Hear It Again - The All-Time Western Hit Parade

At Last Month's "Festival in Sound"

Mellow Maids with Vic Siebert (right).

Popular Winnipeg Groups On CBC "Spring Festival"

On March 30 close to 4,000 Winnipeggers crowded into the city's Civic Auditorium to hear a program of western music, traditional dances, and folk music.

The music was recorded, and this Saturday the weekly two-hour Spring

Festival (CBW-7:30 p.m., CBK-6:30 p.m., CBX-5:30 p.m.) features an hour of the songs and dances.

Taking part are The Sons of the Saddle, stars of CBWT's Saddle Songs, with vocalists Connie Holt and Donna Andert; cowboy troubadour Stu Davis; and Jake Park and his Polka Party band.

Following is the program:
SONS OF THE SADDLE
Minuet in Swing, Steel Guitar Rag, Uncle

Jim's Square Dance, Rose of San Antone, Sugarfoot Rag, Tumbling Tumbleweeds (featuring Stu Davis), Blue Shadows on the Trail (featuring the Mellow Maids), Y'All Come (featuring Stu Davis), Little Red Wagon

(featuring Vic Siebert), Dear Hearts and Gentle People (featuring the Mellow Maids), Cool Water (featuring Stu Davis).

Storyteller from Roblin

Tiny stages in the town halls of hundreds of prairie settlements have seen the first shaky steps of more than one now-accomplished Canadian artists.

One of these will be seen across Canada Sunday on the National Film Board's program Perspective. The film is "Tales out of School," and the storyteller and folk-singer is Thomas Kines, a native of Roblin, Manitoba.

Tom's career began in the amateur night, school concert, and choirs and orchestras of his home town. It continued in the University of Manitoba Glee Club's "Mikado," and later on Royal Canadian Navy corvettes of the Atlantic convoy, where he chorded his guitar and led the salty choruses of The Chandler's Wife.

Appropriately, this Sunday he sings the folk-song Jack the Sailor as he plays the part of the story-telling shopkeeper in "Nick's Knack Shop."

Since the war Tom has been with the Dominion Command of the Canadian Legion, as head of its administration. He has also found time to do many programs and films for the CBC and the National Film Board. He is familiar to many listeners and viewers for his appearances as the special Irish tenor guest on Songs of My People, as madrigal singer and lute-player on The Magic of Music, and as lieder-singer and Bach tenor on CBC recitals. He provided the musical background for the recent CBC Folio production, Dark of the Moon.

Tom has played the roles of businessman, psychologist, citizen and counsellor in a variety of National Film Board movies, and recently he recorded a high fidelity LP folk-song album entitled Maids and Mistresses for a U.S. company.

This summer he will be seen in a new folk-song series on television.

Mother's Day, Sunday, May 11, will find PHYLLIS MARSHALL, who combines her singing career with duties as a mother, spending a quiet day at home with her daughter SANDRA, who also is interested in music. Phyllis, singer of sultry ballads, appears regularly on the 'Cross-Canada Hit Parade on the CBC-TV network.

Spain vs. Britain Sunday On "The Land Is Bright"

In 1792 two men met at Nootka Sound to settle the details of a dispute that had arisen between their respective countries, Britain and Spain. The Englishman was Commander George Vancouver who had been on this Pacific Northwest coast once before as midshipman under Captain Cook. The Spaniard was Don Quadra, commander in Chief of the Spanish Marine at San Blas. The story of the friendship that grew between these two men, and of Captain Vancouver's four years of exploring the coast which finally proved the non-existence of the Strait of Anian, is told this Sunday in The Coastal Maze. This is the second program in the series of B.C. drama-documentaries, The Land is Bright, written by Roderick Haig-Brown.

One Answer to Starvation Sunday on "Canadian Scene"

Canadian Scene this Sunday visits the Halifax Technological Station of the Fisheries Board of Canada where scientists are carrying out a research program that may well provide an answer to one of the most important problems now confronting mankind—starvation.

The scientists at Halifax are chiefly concerned with trying to utilize what is left over after the popular food species of fish are processed. It has been found, for example, that a "flour" with an extremely high protein content can be made from the offal left after halibut and cod are filleted. When added to ordinary bread flour the resulting loaf is extraordinarily rich in body-building properties and completely without a "fishy" taste or smell.

Keith Barry will interview the director, Dr. Henri Fougère, who believes that everything man needs for nourishment can be found in the sea.

Opening of Parliament Monday on Radio, TV

CBC will televise the opening of the 24th Canadian Parliament May 12. Live coast-to-coast television and radio coverage, on both the English and the French networks, will include the election of the Speaker of the House of Commons and the opening of parliament by His Excellency, the Governor-General.

The election of the Speaker of the House of Commons will be televised at 9:55 a.m. CDT. At 1:45 p.m. CDT, cameras will record the scene before and upon the arrival of the Governor-General, to be followed by the formal opening of parliament. The radio coverage will start at 10:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m. CDT on the Trans-Canada and French networks.

Television recordings of the two broadcasts will be made available to non-connected stations.

Seven television cameras will be used for the telecast. From vantage points outside the Peace Tower and on the roof of the west block, it is planned to cover the arrival of the Governor-General's landau and his R.C.M.P. foot guards. The cameras will then show Prime Minister Diefenbaker officially greeting His Excellency and the procession to the senate chamber.

Inside, two cameras in the senate chamber will show the arrival of the judges of the supreme court, the speaker of the senate, government dig-

OPENING OF PARLIAMENT

Three cameras will pick up the M.P.'s as they proceed to the senate, headed by the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, the Sergeant-at-Arms, and the Speaker of the Commons; and their arrival in the senate. Viewers will then see and hear the Governor-General read the Speech from the Throne. This will be followed by the departure of His Excellency from the chamber, and concluding ceremonies in the senate. The program will end with the Governor-General leaving the Parliament Hill grounds.

There will be separate commentaries in English and French for both radio and television. Commentators will be, for television, Thom Benson, Bing Whittaker, Henri Bergeron and Jean Ducharme; for radio, Don Simms, John Benson, Raymond LaPlante and Charles Dussault. The coverage will be handled by Pierre Normandin, Production Co-ordinator. Spencer Moore will produce English radio coverage and Roger Mondoloni, French coverage. Cecil Browne will act as technical producer and Norman Moore will be technical co-ordinator.

Forty-five minutes of the opening ceremonies will be rebroadcast at 10:30 p.m. CDT on television.

More "Science Reviews" With Lister Sinclair

A new Science Review series with Lister Sinclair begins this Tuesday on CBC radio with a report on research into the problem of sea ice.

Sea ice—the heavy ice that forms on the surface of the ocean in northern latitudes, blocking valuable shipping routes—is a subject of intensive research in several countries. This Tuesday three scientists involved in sea ice research at McGill University will explain their work. Dr. Elton Pounder will review the main goals towards which all this work is directed in Canada—winter navigation on the St. Lawrence and increased navigation in the Arctic.

Lister Sinclair has planned a wide variety of topics for the second Science Review series. Experts from Canadian Universities and industries have agreed to help Sinclair promote wider understanding of scientific work that is in progress in many fields.

The series, scheduled to continue until the fall, will include talks recorded last winter during the international conference of geodesists and geophysicists, and reports on lake trout, volcanoes, "continental drift," blackflies, the adaptation of animals to cold, fungus, the earth's water, the sun, the moon, the 50th anniversary of the liquefaction of helium, and the 100th anniversary of the publication of Charles Darwin's Origin of Species.

Science Review is a summer replacement for the radio literary magazine Anthology (8:30 p.m. on CBW and CBK, 7:30 p.m. on CBX).

Celtic Legends

Legends of Celtic Britain, prepared by Jean Gow of Ottawa, are being heard on Wednesday afternoons on CBC radio. The series of 10 stories and legends of the ancient gods and heroes of Ireland, Scotland and Wales—the main homelands of the Celtic peoples—begins on May 7 with a program about The Sorrowful Children of Lir. Two more Irish stories will be heard on May 14 and 21—The Hill of Tara and King Under-wave's Daugh- ter. On the 28th there will be a Welsh story entitled The Legend of Llyn-y-fan.

Challenging Role For Webster—And Howe!

Toronto actor Alexander Webster has played many tricky roles on radio, TV and the stage since he first played the part of Joseph Howe on CBC Wednesday Night two years ago—but he still finds it the most challenging of all.

Webster is repeating the role of "the great Nova Scotian" again on CBC Wednesday Night May 7 and 14 in Joseph Schull's The Case of Posterity versus Joseph Howe.

Schull made Howe live again in his script, and Howe was a man of fantastic drive and energy.

"It's really hard work for an actor," Webster says. "He's always on the go—a brilliant, powerful orator, a real stormy petrel.

"The courtroom scene in the famous freedom-of-the-press trial is a good example of what is required. For something like eight hours solid Howe harangued the jury. In the script this is reduced to several long pages amounting to perhaps four or five minutes—it seems like an hour to me!—of straight talk with all the inflections of the expert orator—an awfully long time for one uninterrupted speech on radio."

Born in Fort William, Webster studied at Queen's University and at Lorne Greene's Academy of Radio Arts in Toronto. Among the television programs in which he has been seen are On Camera, CBC Television Theatre, Tugboat Annie, The Four Corners, and Howdy Doody. He is an expert at several Scottish dialects, and has played the role of a Scot in Lister Sinclair's The Blood is Strong on CBC Wednesday Night, and in Mavor Moore's The Ottawa Man at Toronto's Crest Theatre. For the National Film Board he has played everything from an alcoholic to an R.C.A.F. commander.

About "The Group" on "Lower Canada Swings"

"Man, to blow this stuff and get paid for it—that's a real gas!" Such words in the "beat" idiom best describe the manner in which the Halifax jazz combo known as "The Group" approaches its weekly session on Lower Canada Swings, the two-city jazz program Wednesdays on CBC radio.

Those in the free-wheeling sextet are Dick Crowe, piano; George Carroll, drums; Roy Eastman, bass; Bob Mercer, guitar; Warren Chaisson, vibes; and Stu Goree, clarinet—all versatile musicians whose first love is jazz.

To be a jazz musician in Halifax is a difficult thing. The city is well off the route of touring jazz groups, and Halifax practitioners must look to recordings and to themselves for inspiration. Because the city has no cabarets or night spots work is difficult to find. Halifax musicians play their jazz in odd moments, at impromptu jam sessions, on occasional radio shows, and during dance dates. Until a year ago there was no real showcase for their efforts.

During the last year however, jazz has been on the up-swing in Halifax.

12:45 NEWS AND SIGN OFF

About a year ago a group of musicians found a basement room, and there "Jazz Unlimited" was born. Each Sunday night the swinging shepherds lead their flock through jam sessions, the musicians playing without any reward but the applause that inevitably breaks things up, and the listeners paying the rent and supplying moral support.

From these sessions have emerged several definite characteristics that could be said to label the music as "an east-coast" school." The trend in Halifax has been to a hard-swinging approach with a certain amount of "bluesy-funkiness" thrown in. Improvisation is the keynote of the Halifax music; in jump tunes every man in the group solos while the rhythm section lays down a rock-hard base as a foundation.

This, then, is the type of jazz heard from Halifax on Lower Canada Swings. Producer Glenn Sarty say the members of "The Group" aren't really trying to prove anything "except perhaps that it is possible to play jazz that is acceptable to the jazz devotee, and also pleasant and entertaining to the layman."

Bassist Roy Eastman says: "We just pick up the horns and wail."

J. B. PRIESTLEY

is the author of "The Good Companions," to be discussed by Jim Parr of the University of Alberta on "Best-Sellers of the Twentieth Century" Sunday night on CBK and CBX, and Monday night on CBW.

CBC, Advisory Council
Plan TV Religious Series

CBC is planning a fall series of 13 weekly TV programs about the part religion plays in the national life.

The series, to be called Heritage, will consist of half-hour documentary-type programs about principal denominations. Each program will illustrate and attempt to resolve a human problem or situation characteristic of present-day life.

The program producers hope that the series will be of interest to both non-churchgoers and viewers who attend church regularly. The series is being produced by the CBC in cooperation with the National Religious Advisory Council. Representatives of denominations portrayed in the programs were consulted so that authentic expression of denominational character might be ensured.

"All the King's Men"

A prize-winning American novel on Kraft Theatre May 14 and 21

Robert Penn Warren's All the King's Men won a Pulitzer Prize as a novel and a Hollywood "Oscar" as the best movie of its year, but it first appeared as a play under a different title—Proud Flesh. This Wednesday night television producer Robert Herridge presents the story in yet another form on Kraft TV Theatre.

All the King's Men deals with an American dictator who goes by the name of Governor Willie Stark, but is not a political play. Writing in Theatre Arts, drama critic Eric Bentley said: "Though his subject-matter is political, Warren's interest is not in politics but in moral values. He neither attacks nor defends Governor Willie's policies; he examines his motives. He is attempting not a dramatic and propagandist indictment like, say, Citizen Kane but a tragedy, a play about life and death."

On Camera Three, which received Peabody and Ohio awards for its educational value, producer Herridge experimented with cameras, microphones, lights, words and music, worked them into a new kind of "television theatre." Variety called him "the imaginative egghead, the literary conscience of the medium, the man who can translate the universal dream into a common theme that can be understood by all men of good will."

A 38-year-old graduate of Northwestern and the University of California, Herridge started in television in 1950, and besides Camera Three and Kraft TV Theatre, has produced for Studio One Summer Theatre. As a free-lance writer, he has published in such publications as the Atlantic Monthly, Yale Review, Scribner's American Mercury and London Mercury.

"Ceiling Unlimited"

A special "Twentieth Century" program on satellites and space

Since man-made satellites started to rise and circle the earth, the fantasies of science fiction have become urgent and real. The public is faced with dozens of baffling questions about our universe and its altered future, increasingly full of both threat and promise.

Ceiling Unlimited, to be seen this Sunday (CBWT-10:35) on The Twentieth Century, is the story of a reporter's search for the answers to some of these questions. The trail leads the reporter (Walter Cronkite) from coast to coast, through laboratories, proving grounds, observatories, factories and universities. His questions are aimed at five main problems:

1. Now that satellites are in the sky, just what are we learning from them?
2. What will the satellites of the near future be like? What will they do for us?
3. When will we put man himself into space? How are we preparing to do it?
4. Why do we want to get out there? What will we achieve then? How important is the move to our military security?—our science?
5. What kind of life does man face in the space age? Can we divide up space? Where are its international boundaries?

In his search for the answers Cronkite will interview the outstanding authorities — Dr. Kraft Ehrlicke (designer of the Atlas Intercontinental Ballistic Missile, who will explain the design of a man-carrying space ship he has now designed), James van Allen, Wernher von Braun, Capt. Iven Kincheloe, Clo. J. J. Stapp, Arthur Kantrowitz, William Pickering, Norman Peterson, Ernst Stuhlinger, and many others.

Ceiling Unlimited will also include a Russian film never before shown in this country. A combination of dramatization and animation, it depicts a manned flight to the moon.

This special one-hour feature is the last program in the current Twentieth Century series. It will be followed by a repeat of the series Air Power.

TV and Books

Television has proved unexpectedly to be a great aid to the printed word.

Although no one has explained why, everyone has noticed that since television there has been an enormous increase in serious reading and intelligent reading.

I don't think this is accidental. I believe there is in the form of television a resource which is very helpful to the people concerned with the printed word.

The printed word is one man speaking to one man. Radio is one man speaking to many men. The movie is many people speaking to many people.

But television has some of the old person-to-person qualities of the book. It is in a sort of magazine format. It is directed at you. In a certain sense you are the screen. The relation between you and that image is not unlike that between you and the printed word. And it is the enormously increased pressure of this relationship between the image and viewer that has, I am quite sure, strengthened the position of the printed page in the last 10 years.

Television has the power of depth — of moving into the inner life — in the same way that a book has. It has its own language, its own powers, and its own limitations.—Dr. Marshall McLuhan, professor of English at the University of Toronto, in a speech to the Canadian Industrial Editors' Association's 12th annual conference.

CBC Joins Civil Defence In Radio Experiment

The CBC will co-operate with Federal Civil Defence authorities in the first test of five mobile emergency radio broadcasting stations designed to be put into operation in the event that normal broadcasting is stopped in any area due to a national emergency. The station will be in operation from 2:00 a.m. to 4:00 a.m. EST on Thursday, May 15, in Amprior, Kingston, Peterborough, Camp Borden and North Bay.

The stations may be described as transportable transmitters and are mobile in the sense that they are contained in trucks and can be moved quickly into an area where established transmission has been disrupted. They cannot, however, broadcast while in motion. They are equipped with a large sectional antenna which can be erected in a short period of time by a four-man crew.

The CBC's part in the May 15 exercise will be to provide five announcer-operators who will be in charge of the five stations. A special program of recorded music will be fed from the CBC's Toronto studios along a specially established network. The music will be interrupted at intervals by the following announcement: "This is a civil defence radio station test." Members of the public are invited to listen and send reception reports to: Federal Civil Defence Headquarters, Room 428, Daly Building, MacKenzie Avenue, Ottawa.
