Joaquin Cortés makes Canadian debut in Vancouver

Tickets are now on sale for the Toronto debut of flamenco superstar Joaquín Cortés, who is billed as "the brightest star to appear on the Spanish dance scene in decades." Cortés will perform Passion Gitana (Gypsy Passion) at the Ford Centre for the Performing Arts for 13 performances only (April 8-19).

Cortés' Toronto date follows immediately after his Canadian debut at Vancouver's Centre for the Performing Arts (March 31 - April 5).

His Gypsy Passion production has been on tour through Europe, Japan and Australia since 1995. Following the Toronto engagement he will take his show to New York.

Cortés' style of dance has been branded "flamenco fusion," a mixture of ballet, flamenco, jazz and contemporary dance. The show features, together with Cortés, acclaimed soloist Cristóbal Reyes as well as a corps de ballet of 11 dancers and 13 musicians.

Cortés' first release on the EMI label is titled Gipsy Passion Band (the spelling of Gipsy is correct), which was released in Europe six months ago. EMI's marketing manager of catalogue and jazz Warren Stewart expects to have product available for his Canadian debut.

Celine Dion firmed for Molson Amphitheatre

Brigitte Koppas, of Universal Concerts Canada, confirms two performances by Celine Dion at the Molson Amphitheatre at Ontario Place (Toronto) on Sept. 8 and 9.

Dion, who has become the pop phenomenon of the '90s, has chalked up world-wide sales of more than 70 million albums over the past few years. Dion's latest Columbia album, Let's Talk About Love, has sold more than one million copies in Canada since its release in November of last year and sits at #3 on the RPM Top 100 CDs chart, just behind the Titanic Soundtrack at #2 with its sales fueled by Dion's theme song My Heart Will Go On, which has topped the RPM A/C chart for seven consecutive weeks and returns to the #1 slot this week. The single sits at #1 on the RPM 100 Hits Chart for the fourth consecutive week.

Falling Into You, Dion's previous album was the best selling album in 1996. It won Album of the Year and Best Pop Album at the 39th Grammy Awards last year. Dion now has 16 Junos, four Grammy Awards and five World Music Awards.

Cortés gained popularity in North America for his film roles in Pedro Almodóvar's film The Flower Of My Secret and Carlos Saura's film Flamenco. A Gypsy by birth and a choreographer and dancer by training, the 29-year old, was a soloist with the Spanish National Ballet when still a teenager and now dances with his own company, the Joaquín Cortés Flamenco Ballet. He has become a sex symbol across Europe by bringing what is described as "a white-hot sexual energy" back to dance.

Cortés and his company has also become somewhat of a centre piece for the fashion industry. Designer Giorgio Armani has created the costumes for Cortés and his company. Cortés also regularly sports Armani attire.

The Canadian dates are being presented by Livent in association with Pino Sagliocco.

Songwriters Chris Sheppard (r) and Bradley Daymond receive SOCAN #1 plaques for their dance track Broken Bones. The song, performed by Love Inc. held the top spot on the RPM Dance chart for two weeks (Feb. 9-16, 1998).

COVER STORY

France's Emma Shaplin sets new trend in music

Global music observers are predicting that Parisian chanteuse Emma Shaplin will add a powerful touch to a new trend in pop music with her debut release of Carmine Meo.

Born in the suburbs of Paris in 1974, Shaplin has incredible natural operatic vocal properties, not in the least contaminated by her short stint with a Paris hard rock band.

A chance meeting with an ex-rock star from the '80s, J.P. Capdevielle where they talked about the late opera diva Maria Callas and grunge, new age and Verdi, led to a recording session of nine songs with original melodies "in which the voice intertwines with the rhythmic loops, panoramic synthscapes, orchestral instrumentation, growling bass and drums and... an operatic chorus," appropriately describes what came off that session and became Carmine Meo. Interesting too is that the nine songs are performed in Latin and 14th century Italian, the language of Petrarch, Dante and Aristotle, a language that hasn't been spoken for centuries. And not too many people today understand this language.

Linda Dawe of Toronto-based Music Solutions, who is handling PR for the Musicor (Select) album, is buoyed by the warm reception she has received from radio, television and the print media for the first single spente le stelle.

This offering is another in the continuing trend to make opera and operatic-type music part of the mainstream. Recent examples are Michael Bolton, Aretha Franklin and Pavarotti's enchantment with pop stars.

WALT SAYS . . . !

RPM conforms!!! A memo has been handed out to the staff of RPM that no Canadian flags will be allowed on desks in our premises. This is to comply with the recent ruling by the House of Commons. Failure to comply will result in instant dismissal. (EC: Does that also apply to the little emblem I wear on my collar whenever I travel???) A flag is a flag whether it's cloth or metal! Meanwhile Sheila Copps will have some questions to answer about all those flags she spent money on and just how many desks they're on! (EC: And get rid of those two flags on each side of the Speaker!!!) You've been there?

Next new sound in the biz!!! I predict we will have a lot of new records climbing the charts that will follow the trend started by Michael Bolton with his rendition of Nessun dorma. Aretha Franklin did the same tune (EC: TUNE???) on the Grammys and I feel that a lot of artists will follow suit. Rumour has it that Celine Dion is looking at one of the tunes from Madama Butterfly. (EC: TUNE???) Pavarotti is starting to look around for some tune from Gotterdammerung! (EC: A Wagner tune!!!) Check out Spente Le Stelle by Emma Shaplin. Her current European hit! (EC: Opera with a touch of pop would be a welcome change for both music forms!!!)

Legend faux faux!!! Radio tracking person who requested adds from an oldie station. Thought they may have added Turn Me Loose by Fabian. Might have even put it in heavy rotation! (EC: Spins will do!!!)

Hi neighbour!!! Can you name the record exec extraordinaire who recently bought in Palm Springs next door to a pop deva on his label? (EC: Borrowing a cup of sugar will be an experience!!!)

Twenty-two seconds of fame!!! Even Andy Warhol allowed 15 minutes, but Madonna's people gave local photogs 22 seconds and then . . . that's all and hustled her away! (EC: Most of the pictures were of her walking away from the photo-opportunity!!!)

Merry-Go-Round!!! Take one of the six! (EC: B. E. U. P. S. W.???) Tidy it up to make it five. Take the guy from "U" and make him "C" and the guy from "E" can be the "P". (EC: What do you get if you figure that one out???) A straight jacket!

They never learn!!! What's-his-name, and I can't even use an initial and what's-her-name, who are very close buds, failed the Pepsi challenge and are now on coke. (EC: At least they're enjoying together . . . like oral sex, maybe???)

Till the money runs out!!! DB says when he was in the green, his closest friends were pushers, and he learned too late what Robin Williams said that "getting hooked on cocaine is God's way of saying you're making too much money." (EC: When they're high they don't listen. When they come down, they can't!!!)

The golden fleece!!! When Jason gets through with the Junos, we may see a much better show. Got some nasty comments about my criticism of the Junos. Those who can't . . . criticize! Well, I could! I did, and now I can criticize. (EC: You'll have to explain that to everyone under 30!!!)

No Cancon . . . con!!! Somewhere out there in Canada, there is a singer better than Celine, a country singer better than Shania, a comedian better than Jim Carrey! All you have to do is find them and then find someone to administer their careers and make them a star! There is talent out there! Now go find it! (EC: What a challenge!!!)

Industry note!!! The CRTC 30% Cancon ruling was not created to foster a record industry in Canada. It was created to bring something Canadian to the publicly owned airwaves in Canada and to foster a Canadian identity! There is nothing in the Broadcast Act that said radio had to create a record industry. (EC: But why would anyone born after 1970 know that???)

Film, television star system??? Can you think of a greater success story than that of Canadians in film and television around the world? Stars, producers, writers, comedians and every aspect of the business can boast a Canadian influence. Big problem is they have to leave Canada and the brain drain will continue. Canada just can't keep them here! There is a star system and this is the greatest training ground in the world. (EC: Would you come back???) Only for a visit!

Legal payola??? Watch for record companies and the radio people to create a new bond, with record companies buying time to air a portion of new releases. Can't see anything wrong with that. If the radio station won't play a record, buy time on the station to have it played. They should have been doing that years ago. (EC: A new can of worms???)

Celebrity building??? Here's a clothier who knows how to build the status of a celebrity. Harry Rosen, who's motto is "Whatever suits you." has gone to the pop Cancon stars. What a great idea. On page 3 of the March 17 issue of Canada's national newspaper, he shows off what Gordie Johnson, Big Sugar frontman, will be wearing at the Juno Awards. Great looking clothes, but can Big Sugar's fans afford a three-button tuxedo with black satin vest for $1250, a silk tie for $100, black loafers at $350, all Boss Hugo Boss, all done up in a massive ad. And get this, for appearing in the ad, Rosen is making a donation to the Canadian Diabetes Association. (EC: Does he get to keep the clothes???) Now Roots should look at Cancon pop stars to wear their stuff in their ads to show that Roots isn't just for sports stars! (EC: Wasn't that one of your overpaid wannabees in a celebrity spread recently in a Roots jacket???) That was the "unfamous"!

A new Hummingbird sound!!! I was looking forward to hearing Liza Minnelli on the Hummingbird's new sound system. It's called the Lexicon Acoustic Reinforcement and Enhancement System, or LARES for short. There was a preview listening session last week hosted by Murray McLachlan where we heard Mary Jane Lamond, A Classical Trio, jazz artist Trudy Desmond, and the powerful tenor voice of Richard Margison, with the sound off and then on. A remarkable system that uses 300 diffusers recessed in the ceiling and side walls. The system comprises microphones, speakers, amplifiers, delay units and sophisticated hardware and software which allows for an acoustical environment. Sound too technical? Try it out. Even Charles Cutts of Roy Thomson and Massey Halls was impressed. (EC: You mean we don't have to worry about shorted mikes anymore???)

In case you were wondering!!! Titanic star Leonardo DiCaprio was apparently being considered for the lead in a porno/legit movie after having impressed the director/producer with a tool that would look good on camera. Then, along came Marky (Mark Wahlberg) Mark, who apparently did the audition thing and won out over DiCaprio by a full inch. You can catch a peek at DiCaprio's claim to fame in an upcoming issue of Playgirl. (EC: What a triumph for Marky Mark, and think of the billing: champion, by an inch!!!)

Where's the rubber ducky??? Seems some "muscle-guy" took advantage of the huge bathtub in the BMG suite during CMW. Most onlookers thought he was smashed, but he's just an ego-maniac. (EC: Even the dope smokers thought he was weird!!!) That's literally the pot calling the kettle black. LZ says that was the only rock n' roll thing that happened all weekend. (EC: Way to go!!!)

Strawberries change with the season

by Rod Gudino

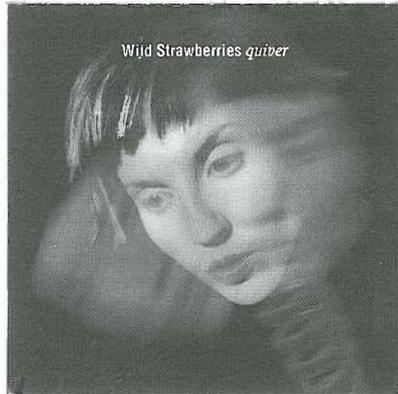

It's that old cliché; you know the one. It finds its way -- miraculously -- onto the lips of seemingly every artist on the planet at one time or another: "Our music is not about one thing... our music is always changing..." etc., etc., ad nauseam. And yet (even more miraculously) the phenomenon of bands cranking out the same old thing year after year remains as real as the cold sting of a hypodermic needle. It's the small percentage of bands that actually dares the cliché that ends up standing out of the rat pack, for better or worse.

Just ask Roberta Carter-Harrison, the female half of Wild Strawberries, the wonder pop band of yesteryear that scored big with several huge singles, notably I Don't Want To Think About It and Heroine. She and co-creator/significant other Ken Harrison decided that this year's release, titled Quiver, wouldn't just be different in title alone; they opted to take that much maligned cliché and run with it.

"Ultimately, I think our record company would have loved it if we'd written I Don't Want To Think About It again," laughs Carter-Harrison. "And it's not specifically Nettwerk, I think all record companies either want you to repeat your best single or at least do something similar to what's on top of the charts right now. But that's not something we really considered."

Quiver is anything but a repeat. A piece of finely crafted pop weirdness, the album strains an obvious post-modernist context with the sound of psychedelic antiquity, care of Harrison's ongoing love for scouring pawn shops across North America. The instruments he turns up on occasion, apparently end up dictating where the music will go, which leaves little in the way of label meddling and singles fashioned in the board room. But just to set the record straight, Nettwerk Records did come around on Quiver, even if, in Carter-Harrison's words, it took them a little while to get used to the new vibe.

"There was pressure there, definitely," she confides, "but our pressure for ourselves was to try not to do what we did before; not just to be cantankerous, we just didn't want to do the same thing again. If an artist gives me the same record or a similar vibe, even if I loved the last record, I won't buy the new one. The new Portishead, for example, that doesn't go anywhere from their last so I won't buy their next album, most likely."

Quiver's main departure from the Wild Strawberries we knew last year is a significant darkening of subject matter. Wild Strawberries circa 1998 more resembles Ingmar Bergman's moody classic from which the duo culled their band name. Gone (for the most part) are the bright summery numbers that made them an easy pop phenom last several years; in is a swarthy progressivism evident on tracks like Speak Of The Devil, Blunt and I Guess I'm Amused. Label has decided to go with Trampoline at radio and will follow up with Pretty Lip, the album's more obvious radio track.

"I think this time the songs feel a bit suited to the lyrics," says Carter-Harrison. "In the past we tried to have really bright sounding pop songs with darker lyrics and we were after the contrast, this time we wanted less of a contrast. Just when pop is really big at radio, we've decided not to do it."

Their approach has allowed the two to lyrically open up the songs to a degree they hadn't before, specifically in the use of fictional characters to narrate the words. It's yet another layer added to a finely tiered album which is Wild Strawberries' most ambitious thus far. Carter-Harrison explains it this way:

"We like the idea of the unreliable narrator," she says, "not everything that is written in the lyrics is necessarily something that I would agree with or expound myself and Ken the same. He always tried to avoid making a personal record; always tried to run away from that. As for me, if I was looking into my diary for inspiration, I don't think it would be that interesting to people."

What was that we said about the old cliché? The proof of it, friends, is in the record.

Wild Strawberries will be touring with The Philosopher Kings beginning March 24 in Winnipeg and going west across the country.

Urban music seminar set for Montreal

The Montreal Urban Music Seminar (MUMS) will be held April 9 through 12 at the Hotel Radisson Gouverneurs. The seminar will examine the state of urban music and hopefully open dialogue channels between the Canadian and American urban music markets.

The seminar includes a series of events ranging from discussion panels, signed and unsigned artist showcases, social affairs and city tours.

A slate of 12 panels has been scheduled for the seminar, including discussions on issues surrounding urban music, such as the artistic endeavour in light of general developments, media and advertising and the business of music.

Panel speakers will include established artists, media personalities, industry figures and business representatives. Guest speakers firmed at time of writing include Mona Scott of Violator Records who is also involved in the management activities for Busta Rhymes, Tribe called Quest and Mobb Deep, Cedric Welch of Wu-Tang Management, and Allen S. Gordon of Rap Pages.

Additional events include fashion shows, celebrity sports events and equipment and music technology workshops.

Warner strengthens image in Northern Ontario

Warner Music Canada President Garry Newman has announced the appointment of Gregory Balec to the position of customer service representative in Thunder Bay, Ontario. Warner is the first major label with a representative in Northern Ontario, increasing the number of branch offices (including satellites) to 15 cities.

Warner's first satellite branch was opened in Ottawa in 1986. Since then satellite branches have been opened in Hamilton, London, Quebec City, Regina and Kelowna.

"In 1986, we made a bold move to better serve the Ottawa market by having Mary Armstrong service the region," says Newman. "Our success in the Ottawa area has led us to place other representatives in six more markets. The real winners are the retail customers and radio stations who will enjoy Warner Music personal service."

Prior to this appointment, Balec was an assistant manager at HMV's Thunder Bay intercity location. His appointment is effective immediately.

Toronto's entertainment strip setting for Walk of Fame

Canada's veteran and rising new stars will soon become the centrepiece of Toronto's entertainment district on King Street beginning just outside the Royal Alexandra Theatre. The sole owner of the colourful slab of star concrete is Ed Mirvish, who has longed complained of being lonely on the street.

On June 25, a private initiative, Canada's Walk of Fame, in partnership with the federal and provincial governments and the City of Toronto, will begin the process of honouring Canada's growing list of high-profile celebrities who have distinguished themselves in the fields of art, music, architecture, literature, journalism, sports, acting, entertainment and broadcasting.

The inaugural ceremony to be held the afternoon of June 25 will honour Bryan Adams, Pierre Berton, Jim Carrey, Norman Jewison, Karen Kain, Gordon Lightfoot, Rich Little, Anne Murray, Bobby Orr, Christopher Plummer, Barbara Ann Scott and Jacques Villeneuve. As well, tribute will be paid to the memory of John Candy and Glenn Gould. An inaugural gala will follow that evening at the Royal York Hotel.

The board of directors of the Walk of Fame comprises Bill Ballard, Pamela Capriotti, Dusty Cohl, Charles Cutts, Jim De Gasperis, Jeffery Lyons, Q.C., Dianne Schwalm, Brian Sewell, Gary Slaight, Joanne Smale, Helga Stephenson and Peter Soumalias.

The following four pages are reproductions of the early awards presentation. The annual RPM Gold Leaf Award was eventually nicknamed "The Juno Award" and became the awards as we know them today. Photos are from the March 7, 1970 and March 24, 1973 editions of RPM Weekly. The text was written by John Watt.

RPM's AWARD PRESENTATION

In 1850, the St. Lawrence Hall (then the town hall of Toronto) rang out with not much more than a jig, a reel or a polka. On February 23rd, 1970. The same town hall, now restored, was the meeting place of the music industry in Canada when young and old mingled together as part of the Annual Gold Leaf Awards presentation. The party, which was intended to honour the greats of Canada's music industry later became a tribute to RPM Weekly and RPM's Editor and publisher Walt Grealis.

Beginning at 6 p.m., the crowd started to pour into the hall. By 7 p.m. when the presentations were made, an estimated 250 music industry figures were on hand to witness the first Awards Presentation. Amid the clinking of glasses and the laughter, the band brought the attention of the audience to the stage. John Watts, Assistant to the Editor of RPM greeted the crowd and introduced George Wilson who acted as master of ceremonies for the occasion. As the band played "Canada", Wilson introduced Walt Grealis who made a short statement about the reason for the Awards and acknowledged his appreciation for the attendance of so many in the industry.

The Award Presentation began; the first honoured guest was George Offer of Apex Records, who represented Compo Records at the Awards. Offer was introduced as "one of the pioneers of the record business in Canada". The crowd greeted his remarks with a round of applause as he introduced the winner of the Top Country Singer Female Award. The winner, Dianne Leigh was late in getting to the stage, as she took time to regain her composure. Dianne's latest Chart recording, "I'm A One Man Woman", was the music the band played as she made her way to the stage. As she accepted, a battery of photographers flashed pictures of the event.

Fred Wilmot, Vice-President and General Manager of Columbia Records of Canada, made the next presentation to the Top Canadian Content Record Company. The Award went to Quality Records and was accepted by George Struth who acknowledged the Award and thanked the industry for their vote of confidence.

Wilson then introduced Jack Richardson of Nimbus 9 whom he referred to as "pioneering the Canadian breakthrough". Richardson presented the Top Male Vocalist Award to Andy Kim, Steed Recording Artist. As the band played "So Good Together", Kim made his way to the stage where he thanked the industry and reminisced about his early days in Canada and his association with Walt Grealis prior to RPM and what RPM had accomplished since.

Jack Boswell was the next honoured guest. He made the Award to Canada's Top Company In Promotional Activities. Taylor Campbell, Capitol's Vice President In Charge of Marketing accepted the Award on behalf of Capitol and acknowledged the moves that Capitol had made in 1969.

Wilson introduced Ken Middleton of Warner Brothers next. Wilson referred to Warner Brothers as "one of Canada's truly great record companies". Middleton made the Award for Top Canadian Vocalist Female which was accepted on behalf of Ginette Reno by Gilles Talbot of Grand Prix Records. Miss Reno is currently appearing in London, England. Talbot honoured Miss Reno by making the point that her work in both our languages could bring the nation closer together.

The next honoured guest was introduced as the head of a company that had "excelled in sound for years" and had recently entered the tape cartridge and disc field. Joe

"A LANDMARK IN THE CANADIAN MUSIC INDUSTRY"

By John Watts

Pariselli of Ampex made the Special Award to the Canadian Music Industry Man of The Year, Saul Holiff. Pariselli told how Holiff had managed the affairs of Johnny Cash from his offices in London, Ontario, and of his work on behalf of Canadian artists. Tommy Hunter accepted the Award for Holiff.

Next was George Harrison who was introduced by Wilson as the head of the company that had been the "first in records" in Canada for many years. Harrison brought two points to the attention of the audience. One was the very fact that the Awards were possible and the second honoured Gordon Lightfoot who had worked from Canada and brought so much attention to Canada because of his works. He then presented the Award of Top Folk Singer to Gordon Lightfoot. Accepting for Gordon was Al Mair General Manager of Early Morning Productions. He thanked RPM and the industry on behalf of Lightfoot.

Art Snider was the next honoured guest. He was introduced as one of the pioneers of Canadian content. Snider was to present the Award to the Top Country Group...The Mercey Brothers. He mentioned their many contributions in bringing the attention of the nation to Canadian talent. The group accepted their Award and thanked the industry for their continuing support.

To introduce the next guest, Wilson noted, "Around the RPM offices, he's referred to as the John Wayne of Scotland". He was speaking of George Taylor of Rodeo Records and then spoke highly of Rodeo's pioneering of Canadian content as an independent. Taylor then made the Award for Top Record Company to RCA Victor. Ed Preston, RCA's regional Sales Manager in Ontario was greeted warmly by the crowd. Preston dramatically outlined the push that RCA had made in 1969 to reach the top of the heap. His colourful remarks were appreciated by the audience. Preston exited as the band played "Sugar Sugar", RCA's big seller of 1969.

Among the many in attendance who had travelled from other parts of Canada was Fred Exon of Polydor Records in Montreal. In glowing terms, Wilson spoke of the reputation Polydor had attained under Exon's guiding hand and the strides they had made to further the Canadian industry. Exon then introduced the winner of the Top Country Singer Male, Tommy Hunter. He told of the research that he had done to make the Award and the esteem that the industry held for Tommy Hunter and his talent.

George Struth made the Award to the Poppy Family for the Best Produced Album of 1969. He told of the success and rise of the Poppy Family and their single and made note of the fact that they also won the best Single category. Accepting for the Poppy Family was Adrian Bilodeau of London Records of Canada. The Poppy Family had not been able to attend because of air line difficulties. Air Canada's public relations department did everything possible to get them into Toronto on time, but it hadn't been possible.

GRT's Ross Reynolds made the next Award. He presented the Award for Top Radio Station In Community Activities which is a special Award given by RPM's editorial staff to an outstanding station. Reynolds spoke of CKLG's contributions to community activities and the role that Vancouver was playing uniting the music industry. CKLG's radio representative in Toronto appointed Denny Whittaker to accept on CKLG's behalf. Whittaker thanked the audience and RPM on behalf of CKLG.

The next guest introduced by the master of ceremonies was Don McKim of Phonodisc. He was introduced as the leader of the Canadian independent record company. He spoke about the newly legislated Canadian content regulations and bemoaned the fact that broadcasters would be forced to program Canadian content records. He then expounded on the talent and abilities of the Poppy Family and made the Award to Gilles Aubin who accepted on their behalf.

Modern Tape Cartridge of Canada's Bob Martin was introduced to make the Award to the Top Group. He outlined the success of the Guess Who over the years and the number of times they had received the Award previously. He praised the Nimbus 9 Group of Companies for their belief and effort on behalf of the group. Accepting for the Guess Who was their business manager Don Hunter. He apologized for the Guess Who's absence. Up to the last minute they were to attend, but they were called upon to help out a group who had to bow out on a performance and at the last minute, Hunter flew into Toronto to accept the Award.

As the band played the Guess Who's "No Time", the presentations seemed to be coming to an end. George Wilson began to end the proceedings and as the band was about to strike up "Canada", Wilson made a special announcement and introduced Sam Sniderman of the Sam the Record Man stores. Sam praised the Awards presentation and brought Walt Grealis back before the audience and announced that the Ontario promotion men had got together to make a special presentation to him. He held up a Gold Leaf Award that the promo men had arranged for, which read

"Walt We Love You, Ontario Promotion Men, February 23rd, 1970". The audience broke into applause and the ovation sustained itself for minutes as Grealis raised his arms to bring it to an end. When the ovation subsided, Grealis' first words were "Do you want to see a grown man cry?" Choked with emotion, Grealis continued. He thanked the crowd for what he referred to as "RPM's moment". He thanked the artists who had done so much to make the presentation a success. He talked about next years Awards and promised an even better presentation. Many in the audience suppressed tears as Grealis spoke. It was truly a great moment for the Canadian music industry. Not only had the presentation been such a success that the one evening seemed to unite the industry to one cause, and not only were the artists who were honoured, overwhelmed by the event, but the guests had been given an opportunity to come together to honour the industry. Ending all this was the presentation by the promo men to Grealis and the ovation that greeted the event might possibly have been motivated by the gratitude of the industry to RPM for having given them a common cause and bringing them together.

Sam Sniderman voiced the opinion that the industry would next year make possible an even greater presentation. Many of the record executives present talked about a banquet, cocktail party and dance to honour the Award winners next year, and amid the celebrities and the flowers, the crowd gathered around the winners to congratulate them personally.

The entire presentations ceremony was taped by CJRT FM which featured highlights on the air the following day. Other members of the media also covered the event and it is hoped that even more substantial coverage will be available in coming years.

It was a big day for the winners, but it was a bigger day for RPM and our seventh year of publication began with a bang-in a hall that 120 years ago awaited 1867 and confederation.

SKA TRAX -Ska
The New Generation
Universal 81073-J

Education, that's what a release like this is. Because the kiddies, and there are lots of them currently visiting the record stores these days, are turning up in droves to feed on a resurgence of ska now that No Doubt and The Mighty Mighty Bosstones have made it, well, commercial. Unlike many of said youth would like to think, ska didn't begin with Gwen Stefani, it's a form that has had a hell of a lot of attention in the underground, the over ground and the fringes of popular music going back three decades now. Universal has seen the wisdom in releasing an album that aims to put together a healthy slice of that legacy in one jewel case. You'll find a lot of what you'll need here for your ABCs on ska: Sell Out/Reel Big Fish, Lost Again/Dance Hall Crashers, Doin' Time/Sublime, Transistor/311, Ma And Pa/Fishbone, A Message To Rudy/The Specials, One Step Beyond/Madness, Papa's Got a Brand New Pigbag/Pigbag... You can judge from that list that ska music is here broadly defined to include the commercial scope, which of course includes punk, alternative, hard rock and dance. Stefani and co. make it in with their Spiderwebs while the Bosstones get theirs on The Rascal King. A nifty package whose time for commercial representation has been long coming. And a hell of a party piece. -RG

DOGWHISTLE -Dance
Kwikmix 2938
ViK 55524-N

That crazy-ass promo guy Dale Peters showed up at our offices in full bodied dog outfit and scared us awake last Wednesday morning, but not before he had made his pitch on this new priority from ViK. You'll get the gist of the thing if you recognize the little dog on the cover (that's a shepherd, get it? Sheppard?), or if you give the thing a spin, which is what we're recommending here. The dance mix re-mix cacophony within is meant as a kind of formal intro for Chris Sheppard's new ViK deal, and will specifically anticipate his Love Inc. project which has already received a lot of attention and a #1 single. The reasoning remains steadfast, however, even if this release is little more than a teaser of loops and second and third takes on a tried theme. DogWhistle is ultimately pretty slim in the pickings but we think the club scene will be all over it like fat kids on candy. Sheppard certainly does not need hype at this point to bring his credentials to the fore; the man has made the dance mix a commercial monster and it's obvious to us that he plans to continue in that vein. Not for the general populace by any stretch of the imagination, but a sound album nonetheless which should function as intended. -RG

MORCHEEBA -Alternative
Big Calm
Indochina 31020-P

Morcheeba was one of a few bands from last year that blew into town, charmed the hell out of the fortunate few who got out to see them and disappeared to whence they came from. That wasn't the fault of Warner Bros., by the way; they gave Morcheeba's debut two tries at the Canadian industry with varying degrees of success. Their excitement, in part brought about from the kind of response the group have had in the native England, and in part by the proliferation of smooth, gravely beautiful music of their debut, will undoubtedly carry over to their newest. Morcheeba's Big Calm reunites the alchemy inherent in the trip hop tapestries of Paul and Ross Godfrey and the jazzy vocal work of Skye Edwards. The group -- a foursome actually, they are joined unofficially by "sound surgeon" Pete Norris -- explore the calmness of Eastern philosophy with staunch techno pop that pulses on the outside and ticks and whirs in a strange language of witchery and techno babble on the inside. By turns infinitely soothing and darkly disquieting, Big Calm gives a wealth of meaty pop substance to a form that oftentimes crucifies its commercial potential on that ever present cross of gadgetry and effects. The song which ought to explode this on radio is called Let Me See, and it's a trippy, ultra cool piece with lots of fluid motion. There's treasure to be had in Big Calm, even if you're not the kind to believe in this type of thing on principle. Don't short change yourself on expectations, though, Big Calm is a very impressive release. -RG

DIZZY SPELL -Alternative
Dreamdammit!
Kink 100

This independent sextet hails from Canada but is currently doing rounds in the US after getting some attention from the New York based Kink Records. The guys are obviously playing it smart and have released this, their formal debut, to back up an active touring schedule and the chance for greater exposure. Headed by keyboardist and singer John Clark Smith IV, Dizzy Spell doesn't quite sound like their name implies; the band chugs along more like a muted modern rock war machine (with acknowledgements to KISS) propelled by the twin engines of melody and progressivism which restrain the aggressiveness of the metaphor. Amidst a couple of distinctive vocals, urban percussions, swooning guitars and the touchstones of bass, drums and the occasional piano, Dizzy Spell achieve complexity without sounding convoluted and gain a consistency of sound without ever becoming uninteresting. They do, however, try a little too hard at it and that is ultimately the Achilles heel of this release. Still, it's saying something for a band that obviously has a liberal dose of artist development written in their cards. We haven't heard anything about a single being released in Canada, but if Dizzy Spell happen to blow through town, we'd recommend them as worth the check. -RG

THE THOMPSON BROTHERS BAND -Country
Blame It On The Dog
RCA-078636-7503-N

American country pundits are calling this trio of youngsters the next big country happenner. RCA is putting its promotion back into gear to bring their first single home, Back On The Farm, released in a colourful special animal pop-up package. The band has been tagged as Steve Earle's "favourite new act," and his vocal talent is featured with the boys on the Willie Nelson penning of Pick Up The Tempo. Back On The Farm, by the way was written by Don Henry, an interesting door-opener for a first time effort. The Thompson brothers are Mat and Andy. Neighbour Mike Witty is the third member. They were brought up in Norwell, a suburb of Boston, where they honed their talent on rock 'n roll, which is fairly obvious here. And, they're not too shabby when it comes to writing either. The three of them penned Caroline, a key track, and Andy and Whitty collaborated on Broken For Good and a cute Shot Me Down (Bang Bang), which are also key. But don't overlook Cry, which the two Thompsons wrote with L.Russell Brown and which could be a left-fielder. The band produced the album with Bill Lloyd of Foster & Lloyd. Great packaging for front racking and in-store play will attract their own age group of consumer. Watch for the single to break. The video was directed by David Hogan who did the same for Shania Twain's Still The One, Melissa Etheridge's I'm The Only One, and Sheryl Crow's Leaving Las Vegas. Should surface on CMT shortly. -WG

CARLENE FRIESEN -Country/Pop
Self-titled
Carasen-0607

Friesen's vocals purr and weave a fanciful message trip that has an immediate impact. Her projection is hauntingly beautiful adding to that message content. The choice of writers was a stroke of genius, particularly Wild Flower written by Dave Richardson and Doug Edwards, and Second Chances, penned by Bill Wallace and daughter Lonnie, Steve Wilkinson and Bryan Way. Actually, all tracks are key. Friesen obviously has a close relationship with most of these writers, interpreting their lyrics to a fault. Besides those tracks mentioned, the Bob Ruzicka penning of Can't Remember Can't Forget and Love Should Have Brought You Home from the team of Gord Maxwell, Lynda and Tom McKillip and Friesen stand out. But don't overlook Love Came Back, written by Maxwell and LuAnn Reid, which has been taken as a single and which should bring national recognition to this Alberta talent. The album was recorded at

THE MAVERICKS -Country
Trampoline
MCA Nashville 70018-J

What's this? Is this the band that gets clumped in the country category on every single they release? Is this the band that is so musically unique sounding on every album that the only thing which allows you to decipher between them is that effervescent voice of Raul Malo? YEP! They've done it again, but like never before. This is the album that will be opening new doors and paving new avenues for those who even remotely try what the Mavericks have done in just eight years. There are 13 tracks on the album and each seems to be a different journey through time and sound. Dolores, gives Malo's version of the best of a 20's ragtime sound achieved through a megaphone, followed by Save A Prayer, which ultimately paints the picture of a religious revival in a white tent in the middle of a field in nowhere Alabama. The album which was created in a carnival like atmosphere also houses the distinct sounds of complex horn arrangements, a vibrant string section and emits a vision of merriment. Recorded in Nashville in August of '97 the diversity of the tracks show off the songwriting abilities of Malo on 12 of the 13 cuts. The only song not written by Malo, I Hope You Want Me Too, was composed by the Mavericks' touring guitarist Jaime Hanna with the help of Ken Alphan. The production duties were shared by Malo and Don Cook. The first single, To Be With You, will give you a feeling for the album, but don't pass judgement on just the one song. You have to listen to the entire album in order to take that wild ride through time and sound with the Mavericks. -JL

MR&D Studios in Burnaby, BC with mixing done in Nashville, and mastered by Craig Waddell at Vancouver's Gotham City Recording. Produced by Tom McKillip. -WG

NANCY WHITE - Comedy/Pop
Gaelic Envy and other torch songs
 Borealis-109

Tailored to the funnybone of White fans and guaranteed to add to that legion. White can now carry the "incomparable" tag with impunity, unless that east coast Gaelic crowd can find something to complain about. White spoofs life, her life, most of which took place in the Atlantic Provinces, so consequently, she's spoofing that region. And she lays it all out in precise candour, her candour in revealing liner notes. Like Moose On The Highway, which she wrote with producer Bob Johnston. And then there's the title track, and of course, Pierced Matron (see cover). She might be stretching it a bit, but that down-home humour is what makes White so entertaining. Is it possible to mix "Gaelic envy" with "torch songs", suggesting, of course, there is such a music form as Gaelic torch songs? You can if you are Nancy White. Also key, and very creative is her take on Violeta Perra's penning of Gracias A La Vida and her original of Seamless Dance of the Old Folks. But don't overlook My Life Is Picking Up, a great morning pick-er-up-er. Check out the session players. Very impressive. Recorded at Casa Wroxtton in Toronto with Peter Moore doing the remastering at the E Room. Call 416-530-4288 or fax 416-530-0461. -WG

OLDARRA - Classic
Le Chant Basque
 Detour-0630-19345-P

Oldarra is a choir founded in 1936 to rediscover and re-establish the vocal traditions of the Basque culture. It's currently composed of some forty male singers all of whom are said to be amateur musicians. One wouldn't know it listening to this wonderfully powerful surviving language. Voices soar in power and whisper in affection. And, every word is clear and concise in sound if not in meaning (the latter isn't important; English and German translations are provided.) We understand that the choir has toured extensively but are unaware if it has appeared in Canada. Let it be soon. For now, the album is most satisfying. Your attention is directed to track 13, Alta Gurea. That's The Lord's Prayer sung as you've never heard it before. -BW

OSTRONOBOTHNIAN - Classical
CHAMBER ORCHESTRA - Juba Kangas,
 Conductor Adagietto
 Finlandia-0630-19077-P

It's unfortunate but true that to most North Americans the trio of Grieg, Sibelius and possibly Nielsen are the only Scandinavian composers of notable significance. That misconception is happily corrected in this collection of "Romantic slow pieces from the top of the world." Among the "others" to be discovered or remembered belatedly are Lindberg, Madetoja, Kajanus, Borreson, Bull, Rangstrom, Svensen, Kuula, Alfven and conductor Robert Kajanus (1856-1933), who composed the title song. Most of the 17 compositions are elegiac but none the less satisfying for that. All are well played by an orchestra whose discipline is manifest. Still, we must be honest and say that the composition most enjoyed by your auditor is Grieg's beloved Letzter Frühling, The Last Spring. He remains the foremost of the Scandinavians. -BW

TEO FILO CHANTRE - Jazz Pop
Terra & Cretcheu
 WB World Beat Cap Vert-1888-P

To listen to the title artist is to experience time warp twice. First, is hearing him sound like Mel Tormé when his surname still rhymed with storm and he was the drummer/boy singer with the Chico Marx orchestra appearing at Toronto's now razed Casino Theatre. His voice is soft, clear and always on pitch whether in ballads or up tempo. Time warp two is listening to the orchestral backing and being transported back to Toronto's Cork Room, dancing to Chico Vallé y Los Cubanos. The beat is sensuous, in keeping with the Latin intent of dance but it's also tasteful and a perfect backup for a perfect interpreter of emotion in any language. Incidentally, the Portuguese lyrics are provided with French translations. Anyway, the lyrics of the old song are still valid... "You don't need to know the language," especially when listening to a singer with the technical and emotional depth of Teo Filo Chantre. -BW

TRISH COLTER/PAUL READ - Jazz
The Dance Never Ends
 Reaco-10001

After the runaway success of Peggy Lee's up tempo version of Lover, she met its composer Richard Rodgers and asked him that he thought of it. He responded coldly, "I wrote a waltz." We suspect his response might have been similar in vein for Trish Colter's scat reading of Thou Swell, one of the tracks included in this collection of pop standards by Rodgers, Gershwin, Ellington, Berlin and others. It's goot-bitchin' good-and she sounds not unlike a young Edie Gormé but, it's not what Richard Rodgers wrote. There's nothing intrinsically wrong with pushing the musical boundaries of any composition, but it has always seemed to us that certain ones should be left as they were written. Otherwise, one is frequently left with the impression that the singers and musicians are merely playing a game of "listen to how clever we are." Now, ignore all of what you've just read and wholeheartedly enjoy this album of straight up jazz singing by Trish Colter, orchestrations by pianist Paul Read and the more than substantial orchestral backing of fine musicians, all of them Canadian based. The best track is the title one co-written by Colter and Read. Have we made our point? Some tracks are four-part MAPL. -BW

Toronto Ford opening for Fosse firmed for July 16

Livent has announced a July 16 start-up for the world premiere of Fosse: A Celebration In Song And Dance at Toronto's Ford Centre For The Performing Arts. The official opening date will be set shortly. It was reported however that Fosse would have a "strictly limited" six-week run, and play engagements in two U.S. cities prior to opening on Broadway.

Fosse is built around the choreography of legendary dancemeister Bob Fosse and was conceived by Tony Award-winning director Richard Maltby, Jr. and Chet Walker, a protégé of Fosse. Gwen Verdon, Fosse's wife who starred in Damn Yankees, a musical Fosse created for her, as well as Sweet Charity and Chicago (a road show of the latter is currently playing Toronto), has been hired on as artistic advisor to the production. Nicole Fosse, daughter of Verdon and Fosse, served as ballet mistress for the recently completed eight-week workshop in Toronto.

The Toronto production of Fosse features a cast of 34 of Toronto and Broadway's most talented dancers and includes rarely seen dancing and musical numbers never seen on stage before, including Take Off With Us from the motion picture All That Jazz, Cool Hand Luke, originally performed on the Bob Hope Special in 1967, Alley Dance from the motion picture My Sister Eileen, and Mein Herr from the motion picture Cabaret.

Also featured are dance numbers like Steam Heat from The Pajama Game, Big Spender from Sweet Charity, Bye Bye Blackbird from Liza With a Z, Dancin' Man and Sing, Sing, Sing from Dancin' and Beat Me Daddy, Eight To The Bar from Big Deal, Fosse's final Broadway show.

Maltby points out that Fosse's original work

Sulk and Page Music sign distribution deal

Canadian Music Week, which included two showcases sponsored by CISS-FM, gave an important status boost to Sulk. The Toronto-based band announced that Page Music will be distributing their new CD, Don't Tell Me, across Canada. It's expected the CD will be in stores early May.

Greg Simpson of Mindbenders has been brought in to handle radio promotion. As well, Hype Music will look after publicity. Coming up are appearances on Global's First Up, CTV's Mike Bullard Open Mike and CityTV's Breakfast Television.

"had to be reconstructed. It's now on paper, all of the steps, how it's done, and then some. So, this body of work now exists. That's an achievement in itself."

Maltby continues with "And now we've trained 34 dancers, and they'll be the people who will be teaching 20, 25 years from now because that's how dance lives. When we're finished, we will have Bob Fosse's work collected for history, and be able to be passed on. That's a huge achievement. Along the way, we're going to do this great show."

The band, which is under the management wing of Fabs Music, has already appeared on the Camilla Scott Show, the Dini Petty Show, and CISS-FM's Live At 7. They are at C'est What in Toronto on March 20.

Don't Tell Me, the band's single/video has gained them a national audience, with the video on rotation at CMT for the past five months.

Radio awards and gold to Wide Mouth Mason

Saskatoon-based Wide Mouth Mason enjoyed a memorable month of March. Not only did they win two Canadian Music Radio Awards; best new group in the rock format category, and breakthrough artist for being the new artist (group or solo) to receive the most airplay in Canada in 1997, but Warner Music surprised them with gold records for their self-titled debut album.

As part of Canadian Music Week, the band played to a capacity crowd at Lee's Palace, played an acoustic set at the convention and performed another acoustic set at the Warner/Chappell party, and topped the day with a show at The Rock in Brampton.

While preparing new material for their next album, the band still has a couple of commitments, MuchMusic's Sno' Job 98 in Kamloops and as openers for the Rolling Stones in Montreal and Toronto.

CHUM's Toronto stations launch Cityview Traffic

Brian D. Thomas, manager of news operations for 1050 CHUM and CHUM FM, has announced the launch of Cityview Traffic from their new traffic centre in the CHUM newsroom located in the historic CHUM building at 1331 Yonge Street.

Thomas explains that with this new technology and format Cityview Traffic reporters are able to see "everywhere, all the time" with more than 100 live cameras located throughout the city, and that the most up to date information is now made possible through constant live video feeds from the dozens of provincial and municipal government cameras as well as from the Bell Eyes of Toronto.

"We've brought traffic reporting a long way from the early 1960's" says Thomas, "when CHUM was one of the first stations anywhere to do live helicopter reports from the CHUM Chopper. More recently, we discovered that our traffic plane, the fastest in the city, could not compete with today's computer and instant video technology. He concludes with, "We feel that we're now equipped for traffic reporting in the new millennium."

It should also be pointed out that the Traffic Centre is electronically linked to the vast technical resources at CityTV and the new Cable Pulse 24 where television traffic reports are now seen regularly throughout the day, live from the CHUM newsroom. Bob Summers reports in the mornings while Judy Wilson reports in the afternoons and evenings on 1050 CHUM and CHUM FM.

Warner's Montreal staffers Josee Godin, Helen Morin and Jean Allary present Lynda Lemay with double platinum for her 1994 album and gold for her recently released self-titled album.

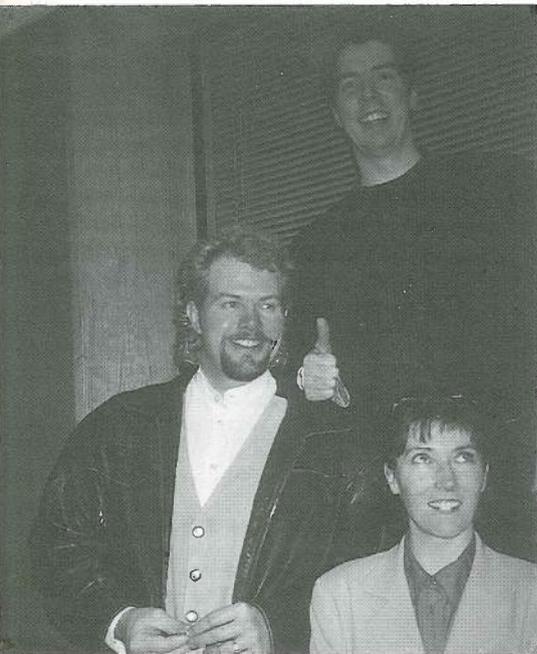

Warner Music Canada's Garry Newman, Randy Stark, Steve Waxman, Candy Higgins and Kim Cooke present gold award to Wide Mouth Mason's Earl Pereira, Shaun Verreault, Safwan Javed and manager Norm Sharpe.

Shania Twain hits the road with Canadian tour

After months of speculation, Shania Twain's handlers have finally revealed that a world tour is now in the preparation stages. Universal Concerts Canada, the concert promoter for Twain's Canadian tour, has confirmed the finalized tour routing for the first leg of what will be a 42-date North American tour.

Twain and her nine-piece band will kick off the tour in Sudbury, Ontario, which is close to her hometown of Timmins. with two shows May 29 and 31.

The Twain package will arrive to play Toronto's Molson Amphitheatre on Aug. 8 with a second show already under consideration for the 9th. Other Canadian dates include Edmonton (June 3), Saskatoon (4), Calgary (6-7), Vancouver (9), Montreal (Aug 7) and Ottawa (10). On the second leg of the tour which begins in the fall, Twain will play Ottawa, Halifax and Winnipeg as well as a number of smaller Canadian markets. Markets and dates will be announced once the routing has been finalized.

Twain, is currently charting with three singles (a record for a Canadian artist) on the RPM Country 100, You're Still The One (7*), Don't Be Stupid (#24) and Love Gets Me Everytime (#68). From This Moment On, Twain's duet with Bryan White is now gaining country radio programmer interest. If charted, this would create another first for Twain, the first country artist (American or Canadian) to have four singles on the RPM Country 100 at the same time.

Twain, who is nominated for three Juno Awards this year; female vocalist, country female vocalist and album of the year for Come On Over, is scheduled to perform at the awards show which will be held in Vancouver on March 22 at GM Place and televised over the CBC Network beginning at 8 pm.

Nashville, the recording took place in Canada therefore qualifying as 100 per cent Cancon. The video for the single entered the CMT Top 40 last week at #36 and this week jumps up to #30. The band has been nominated for a Juno this year in the Best Country Group category.

The Rankin Family are doing what the promotion team at EMI was expecting. Their new single, Moving On, hits hard at country radio and is the most added this week entering the chart at #79. The new song is a Jimmy Rankin original and was taken from their upcoming, as yet untitled, album which was produced by George Massenburg.

George Fox is a go with his latest WEA single, I'm Gone, the second most added this week at #81. This is a powerful outing for Fox and should bring him back into chart prominence. The track is included on his Survivor album which was produced by Kim Tribble. The single carries a two-part MAPL logo (AP).

Duane Steele had a March 19 date on Vicki Gabereau's CTV show in Vancouver. He moves back east to Port Colborne, Ontario for a March 26 date at the Lakeshore Catholic High School, followed by the American Pub in Laval (27), and the Golden Nugget in Kingston (28). Upcoming Alberta dates include the Empress Theatre in Ft. MacLeod, (May 31), the Riverfront Park in Athabasca (July 1), and Calgary's Petroleum Club (7-8). He's back to Ontario for an Aug. 1 date at Peterborough's Del Cray Park, the Town Hall Heritage Theatre in Wingham (Sept. 24), and Norval's Nashville North (25). Steele is booked by Prestige Entertainment out of Nashville. There's no official word from Mercury about a follow-up single to his current charter If I Could Just Get To You (#18), but Doug Anderson, Music Director at Ottawa's Y105 Young Country is already airing Let's Go For A Drive.

Y105 has a heart as evidenced by their unique offering of a piece of music history to the University of Ottawa Heart Institute for their recent annual telethon (RPM - March 9/98). The station donated a framed Y105 jersey personally autographed by some of the top names in country, including Garth Brooks, Shania Twain, Alan Jackson, Vince Gill, Deanna Carter, Paul Brandt, John Berry, Terri Clark, Wynonna, Dwight Yoakam and Michelle Wright and a dozen more. The winning bid of $1,300.00 was made by Ken Gordon of Manotick, Ontario. For more information contact Program Director Ken Geiger or Promotion Director Brent Corbeil at 613-238-6862 extension 146 and 125 respectively.
