report helps householders set their furnaces correctly in winter—and decide whether to bring in the lawn hammock for the night in the summer.

One of the most important weather bulletins issued from the CBC's Halifax studios is the marine forecast, broadcast three or four times daily. While it is used by large ships off the Atlantic coast, it is of greatest value to fishing vessels and smaller craft which must seek shelter in case of storms.

Because of the peculiar situation of the Maritimes—almost completely surrounded by water and close to the Gulf Stream and to Labrador—the weather varies greatly from point to point, even in a small area. That is why forecasts are prepared and broadcast for ten marine and thirteen inland regions.

CBC listeners in Quebec hear forecasts issued at Dorval Airport and Ontario's bulletins are prepared by the meteorological offices at Malton Airport, near Toronto. The Prairie Provinces rely on weather bureaus in Winnipeg and Edmonton.

In British Columbia, the emphasis is on weather news for foresters and fruit growers. A five-minute marine bulletin is included in the daily farm broadcast.

Dr. T. G. How of Toronto, head of the Dominion Public Weather Forecast Service, has an unusual problem. He is constantly receiving letters from town councils and other bodies asking for mention of a certain community's name in the CBC's weather forecasts. Dr. How says the CBC weather reports have a huge audience and publicity-conscious communities want other centres to know they are on the map!

The Battle of Prestonpans.—A man in Westminster County Court announced that he had been wounded at the battle of Prestonpans and wanted something done about it. Well, since the battle of Prestonpans took place in the year 1745, this might be considered a little odd . . . But the battle wasn't the 1745 one, it was the 1948 one—from the film Bonnie Prince Charlie. The man with the grievance was an extra, and he had his ankle pierced with a sword during the shooting of the film.—Geoffrey Cox, on BBC.

Weather Forecasting →

TWICE A DAY at exactly the same times throughout the country—8:00 a.m. and 8:00 p.m. E.D.T.—hydrogen-filled weather balloons like the one in this photograph are released from twenty-five scattered stations. Each balloon carries expendable radio equipment which transmits temperature, humidity and pressure readings as it rises. Balloons are seldom recovered but there is a reward of $2.50 for each one found and returned. The readings help the weather man to make the forecasts which are a regular public-service feature of radio stations across Canada.

CBC Weather Reports Have Huge Audience

It's early morning and the CBC announcer is just beginning to read the weather forecast. "Rising temperatures . . . increased humidity . . . clear skies." You unbutton one eye and glance out the window. If you're a candy manufacturer, you glower because your chocolate shipments will have to be delayed; and if you're an ice-cream salesman, you smile in quiet anticipation.

But if it's pouring cats and dogs and has cooled down by noon, don't blame the announcer—all he does is read the telegraphed message from the nearest Dominion Public Weather Office.

If you are determined to take it out on someone, you may be impelled to write a scorching letter to your radio station or weather bureau. Even then, however, your letter is likely to be offset by others in a very different vein—from farmers, manufacturers and lumbermen who have been saved time or money by the weather man's warning of coming atmospheric changes.

Four times a day the teletype wires of the Dominion Public Weather Offices send up-to-the-minute forecasts to CBC stations and newspaper offices across the country.

The first reports—from about four hundred observation stations all over Canada—arrive at the meteorological offices shortly after midnight. They are sent in by farmers, teachers, fishermen, housewives and others retained as weather observers.

Immediately, plotters begin the job of writing each report in "met" shorthand on special weather maps. Each entry is written in (Turn to page 8)

I.S. Librarian Pays First Visit To West

The Fourth Annual Conference of the Canadian Library Association held in Winnipeg June 20-25 brought Mme. Juliette Dupont, librarian of the CBC International Service in Montreal to the west for her first visit. A member of the association and of the council of the Quebec Librarians Association, Mme. Dupont attended the conference as the Quebec Association's delegate to the special committee on public relations.

In addition to this being her first trip to Winnipeg it turned out to be a first experience in another line—trying her hand or rather her thumb at hitch-hiking. Arrangements had been made for her to broadcast a report on the conference for the French network's news roundup but a short while before broadcast time found Mme. Dupont at the University of Manitoba in Fort Garry, a good seven miles from the CBC studios with no bus in sight. That's when she and another delegate tried the thumb method which brought them into town in time for her to go over the script and do the broadcast.

Mme. Dupont's experience as a radio speaker dates back to the war years when she was lecturer and co-ordinator in Quebec for the Consumer Branch of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. She gave many talks on the air in connection with her work. A librarian by profession, she is a graduate of McGill University, joining the CBC when the International Service was being organized.

GILBERT AND SULLIVAN

Trial by Jury will conclude the thirteen-week series of Gilbert and Sullivan operas by the CBC Light Opera Group directed by Geoffrey

Waddington. The cast includes Jean Haig as the plaintiff; William Morton as the defendant; Edmund Hockridge as the judge; Gordon Wry as the counsel for the plaintiff; Eric Tredwell as the usher; and Ernest Berry as foreman of the jury. Trial by Jury is the story of an hilarious breach of promise suit. It is historically important for three reasons—it is the only Gilbert and Sullivan opera in one act, the only one without dialogue, and it marked the first successful collaboration of Sir Arthur Sullivan and Sir William Gilbert. Rupert D'Oyly Carte suggested that the two men work together as a musical team and they managed to write all the words and music and to complete the rehearsals for the premiere in three weeks. The opera was a tremendous success when it opened in March, 1875, and on the strength of its popularity D'Oyly Carte formed his famous Comic Opera Company. Since Trial by Jury is a short opera—it lasts only forty minutes—there will be time for a glance back at some of the series' highlights. Geoffrey Waddington and the group will present some of the most popular Savoy Opera overtures. Ernest Morgan, producer. From Toronto.

The Prairie Gardener

Summary of Broadcast of July 17, 1949.

Late Summer Activities in the Garden

1. It is time for the last "weed round-up" in the garden area. Every weed prevented from going to seed means fewer weeds in the garden next year and less work controlling them.

2. The last summer cultivation should be completed in the next ten days. During August cutworm moths lay their eggs in weedy, rough ground. Clean cultivation that leaves the ground level and firm during August will reduce likelihood of cutworm infestation next season. There should be no cultivation done during August.

3. Reduction in watering is in order for late summer. By mid-July the making of new growth which requires plenty of water is over or almost over for most plants. Reduction in watering will encourage flowers and fruit and the maturing of the crop. Fruit trees and shrubs especially should have less water in late summer so that they will ripen their wood and form good strong buds for next year. There are some exceptions in this program. Dahlias and gladioli for instance require additional watering in quantity for another month as they don't mature until late August or early September.

4. In dry districts, or in any district to conserve moisture in the soil, plants such as dahlias and gladioli should be mulched now. If necessary water well before mulching. Fine rotted manure or short chaffy straw makes a good mulch.

5. Late July is the time for planting iris, dividing old clumps and setting out divisions. Prune out any rot in the rhizomes and dust cuts with powdered sulphur.

6. Plant peonies between September 10 and 15.

7. Keep flower borders tidy and plants productive by removing old flowers and bloomed out stems.

8. Make up bouquets for table decoration and as gifts to friends and neighbours, including the sick. Practise flower arrangement in preparation for the local horticultural show.

9. Plan entries for the local Horticultural Show.

10. Visit other gardens to exchange ideas and gather suggestions for the improvement of next year's gardening operations.

CBC Wednesday Night OUR COUNTRY WOMEN

Women of Italy, Iceland and South Africa, all of whom have visited North America, will speak in the next three broadcasts of this series. Each will talk about the lives and accomplishments of rural women in her own country. Today, Mrs. Luisa Astaldi, well-known Italian author, will tell Canadians about life in the farming communities of Italy, where some strange customs dating back to the Middle Ages still exist. Mrs. Astaldi edits an international cultural magazine called Ulisse. She visited North America in 1923 as Italian delegate to the University Women's Congress in Chicago. Alla Johnson of Iceland will speak on August 3; and Bettie Van Deventer of South Africa on August 10.

3:48 p.m.; 3:48 p.m.; 2:48 p.m.

MUSIC FROM EUROPE

Recorded program of works of four contemporary European composers—William van Otterloo of the Netherlands, Othmar Schoek of Switzerland, Dag Wirén of Sweden and Karl Orff of Germany. Introduction and Allegro (van Otterloo), performed by the Radio Philharmonic Orchestra of Hilversum, Holland, directed by the

Heard On BBC News

JAMES URQUIHART, staff announcer with the BBC's Overseas Service, is heard frequently in Canada reading the BBC News which is broadcast daily on the CBC Trans-Canada network (CBW 11:00 a.m.; CBK 10:00 a.m.; CBX 9:00 a.m.).

composer — both compositions were written in 1937 and show the composer's unusual ability for instrumentation; Peregrina for baritone and orchestra (Schoek), performed by the Berne City Orchestra conducted by Felix Loeffel with Kurt Rothenbuehler as soloist; Serenade for String Orchestra (Wirén), performed by the Swedish Radio Chamber Orchestra directed by Lars-Erik Larsson, who is himself a well-known composer as well as a conductor; Carmina Burana (Poems of Burana) by Orff, performed by the Northwest German Symphony Orchestra. Carmina Burana is scored for choir, solo voice and orchestra. It is based on a Latin text after an old script from a Bavarian monastery. From Montreal.

7:00 p.m. 10:00 p.m. 9:00 p.m.

LIFE HISTORY OF A DELUSION

Of all the complexes that afflict the human mind, the persecution complex is one of the commonest, and the study of its development can be fascinating and revealing for the layman as well as for the expert. In this broadcast, a BBC production, Nesta Pain and Kenneth Alexander trace the course of a persecution complex from a fantasy in childhood to a fixed idea in manhood. At the end of the program, Professor Alexander Kennedy, who lectures in psychological medicine at Durham University in England, comments on this type of mental disorder.

8:00 p.m.; 9:00 p.m.; 8:00 p.m.

POETS LOOK AT CANADA

Earle Birney of Vancouver will talk about and read examples of Canadian poetry dealing with our people at work. Dr. Birney points out that Canadian poets have been more inclined to write about the mouse or the daisy than about the plumber or the lumberjack. However, he has found enough poetry about Canadians at work to justify devoting a period to that theme. He will read and discuss excerpts from poems describing such occupations as hunting and corn-husking (Pauline Johnson), ploughing (Paul Hebert) and ship-building (Dorothy Livesay). From Vancouver. 9:15 p.m.; 8:15 p.m.; 7:15 p.m.

DISTINGUISHED ARTISTS

Elizabeth Benson Guy, soprano. Three Mozart arias, including the Et Incarnatus Est from the C Minor Mass; three songs by the Canadian composer, Oscar Morawetz; and Hugo Wolf's settings of two poems by the 19th century German writer, Gottfried Keller—Wie glaenzt der helle Mond and Das Koehlerweib ist trunken. A native of Bridgewater, Nova Scotia, Miss Guy began voice training at the age of twelve. Her first teacher was her mother, also a concert singer, and she later studied with Dr. Ernesto Vinci. Miss Guy has to her credit many stage and radio operatic performances, as well as concerts and recitals on both national and international CBC broadcasts. A member of the CBC Opera Company, she sang leads in recent CBC Wednesday Night productions of La Traviata and Don Giovanni. From Toronto.

9:30 p.m.; 8:30 p.m.; 7:30 p.m.

BERTRAND RUSSELL

In the second in his series of six talks on the general theme Authority and the Individual, Bertrand Russell will discuss Social Cohesion and Government. In his first talk last week, he discussed social cohesion and the impulses in human nature that make it possible. Tonight, Lord Russell deals with the development of different forms of government in historical times.

10:00 p.m.; 7:30 p.m.; 6:30 p.m.

New Music By Modern European Composers

CBC Wednesday Night To Present Works By Contemporary Composers Of Four Countries

Through CBC International Service shortwave broadcasts and recordings, and as a result of expeditions by our musicians, audiences in Europe have recently heard many examples of the work of Canadian composers.

This Wednesday Night, July 27th, by co-operation with the International Service, the signals are to be reversed—the works of contemporary European composers of four different nationalities are to be heard by Canadian listeners in an hour-long recorded concert (CBW 7:00 p.m., CBK 10:00 p.m., CBX 9:00 p.m.).

The composers represented in the program are William van Otterloo of the Netherlands, Othmar Schoeck of Switzerland, Dag Wiren of Sweden and Karl Orff of Germany.

One of Holland's most prominent younger conductors and composers, van Otterloo was born in 1907 and first made a name for himself when he received a prize from the Amsterdam Concertgebouw for an orchestral suite. He is the regular conductor of the Hilversum orchestra and directed it for the recording of his own music which is to be heard on the program. Othmar Schoeck has the reputation of being one of the last European composers in the tradition of Schumann and Hugo Wolf. He has written many a goddess and is part of the Aztec mythology. Today in Mexico it is told about a woman called La Llarona who is supposed to have been executed a few hundred years ago and still walks the streets looking for her children. And, according to the tale, anyone who talks to her will die. From Montreal.

10:00 p.m.; 9:00 p.m.; 8:00 p.m.

songs and operas, as well as chamber and choral music.

Dag Wiren is one of Sweden's best-known contemporary composers. He was born in 1905 and studied at the Conservatory of Stockholm from 1926 to 1931. Since 1938 he has been music critic for one of Sweden's leading newspapers.

Karl Orff, who was born in Munich in 1895, has been engaged for the last twelve years in creating a new musical style, one that is mainly concerned with rhythm and gives the drums great prominence. He has composed much music for the modern theatre in Germany.

All the recordings to be heard in this program were supplied to the CBC by the national radio organizations of the countries concerned. The CBC International Service has been in close touch with these organizations for some time through its shortwave broadcasts to Europe, many of which have been relayed to national audiences in Sweden, Germany, Switzerland and the Netherlands.

GEORGE HARCOURT KENT, CBC announcer stationed in Winnipeg, is a native of that city whose radio work has been mainly with western stations except for a period during the war.

George claims it took him quite a while to break into radio. After acting as a public address system announcer at various sporting events in Winnipeg for a long period he finally got Dance (French); Sailboat Polka (Polish); Gwylm's Delight (Welsh jig); Five Mile Chase (reel). Bert Whiteman: Sing, Smile and Slumber; Lassie O' Mine (Scottish); The Year of Jubilo. Bernard Deaville, producer; Norman McBain, announcer. From Winnipeg.

OUR SPECIAL SPEAKER

Ahmed Bokhari, a former director-general of All-India Radio and now a citizen and official of Pakistan, will be this week's special speaker. A summer visitor to Canada, he will describe the new state and explain some of the problems encountered in setting it up.

9:15 p.m.; 8:15 p.m.; 7:15 p.m.

VANCOUVER DRAMA

The next two dramas in this series are by Len Peterson. Tonight's The End of the Line, is the story of Seppe, a janitor in a police office who is more concerned about justice than about keeping the place clean. The second, on August 5, is about a career girl who falls in love with the son of her employer; it is called A Little Girl in a Fabulous Fable. Robert Allen, producer. From Vancouver.

MISCELLANY

his first actual radio job in 1941 when he won an announcer audition conducted by a Winnipeg band leader. It consisted of writing and announcing the band's nightly dance broadcasts from the Winnipeg Civic Auditorium for a local station. That led to a job as staff announcer in Yorkton where he gained experience doing sportscasts and play-by-play descriptions of hockey games.

George enlisted in the R.C.A.F. in 1942, serving in Gander, Newfoundland, where he was instrumental in the organization and establishment of the R.C.A.F. radio station VORG, a station which served the Canadian Army, the R.C.A.F. and the U.S. Army Air Forces there. He later became assistant to the officer-in-charge.

Following his discharge in 1945, George joined CKY and his assignments included CBC newscasts and several other network broadcasts. From there he went to another Winnipeg station in 1946, and then to Brandon, two moves which gave him further experience in sports broadcasts, interviews and on-the-spot reports along with other types of programs.

George joined the CBC in October, 1948, and partially realized a long ambition when he broadcast a play-by-play report of the sixth and seventh games of the 1948-49 Memorial Cup Final between the Brandon Wheat Kings and the Montreal Royals. He now has his own daily sports broadcast on CBW in which he reports on current sports events and interviews celebrities. His main ambition now is television sportscasting. Outside of sports, George's interests run to radio, movies and music—he's a devotee of jazz. He enjoys poetry and does a fair amount of reading.

Mass Listening

An eight-year program has been launched to extend the use of radio throughout India. When the program of expansion is completed, broadcasting stations in India will serve 10 times their former areas. The number of villages served will be 80,000 compared with 5,000 at the present time.

But there are not enough radio receiving sets to bring programs directly into the average home in India. That is why the government provides receiving sets and loud speakers. This equipment is set up in the centre of the village. Hundreds of people can then listen to a single set. In four provinces alone this community listening plan has brought radio within the reach of sixteen million people who would otherwise not be able to listen.

And this means more than you might think to India's national life. For the Indians use their radio to present special programs on health and to discuss the economic problems which come very close to the lives of the people.—From the Saturday program, UNESCO World Review.

and this one is used in farm broadcasts and noontime newscasts. Another at tea-time is for the convenience of people planning their evening's activities; and the late night report helps householders set their furnaces correctly in winter—and decide whether to bring in the lawn hammock for the night in the summer.

One of the most important weather bulletins issued from the CBC's Halifax studios is the marine forecast, broadcast three or four times daily. While it is used by large ships off the Atlantic coast, it is of greatest value to fishing vessels and smaller craft which must seek shelter in case of storms.

Because of the peculiar situation of the Maritimes—almost completely surrounded by water and close to the Gulf Stream and to Labrador—the weather varies greatly from point to point, even in a small area. That is why forecasts are prepared and broadcast for ten marine and thirteen inland regions.

CBC listeners in Quebec hear forecasts issued at Dorval Airport and Ontario's bulletins are prepared by the meteorological offices at Malton Airport, near Toronto. The Prairie Provinces rely on weather bureaus in Winnipeg and Edmonton.

In British Columbia, the emphasis is on weather news for foresters and fruit growers. A five-minute marine bulletin is included in the daily farm broadcast.

Dr. T. G. How of Toronto, head of the Dominion Public Weather Forecast Service, has an unusual problem. He is constantly receiving letters from town councils and other bodies asking for mention of a certain community's name in the CBC's weather forecasts. Dr. How says the CBC weather reports have a huge audience and publicity-conscious communities want other centres to know they are on the map!

The Battle of Prestonpans.—A man in Westminster County Court announced that he had been wounded at the battle of Prestonpans and wanted something done about it. Well, since the battle of Prestonpans took place in the year 1745, this might be considered a little odd . . . But the battle wasn't the 1745 one, it was the 1948 one—from the film Bonnie Prince Charlie. The man with the grievance was an extra, and he had his ankle pierced with a sword during the shooting of the film.—Geoffrey Cox, on BBC.
