Warner-EMI merger creates new market-share monster

The proposed merger of the music divisions of Time Warner Inc. and EMI Group PLC, announced on Monday (Jan. 24), will create a massive global music corporation that would rival Universal for the largest market share.

The deal will give the new amalgamation, to be dubbed Warner EMI Music, a combined value of approximately $20 billion, not to mention about 25-30% of the world's music publishing rights.

Under the terms of the proposed merger, Warner Music Group will pay EMI shareholders more than $1 billion for board control of the 50-50 venture. In addition, EMI will transfer its net debt of approximately $1.5 billion to the new venture.

It should be noted, however, that EMI's 43% stake in HMV will not be affected by the merger.

The obvious benefit for EMI is the approximately 20 million subscribers to AOL Online, the internet giant that recent combined with Time Warner. The combined Warner/EMI roster would give online music buyers a huge catalogue of music to shop from.

The new Warner/EMI giant would have combined sales of approximately $8 billion, compared to the approximately $6.5 billion in sales of Universal.

The merger will bring together Time Warner's Atlantic, Elektra and Warner Bros. labels, with EMI's Capitol, Virgin, Priority and Nettwerk labels.

Under terms of the new agreement, Warner will have six seats on the new board of directors, while EMI will have five. Time Warner president Richard Parsons and EMI Group Chairman Eric Nicoli will be co-chairmen of the joint venture. Warner Music chairman Roger Ames will be chief executive officer, while EMI Music head Ken Berry will be chief operating officer.

The Warner/EMI comes at a time when BMG was also rumoured to be courting EMI, but the Bertelsmann Group was apparently turned off by the high asking price for EMI. Seagram's was also rumoured to be close to purchasing EMI at one point, but they too were put off by the high asking price, supposedly in the $7 billion range at that time.

EMI Music Canada president Deane Cameron feels the marriage is an ideal one, given the respective geographical and managerial strengths of each company.

"One a global basis, we're very strong in the UK and Europe, and Warner has traditionally been very strong in the United States. And in the last couple of years, both companies have struggled in certain areas, so this is a way to put together our creative resources. I've known Roger Ames for close to 25 years, and he's a really creative man, and so is Ken Berry, and I think they make a great team."

The deal will leave the music business with just four major record companies - Warner/EMI, BMG, Sony and Universal - with rumours persisting that BMG has an interest in acquiring Sony. There continues to be further speculation about future mergers among other major media players, such as Yahoo, Disney or Rogers.

According to Berry, the merged group, which will employ approximately 23,000 people

The Docks to host biggest Superbowl Party

The Docks, Toronto's largest night club, located on the harbour, is scheduled to host what Keith "Kid Rock" Correa has tagged "The biggest Superbowl party in North America" on Jan. 30. The party gets underway at 4 pm.

Moist, who recently sold out the Air Canada Centre in Toronto, will be performing from 4:30 to 6 pm. The game begins at 6:20 pm.

Besides the 40 Bud Girls, the cheerleaders from the Miami Dolphins are being jetted in to take part.

A large, heated tent is being erected in the parking lot for the invited guests that will number 5,000, expected to spill out from the main club.

Moist, who release on the EMI label, recently picked up a SOCAN #1 Award for their video release of Breathe which topped the MuchMusic Video Countdown (Sept. 3/99), and are currently charting with Underground, a single taken from their Mercedes Five And Dime CD release. Breathe is published by EMI Music Publishing.

RealNetworks, BackWeb create internet service

Seattle-based internet delivery service RealNetworks and San Jose's BackWeb Technologies announced an agreement to merge BackWeb's Polite push technology with RealNetwork's RealJukebox, allowing subscribers to receive samples and full-length songs over the 'net.

The two companies also announced that RealNetworks has made a $15 million minority investment in BackWeb.

The new delivery service, dubbed Quicksilver, will transmit digital music to the subscriber's PC in the background, during times when the user is not using the full capacity of their online connection. In other words, users can receive music downloads without affecting other internet applications such as email, streaming media and browsing.

Subscribers will choose a desired musical genre, and then receive music from artists within the specified genre. RealJukebox notifies the user when the music has been fully downloaded.

RealJukebox software enables users to record their favourite CDs on their hard drive, download music over the internet, and transfer their music to portable players and removable storage devices such as CD-Rs.

BackWeb's Polite push technology allows companies to deliver multimedia packages over the 'net in any format.

RealNetworks is one of the world leaders in supplying online delivery software, such as RealPlayer, RealAudio, RealVideo and RealFlash.

SamsCD.com goes public via Berwind Capital

First he went online, now he's gone public. Sam The Record Man, which launched its online division, SamsCD.com, last year, has now entered into a reverse takeover deal with Vancouver-based Berwind Capital to become a publicly-traded company.

In addition, SamsCD.com has announced a new financing deal, worth $4.8 million, led by Toronto's Yorkton Securities.

The two deals will give Sam's online division the capital it needs to increase its online presence, and create an entertainment portal. The portal will feature a variety of content, such as concert listings, entertainment news and information.

Currently, Toronto-based internet company EcomPark Inc. owns 20% of SamsCD.com, which it acquired last June for approximately $1 million and 300,000 EcomPark shares.

SamsCD.com Inc. will complete a reverse takeover of Berwind Capital Corp., with Berwind agreeing to purchase all of SamsCD.com Inc. for $12.9 million, to be paid in Berwind shares, at a rate of $1 per share. SamsCD.com will then be listed on the Canadian Venture Exchange.

The responsibility for the new online venture falls to Bruce Imber, who was named president and CEO of SamsCD.com Inc. last summer. Imber is the former vice-president of marketing for BMG Direct, based in New York.

He feels that the additional financing will allow

Intel and Lucent combine to improve online security

In an announcement made at MIDEM 2000, Intel Corporation has agreed to license Lucent Technology's Enhanced Perceptual Audio Coder (ePac) for its Software Integrity System.

Using Lucent's audio compression technology, Intel will thus be able to offer e-commerce music distribution developers a one-stop source for content protection and CD-quality sound.

Intel's Software Integrity System uses their patented tamper-resistant software technology, which hides critical codes, keys and other secrets from observation, and foils attempts to break security measures.

"This agreement enables us to integrate the ePAC decoder tightly into the Intel Software Integrity System, thereby enabling more secure playback of music," notes Parvinder Kohli, GM of Intel's internet security services. "Lucent's ePAC coder is an ideal embedded solution for our system, offering a level of quality that complements our security technology."

With this integration, internet music providers can provide more secure playback on the Winamp music player, the Microsoft Windows Media Player, and other music players.

'N Sync ready new album; Spears hits diamond

The new album from pop artist *N Sync, their first on the Jive label, will be released to retail on March 21. The album, entitled No Strings Attached, has already been preceded by the release of the album's first single, Bye, Bye, Bye, which went to radio January 12.

*N Sync, who settled their legal difficulties with BMG, Trans Continental and former manager Louis Pearlman, have sold more than half a million copies of their self-titled debut in Canada.

Bye, Bye, Bye was released simultaneously to Canadian CHR stations at 8:10 am on the 12th - the first time that a lead single from a new album was released to all appropriate stations at the same time.

Contributing songwriters on the new album include Diane Warren, Richard Marx, Rami and for significant upgrades to the web site.

"From a functional standpoint, I think people will find the site much faster," says Imber, "and they will find it will be easier to navigate. We have a site redesign that's in place, ready to launch as soon as we upgrade the software. And we're going to be looking at enhancing the content in many ways, some of which won't be devoted to the direct sale of product. We just want to make the site more entertaining and engaging. And obviously we'll be going out with an aggressive marketing effort to stake our claim to the category."

As well, it's expected that each Sam's retail outlet will be equipped with in-store kiosks, where customers will be able to order CDs online.

Finally, the online division has changed its name from SamsCD.com to Sam The Record Man.com, a change which took place this past November.

"My personal belief is that that's the name the company has been branding for fifty years," adds Imber. "And while it's a long URL to type in, we

Warner Music Intl. acquires London Records

Warner Music International chairman and CEO Stephen Shrimpton announced that WMI has acquired UK independent label London Records.

As part of the acquisition, Warner/Chappell Music has acquired London's publishing arm, FFRR Music Limited. WMI had been responsible for the marketing and promotion of London releases outside the UK and US since May of '99, via an international licensing agreement.

London will continue to operate as a separate company, headed up by chairman Tracy Bennett and managing director Laurie Cockell. The label will maintain its own A&R, promotion, marketing and

Henderson joins Universal senior management team

Noted Canadian entertainment lawyer Graham Henderson has joined Universal's senior management team as senior vice-president, business affairs and e-commerce. Henderson comes over from the law firm of Stohn Henderson.

In his newly-created position, Henderson will oversee both the e-commerce and legal affairs departments, and will be responsible for all distribution, licensing, publishing and production-related agreements. He will also head up Universal's developing e-commerce department.

"Grahams' calibre of expertise and experience make him the ideal person to address the evolving legal complexities in our business," notes Universal president Randy Lennox. "His appointment also emphasizes our commitment to finding new and innovative ways to develop our artists' content via E-initiatives. We are delighted to have Graham join Universal's senior management team."

Kristian Lundin. The group, who conducted a worldwide online chat with their fans via AOL on January 20, are expected to launch a world tour in May.

Meanwhile, more good news for Zomba, as Britney Spears' debut album has been certified diamond in Canada, symbolic of more than one million units sold. Baby One More Time was also certified diamond in the US, recognizing more than 10 million units sold in the states.

As well, Spears' first home video/DVD release, Time Out With Britney Spears (released in December) has been certified four-times platinum in Canada. Spears has just re-entered the chart with From The Bottom Of My Broken Heart, the fourth single from Baby One More Time.

did some research which shows that it's the name that comes to mind. We just felt, don't fix it if it ain't broken."

Imber will work alongside current SamsCD.com chairman Jason Sniderman to further establish the site in the marketplace. And Sam will continue to be very involved.

"The brand that we're trying to put out there is what he brings to the table. But we're very excited about having the backing to put in place the sort of vision that we have."

While some customers have expressed concern about the viability of online CD shopping, Imber feels there shouldn't be any concerns among consumers. As long as the mail is moving, Sam's can get the product out quickly.

"By and large, Canada Post is pretty phenomenal, we're able to pick and pack an order within a day, if it's in stock. That's not to say we're always 100% perfect, but, as the business grows, you can automate it that much more. And as we're gaining experience, we're working more closely with the Roblans side, to ensure that the inventory is there."

international divisions.

Shrimpton commented, "London Records has over the years become a highly creative and effective record company with a strong presence in the artistic community and has earned global recognition. The success of artists such as The Communards, Fine Young Cannibals, Bananarama, East 17, Salt 'n' Pepa, Shakespeare's Sister, Brand New Heavies, Faith No More, Orbital and All Saints is proof of London Records' consistency in discovering and developing major talent. Warner Music International is proud to be able to add such a great label to its own worldwide network of companies."

Henderson co-founded the firm of Stohn Henderson back in 1993. The entertainment law firm's list of clients includes Loreena McKennitt, Randy Bachman, Jann Arden and the Cowboy Junkies.

According to Henderson, "Stohn Henderson is a vibrant and growing law firm, and it will continue to be so under the direction of my co-founders, Susan Abramovitch and Stephen Stohn."

Prior to 1993, Henderson was a partner in the firm McCarthy Tetrault, where his practice was largely entertainment-related. Henderson, who received his LLB from the University of Toronto in 1985, also holds a Masters Degree from the U. of Toronto, and an Honours B.A. from Guelph University.

CBC Television to air Blue Rodeo special

On the heels of the release of their ninth album, The Days In Between, Warner Music Canada artist Blue Rodeo will be featured in an upcoming CBC-Television special, titled The Scenes In Between. The show will air on February 27.

The concert special, taped at Toronto's Phoenix Concert Theatre, will feature several songs from the new CD, as well as behind-the-scenes observations of the band at work.

"We aren't used to having cameras following us around, especially when we're rehearsing and hanging out," notes Jim Cuddy. "But we liked the idea of this television special because it gives audiences an insight into the way we work."

Blue Rodeo are currently in the midst of a cross-Canada tour in support of the new album, which debuted at #4 on the RPM 100 CDs chart (Jan. 24).

worldwide, may cut as many as 3,000 jobs over the next three years. The new venture hopes to realize annual cost savings of some $400 million within three years.

Although Cameron admits that there may be job losses in Canada, he doesn't foresee the type of large-scale layoffs that often occur with sizeable mergers.

"There's no firm plans yet, so we really have no idea at this time. But this deal is not like Universal/PolyGram, where clearly Universal bought PolyGram, and Universal did what they did to make the type of label they wanted. Here it is a merger, it's a 50/50 new company being developed from the resources of the two, and it's not initiated just to save costs.

"Yes, there will be some rationalization globally in some areas. The quoted figure of 3,000 out of 23,000 worldwide - yes, that's 13-14%, which may seem high, but it's not high when you consider that both companies are full service companies in all the primary territories."

The new partners hope to complete the merger by the middle of 2000, although the deal still requires regulatory approval in both the United States and Europe.

According to CRIA president Brian Robertson, this, like any other merger, has its good points and bad.

"There are many positive aspects to it from a Canadian standpoint, in terms of the synergy, keeping in mind that EMI has a manufacturing plant, and Warner doesn't. So there'll be a lot of mutual benefits there. The downside is that there's going to be some consolidation, which is always a difficult process."

Deane Cameron

Robertson added that the completion of the merger is still many months away, with the deal needing the approval of both American and European regulatory boards.

With the Canadian musical landscape now being reduced to just four multinationals (for now), there are plenty of concerns regarding massive market share, and smaller artists falling through the cracks.

But Robertson didn't see a great deal of negative results from the Universal/PolyGram merger, and he sees now reason why the Warner/EMI integration should be any different.

"I see no negative fallout at all from the large market share that the PolyGram/Universal merger delivered. As the companies get stronger, they get healthier, and the relationship of the multinationals in Canada has always been very positive with artists, and independent labels. So I don't think the size is being misused, and I don't think it will be. I think you'll end up with healthier companies."

Some industry observers have suggested that the smaller, domestic artists might be the first casualties of such a massive integration, something that Cameron vehemently denies.

"I don't understand why people think that. I'm absolutely miffed about this. I think people have to clarify why they think that, because from where I sit, EMI Music Canada has a very successful, money-making domestic music operation.

"We also have a very successful distribution network that makes money with Nettwerk, Aquarius, Marquis and others. If we didn't make money within these areas, we wouldn't keep doing it. So why would we all of sudden throw the baby out with the bathwater if we're making money?"

R.I.A.A. sues MP3 over new listening service

The Recording Industry Association of America has launched a copyright infringement lawsuit against MP3.com over the internet music provider's new Instant Listening and Beam-it services.

The new Instant Listening Service allows users to purchase CDs from any of MP3's associated online retailers (www.junglejeff.com, www.duffelbag.com, or www.cheapcds.com) and instantly listen to them via their My.MP3.com account.

In other words, once MP3 receives a receipt of purchase from the customer for the CD, MP3 will immediately make the music available via the customer's account. Eventually, the customer will receive the CD in the mail a few weeks later.

According to MP3's chairman and CEO Michael Robertson, the exciting development is a great advance for music fans, adding that customers will now be able to listen to their purchased CD anywhere in the world via any internet connection.

However, because the new system is a streaming media service, it skips past any Secure Digital Music Initiative-related copyright issues.

The new Beam-It software, which can be downloaded for free at MP3.com at the moment (it will eventually come with a monthly subscription cost), allows customers to upload their existing CD collection into their MP3.com account.

Once a consumer has downloaded the Beam-It software, a message will appear on their PC screen whenever they pop in a CD, asking if the music should be moved into their My.MP3.com account. According to Robertson, it takes less than a minute to upload the CD's contents into the account, which can then be accessed via listen-only audio streaming.

Adds Robertson, once the CD has been stored in the account, the customer can create a virtual jukebox, make customized playlists, and listen to their entire CD library via any internet connection.

In their lawsuit filed on Jan. 21, the R.I.A.A. claims that MP3.com's use of the music is unauthorized, and violates copyright laws.

In a general statement, R.I.A.A. general counsel Cary Sherman noted, "This is a blatant infringement of rights, upsetting not only to record labels, but also large numbers of artists, retailers and technology companies who have business agreements with copyright owners. We have every intention of fighting this to the court of last resort, if necessary."

Andy Schuon named president of FarmClub.com

Jimmy Iovine, chairman and CEO of Jimmy and Doug's Farmclub.com, announced the appointment of Andy Schuon as president and chief operating officer of Universal's new online record label, Farmclub.com.

Schuon, former VP and general manager of Warner Brothers Records, will oversee all aspects of the new online label, including branding, and the development and integration of the record label's operations, online activities and television programming. The new label's website (www.farmclub.com) will be officially launched on January 31, which will also see the debut of the label's new USA Network television program of the same name.

According to Mr. Iovine, "Jimmy and Doug's Farmclub.com is about discovering and developing

Hilary Rosen, president and CEO of the association, added in a statement that they regard MP3's actions to be "in reckless disregard of the law, with serious consequences to the company and its shareholders."

Brian Robertson, president of the Canadian Recording Industry Association, says that the MP3 case is strictly an American concern, since MP3 is an American-based company.

He adds, however, that CRIA is continuing to spend an enormous amount of time on Internet piracy here in Canada.

"Online music piracy dominates our anti-piracy division here. It's a huge expense and amount of time invested on a daily basis, and it essentially never existed two years ago. We recognize that there's a lot of illegal activity, we're taking down dozens of illegal websites every week. If anyone blatantly ignores the communication we have with them, then we'll consider whatever legal process we can.

"There's so much widespread theft going on of this intellectual property, that we'll continue to be as vigilant as the RIAA is. It just so happens that MP3.com is the most visible company, and it's a public company, and I don't believe they're showing the level of responsibility that they should be under the circumstances."

artists on and off-line by integrating the community power of the Internet with traditional entertainment outlets. Its a new formula that requires someone like Andy who has been a visionary in developing and packaging new programming for record labels, cable network music channels, and radio stations. We're glad to have connected with such a talented executive."

Prior to his tenure at Warner, Schuon was executive vice-president of programming with MTV, and was executive producer of the MTV Video Music Awards, and the MTV Movie Awards.

Co-founded by Iovine and UMG chairman Doug Morris, Jimmy and Doug's Farmclub.com will allow artists to digitally submit their recordings, obtain professional A&R input, and be showcased on the new USA Network weekly TV show.

WALT SAYS . . . !

with Elvira Caprese

Smoke and mirrors!!! What a week! It was really interesting to see all the "experts" speaking and writing and being quoted on this most complicated subject. A publicist finally came up with all the words of wisdom, setting the record straight. He knows! (EC: Did we ever decide what the name of the award was?) It all has to do with market share and who controls the cultural industries of the world. Japan and Germany are the hold outs. What will happen in the weeks to come?? (EC: Ask the experts!!!)

Ashley is still doing it!!! Ashley MacIsaac continues to prove he has a name for news. All the dailies and weeklies and monthlies have been giving oodles of space to the Cape Breton fiddler since his New Year's eve party hit the fan. (EC: I think that's a different fetish!!!) Now, he is apparently planning to file for bankruptcy, claiming he owes $750,000 in income tax and a bunch of money to Loggerhead, his release label. He also wants to get out of his label deal, but Loggerhead continues to say no. MacIsaac owes the label two more records as part of his three-album deal. I can see why they don't want to let him out of the contract. In spite of his present-day situation, he's still a great talent and the curiosity factor from record buyers could just turn into gold and maybe even platinum sales, which makes me wonder out loud how well Helter's Celtic is doing? We'll check with Loggerhead. If I was a record retailer I'd front-rack and in-store play the album to death. (EC: Where there's smoke ... there's record sales!!!)

Wise words!!! This was the week when the big buyouts caused many of the knowledgeable to pity the poor artists who would be hurt by these megamergers. Bullshit! The door is now open for indies and artists to create a hit and sit and wait for the big boys to kiss your ass if you can hand them a number one record. They will line up on their knees. Poor artists? Artists with an opportunity. With all this big biz going on ... the door will be open and Cancon? Watch out. The timing has never been better! (EC: You've been around long enough to know that history will repeat itself!!!) Alright! I'm leaving!

Nearly barenaked!!! After watching the American Music Awards and the Golden Globe Awards ... I hope the Junos are going to arrange some cleavage and the occasional slip of a bra to show all or some. As I look at the lineup of Cancon ... I worry that there is more to look at "on board" than on stage! (EC: Too f.....g clever! I can't stand the wit!!!) EC: Might even show up in a skimpy lowcut creation! CBC should hire Jeanne Bekker as a fashion consultant! (EC: How about walking up a runway to get your award???) Or . . . thr naked host!

Speaking about the Golden Globes!!! An item in the op-ed page of the Globe and Mail (Jan. 25) shattered my belief that these awards were the cat's meow and indeed did influence the Oscars. The piece pointed to the Globe's Doug Saunders' Jan. 21 item where he revealed that only 84 members of the Hollywood Foreign Press Association vote for the awards. And, get this, Saunders claimed that "many are only occasional journalists at best and are busy making films in their copious free time." WOW! And, here's another get this. These judges, according to the Globe piece, "happily accept gifts from actors and studios (Sharon Stone gave them all cellphones)." And, who do you think paid the bill for that sumptuous sit-down awards dinner? (EC: Well! Who else???)

e-nough already!!! One of the dailies is praising the artists who are allowing their records to be downloaded free on the internet by the fans ... while the rich record companies worry about how they will get paid for their product! Okay! If you don't pay the piper ... the pipeline will be empty of piping! Back in the '60s they gave everything away! Free music! I can hardly wait! (EC: Hey! Free cars! Free TV! Free everything! I want some more!!!)

Morals or Morale??? As we know from the pages and pages of reporting, observations and opinion on the Time Warner/EMI merger (EC: You mentioned names!!!) most of which is pure crap, just think of how demoralizing most of it is to the employees of those companies. And the dialogue will go on and on and on. Using the word "moral" was a typo, but considering what's going on, "moral" or "morale" will fit. Nice to hear however, that there won't be the "carnage", that usually comes with mergers and/or takeovers. (EC: That makes me feel a whole lot better!!!) Time will tell!!!

Cut staff! Cut costs! Increase profit! While banks, stores and factories modernize, computerize and downsize, the wage earning consumer base shrinks. It will take a lot of downsizing to make up for the loss of buying power of those unemployed consumers! (EC: We won't feel the effect of that for years!!!) Eat drink and be happy! (EC: Where's Mary???)

Moving out and on!!! There are more than a few in-the-trenches radio people who are looking at getting into the record business. Now, if I were in the business of hiring people for the record business, I'd sure look carefully at some of these people.

Coming from radio, they know a whole bunch about the record business to begin with. They know how to get to the program and/or music directors and how to avoid any confrontations that could create bad blood for years. Checking some of the names of mid-management and higher and even a little lower, you'll find the names of ex-radio guys. I've got the names of a few who are looking, but to protect them, I won't reveal their names here. (EC: I know a record guy who wants to get into radio ... he must be nuts!!!)

The Life and Times of Denise Donlon??? Now, ain't that a switch ... the CBC doing a special on MuchMusic's Denise Donlon for their Life and Times series? And, it was well done. I wonder why MuchMusic hasn't done an Intimate & Interactive on Denise? (EC: I can see Intimate ... but Interactive???) Anyway, congrats to the CBC ... they sure know how to do documentaries ... and did you see all the shots of record company biggies? Was that an endorsement of Denise's status, or what? I remember not too long ago when she was being wooed to join a record company, where she would eventually replace the president when he retired. (EC: Oh! Oh! Give us an initial!!!)

Penis envy??? There used to be a time when mentioning a competitor was taboo, particularly with the dailies. Now, it's almost a daily event. The latest was the Globe and Mail's take on the Sun's Sunshine Girl in the Jan. 25 Globe Review section. A whole page with a cartoon of a humungously (my spelling) endowed blonde, identified as Branddie (the spelling by Globe cartoonist Anthony Jenkins), taking up most of the page. The article was a Globe Profile by Heather Mallick "on Brandi, Barbi & Bobbie". It's kind of a damning and complimentary piece. It's sure not going to influence the Sun to shelve one of their best features. I like this ... Mallick writes "The Sunshine Girl looks like the kind of woman a guy might have a chance with. But only a sexually deprived man would think that." (EC: So much for Sun readers eh???) I'll never read the Sun again!

Speaking of!!! A friend of mine, who knows a lot about things naughty and nice was wondering why, since going topless in Ontario is not against the law anymore, the Sun didn't go that extra mile with their Sunshine Girls! Guys like to see big bazooms, not that I've seen any hanging out at the supermarkets lately ... or ever, come to think of it. (EC: It wouldn't be safe, now that these old guys have discovered Viagra!!!)

On the web!!! This internet stuff is attracting a lot of attention, and all this time I thought the information superhighway was only used to find pornographic material. Starting this week we will be offering a preview of all our charts and we will be posting them every Thursday afternoon. Keep an eye on www.rpmweekly.com. (EC: Enough already!!!)

Ottawa's Xfm 101.1 has announced the introduction of The Un-Known Morning Show featuring Mauler and The Rush. According to Xfm station manager Danny Kingsbury, "Jeff (Mauler) and Scott (The Rush) were the first applications I received for on-air work and I really like their enthusiasm and attitude. They are good friends and have been dreaming about an opportunity to work on a station like Xfm for years." The new show begins Feb. 7.

Obituary

Richard "Hock" Walsh: A Canadian bluesman

Downchild co-founder Richard Walsh, affectionately known as "Hock", passed away in Toronto on New Year's Day. He was 51.

Mr. Walsh co-founded the Downchild Blues Band with his brother Donnie in 1969. The band had its first hit with Flip Flop & Fly (RPM - Dec. 22/73).

Mr. Walsh left the band for a short period, rejoining in 1988. He remained with the band long enough to record a new album, Gone Fishing, but left once again to form another band. It was during

Neudorf appeals ruling in McLachlan copyright case

Vancouver record producer Daryl Neudorf, a former drummer with 54:40, has appealed the recent BC Supreme Court ruling that rejected his claim for further compensation for work he alleged he had done on Sarah McLachlan's debut album.

Neudorf filed his notice of appeal on Jan 11 in the BC Court of Appeal.

Neudorf had originally sued McLachlan and Nettwerk, her record label, claiming that he hadn't been properly compensated for his work on four songs on Touch, McLachlan's 1988 debut album. He maintained that he had co-written the songs but had never received proper credit or royalties.

In rejecting his claim last month, Justice Bruce Cohen had ruled that Neudorf had contributed a vocal melody to Steaming, one of the songs on the album, and did come up with the titles of Sad Clown and Vox.

However, Justice Cohen ruled that Neudorf "failed to satisfy the test for joint authorship."

Neudorf revealed that after five years of pursuing the lawsuit, he is facing financial ruin. Nettwerk has apparently claimed that upwards of $500,000 had been spent defending Neudorf's action against the label. The court costs, which are to be paid by Neudorf, have yet to be settled by Justice Cohen.

demand for a second show, which is slated for March 19. Martin's current hit, Shake Your Bon Bon, sits at #12 on the RPM 100 Hit Tracks chart.

Ani DiFranco, Gillian Welch and Greg Brown are teaming up for a soft-seater tour of North America, which stops in Toronto on March 18 for a show at Massey Hall. DiFranco's latest, To The Teeth, features cameos by Maceo Parker, The Artist Formerly Known As Prince, and Toronto guitarist Kurt Swinghammer. Welch, described as a mish-mash of country, folk and bluegrass, has a new album out entitled Hell Among The Yearlings, produced by T. Bone Burnett. Brown has had songs performed by the likes of Willie Nelson, Carlos Santana, Shawn Colvin and Mary Chapin Carpenter. Brown's most recent release, Slant 6 Mind, was nominated for a Grammy.

The Boss is back! After plenty of rumours, it's finally confirmed - Bruce Springsteen will play Toronto's Air Canada Centre on May 3, with tickets going on sale Feb. 12. Although details were sketchy at press time, it's rumoured that tickets for the three-hour show will be somewhere in the $100 range.

BMG Music Publishing Canada is headed to the Genie's. The company co-published the score and songs for the film Jacob Two Two Meets The Hooded Fang, which picked up a pair of nominations for best original song (Tim Burns' It's A Treat To Be A Creep, and VIP's One Thing To Say), and a nod for best original score, composed by Jono Grant. BMG co-published the endeavour with supervising music producer Ron Proulx.

this period that he is credited with arranging the first professional date for Big Sugar's Gordie Johnson.

Blessed with a natural vocal gift for the blues and a large frame that allowed for a powerful projection which he parlayed into his own distinctive musical signature, Mr. Walsh was highly revered within the blues community.

Mr. Walsh's many friends in the entertainment business will celebrate his life and music at a special memorial on Feb. 6 at Toronto's Horseshoe at 370 Queen Street West beginning at 7 pm.

Firmed to perform at the memorial are Downchild Blues Band, Gordie Johnson, The Rockin' Highliners, The Sidemen, Tyler Yarema and his Rhythm, plus a number of other friends who will be sitting in with the bands for this tribute. The evening will end with an all-stars blues jam.

Tickets have been pegged at $15.00 and can be obtained in advance at the Horseshoe's ticket office at 416-598-4753 or from Richard Flohill & Associates at 416-351-1323. Funds raised will go toward the continuing education of Mr. Walsh's 18-year old son Richard Jr.

Lonestar hits #1 with Smile, a track taken from Lonely Grill released on the BNA label. This is the follow-up to Amazed which is still charting after 41 weeks (#80). The album has been charting for 29 weeks and bullets up to #3 this week.

Brent McAthey has what looks like a winner with his latest single I Don't Love Easily. Taken from his enhanced multimedia CD, Believe In Me, the single jumps up to #46 from #68, the biggest mover this week. Written by Keith Floen, Lana Floen and Thomas Allan Ross, the song is 100% MAPL. The new release follows the Alberta male artist of the year's past charted singles, Chevy Blue Eyes, Slow Motion and Hard Rockabilly Cafe. Released on the Arial label, the album is in stores distributed by Spirit River Distribution at 1-877-773-4787 (www.spiritriver.com). A 33mm video of the single, produced by Triton Films, is now at CMT. Check out McAthey's web site (www.brentmcathey.com) or call Tim Auvinne at 403-933-2866, fax 403-933-5179 (mgmt@arialrecords.com).

Yankee Grey's new single is titled Another Nine Minutes, a song written by Tom Douglas, Billy Crain and Tim Buppert. The new single, which enters the chart this week at #82, is the follow-up to All Things Considered which gained the six-piece band a strong following with country programmers in both Canada and the US. Both tracks were taken from their Monument debut, Untamed which was produced by Robert Ellis Orrall and Josh Leo (see New Releases). The first single, written by bandmember Tim Hunt (lead vocals, acoustic guitar), isn't finished yet. Although the single did begin to descend the chart, having peaked at #16 (Dec. 20/99), two weeks ago it bulleted back up to #41 from #49 after 16 weeks. The other members of the band are David Buchanan (bass, vocals), Kevin Griffin (drums, vocals), Joe Caverlee (fiddle, vocals), Matthew Basford (electric guitar, vocals), and Jerry Hughes (keyboards, vocals).

Mark LaForme is getting the EMI promo treatment with Do It All Over Again, a new single now at radio. The track was taken from True To Form, released on the ACT label distributed by EMI. Written by Buddy J. Black (aka Bud Roberts), the song is 100% Cancon. The album was produced by Tom Connors Jr. (RPM - New Releases July 12/99) and recorded at Escarpment Sound Studios in Acton, Ontario. LaForme, who was born on the Mississauga's of the New Credit Reserve, almost sidelined his music career when, after a lull in the business he took a course at George Brown College, graduating as a gourmet chef. However, after appearing in concert at the European Country Music Festival in Zevenbergen, Holland in 1994, he decided to anchor himself back into the music business. LaForme's writing talent has been recognized in both Canada and the US, where his material was recorded by Gene Watson, Ronald Reagan's daughter Patti Davis, Dallas Harms, Marty Butler and Harold MacIntyre. He has a number of albums to his credit and had gained a large following of fans. It wasn't however, until he was asked to tour with Stompin' Tom Connors when the real door of opportunity opened for him. He has toured with Connors on his last two cross-Canada tours, which included performing at the closing ceremonies of Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens. His guitar work is also heard on Connors' new EMI CD, Move Along With Stompin' Tom. The tour with Connors was highlighted by yet another "sold out" show at Toronto's legendary Massey Hall and performing in front of an audience of more than 60,000 at the Havelock Country Jamboree. Another memorable date for LaForme last year was performing with Connors for the induction of Wayne Gretzky into the Hockey Hall of Fame (Nov. 22) which was televised to millions across Canada and the US.

NORMAN LIOTA Self-titled Unscene Music

The Toronto-based Liota isn't a stranger to the Canadian music scene, having been one of the founding members of the rock/jazz/worldbeat group Still Life. Now out on his own, Liota has become a regular on the club scene throughout Canada and the US, even busking on the streets of Europe. His profile has improved over the last little while with concert appearances with Sarah McLachlan, the Rheostatics, Bob Snider, Chuck Berry and Steppenwolf, among others. Trained as a classical guitarist, and educated in music at York University, it's obvious from a first listen that Liota's expertise on the guitar is no fluke. Unlike most top-notch guitarists, Liota isn't a blues or jazz specialist. Instead, his music is more of an atmospheric exercise, with a bit of a folk tinge, and all of it contains some wonderful guitar work. Liota isn't afraid to toss in some experimentation, creating sounds and moods with his instrument that are a little bit off the beaten track. While Liota may not have the vocal qualities to match the guitar virtuosity, his chops on the strings more than make up for it. Standout tracks include the title track, More Than I Should, Feather Of The Crow and Hand. For more info, you can contact Liota via email (NormanLiota@hotmail.com), or at Unscene Music www.unscenemusic.com. -RR

MARLA JANE I Live My Life MJM-1955 (Independent)

It's interesting how experience in musical theatre can give that artist an extra edge when it comes to recording. Burlington, Ontario native Marla Jane honed her vocal properties on such musicals as Fiddler On The Roof and

Sound Of Music. Add to that her songwriting capabilities and the end product is a debut release that should open the door to both the country and pop markets. The country message is a little more pronounced, as with Finally Giving Up On You and Dr. Jeckle Mr. Hide, the former taken as the first focus track. Jane's vocal depth and projection and her warm and fuzzy song message commands immediate attention. That's one side of her vocal strength. She also controls a vocal edge that leaves no doubt that she is in command. Not surprisingly, being as she wrote all the music and lyrics and co-produced the CD with

L. Stu Young and that's her on acoustic guitar, all of which adds to her self-confidence. Also key is Somehow and You're The Reason, but don't overlook Broken Hearts Mend, which could be a left-fielder. Recorded at Toronto's Kensington Sound and Metal Works. She has some pretty good pickers backing her: Kim Deschamps on steel peddle, electric and acoustic guitars; Brian Griffis and Robin Lajoie on electric guitars; drummer Jorn Anderson; Jesse O'Brian on keys; Zezi Tayyeb on acoustic and electric guitar and piano; violinist Dan Howlett; bassist Robert Hebert; and back-up vocalists Yohanna Vanderkey and Liz Tilden. -WG

LORETTO REID BAND From The Inside Out RCD-99 (Independent)

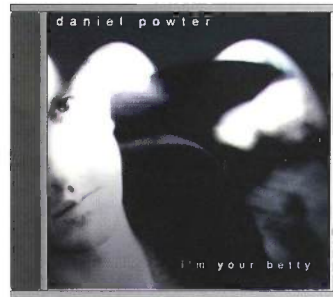

As celtic as celtic can is perhaps appropriate here. After all, how much more celtic can you get than being born and raised in Sligo, one of the most famous musical countries for traditional music in Ireland? Loretto Reid and Brian Taheny, a husband and wife team, brought their musical heritage to Canada in 1988. They had been performing as a duo since 1978 and had toured the world, performing at internationally-famous festivals. Their brand of celtic music is somewhat unique, but not out of the ordinary. Reid, as you will hear here, has mastered the tin whistle, as well as the Irish flute, concertina and button accordion. She also composed original material and arrangements of traditional songs for this album. Taheny is a pretty good multi-instrumentalist as well, doing his thing on fiddle, Irish bouzouki, cittern, mandocello, dobro, bass, and banjo. The duo has grown to a seven piece band, two of which are their children Leon (bodhran, electric guitar, bass), and Rowena (vocals), Bill Brennan (piano, djembe), and Canadian stepdancers Nathan Pilatzke and Chanda Gibson, which no doubt makes for an exciting stage presentation. For the album, there is a gentle mix of the Irish with Canadian, which is what makes the unit so unique. Most of the tracks are instrumental with Rowena adding her haunting vocals on Not The Thunder, the title track and The May Morning Dew, which are key. Also, Danny Boy has never been heard like this and what a beautiful take on Beethoven's Für Elise with Qiu-xia He on Chinese pipa, Brian Taheny on tenor banjo and George Koller on acoustic bass. There's lots of thinking and toe-tapping music bundled up in this complete entertainment package. Guest instrumentalists and backing vocalists, too many to mention, add to the professionalism of this 100% Cancon album which was produced by Loretto Reid and recorded at Caledonia Stonehill Productions, Soundtime Productions and The Garage. -WG

DANIEL POWTER I'm Your Betty DP (Independent)

This is the kind of release reviewers/critics like to receive. Powter's songwriting genius brings a little of the Okanagan Valley culture into prominence, albeit a modern type of culture. Not that he's restricted his parameters to the interior of British Columbia, he does, through his pristine coddling of his message, conjure up visuals that could be indigenous, which isn't a bad thing. And that's where the purity of Powter's vocals come in, attracting the listener into his inner circle bringing back memories of coffee houses when folk was supreme, and that's not bad either. In case you were wondering, I'm Your Betty is a slang expression which is common in the Okanagan Valley. "A 'betty' is a girl who's always second-best, always waiting," explains the 28-year old Powter. "For me, it's a reference to the Archie comic books. Betty always worked her ass off to get Archie's attention, and sometimes she got it ... at least when Veronica wasn't on the scene." And, there you have it and if you patch into Breeding The Highway, the opening track, you'll get some idea of where Powter is going. But don't put him in one groove. The album has a wide girth, as you will hear on Condition, the first single, Legs Hang Down, Ellis Dee, Still Nothing, and, of course, the title track. Powter admits to putting his own spin on influences, which include reclusive author J.D. Salinger "whose Catcher In The Rye is namechecked on Negative Fashion" and American short story writer Raymond Carver. Influences aside, it's Powter and his magnetic vocal pull that creates the entertainment. Powter is backed by guitarist David Sinclair, late of the Sarah McLachlan Band, bassist Brian Wiebe, drummer Scott Gamble and the rhythm section from the Kelowna jazz-fusion band The Mammals, and Powter on keys. Produced by Powter and Jeff Long. -WG

THE WHITLAMs Eternal Nightcap Black Yak/Phantom-0A7-P

It's often surprising, perhaps even puzzling, how some bands can do great in certain territories, and absolutely zip in others. Virtually every major label has artists who do fantastic numbers in Europe, but couldn't buy a bus ticket in North America, or vice versa. Sometimes, however, it comes down to a case of regional perceptions and tastes. The Tragically Hip may be the best known example

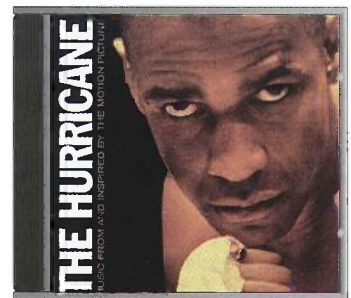

MAGNOLIA O.S.T. Songs By Aimee Mann Reprise-47583-P

Judging by his first two films, the fabulous Boogie Nights and the current critical fave Magnolia, writer/director Paul Thomas Anderson is not only a wonderful filmmaker, he's also a serious music fan. Boogie Nights featured the music of the oft-underrated Michael Penn, but for this new film, Anderson has enlisted the considerable talents of former 'Til Tuesday front-woman Aimee Mann. The oh-so-quiet Mann brings a certain starkness, perhaps even tranquility, to the affair, clearly evident in the lead track, a cover of Harry Nilsson's One (best remembered as one of Three Dog Night's bigger hits). Mann contributes eight other tracks on the album. The more upbeat Momentum is a bouncy bit of jazz pop, and Build That Wall could easily be released as a single, as could that infectious Driving Sideways. Deatly, as might be construed by the title, is a more somber effort, featuring some wonderful lyrics, including one great line: "Now that I've met you, would you object to never seeing each other again." Wise Up and Save Me are also more subtle efforts, again, fitting in with the general tone of the film. In addition to Mann's contributions, there's also a couple of Supertramp classics thrown into the mix (Goodbye Stranger and The Logical Song), as well as Gabrielle's Dreams. Given the tremendous word of mouth that's fuelling the film, the soundtrack should do quite nicely at retail. -RR in this part of the world - a group that has rung up impressive album sales domestically year after year, but hasn't really cracked open the US market as one might have thought they would. For Australia's Whittlams, it's a very similar story, although in a slightly smaller time frame. The group, which has been around for nearly a decade, has released three indie albums, but it's this one, Eternal Nightcap, which finally brought success back home, bringing the band a trio of ARIA (their Junos) Awards - top indie album, top song (No Aphrodisiac) and group of the year. The last honour may have been the most impressive, considering they beat out international success story Savage Garden. Now the band is hoping to bring that same type of success over to North America, doing a host of interviews and talk shows, and opening for Blue Rodeo on their cross-Canada tour (as Blue Rodeo will open for them in Australia). Tim Freedman, the heart and soul of the band, is obviously a student of words, and has a strong affinity for translating moods and images onto the written page. Much like Rodeo, the group's music is simplistic in the best sense of the word, relying on straight-forward piano chords, occasionally quirky rhythms and Freedman's lone, often eerily quiet voice. No Aphrodisiac is clearly the song of choice, but other standouts include You Sound Like Louis Brudett, Melbourne, Life's A Beach and Up Against The Wall. -RR

THE HURRICANE O.S.T. Various Artists MCA-088170116-J

The focus track is obviously the lead song, Hurricane, featuring a plethora of current rap faves (Black Thought, Common, Mos Def, Dice Raw, Flo Brown, The Jazzyfatmastees and The Roots). But there's other notables here as well, including Love Sets You Free (Kelly Price & Aaron Hall), Isolation (Me'shell Ndegeocello) and One More Mountain (K-Ci & Jo-Jo). Bob Dylan's original ode to the Hurricane is included here (naturally), and how can you go wrong with Ray Charles (Hard Times No One Knows) or Etta James (In The Basement). Also features a snippet of the orchestral score by Christopher Young. -RR

Montgomery Steele has been busy promoting himself in Europe with Damned Old Rodeo which has generated a great deal of interest. He has also released his First Time Out CD in specific places such as Italy, where the response has been encouraging. Steele is holding off releasing Damned Old Rodeo in Canada until the spring. He is hopeful music directors will play The River Song as a re-release, the reason being that the morning anchor at CHET Chetwynd has been giving excellent exposure to The River Song and Indian Woman. His video has also been aired several times on CTV as well as the local cable channel that covers Dawson Creek, Ft. St. John and Chetwynd.

Steve Dickinson is a new Cancon country artist to keep an eye and ear on. He has released a "limited edition" four-song CD EP appropriately titled Four Down. Invisible Man, written by Dickinson and Craig Bignell, is the first focus track. The other tracks are Let Me Be, She's A Rebel and Thinking Of You, which were written by Dickinson. Guesting on the session were Jim Witter, Thomas Wade, Giselle, Craig Bignell, Steve Pettico, John Dyamond, Gary Craig, Darren Shot, Paul Chapman, Gary Borden and Andrew Afleck. Garth Brooks makes chart moves with Do What You Gotta Do, a single taken from his Stevens CD (RPM - Jan. 24/00). It's expected the album will kick in once again at retail as the single gains at country radio. The single is the most added this week, entering the chart at 62.

Trisha Yearwood is gaining spins at country radio with You're Where I Belong (#77) a track taken from the Stuart Little Soundtrack, and is also gaining status with A/C programmers. Terri Clark underwent surgery on her shoulder recently in Nashville. Universal's Sue McCallum reports the surgery, which is called Orthoscopic, went very well. Clark previewed a couple of songs from the album at a special Universal party at last year's CCMA awards shindig in Ottawa

Julian Austin's new single, Take The Money & Run will be at country radio this week. A "live" via satellite radio launch special is being planned to give legs to the single that follows Back In Your Life (19), the title track of his new ViK album which will be stores on March 7.

Lauren Starchuk, a country boy from Alberta, is promoting his new EP titled One More Heartache, written by Nashville writers Henry Paul, Van Stephenson and Dave Robbins. The EP also contains I Didn't Ask, She Didn't Say, written by Stephenson, Tony Martin and Reese Wilson. Both tracks were recorded at Blue Wave Studios in Vancouver. Starchuk and Michael Creeber produced. Sitting in for the session were Robbie Steininger on dobro, electric rhythm and lead guitars; bassist Ken Burke; drummer Kelly Stodola; Creeber on keys and Starchuk, who doubles on acoustic rhythm and lead guitars. Gordon Maxwell supplied back-up vocals. Starchuk gained recognition with his instrumental release of Stories As Told By The Guitar which led to in-store performances at a number of HMV record stores.
