

COLIN JAMES

ONE BAD HABIT YOU CAN'T DO WITHOUT

On his new album and debut for Warner Music Canada, Colin James' musical vision hits a remarkable new level of maturity and accomplishment. Backed by a stellar band featuring Mickey Curry - drums, Hutch Hutchinson - bass, Reese Wynans - keyboards and Waddy Wachtel - guitar, Colin delivers virtuoso vocal and guitar performances including the first single "Saviour," an enthralling slice of voofoo gospel.

BMG to release Elvis Presley '70s box set October 13

On October 13, 1995, BMG Music Canada will release Walk A Mile In My Shoes - The Essential '70s Masters, the latest box set featuring the music of Elvis Presley. Both previous Elvis box sets, The King Of Rock n' Roll - The Complete '50s Masters and From Nashville To Memphis - The Essential '60s Masters I, achieved platinum status in Canada.

The 120 tracks featured in the '70s Masters will include every A and B side released during the King's career in the 1970's, along with numerous studio highlights, and one disc will be all-live material. The set will include at least 28 previously unheard rarities which will have enormous appeal to Elvis collectors.

All of the tracks have been digitally remastered from the original source tapes, restored to the best quality possible. The repertoire features over five hours of music, representing 13 gold, three platinum, and four multi-platinum certifications. As well, for the first time, the entire Elvis Country album will be included, remixed without the overlapped segments that ran between each track on the original album.

Some of the previously unreleased/alternate performances include The Twelfth Of Never, A Hundred Years From Now, Lady Madonna, It's Different Now, Tiger Man, Rancho Grande and Froggy Went A Courtin'.

The set will also include a full-colour, 94-page booklet with numerous rare photographs, recording session data and a discography, as well as liner notes written by famed rock critic and historian Dave Marsh. The box will also include a page of full-colour, collectible stamps depicting Elvis' record covers.

According to Marsh in his essay in the booklet, "Elvis' '70s music has been picked at and picked over, issued and reissued, discussed, dissected, distorted, displayed and dismissed. But it's only now, gathered into one place, that it kind of makes you gulp a bit to realize how productive he was in the last six years of his life."

The announcement of the release of this set comes on the heels of the release of Command Performances - The Essential '60s Masters II, which features the best of the many Elvis movies.

Calgary's Hard Rock Cafe opens heart to Variety

Calgary's newly-opened Hard Rock Cafe was the setting for a Meet The Stampede Stars (the champs of the rodeo circuit), which raised more than $18,000 for the Variety Park for special children.

A project of the Variety Club of Southern Alberta, the park is being built in Calgary's southwest Glenmore Park.

More than four dozen real cowboys took part. The fundraiser was held on the eve of The Stampede (July 6), which is billed as "the greatest outdoor show on earth."

Alberta premier Ralph Klein was on hand to lend his moral support along with a large number of government and local business people, which included Calgary mayor Al Duerr, Calgary Stampeder football club owner Larry Ryckman, Hard Rock Cafe owner Sig Gestuche and IMAX publicist Sue Tuttle.

Keith Brown steps down as president of Aquarius

After a 23-year association with Aquarius Records, Keith Brown has tendered his resignation. He joined Aquarius in 1972 and was appointed president of the Montreal-based label in 1990.

A native of Hamilton, Ontario, Brown will remain in Montreal where he has launched Keith Brown Music, a service to the record industry. In the more than 25-years that Brown has been associated with the music/recording business, he has acquired a wide and varied hands-on working knowledge of the business.

He proposes to offer this knowledge to independent artists who are looking for guidance and management of their recorded works. He is also considering artist management as an option.

Brown can be reached in Montreal at 514-482-4210 or fax 514-482-4222.

Searching for the heart of the Delta

by Ron Rogers

It's been a busy 1995 for Colin James thus far. How do you define busy? How about a new record company, a new record, a brand new baby girl, and a lengthy tour on the way. As he sits in his Vancouver-area home prepping for the upcoming tour in support of his upcoming release, Bad Habits, James his first for new label Warner/Elektra, James confirms that the ball is soon to be rolling.

"I'm at home right now, but we're rehearsing, getting ready to hit the proverbial trail. We start out on the first of August, and from then on we just keep going. Thus far, things are only planned for six or seven weeks in, but I think that's only the beginning, because we're already talking about going to Paris and Northern Europe for a couple of weeks in mid-September. At which time the record comes out in America, so we'll have to get press and that whole thing ready."

James and wife Heather May recently became the proud parents of daughter Deghan Lee, who was born on June 30. "I guess that's the thing that makes it all the crazier is that we just had the baby about three weeks ago, so that obviously keeps us pretty busy."

Outside of his expanding family, the biggest change in James' existence in the past year was his departure from Virgin Records, the label with whom he had recorded his first three records. While James agrees that the parting was amicable, he also feels that it was expected, by both sides.

"It was an inevitable parting. I think a lot of people have gone through that, where you've done

Heavyshift runs afoul of Canada's airport security

Heavyshift, a British acid-jazz band, is now in North America on the Canadian leg of its HMV world-in-store tour.

The band arrived in Canada on July 18 for its performance at the HMV store on Robson Street on the 19th. They were to leave the next day for a scheduled July 22 performance at the HMV store in Edmonton's Eaton Centre. However, on the way to the plane, the band's road manager, Sean Chennery, apparently joked with airport security that they were carrying a bomb. They soon found themselves in a Canadian jail, where they sweated a bit until the matter was straightened out. They were able to continue their tour without incident.

It's expected that by the end of summer the five-piece combo will have performed live in 15 different HMV stores from Hong Kong to New York. The band is promoting Unchain Your Mind, its debut for the China label.

The Edmonton date was followed by Toronto's Sherway Gardens' store (24), Quebec City's Galeries de la Capitale (26) and the super store in Montreal (28). The band returned to Toronto for their final Canadian appearance (29) in the HMV

France and Quebec honours for WEA artists

Quebec City's Lynda Lemay received the Prix Sentier des Halles award for the "most touching performance" at the FrancoFolies de La Rochelle in France (July 23).

Lemay has been invited to perform for five nights in June of next year at Le Sentier des Halles.

Lemay's WEA album, simply titled Y, has gone gold in Canada (50,000 units). "Lynda's album is one of our top selling albums," reports Evelyn Cream, who is director of international artist development for Warner Music Canada. "It's just flying out the door."

At the same time, and on this side of the ocean, Daran et Les Chaises, a French band signed to WEA France, was awarded the Prix Miroir spécial du jury award at the Festival d'été International de Québec. The band played four sold-out shows with multiple demands for encores.

tent which was on the site of the Toronto Beaches Jazz Festival.

The unique tour, a joint initiative of HMV, China Records and Warner Music International, began at the end of June, shortly after the band's appearance at the Glastonbury Festival in England.

"As far as I know, it's the first time that any retailer has undertaken anything on this scale," says HMV Group chairman Stuart McAllister. "Heavyshift is a great jazz combo and we at HMV are proud to play our part in assisting China Records with such a novel and creative way of giving Heavyshift exposure on an international basis."

Harwood moves to Mercury/Polydor Calgary

Ken Ashdown, director of national promotion and publicity for Mercury/Polydor, has announced the appointment of Ron Harwood to the position of Calgary promotion representative.

Working out of Calgary's PolyGram Group Sales branch, Harwood will promote all Mercury/Polydor releases and artists to radio, press and television outlets in the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Harwood joined Mercury/Polydor in December of 1989 as a retail merchandising rep. He became southwestern Ontario promotion rep in the London branch office in March of 1991, before joining the company's Markham offices to become central region promotion rep in March of '93.

New Tom Cochrane set for September 19 release

The eagerly-awaited new album from Tom Cochrane is finally on the way. Ragged Ass Road will be released October 10 in Canada and internationally (except for the US). The first single, I Wish You Well, will be delivered to radio August 24.

Ragged Ass Road will mark the first album from the former leader of Red Rider since 1991's Mad Mad World, the album that helped Cochrane reach superstar status in Canada.

Produced by Cochrane and John Webster at Metalworks Studios and Cochrane's own Tom's Cabin Studios, the record was mixed by Bob

HMV has been the leader in showcasing new talent in its stores through live performances, particularly in Canada where local artists have benefitted greatly through this exposure. McAllister stresses that "talent is the lifeblood of our industry. It needs to be nurtured and given every opportunity."

Heavyshift, based in London, was founded by keyboardist William South and saxophonist John Wallace. Their music has been described as a blend of R&B, soul and Jazz, "making it sound like pop music, funky and jazzy."

Standard acquires Z95.3 and CISL in Vancouver

Standard Broadcasting recently announced that it has purchased Vancouver stations Z95.3 FM and CISL 650 AM from South Fraser Broadcasting Limited. The purchase price was $18 million.

The purchase completes a goal that Standard had set several years ago, which was to gain a foothold in the three major Canadian markets. Standard purchased stations in Calgary (CJAY-FM) and Edmonton (CFBR-FM/CFRN) in 1991.

South Fraser Broadcasting, under president and majority shareholder Michael Dickinson, won the license for Z95.3 FM in 1990, launching on May 23, 1991. The station, which last year switched from a dance to CHR format, has quickly become one of Vancouver's top-rated stations.

CISL, which Dickinson and company put on the air in 1980 with an oldies format, has been aided by the strong performance of Z95.3 FM.

Clearmountain and Tom Lord-Alge in Los Angeles.

Along with the aforementioned lead single, other track titles known at this point are Wildest Dreams, Ragged Ass Road, Crawl, Rise Up Again, Dreamer's Dream and Song Before I Leave.

Along with performing at the much-ballyhooed Big Sky Concert in High River, Alberta on the August long weekend, Cochrane has also confirmed a select number of other summer dates, including Regina (August 19), Sunfest in Gimli, Manitoba (20) and the Rocky Mountain Festival in Sudbury (26).

MCA artists The Watchmen celebrated Canada Day in style by being presented with platinum awards by MCA Records Canada staff members for the group's The Trees album.

Vancouver-based band She Stole My Beer recently celebrated their signing with MCA Canada by doing a brief concert in the parking lot of Upper Canada Breweries in Toronto. The band is pictured here getting into the mood with MCA staffers.

WALT SAYS . . . !

Pete Watson? Pete Watson?

Will the real Pete Watson stand up. The computer spell-check only recognizes the name Webster, which is why we identified MCA's promotion guy as Pete Webster. The real truth of the matter however, is that tagging Mr. Watson as Mr. Webster was our test of the week. And it worked, drawing an angry retort from no other than Sherlock Holmes. Isn't that correct Mr. Watson? (EC: Why don't you just admit you made a mistake???)

Record companies fair game!!! If you want to know what's really going on in and out of the boardrooms of the giant American entertainment conglomerates, patch into Variety. These guys don't pull any punches. Sort of like the Globe And Mail's business newshounds. Variety must have been a fly on the boardroom wall at Time Warner. The battle still goes on, but now they're into a squabble over rap music, and whether the Warner Music Group should be into it. It has been suggested that some of the violence connected with rap music could have an adverse effect on the company's stock market status. It hasn't so far. Time Warner stock price is at its highest in 52 weeks. (EC: You mean the Americans do have a culture???)

Skunky beer? That Canadian brewery that's giving itself away, left, right and centre, at most of the entertainment events (EC: It's everywhere! It's everywhere!!!) . . . and it's everywhere, should change its source of water. The last half-dozen bottles I had, smelled like swamp water. I knew I had enough when one classy celebrant chug-a-lugged her beer and burped in my face, which nearly knocked me down. (EC: What are you complaining about? It's free!!!)

Menace To Sobriety?? Ugly Kid Joe got an unexpected promo boost when PolyGram very cleverly doctored up a promotional six-pack of a premium lager called Ugly Kid Joe - Menace To Society. The claimer reads "brewed, bottled and often consumed by Ugly Kid Joe." The easily-identified album artwork is on the bottles and the six-pack. Very clever! PolyGram's promo guy, Gerry Vogel made friends tuned me with his free froth. (EC: The track that tumbled me in was Jesus Rode A Harley!!!)

Hard to live with!!! Can you name that group, that bunch, that club, referred to as the association "with an attitude?" They sure all practice the "same mind principle." Try to get something done at this place. I guess every industry has its faux-elite!!! (EC Now, you've got us all guessing!!!) Hint! They can't do anything right!!!

Wanted! A new PD!!! Rumour has it that a major market radio station is looking for a program director. Not to let you in on too much, but the format is "new country". The door is wide open. They're ready to talk to almost anyone, if they have programming qualifications. What a challenge this will be. The station continues to maintain ratings very close to the top. Don't tell them I sent you. Remember! This is just a rumour. (EC: That's the most factual rumour you've ever admitted to!!!)

Moving on!!! The Slaight empire grew a little in the west, but its Toronto gem, CFRB, could become a little duller. Jane Hawtin, who captured an impressive audience as a talk show host at CFRB, will anchor AM 640's new morning show with Gene Valaitis. Andy Barrie, who came to this country from the US 25 years ago, is vacating his mid-morning talk show. He is expected to take over CBC/740's Metro (Toronto) Morning. Also leaving the Standard flagship is Brian Linehan, one of the most knowledgeable showbiz interviewers in radio and/or television. He isn't saying where he's going, but you can be sure his huge audience will follow him. (EC: One was counting his days, the other's days were being counted and, it's a nice move for Hawtin!!!)

The Spirit's down in Duncan!!! The spirit of the west has lost its spirit in Duncan, BC. The North Cowichan Council, which looks after Duncan, said "no" to the proposed World Spirit Music Festival, which was to be held Aug 20 at Providence Farm. The festival was to be headlined by Spirit Of The West, which apparently triggered the council decision because of the audience the band would attract. Shades of Barenaked Ladies. Remember them? The Toronto mayor at the time, who is long gone, barred the band from playing Toronto's new year's eve party, and you know what happened to them. Hey! That was a pretty undesirable audience the Spirit Of The West drew to the Canada Day party on Capitol Hill in Ottawa. (EC: And millions more saw them on television!!!)

Remember Brian Plummer??? Brian Plummer released two albums, No Question, in 1980 on the Change label, and I'm As Guilty As You, in 1981, on Joe Sefel's label. Anyone knowing where the masters for these albums are, just might pick themselves up a few bucks. Give Paul Housen a call in Saskatchewan at 306-373-6903.

Proud Canadians!!! Have you ever noticed how proudly Canadian breweries promote the fact their beer is "ALL Canadian"? Even in foreign countries, they wave the Canadian banner for their brews. (EC: Is there a hidden message there???)

RPM at Baffin CD Warehouse!!! The Baffin CD Warehouse, in Iqaluit in the North West Territories, obviously has a clientele that wants to know about the behind-the-scenes and chart activity in the record business. Owner John Coogan joins the growing list of retailers that carry dealer subscriptions. (EC: Welcome to the club!!!)

Let's here it for the old guys!! Here's the latest from the Ontario Music Industry Baseball League. With the Sony 2 team beating out the Sony 1 team, guess who's in first place? Wrong! It was the old guys. You know, The Warner Wackers. (EC: They better quit now while they're ahead!!!)

Always the bridesmaid!!! The industry hackers were looking good at their annual get-together. Greg "Jukebox" Johnson's foursome won over Garry Newman's foursome, who were Robin Ram, Herb Forgie and Perry Lansing. This is the second year Newman's team came second. Get this! That new, young import offered to donate a chunk of money if the organizers made sure a team, which will remain nameless, came in last. And they did. There was also a bit of a giggle over the winners of the Horses Ass trophy. It was a good day, and upwards of $7,000 was raised for the Tourette Syndrome Foundation. (EC: That's pretty heavy stuff!!!)

three or four records and it's just time to move on. What made it all the more so was what happened when Capitol/EMI bought out Virgin, I guess three years ago now. The two presidents that were there that I knew were both asked to leave, shall we say.

"Nancy Jeffries, the A&R person who had signed me originally to Virgin America, had gone to Elektra about a year after I signed to Virgin. And that was a drag because she wasn't just any old A&R person, she's very knowledgeable and a friend and someone who's well versed in all types of music, so you can really trust her. So for all those reasons it was time to go.

"The decision was pretty much made right about the time the Little Big Band came out, as far as what they were going to do with that record. I have a lot of friends still in that company, that I actually see now and again. A couple of them actually showed up in the studio, they were coming to hear Lenny's stuff. There are a few people I really like, but it was time for a new direction."

James admits there was some shopping around done, very quietly of course, and at one point, a deal was almost on paper with another label.

"Well, we shopped around at first. It does take a while for the word to get around, and we didn't exactly announce it. So it was more a case of starting to check things out. At the end of the day, we had meetings with Island, with Chris Blackwell in particular. And were about to go ahead with the deal with him, when Warner came on board with Seymour Stein and Kim Cooke.

"Kim had phoned Seymour down in the states about it, and that was that. I flew to New York the next day, found out that Nancy Jeffries was working A&R in America at Elektra. And that's who we ended up going with in the states. Seymour was with Sire at the time, and was moving over to Elektra.

"They've treated me very well. They're going through their own set of shake ups at the moment, I'm sure you've heard all about the Warner stuff going on, and it seems to continue. So we'll just batten down the hatches and see what happens."

James adds that Warner has given him "absolutely free reign, to be honest with you. I don't think we sent any demos up before we made the record."

Recorded at Compass Point Studios in Nassau (Bahamas), produced by Chris Kimsey (Rolling Stones), Bad Habits represents James' most ardent foray into the music of the southern states - Delta blues and Memphis funk.

The new album finds James working with some of the top players and voices in the business, many of them rich in the blues and soul background: vocalists Bobby King, Terry Evans and Mavis Staples, guitarist Waddy Wachtel, Hutch Hutchinson (Bonnie Raitt's band), Mickey Curry (Bryan Adams' band), Kim Wilson (Fabulous Thunderbirds), keyboardist Reece Wynans (Stevie Ray Vaughan's band) and Lenny Kravitz.

In contrast with the be-bop/rockabilly sounds of his last effort with the Little Big Band, Bad Habits has James delving into some serious soul and blues sounds, particularly on such tracks as Saviour (the first single), Freedom, Forty-Four and Walkin' Blues (a Robert Johnson original).

"It's a little more rootsy, a lot more slide," notes James. "I've never played so much slide on a record before. I think Saviour might be one of the strangest things I've ever recorded. It's a little more Memphis, more soul, and a lot more mid-tempo grooves. There's a lot more funky, groove stuff that doesn't really rely on volume or velocity. I think the only one on the record that's straight out rock and roll is Real Stuff.

"I think there's a more continuous thread in this one than in my first two rock records. On those ones I was going from all-out rock to slow blues. On this one, I think Saviour can sit beside Walking Blues or Bad Habits, better than I Just Came Back."

While recording at a studio in Nassau may sound like a nice way to do things, James notes that the decision to head to the Bahamas was done out of necessity, as much as anything.

"After the last record we did with Virgin, we were looking for a new studio. Little Mountain was down at the time, I've usually done my stuff at Little Mountain, I'm quite partial to the room for tracking at Little Mountain. And at the time, there was no studios here that I was really in to.

"Compass Point was down for a couple of years, and they've recently started to get their clientele built up again. So it wasn't really a question of ducking the rain for the winter, although that's what ended up happening."

And was this a record that James felt he had to make? In a sense, but it did force him to lop off a number of songs he had written, simply because they didn't fit into this album's style.

"It was a record I wanted to get out. There were some songs on it that were sitting around for too long, that I axed off the record because they were more in the rock idiom. But it's because I'd sat on them for too long. There were two or three songs that I'd had written for three years, held over from back in the Virgin days, and I just lost my interest in them. They were more along the lines of what Real Stuff is, more like my old rock stuff. But I really wasn't into them anymore."

Perhaps more than any other Canadian artist (the notable exception being Jeff Healey), James is extraordinarily well-versed in the history of the blues. Dipping back into the past to revitalize an old blues standard (as he does here with Johnson's Walkin' Blues and Howlin' Wolf's Forty-Four) is something that James obviously does with pleasure, and wishes he could do more of.

"Again, there's a lot of stuff that didn't make it on the record, stuff in the slow, Delta style without a band really. Walkin' Blues is something we did live, we did a four-week romp in the midst of recording the record, and it had a real nice live thing to it. It's a song I've liked for a long time."

James also doesn't concern himself with worries that he might be doing a disservice to artists like Johnson and Howlin' Wolf to ressurect some of their music. He says that the old complaint about white artists ripping off the music of the delta hasn't really touched him.

"If I would have worried about that, I would have never played the stuff in the first place. Half the time I come up with a song, I don't usually go back and listen to the original."

Now in his thirties, with both a new wife and a new child, James only vaguely resembles the brash, bold 16 year-old kid who used to tear it up in the bars out west. And is he feeling the pressures and sobriety that often accompany one turning 30.

"I don't know, I've been feeling older ever since I was born. You turn 30, it's just another year goes by. But I'm married now, I've got a kid, I turned thirty. It's a lot different from hanging out in bars until 8:00 in the morning."

Long considered one of this country's foremost guitarists, James seems to have hit a new high on this new album. But as he himself admits, the guitar is something one is constantly learning, and re-learning.

"When you go out on the road to support a record, you play, play, play, you get really strong hands, but then you have to take a break. And then you write, and you write, and you collect, and then it's time to do the record. Usually by that time, your playing isn't a consideration when you've been sitting in a writing room, it's the song. It's strange, one day I'll figure it all out.

"It's the same in any music, but especially in slow blues. You never learn it. You just get a little closer each time.

Bad Habits, on the Elektra label (distributed by Warner Music Canada), is released to retail on August 1.

supplying the very heartfelt vocals. Recorded in two days at New Jersey's House Of Music studios, On A Full Moon has the improvisational feel of a good jazz record, while also containing the powerful keyboard flourishes of more progressive rock or even classical music. A definite jump to the left by the artist. -RR

THE BIRD SISTERS -Folk/pop
She & She & She
BS003

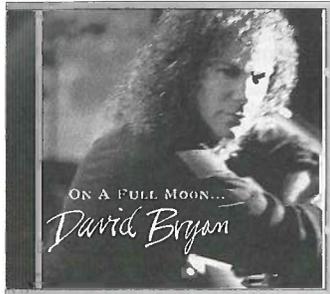

Hailing from Guelph, Ontario, the trio of ladies that make up The Bird Sisters (no, they're not all named Bird - they're Tannis Slimmon, Sue Smith and Jude Vadala) have been making music together for upwards of ten years. While the group has received impressive kudos from everyone from Stephen Fearing to the Barenaked Ladies' Ed Robertson, they haven't really garnered the type of press coverage that they might otherwise deserve. This is music you can wear like a Cowichan sweater - warm, intimate, close-knit sounds, with lyrics that speak of simple things. These ladies don't delve into an overload of politicking or philosophizing on the record. Instead, their music quite often speaks of the more elemental moments in life. And the truth, as is usually the case, is far more poetic than any fiction. The songs range from the more poppish stylings of The Pocket Song or Sugar In Surrender, to the borderline country produced by John Switzer. Among those popping up on the record are Lewis Melville (Skydiggers, Rheostatics), Jeff Bird (Cowboy Junkies) and Scott Merritt. Definitely has some crossover potential. -RR

STRAWMAN -Hard Rock

Strawman
Power and Industry Recordings PI-001
 This self-titled debut brings to mind the greatness that was once heavy (read: classic) rock a la early Alice Cooper, Iron Maiden and Black Sabbath. Historically, all of that took a beating with the onslaught of the nineteen eighties that would have the stuff softened and glamorised and, by default, detesticularized. Sometime later that decade it was, thankfully, slapped out of its spandex tights and pretty looks by the rise of grunge, but even then the genre never seemed to have recovered completely, certainly the original style was lost. And it's this style - the guitars that wailed when they weren't chugging, the slithery vocals that dabbled into the symbolic and the grotesque, the long hair and black jeans - the authentic style

DAVID BRYAN -Instrumental
On A Full Moon
Mercury-76974 2064-Q

Every rock and roll artist, no matter how long his hair is or how shabby his clothes are, at one point was simply another kid sitting in a very quiet room learning how to make a guitar or piano sound nice. A minute few of those kids will continue plying their musical motivations late into life. Even rarer still are those precious few who grow up to play in a world famous rock and roll band. David Bryan is the keyboardist in Bon Jovi, arguably the most successful rock band of the last ten years. On this, his first solo effort, Bryan has abandoned the flash and crash of the Bon Jovi repertoire for this very soft, very instrumental collection of keyboard pieces. The 15-piece album ranges from the quietly improvisational It's A Long Road and Up The River, to the classically-tinged Endless Horizon (Bryan's ode to Horowitz), to the barrelhouse jazzy sounds of Room Full Of Blues. Just to pique the curiosity of the Bon Jovi fans, Bryan also tosses in an 'unplugged' version of the Jovi hit In These Arms, a song he co-wrote with JBJ and Richie Sambora, with Bryan himself strains of Play All Your Aces and Give Me Cover, the celtic-tinged Thousand Ages, the poetic Emily (a tribute to painter Emily Carr) or the album's finest track, Am I, an almost anthem cry against domestic violence, featuring the 30-odd voices of the Moondaughter Chorus. Recorded at Orchard Studios in Norval, Ontario and Uncle Lew's Sound in Guelph, and

Adios Amigos!
Radioactive-11273-J

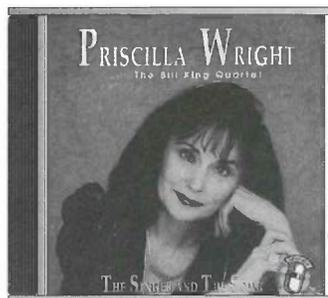

Predictability can be a good thing for a band. In this era of the retro-gold radio format, when everyone over the age of 19 is heading back to the '70s to find music to listen to, it's not a bad idea for a group to maintain the style and sound that made them famous a decade ago. This is probably one of those albums that virtually sells itself. Once you put the disc in, and launch into track one, it's pretty easy to figure out who it is. The Ramone boys haven't really changed a great deal since the days of Rock & Roll High School - a lot of churning guitars, a strong backbeat, and Joey's nasal-infected vocals. Sometimes, it doesn't even seem to matter what the song is - it's that Ramones sound that really sells the record. The first cut is a cover of Tom Waits' classic I Don't Want To Grow Up, probably as appropriate a cover as the Ramones could have found. The rest is along the same lines, straight ahead rock and roll, played with a loud guitar and some very strong attitude. -RR of it that has been reclaimed by this Toronto band, albeit with the injection of a few more cultivated nuances. Interests in multimedia aside, the disc is a real treat, unfolding like a well told tale pumped to life by a band that resists the expected, specifically the showcasing of one or another instrument (usually the guitar) to the detriment of the songs. A mature handle on the creative ebb and flow of musical ideas in a collaborative setting, Strawman seem as equally comfortable with the punky aggressiveness of Curse The Padre as they are with the anthem like Shooter and the sublimeness of See How They Run. A rare, thoroughly original band, a great hook and thirteen smokin' tunes adds up to a product that will undoubtedly get the fan base with or without major label support. -RG

PRISCILLA WRIGHT -Pop 'n Jazz
The Singer And The Song
Radioland-10003-Q

Bill King adds immediate credibility to his newly-launched Radioland label with the release of this debut by Wright. The Man In A Raincoat (1955) immediately comes to mind at the mention of the name Priscilla Wright. But that was then. This is Wright now, vocally creative and displaying a tonal quality and projection that allows for a beautiful tapestry of exquisite material from some of the masters of jazz and pop. Gordon Jenkins has been more or less shunted into the background, even by music historians, but Wright brings this renowned tunesmith back into prominence with her tender, lyrically imaginative version of Goodbye. She does the same with George and Ira Gershwin's A Foggy Day and They All Laughed, George Shearing's Lullaby Of Birdland, The Summer Knows, written by Michel Legrand and Marilyn and Alan Bergman and the Johnny Mandel and Paul Francis Webster penning of A Time For Love. But don't overlook the David Gates' penning of If. Recorded at

TRIPPING DAISY -Alternative
I Am An Elastic Firecracker
Island 314-524 112-2-F

What kind of a handle is Tripping Daisy? And who is that poor sod on the album cover with all that goo smeared over him? And why is he an elastic firecracker? And what is an elastic firecracker anyway? Alas, these and other enigmas will have to be resolved in the imagination of the listener but that's not such a bad thing considering the kind of tunes that have been bundled up for your convenience (presumably to help you stamp out the question marks). Put as starkly as possible, I Am An Elastic Firecracker is a funny, inventive, happy go erudite slice of the alternative pie. And an interesting thing, that. Methinks "alternative music" has lately come to mean what we have always meant by "rock and roll," so it's entirely a good thing to see that some bands have actually taken the label semi-seriously. A brief listen to single I Got A Girl (which has bulletted to #8 on RPM's Alternative 30) and Rocketpop will give you the funny parts, and distinctive arrangements on Same Dress New Day, Motivation and the 9 minute 20 second Prick will give you the inventive parts respectively. Everything else will give you the happy go erudite parts and more than enough brain food with which to contemplate the many riddles behind Tripping Daisy's whimsical lyrics and idiosyncratic brand of mail art. -RG

THE PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS -Pop/Rock
Where's The Bone
Iron Music-51003-N

Cynicism in music used to refer to punk, at least when punk was still raging long into the night. But take away the black boots, the razor-sharp Mohawks and the ferocious violence, and you're left with something like The Pursuit Of Happiness. Moe Berg and company have never adorned themselves in a lot of black leather or chains, but their cynical, sarcastic outlook on the world around us is definitely similar to a punkish attitude. In the group's formative years, Berg was focussing a great deal on the often laughable antics of modern sexuality. But on this new release, the group's first since parting ways with Mercury/Polydor, Berg has chosen to abandon his previous lyrical intent, instead attempting this time out to channel some more diverse sources. Political correctness has obviously been a thorn in Berg's side, as is evidenced by such tracks as White Man, Falling In and Save The Whales. And as he himself admits, he's also been doing some serious channel surfing, obvious on such songs as Blowing Bubbles and No Reason. Berg even does a tidy bit of hero worship, penning a song for Wayne Gretzky (Gretzky Rocks), featuring the classic line: I like the Hawks, but boy oh boy Wayne Gretzky rocks! -RR

Toronto's Strawman harbours weird little zoo

by Rod Gudino

Al McMullan and John Hitzroth are two halves of the same person. McMullan is pale, speaks frequently and agitatedly; anxious at heart, he is a stage recluse. Hitzroth is dark, composed, soft-spoken and precise. The two form the schizophrenic nucleus of a mutually manufactured Person they call Strawman. One has the impression that the metaphor is fiercely accurate if only to describe the intensity of the collaborative bond between the two: "If something happened to one or the other of us and we stopped talking," says McMullan, "there is almost no song that could be taken away from this pot that could be clearly identifiable as [belonging to] one or the other. It's that close."

Strictly speaking, however, Strawman is a much larger Person that extends over an entire community of musicians, artists, poets, sculptors and filmmakers, all held fast by shared commercial obscurity and the hunger for artistic identity. "We call it a tribe," says McMullan triumphantly. Barely three months out of the recording studio and into the public eye, the community have quickly been recognized as a creative anomaly in Toronto, a response that undoubtedly stems from the group's conceptual origins as a sort of Renaissance theatre troupe. "We've always had this idea," explains McMullan: "The little cart would roll into town, the sides would all fold away, there'd be some musicians, a couple of actors, there'd be a whore, there'd be a juggler. That's what we want," he continues, "we want this weird little zoo."

Even so, the band is aware that the creative combination of artforms is as delicate a matter as juggling china, especially with finicky hard rock audiences not used to this type of thing. "It's hard for a spoken word artist to open for a rock band," admits Hitzroth. "You're not going to reach everybody with it and not everybody is going to understand it." Still, McMullan insists that the experience is a positive one for all involved. "All of us just find a way, as inexpensively as possible, to cohere all of our stuff together in a way that makes the whole larger than the sum of the parts. We get in return for that an amazing looking show, at least a show that makes you go, 'I've never seen that before.'"

Of course, the concept of rock as theatre, as spectacle, is a concept that drew much interest in the 1970s but eventually ran into trouble. Roundly criticised today, many saw the '70s as a time that saw musical ambition give way to glib pretentiousness and theatrical sensation to cardboard pomposity. After the surge of punk followed by its resurgence as grunge, rock music seems to show little interest in revisiting those bygone days. Nevertheless McMullan and Hitzroth, though acutely aware of this, believe wholeheartedly that the quality of the product is ultimately the deciding factor. "This is an awfully ambitious thing given the climate," says McMullan, adding that "We are by no means a major buzz band," though the three months of performing have generated enough curiosity. "This band is about communicating, not just between people but between artforms, ghettoized stuff," he continues. "It has to organically work and if you can make it work, why the hell wouldn't you try to make it work?"

Actress and artist Ann Magnuson offers Geffen debut

Singer, actress and performance artist Ann Magnuson will offer up her first foray into a recording career later this fall, with her Geffen/MCA album The Luv Show set for a November release.

Magnuson first rose to prominence in the music field as the principal singer/songwriter of the cult indie band Bongwater. Other musical sidelihts including performing as the Raven in the pseudo-heavy metal band Vulcan Death Grip, and as a member of the folk group Bleaker Street Incident and the all-girl percussive orchestra Pulsalama.

Produced by Magnuson and noted indie producer Don Fleming, The Luv Show is described as "a post-modern A Star Is Born, a Valley Of The Dolls with attitude". The album, which chronicles the rise and fall of a small-town girl with larger aspirations, is filled with everything from spoken word to high-brow burlesque and low-brow pathos.

Appearing with Magnuson on the record are ex-Bongwater bandmates Dave Rick, David Light and Randall A. Hudson III. The album was recorded in a New York City studio, as well as the garage of Los Angeles artist Mike Kelley.

Magnuson began work on the album while starring in her own critically-acclaimed one-woman show, You Could Be Home Now, which enjoyed lengthy runs in New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Toronto and Seattle. Magnuson has appeared on numerous albums in the past, including a performance with John Cale on his operetta Life Underwater.

Television and film watchers may know Magnuson from her numerous appearances on the big and small screens, including her role as the boss of Jamie Lee Curtis and Richard Lewis on the ABC sitcom Anything But Love. Her movie appearances include the films The Hunger, Desperately Seeking Susan, Clear And Present Danger and Making Mr. Right.

Jason McCoy hits #1 with his MCA debut, This Used To Be Our Town. Taken from his self-titled album, the song was written by McCoy, Denny Carr and Chris Lindsey. Learning A Lot About Love, a song McCoy wrote with Terrine Barnes, his fiancée, has been taken as the follow-up. The new single goes to radio immediately.

Jeff Carson has the big gainer this week with Not On Your Love jumping into the #39 slot from #90. Not too much on this newcomer, but he is certainly turning heads in the US and has caught on very quickly in Canada. A follow-up, Yeah Buddy, is included on EMI promo CD comp 21.

Shania Twain's follow-up, The Woman In Me (Needs The Man In You), is now at radio. The new release is the title track of her album, which is close to double platinum (200,000 units) in Canada, and now certified platinum (one million units) in the US.

Twain's last single, Any Man Of Mine, which topped the RPM Country 100 (June 5/95), hits #1 in the US this week. The Americans are about three weeks behind, but are expected to catch up with this new release, which, like her other #1 singles was written by herself and husband Mutt Lange.

Sawyer Brown has the most added single this week with (This Thing Called) Wantin' And Havin' It All. The band's new Curb/EMI single enters the chart at #76. The track is from their Greatest Hits

MCA Records pulls all stops to maintain country status

Hot on the heels of MCA Records Canada's new Canadian signing Jason McCoy topping the RPM 100 with This Used To Be Our Town, his debut for the label, comes news of a major release schedule of country product for the fall.

Ed Harris, country product manager for MCA Records Canada, has set in motion a giant promotion campaign to bring home the largest fall release of country product in some time.

New albums from five of MCA's major country acts have been slated for late September. These include albums from The Mavericks, Reba McEntire and George Strait. "And that's just the start," says Harris.

New studio albums from Mark Chesnutt and Wynonna are also on the fall schedule for an October and November release respectively.

"In terms of country releases," continues Harris, "the last quarter of 1995 promises to be one of the biggest MCA has seen in recent years."

Music For All Occasions, the new album from The Mavericks, showcases the songwriting and vocal talent of lead singer Raul Malo. He was involved in writing eight of the ten songs. He is also heard in collaboration with Trisha Yearwood on the Frank and Nancy Sinatra classic Something Stupid. The band's current album, What A Crying Shame, is close to double platinum (200,000 units) in Canada.

Starting Over Again, Reba McEntire's follow-up to Read My Lips, now in excess of 250,000 units in Canada, is also being readied for a late fall release. The release of the album will actually coincide with a five-city Canadian tour in October. Produced by Tony Brown and Michael Omartian, the new album includes Heat Wave (Martha and the Vandellas), Misty Blue (Dorothy Moore) and Ring On Her Finger (Lee Greenwood).

Strait Out Of The Box, a four-CD box set from George Strait, is scheduled for a September release. The collection will feature all of Strait's hits, plus two new singles recorded specially for this set, produced by Tony Brown. The package will also contain a duet with Frank Sinatra of Sinatra's classic, Fly Me To The Moon.

After having recorded his last four albums with producer Mark Wright, Mark Chesnutt is scheduled to release his new album on Oct. 4, produced by Tony Brown. The first single from the album will be Trouble, written by MCA Nashville labelmate Todd Snider. Chesnutt recently played several successful dates in western Canada.

A new album from Wynonna, her follow-up to Tell Me Why, is also being readied for a Nov. 22 release, her first in more than two years. She has remained in the public eye however, with the release of the movie based on the Judds story, which included duets with Clint Black and Michael English. Wynonna produced the new album with Tony Brown. To Be Loved By You will be the first focus track, which will go to radio in early October.

Harris is also hinting at the possible late November or early December release of the Buddy Holly tribute, Not Fade Away. Among those contributing to this project were Mark Knopfler, Waylon Jennings, Steve Earle, Marty Stuart, The Mavericks, The Band and Los Lobos.

The fall schedule of releases along with continuing sales on Tracy Byrd's Love Lessons, Jason McCoy's self-titled debut and the Country Best Untamed And True 2 project, can only solidify MCA's hold on the country market.

Says Harris, "We are already planning a major fall country campaign. The slate of releases dictates that we will be bullish in our marketing efforts and that MCA retains its spot as the premiere label in country music."

CFR's Jacquie Donaldson to co-host CISS-FM show

Jacquie Donaldson, who co-hosted the morning show at CFR Calgary, moves into the Toronto market to co-host CISS-FM's morning show with Cliff Dumas. She will join Dumas in mid-August.

Prior to CFR, Donaldson was on air at FM 96 in Calgary.

Joining the major market "new country" station will be a bit of a homecoming for Donaldson, who went to school in Toronto. Her mother lives in Burlington, Ontario.

Surprise guests sign in for Gene MacLellan tribute

John Gracie is putting the finishing touches to his tribute to Gene MacLellan (RPM - June 26/95) which he reports, "included some wonderful guest performances by some well-known Maritime musicians."

Doris Mason dropped by to add her vocals, along with new country recording artist Trina and the Gordon Stobbe Traditional Trio which features Stobbe, Skip Holmes and Greg Simm. Shimon Walt, the accomplished cellist of the Nova Scotia Symphony, made a special appearance, as did Ken Enman, the highly accomplished nylon-string guitarist from Summerside, Prince Edward Island. MacLellan's longtime friend and bass player Garth Proude also sat in on the session. Adding that important choral sound was the St. Thomas Baptist Church Junior Choir of North Preston under the direction of Viva Simmons.

Other musicians taking part in the session were Ross Billard, Dave Isner, Don Chapman and Rick Edgett.

Entitled Gene MacLellan - The Tribute, the album is being recorded at Terry Pullium's Sound Market Studio in Halifax.

The release date of the album will be announced shortly.

Upcoming dates include the Halifax Grand Parade (July 21), North Sydney's Bartown Days (27), the Dominion Arena in Cape Breton (28), the New Minas Days (Aug 11), the Cape Breton Exhibition in Sydney (20), Halifax's Granville Market (24) and Truro's Nova Scotia Provincial Exhibition (24).

1990-95 album. The song was written by Ronnie Samoset and Dave Loggins. Production was by Mark Miller and Mac McAnally.

Pete Watson, MCA's promo guy, dropped off the new single by The Mavericks, Here Comes The Rain, and Love Lessons, the new album by Tracy Byrd. The Mavericks could have two charted singles going for them. Blue Moon, written by musical theatre giants Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart (RPM's Pick Hit - July 24/95), has already been given the nod by NCN. This track is included on the Apollo 13 Soundtrack, which is also on the MCA label. A/C programmers are already giving heavy rotation status to this track. Here Comes The Rain, written by Raul Malo and Kostas, was taken from the band's upcoming album, Music For All Occasions, and is expected to make quick moves up the charts.

Jimmy Collins is showing early signs of country stardom. Rodeo Rock, his debut on the Zoo Entertainment label, is one of the hottest country dance singles on the market. The Zoo label is only now entering the country market and Collins should give the California label a good foothold. Zoo recently signed Prairie Oyster.

Billy Ray Cyrus is back on the charts, this time with a Columbia release, The Fastest Horse In A One Horse Town. Taken from the Columbia album, Nascar Runnin' Wide Open, the song was written by Tony Haselden and Don Von Tress. The album was produced by Jim Cotton, Joe Scaife and Blake Chancey. The single enters the chart this week at #96.

Terri Clark is charted with her Mercury release, Better Things To Do. This native of Medicine Hat, Alberta, has turned more than a

Jeanne Sauvé Award nominations opened

The Department of Canadian Heritage and Canadian Women in Communications (CWC) have called for nominations for the annual Jeanne Sauvé Award. Deadline for nominations is October 2, 1995.

Created by the Heritage Department and administered by the CWC, the award provides women in the communications industry with opportunities to gain first-hand knowledge of federal communications policy, the role of the department and its impact on the industry.

Two candidates will embark on a ten-week internship program in the Heritage Department during March-May 1996. The program will be designed to reflect each candidate's professional interest and experience, while also offering new challenges.

This year's eligible candidates will be chosen from the industry sectors of broadcast, cable, telecommunications and allied fields, including multimedia. The candidates must have a minimum of three years' related industry experience, demonstrated initiative and strong interpersonal and analytical skills. Candidates must also be in a management position or have the potential to attain such a position.

Employers who believe that they and their female employees will benefit from the experience are urged to contact the CWC at 416-363-1880 (Toronto) or 1-800-361-2978 to acquire more information or nomination forms.

few heads in Nashville, where her self-titled album was recorded. The album was produced by Keith Stegall and Chris Waters (RPM Albums - July 24/95). Clark is listed as one of the writers of the new single, along with Waters and Tom Shapiro, but the track does not qualify as Cancon.

Western Flyer got its foot in the door with Canadian country programmers through the promotional efforts of the Edmonton-based Royalty label, which has Canadian distribution rights to the band's Nashville-based Step One Records. Cherokee Highway, the band's Canadian debut, made an immediate impact and is now descending the chart (#78) after 13 weeks. The follow-up, Friday Night Stampede, is making similar impact and enters the chart at #94. US trades are also hot on this release. The band's self-titled album, available through Royalty distribution is beginning to register retail action.

Tracy Lawrence should be heading up the charts once again. His latest Atlantic release, If The World Only Had A Front Porch, is showing early signs of across-the-board acceptance by country programmers. This is the follow-up to Texas Tornado, now descending the chart (#24) after 15 weeks. Both tracks were taken from his I See It Now album.

MCA release soundtrack for To Wong Foo . . .

MCA Records has set an August 30 date for the release of the soundtrack from the upcoming Amblin Entertainment film To Wong Foo, Thanks For Everything, Julie Newmar.

The film itself stars Wesley Snipes, Patrick Swayze and John Leguizamo as three stars of New York City's drag-queen beauty pageant circuit who somehow find themselves stranded in the backwards midwestern town of Snydersville, Nebraska.

One of the highlights of the soundtrack will be Turn It Out by the reunited R&B trio Labelle (featuring Patti Labelle, Nona Hendryx and Sarah Dash). Also being touted is I Am The Body Beautiful from hip-hop queens Salt-N-Pepa.

The soundtrack producers have also chosen some classic crossover hits from the past, including Tom Jones' She's A Lady, Chaka Khan's Free Yourself, and The Commodores' Brick House. Also featured are Who Taught You How by Crystal

Waters, Over The Rainbow by Patti Labelle, Do What You Wanna Do by new artist Charisse

Jazz Inspiration signs US distribution deal

Toronto-based label Jazz Inspiration has signed a distribution deal with Independent National Distributors Inc. (INDI), for exclusive distribution rights in the US. The deal allows for the distribution of Jazz Inspiration's entire catalogue in the US over the next two years.

Jazz Inspiration was formed in 1990 by entertainment lawyer and radio producer Arnold B. Schwisberg. Since its inception, the label has been distributed here in Canada by MCA. The label, which focusses on both contemporary and traditional jazz, has produced some 20 records in the past five years featuring Canadian talent.

Arrington, Nobody's Body by new Uptown/MCA artist Monifah and a remix of Girls Just Wanna Have Fun by Cyndi Lauper.

INDI is a national distributor founded in 1990 to allow for national distribution of independent music. The company is comprised of separate branch offices covering the entire US region, and has its own promotions group. INDI is responsible for some 80% of major retailers' independent purchasing in the US.

Some of the Jazz Inspiration artists to be released in the US in the new arrangement include fusion quartet Five After Four (featuring Juno nominee Vito Rezza), guitarist Stan Samole, guitarist/vocalist Dawn Thomson, and guitarist and Oscar Peterson bandmember Lorne Lofsky.
