A man of many parts

MAURICE LATEY, who is heard often in the World Service Commentary after the news, is Editor of Talks and Features for BBC External Services. There are few political commentators with such a wide background. The son of a judge and brother of another, he soon decided that two lawyers in the family were enough. So, after Oxford University, he reverted to an earlier family profession, journalism (both his grandfather and great grandfather were newspaper editors). During the war he was engaged on BBC German broadcasts; after the war he travelled widely in Europe, Russia and the United States. For ten years he was Head of the BBC East European Service covering the Soviet Union, Bulgaria, Romania and Yugoslavia. He is the author of "Tyranny—a Study In the Abuse of Power", still finds all aspects of history, philosophy and politics fascinating, and likes to paint in oils or water colour. And he enjoys playing for a BBC cricket team in not-too-serious matches against village sides; they've helped him, he says, to acquire a connoisseur's taste for English beer.

SPORTS ROUND-UP—day-by-day reports with news and comment. Daily (ex Mons) 1115; daily (ex Suns) 1745, 2245

They rowed across the Atlantic

A FIGHTING CHANCE

John Ridgway and Chay Blyth became famous by rowing a boat across the Atlantic. They told the story of their adventure in the book A Fighting Chance, and listeners can hear them reading from it in six weekly instalments, beginning on the 24th. 24th, 31st 1645, rep 26th 1245, 27th 0815

NATURE'S OUTER LIMITS

A surprisingly large part of the earth is an uninviting or even impossible place for most plants and animals to survive. But in the most inhospitable places creatures and plants have adapted themselves, and this series of four programmes tells how they have done it. The Deep Ocean 5th, The Desert 12th, The Frozen Lands 19th, The Rain Forests 26th
Tues 2315, rep Weds 1615, Fris 0945 (ex 1st)

SHORT STORIES

Humbug Beer, by J. Edward Brown of Wellington, New Zealand, 6th, tells of the strange things that happened when a shortage of sugar on the South Pacific island of Rarotonga put an end to the home brewing of beer.

In Wrong Turn, Mrs Mayah Balse of Allahabad, India tells what befell a grass widower who had a strange visitor 12th

A tycoon's narrow escape from assassination is the theme of The Message by Don Cudjoe, of San Fernando, Trinidad 20th

Voices, by Mrs Punyakante Wijenaike, of Colombo, Ceylon has as its central character an ageing spinster who is hoping to get married, and whose family regard her fiancé as a confidence trickster 27th

Tues 2115 (12th only), Weds 0730, 1330, Thurs 2135 (7th only), Fris 2115 (ex 8th, 15th)

THE FIVE TOWNS

Three readings from Arnold Bennett's 'Tales of the Five Towns' are given this month. The towns in Bennett's stories are based on actual towns in the Potteries, home of Britain's china exports, Hanley, Burslem, Tunstall, Fenton and Longton. The stories to be heard are Mary with the High Hand, 10th, A Feud, 19th, and The Hungarian Rhapsody, 24th, Suns 0730, (ex 3rd, 31st) rep Mons 0945 (ex 4th, Tues. 1115 (ex 5th) Fris 1430 (ex 1st, 8th)

Elizabeth Sellars stars in The Second String

THEATRE OF THE AIR

An international season this month begins with A Question of Fact by the English writer, Wynyard Browne. It concerns the effect of a skeleton in the family cupboard on the married life of a young schoolmaster and features Coral Browne, Martin Jarvis and Maurice Denham 2nd. Dame Sybil Thorndike stars in The Son by the successful German playwright, Gerd Hofmann 9th. A Shanty in Istanbul gained an honourable mention in a EBU Eurotheatre competition for its Turkish author, Basar Sabuncu, and was also awarded a prize by the Society of Art Lovers in Turkey 16th. The Second String was adapted from Colette's novel 'La Seconde' and has a cast headed by Elizabeth Sellars (pictured on right), Denise Bryer and John Bentley 23rd. Lady Precious Stream by S. I. Hsiung recalls the China of a past age in a gently humorous style 30th.
Sats 1830, rep Suns 0030, 1130

RADIO THEATRE

In the train taking them on holiday a boy shares a compartment with the spinsterish under-matron at his school. In William Trevor's play Going Home he turns her journey into a nightmarish agony of mind 3rd. There's a Girl in my Soup, Terence Frisby's light comedy has been drawing full houses in London's West End for five years. Gerald Flood, who played the leading character on the stage at one time, is heard in the radio version 10th. 'In Tobias and the Angel James Bridie writes about Biblical characters in a modern and humorous manner, following a practice begun by English dramatists centuries ago 17th. Thomas Dekker's Elizabethan romp The Shoemaker's Holiday will be broadcast on the 24th. Gimlet by James Saunders is set in the canteen of a London bus station. Although presented in a series of comic situations, the play has at its core the futility of hopes and aspirations in a modern industrial society 31st.
Suns 1830, rep Tues 1515, Weds 0945, 2315

MEN FROM THE MINISTRY

October sees the return of the comedy series about the men who keep themselves busy shirking work in a government office. Richard Murdoch and Deryck Guyler will again be playing Richard Lamb and Mr Lennox-Brown, those two great experts in buck-passing, time-wasting and muddle, which qualify them as masters of the art of bureaucracy. Sats 0830 rep Suns 1430, Tues 2130, Thurs 0030

Japanese State Visit to Britain

For the first time in history, an Emperor and Empress of Japan pay a State Visit to Britain on Oct 5th to 8th. This will not, in fact, be Emperor Hirohito's first visit to London—he was welcomed as Crown Prince in the 1920's. The arrival in London on the 5th will be described at 1145, and there will be coverage in Outlook, 1345. Recorded extracts from speeches at the State Banquet at Buckingham Palace can be heard on the following day, 6th 1045. The visit will be reflected in other programmes during the month, including the feature Set in a Silver Sea, 4th

ROYAL VISITS

The Duke of Edinburgh and Princess Anne will visit Iran from 12th to 17th for the celebrations to mark the 2,500th anniversary of the Persian Empire. They will join The Queen in Istanbul for the State Visit to Turkey, 18th to 25th. Both visits will be reflected in news and current affairs programmes.

PARTY CONFERENCES

It is not only in the House of Commons this month that big debates will go on about Britain entering the Common Market. It's the big topic, too, at the Conferences of Britain's two main parties, and it will be reflected in news and current affairs programmes. The Labour Party Conference opens at Blackpool on the 4th until the 8th, and the Conservatives will be at Brighton from the 13th to 16th

DREAMS AND DREAMING

Dr Christopher Evans, an experimental psychologist, guides listeners to the world of dreams in an attempt to assess their meaning. He looks, too, at the Freudian psycho-analytical view. Ian Oswald, at the 'sleep laboratory' at Edinburgh University, discusses the latest research on dreaming. 11th 0230 rep 1615, 12th 1130

DOSTOYEVSKY

Gilbert Phelps, a specialist in the Russian novel, discusses Dostoyevsky. It is 150 years since Fyodor Mikhailovitch Dostoyevsky was born, but there is no doubt that he has exerted one of the great technical influences on the 20th century novel. 18th 0230, rep 1615, 19th 1130

PICASSO IS 90

There are many who consider that Picasso, 90 years old this month, is the world's greatest living painter. This feature takes a look at the man and his position in the art world of today, as seen by critics, fellow-artists and some of the people who know him. 25th 0230, rep 1615, 26th 1130

TALKING ABOUT CHILDREN

Five specialists discuss common problems when confronted with the great responsibility of having a child of their own. In The Years of Rapid Growth, a child psychologist and a paediatrician discuss the crucial years of physical growth, 2nd. They also deal with Attachments and Anxieties in the psychological growth of the child, 9th. The problems of pre-school education are discussed in Turning to the Outside World by an educationist and a family welfare specialist, 16th, and a psychologist and a teacher look into the question of going to school in The Pressures Begin, 23rd. Sats 2045 (ex 30th) rep Mons 1315, Weds 0215, Fris 0815 (ex 1st)

SET IN A SILVER SEA

Although the title of this programme was originally applied to England, it is equally descriptive of Japan and it is not the only point of similarity between that country and Britain. Both are groups of islands and, in spite of the cultural and physical distance between them, each has in its way influenced the other in many spheres, not least the arts. Margaret Howard concentrates on the influence of Japanese culture and arts on the arts of Britain over the past 100 years or so. In doing so, she talks to British artists and experts who have felt the influence of Japan in their various fields. 4th 0230 rep 1615, 5th, 1030

WRITERS OF OUR TIME

In the week of the Japanese State Visit to London, Shohei Ooka discusses his novels which are so well known for their studies of men pushed to their human limits 2nd. The outstanding German novelist and radio playwright Heinrich Böll is questioned about his works 9th, and there is a wide-ranging conversation with the Argentine writer Jorge Luis Borges 16th. Julien Green, born of American parents, but now one of the 'immortals' elected to the French Academy of Letters, discusses the mysterious world of his novels on the 23rd. Sats 1015 (ex 30th) rep Suns 2100, (ex 31st) Mons 0315

IN QUEEN VICTORIA'S DAY

'Your Majesty has the whole country's sympathy, for the dear Emperor was much loved here'. So wrote Queen Victoria to the Empress Eugénie about Napoleon III, subject of the last programme in the series They Came to Britain. 3rd 0730, rep 4th 0945, 5th 0115, 8th 1430

CONCERT GRAND

William Davies introduces pianists playing in contrasted styles, proving that the piano is complete in itself and can enchant its listeners with the variety of music that has been written for it. Each programme features a recitalist as well as middle-of-the-road and rhythmic players Mons 1215, rep Thurs 0630

A GALLERY OF MUSICIANS

Five fine musicians, past and present, are featured. Beethoven and Britain 3rd, tells of the chequered relations the composer had with Britain, whose literature and institutions he so admired. Richter and Manchester 10th, recalls the years when this colourful character was Musical Director of the Hallé Orchestra. Then there are the late Sir Thomas Beecham, a greatly loved and controversial figure in British music, 17th; Sir Adrian Boult, at one time Director of Music and Chief Conductor of the BBC, 24th; and Georg Solti, who recently ended ten years as Musical Director of Covent Garden Opera in London, 31st. Suns 2115, rep Weds 1515, Fris 0100. Our pictures on the facing page show Hans Richter (top left), Georg Solti (top right), Sir Thomas Beecham (bottom left) and Sir Adrian Boult (bottom right)

CONVERSATIONS WITH MUSIC

With more recordings from the BBC Archives, the Austrian conductor Herbert von Karajan can be heard talking about opera, 4th. A great loss to music is recalled by a conversation with the late Dennis Brain, the horn player, who was killed in a car accident at the age of 36, 11th. The Chilean-born pianist Claudio Arrau tells what it means to be an international celebrity, 18th, and the poet, W. H. Auden, talks about his work as a librettist for Stravinsky, 25th. Mons 0130, rep Thurs 1715

CONCERTO

Anthony Goldstone is the soloist with the BBC Symphony Orchestra conducted by Charles Mackerras in Schumann's Piano Concerto in A minor. The programme also includes Haydn's Te Deum (1800). 31st 1515

AFRICA

ALT

How's business? Ugandan business expert Aga Sekalala asks a stallholder in one of London's famous street markets. It's also the title of his BBC African Service series continuing this month. His ten talks dealing with the inside working of business concerns will be broadcast each week in 'Men and Their Money'.

Faces behind the voices

This month we come to the end of our series on newsreaders and announcers. But we have had so many letters from listeners that in future editions we will be asking more BBC broadcasters to say something about themselves.

Maurice Turner

Born 1926, Kingston-upon-Hull. Educated Riley High School, went to sea in coasters towards end of World War II. Four years in Police, then went to look at New Zealand and stayed 10 years. Broadcast shipping programme and wrote radio features on maritime subjects. Married. Joined BBC in 1962, was in Ascension Island 1966-70. Enjoys walking and Wagner, and draws and paints when in the humour.

Bob Berry

Born 1943, London. Went to Grammar school, regrets now that he didn't try for university place. Became trainee manager, farm tractor driver, carpenter's mate, and helped build a sewer as a miner's labourer. Joined BBC in 1965 as a studio manager. Had five-month spell in Botswana. Married. Reads a lot, likes ski-ing, sailing, old sailing ships, and eating.

Peter Jefferson

Born 1945, London. Attempts to educate him at various schools (he says) met with limited success. Worked for two years for a London estate agent trying to sell to people property they didn't want. Joined BBC in 1964. Getting married next year. Hobbies are amateur dramatics, driving a car, and photography. Is now spending a lot of time going round London estate agents looking for a house...

John Wing

Born 1928, Cardiff. Joined BBC after a spell as an actor and experience with Forces Broadcasting in Ceylon. Has been seen (from the waist up) on television. After 25 years in radio, still finds (he says) the problems of communicating with maximum clarity something always to be grappled with. Lives in Hertfordshire where he wrestles to protect his roses from greenfly and his antique furniture from woodworm.
