Mind if I talk on clarinet?

asks BILLY AMSTEL

You know, the clarinet is a neglected instrument. It still sits in the cupboard at Andy's house. Andy is the kind of man who would never look at a clarinet. This is a pity, in my opinion. I think the clarinet is one of the most understood and versatile of the modern instrument.

ALAN BRISTOW

Music is a very subjective art form, and it's important to remember that each listener's experience is unique. The best musicians understand this and strive to create music that can be appreciated in a variety of ways.

I wonder how many people have really taken the time to study the techniques of playing the bass. It's a difficult instrument, and there are many nuances that go into mastering it.

Bleak broadcasting future for Northern bands

FROM early May the broadcasting situation for dance bands in the North has been far from healthy. As far as Manchester and the surrounding districts are concerned, the situation is not different from that which has existed for the last few years. The number of dance bands continues to fall and the number of dance halls continues to decrease. The result is that the broadcasting situation for dance bands in the North is bleak.

Radio Commentary by Maurice Burman

One day recently, Miss Stacey brought a record into our office. It was a twenty-eight minute disc called 'Jazz and Myself'. We are not at all unexposed to music, but we were all rather startled to hear an 'old time' record like this. There was no trouble in the record, but the timing of it was a bit out of kilter. We listened to it in the office, but it didn't make much impression on us. We were all rather startled to hear a record like this.
