THE buckets of water are full, the flans are piled deep in the Flinger's lair, and the Cage is silently awaiting to ensnare its first willing (!) victims. Yes, it can only mean one thing — Tiswas is back to take TV screens to the cleaners every Saturday morning (more details of the new series are on page 22).

And Tiswas is now in Look-in, too. Or should we say two, because every week as you turn over from the front cover you'll be able to find Chris Tarrant and co. right here on their very own printed page.

Don't be too frightened, though. The Tiswas team promise that there isn't a fiendishly new improved Flan waiting to spring at you as you turn to the ColourCentre feature; and you can rest assured that there will not be a spray of water greeting you as you flick over to Stewpot's Newsdesk.

It'll be good, clean fun every week (well, almost, anyway!) — and you can play your part, too. We want you to get involved in the fun and games of Tiswas On Two — so let's get down to business . . .

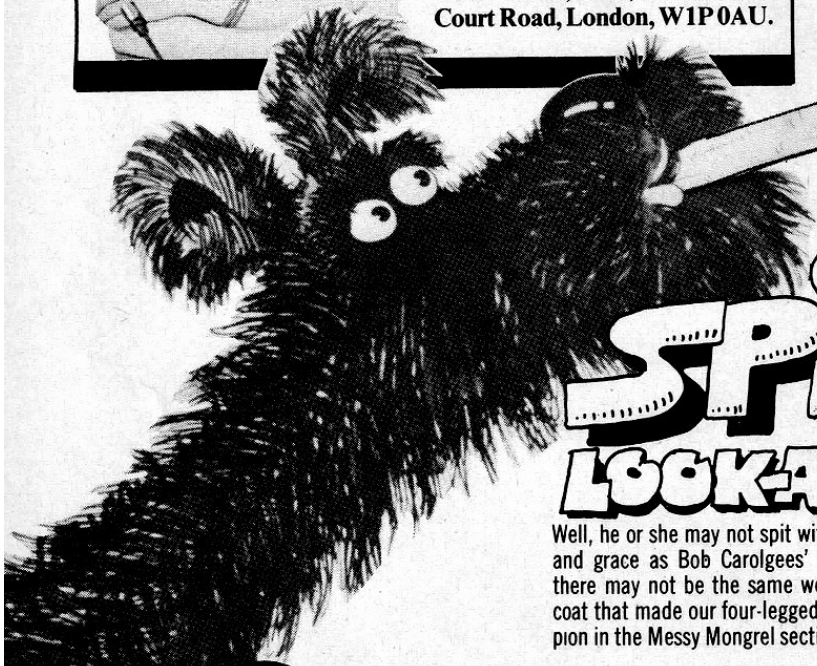

Dear reader, we are proud to announce a section of Tiswas On Two dedicated to the intellect, and the furtherment of human knowledge and love of mankind — Folk Flanning! If you have any folks (that is, parents, brothers, sisters, friends, etc.) that you'd like to see flanned — just as Sally is taking it in the face right here — then send in good mug shots of your intended victim, and we'll get the Phantom Flan Finger to deliver the goods.

Alternatively, if you actually have any pictures of your folks after having been flanned by a flan-flinging member of your family, then send those in, too.

The address? Look-in, Flan Your Folks, 247, Tottenham Court Road, London, W1P 0AU.

Bernie Winters with 'look-alike' Schnorbitz?

SPIT LOOK-ALIKE

Well, he or she may not spit with quite the same style and grace as Bob Carolgees' legendary canine, and there may not be the same well-groomed and glossy coat that made our four-legged hero the Crufts Champion in the Messy Mongrel section.

But we just know that there are a whole growling nation-full of Spit look-alikes waiting for their chance to become famous, and move on from the lesser heights of 'christening' the local lamp-post.

If you have a doggy that looks like Spit, then send his picture to: Spit Look-Alike, Look-in, 247, Tottenham Court Road, London, W1P 0AU.

By the way, they tried to convince us that Schnorbitz, who co-stars with Bernie Winters (above) on The Big Top Variety Show, was a Spit Look-Alike. We were fooled into thinking that maybe Spit had grown a little over the summer break.

Oh well, back to the drawing-board!

Cousin Sid is spell-bound!

COMPETITION WINNERS

Here are some more of the winners of our major competitions. Unfortunately, there won't be enough room every week to publish the name of every runner-up or of the winners of our smaller competitions, but rest assured that if you are a winner of a competition in Look-in you will be notified and your prize will be sent to you. If you see your name here and you haven't received your prize within a few weeks please get in touch with us. There'll be more winners soon.

START STOP

You must have heard of the fruit and nut case? If you happen to be one then you will have no trouble finding all the fruits and nuts in this week's Starchart, and then — more important — finding the odd one out. Because if you find that prize answer and send it to me (I don't need the completed square) you might win our £3 postal order prize.

Once you have solved the clues you find the words in the chart by linking letters together. You start and stop as indicated and link letters in any direction except diagonally: that means you can go up, down, backwards or forwards in every word. You must use every letter just once — including the prize answer.

Now for your clues — and remember that the answers are always fruits and nuts of a kind. Let's start with a few jumbles; all you have to do here is to unjumble the letters. For example, the first one is No arc, and you'd unjumble that to find Acorn. Now do these yourselves: Old man, Rip coat; Gaper; Part Figure; Melon; Mile; Cheap; Reap; Pea to manger; Argentine.

Now add in a few nuts . . . one sounds like a country in South America; one you win at fairs; one is a girl's name; one sounds like it comes from a wall! Now look for two fruits beginning with black. What is a Russet?; what does a monkey traditionally love? (it needs 'unzipping'); stone fruit that's a girl's name; this sounds like an appointment to meet somebody; this is green, full of tiny pips and comes from a palm; Jack Horner got one of these on his thumb; this is also a rude noise.

Now if you've got all that lot you'll find there are two words left over; it grows on a tree, isn't nice to eat, and sounds like it has something to do with a side-walking shellfish. Send me just those two words and you could be a winner. Your entry should be on a postcard only, and addressed to: Starchart, Look-in, 247 Tottenham Court Road, London, W1P 0AU. The sender of the first correct entry pulled from the postbag will receive the prize.

Here are last week's answers

Use It Up And Wear It Out; Xanadu; Babooshka; Could You Be Loved; More Than I Can Say; Cupid; Emotional Rescue; There, There, My Dear; Waterfalls; Upside Down; Jump To the Beat; Let's Hang On Crying; Paint It Black. Prize answer: Lipps Inc.

SUPER ANGLING SMURF (above) is a dab hand with rod and line but even he admits that the Australian fisherman Archer Davidson has him beaten. Way back in 1910, at a place called Twofold Bay in New South Wales, Archer caught a gigantic blue whale nearly 30 metres (97 feet) in length — with a hand harpoon! Mind you, the record for a fish caught on rod and line is held by Alf Dean, who hooked a 1,208 kg (2,664lb), 5.1 metres (16'10") great white shark at Denial Bay, near Ceduna, also in Australia. That was in 1959. Smurfs just aren't in the same league. Goldfish are giants to them!

WE ALL KNOW that the Smurfs are international favourites, but — surprise, surprise — they've got themselves fans behind the Iron Curtain. Recently, National Benzole received a letter asking for Smurf information from a chap called Moje Andresa, who lives in Prague, Czechoslovakia. Looks like we're going to need an 'Ambassador Smurf', doesn't it?!

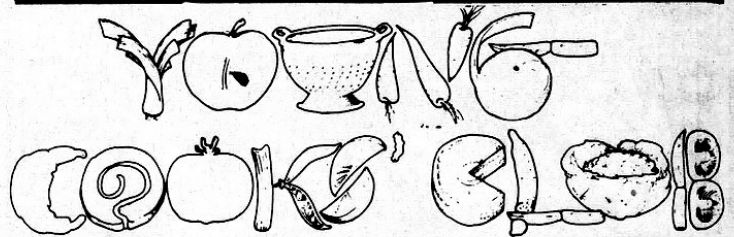

DISASTER LOOMED for Morag McKinnon, of Haddington, Lothian, Scotland, who wrote to say that she'd split her sides laughing at the Meet The Smurfs picture strip in Look-in. We'd send First Aid Smurf to look after you, Morag — but doctoring a split side is a bit beyond him!

BEING SMURFALISED is something you don't grow out of. You want proof? Then take a look at the picture above of the Smurfs Bowling Team, as they call themselves, from Coventry. Not exactly infants, are they?!

DON'T FORGET that the address to write to What's Smurfing...? is: 2nd Floor, 20/22 Mortimer Street, London W1. Carry on Smurfing!

Harvest Time

September is the time for harvest and for some of you this probably means a Festival service in church where the congregation donates gifts of food, especially fruit and vegetables, to be distributed to various charities. But did you know that many years ago, before mechanised equipment was used, the farmer and his helpers had to reap all the corn by hand? When the reaping was finished the helpers made a corn dolly with the last few stalks and this was taken home with the last load of corn in a big cart decorated with flowers and branches of oak and ash. This cart was pulled by four or six horses which were decorated with garlands of flowers and ribbons, and the helpers rode on top of the load, shouting, singing and blowing horns.

Corn dollies in production.

That evening a special Harvest Supper was held for all who had helped with the harvest. It usually consisted of food such as roast meat, plum puddings, pies, lots of apples and never-ending supplies of cider or beer. Honey was very popular, too.

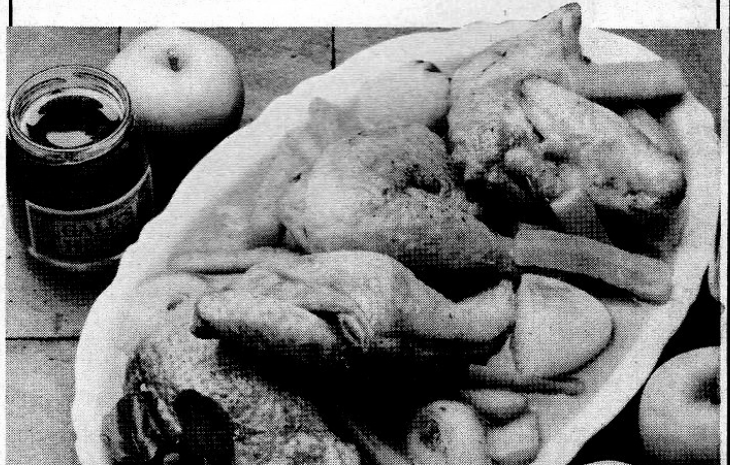

The following recipe has a lovely taste of harvest about it as it uses two of the Harvest Supper's chief ingredients: 'cider' and honey.

Harvest Chicken

(enough for four)

- 4 chicken portions
- 4 onions
- 40g (1½ oz) butter
- 25g (1 oz) plain flour
- salt and pepper
- 600ml (1 pint) non-alcoholic 'cider', (or apple juice)
- 30ml (2 tablespoons) clear honey
- 450g (1 lb) carrots
- 30ml (2 tablespoons) soy sauce
- 30ml (2 tablespoons) top of the milk

Peel the onions and carrots and cut them into quarters. Melt the butter in a heavy saucepan and cook the chicken and onions. When golden brown on all sides sprinkle over the flour, salt and pepper. When the flour is slightly brown pour over the 'cider' and honey. Add the carrots and soy sauce. Put the lid on the saucepan and cook on a very low heat for 45 minutes. Just before serving stir in the top of the milk and add more salt and pepper if needed. Serve with boiled rice and a salad.

SUPER BISTO KIDS COMPETITION

60 RECORD TOKENS TO BE WON!

A happy sound that has been with us since 1919, when two enraptured young figures burst onto post-World War One Britain. Their faces summed-up a nation "smiling through adversity", and caught on to such an extent that four years ago Bisto used them in a TV commercial — you can see them on screen again soon — getting up to mischief only to be distracted by the mouth-watering aroma of gravy.

Now fans of the Bisto Kids will be pleased to know that there's a Bisto Kids Club.

It's aimed at anyone who's young at heart, and costs just £1.60 to join. For this, members receive an "I'm a Bisto Kid" badge, a membership card, a colourful wall-chart full of things to do, and three separate issues of the Bisto Kids Club Newsletter with news of the Club's activities, competitions, comic strip cartoons and special Club offers. (In addition, 25p from each member's subscription goes into the Bisto Kids Club Fund which makes charitable donations to worthy causes and people in need). You can get an application form by writing to the following address: Bisto Kids Club, 30 Farringdon Street, London, EC4A 4EA.

WHO STOLE THE BISTOWS' EQUIPMENT?

To Enter

Our smashing competition this week features the Bisto Kids in their very own super sleuth cartoon! As you'll see when you read the adventure, they track down a group of thieves who've stolen a pop group's equipment — but how? Can you spot the clues? There are six of them hidden in the nine frames of the cartoon, and what you have to do is put a circle around each clue that led the Bisto Kids to come to their conclusion.

As a starter, one of the clues shows — in picture four — a studded leather wrist-band crossing out the name 'Bistows', and you should have noticed in picture three that the same wrist-band was being worn by a Snivel. Now off you go to detect the other five Snivel giveaways...

When you have ringed all six clues, cut out the whole cartoon, together with the completed coupon, and send it in an envelope to: Look-in, Bisto Kids Comp., P.O. Box 141, London, SE6 3HR.

Now it's about time we told you what we have to offer as a prize! Well, in keeping with the competition's musical theme, we're giving away 60 £10 record tokens which can be used in any record store — and that adds up to a whole lot of good music.

The senders of the first 60 correct entries pulled from the postbag after the closing date, Monday, September 22nd, 1980, will each receive a £10 record voucher.

So it was The Snivels who stole the gear. But how did The Bisto Kids know? Look for the give-away clues (there are six of them) in the pictures, and put a ring round each one.

Send to: Look-in, Bisto Kids Comp.,

MEET THE SMURFS!

VANITY SMURF'S MIRROR IMAGE HAS BEEN KNOCKED ON THE HEAD AND NOW THEIR SYMMETRY HAS BEEN BROKEN.

Earlier this year we looked at some of the Heavy Metal bands that had been taking the charts by storm. Since then, of course, those powerhouse HM sounds have been heard more and more on the nation's airwaves and we've seen the arrival of several new outfits and the revival of some 'old faithfuls'. They all have their own particular character, naturally, but there's one expression they'd all be happy to go along with . . .

PLAY IT LOUD!

A look at the line-ups for all of Britain's top open-air pop festivals this year — including the recent Bank Holiday celebrations at Reading — will confirm one loud and clear fact about the current rock scene: Heavy Metal music has powered back with a vengeance which has astonished the critics who had written it off just a few years before.

Now, though, a whole new crop of heavy metal bands is storming through other passing musical fashions to make a mark among the most popular and revered groups of the day.

IRON MAIDEN'S debut album called Iron Maiden, hammered its way to number four in the charts, and their singles Running Free and Sanctuary both pounded into the top 30. Steve Harris, of the band, explained why he thought the new wave of heavy metal groups was so popular. "Heavy metal music never went away but some of the big bands became too big, and they are now too distant from their fans. Bands like us are more easy to identify with, because we are the same age as our fans.

"It's like the punk thing in the sense that when the kids see us playing, they feel that they could do the same, and more of them get together to form bands of their own and have a bash.

"A couple of years ago it was hard for us to get gigs because we were not playing punk. But we were determined not to change to fit that fashion — now our faith has been rewarded," said Steve.

Iron Maiden are undoubtedly one of the most popular of the new wave of heavy metal bands, and so are a group of five down-to-earth Yorkshire lads, who call themselves SAXON. They have been together for three years, and they also regard themselves as a working band, who are happiest when they are on the road. It was a tour as support to heavy metal giant MOTORHEAD which really established them on a nationwide scale.

"It was a great tour for us," said Bif, Saxon's explosive singer. "We knew that if the Motorhead fans did not like us, they would really give us a hard time — after all they had come to see Motorhead, not us. Fortunately, we went down really well, and now both bands have a lot of the same fans."

Saxon's second album Wheels Of Steel heralded their

»» from p.15 arrival into the top league of heavy bands, and at one point this year they had three singles in the charts at the same time, with Wheels Of Steel, 747 and Big Teaser/Rainbow Theme.

While Saxon and Iron Maiden have been around long enough to remember the not-so-good-times, some of their contemporaries have been fortunate to arrive as the heavy scene is buoyant. Among those is Samson, who are being tipped by many as the band to watch this year, following the release of their debut album Head On and the double A-side single Vice Versa Hammerhead.

Samson are a four-piece band, who developed quite a cult following on the strength of an independent album which was released last year. Then they toured with ace heavy guitarist Robin Trower. "It was the first tour on which everything was really positive and exciting," recalled guitarist Paul Samson. "We had been feeling each other out up until that point — and suddenly we felt really confident with that tour."

It's noticeable that all the bands mentioned so far have adopted names which represent fierce, warrior-like characters — a mood which is reflected in the loud and proud music they make. Yet not all the heavy bands are so blatant.

Take GIRLSCHOOL. They are acknowledged as Britain's best all-girl heavy metal group. The current line up of Kim McAuliffe (vocals and guitar), Enid Williams (vocals and bass), Kelly Johnson (guitar and vocals) and Denise Dufort (drums) came together in 1978, and they, too, spent a long time on the road before cutting an album Demolition, which has recently been released, earning praise for Kelly's high powered guitar work and Kim's distinctive vocals.

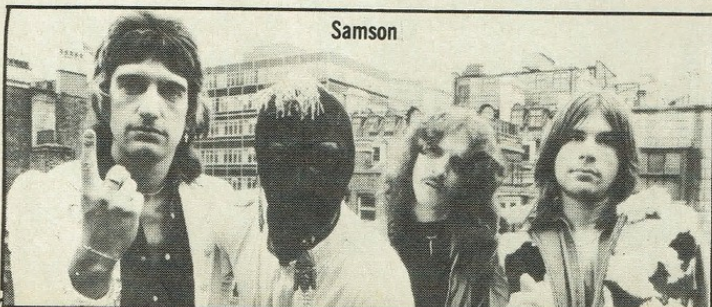

Girlschool began to make a name for themselves at the beginning of 1979 when they released a single Take It All Away, which sold over 8,000 copies despite the fact that it was produced on an independent label and had no national distribution. Not bad for starters!

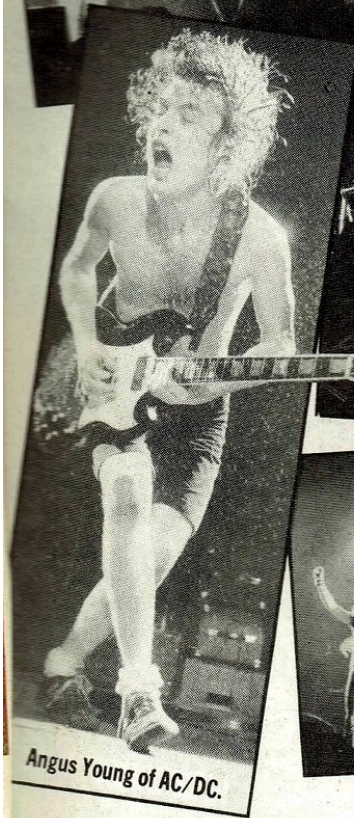

The single release resulted in Girlschool going out as support to heavy rock favourites Motorhead on a massive UK tour — the first time that they had played in major venues.

That was the spark that ignited the flame; Bronze Records saw the girls, signed them up, and now they're really on their way, with the hit-parade success of Race With The Devil.

GIRL, another band who are tipped for stardom, are, confusingly, all boys, and they laid the foundations for their success with some energetic performances in support of UFO on a recent tour.

Australia has not produced many rock stars, but one outlandish band from the outback play with enough excitement to keep us all hopping like kangaroos! AC/DC. The band suffered a tragedy when lead singer Bon Scott died earlier this year, but after a lot of searching they have found a replacement singer, Brian Johnson. Brian comes from the North East of England and used to be with GEORDIE, who enjoyed moderate success a few years ago.

Angus Young of AC/DC.

(Top) Black Sabbath, (centre) Atomic Rooster, (bottom) Saxon.

He has a lot to live up to in following Bon, but AC/DC have a new album Back In Black (which, astonishingly, entered the LP charts at No. 1!) showing that they have lost none of their aggression and they will be touring this month, when no doubt guitarist Angus Young, who dances around on stage dressed in schoolboy uniform (complete with short trousers) will once again set audiences alight.

The revival of popular support for heavy sounds has resulted in a revival of the fortunes of a number of bands who never went away completely, but whose careers had lullied. BLACK SABBATH have come screeching back and they have weathered the departure of popular vocalist Ozzie Osbourne by brining in an equally effective singer, Ronnie James Dio, who used to be with RAINBOW.

Ozzie is hoping to prove that he made the right decision in leaving Sabbath, by starting out with a new heavy band of his own, called BLIZZARD OF OZ, and meanwhile Sabbath have crashed into the charts with two albums Heaven and Hell and Live At Last.

Rainbow, the band that Ronnie James Dio left, are still doing well, under the guidance of Ritchie Blackmore, who is a former member of one of the best respected heavy metal bands of the 1970s, DEEP PURPLE, themselves recently at number one in the album charts with a 'greatest hits' compilation, Deepest Purple, and high in the singles chart with revived HM anthem, Black Night.

Since Deep Purple broke up, the individual members have gone on to establish themselves all over again in new bands. Vocalist Ian Gillan has his own band, named after him, and they will be touring major venues this month to promote their new album Glory Road, and another Purple vocalist, David Coverdale, has moulded his new band, WHITESNAKE, into one of the hottest properties around.

Whitesnake also includes two other ex-Purple men, keyboard

GREAT COMPETITION! 25 COPIES OF 'DEEPEST PURPLE' TO BE WON!

There are twelve tracks on the album Deepest Purple and each is a classic for fans of that hard-rocking, Heavy Metal sound. This compilation, featuring the mainstays of Deep Purple through the years (Ritchie Blackmore, Ian Gillan, Roger Glover, Jon Lord, Ian Paice, David Coverdale and Glenn Hughes) has itself reached the top of the album charts — and not surprisingly, since it contains roaring tracks like Black Night, Strange Kind Of Woman, Woman From Tokyo, Stormbringer and Smoke On The Water. We're offering 25 copies of Deepest Purple to winners of this week's super competition.

To enter, all you have to do is take a look at the five questions printed below and write your answers to them in the spaces provided on the coupon. Then send it, on a postcard please, with your name, address and age, to: Look-in Deep Purple Competition, P.O. Box 141, London, SE6 3HR. The senders of the first 25 all-correct entries drawn from the postbag after Monday, September 22nd, 1980, will each receive a copy of Deepest Purple.

player Jon Lord and drummer Ian Paice. "The Purple associations have never worried us," said David, "the kids come to see Whitesnake, not Deep Purple, and they call out for our songs."

The rekindling of interest in heavy sounds has also brought together some bands who hope to recapture their former glory, and one of these is ATOMIC ROOSTER, led by keyboard man Vincent Crane. In 1971, they had a small hit with The Devil's Answer, and now Vincent is back with original guitarist John Du Cann for a new release Do You Know Who's Looking For You.

Also back on the road are HAWKWIND, who were a space age group before space travel was a reality. Their single Silver Machine is a classic number now, and although they have undergone regular personnel changes, break-ups and name changes they are back again for an autumn trek. They have also recently released a live album Hawkwind Live.

So, with so many new and old faces around, heavy metal music seems likely to keep its steel-like grip on the singles and album charts for some time ahead — the message is loud and clear!

AUTUMN FARE

Stand by for souped-up Saturdays! Tiswas is back this weekend (September 6,) all areas except Tyne Tees and Ulster at 10.30 a.m. with new torture, another disgusting animal and chances of greatness for youngsters everywhere. Today Is Saturday — Watch And See: the TV spot that not only threatens, but delivers mayhem to the morning.

Will this new series include the Creature Feature and the dreaded Cage? Has the Dying Fly died? The Phantom Flan Flinger finally flung? All will be revealed, and there is also a grisly new horror, The Punishment Chair and rubber spike. If anything goes wrong woe betide the culprit.

Also making a diabolical debut is Cough the Cat, a mangy specimen prowling on the patch of Spit the sloppy dog. "Cough the Cat is the most revolting animal," grinned producer/presenter Chris Tarrant. "He really is the most disgusting creature!"

"And the Punishment Chair, it's a marvellous piece of work. It's basically for kids who misbehave, or if sketches go wrong we'll grab whoever's responsible and in they go. We don't care who they are," he added gleefully.

Backed up by Sally, John Gorman and Bob Carolgees, as before, your old friend Chris brings two hours' hotch potch of comedy and confusion every Saturday from now till next April.

Kids from nine to 90 are clambering to take part. "There's already an enormous waiting list for seats in the audience," said Chris, "and adults are queuing up to be in the Stocks. Even a tax inspector wants to be in the Cage, and would I like to see him there . . ."

The custard pie business is booming in readiness — splat! — and the buckets of water are being filled, but you can count on one thing, Tiswas is anything but wet. Fun will be flying as fast as the insults, jokes, cartoons, pop sounds, film clips, chatter and time.

Slapstick or serious (the latter

In the stocks on Tiswas — Sally, Chris and Sylvester McCoy take on a hapless victim! (Right) Tiswas will be making a splash this Saturday as usual!

does exist), Chris, John, Sally and all are dedicated in their pursuit of pandemonium. The zany crew have ideas tumbling from every potty pore and the lucky few — about 50 each time — who do manage to witness the chaos live from Tiswas territory do so at their own peril. Everyone visiting the studio is issued with the solemn warning: The company cannot be held responsible for any mishaps during transmission caused by stray pies or other missiles.

Despite the thread of unpredictability that is the Tiswas trademark, such seemingly casual madness must be well thought out and Chris and his team are experts in fun production as well as ad-libbing and coping with the unexpected.

"We don't rehearse," he stressed, "but we do get together and check out important details."

As producer, Chris masterminds most of the action, helped by John Gorman with Sally in charge of the pop division. The script bears little resemblance to what is eventually said on the air, being more of a guide to make sure the advertisements go out on time and that they all say goodbye when they're supposed to.

A lot of money is spent auditioning for youngsters' talent spots and with hordes of would-be stars still eager for a chance, the line-up for this series is practically complete already.

Not so the pop spot, which will be a constant surprise, not least to the regular gang. "We could have almost any of the top pop people," said Chris. "Everyone wants to do it, they all want to come on, so it's a case of who you like, who is around at the time . . ."

A look at the super new programmes starting this week on ITV . . .

ALSO COMING YOUR WAY...

Blond Gary Shaile has gone from mods and rockers (he played Spider in the film Quadrophenia) to metal robots in Saturday's new London Weekend series at 5.15, Metal Mickey. Playing one of two brothers who built robot Mickey to help Mum around the house, they get more than they bargained for when "it" comes alive. Lucinda Bateson, currently in Granada's Sunday suspense serial Watch All Night is their sister, and Irene Handl plays Gran.

This Thursday (September 4) sees the start of a new series of the popular comedy Spoooner's Patch (ATV), at 7.30.

Donald Churchill takes over as the maniac Inspector Spoooner dealing more with laughs than loot in the police station where very little happens. Det. Con. Bulsover (Peter Cleall), the insulting P.C. Killick (John Lyons) and new ar... rival, traffic warden Patricia Hayes, give Spoooner enough problems without crime as well.

King of the jokers Bruce Forsyth ensures fun and fair dealing in Friday's new series Play Your Cards Right (September 5,) London Weekend, at 7.00. The three stage quiz means major prizes for the lucky contestants, while helping Bruce out are Denny Kemp and Natalie Shaw, joined by new girls Jan (group) and dancer Zena Clifton. Male host is John Melainey.

Following changes have been made. Cooper's Half Hour took the place of Benny Hill on Tuesday, and Benny can now be seen at 8.00 on Thursday (Sept. 4). Taking the place of Tommy Cooper was the first of a brand new series from Yorkshire TV called Hart Of The Yard. Detective Roger Hart, played by Ron Moody, has been whisked from London's Scotland Yard to take up temporary duty with the San Francisco Police Department — where, as you may have seen, he gets into some hilarious situations! Watch out for him again at 7.00 next Wednesday (Sept. 10)!

And if you live in the London area, you'll be able to see the first of three episodes of Battlestar Galactica on Thursday (Sept. 4) at 6.35. For those of you who live outside London, don't despair — Battlestar Galactica will be shown in all areas at a later date. Watch out for details in Look-in soon.

SORRY!

Last week in our feature on new programmes we reported that Benny Hill would be starting at 8.00 on Tuesday (Sept. 2) and Tommy Cooper's new series at 7.00 on Wednesday (Sept. 3). Owing to late amendments in the television companies' schedules the

That master of comedy Benny Hill is our cover star and on page 22, to celebrate his recent return to our TV screens, you can find a super feature on the funny man. ★ Following Britain's Olympic success, we focus on the world of Judo with a terrific pin-up of Silver Medallist Neil Adams — and take a look at the tough-guy tactics used by TV people. ★ For pop fans there's an exclusive interview with David Wakeling of The Beat (above) in our ColourCentre. Watch out for a great two-page colour pin-up and songwords, too. ★ There's the third and final pin-up in our Collect-A-Page series on The Jam, and for those of you who feel lucky there's a terrific Rowney paints competition with lots of arty prizes to be won. ★ All this plus your regular features and picture strip favourites.
