Changing Asia

Couchiching Conference meetings to be covered daily on CBC radio August 8-14

FIFTEEN years ago, Japan showed herself as a world power. Today, China, India and other huge areas in the Far East, involving half the world's population, have shown the same intention, if not quite yet the capacity. This is quite obvious. Yet here in Canada we are almost totally ignorant of Far Eastern ways of thought; our education is still almost totally directed towards Europe, our eyes turned almost exclusively across the Atlantic, despite our Pacific coastline.

"This year we decided that the Couchiching Conference should deal with Changing Asia," says CBC program organizer Art Stinson. "As soon as we approached some experts on Asia they stressed one thing: nothing irritated Asians more than for Westerners to talk of Asia in European terms. We therefore tried to get as many Asians as possible for the Conference. We will bring to the conference two distinguished people direct from Asia—Han Suyin, doctor and novelist, and Kazushige Hirasawa, Editor of Japan Times, Tokyo—with at least another 25 Asians who are now for one reason or another in North America."

"Naturally, Asian-western relations are a legitimate topic and we will have North American speakers," Stinson went on. "For instance, Edwin O. Reischauer di-

At the Couchiching Conference

Lambertus Nicodemus Palar was born in the North Celebes in 1902. After his early education there he went to the Netherlands in 1928 to study economics, sociology and constitutional law. He became a member of the executive board of the Dutch Labour Party, and in 1939 was a candidate for the Labour seats in both the first and second chamber of the Dutch Parliament. War prevented the election, Palar became a leader of the Dutch underground during the Nazi occupation, and after the war became a member of the Dutch Parliament. He worked hard for Dutch-Indonesian friendship but when in 1947 the Dutch waged war on Indonesia, he resigned his seat. The Indonesian Government then appointed him as its spokesman at the U.N. Since then he has held important Indonesian diplomatic posts including that of ambassador to India, West Germany, the U.S.S.R., and now Canada.

Cadambi Seshachar Venkatachar was born in 1899 and educated at Presidency College, Madras; University College, London, and Trinity College, Cambridge. He entered the Indian Civil Service in 1923. By 1943 he was Prime Minister of the former princely state of Jodhpur and later Bikaner. In 1951 he became Secretary to the Ministry of States and from 1955 to 1958 was secretary to the President of India. He is now Indian High Commissioner to Canada.

Y. P. Mei, professor of Oriental Studies at the Iowa State University, was born in 1900 in Tientsin, China. He graduated from Tsing Hua College in Peking in 1922, and received a B.A. degree from Oberlin College in 1924, and a Ph.D. in philosophy from the University of Chicago in 1927. Dr. Mei joined the faculty of Yenching University in Peking; under his leadership the students and faculty of Yenching fled the Japanese occupation in their famous march to the interior of China where they continued their studies under extremely difficult conditions. On the eve of the Communist victory Dr. Mei left China. He has written a great deal on Chinese culture, including a two-volume contribution to the study of Mo Tzu.

Nirmal Chaudhuri, U.N. diplomatic correspondent of the Straits Times, was born in Calcutta in 1917. He is a graduate of the University of Calcutta and did graduate work at the University of Edinburgh (he took first place in the honours group in International Law) and at the University of London (in economics). He worked in Great Britain during World War II in a munitions plant and after the war was associated with adult education in Britain. He is now an American citizen.

Kazushige Hirasawa was born in 1909 and educated at the Tokyo Imperial University, later attending Bates College, Maine. He was in the Japanese Department of Foreign Affairs from 1935-45; his last post abroad was Japanese consul in New York in 1941. He is now editor of the Japan Times.

Edwin O. Reischauer, an American authority on Japan, was born in Tokyo in 1910 and received his M.A. and Ph.D. from Harvard. He has completed several texts for the study of Japanese and has written a number of books on Japanese and Chinese history and on U.S. Foreign Policy in Asia including Wanted: An Asian Policy.

James Graham Parsons, Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs, was born in New York and educated at Yale and the New York University Graduate School of Business Administration. He entered the U.S. Foreign Service as private secretary to the U.S. Ambassador to Japan in 1932-36. He has had a distinguished career in the Foreign Office; his last ambassadorial position was to Laos in Laos in 1956.

Very Much A Woman

A profile of Dr. Han Suyin, Couchiching Conference delegate, who will be interviewed Wednesday on "Close-Up"

ALTHOUGH Dr. Han Suyin is a Roman Catholic, has found it difficult to work with Chinese communists, and cannot accept the rigid pattern of totalitarian life, she has a deep sympathy for much of what the mainland Chinese are trying to do, and an understanding of the social and economic forces at work.

Her novel A Many Splendoured Thing is based on her own love for a British war correspondent. But it is also the story of the East-West conflict, set in Hong Kong filled with Chinese refugees and against a background of war, social upheaval and poverty.

"I write as an Asian with all the pent-up emotion of my people," she says about the book. "What I say will annoy many people who prefer more conventional myths brought back by writers on the Orient. All I can say is that I try to tell the truth. Truth, like surgery, may hurt, but it cures."

Han Suyin was born in Peking in 1917, daughter of a Chinese scholar and engineer, and a French-woman. She graduated as a medical doctor from Yenching University and went to London University to study obstetrics. Dr. Han rates herself as "a brilliant diagnostician" who "could be a top grade, highly paid specialist" if "some demon" did not divert her energies into writing books (says Newsweek).

Her first husband, General Tang Pao-hueng, was on the staff of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and they lived in the interior of China during the Sino-Japanese war. "The children of our generation knew frequent war, chaos, fighting. None of us but had a first-hand acquaintance with civil war."—General Tang was killed in 1947 fighting the communists at the siege of Mukden.

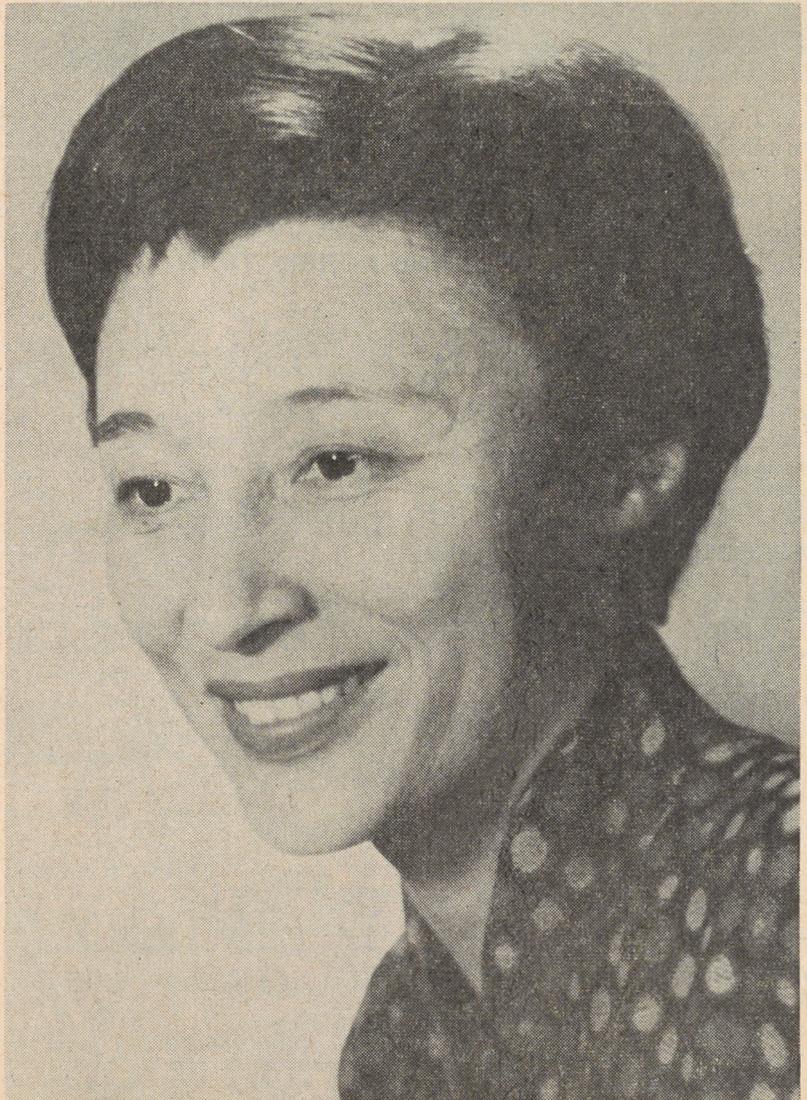

In 1952 Dr. Han married again, a former British police officer, now a student of Oriental cultures. She now lives in Malaya, maintaining her own small medical clinic. Her patients are all Chinese "because the Europeans don't exactly approve of me, particularly the European women."

Her book And the Rain My Drink (1956) is about Malaya caught in the nationalist conflict. The chief character is a twenty year old girl terrorist who is captured by the British and turns informer. Her latest book The Moun- tain Is Young (for which Paramount offered a reported $500,000 for film rights following the success of the film of her A Many Splendoured Thing) is set in Nepal to where she was invited to attend the coronation.

Her last two books have had varying reviews: "It is not the subtlest novel of the year. It is a melodious and passionately plotted travelogue." (New York Times.) "Han Suyin is a writer of extraordinary talent, but at the same time she has the misfortune of being a woman. Han Suyin, the woman, breaks off her feast of de-

A Great Composer's Greatest Music

Montreal String Quartet will perform Beethoven's "last five" quartets in a new fall radio series which will also include performances of chamber works by Canadian composers

THE famous last quartets of Beethoven will be broadcast in sequence for the first time on CBC radio late this fall in a special series of programs by the Montreal String Quartet. Each of the programs will also include a performance of a quartet by a Canadian composer.

The Beethoven quartets to be heard are No. 12 in E Flat Major, Op. 127; No. 13 in B Flat Major, Op. 140 (with the original final movement—the "Great Fugue," Op. 133); No. 14 in C Sharp Minor, Op. 131; No. 15 in A Minor, Op. 132; and No. 16 in F Major, Op. 135. (The sequence given is the conventional one; actually the A Minor Quartet was completed before the B Flat and C Sharp Quartets).

Beethoven had neglected the string quartet form for 13 years when he began work on the first of the "last five."

"In these five quartets, we have the greatest of Beethoven's music, and much of it is different in kind from any other music that he or anybody else ever wrote," said J. W. N. Sullivan in his 1927 study of Beethoven's music. "Perhaps even Shakespeare never reached that final stage of illumination that is expressed in some of Beethoven's late music. It is possible, indeed, that Beethoven's late music is unique, not only in music, but in the whole of art."

Detailed program notes on the Beethoven quartets will be published in the CBC Times when the series begins.

Among the Canadian composers whose quartets will be performed on the series are Sir Ernest MacMillan, John Weinzweig, and Jean Papineau-Couture.

The Montreal String Quartet was formed in 1954. Since then it has gained an excellent reputation locally (through its Montreal recitals), nationally (through its CBC recitals), and internationally (through its recordings for the CBC International Service).

The leader of the quartet, violinist Hyman Bress, was born in South Africa and came to Canada from the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia. He has been highly acclaimed by both public and critics in Europe and North America. In 1957 Mr. Bress won the Heifetz Prize and the New York Concert Artists' Guild Award. He made his London debut six months ago, and returns to Europe later this year for a concert tour and broadcasts on the BBC. Mr. Bress, who is 27, is concertmaster of the Montreal Symphony Orchestra.

Violist Otto Joachim and his brother, 'cellist Walter Joachim, were born in Germany. They played together in Europe before the Second World War, and again in Shanghai in 1940. They came to Canada seven years ago and now teach at the McGill and Provincial Conservatories in Montreal. Otto Joachim is also a composer of note. Both Joachims will be heard on the Jazz da Camera program this week on CBC Wednesday Night (see page 27), Otto on violin, viola and saxophone, and Walter on string bass.

Mildred Goodman, the quartet's second violin, is a Canadian-born artist who divides her time between her family and her many rehearsals and performances as a member of the Montreal String Quartet.

Raymond Massey
On Desilu Playhouse

Desilu Playhouse this Monday on CBC-TV stars Toronto-born actor Raymond Massey in Two Counts of Murder. The 63-year-old brother of Canada's governor-general, Vincent Massey, plays the role of a ruthless political boss who uses his power to suppress a charge of murder laid against his grandson.

Mr. Massey this month left his starring role in Broadway's Pulitzer Dutch. Jerry decides the only solution is for him to move to the dismay of all concerned.

Desilu Playhouse

This week—"Two Counts of Murder," a story of political corruption and intrigue by Henry Denker, starring Raymond Massey, David Janssen, and Whitney Blake. Raymond Massey plays Amos Claypool, a ruthless political boss who takes immediate steps to protect his grandson (played by William Allyn) when the young man is charged with murder. All of Claypool's political puppets, including the District Attorney (David Janssen), agree to suppress the case, but the Assistant District Attorney (Lawrence Dobkin) persists in the charges and is brutally beaten by Claypool's hired thugs. As a result, the D.A. is forced to an agonizing decision: If he brings the young man to trial he forfeits not only the governorship of the state, which is Claypool's promise, but also the love of Claypool's granddaughter (played by Whitney Blake).

Prize-winning drama "J. B.," by Archibald MacLeish, to appear in Two Counts of Murder.

Raymond Massey was educated at the University of Toronto and at Balliol College, Oxford. During the First World War he served as a lieutenant in the Canadian Army and was wounded at Ypres. After the war he worked in the family's farm-implement business and took part in amateur theatricals at the University of Toronto's Hart House. (Hart House is named after his grandfather, Hart Massey, whose estate financed the building of it. Hart Massey — who in 1890 effected the merger of the family's business with A. Harris and Son, thus establishing the largest firm of its kind in the British Empire—also endowed a chair of religious education at Victoria College, established the Fred Victor Mission, and presented Toronto with its great concert auditorium—Massey Hall).

In 1922 Raymond Massey made his professional debut in Eugene O'Neill's In the Zone at the Everyman Theatre—which he helped to manage for five years. In London he also appeared with Sybil Thorn-dike in Shaw's Saint Joan, acted in 12 plays, and produced 13 others.

He won acclaim in New York with his playing of the title role in Abe Lincoln in Illinois, in 1939. He has made about 30 films, including Fire Over England, Abe Lincoln in Illinois, and Forty-Ninth Parallel.

Mr. Massey is a descendant of Geoffrey Massey, who landed at Salem, Mass., in 1630 and became one of the founders of the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

CBWT—See - - Hear!

This week—"Strong With Falls"—CBC Winnipeg film on the $40,000,-000 power project under construction on the Nelson River 425 miles north of Winnipeg — a project second in scope only to that of the St. Lawrence Seaway. The Kelsey Generating Station will supply the power for the International Nickel Company, its developments in the Thompson-Mystery-Moak Lake area, and any other industries which may locate in this area. A modern community that will soon house 5,000 workers is well on the way to completion at Thompson, virgin territory until a few years ago. Kelsey is the first large hydro development to utilize the potential hydro power of the rivers in the northern latitudes of Manitoba. The entire Nelson River has been diverted from its course during the construction of the giant generating station which will eventually develop almost 400,000 kilowatts. (The Kelsey Generating Station has been named to perpetuate the memory of Henry Kelsey, credited with being the first white man to explore the northern sections of Manitoba. During his many voyages into the interior from Fort York in the years 1690-92, while employed as a trader for the Hudson Bay Company, Kelsey maintained a diary which has since been published as the Kelsey Papers — the earliest known records describing the interior of Manitoba's northland). "Strong With Falls" was produced by Felix Lazarus; Paul Guyot was cameraman. The film is narrated by Ron Hunka.

Top Trombonist On Jack's Show

Among the guests on The Show That Jack Built this Tuesday on CBC-TV from Winnipeg is jazz trombonist J. J. Johnson.

Johnson has been voted top man in his field in the following jazz polls: Downbeat Magazine, both readers' and international jazz critics' polls (1955, 1956, 1957, 1958), Metronome Magazine ('55 to '58), Playboy Magazine ('57-'58), Esquire, Theme Magazine, Le Jazz Hot (French), Jazz Podium (German), Music Maker (English), Estrad (Swedish), and Orchestra Journalen (Swedish).

In the "Musicians' Musician Poll" included in Leonard Feather's Encyclopedia Yearbook of Jazz a jury of 100 fellow artists voted

Johnson the "greatest trombonist ever."

Johnson started his musical studies on piano at the age of eight in his native Indianapolis. In high school he took up saxophone, later switched to trombone, and became interested in arranging as a result of his high school studies of harmony and counterpoint. After playing with the Benny Carter and Count Basie orchestras, Johnson joined forces with the "new movement" in jazz in New York, formed his own combo, and began making recordings. In 1951 he went overseas to the Far East with an All-Star Group, and on his return he did more freelance work with his own small group, and taught at the Progressive Music School in New York.

Johnson's diversified tastes in music extend to the field of the classics. His Poem For Brass was recently recorded by a group of Metropolitan Opera musicians conducted by Dimitri Mitropoulos. The work was commissioned by the Jazz and Classical Society.

Johnson has appeared with his group in Sweden (eight-week tour), Holland, Germany, France, Belgium, England, Denmark, and in top U.S. and Canadian clubs.

"Tidal Wave" by Vancouver author and retired sea captain Thomas Gilchrist. It is the story of a feud aboard a tension-ridden freighter bound for Vancouver. Percy Saltzman, visits the Couchiching Conference to interview Han Suyin, one of the speakers. Dr. Suyin has been described as "the Far East's specialist on sex and socialism." She is the author of "A Many Splendoured Thing" (see page 3).

scription every so often to treat us to scenes of sexual passion and frustration. Is it too much to hope that in her next book Han Suyin will be the first woman to venture a few jokes about sex." (Saturday Review.) "Han Suyin has come a long way since her first novel, the moving and poignant A Many Splendoured Thing—a long way in the wrong direction . . ." (Chicago Sunday Tribune.)

Of Han Suyin, the woman, she feels completely Chinese; she herself said in 1957, "I was educated in China and spent 28 of my 40 years in China. I read, write and speak Chinese fluently and this is what gives me an advantage over the non-Chinese speaking Chinese born in the United States or elsewhere who don't really know anything about China."

Writing in Holiday, Roger Angell said of Dr. Han, "She is a doctor, a writer, a speaker, a pamphleteer, a wife and mother, a formidable intellect and very much a woman . . . a complete person; totally involved, in work, thought and human relations, with the world around her.

Here is a mature, delightfully complex woman whose tough mind still allows room for a warm heart and a compassionate understanding."

Dr. Han Suyin is visiting Canada to speak at the Couchiching Conference (see page 2). While here she will be interviewed on Close-Up by Percy Saltzman this Wednesday.

FALL TV SCHEDULE

- Four others, to be announced shortly.

Twenty-three programs in the '58-'59 schedule will be presented in the '59-'60 schedule. They include G.M. Presents (Sundays),

JACK HAWKINS

Front Page Challenge (Tuesdays), Close-Up (Thursdays), Fighting Words (Sundays), and Country Hoedown (Friday).

CBC Folio will be discontinued, but the unit which has been responsible for it in the past will continue to produce a series of special live programs.

Studio Pacific

A new TV drama series beginning this Wednesday

Nine plays—a sea drama, a Scottish comedy, two war dramas, fantasy, love and suspense—will originate from Vancouver to the CBC-TV network over the next few weeks. Seven of the plays are by six British Columbian authors. Studio Pacific will be seen on Wednesday nights.

The first play (August 12) is Tidal Wave by Vancouver author and retired deep sea captain Thomas Gilchrist. Captain Gilchrist, who wrote the long radio series on CBC Trans-Canada called Marine Investigator, the recent CBC Wednesday Night drama-documentary on The Trail of Captain Kidd, returns to the sea for the locale of this TV play.

It tells of the freighter, S.S. Trevalle, in the North Pacific, Vancouver bound. The situation aboard is tense, with the chief officer, Marshall, battling a malaria-ridden skipper who taunts Marshall with having lost his own command. Marshall also has a feud with the Second Officer who has the tacit backing of the rest of the crew. Into this tense situation comes warning of an approaching tidal wave.

- Following is a list of titles:
- August 12: Tidal Wave by Captain Gilchrist.
 - August 19: Scotch Wae Hae by Roy Brinson.
 - August 26: The Long Drop by Geoffrey Spencer.
 - September 9: The Borrowers by Peter Statner.
 - September 23: The Gentleman with a Knife by Herb Hosie.
 - September 30: The Canary and the Pug Dog by Roy Brinson.
 - October 7: House with Doors by Irene Robinson.
 - October 14: Anyone for Alice by Joan Reid.
 - October 21: The Bunker by Herb Hosie.

Supervising producer for Studio Pacific is John Thorne who has produced many dramas out of Vancouver, including the popular children's series of book dramatization, Hidden Pages.

Host on the program is Harvey Dawes, and participating interviewers are Chuck Skelding and Warren Davis. Len Weinstein, producer. From Winnipeg.

New Paintings For Old Weapons

Sgt. Walter B. DesChamps of the Royal Canadian School of Artillery at Shilo, this week's guest on CBWT's Hobby Corner, wants to become a recognized Canadian painter and he is using a novel idea to reach that goal! He found that selling his paintings in an effort to become known was too slow, so he swaps them for antique swords and other edged weapons. He'll also accept old coins and old paper money, clocks, military medals, and other antiques.

He exhibited his collection at the Manitoba Winter Fair in Brandon in April and also demonstrated his dexterity with brush and oils for patrons there.

Sgt. DesChamps, a French-Canadian from Montreal, started his collection four years ago, while based at Kingston, Ontario. Since then, he has traded about 75 paintings — all of them landscapes in oils. The collection now includes 165 edged weapons, 400 coins, 300 pieces of paper money from all over the world, and several other antiques.

He says the best piece in his collection is a 16th century Spanish duelling dagger and he values it at about $100.00. The painting he traded for it was worth from $20.00 to $40.00, he estimates.

Among the other pieces Sgt. DesChamps prizes most in the collection are a 1792 British cavalry sabre, a French naval officer's cutlass dated 1818, a Queen Victoria artillery officer's dress sword, a Chinese temple sword, and the shortest type of sword ever made — a Queen Victoria naval officer's court sword.

Among the smaller items included in the collection are a pair of "knuckle dusters" used by the British army in the Second World War and a pair of French eating knives from the 17th century.

Sgt. DesChamps is not just a part-time artist. Drawing is part of his job in the army. He is a "training aid artist" and draws to illustrate certain types of weapons and methods.

This week on "Manitoba Mirror"

CBW Goes To Pine Falls

Prairie people are not usually thought of as pulp-cutters and paper-makers; prairie towns are better known for their beef, barley and butter than they are for pulp, paper and power. CBW radio listeners may be surprised, therefore, to hear this week's Manitoba Mirror programs reflecting the people, places and sounds of a Manitoba town that sends its produce into hundreds of thousands of prairie homes every day.

This week the CBW mobile radio team will visit the Pine Falls district of Manitoba, situated on the Winnipeg River about 90 miles northeast of Winnipeg. Pine Falls is the production centre for the Manitoba Paper Company which supplies the newsprint for some of the largest daily and weekly newspapers in Western Canada.

Manitoba Mirror will set up temporary radio studios in Manitou Lodge, a residence for most of the single men who work in the pulp-mill. CBW announcer Bill Guest will be interviewing mill managers, timber cruisers, boommen, scalers, fallers, chemists and cat-skinners. Doris Dickson, CBW's morning commentator, will also be presenting a picture that is different from the usual. Even the women of Pine Falls will have some unique comment, for they live in a "company" town, extremely modern, very clean, with some strict regulations on housing conditions, without the usual Manitoba community shopping section, and with very unusual working hours for many of their husbands and families.

Farm commentator George Price will be meeting farmers who frequently make more money harvesting trees than wheat. Many of them spend the winter season in the pulp-cutting camps and even work following spring break-up on the log drives.

Manitoba Mirror producer Dan Wood and control operator Wally Wiebe will be setting up their broadcasting equipment in the Legion Hall for one evening's programs, in another local hall for an afternoon tea, and in the Anglican Church for a Sunday morning service. There will be nearly two hours of programs a day from Pine Falls this week. The exact times of the thirty-odd programs are listed in the CBW schedule, starting on page 20.

They Fought Alone

• I wish to commend you for the very excellent Saturday morning program They Fought Alone. I consider this one of the finest things on the air and deserving of much more publicity than it has received. It is a pity it is not carried on the entire network.* The dramatization of the life of Elizabeth Blackwell, the first woman M.D., was not only informative but inspiring; I was deeply moved. This is the sort of thing that makes us appreciate our heritage. The life of Cato not only brought the past to life but made us aware how pertinent those same problems are to the present time. The resemblance was startling. No monument however beautifully or costly can compare with such a dramatization of a person's life. It not only honours him, but makes him part of the mental fibre of our world, thus ensuring his immortality and serving as an inspiration to generations of the future. I even like the title. In these days of big business corporations, unions, amalgamations and togetherness, the lone fighters are becoming a vanishing breed.—H. Z., Winnipeg.

* It is heard on CBC stations in B.C., Manitoba, Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes.

Royal Visit

• Could you please inform me, regarding the coverage of the visit of the Queen and Prince Philip to Winnipeg, why there was no complete coverage, why the coverage at the Legislative Grounds was so brief, and why, especially, there was no coverage of the arrival and departure of these two lovely persons?—Mrs. J. M. F., Winnipeg.

Since the Royal Visit lasted for six weeks it was considered best to cover only the most important, interesting, and, as much as possible, "different" types of activities as the royal visitors traveled across Canada. "Complete" coverage—every arrival, every drive down every city's main street, every hand-shaking ceremony, and every departure—would soon have become monotonous. The two main events in Winnipeg were certainly the historic Queen's Rent ceremony and the ethnic pageant, both of which were broadcast by CBC. The latter program, as planned, was long enough (45 minutes) to cover the pageant completely and to show the Royal Couple before, during, and after the pageant. Unfortunately, the royal party arrived at the Legislative grounds 10 minutes late and this did shorten the program. A special edited review of the Royal Couple's visit to Winnipeg was also carried on CBWT on the Monday following their departure.

• I would like to commend you on the excellent coverage of the Royal Tour. I have watched all the live telecasts and have enjoyed them all. Certainly they have all been executed masterfully. The review series on the Royal Tour is also very well done, carried out with moderation and good taste.—K. J. B., Winnipeg.

New Panel Shows

• I understand that Live a Borrowed Life is the summer replacement for One of a Kind. Surely it should not be merely a replacement. My opinion is that it will rate with the CBC's top shows, such as Close-Up and Front Page Challenge. Perhaps it could replace One of a Kind during the winter months.—Mrs. R. A. W., Halifax.

• This is to let you know that we want One of a Kind back on the air this fall. We'd rather see living celebrities than housewives and ordinary people. If I want to know about dead kings or composers I have an encyclopedia.—Mrs. R. N., Wetaskiwin, Alta.

MUSIC ON RADIO

By FRANK HAWORTH
of Toronto

MANY of us in our present-day musical thinking are obsessed with the notion of "originality," which we demand of a composer, not only in his general idiom, style, outlook and methods, but also in each of his individual works. We don't merely forbid him to repeat the ideas of other men; we are not happy if he even repeats his own. Each production, we insist, must be a brand new creation not related to or derived from any of his previous efforts; and any disposition to return to, or develop elements already used we deplore as weakness, and a breakdown of creative power.

This attitude did not always prevail. In former times composers cheerfully turned out sonatas, and even symphonies, in batches, all as alike as peas—because all continued the same vein of thought, and all exploited the same handful of thematic notions—without protest. Among the first to break away from this tradition was Beethoven, whose constant search for avenues for the expression of profound personal thought led him, quite early in his career, to resolve that he would make each work a unique utterance. (He once indignantly refused a commission to compose a symphony in his earlier manner.) This trend is apparent in two of his earlier works to be heard this week.

The Sonata for cello and piano, Op. 5 No. 2, to be played by cellist Reynold Siemens with Mario Bernardi in the Sunday Morning Recital, is one of five such sonatas, spread over his career, and differing markedly from each other, and from previous productions of the kind. (This one, incidentally, was played by Beethoven himself, at the piano, at a court concert for King Frederick William II of Prussia, to whom it is dedicated.) The Symphony No. 1, to be given by the CBC Chamber Orchestra

Canadian Derby Saturday on CBC

Prairie Sports Final this Saturday on radio is trimmed down to 15 minutes to allow for a 15-minute report on the Willingdon Cup Golf Tournament from Vancouver. This will be followed by a half-hour description of the running of the Canadian Derby, "live" from Edmonton.

Commentators on the Canadian Derby will be CBC Alberta sportscaster Glen Bjarnason and CFRN-TV sports director Al Shaver. Glen, this week's cover personality, will do the colour commentary. Al will announce the running of the race, which is second only to the Queen's Plate in money and prestige.

Glen began his radio career in 1946 as news and sports announcer at CFRN, Edmonton. From 1949 until 1951, when he became a sports writer for the Edmonton

POSTMARK U.K.

Following Sam Pollock's “News From Home” Arthur Bush visits Winchester, one of England's loveliest cathedral cities. Situated in the County of Hampshire in the south of England it was once England's capital. The cathedral, with its 800-year-old tower, is the centre both physically and spiritually of the town, but the people of Winchester are just as proud of the other links with the past which still survive there —the charming narrow streets with their old buildings and medieval churches. The city also contains one of England's finest medieval almshouses, the Hospital of St. Cross, and it is from here that the famous Wayfarer's Dole of ale and bread is still distributed to travellers, just as it always has been for the past 700 years. Eastward by Cargo Boat. Near the end of May, Harriet Hill and her husband left Montreal on a trip that would last two months and take them to Portugal, Spain, Italy, Greece, Lebanon, Syria and Egypt, by cargo boat. They returned recently. Today, in the first of three talks, Mrs. Hill talks about what it's like to travel on a freighter, the cost, the accommodation, and the people who were her fellow passengers. Mrs. Hill is a freelance broadcaster.

School for Professional Children. The Professional Children's School in New York is just like other schools reports Moira Johnston. But not quite. There are pony trails, plaid shirts, pleated skirts and not a Shirley Temple ringlet in the lot. But there is also a poise and a sophistication; because these are children who read Variety, know where they're going and don't like being between jobs. Their job? Modelling, acting, singing, dancing—in short entertainment. The school is run to give them their academic education while they pursue their careers. Mrs. Johnston is a Canadian freelance writer now living in New York.

Suffer to be Beautiful. Renata Cochrane, when a child, was always told that women must suffer to be beautiful. She really found out what the phrase meant when she moved, eight years ago, to the territory of Papua and New Guinea. All the native women there are tattooed — and the painful process of tattooing begins when a girl is 10, is repeated when she reaches adolescence, again when she reaches marriageable age, and finally when she is married.

on Thursday evening, is the first of a line of works as individualistic and distinct from one another as anything in the annals of the art—a fascinating revelation of the many facets of a single mind.

The last-mentioned concert also features music by Bach—his Brandenburg Concerto No. 4—and by Schoenberg—his Begleitungsmusik op. 34; and apart from the intrinsic merits of the three compositions, you may find interest in comparing the methods and approaches of the three composers. Whereas Beethoven seems concerned primarily with the creation of vivid and cogent themes and melodies, Bach's main preoccupation seems to be with the weaving of a rich and close-knit texture from material which, while characteristic of its author, is yet less arresting and forceful in its own nature than Beethoven's. Schoenberg is interested chiefly in the question of idiom—of setting up relationships between the notes in such a way as to produce music with a particular "flavour," as it were; and this, perhaps, is the best thing to listen for in his works, which are admittedly difficult to grasp, unless you can make a considerable study of them beforehand.

Items . . . The Galant Ensemble of Toronto, plays Dvorak's cheerful String Quartet, op. 77, in CBC Concert Hall on Friday . . . Gudrun Simonar, who sings in the Western Artists program on Monday, is a lady of enterprise — besides Paisiello, Caldara, Brahms and Falla, her composers include Thordarson, Isolfsson, Porparinnson and Fontenailles.

Satire in Hell

Four's Company presents David Brock's "The Dark Dominion" August 8 and 11 on radio

David Brock, the well-known Vancouver writer and humourist whose polished nonsense has entertained CBC radio listeners on many occasions, has long wanted to write an imaginary conversation between well-known personalities. Recently the CBC commissioned him to do just that, and listeners will hear the result Tuesday afternoon on the Trans-Canada radio network when Four's Company presents The Dark Dominion. (This is a rebroadcast of the Saturday, August 8 program, scheduled for CBK and CBX only).

"The action," says producer John Reeves, "takes place in Hell, between the Devil, a Canadian business woman, and a famous man of letters. They discuss human corruption in a humorous and philosophical way, and come to the conclusions that man has always had a tendency to corrupt himself and others, but in the 20th-century he has been far more successful at it than in the past. There's a fascinating bit of dialogue when the man of letters and the business woman—who had been in advertising—discuss the good and bad uses of human communication."

David Brock was born in Ottawa, grew up in British Columbia, was called to the bar but didn't practice, and after doing post-graduate work in English at Harvard University, began to win the approval of Canadian, American and British magazine readers for his articles and verse. He writes quantities of verse on all levels. CBC radio has presented his witty and thoughtful poetry, talks and sketches for the last decade.

TRANS-CANADA MATINEE

Rebel, Crusader and Humanitarian. A new book has given Anne Francis a new view of the American suffragette, Susan B. Anthony. The book, "Rebel, Crusader and Humanitarian," was written by Alma Lutz. It is a biography of the famous suffragette. Anne Francis, Ottawa journalist and broadcaster, talks about Susan Anthony and about the reforms she wrought and how they affect women today.

The Maillou House, 17 St. Louis Street. Number 17 St. Louis Street in Quebec, like many fine old Quebec houses, was doomed to be wrecked. Quebecers objected. The house possessed historical attachments that residents were loathe to see destroyed by the wreckers' hammers. So the building was restored, to serve a new purpose and to remind passers-by of their roots in the past, to stand proudly near Quebec's largest, best-known hotel. Arline Genereux, a retired Quebec civil servant who still lives in her native city, recalls some of the former inhabitants of "Maillou House."

Three Score Years and Then? Adult education, creative hobbies and community service—all ways in which the older citizen may keep himself in the mainstream of living in his community. Today, Elizabeth Mascall, writer, critic, broadcaster and housewife, discusses these activities. Matinee's series on ageing has been prepared by Mrs. Mascall in collaboration with Mrs. Jean Good, a specialist on gerontology and a director of the Ontario Society on Ageing.

Daily Features . . . Today's news commentary is by Margaret Prang of Vancouver. Baritone Charles Jordan offers some more songs, and Ian Thorne of Vancouver reads another excerpt from "Journey Without Maps," by Graham Greene, adapted for radio by Sally Creighton.

On CBC Wednesday Night

More "Jazz da Camera"

August is usually a hot month so CBC Wednesday Night has scheduled something "cool" on the 12th called Jazz da Camera. A Montreal group, heard in a similar program in May, 1958, will use harpsichord, saxophones, violin, oboe, drums and bass to create some new sounds in a jam session.

This array of instruments would seem at first glance to be incongruous with jazz and indeed one might ask whether the program will be Bach or bop.

Kelsey Jones (harpsichord), Otto Joachim (sax and violin), Walter Joachim (bass), Nick Ayoub (sax and oboe), and Guy Lachapelle (drums) will give listeners a sample of what happens during rehearsal breaks and before a broadcast of serious music. They'll go from chamber music to blues, add some progressive jazz and improvise during the 20-minute session.

None of the musicians is unfamiliar with jazz and popular music but only Ayoub and Lachapelle have current professional experience in the field. The other three

INTERVIEW

Chester Duncan
CBW-10:30 p.m. CBK-11:30 p.m. CBX-10:30 p.m.

Chester Duncan talks with the English poet and author Stephen Spender. The interview took place while Mr. Spender was in Winnipeg last winter as special speaker at the University of Manitoba's Festival of Arts.

members of the quintet are well-known "classical" musicians who like a change of pace occasionally, and have played jazz music professionally at various times in their long careers.

It was Carl Little, now a CBC music producer in Toronto, who first suggested that what the players were doing for fun they might as well do for the public. Producer Hugh Davidson feels it is time for another impromptu session but even he isn't sure of the result. "Don't ask me," he says. "They'll improvise as they go along."

The show promises to have the element of suspense that should appeal to any radio audience and to classical and popular musical tastes alike. Geoff Hogwood will be the host. It's the relaxed sort of jam session Geoff enjoys; he has had similar jazz groups on his local Saturday feature on CBM, Montreal, called "Geoff's Place."

One thing is certain, CBC Wednesday Nighters are in for something musically different and unpredictable when they tune in for Jazz da Camera from Montreal.

* * *

Why do I stress the importance of having a black sheep in the family?

Simply because I think he is the most moral influence we could possibly have. The blackguard makes the rest of us look so white and feel so right by comparison. Indeed, how could we know about virtue if we hadn't that lovely and terrible example of vice in front of us?—W.

TRANS-CANADA MATINEE

Feeding the Birds. Aside from putting out crumbs and bird seed, there are shrubs and trees the gardener and bird-lover can plant that will attract his feathered friends and provide their nourishment. Kerry Wood talks about feeding birds in the fifth of his series of talks about amateur nature study.

Asia Talks Back. Earlier this year, Canadian David Smith returned from a mission to Thailand, where he had been sent as a technical assistance expert. In this Matinee item, Mr. Smith relates his experiences and his

Science, Society And the Individual

Three radio talks by Dr. E. W. R. Steacie, president of the National Research Council, Saturdays—August 8, 15 and 29

"The scientific attitude is always to be suspicious of past conclusions and beliefs, and this is a rather different outlook from that of organized religion. It seems to be entirely possible for individuals to work out a personal synthesis of the two, but there is an underlying conflict. The attitude of science is best summed up in the story of a man who said to his scientific friend, 'Look at the brown cow.' The friend replied, 'Well it's brown on this side'."

The quotation is from a series of three talks on CBC Trans-Canada radio entitled Science, Society and the Individual to be heard on Saturdays (August 8th, then August 15th and 29th; this period on August 22nd has been pre-empted). Speaker for all three talks will be Dr. E. W. R. Steacie, F.R.S., F.R.S.C., president of the National Research Council of Canada.

In the first talk Dr. Steacie speaks generally of science and the scientific attitude of today compared with that of three and four hundred years ago. He also speaks of the difference between pure science and technology, and about philosophy about the development of southeast Asia.

Daily Features . . . Today's news commentary is by Muriel Armstrong of Montreal. Jacques Desbailletts plays some more of his favorite recordings, and Ian Thorne of Vancouver reads another excerpt from "Journey Without Maps" by Graham Greene, adapted for radio by Sally Creighton.

the impact of modern technology on society. He suggests there has been much inept discussion about this impact of technology on society—inept because it implies that technology is an extraneous influence beyond the control of society.

This attitude is incorrect, he says, "since technology is really merely the sum total of what society wants to do and does . . . The impact of technology on society is thus merely the impact of what society does upon itself. Actually, the direction of technological advance is apt to be due far more to advertising and sales and promotional efforts than to the efforts of scientists and engineers."

In the second talk, Dr. Steacie deplores "the unfortunate schism between science and the humanities. The most striking split in outlook between science and the humanities is the arrogance of humanists towards nature, compared with the humility of scientists (I emphatically do not suggest the scientist is humble in any other respect). A major problem for the future is how to get some appreciation of science into a broad education in order that future leaders of society may make intelligent decisions in a world in which such decisions must be influenced by science to a considerable extent."

An aspect of the increasing importance of science in our society, according to Dr. Steacie, is the development of a class of professional workers in science. But, he says, "professionalism is by no means all good. One unfortunate result of of Red Deer, Alberta, gives the fifth of six talks on nature this Thursday on Trans-Canada Matinee. Mr. Wood will describe methods of attracting birds to one's garden.

the professional attitude is that scientists as a group have developed social consciousness. As individuals this is a good thing, but as a group it has grave dangers since judgments which are at least partially scientific are being arrived at on emotional grounds, and there is a danger of a developing lack of objectivity. Thus in many statements on both sides of the fall-out question, physicists have been acting as emotional advocates while pretending to be judges of the physics involved."

In his third talk Dr. Steacie turns to such questions as: "Where is scientific work done? What is the position of science in Canada?"

TRANS-CANADA MATINEE

The Story of Skippy. When Margaret McIntyre first met "Skippy," he was just a mottled egg. But he grew up into a magnificent white sea gull. Eileen Laurie, the CBC's morning commentator in Vancouver, reads Margaret McIntyre's story of the care and feeding of pet sea gulls.

A Book I Like. Political controversies and Nobel prizes quite aside, the chief charm of "Dr. Zhivago" for Toronto housewife Carol McAlister was the book's warm, human and moving story about real people, "ordinary people doing ordinary things—getting their hair cut, giving parties, trying to keep warm in winter, and hunting for an apartment." Mrs. McAlister reviews the book in this light for Matinee's summer series of favourite books.

Sing Me A Game. What adult does not remember "London Bridge is Falling Down" and "Ring Around the Rosy" and what child does not know how to play them? Today, Edith Fowke talks about bridge and ring games such as these and lets listeners hear some of the songs that accompany them sung by children from many countries. Mrs. Fowke is a collector of folk songs.

Daily Features . . . Today's news commentary is by Margaret Prang of Vancouver. Baritone Charles Jordan offers some more songs, and Ian Thorne of Vancouver reads another excerpt from "Journey Without Maps," by Graham Greene, adapted for radio by Sally Creighton.

casts on CBX (four times daily plus specials) to do some writing for various sports publications.

Al Shaver is familiar not only to the CFRN-TV audience in Edmonton but also to listeners in Calgary and Medicine Hat, where he worked in radio. He is also heard frequently on regional network broadcasts of football and hockey games.

Born 31 years ago in London, Ont., Al spent most of his early years in Tillsonburg, in the heart of southern Ontario's tobacco country. He became interested in radio while attending St. Andrew's College in Aurora, Ontario, and ended up taking a course at the Lorne Greene Academy of Radio Arts in Toronto. His first job was at CJOY in Guelph. Al, a lover of good steaks who carries his 250 pounds on a six foot two inch frame came West when a bout with pneumonia and an asthmatic condition prompted his doctor to send him to a dryer climate.

Last year Al was radio commentator on the daily races at Winnipeg's Assiniboia Downs. He is also well known to all Canadian sports fans for his colourful descriptions of the Grey Cup games during the past few years.

SCIENCE, SOCIETY AND THE INDIVIDUAL

Where do we go from here?" He discusses scientific research in universities, industry and government. He discusses in particular the "rather unusual Canadian creation," the National Research Council.

Dr. Steacie has had an outstanding career in science. Among his many offices and awards are the following: Foreign Associate of the Academy of Sciences of the U.S.A.; Honourary Fellow of the Chemical Society of London, England; Past President of the Royal Society of Canada; Past President of the Chemical Institute of Canada; and President of the Faraday Society. In 1958 he had the honour of being one of the few Western scientists to be appointed as Foreign Members of the Academy of Sciences of the U.S.S.R. He is the author of over 200 papers and three books.
