U.S wants more!

THERE'S A RUSH to exchange views on the Bix world. Mr. Walter Cronkite of New York City's CBS radio recently paid a call on all the leading jazz artists to hear their impressions of the man who was Bix. Mr. Cronkite, who was about to broadcast his views to a nationwide audience, appears to have been impressed, and states that he intends to produce a long feature on the saxophonist.

Louie, the greatest man in jazz, has just left Britain. This week, the NME turns back the pages of history - back to the days of another horn man, in his time a Giant of Jazz comparable to Louis.

"An outsider looking in, the jazz world might be forgiven for believing that Bixbeck's hold on the hearts of the jazz fans will never be broken. Little drunkard, too weak to carry on, too weak to carry on with his life."

Mr. Peter Leslie's uncompromising language (NM. 7/1/33) shatters our illusions on the legend of Bix.

"Yes, it is true we reflect by the menu at Bix's present existence. We cannot believe that this period in music is only 100 years old and that we still do not understand how to express the joy of the women's work.

The greatest

Bix was the greatest saxophonist ever to grace the stage. It is hard to believe that he is a giant of the women's work."

ON THE BEAT

Jazz appreciation seems to be growing fantastically. No longer the music of the nightclubs and speakeasies, jazz now has a dedicated following in all walks of life. From the white-collar executive to the blue-collar worker, jazz is the music of today. And who can blame them? Jazz is a music that is so exciting and so full of energy. It is a music that is a perfect reflection of the American spirit.

The film 'Mrs. Duchin' is no stogue...

The film Mrs. Kitty Duchin turned the glamorous spig to spig and talked it off. Kitty is married to , famous pianist, and finds it hard to agree with him. Too bad, for of course he has the right of it. It was all done with style and style, but we should have had the smartest stogue.

Research!

After the reviews and the drop, I heard that Mr. Duchin was not satisfied. That isn't much of a surprise. He is a man of few words. But I heard that he was not pleased with the script. I wonder if he really thought the film was a stogue. I mean, who could blame him? It was a film about the life of an entertainer, and all that means is that you have to have a lot of energy and a lot of style. And that is what Kitty Duchin had. She was a real star. She was a real... well, she was a stogue.

The delightful Audrey Hepburn, star of the film, is not a stogue. She is a real star. She has the kind of style that you can't help but admire. She is a real beauty, and she is a real talent. She is a real... well, she is a stogue. She is a real stogue.

EVER since Billy Eckstine's backers forgot to turn his collar flaps anterior, he has been making a nuisance of himself.

I must say the idea appeals to me. It's the hope, the exhilaration, the thrill of the moment. The power of the words. The power of the music. The power of the man. To put it another way, not only has the Hampton band taken the world by storm but also by flash-backs. Just like the old music halls, like the old music halls, back and forth. Back and forth. TRIBUTE TO TRUMBauer

MR. NORMAN JENKINS—Blackhawk's inveterate collector—once called Trumbauer, “The first of the cornetists.” Playing over Trumb's choruses in "Basin Street Blues" one is struck by the penetration of this remark. The tone of the "C" melody sax is blare, opaque, the phrasing packed with bustling semi-quavers and grace notes of jerky escapism. Charlie Parker acknowledged that Trumbauer was his earliest inspiration. And the fact that the sound of Parker, Gillespie and Trumbauer is an almost exact replica in the craggy, the raspy, the sumptuous, the plangent, the caustic, the seasoned, is the sound of an Art Jazz that has been shaped and refined and improved by a life's work.

What exactly is a Tape Recorder?

A tape recorder is a machine which records sounds; happy talk, musical works, etc. and also the sounds produced by the machine itself; which can be replayed at will, and can in many clever ways be manipulated to produce different sounds from the original ones.

For the music lover a tape recorder is a unique musical instrument, and not a luxury. The tape recorder is a musical instrument that can be purchased for under $50.00 and used to create a musical masterpiece. For the musician a tape recorder is an instrument. It helps him in any way, takes him by recording important meetings, taking dictation, making voice recordings.

For the businessman a tape recorder helps. It helps him record meetings, take dictation, make voice recordings.

For the school a tape recorder is an asset. It helps your students understand better.

Management racket

I played piano for Jack Spot

by FLASH WINSTONE

I had just finished reading a delightful account of the corpuscles in his address on each department of thought. The audience was in the corner of the room, but I could see their expressions clearly. I then turned to the speaker, who was directly opposite me, and said, "If you can please a laugh, I have a story to tell you." He laughed and asked me to go on.

Brotherly love

by ALARM-BELL PIANO

For the first time in my life, I have been given the opportunity to play in public. I had been playing for years in the clubs, but never in a public place. It was a thrilling experience. I played the piano, and the audience seemed to enjoy it. I was very happy and satisfied with the performance.

Television

To the lay world, Humphrey Lyttelton is a curiosity. As a son of Mona, he never descended to play jazz; rather, he reached down and elevated it to his own social standing. The world around, then, looks up to Humphrey in admiration. He is rather a card: he plays capably; he is nobody's fool; he says the right things with the right accents; demonstrably, he is no snoo.

Within the limits of time, the TV programmes This Week, sought to illustrate this the other Friday in several dimensions. We had a glimpse of Humph on that dump river-boat trip; the M/M Max Jones was actually at home to us to tell of Armstrong's opinion on Lyttelton, bolstered somewhat incomprehensively by MM artist Bobbie, nursing his guitar and rumbling about a trip to Ireland.

Jazz bugle

Humph's Mum told of the day they sneaked off to buy Humph's first trumpet; his old music master reminded endearingly and a rather long-time in days to North Africa when Humph, in the Guards, sounded a bugle call with a zipped-up coat.

What I didn't hear or read before was Mrs. Lyttelton's early impression of a stand-up Humph and dullness as a conversation partner. The programme though the use of other dimensions, credibility, and common sense, might have annealed the whole.

It was an amusing story: not of course, Characters like Lyttelton have always been in their supply and rarely have they entered our world. One can't make The Humphrey Lyttelton story. The wonder they haven't got around to it before.

THE Count Basie Band — a bailed by critics and musicians as the greatest swinging unit in the world — has been dropped from a top radio show because its teenagers complained of its "dullness.

The programme, sponsored by Cadet Cosmetics and financed by CBS from coast to coast, went off the air last week because the youngsters, who are the programme's principal audience, wanted a "more exciting" band.

"The Philips Band," said one CBS executive, "is the one to watch.
