KISS makes waves with daring 'net promo

In the guerrilla-warfare type environs of radio promotion, it's often been felt that just about anything goes when it comes to promoting your own station above somebody else. But this past couple of weeks saw an ingenious, and probably unprecedented, bit of promotional subterfuge from the folks at Toronto's KISS 92.

Commercial spots were purchased through Sudbury-based SLM Creative on MIX 99.9, Hits 103.5, CHUM-FM and Energy. The spots directed listeners to check out the web site INSIDEEntertainment.net. Prior to this past Saturday, the site contained banners promoting contests to see Ricky Martin, Backstreet Boys, Jennifer Lopez, as well as movie ticket giveaways and other promotional goodies. But there was also a banner stating 'Debuts, Saturday October 9th.'

Those surfing to that site as of the 9th found something of a surprise, as the site turned out to be the newly-composed KISS 92 home page, complete with Martin, Backstreet and Lopez contest details, movie pass giveaways, and other promotional items. The site reportedly received more than 40,000 hits over the weekend.

According to KISS promotion director Dave Wannan, it was co-worker Lianne Tapuska that arrived at the idea of using the 'net to promote the station.

"I said to Lianne one day, 'I wouldn't mind advertising on other radio stations. How do we do it?' So she and I spent some time thinking about it, and she came up with the idea of using the internet. I don't know if any Canadian station has ever advertised on a competing station, so it sounds to me like a bit of a first."

Despite the ruse inflicted on the above-named stations, Wannan says he hasn't received any nasty phone calls yet from his competitors. But as he says, "that's competition, and if we didn't do it, somebody else would."

MIX 99 was the first station to pull the spots from their lineup as soon as they discovered the hoodwink, with the others likely to follow. And as Wannan says, he knew that it was just a matter of time before the stations figured it out anyway.

"We knew that come Saturday, we would have done all the advertising we would have wanted to do anyway. We wanted to find a way to promote our contests to listeners of other radio stations, and I think we did that."

Krystal composes music for Film Festival fave

Toronto composer and producer David Krystal recently produced and composed the score for the John Paizs film Top Of The Food Chain, starring Campbell Scott. The film was recently presented as part of the Perspective Canada Series in the 1999 Toronto International Film Festival, where it received rave reviews.

Krystal recorded the score live, at Barrandov Studios in Prague, Czech Republic, with the 30-piece Prague Symphony Orchestra. After recording the symphony live, off the floor, Krystal then augmented the score with atmospheric, digitalized samples, to create the sound of a 60-piece orchestra.

Describing his score, Krystal commented, "It sounds like a cross between Bela Bartok, Schoenberg, and 1950's B-movie soundtracks. We felt that it had to be performed by a live orchestra, and we were thrilled to work with such incredible musicians at such a legendary studio."

Barrandov Studios is a 1940's studio in Prague. Recent film scores recorded there include Portrait Of A Lady and Blue Velvet.

David Krystal is a UK native, who earned his

McKennitt to speak at Prairie Music Conference

Loreena McKennitt has been firmed to appear in a special one-on-one interview at the upcoming Prairie Music Conference. McKennitt's interview with CBC's Ross Porter will take place on Sunday, October 17.

A native of Morden, Manitoba, McKennitt has become an international success story, not only for her music, but also for her entrepreneurial skills in guiding her own career. In addition to being a top-flight musician and composer, McKennitt also runs her own Quinlan Road label.

McKennitt's last album, The Book Of Secrets, has sold more than 400,000 units in Canada, and also reached platinum status in the US. Overall, McKennitt has sold more than eight million recordings worldwide. Her most recent effort, Live In Paris And Toronto, was released on Sept. 28.

The afternoon discussion hosted by Porter (the host of CBC Radio Two's After Hours program) will cover a wide range of issues, ranging from self-management to running a label. The discussion will also feature an open mike segment, in which delegates can ask McKennitt questions.

The Prairie Music Conference is just one part of Prairie Music Week, which runs from October 14 to 17th in Winnipeg.

music degree at the University of York. After touring Europe extensively as a session musician, he then moved into producing and composing film music. He is the founder of Krystal Music & Sound Design and The Asylum Studio, located on Adelaide Street

Pet Shop Boys return with new Nightlife

Dance pop pioneers the Pet Shop Boys have returned from a lengthy hiatus with a new album, Nightlife, which was released to retail on October 12th. The new album is being released via EMI Music Canada.

The album features a dozen new songs, and was co-produced by the Pet Shop Boys, along with Craig Armstrong, Rollo and David Morales. On one song, In Denial, Neil Tennant duets with Kylie Minogue. The album offers a pair of hit singles - I Don't Know What You Want But I Can't Give It Anymore and New York City Boy.

The album was recorded in London, except for New York City Boy, which was recorded in New York.

According to Tennant, "All the songs take place at night. People's perceptions of life are different at night, people's needs are different, people's fears are greater, people's need for love or sex is greater, people want to dance. And nowadays, the night, in

Celine Dion drummer launches legal action

Peter Barbeau, who spent six years as Celine Dion's drummer, has filed a statement of claim in the Superior Court of Justice of Ontario, claiming wrongful dismissal and infringement of copyright.

Barbeau reportedly joined Dion's touring band in 1989 and was fired five years later. He is asking close to $5 million in damages. He is suing Dion; her manager/husband Rene Angelil; two of their companies (CRB Music Publishing and Feeling Productions); her record company, Sony Music Entertainment; concert promoter Donald K. Donald Inc.; and Warner Bros Publications U.S. Inc.

The copyright allegation of the statement of claim involves the song, Dreaming Of You, a track from Dion's multi-million-selling album, Falling Into You. The album was #1 in 11 countries, including Canada (RPM - Nov. 25/96), and won a Juno Award as Best Selling Album (RPM - March 17/97) and a Grammy Award as Best Pop Album. The album has reportedly sold more than 25 million copies worldwide.

Barbeau claims he composed the song with a partner, not named, and that he retains 40 per cent of the rights, title and interest through his company, in Toronto.

Beginning in 1985, Krystal Music has provided themes for television, radio and films, including The Nuttiest Nutcracker (CBS), Buying Time (MGM/UA) and Michael Ondaatje's Love Clinic. Krystal has a music publishing agreement with Sony Music Publishing.

clubbing terms, extends into the day - you can find people in clubs still dancing at midday, so, although it's light outside, for them it's still the night. All of these themes come into the album."

Since the release of their last studio album, 1996's Bilingual, the Boys have played a three-week stint at London's Savoy Theatre, played three major European festivals, headlined Gay Pride and the Stonewall Equality Show, played a short tour of Russia, and recorded a song for Gus Van Sant's remake of Psycho.

In addition to recording and releasing the new album, the band has also announced plans for their first tour in over nine years. The tour is a collaboration between the band and architect Zaha Hadid, who will design the ground-breaking stage set. The tour includes two Canadian dates currently - November 9 at Toronto's Warehouse and November 14 at Montreal's Metropolis.

Bow River Music Inc.

Barbeau also levelled the bombshell that Dion lip-synchs to a pre-recorded version of her songs during live concert performances, a practice apparently not unique to Dion. Barbeau claimed that as the drummer, it was his responsibility "to maintain a synchronous tempo between the sample and the live performances of the other band members," further claiming that performing with an artist of such renown as Celine Dion "made the role of drummer in the band one of the most challenging and sought-after jobs by qualified drummers in the music industry."

Barbeau has been jobless since 1995 when he was fired by the band leader Claude Lemaie. The court documents allege that the general public was left "with the impression that he is incompetent or unable to perform publicly."

Barbeau and Bow River Music are asking $200,000 for wrongful dismissal and are seeking $2 million in damages for copyright infringement and are also seeking punitive damages totalling $2 million and $500,000 for mental stress and defamation.

WALT SAYS . . . !

with Elvira Caprese

Starbuilding!!! You have to hand it to the CCMA. The number of times the CCMA Awards are being repeated on CMT, eventually everybody in the world will see all these great Canadian stars on the screen being treated like they matter! This builds stars and that's what the whole thing is about! (EC: So when does Walt Says Greatest Hits come out???) Saucy bitch!!!

Copyright infringement??? Who cares! While one Toronto daily writer thinks it's okay for DJ mixes to be sold illegally, I wonder what would happen if his columns were just reprinted by newspapers and magazines across Canada without permission or payment to him? And then when it became rampant, all writers would lose their rights and not be paid. Gosh! Would there be an outcry? There sure would.

Gemini nomination for Natalie MacMaster

Natalie MacMaster, currently touring western Canada, has been nominated for a 1999 Gemini Award for best performance or host in a variety program or series. The nomination was for MacMaster's fiddle performance with guitarist Jesse Cook at the 1999 Juno Awards.

The Gemini nomination comes on the heels of MacMaster receiving the Musician Citation Award for Best Fiddle Player for the third consecutive year during the recent Canadian Country Music Awards which were held in Ottawa.

MacMaster's current single, In My Hands, the title track from her WEA album and her first vocal venture, is making good inroads at radio and moves up to #26 this week on the RPM A/C 100. Rounder Records, the release label for MacMaster in the US, has included In My Hands and her Olympic Reel on its September new release sample which is now at radio.

MacMaster is in good company. The Rounder sampler also contains tracks by Wilson Pickett (Soul Survivor and Better Him Than Me), NRBQ (Ain't No Horse and Breakaway To My Dreams), Tarras (Parsons Green and Whisky Town) and Alan Lomax Collection (Calypso Invasion and Don't Stop The Carnival).

The article zeroed in on record company losses. But how about the songwriter and the publisher, the cost of promotion and advertising the losses in putting out all the product that leads to a hit ... the manufacturing and the artists??? It suddenly looks different when it isn't just the media-hated record company that loses! (EC: I'd just like to see the writer who would lie still for his stories to appear without payment!!!)

Overexposed!!! The Toronto Daily Star's Rob Salem writes in The Ticket about overexposure of music stars. This gives me a chance to air some of my gripes about overexposure!!! Herewith: Me TV! Definitely NOT me! Bistro 990! Just kidding Rob! Fine place! I hear! Traders! Won't watch on principle! Anyone who sells everybody a VIP service. Don't sign me up! News items that are promoted as "coming up!" No thanks! If it's news it can't wait! (EC: More on that coming up...next week!!!)

A band walking??? Don't hold your breath on this one. A contract's a contract! Right? (EC: Sometimes!!!)

Lip-synching??? Lip-synching is the way to do it for many of the world's great recording artists when it comes to their concerts. It's done so smoothly with today's techniques that very few in the audience would even be aware of it. And what's the harm? It's easy to damage the vocal chords with all those concert dates, so why not take it easy. The fact the artist is there in person is most important. You can start getting excited when they prop up a cut-out at the mike. By the way, remember back a few years when Milli Vanilli had to return their Juno and Grammy Awards because they were accused of lip-synching their record? It's no big deal now! (EC: Some will no doubt disagree!)

Geoffrey Lattimer has a hit!!!! What an energetic happening when Forever Swing got underway at Toronto's Winter Garden for what should be a long run. They were dancing on the stage. And it was reflective of the '40s and '50s when many who were in the audience went to the Palace Pier to see the name bands and stood 30 deep around the bandstand to watch the big stars of 78s. Here, 50 years later, it was difficult to just sit and watch the band and the dancers as they brought back that swing era and the songs we bought and danced to before rock 'n roll. The demographics of the audience was surprising, ranging anywhere from early teens through to the 80s. Forget the storyline, it was a non-stop big band sound courtesy of an incredibly-tight and sound perfect 12-piece orchestra. Lattimer's TaurPro Entertainment brought the musical in from Vancouver where it played to sold-out houses and had to be extended. The same should happen here. In The Mood, One O'Clock Jump, Begin The Beguine, A Tisket A Tasket, You Got Me On A Slow Boat To China, with impeccable delivery by these smooth youngsters. Nice to see Lattimer getting positive things printed about him again in the dailies. If you're visiting Toronto or you're here already, check out this show. You'll get the best night's entertainment you've experienced in some time. (EC: I can't picture those 80-year olds doing the boogie, or swing for that matter!!!)

Mirvi to premiere Mamma Mia!

Using their tried and true modus operandi in attracting the media, David and Ed Mirvish used the facilities of The Friendly Greek Restaurant in Toronto's Greek neighbourhood to announce they had secured rights to Mamma Mia! a new musical based on the songs of ABBA written by ABBA's Benny Andersson and Björn Ulvaeus. The musical will be the first production in the 2000/2001 subscription season at Toronto's Royal Alexandra Theatre with performances beginning in May 2000.

Described by Ulvaeus as "the musical we never knew we had written," the show interweaves 22 ABBA songs into "a funny and infectious tale of a mother and her soon-to-be-wed daughter," set on a tiny, mythical Greek island. The show opened in London's West End at the Prince Edward Theatre on April 6 of this year, 25 years to the day of ABBA's winning performance of Waterloo at the Eurovision Song Contest. Released as a single, Waterloo was a Top 10 hit in Canada where it reached #7 (RPM - July 27, 1974). Overnight, the musical became what Daily Mail's Baz Bamigboye critiqued as "London's biggest home-grown hit" since The Phantom of the Opera and Les Miserables.

ABBA has sold more than 350 million records worldwide. A Greatest Hits collection, ABBA Gold (Polydor), contains 19 of their biggest hits that includes their #1 Canadian hit Dancing Queen (RPM - April 7, 1977); Knowing Me, Knowing You; The Winner Takes It All; Money, Money, Money; Chiquitita; Super Trouper; and of course, Waterloo and Mamma Mia, all of which have been tailored for the musical.

With casting calls this past week, David Mirvish indicated that he hopes the 32-member cast will be made up of Canadians. Mirvish described Mamma Mia! as "that elusive show that the theatre desperately needed -- a genuinely original musical that not only works as a strong story but also contains a mass appeal musical score that crosses generations. And it does all this in the great tradition of musical comedy." The show will be produced in Toronto by Judy Craymer, Richard East and Björn Ulvaeus for Littlestar in association with Universal and David and Ed Mirvish.

NSAI's Toronto Workshop to discuss legal entities

The Toronto Regional Workshop of the Nashville Songwriters Association International (NSAI) has scheduled its next seminar for Oct. 19 at the Lester B. Pearson High School in Brampton, Ontario.

The guest speaker for this seminar will be Susan Abramovitch, an entertainment lawyer from the Stohn Henderson firm. Abramovitch will speak on her experiences dealing with recording and publishing contracts as well as other related subjects which involve the music industry.

Meetings are held at the Brampton high school twice a month beginning at 7:30 pm. For more information call Dan McVeigh at 905-453-6104 or Bruce Madole at 905-459-9753.

What's Happening

Halifax's Shyne Factory have completed work on Lava, their sophomore album, scheduled for national release by No Distribution on Oct. 20. Gina DeYoung from Red Liquorice, the band's management company, sent along an advance of the new album, which she describes as "a musical evolution." She points out that the band still maintains the crunchy guitar licks and catchy melodies, "but the change comes in the maturity of the songwriting." Shyne Factory was formed in 1992, and is made up of identical twins Matt and Mike Johnson and longtime friend Shawn Scott. They will be off on a promotion tour next month. DeYoung can be contacted at 902-429-4069.

Ma-Anne Dionisio, who starred in the two-year run of Cameron Mackintosh's Toronto production of Miss Saigon, will make her world premiere as a solo artist at Winnipeg's Centennial Concert Hall on Dec. 11. Backed by an eight-piece orchestra, Dionisio will perform a repertoire of musical numbers from the Broadway shows for which she is known, plus a number of standards. Originally from the Philippines, Dionisio emigrated to Winnipeg with her parents and four sisters in 1990, where they still make their home. The concert is a presentation by Paquin Entertainment Group, sponsored by Cantel AT&T and Grand Marnier. For more information call Kirsten Andrews 204-988-1125.

Mary J. Blige gets the Intimate & Interactive treatment at the MuchExclusive season premiere on Oct. 20. The show, hosted by Master T, goes live across North America beginning at 9 pm. Blige is currently charting with All That I Can Say, which features Lauryn Hill. The single, which bullets up to #48 this week on the RPM 100 A/C chart, was taken from Mary, her MCA album. Deep Inside

Pioneer/DRRI set to launch digital radio

After several years of experimentation, the long-awaited launch of digital audio broadcasting appears to be at hand. At an industry luncheon held at the CBC Broadcasting Centre in Toronto last week, Pioneer Electronics of Canada announced the introduction of their new black box receiver for digital audio broadcasts.

Major radio stations throughout the country are already broadcasting digitally, but few consumers have had the technology or hardware to receive the digital signal. With the launch of the new receiver, any audiophile will be able to receive crystal-clear AM or FM signals, without static or interference.

According to Duff Roman, president of Digital Radio Roll-Out Inc. (DRRI), the industry faction who have worked behind the scenes on the digital radio launch, "The change from analog AM-FM radio to digital radio is no less a change than vinyl going to CD. You will be hearing music every bit as good as your CD player."

At the moment, stations are broadcasting their signals simultaneously, in both formats (analog and digital). But if the digital radio receivers achieve mass-market acceptance, the analog signal could disappear altogether.

"When we have the proper number of receivers in place," added Roman, "we will abandon AM and FM."

The price of the receiver at the moment is estimated at approximately $1,000, but as with any other new technology, that price will go down as the acceptance widens.

which features Elton John, has been taken as Blige's follow-up single and video. Viewers can tune in to MuchMusic on Oct. 14 at 5:30 pm (ET) for details on the special 800 number they can dial to win a very limited number of passes to attend the I&I Exclusive.

A second show for Tea Party with special guest Edwin has been added for Nov. 23. at Toronto's Massey Hall. The band has become one of the most popular in the Toronto area, having packed the Warehouse earlier this month with more than 5,000 fans. TRYptych, the band's latest EMI recording, has been charting on the RPM 100 CDs chart for 16 weeks. Heaven Coming Down, taken as a single, is also charting on the 100 Hit Tracks chart.

V2's Stereophonics have an Oct. 23 date at Lee's Palace in Toronto. The date is timely in view of their just released CD, Performance and Cocktails. The band is also being credited with "putting hard ass rock" back on the UK charts.

Michaela Foster Marsh, a Scottish-born singer songwriter, is firmed for an Oct. 18 date at Toronto's Barcode. She will be accompanied by a string quartet and will perform songs from her debut album, Fairy Tales & The Death of Innocence, produced by Toronto-based Greg Kavanagh. Contact Jane Harbury Publicity 416-466-5020 (jhpi007@total.net).

Hip-Hop soldiers Citizen Kane will break new ground with the launch of Deliverance, the band's debut CD on the Treehouse label, which is distributed by Oasis Entertainment. The launch party is scheduled for Toronto's Comfort Zone on Oct. 20 beginning at 10:30 pm.

TLC's Fanmail Tour has been reschedule for Oct. 22 at Toronto's Air Canada Centre. All tickets purchased for the Oct. 16 show will be honoured on this date. The band is currently charting with their Arista/BMG CD Fanmail.

Garvey's Upstairs Kitchen & Bar is a new concept for Toronto featuring Afrocentric food and a mix of R&B blues, jazz and African drumming. Located in Toronto's famed Kensington Market area at 277½ Augusta Street, the month has already featured the Doug Richardson Trio featuring Kingsley Etienne on the Hammond Organ, an African drum jam with Muhtadi, a celebration of art ad music through photographic artist Mary Liscoumb's black & white photography of New Orleans' jazz spots along with the guitar and vocals of bluesman Johnny Lovesin, The Wolf Pack, a blues band featuring five brothers from Ontario's Six Nation's Reservation, and Charles Burke & Friends. To check out dates firmed for the rest of the month and November call 416-593-9996.

We'll Meet Again is the theme for a CD release concert by Mose Scarlett, Jackie Washington and Ken Whiteley at Toronto's Music Gallery on Oct. 24. Tickets at $15 are available at the Music Gallery 416-204-1080 or Ring Music 416-924-3571 or check out the Borealis website (www.interlog.com/~brc) for more of the trio's concerts for this fall.

Moist and Matthew Good Band have scheduled a number of dates to re-visit some of the cities that were on the recent Edgefest '99 tour and some towns that were not within reach. The tour begins at Vancouver's PNE Coliseum on Nov. 29, followed by the Riverside Coliseum in Kamloops (30), the Prince George Multiplex (Dec. 2), Calgary's Max Bell Arena (4), Edmonton's Shaw Convention Centre (5), Regina's Centre of the Arts (7), the Winnipeg Convention Centre (8), the Metropolis in Montreal (11), London's Centennial Hall (14), and Sears Theatre in Toronto's Air Canada Centre (17). The Matthew Good Band is currently on release with Beautiful Midnight that made its debut at #1 on the RPM 100 CD chart the first week out (Sept. 27/99). Mercedes Five and Dime, Moist's third album, is already gold.

Geoffrey Wickham and Naffin & Wright will inaugurate the Bellwoods Acoustic Concerts series at Toronto's St. Matthias Anglican Church which is located at 45 Bellwoods Avenue, just west of Bathurst Street. Wickham is currently on release with his self-titled Roto Noto CD (RPM New Releases - Aug. 30/99). For the concert he will be accompanied by Glenn Love on keys and violinist Karen Graves. Alyssa Wright was the assistant principal cellist of the Kingston Symphony, Ensemble Unterwegs and the Festival Players and a member of the North York Symphony. She is featured on albums by Wickham, Linda Hiebert, Incandescent Bliss Machine. Guitarist Nick Naffin is on release with Music From The Sacred Grounds. Three concerts are planned for each year, featuring singers/songwriters, folk and jazz as well as classical ensembles plus a one-day festival in the summer. Catherine Dey of Take Note! Promotion, points out that differing from some current formats, the Bellwoods series "will not focus on a particular style or genre of acoustic music, but instead showcase musicians 'all over the map' running the gamut from roots, folk and bluegrass to contemporary classical to fusion and improvised jazz, showing the broad range of handmade music today, and maybe finding something entirely new in the process."

Guster, a Boston band who release on the Sire/Warner Music label, return to Canada for an Oct. 27 date at Toronto's Horseshoe Tavern. Guesting will be Atlantic's Jump Little Children and Sarah Slean, who is currently on release with Blue Parade (RPM New Releases - Oct. 11/99). Guster scored big this past summer in the opening slot on Blue Rodeo and Great Big Sea's national Stardust Picnic Tour. They ended the summer with a Woodstock spot. The band's new single is the title track from their Lost And Gone Forever CD.

Veteran folkie Rick Fielding has been firmed for a Nov. 6 date at the Acoustic Harvest Folk Club, located at The Birchcliffe United Church in Toronto. A 25-year folk music veteran, Fielding hosts Acoustic Workshop on CIUT-FM (University of Toronto). He writes music, teaches acoustic techniques on guitar, banjo, mandolin and dulcimer, runs workshops on songwriting and professional development for musicians and does custom leather work. He recently completed recording for the Folk-Legacy label in Sharon, Connecticut and has also appeared on albums for Rita MacNeil, Grit Laskin and Mose Scarlett. He is also preparing for the release of This One's The Dreamer his debut CD for the Borealis Recording Company. The album features appearances by label mates Curly Boy Stubbs, Chris Whiteley, Grit Laskin, Bill Garrett and Mose Scarlett, as well as Don Reed, Tim Harrison and Don Rooke.

Disney/Universal union hitting its stride

In the six months since the convergence of Disney Records and Universal Music, the results have already been promising. The recent success of the Tarzan Soundtrack, led by the Phil Collins AC hit You'll Be In My Heart, bodes well for the future of the pact between the two companies.

It was in the beginning of March that Disney Records Canada signed the licensing deal with Universal, and in that time, the Tarzan Soundtrack has already passed the platinum mark in Canada. With much more product on the way, including the highly-anticipated Toy Story 2, people on both sides of the equation are anxious to see what further gains can be made.

Joe Etter is director of sales for Disney Records (Canada), and was front and centre in the negotiations with Universal. While he still has his hands full dealing with both Disney Records in the US and Buena Vista Home Video, he notes that Universal has taken on a huge share of the workload.

"Basically it means that Universal is responsible for the sales, marketing, distribution and production of Walt Disney Records product in Canada. And that includes all of our products - soundtracks, character albums, compilations. As well as the audio-type entertainment products, like the Read Alongs, Sing Alongs, those type of products.

"My job is to assist them in doing that, and in understanding our business. They basically sell the products to the accounts, and obviously it's in their best interest to do some marketing and promotion in behind them."

Etter is naturally elated with the success of Tarzan, and admits that much of the success can be attributed to the marketing and promotion work done by Universal.

Kid's music still struggling to find retail niche

Go into your nearest record retailer, and you're bound to find plenty of displays for the latest offerings from Alanis, Nine Inch Nails, Sky, Backstreet Boys, Our Lady Peace, or whomever else may be hot on the charts right now.

But if you're a parent, and you're searching for something to pick up for your youngster for their birthday, you may wind up embarking on a considerable search indeed.

Children's entertainers have complained for some time about the lack of respect they get at retail, particularly at the big-ticket record retailers like HMV, Tower, Sunrise, and others.

But retailers simply shrug their shoulders, and talk about sales and charts and the fact that, outside of the Christmas season, parents simply aren't shopping for kids music much of the time. Kids video, yes, but kids audio products, very rarely.

Tim Baker, head buyer for the Sunrise Records chain, certainly sympathizes with parents in search of product, and artists who can't get their product prioritized in stores. But he's also frank in his assessment that children's music simply isn't a big enough part of the business.

"To be perfectly honest with you, in the past we've done displays for an awful lot of audio product, and at Christmas time we'll generally put extra stuff in. But over the course of the year, it's not a major rackable thing. Let's face it, when you're dealing with Sharon, Lois & Bram, there's not a lot of airplay happening there. If we know that they're playing in town, of course we support them. It's not that we're ignoring it, not at all. But I think you just have to be realistic about goals."

While artists like Sharon, Lois & Bram, Fred Penner, Raffi and others continued to sell well at block retailers like Wal-Mart, and kids outlets like

And while the sales of the Tarzan soundtrack are pretty much on par with what they were hoping for, he still feels that there's plenty of life left in the album.

"We are actually at about 130,000 units on the English soundtrack, and the French is at about 11,000. We're still getting a lot of airplay on the first single, and the second single goes to radio November 9, and it's more of a CHR type of song. So I think there's still a lot of potential for the Tarzan Soundtrack."

And hopefully, by the time Tarzan begins to ebb at the retail racks, the new Toy Story 2 soundtrack will be picking up where that left off. The sequel to the highly successful, fully computer-animated feature, Toy Story 2 will once again feature the voices of stars Tom Hanks and Tim Allen (as well as new addition Kelsey Grammer), with the soundtrack provided by Randy Newman.

With a November 9th release date planned for the soundtrack, Etter is obviously hoping that Toy Story 2 becomes a huge hit for the holiday season. And the inclusion of a Sarah McLachlan track on the album shouldn't hurt sales either.

"It's a Randy Newman soundtrack, and we also have Sarah McLachlan singing one of the songs on the soundtrack. It's called Jessie's Song, based on a new character in the movie. And we did well over 200,000 units in all the Toy Story audio product combined in Canada. And the original Toy Story was kind of a sleeper. With this one, all the characters are familiar, the original cast of voices is back, so we think the movie is going to be very big."

Music has always been an integral part of Disney animated features, and Walt Disney himself was often quoted as saying that he couldn't imagine a Disney movie without the music. And as such,

Toys R Us, the principal record retailers simply don't see the numbers necessary to make them a priority.

And with the increased emphasis on video, most record retailers find it much more beneficial to prioritize video product than audio product. Any parent, being perfectly honest, will tell you that their kids do spend a fair amount of time in front of the television. And that television recognition plays a huge part in the potential sales of any audio product.

"To be honest with you, with sell a lot more children's video, then children's music. The children's market has changed now to a visual medium, and the sales reflect that. But we always support our Canadian children's artists as best we can."

Sony Wonder's Therese Garnett can certainly relate to the experience felt by parents and children's artists who can't find their products in record retailers. And that's part of the reason why Sony Wonder has veered away from children's artists, and concentrated more of their efforts on licensed properties, such as Sesame Street, or the latest toddler craze, Teletubbies.

And Garnett feels that it's not just Sony that feels that way. As she points out, much of the children's market has drifted towards video and licensed properties, meaning that many of the more traditional family artists have been left behind.

"I know that a lot of the products that we focus on from an audio standpoint are licensed brand products. We do very well with our Sesame Street licensed audio line, and we've just released the Teletubbies album, which has actually gotten quite a bit of support from retail across Canada. And then our artist-driven releases are basically well-known artists that are doing albums for kids, like Art Garfunkel, Tony Bennett, the ones in our Family Artist series."

Disney Records have always strived to release the soundtrack before the movie. In that way, the music will help market the movie, and when the movie hits, it will then drive the soundtrack sales.

And as Etter points out, not only does the soundtrack get a boost with the movie's theatrical release, but it also takes a jump when the movie is released on video.

The addition of such popular AC artists as Elton John, Michael Bolton and Phil Collins also provides a tremendous boost to the album's popularity, and gives the album an increased awareness among adults, not just children.

"Ever since Beauty & The Beast, with Celine Dion, we've had a very strong adult contemporary artist on most of our soundtracks," adds Etter. "But if you go back many years ago, we've had Louis Armstrong, Louis Prima, a lot of big names in music that have been involved with Disney Records projects."

In the coming months, in addition to Toy Story 2, Disney has plenty of projects to be excited about. The fall will see the release of Fantasia 2000, based on the classic original animated feature. And in the new year, Disney will release The Tigger Movie, a full-length animated feature based on the classic Pooh characters. The soundtrack for that will feature a new song co-written and performed by Kenny Loggins, entitled Your Heart Will Lead You Home.

Overseeing all of these new releases will be Universal Music, who are equally delighted with the prospects for the holiday season and new year.

Universal's Glenn Moss, vice-president of strategic marketing, says his office is working closely with Etter to fully realize the potential of the Disney releases. And the added emphasis Universal has placed on media buys has aided in marketing and promoting the Disney product.

"They've got their initiative that they're already doing, so we try and jump on that with them. And we're also doing something that they hadn't historically done, which is doing additional TV advertising with some of these campaigns. We're planning on doing a lot more TV campaigns down the road, to cross-promote some of the catalogue as well.

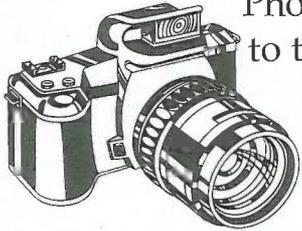

"But our strength in strategic marketing is buying media, namely TV and radio, so that's definitely what Universal's adding to the picture with Disney."

And Moss adds that with the sheer strength in numbers that Universal can provide, it can only lead to greater numbers on the sales side for Disney products.

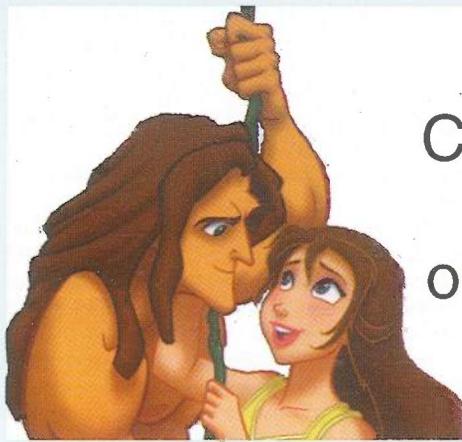

"We've got media reps and promo people across the country, who are obviously focussed in on our traditional music in all the genres. But we worked the Phil Collins single off Tarzan, for example, and we were able to do that pretty efficiently and get some great numbers out of it. So it seems to be working out really well."

Children's Music on review

SONG OF THE UNICORN Classical Kids-84322-P

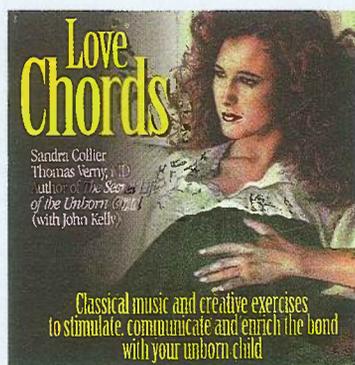

This latest release from the Children's Group is the ninth in the award-winning Classical Kids series. The story, narrated by Oscar-winning actor Jeremy Irons, tells of a group of children who travel into the forest in search of the legendary unicorn, which may provide the cure for a young queen who's fallen ill. Merlin the magician guides the children on their quest, involving riddles and the unicorn's song. The recording features more than two dozen excerpts of pre-Baroque music, including traditional songs like Greensleeves and Early One Morning, as well as the works of Bach, Mozart and Beethoven. This is also the first Classical Kids CD to feature multimedia enhancements for kids, parents and teachers.

MOZART'S MAGNIFICENT VOYAGE Classical Kids-84297-P

Is there a more profound and influential composer in the history of classical music than Mozart? Doubtful. Thus it only makes sense that Susan Hammond and her Classical Kids team chose to make Wolfgang Amadeus the focus of this 1998 release. The story focuses on the Dream Children, who are about to be written out of Mozart's most famous opera. Hoping to change their fate, they enlist the aid of Mozart's son Karl, who guides them on a journey backwards in time to Mozart's childhood, and then forward into the future. This album features more than two dozen excerpts of Mozart's work, including Eine Kleine Nachtmusik, the Clarinet Quintet, Flute Quartet, Horn Concerto, Symphony No. 1, Piano Sonatas and Concert K.467, as well as selections from Mozart's best-loved operas.

LOVE CHORDS The Children's Group-84311-P

Repeated studies have indicated that the unborn fetus can be enormously influenced by external sources. Researchers in the fields of pre and peri-natal psychology have discovered that the unborn child is a far more advanced being, both mentally and emotionally, than was ever suspected. In keeping with this thinking, Dr. Thomas Verny (author of The Secret Life Of The Unborn Child) and producer Sandra Collier have put together this collection of classical music and creative exercises, which aim at providing stimulation, encourage development, and promote the bonds between the parent and unborn child. The album features the music of Handel, Bach, Vivaldi, Boccherini, Albinoni and Corelli, with each piece performed at the rate of 60 beats/minute, equivalent to that of a human heart at rest. Each CD/cassette features a 24-page booklet, featuring nine months of exercises.

MOZART IN MOTION
The Children's Group-84293-P
Compiled by best-selling author Don Campbell, this series of CDs is based on Campbell's book The Mozart Effect (Avon Books), which offered insight and study on the effects of music on both adults and children, and the intellectual, creative and health benefits it provides. The initial series featured three volumes, aimed at ages 2 and beyond, each of which was aimed at a different phase of physical, spiritual or mental development. The first, Tune Up Your Mind, aimed at developing young intellects, includes excerpts from Eine Kleine Nachtmusik, Violin Concerto No. 2, Symphony No. 17 and more. Volume Two, Relax, Daydream & Draw, includes some of Mozart's more relaxing compositions, including The Marriage of Figaro, Symphony No. 6, Symphony No. 18, and more. Volume Three, Mozart In Motion, is designed to stimulate and enhance movement and coordination, and includes excerpts from Don Giovanni, The Magic Flute, Symphony No. 40, and more. The most recent release from Campbell and The Children's Group is Music For Babies, aimed at infants three months to three years of age. The music, designed to both stimulate and soothe small infants, includes selections such as Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star, Flute Quartet In C Major, and Serenade No. 9 in D Major. All of the Children's Group releases are distributed by Warner Music Canada.

TELETUBBIES
The Album
Sony Wonder-80436-H
Their names are Dipsy, Laa-Laa, Tinky Winky and Po, and they are the hottest thing to hit children's entertainment since a certain purple dinosaur who shall remain nameless. The Teletubbies have become must-see fare for the preschool set in North America, following up on their tremendous success overseas. Indeed, the lead single, Teletubbies Say 'Eh-Oh!', went on to sell more than one million copies in England. This release features many of the songs featured in the popular TV show, including the Puddle Dance, Dipsy's Fancy Hat, and Jumping For Fun, to name a few.

TARZAN Original Soundtrack Walt Disney Records-606457-J

The latest Disney animated opus, based on the classic Edgar Rice Burroughs tale, followed a similar musical path as was taken on The Lion King. Only this time, it was Phil Collins who contributed the songs, instead of Elton John. And while contributed the songs, most notably the huge AC hit You'll Be In My Heart, it was Mark Mancina who offers the film score. As with anything else animated from Disney, Tarzan was another huge hit at the box office, and the CD has already reached double platinum status in Canada.

MANNHEIM STEAMROLLER MEETS THE MOUSE Unique Musical Creations Based On Disney Songs - Disney/American Grammaphone-60641-J

Some of the most memorable tracks in the Disney pantheon have been given the royal instrumental treatment by the legendary Mannheim Steamroller, who recently celebrated their 25th anniversary. Noted tracks that have been Steamrolled here include Zip-A-Dee-Doo-Dah (from Song Of The South), Hakuna Matata (Lion King), Heigh-Ho (Snow White) and When You Wish Upon A Star (Pinocchio). Produced, arranged and performed by Chip Davis.

DISNEY'S JUNGLE BOOGIE Disney-60644-J

The animated features The Jungle Book and The Lion King have become two of the all-time favourites in many households, and a large part of that success is the music. Both soundtracks provided some terrific tunes, and it's only natural that the folks at Disney have chosen to package together some of those tracks on this compilation, which also features a couple of tracks from the hit Disney animated television series Jungle Cubs and Timon & Pumbaa. Among the notables are The Bare Necessities and I Wan'na Be Like You, from The Jungle Book, and Hakuna Matata and Circle Of Life, from The Lion King.

BEAR IN THE BIG BLUE HOUSE Songs From... Disney-1021061-J

The big Bear in the BIG house has become oh, so popular in recent months, largely because of his successful show on the Treehouse specialty channel, the channel that's aimed right at your two year-old. Songs include Welcome To The Blue House, Happy, Happy Birthday, Go To Bed, Sleepy Head, Take Time To Smell The Cheese, and Goodbye Song.

DISNEY'S READ & SING ALONG Tarzan Disney-09914-J

The most recent addition to the popular Read & Sing Along line is this hardcover book and tape, both of which provide the story of Tarzan, as taken from the hit Disney animated feature. By reading along with the story, children can improve their vocabulary skills. As well, the tape contains word-for-word narration, and two songs from the film - You'll Be In My Heart and Strangers Like Me.

DISNEY'S READ ALONG Tarzan Disney-04274-J Robin Hood Disney-04384-J Alice In Wonderland Disney-04374-J

The three most recent additions to Disney's popular Read Along series are these tape/book combinations, perfectly designed for youngsters just learning to read. Each collection features a 24-page book adaptation of the Disney film, as well as a cassette featuring word-for-word narration and songs from the films.

Notable Children's Video releases

Sesame Street - Elmo In Grouchland Released at the same time as the theatrical release (Oct. 1), this latest effort from the Sesame Street gang features songs by Vanessa Williams, Tatyana Ali, and Aerosmith's Steven Tyler. The video also features a special bonus track of Elmo telling the story of his adventures in Grouchland.

Caillou - Takes On The World A favourite among the toddlers, Caillou is the loveable 3 year-old featured in the books from Les Editions Chouette, and the popular animated series on Teletoon. In this new video from the Cinar Production group, little Caillou experiences the world 'one adventure at a time', and learns that new things, which may seem scary initially, can turn out to be fun. This is the third English-language home video release in the Caillou series.

Wimzie's House - You're Special Produced by the Cinar Corporation, Wimzie's House was named one of the top 10 new kids shows by TV Guide, has been honoured twice with Parents' Choice Awards, and is the #3 rated PBS kids show. Wimzie is an excitable five-year old who's the result of a mixed marriage between a bird and a dragon. She spends her time playing with her friends Jonas, Loulou and Horace (as well as brother Bo), at her grandmother Yaya's daycare. In You're Special, Jonas and Wimzie learn a valuable lesson about being yourself, rather than trying to be something you're not.

Beavis & Butt-Head - Butt-O-Ween This is the 11th MTV home video release for the infamous duo, recently featured in their first feature film. Butt-O-Ween features seven classic episodes, all of them with a distinct Hallow'een flavour. Skits include Bungolio: Lord Of The Harvest, Ding-Dong-Ditch, Late Night With Butt-Head, Leave It To Beavis, The Pipe Of Doom, Killing Time and Candy Sale (featuring David Spade as the voice of Mr. Candy). The DVD version of this release will also include excerpts from the Pocket Books release Chicken Soup For The Butt, as well as a demo from Bung Hole In One, a DVD-Rom golf game.

Doors Of Wonder - Famous Fred Also released just in time for Hallow'een is this Academy Award-nominated feature in the Doors Of Wonder series, featuring a singing cat destined for rock and roll greatness. This feature looks at the life of Fred, starting with his days as a kitten, right up to his discovery by Kenneth the Guinea Pig. The question is, can Fred handle his newfound stardom? Based on the book by Posy Simmonds, this video is a TVC London Production.

Doors Of Wonder - Little Witch Based on the best-selling book series by Deborah Hautzig, this video features the story of a 10 year-old witch whose magical powers are a little mixed up. Liddy is a junior sorceress with good intentions, who just wants to be a normal kid. Eventually, though, she has to use her powers to celebrate Hallow'een, plan her birthday party, or be popular at school. Ultimately, Liddy just wants to find the most elusive thing there is - her 'bestest friends'.

Susan Hammond orchestrates Classical Kids success

Bringing the austere sounds of classical music to children has been the silent hope of virtually every parent and teacher. Too often, however, children are content to awash themselves in the latest sounds from the mouse factory. And by the time they reach a more formative age, their tastes have veered towards the all-too comfortable sphere of pubescent pop, the current realm of Britney Spears and the Backstreet Boys.

Toronto native Susan Hammond had her own desires in terms of her children's listening habits. Herself a pianist and music teacher, Hammond knew the benefits that classical music might provide, and she wanted to bring such music, not only to her own offspring, but to other children as well.

When she went searching through record stores for something that might help bridge the gap between kids and classical, however, she was disappointed. Classical music purveyors have a tradition of looking down their collective noses at anyone under the age of 30, and the idea of specifically designing an approach to the classics for children just wasn't in the cards.

Thus, Hammond decided to create her own approach. It was more than a decade ago that she took $450 of her own money, and set out to produce a demo tape that would combine an original story with the works of one of the great composers.

The resulting recording, Mr. Bach Comes To Call, went on to attain surprising sales success, both in Canada and the US, and Hammond realized that she had a good thing happening.

Now, 11 years later, the highly-lauded Classical Kids series has become its own mini-industry. The initial eight recordings have combined original story ideas with the music of the masters - Beethoven, Handel, Tchaikovsky, Vivaldi, and Mozart. The series has topped sales of more than two million units in North America, and Hammond herself has become something of a near-legend in the children's entertainment field.

The latest in the Classical Kids series, and the ninth recording overall, is Song Of The Unicorn. Featuring the powerful narration of Oscar-winning actor Jeremy Irons, Song Of The Unicorn combines a story seeped in traditional English and French mythology, with the music and history of the medieval period.

Song Of The Unicorn is also the first Classical Kids recording which doesn't focus on one specific composer. It delves, instead, into the origins of western music, and tells an enchanting tale along the way.

"In Song Of The Unicorn, it's more about a period than a specific composer," says Hammond. "The reason I didn't take a specific composer from the era is because it was more of a craft. These aren't known names, particularly outside of classical circles. As well, what we get from the medieval period, which is as vital as the music, is the visuals. And that's why I enhanced the CD for the first time."

Although Hammond and company did produce a CD-ROM based on the Beethoven Lives Upstairs recording, this is the first in the series to contain multimedia enhancements alongside the principal recording.

Hammond feels that the artistic allure of the period, as well as her own interest in medieval art and culture, made the addition of multimedia a natural for this project.

"The two differences in production were doing the enhancement, which meant learning about that sort of thing, and marrying all those visuals to the audio CD. On the whole, I think a lot of the enhanced CDs are quite dreadful. This one is very hauntingly beautiful - you see the slide show with medieval music behind it, and you mix your own medieval music. I tried to make it really relevant to the story line, and yet it's not a movie."

The other significant change involved the inclusion of a narrator, something new to the series. Hammond felt that adding a strong narrative line would not only help clarify the story, but would also bring out some of the local colour and flavour of the period.

And if you're going to get a narrator for a tale of medieval England, who better to get than a classically-trained English actor like Jeremy Irons.

"And that was another change, to go outside the Canadian talent pool. There were several that I loved here, but it's a very European-flavoured production, and his voice is a wonderful storytelling voice, a very musical voice."

Song Of The Unicorn is also the first production which Hammond wrote entirely herself. She already had the outlines of the story as far back as 1992, and then it was simply a case of refining that original idea.

But garnering Irons to do the narration was admittedly a coup for Hammond. And it was clear to Hammond from her initial work with Irons that he was perfectly suited for the material.

"He's a musician as well, and I could hear that in the way he reads. And he said to me, 'This is such a lyrical script, and there's nothing like reading words over music.' But it was difficult to reach outside and try and find a star, who lives in Ireland, but his agent is in America, and his other agent is in London. And the night before I was to fly over there, they called me and told me that his mother had died, which put off the whole thing. So it had its challenges, but it was worth every minute."

Of course, in its nearly a dozen years of existence, Classical Kids has become more than just a series of recordings. Working alongside her parent company, The Children's Group (who market and promote the series), Hammond has taken the works into several different venues.

The series has now evolved to include a pair of hard-cover books (for Beethoven Lives Upstairs and Tchaikovsky Discovers America), an award-winning video and CD-ROM (both for Beethoven Lives Upstairs), and the highly successful symphony concert series based on the original eight recordings.

The demand for the symphony shows has surprised even Hammond. For the 1999/2000 season, symphony shows will be performed throughout North America, from Honolulu to Halifax, San Antonio to Syracuse. All told, some 40 different orchestras throughout the continent have performed adaptations of the Classical Kids series to more than 350,000 children.

And apparently, the symphony directors just can't get enough. A touring version of the operatic Mozart's Magic Fantasy is debuting this season, although Hammond admits it wasn't without its headaches.

"Ever since it came out in 1991, the Minneapolis Orchestra, among others, has been saying 'you must make Mozart's Magic Fantasy (which is opera) into a symphony show'. And my reply is, 'I can't afford to send six people on the road'. So we all came up with an idea, whereby they provide an orchestra and four singers, and I provide two singers. So what we've done is created a mini-opera of the Magic Flute for an orchestra environment. And it's starting in two weeks from now in Minneapolis, and they have 35,000 kids going to this thing." There is also a demand on Hammond to produce some type of syndicated radio program based on the series. At the moment, Public Radio International (who distribute to anywhere from 85-200 stations), play the entire series across their network once or twice a year. Her friends and colleagues are imploring Hammond to take this logical step to the next level. For Hammond, though, it's simply a matter of finding the time, and determining how such a step would be taken. While she wants to continue to aim the music primarily at children, she also sees a need to bring classical music to adults in a more accessible fashion.

"My friends and I all grew up on rock and roll, and now these friends are turning up at the opera. So I'd like to figure out a way to present classical music, either to children or adults, through radio syndication. I'd like to make it more accessible, wrap context around it, to make it feel as if it's being heard for the first time."

One of the issues that continues to confront and confound children's entertainers is the lack of respect that the genre seems to get at retail. Successful children's artists such as Fred Penner or Sharon, Lois & Bram have complained bitterly about the lack of awareness of children's product by major record retailers.

Hammond, however, has been blessed, in that her music has always found a home in the classical corner of the record shop. But she does recognize that there is a serious problem, and she's as puzzled as anyone why it exists.

"I hear this from Lenny Graf, and his manager, I hear this from everybody, and I know it's happening to children's music, because it's a video world. But you can't watch a video while you're in a car, or when you're going to sleep. And with the more folk-oriented children's artists, it must be very difficult for them. My kids listened to Raffi and Sharon, Lois & Bram, they grew up on it. But they're losing out to Spice Girls, Backstreet Boys, etc., etc.

"And with us, we're really helped by our live shows, they do give us context within local areas. If we do a tour that goes to places like Nebraska or Alabama, we can another publicity push, and it keeps it fresh and on the shelf."

Song Of The Unicorn, the ninth release in the Classical Kids series, is available from The Children's Group, and is distributed by Warner Music Canada.

Chemical Sound getting raves for older hardware

Although they've probably heard it several times before, Chemical Sound Recording Studio owners James Heidebrecht and Rudy Rempel probably smile when they're told that their studio equipment is obsolete. But according to Rempel, that's exactly the point.

While most modern studios have rushed to incorporate the latest in digital technology, Chemical Sound has chosen to revert back to gear that, in some cases, is thirty years old. But in the eight months since they've owned the studio, Rempel and Heidebrecht have heard nothing but good feedback from those artists who've used the studio.

"Some people accuse us of being technophobes, but we're not," notes Rempel. "There are a lot of great things about newer digital technology - editing, cutting and pasting, etc. But personally, I still prefer older technology because it forces you to make decisions, to be more spontaneous, rather than relying on something afterwards to clean things up."

The most recent release to come via the Chemical Sound studios is the latest from east coast rockers Sloan, who recorded their Between The Bridges album there.

"Chemical's got that good vibe thing going,

Cockburn to receive Italian achievement award

True North Records artist Bruce Cockburn will receive the 1999 Tenco Award on October 21 in Sanremo, Italy, in recognition of his lengthy international career and his contribution to the art of songwriting.

Past winners of this lifetime achievement honour include Antonio Carlos Jobim, Joni Mitchell, Elvis Costello and Jacques Brel. Cockburn will receive the award during a nationally televised program from Sanremo, during which he will perform four songs.

Cockburn is currently in Europe promoting his new album, Breakfast In New Orleans Dinner In Timbuktu. The tour began October 13 in Paris, and ends November 15 in Pescara, Italy.

Managers get together for Harris Institute date

The International Managers Forum (IMF) scheduled a seminar for Saturday, Oct. 16 beginning at 1 pm. at the Harris Institute for the Arts at 118 Sherbourne Street in downtown Toronto.

IMF will be staging a number of similar seminars over the next few months to hopefully increase the profile of Canadian managers, who, for the most part are unknown but are a vital part of the industry.

The seminar is being billed as "The insider's report: management in the music industry Volume One." Firmed as guest panelists are Ivan Berry (Beat Factory Music, Dream Warriors), Rob Lanni (Our Lady Peace, Colin James), Dave Quilico (A&R, Sony Music Canada), Jack Ross (Moxxy Frúous, The Agency), Heather Pollock (Srah Slean) and guest artist Ivana Santilli. Kim Clarke Champriss (Serial Joe) will act as moderator.

and I love all the old gear," adds Chris Murphy of Sloan, who also recorded '98's Navy Blues at Chemical. "It's a cool place to record, you don't get people coming up to you after saying, 'Didn't Def Leppard just record there?'"

Some other clients of Chemical Sound include Blue Rodeo, Jim Cuddy, Cowboy Junkies, Hayden, Change Of Heart, The Skydiggers, and up-and-comers Tricky Woo & The Flashing Lights.

While both Heidebrecht and Rempel are

MIDEM 2000 scheduled for January 23-27

Celebrating its 33rd year since its launch in 1967 by Bernard Chevry, MIDEM 2000 will once again bring the world music industry together under one roof in Cannes, France from Jan. 23 through 27.

Last year, more than 9,500 delegates and 3,900 companies from 90 countries representing every genre of music, took part in the annual pilgrimage to the south of France.

Front and centre once again will be the Canadian Independent Record Production Association's (CIRPA) Canada Stand which for 20 years has been the guiding hand in forging Canada's independent sector a recognizable status in the global music community.

Mary Vrantsidis, the Canada Stand coordinator, points out that attending MIDEM with the Canada Stand "Is an economical and hassle-free way to participate in the biggest international music market in the world," continuing with "With 20 years musicians, they do compliment each other when it comes to running the studio. Rempel takes care of the technical side of the business, while Heidebrecht looks after the books.

"Our backgrounds as musicians definitely influence our preferences with respect to business and recording," notes Heidebrecht. "What makes us happy is creating an irresistible recording environment."

Chemical Sound is located at 81 Portland Street in Toronto. They can be reached at 416-971-9635, or at their web site (chemical@cimtegration.com).

experience in organizing and administering the Canada Stand at MIDEM, we're here to handle the many important details that will help make MIDEM 2000 a successful venture for Canadian companies."

The Canada Stand fee covers participants share of the Stand's services and costs plus MIDEM registration. The cost per company for the first person is $2,500 for CIRPA members and $2,700 for non-members. Subsequent delegates from the same company are billed at a lower rate. Deadline for inclusion in the MIDEM Guide is Dec. 15.

Vrantsidis also points out that financial support is available through the International Marketing Support program of the SRDP which is administered by FACTOR. Call FACTOR at 416-368-8678 for more information. Application deadlines for FACTOR support are Oct. 29 and Nov. 30.

Vrantsidis can be contacted at the CIRPA offices at 416-485-3152 ext. 27, fax 416-485-4373.

Counting Crows set to release new album

After a three-year hiatus, the Counting Crows are set to release their newest album. This Desert Life will be released on the Geffen label on November 2nd, distributed by Universal Music Canada.

As with their two previous releases, 1993's August And Everything After and '96's Recovering The Satellites, the band took up residence in a rented house in the Hollywood Hills to write and record the album.

"We made this album without writing any songs before we started," according to lead singer Adam Duritz. "That really freed up the sound, because we didn't have any preconceptions, and I think that worked really well. Nobody had any rules about what they could do."

The band worked with the production team of David Lowery (Cracker, Sparklehorse) and Dennis Herring (Throwing Muses). The tracks range from the eight-minute epic Mrs. Potter's Lullaby, to the infectious first single, Hangin'around.

The video for that first single was partially shot in Duritz's house, and was directed by Gregory Dark (Ice Cube, Sublime).

The Counting Crows will embark on a North American soft-seat tour, beginning with an October 26th show in Atlanta. Confirmed Canadian dates include November 13th at Montreal's Metropolis, and November 15th in Toronto at The Warehouse.

Kim Deschamps exits as Blue Rodeo's steelman

Blue Rodeo's 44-year old steelman Kim Deschamps has reportedly been let loose from Blue Rodeo, after an eight-year association.

Apparently Deschamps was shown the door after eight years as the result of a meeting of the band last week.

Deschamps, who was unavailable for comment, had apparently revealed via e-mail that he had been "fired without comment," by the band. He quickly followed up with the fact that he was "immediately available" for job offers.

Although Deschamps' instrumental contribution will be recognized on the band's upcoming eighth studio album, it was revealed that the band is pursuing "a different creative direction," that obviously excluded Deschamps.

Franchisees named in Planet Hollywood's future

Three of Planet Hollywood's Canadian restaurants have become franchise operations under two separate Canadian operators.

The Toronto and Montreal locations were purchased by New York Hospitality Inc, the group that already owns and operates the recently opened Planet Hollywood franchise in Niagara Falls, Ontario. A franchise to run the Vancouver restaurant has been sold to 1377076 Ontario, Inc., an entity describes as "relating to the landlord."

It was also pointed out that there will be no significant changes in the way the restaurant operates; "the menu, décor and ambience will reflect the standards set by Planet Hollywood International Inc." It was also indicated that the vast majority of the staffs of all three units are also being kept on by the franchisees.

In making the above announcement, the company's chairman and CEO Robert Earl stated that "The future of Planet Hollywood lies in the hands of strong management. Having local partners in these important cities creates a dynamic relationship that will serve to strengthen the company as a whole."

Planet Hollywood's Edmonton restaurant was closed on Oct. 8, as part of the company's reorganization, leaving the four operating restaurants in Canada in the hands of franchisees.

COUNTRY

Shirley Myers is on release with a new single, You Better Be Sure, the follow-up to Forever In Love, which is still charting (#45) after 20 weeks. The new song was written by Myers and Rob Nicholson and qualifies as three-parts Cancon (MAL). Both tracks are included on Myers' Stony Plain album, There Will Come A Day. The single went to radio two weeks ago and has already registered an excellent build-up of spins and enters the RPM Country 100 this week at #78. A family-oriented video of the new single, shot in Lunenburg, Nova Scotia, home of the famous Bluenose, is now at CMT. Peter Leggett, Myers' manager sends news that Myers will be playing Dauphin on Oct. 22, as part of a presentation by 730 CKDM and music director Bruce Leperre. Myers and Jimmy Flynn are also scheduled to guest on the upcoming Maritimes tour of The Stars of the Grand Ole Opry, which will include Stonewall Jackson, Billy Walker and Jean Sheppard. The tour touches down in soft-seat theatres in Fredericton, Saint John, Moncton, Charlottetown, Halifax, Kentville and Woodstock. The video enters the CMT Top 40 this week at #36.

Martina McBride holds at #1 with her newest single I Love You. The track is included on both the Runaway Bride soundtrack and Emotion, her new RCA album.

Clint Black is looking good with his new single When I Said No, the biggest jumper this week. Taken from his new RCA album, D'lectrified, the single jumps up to #56 from #69. A hot musicvideo card is also available that features a video on the making of the album, a photo gallery and more. Don't know how available the card is in Canada. A US tip sheet enclosed cards with their recent mailing.

Julian Austin is beginning to kick in with his latest single, Back In Your Life, the title track of his new Vik/BMG album. In its fifth week on the chart the single bullets up to #52 from #59. Austin wrote the song with his producer Daniel LeBlanc.

George Fox has been signed to an exclusive distribution deal with Oasis Entertainment. Initial release will be A George Fox Christmas to be released Oct. 26. A CBC television special has also been confirmed for prime time in mid-December. He will also set out on a 23-date western Canadian tour. Fox made his first impact on the country music industry in 1988 when he swept the Big Country Awards, winning Male Artist of the Year, Top Country Composer, Best Country Single for Angelina and Canadian Country Artist of the Year.

Charlie Major's new single is expected any day from the Dead Reckoning label. Right Here Now, the first single taken from his 444 album, is already being aired by some Canadian country stations. Canadian distribution is handled by Oasis Entertainment. Major began collecting Big Country Awards in 1994. That year he won Male Artist of the Year, Canadian Country Artist of the Year, Top Country Composer with Barry Brown for I'm Gonna Drive You Out O'z My Mind which won the Best Country Single category that year and Best Country Album for The Other Side. He won the Male Artist award for three consecutive years.

Brent McAthey continues to make chart progress. Hard Rock Cafe is poised to crack the Top 40 after 9 weeks. It was reported that a video of the single was at CMT. This information wasn't correct. McAthey is readying a video of I Don't Love Easily, a four-parts Cancon song written by Keith Floen, Thomas Allen Ross and Lana Floen.
