Canadian Music Week ready for new century

Now in its 17th year, Canadian Music Week has continued to grow year by year, and is now considered a must-see event for music industry professionals.

Taking place March 1-5 at Toronto's Westin Harbour Castle Hotel, the week of conferences, seminars, keynote speeches and awards will focus attention on the changing climate of the industry, and how e-commerce and internet distribution are changing the way the world gets its music. As CMW head Neill Dixon notes, that's why the motto for this year's conference is Music Without Frontiers

"A lot of the seminars will focus on broadcasters versus webcasters, venture financing and IPO's. There'll be lots of lively debate. On one of the TV panels, we're focussing on the iCraveTV situation, and that will be debated. Plus we'll focus on bricks-and-mortar retailers going into dot.com areas, who's going to win that battle, we'll focus on e-commerce in general, we'll look at the future of the digital age with the CAB. So there is a lot of stuff in that area in the seminars."

Honourary co-chairs for this year's events are Zomba Music Canada president Laura Bartlett, Standard Radio president and CEO Gary Slight, and HMV Canada's VP of marketing, Andrew

Pollock. The trio, representing the three integral areas of the business - record companies, radio and retail - will host most of the events of the executive conference.

Dixon introduced the event schedule at a lavish reception on Monday, January 18th, at the Maple Leaf Cinema, in the concourse level of Toronto's CN Tower.

Essentially, Canadian Music Week consists of three elements - the Executive Conference (Mar. 1-4), the Music Show 2000, presented by Blockbuster (3-5), and the Molson Canadian Music Festival (1-5).

The Executive Conference kicks off (Wednesday) March 1 with the Radio Marketing Bureau "Radio 2000" conference. Radio 2000 will conclude with the annual Crystal Awards, honouring creativity in radio advertising.

Also part of the conference is the annual gathering of the Ontario Association of Broadcasters, which will include the President's Luncheon (Mar. 2), hosted by Global TV's Susan Hay and CHUM-FM's Roger Ashby. And the Canadian Association of Broadcasters will host the second annual Canadian Radio Music Awards on March 4th, hosted by Kim Stockwood.

Of course, the biggest reason to attend CMW for many music industry insiders is to schmooze. The most important event on the schmooze calendar is the annual Music Industry Awards (Mar. 2), honouring key industry professionals from all areas. That night, Universal Music Canada chairman and CEO Ross Reynolds will be inducted into the Canadian Music Industry Hall of Fame.

On March 3, Session & Tour Guide will host their second annual awards luncheon, honouring those who work in the recording and live touring industries. The luncheon will be spotlighted by a roast of Michael Cohl, the veteran concert promoter best known for his work with U2 and the Rolling Stones.

CMW has lined up an impressive array of keynote speakers for this year's event. They include pccmusic head Ralph Peer II, musician and producer Thomas Dolby, The Pretenders' singer and songwriter Chrissie Hynde, and pioneer rap artist Ice-T.

But let's not forget the most important part of the festivities - the music. The Molson Canadian Music Festival will feature more than 200 up-and-coming bands and artists at various live venues throughout the city. The lineup, culled from more than 1,500 applications, includes bands from across Canada and the US.

In addition, CMW will feature several sponsor performances by a number of major recording artists, including star concerts to open and close the event. Dixon also added that they would be reviving Lobsterpalooza for this year, taking place on the Friday (Mar. 3), as well as the jazz series, which they began last year with the aid of the Downtown Jazz Festival.

"We're trying to get away from being the alternative rock festival, with only Toronto bands."

Finally, there is The Music Show 2000, sponsored by Blockbuster, which features some 150 exhibits from all manner of industry specialists -

Tina Turner at Toronto's CHUM-FM in February

Virgin Music artist Tina Turner will appear at the historic CHUM Studios on Toronto's Yonge Street on February 6, for an exclusive interview with CHUM-FM's Marilyn Denis, and a preview of her forthcoming album, Twenty-Four Seven.

The interview, from 9 - 10:30 pm, will be broadcast over the full CHUM radio network, and over the internet via CHUM's website (www.chumfm.com). Fans across the country will be able to call-in questions via a special 1-800 number, or email questions to Turner (tina@chumradionetwork.com).

Twenty-Four Seven, to be released February 1, features the lead single When The Heartache Is Over, as well as a guest appearance by Bryan Adams. The single is already scoring well on the charts, debuting at #38 on the RPM 100 Hit Tracks. A Twenty-Four Seven tour, featuring several Canadian dates, is to be announced shortly.

Personnel shuffle at Oasis and Attic Records

In order to improve their retail focus, Oasis Entertainment and Attic Records have announced a series of personnel moves.

Tony Tarleton has been promoted to national accounts manager for Oasis, moving up from his previous position of central division manager. Previously, Tarleton was an account executive within Universal Music's Ontario branch.

Charles Hay will replace Tarleton as manager of Oasis' central division, moving over from Attic where he was director of sales. Prior to joining Attic, Hay was a senior account executive with PolyGram.

Attic Records has shored up its marketing department with the appointment of two new label managers. Antonella Padula becomes label manager for Hi-Bias and edel Records. Padula was previously Attic's marketing coordinator. And Judy Faulds moves over from Oasis to become Attic's head of special projects and compilations.

Both Antonella and Faulds join Rose Slanic, who is label manager for Roadrunner and Metal Blade. All three label managers will report to Attic's VP of marketing, Nigel Newton. Also, Felina Patterson, staff assistant at Attic, will take on further responsibilities within the marketing department.

Both Oasis and Attic are divisions of the recently-created Song Corporation.

Prior to their recent show at Toronto's Air Canada Centre, the Matthew Good Band was presented with platinum awards for their Beautiful Midnight album by Universal/Mercury staff. The album debuted at #1 on the RPM 100 CDs chart.

At a reception in December, Dan Hill was presented with a SOCAN No.1 award by SOCAN staff for his song I Do (Cherish You). The song, co-written with Keith Stegall and recorded by 98 Degrees, reached #1 on the RPM AC chart in November of '99.

recording studios, music equipment manufacturers, radio stations, record producers, record manufacturing and distribution companies, and industry and trade publications.

In addition to the exhibits, the Music Show 2000 will feature live performances on the Blockbuster Stage, concerts in the nearby Frontenac Room, and autograph sessions.

One of the highlights of this year's exhibition will be a Friday afternoon autograph session with stars of the WWF, as Koch Entertainment and the World Wrestling Federation celebrate the double-platinum success of WWF - The Music: Vol. 4.

One new element for CMW this year is the signing of an agreement with Iceberg Media.com Inc. to become the exclusive internet broadcaster for CMW over the next three years.

Iceberg.com will have live audio-video webcasts of Ralph Peer II's keynote address, the Music Industry Awards, and the Michael Cohl roast, and a live webcast of Iceberg.com's Dave Marsden moderating a seminar on internet broadcasting. Iceberg.com's affiliated site, primeticket.net, will have live webcasts of CMW concert events, while another affiliate, 2kool4radio.com, will conduct live audio webchats with celebrities attending CMW.

According to Dixon, the agreement with Iceberg.com helps expand CMW's profile throughout the world.

"Now that we've got into webcasting ourselves, and the whole thing will be up there for anyone in the world to check out anytime, it's quite exciting just thinking about the reach this thing's going to have. I don't think it will cannibalize attendance, because I think a big part of attending the event is the networking and schmoozing, and the fact that you're doing business face-to-face."

Dixon added that CMW is also initiating a new program this year, dubbed Be Our Guest, aimed at international industry professionals making a first-time trip to Canadian Music Week.

Done with the assistance of the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade, the campaign will be launched at MIDEM, via the CIRPA and ADISQ booths. Essentially, it means that an international first-time delegate would only have to make their way to Toronto, and CMW will take care of the rest.

"So a person would receive free stand space, at the CMW International Stand, free admission to the CMW Conference, a listing of their company in our program, and they'll be invited to an international cocktail party we're having. We're also having someone who's working on an itinerary for them, and helping them get around to the clubs, so they can see as many live acts as they want.

"The benefit for us is twofold. For one, once they come here, we think they'll appreciate what we do and want to come back next year, in which case they'd be paying. And secondly, it's our way of trying to generate business between Canadian independent labels and artists and the international community."

Tragedy cuts deep into Canadian music industry

John Morris Rankin dies in Cape Breton accident

Shock and disbelief swept the entertainment industry as news of the death of John Morris Rankin in an auto accident near his home in Mabou, Cape Breton filtered across the country. He was 40 years old.

Jimmy Rankin, scheduled to perform at the Family Farm Tribute in Toronto (Jan. 16), cancelled out to fly home to be with family members. The news of John Morris' death on the eve of the upbeat tribute to Canada's farmers, was devastating to the other performers, many of whom knew him personally.

John Morris was driving his 15-year old son Michael and his two friends Matthew MacDonald and Timothy MacLellan, both 14, to an early morning hockey game, when he swerved his Toyota 4-Runner to avoid a salt pile on the road. The vehicle skidded down the road and went over the side of the cliff and into the St. Lawrence. The three youngsters were able to escape through a broken window, but John Morris perished in the frigid waters.

The Rankin Family - John Morris, Cookie, Heather, Raylene and Jimmy - became a household word across Canada in 1994 when they won four Juno Awards: Canadian Entertainer of the Year, Single of the Year (for Fare Thee Well Love), Group of the Year, and Country Group of the Year. They were credited with single-handedly spurring the rise of Celtic music in Canada and went on to become internationally known, selling more than two million albums. They were also consistent winners of East Coast Music Awards and never lost sight of their Cape Breton roots.

John Morris, the elder of the Rankin Family, played keyboards and fiddle and was the unofficial music director of the group. Gentle, sometimes shy, but always witty, he played a low key role while on stage, preferring that his siblings have more of the spotlight.

The Rankin Family caught the attention of the major labels in 1991 by selling close to 100,000 copies of their independently released debut album. Their mother Kathleen, who passed away in 1998 at the age of 61, was in charge of distributing the album and guiding the career of the band. Their father, Buddy, a local mechanic, died in 1981.

Deane Cameron, president of EMI Music Canada, has known the Rankin Family for almost ten years. After signing a multi-album deal with EMI (RPM - August 1/92) they had their first hit with Orangedale Whistle (RPM - Oct. 24/92), followed by Fare Thee Well Love (RPM - March 20/93) and a string of hits into the mid-nineties.

"They were a very close-knit family," says Cameron. "The death of John Morris has devastated all of us here at EMI Music Canada. It's a sad day for Canada's music industry because the Rankins were such a large part of Canada's musical history. John Morris was a very fine gentleman who played a major role in bringing the music of Atlantic Canada to the mainstream."

Shortening their name to The Rankins a couple of years ago, they kept up their hectic pace of touring, almost to exhaustion. It was at that time (Nov. 8/98) when Raylene left the group to concentrate on raising a family. Shortly after, the others decided to pursue solo careers. John Morris wanted to be closer to home with his young family. He kept active however, as a session musician on various recordings as well as playing locally. Heather and Jimmy moved to Halifax and Cookie is now living in Nashville.

The extensive media coverage of the death of John Morris was in keeping with his status as a leader in the music industry. One of the finest tributes was written by Ron Foley MacDonald, a Halifax-based freelance arts writer, broadcaster and film programmer, whose poignant piece was carried as a special to The Globe And Mail (Jan. 18).

John Morris is survived by his wife Sally, daughter Molly and son Michael. The funeral was held at St. Mary's church in Mabou on January 20.

Iglesias, Collins, Aguilera, Braxton at Super Bowl

Universal Music latin star Enrique Iglesias is one of several top-notch performers confirmed to perform at the half-time show at this year's Super Bowl, which takes place January 30th in Atlanta.

Iglesias will be joined by Phil Collins, Christina Aguilera and Toni Braxton for the half-time show at Super Bowl XXXIV. Entitled Tapestry Of Nations, the show (produced by Walt Disney Attractions), will feature more than 125 drummers and percussionists, a full symphony, aerial dancers, and a multi-generational choir.

Iglesias, who recently opened the American Music Awards, has topped three million units sold worldwide with his English-language debut album, Enrique.

Sales have reached double platinum in Canada, with Rhythm Divine remaining in the top twenty on the RPM 100 Hit Tracks chart.

Gordie Sampson places in Lennon Songwriting fest

Sorry, a track taken as a single from Gordie Sampson's Stones release, was a finalist in the Pop category of the New York-based John Lennon Songwriting Contest. The single peaked at #20 on the RPM A/C chart on July 5, 1999.

Sampson and Ryan Szarko of Edmonton were the only non-Americans to place this year among the thousands of entries. Szarko placed as a finalist in the Dance category with his penning of Where I Send You.

The names of the grand prize winners, three finalists and six runners-up in 12 categories can be obtained at www.jlsc.com.

Sampson is also looking good for this year's East Coast Music Awards (RPM - Jan. 10). Sorry, and Trip, another single, garnered Sampson nominations in the SOCAN Songwriter category, and both were nominated in the Single of the Year category. Sorry was also nominated in the Video category. Natalie MacMaster's single, In My Hands, the title track of her WEA CD, written by Sampson, MacMaster and Amy Sky, was also nominated in the SOCAN Songwriter category. MacMaster's CD was nominated in the Album category.

Sampson, who is currently recording at Cape Breton's Lakewind Sound and Soundpark Studios, will be front and centre during the East Coast Music Awards and Conference, performing at Nancy White's CBC Radio Special at the Savoy Theatre. He is also scheduled as a performer for the nationally-televised ECMA Awards show which will be televised by CBC from Sydney's Centre 200 on Sunday Feb. 6.

For more information on Sampson call Jones & Co. in Halifax 902-429-9005 (jonesco@ns.sympatico.ca).

WALT SAYS ...!

with Elvira Caprese

Hockey Aid! Isn't it wonderful that a group of Candian recording artists are talking about getting together to do a concert to be called Hockey Millionaire Tribute, with all the proceeds going to the hockey millionaires, in an effort to financially help out! Modelled on the Family Farm Tribute, they have already lined up a number of top Cancon stars, some of whom failed to show any enthusiasm for the Farm Aid Tribute. All the recording stars are donating their work. A number of hockey players were approached to appear but they're demanding some big bucks. That is still to be worked out. (EC: You're kidding ... of course???) They charge for everything! CBC might not be interested since they won't be allowed to make a profit anymore. Thank you CRTC bureaucrats!

Sad news for classical records!!! After 40 years in the business, Bruce Surtees is closing down his Classical Record Shop in Toronto's fashionable Hazelton Lanes. Don't know all the details, but it's a pretty sad commentary on record retailing in general. Bruce is one of the few record retailers who would always take the time to look after his customers. And he knew the catalogue like no one in the business. In this day of overkill with pop and rock, we need speciality outlets like the Classical Record Shop and retailers like Bruce Surtees! (EC: It's a changing world!!!)

I'm honoured! Listen! This year's Walt Grealis Special Achievement Award ... (EC: Are you sure of that name, since it changes every year?) ... is going to Emile Berliner. It must be true, I read it in BB. (EC: Didn't see a word in TR!!!) Seems to be some confusion about the name of the award. (EC: Why don't you take a look at the award and see what it says on it! STUPID!!!) Maybe "Industry Builder Award" is its nickname! (EC: Hey! Credibility is my middle name!) They should just call it the Walt Grealis Award! Much simpler! (EC: After that I doubt if they'll even invite you!!!)

CRTC! Rude! Angry!!! Industry types who phone the CRTC to get info on Cancon say they don't get a very friendly response. They are told to phone other people. The CRTC doesn't care. Well, since this bunch didn't create the 30% Cancon ruling, and because this is a CRTC that doesn't believe in regulations that work ... they just aren't going to be helpful or polite! Go away little Cancon person. We have no time for you! This cash cow for the government just hasn't got the time. I can remember when the CRTC was on our side. Now they act like the enemy! (EC: I won't try to say anything funny because this is such a serious matter!!!)

Speaking of ... !!! Check out Donato's cartoon in the January 20 issue of the Toronto Sun. It's hilarious, and only Donato could cover this dumb furor over nothing, so well. No need to go into detail, RPM's distinguished board of governors, just might sack me. I wonder if the Sun's board will contact their new Sunshine boy, Brian Mulroney for advice or guidelines on being politically correct. (EC: You've covered it nicely. Let's give it a rest!!!)

Really classy! How nice it was to see a winner invite Clive Davis up to the podium on the American Music Awards. This was a great show with lots of awards, lots of fashions, lots of boozums! There were so many dancers they just might have some left over for the Oscars. (EC: It does look like an Oscar on the front of the old telephone book!!!) By the way! Take a look at the American Music Award. Reminds me of something! (EC: dated! lacked curves! too heavy! dangerous! gravestone monument!!!) Looked familiar!

Fast reverse!!! I'm betting the CRTC will backtrack on the CBC decision. My spies tell me they are already being asked questions that the dailies are only finding out about now. It took years for the lobbying forces to line up the puppets and now there is a threat that this will all be undone! If it isn't, we may go back and start all over again. Ask where that $50 million profit will go if the CBC isn't allowed to make it and spend it on what we the public want to see. Regional programming should be left to the other broadcasters who have the right to profit from their very valuable licence. That's what the CRTC should encourage! (EC: I'm speechless!!!)

A tempest in a teapot!!! We might have to have a Supreme Court ruling on what is and what isn't "politically correct" after CTV's "quick fix" with the firing of Avery Haines. Some people are wondering out loud if the technician got the sack as well. Anyway, from the response on radio and letters to the editor, it looks like Haines has a large fan following. Some navel-gazer at Global Television even predicts the end of Haines. Someone should hire Haines. Just think of the thousands more viewers they would get and in turn, they would get a news personality with personality. Haines' career is far from over. She's a star just waiting for the proper lighting. (EC: That goes with having a personality, when your on camera!!!)

Jammin' after the tribute!!! Harvey Glatt, former owner of Ottawa's CHEZ-FM and one of the original promoters of Cancon, has been giving a little muscle to Blues On Bellair, a new blues club in Toronto.

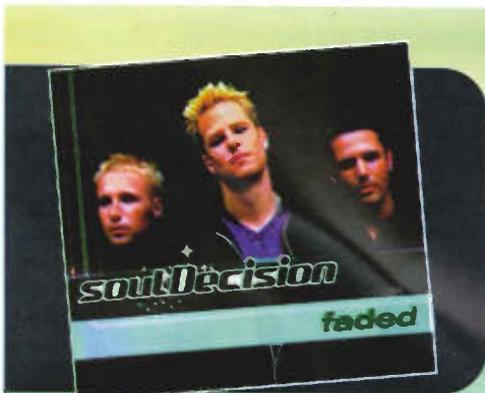

And, sure enough, after the Farm Tribute, a bunch of the performers went up to the club to jam. Included were Wide Mouth Mason and Burton Cummings and guess who? Our dear friend from Victoria, B.J. Cook, who surprised the audience all to hell. They thought she was primarily a songwriter, but when she began to wail her own brand of blues, the club went ballistic. Don't know who all the principals are at the club, but Greg Godovitz was front and centre. (EC: B.J.'s no slouch when it comes to promotion as well!!!)

The wonderful world of DVD??? Get ready for the invasion of DVDs. Everything should be in full gear by April when we won't have to import them anymore. (EC: You mean they'll be manufactured in Canada???)

Take a bow Ronnie!!! That Family Farm Tribute turned out to be the hottest ticket in town. More than 14,000 tickets were sold, which should work out to a pretty good take for the charity, which was really a tribute to Rompin' Ronnie Hawkins ... hate to use comparisons ... but Canada's Willie Nelson. As a matter of fact I was a little disappointed Ronnie only did one number, but that one brought the audience to its feet. The roof would've come down if he had performed his anthem, Bo Diddley. Ronnie's pretty happy about the whole thing anyway. "We got more press than World War Two," he says. "We had to make this thing happen. I called every politician I had something on to get behind it." (EC: Canada's superstar!!!)

Hey! Look who's on the block!!! A Toronto daily reported last week that a major MAJOR European-based conglomerate was making a pitch for a major MAJOR American-based conglomerate. But get this, if they failed for their first choice, they were prepared to go after another major MAJOR American-based conglomerate. No names mentioned here to protect the moral of those involved. (EC: They know already!!!)

Finally! The original concept of the Juno Awards was not to create a television show but to bring forward the new and wonderful talent that is Cancon in this country! When Stan Klees came up with the original idea, it was not to further the established stars but to showcase new emerging talent. So it was that the Junos became the starmaker of Cancon. It was a step along the way. If the people who are putting together that show this year can absorb that, then they will be following the tradition that created Cancon in the most successful area of Canadian entertainment, the record business. Movies, theatre, television have not been able to accomplish that yet. It would be a tribute to the original concept if they only kept this in mind. Where might we be today if it hadn't been for the Junos?? The name of the game is NEW talent! Why preach to the converted? (EC: Can I have the soapbox back now???)

What's Happening

Yo Adrian 5!, Rick Wharton's musical/comedy fest in support of people living with AIDS, was another huge success. The event, which took place on December 5th, raised more than $27,000 for the Barrett House, Toronto's first residence for people living with AIDS/HIV. Wharton, who organized the event in honour of his brother Adrian (who died of AIDS), brought together an array of talent, including musical artists Rik Emmett, Ian Thomas, Alfie Zappacosta and John McDermott, and a lengthy list of comedic talent: Ron James, Kate Ashby, Robin Duke, Kevin Frank, Harry Doupe, Carolyn Meehan, Jeff Farquharson, Tricia Williams, Bruce Hunter, Dave Huband, Neil Cronc, Carla Collins, Albert Howell, Kevin Frank, Erin Kcaney, Adrian Truss, Tony Rosato, Jack Mosshammer, Jeff Knight, Peter Wildman, Laura McGhee and Brett Heard. The Conspiracy Guy notes that he's already making plans for next year's Yo Adrian!

Steve Martin has been appointed managing director, video, to oversee the new video rental division at Pindoff Record Sales. PRS will provide video retailers with a complete line, including rental and sell-through video, in addition to access to all music labels.

Korn, with special guest Staind, make a rare Toronto appearance on March 25 at SkyDome. The California hard rockers are sailing near the top of the charts with their latest release, Issues. Staind, who've earned comparisons to Pantera and Limp Bizkit, were signed by Bizkit frontman Fred Durst to his Flip label.

Universal expands/realigns e-commerce departments

Universal Music Group has reconfigured its e-commerce division. Universal's electronic commerce and advanced technologies unit (eCAT) has been redesignated Universal eLabs, and has also established a separate business unit, Global e.

Universal eLabs will be UMG's focal point for developing global strategies within the e-commerce realm, as well as seeking further investment opportunities.

The section will house a business occupation group to develop new businesses internally, to be spun-off into existing operations or new divisions. Larry Kenswil, former eCAT president, will serve as president of Universal eLabs, based in LA. Universal eLabs will report to Zach Horowitz, president and CEO of UMG.

Global e will be a new, stand-alone division, with a mandate to build and manage music businesses. This mandate will include all digital downloads, subscriptions, custom radio and pay-per-play businesses, through digital purchase channels such as kiosks, computers, TV set-top boxes and portable devices. Heather Myers, formerly eCAT senior VP/operations, will serve as Global e's executive vice-president/general manager. Global e will report to Bruce Hack, vice-chairman of UMG.

In addition, UMG executive VP Norman Epstein will identify areas within UMG's core business operations that require transformation in order to succeed in the emerging digital world.

Both Hack and Horowitz will report all e-commerce activities to Edgar Bronfman Jr., president and CEO of The Seagram Company Ltd., and Doug Morris, chairman and CEO, UMG. This gives Bronfman Jr. direct accountability for the company's e-commerce activities.

Sloan are firming for March 3 at Toronto's Massey Hall. The group last appeared in Toronto in the fall of '98, when they performed four sold-out nights at the Palais Royale. The band is touring in support of their latest release, Between The Bridges, their third album in the last eighteen months.

The Toronto Regional Workshop of the Nashville Songwriters Association International (NSAI) has an upcoming seminar on January 25 at 7:30 pm at the Lester B. Pearson Catholic School in Brampton. Guesting at the seminar will be Anne-Marie Smith from Warner-Chappell Music. For further info contact Dan McVeigh at 905-453-6104, or Bruce Madole at 905-459-9753.

Ray Bonneville is currently on tour in the maritimes, in support of his new album, Gust Of Wind. The album, produced by Colin Linden, is on the Stony Plain label. Bonneville will appear at Tapps: The Beverage Room in Saint John (Jan. 27), Rye's Deli in Fredericton (28), Dave Doolittle's in Halifax (29), and Myron's Cabaret in Charlottetown (Feb. 2). Bonneville will also showcase at the East Coast Music Conference, on Feb. 4.

Blue Rodeo have added a third Toronto date, due to overwhelming demand. The band, already firming for February 24th and 25th, will now perform the 26th as well, with Australia band The Whitlams opening. The group is touring in support of their latest Warner release, The Days In Between.

Prozzak, with special guest McMaster & James, soul/Decision and b4-4, are slated for a March 4th date at The Warehouse. Canada's first animated musical group, featuring Jason Levine and the Philosopher Kings' James McCollum, are nearing triple platinum status with the Hot Show. McCollum and Levine will be accompanied by a full band, live DJ, interactive video, and 'a few surprises'.

The second annual Soul Choice Awards will take place January 31 at the Tropical Nights Restaurant, located at 3114 Danforth Ave. in Toronto. Dinner is at 6 pm, followed by the awards presentation at 7:30 pm. Awards will be presented for top label, label rep, R&B song, rap song, Canadian artist, and DJ of the year. For information contact Melissa or Dexter Langley at the Soul Choice Record Pool, at 416-439-5959.

Tito Puente, the king of Latin music, makes his first Toronto appearance with his Latin Jazz Ensemble on February 12. Toronto's own Ivana Santilli, formerly of Bass Is Base, will open the show. Puente, who's recorded more than 100 albums, has a lengthy list of accolades to his credit. Along with four Grammy Awards, Puente has also been awarded a star on the Hollywood Walk Of Fame, and is a member of the International Jazz Hall of Fame.

Brian McKnight returns to Toronto on March 21 for a show at Massey Hall. The Motown artist continues to enjoy strong success on the charts with Back At One, the title track from his current album, which remains in the top ten after 14 weeks (RPM - Jan. 17/00). McKnight, who's been nominated for a pair of Grammy Awards (top R&B album and best short form video), was in Toronto late in 1999 for a performance on the Mike Bullard show and an industry showcase. At that time, he also shot a new video for Back At One at a local club. McKnight will be joined at the Massey Hall show by guests 702.

KISS 92 Toronto morning co-host Daryn Jones is changing time slots. The new Daryn Jones Radio Show will debut on February 13 at 7 pm. The two-hour interactive talk show will feature current events, music and entertainment stories, as well as live guests and callers. The KISS morning show, featuring Jay 'Mad-Dog' Michaels, will continue in its regular 5:30 - 9:00 am slot. Jones will also be seen on the new national television program Buzz, co-starring Mista Mo, which debuts on the Comedy Network on January 31 at 9 pm.

LeisureDisc artists The Beehive Singers are appearing at the Windsor Arms' Club 22 every Tuesday night from 9 pm to 1 am. The Windsor Arms is located at 18 St. Thomas Street, which is one block west of Bay, just south of Bloor.

Epic artist Travis are firming for February 4 at Lee's Palac. Fellow Sony stablemates Dunk will open the show. The Scottish quartet featuring Fran Healey, Andy Dunlop, Dougie Payne and Neil Primrose have been described as everything from "art school rockers to pop freaks to concise balladeers." The group's 1997 release, Good Feeling, reached the top ten on the UK album charts, producing five UK charted singles. The band is set to release their new album, The Man Who..., on February 22nd.

Ricky Martin is scheduled for a March 22 show at Ottawa's Corl Centre, with a limited number of tickets still available. Martin continues to ride high on the charts, with Shake Your Bon Bon residing at #12 on the RPM Hit Tracks chart (Jan. 17). Martin is also slated for a March 18 show at Toronto's SkyDome.

Lorraine Lawson, who's making noise in the dance community with her self-titled debut CD single, will hold a video launch/CD single release party on January 26th at The Reverb (Queen and Bathurst). Lawson's single, If I Could, has topped HMV's Indie Top 15 chart for 12 straight weeks.

2:30 PM	 Televisionaries: TV in The 21st Century Cable, the Internet, broadband wireless, satellite... it seems television has as many roads to the future as the 401 has turnoffs. But which ones are dead ends, and which will take the industry to the promised land? In large part, the consumers will decide by choosing the delivery systems that best suit individual lifestyles. Whether over-the-air television will survive this sea of change is a question that taxes the great minds in broadcasting. In this panel, architects of the info age share their vision of TV's future. Moderator: Ken Goldstein, President, Communications Management Inc.	Piers 7 & 8
3:50 PM	  Domo Arigato, Mr. Roboto: Programming Stations with Automation Robot deejays don't spill coffee on your control boards. They don't "accidentally" swear on-air or offend minorities. And any station can automate. The trick is doing it successfully. Learn the ins and outs of automation. Who's doing it? How are they doing? Where is it going? Moderator: Tom Tompkins, General Manager, Pelmorex Broadcasting Network	Pier 4
3:50 PM	 Earning a Place in your Listeners Memory: Boosting Your Radio-Q Factor It's crucial to your station's impact in the market that you earn a place on the listener's pre-set and in his or her diary entry. But with hundreds of cable channels, satellite delivered radio formats, and the distraction of the Internet, how are broadcasters going to keep the interest of their listeners? One of America's top broadcast marketers discusses his proven methods for consumer attention-grabbing. Use the power of ideas and bigger-than-life promotions to outsmart, rather than outspend, the competition. Doug Harris' SAFO-SHRIMPS strategy will change the way you think about marketing, promotion and programming in the new century. Presenter: Doug Harris, Creative Director, CRN INTERNATIONAL	Piers 2 & 3
3:50 PM	 Halls of Fame: Audience Development & Reputation Management Promoters are only half the equation. In this invaluable session, venue management experts give you the inside look on new techniques and methods to put "bums in seats" and develop audience loyalty in an increasingly competitive market. Moderator: Janice Price, VP Marketing & Communications, Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts	Piers 7 & 8
3:50 PM	 E-Commerce: An Emerging Multi-Billion Dollar Industry No, really, we mean it this time. All those false starts and investment in the Internet is finally ripe for payoff, and a broadcast industry that wants to remain relevant would be wise not to miss the boat. This session will address e-commerce from a variety of industry-related angles, including "Web TV" and "Internet Appliance" platforms. Broadcasters entering the digital world will get valuable advice on creating brand identity on the Web. Moderator: Peggy Miles, President, Intervox Communications, Inc.	Harbour Ballroom C

Moderator: Brenda Pritchard, Gowling, Strathy & Henderson	Piers 7 & 8
9:00 AM	  Forced Advertising: Retail vs. Artists and Labels Pitting once symbiotic partners (labels and retail outlets, artists and labels) against one another, the internet has essentially derailed traditional music industry dynamics. Can industry sectors with competing interests co-exist online as they do offline? This panel voices their concern about the growing practice of forcing retailers to steer their own customers to competitive sites to purchase product. Moderator: Al Herfst, Vice President, Total Sound	Pier 5
10:15 AM	  Give it Away, Give it away Now: The Download Dilemma MP3 has opened doors for musicians, allowing direct access to potential fans and the creation of vanity labels by anybody with an up-to-date PC. So what do they need the major labels for? On the other hand, how do they get paid? Will free promotional MP3 tracks expand the market or devalue the entire business? In this session, major players debate what could be the biggest boon or the biggest boondoggle in the history of the recording industry. Moderator: Charly Prevost, VP of Retail Marketing & Promotion, Liquid Audio - NY	Harbour Ballroom C
10:15 AM	 Consolidation by Design: (Making Enemies into Friends) Efficiency isn't all that mergers have going for them. Merging and consolidating stations and operations can also be a great opportunity to positively merge previously-competing staff and cultures and create stronger broadcast identification. Veterans of recent MLO's and MLA's share their insights. Moderator: Terry Williams, PD, Metro Radio Group	Piers 2 & 3
10:15 AM	 The Ten Most Amazing Promotions I've Seen This Year! You may think you've seen everything radio can do to dazzle its audience. So did Doug Harris until he came across these 10 promo-explosions in his worldwide travels. What could possibly cause a jaw-dropping reaction in this former promotion director - a man who in his career has given away an oil well, a ton of kitty litter, a breast enlargement operation, and a three wheeled, street-legal space ship? Use your imagination... and you'll still be surprised by what you'll hear at this presentation. Presenter: Doug Harris, Creative Director, CRN INTERNATIONAL	Pier 4

10:15 AM		Use It or Lose It! - Labels Stake Out Their Territory (SDMI) Has SDMI successfully unified the conflicting interests of content owners technology enablers and consumer electronic manufacturers? Who's really calling the shots? Have the resulting specifications limited the ways consumers interact with digital music? Are security mechanisms promoted by SDMI and the major labels a help or a hindrance to creative e-commerce models like superdistribution? Do the majors have an agenda separate from SDMI? If so, where does that leave industry independents and new media upstarts? Moderator: Ric Dube, Webnoize	Harbour Ballroom C

COUNTRY

Garth Brooks is back to country with the release of Do What You Gotta Do, yet another track from his Sevens CD. Country programmers weren't too pleased when Brooks directed his attention to the pop market with his release of It Don't Matter To The Sun from his CD release Garth Brooks In ... The Life Of Chris Gaines. The single hasn't done that well with pop programmers. The release of this new country single, written by Pat Flynn, is expected to make an immediate impact, considering his three big wins this past week at the American Music Awards where he won for favourite country album for Double Live, favourite country male artist, and the real biggie, artist of the decade.

Shania Twain also won big at the American Music Awards, winning favourite female pop-rock artist and favourite female country artist. Unfortunately, Twain wasn't on hand to accept her awards. But she continues to make excellent gains with her latest single, Rock This Country. Making its debut on the chart last week at #28, the single bullets up to #23 this week.

The Dixie Chicks hold at #1 for the second consecutive week with Cowboy Take Me Away, the latest release from Fly, their Monument CD.

Sean Hogan makes the biggest jump this week. Dream Vacation, the latest single from his Highjacked CD, jumps up to #54 from #73 after only its second week. The song was written by the Victoria, BC native who produced the album with Richard Hutt. The single is 100% Cancon.

George Strait has the most added single this week. The Best Day, which only went to radio last week, enters the chart at #65. The song was written by Carson Chamberlain and Dean Dillon and taken from his upcoming MCA Nashville release Latest, Greatest Straitest Hits. This is the follow-up to What Do You Say To That, the last single from Always Never The Same. This single is now descending the chart (#76) after 23 weeks. Both albums were produced by Strait and Tony Brown.

Art Dayton is edging into the spotlight. Take My Hand, the title track from his debut album, taken as the first single, entered the chart at #82 and bullets up to #74 this week. The song is a Dayton original. The album was produced by Fred Peterson and Enzo Gabrielli and recorded at Kinck Sound in Toronto. Toronto-based Dayton had a lineup of some of the best session pickers in the country: drummer Ken Post, bassist Gene Falbo, John Sheard on keys, Steelman Al Brisco, fiddlcmeister Oliver Schroer and guitarists Steve Pittico, Gord Waszik and Fred Petersen. Suzanne Gratton and Bert Bellemare provided the backup vocals. Dayton's CD is available on the AME label. Call 416-200-6835.

Alberta's Reese Klaiber makes a return to the chart. Where I Come From, the title track of his RK release, enters the chart at #80. The new single is the follow-up to She's Sittin' Pretty which peaked at #19 (June 14/99) and enjoyed 21 weeks of charting. Klaiber attended the Big Country Awards in Toronto last year and made a tremendous impact with the industry and country fans when he performed at the Variety Club luncheon, a fundraiser for Variety's Kids.

The Mavericks' guitarist Nick Kane has a surprise with the release of Songs In The Key Of E, his first solo project. The CD is released on the Pennsylvania-based Llist label, distributed by Universal. Kane wrote or co-wrote nine of the 13 songs on the CD. The other four songs are covers of songs by James Brown, Deep Purple, The Fendermen and Lee Hazelwood. The album is instrumental, showing off the guitar talent of Kane, but he has cleverly inserted vocals by Kristy Rose and Kathy Hussey on Guitars, Guitars, Guitars, Into The Fire, Panetella and The Dawg. That's Prairie Oyster keyboardist Joan Besen doing the piano work on Hush Puppy. Kane produced the CD.

New Releases

MARK WILLS - Country
Permanently
 Mercury-314-546 296-J

Thanks to the visionary genius of Mercury president Luke Lewis and his last minute instructions to include Back At One written by R&B artist Brian McKnight (#4 on the RPM 100 Hit Tracks chart - Jan. 10), this release has the added hook to create radio and consumer interest. Wills' cover is chalking up impressive spins and bullets up to #22 this week on the RPM Country 100. Wills, who is already established with his platinum (US) release, Wish You Were Here, should have the same success with this follow-up. The video of Back At One will also factor in the success of this release. Wills has a bent for songwriting as well, teaming with Monty Criswell and Michael Wright to pen In My Arms. Very impressive stuff from some great tunesmiths. Includes Harley Allen's Still Waiting, This Can't Be Love from Mark Nesler and Tony Martin, Billy Kirsch's The Perfect Conversation, the Skip Ewing and Chuck Cannon penning of Because I Love You and Time Machine, written by Martin, Criswell and Tim Mensy, all of which have solid singles potential. Of course, it's Wills' smooth made-for-country vocal charm and lyric interpretation that connects. Also don't overlook Rich Man, written by Rory Lee and D. Vincent Williams which could be a hit out of the box. That's John Wesley Ryles and Liana Manis on background vocals. The album was produced by Carson Chamberlain. -WG

A Simple Pleasure
 World Media-82401

Soprano Patricia Sonogo makes her recording debut with a programme of short songs by W.A. Mozart, Bellini, Seymour Barah and Fauré. The third named is a contemporary U.S. composer of opera and song who surely owes a tremendous debt to her for making his songs seem to have some worth. The rest of the selections however, especially those of Fauré, are an unalloyed delight to hear as sung by Miss Sonogo in high clear tones reminiscent of Jean Dickenson who, in the golden days of network radio, was known as The Nightingale of the Airwaves. She is a worthy successor and one wishes her well. Recorded at the Glenn Gould Studios in Toronto with Michael Eisenberg on piano. -BW

TERRI THORNTON - Jazz Vocal
I'll Be Easy To Find
 Verve-314 547 755-J

This is Miss Thornton's first recording in over 20 years. It's a pity that she's been absent so long. On the evidence here, she is not yet fully comfortable with studio work and her performance seems laboured. Which isn't to say that the voice isn't still exciting. Time might have taken its cruel toll on her lower notes but the high ones remain crystalline pure, especially on track 9, Where Are You Running. On I'll Be Seeing You however, she sounds rather like Sarah Vaughan trying to imitate Billie Holiday ... and failing. This isn't a bad album and might even be memorable but, on the short term, Miss Thornton is clearly still better in club than studio. Proof is offered on the final cut, a live and beautifully guttural rendition of her own composition, Salty Mama. -BW

POVERTY PLAINSMEN - Country
There's No Lookin' Back
 Poverty-1002 (Independent)

Not too much information on this Saskatchewan country band, other than the fact the album took two years in the studio to complete. Louis Sedmak produced and the recording took place in his Edmonton studio as well as in Nashville. Most of the tracks are three-parts Cancon (MAL), but there is no indication of what is the focus track. Members of the band are Mark Smith (lead vocals, acoustic guitar), San Smith (bass guitar, vocals), Kurt Neis (lead guitar, vocals), Brad Johnson (drums, vocals) and Don Jorgensen (keys, guitar, mandolin, vocals). The material is exceptional and fits the persona of the band like a glove. Key are Steve Fox's Same Things, Show Me Something, written by Steve Wilkinson and JK Gulley, the title track penned by Sedmak and Duane Steele and Never Enough from the team of bandmember Mark Smith and Alix Bean. This is a vocally-powerful band, heavy on guitars. There's an obvious difference from their last release ... much more composure and confidence, particularly on the harmony. After The Harvest, written by Sedmak, Steele and Daryl McAllister has a particularly poignant message and could be a left-fielder. They should get a lot of action out of this release, which is a good six singles deep. Distributed by Royalty Records in Edmonton. -WG

HOWIE MacDONALD - Variety
Why2Keilidh
 HMDY (Independent)

Like MacDoald says "Here's something a little different from Cape Breton" ... but not too removed. This is the follow-up to MacDoald's recorded re-creation of a fictional Cape Breton square dance, The Dance Last Night, which, by the way has sold almost 10,000 units, mostly it's presumed on the island of Cape Breton. Anyway, this is a nutty, wild house party that continues into the early morning after dance party with all the original writing trimmings to make this one helluva party release. After you get over the Phone Home track, MacDonald launches into his own rap 'n rock styling on Scotch Music, which in its original form was titled Pop Muzik, written by Robin Scott and recorded with the band M almost 20 years ago. MacDonald re-wrote the lyrics, with permission of course, and you take off from there. The release really is something a little different. There are toe-tapping reels and clod-hopping jigs and more jigs and reels than one can imagine on one CD. With MacDonald playing fiddle, piano, organ, synthesizer and electric guitars; he's joined by equally energized Cape Bretoners J.P. Cormier on electric and acoustic guitars, banjo and mandolin; Gordie Sampson on electric and acoustic guitar; organist Bill MacAulay; and Matt Foulds on snare drum and bodhran. That's Howie's sister Marilyn doing back-up vocals on Scotch Music and I Know which includes King Georges Reel, Ernie and Charlie's Reel and Cooley's Reel. Also check out Ten-Pound

Tumour. But how could you miss it? And Kills On Fire is another favourite. In fact, don't pass on anything here. As to Why2 Keilidh? It's party time. Recorded at Spectrum Studios, Howie Centre, Cape Breton. Contact 902-567-6302 (howiemac@ns.sympatico.ca). -WG

MADRIGAL - Celtic/Pop
Elemental Grace

Madrigal-50825 (Independent - Tidemark)
 Madrigal is Debbie Adshade (vocals, acoustic guitar) and Judy Kamminga (vocals, celtic harp), a New Brunswick duo who fuse their own individual vocal and instrumental sounds into an audio adventure that's rarely, if ever, captured on record. This is straight-ahead story-telling at its best, bringing back memories of the coffee house days when folk was "cool". The vocal warmth and projection, both solo and harmony, contains that oft-missed ingredient of basic interpretation that brings the message into prominence. There's no guessing or reading between the lines. Adshade and Kamminga have that in-er-face almost spiritual boading that commands immediate attention. They wrote all the material with the exception of the Jimmy Page and Robert Plant penning of The Battle Of Evermore, a key track. Also key are the title track, Wish For You, Hurricane, All Good Children and Amaterasu. On the other hand, and after a second listen, all tracks are key. The session was also blessed with the professionalism of Mike Doherty on keyboards; bassist Lloyd Hanson, who produced the CD; and Joel Leblanc on harmonica and electric guitar. Recorded at Reel North Recording Studios in Fredericton. Nice, clean balance between vocals and instruments. Call 506-832-7975, fax 506-832-2040. -WG

YANKEE GREY - Country
Untamed
 Monument/Sony-69085-H

This brand spanking new Nashville-based band hit hard with All Things Considered, the first single taken from this, their debut CD release. The single peaked at #16 on the RPM Country 100 (Dec. 20/99), when it began its descent. Interesting too is that just as the follow-up, Another Nine Minutes, goes to radio, All Things Considered gets another kick at the can, bulleting back up to #41 from #49 this week after 16 weeks. The band, which is heavy on harmony vocals, is large, six members: Tim Hunt (lead vocals, acoustic guitar), Matthew Basford (electric guitar, vocals), Jerry Hughes (Keyboards, vocals), David Buchanan (bass, vocals), Kevin Griffin (drums, vocals), and Joe Caverlee; (fiddle, vocals). Hunt solo wrote the first single. He co-wrote the title track with Chris Gentry, This Time Around with Terry Clayton and bandmember Joe Caverlee, Should've Listened To Me with Steve Bogard and Rick Giles, That Would Be Me with Rick Bowles and David Malloy, I Know How You Feel with Josh Leo and Robert Ellis Orrall, and Tell Me Something I Know with Billy Crain, all key tracks and good singles potential. Also check out There's Only One, which fiddlemeister Caverlee wrote with Jerry Hughes and Kelly Shiver. -WG

ALBUM PICK

SHELBY LYNNE - Pop
I Am Shelby Lynne
 Island-314 546 177-J

For those with a good memory, the name Shelby Lynne should ring some bells. Lynne, who used to be on the Epic label, had some moderate country success back in the early '90s, with a trio of songs that hit the country charts. Chief among those was the track Things Are Tough All Over, which peaked at #19 on the RPM 100 Country chart (Feb. 9/91). Nearly ten years later, Lynne has returned with a new album, new label, and a whole new sound, which is quickly grabbing the attention of programmers. The inevitable question is how to define her new sound: the most obvious comparison may be Sheryl Crow, but Lynne has a vocal soul and sultriness that may more along the lines of a Lucinda Williams, or even Gladys Knight. Songs like the first track, You're Lies, or the southern rock-sounding Life Is Bad certainly might make the Crow comparisons apt. But then Lynne will abruptly shift gears into a Gladys-like slow pain number like Leavin', and suddenly any adott comparisons come to an end. Among the standout tracks, pay particular attention to Why Can't You Be, a nice easy shuffle avec horn section that evokes some nice hurtin' feelings. Lookin' Up is a quiet, bluesy number with strings layered overtop of Lynne's simple voice and acoustic guitar, and features a classic lyrical line: "I'm looking up for the next thing that brings me down." Dreamsome is a gentle piece of almost seventies-ish pop, complete with Hall & Oates-type keyboards. On Where I'm From, Lynne veers into a bayou blues type of feel, partially done en francais. And Black Light Blue is an appropriately subtle, almost sombre piece of slow jazz that closes out the album, again evoking those Lucinda comparisons. Critics and programmers are busy looking for the next big thing in the musical maelstrom, and they shouldn't stop to watch the paint dry with this one. -RR

Farm Tribute heightens awareness of farmer's plight

by David Bray

It may seem odd that the country's largest arena (nestled amidst a fortress of office towers) was chosen as the site for a celebration of our roots. But then again, where better to remind urban dwellers that it's time to come back down to earth. The occasion was the Family Farm Tribute held at the Air Canada Centre in Toronto on Sunday January 16 from 1 pm to 5:30 pm and broadcast nationally via CBC Newsworld. The show was a sellout, moving 14,000 tickets.

The media attention the event garnered in the week leading up to the big day was overwhelming. A Family Farm Tribute song, Back Down To Earth, was recorded at Post City Productions in Toronto by a number of the artists. Film from these sessions appeared repeatedly in every major newscast across the country. Artist interviews were arranged for numerous talk shows. Photos and stories appeared in virtually all of the daily newspapers. Magazines such as Maclean's also ran the photos. Radio showed its support by airing PSA's, artist interviews, hour long shows on the topic, and pre-release versions of Back Down To Earth.

It all began with a suggestion from the legendary Ronnie Hawkins. Who better to talk about roots? The idea was simple. Set aside politics and draw attention to the plight of the family farmer in Canada. Farmers whose average annual income is $14,000. Farmers whose subsidies can't compare to those given their counterparts in the U.S. and overseas. Farmers who only see six cents from a loaf of bread. The goal here was to open a few eyes and a few hearts. To start a discussion.

Starting with this premise, the idea was to galvanize the support of like minded musicians who would donate their time to the cause. Any money raised would be donated to agricultural organizations. A tentative list was set. The performers were finalized just one week and three days before the event. The lineup (booked by Paquin Entertainment Agency) included the rousing Ronnie Hawkins and his son Robin Hawkins (a great new talent), Burton Cummings, Randy Bachman, Gordon Lightfoot, Sylvia Tyson, Michael Burgess, Big Sugar, Wide Mouth Mason, Prairie Oyster, Fred Eaglesmith, Sharon, Lois & Bram, Kevin Parent, Fred Penner, Amanda Stott and the Toronto Symphony Orchestra.

Hennessy, Bray & Reade Communications were brought in to handle publicity, produce radio and television ad creative and to produce Back Down To Earth. I personally had the privilege of working with the artists and media. I would like to express my gratitude for their extremely gracious support of a worthy cause.

The support of the performers, many of whom came from farming or rural backgrounds was, for the most part, extremely heartfelt. The performers spoke up for the cause. Front and centre was the intimate Hawkins, who never ceases to both charm and amaze with his stories. Michael Burgess, Sylvia Tyson, Gord Johnson (of Big Sugar), and Shawn Vereault (of Wide Mouth Mason) gave unstintingly of their time and energies, expressing passionate support in a series of interviews. The show itself was a celebration, onstage, backstage and in the enthusiastic crowd. Backstage, the goodwill was evident, with musicians from radically different genres greeting one another.

On a related note, I picked up a series of artist information tidbits. Prairie Oyster is currently in the studio working on their next release, with Sylvia Tyson appearing as a guest artist. Ronnie and Robin Hawkins have just begun work on a studio album of completely new music featuring an astounding list of all star guest artists. Michael Burgess, whose last album is approaching gold status, is at work on a new release. In March look for him as the star of an American Network movie of the week. Gord Johnson and Randy Bachman have struck up a friendship which resulted in Big Sugar and Bachman performing together at the show. It will be interesting to see if they decide to record a cut together. As for the next steps for the Family Farm Tribute and all of its current momentum, I'll have more for you soon.
