My Dad's dynamite!
That's him decorating my bedroom with the latest Crown Vinyl.
Really ace colour pictures of the complete England Squad—
Kevin Keegan, Steve Coppell, Trevor Francis, Trevor Brooking, you name 'em and they're here against an all-action background.

Each England Squad roll is ready pasted, so it's a dead easy job for Dad. He says it's so good that he fancies it in their bedroom and maybe in the living room too. And Mum thinks he's only kidding.
Why not ask your Dad to look out for the Crown England Squad poster in your local wallpaper shops now.

Specially made for all England fans.

Howzat!

THE BENNY HILL PAGE

THEY CALLED HIM BUTTERCUP JIM, BECAUSE EVERY TIME HE PLAYED CRICKET, UP CAME THE BUTTERFLIES AND DOWN WENT HIS WICKET....

WHERE DID THAT ONE GO?

STRAIGHT THROUGH THE WICKET!

THAT WOULD HAVE GONE FOR SIX IF I HAD HIT IT!

THE SQUIRE BE WANTIN' A WORD WITH YOU, JIM!

TWO MORE DUCKS IN A ROW! HE'LL HAVE TO GO!

SQUIRE BE TELLIN' JIM THAT HE'LL BE DROPPIN' HIM!

I BAIN'T BE DROPPED AT ALL! SQUIRE BE SO PLEASED WITH MY BATTIN' THAT HE'S INVITED ME ROUND TO THE HALL!

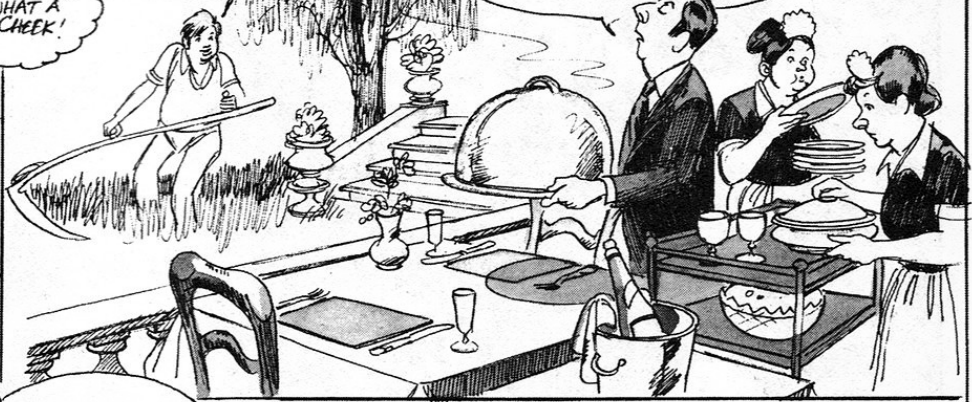

MY MOWER HAS PACKED IN! THE WAY YOU SCYTHE THROUGH THE DAISIES YOU'LL SOON CUT THE GRASS!

IT BAIN'T BE CRICKET! WHAT A CHEEK!

BE THAT FOR ME?

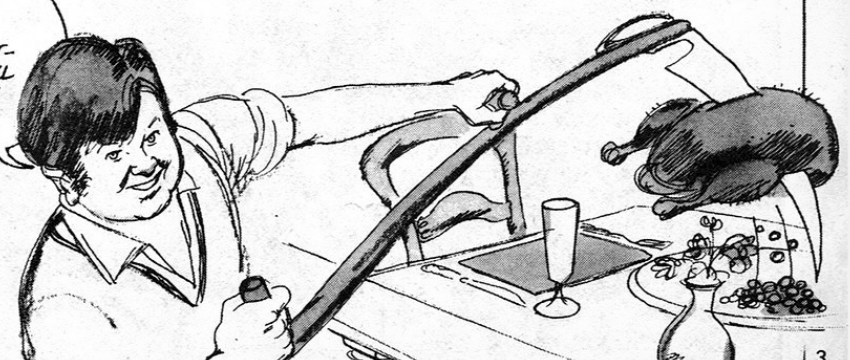

CERTAINLY NOT! WHILE THE SQUIRE IS LUNCHING I SUGGEST YOU HACK ROUND THE BACK!

COO, IT BE DUCK AND GREEN PEAS. WELL FANCY THAT!

THIS BAIN'T BE A CRICKET BAT - BUT I'VE STILL GOT A DUCK WITH IT!

ONE FOR SORROW...

So the time has come for Magpie to leave its twice-weekly nest and fly away forever (sob). It will be missed very much by millions of faithful fans who have watched it over the last twelve years, and you can read Look-in's farewell feature on pages 22 and 23. But what will replace it? There are all kinds of plans, including another magazine-style programme. Meanwhile, I'm sure the programme makers would, as usual, be interested to hear Look-in readers' views on the kind of show which you would like to see replace Magpie. What would you put on in its place? A £3.00 postal order and a Look-in Junior Reporter's Certificate to the senders of the best suggestions printed on my pages. Write to: After-Magpie Ideas, Look-in, 247 Tottenham Court Road, London W1P 0AU. I look forward to reading your letters.

Mick Robertson, Jenny Hanley and Tommy Boyd.

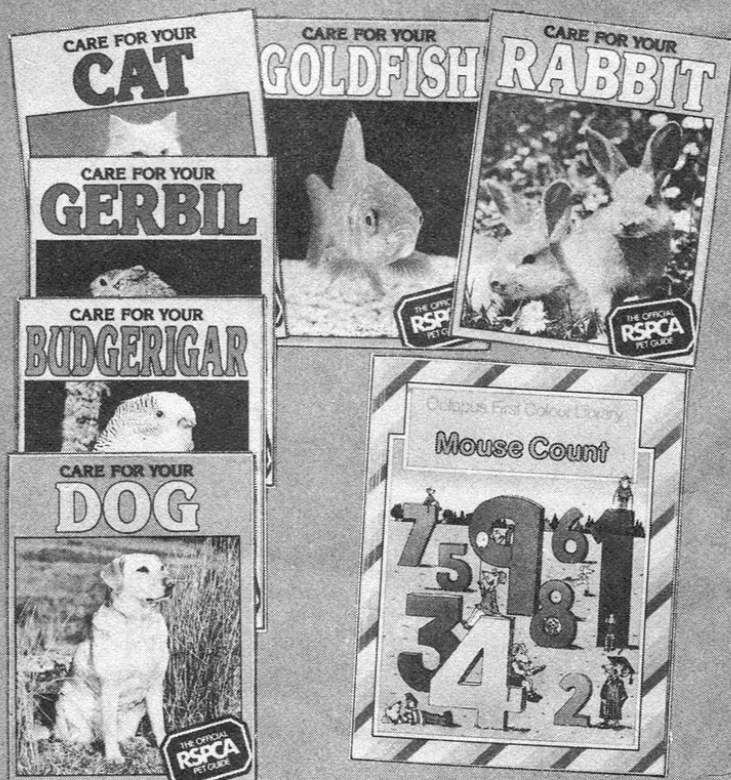

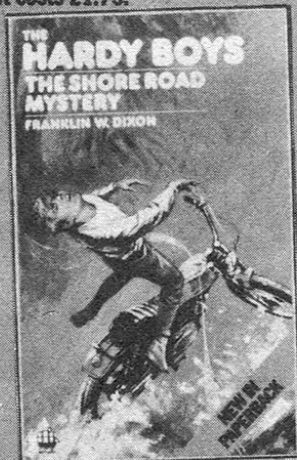

BOOKSHELF

If you have pets, or are thinking of acquiring a few, these Collins books are great sources of reference for how to look after them and keep them happy and healthy. They are The Official RSPCA Pet Guides and the animals covered by the Care For your... series are rabbits, goldfish, budgerigars, dogs, cats and gerbils. Each guide costs 95p.

The Shore Road Mystery is the Hardy Boys Adventure No. 17, by Franklin W. Dixon. It tells the story of Jack Dodd and his father who mysteriously disappear after being accused of a series of car thefts and Frank and Joe Hardy's attempts to prove their friends' innocence. Published by Armada it costs 75p.

Younger brothers and sisters could find that learning is fun with the Octopus First Colour Library. There are six titles in the series and this one, Mouse Count, by Felicia Law and Suzanne Chandler explains counting in very simple terms with the aid of a band of mice! Beautifully illustrated in colour by John Farman, and with a hardback cover, it costs £1.75.

Namesake

I am writing to tell you that my name is Richard Adams, the same as the author (above right) of Watership Down, Shardik and The Plague Dogs. I have read the book and seen the film of Watership Down but I have not yet read the other two.

Richard Adams (age 13), Redcar, Cleveland

HE'S FOREVER BLOWING BUBBLES..!

The young man in the picture is ten-year-old Andrew Ward from Sutton Coldfield, who appeared on ATV recently. He was there to receive a very special presentation: a Sony HMK II music centre, his prize as winner of the Bubble Yum competition that appeared in Look-in a few months ago. Presenter Stewart White indicates the size of the winning bubble blown by Andrew: a face-covering 41cm!

STAR SNAP

My name is Lee Brookes. I'm nine years old. This is a picture of me and my cousin Gary with the million pound footballer Andy Gray. It was taken in October 1978 in my home town. I'm the one in the Aston Villa hat and scarf.

There has recently been formed a fan club for the heavy rock band Rainbow (pictured above). Upon joining, members receive a membership card and official Rainbow Fan Club badge, and they also get the chance to buy, amongst other things, pens, keyrings, belts and t-shirts. The club is supported by lead guitarist Richie Blackmore and during the course of the year there will be competitions to enter. If you would like to obtain membership details, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Rainbow Fan Club, P.O. Box 7, Prescot, Merseyside, L35 4PP.

EUROPEAN CHAMPIONSHIP COUNTDOWN PART 2

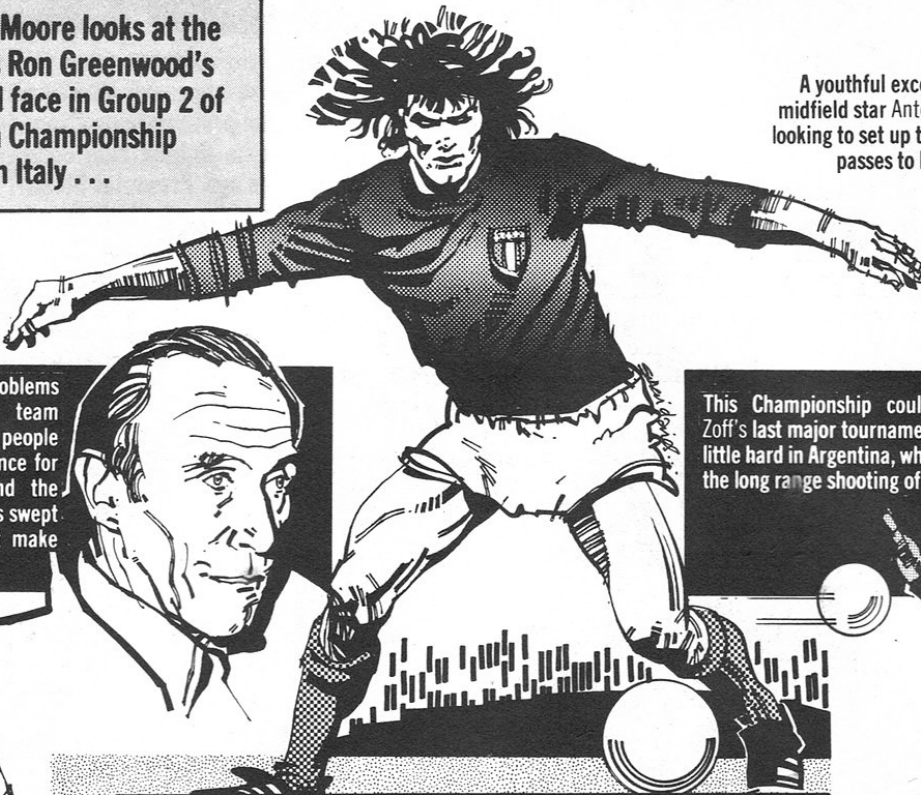

This week Brian Moore looks at the teams and stars Ron Greenwood's England men will face in Group 2 of the European Championship Finals in Italy . . .

A youthful exception in Italy's side is midfield star Antognoni (left), who will be looking to set up those devastating through passes to his side's strikers.

Enzo Bearzot has problems as Italy's national team manager. A lot of people don't like his preference for attacking soccer, and the bribery shock that has swept Italian football won't make his task any easier.

This Championship could be goalkeeper Dino Zoff's last major tournament. He found the going a little hard in Argentina, when he couldn't cope with the long range shooting of Holland.

Spain do have some useful players, especially Real Madrid's Juanito (above), a really speedy winger.

SPOTLIGHT ON GROUP 2

If the record of past European Championships, and indeed World Cups, is anything to go by, host nation Italy must be favourites to win the competition. Team manager Enzo Bearzot has stuck largely to the side that finished fourth in Argentina. A criticism of the present Italian side is that most of the players are getting a little past it. Keeper Zoff was in the side that last won the European Championship, and that was back in 1968. However, Bearzot is quick to defend his selection by retorting that he has no better alternatives, especially with the staggering news of the widespread bribery scandal that has hit Italian league soccer, and the controversy surrounding star striker Paolo Rossi. With the group fairly evenly poised between Italy and England, the country that finishes top of the group, to qualify for the final, may be the one that can pump most goals past Spain and Belgium and England look the better bet if that situation arises! Belgium could be a tough nut to crack, especially if veteran midfielder Wilfred Van Moer gets going. A sort of continental answer to Archie Gemmill, take Van Moer away and the side's effectiveness is greatly reduced. But look out for clever strikers Van Der Elst and Jan Ceulemans, who is good in the air.

★In this week's TVTimes, there's a special fact-packed European Championship colour supplement for you to enjoy. Don't miss your copy — it's on sale now, price 18p.

Spanish boss Lladislao Kubala (left) will be especially anxious for Spain to do well. His contract expires in June and he is keen to lead the national team to 1982 when Spain act as hosts for the World Cup. However, Spain will have to improve dramatically on their form of late if they are to make any impression.

England will have cause to remember Bettega (below), who headed Italy's second goal, when England were beaten in a World Cup qualifier in Rome, back in 1976.

STEWART'S STARCHART

START STOP

Jobs and professions will be very important when you finally leave school, and in case you don't know which one you want to take up when that time comes around, I've packed the Starchart with a number of suggestions this week. As usual there are clues to help you spot the answers, and, also as usual, if you work out all the clues and find all the answers you will be left with just one word... and if you tell me what it is (I don't need the completed square) you could win our weekly £3.00 postal order prize.

Once you've solved the clues you must find the answers in the chart. Do this by starting and stopping as indicated and linking up letters to form the words of the answers you need. You link up by moving in any direction except diagonally. That means you can go up, down, backwards or forwards in every word. You use every letter just once, including the prize answer.

Now here are your clues and, remember, every answer is a trade or profession. Each answer is one word except where indicated otherwise.

You might call him a bobby; this one deals with healing; this hospital worker could be a sister. This one drives a steam train; this one writes; this one might have charge of a newspaper. This one goes to fires; this one sails the seas; this one might work in Barclays (two words); this one drives for hire (two words).

Now look for one who might be a dispenser; this one writes novels; this one is a professional flier; this one works with a public transport driver (two words); this one digs coal; this one can fix electrical things; this one works with wood; and this one takes pictures.

Finally, this one works in school; this one is in the army; and this one operates a typewriter.

Get all that lot and you will have one left over — one who seems to be out to enjoy himself rather than work... although he could act in a game manner!

Send just that one word, on a postcard only, please, to Starchart, Look-in, 247 Tottenham Court Road, London W1P 0AU. The sender of the first correct entry pulled from the postbag will receive the £3.00 postal order prize.

Here are last week's answers

High; Dislike; Shallow; You; Quiet; Unload; Soft; Smooth; Double; Singular; Question; Unemployed; Black; Give; Light; New; Off; Walk; Early; First; Rich; Comé; She; From; Under; Unlucky; Better; Even; Yes; Unfair; Arrive.
Prize answer: Different.

150 PAIRS OF 'GUINNESS BOOKS' TO BE WON!

Did you know that the most dangerous flea in the world is the oriental rat flea which carries the deadly bubonic plague? Or that the most successful songwriter ever is Paul McCartney? You didn't? Well here's your chance to increase your knowledge of fascinating facts, because if you're one of the 150 lucky winners of this week's competition you will receive a set of the two Piccolo paperbacks from which this information was taken.

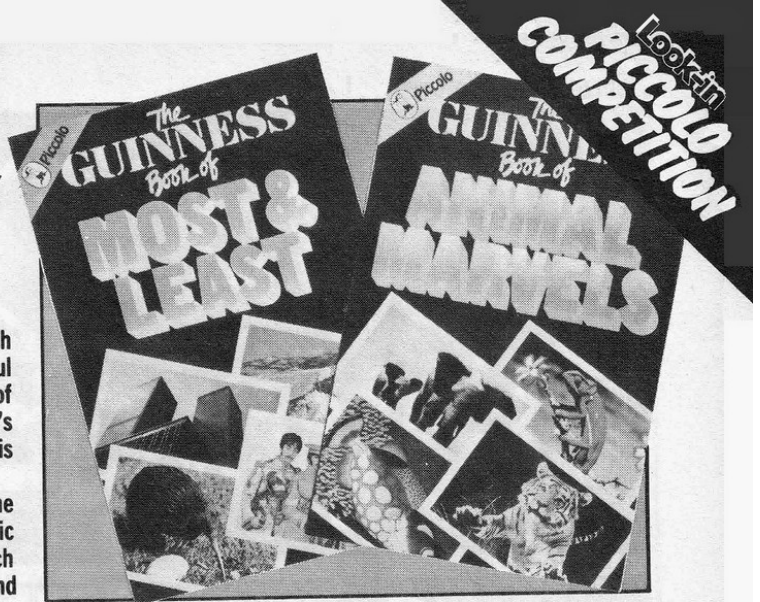

The first is The Guinness Book of Most & Least, a collection of stories about the largest, smallest, most and least in the worlds of nature, music, and prehistoric monsters, amongst others. The second is The Guinness Book of Animal Marvels which contains hundreds of incredible but true stories about snakes, whales, cats, dogs and fish — to name but a few!

WHAT YOU HAVE TO DO to enter our competition is to answer the questions on the right which are all based on facts from the two books on offer as prizes. To make it a little easier for you, we've printed three alternative answers to each question — all you have to do is pick out the correct one. When you think you've found all the answers, enter them (the words, please, not the letters) in the spaces provided on the coupon, add your name, address and age, and then send it, affixed firmly to a postcard only, please, to: Look-in Piccolo Books Competition, P.O. Box 141, London SE6 3HR. Your entry must arrive by Monday, 23rd June, 1980, and the senders of the first 150 all-correct entries will each receive a set of The Guinness Book of Most & Least and The Guinness Book of Animal Marvels.

A few weeks ago I gave you a recipe for the traditional Spanish dish paella, so this week let's move across to Italy where cannellini is a favourite. It's rapidly becoming popular in this country, too, and it consists of squares of pasta cooked in boiling salted water which are then rolled up and stuffed with a savoury filling and topped with a cheese sauce.

QUICK CANNELONI

(serves 4)

INGREDIENTS

1 medium-sized onion

1 medium-sized carrot

50g (2oz.) butter

450g (1lb.) raw minced beef

45ml (3 level tablespoons) tomato puree

1 bay leaf

pinch ground nutmeg

pinch mixed herbs

salt and pepper

225g (8oz.) lasagne squares

1 packet cheese sauce mix

(25g) 1 oz Parmesan cheese.

METHOD

Skin and chop the onion. Peel and grate the carrot. Melt 25g (1oz.) butter and fry the vegetables lightly for 10 minutes. Stir in the beef and fry for 10 minutes. Mix the tomato puree with 45ml (3 tablespoons) cold water, add half to the saucepan. Add the herbs and salt and pepper. Cover and simmer for 20 minutes. Place 2.3 litres (4 pints) of water into a large saucepan. Add 5ml (1 level teaspoon) salt and bring to the boil. Add the lasagne and cook for 20 minutes or until soft. Make up the cheese sauce mix according to the directions on the packet. When the lasagne is cooked, drain it. Place some meat mixture on each pasta square and roll up like a swiss roll. Grease an ovenproof dish and lay the rolls of pasta side by side in it. Pour over the cheese sauce. Pour the rest of the tomato mixture over the top. Sprinkle with a little Parmesan cheese. Place under a hot grill until golden brown.

STAR BREATHHER!

To every young girl working hard at dance classes and learning music, the story of Kate Bush's rise to fame must seem like the ultimate fairy story. Few may look as striking as Kate, and it's unlikely that many have her incredible vocal range, but her rise to acclaim gives us all a model to aspire to — showing just how much sheer hard work is involved in reaching the top.

THE story of the discovery of Kate as a 16-year-old vocal phenomenon would inspire anyone who dreams of making the big-time as a star...

While she undoubtedly was showing enormous musical talent and self-taught musical flair by the age of 10, Kate had never attended a dance class until she was about 16. Her unusual stage act has evolved, combining voice, movement and mime imaginatively, but the effect was something she worked hard to create.

Kate first took classes at the Dance Centre in London's Covent Garden. Although she stood alongside similar novices, some of them had such a fluid style and technique that, Kate says, "It was really awful during the first few weeks. So many people were so much better than I was, and I had to work really hard." But who can deny that Kate's dedication paid off?

When you see the spectacular-looking Kate Bush on stage, or look at the pictures of her on album covers, it's hard to imagine that she could ever look anything other than perfect. Does she ever feel that she has to look wonderful all the time?

"Just like everyone else, I look a little tired sometimes — especially after a long, late rehearsal. But I'm sure that people understand, and realise I'm only human."

When someone is as distinctive as Kate, does she ever get tired of being recognised by people in the street?

She answers, "Of course I don't mind. Why should I? I think it's really nice — these are the people who have gone out and bought my records and who have helped to put my music in the charts. I'm very grateful to them.

"I think it's my hair that gives me away really. But sometimes I tuck it up under a hat, and go out on my bicycle, and no-one knows it's me."

Until Kate Bush arrived on the music scene, it had been a long time since any musically talented British lady had made any great waves. Probably not since Dusty Springfield in the Sixties had a girl singer made such an impact. In fact, in 1978, when Dusty made a rare visit to Britain after long exile in America, Kate's single Wuthering Heights had just been released. Dusty was one of the first to tip Kate for a lasting career, saying that her voice was exceptional. And, from a singer like Dusty, that was praise indeed.

Kate is still only 20 and many feel we've only just scratched the surface of her talent.

She was lucky enough to have been born into a family who loved music and whose musical tastes were many and varied. By the time she was 11, she had actually taught herself to play piano, and had even written her first songs.

Through her songs, Kate is developing into one of the most inspirational poets of her generation, and her mature lyrics draw on the emotional ups and downs of life. She wrote The Man With The Child In His Eyes when she was just entering her teens, and the lyrics printed in her albums give you an opportunity to appreciate fully what she is saying.

When she was 16, »»» to p. 38

Kate with a bizarre backing group!

»» from p.15 she met David Gilmour, guitarist and singer with Pink Floyd, who was most impressed with her songs and her style. On her first album, she paid special tribute to him: "Much thanks and love to David Gilmour for 'rolling the ball' in the beginning

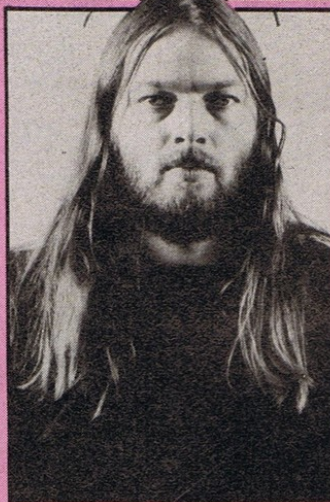

Under Gilmour's guidance, Kate produced a demo tape with Andrew Powell at Air Studios. That demo soon brought the interest of one of the most prestigious record companies in the country — EMI. They were quick to see Kate's potential and signed her for a recording contract, something which they obviously weren't going to regret.

Such was EMI's faith in Kate that they kept her under contract and paid her a retainer, encouraging her to develop her writing and expand her musical ideas. During those two years, she left school, and started to learn how to dance, knowing that the skill could add another dimension to her songs on stage.

She studied with many teachers, including the famous master of mime and dance, Lindsay Kemp. From him, she learned many aspects of visual communication and movement which she now relates to her own work. Kate has developed a way of incorporating music, poetry and movement so that you can relate to her songs on more than one level.

In 1978, EMI decided that the time was right and, at last, the world was ready for Kate Bush. They released her memorable Wuthering Heights — Emily Brontë's beautiful, moody love story about Heathcliff and Cathy which had inspired Kate as a child.

That single stayed in the Top Twenty for several weeks, and charted high in Europe as well as Japan, Australia, Canada and South Africa. That year, she earned the title Best Female Singer/Best New Artist and collected many other awards including the Tokyo Music Festival Silver Prize and the coveted Dutch Edison Award.

With the impact of Wuthering

Heights, Kate's future looked guaranteed, and her debut album, The Kick Inside, was released. This collection of her own highly original compositions not only illustrated her unusual vocal range, but also the wide emotional and intuitive range of her poetry and her interpretation of music.

Her second single, The Man With The Child In His Eyes, must surely be one of the most beautiful ballads ever written. Her second album, Lionheart (which she helped to produce), was received by ecstatic music-press reviews, going into the album chart the first week of issue, eventually going gold.

For someone as young as Kate to play the London Palladium was quite an accolade and a tribute to the mark she had so quickly made in music. The unusual stage presentation was something which had never been attempted before, and the dramatic costume changes added to the overall visual effect.

Kate is renowned as being one of the hardest-working people in the music business and has been putting in 18 hours a day on her new album. (Her third album is due out this month.)

Her most interesting project to date is her latest single, the thought-provoking Breathing with its spine-chilling lyrics written around the theme of our age — pollution. The production is certainly interesting, incorporating the use of synthesiser techniques to create a most original and eerie effect.

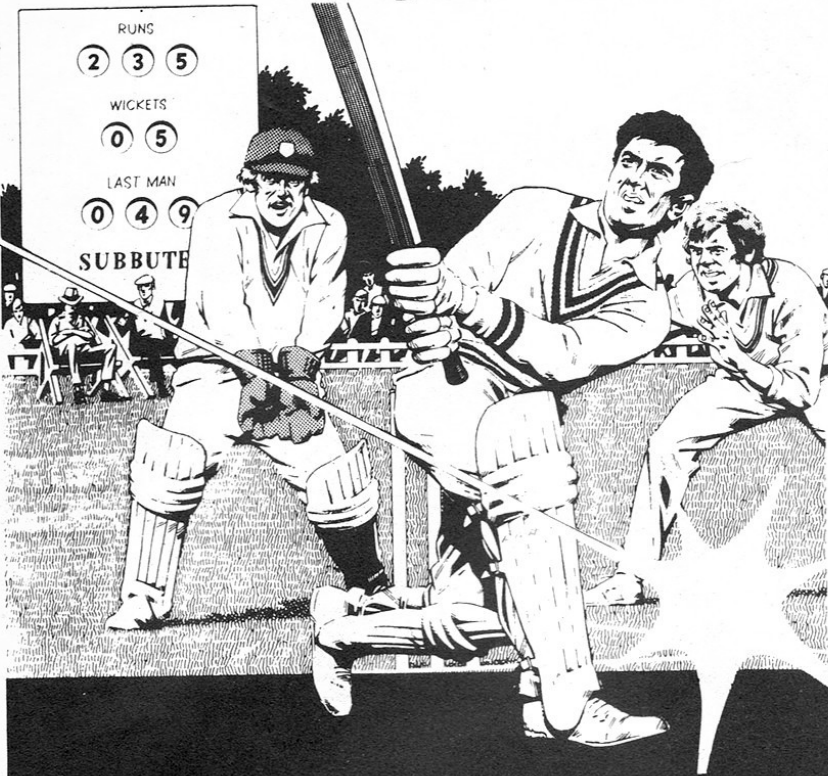

The music world awaits Kate's new album with great anticipation — an album which, on the strength of Breathing promises to be more interesting than even the last.

In four years, Kate Bush has gone from schoolgirl with talent to successful recording artist with phenomenal ability. And there's no doubt about it — we can still look forward to much, much more from this decade's most exceptional lady of music.

Find out next week in a new story.

1968-71: Tony Bastable, Susan Stranks and Pete Brady.

1971-72: Tony, Susan and Doug Rae.

This Friday (6th June) we say a fond farewell to Thames Television's Magpie, the magazine programme that has graced our screens for twelve years. Let's take a look back at some of the happiest, funniest and most hair-raising moments that made it one of the most popular children's shows in the history of television...

The first team of Magpie presenters consisted of TONY BASTABLE, PETE BRADY and SUSAN STRANKS, who spent three years together visiting such far-away places as the Philippines, Hong Kong, Bavaria, New York and Holland.

Tony has fond memories of his time with the programme, as he told Look-in's Terry Tatnell recently:

"I'm very sad that Magpie is finishing because I spent such a long time doing it and because, in a way, it's become an institution. But everything has its season and Magpie has certainly had a good run for its money."

"When we started it was technically very challenging and we got up to all kinds of things. I did the world's first underwater broadcast and I didn't discover until I did one feature that I suffered from vertigo (a fear of heights). I had to climb up a ship's mast and I'm afraid I froze half way up.

"Once we had a fully-grown puma in the studio and it behaved itself admirably all through the item. But when the credits came up it took a swipe at Susan and missed her by about half an inch."

"Another time one of the Magpie researchers, in fact the lady I eventually married, went to see some lion cubs as a possible item for the programme. She reported that they were about the size of large domestic cats. The item, however, was cancelled and it wasn't until some weeks later that it was decided that they should appear. A small pen had been built for them but when they arrived they had grown to about the size of small domestic horses!"

We had a very difficult time trying to restrain them!"

No doubt Pete still has nightmares about the time he was a target with only a plate of toughened glass between himself and a hail of bullets.

And Sue must remember the first-ever Magpie with a bit of a shudder. She was flying in a balloon which exploded as she landed. On another occasion she dived with death as a trials driver!

Puff the Magpie pony was the fourth member of the team in those days and at one time they all went to Calgary in Canada where Puff was presented with a rosette almost as big as himself for being the best-looking horse at a rodeo. Whilst they were there Doug took the opportunity

1974-77: Mick, Jenny Hanley and Doug.

1977-80: Tommy Boyd, Jenny and Mick

of going up into the Rocky Mountains to have a go at one of the Canadian Youth Cadets' assault courses — climbing up ropes, rock faces and narrowly missing a fall into the river! But his most dangerous moment was when he fell over 15 metres (50 feet) down an ice-face in Scotland, to be saved in the nick of time by his safety rope.

A year later Tony dropped out of the team to be replaced by MICK ROBERTSON, who has, of course, lasted up to the present-day through a safari in Kenya, a hotel blaze in Arizona and a journey through Peru, amongst other things. And in 1974 JENNY HANLEY took over from Sue.

In Jenny's first nine months with the show she had to do everything from washing a baby elephant ("Baby? It was enormous!" she says) to racing a windowless, roofless, doorless auto-cross car and riding a wild horse bareback across country through floodwater in the swamps of Southern France!

In 1977 TOMMY BOYD stepped into Doug's shoes — and promptly got wet! He was in Holland and joined some floating dustmen on their barge. He took the enormous punt pole, got stuck on the end of it and finished up in the canal.

Magpie has also been famous for its many charity appeals and year after year they have smashed their own records.

One of the first appeals was for sixpences (in pre-decimalisation days) and the target was 100,000 of them. But within just ten days the target had been passed and the grand total amounted to 300,000 sixpences — over £7,500. This bought much-needed equipment for mentally-handicapped children throughout the country, including two minibuses.

Two years later, Magpie viewers raised over £77,000 for children suffering from the crippling disease Spina Bifida and in 1979 more than £100,000 was handed over to the National Deaf-Blind Helpers League.

Another important feature of the programme has, of course, been the many animals who have guested. One visitor who is best forgotten was a young wolf brought along by animal expert Martin Lacey. Nobody realised until it was too late that the wolf had ripped Martin's arm from elbow to wrist just before they went on air. But, as always, the show went on!

Until now, that is. But don't despair, there are some great new programmes to replace Magpie. During the school holidays there will be a show especially devoted to spare-time activities with ideas for how to fill your days. One of the Magpie spots will be filled with a new magazine-type programme which will be run like a club, and the other will be filled with a show which will be giving a lively introduction to how everyday things work.

In 1976 this baby elephant collected some money bags for that year's Magpie Appeal.

Doug, Mick and Jenny used the local transport in Egypt.

Below: Mick's 1973 safari in Kenya.

Left: In 1971 a heart-felt cry was sent out to Magpie viewers for any information concerning a lost dog, Cato. The alsatian's best friend, Minnie the elephant, was missing him and this was the result: a happy re-union.

Jenny makes friends with the llamas in Peru.

Battlestar GALACTICA™

CRIPPLED AND OUT OF CONTACT, THE FREIGHTER ORESTES, WITH CAPTAIN APOLLO'S SCRATCH CREW AND FORTY-TWO QUARANTINED CHILDREN ABOARD, HAS STRAYED FAR FROM BATTLESTAR GALACTICA'S CONVOY. HIS VIPERS HAVING DRIVEN OFF A PUNISHING CYLON ATTACK, COMMANDER ADAMA BELIEVES THE ORESTES TO HAVE BEEN VAPORISED IN THE BATTLE...

YOUR SON... MY BROTHER. WE'LL ALWAYS HOLD ONTO HIS MEMORY...

MAINTAIN FORMATION, WE GO ON — REGARDLESS. WHATEVER THE COST, WE HAVE TO FIND A NEW HOME...

IF WE EVER ESTABLISH ANOTHER COLONY, WE'LL NAME IT AFTER HIM, ATHENA...

APOLLO WOULDN'T WANT YOU TO GRIEVE, FATHER...

MEANWHILE, ON ORESTES, ATTEMPTS AT CIRCUIT REPAIRS PROVE DISCOURAGING...

ALL WE'VE MANAGED TO GET WORKING AGAIN IS THE LONG-RANGE VIDEO EQUIPMENT, CAPTAIN.

THEN...

HEY! SOMETHING'S COME UP ON THAT SCANNER — AND I SURE DON'T LIKE THE LOOK OF IT!

MUCH USE THAT IS! KEEP TRYING. I KNOW YOU'RE ALL DOING YOUR BEST...

OH, NO! WE'VE MADE AN ELLIPTICAL COURSE! THAT'S THE CYLON MOTHERSHIP!

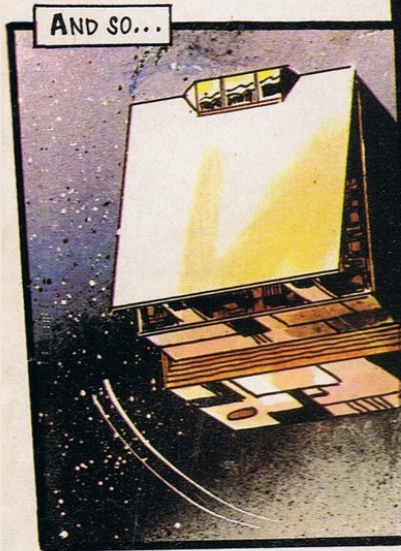

YE GODS! WE'RE FINISHED, FOR SURE!

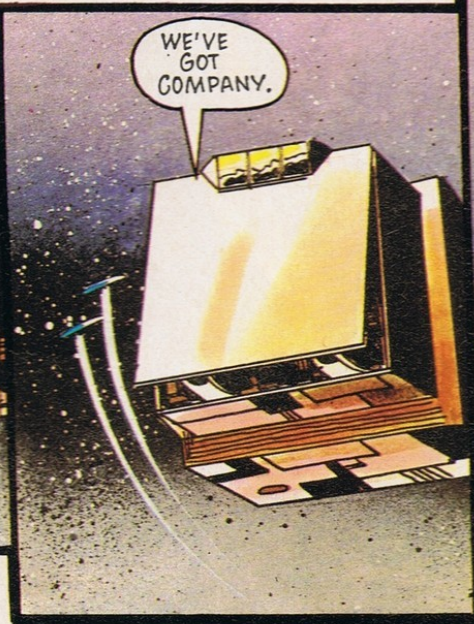

ENEMY COMMAND SPOTS THE WANDERER. NOW CYLON CENTURIONS REPORT TO THE IMPERIOUS LEADER!

IT IS AT OUR MERCY, MIGHTY ONE! DO WE DESTROY...?

NO. LET IT BE CAPTURED. IT MAY BE THAT I CAN FIND SOME USE FOR THE MISERABLE HUMANS WITHIN!

AND SO...

WE'VE GOT COMPANY.

I SEE THEM. WE CAN'T RESIST. NOT HERE. IT'D BE SUICIDE...

INSTINCTIVELY, MORK USES HIS ORKAN POWERS!

BUT AS THE CAR RETURNS TO TERRA FIRMA...

SUDDENLY...

IT IS? I DON'T SEE IT! EXPLAIN YOURSELF, MINDY!

GOOD GRIEF!

MINDY SWITCHES OFF THE IGNITION AND BRINGS THE VEHICLE TO A HALT.....

COME ON! WE'VE GOT TO SCRAM BEFORE MCGURK AND HIS FREAKS CATCH US UP!

ARE WE BEING FOLLOWED BY A TRAVELLING CIRCUS, THEN? I MUST ADMIT, I FEEL AS THOUGH I'VE BEEN ASLEEP!

THIS WAY!

PLEASE! I WOULD LIKE TO SEE SOME FREAKS! IT WOULD BE MOST INTERESTING TO TELL ORSON, MY CONTROL!

THE 'FREAKS' ARE HAVING THEIR OWN PROBLEMS.....

GET OUT OF THE WAY, YOU FOOL! WE'RE AFTER ALIENS WHO MAY DESTROY THE EARTH!

DON'T THREATEN ME, GNOME-FACE! ALL I KNOW IS I HAD A HALLUCINATION ABOUT A CAR JUMPIN' MY LORRY!

DON'T WORRY, MR. MCGURK! YOUR MESSAGE OVER THE CITIZEN BAND RADIO WILL HAVE ALERTED THE POLICE!

THEY'RE PROBABLY GUNNING DOWN THE SPACE-INVADERS RIGHT NOW!

THEY MEET THE POLICE IN DUE COURSE.....

SO YOU'RE THE GUY WHO SCARED THE LIFE OUT OF US WITH TALES OF MONSTERS FROM MARS!

UH - WE FOUND OUR STOLEN CAR A WHILE BACK. AND IT WASN'T MARS ACTUALLY IT WAS ORK.....

ORK! I OUGHT TO BUST YOUR BRAINS! WHOEVER HEARD OF ANYWHERE CALLED ORK?

IT'S WHAT HE SAID...

TELEVISION NEWS COVERS THE EVENT.....

I FEEL SORRY FOR MR MCGURK AND HIS PEOPLE, MINDY. EVEN THOUGH THEY TIED ME UP.

THEY'LL SURVIVE PROBABLY SELL THEIR STORY TO A NEWSPAPER AND MAKE A LOT OF MONEY. HAVE YOU LEARNED ANYTHING FROM ALL THIS?

YES NEVER TO JUMP A LORRY WITHOUT A SEAT-BELT. MY HEAD STILL HURTS!

An hilarious new adventure for Mork and Mindy starts next week.

Here's a super new package of summer fun, with lots of puzzles and jokes, stories, features and colour pin-ups! You can Meet The Smurfs in their own special picture strip, read about Madame Tussaud's, discover the secrets of our summer weather, settle down with our brand-new Worzel Gummidge story, find out how to be crafty with nature and celebrate 150 years of steam railways. Watch out, too, for Blondie, The Pretenders, The Tourists and the sequel to Star Wars, The Empire Strikes Back. It's all there, with much more besides!

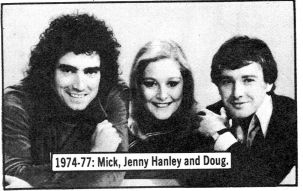

1968-71: Tony Bastable, Susan Stranks and Pete Brady.

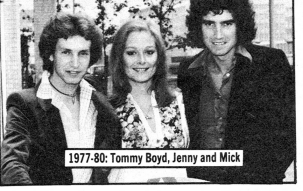

1971-72: Tony, Susan and Doug Rae.

1972-74: Doug, Susan and Mick Robertson.

1974-77: Mick, Jenny Hanley and Doug.

1977-80: Tommy Boyd, Jenny and Mick

This Friday (6th June) we say a fond farewell to Thames Television's Magpie, the magazine programme that has graced our screens for twelve years. Let's take a look back at some of the happiest, funniest and most hair-raising moments that made it one of the most popular children's shows in the history of television...

The first team of Magpie presenters consisted of TONY BASTABLE, PETE BRADY and SUSAN STRANKS, who spent three years together visiting such far-away places as the Philippines, Hong Kong, Bavaria, New York and Holland.

Tony has fond memories of his time with the programme, as he told Look-in's Terry Tatnell recently:

"I'm very sad that Magpie is finishing because I spent such a long time doing it and because, in a way, it's become an institution. But everything has its season and Magpie has certainly had a good run for its money."

"When we started it was technically very challenging and we got up to all kinds of things. I did the world's first underwater broadcast and I didn't

"Once we had a fully-grown puma in the studio and it behaved itself admirably all through the item. But when the credits came up it took a swipe at Susan and missed her by about half an inch."

"Another time one of the Magpie researchers, in fact the lady I eventually married, went to see some lion cubs as a possible item for the programme. She reported that they were about the size of large domestic cats. The item, however, was cancelled and it wasn't until some weeks later that it was decided that they should appear. A small pen had been built for them but when they arrived they had grown to about the size of small domestic horses!"

"We had a very difficult time trying to restrain them!"

No doubt Pete still has nightmares about the time he was a target with only a plate of toughened glass between himself and a hail of bullets.

And Sue must remember the first-ever Magpie with a bit of a shudder. She was flying in a balloon which exploded as she landed. On another occasion she died with death as a trials driver!

Puff the Magpie pony was the fourth member of the team in those days and at one time they all went to Calgary in Canada where Puff was presented with a rosette almost as big as himself for being the best-looking horse at a rodeo. Whilst they were there Doug took the opportunity of going up into the Rocky Mountains to have a go at one of the Canadian Youth Cadets' assault courses — climbing up ropes, rock faces and narrowly missing a fall into the river! But his most dangerous moment was when he fell over 15 metres (50 feet) down an ice-face in Scotland, to be saved in the nick of time by his safety rope.

A year later Tony dropped out of the team to be replaced by MICK ROBERTSON, who has, of course, lasted up to the present-day through a safari in Kenya, a hotel blaze in Arizona and a journey through Peru, amongst other things. And in 1974 JENNY HANLEY took over from Sue.

In Jenny's first nine months with the show she had to do everything from washing a baby elephant ("Baby? It was enormous!" she says) to racing a windowless, roofless, doorless auto-cross car and riding a wild horse bareback across country through floodwater in the swamps of Southern France!

In 1977 TOMMY BOYD stepped into Doug's shoes — and promptly got wet! He was in Holland and joined some floating dustmen on their barge. He took the enormous punt pole, got stuck on the end of it and finished up in the canal.

Magpie has also been famous for its many charity appeals and year after year they have smashed their own records.

One of the first appeals was for sixpences (in pre-decimalisation days) and the target was ten days the target had been passed and the grand total amounted to 300,000 sixpences — over £7,500. This bought much-needed equipment for mentally-handicapped children throughout the country, including two minibuses.

Two years later, Magpie viewers raised over £77,000 for children suffering from the crippling disease Spina Bifida and in 1979 more than £100,000 was handed over to the National Deaf-Blind Helpers League.

Another important feature of the programme has, of course, been the many animals who have guested. One visitor who is best forgotten was a young wolf brought along by animal expert Martin Lacey. Nobody realised until it was too late that the wolf had ripped Martin's arm from elbow to wrist just before they went on air. But, as always, the show went on!

Until now, that is. But don't despair, there are some great new programmes to replace Magpie. During the school holidays there will be a show especially devoted to spare-time activities with ideas for how to fill your days. One of the Magpie spots will be filled with a new magazine-type programme which will be run like a club, and the other will be filled with a show which will be giving a lively introduction to how everyday things work.

The two minibuses bought with money raised by Magpie viewers for mentally-handicapped children.

In 1976 this baby elephant collected some money bags for that year's Magpie Appeal.

Doug, Mick and Jenny used the local transport in Egypt.

Left: In 1971 a heart-felt cry was sent out to Magpie viewers for any information concerning a lost dog, Cato. The alsatian's best friend, Minnie the elephant, was missing him and this was the result: a happy re-union.
