Terry Lynd - first Canadian to helm Columbia Canada

The industry was saddened at the news of the passing of Terence McNally (Terry) Lynd, who died at Toronto's Princess Margaret Hospital on Friday, April 24. Mr. Lynd was in his 72nd year.

A native of Whitby, Ontario, Mr. Lynd joined Columbia Records Canada as a comptroller in 1961, moving up to executive vice-president in 1968. He left this position to take over as vice-president of finance for Famous Players in 1971. He returned to Columbia to take command of the operation as vice-president and general manager on September 4, 1973. He took on the mantle of president in 1975.

Mr. Lynd was the first Canadian to head up the giant multinational record company. He was a quiet corporate gentleman whose primary goal was to maintain the company's financial stability and to encourage his people to sign and promote and market new Canadian acts. He worked very closely with his vice-president Jack Robertson and together, they actioned several changes and the streamlining of the operation. During this period of time, the Canadian roster was strengthened significantly.

On May 4, 1976 Mr. Lynd was elected president of the Canadian Record Industry Association (CRIA), a position he held through 1977. It was also in 1976 (July 20) at the CBS International Records Convention in Century City, California where it was announced that the Canadian operation would be known as CBS Records Canada with Mr. Lynd continuing in his role as president. A large Canadian contingent headed by Mr. Lynd and Jack Robertson attended the convention. It was a proud moment for the Canadians with one of their star acts Burton Cummings headlining a major convention dinner concert in company with The Miracles, Rick Derringer and Tower Of Power. It was also an opportunity to proudly parade some of the Cancon acts signed to Columbia to CBS representatives of territories from around the world. Included were Pagliaro, Eclipse, Tom Middleton, Fosterchild, Dwayne Ford, Lick 'N' Stick and Jackson Hawke. It was also during the convention when Mr. Lynd announced the formation of the company's first press and artist relations department which would further add to the company's importance with the media.

CBS Records Canada employees revered Mr. Lynd for his openness and his accessibility. "My employees' concerns are my concerns," he once told a company gathering. "I have an open door and an open mind." He retired from CBS in December of 1981.

Mr. Lynd is survived by his wife Jane, sons Tom and Laurie and grandsons Terry and Bryan and brother Ben.

Funeral services were held in Toronto on April 28 with interment at Greenhill Cemetery in Kingsville, Ontario.

Big plans as NOW! 3 hits stores this week

The second quarter is looking to get its biggest boost with the release this week of NOW! 3, the newest instalment in a growing hit compilation series jointly put together by Warner, EMI and Universal Music Canada. Universal will, this time around, handle the manufacturing, marketing and distribution of the release, and label representatives are expecting to outsell the two previous instalments in the series.

"We have set our goals pretty high," says Stephen Tennant, who represents Strategic Marketing for Universal in Canada. "The way that Big Shiny Tunes has built into this incredible franchise, not to mention the incredible performances of NOW! and NOW! 2, there's no reason to think this can't do a million copies when all is said and done."

The series has, in fact, shown an exponential growth in the market since the initial EMI release in March 1996. NOW! moved some 25,000 units, while NOW! 2, released last May, has doubled that figure by selling slightly over half a million units in the country. According to Tennant, NOW! 2 is still moving a weekly average of 4-500 units, despite its material being six months removed from contemporary hit radio. He maintains, however, that the key to the series' success is in netting the right songs near or at the exact time when they are most visible on radio and video.

"The most important thing is trying to keep the hits as current as possible," he says. "And that means trying to have the most hits that you possibly can that are still either current or recurrent on the radio. That isn't always easy to do because sometimes you have to wait several months to clear tracks to get all the right ingredients and then other tracks start to get old. Timing is everything."

In the past, the labels have taken a lead on certain songs in the hopes that they would break during the release period of the album, but Tennant says it was not a consideration for the series' newest instalment. The release features seventeen hits in total, including the most recent singles from Marcy Playground, KC & JoJo and Rapper's Delight and recurrent hits from Aqua (Barbie Girl), Spice Girls (Spice Up Your Life) and Meredith Brooks (Bitch).

Universal is particularly optimistic following the release of Big Shiny Tunes 2, their Christmas windfall compilation of last year. The compilation, which has sold in excess of one million units solidified the series as a highly valued commercial franchise. The label is hoping that some of the same chemistry that worked the release through the roof at retail will repeat itself on NOW! 3.

"I think when people see Big Shiny Tunes they pay attention because the first two were so good," says Tennant, "and I'm sure they're going to be looking for the third one just as they are looking for the third one in the NOW! series. It's almost like a big artist, and they just can't wait for that new album from that big artist and they're just going to go out and buy it. This is a little different because we'll always have hits, of course the big artists don't."

Nevertheless, there are differences between the two series, though -- significantly -- those differences indicate that the numbers for NOW! should be dramatically higher. While Big Shiny Tunes was culled from the alternative and pop formats, NOW! 3 is merely concerned with "hits and nothing but the hits," regardless of genre, and as such benefits from a much wider demographic appeal. Tennant says the marketing vehicles for the release will reflect that difference, and will be a little more buried than that of Big Shiny Tunes.

"We've looked at YTV as a major promotional tool in the marketing of NOW! because of the younger demographic," he says. "We're looking for the pre-teen to a young teen on YTV, as well as the young mother in the early 20s and 30s who is watching YTV with her children -- we expect the release will also appeal to them. Certainly MuchMusic is a central part of our campaign, for obvious reasons, but we also plan to go for conventional television across the board in support of both demographics."

MuchMusic has been the first to herald the release, with an advance two week teaser commercial campaign which will continue up until the album's release on May 5. A five day teaser campaign on YTV has also preceded the release date, so as to hit the ground running and rollerball a huge first week. Regional radio promotions and some time buys will follow, though Tennant says the big emphasis on radio will be left for the summer, when marketing for the album hits phase two. At retail, the label is being as aggressive as can be expected, with window displays going up across the country, pre-promoting the album's estimated 220,000 unit arrival on Tuesday.

Three different in-store posters will encourage impulse buying, as well as bin cards, retail staff shirts and window stickers, all of which draw attention to the release through a colourful and highly visible logo.

"We don't have to get that tricky with this, we just have to let everyone know it's out," says Tennant. "Almost 600,000 people have NOW! 2 and they know the series. We think this line-up is stronger than the first two, and because of that, we expect people to identify it off the top, look at the track listing and jump all over it."

Hip celebrates 10 years with MCA re-signing

The Tragically Hip have signed a new long-term recording contract with Universal Music Canada on its 10th anniversary of signing with the MCA label. The new contract is a multi-album deal for the Hip that will include at least another six albums from the band that has already sold more than five million albums in Canada.

Randy Lennox, executive vice-president and general manager of Universal Music Canada, boasts that in the first ten years "we have seen The Hip explode into Canada's favourite and best-selling band." Lennox also points out that already this year, the band's last album, Up To Here, has sold more than one million units with both Road Apples and Fully Completely now eight times platinum. "We look forward to our renewed relationship as The Hip's legacy continues to evolve with this upcoming new album."

Phantom Power, the first album under the new deal, was recorded at the band's own studio, The Bath House, which is located just outside their hometown of Kingston, Ontario. Produced by the band and Steve Berlin of Los Lobos fame, the album will be in stores on July 14.

The band's first confirmed live appearance this year will be as headliners for the opening night (July 31) of the only North American date for the three-day WOMAD Festival set for Marymoor Park near Seattle, Washington. Additional touring information will be made public over the next few weeks. # WALT SAYS . . . !

with Elvira Caprese

Magician aside!!! There's a clash of titans rumoured to be inevitable. One is a control freak, but a genius who wouldn't even consider an arbitrator. The other has the bat, ball and glove, and won't give up either. It's his way or else, even if it means losing the game. Unfortunately that gives a window of maybe fourteen months for the former. (EC: You know . . . eh???)

Recommended reading??? Since shopping for books has become too big a chore in those too big stores, I haven't had the desire to check out the new arrivals or the remainders, and there's lots of them in the giant stores. Anyway, a book simply titled Ovitz, comes highly recommended, and it's pretty up-to-date, revealing the real character and his business acumen and methodology. (EC: Doesn't that mean the same thing . . . partners beware???)

Entertainment Please!!! Those really neat television entertainment shows are getting me down. Firstly they are a little loose when it comes to facts. Any information will do as long as you get it on the air. How about some research? Secondly, these shows seem to really be nothing more than a promotion for what will be on later that day. Between advertising and promotional hype . . . TV is creating an overkill that makes me sit with remote in hand! (EC: Like your voice in the wasteland will make any difference!!!)

Ratings are everything!!! Just look at the ratings for the CBC-TV special around Bruce Guthro. Early indications gave it "a reach of 1,266,000 and a 4 share." Now, how does that compare with the Juno Show which got 1,670,000? Both shows aired on a Sunday. Not bad for Bruce who is just a newcomer. (EC: Up against all those superstars and that super special!!! Congratulations Bruce!!!) By the way, it was a great show. I loved every minute! CBC should repeat it, like they did so successfully with Anne Murray's specials. (EC: You and I and 1.8 million viewers know it!!!)

Thirty-four years later!!! Touring the SkyDome on the Saturday before the Stones' concert, brought back memories of the first time the "the bad boys of rock" played Toronto. I was then the Ontario promo guy for London Records. The late Max Zimmerman asked me to find out how we could get them to play Toronto, which I did. Standing in the SkyDome and looking at the eight-story structure that would be the stage for the show next night made me think of the staging back in 1964. The Stones performed on risers that I think may have been supplied by Maple Leaf Gardens. Sound and lighting were important back then. What a difference!!! (EC: And pricewise???) I think the best seats might have been about ten bucks!!!

Coincidence??? May 1st was a big day for Céline Dion. A press release from Government House reported that Céline would be receiving her Order of Canada from Governor General Roméo LeBlanc. The Quebec government kind of upstaged the federal government by presenting the Columbia superstar with the National Order of Quebec. But there wasn't any press release from the Quebec capitol. (EC: It only went to those who recognize the province's official language!!!)

Humble & Fred humbled!!! Take a careful look at the photo of Humble & Fred's certification of "Canadian Tin". Very clever, these guys. The inscription reads "Presented to Humble & Fred to commemorate the sale of more than 1 copy of 'Humble & Fred #1 in '97'. In fact, it (unbelievably) sold in excess of 2000 copies! Congratulations on a job well done." The album, released on the CRAP label distributed by Universal, was certified by "the Canadian Radio Association for Payola". Now, talk about a hook! They just might sell a couple more. (EC: The jury's already in on that one!!!)

Hold your ears!!! Just a few hours ago (April 30) the CRTC saddled Canadian broadcasters with a five per cent hike to their Cancon requirements. They now have to play 35 per cent. CAB president Michael McCabe hit the fax machine within hours of the CRTC release. "It's excessive, unfounded and most importantly, not what listeners want," he says of the increase. "As a result, Canada's private radio broadcasters will pay a price for today's decision." Well, he got the first volley off. But, isn't it what was predicted here a couple of weeks ago. Also predicted was the CRTC relaxing ownership restrictions. Any one broadcaster will be able to own more than one AM and one FM station in any market. The private broadcasters are waiting for the broadside they'll get from CIRPA's Brian Chater. Is it all smoke and mirrors? Will radio programmers be instructed to back off on breaking new artists and play, play, play only the established artists? Just asking (EC: Get off the fence!!!)

*Indie artist mines Canadian country rootsKatie Croy is the Real McCoy in country

by Rod Gudino

Despite a general emphasis on appearance, there's no telling who is who and what is what in this day and age. Which just goes to compound that old problem: despite what anyone might be saying about the glories of our artificial culture, people still have a desire to have the real thing. Take country music for instance. Like anything else, it has become a kind of institution with its own set of customs and clichés -- it has been, is now, and probably always will be about cowboy hats and leather boots. But how many country artists have actually really done time getting their boots dusty tending animals at the farm and keeping the noonday sun off their brow with that great big cowboy hat of theirs?

Katie Croy for one. One of the reasons, we think, why this Stonewall, Manitoba native is quickly gaining momentum as one of the most promising artists to come out of the Canadian heartland in a while. She is, as they say, the real thing. Kroy's interests in country, which you will hear on her fully developed debut album titled Got On This Train to Ride, originated out of life on the farm where country music was not so much encouraged as simply the way of the world.

"I grew up singing country music just because I grew up with it all around me," she explains matter-of-factly. "My dad always had a country band going with my uncle and it was just a natural thing for me to want to go into it as well."

Nevertheless, Kroy did take a few detours along the way, starting off as a pre-med student at the University of Manitoba and completing a degree in psychology at the University of Toronto before finally deciding that a career in music was the way to go. Soon thereafter she took the tactical route by making a brief stopover to Nashville as she set about to put together some experienced names and some outstanding songs.

"I was fortunate enough to meet a lot of great songwriters down in Nashville," says Kroy, "in particular Cyril Ross. He just kept sending me up songs and I just kept going 'ok, I like this one don't like that one', and finally we got it nailed down to a short list. My only regret is not having more material by myself on this album."

Regrets aside, Got On This Train to Ride packs a mighty wallop. Upbeat in spirit and in word, the album treads a fine line of traditional backwoods country and rockabilly flavoured tunes that manage a contemporary feel strongly rooted material. But despite the loyalties of her sound, Kroy is not a traditional country singer in one important respect. She explains it this way:

"I like positive songs," she says, "I like upbeat lyrics and real go girl tunes. There isn't a lot of negativity in the music, like 'my dog died and my truck stalled' and that kind of stuff. I don't tend to look for that traditional lyric, I have to be able to

Celine Dion donates time for North Korean charity

Columbia superstar Celine Dion has donated her time to help Canadians raise more than $1 million for North Korean Famine Relief. Dion's voice will be heard on PSA announcements available for television and radio. April 27 was pegged Action Day.

It has been estimated that since 1995, six million of North Korea's 23 million people have died of starvation and close to half the entire child population under the age of six and three quarters of the elderly over the age of 60 are dead.

In other words, according to Katie Croy, country life -- and consequently country music -- is about having the best of times. Just take a listen to songs like the Cyril Rawson and Byron Hill-penned What Am I Supposed To Do, Read My Lips by Susie Conn and Rawson and Scott Phelps' She Wants Him To Be In Love, all of which convey a genuineness and authenticity about love, loss and hope. Not surprisingly, Kroy says the words were one of the chief considerations in the decision making process that went into choosing the songs.

"The lyrics have to mean more to me than the music," she says, "the music is something we can go into the studio and kind of interpret from a demo, but as far as the lyrics, we can't change them. They're very important to me."

Got On This Train to Ride was released last week and has been serviced to radio on the strength of a single titled Read My Lips. In the meantime, Kroy is bringing her talents to bear on a tight live circuit in and around Toronto, where word of a startling young singer is starting to bustle.

"I love playing bars, I love playing live," she reveals. "It's easier on stage; you've got other people there and there is so much energy and you can see people's responses in their faces, which is great. In the studio, you're just trying to pull it out of yourself, there's nobody else around you to try and do that except for a producer."

MASSIVE ATTACK - Trip Hop
Mezzanine
 Virgin 45603-F

The original purveyors of the Bristol sound have finally come out of the woodwork on their third album, their first in four years and one of the most highly anticipated albums of the year. The trio, which sometime availed itself of a host of now notable musicians and producers who all originated out of a vibrant musical community, has had an explosive and solid career record after their only two albums each sold in excess of a million worldwide. Not ones to simply repeat the past, Massive Attack return refreshed after some four years of touring and what not to deliver a soulful and sombre melodium of rebounding rhythms and echoing beats. It is, undoubtedly Massive Attack and yet there is something glaringly new on this album, most obviously heard through the addition of electric guitar, a brand new element to the band's music. Three guest vocalists -- led by ex-Cocteau Twin Elizabeth Fraser, and backed by Sara Jay and reggae legend Horace Andy, bring a stirring sense of disassociation on Mezzanine that emphasises more dramatically what the collective achieved on previous albums. Angel, Risingson and Teardrop, the first three songs on the album work a long, refined introduction to a selection of music that has long left behind the trappings of conventional appraisal. Mezzanine is nothing less than the musical, quasi-mystical experience so many fans have been talking about in conjunction to this group. A sluggish, complex and brilliant body of work. -RG

BILL WYMAN & THE RHYTHM KINGS - Blues/R&B/Jazz
Struttin' Our Stuff
 Velvel 79708-N

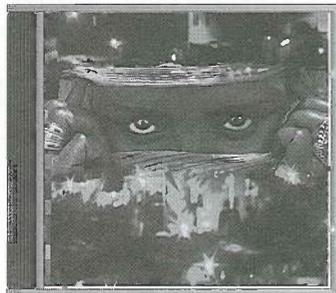

The thought of Bill Wyman doing anything other than providing a critical section to the backdrop before which the Glimmer Twins strutted their stuff is hard to fathom. After all, Wyman fulfilled that bub with stonefaced reliability for 31 years before giving up his time honoured role in The Rolling Stones. But that's old news now and the new news is that the silent bassist has now got his own project back on track (called The Rhythm Kings if you have been following more than this man's misdeeds for the past two decades). Wyman, surprisingly enough, is an incredibly talented musician with some very competent songwriting savvy and a selection of studio musicians that should make his album the envy of the recording industry. The main reason why Eric Clapton, Peter Frampton, Paul Carrack, Albert Lee, Georgie Fame, Martin Taylor, Gary Brooker and Bobby Keys joined Wyman in the studio is because of his idea to explore a selection of groove filled nostalgia pieces in their element. An homage to American blues, R&B and jazz, Struttin' Our Stuff is a very cool album hot buttered with great musicianship coming together in the spirit and style and mood or a cross section of material from the past. Probably too crazy on paper to actually get noticed, Struttin' Our Stuff will unfortunately have to remain the cherished possession of Wyman fans and select Stone collectors. -RG

MARYAM MURSAL - World
The Journey
 RealWorld/Virgin 45236-F

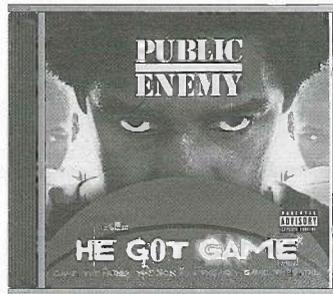

Along with world music come world stories, much like the one from this Somalia native who, along with her five children, fled the war torn country to cross the desert over seven months before reaching safety in Djibouti. That dangerous and necessary journey was spawned after Mursal personally witnessed the situation in her homeland reach a deplorable state, a state where dogs ate the dead on the streets and violence was an omnipresent threat. A professional singer since her teenage years, Mursal had once enjoyed status as the voice of Somalia during more peaceful times, blending a love for the traditional Islamic music of her country with a rich diversity of outside influences. Her repertoire, some of which can be heard on The Journey, includes traditional Somali songs and a remarkable hybrid of African and Arabic influences created out of centuries of cross cultural fertilisation between nomadic tribes. Surprisingly, the album is astonishingly accessible to Western ears, with much of the material having a recourse to progressions that are conservative relative to pop music. Produced by Simon Emmerson (Afro Celt Sound System). -RG

PUBLIC ENEMY - Rap
He Got Game O.S.T.
 Def Jam Music 314 558 130-Q

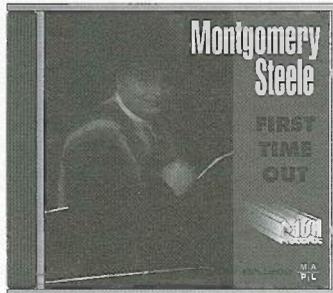

Putting a parental advisory sticker on any release by Public Enemy is an exercise in pointlessness, even if it has been a while since these guys graced musical memory with their over the top profanity and wicked urban chants. They have returned however, on the promotional gasoline of a Spike Lee Joint, this titled He Got Game, apparently about religion, basketball and the Afro American way. The soundtrack marks the group's first effort in four years and the second collaboration with Lee, who initially used Fight The Power for his seminal Do The Right Thing. The sixth studio album in the band's career, He Got Game features all original P.E. members including Chick D, Flavor Flav, Terminator X and Professor Griff, as well as reuniting the group with the original production team The Bomb Squad (Hank and Keith Shocklee and Eric Sadler). Not surprisingly, the music does not stray too far from classic P.E. territory, an item that might have been encouraged by Lee himself, who has developed a cinematic vocabulary of image montage with violent music. The success of the film will spell out the ultimate story for this release, even though core fans (and there are a hell of a lot of those) will scoop this on principle. -RG

MONTGOMERY STEELE - Country
First Time Out
 MSI-9711

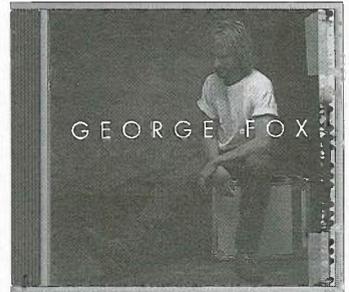

Of the 109 full time, and 46 part-time country stations, plus the four radio syndicators, not to mention the speciality television channels, this Dawson Creek talent must have been in contact with most of them on a regular basis. He has a couple of chart items and is currently working on The River Song single, which has been receiving extensive play on a number of speciality channels as well as radio stations. Needless to say, Steele is a self-promoter, determined not to return to sales clerking at a local hardware store. Steele possesses a frontier-style of projection and an interesting approach to lyrics. He wrote all the material here. Also key is The Rancher, Young Love and Tokyo Limer. The storyline for the video of The River Song is in keeping with that raw, romantic and visually-outdoorsy cum wilderness approach that Steele has mastered. Produced by Steele and Gerry Dere at The Master Factory in Edmonton. Great fiddle and mandolin work by Tony Michaels with equally powerful performances by steelman Jeff Bradshaw, keyboardist Gerry Dere who also doubles on bass, and guitarists Real Fagnon, Dave Graham and Bernie Steward. Lori Mohassey and Dianna Clee supplied the background vocals. For information on Steele fax 250-782-5488 or for CD sales call 1-888-872-INDY. -WG

GEORGE FOX - Country
Survivor
 WEA-22718-P

The title says it all. Fox has built a coast-to-coast fan network that's second to none in this country. He constantly tours Canada playing small and large centres strengthening that fan base. This album has already spawned one hit, I'm Gone, which was written by Nashville writers Marv Green and Rick Orozco. Although there is no MAPL logo on the CD artwork or

Warner promo comp 350, the track was recorded at Toronto's Metalworks by Steve Lowery and qualifies as two parts Cancan (AP). Whether he gets the Cancan nod or not, Fox obviously has a hit machine behind him with producer Kim Tribble co-writing with Fox on Brand New Star (a duet with Beccy Cole), the title track, How Do I Get There From Here and Goodbye, all key tracks. Fox and Tribble also wrote a couple of powerhouses with Canadian Cyril Rawson; Way Out In The Country and Broken Heart String. The Greenest Grass, written by Australian Keith Urban, a member of The Ranch, is a hit in waiting. Great lyric content which fits Fox's vocal signature perfectly. -WG

ALBUM PICK

SLOAN - Pop Alternative

Navy Blues
 Muderecords - 036-J

Besides being the most heavily added single in the past week, Sloan's Money City Maniacs is the early indicator to this album's resplendent glory, both for radio and retail. And the rationale is pretty simple from where we're standing; the secret folks, is in strong, melody-laden hits that benefit from a kind of pop audacity that might have been commonplace fifty years back, around the time rock and roll initially flourished on white man's radio. C'Mon C'mon (We're Gonna Get Started), Iggy & Angus and Keep On Thinkin' roll off the disc in a way that makes us think we were remembering these songs, not necessarily giving ears to them for the very first time. It's that effect which will make Navy Blues a darling of alt pop radio in the coming year and milk a guesstimated 5+ singles from the release. Universal Music, who have been working the act long and hard over the past while, are understanding this to be Sloan's most commercially pregnant album, and will be exploiting their previous efforts with a long haul at radio and high visibility at retail, not to mention strong promotion and aggressive media. Outside of the surefire business of this release, however, we reckon Navy Blues will also enjoy a high repeat value historically; it's music like this that just clicks in all the right places that makes pop music a classic phenomenon. Also includes a belated homage to Hustler magazine's Chester the Molester comic strip. -RG natural talent takes over. The title track has already caught the attention of country programmers giving them a foot in the door. The song was written by the band's bassist Dave Hopwood and guitarist Norm Clevis. The other members of the band are lead vocalist Trevor Clearwater and John Kristalovich on keys. Giving a highly professional assist on the session were Clint Dutiamé and Patti Kusturok on fiddle, steelman James Creasy and drummer Marty Chapman. All the bandmembers supply background vocals, a hand-in-glove fit that further enhances the vocal stability of Clearwater. The album is at least four singles deep. Also key is the Kristalovich penning of Home and the Clemis/Hopwood writing of Up To You and Little Bit Of Lovin'. This team also wrote R&B Choo Choo Train, which could be a left-fielder. The album was produced by Howard Klopak, with Clemis and Hopwood taking co-production credits, the album was recorded, mixed and mastered at Winnipeg's Groove Jungle studio. JACKIE WASHINGTON - Folk 'n Jazz

Midnight Choo Choo
Borealis-112

It's very rare when a living legend of Canadian folk and jazz can continue his imprint with yet another release, and this one during his 79th year. Jackie Washington's repertoire comprises more than 1250 songs, and he parades 19 of the best of them here. Washington and producer Ken Whiteley have also tapped into a veritable who's who of Canadian music, guesting longtime friends and admirers Colleen Allen (tenor sax), Graham Townsend (fiddle), Mose Scarlett (acoustic guitar, bass vocal), Jim Galloway (soprano tenor, baritone sax), George Koller (string bass), Colin Linden (acoustic guitar), J.P. Cormier (fiddle) as well as Chris (trumpet) and Ken (acoustic guitar, mandolin, electric guitar, harmony vocals, piano, ukulele, washtub bass)

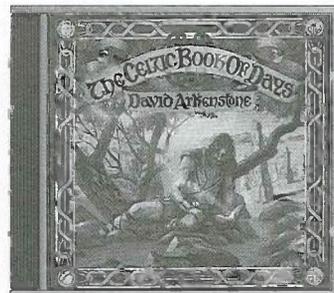

Whiteley. Also sitting in on the sessions were Victor Bateman (string bass), Bucky Berger (drums), Stephen Donald (trombone), Sara McElcheran (trumpet), John Sheard (piano), David Wall (harmony vocals), and Sharon Lee Williams and Colina Philips on backup vocals, and of course, Washington on guitar, piano and vocals. Quite a lineup and quite a sound extravaganza for that folk 'n jazz buff looking for the ultimate in audio entertainment to bump up their collection. It's taken six years to put the album together and, out of the 19 tracks, there isn't a clunker. This is Washington at his finest. There are some real treasures here, including Where Did Robinson Crusoe Go?, a cover of the 1916 recording by Al Jolson, Dinner For One, which Nat King Cole recorded during his King Cole Trio days, the Victor Young and Sam Lewis penning of Street Of Dreams, and many more. Recorded at Casa Wroxton in Toronto and mastered at Music Lane in Markham, Ontario. In-store play will sell this one. -WG

THE VALENTINO ORCHESTRA - Swing
Feelin' No Pain
Just A Memory-9137
 Swing lives! The Montreal based Valentino Orchestra plays 16 songs, mostly from the Swing Era and plays them using original stock arrangements burnished where necessary by leader Andrew Momzy. Among the arrangers are Jimmy Dale, Vic Schoen (the man principally responsible for the success of the Andrews Sisters), Larry Wagner and Jack Mason. We make special mention of the last named because for many years he was an arranger with the Boston Pops and the composer of the haunting Odalisque. We've just realized that we're possibly inflicting our own reminiscences but that's the way it is with this joyfully excellent album. Anyone who remembers the Swing Years will find himself with personal memories of them. Your correspondent hopes there will be another album shortly, with maybe a track of Wang Wang Blues? -BW

DAVID ARKENSTONE - Celtic
The Celtic Book of Days
Windham Hill-01943-11246-N
 One supposes a Celtic concept album was inevitable. Book Of Days presents 15 tracks illustrative of events of the Celtic calendar or tradition. The compositions are by Mr. A. who also produced. The strength of the album however, is in the arrangements, orchestrations and leadership of Don Markese. The latter's name is unknown to us but he has a powerful gift of orchestration that rather reminds one of John Barry. We can't say in honesty whether or not the music heard here is true to Celtic tradition -- frankly, we think it sounds like the sound track to a fantasy film - but it doesn't really matter. What matters is wonderfully evocative music true to the spirit of the compositions. -BW

COVER STORY

Spitfire Band's founders given Steinbrenner welcome

New York Yankee owner George Steinbrenner, a huge fan of The Spitfire Band, flew the band into the Tampa Florida Yacht Club for a private party in December (RPM - Jan. 12/98). He also brought in the Mills Brothers for his by invitation only party.

The band was at its usual best with a beaming Steinbrenner taking the time to introduce the members of the band to the audience. Their energized performance resulted in even more converts to their big band sound and contacts for future U.S. appearances.

Spitfire Band product is released in the U.S. on Alanna with distribution by Allegro, and in Canada on EPD (Ed Preston Enterprises).

The 18-piece band was founded in 1983 by vocalist Jackie Rae, trumpeter/arranger Micky Erbe and chorale leader Laurie Bower. There are five CDs available, the most current being Virtual Reality.

Canadian dates for the band have been virtually sold out, their most recent being for the Canadian Warplane Museum on April 24.

Increased interest in MIDEM's Latin America/Caribbean fest

More than 90 exhibiting companies have already confirmed they will take part in MIDEM's second Latin America & Caribbean Music conference which will take place at Miami Beach, Florida Aug. 25 through 28.

Last year's conference attracted 3,312 delegates from 65 countries. The U.S. was represented by a total of 548 companies, followed by Europe with 423 and South America and the Caribbean registering 368 companies. The Canada Stand, mounted by the Canadian Independent Record Production Association (CIRPA) was also a formidable part of the conference.

With a reported 30 per cent more exhibition space, organizers are expecting the total number of exhibitors to reach 260 with attendance expected to surpass 4,000 this year.

Taking a major role once again will be the U.S. and Latin America where a number of newcomers have signed on, including Dismex, Ego Records, Muze, Supersonic Boom, World Music Distribution, all from the U.S. as well as Delta Music and Musictape Multimedia from Brazil and Mexico's Paramusic.

Europe will also be back with national pavilions representing Scandinavia, the Netherlands, Austria, Spain, Portugal, France, Belgium and Italy.

Dance music will be a priority this year with the Miami Dance Event, the dance and techno experience that has been so successful at MIDEM in Cannes, France.

The decision to import this event was apparently made "in the wake of the dance music phenomenon sweeping both North and South America, and to answer high demand from the global dance music industry for more dance music, more dance professionals, and, more dance music business." Eurodance, hi energy, rap, R&B, hip hop, electronica, techno, house, jungle hardcore, ambient, trance, garage, trip hop, drum & bass, acid, and world beat will all be represented at the Miami conference, where an entire pavilion has been reserved especially for the dance music industry.

Christopher Blum, Reed Midem Organization's music division director, points out "With audiences all over the world tuning in to dance music more than ever, it's only natural to celebrate this major musical force at MLA&C in Miami in 1998."

Small Mercies wins The FOX's Derby

The annual Demo Listen Derby, mounted by 99.3 The FOX has named Small Mercies as this year's winner.

Tanya Buchanan, promotions for the Vancouver station, reports that more than 300 demos were submitted and that the panel of judges "had a difficult job narrowing the bands down." The final competition took place at Studebaker's on April 16 with the three finalists ThreeSixty, The Loving Dead and Small Mercies playing off for a chance at first place honours.

ThreeSixty was named first runner up with The Loving Dead taking the second runner up prize.

Small Mercies will receive $3,000 worth of equipment from Tom Lee Music, a mastering package from Coastal Mastering, recording time and three songs on the upcoming Vancouver Seeds 13 CD, to be recorded over the next few months.

MacLeod makes her home in Charlottetown and is managed by Berni Wood of Vocal Image Productions. Debbie Wood is tracking the single.

Paul Brandt bullets up to #22 with Yeah, his latest Reprise single taken from his Outside The Frame album. Brandt co-wrote the single with a Nashville writer but does get enough of a piece of the lyric and music to qualify for two-parts Cancon (M/A/L). Brandt has been firmed for a May 20 date at the Northern Lights Arena in Melfort and the next night at the Yorkton Agriplex, both in Saskatchewan.

Clay Walker holds at #4 with Then What, a track taken from his Giant album Rumor Has It. There's nothing official from Warner, but U.S. sources say Holding Her And Loving You will be the next single. Walker has been firmed for an August 1st date at the Big Valley Jamboree in Camrose, Alberta.

Terri Clark and manager Woody Bowles were presented with a triple platinum award for her Mercury self-titled debut album and a double platinum for her follow-up album Just The Same. The awards were presented by Mercury's Alberta/Saskatchewan promotion representative Ron Harwood during Clark's press conference two days before the taping of her CBC-TV show. Harwood also reveals that the album will go to stores on May 19. The first single from the album, Now That I Found You, bullets up to #30 this week. We'll have a photo next week.

Bill MacNeil, who heads up the MacNeil Music

Group in Marion Bridge, Nova Scotia, has been encouraged by the support from country programmers for My Love Will Always Be Like That, the new single by Scott Phillips. The writers of the song are Nashville-based Rory Michael Bourke and Lewis Storey. However, the album, which was produced by MacNeil, was digitally recorded by Dan Doiron at In Session Recording in Truro, Nova Scotia giving the single two-parts Cancon (AP).

TNN's Music City News awards will be telecast by The Nashville Network on Monday, June 15 beginning at 8 pm (ET). Jeff Foxworthy will host the live telecast. This is the 32nd year for the popular awards show. This year's awards presentation will break a twenty-year tradition with the awards presentation being held at the new Nashville Arena which can accommodate an audience of 11,000, almost three times that of the previous site, the Grand Ole Opry House. Among the multi-nominees in the 13-categories, Alan Jackson, George Strait and Billy Ray Cyrus tied with six nominations each.

Steve Bell, 1977 Juno Award winner for best gospel album, is off with his new Peg single, All For A Loveless Night. This is a steel guitar mix and the first single from his Romantics & Mystics album (RPM New Releases - March 2/98) which is now approaching platinum sales. Bell wrote the song with Larry Campbell. The album, which was recorded at Winnipeg's Signpost Studios, was produced by Bell and Dave Zeglinski. Peg Music is mounting a large-scale promotion to bring the single home.

Chris Cummings has a new single with the impending release of Minute And A Half. Nothing official from Warner at press time, but Cummings' manager, Nashville-based Peter Leggett, is already promoting the release. Cummings is a co-writer of the song with Nashville writer Rick Scott giving him half the lyrics and music which works out to

Jazz Report Awards

Jazz Report Awards set for Toronto May 7

Montreal jazz artist Raneé Lee will host this year's Jazz Report Awards which will be held May 7 in the King Ballroom of the Holiday Inn on King Street in downtown Toronto.

The annual awards show is organized by Greg Sutherland and Bill King, co-founders of The Jazz Report magazine.

This year, 39 Canadian musicians and one international performer "who have made outstanding contributions to the artform over the past year," will be honoured. The winners are selected by a committee of more than 50 journalists, radio hosts, record company personnel, educators and musicians from across Canada who vote by open ballot.

Presenters will include Carol Welsman (Welcar Music), Joe Sealy (Sea Jam Records), Katie Malloch (CBC Radio Two - Jazz Beat), Ross Porter (CBC Radio Two - After Hours) and John Northcott (CBC-TV - Entertainment).

The awards show also serves as a fundraiser for Safehaven, a registered charitable organization dedicated to providing alternative residential housing for multi-handicapped children. A donation of $1500 was donated in the name of the awards and its sponsors last year. A portion of this year's proceeds will also be donated to Safehaven.

Tickets for the dinner and awards show
$50 each
