Manitoba Profile

• May I commend the program Manitoba Profile (on CBWT during the summer schedule). I hope next year that Marilyn and Bill will come to even closer grips with these pretty little Manitoba towns by exploring their residential areas, their libraries and art collections, interviewing their leading citizens in the arts, handicrafts and education; perhaps some of these nice people will take us into their homes and show us their prize possessions.

—Miss A.F.W., Winnipeg.

Music Hop

• I first saw the program Music Hop today and I thoroughly enjoyed it. I sincerely hope it is continued throughout the season. (Seen Thursdays 5:30 p.m.)

—Mr. R.A., Saskatchewan.

Unfavourable

• We, the members of the Ninga United Church Women's Group, wish to go on record protesting the prevalence of drinking scenes in the majority of television programs in view of the fact that the audience consists of a large number of teenagers and younger children. We feel that this must have a demoralizing effect.

—Mrs. W.P., Ninga, Man.

Dr. Finlay's Casebook

• I am adding my voice to that of R.F.S. of Winnipeg in praise of the program Dr. Finlay's Casebook (summer series).

I would gladly give up any four programs (Dr. Casey's among them) if I could just enjoy this program as a permanent feature. . . .

—Mrs. K.H., The Pas.

CBC National News

• At the September meeting of the Swift Current Council of Women a motion was passed that a letter should be sent to the CBC expressing appreciation of the fact that the national television news now reaches Swift Current at 11:00 p.m. instead of midnight and requesting that this program remains at this more suitable viewing hour throughout the year.

—Mrs. J.R., Swift Current.

Prairie Talks

• I would like to express my deepest appreciation of a recent series of three talks given by Dorothy Card on the program Prairie Talks. . . . (Now heard Thursdays, 7:45 p.m. on CBC Radio).

Prairie Talks is a splendid program indeed. I have also enjoyed Adele Wiseman on the same program. . . .

—J.D., Edmonton.

Bing Crosby Special Wednesday on CBC-TV

THE "OLD GROANER" makes one of his comparatively rare television appearances this week, in a one-occasion special. The Bing Crosby Show will be presented on CBC-TV on Wednesday, November 6.

Among the special guests who join Bing on the show are Buddy Ebsen, who plays Jed Clampett in The Beverly Hillbillies (seen on CBC-TV Saturday nights), vocalist Catherina Valente, pianist-composer Andre Previn, and The Young Americans Choir, a choral group comprising boys and girls, aged 15 to 20, representing high schools and colleges in Los Angeles.

One of the all-time greats of showbusiness, Der Bingle has starred in more than 50 motion pictures, had one of the most popular of radio shows in the days of big-time radio, and sales of his recordings run into astronomical figures. Like some other giants of the entertainment world, he has made his way cautiously in the field of television, limiting himself to a few specials each year. Even though a millionaire magnate of a dozen different enterprises, Crosby is too relaxed and easy-going to go looking for the strains and exhausting problems of a weekly television show.

THE FARM TELEVISION short course This Business of Farming, initiated in Manitoba two years ago, will become a regional show this winter. The departments of agriculture of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta and the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation will co-operate in producing the 1964 version.

This Business of Farming will be telecast by fourteen television stations on the CBC prairie network Monday, January 6 to Friday, January 10, 1964, from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. Course content will include soils, forage crop management, and beef cattle production. The fifth and final day of the course is being produced as a provincial show. On this day, the Alberta department will feature "Farm and Home Management," Saskatchewan viewers will see how to reorganize and improve the farmstead, while Manitoba's program is about career guidance.

The television course is planned to appeal to all rural viewers in the prairies. Farmers, provincial agriculture specialists, university staff members, Canada Department of Agriculture experts and others will pool their talents to present the latest in information and trends.

According to officials of the three prairie agriculture departments, the medium of television has provided a means of reaching more people and extending their educational programs. Audience research in 1962 proved that over 50 per cent of Manitoba farm operators watched the show, with an average total audience each day of from 19,000 to 23,000 adults. Course officials expect a third of a million viewers in 1964.

THE NEW FALL SCHEDULE now is fully in effect on CBC Radio, and listeners will notice that some of their favourite programs are heard on different days. Among the programs changing days are: The Max Ferguson Review, now Saturdays at 9:30 p.m. on CBW and CBK, 8:30 p.m. on CBX; Song Recital, Mondays at 7:45 p.m.; Recital in Miniature, Wednesdays at 7:35 p.m.; Winnipeg Pops Concert, Wednesdays, 9:30 p.m.; Prairie Talks, Thursdays, 7:45 p.m.; and Chamber Music, Fridays, 9:30 p.m. Many new programs appear in the schedule as well, so listeners are urged to pay close attention to the radio station listings in this issue.

SHAKESPEAREAN DRAMA chronicling the rise and fall of seven British monarchs is being presented on a 15-week series being seen on CBWT and CBXT.

An Age of Kings, produced by the BBC, is seen Tuesdays at 6:45 p.m. on CBXT, repeated the following Thursday at 11:30 p.m. CBWT carries the program at 6:00 p.m. each Wednesday, repeating it the following Monday at 11:30 p.m.

An Age of Kings has been described as "an epic pageant, an heroic conception, executed with a superb flourish."

Says the producer of the series, Peter Dews: "An Age of Kings does not presume to be the last word on 'Shakespeare and television.' All we aim to do is to present this great sweep of plays in a manner that will intrigue the specialist, gratify the lover, and introduce to the yet-unknowing spectator some of the glories, tragic and comic, of these crown jewels of our language."

In the large cast, David William will be seen as Richard II, Tom Fleming as Henry IV, Robert Hardy as Henry V, Terry Scully as Henry VI, Paul Daneman as Richard III, Frank Pettingell as Sir John Falstaff, Angela Baddeley as Mistress Quickly, and Patricia Heneghan as Lady Percy.

THE HUTTERITES

What are the effects when a group chooses to isolate itself from surrounding society?
CBC-TV's EXPLORATIONS deals with the communal followers of Jacob Hutter in a program
Monday, November 4.

"NO MAN IS an island unto himself," wrote John Donne. And in today's world no group of men can be an island either. That is a fact of life being learned in a hard, bitter way by the Hutterite communities in Canada's Prairie provinces.

Since they moved into Canada during the First World War to set up their Christian communal colonies, the Hutterites have encountered opposition to their way of life. Most of the opposition has come from their neighbours, and it has resulted in controversial legislation being passed in the Prairies that limits the natural growth and expansion of the religious communities.

One trouble with the Hutterites

FESTIVAL goes melodic Wednesday, November 6, with an hour of the romantic music of old Vienna

"BY THE LAW of averages," wrote an enthusiastic London critic, "Elisabeth Schwartzkopf should not sing well, for she is too beautiful. She should not be beautiful, for she is too intelligent. But the law of averages does not operate for her."

There is nothing average about this blonde, statuesque German soprano who has thrilled audiences all over the world with her warm, exhilarating interpretations of opera, lieder, oratorio and operetta. Critics are always running out of adjectives to describe her formidable talent and charming, down-to-earth personality.

CBC-TV viewers will have a chance to enjoy both on Wednesday night, November 6, when Festival presents the first of a series of hour-long concerts to be telecast approximately once a month this season.

Titled Viennese Night, the first concert will feature Miss Schwartzkopf in romantic music of old Vienna. Willi Boskovsky, concert master of the Vienna Philharmonic, will direct the CBC L'heure du Concert orchestra in the manner of Strauss, playing the violin as he conducts. Production is by Pierre Mercure in the Montreal studios.

"A performance is shaped like dough into a loaf of bread," Miss Schwartzkopf insists with typical practicality. "Thus, familiarity with all ingredients helps bake the end product. . . . When I hear a piece of music for the first time I must cry. I must be gripped or else I leave it alone. I do not try to communicate with the audience. I forget the audience or at least try to. This is when I get results. A song is a union between composer and performer. I must be convinced no one else is listening. I must sing for myself and merely allow an audience to overhear.

"Audiences differ, but not as much as one would think. There are wonderful ones, sometimes, in small cities. I've never had an entirely unresponsive one. I expect an audience to listen quietly. What a wonderful sensation when you do not hear even a breath! Not long ago, some place, I stopped singing because of incessant noise. 'I can hear you talking,' I told them. 'I hope you can hear me'."

Miss Schwartzkopf has a mind of her own and a spirited, determined way of handling tricky situations, but her friendly, un-primadonna-like personality, which sparkles just as attractively off-stage as on, has made her a favourite with orchestras, conductors, and stage

Christian Frontiers

Searching for a deeper meaning in life?

CBC Radio's CHRISTIAN FRONTIERS returns with programs for both the believer and the seeker

"I THINK the program holds a great deal of interest for everyone, even those who may feel that they have 'graduated above Christianity' intellectually."

The words are those of the Rev. Brian Freeland, CBC's assistant supervisor of religious programs, and he was speaking of the radio series Christian Frontiers. The weekly series returns to the radio network effective October 30, and will be heard this season at a new time: 8:30 p.m. local time on Wednesday nights.

The aim of the program would seem to bear out Rev. Freeland's opinion, for it sets out "to explore significant trends in Christian thought and life, and probe the frontiers of religious belief." It is designed not only for the conscientious, practicing Christian, but for those who may be searching for some deeper meaning to life and have not yet found it. The programs are intended to stimulate thought and provoke discussion.

The first edition of the new series, to be broadcast Wednesday, October 30, will include a report on the deliberations of the second Vatican Ecumenical Council, one month after its second session got under way. The second program, on November 6, will consist of an interview with William Stringfellow, a young American lawyer who is known to hold some radical beliefs about Christianity. In the third program, November 13, entitled The Moral Aspects of Terminated Pregnancy, broadcaster Marjorie McEnaney presents legal, medical and theological opinions and facts about abortion.

The two succeeding programs feature interviews recorded by broadcaster Bill McNeil during his recent trip overseas. The first interview is with Dr. Donald M'Timkulu, of the Mindola Ecumenical Centre in Africa, where young men and women are being trained to assume responsibility and leadership in the emerging Africa of today. The second interviewee is Janet Lacey, C.B.E., one of the best-known lay figures in the Anglican Communion, who expresses her views on the ecumenical movement,

The Voice of the People

You can make your own opinions known when CBC Radio's CITIZENS' FORUM invites calls from across the nation on Open Lines.
The first program is heard November 5.

LAST YEAR CBC Radio's Citizens' Forum experimented with a series of open line programs in which listeners were invited to 'phone their opinions on a given topic to their local CBC affiliated station. The calls were recorded and forwarded to the CBC in Toronto, where they were culled and grouped. The most interesting opinions were played on the air in a later broadcast of Citizens' Forum.

So enthusiastic was listener and station response to these open line programs that this season all the Citizens' Forum broadcasts are being planned around this technique, with 24 affiliated stations taking part. Open Lines to all parts of Canada, including many smaller centres normally not heard from on the network, and, occasionally, centres overseas, will be presented weekly on Tuesday nights, beginning November 5 at 9 local time.

Program organizer Christina McDougall, of the CBC public affairs department, hopes to "tap ideas from people not usually reached by our programs. We've chosen subjects involving the ordinary citizen and about which he feels strongly. The differences and similarities in outlook existing in various regions should emerge through these candid expressions of feeling, and we hope that the season as a whole will reflect the current thinking of Canadians who are not experts or even necessarily leaders in their community, but who are interested in what is going on in their country and abroad."

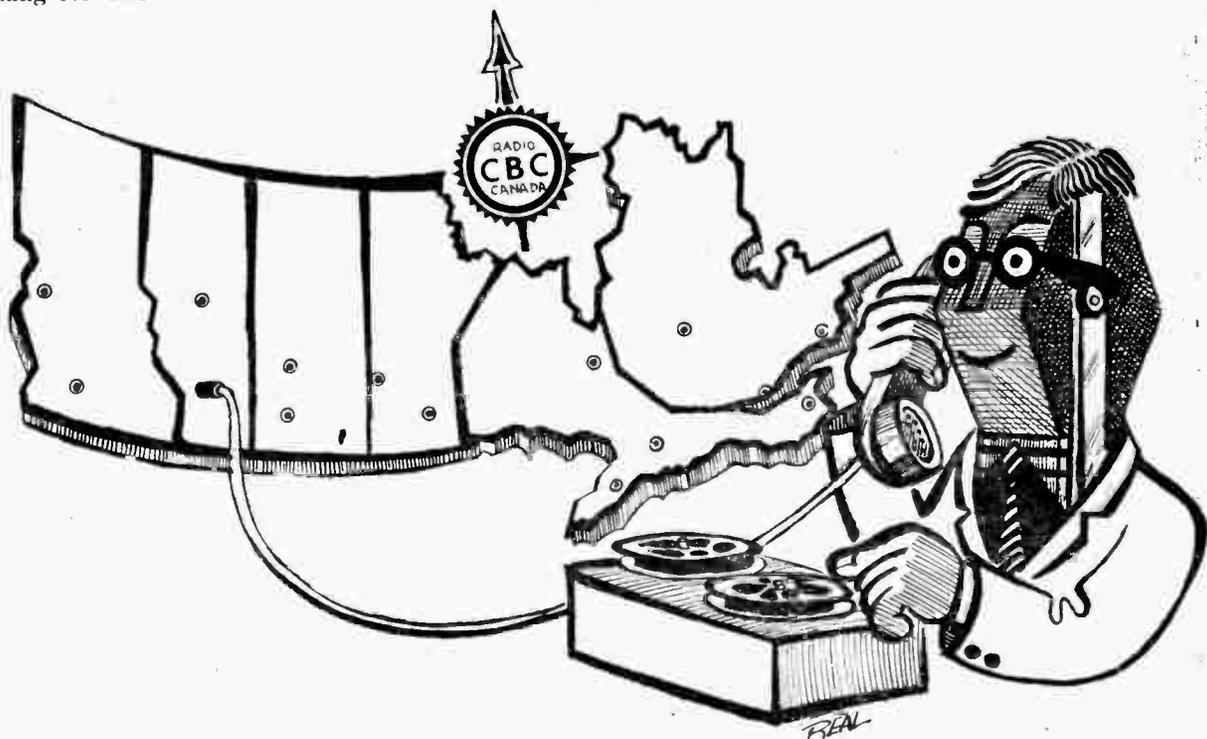

Three sets of opinions collected by three different stations on one general or social topic will be used in each program. Local announcers are invited to ask their listeners to call their station with opinions on the question of the week, which, in the first program, will be: Is credit buying bad for the family? Taking part will be CHWK, Chilli-wack; CFAC, Calgary; and CFPL, London.

The November 12 topic will be: Is a truly happy marriage possible between persons of different faiths? Participating stations will be CFCP, Grande Prairie; CFCH, North Bay; and CJQC, Quebec City. The November 19 topic is: Why do we discriminate between people of different colours?

The first three programs will be presented from the CBC's Halifax studios, where a host on each program, chosen for his or her ability to pick out the important points in listeners' opinions in the week's subject, will link trends of thought brought forward by various speakers and draw conclusions from them.

Later programs will ask such questions as: Has the doctor's

Life in 'The Fishbowl'

THE VERSATILITY of Joseph Schull, one of the country's best-known playwrights, will be evident on Monday night, November 4, when CBC-TV's Playdate presents his latest drama, Willow Circle. For many members of the CBC audience, Schull's name is synonymous with stirring plays with an historical or sea setting, or both. But, as he has proved many times, he can apply the same intuitive, observant, imaginative touch to the little episodes in contemporary life with sustained excitement that grips the audience from the start, as he revealingly lays bare the souls of a handful of men and women.

That's the case in Willow Circle, set in a modern, prosperous city suburb of streets set with rows of six- or seven-room fishbowls in which every stick of furniture, mortgage payment, and cross word or caress is public knowledge within minutes. On the surface the area throbs with cheerful activity, hi-fi music, gay calls across back fences, the hum of lawn-mowers and washing machines, the slam of an oven door as a cake comes out, the quick quarrels and quicker reconciliations of children, the shrill voices of the gossiping morning coffee clique in somebody's kitchen. Underneath, sometimes very close to the surface, the dry rot of boredom works busily, turning love into dissatisfaction and dissatisfaction into hatred.

In Schull's powerful little vignette, the protagonists are Anne and Charley, played by Charmion King and William Needles, and Myra and Paul, played by Jill Foster and Gordon Pinsent, all nudging 40 and frightened by the swift slipping-away of youth. Suddenly, one late afternoon, they find their lives disintegrating around them.

Others in the cast are Patricia Farmer, John Mackin, and Eleanor Beeroff. As an unfaithful wife, Miss King plays a role in sharp contrast to the one she appears in on Playdate on November 18, when she plays the understanding wife of a psychiatrist in The Fight for Martin Wheeler, opposite American actor Frank Overton.

the role of women in the Church, and inter-Church aid.

Later programs in the series will include a further assessment of the Vatican Council, an inquiry into the morality of Canada's treatment of its Indian population, a comparison of the Anglican Church in England and in Canada, a study of the relationship of science to religion, discussed by clergyman-scientist, the Rev. Dr. Roger Pilkington, and other programs on a wide variety of topics.

Christian Frontiers is prepared by the CBC's religious broadcasts department, which works in close co-operation with the National Religious Advisory Council. This body is composed of 12 members, two delegates from each of six Churches—Baptist, Presbyterian, United, Anglican, Lutheran and Roman Catholic — who are nominated by their respective Churches and appointed to their posts by the CBC. The Council elects its own officers from within the membership, and it is the duty of the chairman to speak in behalf of those smaller Churches not directly represented on the Council. The group meets regularly to assist in program planning, to give advice on religious broadcasting, and to allocate broadcast time among the various denominations.

The religious broadcasts department is also responsible for two other radio programs and one television program on CBC networks. Church of the Air, heard on radio Sunday afternoons at 3:30 local time, is a broadcast act of worship, specially adapted to the medium of radio, in which each denomination speaks with its own authentic accent, using the form of service most familiar to it, and relying on CBC only for technical resources and advice on broadcasting techniques, if necessary.

World Church News, broadcast Saturdays at 12:15 p.m. local time, is a program of news, features and commentary about activities of the Christian Church throughout the world, compiled from information received from Churches and from the Religious News Service. The television series, Heritage, seen Sundays at 4:00 p.m., is currently showing repeat telecasts of some of the best documentaries, dramas, discussion programs and concerts from its past seasons.

Harry Boyle is one of the writers giving his personal view of Canada's accomplishments and future in this decade, Sunday on the debut of The Sixties.

Today, Five Views. Thomas Raddall, Eric Nichol, Yves Theriault, and Harry Boyle each give their personal view of Canada in the Sixties.

Some of Those Days

Covers the years of the Second World War. Film clips include the German invasion of Poland and the famous footage of the Tacoma Suspension Bridge collapsing.

My Three Sons

The End of You Know What. Chip and Ernie overhear two scientists and assume that they are discussing the imminent ending of the world.

Hazel

George's 32nd Cousin. One of George's distant relatives arrives at the Baxter's home and announces that she is there to stay, until Hazel solves the problem.

Bonanza

Calamity Over The Comstock. A beautiful woman inadvertently leads Little Joe into a confrontation with a killer.

Question Mark

Examines the question of what is special about the French-Canadian way of life. Freelance broadcaster Michael Magee interviews Claude Ryan of Le Devoir and Jean-Charles Felardeau of Laval University, and asks the question of a cross section of French-speaking Canadians. Host is J. Frank Willis.

CWBWT-Desilu Playhouse

Eddie Albert stars in the compelling drama of a man who faces the power of organized criminals in the Aaron Spelling teleplay entitled The Night The Phone Rang.

Canada's Challenge In The Sixties

IN CANADA the sixties offer a tremendous challenge, for before they have gone by, this restless country must grow up to its nationhood by coming to satisfactory terms with tensions within its borders, and by accepting maturely the realities of its relationship with the rest of the world.

A new CBC-TV series beginning this week, titled The Sixties, will try to reflect the restlessness of the decade, not only in Canada but as expressed in various ways in the United States, Britain and Europe. It will point out some of the creative forces driving our society, some of the destructive elements threatening to tear our institutions apart, and milder aspects of life today which make it odd, lovable, fun, and often amusing.

Replacing Citizens' Forum on television, the half-hour series will be seen Sundays, beginning November 3. Christina McDougall is the program organizer and production will be by Cameron Graham, who has produced the Ottawa show, Nightline, for two years. Charles Lynch, chief of the Southam News Service, will appear frequently as commentator and interviewer, and the permanent chairman will be Frank McGee of the Toronto Star, former M.P. for Toronto Scarborough. The Canadian Association for Adult Education, which has a long history of collaboration with the CBC, is continuing this co-operation in The Sixties.

Speakers, ideas and opinions will be gathered from all over Canada, Europe and the U.S., from industry, the professions and international personalities in a broad ex-

(Please turn to page 29)

Heritage

Moment of Doubt. A Lutheran film on the work of a university chaplain. A student's faith is severely tested.

Country Calendar

The feed grain situation in Canada, its transportation problems, profits and subsidies. Host, Jack Johnson.

The Sixties

A public affairs series from Ottawa. Canadians from the professions and industries will participate in an interchange of ideas. Producer, Cameron Graham.

National Educational Television

International Zone. Number 3 of 8: Pepero and the Machine. (Ages 13 and up.) From the United Nations.

Alberta School Telecast

Spineless Specimens. Dr. Brian Hocking of the University of Alberta, who has an international reputation for his work with insects, helps students to overcome their reluctance to work with these invertebrate and interesting animals.

Saskatchewan School Telecasts

Mathematics for Grade 9. Part 6: Open and Closed Sentences.

Loretta Young

A different drama each day is presented by Loretta Young, who frequently takes a starring role in the play.

Girl Talk

Hostess and moderator Virginia Graham's guests include Elizabeth Ashley, Broadway actress; Emily Kimbrough, lecturer-author; and Delores Gray, actress-singer. The girls discuss mothers-in-law and the role they play in marriages.

CBWT—Gale Storm Show

Two foreign agents try to get a secret map away from an American representative of an Arabian oil field.

CBXT—Gale Storm Show

Susanna and Nuguey visit Monte Carlo.

CBXT—Love That Bob

Bob Meet's Fonda's Sister. Bob's protection of his sister Margaret is carried to such lengths that she and Paul Fonda concoct a scheme to show up Bob's own wolfish tendencies.

Ladies First

Gerdine Crawford demonstrates how to make a pair of ladies' slippers and Ruth Dyker advises consumers on things to know in choosing and caring for the Kitchen range.

Take Thirty

Folk songs composed and sung by French-Canadian folk singer Pierre Calvert. With co-hostess and host Anna Cameron and Paul Soles.

This Living World

Steve Bloomer talks about how nature's creatures of the forest rely upon an "indicator" within their own bodies to advise them of the progress of the seasons.

CBWT—Puppet Playhouse

In a mixed up version of Robin Hood, Charlemagne plays the Sheriff of Nottingham. Hostess, Florence Faiers. Producer, Don Browne-Wilkinson.

Razzle Dazzle

Co-hosts Al Hamel and Michele Finney and Howard the Turtle are once more in the studio each day to conduct the merriment for the pig-tails and freckles set. Segments of the program provide cartoons, games, skits and films.

Today — Turtleshell Theatre. The Turtleshell players present an historical drama entitled Remember The Alamo.

CBXT—Gateway

Co-hosts Colin MacLean and Jim Mitchell presents the timely and the topical on the local scene. Producer, Dave Smiley.

CBWT—Reach for the Top

Teams competing are Gordon Bell High School and Stonewall Collegiate, the first two teams in flight 2.

CBXT—Sports Page

A weekly half-hour devoted to all types of sports activities of significant interest to the Edmonton community with CBC sportscaster Glen Bjarnason. Personal interviews with professional football players and coaches. Dennis Kadatz, coach of the Edmonton Huskies, uses slow motion film and a blackboard to explain another basic football play. Producer, Dave Smiley.

Don Messer's Jubilee

Program originates from the Atlantic Winter Fair in Halifax. Numbers include:

Good Old Fashioned	Charlie
Hoedown	Scottish Soldier
Bye, Bye Blues	Eddie Bourgault
Prairie Reel	The Islanders

Playdate

Willow Circle. A TV drama by Joseph Schull. A suburban housewife seemingly has everything, but jeopardizes her marriage by her clandestine meeting with her neighbour. Starring Charmion King and William Needles. Producer, Michael Sinelnikoff.

Explorations

The Hutterites. A visit to a Hutterite colony in Alberta and a TV portrait of these people whose ancestors came to this country at the turn of the century.

CBWT—Age of Kings

The Hollow Crown. Beginning a 15-week series of Shakespearean drama, a BBC series depicting the rise and fall of seven British monarchs, from Richard II to the dawn of the Tudor dynasty.

Episode 1: The Hollow Crown, an enactment of Shakespeare's Richard II. Acts 1, 2 and 3. The struggle for power between King Richard and Henry Bolinbroke, Duke of Bedford. David William portrays Richard II. (Repeat of last Wednesday's episode).

CBXT—Thriller

Masquerade. Elizabeth Montgomery and John Carradine star in this week's Thriller, in which there is some question as to who is the vampire. Hosted by Boris Karloff.

Program Notes

NOVEMBER 5

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and add'l program information

CFMS, The Happiness Station

JOHN CASSAVETES

JOHN CASSAVETES stars in this week's Quest on CBC Television (Tuesday, November 5, 10:30 p.m.) as a glib, cynical disc jockey, in M. Charles Cohen's play The Flip Side.

The one-character play concerns a late-night disc jockey in a small Canadian town — Jerry Janus of CFMS, the Happiness Station, who fills the wee small hours with a few empty thoughts, a few laughs, a great many tasteless commercials, anti-Communist propaganda, endless rock 'n' roll records, capsule news flashes, and the electronic squeaks, whistles, rocket blasts, screeches, fanfares and other tape-recorded impedimenta that perfume the airwaves around some of today's radio stations, every second of every minute of every hour of every day.

A feature of Jerry's show is "The MS Feedback," when listeners phone in their domestic problems for him to solve and he thoughtlessly mouths platitudes in answer. Jerry is a success, but then he encounters some problems of his own.

The Quest program, produced by Harvey Hart, also presented problems for Cassavetes. Not only does he have to carry the entire half-hour alone, he also has to become a fast-talking disc jockey for a half-hour, flipping records, plugging in commercials on tape cartidges, etc. Cassavetes, one of the most respected of actors, has never been a disc jockey—until now.

National Schools Telecast

The Ideas of Physics. The Way the Ball Bounces. Extends the students' background in the field of properties of matter by describing and explaining the peculiar physical behaviour of high polymers.

Girl Talk

Hostess Virginia Graham's guests include Siri, Swedish model; Anne Zane Shanks, freelance photographer; and Gretchen Wyler, musical comedy star. The girls talk about freedom in Europe; infidelity; and women and drinking.

CBWT—Gale Storm Show

Pirate Treasure. A letter written in blood and sealed with a skull and cross-bones sends Susanna on a hurried search for buried treasure.

CBXT—Love That Bob

Bob Rescues Mrs. Nesmeyer. Bob who likes almost all girls is taken aback when his gift for flattery has won him a "doll" old enough to be his mother.

Ladies First

The show with the feminine point of view with co-hosts Jo Everett and Ernie Poscente introducing Elsie Kostash. She continues her current basketry project, the making of a magazine rack. Jo and Ernie also visit the Charles Camsell Indian-Eskimo Hospital. Producer, Gloria Germain.

Take Thirty

Anna Cameron talks to parents and hospital personnel about how to prepare a child for hospital life.

Fireball XL-5

Dangerous Cargo. Steve Zodiac and the crew of the Fireball are sent to destroy Planet Pharos, a derelict and creaking ghost town of a planet. The Subterrains hope to trap the crew on the planet.

Razzle Dazzle

Howard and Michele are looking for a handyman to fix up a few things in the Alley.

Come Listen Awhile

Regulars Bud Spencer, Pat Trudell, and the George Calangis Orchestra are joined by guest singer Betty Phillips.

CBWT—Glynis

Glynis Goes Wrong. Glynis goes to a known criminal and helps him to plan a fake robbery, but discovers the plans are not make believe.

CBXT—Age of Kings

The New Conspiracy. Henry IV, Part II, Acts 1 and 2. Northumberland begins to scheme afresh and to seek new allies after he hears about the rebel defeat at Shrewsbury.

Ben Casey

Light Up the Dark Corner. An Irish nurse tries to remain emotionally detached when she is assigned to care for an Irish sailor suffering from cancer. Features Piper Laurie.

Quest

Flipside. A drama by M. Charles Cohen about a big-time disc jockey whose glib, cynical style hides a nagging terror inside.

East Side, West Side

No Wings At All. George C. Scott stars as social worker Neil Brock in a series which dramatizes cases handled by social workers in a private welfare agency in New York's Borough of Manhattan.

CBWT—Gale Storm Show

It's Only Money. Susanna learns her favourite uncle has left her half-a-million dollars.

CBXT—Love That Bob

Bob Saves The Day. Schultzy's sailor boy friend gets shore leave and comes to see her while she is out of town. In an effort to protect Schultzy's interests Bob and Margaret plan ways to keep him away from all other girls until Schultzy's return.

Ladies First

Mary Liz Bayer and Chuck Skelding discuss the wonders of ancient Egypt, and in the cooking segment Mat Gauer prepares an appropriate culinary surprise.

Take Thirty

Agota Gabor returns with another dance lesson for Paul Soles. Barbara Kirschenblatt also returns with an idea about printing and dyeing ties. Paul Soles describes a visit to the annual Toronto Hadassah Bazaar.

CBXT—Calling All Children

CBWT—An Age of Kings

Excerpts from Shakespeare's plays, featuring a cast of distinguished British actors. This week:

Deposing of a King. (Richard II, Acts 3, 4 and 5.) Richard II surrenders to Bolingbroke and Northumberland. He yields the Crown to Bolingbroke who becomes Henry IV, and the Queen is sent back to her native France. When Richard is imprisoned at Pomfret he is murdered by Sir Pierce Exton who wishes to gain Henry's favour.

(To be repeated Monday, November 11 at 11:30 p.m.)

CBXT—Reach For The Top

This week, St. Joseph's Separate High School competes against Salisbury High School. Quizmaster, Colin Maclean. Producer, Don McRae.

Mr. Fix-It

The Home Workshop. Peter Whittall discusses the layout, hand tools and power tools respectively.

Red River Jamboree

Songs, stories, and dances which create an authentic picture of the Canadian West. Host, Stu Phillips, Peggy Neville, The Altones, The Valley Beaux and Belles and Ted Komar and the Selkirk Settlers are featured.

Today, a salute to some of the pioneer ministers who helped the pioneers survive the hardships of the old West.

Digging for Musical Nuggets

ONE OF THE most interesting and rewarding mining operations being conducted on an international scale these days is under the aegis of the New York Pro Musica Ensemble, whose repertoire covers the five centuries from 1200 to 1700. Since 1952 it has been digging around most successfully in Continental libraries, archives of European monasteries, and church collections in Spain, France, England and Germany, and has unearthed many delightful scores by Renaissance and pre-Renaissance composers. In interpreting them, the Ensemble has given some fascinating musical reflections of bygone ages, which have been enjoyed all over the world through concerts and recordings.

The Ensemble includes about a dozen performers — singers, instrumentalists and some who both sing and play. Their instruments include standard types and some specially revived to interpret old music.

It takes the Ensemble about a year to prepare a program, mainly because early manuscript scores provide little or no indication of

Hancock's Half Hour On CBC Radio

BEING FUNNY — for a living — in this fast-paced age has more than its share of ups and downs, mourns British comedian Tony Hancock. "In the old days," he observes wistfully, "a variety artist went around with the same act for 25 years. It was a comfortable life, being funny. Now, with radio and television, he daren't repeat himself."

But the "lad from Birmingham" proved himself well able to meet this challenge of changed times, and has quickly adjusted to the arduous task of keeping both sound microphones and television cameras regularly supplied with bright, amusing, up-to-standard material. A mountain of a task, as it turned out, and for some time now the giant's share of Hancock humour has been enjoyed by his television customers.

Not surprisingly, this concentration on one audience has reawakened the interest and appetite of the other, so to meet listeners' demands, the BBC transcription service is offering nine additional programs in the popular Hancock's Half-Hour radio series, including a special Christmas edition with Michael Anderson and Dorothy Marks.

The series will be heard Sundays, beginning November 3, at 6:30 p.m., local time. Joining Hancock are such old favourites as Sidney James, Hattie Jacques, Bill Kerr and Kenneth Williams.

how the composer intended they should be interpreted, so this must all be worked out carefully in the light of the composer's day, personality and what is known of his work. From their collection of music from Flanders, Burgundy, and Spain, the Ensemble will perform a number of works by Dufay, Josquin des Prés, Diego Ortiz, Antonio de Cabezon and others, when it appears on CBC Sunday Night, November 3, in a 90-minute concert beginning at 8:30 p.m.

is that they are just too successful. They possess such advantages as farmers that they are able to out-produce and out-sell their neighbours. Since they keep to themselves, are largely self-sufficient and have much more to sell than they need to buy, they are difficult people to trade with. Their colonies, little "islands" in the centre of rural communities, break up the normal social structure and interfere with co-operative community planning.

The problem is not a new one for the Hutterites. During their 400 years of existence they have had to move across Europe, then to the United States and finally to Canada, to find a locale that would be amenable to them. Followers of Jacob Hutter, a 16th century Protestant reformer, they practice a severely simple, strictly religious communal way of life. No individual owns property, but all are guaranteed total security. Families live in sparsely-furnished apartments, and the women take turns in preparing meals which are served in community dining halls.

When the Hutterites came to North America in 1875, they numbered about 400. Today there are over 10,000 members of the sect, and most of them are concentrated in the Prairies, where they have aroused resentment among their neighbours not only for their aloofness but for their refusal to take an active part in shouldering the responsibilities of citizenship. As pacifists, Hutterites were exempted from military service in both World Wars, and their extra manpower enabled them to thrive and expand their land holdings when other farmers were short-handed; they do not vote, and they educate their children in their own schools; they pay no income taxes, because in their communal way of life they earn no taxable income, and as a religious group they are exempt from corporation taxes. And they continue to grow in numbers, due to one of the highest birth rates in the world.

The Hutterite way of life would seem unendurably drab and strict to most people in 1963, yet in fact they are enjoying the old-fashioned simple life that seems so highly prized by modern man — prized, that is, when he doesn't actually have to live it. Brought up in the confines of the community, the Hutterite pities his "less fortunate" neighbours. "If standards of living are judged by wholesome food, comfortable living quarters, church activity and satisfied conscience," they say, "then ours are as high as anyone's. But if standards are determined by cars, television, radios and fancy furniture, then we admit ours are lower."

On Monday, November 4, CBC-TV's Explorations will present a half-hour film study of the Hutterites, prepared by the National Film Board.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

public image deteriorated? Why do people still smoke? How practical is bilingualism in federal organizations? Will church union ever be a reality? Are pesticides poisoning us? Do politics breed corruption? Is there a place for the Eskimo in the 20th century? Should atheists be allowed to speak freely on the air?

As in former years, the Canadian Association for Adult Education is co-operating fully with the CBC in helping to make the series a success.

The 24 affiliated network stations participating in Open Lines are: CKPG, Prince George; CHWK, Chilliwack and Abbotsford; CJIB, Vernon; CJVI, Victoria; CKOV, Kelowna; CKOK, Penticton; CFAC, Calgary; CFGP, Grande Prairie; CJOC, Lethbridge; CJBQ, Belleville; CFPL, London; CJIC, Sault Ste. CANADA'S CHALLENGE IN THE SIXTIES change of ideas. In the first program, on November 3, titled Five Views, writers Thomas Raddall of Nova Scotia, Eric Nicol of British Columbia, Ives Thériault of Quebec and Harry Boyle of Ontario will give their personal views of Canada in the sixties.

The programs on November 10 and 17 will explore pressures behind what we read in the newspapers and hear on the air. Is there a deliberate attempt to "manage" public opinion? Examples will be drawn from the Der Spiegel case in Germany, the Vassal and Profumo cases in England, President Kennedy's relationship with the press, the coverage of the Saskatchewan medicare issue, and others.

Should we have more effective machinery to deal with difficulties between Canada and the U.S. than the present proliferation of committees? Good Neighbourhood will be discussed on November 24. Three programs on December 1, 8 and 15 will try to assess Canada's accomplishments and failures in handling foreign aid. From time to time there will be profiles of people associated with religious, social and political trends emerging in this decade. The first will be seen on December 22.

The December 29 program will be an essay with illustrations on how we are "sold" the idea that this political candidate or that detergent is the only one for us. In the New Year there will be a series of four programs dealing with the changing nature of work in today's world. A series of bilingual programs produced in collaboration with the CBC French network will show some of the causes underlying the tension between English- and French-speaking Canada and some of the possible consequences.

Allan Blye is guest at 1:15 p.m., Tuesday on the Shirley Harmer Show.

VIENNESE NIGHT

crews as well as her thousands of concert-going admirers. She has even been known to roll up her sleeves and help shift furniture around a stage when the movers didn't turn up to do the job.

This sensible way of handling things has kept her career from faltering on several occasions. She was born in 1915 of Silesian parents. Their plans to have her voice trained were shattered in 1933 when the Nazis came to power and dismissed her father, a Social Democrat, from his post as a high school teacher. Miss Schwartzkopf promptly found a singing job in a choir to pay for her lessons. At 17 she began studying in Berlin with the famous lieder singer and concert artist, Lula Mysz-Gmeiner, a mezzo, who insisted that her young pupil should also be trained as a mezzo. Fortunately, after 2½ years, the mistake was discovered by another teacher, before too much damage had been done, and Miss Schwartzkopf wasted no time on regrets — just studied harder than ever.

In 1938 she spent six months in England at Leicester, studying music and English on a League of Nations scholarship. On her return to Berlin she was engaged by the Berlin Municipal Opera, and sang her first role on only 36 hours' notice, as a Flower Maiden in Parsifal. Soon she was singing small roles four or five times a week, for about $5 each. She supplemented her income by singing for early experiments in tape recording and occasionally appearing on radio and television.

By 1941 her roles were more important. She had been advised to study lieder, too, and Karl Bohm, then director of the Vienna State Opera, invited her to sing there as a guest performer. She moved to Vienna, and spent all her spare time preparing for her first lieder recital, which drew such enthusiastic reviews that she was made a permanent member of the State Opera. She had sung only three roles when she contracted

TB, and for 18 months wasn't allowed to sing a note. But she could study, and she put her free time to such good account that when she returned to her profession, she was able to add more roles to her repertoire, until the war closed the State Opera.

After the war she was the star of the company and a popular concert and recording artist. When the company visited Covent Garden for a big international opera season she enjoyed such personal triumph that she was engaged to join the young Covent Garden Opera Company. She returned there for several seasons to sing a variety of successful parts, including title roles in a new production of Madama Butterfly and in Manon. Meanwhile, she had been invited to perform at La Scala, where she soon became the idol of Milan opera-goers and sang virtually all the standard repertoire. In Venice she sang the female lead in the première of Stravinsky's opera The Rake's Progress. She opened the first postwar Beyreuth Festival, and after making her first North American appearance in New York's Town Hall in 1953, overnight became a most sought-after singer all over the continent. Since then she has been in great demand throughout the world, for opera, concert and festival engagements.

Her artistic perfection, while seeming effortless, is the result of concentrated, unremitting labour. "One studies constantly, studies anew, looks with new eyes," she says. "It is amazing how much newness one finds in a piece of music as one gets older. Performing music is a creative experience, and so when one gets older the creative act of recreating music is altered by the addition of one's own human experience."

In spite of her stern artistic discipline and devotion to her career, Miss Schwartzkopf is a home-loving woman, who will fly to England (her husband is Walter Legge, British recording impresario) even for just a few hours in her own home between engagements. She loves to cook, garden, and dawdle through the shops whenever her busy schedule allows.

Actor John Drainie reads Canadian short stories weekdays on the CBC Radio network at 1:45 p.m.

Amateur Choirs Return to CBC Radio

ANOTHER COLOURFUL parade of amateur choral singing from the prairies returns to CBC Radio Thursdays at 10:05 p.m. Parade of Choirs once more will feature major choral groups each week in recorded performances. Producer Benjamin Horch comments on the series below:

Benjamin Horch

Some 20 choirs appeared in the series last year and at the conclusion it was revealed to have been something of a documentary of the musical interests and tastes of a large music laity actively busy making music.

Two of the choirs that appeared in the series last year were later accepted for broadcast overseas by the CBC International Service. They were the Mennonite Children's Choir and La Chorale des Intrepides. The latter also were requested to perform for the CBC's French network. Another choir, the Walter Bohonis Ukrainian Male Voice Choir, made a number of broadcasts on a private radio station.

In the eight ethnic choirs that appeared in the series last year, the majority of the singers were second, third and even fourth generation Canadians. They presented a determination to explore and to re-assess the musical culture of their forefathers. Two of these choirs are setting up archives of their national choral literature with the idea of providing it in English translations.

Choirs to be heard on the series this year are generally auditioned at a rehearsal or by tape approximately five or six weeks before their appearance can be confirmed. Acceptance is based on such things as singing with good diction and a sense for the musical shape of a phrase.

Those already scheduled, together with those that have been heard, promise to make the series even more diverse in musical interest than in the past year. Viewed from the present, the series promises to be something of everything to everyone—seriousness of musical purpose for some, plain fun for others, and perhaps even a measure of pride in merely recognizing that what is going on at whatever musical level is a truly indigenous image of amateur choral singing to be found nowhere else in Canada.

Heard on Parade of Choirs Thursday, November 7, at 10:05 p.m., is the Mennonite Brethren Bible College Choir of Winnipeg.

The Mennonite Brethren Bible College a Capella Choir of Winnipeg are heard Thursday at 10:05 p.m. on Parade of Choirs.

Physics on School Telecasts

Doctors Ivey and Hume present a series for high school students Tuesday mornings on CBC Television

RECIPES FEATURED ON
"LADIES FIRST" EACH THURSDAY

AUSTRIAN BOILED BEEF

- 4 lbs. beef brisket or chuck
- 2 tsp. salt
- 6 pepper corns
- 1 bouquet parsley with roots
- 2 carrots
- 2 stocks celery
- 1 leek
- 2 onions

Put beef into kettle, add water to cover. Add salt, pepper corns, all vegetables except carrots. (Add carrots one hour before finished boiling.) Boil approximately three hours until beef is tender but not falling apart.

HORSE RADISH SAUCE

- 5 cups white bread—crusts removed
- 4 hard-cooked egg yolks
- ½ cup olive oil or butter
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 1 tsp. sugar
- 1½-2 tbsp. grated horse radish

Soak bread in some meat broth. Blend or mash through sieve with egg yolks. Add olive oil and stir well. Add other ingredients. Stir.

1 tsp. vinegar may be added to this sauce if desired.

LAST SEASON, CBC-TV's National School Telecasts presented a series of four programs called The Ideas of Physics, prepared and introduced by Professors Patterson Hume and Donald Ivey, of the University of Toronto.

The series dealt with the fundamentals of physics and was so successful that Doctors Hume and Ivey were asked to present five programs for the current season which began Tuesday, October 15, at 10:00 a.m. on the CBC-TV network.

Since the first series had dealt with broad, fundamental themes, they felt that the second should be more specific. General principles always originate from specific cases and they felt that useful information about the nature of physics could be presented by dealing with a limited area of some of the major subdivisions of physics.

The first program, The Language of Physics, served to introduce the series and also made clear the role of mathematics in the study of physics. The examples were from the field of mechanics.

The second, A Prize for the Lowest (October 22), used examples of heat or thermodynamics, introducing the subtle problem of choosing a scale for temperature and also presenting reasons for research at low temperatures.

The October 29 program, entitled Instant Electricity, was to deal specifically with the scientific basis and technological advantage of direct conversion from heat to electricity.

The fourth program, The Way the Ball Bounces (November 5) extends the students' background in the field of properties of matter by describing and explaining the peculiar physical behaviour of high polymers.

New Atoms for Old, the final program in this series, deals with the field of nuclear physics and introduces the table of isotopes, which is to the nuclear physicist what the periodic table is to the chemist.
