ERIC WILD and CBC orchestra were in rehearsal at Trinity Hall, Winnipeg, when this week's informal cover picture was made. Mr. Wild goes to Toronto in February to conduct the CBC Symphony Orchestra in one of its Monday night broadcasts. He is one of the few orchestral conductors in Canada having early experience in television. Sixteen years ago, when the BBC was making rapid strides in this new medium, Mr. Wild performed in and conducted its television orchestra, specially created for the medium. He was with the television orchestra for four years.

A Problem for Pianists

(By HARRY ADASKIN, head of the music department, University of British Columbia).

ONE of the serious difficulties of concert-giving in Canada, is the lack of good pianos in the concert halls. This is particularly true in the smaller centres, where the concert performer has to face an upright piano, and a very dubious one at that. They are seldom in good order, and one is lucky if all the notes speak. There are quite a few works which we can never play on tour. For instance the Kreutzer Sonata has many fast-repeated notes. On most of the uprights that you get on tour, the keys won't repeat that fast. Works that have many long and short trills are also dangerous to take on tour. The old uprights just won't respond. You see the pianist's fingers trilling beautifully up and down, but few of the notes speak!

We once gave a concert in the school auditorium

of Oliver, British Columbia. It was a new and very beautiful school building, and the people who showed us around were obviously proud of it. It really was one of the most attractive school buildings we had ever seen. All the latest gadgets and improvements, radiant heating, lots of light and air, spacious hallways, tiled floors, "intercom" system and everything you could think of. As we were being shown around, my wife and I had the same thought: perhaps this time they included a good grand piano in the school equipment. We finally came to the auditorium, which was a dream. Fine proportions, good acoustics, delightful colour scheme, and soft, comfortable, wide seats. On the distant stage stood a ghastly old upright piano, and our hearts sank. Nevertheless, clinging to a fast-disappearing hope, we asked about the piano. "Oh," they said, "you're going to have our best one." This was a little reassuring and by that time we had come up on the stage. But when we asked to see the piano they pointed to the horror before us.

The Prairie Gardener

Summary of Broadcast of December 14, 1952.

Indoor Gardening (last in a series) Growing House Plants from Seed (continued from December 7)

1. African violets may be grown from seeds in much the same way as tuberous begonias. See last week's summary for details.

Note: Whether grown from seed obtained from your own plants or from commercial sources, the gardener is reminded that the chance of growing plants from seed, as good as, or superior to the parents, is very limited. Choice named varieties must be propagated vegetatively. Growing plants from seed is good fun, but only a very few of the seedlings may be of real value.

2. Gloxinias are usually propagated from tubers or leaf cuttings, but they also may be grown from seed. In the early stages the method is the same as for tuberous begonias.

3. Cyclamens are usually grown from seed but since special conditions are required and it takes more than a year of painstaking care to produce a fine blooming plant, production is restricted to professional growers. See the bulletin House Plants written by William Godfrey for the Experimental Farms Service.

* * *

Summary of Broadcast of December 28, 1952.

Some Ways to Increase Garden Yields:

1. Chemical conditioning to improve soil structure is in the experimental stages and the necessary chemicals are now available for every gardener to do a little experimenting.

Krilium and other chemical soil conditioners help to turn heavy clay into porous loam. They also help to bind sand together.

They add no plant food to the soil, but help create conditions favourable to root development.

2. Adequate water supplies for the garden are essential. No conditioning of the soil can make up for lack of moisture.

Farm Dugouts in the garden area have proved their value. They represent a permanent investment paying dividends year after year.

3. Shelterbelts are essential in semi-dry country to protect plants from withering winds and loss of soil moisture.

The Prairie Gardener wishes all his friends a Happy New Year and Happy Gardening.

NRAC Reports On Sheen TV Program Sets Out Principles Governing New Medium

The National Religious Advisory Council of the CBC has reported to the Corporation following the request that it consider the desirability of presenting the Bishop Fulton Sheen television program, sponsored by an advertiser, on the Canadian stations. In its report the council recommended the following principles:

- (a) That the policy concerning religious television be regarded as a national one in which the N.R.A.C. would have the same kind of responsibility as it has in the radio field.
- (b) That the division of time assigned to the religious communions be on as equitable a basis as possible and that the council's experience in assigning radio time be considered as a basis.
- (c) That with such rare exceptions as the council may approve, religious televised programs be Canadian ones.
- (d) That there be as much continuity as practicable.
- (e) That there be a place for positive presentations of the Christian faith as held by the communions represented on the council or asked by the council to present religious telecasts.
- (f) That favorable consideration be given to the CBC's request that telecasts of an inspirational type be included.

(g) That the religious telecasts be provided by CBC as a general rule without charge and that the communion responsible for presenting them be not paid any fee. (This would be the same arrangement as has prevailed in religious broadcasts.)

(h) That the above guiding principles may be reviewed from time to time in the light of experience.

On practical matters of television broadcasting the council decided that an early effort should be made to discover persons of outstanding ability in the religious television field. It was suggested that each communion nominate one or more persons for favourable consideration of the CBC on the understanding that in due course some of those nominated would be televised on a trial basis.

It was suggested that more study be made of experience in television of churches in the United States and in Great Britain.

The council said that it had made a good beginning in preparing for religious television programs.

The council also said that it will continue in television its policy of allocating time on an equitable basis in the light of the membership of religious communions. It drew attention to the proportion of persons of the different religious communions in the areas served by the Toronto television station.

The council also reported that it wishes to study further the subject of commercially sponsored religious programs.

Following this report from the National Religious Advisory Council, the CBC decided not to present the Bishop Sheen program at the present time and to await the further consideration of the subject by the council.

A New Year Greeting
From The General Manager Of The CBC

Most of us pause briefly at New Year's to take stock of ourselves. There is nostalgia for that which is gone and hope for what lies ahead. We face the challenge of the New Year with optimism, tempered by experience, the basis of all true progress. It is in this spirit that we, who operate your national broadcasting system, embark upon the New Year. Our resolution is to develop and improve our broadcasting service to the utmost, remembering that the CBC was established to serve all Canadians.

In television, we will develop our service as rapidly as possible through our own facilities and through co-operation with privately-owned stations, as they are established. The building of a national television service worthy of our country is a tremendous challenge. We believe it will be met successfully.

On behalf of our national radio system, may I extend every good wish for the New Year.

J. Alphonse Ouimet.

Hazards of Scholarship.—We often tend to confuse knowledge and truth. We sometimes consider the well-informed person as being at the same time the understanding person. It seems to me that this is one of the hazards of being a scholar.—Paul Hiebert, on CBC.

Iron from the North. The second of the four major documentary reports on Canadian industrial development which the CBC Trans-Canada network presented during recent months, will be rebroadcast tonight on the CBC Dominion network. It is Iron from the North in which listeners will follow CBC reporters Matthew Halton and Norman McBain on a tour of the Labrador-Ungava iron development project. From Toronto.

BBC Presents. Twelve by the Mail, a masque for the New Year written and produced for the BBC by Francis Dillon, with music composed and conducted by Francis Collinson, will be heard tonight. An elaboration of a little-known two-page story by Hans Christian Andersen, this sophisticated radio "ballet" personifies the characteristics of the months of the year. In it the 12 months come in succession to the gate of the year, give their names, execute symbolical songs and dances, and describe their professions. BBC transcription.

Mental Health Series. Script-writer Ted Allan feels that through examining the thoughts and behaviour of children with special difficulties, we gain an understanding of the normal child. Recently he took a tape-recorder into the children's wards of several big city hospitals and made a record of how youngsters have learned, and are learning, to face their problems, some of which are very large, even by adult standards. Then he visited child guidance clinics to increase his understanding of the fascinating development of the child's philosophy of life. Combining actual voices of children he met in this special study with dramatized episodes illustrating their problems and ways of overcoming them, he has prepared a series of eight broadcasts entitled The Way of Children. In the

CBC French Network

This week's programs on the western section of the CBC French Network include performances of Shakespeare and Moliere by a famous Parisian company. On Sunday, the Madeleine Renaud-Jean-Louis Barrault Company of Paris, which has been touring Canada and the United States since October, will be heard in a French translation by Andre Gide of Shakespeare's Hamlet, with Barrault in the title role, and on Tuesday they will play Moliere's Amphytrion with Madeleine Renaud as Alomene. During the company's stay at Her Majesty's Theatre in Montreal, these plays were recorded on stage. There will be further performances on January 4 and 6. The Contes de Noel (Christmas Stories) will continue Monday to Friday this week, and the daily recorded program Musical Masterpieces will also be heard. Helene Baillargeon, soprano, will sing Christmas carols of the Middle Ages on Tuesday. On Friday, Pierre Boutet, tenor, and Suzanne Boutet, soprano, with Claude Paquet as accompanist, will be heard in recital, and on Saturday Les Plus Beaux Contes dramatized fairy tales for children, will be heard as usual.

New Farm Assistant

Adair Stewart Joins CBC As Edmonton Commentator

A new addition to the CBC's Prairie Region Farm staff was announced recently by Bob Knowles, CBC Prairie Region Farm Commentator. Adair

Adair Stewart

Stewart, formerly of Nova Scotia and Saskatchewan and a newcomer to CBC, with the new year replaces Al Richardson as assistant farm commentator stationed at Edmonton. Alberta farm problems will be his main concern. Adair comes to the CBC from the staff of the Western Producer, famous agricultural weekly of Saskatoon, on which he served as agricultural editor. A native of Nova Scotia, he worked with newspapers and press agencies in Truro, Halifax and Vancouver. During the war, he served with the Merchant Marine in the Mediterranean and South American waters. Subsequently he resumed his studies and was graduated at McGill with a degree in agricultural economics. He was married at Saskatoon in October to Una Christianson, also of the Producer staff.

Trans-Canada Matinee.

Today: What's New in Fashions—Thelma LeCocq, Toronto; Daisy Ashford's Story—Joan Pearce; Adventures of Barbara, I Decide to Budget—Barbara Whitley, Montreal; News Commentary—Constance Garneau, Montreal; Piano Duo—Margaret Parsons and Clifford Poole, London.

Joan Pearce, Vancouver radio commentator and actress, will present Daisy Ashford's story, the chronicle published as The Young Visitors which charmed readers a number of years ago, and which is now on the market again in a new illustrated edition.

W-3:45 p.m. K-3:00 p.m. X-3:00 p.m.

CBC Wednesday Night

The Best of '52. This week's Wednesday Night program will open with a one-hour synopsis of the outstanding popular music of 1952. Howard Cable's orchestra will be heard with singers Evelyn Gould, Jimmie Shields, Bernard Johnson, Terry Dale and Simone. The numbers will be selected from radio shows, movies and the hit parade, and they will include highlights from An American in Paris, Timber!, and The Best of All Possible Worlds. There will be music by two well-known expatriates, Percy Faith and Robert Farnon, and hit-parade numbers such as Because You're Mine, Wish You Were Here, Wheel of Fortune and Walking My Baby Back Home. From Toronto.

W-6:30 p.m. K-7:00 p.m. X-7:00 p.m.

Talk on W. H. Auden. Northrop Frye of Victoria College, Toronto, will introduce W. H. Auden's For the Time Being which will follow this program. Author of Fearful Symmetry, a widely-acclaimed study of William Blake, Professor Frye has edited a selection of Blake's writings, to appear soon in the Modern Library. At present he is continuing his work on a study of critical theory in poetry, started two years ago in the United States on a Guggenheim Fellowship. W-7:30 p.m. K-8:15 p.m. X-8:15 p.m.

For the Time Being. W. H. Auden's "oratorio without music," dealing with the Christmas story, originally broadcast on CBC in 1948; Andrew Allan, producer. From Toronto.

To the Georgian poets—de la Mare, Trench, Housman—and the war poets—Brooke, Grenfell, Owen—two of the chief English successors in the age of split atoms and international billings-gate have been W. H. Auden and Stephen Spender. Auden, particularly, has typified the demier cri of English poetry, and has recently become the subject of serious study, exemplified in some of the work of Mr. Chester Duncan of Winnipeg. Allan's radio production of Auden's curious "oratorio" is deliberately experimental, and reflects the opinion that radio as a "stage for the word" can be interesting and expressive. It is a religious work, although Allan offers a warning that some people may find it shocking, or may even criticize it as lacking in religion. It will shock only those, he thinks, who mistake sentimentality and convention for religion. In a coda at the close of the work, Auden says: "To those who have seen the Child, however dimly, however incredulously, the Time Being is, in a sense, the most trying time of all." The Time Being, the immediate present, becomes vital in this work, even frightening. The radio production is an attempt to present a poetic work by using the text, spoken by different voices in changing perspective but unadorned by music or sound effects. The adaptation for radio has required the deletion of some more obscure passages needing the permanence of the printed word for close study, and the clear setting out of the poet's main line of thought. Emphasis and phrasing, especially by the chorus, according to Allan, were of first importance, and called for careful study and rehearsal. The production is preceded by a 15-minute talk on Auden's work by Professor Northrop Frye of Victoria College, Toronto.

W-7:45 p.m. K-8:30 p.m. X-8:30 p.m.

Year End Roundup. A roundup of news that made the headlines during the last 12 months. CBC News

Norman DePoe

Roundup editor Norman DePoe has charge of the program and, after listening to hundreds of recorded reports, has come up with carefully selected highlights of the year's events. The early part of 1952 was crowded with a variety of important and sometimes tragic happenings—the death of King George VI and the proclamation of Queen Elizabeth II, the epic of the Flying Enterprise and her gallant skipper, the Toronto tramway strike, the struggles of Canadian troops in Korea, the Truman-Churchill meeting and the foot-and-mouth epidemic. DePoe has gleaned important statements and descriptions from recorded reports made at the time these events took place.

The voice of Lester B. Pearson, Canada's Minister for External Affairs; the new Governor-General, Vincent Massey; and General Guy Simonds will be heard along with other Canadians who were prominent in the news. Reports will also be heard from observers on the American political elections, debates at the UN, the development of Canadian industry, what has happened in the arts and the highlights of a year in sports.

W-9:10 p.m. K-10:05 p.m. X-10:05 p.m.

Annapolis Valley

Few places on this earth can assemble in one sweep of the eye such fragrant and changing beauty. From mighty Mount Blomidon the blossoms waltz with the breezes and climb the hills of the Valleys. Here are orchards sweet with the perfumed air of blossoms and salt with the chilled air from the sea. Here the rivers, cocoa coloured, wend their lazy way into the bowery of bloom—they lap close to the trees with the lick of a serpent's tongue—then out they go again. Each time the colours change—the mood is shifted—the air is refrigerated again. Empty and full, full and empty.—John Fisher, on CBC.

Looking For Ourselves.—Don't be too censorious about the people who strike us as affected. Remember they are probably so because they are dissatisfied with themselves and are trying to invent a more acceptable personality. Most people have to seek about a bit before they find themselves. Some of us, maybe all of us, never find ourselves at all, or never find anything that seems to be an adequate expression of the self we want to be.—Tyrone Guthrie, on BBC.

Cross Section. This program will mark the birth of a new year by taking a look at the calendar and explaining how it arrived at its present state of confusion. Included will be the views of persons in various occupations on the calendar's effect on holidays, book-keeping, and so on. The author of the script is Joyce Belfrage who has gathered up-to-date material about efforts to modify the existing calendar. She believes that Canada, where standard-time zones were first used, might well take the lead in other reforms in our method of computing the march of time. From Toronto.

words he could use for emphasis. I know many others would agree with me.—Mrs. Nick Harder, Dundurn, Sask.

Westward the Drama.

The performances of the two satirical plays by Shaw and Moliere last Wednesday (CBC Wednesday Night, Nov. 12) make it pretty clear that the epicentre of radio drama in Canada no longer rests in Toronto. The faults in these productions were basic, and were convincing evidence that the spirit which produced such fine efforts in the heyday of the Stage series (Stages 47, 48, 49, etc.) is now dead as Lazarus. Meantime, increasingly good work is being done in the western cities, Vancouver and Winnipeg, and it is certainly time for the CBC to let the course of Empire take its way—westward. It may be television that is killing eastern radio drama, and when television comes west we might have the same problem. Meantime, let radio drama develop in the places where producers are still interested in it—that is, the western cities. Shift the Toronto drama from its good place on Sundays, and put the Winnipeg or Vancouver dramas there, or at least let them alternate with Toronto. Why should all the "Stages" come from one city?—J. M. P., Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Views from Calgary.

Many would back me up when I say that, but for CBC, radio in Calgary would be a complete desert; reception from American stations is really good in very few places and in the district in which I live it is non-existent completely. So with few exceptions my radio dial stays on CBX and I continually bless it.

Actually, I do not believe that I miss American programs anyway—most of the ones to which we have access from our own network do not appeal anyway, barring of course the Sunday N.Y. Philharmonic and the NBC Symphony.

For consistently fine quality and outstanding performance my vote goes unreservedly to the following: Little Symphonies, John Avison's Vancouver Concert, and any program prepared by Jean de Rimanoczy of Vancouver.

The "Stage" plays and Wednesday Night drama hours spoil us for anything from across the line. Wednesday Night generally speaking deserves highest acclaim, even if it's a bit stuffy at times, and I hope nothing ever happens to interfere with it. The Mozart last Wednesday was a work of art in itself and I notice with much pleasure that Nov. 19 brings us one about Haydn.

Citizens' Forum is another of my favourites and I hope it may be possible to hear another "Couchiching Conference" next summer. "Jungle in Retreat" was also appreciated.

I can't understand why people should feel abused at being asked to pay $2.50 per annum for a radio license when such fare is available at the turn of a dial. I should gladly pay double.

One complaint I should like to make, if I may be permitted after all the foregoing, is that the incidental music on the Stage plays is very often much too much for me—chiefly too loud. Agostini is a most gifted musician but gets carried away occasionally, I do feel.—Miss L. P. Turbayne, Calgary, Alberta.

Too Many Carols?

Miss Leslie in today's Critically Speaking has decided me to write. I strongly disagree with her that we have too many Christmas carols... If Miss Leslie lived in isolation she could not hear Silent Night too often... Please give us carols, but the old-fashioned ones—not many of the new-fangled ones.—Rev. Sister Patricia T.O.S.F., Skownan, Man.

Slang.

Do you think you should allow slang to be used during broadcasting? I would say certainly not on CBC. How are we to teach our children any better when they hear the announcer over the radio say "doggone it" three times in a row (like today) simply I guess to put a little more colour or life to a plain road report. Coronation Plans

Capt. W. E. S. Briggs Will Represent CBC On Commonwealth Reporting Team

THE Queen's broadcast on Christmas morning to the people of the Commonwealth, in the tradition started by her grandfather and continued by her father, emphasizes the imminence of the Coronation—little over five months away, on June 2.

For many months broadcasters have been working in preparation for the occasion. On the day itself a Commonwealth team of reporters will give a complete descriptive commentary direct from the scene; this broadcast will be repeated more than once so that all may have a chance to hear, and it will be available to all radio stations in the country. In the weeks leading up to the Coronation numerous specially-planned programs on all CBC networks will cater to the mounting interest.

A special highlight will be the presentation, on the Sunday evening two days before the event, of the Coronation Suite composed by Dr. Healey Willan on commission from the CBC. In the fields of talks, features, music, school broadcasts and children's broadcasts, programs are being planned to describe the preparations and explain the significance of the Coronation.

CBC representative on the reporting team, organized by the BBC and including observers from all major Commonwealth countries, will be Captain W. E. S. Briggs, CBC's Maritime Representative who played a key role in Royal Tour coverage last year. Participating also in the CBC's coverage will be Andrew Cowan and Matthew Halton, and a team of reporters whose special task will be to reflect to Canadian listeners the human side of London at Coronation time, particularly during the week preceding June 2.

Plans are already well under way for pre-Coronation programs during the months of April and May. In this period there will be a series of six half-hour features by well-known English writers covering the reigns from Victoria onwards, and dealing with the relationship between the throne and the people of the Commonwealth; and a series of talks or talks-features on Coronation figures such as the heralds, the Yeomen of the Guard, and Her Majesty's other bodyguards.

During the week before the Coronation it is planned to carry several feature broadcasts prepared by the BBC: a one-hour program describing the route of the Coronation procession, a program on Westminster Abbey, a biographical study of Her Majesty, as well as talks on the religious significance of the Coronation.

Many of these programs will be heard on the CBC Dominion network as well as on CBC Trans-Canada, and Dominion is setting aside an evening period on Tuesdays, starting April 21, for pre-Coronation programs. During May the CBC Symphony Orchestra will present specially-appropriate choral and orchestral programs, thus contributing to the momentum of preparations, which will increase steadily as the day approaches.

Monologist

Barbara Whitley, Leacock Protege, On Trans-Canada Matinee During December

Barbara Whitley, the amusing monologist heard on Trans-Canada Matinee on Wednesdays, was a protege of the late Stephen Leacock, who wrote some of his best known monologues for her. She began her career in student entertainments at Leacock's university, McGill, and continued it with touring entertainment groups during the war. Her first CBC broadcasts were heard in 1943.

All her monologues, except those done on the air, are ad lib., and she says that "the less I know about the subject, the better I can talk about it."

Miss Whitley is the immediate past president of the Montreal Junior League; chairman of the Montreal Women's Division Red Cross Campaign; member of the Women's Auxiliary Board, Montreal General Hospital; and member of the Drama Festival planning committee for western Quebec.

Barbara Whitley

She will be heard on Trans-Canada Matinee throughout December, in chats dealing (or at least, beginning to deal) with Christmas lists, Christmas trees, Budgeting, Skiing and Child Psychology.

Small Town Circus.—To me there is nothing that can equal the circus in a small town, outdoors, and with a big parade and kids scampering and peeping under canvas and climbing over fences and being chased away by some unwashed-looking character who has probably known the streets of Singapore and the hangouts of Cairo. —John Fisher, on CBC.

Don Garrard

Vancouver Singer Is Gold Key Winner

IN conjunction with the Canadian Radio Awards a gold key, representing the Maurice Rosenfeld Memorial Award, is presented annually to "the most promising newcomer to broadcasting." The winner for 1951-52 is Don Garrard of Vancouver, a 22-year-old bass-baritone who began his career as a boy soprano 12 years ago when he toured Canada with the Elgar Junior Choir to raise funds for the Canadian Red Cross.

The first gold key was presented last year to Jack Kane, who was musical arranger for the CBC network series Startime.

Garrard sang the romantic lead in the rousing Canadian musical, Timber!! by Dolores Claman, which made its debut in Vancouver's Theatre Under the Stars last June and was broadcast on CBC Wednesday Night two weeks later.

"Now," Garrard says, "Miss Claman is in England negotiating with some people who are interested in producing Timber!! in London's West End. If the show ever does open over there it will have an all-Canadian cast, and I'll sing the lead again. But all the plans are still up in the air."

In his last years at Brentwood College, a boys' school near Vancouver,
