ANOTHER GREAT DISC SPECIAL — See pages 10 and 11

Now the show is getting really wild!

YOU know, not so long ago the knockers, and we've had some believe me, used to say that the Stones only had real fans in the South. Well, if there's one thing this tour has done it's killed that idea once and for all.

Because the fact is, the further we've gone out of London the wilder has become our reception! This has made all of us feel really good, I can tell you.

In spite of what some people say, we DO care what you think and nothing pleases us more than to give a good performance to a good audience. If you get going then so do we, it's as simple as that.

For instance, Carlisle the other night was a really big scene.

About six girls got onto the stage with something like 20 attendants chasing them.

This was in the middle of our act and at one time there were only Bill and Charlie playing because of all the commotion. But we carried on regardless. We don't really mind these things happening providing no harm is done. And we have been lucky so far in that respect.

I must tell you about another incident which happened that almost stopped us appearing in one town!

POLICE STOP ME!

As usual, we left it until the very last minute before we arrived at the theatre, because it is easier to get through the stage door after the show has started.

We were pushing our way through the crowds and I was just reaching out to open the door when a burly policeman stepped out in front of me and asked me where I thought I was going.

He was convinced that I was a fan trying to slide in the back way!

It was only when another policeman recognised me that he would let me in. We had a good laugh about it afterwards, but it could have proved difficult.

At the time I'm writing this we are staying at a lovely quiet hotel in Melrose just outside Edinburgh. It is set in really beautiful countryside and it is so nice to be in a peaceful place for a change.

The trouble is I have run out of film for my cine camera and won't be able to get any for a few days. Pity, because I really would like to film some scenes around here.

As far as the performances are concerned, we are very pleased with them. The other people on the show are a really wonderful crowd and we spend most of our time between performances wandering around the dressing-rooms talking to them.

Charlie and Izaex Foxx are going over fantastically—which pleases us because we asked for them to be included on the bill. They really shouldn't be long before they get a big hit in this country.

We certainly don't mind them getting such a fantastic reception immediately before we go on every night—in fact it makes us work all the harder. On several occasions we have played extra time because when we get in the mood just anything goes and no one can stop us.

BACHELORS TAKING MUM TO STATES

THE Bachelors are naturally excited about their big hit "I Wouldn't Trade You For The World," but they are just as excited about another little matter of an even more personal nature to two of the boys at least. Said Con and Dec:

"Mother has twice recently been over to Blackpool from Dublin and we have persuaded her to travel with us when we go to America in the autumn. And she's just as thrilled as we are at the prospect."

"She's been having a ball with us in Blackpool—we've been buying her a host of new clothes and all the personal things one needs for a trans-Atlantic trip."

"Mother almost feels a part of the act these days. She gets lots and lots of letters from our fans. They don't know her address but they send them to 'Mrs. Mary Cluskey, Dublin, Ireland, and they seem to find her all right."

"And she's very touched by the fact that many of them invite her to visit them in England, plan the visit that lots of our fans who visit Dublin for holidays, somehow or other find her address and call on her. Yet—mum feels she's got an even bigger family now!"

rehearsing

"She was over here recently—to too was a crew from Ulster TV. They want to make a 'Day In The Life Of The Bachelors' film, and they've been along at our Blackpool house taking shots of us rehearsing, and of the fans who are always hanging around outside our front door. But they didn't see us a couple of Mondays ago."

"What a day that was! We had to be up at the crack of dawn to catch a 6.30 a.m. plane from Blackpool to Gr. Yarmouth to film with Billy Fury," chirped in John.

"It was a race-track scene with us all decked-out as cowboys. I've been trying for weeks to put on a bit of weight so I would look more like 'Hoss' Cartwright—but it didn't work!!!"

"We have already taped the number that we sing and play in Billy's film, but in the race-track scene we also had a couple of lines to speak. I hope Sam Goldwyn bears about us! real big horses—they're really worth riding. We used to do a little back house in Ireland—but we haven't been able to devote nearly enough time to it since we came to Blackpool."

"Mind you we did have our first Sunday off on September 6 when our ABC Television date was switched. Dec flew home to Dublin. Con took a trip to the Lake District—me—I just lazed about in Blackpool. It was heaven!!!"

No talent in Britain

THE decline of the group era is surely becoming evident. Look at the charts and try to find any real talent. The only talent I could find was Brenda Lee, Roy Orbison, Elvis Presley and Jim Reeves.

It is a great shame that there is not a British name amongst them.—DAVID APPLEGATE, "Westerton," Trowbridge, Wilts.

Ray and El?

ONCE AGAIN we get a really great record with two completely different types of artist on it, e.g., Bing Crosby and Louis Armstrong. How about an album with Ray Charles and Elvis Presley? Nonsense? Think what they could do to a real low down blues number!—MRS. D. S. DUNCAN, 29, Station Road, Dyer, Aberdeenshire.

ABOUT LONG HAIR: BRIAN POOLE

I WONDER how much the current fashion in visual appearance of pop artists effects their popularity.

Has it held Brian Poole back at all, for instance, because he hasn't got noticeably long hair? — MISS C. GLOVER, 202, Old Bromsgrove Road, London, S.W.5.

Says Brian: "I don't think so. I think the trend is that you grow your hair long when you are at art school or college. I had mine long then and up to not so long ago. But I've changed it now because I pride myself in my appearance for one thing and also because I think short hair is becoming fashionable."

JULIE ROGERS

A last quality female singer like Julie Rogers are making their mark on the charts. But are there enough good numbers around for Julie and others to make an equally popular follow-up record without reverting to standards? — LYNDY THOMAS, 96, Ryder Street, Cardiff, Glam.

Julie replies: "This is the problem all girl singers have. It is very difficult not to revert to standards and I hope I don't have to. Although I do use some standards in my cabaret act but not for shows or records."

LULU

IS it true that Lulu and The Lovvers are splitting up? — MICK YATES, 52, Nicholson Park, Jersey, C.I.

Lulu replies: "Definitely not! We are all very fond of each other and work closely as a team. We find we work much better the more time we spend together in fact."

CLIFF BENNETT

WHY can't our bigger groups be more adventurous in their approach to music? I for one am tired of nothing else but guitars, and I reckon the great guilty sounds of Cliff Bennett and the Rebel Rousers will be the answer.—CHRIS NICHOLSON, 53A, Ridgemont Gardens, London, W.C.1.

Cliff replies: "Nice of you to say so Chris. We've never tried to cash in on what other groups are doing, preferring to go our own way rather than follow trends. We think arrangements are very important and find there's not enough scope with just guitars. That's why we use two saxes and a piano—as well as lead and bass guitar."

CILLA BLACK

WHAT a pity it is necessary for so many artists to play in one theatre for long periods like summer seasons. I am sure it restricts the popularity of artists like Frank Ifield, Kathy Kirby and definitely Cilla Black.—DELL HOUSE, Gation Bottom, Merthyr Tydfil.

Cilla Black answers: "Speaking personally I would say that my Palladium season has done nothing but good for me. I don't think that anything else could have helped me gain confidence and know-how. It has been wonderful experience."

Laryngitis brings Matt good luck

LARYNGITIS and similar throat complaints are the bane of the pop singer's existence. They can strike at a moment's notice, and leave an artist croaking uselessly at the most inconvenient time.

Matt Monro falls prey to laryngitis like several other top pop stars. But, as well as the unpleasantness and inconvenience, laryngitis has a strange good-luck quality for Matt.

Voice went

"I had an attack of laryngitis at the time I was recording 'Softly As I Leave You,'" he recalled on Friday. "I just about got it done before my voice went completely. And the same thing happened with 'Walk Away.'"

"'Walk Away' appeared in the No. 30 slot of DISCO's chart last week and has moved up to 25 this week, contrary to most expectations."

Everybody has agreed that it's a beautiful song well sung, but most thought it was too sad to make the hit parade.

"I don't agree that sad songs can't be successful," said Matt. "'Softly' proved that. 'Walk Away' was the Austrian entry in the last Eurovision Song Contest, and I was immediately attracted to its melody."

Matt got "Walk Away" in the can with three takes.

"If there had been a fourth take, my voice would have gone altogether," grinned Matt. "If you listen carefully, you can hear me almost shooting in a couple of places."

"I thought that was emotion," I said, and he curled up with mirth.

"There'll be another LP of standards backed by the Johnnie Spencer orchestra on release by Christmas, too."

'She's Not There' is a hit, but it's still giving The Zombies plenty of trouble!

THE Zombies, with three would-be University students in their line-up, have put a lot of thought into their future. They do not intend to sit back and let things happen. They believe that trends will change shortly and they intend to be part of that change, if not leading it.

"You know something," said lead singer Colin Blunstone. "Keeping in the hit parade is not going to be very easy with more and more groups coming up to join the already established ones. We appreciate that the real test is just around the corner with our second record — that's the big one."

The Zombies should stand a good chance of success as they have been busy writing new material and now have a choice of six numbers for that all important follow-up.

There is one tag that the group do not want to be labelled with and that is that they are an R and B group. They include some R and B numbers in their stage act, but they are versatile performers and want their versatility to come over. Therefore their stage act is a mixture of beat songs, R and B jazz numbers, and even a Charleston!

"We were a little apprehensive at first about including the Charleston bit," laughed Colin.

jazz

"Rod, our organist, is quite handy on piano and clarinet and Chris, our bass guitarist, can handle a double bass, and we might well use them on a later disc. I imagine that there will be a slight jazz influence in the new audience raved over it and now sounds and that will be right up our street, we are all great modern jazz fans especially of Miles Davis."

I figure that although groups will stay, styles will gradually change. I expect extra instruments will be introduced to add to the customary guitars, drums, and organ.

The Zombies may have their future plans all neatly tied up, but I gather they are still having problems about their current hit — for Colin admitted to me that he has trouble singing it!

"You see," said Colin, "when our organist, Rod, finished 'She's Not There' he asked me if I could manage to sing it. The song has to be sung an octave higher than I usually sing, so it was touch and go whether or not I could reach the high notes.

Sometimes I think that my voice will crack right in the middle of it all. It hasn't happened yet so I'm keeping my fingers crossed. Anyway the strained appearance gives the song the mood it requires!"

HERMAN—He believes in bright, bouncy numbers.

Hermits really having ball!

"WE want to be known as a happy group. It's our ambition to bring happy songs back to the charts," The speaker was chart-topping Herman, leader of The Hermits, whose surfy "I'm Into Something Good" is nestling neatly at Number One.

Herman had taken 10 minutes off from rehearsals of "Top Of The Pops" to talk to me.

"Look at the charts," he went on, "Ours and P. J. Proby's are really the only bright, bouncy, happy numbers out of the lot."

"We like to give the impression that we're enjoying ourselves and we find that easy to do because we really ARE having a ball wherever we play. It's our life and we're really happy when we're entertaining people."

For that reason, Herman—who is still knocked out at seeing his disc at the top spot—won't do miserable songs.

"They're not for us. Happy songs are what we'll be doing all the time. We don't want to be funny or raunchy, like Freddie and The Dreamers—not that we could be that good. We just want to get over to people that we're having a good time and we hope they are, too."

The Hermits are to do an EP with hit record-maker Mickie

Had the group thought yet about a follow-up to "Something Good?"

"It's a difficult thing," said Herman. "When your first disc makes Number One you've got to be so careful."

"You've just got to have a hit with the second. If the second one fails, you're finished. We don't want that to happen to us, of course."

• surfing

Herman revealed that the American songwriting duo Geoff and King were writing a number for them, but as they had not seen it yet, they didn't know whether it would make a follow-up.

But one thing is sure, they're retaining that hit "surfing" sound for the second record. "It will have the feel of the first one, although it will be different in many ways."

The Hermits are to do an EP with hit record-maker Mickie

Most for release in December, about a follow-up to "Something Good?"

"It's a difficult thing," said Herman. "One of the tracks will be the old Anthony Newley number 'Personality'."

Herman is one pop star who has never done any other job.

"I've never had an ordinary job," he said. "I've been very lucky, really."

"Any success I've had up to now has been entirely due to the faith my parents have had in me. They never forced me to get a job which I didn't like and I've been able to concentrate on making show business my career."

Whatever happens I'd like to stay in the business. There's no life like it, though I'm not sure if I'd like to be a full-time actor."

Herman says his biggest hobby is... imagining things.

"I've got a fantastic imagination," he said. "I'm a bit like the hero in 'Billy Liar' who turns an imaginary machine gun on people he doesn't like and day-dreams all the time. I sometimes feel the same."

THE fantastic success story of the Motown-Tamla-Gordy labels continues in US with seven singles in Top 100 by The Supremes, Martha and The Vandellas (Dusty Springfield's new favourite), The Four Tops, The Temptations, Marvin Gaye, The Miracles and Eddie Holland. Most people in the business here are convinced the M-TG sound will be big in Britain very soon. After Motown-Tamla-Gordy, hottest US label is Lieber and Stoller's Red Bird company. On "Ready, Steady, Go!" Four Seasons' A and R man raved about Andrew Oldham's new Scottish group, The Poets.

Fascinating new record: The Shangri-Las' "Remember (Walkin' in the Sand)" on Pye... "Outselling" it's for You" in the States; "He Won't Ask Me," the flipside of Cilla Black's disc, penned by road manager, Bobby Willitt.

Marianne Faithfull's follow-up to "As Tears Go By" is a song by Kenny Lynch... Singer-composer Jackie de Shannon (who penned The Searchers' latest) now also a disc producer.

WAS booking of The Searchers and E-Searcher Tony Jackson's new group on same "Lucky Stars" show itself... Next Ben E. King single co-penned by British A and R man Mike Leander... Louis Armstrong has "So Long, Deanie" as follow-up to "Hello Dolly."

Because of their success in the States, Gerry and The Pacemakers' "I Like It" has been reprinted.

Adrian Faith discovery Sandie Shaw has covered Lou Johnson's US hit by Bert Bacharach... "There's Always Something There To Remind Me"... Ell Haley created excitement on RSG, but The Comets' comy antics were embarrassing... Andrew Oldham producing future discs by The Orchids.

Jill Grant deserves major kudos with "Come To Me".... Next in line for Madame Tussaud's honours: Cilla Black... As composer Hal Shaper reached New York, Frank Sinatra's version of "Softly As I Leave You" entered "Billboard" Hot 100... DJ Alan Freeman back from US holiday.

BEATLES' A and R manager George Martin may be represented in America by Brian Epstein... Sam Cooke's next single has music hall-type rhythm... Murray Wilson, father of three of The Beach Boys, has turned composer... Santo and Johnny, mimesis' mice with "Night Walk," have cut an album of John Lennon-Paul McCartney songs.

"I LOVE collecting Americana—all things American. I have an American army helmet, and I brought back a policeman's notepad helmet and a police cap from the States. I like reading books and magazines about the Wild West and have quite a collection of these. My big ambition is to own a gun collection, including a Dragon Colt revolver."

"I already have an American combat jacket and a water bottle used by the G.I.s."

"I can't stand circuses and dwarfs. Not that I've anything against dwarfs personally. They just scare me!"

"The boys all know about this, of course, and tease me unmercifully. Sometimes they walk around all hunched up like those monsters you see in horror films. But I don't think it's a bit funny!"

"I suppose it must date from when I saw some horror films when I was young. I remember one was called 'Circus of Horrors'."

"I have horrible nightmares about a dwarf opening a door slowly in a dark house and beckoning me inside."

"Plastic surgery always worries me. It may be beautifully done, but I always imagine the beautiful image breaking away and revealing the horror underneath. It all seems grotesque to me."

"I'M not the least interested in any form of sport. Football, cricket, tennis—they don't mean a thing to me."

"When people come up and say: 'How are we doing in The Test?' I just look at them blankly. The same with tennis. To me, Wimbledon is just a place on the map."

"I just can't get excited about sport at all. Music—that's another matter. I suppose it's my biggest interest."

"I like reading. John Steinbeck, particularly. I've read all his books I can lay my hands on. But I enjoy the 'rubbish,' too. Like James Bond stories. I shall certainly make a point of seeing 'Goldfinger'."

"I saw, and thoroughly enjoyed, 'Dr. No' and 'From Russia With Love.' I love all that blood-and-thunder stuff!"

Marianne buys a wooden spoon!

WHAT are the principal requirements for furnishing a new flat? As far as Marianne Faithfull is concerned, they are a bed, a wooden spoon and a pepper pot!

These are the three things which she has bought to date to furnish her spacious Knightsbridge apartment which she will be sharing with her road manager, Mary Alison.

Why a wooden spoon?

When I rang her at Andrew Oldham's once last week she explained: "It's for stirring scrambled eggs. I don't really like scrambled eggs, but they're good for me."

Suddenly her manager Andrew Oldham came on the phone enquiring about the African musicians which he had brought to England mainly for the personnel work on Marianne's LP—which will consist entirely of folk numbers.

"They make some really weird sounds with their various instruments," Andrew told me. "I don't know of any British percussionsists to touch them."

Marianne came back on the phone and started to enthuse about her tour with The Hollies and Freddie and The Dreamers which opened at Slough Adelphi on Saturday.

"I have never met The Hollies before but I have heard a lot about them," she told me. "Everyone says what nice boys they are."

"I was hoping to take an old friend on tour with me as my accompanying guitarist, but she is still at school. So she will only be able to make Saturday's opening," sighed Marianne.—R.H.

CHAS CHANDLER

I CAN'T stand heights. I hate being at the top of a tall building, or looking down the well of a steep staircase.

"Hobbies? I like ten-pin-bowling—when I get the chance. I did a lot of bowling when we were playing a series of Sunday concerts in Blackpool."

"Good films appeal to me—but not the extravaganza type. I feel that this type of film is often made to cover a poor story. The one exception was 'Quo Vadis,' which I enjoyed very much."

"I used to collect beer mats, and at one time had over 2,000. I plastered the wall of my room with them. Then, when we had it repapered, the mats all came down—and so did that wall, almost! The mats were practically holding it up."

ALAN PRICE

ALAN admits he is dead scared of flying. "I lost two uncles and my father owing to accidents, and maybe this has something to do with it," says Alan.

"When we flew to Manchester on our return from the States for a 'Top Of The Pops' the plane dropped to about 20 feet from the ground and then swooped up again. Owing to a thunderstorm, we couldn't land there and were taken on to Prestwick. I was scared stiff."

"The thought of going to all those places on a charter plane when we resume our American trip terrifies me. Fortunately, part of the tour will be by Greyhound bus."

"Another problem with me is insomnia. Sometimes I try everything to get to sleep, but the more I think about it the worse it gets."

"I am a compulsive buyer of watches—and I'm always losing them. I've lost six in the past year. I lose socks, cuff-links—anything lovable, in fact."

Australia and films for Animals

THE ANIMALS, who flew back to America on Tuesday to resume their Stateside tour, will probably tour Australia and New Zealand for three weeks from January 24.

And, just before he left for America with them, their agent, Peter Grant, revealed to DISC that The Animals have been offered two films in the States.

These are in addition to the film they made during their New York season for Hollywood producer Sam Katzman, who recently flew to Britain to film The Devil Dancing In The Street released.

The Bill Black's Combo disc "Little Queenie" is being released by Decca as soon as possible to coincide with the group's appearance in this country.

Says Peter Grant: "MGM want to make a full-length feature film with The Animals. And they are also being offered a film for closed-circuit, Pay TV, in the States."

Adds Peter: "In addition to the Australian tour—which is pretty definite—offers have come in for The Animals to play The Olympia in Paris."

The Animals flew to New York on Tuesday, then changed planes to open their resumed American tour at Norfolk, Virginia, yesterday (Wednesday).

The Animals will also visit Chicago, where they may make an EP recording for American release.

On returning to Britain, they start a four-week tour with The Nashville Teens, Carl Perkins, and Elkie Brooks at the Manchester Odeon on October 18.

Hollies' Africa tour cut

THE Hollies, whose new single "We're Through," entered DISC's charts at No. 5, will probably tour South Africa for only ten days instead of three weeks as originally proposed.

ADAM OFF TO STATES FOR TV

ADAM FAITH was due to fly to America yesterday (Wednesday) for six TV appearances to coincide with the Stateside release of his single, "It's All Right."

U.S. TV shows so far set for Adam are The Tennessee Ernie programme, and Jack Good's "Showtime"—both from Los Angeles.

Adam will also appear on The Clay Cole Show from New York and The Lloyd Paxton Show from Pittsburgh. Other TV shows will take place in San Francisco and Miami.

On October 12, Rediffusion are telecasting Adam's "The Girls In My Life," which will be fully networked. He is also taping a "Pop Spot" for ABC-TV on October 10, gest audience over 25,000,000.

Neville told DISC on Tuesday "I had told Brian Epstein before The Beatles went to America that I would like to have them back. But, of course, they have to land their television appearances.

"But their previous appearance on 'Jury' was viewed by the biggest audience ever—25,000,000.

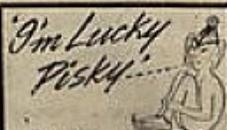

ROY TOPS IN

ROY ORBISON has beaten The Newbeats to the R. post for the No. 1 slot in the "Billboard" Hot 100 chart this week. Roy—who stood at No. 4—has leapt to No. 1 ahead of The Newbeats, who have held their No. 2 position for the second week in succession.

And in DISC's Top Thirty, Roy Orbison's "Oh Pretty Woman," has this week hit the No. 6 slot, moving up from No. 14 last week.

But British artists are still showing strongly in the American charts. The Kinks are in at 92 with "You Really Got Me" at 66 with "I Cried Out" on The Animal with "I'm Crying". British discs week are Bill from 37, The Nashville The Honeycombs 96, and The For The Work-

Ronettes in Britain for Kramer tour

THE Ronettes fly into Britain today (Thursday) and travel straight to Northampton to start their tour tomorrow with the Arthur Howes-Brian Epstein package starting Billy J. Kramer.

Last Friday Decca released a new Ronette single on their London label. It couples "Do I

"Scene At 6:30" (October 9),
Southern TV's "Three Go Round"
(October 13), "Thank Your Lucky
Stars" (October 17) and "Saturday
Club" — also October 17.

No tour for Beach Boys

THE Beach Boys will now definitely NOT be doing a major tour here in November;
instead the boys will arrive on November 1 for eight days of TV and radio appearances.

There is a chance that the group will come to Britain for a tour in the spring.

U.S. offer for Teens Jack Good arrives to work on 'Shindig'

THE NASHVILLE TEENS have been offered two major appearances in America around Christmas.

Impresario Don Arden told
DISC on Tuesday that The Teens had definite offers of a ten-day residency and also a tour in the States, both in December.

They have a new single out in two weeks and appear on "Ready, Steady, Go" tomorrow.

complete British programme."

Stones, Knights and Millie for 'TYLS'

THE ROLLING STONES, The Barron-Knights, Shirley Bassey, Millie and The Applejacks have all been set for appearances on "Thank Your Lucky Stars."

The Stones star on October 3, Heinz, Chad, Storn and Jeremy Clyde, The Barron-
Knights, Shirley Bassey, Sandie

Bartok, who flew into London from Paris last week—and The Takers.

Millie and The Applejacks join the October 10 show which also stars The Dave Clark Five, Diana Dors, Susan Maughan, The Honey-their next singles have been released.

Rick Dixon, a spokesman for the boys' management in Manchester, told DISC: "We hope this doesn't sound big time, but we don't want to over-expose either of our artists, both of whom are very visual performers."

They will undertake all performances booked till now.

Dave Berry has a new single out on November 11 and Herman's Hermits record their follow-up at the end of this month.

Both Dave and Herman star on the Dusty Springfield-Brian Poole tour which opens on November 14 at the Granda, Edmonton.

SBJs offered tour of S. Africa in January

THE Swinging Blue Jeans have been offered a six-week tour in South Africa from the second week in January.

The SBJs leave Britain on Saturday for a tour of Scandinavia lasting until October 17.

They open in Copenhagen, where they officially represent
British pop music as the million-pound "British Week." The SBJs will also appear in Norway,
Sweden and Finland.

Lulu for pantomime

LULU AND THE LUUVVERS have been booked for a pantomime on the Rank Theatre circus this Christmas.

Their manager, Marion Massey, told DISC this week: "What the pantomime will be and what theatre it will play have not been finalised as yet. But the show will run for four to five weeks and will change to a different theatre every week."

Cliff's 'Twelfth' could be the lucky number

Cliff Richard

The Twelfth Of Never; I'm Afraid To Go Home
(Columbia DB 7312)

DTHE slow ballad "Constantly" did all right for Cliff Richard recently so there's every reason to think he should score also with "The Twelfth Of Never." A song which has never quite become a major seller on this side of the Atlantic it, nevertheless, has the potential interest in all fine ballads. Cliff sings it simply, lovingly to strings and rhythm directed by Norrie Paramor.

"I'm Afraid To Go Home" is worth listening to . . . and isn't what you might expect. It's a serious lyric about the aftermath of the American Civil War. Good dramatic production.

Little Walter

My Babe; You Better Watch Yourself
(Pye International N 2326) ****

LITTLE WALTER from Louisiana is one of the harmonica men in the blues world, and has played on many of the Big Bill Broonzy and Muddy Waters sessions.

Here he plays and sings the familiar My Babe and pushes it effectively to make the best version I've heard of this number. Loping second-half isn't so potent.

Kenny Ball

Monsieur '64; Hard Ain't It Hard
(Pye Jazz NJ 2072) ***

FLLOWING jazz item, Morocco '64 should pick up sales neatly for Ball and his band. This one's not hard-driving trad stuff, but a polished version that's going to ease into favour.

No need there, but Kenny sings for the finale. Hard, Terry Lightfoot joins him for some dousing of this Woody Guthrie folk poem.

Little Richard

Whole Lotta Shakin' Goin' On;
Goodnight Irene
(Stardate SS 340) ***

SAME skippy beat as we got on "My Guy" will pull massive crowds back to Miss Wells as she sings the Will Robinson composition "What's Easy For Two Is So Hard For One." Pleasant and melodic ballad which Mary sings lightly and romantically with the distinctive sound that has finally penetrated over here.

Huddle Leeberger's famous number Goodnight Irene is given a slow-grating performance by Richard while chorus supply the gospel yearn and rhythm group weave a great backing.

More of Mary

Mary Wells

What's Easy For Two Is So Hard For One; You Lost The Sweetest Boy
(Stardate SS 342)

DON'T we get on "My Guy" will pull massive crowds back to Miss Wells as she sings the Will Robinson composition "What's Easy For Two Is So Hard For One." Pleasant and melodic ballad which Mary sings lightly and romantically with the distinctive sound that has finally penetrated over here.

Dave Berry may go 'Arab' on his new album!

DAVE BERRY came from a holiday in Algiers last week with four blankets, some African drums and ideas on how to make some very strange sounds!

Strangely enough, after the exotic food, Dave was marching happily at bread and jam when I spoke to him last week. Or perhaps not so strangely when you think that Dave got so homesick he cut his two-week holiday by a week to return home.

"It was very odd. The first four days were fabulous, the rest, sun, food . . . everything. Then suddenly," he said sadly, "I missed everything. I felt so cut-off from the scene and alone. I decided I'd have to come back."

So Dave packed his bags and returned to Sheffield—much to the surprise of all his friends—to spend the week watching football and speedway racing.

However short the visit was, Dave managed to cram quite a bit into his seven days in Algeria. He also managed to lose all his luggage in transit!

"It was this business of having to change planes," he explained, "I missed the connection at Paris and my luggage went shooting off somewhere else. Now I'm waiting to find out what's happened to it."

"The holiday was valuable as far as introducing me to some interesting things musically, though."

"I was staying with some people in Morocco who took me to watch some Arab dancing. They really have some great hand movements. I was interested in some of them for my art."

"Also, these people taught me how to make a kind of wailing noise that the Arab people make. It's a form of music. You do it with your mouth and hands. It's terrific and very weird. I'm going to try it out on some of the tracks on the new LP we're doing."

"I've got lots of new ideas for this LP to make it something like out of the ordinary. Apart from the Arab thing, I would like to cut tracks with just vocal and a twelve-string guitar. A very lonely plaintive sound. It's going to be great experiencing!"

Ria Bartok

See If I Care; I Don't Wanna Leave You
(Columbia DB 7362) ***

MADEMOISELLE BARTOK sings effectively in English and her TV appearances here could help push the poppy See If I Care towards the sellers. In France Ria's a hit parader—and her style travels well.

I Don't Wanna Leave You is a steady mover, double-tracked like version I've heard of this number. Loping second-half isn't so potent.

Kenny Ball

Monsieur '64; Hard Ain't It Hard
(Pye Jazz NJ 2072) ***

FLLOWING jazz item, Morocco '64 should pick up sales neatly for Ball and his band. This one's not hard-driving trad stuff, but a polished version that's going to ease into favour.

No need there, but Kenny sings for the finale. Hard, Terry Lightfoot joins him for some dousing of this Woody Guthrie folk poem.

Betty Everett and Jerry Butler

Let It Be Me; Ain't That Loving You Baby
(Stardate SS 340) ***

PECULIAR sound occasionally on the spoken voices doesn't prevent Miss E. and Mr. B. from singing sweetly on Let It Be Me, a slow romance which originated in France under the title Je Pappartais.

Turn over and you'll find a fine blues morse inflected with sex solo shining when the duellists rest.

EXCITING VERSION FROM SANDIE SHAW

Sandie Shaw

(There's) Always Something There To Remind Me; Don't You Know
(Pye N 15704)

ALTHOUGH Lou Johnson's version beat Miss Shaw through the starting tapes over here, I still think the British girl will leap into the lists with her exciting performance of the Backbone-David ballad "(There's) Always Something There To Remind Me." Not Sandie's best disc but her first big wager.

The voice sounds strong and mature with a good sense of phrasing to add a little extra to the presentation. Accompanied by a full orchestra and girl group Miss Shaw will gather up a lot of custom and build a pretty big future on this half I feel.

"Don't You Know" is a little more subdued emotionally, but again Sandie sings the easy-paced number with a rather dry-eyed warmth.

Tony Bennett

Who Can I Turn To; Quiet Nights
(CBS AAG 225) *****

FIRST American version of the big ballad from "Roar Of The Greasepaint Smell Of The Crowd" and the best I've yet heard. Bennett injects the ballad with tremendous sincerity and coats it with expected polish.

No doubt about it, Tony's voice has improved in the last couple of years. He sings this ballad superbly in front of a lush orchestra. I'd like to think it will reach the parade-and it could.

Quiet Nights slips into tender Latin gear and draws us gently along. Again, a fine performance from the star. Nice choice for the coupling.

Wayne Fontana and The Mindbenders

Um, Um, Um, Um, Um, Um; First Taste Of Love
(Fontana TF 471) ***

THE Curtis-Mayfield song which Major Lance took high in the States, but much lower here. Um, Um, Um, Um, Um, Um is picked up by Fontana and The Mindbenders and given a simple reading. Nothing I prefer Fontana's vocal to Major's. And it could quite easily climb to No. 100.

First Taste Of Love slips along with a touch of Latin in the beat, and a touch of commercial in the vocal.

Steady dramatic Dionne ballad

Dionne Warwick

Rock Out For Me; How Many Days Of Sodorus
(Pye International N 2326)

ANOTHER composition by Hal David and Bert Bacharach (as if we needed telling) for Miss Warwick to sing. And "Rock Out For Me" has all the attributes of the team's previous hits. A steady dramatic ballad with a strong orchestra and a girl group accompaniment in which piano is particularly fatalistic.

An infectious shouter put over in typical Warwick manner "Rock Out For Me" is going to have plenty of customers reaching out for it.

"How Many Days Of Sodorus" is yet another David-Bacharach effort. Dionne's style is perhaps a little in danger of becoming too stylized but, at the moment, I reckon we can still take plenty of it.

CABLE FROM AMERICA

HIGH HOPES FOR HERMAN IN STATES

MGM are going all out on their British acquisition HERMAN'S HERMITS, whose first release "I'm Into Something Good" is to be issued next week. They think this will be a great smash.

Tommy Roe, just out of the service, has spent most of his time since release in Nashville cutting new sides. He may fly to England next for sessions there which recording man Felton Jarvis will handle. Jarvis, incidentally, has also formed a group for RCA named The Roemans. Everybody thinks they are English. They sound a little that way, but that's all.

at the Coconut Grove the orchestra does "Beatle" wigs while Peggy gives her rendering of "Can't Buy Me Love."

When Andy Williams returned home to Cincinnati earlier this month, he received a "Presidential" welcome including a parade, a motorcade, the key to the city and all that. In addition the day was known as "The Andy Williams Day."

As reported recently, Archie Bleyer is stilling his Cadence label. One of the many stars he discovered was Andy Williams, who has long since gone to Columbia. But Andy has just bought from Bleyer the entire catalogue of tapes, mainly. Williams says, to that no "Tom, Dick or Harry" can sell his old discs at 90 cents. The price paid was in the six figure bracket. Other artists included in the deal are The Everly Brothers, Johnny Tillotson and Johnnie Ray.

Looks like Louis Armstrong will again make that coveted No. 1 spot with yet another song from the show "Hello Dolly." This time it's "So Long Dearie." The single has been rushed out; it's selling like mad and should really start hitting when Louis performs the song personally on

It's a Beatle sculpture in butter!

Frank Sinatra has his first single in the charts for some time. It's the lovely Matt Monro song, "Softly As I Leave You."

SO big are The Beatles that during the dairy exhibit in Toronto they had their figures sculptured life-size in BUTTER, displayed in a refrigerated case. The figures were created by a young high school teacher and took, and deadly, 300 pounds of butter. During Peggy Lee's new act the Sullivan show on Oct. 4, "Rudolph The Red-Nosed Reindeer" is 16 years old this Christmas, and plans are ahead to make this once again the most important Christmas number. NBC TV are planning a colour spectacular lasting an hour built around this popular Yuletide character. It will be shown on December 6 to an estimated audience of over 40 million. Already there are over 300 recordings of the song all over the world, with new ones to come this year.

Dion Di Mucci

Johnny E. Gandy; Chicago Blues
(CBS AAG 224) ***

DION, but had little luck in the British sales department for quite a time now, and I don't really think that Chuck Berry's oldie Johnny E. Gandy is the song to bring him back.

Chicago blues goes slowly and with soul feeling by the boy. I'd be tempted to gamble on this as an A-deck with an good harmonica mid-way.

Shirley Bassey

Goldfinger; Strange How Love Can Be
(Columbia DB 7360) ***

TITLE song for the current James Bond film "Goldfinger" was written by Tony Newley, Lesley Duncan and John Barry and boy have they stretched their pen to find rhyme.

It's not exactly keen on the numbers, but it's well fit to Barry's heavily dramatic orchestral accompaniment. Seems odd to me putting it out at the same time as they're trying to sell Shirley's "Who Can I Turn To."

I'M NOT AIMING FOR THE TOP—P.J. PROBY

in short . . . in short . . .

PETER AND THE HEADLINES—Don't Cry Little Girl; It Was Love (Decca F 11980) —Slow romantic advice from Peter and The Headlines—Don't Cry Little Girl. Good, meaty vocal sound backed by rhythm. For the B-side a quicker item presented simply but more conveniently.

ROGER WERSI AND HIS TRIO—All My Loving; Bad To Me (Parlophone R 5175) —Piano, drums, guitar and bass in a polished jazz coupling which illustrates that beatle songs can find a place in this idiom, too. All My Loving might well glide towards the top once more as a result. Bad To Me isn't quite so successful as a jazz waltz.

THE BANSHEES—I Got A Woman; Don't Say Goodbye And Mean Goodbye (Columbia DB 7367) —The Ray Charles composition I Got A Woman is played by the sax and rhythm of The Banshees with Mel Austin singing in front. Quick beats well sold with a useful organ break.

DON, DAVID AND DEAN—No Need To Cry; Fairy Tales (United Artists UP 1064) —Steady vocal harmony with falsetto licks here and there on No Need To Cry. Fairy Tales is simple enough for infants class.

JACQUELINE MAYO—Who Am I In There Something To; What He Said (Columbia DL 7357) —Miss Mayo has a useful big voice and sounds much too confident to be worrying Who Am I. Mad piano in the break seems to have stayed in from the studio next door!

KEITH POWELL AND THE VALETS—I Should Know Better; The Much Monkey Business (Columbia DB 7364) —Soulful vocal on I Should Know Better as The Valets supply choppy accompaniment. Organ's good. So's the singing and the side may sell. Too Much Monkey Business is one of Chuck Berry's early hits, but probably not known among customers, at least not so well as "Roll Over Beethoven" and others in the same time slot. Here it moves rapidly, beautify and amazingly. The side I'd buy.

THE BEAT MERCHANTS—Pretty Face; Messin' With The Man (Columbia DB 7367) —A South Coast quartet playing and singing rhythm 'n' blues. The Beat Merchants have made a more-than-useful debut disc. Pretty Face is one of their own compositions and it runs along swiftly with the able vocal backed by guitar harmonica and guitars. Sounds to me like an outfit which ought to develop rapidly into big sellers.

BILLY EDD WHEELER—On The Outside (Looks) In; The Right Foot In His World (London HLR 9720) —C and W were clipped from Billy Edd. On The Outside is not the old Flanagan and Allen song. Not so good either. Second side lyric is confused, ton, confused.

RAY PETERSON—Oh No! If You Were Here (MGM 1249) —Girl group spreads the word, now almost gloriously. Ray Peterson who means the Oh No! over and over again, is he here? his sweetie's gone off with another chick. Lyric's well constructed and worth singin'.

THE BO-STREET RUNNERS—In Street Rouser; Tell Me (Decca J 11956) —The Ready Steady Win lads come out running in the footprints of The Rolling Stones. Mouth organ almost overpowers the top deck of this debut. Publicity and attendant matters may pull the team towards the charts, but basically this is very ordinary R&B work.

P.J. PROBY, chart-hopping again with his second single release in Britain "Together," may well have reversed a trend which has been almost an unwritten law of show business. For years, British artists built up their careers on home ground then after establishing themselves here, crossed the Atlantic to try for international stardom.

"Now," said P.J., lounging in an armchair in his dressing room at the BBC's Manchester studio, where he was rehearsing for Top Of The Pops, "the trend is reversed. American artists are getting themselves a reputation at home—and coming to Britain to become stars."

Proby was the first to spot this trend.

"Months ago, back home in the States, I saw what was happening. People used to say I just sat around all day doing nothing. What they didn't know was that while I was sitting around I was reading the British beat and pop magazines and I could see the trend towards Britain coming."

• top five

This was what made Proby come to Britain—with a 30 record with "Hold Me" as a result. Now his "Together" looks as though it will do equally as well.

"I'm not aiming for Number One with my records—I'm aiming at the top five. If I can get all my singles into the top five I'll be satisfied. There's little difference between a Number One and the other four records. I'd like to become a consistent 'top five' artist."

P.J.'s career has been a bit stormy since he came to Britain to appear in The Beatles TV show—and at one time it seemed as though he might go back to the States. But not any more.

"I've sorted out all the problems now," said P.J. "I'm going to live in Britain permanently from now on."

Billy J... Freddie

ON TOUR

Paul Jones sang Handel in Albert Hall

PAUL JONES smiled wryly as he got ready to go on stage with the other four Manfreds at the Albert Hall last Sunday and declared: "Do you know? The last time I performed in this place I was singing Handel's Messiah."

"I was about twelve," he chuckled, "and a member of a huge choir taking part in conjunction with the Portsmouth Philharmonic Society.

"It was something to do with

Pennies shine on Freddie bill

I HOPE that by the time you read this that the Freddie and The Dreamers' pantomime show which opened at the Slough Adelphi on Saturday, will have settled down. Even for an opening night, the toothache troubles were far too many.

Freddie himself was suffering from an acute sore throat and therefore I suppose he could be excused the fact that his comedy routine looked over-rehearsed. His best numbers undoubtedly were "Jailer Bring Me Water" and a fine version of "Auld Lang Syne."

Reputation

The Hollies attempted to put some life into the show but did not live up to their reputation as the group that captures the biggest following from other groups in the business.

Was the Four Pennies, who closed the first half, who had the biggest impact on the audience. They performed with tremendous gusto and lead singer Lionel Morton proved what a versatile voice he has.

Between the first and second performances co-promoter Tito Burns made changes in the running order so that Marianne Faithfull took a place in the second half of the show.

Two more

He also gave Tony Jackson two more numbers to close with his new backing group, The Vibrations, but I'm afraid Tony will have to work his group very hard if he hopes to gain anything near the following he held with The Searchers.

Marianne Faithfull was accompanied on guitar for Saturday only by her schoolfriend, Sally Oldfield. For the rest of the tour Irish folk guitarist Howard Kialay will back her.

The almost eerie speech patterns her act turned out to be a remarkable change in her show. Another closing number, "Blowin' in The Wind," shows that she has a far stronger folk voice than the vocal restraint her hit would have you believe.

R.H.

"Here I Go Again" sings Graham Nash, of The Hollies, as he serenades Marianne Faithfull in a dressing-room at The Adelphi, Slough, between shows. And by the expression on her face, Marianne doesn't seem to mind at all!

FREDDIE'S MAD OVER GONKS!

FREDDIE has gone Gonk mad. Apparently his house is full of these funny creatures and he falls over them wherever he goes.

"It's dreadful" he said, making the whole thing sound very dismal indeed. "I can't seem to stop collecting them; I have them all. Hundreds of them, I even have a King Gonk with a shield and a ferocious face."

"And we've had to move them all into the new house—which we're still decorating."

There hasn't been much time for interior decorating for Freddie in the last couple of weeks. When I spoke to him last week he'd only just got back from Holland, had had to cancel a trip to Scandinavia, had been playing golf and fishing and had just completed his new record.

"We had four days off to do the recording. It's the first slow one I've ever done. I like it really. Not a really Freddie sort of number, though."

"When we were away at the R.H. Isle of Man I started taking an interest in fishing. While we were there, I caught 60 fish, including a fabulous mackerel. We used to take them back to the hotel and cook them. Now I'm back, I still like to go on every so often with my fishing rod."

"We had a great time the other day going to Holland. We were going direct from Ireland and I suddenly realised I didn't have my passport. I phoned Manchester to get them to send it on. But when we got to the airport, it hadn't arrived. They let me go on out on special visa in the end."

"And when I got to Holland, I started all over again. I'm not very good in these sort of situations—I always want to laugh. Anyway—I always let them let us through. They said as long as it was for a good purpose!"—P.V.

WHY HOLLIES ARE CINEMA ADDICTS

IF you happen to go to some afternoon cinema sessions in the towns being visited by the Freddie and The Dreamers—Four Pennies—Hollies package tour, don't be surprised if you see at least two of the Hollies there watching the screen.

They'll be Allan Clarke and Eric Haydock, the two film fans of the group.

"We often go in the afternoons," Allan told me. "Sometimes the rest of the boys come with us, but they're not quite as keen as we are."

The pair of them go in the afternoons for two reasons.

"We're mostly appearing in the evenings in the show, and don't get a chance to see a complete programme as a result," explained Allan.

"Also, the afternoon audiences in the cinema are usually older people who aren't very interested in getting our autographs, even if they recognise us, so we don't have any problem about that. The unettes generally spot who we are, though."

Allan and Eric like Westerns and Biblical epics best of all, but they don't mind what the subject is as long as the film is well done.

Eric has made two additions to his household recently. They are miniature dachshunds called Natasha and Jemima, and they're 10 weeks old.

"It's difficult having pets in a flat," he said, "but these two are small enough to be okay."—N.H.

WITH THE STARS

Those Kinks are great 'game' people

THE KINKS are great play about two numbers wherever they appear.

That's all the time they have before people are doing things like trying to tear their clothes off and pull them apart and going into hysterics and fainting.

"Do you know?" Pete said incredulously. "We played Newcastle and they had especially constructed iron barriers. Iron, mark you, that was especially made to withstand a great deal of pressure. They were to keep the audience about 30 yards back from the stage—and us!"

"We did two numbers and the management said we'd have to drop this in favour of more spectacular things—like pretending to kidnap one another and trying to make friends of disinterested sheep.

"Of course, we're nuts really," Pele Quaife told me last week. "But it makes a nice change on the long journeys we make all the time. I mean it can become quite boring."

• kidnap

"We went through Halifax the other day and the others stuck me out of a window. I was yelling my head off shouting 'Help' and 'Kidnap,' etc. It's rather amusing watching people's faces."

"Then we were up on the Yorkshire moors and tried to make friends with some sheep."

"Off we went across this field where they were all eating—but they didn't move an inch. We were tearing around killing ourselves laughing and all they did was march away and stare at us. Made us feel a bit stupid!"

When they're not playing games, The Kinks are playing dates.

The price of their popularity is such that these days they only

THE YARDBIRDS are glad to be touring on the Billy J. Kramer bill—particularly as this will be their first big tour.

And they are also pleased to have Keith Relf, their harmonica player, back with them. And no one is happier than Keith himself. For he has only recently recovered from a spell in hospital, owing to a bad attack of asthma.

"I've just come back from five days in Cornwall, and I feel much better now," he told DISC just before the tour.

The doctor told me to take it easy for a while, and I shall be able to do so. A 15-minute stage spot will be less tiring than the long stints we have done.

"And now that we are all together, it is good to be able to get back to our original sound. We have been rehearsing hard for the stage show."

We are polishing up our presentation. Once, considering ourselves as a blues outfit, we didn't care about all that bobbing around that seems to go down with the crowd—behaving like puppets almost."

"But we realise you have to make concessions, and we intend to put on an entertaining act!"—L.H.

BILLY J SPLASHES OUT ON PRESENTS

BILLY J. KRAMER has been splashing out since he returned from that exciting trip to Australia and New Zealand. But not on himself. He has just bought his Mum a brand new electric refrigerator for her Liverpool home.

"It was a treat to see how thrilled she was," Billy told me. "She has never had a fridge before."

And Billy didn't forget his Dad, and sisters Mabel, Olive and Eva. He brought back a pair of Kangaroo slippers for Dad, and Koala bears for the girls.

Billy did give himself a small treat—a souvenir of his round-the-world trip. He bought a ukulele in Honolulu.

• new item

Billy is looking forward to that stage tour. And he will introduce a new item, "Twilight Time" with The Dakotas. So far, he has featured it only on a few dates.

Added Billy: "It will be great to have The Ronettes and The Bill Black Combo appearing along with us."

"I've never met The Ronettes, but I did see them on the 'They've Sold A Million' TV show recorded when they were in Britain last."

"And I know the work of The Bill Black Combo from their recordings with Elvis Presley."

"Then, our Kinks and Cliff Bennett are great. In fact, I'm looking forward to touring with the whole Bill!"—L.H.

"Anything you can do, I can do better," Tony Jackson seems to be saying, borrowing Freddie Garrity's glasses between shows on the opening night of their tour.

Teens MUST be from the U.S.!

THE NASHVILLE TEENS,

it seems, have a big problem. In America—where their record "Tobacco Road" has shot into the charts and where they are going for Christmas—they are under the impression that they're not a British group at all—but American! In fact, in Nashville, Tennessee, the switchboard has been jammed with calls trying to find the Teens.

"It's madness," said Art Sharpe, when I met the group last week.

Chet Atkins phoned our office the other day and said that promoters were phoning Nashville trying to get hold of us. They don't think we're English, so they're going to get quite a shock when we arrive!"

The Teens told me they were looking forward to going to the States and were hoping to do some recording in Nashville itself.

"And that's not for the gimmick value," John Hawks said. "Whatever anyone might say, Nashville is still the home of recording."

• exciting

Whatever they're going to do record-wise in America, the Teens have had a pretty exciting week recording here. They were cutting tracks for an LP and also their follow-up single to "Tobacco Road"—at a midnight session!

"It's great. You know, people always think you're whacked out and it's terrible recording at that time of night but in fact, we love it," said Art. "I know sometimes we've finished shows at about 11 and felt all wound-up and just in the mood to do some recording. And your voice is always much better then, more relaxed."

"We're doing this song 'Too Much,' written for us by Carter Lewis and it's got to be in the can by next week. We just haven't had a moment to record anything else because we've been dishing around all over the place."

"We've been having a pretty funny time lately. Any time we've had off has been spent sleeping or watching old Laurel and Hardy films. We're crazy about those two at the moment and Barry Jenkins does a very fair impression of Bugs Bunny.—P.V.

BILLY J TOUR GOES WITH A SWING

IT is a great pity that there are to be several changes in the line-up of the Billy J. Kramer and The Dakotas package show which opened on Monday. For no fan could have wished for a better show.

I mean at the Granada, Maidstone.

Billy gave his usual polished performance. His deep sonorous voice is really beautiful in slow numbers.

Lulu must surely take over the world crown of "Little Miss Dynamite" now that Brenda Lee has matured in her style.

Sounds Inc.

Sounds Incorporated continues to be visually one of the best presented groups in the country. Bill Black's Combo also had a similar position to Sounds in the States, proving they could reproduce their record sound on stage.

Last night with The Yardbirds, Keith Relf made his comeback to the group after being rushed into hospital three weeks ago. He looked rather pale but worked on his numbers as though he had had the three-month rest that his doctor asked him to take.

Cliff Bennett and The Rebel Rousers are one of the best groups on the scene. Their arrangements are excellent and Brian Epstein has certainly backed another winner.

R.H.

A picture for everybody's scrapbook! Included here with Billy J. Kramer and Lulu on the opening night of Billy's tour are members of The Dakotas, The Luvvers, Sounds Incorporated, Cliff Bennett and The Rebel Rousers, The Yardbirds and Bill Black's Combo.

THE BEATLES AND THEIR NEXT FILM

EXCLUSIVE!

Walter Shenson, producer of 'A Hard Day's Night,' reveals his ten-point plan to DISC.

THIS week, producer Walter Shenson gave me an exclusive preview of his follow-up film to "A Hard Day's Night."

In a thirty-minute chat over a cup of coffee and a cigar, Mr. Shenson outlined his plans to put The Beatles on the world map as film stars—of the intention to make another Beatles film that will be even more ambitious and colourful than "A Hard Day's Night."

In his Mayfair suite of offices, Walter Shenson revealed ten points of the film that is already in preparation.

1. Shooting should start the second week in February.

2. The film will be made in Britain.

3. It will NOT be a pop musical.

4. It will be quite different from "A Hard Day's Night."

5. The Beatles will not be playing in period costume.

6. The Beatles will write at least SIX new songs for the film.

7. Director Dick Lester and cameraman Gilbert Taylor will both work on the film. And so will The Beatles—as scriptwriters!

8. The film will be a zany comedy.

9. It may be shot in colour—unlike "A Hard Day's Night."

10. AND THE BOYS WILL NOT BE INVOLVED IN ANY ROMANTIC LOVE-STORY INTEREST.

Now let Walter Shenson take it from here:

doe the type of comedy The Beatles excel at.

"They will, of course, still play themselves. That's why we discarded an original idea to have them portrayed in a 'period' role. Working so closely with The Beatles convinced me that they have such a distinctive brand of 'hip' modern humour; it would be a mistake to put them in anything other than a modern setting.

"But the new film will not be a pop musical. We shall find a new and exciting way of introducing their songs—and something quite different from "A Hard Day's Night."

"We shall feature a much stronger plot line than the first film. We all agreed we do not want to do an extension of "A Hard Day's Night." We don't want to flog this formula to death.

"We have not ruled out the possibility of shooting the film in colour. But whether it is in black and white or colour will depend upon the final story.

"We are all striving to make a hilarious comedy. One that will start with a laugh that continues right through. The Beatles have a wonderful sense of fun and we want to make the most of this.

"They are all very keen—particularly John who, as you know from his book, has a way-out sense of humour. I know we can make use of the boys' comedy talents in the script sense—and who knows, may even bring a new dimension to their work.

"Unfortunately, their heavy commitments on the forthcoming British tour and their Christmas show will make big intrusions on their time. And then there are the new film songs to write. But I am sure we can all work something out.

"I shall want to use at least six new songs. And—probably some more that have already been published.

"The film will probably be made in Britain with a British crew. It will be an entirely fictional story but the possibility of foreign location is not ruled out.

"As in "A Hard Day's Night," we want to have lots of pretty girls in the new film. But we don't think The Beatles should have any romantic involvement at all.

"Many youngsters from all over the world have written to me asking that there should be no love story in a Beatles film—and this backed up my opinion in the first place.

"We hope to start shooting the second week in February—depending on whether The Beatles get a chance for a holiday break before their Christmas show."

.... DATELINE NEW YORK

Eden Kane flies in

LAST Saturday I took a quick flight out to the airport to meet EDEN KANE and The Echoes, who are now out on the road with THE SEARCHERS. They were only in New York for 24 hours, but in that time they managed to get out to the Brooklyn Fox to watch the final show and attend a party which I co-hosted for all the Britshers in town.

Eden looks great after all those

Blackpool dates, but says he's still waiting for that elusive piece of hit material which would put him in good stead in America.

News flash

A very frightened Bobby Rydell told me he got caught in a fishing boat just off the Florida coast when Hurricane Dora hit, and even though this was two weeks ago, he's still shaking... Xavier Cugat's opening at the Latin Quarter an absolute smash, and although the music was Latin American, his presentation is very much à la Ted Heath... The Kinks, Honeycombs and Nashville Teens all happening in a very big way in the American charts... Prentiss have just re-released Manfred Mann's "5-4-3-2-1," which is beginning to pick up radio action. Incidentally, the Manfords have been invited to appear on Murray the K's Christmas Show at the Brooklyn Fox. The show that's just finished there broke all box office records.

UNCHED with Epic producer and old friend, Bob Morgan, this week. It was quite coincidental that our choice of restaurant looked very much like an English pub (the kind of scene Bob's taken to heart since his trips across the Atlantic).

Bob, who produced the recent Cliff Richard sessions here, says he was quite surprised at Cliff's ability in the studio, and even more surprised that in spite of continued success, Cliff still remains a warm, friendly and sincere person.

He told me the first sides will be out at the end of this month, and accepted an even bet the first A-side will be one of the Bacharach compositions Cliff recorded in Nashville.

The BEATLES are looking forward to working on the film—as scriptwriters!
