Election Coverage for U.S. Resident

• I was interested in the capsule reports of the U.S. election results interspersed with longer periods of music instead of vice versa, so was glad when I found your station on my dial.—J.N., Austin, Man.

Paul of Tarsus

• On behalf of the Sisters of the Holy Names of Holy Cross Convent, I would like to express our sincere appreciation for the wonderful series of telecasts depicting the life of St. Paul. (Heritage, Sundays on CBC-TV). We find them most interesting and enjoyable. The biblical characters are very well portrayed and the script is excellent.

—Sister A.M., St. Boniface, Man.

For More Serious Drama

• Although I enjoy TV, one thing I would like to see different is more solid drama. For instance, why can't Festival do something like Peer Gynt, John Bull's Other Island, The Wild Duck, The Cherry Orchard, some Galsworthy or even Pinero? And of course more Shakespeare, and why not Yeats and Synge and O'Neill?

—M.L.H., Winnipeg, Man.

The Devil's Instrument

• I am one of those "terrible" Hutterites and I watched The Devil's Instrument on Festival. (Monday, November 5, CBC-TV). What would prompt you people to put on such a play? It wasn't even entertaining, let alone informative.

I am fairly certain that you are aware that the public will think we are a bunch of fanatic bigots and you deliberately cast the characters so crude as to be vulgar. . . . I was brought up to believe it is bad manners to put other people in a bad light. I think you owe the Hutterites a sincere apology. We too are human beings.—K.S.H., Grosse Isle, Man.

The CBC had no intention of offending any religious sect or group. THE DEVIL'S INSTRUMENT was presented as written by the author, W. O. Mitchell in 1948. The important thing to keep in mind is that we are dealing with a dramatic presentation as seen through the eyes of the author, not with a documentary on the subject.

The play was most certainly fictional drama but was based on experiences encountered by Mitchell as an advertising salesman and school teacher in Alberta during the 1940's. During this period he had many opportunities to meet and observe Hutterites in several communities. In one of them he heard the story of a young man, said to have been one of the few Hutterites ever to have broken away from the serene communal life.

THE DEVIL'S INSTRUMENT was not intended to portray any group of people in a bad light.

Repairing The Fence

• One way in which the CBC could repair one of its audience relations fences would be to immediately set about broadcasting its very significant radio program In Reply at a time when its established audience can enjoy it. In changing its time of broadcast, the following will have to be kept in mind:

(1) It must be at a time when it does not conflict with Close-Up or another fine documentary program, and,

(2) It must be re-broadcast during a daytime period. Reason for this is that many thousands of tax-paying CBC radio listeners reside in areas like southern Alberta where daytime is the only time that CBC Radio can be heard at all. This condition is brought about by inadequate transmitter facilities.

I have heard the excuse that there is no room for this significant program, and do not want to hear it again. Room is made for "wailers and shouters" introduced to us as "singers or vocalists." Some of this time should again be used for such programs as In Reply. Also, room must be found for Court Of Opinion. This one is conspicuous for its absence.

—V.C.A., Calgary, Alta.

With the consolidation of CBC's two radio networks, "double exposure" of programs has of necessity been cut to a minimum. However, consideration will be given to this suggestion when a possible time period becomes available.

Court of Opinion is heard now on alternate Mondays at 9:45 a.m. on CBW and CBK, and at 9:30 a.m. on CBX.

Misses "Just Mary"

We always listen to the Farm Broadcast and think it is an excellent program. Also we used to listen to Just Mary and Kindergarten Of The Air, but we can't find them now.

-Mrs. B.M., Hamiota, Man.

Mary Grannan retired from broadcasting last spring and it is for this reason that the program JUST MARY has been deleted from our program schedules. KINDERGARTEN OF THE AIR is now entitled PLAYROOM and is heard at 10:15 a.m. Monday through Friday.

Rod and Charles

I enjoyed your show concerning the reading of the salmon's journey, (Rod and Charles Show, Sunday, November 4 on CBC Radio). I would like to know if that story can be obtained from you or from some other source.-J.B., Three Hills, Alta.

Scripts of this particular program are not available for distribution. However, all the material for this program was derived from two books: THE FRASER by Bruce Hutchison, published by Clarke Irwin and AUTUMN JOURNEY by Edwin Way Teale, published by Ryerson Press.

DISTINGUISHED ARTISTS PERFORM IN MOZART CONCERT

The music of Mozart is featured Monday, December 3 on Festival. Operatic arias by the great composer are sung by Pierrette Alarie and Leopold Simoneau, upper right, and pianist Malcolm Frager, pictured on the lower half of the cover, perform the Concerto in C Major.

Josef Krips is conductor of the 90-minute musical treat.

Subscription Rates Increase January 1st

Economy measures now in effect within the CBC make it necessary for subscription rates for this edition of the CBC Times to be increased.

Effective January 1, 1963, rates will increase to $1.50 for six months, $3.00 for one year, $5.00 for two years and $7.00 for three years.

Subscriptions and renewals sold until December 31 will remain at the old, lower rates. For those wishing to take advantage of the saving, a convenient order form and envelope is enclosed in this issue.

A HIGHLY successful innovation last winter, a television short course for farmers, will be repeated in January on CBWT Winnipeg, CKX-TV Brandon and CKOS-TV Yorkton.

Under the title of This Business of Farming, the course last year presented, over a period of five days, information on beef production, field crops and farmstead planning. Surveys indicated that a large proportion of the farm population receiving the three TV stations made use of the telecasts. This has led the CBC, in co-operation with the Manitoba Department of Agriculture and the University of Manitoba, to present a similar course next January 15-17, 10:30 to 12:00 each morning.

Vern McNair, top, and Lionel Moore.

This year's course will cover subjects of livestock production, quality cream production, raising quality swine, the cost of credit, and the seeding, fertilizing, harvesting and storage of field crops.

As last year, Lionel Moore, CBC farms supervisor for the prairies, and Vern McNair of the Manitoba Department of Agriculture, will be emcees.

AUDITIONS for CBWT's talent show Junior Hi-Lites will be held in December, and applications now are being received from junior high school students—those in grades seven, eight, and nine—interested in appearing on the series.

Producer Don Browne-Wilkinson says, "We are looking for boys and girls who can sing, dance, play a musical instrument or have some other entertaining talent."

Weekly prizes are offered for the winning acts, and cash talent awards for those judged winners of the series.

Application forms can be received by writing to: Junior Hi-Lites, CBC, Box 160, Winnipeg. Or they can be picked up at the CBC building reception desk, 541 Portage Avenue. Final deadline for applications is December 1st.

Le Corbusier:

Master of the Noblest Art

A kindly, 75-year-old Swiss architect has created some of the most notable buildings of the modern world. THE LIVELY ARTS Tuesday visits a monastery at Lyons, France, which embodies the best work of Le Corbusier

EVERYONE finds delight in the shapes of the great primary forms—cubes, cones, spheres, cylinders and pyramids—and in the beauty revealed when light touches them to advantage. What is reducible to these basic shapes is good architecture, and what is not thus reducible is bad; this has long been maintained by Le Corbusier, probably the world's most controversial and brilliant living architect, and one of the most influential of all time, a crotchety, lovable old man of 75 whom nearly everybody affectionately calls "Corbu."

He insists that architecture has nothing to do with styles. Styles, he says, are to architecture as a feather is on a woman's head—sometimes pretty, though not always, and never anything more. Architecture has graver ends, he maintains. Under his spiritual touch, paintings—for he is an all-round artist—become architecture and architecture turns into sculpture, so that the body of the building is the expression of the three major arts in one.

When a young French architect was joining the exodus from Paris early in the Second World War, he stuffed a book by Le Corbusier into his knapsack with a few other precious possessions. "It was a torch I carried," he said later. While most of the open-minded hail Corbu's ideas as the freshest breeze in the architectural world for centuries, and carry his torch wherever new art flourishes, others "lost in the sterile backwaters of their foliage, their pilasters and their lead roofs," see only puzzling ugliness in Corbusier designs. To them he suggests a long look for inspiration at North American grain elevators and factories, "the magnificent first fruits of the new age."

Only architecture of passion can live and last, he points out. Passion can create drama out of inert stone or cement—as he showed dramatically two years ago, when the extraordinary Dominican monastery and church of Sainte Marie de la Tourette was opened in a secluded valley at Eveux-sur-Abresle, about 15 miles from Lyons in France. A massive concrete structure of clean, tranquil lines suggesting deep strength, it links the temporal and the spiritual with brilliant use of light, colour, texture and elemental shapes. And what might have been coldly severe in less original hands has become a warm, inspirational mecca for study and contemplation. It is already being described as "one of the famous ruins of the 40th century."

When Michael Foytenyi of the CBC saw photographs of the monastery in a Paris magazine, he was so impressed that he approached Vincent Tovell, producer-organizer of CBC-TV's The Lively Arts, with the idea of going to La Tourette to prepare a film on the monastery, church and chapel. Tovell told him to go ahead if the monastery would agree to admit a camera crew.

At once Foytenyi airtailed a request in English to the monastery. After five weeks he had almost given up hope of a reply when one arrived by sea mail, written in French, regretting that "We can't afford to let you come—if we granted all requests for visitors, the monastery would turn into a railroad station. I wanted terribly to make the film," says Foytenyi, "so I sat down and composed a letter in French—my French is better than my English because I finished my education at the Sorbonne—outlining the high cultural reputation of the CBC, its position as a crown corporation, and pointing out that this film would not be a commercial one but a semi-religious presentation. I spent two days and well into the nights polishing my letter.

"The monastery replied immediately by air, a very friendly letter. We rushed our plans through, and I arrived at La Tourette at the beginning of August. The Prior told me then that the 'discretion' he sensed in my second letter convinced him that the CBC would do the monastery justice. Later a sort of public relations monk, Father Le Capitaine, confirmed that my "discretion" was the key to the invitation to La Tourette.

"I had two cameramen with me, a German and a Canadian who works out of London. It was interesting to note the effect the monastery and chapel have on people. The Canadian found it a disturbing place on the first day. For one thing, its rooms aren't square, as we're used to seeing them, but round. However, he quickly grew used to the buildings and loved them. The German was puzzled for about three days and then the magic atmosphere there got through to him. We could feel Le Corbusier's spirit all around us."

Produced, directed and edited by Foytenyi, the film will be seen on The Lively Arts on Tuesday evening, December 4, with commentary by Robert Fulford.

"Mostly," says Foytenyi, "we associate a monastery with Gothic darkness, such as the 900-year-old Benedictine monastery in Hungary where I was once a novice. But La Tourette is penetrated with light. The monks are delighted with it. They say its ultra-modern atmosphere helps prepare them for the modern surroundings they'll have to work in when they go out into the world after their seven years of study there."

There is no fine finish, either in monastery, church or chapel. The flat roof of the monastery is a green terrace. Le Corbusier told the monks not to plant it with flowers or shrubs, but to let the sun, rain and seed-carrying wind take care of it. The result is a beautifully natural place of wild flowers and weeds. All around the roof is a six-foot-high wall so the monks will see nothing but the heavens on their walks there, and hear only the songs of birds. A sign over the entrance to the monastery reads: "Built for prayer, study, silence."

When Le Corbusier got the commission to design the buildings, the monks did not specify anything, just said, "Please build us a habitation for 100 monks. We need cells, classrooms, a refectory and a church." They left the architect completely free to decide what they should have. The habitation of man forms three sides of a

FIFTEEN YEARS of CBC Wednesday Night

ON DECEMBER 3, 1947, the first CBC Wednesday Night was introduced to radio listeners by Arthur L. Phelps. His talk was followed by the broadcast of a new musical comedy "The Gallant Greenhorn."

On December 5, 1962, "Wednesday Night" celebrates fifteen years of (it is hoped) quality broadcasting with a recital by Glenn Gould, a production from Montreal by Rupert Caplan of Eugene O'Neill's last full-length play "A Touch of the Poet," and an entertainment about the series itself, "Wednesday's Child," written by the poet James Reaney with music composed by John Beckwith. The anniversary program will be introduced (as has been the case for more than a dozen years) by James Bannerman.

In December, 1947, the BBC's distinguished "Third Programme" was a little more than a year old. Radio was a powerful voice. The war had caused many Canadians to become aware of national problems and possibilities in the arts and communications, and CBC Radio flourished in this atmosphere of new awareness.

But within a few years television changed many of the established patterns of radio broadcasting, and in its 15-year history the Wednesday Night series has changed too. Some kinds of drama have been abandoned, since they can be done more effectively in the visual medium. For various reasons it is impossible any longer to broadcast major operas. Wednesday Night has joined the Project series in new explorations of the radio documentary. It has not all been a loss. The series has always had a minority audience; some part at least of that audience has remained faithful in this age of television.

Wednesday Night was designed to be a showcase, and from the first it cast a wide net. It has broadcast contemporary and classical music—opera, oratorios, symphony concerts, recitals. It has included original radio drama, and adaptations from the classics and the modern repertoire. There have been talks, readings, and documentaries. It has presented jazz, musical comedies, and satirical revues. These are some of the programs broadcast during the past 15 years.

Expanding or Contracting Market For Canadian Farmers ?

A DISCUSSION of the significance of the European Common Market for Canadian farmers will be presented on CBC Radio's National Farm Forum on Monday night, December 3, at 9:00 p.m.

The Common Market area is the largest importer of farm products in the world. Between 1952 and 1959 Canadian farm exports to the six Common Market countries—Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg, West Germany, Italy and France—averaged about $160 millions annually, roughly a sixth of Canadian farm exports. Of all Canadian exports to the EEC nations, farm products accounted for 40 per cent. Last year exports of wheat alone to the EEC rose by $68 millions, making it Canada's largest market for wheat and flour that year.

The EEC countries have decided on a farm policy which insists that if any EEC country wants to import a farm product from outside the EEC, such as wheat, fodder, coarse grains, sugar and dairy items, a charge may be levied equal to the difference between the world price for the product and the price level for the product in effect in the importing country. Member nations are progressively adjusting their tariff rates, and by 1967 a common levy is expected to be in effect in all EEC countries. A tariff will also apply to horticultural products and tobacco. Quotas will be used if the commodity is over-supplied in the EEC, and if EEC farmers are encouraged to expand their output, this could be a hard blow to outside countries.

If Britain joins the Common Market, as she has asked to do, can she retain the right to the Commonwealth ties, including the low tariff rates which she has extended to such nations as Canada? The Farm Forum program will consider this from many aspects. The loss of Commonwealth preference—lower tariffs on products Canada sells to Britain than on products from non-Commonwealth countries—could be extremely serious for some Canadian produce exporters. All Canadian farm exports (except tobacco) go into Britain duty-free, but duty is applied to the same products from non-Commonwealth countries. No duties are applied to wheat.

A. T. Lambert, president of the Toronto-Dominion Bank, points out, "Canada has the choice of two attitudes: a negative reaction of dismay involving opposition to Britain's entry and the unquestioning assumption that we cannot hope to compete; or the more positive approach of exploiting the opportunities the new arrangements offer us in terms of enlarged and more prosperous markets."

As the EEC becomes more prosperous and industrialized, farmers are moving into the cities where incomes are better, and so quantities of high quality hard wheat, of which Canada is the chief supplier, are needed, and it is possible that sales of this wheat to the EEC might increase.

Last year the Canadian Federation of Agriculture stated: "The emergence of this market . . . the possibility of Britain's entry into it, creates grave dangers to some of our export markets for agricultural products. A policy of increased European agricultural protection and self-sufficiency, in a common market which

(Please turn to page 9)

Some fear that Canada's grain elevators once more will overflow with surplus wheat.

Will the European Common Market mean greater sales for Canada to a more prosperous, more industrialized Continent? Or will tariff barriers rob our products of the markets they now hold?

GREY CUP DAY

tional Exhibition Stadium, there will be the colour and excitement of its attendant ceremonies and celebrations.

On television, the first big event of the day will be live coverage of the Grey Cup Parade, beginning at 8:30 a.m. CST. Coverage on CBC-TV of the Grey Cup Game will begin at 11:30 a.m. CST, kick-off time is 12:00 noon CST.

Radio coverage will begin at 11:15 a.m. CST with a half-hour program of interviews and a taped broadcast of the selection of Miss Grey Cup, and other events.

At 11:45 a.m. CST, the radio broadcast will switch to the Stadium for pre-game ceremonies and at 12:00 noon CST the play-by-play action, described by Fred Sgambati with Bill Stephenson as colour man, will begin.

At press time it was, of course, impossible to say which teams will be clashing in the big game, but the teams remaining in the running as of November 21 were Calgary and Winnipeg in the Western Conference, and Montreal and Hamilton in the East.

COVERAGE OF THE country's greatest annual sports spectacle, the Grey Cup Game, will be carried to Canadians from coast to coast via CBC Radio and TV networks Saturday, December 1.

In addition to the game, to be played at Toronto's Canadian Na-nurse cannot suppress her Nazi sympathies.

Red River Jamboree

The good old days of Western Canada are recalled in songs, dances and tales, with singing host Stu Phillips, Peggy Neville, The Altones, the Valley Beaux and Belles, square dance caller Jo Johansson, Ted Komar and the Selkirk Settlers. Produced at CBC Winnipeg by Ernie Mutimer.

A few of their selections are:

Put On Your Old Grey Bonnet.....	Peggy
Me and Boss .....	Stu
Dear Hearts and Gentle People.....	Group

N.H.L. Hockey

Bill Hewitt reports from Maple Leaf Gardens as the Toronto Maple Leafs play the Boston Bruins.

Juliette

Juliette's guest is pretty French-Canadian singer, Pauline Julien.

Sports Unlimited

Hal Kelly presents interviews and film on all phases of sports activities.

CBWT—Thriller

Purple Room. A young man inherits a Victorian mansion and discovers that the house is haunted.

EXPANDING OR CONTRACTING MARKET? (Continued from page 7)

includes Britain, could make very serious inroads into our markets. Increased tariff barriers could have definite adverse price effects on the product which we did export.

"The CFA has always looked upon the development of the Common Market as being, in principle, a policy of statesmanship and wisdom. It has recognized the dangers of the agricultural policies of the Six taking a protectionist turn that could jeopardize our markets in some commodities. We believe that the only right answer to these problems lies in fully acknowledging the rightness of the Common Market concept and bending our energies, through consultation, agreement and enlightened trade policy, toward turning to our benefit the trade potential which should be opened up by an economically united, prosperous and expanding Europe. We feel that this further development of the Common Market should result in a more dynamic world economy and expanding markets. We are inclined to believe that as far as Canada is concerned her basic attitude should be one of support for this new move to widen the Common Market group."

Program Notes

DECEMBER 2

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

Heritage

Paul of Tarsus. A ten-part dramatized series telling the story of the acts of Christ's Apostles, especially of St. Paul, and the spread of Christianity from Jerusalem to Rome.

Today, Jerusalem. Paul and Luke arrive in Jerusalem on the day of the feast of Pentecost, 23 years after the original Pentecost when the story of Christ's Apostles began. Some Jews from Asia stir up the people against Paul and he is rescued from death by the Roman commander.

Country Calendar

Finding a Market for Canadian Farm Commodities in Britain. Dave Durksen, special crops agronomist with the Manitoba Department of Agriculture, uses slides to report on the Manitoba trade mission to Europe which he attended from October 20 to November 30. The mission examined the manner in which agricultural products especially special crops, are being marketed overseas.

Co-op Story. A co-op dairy success story is told by Russell Love of Edmonton. Illustrated by pictures, the story is set in the islands of Fiji.

FLIN FLON and THE PAS

CHANNEL 10 — CHANNEL 7

Dave Durksen, just back from a European tour with the Manitoba trade mission, reports Sunday on Country Calendar. He is a special agronomist with the Manitoba agriculture department.

N.F.L. Football

Hal Kelly and Curly Morrison report a significant NFL game. The CBC covers the most important game available today.

St. Lawrence North

The Jean Richard. Story of the building of a goelette, a wooden ship 120 feet in length, carved by hand in the traditional manner of the coastal villagers of the North Shore.

American Musical Theatre

E. Y. Harburg. Part I. Author and lyricist E. Y. Harburg reminisces about his school years and pre-showbusiness days. Vocalist Martha Wright shares the spotlight on this first program. Host is Jim Morske.

Walt Disney

The Mooncussers. Part I. A two-part comedy-drama about a band of early 19th century land-pirates who use the cover of darkness to lure ships onto the rocks off Long Island.

Hazel

Hazel gets her boss into trouble with the Internal Revenue Department.

Ed Sullivan

Ed's guests include singer Peggy Lee, trumpeter Al Hirt and comedian Bill Dana.

Bonanza

Ben and Little Joe are drawn into the Mexican Revolution.

Close-Up

Close-Up examines the problem of arthritis.

Quest

One Time Around. An examination of the values and philosophy of Hugh Hefner, his Playboy magazine and the playboy world these two represent. The film, shot in Chicago under direction of Dick Ballentine and Gordon Sheppard, shows Hefner and his set enjoying their hectic lives. The program drops in on one of Hefner's famous parties at his lavish Chicago mansion.

CBWT—Time Out For Music

CBXT—Thriller

The Prediction. A mentalist who has the power to visualize events in the future comes to grief when he has a vision of his own death.

'Flashback' to Another Era

WHAT EVER HAPPENED to: men's spats, the Dead End Kids, Mahjong, the Model T, Clara Bow, Primo Carnera, flagpole-sitting, Deanna Durbin, Tex Ritter, goldfish-swallowing?

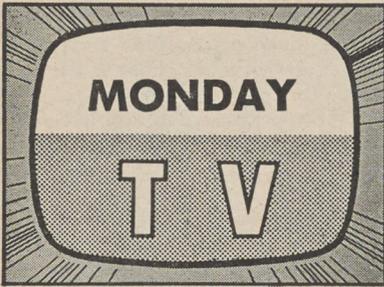

Some answers are provided on CBC-TV's weekly panel show, Flashback, seen each Sunday. On the show, a panel of two men and two women attempt to identify persons, fads, or objects, once well known but now in relative obscurity. Moderator of the game show is Paul Soles, who is also host of the CBC afternoon television program, Take Thirty.

In addition to satisfying the curiosity of those who wonder what has happened to once-famous personalities, fads or fancies, the program provides an opportunity for viewers to participate and, perhaps, to gain cash awards. Viewers are invited to submit suggestions to the program for identification by the panel. If the suggestion is used, the person submitting the idea will receive $25; if the panel is stumped and cannot guess the person or object submitted, the prize money will be doubled to $50.

Panelists are Alan Millar, Allan Manings, Margaret Morris and Elaine Grand.

For those who dote on nostalgia, and muse about what has happened to yesterday's heroes and heroines, the answers can be found Sunday nights on CBC-TV.

Miss "B," Billie Milford of CKX-TV, Brandon, is seen Monday on the CBC-TV network children's program, Razzle Dazzle.

Professor Doris Saunders of the University of Manitoba tells of the recently-acquired Grove papers, a notable acquisition by the university.

Kay Alsop and Bill Guest are host and hostess. Produced by Don Robertson.

Razzle Dazzle

Howard salutes station CKX-TV, Brandon, Man., and meets Miss "B", (Billie Milford). The Vaudeville Theatre presents many of its stars, and also included are the Terrible Ten, Telequiz and Kooky Commercial.

This Living World

Host Steve Bloomer talks about ducks and their habits.

CBXT—Gateway

Co-hosts Jim Crossen and Jim Schrumm with the timely and the topical on the Edmonton scene and the regular Monday feature — Bush Flying. Today Stan McMillan tells of Canada's first great search by air — the search for Col. MacAlpine and his party marooned on the Arctic Coast while on a flight across the barren lands from Churchill to Bathurst Inlet.

CBXT—Sports Page

A weekly half-hour devoted to coverage of all types of sports activities of significant interest to the Edmonton community, with CBC sportscasters Glenn Bjarnason and Ernie Afaganis. This week, the third of a six-part series — Keen Ice, with Hec Gervais, Lionel Wood, Glen Gray and Matt Baldwin competing in point curling.

Some of their selections are:

When My Hair Has Turned to Silver.....	Charlie
You Don't Know Me .....	Marg
Spanish Waltz .....	Butcha Dancers
Jays of Quebec .....	Islanders

Danny Thomas

Danny and Kathy visit Kathy's relatives in Ireland.

Garry Moore

Garry's guests include comedienne Dorothy Louden and the comedy team of Allen and Rossi.

Festival

An Evening with Mozart. A 90-minute all-Mozart concert produced in Montreal by Jean-Yves Landry. Josef Krips conducts the CBC Concert Hour Orchestra. Soloists are soprano Pierrette Alarie, tenor Leopold Simoneau and American pianist Malcolm Frager.

Highlights:

Don Giovanni Overture .....	Orchestra
Deh Vieni non Tardar .....	Pierrette Alarie
Il Mio Tesoro .....	Leopold Simoneau
Concerto in C major for Piano and Orchestra .....	Malcolm Frager
Fra Gli Ampletti from Così fan Tutte .....	Alarie and Simoneau

Josef Krips conducts Monday as the CBC Concert Hour Orchestra, singers Pierrette Alarie and Leopold Simoneau, and pianist Malcolm Frager performs the music of Mozart on Festival.

Program Notes

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

CBXT—I Love Lucy

Lucy ambushes a couple of Indians who have come to audition for Ricky's show.

National School Telecasts

Today, Roosevelt. The telecast illustrates Franklin Delano Roosevelt's dynamic attempt to use his great executive power democratically to give the American people a 'New Deal', to right the balance between worker, employer, and consumer and to humanize the industrial system and save the capitalist order by reforming it.

In filmed interviews Professor Moley of Columbia University and Hamilton Fish, one of Roosevelt's most consistent political opponents, discuss the New Deal, and political commentators, a newspaperman and the late Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt discuss the president's personality and political techniques.

Take Thirty

Lorraine Thompson and Don Pelletier give advice on decorating rooms and Christmas presents.

Lawrence Chappell and Roy Blake, two Toronto high school students, talk to Anna Cameron about their interest in "ham" amateur radio.

Scarlett Hill

Love at Half-Past 40. Continuation of the story in which a middle-aged widow finds romance.

Ladies First

Mary Liz Bayer and Bill Guest have as their guests Marion Wright, psychologist, Germaine Warkentin, movie critic, and Mrs. Molly Ives, parent. They discuss the problem, "morality in the movies, and its effects on children".

FLIN FLON and THE PAS

The Case of the Lurid Letter. A young high school teacher is accused of improper behaviour with her students.

British Empire Games

A report on the 1962 British Empire and Commonwealth Games at Perth, Australia.

The Lively Arts

Harry Mannis narrates exclusive films of the Dominican monastery, Ste. Marie de la Tourette, near Lyon, France. The modernistic structure, designed by world-famous Swiss-born architect, Le Corbusier, was opened in 1961. The film was made by CBC film editor Michael Foytenyi.

CBWT—The Gallant Men

Signals for an End Run. An Italian partisan chief expresses his ill-feelings towards the Americans.

Who'll Win?

It was pretty early to demand Grey Cup predictions as we went to press, with the winners of the semi-finals not yet decided. But we asked some of the prairies' CBC sportscasters for their opinions of the outcome, and here are their answers:

"Despite Winnipeg's loss to Calgary (in the initial semi-final play-off game) I'll still take the Bombers to win the West and defeat Hamilton in the Grey Cup Final," said Ken Reeves of Regina.

Glenn Bjarnason of CBC Edmonton was very modest about his opinion: "I'm trying not to let sentiment rule my head. After all, my prediction record for the season of 1962 is unblemished — I haven't picked one right yet. Originally, I called Winnipeg Blue Bombers to take care of Calgary Stampeders in two straight. That obviously put the kiss of death on the Bombers, who lost the first game in Calgary. (Actually, they could have won, despite the anaemic offensive showing.) So, to be consistent, I still call the Bombers to win in the West. (Which should, if my record remains unblemished, put Calgary in the Grey Cup final for the first time in 13 years.)

"So, after careful consideration, I predict that Hamilton will meet Winnipeg in the Grey Cup final, and Hamilton will win it. Maybe Hamilton will beat Calgary."

Bob Moir of Winnipeg, writer of the sports column in this issue, sidestepped any forecasts of the outcome, as did Edmonton's Ernie Afaganis. And for fear of being put on the spot, Winnipegger Don Wittman packed his bags and headed for Australia before he could be asked for a prediction. Incidentally, he's covering the British Empire and Commonwealth Games while there.

Mike Douglas is tricked into judging the campus queen contest.

Parade

Featuring the comedy team of Phil Ford and Mimi Hines in a program of music and comedy. A highlight is a sketch in which Miss Hines plays a Japanese baseball player. Miss Hines sings O Mio Babbino Caro, from Puccini's opera Gianni Schicchi. Host is Bill Walker.

Ben Casey

I Hear America Singing. A traveling salesman whose car struck down a crippled woman, runs afoul of Ben Casey when the salesman tries to get the woman to clear him of responsibility for the accident.

The Formative Years

Fact and Myth. A discussion program tracing differences between fact and legend in the War of 1812.

Participants are John T. Saywell and C. P. Stacey of the history department at the University of Toronto; Arthur Lower, professor emeritus at Queen's University, and Jean-Pierre Wallot of the history department at the University of Montreal.

CBWT—Expedition

The Frozen Continent, dramatic account of the Antarctic expedition of Capt. Finn Ronne, USNR, and 38 men—the largest U.S. expedition to that region during the International Geophysical Year. Host for the program is explorer - adventurer - writer Col. John D. Craig.

CBXT—Gallant Men

Fury in a Quiet Village. Benedict is faced with the problem of routing out a German force holding the village children as hostages.

WHENEVER GREY CUP time rolls around, most Canadians are bitten by the fever, whether they want it that way or not.

It's hard to escape, because your brother or father, mother, sister, cousin, aunt or uncle is liable to be a football fan, at least for the one Saturday.

As of this writing, four teams are still in the running for Grey Cup berths and only two, of course, will be on hand when CBC microphones are placed at C.N.E. stadium in Toronto for the radio description of the game Saturday afternoon. Game coverage will be preceded by Grey Cup preview, featuring many of the stars who will be playing.

Coverage also has been arranged for CBC-TV network viewers.

Over the years the Grey Cup has provided plenty of excitement. Only a couple of finals in the last 14 years, since the days of Calgary's original invasion, have been dull affairs. Oddly enough, Ottawa Rough Riders have been involved in both. It was in 1951 that Clem Crowe's Ottawa Rough Riders beat Harry Smith's Saskatchewan Roughriders and it was in 1960 that Frank Clair's Ottawa Club

Program Notes

DECEMBER 6

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

National School Telecasts

A series of five 30-minute programs, each one featuring an outstanding writer.

Today, Hugh MacLennan. The winner of many Canadian awards for writing, Hugh MacLennan presently lectures on English Literature at McGill University. Students are most familiar with two of the MacLennan novels: Barometer Rising, the setting of which is the great explosion and fire of 1917 in Halifax and which contains a powerful description of that terrible disaster; and Two Solitudes, describing the position of the French and English in Canada and the problems of national unity.

Take Thirty

Paul Soles interviews Dr. Hilda Neatby who is concerned with the lack of respect among educators for the great traditions of learning.

Paul Fox talks with Joan Hollobon of the Toronto Globe and Mail about provincial health plans.

Jean Morrison introduces three small boys who are authorities on models — airplanes, boats and tanks. They give advice on what to look for when buying models as gifts for children.

Scarlett Hill

Jamie and John. Beginning a new episode in which it is found that two boys were accidentally switched at birth and have been brought up by the wrong parents.

Ladies First

Cooking expert Mat Gauer shows how to make a holiday brunch, featuring guacamole, avocado and poppy sticks and a cheese souffle.

Canadian writer Hugh MacLennan is the subject Thursday on the National Schools Telecast.

Alice Poyser suggests books which will make Christmas gifts for the family.

Mary Liz Bayer and Bill Guest are hostess and host. Produced by Don Robertson.

Razzle Dazzle

It's "magic" day and Howard the Swami tries to hypnotize Michele, while the Maharajah of Kookypicky shows an unusual rope trick. Also: Playalong, Terrible Ten, Nutty Newsreel, Groaners and Comment.

CBWT—Stop, Look and Listen

Beauty contests seem to have a universal appeal to ladies everywhere but who ever heard of a chicken entering a beauty contest? Apparently this fact doesn't bother Henrietta as she competes for the Miss Poultry Queen title.

Hobbies 'N Handicrafts. Geoff Spurr continues his demonstration of silk screen printing, using cut-out paper stencils, oil paints in several colours and a more permanent screen and frame. Producer, Don Browne-Wilkinson.

CBWT—Reach For The Top

Warren Davis hosts this panel quiz for high school students This evening Kathleen Sliter, Lewis Heuchert, Russell Hawkins and Donald Iwacha from Glenlawn High School meet the winners of last week's program. Producer, Jean Mackay.

The Defenders

The Savage Infant. A young Puerto Rican boy becomes emotionally disturbed when his father is convicted of murder.

Playdate

No Fixed Abode, by Clive Exton. Produced by Ronald Weyman. A drama of mood, about four derelicts whose paths cross briefly in the dormitory of a men's hostel in England.

SPORTS BY BOB MOIR

downed Eagle Keys' Edmonton Eskimos.

Both games were relatively low-scoring affairs, with Glenn Dobbs' fabulous punting providing the thrills in one and the running of Ron Stewart and pass-catching of Jim Letcavits saving the other.

However, it has been the two big rivalries of the last decade that have had the fans on the edges of their seats—Edmonton vs. Montreal in the mid 1950's and the Blue Bombers vs. the Tiger-Cats in the late 1950's and early 1960's.

Edmonton won all three of its games from Montreal in a series that provided more thrills and scores than any other Grey Cup games. These clubs scored more than 70 points in one game. Winnipeg has won three out of four from Hamilton in its most recent pairings, four out of six in all-time competition. The 1958 meeting has been described as the Grey Cup's finest classic, when Winnipeg beat Hamilton, 35 to 28 in a real hair-raiser.

Grey Cup football does provide the excitement and the CBC will take you there Saturday.

Elsewhere on the sports scene this week, CBC television on Tuesday night will present a half-hour of film on the British Empire and Commonwealth Games from Australia, as well as the final radio report Saturday morning.

National League football this week will spotlight the league's most interesting contest available on Sunday.

In the National Hockey League, the Boston Bruins with new coach Milt Schmidt at the helm, meet the Toronto Maple Leafs.

And, of course, there is five-pin bowling from Toronto.

Free Time

Political Broadcasts

On Manitoba Stations

SCHEDULING of radio and television political free time periods being made available to the provincial parties contesting the December 14 general election in Manitoba has been announced.

The announcement followed a meeting with representatives of the provincial Progressive Conservative, Liberal, New Democratic and Social Credit parties at which the parties agreed on a division of the two hours of television and two hours of radio made available on the CBC regional networks for the election campaign broadcasts.

The Progressive Conservative party was allocated three of the eight fifteen-minute television periods, the Liberal and New Democratic parties two periods each, and the Social Credit party one. The eight radio periods were split on the same basis.

CBWT—Sergeant Bilko

Love, in the person of a pert dancing teacher, hits Bilko so hard that he goes to the police for help.

True

UXB. A dramatization of the life and occupation of Major Bill Hartley, a member of the Royal Engineers bomb disposal unit.

Tommy Ambrose

Tommy's special guests are Toronto singing star Betty Robertson and the Halifax III, a Canadian folk-singing group.

Empire

Echo of a Man. Dan Tabor, general engineer of the Garret Ranch, seems worried by crop-dusting problems and by the presence of his beautiful and poised 22-year-old ward.

CBWT—Biography

Charles Lindbergh. On a May night in 1927 Charles Lindbergh completed the first solo flight across the Atlantic Ocean. It brought him fame and world-wide adulation and later personal tragedy and public conflict that scarred his life. His story is the perfect study in the wonderful and terrible consequences of sudden fame.

Each party will also have a fifteen-minute free time period on the CBC's French-language channel, CBWFT.

These free time political periods are made available by the CBC and private stations to allow the parties contesting the election to present candidates and discuss platforms and policies.

The television series will be carried by CBWT, CKX-TV Brandon, CKOS-TV Yorkton, Saskatchewan, and the CBC outlets at The Pas and Flin Flon. The Yorkton station is included because its signal covers part of central Manitoba.

The network radio programs will be carried by CBW, CKX Brandon, CFAR Flin Flon, and CHFC Fort Churchill (on a delayed basis).

The schedule of free time network radio broadcasts in the election series is as follows:

(All times are CST, p.m.)

Friday, Nov. 23—

9:00-9:15—Liberal Party

9:15-9:30—Progressive Conservative Party

Tuesday, Nov. 27—

CBC WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Introduction to Poetry (1953); Imagination in Action (1956); both by George Whalley.

DOCUMENTARIES

West Coast Indians (1951): by Roderick Haig-Brown, Portrait in Memory: Emily Carr (1958), Portrait in Memory: Stephen Leacock (1958), The Canadian Senate (1959), Profile of J. W. Dajoe (1959), The Search for Frederick Philip Grove (1962), Profile of Bertrand Russell (1962), Political Profiles (1961-62): Mitchell Hepburn, William Aberhart, Henri Bourassa, R. B. Bennett, and J. S. Woodsworth.

This list does not include, for example, programs by the CBC Symphony, the Canadian String Quartet, and the Mendelssohn Choir; the satirical revues The Worst of 62 and Say, Uncle; short story and poetry readings; the occasional series based on the journals and letters of famous writers. It does not include any of the many BBC programs made available to CBC Wednesday Night by the BBC's Transcription Service. Nor does it include dramatic adaptations ranging from Shakespeare and Moliere to Georges Simenon and Harold Pinter.

In the past 18 months a number of books have been published which have a direct or indirect connection with the CBC Wednesday Night series. Ryerson Press has published John Coulter's Riel and James Reaney's Twelve Letters to a Small Town, a poetic biography of his home town, Stratford, Ontario, commissioned for Wednesday Night. Oxford University Press has published A Beach of Strangers by John Reeves, the original radio play that won for the CBC the distinguished Italia Prize. McClelland & Stewart has published Ten for Wednesday Night, a collection of stories by Canadian writers first broadcast in the series. The Macmillan Company of Canada has published George Whalley's The Legend of John Hornby, a story first explored by Mr. Whalley in the documentary Death in the Barren Ground on CBC Wednesday Night in 1954.

Glenn Gould has recently said of the program: "I well remember my first appearance on CBC Wednesday Night. I was 18 and rather thrilled to be taking part in what was then and, in my opinion, is still the most imaginative and successfully planned radio series in North America. I played on that occasion a Bach partita, the one in G Major, No. 5, and it seems to me somehow appropriate to contribute to the happy occasion of the Wednesday Night's 15th anniversary a companion piece — the partita No. 4 in D Major."

In 1954, Rupert Caplan arranged and produced a full evening in tribute to Eugene O'Neill. It was narrated by Brooks Atkinson, until his recent retirement the drama critic of the New York Times. Mr. Atkinson later wrote an editorial for the Times in which he attributed the renaissance of O'Neill's plays in part to the CBC's memorial broadcast. O'Neill's widow inscribed a copy of the first edition of A Touch of the Poet to Rupert Caplan in the following words: "For Rupert Caplan, with my respect, my gratitude and deep thanks for what you have done for O'Neill and for me. Your friend, Carlotta Monterey O'Neill." The 15th anniversary production by Rupert Caplan of A Touch of the Poet is of an adaptation for radio by Len Peterson with an original musical score by Neil Chotem.

Symbol of the People

A NEW PLAY for radio by Brian Swarbrick, entitled A Symbol of the People will be presented on CBC Stage Sunday, December 2, at 8:00 p.m. Production will be by Esse W. Ljungh, with music composed and conducted by Morris Surdin.

Swarbrick is a graduate of what might be called the post-war school of journalism. He cut his teeth on a Canadian Press rewrite desk in 1946, when he was 17. The following year he joined the CBC newsroom in Toronto, and in 1950 went to Korea with the Canadian Army Intelligence Corps. Demobilized there three years later, he served for a year as editor of the trade paper Tavern before becoming a public relations officer with a Toronto advertising agency. He freelanced for a while, contributing articles to national magazines. In 1956 he joined CBC Radio's Assignment staff as chief writer, where his ability to turn out bright, concise copy in a hurry was an advantage.

Now he is freelancing again. He has written for a variety of radio programs, including documentary series and CBC Stage. He wrote and prepared much of the interview material for a program marking the 15th anniversary of the end of the Second World War, and prepared another program on Bertrand Russell for the philosopher's 88th birthday. Last spring he made his debut as a TV playwright, when Playdate presented his None of Us Is Perfect, a comedy about a couple of Halifax tugboat operators who try to bring off the perfect bank robbery. Originally he had written the drama for CBC Stage which presented it last season under the title Nothing Can Go Wrong.

Swarbrick's latest work, A Symbol of the People, concerns the human element in civic politics. The protagonists are Arkwright, an aging mayor in poor health who will neither give up his reins of office nor face up to the slum conditions under his nose, and Phil Gordon, a reporter whose girl friend was killed by a thug who was a product of those conditions.

For Gordon, the puzzling thing about Arkwright is that although he is not a wise or a great man, and is often a blind and a weak one, the people keep right on voting for him, adoring him, shouting his praises at public gatherings and not all of these men and women are stupid. With undisputed evidence of Arkwright's civic neglect at his fingertips, Gordon sets out to expose it before the coming election. "Oh yes," admits Gordon to those who worship the mayor, "Arkwright is one who can turn up with a can of beans for a starving family when the spirit moves him, but there's a certain lack of taste in offering a basket of groceries with one hand, and signalling a news photographer with the other."

As Gordon peels back the layers of Arkwright's civic neglect, the mayor doesn't appear any more admirable, but Gordon's own approach to life and to civic progress receive a much-needed shaking up.

A Man Called Ukridge

P. G. WODEHOUSE is credited with introducing to English literature as many world-famous characters as perhaps any novelist of the past 300 years: Jeeves, Bertie Wooster, The Earl of Emsworth, Aunt Agatha, Psmith, and Ukridge, to mention but a few, are characters who will probably never quite die. They have become names that symbolize a type; some, practically, the generic title for a type.

Of these caricatures, for that is what they can best be called, Stanley Featherstonehaugh Ukridge is the complete epitome of the penniless, lovably unprincipled, always enthusiastic, never quite submerged scion of a wealthy family, who graduates from an expensive public school with a galaxy of more or less successful friends, to make his own way in a world which he regards as his oyster.

Ukridge was born resourceful, but with a crippling inability to stomach or be stomached by his nearest and dearest. The formidable Aunt Julia, one of the most formidable of all Wodehouse's formidable aunts, made several attempts to mould him nearer to her heart's desire, but her nephew Stanley was not malleable. Fortunately, he was never far from the verge of making a colossal fortune, in his own estimation, so that the rebuffs administered to him by an unappreciative world, and a disillusioned aunt, never quite got him down. To his closest friend, the long-suffering Corky (Corcoran) his ebullience, his unflinching and overwhelming self confidence, and his incredible persuasiveness brought nothing but embarrassment, and unwilling involvement in the most scaly adventures, to use a Wodehouse adjective.

Some years ago, the CBC broadcast a series of adventures of Ukridge, and the repeated nostalgic allusions by listeners to this very popular series has inspired a repeat of the dose.

Under the title A Man Called Ukridge, six of Ukridge's incredible adventures are being presented on CBC Radio's Late Night Theatre, at 10:30 p.m., Fridays. First episode was heard November 23. The series is adapted by Roy Brinson, who also plays the title role, with Peter Haworth as the long suffering Corky.

square. The fourth side, entirely separate from the main building, is the habitation of God.

The monks' cells form a honeycomb above the soaring communal rooms. Each cell is equipped with a bed, table, desk and telephone, and has a covered balcony. The outside walls of glass allow the cells to be flooded with light. Their ceilings are fairly low—a man can touch them with his upstretched hand—because, says Le Corbusier, there is no need for excess space when only one man in prayer and meditation needs to be accommodated. But the roofs of classrooms and other communal rooms rise high. Their outside walls are completely of glass, adorned with vertical bars arranged irregularly.

"When you leave the habitation of man and go to the habitation of God," says Foytenyi, "the roofs soar higher still, and direct lighting disappears. In the monks' private chapel three enormous light cannons and narrow window slits let in a soft twilight full of gentleness and mystery." The cannon linings are painted vivid shades of red, yellow or blue, as are sections of the rough interior walls, giving a stained-glass-window effect and bathing the concrete with cheerfulness and drama. Colour is used economically but with great effect through the whole monastery, even water pipes or electric conduits being touched with strong red, blue or yellow. There is no clutter in the chapel, just a simple serenity. One of the strangest sights at La Tourette is the boxy bell-tower tacked on like a wing to the pyramid-like steeple.

When Le Corbusier designs a structure, he considers everything in and around the building, the size, shape and movement of its inhabitants, "every detail of household furnishing, the street as well as the house and the wider world beyond." He invented the moduler, a measure reconciling foot and meter—believes there should be unity in any area which could be covered in an hour's walk, which is a basic module. Beyond that, the average person is too tired to notice or care about design integration, he says.

"Before I went to La Tourette," says Foytenyi, "I wrote to Le Cor-busier asking to see him. He didn't answer. Later, when I called at his Paris atelier, he wasn't in, but one of his assistants told me the reason Le Corbusier hadn't replied was that he had been working in Japan for some weeks. The assistant suggested I return in the morning to talk to Corbu, but I was leaving by plane that afternoon, so I wrote again from Canada, and this time got a reply. I asked him if he would permit me to film an interview with him about La Tourette. He said he was so busy that he hadn't even had time to go down to see the monastery since it was finished two years ago, and had had only one half-hour glimpse of his famous chapel at Ronchamps, though thousands of others had trekked there from all over the world. He complained that radio, TV, the press and film-makers pestered him constantly, editors thinking nothing of asking him to dash off 15,000 words for them on short notice. He regretted that time would not permit a TV interview for the CBC. But he finished in his own handwriting: 'Without ill feeling and with good humour, Le Corbusier.' It was like a smile erasing a frown."

1/2 teaspoon pepper

Two Sticks and Tin Pan Made Music for Charlie as a Boy

LAST YEAR a family gathered for a reunion in Bathurst, N.B. Shortly after the "hellos" were said, they burst into song — lively Irish songs.

This was the first occasion the entire family had been together for 35 years. But, as much as these brothers and sisters noticed changes in each other, there was one member of the group who couldn't be mistaken. He visited each of them in their homes once a week.

The strong tenor voice in this family group was that of Charlie Chamberlain, featured vocalist on Don Messer's Jubilee, seen Mondays on the CBC-TV network.

Charlie was brought up with music. His mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Chamberlain, was well known in their home town of Bathurst as a vocalist, organist and pianist.

A Bathurst resident recalls that even as a child Charlie had an urge to sing. "He didn't let the lack of musical accompaniment deter him—two sticks and a tin pan and he was ready to go. When he burst into song at play, passers-by stopped to listen and comment at the richness of his childish voice."

As a young lad, Charlie went to work in New Brunswick lumber camps. In the evenings, he'd keep the other men entertained with his singing and guitar playing. One day in the early '30s, Charlie was entertaining on a train. A Saint John businessman was so impressed with his Irish songs and lumber camp tunes that he arranged a meeting between Charlie and Don Messer. And that's how his professional singing career started.

Don put Charlie on his New Brunswick Breakdown show, which originated from Saint John and was heard on the eastern network of the Canadian Radio Commission, a forerunner of the CBC. Charlie soon became known as the Singing Lumberjack.

Among the many humorous incidents that Charlie remembers from his early days as a radio entertainer was his first and only singing lesson. He was persuaded to take singing lessons and, as Charlie recalls: "I was a lanky young lumberjack just out of the woods and in the city for the first time. The teacher asked me to sing for her, but she kept stopping me to tell me how to hold my mouth, when to breathe, and all that kind of thing. When she told me I had to do all these things just to sing, I never went back."

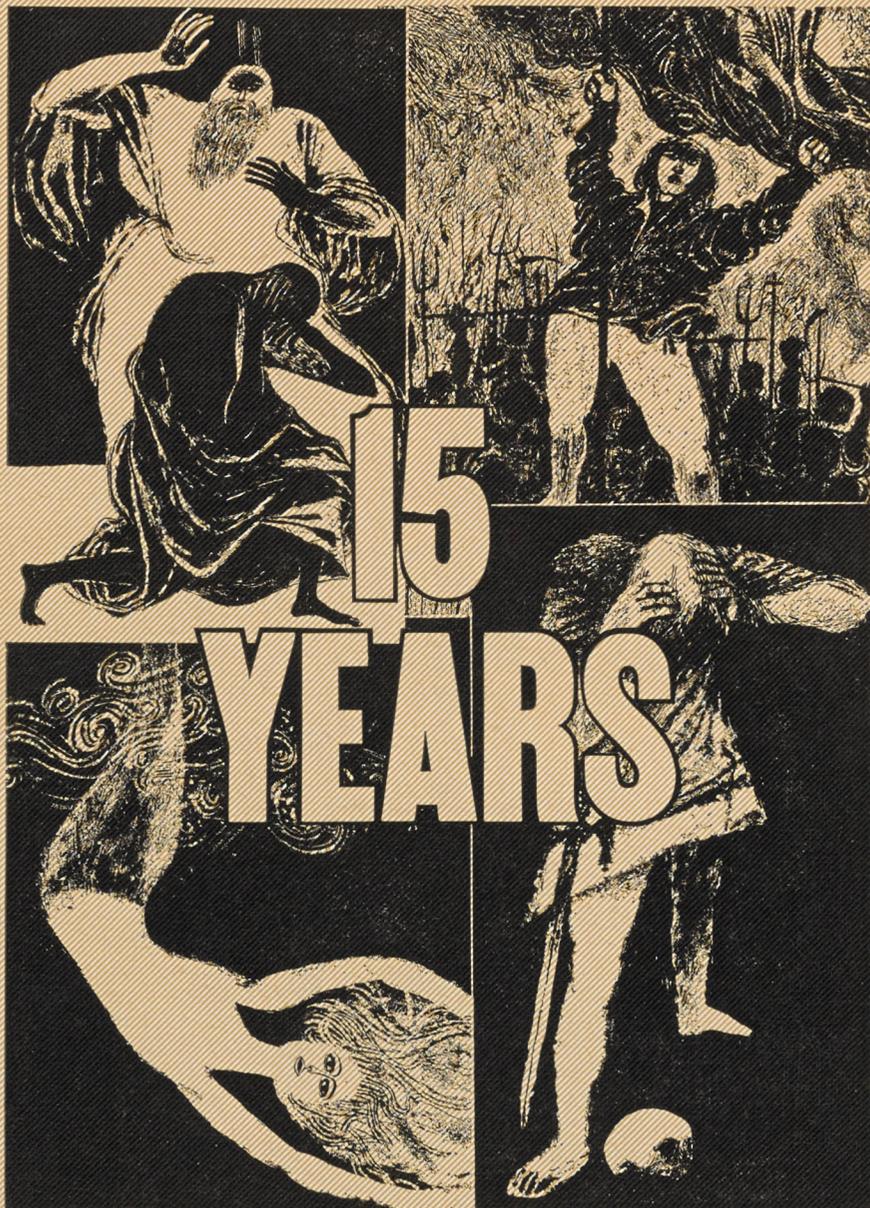

Charlie and his wife, Lydia (whom he calls Ti Belle, French for "little beauty") celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary in November. They have six grown-up children and four grandchildren.

1 teaspoon brown sugar
1/8 teaspoon thyme
1 tablespoon minced parsley

Mix well with hands and use as desired.
