THE heavy responsibility of the management of CBC's Winnipeg studios, at the new CBC headquarters on Portage Ave., falls on the broad shoulders of a comparatively-youthful veteran of the Canadian airwaves, J. N. (Nairn) Mogridge, Station Manager of CBW-CBK, and representative in Winnipeg of the CBC's department of personnel and administration.

It will be twenty years in November since Nairn Mogridge became associated with Canadian radio, and much longer since he set up his first ham wireless set (VE3BI). He came to national radio in the old CRBC days, as an operator in Toronto, not far from his native town of Galt, Ontario. Previously he had been managing commercial radio departments in Ontario and Michigan. He became CBC supervisor of studio operations at Toronto in 1937, and night manager of the Toronto station in 1941. In 1943 he was busy setting up the studio traffic and service departments at the Toronto studios, and in 1945 he was promoted to Supervisor of Program Clearance for the network. He came west to Winnipeg in June, 1948, shortly before the opening of the new CBW transmitter at Carman and the transfer of the former provincial government station to the CBC. He has been associated with Manitoba and Saskatchewan stations ever since, and shows signs of becoming a thoroughgoing Westerner.

Sports attract Mr. Mogridge—angling perhaps first, but others, such as bowling, football and hockey, in close order. When he caught his first big Northern Pike in Manitoba waters (10 lbs. 2 oz.), it was a big day, and such events as the opening of Winnipeg's new Stadium and the Blue Bombers big games, find him prominently on the spot.

Mr. Mogridge lives in St. James, Winnipeg suburb. He married Helen Elizabeth McKenzie of Galt in 1934 and has four children, James Nairn, Jr., Marian Joy, Bruce McKenzie, and Mary Elizabeth. He likes radio in all its aspects, and never tires of discussing its innumerable details. With the approach of TV in the Prairie Region, he is finding new interests. But in the background he keeps his new glass casting rod and his Pflueger reel, and the clear waters of the Lake of the Woods region continue to pull him away from desk routine now and then.

« « NOTES » »

RECITAL. Catherine Akos, soprano; Leo Barkin, piano accompanist. From Toronto.

Songs by Schubert, Brahms, Wagner, and Scarlatti.
W-9:30 a.m. K-9:30 a.m. X-8:30 a.m.

CONCERT ALBUM. Recorded. From Halifax.

Divertimento after Couperin (Richard Strauss), performed by Radio Berlin Symphony Orchestra conducted by Arthur Rother.
W-10:30 a.m.

THE CONCERTO. Recorded from Halifax.

Trumpet Concerto in D Major (Haydn); Concerto for Trombone and Military Band (Rimsky-Korsakoff).
K-10:30 a.m. X-9:30 a.m.

MUSIC FOR WORSHIP. Recorded. From Toronto.

Selections from Faure's Requiem.
W-12:30 p.m. K-11:30 a.m. X-10:30 a.m.

NBC SYMPHONY. NBC Symphony Orchestra conducted by Wilfred Pelletier. From New York.

Overture, The Brawls of Chioggia (Sinigaglia); Guernica (Pepin); The Spider's Banquet (Roussel); Divertissement (Ibert).

Clermont Pepin is a French-Canadian composer who has studied in Paris for the last four years with Messaien and Honneger. His symphonic poem Guernica was inspired by the well-known painting by Pablo Picasso.

W-2:00 p.m. K-1:00 p.m. X-12:00 noon

THE WIND IN THE WILLOWS. A radio adaptation of the first three parts of Kenneth Grahame's famous story for children; David Davis, narrator, and a cast of English actors; music by H. Fraser-Simson; May E. Jenkin, producer. From BBC, by transcription.

Grahame's whimsical story of riverbank and wildwood life, with its quaint characters Mole, Badger, Toad, Water Rat and others, was performed in toto two years ago on CBC Trans-Canada.
Dom. 3:00 p.m. MDT

ASK THE WEATHERMAN. Talks on the weather by R. A. Hornstein of the Dominion Public Weather Office in Halifax. Today, Mr. Hornstein will turn to ancient weather predictions. Making use of clouds for weather prediction is not a new art by any means, he says. There are fairly conclusive records available to the effect that weather forecasting was practiced extensively and officially as early as the seventh century B.C. During September Mr. Hornstein will review some ancient weather prophesies.

W-5:05 p.m. K-4:05 p.m. X-3:05 p.m.

DISTINGUISHED ARTISTS. Gerald Bales, organist. From Toronto.

Prelude and Fugue in D Major, The Great Fugue (Bach); Folk Tune (Percy Whitlock); Chorale in A Minor (Cesar Franck).

Gerald Bales, organist at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Toronto, and also known as a pianist, conductor, and composer, has been heard frequently on CBC. This will be his final performance on the four-manual Casavant pipe organ at St. Andrew's, which he leaves shortly after seven years. Bales was born in Toronto in 1919 and appeared there as a pianist at the age of seven, and as an organist at thirteen. He studied orchestral and choral conducting at the Toronto Conservatory and in 1937 made his professional debut at the Eaton Auditorium. He served in the R.C.A.F. from 1943 to 1945. He still teaches piano, organ, and theory at the Toronto Conservatory. His compositions include a symphony for organ and an organ concerto. His Essay for Strings and Nocturne have been frequently performed on CBC.

W-5:30 p.m. K-4:30 p.m. X-3:30 p.m.

CHAMBER MUSIC. String sextet led by Albert Pratz. From Toronto.

Sextet for Strings in B Flat, Op. 18 (Brahms).
W-6:30 p.m. K-5:30 p.m. X-4:30 p.m.

WINNIPEG CONCERT. CBC Winnipeg orchestra conducted by Eric Wild; Norman Lucas, producer. From Winnipeg.

Overture to Italian in Algiers (Rossini); Symphony No. 88 in G Minor (Haydn); Appalachian Spring (Aaron Copland).

W-7:00 p.m. K-6:00 p.m. X-5:00 p.m.

DAYS OF SAIL. The discovery of Canada was made possible by King Henry VII of England, who authorized and outfitted the Venetian sailor John Cabot for the voyage in 1497 on which he unfurled the English flag on the shores of Cape Breton, and claimed the land for King Henry by right of discovery. When Cabot returned to the "new-found land" in the following spring, many Devonshire fishermen from Bristol followed him, and trade in fish had been going on steadily when thirty-seven years later a French fisherman, Jacques Cartier, also visited these shores. He didn't care much for them, and said: "I did not see a carload of good earth—it is but stones and wild crags and a place fit for wild beasts. I believe this was the land that God allowed Cain." Many English explorers followed—Parkhurst, Gilbert, Frobisher, Davis and Hudson. The stories of these early explorations of Canada will be told in tonight's program, in the script by Joseph Schull, produced by Frank Willis. The music is by Phil Nimmons, conducted by Samuel Hersenhoren, and the historical consultant is F. W. Wallace. The Salt Water Men is the title of tonight's episode, second of six documentaries. A highlight is the tragic story of Henry Hudson, cast adrift in a small boat with his son in Hudson's Bay by mutinous crewmen. Schull's script also covers the struggle for the continent which followed the early explorations.

W-8:00 p.m. K-7:00 p.m. X-6:00 p.m.

LITTLE SYMPHONIES. Orchestra conducted by Roland Leduc. From Montreal.

Overture to Fingal's Cave (Mendelssohn); Le Festin de l'Arriaigee (Roussel).
W-9:30 p.m. K-8:30 p.m. X-7:30 p.m.

FROM THE OPERAS. Orchestra and chorus conducted by Jean Deslauriers; Nelly Mathot, soprano; Yoland Guerard, bass. From Montreal.

Overture to Euryanthe (Weber); Aria—Sempere Libera, from La Traviata—Nelly Mathot; Shylock's Aria, from The Merchant of Venice (Reynaldo Hahn); Yoland Guerard; Persian Dance from Khovantchina (Moussorgsky); Le Mort de Thais, from Thais (Massenet); Nelly Mathot and Yoland Guerard.

W-10:30 p.m. K-9:30 p.m. X-8:30 p.m.

SUMMERTIME. Orchestra conducted by Harry Pryce; Juliette, pop vocalist; Don Garrard, baritone; and The Dreamers. From Vancouver.

W-11:00 p.m. K-10:00 p.m. X-9:00 p.m.

Mary Douglas

Strong and authoritative acting has won Mary Douglas a prominent place in CBC dramas from Montreal.

Mary Douglas

What her producer calls her "eloquence in classical roles and her virtually flawless diction" made her his choice to play the role of Athena in this series. Mary Douglas has been acting under Rupert Caplan's direction for the last five years. She came to radio with a wide and varied experience on the legitimate stage and he immediately assigned her to leading roles. A native of Ottawa, she first gave promise of a successful stage career in The Petrified Forest, an Ottawa Drama League play which took the top award in a Dominion Drama League Festival, staged that year in Winnipeg. A two-year study period which followed at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art in London, England, laid the foundations for the numerous leading roles she played later with various Montreal Little Theatre groups. In radio, besides playing major parts in most of Caplan's drama productions, Mary Douglas appears frequently in the daily serial, Laura Limited, and in the religious play series, The Way of the Spirit. She played the leading role in the CBC Wednesday Night presentation of The Witch.

TELEVISION

and its future in Canada

[Excerpts from an address by J. Alphonse Ouimet, general manager of the CBC, to the Advertising and Sales Club of Toronto, April 28, 1953.]

BY the end of May, when our Ottawa station is on the air, Canadian television service will already be available to more than one-third of our Canadian population. Within a year, the completion of CBC stations in Vancouver, Winnipeg and Halifax will have brought national television coverage to about one-half of the population of Canada.

In the meantime, the construction of private stations already approved in Windsor, London, Hamilton, Quebec, Sudbury, Saint John and Sydney should be well under way and within two years of the start of television in Canada the number of Canadians within the range of Canadian television stations will represent nearly two-thirds of our total population. This compares more than favourably with the proportion of American homes now receiving television coverage after six years of operation.

Of course the seven private stations already licensed are not the only private interests desiring to get into television. We have good reason to believe that there are many others who are preparing applications for other locations across Canada. It is difficult at this time to say just how many additional stations will actually emerge from this original group, but I feel confident that within two or three years there will also be television service in most other important centres, such as Victoria, Calgary, Edmonton, Saskatoon, Regina, Port Arthur, Fort William, Timmins, Owen Sound, Peterborough, Kingston, Three Rivers, Sherbrooks, Moncton, Charlottetown, St. John's and others. These additional stations would bring Canadian television coverage to more than three-quarters of our total population, only three years after the start of television in Canada.

According to the present policy, all Canadian stations will form an integral part of the national television system, carrying CBC programs in addition to their own originations. The policy brings together public and private resources in a well co-ordinated and typically Canadian effort to provide Canadian program service to as many people as possible throughout the country before provision is made for alternate service in the larger centres . . .

It would be the easiest thing in the world to use all these Canadian stations and all these Canadian-built television receivers as the most effective way one could think of to multiply many times again the already enormous flow of what the Massey Report refers to as "the American cultural output" coming into Canada in the form of films, records, books, magazines, comics, syndicated columns, as well as radio and television programs.

Not only would it be the easiest thing to do, but it would also be the most profitable thing to do on a strictly business basis. However, our legislators have decided that it would not be done that way and that, instead, we would try to develop a program service better suited to the Canadian temperament and to the interest of Canada. As in the case of sound broadcasting, the national television system will carry some American programs but it will concentrate most of its resources and energy on the development of Canadian programs. This means that, in many centres, it will have to compete directly with the best that can be produced by the major American networks. It will not be an easy task. It is not so much that the Americans have been developing television programs now for more than six years and that Canada has been at it only for eight months. It is rather the unavoidable fact that for every dollar Canadians can contribute directly or indirectly to the production of television programs, the United States, because of their tremendous population and wealth, can afford to spend $10 or $20.

These are the facts of Canadian television in relation to its environment. There can be little doubt that we start with a most difficult handicap but there is no doubt in my mind either that we can do a good job of it in spite of this very great economic differential.

In this instance, it is not possible for me to justify my optimism with facts and figures. However, my faith in the successful development of a national basis for a fundamentally Canadian television program service is just as solid as my confidence in the material and financial possibilities of this fascinating medium.

There are good reasons why I feel as I do. In the first place, Canada needs Canadian television. Because of its tremendous distances and its scattered population, because of its strong regionalisms, Canada must use this new and most powerful means of communication to bring Canadians closer together. Canada must have Canadian television so that all Canadians wherever they may happen to

CRIME IS OUR BUSINESS. Stories from the annals of the British provincial police; from BBC; script by Tom Fallon; John Slater, narrator. Although Scotland Yard remains the most celebrated of all crime detection and prevention agencies, the British provincial police are by no means old-fashioned in their methods. The services of Scotland Yard are always available to the provinces, but many crimes are solved on the spot, often with plenty of action and excitement. These stories are all true, although names and places have been altered. The first episode is set in Salford, industrial city in the Manchester area, with closely-packed working-class houses, and factories and warehouses. It is in a residential section that the tale begins. A burglary starts the police hunting for a new gang of thieves, who are ultimately run to earth by a combination of patient police work and useful co-operation by the public, including a taxi-driver who had his wits about him. Prairie Talks.—In 1951-52, the CBC annual report says that on the Prairies regional talk subjects included game hunting and cooking, talks by university professors, explanations of the Manitoba power issue, and series on favourite books.

CBC News Roundup Western Reporters (I)

CBC News Roundup (Monday to Friday, W-9:15 p.m., K-8:15 p.m., X-7:15 p.m.), has taken a decidedly western slant in the Prairie Region in recent months. The appointment of Miss Kay Sinclair, member of Senior Editor H. N. Cowan's Prairie Region news staff, to deal specially with this phase of news-gathering, has brought this about. In this and subsequent issues the Times will carry biographical notes and pictures of the western reporters who contribute regularly to the Roundup program.

George Cameron Stockand, pictured this week, was born in Edmonton, Alberta, and educated there and in Victoria, Banff and Calgary. From 1925 to 1941 he was in the tourist outfitting business at Banff, writing in his spare time for American and Canadian outdoor magazines on skiing and mountaineering. In 1941 he joined the R.C.A.F. and served as a flying instructor and navigation specialist to the end of the war. Retired to reserve he joined the Vancouver Sun as a reporter and feature writer, and later went into public relations work with a Vancouver paper company. Later he did trade magazine work in eastern Canada and was an editorial writer and general reporter on the Owen Sound Sun-Times. Back in Vancouver in 1951, he became a relief news writer for the CBC Newsroom, and worked also at his old trade magazine job.

Cam Stockand has done about 65 Roundup items in the past 20 months, as well as 40-odd Canadian Chronicle items for CBC International Service and sundry other items for CBC and BBC.

The Chosen Land

It looks as if Alberta were the chosen land. There will be more movie stars and producers, writers, technicians, managers in Alberta this summer than were ever assembled on one Hollywood set. Why Alberta? And why so many in Canada this year? Well, for that we can thank the Canadian Co-operation Project of the Motion Picture Association of America. But there are other reasons, too. First of all, we must remember that Hollywood has been wandering in a daze of depression. The Babylon days of extravaganza when stars had gold-tinted names on their postal boxes are running out in the movie capital. Hollywood was losing its foreign markets. . . . The Hollywood hay-making days were over. Then along came television with a blow that hit the California boys between the eyes. High priced help was fired. The swanky palaces in the hills had "for sale" signs outside.—John Fisher, on CBC.

BIRDS OF CANADA. A repeat of the documentary heard originally on Sunday, July 15. Thom Benson of the CBC special events section visited the Waterfowl Research Station at Delta, Manitoba, early this year to record bird sounds. He used a special parabolic reflector to make the recordings—a large, bowl-like structure, 40 inches in diameter, which concentrated and reflected the sound into a microphone placed ten inches from the centre of the bowl. Bird songs were picked up clearly and strongly at distances up to 100 yards. This broadcast attracted so much attention among bird-lovers throughout the Dominion that the CBC has been compelled to repeat it. (See letters, this page.)

SUMMER.

A word-picture in prose and verse of summer on an Ontario farm, by Lloyd Roberts; music by Phillip Nimmons; sound effects, David Tasker and Fred Tudor; J. Frank Willis, producer. Cast: Narrator—Budd Knapp; Pa—John Drainie; Sam—Jack Mather; Phil—Don Harron; Ma—Ruth Springfield; Dick—Billie Dinsmore; Grandma—Grace Webster.

Producer Willis describes this new Wednesday Night piece, a sequel to Roberts' broadcast on Winter, heard first in 1949 and again last January, as "a series of skilfully-drawn word pictures by one who is thoroughly conversant with the scene." Roberts, he says, lives on a farm at Grafton, Ontario, and seeks among his neighbours for character-models. He is a son of the late Sir Charles G. D. Roberts, celebrated author and naturalist, and a cousin of Bliss Carman, poet. Willis says he is now trying to persuade him to write a radio feature on Carman and the group known as "the Fredericton Colony." "Summers are long, endlessly long, and sweet with a tumult of flowers," says Roberts, in an opening stanza. He paints the season in many moods—rich smiling benevolence, to wrathful, lightning-torn vengeance—as seen through the eyes of a farmer. The farmer is pictured picking string beans under a scorching sun, herding cattle through the meadows, at dinner in a steaming kitchen, harvesting grain, sheltering from a sudden thunderstorm, resting in the cool after-hush in a star-lit garden. Tom Wilgress and family are the central characters. Tom has been on his farm for 50 years. His two oldest boys are married and away from home, and he is assisted by his wife, Mary, and his other sons—Phil, 19, and Dick, 12. Sam Hopkins is his much-hired, much-fired hired man. Dialogue, poetry, narration, and music alternate in this typically radio composition. Philip Nimmons' music, which he will also conduct, is in the nature of a full suite, longer than most background scores. Heavy responsibilities fall on the sound effects men, with composite effects including bird and animal noises, machines grinding, barnyard sounds, etc.

W-9:30 p.m. K-10:00 p.m. X-9:00 p.m.

RECITAL. Ethel Starke, violinist; from Montreal.

Sonata in A Major (Vivaldi); Nocturne, Op. 16, No. 1 (Medtner); Prelude, Op. 34, No. 24 (Shostakovich); Bagatelle (Scarletescu).

Miss Starke is the conductor of the Montreal Women's Symphony Orchestra, and has been guest conductor of the Toronto Symphony. She has also conducted concerts in France, Austria, and Switzerland.

Recordings Made at Delta, Manitoba, Repeated on CBC Wednesday Night

[Three months ago CBC Trans-Canada broadcast an unusual program which has been so widely acclaimed that it is to be repeated this week on Wednesday Night. It is Thom Benson's documentary prepared from bird sounds recorded at the Delta Waterfowl Research Station in Manitoba. By way of introduction to the second performance of this feature, some of the comments listeners sent in after the first broadcast are subjoined.]

I invited some friends home (mixture of biologists, laymen and wives) and we heard the program. It was unanimously agreed that this was one of the most interesting and remarkable programs we had heard for a long time. I was much impressed with your recordings of bird songs, which did better justice to the birds than those made by the Cornell University Laboratory of Ornithology. — Louis Lemieux, Dominion Wildlife Officer for Quebec, Quebec City.

Such programs stimulate development of interests and an awareness of our surroundings. — H. J. M., Kamloops, British Columbia.

We used to hear so many bird songs on the farm which we came to from England 60 years ago. We used to think the song (?) of the sora rail was a frog! The song of the red-winged blackbird did not sound quite the same on the program. Perhaps there is more than one species. We didn't know the names of most of the birds and used to call the red-wing "dock-de-dillia" because that's what its song sounded like — "aw-dock-au-d-i-l-i-a." There is one bird we have never yet discovered the name of. Perhaps one of your broadcasters may be able to say what it is. We always called it the rainy-night bird because it sang in the rain from the top of a tall tree—a high, clear, lonely song.—E. A. W., Edmonton.

One of the recordings played was the song of the red-winged blackbird, a bird with which I am very familiar, and yet I didn't recognize the song. I wondered if another recording was played by mistake or perhaps the blackbird's song is a little different on the prairie marshes from the one we hear in Ontario.—J. S. S., Toronto.

[Note: Thom Benson says the very mention of the redwinged blackbird makes him shudder. Of the many scores of listeners who wrote to him about the program, three mentioned this error, which will be corrected before the broadcast is repeated this week.]

My husband thinks that you (Thom Benson) specially like that bitter! I

Forum Report Shows Active Season 1952-53

Writers and broadcasters, university faculty members, members of parliament, housewives, businessmen, civil servants and welfare workers, in that order, were the principal contributors to Citizens' Forum discussions in the period from Oct. 16, 1952, to April 2, 1953, according to a report recently issued by Frank Peers of Toronto, CBC Forum producer.

There were 23 broadcast forums in the season, in which 76 speakers participated, with 14 different chairmen. Discussion broadcasts originated as follows: Vancouver 1; Edmonton 2; Winnipeg 1; Toronto 3; Kingston 1; Ottawa 5; Montreal 2; St. John's 1; New York 4; London 1.

The Forum is a co-operative project of the CBC and the Canadian Association for Adult Education. Topics are selected by a committee representing both organizations. Many topics are considered, and those mentioned most frequently are circulated among a large number of educationists, business and labour leaders, newspaper editors, parliamentarians, Forum secretaries, and others, before final selection is made. The Forum also has the assistance of a National Advisory Board, which meets periodically to advise the CBC and C.A.A.E. Members of this board, though sitting as individuals, represent various organizations: the Canadian Citizenship Council, Home and School Associations, Council of Churches, National Council of Women, Consumers Association, United Nations Association, Canadian Congress of Labour, Trades and Labour Congress, Chamber of Commerce, Manufacturers' Association. The chairman of the National Advisory Board is Mr. J. Alex Edmiston, assistant to the principal of Queen's University.

These were some of the topics discussed: Have Our Schools Forgotten

There's a full evening's good radio entertainment in each of the three boxes being turned over to the R.C.A.F.'s Air Transport Command at Dorval Airport near Montreal by LEN COSH, CBC's supervisor of troop broadcasts. The R.C.A.F. flies the programs to 11 different points "down north" for rebroadcast on stations operated by the Department of National Defence at isolated outposts in the Arctic. Transcriptions are also sent to the R.C.A.F. stations in Germany, France and the United Kingdom; to the 25th Brigade headquarters in Kure, Japan; and to the ships of the Royal Canadian Navy in both the Atlantic and the Pacific.

BIRD LOVERS PRAISE

think he is quite a psychologist, for what more inviting sound could there be to a lady biter! No carolling from tree tops, however sweet, would lure her so well!—C. W. M., North Battleford, Saskatchewan.

We recently moved to the country and have many birds around. Some we cannot see, only hear, and your program helps us identify them by song.—S. E. B., Guelph, Ontario.

It was such a refreshing change from the usual type of program, being interesting as well as educational for young and old alike. Thank you for your "bird concert" which we all sat back and enjoyed—with a few hearty laughs at some comical sounds coming from some of the birds!—R. L., New Westminster, British Columbia.

Our entire family enjoyed it more than any nature broadcast we have ever heard. It was most outstanding and it would seem a shame to just have it go once and not be heard again. With Canada's Girl Guides, Boy Scouts and so on, I believe if it was made available in record form there would eventually be quite a sale for it.—D. B., Banff, Alberta.

I do hope Thom Benson was not eaten up by mosquitoes.—C. L. H., Nanaimo, British Columbia.

[Note: He was!]

When the crow-call came on the radio my two dogs were so agitated by it that I had to let them out to bark in the bush next my cottage. Some of the other calls made them restless too but none as much as the crow's.—R. S. S., Barrie, Ontario.

The geese, ducks, loons, flickers, catbirds, were excellent. The robin wasn't too good. The only disappointment was the song sparrow, my favourite from childhood. They had a favourite meeting place beside our house and we were never without music from morning to night. He was an artist and it was in tribute to him that I made my first attempts at verse-making . . . If you could ever get a catbird to go through the entire repertoire, that would be something, but I've only once heard it. Do you have a record of a bobolink? A good one is our finest musician, I think.—J. A., Guelph, Ontario.

live, will get to know more about one another and about their mutual aspirations as members of a great nation.

In the second place, I feel that Canadians want to have Canadian television as distinct from French, British and American television, simply because the temperament of most Canadians is no longer typically French, or typically British, and still far from being typically American.

Finally, I am confident in the future of Canadian television because I know Canada has the potential talent it requires to make a success of it . . .

Our job would be a lot easier if our program budgets could be multiplied by a factor of 10, so that Canadian originations could meet competition on a more equal basis. While this is but a dream for the present, I should point out that, as more and more people buy receivers across the country, our increased resources from public service and from advertising will appreciably reduce the tremendous odds under which we have to work at present.

"Odyssey" Filmed

Modern media seems to be catching right up with the ancient story of Ulysses as set down by Homer. This summer the CBC has been presenting the story in weekly episodes on the radio. And now comes word from Rome that the first film ever to be made of the classic is in preparation, with Italian star Silvana Magnano as Penelope. On film, writes Helen Gould in the New York Herald Tribune, Ulysses' ship will again navigate the treacherous waters between Scylla and Charybdis (the straits of Messina) and the adventure with the Cyclops will take place close to the spot on the coast of Sicily which authorities agree was the actual site of the giant's cave. An American actor, Kirk Douglas, with his own blond beard, will star in the title role. Writers Ben Hecht, Irwin Shaw and Hugh Gray are collaborating on the script.

Fiddlers' Feet

CBC men who covered the Old-Time Fiddler's Contest at Shelburne in Ontario, in August, report that it takes a special kind of stamina to be a fiddler. The funny thing is, that fiddlers don't seem to be able to play if they don't stamp their feet. Which recalls to mind a story BBC people tell about the time a Shetland Dance Band was making a recording for radio. The recording engineers complained that the drums were too near the microphone, so they took the drums farther and farther away. Still that annoying thump came through the mike, so they pitched the drummer out altogether. Still the same complaint. Then they found the trouble, and didn't go ahead with the recording until they had made everyone in the band take off his shoes.
