Profile of Thom Benson

MAYBE it's the contradictions in their personalities that make people really interesting. For instance, Thom Benson, CBC's acting director of entertainment programming who is one of the most cosmopolitan of men, is an indefatigable gardener with a great love of birds and animals, who gets unashamedly misty-eyed over things sentimental. Although he says he enjoys the amenities of the atomic age, he misses the gentleness and kindness of the 19th century, in fact, there's something of the Victorian dandy about him—the elegant way he carries himself, and his haberdashery (when we talked to him he was wearing a pale yellow waiscoat, against which his tie was a cerise and sapphire exclamation point).

Although he's courteous and charming with feminine women, he can be extremely caustic with dolts of either sex, with fellow workers who are disloyal to their jobs, with what he calls What's-in-it-for-me Charlies.

He delights in practical jokes, which are often oblique expressions of affection, and yet many co-workers find him aloof. Benson has a Ciceronian facility with words, in conversation or in the occasional drama or short story he writes and sells, yet he has a habit of abruptly dropping some of the Anglo-Saxon expressions beloved by small boys into otherwise polite conversation to ruffle people's surfaces and see what shows through, a disconcerting habit to those who resent having anyone see behind their masks. He's receptive to ideas, understands film better than most, and we've seen him spot an elusive flaw in a 'rough-cut' faster than anyone, but he can get pretty heated when his ideals are challenged. He works his team hard, but he'll drive himself harder to be first with a CBC story over fantastic odds—though with no hard feelings for the rival he may have worked tooth and nail to outwit.

For instance, he always gets a great bang out of competing with the U.S. networks in covering big events, such as Sir Winston Churchill's state funeral. "After a great deal of very delicate negotiations," he recalls, "I got the RAF to agree to rent us two fast Vulcans to fly our

From the Times

As most of you already know, this is the final edition of the Prairie Region's CBC TIMES.

Many will recall the various stages of this publication, its beginnings as the CBC Program Schedule in September, 1940, the change of title to CBC TIMES in July 1948, and finally the appearance in November 1958 of the new enlarged edition which has continued until now. During this time, there were also other changes, in editors, staff and format, but the aim has always remained the same—to provide prairie audiences with advance program information, news of CBC activities, pictures and special articles. We hope it has served this purpose.

With this last edition of the CBC TIMES, we would like to thank our subscribers for their interest and support. Our thanks also go to all those who have helped to make the magazine possible through the years—the editors, writers, artists, contributors, clerks, printers, engravers, secretaries and messenger services.

Canada's most colorful old codgers, Fred Dobbs and Charlie Farquharson (in reality Mike Magee and Don Harron), get together Wednesday night for an hour of fun.

Holiday Variety

The historic meeting between Fred and Charlie takes place at Charlie's chicken house where a TV set helps the egg production. It's the last night of the year and Fred and Charlie decide to join the occupants watching the National. The parade of events they see includes the arrival in Quebec City of a startling new representative of the French government; an unusual report on Canada's participation in Expo '70 in Japan; a convention held by the Company of Old Canadians; a visit with Graham Cracker, the Canterling Cook, for a new Canadian recipe; and year-end reports on pollution, the National Arts Centre, Canada's Arctic sovereignty, and Canada's role in NATO.

And That's the News—Goodnight! is produced and directed by Norman Campbell. Graphics by Florian Julio. (Wednesday, December 31 at 8:30 p.m.)

THE SPIRIT OF '70

Nineteen Seventy will be Manitoba's Centennial Year and to help launch it CBC Winnipeg has joined with the Manitoba Centennial Corporation to present a special one-hour television program called The Spirit of '70.

AND THAT'S THE NEWS?—GOODNIGHT!

OR, The Fred and Charlie show: For the first time anywhere, two of Canada's most colorful old codgers, Fred Dobbs and Charlie Farquharson, get together for a combined attack on Canada's sacred cows and exalted personalities—like the Company of Old Canadians and the Canterling Cook.

Mike Magee—the sage of Beamsville, Fred Dobbs, and Donald Harron—the Parry Sound farmer, Charlie Farquharson, wrote the show and are backed up in the sketches by Jack Duffy, Marilyn Stuart and Peter Mews.

Issued December 19, 1969, at Winnipeg by the CBC

CBC Times (Prairie Edition) is published weekly by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation at its Prairie Region Headquarters, CBC Building, 541 Portage Avenue, Winnipeg 2, Man.

Information about forthcoming programs—except signed articles—may be reproduced freely.

Postage-paid-in-cash at third class rate — Permit No. 7110. Return Postage Guaranteed.

Hosted by Bill Walker, a native Winnipegger, The Spirit of '70 stars the members of the Royal Winnipeg Ballet, the Guess Who, Joan Karasevich, Ray St. Germain, Reg Gibson, the Sing-Out Winnipeg teen group, Ed Evanko, Geoff Scott, Don Slade and Cliff Gardner, and Bob McMullin and his Orchestra.

Both Bill Walker and Joan Karasevich have starred at Winnipeg's open-air theatre Rainbow Stage. Bill in such productions as My Fair Lady and Music Man, and Joan Karasevich in last summer's production of The King and I.

The Guess Who have been frequent performers on CBC-TV in such series as Let's Go and Where It's At. The group is led by Randy Bachman, lead guitar; Burton Cummings is lead singer and doubles on piano, organ and rhythm guitar; Jim Kale is their bassist; and Gary Peterson is the drummer.

Ray St. Germain recently starred in the series Time for Livin' and also stars on CBC-TV this week in the special 2 for the Road. Reg Gibson is the host-singer on a current TV series in Winnipeg called The Group. Ed Evanko has appeared on many CBC-TV network shows and on Broadway in The Canterbury Tales.

Cliff Gardner and Don Slade, who supply the comedy on The Spirit of '70 are well-known personalities in Winnipeg. Cliff has appeared in Rainbow Stage productions and on CBC programs, Don is a morning-radio personality for a private station. Geoff Scott is a satirist and on the show will be doing some sketches of Canadian politicians and statesmen.

The winning entry in a contest for Manitoba's official Centennial song—entitled Manitoba—with music by Gordon P. Watson and lyrics by Mrs. N. Collier, both of Portage la Prairie—will be performed on the show by the Sing-Out Winnipeg.

The Spirit of '70 is produced by Hugh Edmunds. (Wednesday, December 31 at 11:30 p.m.)

AULD LANG WHAT'SISNAME

Radio's CBC Showcase series winds up the year with a kaleidoscopic review of 1969 written, produced and directed by Rod Coneybear. This "comedy-drama," says Rod, follows the mood swings of the year and under the humor there's a vein of seriousness. Most of it's every bit as crazy, though, as listeners have come to expect from Coneybear's witty pen.

With him in the sketches are Carl Banas, Tom Harvey and Pam Hyatt. Other contributing writers are Murray Soupcoff, John Hall and Roy Shoichet. (Sunday, December 28 at 3:03 CST)

Looking Back — the sixties

BY whatever nick-name the decade now ending will eventually come to be known, it will certainly be remembered as a time of world-wide revolution on all fronts, of spectacular achievements in the sciences, of high drama and high hopes that were often brought low. It was the decade of the Beatles, the Pill, Medicare, Civil Rights, Ban the Bomb, and Man on the Moon.

The decade might almost be said to have begun with a bang, when the French exploded their first nuclear device in February, 1960; a U.S. pilot named Gary Powers in a plane called the U.2 wrecked a U.S./Soviet summit conference; and Adolf Eichmann, key man in Hitler's "final solution" program, was captured. The following year the Soviet Union put the first man into orbit, Major Yuri Gagarin, and this success was soon followed by U.S. orbital flights; Dag Hammarskjöld, Secretary General of the UN, died in a plane crash; and the Soviet Union set off the greatest man-made explosion in history. We came close to a Third World War the next year when President Kennedy challenged the Soviet Union over the build-up of missiles in Cuba. The world was shaken, a little more than a year later, when President Kennedy was felled by an assassin's bullet.

As the '60s moved on the United States became more deeply involved in the war in Vietnam and there was an acceleration of the Civil Rights movement. Pope Paul VI toured the Holy Land in 1964, the first Pope to do so since the beginning of the Christian Era; and China exploded its first atomic bomb. In 1965 men walked in space for the first time; Dr. Martin Luther King led a march from Selma to Montgomery, Ala., the Pope visited America, the first time a Pope had visited the continent; and there was the Big Blackout that plunged a large part of the eastern United States and Canada into darkness; Rhodesia proclaimed its independence.

The latter part of the '60s saw increasing unrest in the United States over the war and racial discrimination; Vatican II; the tragedy of Biafra; the assassinations of Dr. Martin Luther King and Robert F. Kennedy; the world's first heart transplant operations; our first close-up look at the planet Mars; and two landings on the moon that, besides being staggering achievements in themselves, yielded valuable scientific data.

The crowded decade and the year now ending will be reviewed on several radio and television programs this week. Following is a selection of some of the special programs and last editions in 1969 of regular series:

RADIO

THE '60s IN RETROSPECT

Bruce Rogers and Lyal Brown co-host a two-hour "psychedelic" view of the decade which focuses on general trends and themes rather than a chronological sequence of events. Backing up the two hosts will be a number of experts to assess and analyze such areas as space, politics, leadership, war, dissent, music, and science. Among the confirmed participants is Glenn Gould.

Research for this special production of the News and Features departments of CBC radio is by William Hogg, with science contributions prepared by Raoul Engel. Produced by Howard Engel of Features and Angus McLellan, executive producer, of Radio News. (Sunday, December 28 at 9:03 a.m.)

ANTHOLOGY

This literary magazine of the air, which usually concentrates on Canadian short stories and poetry, will be talking about the books people read in 1969. Larry Zolf will be phoning several prominent Canadians to

THE SIXTIES IN SPORTS

A one-hour program hosted by Bob Picken and Gren Marsh in which the decade and the year are reviewed. The first half-hour summarizes the major events of the first nine years and will include recorded highlights of those events which CBC radio has covered. The highlights of 1969 include World Championship and Stanley Cup hockey; the Grey Cup; World Series; the Queen's Plate; the Kentucky Derby; the Preakness and Belmont; the Canadian Open Golf Championship; and the Scotch Cup Curling match. Written by Bob Picken and produced in Winnipeg by Doug McIlraith. (Thursday, January 1 at 11:03 a.m.)

TELEVISION MAN ALIVE

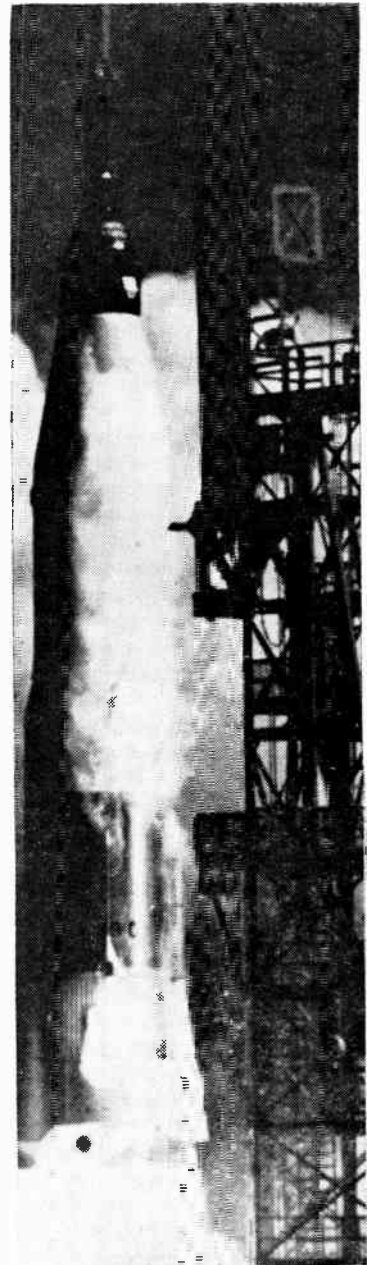

The '60s was a time of ferment in the Church, with old ideas being challenged and authority being assailed. "God Is Dead" was a popular slogan that appeared almost everywhere, rock music began to be heard in the liturgy of some churches, and even the Pope himself was challenged within the Roman Catholic Church.

As a production of the Religious Broadcasts department, Man Alive has been concerned with all this since its inception in 1967. But it is also a series about the world at large and the human condition in general, so in its look back it will touch on many significant events of concern to all Canadians. Roy Bonisteel is the host, Leo Rampen the executive producer. (Monday, December 29 at 10:30 p.m.)

THE NATURE OF THINGS

Science past and future is the subject of this retrospective program. The participants will not only review the main achievements in science over the past decade but also hazard some predictions for the '70s. The first voice you hear on this program is that of a computer that speaks, one indication of the advances in this area of technology. Taking part in the program are several distinguished Canadian scientists and the U.S. science writer Dr. Isaac Asimov, associate professor of Biochemistry at Boston University School of Medicine.

Speaking about progress in the earth sciences will be Dr. J. Tuzo Wilson, principal of Erindale College at the University of Toronto and professor of Geophysics at Erindale. Dr. James D. Prentice, associate professor of physics at U of T, will comment on the discovery of gravitational waves in the '60s and the significant contribution to physics by lasers. Dr. Donald Chant, chairman of the department of zoology at U of T, will discuss advances in ecology and the destruction of natural resources on our planet; Dr. Lou Siminovitch, chairman of the department of Medical Cell Biology at U of T, talks about the DNA molecule; Dr. John M. Carroll, associate professor of Computer Science at the University of Western Ontario, discusses the increasing sophistication of machines and what we can expect in this field in the future; Dr. Arthur Porter, professor of Industrial Engineering at U of T, also has some comments on computer technology; Dr. Donald A. MacRae, director of the David Dunlap Observatory at U of T and chairman of the astronomy department at U of T, looks at the progress of astronomy, astrophysics, and space flight; Dr. Pierre Grondin, chairman of the department of Cardiac Surgery at the Montreal Heart Institute, will discuss Medicine in the '60s, particularly the field of organ transplant.

Dr. Isaac Asimov appears throughout the program to bridge the comments of each of these specialists. Produced by Roman Bittman; executive producer James Murray. (Wednesday, December 31 at 7:30 p.m.)

Looking Ahead — 1970

Trans-World Top Team

A special 13-week color TV series, Trans-World Top Team, featuring bright high school students from Canada and Hawaii in a quiz competition, will begin January 3. It's a co-production by the CBC and ABC (Honolulu). The three teams (in panels of four) representing Canada, from Neil McNeil High School, Toronto; Sydney Academy, Sydney, N.S., and St. Pius X, Toronto, were winners of CBC-TV's national championship series of Reach For the Top. The three teams of outstanding Hawaiian students, named Lunalilo, Kalakaua, and Kamehameha after Hawaiian kings, took part in a similar quiz program called Hawaii-High. Producers of the series are Sandy Stewart, Canada, and Pat Pantonini, Hawaii. Co-hosts and quizmasters are Alex Trebek, Canada, and Dick Graham, Hawaii. Directors are Robert Gibbons, Canada, and Marvin Pienta, Hawaii. (Saturdays, TV, 1.00 p.m.)

Landmark

A special series of eight half-hour TV programs designed to inform Canadians about what is at stake in the complicated job of developing our country's non-renewable natural resources — minerals, oil and gas — and selling them in world markets, begins on Sunday, January 4, under the title of Landmark. Produced by the CBC's agriculture and resources department, the series is being filmed on location in CBC studios in Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, British Columbia, and in Washington, New York and Chicago. Series host is Toronto writer-consultant John Kettle. Consultants are Robert Fowler, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, Larry Dack of the Financial Post, Jim Hilborn of Corpus-Communications, and Charles Law, Research and Publishing Services. Doug Wilkinson is executive producer; the writer is George Salverson; producers are Lloyd Bryden, Doug Lower, Eric McCleary, Jack Zolov, and Mike Poole. (Sundays, TV, 1:00 p.m.)

This Land of Ours

The highly entertaining TV series, This Land of Ours, which focuses on people involved with our natural resources from coast to coast, returns for 13 weeks on a new day: Sunday, January 4. Eight of the programs will be in color. A product of the CBC's agriculture and resources department, the series features John Foster as host and writer. John Lackie is executive producer. Direction is by Foster, Lackie, Gerry Richardson and Mike Poole.

The first program, No Man's Land, illustrates in color the forces that can attack and spoil our finest parks, using Algonquin as an example of a park now showing wear and tear. It is 3,000 square miles of rock, pine and lake country, a beautiful example of land from the Canadian shield, and is managed under the "multiple use" concept—that is, the needs of almost every type of recreationist can be satisfied there to some degree. But basically it is wilderness park. About 65 million people live within one day's drive of it. It's estimated that in 30 years Ontario's population will reach 16 million, and in addition this province will have to provide recreation for 150 million Americans. Logging has been permitted in the park since 1893, but as the public's awareness and use of the park increases, some difficult and controversial questions have arisen. The whole concept of logging, or mining, in public parks is under continuing scrutiny. In addition, many of the wilderness qualities of Algonquin are being eroded by the very people who use and love its canoe routes and campgrounds. Direction: John Lackie.

The January 11 program, The Yukon Way, was filmed at Frances Lake, a horseshoe-shaped body of water surrounded by the hills and mountains of the Yukon Territory, where a young couple, 32-year-old Kurt Hansen, a well-educated Dane, and his beautiful Japanese-Canadian wife, Yoshi, live in a log cabin and make their living by guiding and outfitting small groups of fishermen who try their luck in the swift, sparkling river teeming with lake trout, grayling and Dolly Varden trout, which flows out of the lake. Direction: Gerry Richardson.

Rupert House is an Indian village at the foot of James Bay in Quebec, and the site of the first Hudson's Bay Company post in Canada. There is still no road in, but several hundred Cree Indians make a peaceful living there as trappers, hunters and fishermen. They turn out excellent canoes in the old HBC factory. Rupert House is also the home of a remarkable woman, Maud Watt, who went there as a young bride in 1920. Included are some rare photographs from Maud's own adventures in 1920. Direction: John Foster.

Later programs are: Stake in a Winner, a day at the thoroughbred farm near Toronto owned by E. P. Taylor, and the home of a winner of the Kentucky Derby, Northern Dancer; Call of the Wildfowl, a visit with Fred Sharpe, an Alberta wildlife specialist who works for Ducks Unlimited; Widkiitiwin, in which the cameras accompany attractive Indian folk-singer Alanis Obomsawin as she travels to Vermilion Bay in the Kenora district of Northern Ontario, to visit an Ojibway co-operative and perform at a village concert; a cattle drive for 120 miles through the interior of British Columbia to Nazeo with 59-year-old rancher Pan Phillips, who lives so back of beyond that he gets his mail quarterly; Guide to a River, a 40-mile canoe trip down the largest spawning ground for Atlantic salmon in North America, the Miramichi River in New Brunswick; a Newfoundland love story about an elderly outport couple and the affection they have for each other and for their home; and other programs to be announced later. (Sundays, TV, 5:00 p.m.)

Celebrations

A musical gala celebrating the 100th birthday of Manitoba, in the province's glittering Centennial Concert Hall in Winnipeg, will be presented on TV in color on Wednesday night, January 7. It features the internationally acclaimed Royal Winnipeg Ballet, the Winnipeg Symphony Orchestra directed by George Cleve, and 22-year-old American concert pianist Susan Starr, who placed second in the recent Tchaikovsky Piano Competition in Moscow.

Also featured are two new works: A Song and A Dance, the first movement of Celebrations for Orchestra, the first major symphonic work by Winnipeg composer Victor Davies, which was commissioned by the orchestra through the auspices of the Canada Council for the Centennial; and choreographer Paddy Stone's amusing Variations on Strike Up the Band, commissioned by the Royal Winnipeg Ballet. Set to George Gershwin's music, it had its debut in Saskatoon last September.

The second part of the program features pianist Susan Starr, who plays the third movement of Schumann's Piano Concerto in A Minor with the orchestra. The orchestra concludes the program with the finale from Symphony No. 5 by Shostakovich. Production is by Hugh Edmunds. (Wednesday, January 7, TV, 8:30 p.m.)

One Revolution Around the Sun

Peru is undergoing a total social upheaval, and the outcome will influence the direction of the whole South American continent. An hour-long color documentary looking at the political, social and historical dilemmas of Peru will be presented on Thursday Night on January 8. It was produced and directed by Martyn Burke. Among the scenes in the film are the mammoth anniversary ceremony, celebrating the takeover of the giant International Petroleum Corporation refinery a year ago in the desert town of Talara; the capture at gunpoint of an unsuspecting trawler by Peruvian gunboats; the takeover of a large hacienda in the Inca capital of Cusco; and scenes from the Peruvian jungle near the Amazon headquarters, where American fundamentalist missionaries are bent on converting even the fiercest, man-killing tribes; and many other fascinating scenes and events. POP DECADE

Some of the biggest names of the pop music scene will be heard on this radio special for New Year's Eve, both in interviews and performance, John Lennon among them. This two-hour production hosted by Alex Trebek and Jack Batten is an in-depth survey of pop music of the '60s, its development since the early days of Rock and Roll and the experimental work now being done that will carry through to the '70s.

Also included are reports on rock poetry, rock heroes, Speed, Groupies, Soul, Blues, the big festivals like Woodstock and Mariposa, and a look at the business side of the music industry with interviews with many of the "names behind the names," and a forecast of what's next in pop music. As much as possible, says producer John Coutanche, it's "a definitive look at the '60s."

Among those taking part are Judy Collins, Frank Zappa of the Mothers of Invention; John Ray St. Germain—one of the stars of 2 for the Road.

Rob McConnell blows up a storm, with his sixteen-man Boss Brass group to be seen New Year's Day at 8:30.

Lennon of the Beatles, and George Martin, the Beatles' producer; Felix Pappalardi, a producer and bass player who was with The Cream; and Ralph J. Gleason, West Coast music critic. Pop Decade was written by Jack Batten. (Wednesday, December 31 at 8:03 p.m.)

CROSS-CANADA NEW YEAR

A five-hour New Year's Eve special on radio with a "roller-coaster" format that moves the show across the country as each of the time-zones approaches midnight. A music show with different hosts in each region and newscasts on the half-way mark in each hour, Cross-Canada New Year opens in St. John's, Newfoundland, at 10:10 p.m. Produced by Bob Helm. (Wednesday, December 31.)

365 + 1

A survey of the year in pop music, but unlike Pop Decade this will not, says Alan Millar who prepared it, be an in-depth study—"God knows what condition people will be in on the first morning of the New Year, so it's going to be a pure music show hosted by Harry Brown. As a radio review of some of the better pop music recorded in 1969 by Canadian artists, we'll have the original London cast of the musical Anne of Green Gables, the Neil Harris Singers, Gilles Vigneault, Bonnie Dobson, Gordon Lightfoot, Ian and Sylvia, Neil Chotem, and Peter Schofield and the Canadians, a teenage band of students whose average age is 17. Harry Brown introduces the recordings and will have something to say in between the music selections about the performers." (Thursday, January 1 at 10:03 a.m.)

TOURNAMENT OF ROSES PARADE

The annual telecast from California of this dazzling spectacle will have June Lockhart and Bob Barker as commentators and astronauts Alan L. Bean, Richard F. Gordon, Jr., and Charles Conrad, Jr. as Grand Marshals of the parade. (Thursday, January 1 at 10:30 a.m. CST)

BOSS BRASS

Rob McConnell's 16-man Boss Brass band blows up a storm on the evening of New Year's Day on television. With singer Dianne Brooks. Produced by Stewart Cuppage. (Thursday, January 1 at 8:30 p.m.)

Nick Fylan and Nicola Lipman in Shoe Full of Stones, to be seen Wednesday, December 31 at 9:30.

A Shoe Full of Stones

SIX distinguished Canadian TV artists combine their considerable talents in a film drama in color, A Shoe Full of Stones, to be seen on New Year's Eve, Wednesday, December 31, at 9:30 p.m. The six are Phillip Hersch, creator of the prize-winning Wojeck series, who wrote the script; Lee Patterson, Sharon Acker and Gerard Parkes, who star in it; Grahame Woods, who photographed it; and Ronald Weyman, who produced and directed it.

Patterson plays the Reverend Mr. Noah Bunker, who has left the organized church to serve the people of a downtown ghetto from his small street mission, and is trying to help an emotionally disturbed immigrant boy, Ramon Alvarez, who, with his family, is being bled by Sanchez, a man who got them into the country illegally. Ramon enlists the help of his friends Chico to rob Sanchez, but the incident ends in murder when Ramon pulls a gun. Chico comes to Noah for help, and so does Police Officer Donovan. Sharon Acker plays Anne Bunker, Noah's wife, and Gerard Parkes appears as Donovan. Others featured are David Britton as Ramon; Nick Fylan as Chico; Louis Zorich as Sanchez; Nicola Lipman as Veronica; Elaine Ives-Cameron as Mrs. Alvarez; Alf Gallagher as Jaime Alvarez; and Patrick Sinclair as P.O. Martin.

After graduating from the Ontario College of Art, Lee Patterson went to Britain, where he became an assistant stage manager for the BBC. He says it was mostly a go-for job, and one day when he was asked to pick up an actor's cheque at an agency, the agent was so impressed by the young Canadian that he phoned next day to offer him a role in Death of a Salesman in Windsor. Then he was in Johnny Belinda, and in West End productions of South Pacific and Stalag 17, in which he played the lead. After that came about three dozen films, plus stage and TV roles in Canada and the U.S., including two seasons in the U.S. TV series Surfside Six. Now he guest stars on both sides of the Atlantic. A month ago he and Miss Acker played leads in the CBC-TV production Power Trip.

Miss Acker stars opposite Arthur Hill in the recently released feature film, Don't Let the Angels Fall. Her first Hollywood film was Point Blank, with Lee Marvin.

Dublin-born Gerard Parkes was named Best Actor in the 1968 Canadian Film Awards, for his performance in the Paul Almond production of Isobel. A year ago he gave a highly regarded performance as the lead in a Festival production of The Write-Off. □

NFL Football Western Conference Championship

The Minnesota Vikings and the Los Angeles Rams will meet to decide who goes into the NFL title game on January 4. Both the Vikings and the Rams have played outstanding football this season and both are known for their tough "front four" defensive linemen and good quarterbacking.

Canadian Championship Lacrosse

Ontario versus B.C. in today's presentation in the series filmed last August in Halifax, during the Canada Games.

Tracks Around the World

Labrador Train. The 437-mile railroad between the Schefferville iron mines in Labrador and Sept Iles, Quebec, was built by mining companies to haul iron ore. On Fridays, its trains take miners and track-layers and Indians to Sept Iles where they can have a good time for the weekend. This film was made on the return trip to Schefferville on a Sunday night.

Fabulous World of Skiing

How a ski school is operated behind the scenes. Includes instruction on short radius parallel turns, the Wedlyn technique of skiing, stop christy and uphill skate turns.

Reasoning of Elegance (color)

A look at the Governor-General's official residence in Ottawa, Government House, which is the scene of state receptions, dinners, and other formal diplomatic affairs.

The Beverly Hillbillies (color)

Buzz Bodine, Boy General. The Clampetts go back to visit the folks at Petticoat Junction.

Hockey Night in Canada

From the Montreal Forum, the game between the Philadelphia Flyers and the Montreal Canadiens.

Galloping Gourmet (color)

Creme De Tamate Con Ovo, Portugal. A classical Portuguese soup complete with garlic, onion, sausage, celery and white wine. The finishing touch is a fresh egg cracked into each serving bowl.

Looking Ahead - 1970

Cowboys and Indians

You wouldn't think that a chuckly comedy-drama with music called Cowboys and Indians could have been inspired by John Kenneth Galbraith's The New Industrial State, but of course anything could happen when two imaginative artists like writer-comedian Rod Coneybeare and composer-arranger Doug Randle put their heads together. It did, with melodically comic results which you can enjoy on radio's CBC Showcase on January 11. The book is by Coneybeare, music and lyrics by Randle, and production by John Cantelon in Toronto. It stars Donald Harron, Paul Kligman and Jim Barron in speaking roles, and Tommy Ambrose and Lavrie Bower in singing parts.

The president of a huge corporation, International Turning Wheels, comes to a permanent halt. Eligible for filling his shoes is the vice-president, who must first go through two or three days of psychological testing with Id associates to see whether he's aggressive enough, or too aggressive, for the job, what motivates him, where his breaking point is, etc. The poor fellow is put through the wringer in a series of wild situations, complete with actors and music, to test him under various circumstances. (Sunday, January 11, radio 4:03 p.m. EST)

Ian and Sylvia

Folksingers Ian and Sylvia are featured in a swinging hour-long mini-festival for rock-folk fans, video-taped in color before a 'with-it' audience. Also on the bill will be Ian and Sylvia's band, The Great Speckled Bird; Big Mama Thornton; and Bruce Cockburn. Production is by David Acomba, who produced the much-acclaimed Mariposa show earlier this season. (Sunday, January 11, TV, 9:00 p.m.)

Children of the World

A series of six half-hour color programs reflecting the lives of children in Asia, Africa and Latin America, will be presented on TV beginning January 12 in Ontario and Quebec, January 13 in the Maritimes. They were filmed on location in Brazil, Dahomey, Guatemala, Nepal, Somalia and Thailand, and were produced by the CBC in association with the National Educational Television of the U.S. and the United Nations Children's Fund. The first program visits a village on stilts in Dahomey, to tell the story of 11-year-old West African Nicholas Mignanwande. A member of the Fons tribe, Nicholas lives in a village beside a large lagoon where all the houses are built over the water. Most of the villagers are fishermen. Like Nicholas's father, and the U.N. helps them buy better nets and modern boats. Nicholas dreams of going to university, like his brother Herbert. (Monday, TV, 4:30 p.m. EST)

Reddick

Last season TV's Festival presented a drama by Munroe Scott about a concerned young minister involved in problems of today's youth, which excited so much interest across the country that Scott has written a sequel. Both plays will be presented in two 90-minute color productions, with Donald Harron starred again as the Reverend Mr. Reddick. In part one he and his faith are literally put on trial by a group of hippies, youthful

Country Calendar (National Edition)

Christmas In The Country—In this special Yuletide show CBC cameras capture Christmas in the country as seen through the eyes of a Toronto man and his young daughter. Rev. A. C. Forrest, of the United Church of Canada, and his daughter, Diane, return to Mr. Forrest's former home at Maple, Ont., near Toronto. In flashback sequence he recalls his Christmases on the farm. Mr. Forrest and Diane visit two farms to see preparations for a country Christmas. While visiting, Mr. Forrest observes that although things have vastly changed on the farm during the past years, the real values of the yuletide are still

Audubon

These Things Are Ours: Wood ducks, a quiet pond, a dappled fawn, a cloud of midges in their nuptial dance—these are features of a film which combines beauty, humor and adventure. Featuring Mary Jane Dockeray, naturalist and lecturer, of the Grand Rapids (Michigan) Museum, and filmed by Walter Berlet.

Hymn Sing (color)

The selections of the CBC Hymn Sing Chorus today are: The Year is Gone beyond Recall; Hallelujah; For Thy Mercy and Thy Grace; In the Bleak Mid-Winter; Child's Prayer; How Great Thou Art; Little Altar Boy; Just a Closer Walk with Thee; Let there be Peace on Earth; and Stand up, Stand up for Jesus. Musical directions and arrangements are by Eric Wild.

The Wonderful World of Disney (color)

Babes in Toyland (Part 2 — Conclusion)—Barnaby is foiled as Tom and Mary go on to seek a life together in conclusion of two-part holiday season musical fantasy, based on Victor Herbert operetta. Stars Annette Funicello, Ray Bolger, Tommy Sands and Ed Wynn.

The Tommy Hunter Show (color)

Tonight the show salutes some of the big hits of the past year. Numbers include Those Were The Days, Tommy; Folsom Prison Blues, Tommy; Daddy Sang Bass, Tommy and Cast; Little Green Apples, Debbie Lori Kaye; Working Man Blues, The Rhythm Pals; Aquarius, The Allan Sisters; Galveston, Jim Pirie; Turn, Turn, Turn, cast.

My World and Welcome to It (color)

The Mating Dance. When a bully (Scott Keith) uses brute force to take Lydia (Lisa Gerritsen) to a party by beating up her scheduled escort (Kerry MacLane), John Monroe leaps to the defense of the weaker fellow and persuades him to fight for his rights.

2 For the Road (variety special—color)

Ray St. Germain and Pat Hervey are the singer-stars of this variety special, travelling literally and musically across the country through four cities—Halifax, Ottawa, Winnipeg and Vancouver—performing and introducing variety performances from each.

Halifax (Producer, Manny Pittson); Stars, Pat Hervey and Ray St. Germain will be joined here by Bill Langstroth and the Singalong Jubilee Singers. From a starting point on Citadel Hill, the performers will move around the city in a vintage car.

Ottawa (Producer, Dennis Faulkner): Singer Robin Moir and dancers Lorne Toumine and Gay Patten, join Pat and Ray at the Sparks St. Mall, the National Revenue Building, the National Arts Centre, and the Centennial flame in front of the Parliament Buildings.

Winnipeg (Producer, Larry Brown): A winter wonderland theme featuring singers Hector Bremner and Yvette, and six skaters on a frozen pond in a city park. Other winter sports on the prairies are included.

Vancouver (Producer, Ken Gibson): A group of dancers in an "On the Town" sequence, a choreographic journey around the West Coast metropolis; Scarborough Fair, using the lush scenic areas of Vancouver as background. A finale in the "Gastown" area of Old Vancouver, recently restored, features historical character, "Gassy Jack." Overall theme song for the Vancouver segment is Classical Gas. Ray St. Germain and Pat Hervey, stars of the special, head the bill in each of the four cities. Executive producer is Len Lauk, of Vancouver.

Gourmet comes to radio

THAT guru of gastronomy, Graham Kerr, gallops into radio with a new series of helpful cooking hints and tips. The perfect answer for the housewife who, after doing the breakfast dishes, is wondering what on earth to have for dinner that night. Kerr is every bit as bouncy and full of amusing anecdotes on radio as he is on TV, and equally entertaining. Kerr has had phenomenal success with his TV series on cuisine—it's been seen in Australia, New Zealand, Britain, Canada, the U.S., Singapore, Hong Kong and Manila.

The radio version of The Galloping Gourmet will begin January 5 at 9:10 p.m.

Friendly Giant

Toy Concert (music-color).

Mr. Dress-Up

Bob's Snowmobile. Bob Jeffrey visits on his snowmobile and songs are played on icicles, together with fun from the Tickle Trunk at Mr. Dress-Up's house on this wintry day.

Strange Paradise (color)

Jean Paul Desmond pleads with Dr. Alison Carr to prevent Dan Forrest from telling a police inspector about Erica Desmond's death.

Take Thirty

The Naked Ape. Desmond Morris's book, The Naked Ape caused a sensation when it was published a couple of years ago. People objected to Morris's view that humans, after all, were still merely animals in many ways. He's guest of Take Thirty today.

Galloping Gourmet (color)

Crepes Souffle A Citron. Ernie's Restaurant, San Francisco. Thin pancakes filled with lemon flavored soufflé mixture, and powdered with confectioner's sugar.

A Place of Your Own

Mystery of the Missing Emerald by Robert T. Allen. This mystery-suspense drama concerns a brother and sister who unwittingly become involved with a group of desperate jewel thieves (repeat).

Aeronauts (color)

Tanguy and Laverdue find the jamming station equipment but are trapped in a grotto, they can only escape if they blow up the area with some explosives stored with the equipment.

The Beverly Hillbillies

Jethro Goes to School. A private-school teacher is shocked to learn that her new fifth-grade student is a big, hulking teen-ager, Jethro Bodine.

CBWT—Reach for the Top

St. John's meets Windsor Park in tonight's edition of the Manitoba High School Quiz.

The Governor and J.J. (color)

Profile in Discourage. Governor Drinkwater becomes the subject of an underground press interview and his advisers are fearful that the story will suggest a scandal in his administration.

The Debbie Reynolds Show (color)

You Shouldn't Be In Pictures. Debbie's elaborate visions of glamorous stardom are prompted by a contract offer from the head of a movie studio.

The Name of the Game (color)

Tradition. Publisher Glenn Howard (series star Gene Barry) and a young Greek woman are forced to flee for their lives when they challenge an ancient Greek custom. Filmed on location in Greece.

Man Alive

A review of the major events and new directions taken in religion in the past decade.

drop-outs for whom he has provided a meeting place. In an outbreak of violence in the church sanctuary, he is wounded in the hand. Part two picks up the story an hour later at a police station, where charges are laid, against Reddick's wishes. The consequences reach out beyond the congregation to the community, and Reddick adds fuel to the flames by preaching a sermon about the incident. The result is a confrontation between the minister and his congregation which inspires the hippies to swift action. (Wednesday, January 14 and 21, TV, 8:30 p.m.)

Today Makes Me Nervous

The second of four hour-long variety specials which young comedian-writers Lorne Michaels and Hart Pomerantz are producing this season for CBC-TV will be seen February 8. As in That's Canada For You, shown in September, Today Makes Me Nervous will have lots of comic sketches and black-outs, but there will be stronger emphasis on music, with two groups being featured: Light-house, the Toronto-based group receiving much critical acclaim for its sonorous blending of rock (Please turn to page 33)

CBWT—The 21st Century

The First Ten Months of Life — Part 2. "Will we have a normal baby?" That is a question which worries many prospective parents, especially in cases where they have already had a baby with a genetic defect or where the mother has taken certain drugs or contracted certain diseases during pregnancy.

It used to be a question which could not be answered until the moment of birth. These days, however, there is a test which can tell a mother four months after conception whether the baby she is carrying is normal and, incidentally, whether it is a boy or a girl.

By taking a sample of the mother's amniotic fluid, in which the fetus floats in the womb, doctors can now get fetal cells, incubate them and look at their chromosomes. This test to determine whether or not the fetus is normal is performed primarily when the chance of fetal abnormality is great.

McQueen (color)

A Small Deposit. A young engaged couple put down a deposit of $275 on a furniture set — but when they break their engagement, she finds that the store won't return her share of the deposit—the major part of it. McQueen dons one of his disguises and with "wife" Denise, pulls a fast one of his own on the fast-talking merchants. Starring Ted Follows as McQueen, and featuring Daphne Gibson as Denise, Ita D'Arcy as Jean, Sean Sullivan as Latham; with Gordon Thompson as Ben, Claude Rae as Windover, and Allen Doremus as Bisbee.

The Bold Ones (color)

Trial of a Mafioso. Richard Conte is guest star as a convict who is determined to gain his freedom despite

The Pursuit of Happiness. A major aspect of the sexual revolution came with the discovery of the physiological mechanisms of the female orgasm. The distinguished panel of experts tonight looks at this scientific study, at the new dignity and confidence women have gained through it, and at the increased sexual fulfillment made possible for both women and men. Host Donald Crowdis is joined by Dr. Lionel Tiger, social anthropologist, Rutgers University; Dr. Walter Goldschmidt, chairman, department of anthropology, UCLA; Dr. Ruth Sky, Toronto physician; and Dr. Stephen Neiger, psychologist and founder of SIECCAN (Sex, Information and Education Council of Canada).

Light Up and Sing

THROUGHOUT the coming year, the CBC will be providing coverage of many of the events marking Manitoba's 100th anniversary as a member of Confederation.

The first of these will be Light Up and Sing, the official celebration to welcome Manitoba's centenary year, on Wednesday, December 31. Radio and television stations in the province will link up to present a simulcast of this once-in-a-century birthday party at 4:00 p.m. It will be carried on CBW-AM, CBW-FM, CBWT, CBWFT and the CBC's French radio repeater station at St. Rose du Lac and St. Lazare.

The ceremony will take place on the grand staircase inside the Legislative Building with Maitland B. Steinkopf, chairman of the Manitoba Centennial Corporation, and Justice A. M. Monnin, vice-chairman, as Masters of Ceremonies. Dignitaries attending will include Premier Schreyer, a representative of the federal government, and the Reverend Adam Cut-hand, a member of the Centennial Corporation Board of Directors. □

Mother Goose Nursery Almanac (book-color).

Mr. Dress-Up

Winter Wonderland. A wicked elf turns the snow queen into a statue and orders Mr. Dress-Up to make a winter wonderland.

Strange Paradise (color)

Jean Paul decides to open the capsule in which his wife, Erica, is sealed. He finds a mysterious object that leads to a maddening search.

Take Thirty

To Move A Mountain. The story of a human struggle in the Himalayan village of Kursoong, 350 miles north of Calcutta, where Canadian priest Father Murray Abraham, a Jesuit from Nova Scotia, directed a project to literally cut out the side of a mountain by sheer manpower, without the aid of machinery, to build a school. It took five years to complete. Father Abraham's story, presented with the aid of slides and film, was produced by Ken Johnson of CBC Winnipeg for Take Thirty.

Galloping Gourmet (color)

Gurkas Norge. Danish specialty. Small hollows of cucumber filled with cream cheese, sour cream, etc., and topped with Danish lumpfish roe.

Skippy, the Bush Kangaroo (color)

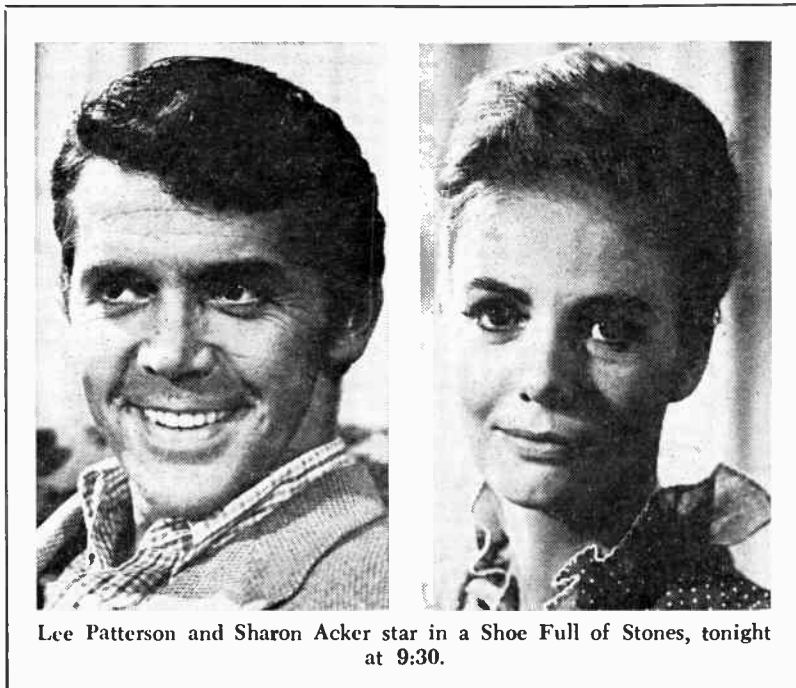

Sports Car Rally. With office permission that angers Head Ranger Matt Hammond, two sports car drivers speed on a test run through Waratah National Park.

The Beverly Hillbillies

Cabin in Beverly Hills. Banker Drysdale's remedy for Granny's homesickness starts the first social revolution in the history of Beverly Hills.

The Nature of Things

Decade Science Review. This program is a brief review of the main achievements of science over the past ten years, as well as an attempt to anticipate some of the advancements which may be expected in the seventies. The words of many eminent Canadian men of science are linked by the comments of Dr. Isaac Asimov, associate professor in the department of biochemistry, Boston University, famed as a science fiction writer and popularizer of science. Among the topics: progress in the earth sciences, research into the fundamental particles of matter, ecology, pollution control, DNA and the origins of life, the understanding of the physical basis of memory, computers, astronomy, astrophysics, space flight and progress in medicine, particularly in transplants. The latter portion features Dr. Pierre Grondin, Canada's first heart transplant surgeon. Researched by Michael Hastings and (Please turn to page 23)

Monday, February 2

- 10:30 p.m. Theatre 10:30
Answer Man Limited, by James G. Harris, a new comedy-satire about Jordan Mayday. Mayday's private investigation firm, located in Montreal, offers a unique service — it is staffed with a psychiatrist and a lawyer. Mayday is approached by April Wynford, a beautiful young married woman who warns of her own impending murder. Her husband is insanely jealous and will kill her if she carries out her plan to move in with Burp Gun Spinelli, a prince of the Montreal underworld, who has 168 gangland slayings to his credit. If she does leave him, the husband threatens to kill Mayday too. If April fails to accept the unsavory embraces of Burp Gun, the latter threatens to fill the investigator full of holes. In the final analysis, the real victim is Mayday, and it takes the combined talents of all three partners to prevent the crime.
- 11:03 p.m. Distinguished Artists
Soprano Judith Forst, accompanied at the piano by Harold Brown. Concert Aria: Per pieta bell idol mio, Puccini; Six Songs by Mendelssohn; Cinq Poemes de Max Jacob, Poulenc.

Orchestra: Overture Prince Igor, Borodin; Piano Concerto No. 3 in D Minor, Op. 30. Rachmaninoff. Guest conductor, Brian Priestman. Soloist, pianist Misha Dichter.

Wednesday, Feb. 4

- 7:30 p.m. Soundings
A Life of Shadows: Freelancer Aubrey Nice followed a half-dozen private investigators, only to discover that the electronic image of the private eye just isn't so in real life. It's usually a solid, hard-working kind of profession — with few glamor jobs. The detectives, the registrar of private investigation in Ontario, A. A. Shields, and two police inspectors talk about careless employers who are easily robbed by employees, shoplifting, dishonest investigators and electronic bugging.
- 8:03 p.m. Concern
An interview with Joseph Hromadka, a leading Czech theologian who died in the last week of December 1969. Brewster Kneen interviewed him in Czechoslovakia after the Russian invasion. Hromadka founded the Christian Peace Conference, a group of Christians and communists who meet to discuss their responsibilities and to further communication between Christians and communists. He didn't believe that Christians should try to destroy communism—he thought they should try to talk with each other. He was one of the leading theologians of the communist world. Host: Herb Breithaupt.
- 9:03 p.m. Ideas Network
Highlights from the Ideas series on CBC-FM, culled from a rich storehouse of documentaries, talks and discussions on international affairs, literary topics and scientific matters. Tonight: The Future of Work.
- 10:30 p.m. Theatre 10:30
Continuation of Answer Man Limited.

Thursday, February 5

- 7:03 p.m. Between Ourselves
Raising the Totem. Indian carver Bob Davidson carved a totem pole to stand in front of his village, Old Masset on the Queen Charlotte Islands of B.C., to replace, in token, the forest of poles which had once stood there. The Haida Indians of B.C. were great artists and craftsmen. Imoert Orchard attended the raising of the totem and the potlatch and tells what it's all about.
- 8:03 p.m. Thursday Music
Part 1 — CBC Talent Festival. Flutist Suzanne Fournier (Quebec): First Movement of Concerto in D Major, K. 314, Mozart; Helene Lagueux, pianist (Cte. Lotbiniere): First Movement of Piano Concerto in E Minor, Op. 11, Chopin. Conductor, Sylvio Lacharite.
Part 2 — Words About Music: Chester Duncan talks about Music Education in Manitoba. Also: Peter Garvie, Dean of Fine Arts, Victoria University, reviews the book, The Operas of Benjamin Britten, with musical illustrations.
Part 3 — National Arts Centre CBC Collegiate Concert: Overture L'italiana in Algeri, Rossini; Sinfonia Concertante in E Flat, Mozart. Mario Bernardi conducts the National Arts Centre Orchestra, including a performance of Stravinski's Renard, with tenor Pierre Duval, tenor Andre Lortie, baritone Claude Corbeil, baritone Roland Gosselin.
- 10:30 p.m. Theatre 10:30
Continuation of Answer Man Limited.
- 11:03 p.m. Chamber Music

Children's Cinema (color)

The Boy with the Grey Horse, Part 2.

Tournament of Roses Parade (color)

Live coverage of the magnificent parade through Pasadena preceding the Rose Bowl game. In the past few years several Canadian cities and organizations (Calgary Stampede) have entered floats in this event. Apollo 12 astronauts Alan L. Bean, Richard F. Gordon Jr., and Charles Conrad Jr. will be the Grand Marshals of the New Year's Day parade from Pasadena. Twenty cameras will be on hand to show viewers behind-the-scenes views of the breathtaking floats in the event. Commentators for parade coverage will be actress June Lockhart and U.S. TV personality Bob Barker.

Strange Paradise (color)

Jean Paul waits for his pact with the devil to be bound with the appearance of his wife, Erica, who has returned from the dead.

Rose Bowl (color)

Live coverage of one of American college football's biggest annual games, from Pasadena, California. More than $500,000 has been spent in improving the famed Rose Bowl, where this 56th Rose Bowl game will be played between the University of Southern California and the University of Michigan. Seating capacity in the stadium is now 101,887 people.

The Doris Day Show (color)

The Prizefighter and the Lady. Larry Storch portrays Duke Farentino, a boxer who'd rather dance than fight and gets a large crush on Doris while she's trying to interview him.

Boss Brass (color)

Rob McConnell and the Boss Brass, a 16-man band with a blazing brass section, backed only by rhythm instruments, in a half-hour of some of the arrangements that have been breaking up Toronto audiences during the past year. With featured soloist singer Dianne Brooks. Highlights: Listen to the Boss, Tristessa, You Made Me So Very Happy (Brass), I Had a Ball, G'wan Back Home (Dianne), medley of 1969 songs -- Aquarius, Shame, Shame, Revolution, Promises, Promises, Games People Play, etc. (Dianne, Brass) Mr. Businessman (Brass). Produced by Stewart Cuppige.

Ten Years for Tomorrow: The Sixties in Review. See Looking Back, page 25.

WEDNESDAY NOTES

produced by Roman Bittman. Executive producer: James Murray.

And That's the News??? Good-night!" (color)

For the first time, a momentous meeting: Charlie Farquharson, the Parry Sound farmer, and Fred Dobbs, the sage of Beamsville. It is New Year's Eve, and Charlie and Fred are sitting up with a sick chicken and watching the news on television. What they see includes some rather unusual reports on Canada's part in Expo '70, our dwindling role in NATO, The Company of Old Canadians, pollution, Canada's satellite program, a super school for apartment superintendents, credit cards, the National Arts Centre, and Canada's Arctic sovereignty--as well as a visit with the "Cantering Cook." Charlie and Fred's alter egos, Don Harron and Michael Magee, wrote the show and star in it, along with fellow comics Jack Duffy, Marilyn Stuart and Peter Mews. Chromakey graphics by Florian Julino. Produced and directed by Norman Campbell.

Anthology (film drama, color)

A Shoe Full of Stones. Script by Phillip Hersch (creator of Wojeck). Starring Lee Patterson, Sharon Acker and Gerard Parkes. Plotline: Having left the organized church to serve the people of a downtown ghetto from his small street mission, Rev. Noah Bunker tries to help an emotionally disturbed immigrant boy. Ramon Alvarez and his family are being bled by Sanchez, a man who got them into the country illegally. Ramon enlists the help of his friend Chico to rob Sanchez, but the incident ends in murder when Ramon pulls a gun. Chico comes to Noah for help, and so does Police Officer Donovan. Cast: Lee Patterson as Rev. Noah Bunker; Sharon Acker as Anne Bunker; Gerard Parkes as Donovan; David Britton as Ramon; Nick Fylan as Chico; Louis Zorich as Sanchez; Nicola Lipman as Veronica; Elaine Ives-Cameron as Mrs. Alvarez; Alf Gallagher as Jaime Alvarez; Patrick Sinclair as P.O. Martin. Credits: Photography by Grahame Woods. Produced and directed by Ronald Weyman.

Irish Coffee (Color)

Host Paul Soles talks with Paul Kligman, Alfie Scopp, Hank Karpus, Marvin Goldhar, Almeta Speaks and Colleen Collins.

The Spirit of '70 (Color special)

For New Year's Eve, CBC Winnipeg presents a special show to inaugurate celebrations of Manitoba's Centennial Year. Former Winnipegger Bill Walker returns to act as emcee. Featured artists are The Guess Who, whose recordings of Laughing and These Eyes have sold over a million each; singer-actress Joan Karasevich; singers Ray St. Germain and Reg Gibson; members of the Royal Winnipeg Ballet; singer Ed Evanko; satirist Geoff Scott; and an up-tempo group of Winnipeg teenagers called The Sing-Out Winnipeg. Also featured are comedians Don Slade and Cliff Gardner. Bob McMullin leads his orchestra.

Highlights: These Eyes (The Guess Who), Manitoba (Sing-Out Winnipeg), which was winning entry in contest for Manitoba's official centennial song--music by Gordon P. Watson and lyrics by Mrs. N. Collier, both of Portage la Prairie; A Party for People (Reg Gibson, Ray St. Germain), third place winner in same contest; There's a Place for Us (Joan Karasevich, Ed Evanko). Geoff Scott will do some sketches on politics.

Mr. Dress-Up

Tick, Tocks and Clocks. Today, Susan visits Mr. Dress-Up's. They pretend to be clocks and stage a play with Casey called the "Clumsy Prince."

Strange Paradise (color)

Raxl vows revenge for the death of Vangie, the Conjure Woman. Raxl accuses Erica of knowing more about these evil events than Jean Paul suspects.

Take Thirty

The Escapers. Take Thirty takes a trip with Canadians who escaped the Nazis during the Second World War. The escapers visit people who helped them escape.

Galloping Gourmet (color)

Masterton Chicken. Graham Kerr creation for the President of the Wine and Food Society, Andre Simon. Chicken cooked in red wine with tiny mushrooms and onions.

The Marbles (debut)

Originally scheduled to begin last week, the debut of this zany revue-type series has been postponed to January 2. Four off-beat characters do anything and everything to entertain youngsters aged 8 to 12.

The Corsairs (color)

Adventure series of thirteen episodes starring Michel Le Royer as Nicolas and Christian Barbier as Louba. Nicolas de Coursic, a gentleman born in St. Malo (France), is prosecuted for two assassinations of which he is innocent. With the help of Louba, alias "Le Libournais," a fellow prisoner, Nicolas succeeds to escape from jail.

Singalong Jubilee

Edith Butler joins the show again to do Les Plus Fines Dontelles, and Petit Garcon. Jim Bennet does the Tim Hardin song Lady From Baltimore and Fred McKenna does an Ian and Sylvia number called Renegade. The Dropouts add the humorous Does Your Chewing Gum Lose Its Flavor . . . ?

The Group

This week, along with regulars Reg Gibson, Karen Marklinger and the New Group Singers, features guests Chad Allan and Corinne Cyca, and the Sassy Brass of Bob McMullin, who will appear on camera with the cast.

LOOKING BACK

THURSDAY NIGHT: TEN YEARS FOR TOMORROW

Knowlton Nash, director of CBC Information Programming, hosts this edition of the regular current affairs series as the CBC correspondents from around the world gather in Toronto to contribute their background knowledge to the major news stories of the '60s and their predictions for the decade ahead.

Michael Maclear returned from London; Bill Cunningham from Hong Kong; David Halton from Paris; Ab Douglas from Moscow; and Ron Collister from Parliament Hill, Ottawa. The decade is considered on this program under the headings: World Economy, Social Change (student protests, racial revolution, the Pill, the mini-skirt, and so forth); Canada (in particular the Quebec scene); the United States and the World (Viet Nam, the assassination of President Kennedy). Filmed highlights of events and personalities of the '60s will include interviews with Canada's three Prime Ministers of the decade—Rt. Hon. John G. Diefenbaker; Rt. Hon. Lester B. Pearson; and Rt. Hon. Pierre Trudeau. A special contributor to the program is cartoonist Duncan Macpherson. Produced by Don McQueen and directed by Murray Hunter. (Thursday, January 1 at 10:00 p.m.)

SPORTS '69

Hosted by producer Bob Moir, this two-hour review of the year in sports aims to sketch in over 100 items, chiefly Canadian. The commentary is by Don Chevrier and Tom McKee, and the principal highlights include the Stanley Cup, the Grey Cup, the Superbowl, the World Series, the Queen's Plate, the Canada Games, the U.S. Open, the Canadian men's curling championships. I'll be Home for Christmas by Michel Fauré. Mr. Galgurian (known the world over as G), when threatened with death, decides that cryogenics is the only answer. Before going into deep freeze, he tells his wife and family that he "will be home for Christmas." Mrs. G visits her frozen hubby in his glass case every week and, each time, meets the surgeon who put her husband into refrigeration. They fall in love and, on the grounds of desertion, she divorces G and marries the doctor. Together they grow older but, inevitably, are less and less in love. When G finally does keep his promise to return, he finds himself involved in a strange triangle. Produced by Earl Pennington in Montreal.

The Sixties in retrospect—a psychedelic view of the decade just past, concentrating on general trends and themes, rather than chronological order—i.e., politics, space, leadership, war, dissent, music, science. Lyal Brown and Bruce Rogers are co-hosts. With actuality from news highlights from 1960 on, and an assessment of different trends by qualified authorities (i.e., possibly Lester Pearson for politics). Research by Bill Hogg. Science items prepared by Raoul Engel. Additional material from archives. Producer is Howard Engel of Features; executive producer is Angus McLellan of Radio News.

Auld Lang What's 'Is-Name: A kaleidoscopic review of 1969, comedy drama in vignette blackout form, following the mood swings of the year. Writer-director-producer Rod Coneybeare says it's as much comedy as drama, and that there is black as well as white comedy. It's wacky and crazy in true Coneybeare fashion, but there are undertones of seriousness (i.e., mention of the Vietnam massacres). Confirmed cast at this point are Carl Banas, Tom Harvey and Pam Hyatt. Writers besides Coneybeare are: Murray Soupcoff, John Hall and Roy Shoichet.

In the late 1930s, Norwegian anthropologist and explorer Thor Heyerdahl heard an old Polynesian man tell of how the god and chief, Tiki brought his people to the Polynesian Islands from a big country beyond the sea. Heyerdahl set out to sea with five companions on a balsa wood raft in the spring of 1947 from the coast of Peru to prove the old man's story: that Polynesian Islanders were descended from South Americans who arrived on the islands one thousand years ago, after a four thousand mile journey across the Pacific Ocean. It took Heyerdahl three months.

A Portrait of Leacock. A salute to Canadian humorist and scholar Stephen Leacock on the 100th anniversary of his birth. A profile of the author produced by Dita Vadron.

9:00 The Great Election

Leacock story adapted by Tommy Tweed and produced by Andrew Allan. The story is taken from two of his Sunshine Sketches—The Great Election in Missanaba County and The Candidacy of Mr. Smith, but it draws on all the Sketches for its flavor. It consists of many of the familiar characters with which Leacock peopled his Mariposa locale—a thinly-disguised Orillia, Ontario, where Leacock had his summer home, now a museum. In the cast: Tommy Tweed, Budd Knapp, Mavor Moore, Frank Perry, William Needles.

Wild Africa: As It Was

filmmaker, naturalist and conservationist, who wrote and narrated the highly acclaimed Darwin and the Galapagos series, and who produced The Nature of Things for several years, visited Africa's incredibly beautiful wildlife sanctuaries and filmed two hour-long color specials, which will be shown on CBC-TV later this season. Livingston's cameras, in the hands of Roger Tory Peterson and Ralph Blackstad (who also shot Darwin and the Galapagos), aided by sound recordist William Gunn (whose recordings of bird songs are internationally famous), captured many unique sights and sounds of nature, including some smaller animals and birds usually ignored by filmmakers.

They camped out, and survived several exciting experiences, including an earthquake and being charged by rhinos and elephants. They were the first to film the Egyptian vulture, and hyenas feeding at night and doing their own killing. They photographed gigantic flowers in the foothills life of the mountains far above the tree-line; daily activities of the lion family; the hunting technique of the cheetah; the Uganda kob antelope staking out his territory; and how the life cycle ensures each animal of survival. (Wednesday, TV, 9:30 p.m., later in the season). □

material back to Canada. Fred Friendly, then head of news and public affairs at CBS, is a dear friend and competitor, but we've always been abrasive towards each other in our work. He was out to beat us that time. I had my crew standing by in London for several days, and when Churchill's death was announced, we began a game of spying and one-up-manship with CBS. At one time Friendly suggested we be partners on the job, but I said no, and had 'creeping supers' made up saying 'This is coming to you from the CBC'. I was trying to anticipate Friendly's moves, and had a spy in the airport at London. Wherever I went, I left my telephone number for him to call. At 2:00 a.m. one day I got an urgent message to say that CBS had rented a DC8 jet, ripped the insides out and put in a videotape recording machine, and it was already in the air. I couldn't figure out what the hell Friendly was trying to do. I thought it would probably land in Scotland or Ireland, and take the feed from there — Ireland was closer to North America by an hour, almost enough to let the DC8 beat our Vulcans.

"I called the control tower in Prestwick, Scotland, to ask if there was a DC8 around anywhere. They hadn't seen one, but when I rang my old friend Gunnar Rugheimer at the Dublin airport, he said yes, there's one just going to land. So then I knew Friendly planned to tape the whole funeral in Ireland, edit it on the way back to North America, and put it on the air immediately. Then I got a call from Canada to say that CBS had somehow gained access to our back-up micro-wave out of Halifax, which meant that when we landed in Halifax, and had to play right onto the network, we'd have no back-up to rely on if our micro-wave failed. I did everything I could in London to get the Vulcans a free runway for fast take-off. And I had an open line to the naval airport at Shearwater, Nova Scotia, where both they and the DC8 planned to land. Then it suddenly struck me that we were using a services aircraft, while Friendly had a chartered one, and I remembered a little regulation saying that commercial aircraft can't land at a services airfield without a Cabinet Minister's approval. So I called my old friend, Bill Lee, then head of public relations for the RCAF, and asked him to get in touch with a Minister and not let the DC8 land, so it would have to go to an internal airport about 40 miles away and send the tapes by truck or motorbike. Bill called back to say they aren't going to land.

"Then Shearwater reported that Friendly had a warmed-up helicopter standing by to make the 40-mile dash and they'd still beat our Vulcans by three or four minutes, but that Shearwater would refuse it a landing runway because of the traffic. Undaunted, the copter pilot landed on the grass. By the time they got their tape out and on its way to the machine, our Vulcan was coming in to land. Then the Shearwater commander cried: 'They're on the air! Your plane has stopped at the end of the runway'. I knew it would take four or five minutes more for us to get on the air. So I phoned Friendly in New York to compliment him, and said it must have cost him a quarter of a million dollars to win. He said yes, but our pictures are no good. We had to take your feed! . . . and there was our CBC creeper coming in regularly across the screen in all those U.S. sets!"

That sort of spirit is partly Benson's Irish heritage, and partly the result of the resourcefulness he acquired in his extraordinary childhood. He was born in 1915 about half-way between Selkirk and Winnipeg, in a tiny village called Old England, where the only English-born resident was his mother. His father was from Bally James Duff, near Belfast. When Benson was seven his parents separated, and his mother, a courageous woman who died last year at 97, resumed her nursing career to support Thom and his nine-year-old brother.

A couple of years later she went up to nurse at Norway House, leaving the older boy to attend St. John's College in Winnipeg, and taking Thom along to attend school with Indian children. Benson recalls that he picked up three things: a smattering of Cree, some Indian friends of whom he was very fond, and diphtheria, "but the forestry people flew in antitoxin in time to save my life."

Then Mrs. Benson and Thom returned to Winnipeg. "It was the depths of the Depression," he recalls, "and we didn't have a lot of money, but tried to stay together somehow. I went to night school and worked days as a store messenger and handy man, but that didn't pan out—it was too tiring. Then, through friends, I got into St. John's College and worked nights." Later Mrs. Benson returned to Norway House at the request of the Anglican Church, and Thom went with her. He stayed with a doctor who had a good short wave battery radio with a big horn, and Thom became interested in the fascinating world which the receiver drew into the white winter expanse of northern Manitoba. Back in Winnipeg there were no jobs.

"I began perfecting my soda-jerking technique—it seemed the only road to a job. But I had my sights on something beyond that, because I applied at Harmon's Drug Store, about half-a-block from CKY, where the people from the station came in for lunch. I got taken on part time. About six months later Reg Harmon made it a steady job, at $12 a week. Among the customers I got to know were program director Herb Roberts and manager Bill Backhouse, a dear man. I made sure they knew about my interest in radio, and finally the great day came. They said they were auditioning for an announcer, and would have me over to try out. It was a great audition, and I gathered there was no doubt I'd get the job. But there was to be a final audition the following Sunday. I blew it sky high, and went down to Harmon's basement and cried. Later, practically the same thing happened. Then I got my guts back, and began pestering CJRC, and sold them on the idea that if I announced the dance band at night they wouldn't have to send an announcer over to the hotel. They agreed. But they couldn't pay me, so I talked the hotel into giving me $7 a week if I gave them plenty of on-mike plugs. I kept on my drug store job, and some cronies going by the hotel and he'd called out 'I want to see you!' He offered me a summer job. It was difficult making up my mind which job to take, but I chose CKY's, and I made sure I was seen around the station at night, answering the switchboard, sweeping the floor, etc. In the fall I was told they'd keep me on. That was about 1938.

"When the Second World War broke out, I joined the navy. They wanted me to do recruiting but stay with the station. I stayed till 1942, then went on active service. I was demobbed as a Lieutenant-Commander in 1945 after a completely unspectacular naval career, and was installed at CKY as chief announcer.

In 1947 the late Ira Dilworth, then of the International Service, whom Benson calls "one of the great men in broadcasting, and one of the greatest influences on my life," phoned him from Montreal to ask him to become IS representative on the prairies, interpreting prairie people and developments for listeners abroad. "The money he offered was less than half what I'd been making," Benson says, "but of course I took the job. Then, in the summer of 1949 Ira said 'I want to second you to the information division of the Department of External Affairs in Ottawa for a year.' This meant another sacrifice, but it was a year I'll never forget. At the hockey championships, royal tours, etc.

Between his CBC travels to distant places, Benson got married, and he and Nancy have three children between six and 12. As the special events department expanded, Benson moved into the field of documentaries, turning out about one a month for radio.

When CBC-TV began, Benson's responsibilities included those of the new medium, and he recalls that "It was very exciting, but we were all at sea. I prefer TV now, but was afraid of it then. Radio is much more personal, because one can be everything in a production . . . conceive the idea, write, produce, voice. It's as if it's made from one's own hands. But in TV it's in the hands of other people as well."

Benson's department excels at the sort of TV features represented by two highly regarded specials shown this season: And We Were Young, and Who Killed Tom Thomson, and he hopes to shoot The Megantic Outlaw soon. He says "I have great love for this country and always want to be in a position to reflect that to the people of Canada." And, of course, to be first with reports on colorful events of state and international interest. He's fascinated by the question of whether there's life on other planets, but says he's sure that on the day it's ordered that he die, somebody will step

. . . and friendly rivalry serves to make the job a lot more fun starting work there at 8:00 a.m. and continuing till late at night on the air. It was exhausting, and finally Reg Harmon, who'd kindly gone along with me on this double deal, said you can't do two jobs, Thom. Which career do you want more? I chose radio, but still at only $7 a week. After seven months of announcing I was offered a full-time summer job. But a few days before that I'd passed Backhouse end of the year I was transferred to Toronto as IS representative."

The CBC domestic service asked that Benson be one of the chief reporters under A. E. Powley's direction for the 1951 Royal Tour. The year after the tour a CBC special events department was formed, and Benson became provincial supervisor in Toronto, organizing coverage of Olympic Games, British Empire Games, world out of a rocket on Jupiter, and he'll never know the answer. But if that happens we suspect that no matter who sends the first telecast back to earth, even if it's Fred Friendly, a ghostly 'creeper' will insinuate itself across the screen saying 'This is coming to you through the CBC', and somewhere among the background crackles there'll be a Bensonian chuckle.—June Graham. □
