Stats Canada report shows industry decline

Ottawa: Statistics Canada has published its 1980 culture statistics of the recording industry reporting that many companies are having serious problems.

Forty-five recording companies responded to the survey, some only in part, however they estimate that the group represents approximately 98 percent of the sales revenues earned by the industry.

Stats reports that 43 companies reported revenues of $235 million from the sale of records and prerecorded tapes, while 12 companies reported revenues of $4.9 million from the leasing of master tapes.

In 1979 Stats stated revenues from the sale of records and tapes amounted to $214.9 million.

For 1980 they reported master tapes produced in Canada account for only 10 percent of the revenues or $24.1 million while another 10 percent is from recordings whose source is not specified. Imported master tapes represented the greatest share of the market with some 80 percent or $187.4 million of sales revenue.

Of the companies responding to the survey, 10 were foreign controlled and represented 84 percent of the revenue from recording sales and 88 percent of revenues from industry-related activities.

Stats claim their figures suggest that the Canadian record market is dominated by a group of foreign-controlled companies. As well they say Canadian controlled companies earned only $36.7 million or 16 percent of total recording sales.

Stats suggests that if "the vitality of the record industry is measured by the number of new releases on the market, then 1980 reflects

Arista inks licensing deal with PolyGram Canada

New York: In a joint statement, Elliot Goldman, Executive Vice-President of PolyGram Incorporated, announced a long-term licensing agreement between the two companies.

Under the agreement PolyGram is to manufacture and distribute all Arista U.S. and U.K. and Ariola product in Canada.

"We're looking forward to a very productive partnership," stated Goldman. "PolyGram is a major marketing force in Canada, and we believe that this new association bodes well for the continued development of our artists' careers in a country that is vitally important to our international success."

"We're delighted to be able to complement our roster with the talents represented on Arista and Ariola, and to have the opportunity to work with those artists in achieving their full market potential in Canada," said Erdmann.

Ariola/Arista and PolyGram are associated in other ventures throughout the world. PolyGram manufactures and distributes Arista products in the U.K., distributes Arista and Ariola product in Brazil and Greece, and in Japan, Nippon Phonogram, a PolyGram company, is Arista's licensee.

the malaise in the industry with a slight decline in releases over the previous year."

However, in their 1979 survey they reported there were 1,401 singles and 2,052 albums or tapes released, a total number of 3,453 releases.

For 1980 they stated 1,603 singles were released while the year saw 2,582 LPs and prerecorded tapes, a combination of 4,185 which shows an increase.

Twenty-five percent of the singles released during 1980 qualified as Canadian content compared with 21 percent in 1979.

Thirteen percent or 337 albums or prerecorded tapes containing at least one selection qualifying as Canadian content were released during 1980 as compared with 19 percent in 1979.

Stats reported the revenue from sales of records and prerecorded tapes containing at

MIDEM connection gains Diamond/Applause deal

Toronto: Diamond Records, which is part of Signet Communications, has picked up the rights to distribute the Applause line in a long-term deal made at MIDEM.

Involved in the deal were U.S. label executive Artie Mogull who is the sole proprietor of Applause, Signet President and Vice-President of Diamond Dave Harding, Diamond President Steve Hawkins, and Diamond General Manager Ken Eason.

"We weren't even aware of the Applause line until we went to MIDEM," Harding told RPM. "Artists recently signed to the label include Dean Martin, Vic Damone, Della Reese, Tennessee Ernie Ford, and Peter Nero. There's a big void in the market-place for these kinds of artists. There wasn't enough new material before, but this is all newly-recorded."

"Judging by the amount of stations that have contacted us after seeing our ads there's a lot of interest," he said. "There are substantial sales to be had with this new material. These artists are also willing to get involved. For instance, Jack Jones is going to be here May 14 and we're going to line up some autograph sessions as well."

Harding said the company will be using point-of-purchase aids in retail stores in select areas. Also included will be a button with the initials BTTB standing for, back to the basics. Harding said CHFI-FM will be featuring Applause artists as will the Merv Griffin Show in April, featuring two artists each night for a week.

"I think there's always been a market for these artists but the product just wasn't there," said Harding.

There will be 25 albums released in all and Diamond is also planning to release singles for the MOR stations, as well. He said the first release, from Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme, is expected the first of April. In addition, the company will be introducing the Project 3 label, which is to include such artists as Teresa Brewer and Louis Armstrong.

"We're aiming at the age group of 35 and over," he said. "We had been thinking about this kind of product. It was obvious from listening to the stations that there wasn't enough new material but this is all fresh. We've had very, very strong reaction from radio."

Signet maintains its own distribution network and pressing plant.

least one Canadian content selection was $18.3 million or eight percent of the total record and tape sales.

Approximately 98 percent of the new singles and 74 percent of the albums during 1980 were either pop, top 40 or country. The remaining were other types of music. Eighty-nine percent or $208.5 million of total sales came from pop, top 40 and country.

The total revenues of the companies studied were reported to be $340 million. The revenues came from the sale of records and prerecorded tapes, the leasing of master tapes, and industry-related activities such as rack-jobber sales, distribution, etc.

Stats claim that 43 companies showed an average profit of $295,800 or 3.8 percent of revenues. They reported however that closer examination reveals that many companies are having serious problems.

The report lists 33 Canadian-controlled companies that ran an average deficit of $76,600. Moreover, they said the companies recorded a drop in average profits of approximately 40 percent over the previous year. In addition, it was pointed out that 19 of the 43 companies studied, or 44 percent suffered a deficit.

The report further revealed that 47 percent of the small companies suffered a deficit with the average deficit for the group being $26,200. They also noted the average deficit for the small Ontario-based companies was much higher than that of companies in other regions.

Medium sized companies apparently showed an average profit of $14,100 with those in Ontario earning the highest average profit of 7.3 percent. The large companies made an average profit of $683,400, however, those located in Quebec suffered an average deficit of $582,000.

Stats concluded the main factors "which may have contributed to the companies' dismal financial situation are spiralling interest rates and competition."

Doughnut X-rated disc released by Grampa

Toronto: Following in the foot-steps of the enormous success of the Rodeo Song from Showdown, the Grampa Band has released their own controversial single, The Encore Song, on the Doughnut label.

One side of the single contains the edited version while the flip side carries the censored number.

The Toronto-based country quintet formed about nine years ago, recording such songs as Canadian Way of Life, Ragtime Molly, and One Day.

The Grampa Band has recently been touring in Ontario to promote the self-produced single written by members Dave Martin, Stan Drozdowski, and George Dearling. The band was also taped for the Wayne Thomas Comedy Hour.

The Grampa Band, which generally play the Ontario market, are planning to release an album in about a year. The single is currently being distributed by Records On Wheels.

The group describe the song as an "uptempo country-rock foot-stomper geared towards fun-loving audiences."

Walt says

Times really are tough

Latest Stats Canada figures indicate that 38% or even more of Canada's radio stations are in trouble, financially. That's a twist, a government agency pointing up an almost unbelievable situation. Who would have ever thought that radio stations would be in trouble? Remember the old saying "a licence to make money" which was directed at radio? Now, the CRTC is really on the spot. This was a government agency revealing this sad state of affairs, not the CAB, although they'll probably start a war in their usual fashion, which could kill any positive moves that might be made by the more business-like members of the organization. Now might be the opportune time for the CRTC to look into some of the hardships suffered by broadcasters and revealed by the Stats Canada report.

Best promoters in the west

Joe Thompson, the promoter extraordinaire who has brought Kelly's into the forefront when it comes to record retail action, has moved to Vancouver. He is now in charge of purchasing and promotion for the Kelly chain, looking after stores from Winnipeg through to the West Coast. When asked how business was, his answer "Terrific", and a look at some of their stores, particularly the Granville Street showplace, is proof of Thompson's boasting.

"... the prophets of doom, the messengers of mediocrity, will be overwhelmed by the new generation of competent creative, confident artisans and by all those of preceding generations who have already demonstrated their freshness of mind, their talent and their capacity for inspired leadership."

The Apple/Sam report

If nothing else, and there probably won't be anything else, the Apple/Sam Committee makes for interesting television. Interesting from the standpoint it punches home the Canadian syndrome of "more, more, we want more". The recent television special, of sorts, gave our already "hosier" image another boost. Canadians from all walks of life and persuasions were grovelling for government assistance with the lame excuse of contributing to the cultural fabric of the country. You know where this money comes from don't you? Yes Virginia, there is a taxpayer. The money comes from Canada Council and this year they're looking for takers for $70 million, an increase of almost 12½ percent over last year. This year there are 29 orchestras receiving grants, 26 dance companies, plus numerous theatre companies, publishing houses and more than 3,000 individual and organizational grants. At least the recording industry can't be accused of dipping into the public pot, yet. If I were a label owner/record producer who had struggled several years to establish credibility and a place in the industry, on my own, I'd be pretty ticked off if some joker got a free ride from government, on my money.

Remember the Critics Awards

A group of critics got together a few years ago and launched their own Critics Awards. No one really took them serious, because most of the critics had trouble getting their columns together let alone arrange an annual awards event. Sure enough they did see their awards come to fruition—for one year. What a great idea. What a dismal failure.

Next to cleanliness—Goddard

Quick now, name a rock music critic from any of the dailies in Canada's three major centres. I'll give you a little help, Vancouver, Toronto, or Montreal. I can see your lips forming now—God, yes, go on, Goddard. You're right, you get the golden dink award. Goddard appears to be the only recognizable rock critic in Canada. Wilder Penfield III is pretty close, but Wilder doesn't like to hurt anyone—so he's a great guy—and a fair critic. The West Coast is pretty pathetic. I know times are tough but on-again off-again critics don't carry too much weight. Their writings depict more fan gazing than non-partisan reviewing. As for Montreal, English-language radio is the key to what's going on. The French-language dailies however, are very informative—they have to be with all the weekly tabloids biting at their butts.

Sinclair's news has balls

CFRB's news service must have been pretty quiet Wednesday at noon. Gordon Sinclair's only interesting bits were the increased size in bull's balls and a sex offender who had a love affair with a nanny goat. Of course, Sinclair's listeners have long gotten used to his occasional shockers, but that's what makes his 11:45 am news the most listened to in Canada. Have you ever noticed how Sinclair trods the middle when it comes to politics? In fact, he bashes all parties and principals whereas his fellow news staffers, those who hope to take his place, are continually bashing the liberals and showing their colours.

Have you got yours yet?

Not to be too biased against the federal government over throwing money away on a dying, or dead arts program, get a load of what the Ontario Arts Council does with their extra bucks. There were 309 individuals and 248 arts organizations allowed grants through the Creative-Artists-in-Schools program—part of the total $2,139,648 awarded by Council to "promote the study and enjoyment of, and production of works in the arts, throughout the province." These grants range anywhere from $162,000 to the Shaw Festival, down to $100 to the Oakville Public Library. Now, what the hell are you going to do with $100. While Canada Council and the Ontario Arts Council may be doing good in some areas they are creating a festering political football in others. Those who ask for more than they need and receive much less than they hoped for are lining up on one side as enemies and don't fool yourselves the big buck takers are the first to level criticisms if they don't get what they want. You know what they say in the rock business—if you don't get box office, change groups.

Rumours and more rumours

Those rumours about AG joining A&S are just rumours although A&S could sure do with an AG—he at least returns his phone calls. By the way, congratulations to AG, and it's not rumour. He and his wife celebrated their 25th anniversary on Paddy's Day and that's where the similarity ends.

Record dealer to court for doing business on Sunday

Ottawa: A major record and stereo retailer has been charged with breaking the Ontario Retail Business Holidays Act by remaining open on a Sunday and could face a fine of up to $10,000.

It was reported that the Ottawa-based company Super Clef Limited recently opened its doors on a Sunday to several hundred record buyers who lined up for a one-day sale.

Treble Clef's Vice President Harold Levin was reported as saying that they're not in business to break or evade the law, but that maybe they will be "the catalyst in certain people re-thinking the law."

Apparently, the company used these same tactics last year with their Edmonton store, and was acquitted.

A motivating factor for opening their Ottawa store on the forbidden day was apparently a similar move taken by the Hi Fi Express store, which also faces charges.

Sharon, Lois & Bram pull out of Juno Awards

Toronto: The Elephant label reported that children's recording artists Sharon, Lois & Bram decided not to allow their most recent album, In The Schoolyard, to be nominated in the Best Children's Album category in the forthcoming Juno Awards.

The trio won in the same category in 1981 for Singing 'N Swinging, and in 1980 for Smorgasbord.

Of the 24 categories of awards, 23 are voted on either by the membership of the Canadian Academy of Recording Arts & Sciences at large or, in the case of specialized awards, by panels of experts. The children's record category is the only exception.

The label pointed out that though previously selected by such a panel of experts, this year the award is to be judged by classes of school children from across the country.

Sharon, Lois & Bram felt that the use of children as judges makes the award a people's choice or popularity award rather than a crafts awards as the others are.

The trio is also concerned about the effect this voting procedure has on children claiming that throughout their musical career, they have tried to expose children to the global world of music. They felt that to now impose upon them the task of choosing best record serves only to limit their natural openness to all music, which was contrary to the trio's commitment to children.

Sharon, Lois & Bram have apparently been in communication with CARAS, the governing body of the Juno Awards, since November of 1980 with regard to the use of children in the category.

"The voting procedure for the Best Children's album category is the same as last year and Sharon, Lois & Bram won," said Brian Robertson, president of CARAS. "We were a little surprised that they were looking for changes. We've met with them about three times, but we have no plans at present to change the procedure."

Robertson explained that it's not only children who judge the category, but that the other half of the voting consists of a panel of such people as teachers, retailers, and broadcasters.

"The children's voting consists of about five classes from grades one to three," said Robertson. "Their ages would be from about six to nine. The idea to include children came out of a meeting of the Board of Directors."

"It's true that Sharon, Lois & Bram won last year and the voting procedure was the same," said Molly Thom of Elephant Records. "But the idea to include children in the voting didn't come until very late and it was too close to the awards. Sharon, Lois & Bram also objected strenuously last year. It's a philosophical objection."

Thom said they didn't want to involve children in this kind of judging and that the official announcement from CARAS only talked of the panel being judged by children from across the country.

"Children are open to other influences such as advertising," said Thom. "The awards should also be given for excellence."

She also pointed out that a record that sells well doesn't necessarily make it a good recording because some are well promoted.

Nicol named manager of Mushroom Studios

Vancouver: Mushroom Studios reports that Linda Nicol has been appointed to the position of Studio Manager.

Nicol began her career in the music industry in 1976 as an assistant to the Promotion Director of Mushroom Records Canada Incorporated, and by 1978 was Western Canada Promotion Co-ordinator working with such acts as Heart, Doucette, Chilliwack, and Paul Horn.

After the demise of Mushroom Records in November 1979, the Studio was sold and Nicol assumed the position of Production Manager.

Dates for VIDEXPO '82 set for Bal Harbour

New York: VIDEXPO President Roddy S. Shashoua reported that VIDEXPO '82, the second annual and only Video International Exposition/Market/Conference in the U.S., will be held September 30 to October 4, 1982 at the Sheraton Bal Harbour, Bal Harbour, Miami Beach, Florida.

VIDEXPO '82 has expanded its exhibition and conference program to include the three main areas of: video equipment and services, covering video and cable hardware, software and related products and services; video and cable communications systems, equipment and services; and a software program marketplace for domestic and international licensing, sale and distribution of existing new programs.

Key executives and buyers from 44 countries around the world including the U.S. are expected to attend the event including video equipment manufacturers, video hardware and software distributors, video publishers, and many others.

AHED plans release of Ugly Ducklings album

Toronto: The Willowdale-based holding company AHED Corporation, which owns the rights to several old Canadian master tapes, is planning to release an album by the veteran Toronto band, the Ugly Ducklings.

"We're planning to release the album in spring," said Phil Anderson, President and General Manager of the company. "The LP is to contain a combination of the band's old songs and previously unreleased material. We're also looking at releasing the album on the old Yorkville label, which we're planning to re-distribute."

Anderson explained the company intends on pressing, distributing, and promoting the record themselves. He noted that during the '60s, the company was successful with their artists and did the work themselves.

"We were aware of the popularity of the Ugly Ducklings recently," he said. "We didn't release the tapes earlier because we felt there wasn't a market at the time. We're also looking at a number of other tapes in our catalogue by other artists which we may release."

"There will be about 12 tunes on the LP," said Roger Mayne, producer and lead guitarist of the Ugly Ducklings, who is also assisting in the project. "We're not going to change the songs themselves, but just improve the sound quality. Included on the album will be a version of Gaslight which was never released. I listened to the tapes and they sounded pretty good. All the tracks we picked for the LP are strong."

Songs to be included on the album are I Wish You Would, I Need Your Love, Nothin', 10:30 Train, Just In Case You Wonder, and others. One of the reasons Mayne said he became involved in the project was to have something that represents what was done years ago.

RPM asked Mayne if he could account for the recent popularity of the band and their music.

"I'm not sure," he said. "The material still sounds good. That particular kind of music still sounds contemporary."

Book Rate mailing cuts costs considerably

Toronto: While many record companies mail out their records in the conventional way, Boot Records has found it cheaper and convenient to mail them on the book rate system, especially since the price increases in mailing.

"Our mailing list is divided up into three parts," said Peter Krytiuk, General Manager of Boot Records. "There's first class, parcel post and book rate. We've been using the book rate for about 10 years.

"On a few mailings, we take the book rate and apply it to the package. If it's a hot release we'll use courier. Some companies send out one package at a time. It's beneficial to use the book rate for packages one to five pounds. Some of the record companies would want their releases to get to the stations as fast as possible and were probably assured that first class was the quickest.

"We've found that on the book rate the packages get there just as fast as parcel post. In fact, some people have commented on how fast they receive our releases. Let's say a parcel post package weighing one kg. is going to Alberta. I think postage would be $2. On the book rate it's 43 cents, and when you consider that there are about 500 stations in Canada that can make quite a difference. With that many stations being mailed you want to cut corners as much as possible."

Krytiuk said that as far as he understands, any company can do the same thing and that he's never had any problems from the post office. He said the package is just formally addressed and stamped book rate.

Attic Vice-President Tom Williams told RPM that they usually use first class, and that he understands that one company in particular has been using the book rate for mailing records.

"I don't think it's legal," said Williams. "I'm sure it would be cheaper. I suppose they don't care if they get caught. I've considered it because we've cut back drastically."

MIDEM opened doors not available in Canada

Toronto: Canadian newcomer Ira Brown of Toronto reported that he is finally receiving some interest in his recordings from Canadian record companies. But in order to receive the response or even meet some Canadian representatives, he had to travel to MIDEM.

Brown, with the help of friends, recorded an album produced by Bob Gallo. Brown and his friends, plus other independents helped finance the project.

Disappointed with the response and attitude of some Canadian record companies, Brown went off to MIDEM to see if he could generate foreign interest.

"When I was in Canada some of the response was favourable but I had no offers," said Brown. "Now people here are talking to me but only after going to Europe. Before that, some who showed some interest didn't know who I was, when I called them up again."

Brown said that when an artist goes through the work of recording an LP, and calls a Canadian record company representative, often an expensive long-distance call, they should at least take the time to talk to you.

"I had foreign interest before I had received Canadian interest," he said. "The European reps are so open and they'll talk to you. Foreign countries were enthusiastic about Canadian material. They like Canadian productions and talk about our studios and engineers. They'll even give you names of other people to talk to."

Brown said he had also met a girl from Ottawa at MIDEM who told him she didn't get anywhere at trying to record in Canada. She lived in London, England for three years and now has a record out in Europe. After returning to Canada only now is she getting the opportunity to record.

"I may be unknown but how do you know how well you're going to do unless you have a record out," said Brown. "I've had lots of letters from companies saying they liked the material. I'm not putting Canadian companies down, but I would like to see them take more of a chance. Maybe the material has to be proven somewhere else first, even if you have a good song."

Brown pointed out the uniqueness of Rush and how after they were signed, Canadian companies were suddenly signing every band that sounded like them, claiming they want material that sounds like everyone else. He has found that radio stations in Canada are very cautious as well, while in Europe they're playing new material all the time.

Brown founded his own Destiny Production company and released a single by his group which he called Destiny. The band comprises Mitchell Starkman, Rick Hutt, Victor Unsworth and Marjan Mekis. His album is completed and ready to roll.

Attic's Dave MacMillan said that in first class, it costs $2 per album in Toronto. Outside, he said, would be more expensive. He explained that a weight over 500 grams varies from postal region to postal region, but going up to 500 grams there's a standard rate. He noted that, for example, mailing five LPs in Toronto for the postal region would be $2.30, but mailing to British Columbia would cost $5.

Canadian MIDEM booth one of the busiest—Rosen

Toronto: Earl Rosen, Executive Secretary of the Canadian Independent Record Producers' Association (CIRPA) said the Canadian booth at MIDEM '82 was one of the busiest and seemed to be one of the most successful as well.

"From all the feedback I've received, a lot of deals were made which are now closing," he said. "Advances were up for small companies. It turned out to be tremendously successful for Canadian companies."

Rosen said that although the number of Canadians attending was about the same, there seemed to be a lot more interest in Canadian product. He noted that the attitude towards both the Canadian companies and the product was very positive. He also said the Canadian Record Catalogue went over very well for publishers and other record companies.

"It's too early right now to tell what our plans are for the next MIDEM," said Rosen. "There will be another Canadian booth. We've already met with the organizers because the location will be in the new building. We're hoping the government will allow the same kind of financial assistance, otherwise some companies wouldn't be able to go."

Rosen pointed out that on a world-wide basis, few majors turn out for MIDEM, and that mostly independents attend. He noted that most majors do their business inter-company instead.

Iron Maiden gets the spooks

The release of Iron Maiden's new album The Number Of The Beast had to be put back to Mar 22 when band members and company began experiencing weird occurrences. The LP is about the beast-like human incarnation of pure evil. The band's skull-faced mascot, called Eddie, has graced the covers of the band's LPs. When they began recording the LP, equipment, which proved totally reliable on an eight-month world tour, began to behave mysteriously. Harris' bass stack blew up and Murray's guitar amp kept cutting out at irregular intervals. When the producer, Martin Birch, finally got to mix the track he was involved in a car crash on his way home. When the bill for repairs arrived the total in pounds read 666.66. The band got the hint and changed the catalogue number which was intended to be EMC 0666.

Pretty Bad Boy in England

Greg Godovitz, bassist, vocalist and leader of the Toronto powerhouse trio Goddo, is currently in the U.K. promoting the release of their album, Pretty Bad Boys. The LP recently received a four-star review in England's Sounds magazine. Here in Canada, the track, If Tomorrow Never Comes, has been chosen as the second single from the album, and the follow-up to the title track single. The new single is an edited and specially re-mixed version of the LP track. Other Goddo members are guitarist Gino Scarpelli and drummer Doug Inglis.

Bob & Doug strike gold in U.S.

Anthem's Perry Goldberg is setting up a Molsons sponsored National Beer Hunter contest to find the Canadian National Beer Hunter winner. The contest is to run the entire month of March. Bob & Doug recently attracted 1,500 hoseheads for an autograph session on Long Island in New York.

Midnite Rodeo Band to tour

RCA country recording group the Midnite Rodeo Band is currently touring Canada, hot on the heels of their hit single Fast Love, which was a follow-up to Nashville Just Wrote. Their dates include Calgary Mar 22 to 27, Regina (Mar 29-Apr 3), Winnipeg (5-10), Thunder Bay (10-12), Toronto (19-24), and London (Apr 26-May 1). The band made a clean sweep of the B.C. PRO Canada shares in U.S. cable/TV fund

Toronto: The Performing Rights Organization of Canada Limited (PRO) reported it will share in the U.S. cable TV royalty fund for 1979.

The fund amounts to $21 million (U.S.) and of this, Canadian claimants will share $157,500. PRO Canada was reported to be the only Canadian performing rights organization to claim a share of the fund.

Four major groups of copyright owners originally made claims to portions of the fund—broadcasting stations, motion picture producers and program syndicators, sports interests, and music performing rights organizations.

The Copyright Royalty Tribunal determined that the group of claimants from Canada, although they were all classifiable under one of the four groups, should be grouped together under a "Canadian claimants" umbrella.

PRO stated that as Canadian signals are only carried on a small number of U.S. cable systems, it was easier to allocate a total amount for all copyright owners deriving rights from the distribution of Canadian signals than to fix fractional percentages for Canadian claimants within the four major groups.

In-house legal counsel Craig Parks said PRO Canada has negotiated with the other Canadian claimants, a share of the Canadian allocation. This amount is to be based on the share awarded to the U.S. performing rights organizations weighted by the amount of music on Canadian TV controlled by PRO Canada.

"The actual dollar amount from cable transmissions of Canadian music in the U.S. may not be great, but it does establish the validity of a separate claim by a Canadian performing rights organization," said Parks.

"The Canadian Copyright Act is currently in the revision process and a major unresolved issue is whether to recognize explicitly a right of secondary transmission," he said. "With the tremendous growth of cable in Canada, and its very high penetration level, the cable industry represents an important source of performing rights fees which is not currently being tapped. PRO Canada continues to lobby in Ottawa for a recognition of this important right in Canada."

The revised U.S. Copyright Act, in force since 1978, recognizes the new right of "secondary transmission".

Under the new law, each cable TV system in the U.S. must pay royalties into a pool administered by the Copyright Royalty Tribunal in Washington. The amount payable varies with the number of signals carried, whether they are U.S. network or non-U.S. network stations, and whether the full broadcast day is carried.

Ottawa-market station gearing to debut in Sept.

Toronto: Standard Broadcasting's newest AM station CJSB, based in Ottawa for the city and surrounding market area, is being prepared to debut September 1, with Sydney Margles as General Manager.

Margles has been called Montreal's best-known news and public affairs voice on the chain's top ranking station, CJAD. He was transferred to Ottawa in 1974 as Vice-President and General Manager of Standard News Broadcast which he is vacating to assume the new position.

"There's been a lack of good programming in the Ottawa area for some time," Margles told RPM. "Some stations were just carrying on as usual and not remaining competitive because of TV. I lived in Ottawa five years before we applied and if there's a need you go in."

"We'll be information and personality-oriented with a mix of adult-contemporary, MOR, and a little easy-listening. Forty-two per cent will be spoken word programming. We'll also be exposing new artists. I've always believed in supporting Canadian activity. The Canadian music industry has never been bigger and it's because of the Canadian content regulations."

Margles stated they're planning an issue program to appeal to the working people that will cover various topics and include guests. Also planned is a theme-program to be tied in with music.

The station, to have the strength of 50,000 watts, is reported to have cost an estimated $4 million, including $3 million for starting-up with the balance on the two-story headquarters based in suburban Ottawa. The new station will be located at 540 on the dial.

Margles added that they'll be aiming at the over 20 age group noting that there was a shift in demographics.

Kinsman & McCabe release on Songmaster

Oakville: Songmaster has released new singles from their artists Cathy Kinsman for In The Movies with Funniest Feeling on the flip as well as the French version to French language stations, and the single Dream Love with Reachin' Out For Me on the flip from John McCabe.

In The Movies is a duet with artist-producer Craig Ruhnke. Both songs were written by Kinsman.

Songmaster reports they have obtained a U.S. distribution deal with Music City Record Distributors of Nashville for Kinsman's album, It's All Up To You, from which the single was taken.

Following radio interviews and TV appearances in Ontario, Kinsman is scheduled to promote the releases in Ontario, Nashville, Atlanta, New York, and California during the next few months. She's also appearing on McLean At Large (CBC-TV), March 22.

McCabe, originally a native of New Zealand, is a recent signing to the label and decided to transfer his base to Canada. He reached an agreement with Songmaster for the release of two singles and the album slated for April.

McCabe told RPM that he moved to Canada because the market for country music was so much greater than that of New Zealand, where he played the rodeo circuit as well as concert, radio and TV appearances.

Attic concerned about sale of promo albums

Toronto: In a letter to the media, Attic Records has voiced its concern over the growing illegal sale of promotional records in Canada.

In the letter, Ralph Alfonso, Artist Development at Attic, states "these are serious times in the music industry and we must stand together, united in the knowledge that the selling or trading-in of promo LPs is extremely unlawful, but that sending them back to Attic is not."

"It's a very serious matter," Alfonso told RPM. "Every time someone sells a promotional album they're stealing from the artist and record company. It especially hurts the small independent companies and those with small pressings."

Alfonso said it's a problem that has been going on for some time but is becoming more serious.

"When I go into record stores selling used LPs, I see a lot of promotional albums, some of which are recent," he said. "If the records aren't used they should be sent back and we'll send them to those who can use them or use them for such things as display purposes."

Alfonso stated that since the letter went out, he has received some records back.

In the letter, he also points out that though they send out thousands of dollars worth of Attic albums, they receive the odd tear-sheet in return, one-paragraph review, and the occasional phone-call, but mostly requests for more records.

Terry Crawford—a good girl gone bad?

Female vocalists, solos and groups, have made phenomenal inroads into today's music forms whether it be rock and roll, country or pop. Although country still tops the list of heavyweight ladies, the rock field is now open and fair game. This week's RPM singles chart

by Peter Martin

is an indicator of this growth with Joan Jett, the Go-Go's, Josie Cotton and Olivia Newton-John in the top ten. Add to this list Winnipegger Terry Crawford, who just recently released her second RCA album, Good Girl Gone Bad.

Although considered by the trade as a new artist, Crawford is somewhat of a veteran, having launched her career more than ten years ago as front singer in her high school band. The husky voice was as much an attention grabber then as it is now and is definitely her musical trademark.

Crawford's second album for RCA is somewhat of a departure from her first, although her delivery and projection follow the same direction as her first. Most notable

Bendeth Band win at Black Music Awards

Toronto: Ensign recording artist David Bendeth and his band picked up awards in three categories at the recent 1981 Annual Canadian Black Music Awards held at Cutty's night club.

The Bendeth Band scored awards for Top Pop Canadian Album for their self-titled debut LP on Ensign distributed by RCA, for Top Funk Group, and Bendeth himself won an award for Comeback of the Year.

The Bendeth Band has recently been concentrating on writing material for their next LP. Bendeth himself has also been busy at Manta Sound mixing the new Teenage Head album in addition to performing selected club dates with the Gardner West Band.

Other winners at the awards were the Two Garys for Top Concert Promoter, Mike's Music for Top Record Store, Abraham for Top Independent Label, WEA for Top Major Label, Ron Robles of Capitol for Top Promo Rep, Dave Tollington of WEA for Top Publicist and Jai Ojah Maharaf for Top Radio DJ.

Stevie Wonder won a special international award. Other special awards went to Bill Smith and John Norris of Coda magazine, drummer Archi Alleyne, Toronto Star columnist Peter Goddard, and Stewart Ravenhill. Ironically, it was station WBLK-FM in Buffalo that won an award over any Toronto or Canadian radio station.

Daniel Caudeiron, editor of Cheer magazine and the main force behind the awards, said some companies are very supportive but that he would like to see more representation. He added some record companies unfortunately still view it as disco-oriented and "the local black folks having a party."

with her second release is her producer—Allan Katz. Both Crawford and her longtime friend and confidant, writer/guitarist Rick Johnson decided to change producers after reviewing the acceptability of their first release. "We had the opportunity to stand back and appraise the good and bad points of our first effort and hear audience and industry reaction," said Crawford. "Sometimes you give a little here and a little there and before you realize it, you leave the studio a bit off the direction you had when you started. I suppose it's another part of discovering yourself."

Anyway, Katz was approached and Good Girl Gone Bad was put together at Montreal's Audio Studios. Johnson wrote much of the material on the album, including Getaway, Caught In The Middle, Three Little Words and Leave A Light On. The Crawford session was backed by her own band comprising Johnson, drummer John Hannah, Dale Saunders on keyboards and bassist Jim Elder. Additional instrumental work was supplied by keyboardist Carl Marsh and bassmen Michel Donato and Chris Racine.

Crawford and her group have been playing dates across the country in support of the album release which got a further boost with the release of Running as a single. The latter could prove a bit of a problem and punches home the point that this business is wide open and doesn't favour either sex. Chubby Checker, a big name from the past, has released his version of Running, and he ap-

Round Sound beefs up audio/video facilities

Weston: James Sutherland, President of Round Sound Studios, reports the addition of audio/video synchronization for audio production for video post production to its list of audio services.

The system consists of the Audio Kinetics Q-Lock 3.10 with Gen-Lock to provide read/generate/regenerate of all SMPTE time code rates and 3 machine synchronization and computer control of a JVC 3/4 inch four-track machine.

Round Sound lays claim to being the first studio in Canada to install the Q-Lock 3.10 and the Otario MTR 10-4, thanks to Gerr Electro Acoustics. Video is viewed on 19-inch Sony Trinitron monitors.

"The cost of the equipment is about $35,000," said Sutherland. "We feel the market for post video production will increase greatly especially with the introduction of Pay-TV. It was inevitable that video and audio would work closely together. We think this is where the market is now."

Sutherland said the unique feature of this equipment is that it reads time code and it will automatically read frame if the time code is interrupted.

"In times of recession it's even more important to move into different areas such as TV production," he said. "Right now our business is pretty evenly divided between jingles recording, band demos, and mixing for films."

pears to have a bit of a head start on Crawford. RCA however, have picked up the challenge and have launched a hefty campaign to bring the Crawford version home. It's obvious however, that Crawford already has her foot in the door, as far as programmer acceptance goes, and she has been nominated for a Juno this year in the category of Most Promising Female Vocalist.

New Raffi album in pre-production stages

Toronto: Troubadour Records reports that Raffi's next album is currently in the pre-production stages with recording dates set to mid-March.

The LP, to be released by the children's recording artist this year, will again be produced by Ken Whiteley, and is to be recorded at Inception Sound Studio in Toronto.

In addition, the Raffi In Concert TV special taping was completed this month. The concert, at the Jubilee Auditorium in Edmonton, Alberta, was taped by the CFRN-TV production company last fall, with additional footage shot in a closed concert at Toronto's Harbourfront Theatre. Working in association with John and Henia Muller of M&M Film Productions, Troubadour is overseeing the final edit. The final package should be ready for initial distribution to regional markets next month.

As well, concerts are being lined up in the U.S. and at children's festivals across Canada. A new book will be published shortly, modeled after Raffi's most recent album, Baby Beluga.

Dates have already included Barrie and Guelph in Ontario and Westmount High School in Montreal. Other dates are pending and will be announced later.

Former pop artist prefers working with kids

Toronto: Bob Schneider, a former pop artist who found some success after recording an album for RCA under the name of Robert David, has found success again but this time as a children's recording artist.

His album, on the Dr. Charly label is titled Listen To The Children.

"I've been writing songs for about 12 years," said the 35-year-old artist. "I came to Toronto from New York about 10 years ago. I met a producer in New York who got a position at RCA in Toronto and asked me if I wanted to record an LP. That was the one I recorded as Robert David.

"I was basically always a solo artist but my recordings are done with a full band. I had also done some work in area coffee shops."

Schneider says the road to becoming a children's artist from pop wasn't a complete change in direction however.

"I was working as a waiter just trying to make ends meet," he said, "and I was looking for ways to use my talent. I then got work as a teacher's aid and worked in summer school as a teacher. The kids were immigrant children and I was asked to write songs to help them learn English. That's how it all started."

RPM asked Schneider why so many artists have suddenly turned to children's recordings?

"A lot of them had been working with kids before," he said. "Any good children's artist isn't out to make bucks. You have to understand kids. I'm sure there are some who are in it for the money but they won't last."

Schneider said that if he had been asked at one time if he would record a children's album he would probably have turned it down.

Bob Schneider, Dr. Charly recording artist and a group of admirers. His album, Listen To The Children, has been nominated for a Juno in Best Children's Album category.

Dates now firmed for Yamaha Song Festival

Tokyo: The Yamaha Music Foundation has set the dates for the World Popular Song Festival '82 to take place in Tokyo on October 29, 30, and 31, 1982, at Nippon Budokan Hall.

Applications have to be submitted by June 30, 1982. Songs must be original pieces, unpublished anywhere in the world prior to September 15, 1982.

The festival is open to all singers and songwriters regardless of professional standing or nationality, and the applicant has only to be a talented singer with an outstanding song.

Entry songs submitted to the contest are judged according to their total musicality with accent on creativity, originality, and vocal performance.

A complete application has to include demo-tape, entry form, biographies of the singer and songwriter, photographs, and vocal score accompanied by song lyrics.

There are two Grand Prizes, one for best foreign entry, and the other for best Japanese entry. Other awards include Best Song Award, Outstanding Song Award, and Most Outstanding Performance Award. Various prizes donated by supporting firms are also to be presented by the Festival Committee.

Information on the festival can be obtained by writing to Mr. Yoshio Nakatani, Secretary General, Festival Committee '82 Yamaha Music Foundation 3-24-22 Shimomeguro, Meguro-ku, Tokyo 153, Japan.

"I have feelings from working with the kids that I can't even describe," he said. "Some of the children are right off the boat and you look into their eyes and wonder what they're thinking. Then you play them a song and you see them smile."

"There are artists in this field who are just as good as those in any other," he pointed out. "I'm a serious writer and feel strongly about my material. Artists in other fields have seen my show and been blown away. This area of music attracts top quality musicians many of whom work with me."

Schneider explained that he also uses some children in his act which he lines up ahead of time from a school class.

The Dr. Charly artist is planning to release another LP in the fall. In addition to his album, Schneider has prepared a booklet of his songs which can be used by children to make up their own words and activities in order to help them be more creative. As well as his concerts, Schneider also attends educational conferences to show how music can be used in the classroom.

Avenue Rd. inks deal with Linda Dawe

Toronto: The Avenue Road Music Group reports they've signed a long-term deal with Linda Dawe Associates to represent and promote to radio, songs controlled and administered by Avenue Road.

The company believes that this is the first time a Canadian publisher has hired an independent promotion company to work its catalogue on a continuing basis. Avenue Road reported they are confident that the move will substantially increase its Canadian earnings.

The first product to be worked under the deal are the singles Try A Little Love by Mary-Lu Zahalan, and You Came Into My Life by Ron Mahonin, both on Heart Records, as well as the Jimi B album on A&M Records, and the forthcoming single from Craig Ruhnke on Sefel Records, Baby Blue.

New Munsey single released on Lotus label

Richmond Hill: Terence Munsey, a York region high school supply teacher, has released his new single, Living Without You, on his own Lotus label.

Munsey launched his own company in 1979 stating that he didn't believe in giving 80 per cent of his earnings to someone else.

The singer/writer has released two previous singles on Lotos - Come Back, and Wishing, both in 1981. Although he writes his own material and is the principal vocalist on his records, he doesn't play a note on the recordings but prefers instead to hire skilled studio players.

Munsey had chalked up early experience playing coffee houses in Yorkville but does very little live performing now, since he discovered there's very little money in it. He explained that he would rather play where people would listen, rather than a place where a person could throw a beer bottle at his expensive instruments.

prepared itself for the future by reorganizing. In addition to the name change to CHAM, the station conducted research to find out what kind of radio people really want in the Hamilton Wentworth region, introduced new stereo equipment, updated the news facilities, planned a definite direction in the music they play, and carried out promotion. The programming department is directed by Pat Bohn, news and sports by Phil Viggiani and Brian Fisher, sales by Barry Clark, and the technical crew by Rob Meuser. The station originally aired 22 years ago under the call letters CHIQ before changing to CJJD.

Unfair competition in the west

Vancouver and area FM stations are more than a little concerned with the advertising dollars KNWR Bellingham, Washington is taking away from the American FMer is on the Greater Vancouver FM cable system and they're offering choice advertising for 1/3 the price their Canadian counterparts are asking. They're also supplying more music and less interruption and laying it on pretty thick. Even if they're dumped from the system, which they probably will be, the station is only half an hour from Vancouver and covers the area anyway.

charts and playlists with each of his single releases. Includes his current single, the Grashey penning of A Dreamer And A Fool (Am I). Also includes In The Autumn Of My Life, The Beginning Of The End, and I Can't Waste Another Moment (Of My Life), all of which gained chart berths on the RPM Country 50. Producer Grashey backs this intensely serious vocalist with some of the best sidemen from Nashville including Lloyd Green, who acted as Session Leader, and the Lea Jane Singers as background vocalists. With this release, Wara should shed that relatively unknown title to that of a country performer with an established track record. Cancon.

DWIGHT TILLEY - Rock
Scuba Divers - EMI America ST-17064-F
 It was back in 1977 when Dwight Tilley set the charts on fire with I'm On Fire, but he slowly sputtered out of sight. Now, he's back and they say with a refined style. He's still a very powerful story teller, with projection and interpretation of his own lyrics that should bring back his old fans and spawn new ones. He tell us about his return with the autobiographical track, I'm Back Again. AM rockers and AOR programmers should latch onto this bright and breezy talent that's reminiscent but not entirely restricted to the sounds of the mid '70s. Also favourite are 10,000 American Scuba Divers Dancin', Touchin' The Wind and Falling In Love Again.

ORCHESTRAL MANOEUVRES - Rock
IN THE DARK
Architecture & Morality
PolyGram/Virgin VL-2231-Q
 Paul Humphries and Andrew McCluskey could become the next huge British flash.

Although this package is very close to their last release, which didn't do that well, there is a much more comfortable tie-in with the group's live performance, which could be their key to North American success. Newspaper critics have already underlined the importance of OMD as a tour group. Released as a single and already gaining heavy AM rock and AOR play is the McCluskey penning of Joan Of Arc.

BUCKNER & GARCIA - Pop/rock
Pac-Man Fever - Columbia FC-37941-H
 Atari wins its copyright claim against North American Phillips and Buckner & Garcia ride home with their hit - the title track. In fact, the whole album should gain massive airplay because of its immediacy with today's most rampant habit - video games. This is a collection of eight video game songs written by Jerry Buckner and it has all the necessary background instrumentation and noise makers to make life even more miserable for the anti-video game campaigners. Titles like The Defender, Going Berzerk, Do The Donkey Kong, Hyperspace and Froggy's lament should keep programmers happy. As well, the inner sleeve offers five different patterns for solutions to win at Pac-Man.

CIGM-FM Country spreads the word

Sudbury: Country has never been bigger in the Sudbury area and much of it is due to the programming technique of CIGM-FM and, in particular, the station's Program Supervisor, Ian Cook. Half-way through ratings last year, the station switched to country on a full-time basis, not considered a wise move by some broadcast observers. The station, however, came in second when all the tallying was completed.

Cook hosts several country shows including Talking Country with co-host Bill Rivers. They have brought much recognition to local and travelling acts including Stan Isenhower and champion fiddler Johnny Bruno. Cook has also hosted specials for Gordon Lightfoot, Ronnie Hawkins and the Larry Gatlin Special. The station is now airing the Silver Eagle Series through April. The package includes performances by the Bellamy Bros., Charley Pride and other top international country acts.

The heavy on-air personality at CIGM is Malo, a veteran country programmer who is somewhat of a legend in northern Ontario country circles. It was Malo who first brought Eddie Eastman's attention to Kingston writer Gilles Godard. He gave Eastman Godard's album and told him that Bar Room To The Bedroom was a natural for Eddie. A few months later, Eastman's manager Bob Cousins was given a Godard album by Kevin Wilson who was at CJSS Cornwall. Both Cousins and Eastman agreed that Bar Room would be perfect for Eastman's next single (currently No. 12 on the RPM Country 50), and that another cut, Sherida would be included in the session. Both cuts are included on Eastman's next album release, Intimate Strangers, to be released the end of March.

Cdn. Zephyr tribute to Lawanda Brown

Toronto: Country recording group Canadian Zephyr has released a song titled Lawanda, on their own label, Artists Alliance, dedicated to Lawanda Brown of the Family Brown.

"The song was inspired by Lawanda Brown," said guitarist John Hayman. "We had done some TV shows with the Family Brown and felt she should be more recognized. It's a salute to her."

Canadian Zephyr has recently been busy touring and are readying their next album, In Honky-Tonk Bar Rooms for August or September. The band plans a tour to coincide with the release of the LP.

"Forming our own label was something we've been wanting to do for some time," said piano player John Howard. "It's also a new experience for us. Money can also be made by the company through publishing."

The band reported they had been frustrated in the past not having control over distribution and promotion as well. They also stated they've incorporated a generous helping of rockabilly originals on their forthcoming LP. Also planned is a compilation album from Canadian Zephyr, a collection of their most requested material.

Canadian Zephyr, labeled progressive country, outlaw country, MOR country and country rock, contend they're not traditionalists and felt their material had progressed. The group performs originals as well as some standards.

Howard and Hayman pointed out that some music considered country today, wasn't years ago, and if the country fans like it, it's country music.

Devil's Lake Corral may close doors for good

Edmonton: The Devil's Lake Corral, the $6 million dinner club project, is reported to be $3 million in the red and has closed its doors, possibly for good.

An Edmonton daily reported the Corral has gone into receivership and that the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, holding the $3 million in Corral, is deciding whether to close the underattended club 50km north-west of the city.

The massive nightclub opened in August featuring expensive big-name artists and performers such as Red Skelton, Johnny Cash, Anne Murray, Tom Jones and many others. However it appeared that people did not want to pay for the high ticket prices necessitated by the entertainers booked, nor travel the distance to the shows. It was reported that the best seats for Anne Murray plus the dinner cost $104.

The club was opened by partners Wayne Bourke and Larry Schlichenmayer with the booking being done by Royalty Shows Limited.

Royalty reported they had pointed out to the management that the size of the facility did not appear large enough to accommodate 2,300 seats under existing various legislations. Royalty stated the seating capacity was reduced to about 1,500 to comply with regulations which would have a severe effect on revenue flows and ticket prices.

Royalty said they were contracted to seek out, negotiate, and contract the entertainers, in addition to producing the shows and promoting them to some degree. Shortly after the signing between Royalty and the management, the Corral designated they would be directly responsible for all approvals such as ticket prices.

Royalty contended that their research was discarded by management who were also reported to have offered one entertainer more money after he said a date at the club was out of the question for 1981. Royalty maintained that they were advised not to worry about the money or the negative points nor concern themselves with them, but to book the acts as required.

Royalty also pointed out that the cost of the acts for the Corral would be the same for a club of comparable nature. In addition Royalty reported they performed all their contractual duties but have not yet been paid.

The Edmonton paper reported if the club does re-open, there will be changes including reduced ticket prices, and booking entertainers in the course of their tours. In addition, the entertainment would be exclusively country.

Bourke was reported as stating that he's confident the bank will let him try to make the Corral work but made it clear he and his partner are not prepared to put in any more money.

The idea for the Corral started as a modest plan to build a country dance hall but grew into the multi-million project.

Peter Salahub, reported to be one of the original investors who pulled out of the project early, was stated as saying there were just too many loose ends that didn't get taken care of.
