IN London, Ontario, there is a group of 35 music-minded girls—none of them long out of collegiate—who have been making a name for themselves throughout eastern Canada by personal appearances, and right across the country via the CBC Dominion network. They are the Earle Terry Singers, named for their director who is music chief for the London Board of Education, and they broadcast from the CFPL studios every Tuesday (including this New Year's day) at 7:30 p.m. MST. They've been together three years and in the last year alone have had two network series and concert appearances throughout southern Ontario and the Maritimes. On top of that they can claim to be the only Canadian choir to have sung on U.S. television (NBCX, Cleveland) and they were also engaged to appear with the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra at the Y.M.C.A. centennial celebrations last summer. The girls sing together because they want to and Mr. Terry's purpose in forming the choir was to offer further opportunities to graduates of secondary schools in London. When they started out, the stress was on classical music; now their repertoire is varied, including folk songs, religious songs, as well as novelty numbers.

Burton Keirstead

BURTON KEIRSTEAD, one of the most frequently heard commentators on CBC's Week-end Review on Sunday nights, is a professor of economics at McGill University, a member of the Royal Society of Canada and the author of outstanding books on economics. But he refers proudly to the fact that he started his writing career with the publication in England of three short stories and two detective novels. That was in the summer of 1933 when he made a return trip to marry an English girl he had met some two or three years earlier when they were both undergraduates at Oxford, Mr. Keirstead a Rhodes scholar from Canada.

Since 1933 all his writings have been in the field of economics. Besides two books, Essentials of Price Theory, a theoretical treatise which is now being used as a textbook, and The Period of Economic Change he has contributed to several international symposia and extensively to international journals and to the superstitions of the village and leads the way to the general festivities which take place there. But at the same time Fiddle Joe does not neglect his job as unofficial historian; in describing the New Year's celebration, he also records the latest antics of Hormidas Grenier (mayor-postmaster-tavern keeper-general store owner) and the mischief that the veteran politico gets into. From Montreal.

Jake and The Kid. Last Sunday Jake and The Kid thought they had heard the last of the squabble over whether or not George Solway looked like Malleable Brown's roan goat. But the whole affair springs up worse than ever this week—it even gets into court where George declares his reputation has been injured to the tune of $1,500. The courtroom is crowded on the day of the trial, and many brilliant testimonies are turned up, including a mute but impressive one by the goat himself, who settled the case in a most unusual way. Little Symphonies. Orchestra conducted by Roland Leduc. From Montreal.

Petite Symphonie (Guy Ropartz).

This is the first performance of this work in North America. Born in Guincamp in 1864, Ropartz began studying for the bar but soon decided that music was his vocation. At the Conservatoire in Paris, his first teachers were Dubois and Massenet, but he found his real master upon entering the class of Cesar Franck. His compositions include several stage works, the most important being an opera Le Pays and the incidental music for Pierre Loti's Pecheur d'Islande, as well as four symphonies, several chamber works and some 40 songs. In his active years, he was director first of the Nancy Conservatory and then the Strasbourg Conservatory. He is now living in retirement.

W-6:30 p.m. K-6:30 p.m. X-6:30 p.m.

Stage 52. Willie the Squowse, Ted Allan's gay and richly ironical fantasy. It will be a repeat of the same play that was heard on New Year's Eve last year—about a winsome character called Willie, half mouse and half squirrel, who lives in the wall separating two houses. His effect on those living in the two houses is surprising—even if you heard last year's production. Peter McDonald, producer. From Toronto.

W-8:00 p.m. K-7:00 p.m. X-7:00 p.m.

Year-End Review. J. B. McGeachy will present a 20-minute review of the year's developments and a forecast of things to come in 1952. From Toronto.

Canadian Journal of Economics and Political Science, which he helps to edit.

Born in Woodstock, New Brunswick, he moved to Fredericton with his family when he was an infant and received all his schooling there, including university training. After three years at Oxford he returned to his alma mater, the University of New Brunswick, where he was an up-and-coming young professor of economics for a period of nine years—broken by a trip to Europe in 1937 to attend the International Studies Conference, an organization attached to the League of Nations, and by a year at the University of Arizona on a visiting scholarship.

In 1940 he relinquished his professional duties temporarily to undertake a study of the economic effects of the war on the Maritime Provinces. This took him to Ottawa and to Halifax, and he also found himself devoting more time to writing. In 1942 he resumed teaching and went to McGill, later taking over the Dow Chair of Economics.

Recognized for several years as an outstanding economist, he has been

PARLIAMENTARY RADIO COMMITTEE

Third and Final Report

The Special Committee on Radio Broadcasting begs leave to present the following as its

THIRD AND FINAL REPORT

1. Your Committee was appointed by a resolution of the House of Commons on Friday, November 9, 1951, to consider the Annual Report of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and to review the policies and aims of the Corporation and its regulations, revenues, expenditures and development and also to consider a measure to amend the Canadian Broadcasting Act, 1936.

2. Your Committee held 15 meetings including a meeting in Montreal where it inspected the Radio Canada Building and examined the activities carried on there, including the International Service and the preliminary television work.

3. In the course of its deliberations, evidence was heard from Mr. A. Davidson Dunton, Chairman of the Board of Governors; Mr. E. L. Bushnell, Director General of Programs; Mr. J. A. Ouimet, Assistant General Manager; Mr. T. J. Allard, Mr. Joseph Sedgwick, K.C., and Mr. Guy Roberge representing the Canadian Association of Broadcasters; and Mr. G. C. W. Browne and Mr. W. A. Caton from the Department of Transport.

4. Representations were made to your Committee by Mr. D. A. Riley, M.P. Other representations were made in the form of returns, letters, resolutions and briefs, some of which were filed and some of which were incorporated in the evidence.

5. In accordance with its terms of reference, your Committee gave consideration to Bill 17, an Act to amend the Canadian Broadcasting Act, 1936, and agreed to report it with an amendment, this having been the Second Report of your Committee and having been presented to the House on Wednesday, December 5, 1951.

6. Your Committee also considered the annual report of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation for the year 1950-51. It examined officials of the Corporation regarding activities, policies, aims, development, regulations and finances of both the national and the International Services, and studied a considerable amount of information produced at the request of members.

7. Your Committee had before it the Report of the Royal Commission on National Development in the Arts, Letters and Sciences. In the deliberations of the Committee, the Report of the Royal Commission was referred to on numerous occasions.

8. Your Committee shares the view of the Royal Commission and of previous Committees of the House that the national broadcasting service carried on by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation is essential in the development of our national life in Canada, and is efficiently performing an extremely valuable and important function. It has been impressed by the variety and extent of the services being provided by the Corporation, and by the complexity of the problems which Canadian conditions impose.

9. Your Committee was made well aware of the financial situation in which the Corporation had been placed by rising costs. Additional revenues listeners have been extended for another month. On hand to tell stories and sing songs will be Ed McCurdy. From Vancouver.

Bod's Scrapbook. A new Monday-to-Friday series centring around the scrapbook of Maurice Bodington, long-time regular among entertainers at the CBC's Toronto studios; his prose and poetry reading have been heard for several years on Sundays on Dominion. "Bod," as he is called, draws on his own enormous collection of romantic and humorous stories, while Lou Snider, at the Hammond organ, provides a background. The program will also include songs by Howard Manning and, each day, a human-interest story about a Canadian home-maker who deserves a pat on the back for unusual bravery, devotion to his family, or perseverance against hard odds. RADIO COMMITTEE as provided for in the measure reported to the House on December 5, 1951, should enable the Corporation to maintain its present services and to make some additions. The Committee feels that with increased resources the Corporation should take further steps to improve its coverage in outlying areas not receiving service and to equalize service in different parts of Canada. It recommends additional transmission facilities and network arrangements for areas in different parts of the country now not adequately covered. The Committee is aware that the cost per listener reached for such facilities may be high, but it emphasizes the need of national broadcasting service for residents of more remote areas to the greatest extent practicable.

10. It also recommends the initiation as funds become available of a second French Network corresponding to the English language Dominion Network, the establishment of a French language network station in the Maritime Provinces, and increased service of French Network programs by transcription to French language stations in the Prairie Provinces.

11. The Committee agrees also on the desirability of improvements in the program services of the Corporation and for greater and better use of Canadian talent. With further revenues, the Corporation should now be able to reduce and improve its commercially sponsored programs.

12. The Committee does wish to point out that it will not be financially possible at the present time for the Corporation to affect all the improvements in facilities and program service that may be thought desirable. A large part of additional funds will necessarily be applied to meeting increased costs of existing services, and new additional expenditures may thereby be limited.

13. Your Committee was favourably impressed by the activities of the International Service operated by the CBC. It believes that this Service is performing a valuable function in spreading an understanding of Canada and Canadian ideas, in helping towards greater mutual understanding among democratic peoples, and in furthering information and understanding of the free world and the cause of freedom by people shut off

A CBC Times cameraman was on hand when GEORGE KENT, CBC announcer, and ALEX MACDONALD, CBC operator, took off for the far north in an R.C.A.F. Dakota last week. The two CBC men were looking for stories about Christmas in the North, for News Round-up items and for the special CBC Christmas day broadcast, Christmas Away from Home. Welcoming the travellers on board is S/L J. H. SIMPSON, officer commanding 111 Communications and Rescue Flight. Within a week, the Dakota will fly 3,700 miles, carrying Christmas mail to northern posts at Coral Harbour, Resolution Island, Cape Hope's Advance, and Nottingham Island.

Deeds That Live. Some of the most valuable social, economic, political and educational reforms through the years have come about through the efforts of women. A series of stories about the accomplishments of some of these people, told by Canadian radio writers and broadcasters, will be heard beginning today. The first broadcast will be the story of Queen Cleopatra of Egypt and her skills as a monarch; the speaker will be Harriet Hill of Montreal. Next week Christine Leslie of Saint John, N.B., will talk about Queen Matilda, wife of Henry I of England, and her influence on national policies affecting human rights. Other programs will be about Lucrezia Borgia; Helen Gregory Mac-Gill, Vancouver juvenile court judge; Margaret Bondfield, British Labor cabinet member; Winifred Holt, who worked for the blind; Ellen Richards, pioneer head of the department of home economics at the University of Saskatchewan; and Sultan Haziye of India who campaigned for the political rights of Moslem women.

up in Moose Jaw, and now makes his headquarters with his wife and family in Montreal. The program is based largely on actual conversations with him recorded by BBC men-producer Archie Lee, and recording engineer Chris Angell-in the cabin of a North Star skyliner flying two miles above sea level. On and off the plane Lee and Angell lived and worked with Campbell and the crew who were with him on that trip, and they built the program on the recordings they made during that time. Antarctic Venture. A new chapter in Antarctic exploration began with the organization in London of the Falkland Islands Dependencies Survey, whose first team sailed in December, 1943, to set up and occupy permanent bases in Grahamland and the off-lying islands administratively attached to the Falkland Islands. The object was to continue the accurate mapping of the dependencies, to investigate the origin and movement of weather depressions in the Antarctic, and to study the geological and biological resources of the area. A BBC-transcribed program telling the story of the survey, first-hand descriptions of life in the Antarctic and the research being carried on there, told by members of the survey, will be heard tonight.

It is described as an irreverent documentary, mixing heaven and earth to gaze at the unheavenly destruction of industrial accidents. On the 10th and 17th, two dramatized stories of human relations in industry, with scripts by George Salverson based on the experience of staff members of the Institute of Business Administration at the University of Toronto. Labour-Management co-operation will be the topic on the 24th, and on the 31st the problems involved in operating a small business will be examined. From Toronto.

A despicable fellow named Tweed,
To satisfy avarice and greed,

And then fattens his purse,
By having the stuff CBC'd.

Well, now he's back for more. Each Thursday there will be more of his "foolhardy philosophy in the fatuous manner" in more "pint-sized programs designed for listeners with an out-sized off-beat sense of the ridiculous." From Toronto.

regulation of what goes over the broadcasting channels in Canada.

15. Your Committee cannot accept this concept put forward by the Canadian Association of Broadcasters. It believes that by its essential nature broadcasting must be subject to control on behalf of the public; that our concepts of freedom can best be served through this limited medium when parliament is in a position to ensure that the principles of freedom are carried out to the greatest extent possible; and that a national broadcasting authority created by Parliament is essential in the public interest.

16. This important question was exhaustively studied by the Royal Commission. Your committee wishes to endorse the first recommendation of the Royal Commission on Broadcasting, which also expresses what has been said in the past by successive Parliaments and Parliamentary Committees. That recommendation is as follows:

That the grant of the privilege of radio broadcasting in Canada continue to be under the control of the National Government; that the control of the national broadcasting system continue to be vested in a single body responsible to Parliament; that the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation as now constituted be that authority and continue to provide directly by its operations and indirectly by its control of the operations of others a national radio broadcasting service free from partisan influence.

17. Your Committee agrees with the Royal Commission that there is an important place for privately owned stations in Canada. It believes that they are carrying on important functions for their communities and are providing important services. It hopes that they will continue to do so, with full realization of their responsibilities as well as their opportunities as trustees of public air channels.

Literature of Power. The first of six weekly talks by Professor Roy Daniells, head of the English department, University of British Columbia. Professor Daniells has contributed this note about his talks: Thomas De Quincey, the eccentric little man who will always be remembered for his Confessions of an English Opium Eater, brought into use an interesting pair of phrases, "the literature of knowledge" and "the literature of power." By the first he meant books such as a cook-book, which furnish useful and often new information but do not act on the personality of the reader, do not tend to change the whole current of his thoughts and feelings. By the literature of power De Quincey meant such writings as the plays of Shakespeare or the pages of the Bible, which in various ways and different degrees, do change the reader, do enlarge his vision, and provide him with something to which he may return again and again during his lifetime . . . I plan to talk about the literature of power as we see it in our own society, a century after De Quincey's death.

18. In recent years the principles underlying the laws respecting broadcasting in Canada have been considered by several Parliamentary Committees and by the Royal Commission, which made a very thorough investigation of the whole subject, and by this Committee. The principles have been found to be sound and are perhaps becoming sufficiently established to enable the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation to concentrate on its essential national functions and the privately owned stations to pursue their important community functions in providing broadcasting services to Canadian listeners.

19. Your Committee believes that closer liaison between the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and privately owned stations is both possible and desirable and more likely to be effective with the understanding that the main principles governing broadcasting in Canada have been thoroughly reviewed. It recommends to both the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and privately owned stations the mutual development of such liaison.

20. The attention of the Committee was drawn to the principles upon which the policies of the Corporation on controversial broadcasting are based. These principles, which have been approved by previous Parliamentary Committees are set forth in the White Paper of 1944 as follows:

1. The air belongs to the people, who are entitled to hear the principal points of view on all questions of importance.
2. The air must not fall under the control of any individuals or groups influential by reason of their wealth or special position.

3. The right to answer is inherent in the democratic doctrine of free speech.
4. Freedom of speech and the full interchange of opinion are among the principal safeguards of free institutions.

21. In this connection, the Committee had placed before it the scripts of certain broadcasts in 1951 which had occasioned some public discussion. The Committee does not feel that it can, as a Committee, express an opinion on these broadcasts because it recognizes the right of every Canadian in our democracy, including the members of the Committee, to adhere to his own beliefs, religious or otherwise, and that on many matters Canadians hold widely divergent views. The Committee does give its support to the general principles stated above which it believes must apply to broadcasting under our democratic faith in freedom of thought and opinion. It recommends that, where views on any subject are going to be expressed which are known to be controversial, care be taken to ensure that full effect is given to the third principle stated above, that it be carried out in a direct and plain way so that the same listeners have the fullest opportunity to hear all sides.

22. Your Committee agrees with the Royal Commission when it says on page 301 of its Report:

" . . . the considerations leading us to recommend the continuation of a national system of radio broadcasting seem to us to dictate much more strongly and urgently a similar system in television. Television, like radio, is akin to a monopoly, but its much more limited channels give added importance to a system of co-ordination and control. Like radio, it is a valuable instrument of national unity, of education, and of entertainment; how much more valuable it is difficult to say at present, but it promises to be a more popular as well as a more persuasive medium."

23. Your Committee is strongly impressed with the vital need for the development of a television system that is essentially Canadian and which gives expression in this new form of broadcasting to Canadian ideas and aspirations. It agrees with the Royal Commission that the situation must be avoided under which commercial pressures will lead to the major part of the material on Canadian channels being non-Canadian. Your Committee supports the recommendations of the Royal Commission regarding television development and your Committee recommends that the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation proceed as soon as practicable with the extension of television coverage.

24. Any documents above referred to as filed with the Clerk of the Committee are tabled herewith.

25. A copy of the Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence is appended hereto.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

W. A. Robinson, Chairman.

Saturday, December 15, 1951.

called upon to perform numerous tasks outside the University. He has served on several Royal Commissions, on the Combines Investigation Commission and, from 1945-48, on the Superior Labour Council of the Province of Quebec.

Serving in still another capacity, he spent last year in Europe. As an official of the Nuffield Fellowship Foundation he visited various universities and later in the year spent some time in Oxford working on a new book the first draft of which is now complete. During the year he read a paper at the International Economic Association meeting in Monte Carlo and was a Canadian delegate to the International Universities Conference.

Mr. Keirstead broadcast his first commentary for the CBC in 1945 and since that time has been heard intermittently on both the national and international services. For the CBC he has visited Lake Success on a number of occasions, to cover important meetings. He says he enjoys broadcasting immensely, but not so much that he would want to change his summer habit of visiting Prince Edward Island with his wife and two children, a boy of 13 and a girl of 11. There, he owns a house which he and his wife planned and built themselves. It is at Bay View, on the North Shore, bordering on the National Park and overlooking the sea.

Critical Fatuity.--There is a special kind of critical fatuity that blames one thing because it isn't something else. You can't condemn a radio play because it's not a stage play.--Melwyn Breen, on CBC.
