Crowther in trouble

Laughs when Leslie 'clowns' around...

NO TIME TO STAY IN BED, THIS MORNING. FIRST, TO PUT ON MY NEW NOSE...

SOON...

THAT'S THE LOT - I'M ALL SET! IF THIS DOESN'T MAKE THEM LAUGH, NOTHING WILL...

A LITTLE LATER...

I'VE GOT TO CHEER UP ALL THE KIDS IN THE CHILDREN'S WARD. IT'S A SPECIAL SURPRISE FOR THEM...

So...

ATTENTION, EVERYONE - YOU HAVE A VISITOR!

HEH! THAT'S LESLIE CROWTHER! THIS SHOULD BE A LAUGH...

BUT...

HUH! THAT'S NOT VERY FUNNY!

JUST WATCH ME JUGGLE... OOOOPS!

WE'VE SEEN ALL THAT BEFORE! LET'S HAVE SOMETHING NEW!!

LESLIE OBLIGES...

YOU WATCH THIS, THEN...

WHAT'S HE UP TO? LET'S HOPE THIS IS BETTER...

HUH! I COULD DO THAT!

PHEWWW! TRYING TO MAKE THEM EVEN SMILE IS HARD WORK... OOOOPS!

YEAH! WE WANNA SEE SOME REAL CLOWNING AROUND...

WHOOOOOOO!

HELP! I CAN'T STOP! LOOK OUT!

OH, DEAR! MISTER CROWTHER!

OOOOO!

OOOMPH!

CRASH!

THIS IS MORE LIKE IT!

THAT REALLY CHEERED ME UP!

WHAT A GIGGLE! HO! HO!

OUCH! I THINK I'VE BROKEN SOMETHING!

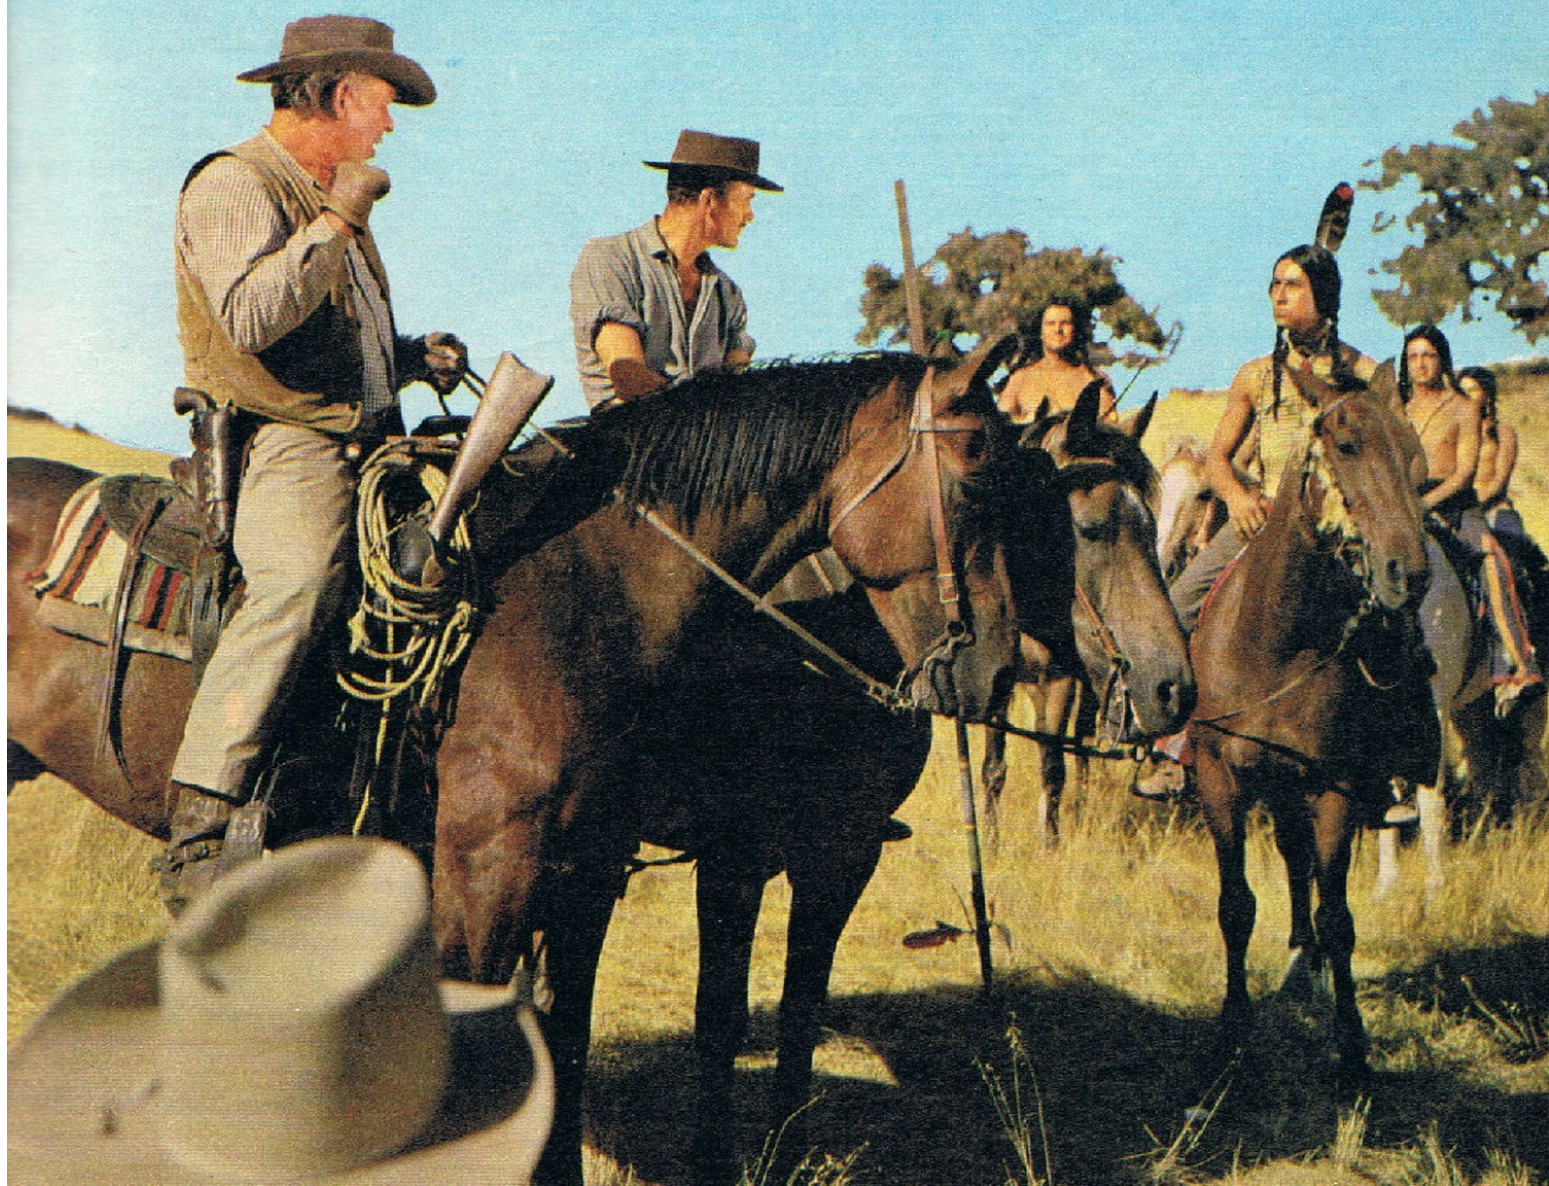

HUH! THAT MADE THE KIDS ROAR, ALL RIGHT. BUT NOW I NEED CHEERING UP. I'M STUCK HERE FOR AT LEAST A WEEK!

A LOOK-IN ON TV WESTERNS

THE SHOWDOWN AT SUNSET in the deserted main street of Dodge City, Kansas. Both Marshal and gunman square up, a dozen yards apart. A blur of action, the roar of six-shooters, and the 'baddie' collapses in the dust . . . That's the sort of scene that has made the Western such an exciting part of television history. Dodge City has been the setting of one of ITV's longest-running Westerns, WAGON TRAIN offered stories about the early pioneers. Here, the Wagon Master and his partner have a brief 'pow-wow' with some Indians.

A LOOK-IN ON TV WESTERNS

➔➔➔➔➔ ➔ Gunsmoke, which started on television (entitled Gun Law) back in 1956, when the actor who plays Marshal Matt Dillon—James Arness—was only known as the protégé of the greatest Western actor of them all, film star John Wayne.

Wayne taught Arness the ropes. Now Matt Dillon, 6ft. 6in. tall, 14-stone, fast with a gun, modest and quietly spoken, is typical of the TV Western hero.

Such characters, however, aren't all hotshot lawmen. One of the most popular of TV Westerns, Wagon Train featured stories about the Wagon Master, Scout, and early pioneers who blazed a trail westward in covered wagons. Many great film actors, like Mickey Rooney, Charles Laughton, Lee Marvin, and Raymond Massey, made guest appearances in this series.

Wagon Train also made a big star of a hitherto little-known actor called Robert Horton. He was such a success as Scout Flint McCullough, that he later starred in his own Western series, A Man Called Shenandoah. This time he played a cowboy with a lost memory, who was searching for his identity and background.

Actor Clint Eastwood, now an international film star, first made his name as a television Western hero as the gawky Ramrod Rowdy Yates in Rawhide, a series about cattle drives—and the men that drove them. And, of course, many of the legendary characters, both heroes and villains, have provided material for TV westerns—like The Legend of Jesse James, stories of the famed Wild West outlaw.

Television has produced individual Western heroes a'plenty. It has also introduced sagas set around families and ranches. For many years, the Cartwrights—on their sprawling ranch, The Ponderosa, which stretched from the shores of Lake Tahoe to the slopes of the sierras and east to the desert around Virginia City were the best-known family on television.

Father Ben Cartwright (Lorne Greene), and sons Adam (Pernell Roberts), Hoss (Dan Blocker) and Little Joe (Michael Landon), defended their family name and wealth from rustlers, speculators, silver barons and killers for hundreds of episodes.

The success of that series, you will probably remember, led to the introduction of another Western family: The Barkleys, in The Big Valley, starring Barbara Stanwyck as the hard-hitting widow, Victoria Barkley.

Westerns aren't all drama and gunfights. One of the unusual ones is F Troop, a comedy cowboys-and-Indians series about life in a Cavalry troop.

While the famous television Westerns—like Gunsmoke, Bonanza and Rawhide—show How The West Was Won, the funny antics of F Troop prove how the West was very nearly lost . . . !

BRANDED: Chuck Connors stars as the sharp-shooting Jason McCord.

BONANZA: The Cartwrights—Hoss (Dan Blocker), Little Joe (Michael Landon) and Ben (Lorne Greene)—relax at the Ponderosa.

Life in Labrador

Tony Bastable writes about Canada's coldest corner.

If I could select a location to go filming in the winter, I would choose somewhere warm — like the Bahamas! But, as luck would have it, my MAGPIE trip at the end of March took me across the world to the coldest RAF station on Earth—Goose Bay, Labrador. For geography enthusiasts, that's the most northerly district in the Province of Newfoundland, in Canada.

Our mission? To discover just what living conditions were like in that part of the world.

I flew there from RAF Brize Norton in a VC10 of Air Support Command, and I soon discovered one thing about Goose Bay —there were no geese there. It was far too cold. The station was so named to create a 'mate' for another lonely spot nearby—Gander.

In extreme temperatures like this, the RAF insists that every man is issued with specially-designed protective clothing. One day, I tried it all on. Believe me, after fifteen or sixteen layers, I began to feel like a stuffed penguin. But even so, in the depths of winter (and during my stay, I was informed it was nearly spring) the men can only work outside for a few minutes at a time. If they remain out for longer, they run the risk of getting frostbitten.

These days, the station itself is used by the dramatic-looking bombers of Strike Command. We spent several hours filming the aircraft taking off, landing and being serviced. The sub-zero conditions here certainly teach the service crews one important fact—how to service an aircraft well in the shortest possible time! The crews also have to learn special tricks to beat the weather. For instance, an aircraft's wheels must be covered while it is stationary. If this is not done, they will freeze solid to the concrete in minutes!

The station boasts its own physical training instructor—Corporal Mick Storey. He organises indoor games as well as snowshoeing and tobogganing. I had an absolutely great time on the toboggan runs.

Because of the absence of roads in Goose Bay, whenever I wished to travel anywhere I had to use a ski-doo. This machine is literally a combination of a motor-bicycle and a sledge. It has a powered caterpillar track at its rear, and movable skis for steering at the front.

At the end of the week it was time to pack up the cameras and go home. As I flew for hours over the vastness of Newfoundland I had a special thought. I was really better off going to Goose Bay instead of the Bahamas—at least I had no difficulty in keeping away from the crowds!

Tony boards a VC10 of Air Support Command at RAF Brize Norton!

Believe it or not, it's Tony—keeping warm!

Tony tops a whale made from snow!

He's quite good at using snowshoes, too!

Setting up a camera in deep snow is certainly no easy task!

I DUNNO WHAT YER TALKIN' ABOUT, CHIEF!

LIFT OFF WITH AYSHEA

Once, concert and dance halls in England resounded to the sound of 'soul'. Geno Washington, Herbie Goins, Arthur Conley and Otis Redding had never been so much in demand. Much of their music, and the performers themselves, came from America where Aretha Franklin and Otis Redding are still the King and Queen of soul.

Recently, the interest in soul music has slackened and many of the fabulous soul bands have broken up and faded away. So it was fantastic when the doors of the 'Lift Off' studios burst open and the eight members of the Bandwagon, followed by leader Johnny Johnson, bounded in and gave us a show to remember!

Johnny told us: "You have to give people something to watch—otherwise they will just sit at home and listen to your records. We have done over 400 full shows in the last two years and I don't think there is another band in England which comes as near the American standards of soul presentation."

That what he says is true, is borne out by the fact that he and the Bandwagon have flourished in a period when soul music has not, and his latest album is entitled 'Soul Survivor'. It includes some really great dancing titles—just right for a party!

Next Week: Potter gets fumed up about a dirty boiler!

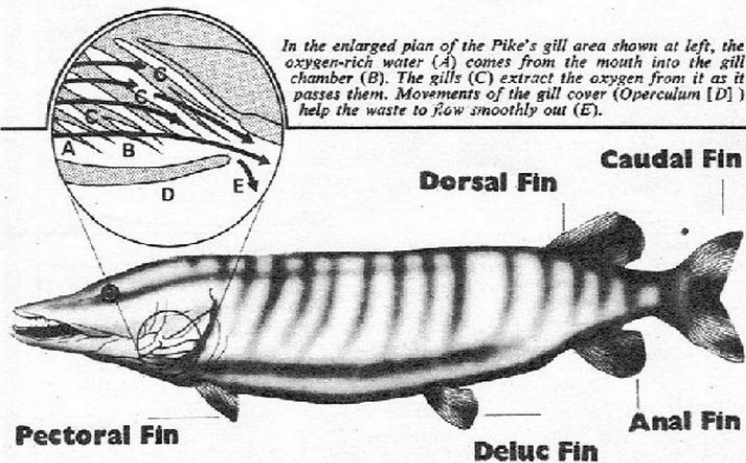

ONCE again the How! team of experts, comprising of Bunty James, Jack Hargreaves, Jon Miller and Fred Dinenage, has been doing a lot of research in preparation for this week's answers. Congratulations to the readers who sent in the questions—you'll be receiving £1 Hamlyn books shortly. If you haven't already written in to the How! panel, why not do so now? You can win a Hamlyn book of your choice for any question you have published. So get thinking and send your entry to: How!, LOOK-IN, 247 Tottenham Court Road, London W1P 0AU.

HOW is it that fish can breathe under water but we cannot?
Julie Jones, Swaything, Southampton.

Our lungs are not made for underwater breathing; a fish's gills are. To breathe, a fish takes in water through its mouth and then closes the sides of its throat together, which pushes the water through the gills' openings on each side of its head. The water passes over the gills, which are so made that they can take oxygen from it. The oxygen goes into the gills' blood vessels and on into the blood to the rest of the body. Carbon dioxide (waste product) passes out through the gills.

HOW was gold first discovered? Timothy Whittall, Co. Antrim, N. Ireland.

No doubt one of our prehistoric ancestors picked up a piece of this metal, liked what he saw and kept it. Golden ornaments and bowls made by the Sumerians of ancient Iraq, well over 4,000 years ago, are still in existence. The use of gold as something of value must have come about because it was so scarce and so beautiful that men found it could be exchanged for other things.

HOW big is the world's biggest plant? Jean-Paul Batisse, London S.W.7.

If you count the giant Californian redwood trees as plants, then 'General Sherman' in the Sequoia National Park gets the prize for being the biggest living thing on earth. Its base circumference is 101 ft. 7 in. Seventeen men, with their arms outstretched, are needed to encircle it! Experts think the tree weighs 6,000 tons!

Also in California is a Giant Chinese Wisteria, claimed to be the world's largest blossoming plant. Planted nearly eighty years ago, it has branches 500 feet long.

HOW did nursery rhymes originate? G. Willmetts, Bridgwater, Somerset.

No one knows who wrote most of them. Some were probably thought up by mothers and nurses; some are grown-up songs which finally became children's rhymes. Others, like Little Miss Muffet, are probably based on a real happening. Some are definitely about real people. For instance, there really was a Jack Horner, whether or not the explanation of the nursery rhyme about him is true.

Liz and Simon become servants of the gods in . . .

TIMESLIP

LIZ SKINNER AND SIMON RANDALL HAVE THE AMAZING ABILITY TO PASS THROUGH THE INVISIBLE TIME-BARRIER, MOVING BACKWARDS OR FORWARDS THROUGH THE AGES. IN ANCIENT EGYPT, THEY EVENTUALLY GET INVOLVED IN A SEA BATTLE BETWEEN A FRIENDLY ROMAN CAPTAIN, FABIUS, AND METULLUS THE PIRATE. THEIR CONDUCT WINS THEM FULL FAVOUR WITH FABIUS. BUT WHEN SIMON ASKS HIM TO PUT THEM ASHORE AFTER THE FIGHT . . .

THE TIME-BARRIER'S HERE IN EGYPT, INSIDE A PYRAMID. IF WE CROSS THE MEDITERRANEAN, WE MAY NEVER GET BACK HERE . . .

CAN'T YOU TRY PLEADING WITH HIM? SEE IF YOU CAN EXPLAIN OUR STORY . . .

HE SAYS WE'VE GOT TO GO TO ROME, LIZ! HE SAYS THE EMPEROR WILL GIVE US LAUREL WREATHS FOR OUR HELP!

BUT . . . BUT WE CAN'T . . .

PERHAPS, SIR, OUR YOUNG FRIENDS ARE SERVANTS OF THE LOCAL GODS? THIS WOULD EXPLAIN THEIR STRANGE DRESS, THEIR STRENGTH . . . AND THEIR COURAGE!

SIMON'S LATIN JUST ISN'T EQUAL TO THE TASK . . .

YOU SPEAK OF TIME? OF PAST AND PRESENT? AND AN EGYPTIAN TEMPLE . . .?

VIMINY! I'VE GOT TO MAKE YOU UNDERSTAND . . .

FROM HIS POCKET, SIMON TAKES HIS PENCIL TORCH . . .

YES! THAT'S IT . . . WE HAVE . . . ER . . . SPECIAL POWERS. WE CAN PROVE IT BY SHOWING YOU MAGIC!

WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO, NOW?

I HAVE HEARD OF THE WISDOM OF THE SHRINES IN ROME - BUT NEVER HAVE I SEEN THE MAGIC OF THE GODS. HAVE YOU REALLY SUCH POWER . . . ?

IMPRESS THEM, LIZ. JUST TRUST ME, AND I MAY BE ABLE TO GET US OUT OF HERE ONCE AND FOR ALL!

BY JUPITER! HE... HE HOLDS THE SLIM IN A TUBE 'SEE THE FIERY GLOW!

AAAGH! HE PLACES IT TO HIS HAND, AND IS NOT BURNED!

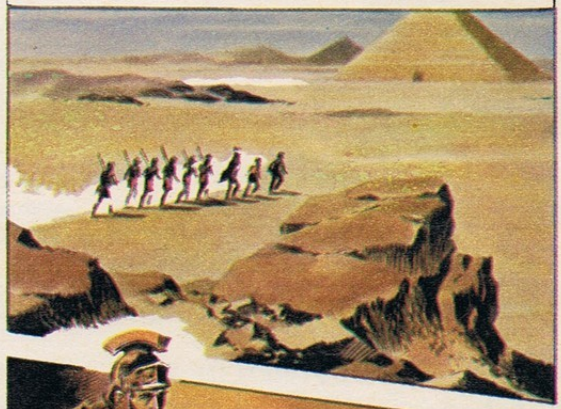

MY EYES SEE, BUT I CAN HARDLY BELIEVE!

YOU'VE SEEN NOTHING! LET US SHOW YOU THE TEMPLE, AND YOU WILL WITNESS THE GREATEST MAGIC OF ALL TIME!

YES, YES! SHOW US, SO THAT WE MAY CARRY WISDOM BACK TO MIGHTY CAESAR!

AFTER A FURIOUS ARGUMENT OVER WHICH UNLUCKY MEN ARE LEFT TO WATCH THE VESSEL, THE EAGER SOLDIERS FOLLOW LIZ AND SIMON WELL INLAND.

EAGERLY NOW, FABULUS TURNS THE SHIP INSHORE...

IT COULDN'T HAVE WORKED BETTER. LIZ, WE'RE ACTUALLY GOING TO HAVE A ROMAN ESCORT ALL THE WAY BACK TO THE PYRAMID!

THE EGYPTIAN TEMPLE GUARDS MAKE THEMSELVES SCARCE AT THE SIGHT OF THE SOLDIERS.

IN THE INNERMOST CHAMBER...

YOUR GODS WILL NOT HARM US FOR ENTERING?

NOW, FABULUS, JUST CRAWL ACROSS THAT BIT OF FLOOR, THERE.

PRECISELY— BUT NOW WATCH US!

BUT... BUT NOTHING HAPPENS.

HLIMMPF! OF COURSE NOT. COME ON... IT ISN'T MUCH FARTHER.

LIKE... LIKE THIS?

HOW LONG THE SOLDIERS WAIT FOR THEIR RETURN, LIZ AND SIMON NEVER KNOW! ONCE AGAIN, THEY ARE IN THE STRANGE, UNFATHOMABLE DIMENSION OF... TIMESLIP!

UINO PROTECT US! THEY DISAPPEAR!

THEY FADE! THEY BECOME INVISIBLE!

An exciting new adventure starring Liz and Simon starts next week!

Continuing his series about Africa Colin Willock introduces . . .

THE SCAVENGERS

[Photographs courtesy of Dieter Plage and Caroline Weaver]

THEY'RE THE DUSTMEN OF AFRICA. A tattered crew with a down-at-heel look as they hop around with hunched 'shoulders' and ragged feathers flapping round them. At least, that's the way they always look on the ground. They're the vultures.

Vultures fill most people with loathing and disgust. Naturalists, myself included, don't feel like that at all. Whenever I see a gathering of vultures on the African plains, my first reaction is one of gratitude for the public service they perform.

I grant you that when you see him on the ground, a vulture isn't exactly beautiful. But once he gets airborne, that's something very different. Vultures are one of the most graceful and efficient fliers in the world of birds.

It's absolutely essential to their way of life that they should be. They use their superb flying powers, not only to spot dead animals on the ground but also to travel hundreds of miles in search of food. And in doing so they hardly ever flap their wings.

Vultures are soaring birds. They can use the air currents with an ease that makes human glider-pilots green with envy. Like a glider pilot, they rely on 'thermals'—columns of hot air that rise over rocks, open spaces; anywhere that collects and holds the heat of the sun. Above such features, the thermal, or hot air current, rises rapidly for sometimes ten thousand feet or more.

The vultures feel the lift of the thermal under their wings and allow themselves to be wafted up on it. They turn in a tight circle to keep inside the thermal and, as they swing round, they keep an eye out for dead animals on the plains beneath.

Often it isn't a carcass they spot, but the shapes of other vultures dive-bombing down out of the sky. Then they know that their companions have found a meal and swing down to join them.

When one thermal dies on them, they have to use a wing flap or two until they find the next one. But they waste as little energy as possible.

There are at least six kinds of vultures on the plains. When feeding, they have a distinct 'pecking order'. This means that certain members of the community get priority.

The bigger ones, like the Griffon and the Lappet-faced, eat first. The junior vultures have to wait for their share.

Two of the most interesting species have special parlour tricks that help them feed. The Egyptian vulture has learned to break open ostrich eggs by throwing stones at them. The Lammergeyer, which lives in mountainous regions, drops bones from a great height to crack them to get at the marrow.

Another scavenger often found round a lion kill, competing with vultures, is the Tawny Eagle. You'd expect to find an eagle feeding in a more dignified way. The Tawny sometimes captures lizards and small mammals, but it is far more likely to be found eating carrion or hanging around camp sites for scraps.

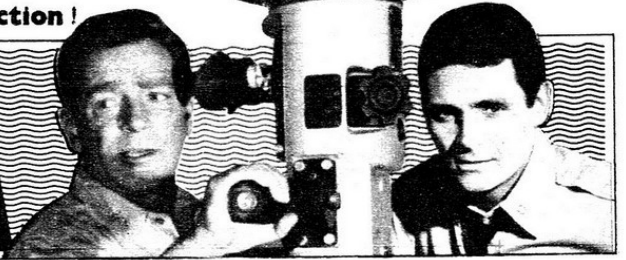

Vultures soar upon 'thermals'—hot air columns—simply by holding their wings motionless and out-stretched.

Another scavenger (above), is the Tawny Eagle. Above, right: Once on the ground, vultures get on with their important job as plains 'dustmen'.

Unusual Visitors

I lived the first ten years of my life in Nairobi, East Africa, where the playgrounds of my school bordered on to the Nairobi Game Park. Between classes we could see many of the animals grazing only a short distance away. One day we had to stop playing hockey and run for shelter as a troupe of baboons invaded our pitch.

I have now been in England for nearly two years and I am very happy here—thought I do miss the sunshine and wildlife.

Smashing Story

My brother is a great fan of Laurel and Hardy. One day he saw a film with them in and Laurel tucked the corner of a tablecloth into his collar. My brother tried to copy him but when he left the table he forgot to take it out, and broke a lot of my Mum's best plates.

Elizabeth Parish,
Margate.

★ I bet that's one trick your mum didn't find amusing! Here's a picture of those two famous comedians.

FREEWHEELERS

THE FREEWHEELERS HAVE DECIDED TO TRAVEL TO ENGLAND'S NORTH-EAST COAST...

WON'T IT BE COLD UP THERE, UNDER CANVAS?

OF COURSE NOT—WE'LL FIND A SHELTERED SPOT. JUST THINK OF THAT LITTLE FISHING VILLAGE—PLENTY OF SEA FISHING.

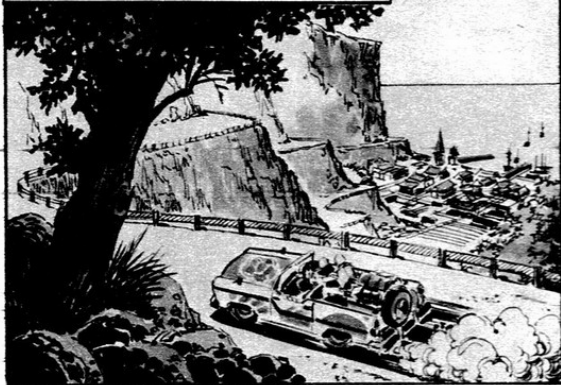

HOW BORING! WOULDN'T MIND A TRIP ON A TRAWLER, THOUGH...

RIGHT—FIRST STOP THE VILLAGE, MIKE. WE'LL ARRANGE IT!

NESTLING UNDER THE ROCKY CLIFFS IS THE ALMOST FORGOTTEN FISHING VILLAGE OF TRECANTH...

AS THEY DRIVE DOWN THE NARROW MAIN STREET TOWARDS THE HARBOUR...

LOOK OUT, MIKE...

GOODNESS, THAT POLICEMAN MUST BE TIRED OF LIVING!

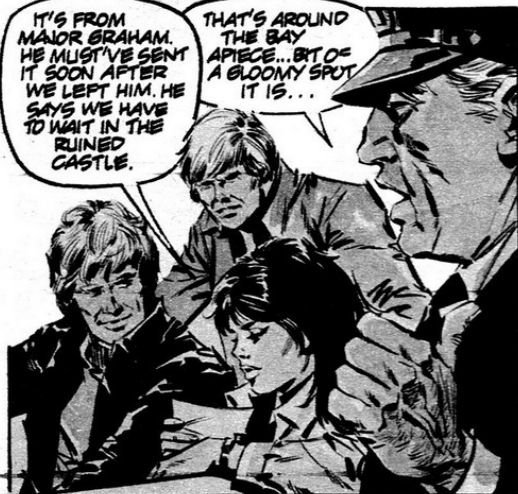

BY THE DESCRIPTION OF YOUR CAR, YOU MUST BE THE FREEWHEELERS. THIS TELEGRAM ARRIVED FOR YOU.

THANKS...

IT'S FROM MAJOR GRAHAM. HE MUST'VE SENT IT SOON AFTER WE LEFT HIM. HE SAYS WE HAVE TO WAIT IN THE RUINED CASTLE.

THAT'S AROUND THE BAY A PIECE... BIT OF A BLOOMY SPOT IT IS...

THE FREEWHEELERS DRIVE ON...

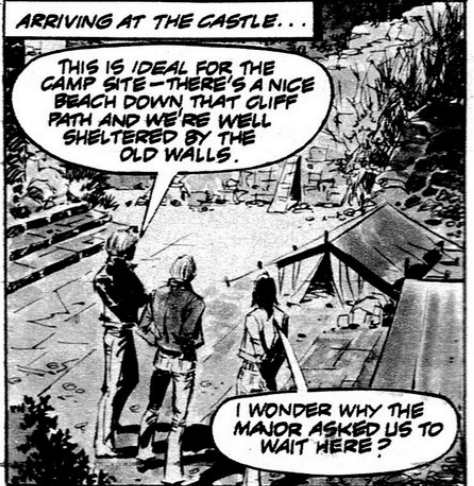

THERE IT IS! GOSH! IT'S A LONELY SPOT!

ARRIVING AT THE CASTLE...

THIS IS IDEAL FOR THE CAMP SITE—THERE'S A NICE BEACH DOWN THAT CLIFF PATH AND WE'RE WELL SHELTERED BY THE OLD WALLS.

I WONDER WHY THE MAJOR ASKED US TO WAIT HERE?

LATE AFTERNOON TURNS TO EVENING, AND AS THE SHADOWS LENGTHEN THEY HEAR A SPINE-CHILLING YELL...

THEN...

BRIGHT'S BOFFINS

GROUP CAPTAIN BRIGHT PREENS HIMSELF IN THE MIRROR...

TRA-LA... WHY WAS I BORN SO BEAUTIFUL...? DOGSEARS, IF I'M NOT THE SMARTEST, MOST HANDSOME CAPTAIN IN THE FORCES, I'LL EAT MY HAT...

ACE-MASTER OF DISGUISE, THUMPER ENTERS UNEXPECTEDLY...

COFFEE UP, SIR! GUESSED WHAT I'M SUPPOSED TO BE...?

WHOOOPS!

I ALREADY KNOW! YOU DAFT, DOZY DIMWIT...! JUST LOOK AT MY UNIFORM... IT'S RUINED!

S... SORRY, BOSS.

I'LL NEED A NEW CAP, TOO! GET ON TO MY OUTFITTER'S...

GLASS!

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO EAT THE OLD ONE? BOILED OR FRIED...?

ENEMY AGENTS, PANT AND WHEEZE FROM G.A.S.P., INTERCEPT THE CALL...

THIS IS THUMPER SPEAKING. SEND THE CAPTAIN'S REPLACEMENT HAT IMMEDIATELY...

LISTEN, WHEEZE! PERFECT FOR OUR PLANS! THAT BIG-HEAD, BRIGHT'S ABOUT TO BE 'BRAINED'...

LATER... LIGHTNING THE POST-MAN'S GOING TO COME UNSTUCK...

FIRST WE STAMP HIM OUT- THEN BRIGHT'S BOFFINS!

I'VE A SPECIAL ASSIGNMENT FOR CAPTAIN BRIGHT. AAAGH! SOMEONE'S TACKED THE TRACK...

I THINK HE'S GOT THE POINT!

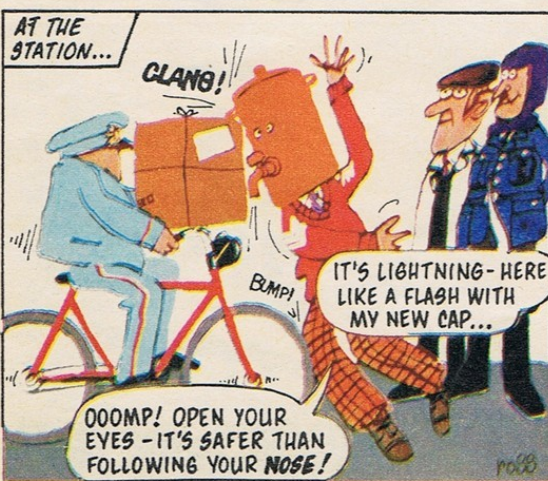

YOU TWO DID THAT! YOU CAN'T PULL THE WOOL OVER MY EYES...

OH, NO! WE'LL TRY YOUR HAT FOR EYE-SIZE! HURRY, WHEEZE...

IT'S IN POSITION. LET'S GO...

AT THE STATION...

CLANG!

IT'S LIGHTNING- HERE LIKE A FLASH WITH MY NEW CAP...

DOOMP! OPEN YOUR EYES - IT'S SAFER THAN FOLLOWING YOUR NOSE!

AHHH! NOT JUST BRIGHT BUT SHEER BRILLIANCE! NOW I'M ALL SET!

BRIGHT IS RIGHT!

CAPTAIN BRIGHT- YOU ARE NOW A G.A.S.P. AGENT. HERE IS YOUR FIRST MISSION...

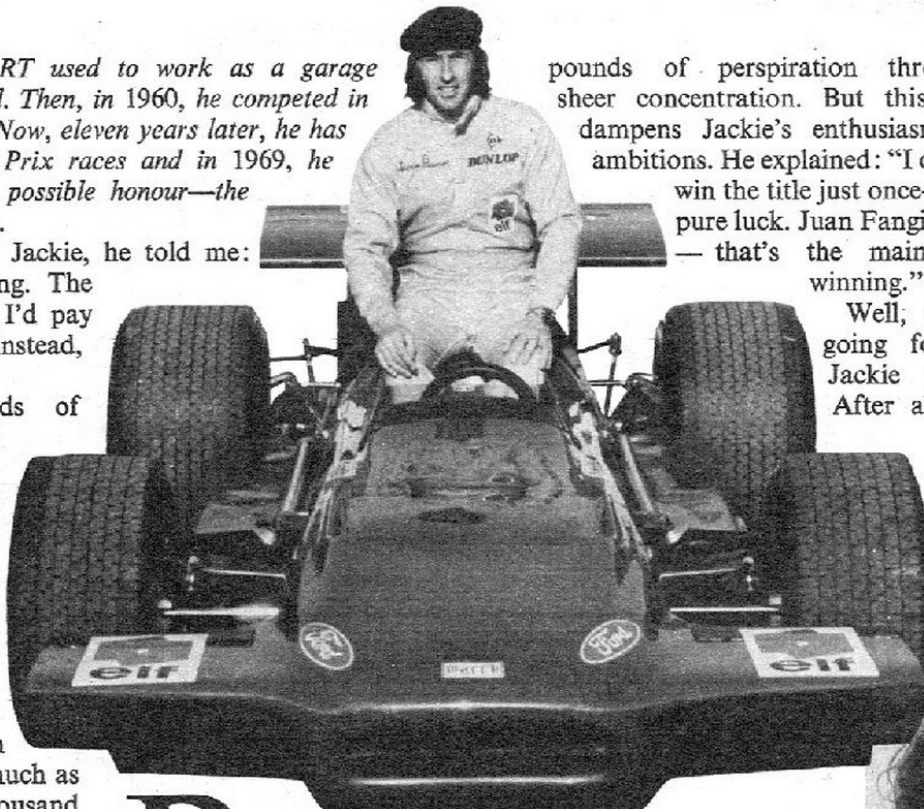

JACKIE STEWART used to work as a garage mechanic in Scotland. Then, in 1960, he competed in his first motor race. Now, eleven years later, he has won thirteen Grand Prix races and in 1969, he attained the highest possible honour—the World Championship.

When I spoke to Jackie, he told me: "I love motor racing. The funny thing is that I'd pay money to do it—but instead, they pay me!"

And the rewards of Formula One motor-racing are certainly great! Jackie lives in a beautiful villa set in six acres of plush parkland in Switzerland. He likes to swim in his own pool and he has a film star for a neighbour. But although Jackie can earn as much as one hundred thousand pounds a year, it is important to remember that his form of racing is fantastically hard work. In every race, Jackie loses four pounds of perspiration through sheer concentration. But this never dampens Jackie's enthusiasm or his ambitions. He explained: "I don't want to win the title just once—that could be pure luck. Juan Fangio won it five times — that's the main point — keep on winning."

Well; the way things are going for this 'race ace', Jackie will do just that. After all, with a first and a second place in two races this season, he is already at the top of the championship table with fifteen points!

The Balancing Match

Can you balance a match on a matchbox, as shown in the picture below? It really is very easy when you know the simple secret. You push a small drawing pin through the matchbox cover from the inside, so that the point projects very slightly. A tiny hole made in the end of the match will help when you 'balance' the match, by pushing it down over the point.

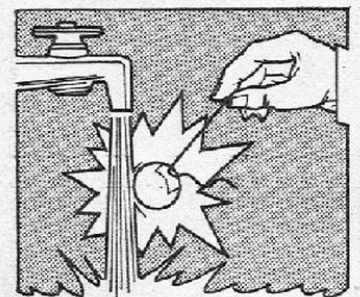

Teaser Time ★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★

Did you work out how to move three matches to make four squares, instead of five? The dotted lines in the picture show which matches you have to move to form the new square A on the left.

Magnetic Water

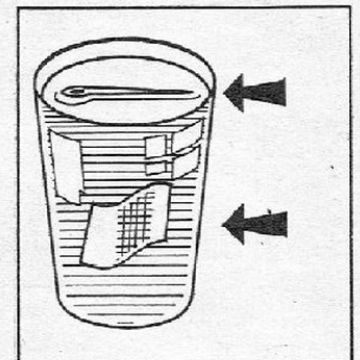

Did you know that water is magnetic? Here's an amusing stunt which seems to prove that it is. Attach a length of thin string to a ping-pong ball with a piece of plastic sticky tape. Then hold the ball against a running tap, as illustrated. The ball will cling to the stream of water just as if it were magnetised. That's what you call a trick to baffle science!

The Floating Needle

If you put a needle on a piece of blotting paper or tissue, and then gently drop the paper on to the surface of a glass of water, the paper will soon become saturated and sink, leaving the needle floating on the surface. Amazing, isn't it?

Here's an unusual kind of puzzle, known as a 'rebus'. Look at this picture of a parrot on a rather strange perch, and try to guess what famous saying or proverb it represents.

Good Luck to all
