TURNTABLE TIPS

Breakin' - Soundtrack- Polydor
This compilation of street dance music and pop has high commercial value due to Ollie And Jerry's irresistible Breakin'... There's No Stopping Us (massively tipped the last two weeks in our magazine), Rufus And Chaka Khan's 'sleeper' Aint Nobody and the swinging Freakshow On The Dancelfloor from Bar-Keys. Another hit-contender is the next single release of the soundtrack, 99 1/2 by Carol Lynn Townes. The movie is already a boxoffice hit and the soundtrack will undoubtedly follow the same route

Beat Street - Soundtrack- Atlantic Produced by Harry Belafonte and Arthur Baker (the former being also responsible for the co-production of the movie) this soundtrack features well known exponents of Hip Hop, notably Grandmaster Melle Mal who's doing his famous rap performances in Beat Street Breakdown and Afrika Bambaataa & the Soul Sonic Force who treat us on the real art of scratching. The rest of the material varies from more disco/funk orientated material (Juicy's Beat Street Strut) to 'Puertorican' ballads (Strangers In A Strange World, the love theme of the movie by Jenny Burton and Patrick Jude)

Rock Steady Crew - Ready For Battle- Charisma/Virgin
Rocksteady Crew's debut single (Hey You) The Rocksteady Crew was Top 10 in every country it was released in. They performed in Flashdance, in the Buffalo Gals video and recently in Beat Street. Apart from a special version of Hey You... and their latest single release Uprock, the album contains 5 more tracks all in the same vein as above singles with the exception of the medium tempo song She's Fresh. This ain't no cultural shock, this is Hip Hop!!

ABOUT THE CHARTS.....
THE EUROPEAN TOP 100 (SINGLES/ALBUMS): In many European countries one chart is recognised by the music industry as the "OFFICIAL" hit parade and is therefore used for the compilation of the EUROPEAN TOP100. However there are other countries where various charts are in existence and often equally important. For these countries we have compiled a number of these charts into one representing the sales in that market.
Each chart position for every country then receives, relevant to that position, an equal points rating which is in turn multiplied by a factor determined through the latest known sales percentage of total singles (or album) sales which that country holds in relation to the rest of Europe. There are different percentages for singles and albums. These figures are kindly provided on a regular basis by the industry-organisations such as IFPI-BPI-Gallup-Deutsche Phonoverband etc. A European Chart-Committee, with experts from a number of these industry-organisations will overlook the calculation system and will decide on improvements, changes and updates.
For the EUROPEAN TOP 100 SINGLES 25 charts are used from 16 countries, for the EUROPEAN TOP 100 ALBUMS 20 charts are used from 15 countries. Since the sales percentages of a few countries are too small to get their hits into the EUROPEAN TOP 100 (provided these records are not charted in any other territory), we are also printing a TOP 3 IN EUROPE list each week.
The EUROPEAN AIRPLAY TOP 60 is compiled through all our correspondents tips received this week. (Records of the week receive extra points. The airplay lists of the airplay report organisations within some of the European countries are also used in the calculations, as well as playlists of major radio stations. (*)Please note that not all received tips appear in Eurotipsheet but they are all used for the calculation of the Airplay Top 60.
THE EUROCLIPS LIST shows the music-videos most aired on television throughout Europe in the week prior to publication. It includes video-t.v. programs and other t.v. shows party using video's from 14 European countries.

HIP HOPPING THROUGH EUROPE

What disco was for the seventies, Breakdancing surely is for the eighties. Grown out of the N.Y. ghetto's of the South Bronx and popularized during the last two years, Europe has now also had its breakdance hits with the Sugar Hill Gang's Rappers Delight, Herbie Hancock's Rock It (together with Grandmixer D.ST.), The Message from Grandmaster Flash and the Furious Five, Hey You by Rock Steady Crew, Malcolm McLaren's Buffalo Gals, Freeze with I.O.U. and recently Break Machine's Streetdance. Almost simultaneously, two movies about this phenomenon, have been released, Beat Street and Breakin' (or Breakdance or even Breakstreet, depending on the particular country). Breakdancing first gained national attention when it was featured in the hit motion picture Flashdance. But now both movies give it a spotlight of its own.

Although in both movies the storyline is quite simple, it shows us a culture that has really contributed to both disco and pop music. The technic of scratching has become a normal production gimmick in popsongs of which a recent example is the remix done by Nile Rogers in Duran Duran's The Reflex. Dj's from Manhattan like John "Jellybean" Benitez have mixed records of popgroups such as New Order, Cabaret Voltaire, Kajagoogoo and even Elvis Costello and have in this way enlarged the scope of popmusic. Rap has infiltrated pop (Blondie's Backfired/Raptured, Tom Tom Club's Wordy Rappinghood etc.) and in fact the launch of the 12" with all its remixes and extended versions owes a major part of its existence to the black dj's and rappers who were looking for ways to extend the beat on the dance floor (the very way for the industry to make up for a B-side in a rather cheap way). And although the hip hop culture was already existing and flourishing for a few years in N.Y., it always needs a catalyser to make it acceptable for wider audiences. What The Rolling Stones did for rhythm & blues, The Police for reggae music, Malcolm McLaren has done for the scratch/breakdance culture outside The US. What was known for already a few years in the discotheques in N.Y. became internationally wide spread after the release of his first solo single Buffalo Gals. Says Malcolm McLaren in one of the interviews he did after the world succes of the single: "It is one of the most rootsy folk music of the moment with a direct line to the kids on the streets with their ghetto blasters". Another example is Jeffrey Daniel, ex Shalamar (now performing a major part in the Starlight Express) who, already back in '82, amazed the audiences on Top Of The Pops with his body poppin'.

Freeze, Downrocking, Turtle and Headspins. Each B-Boy (male breakdancer) has a unique move. As one of the guys of Rock Steady Crew puts it: "We're always coming up with new ideas. Sometimes I do crazy unexpected things. I put together combinations not even my guys have seen. I know how to get the audience to respond. You have to take risks". Where in the past competitions between different gangs could end up in fights, breaking has become a way of handling aggression. Instead of fighting you would say: "Let's break against each other and you'd make the opponent look stupid and that would shut him up", as in the words of one breakdancer. According to one of the producers of the Breakdance movie, David Zito, street dancing roots have developed from the most prevalent and accessible cultural source, namely television and its Saturday mornings cartoons. "Cartoons were one of the most original sources for some of the moves", he states. Bugs Bunny was the first one to do what they call "The King Tut Move" (one of those angular formations done with the hands). Lots of the inspiration for street dance comes from the simplest sources. And although its movements looks as though they are throw-aways they are more controlled than most people think. The non-dancer doesn't realize how much control and concentration it takes until you start breaking it down and learning it.

SUICIDE

It would take one several years to plow through the ever changing terminology and various styles of the street dancer. With each individual performance comes a different nuance which can be copied and formalized into a whole new dance. Dancers spin on their heads, elbows, backs and toes, twist their bodies into nuts, make other assorted outrageous manoeuvres, that sometimes appear to defy the laws of physicality and gravity. The moves are identified by such street based terms as Electric Boogie, Smurf, Spider Walk, Suicide, Bottom Rocking, Floating, Uprocking, Sweep Swipe, Backspin, Track

STREET TALK

For those dj's that are looking for ways to keep in shape and to stay updated it might perhaps be nice to explain some of the terms used in the breakdance scene:

- BACKSPIN: spinning on one's back, feet tucked close to the body
- BATTLE: Breakdance competition between individuals or crews
- B-BOYS: Male breakdancers
- BE: A way of saying hello
- BITE: To steal a street dancer's move
- BUGGING OUT: Acting silly or crazy with your friends
- BURNED: Refers to a person or group beaten in a battle
- CRAZY LEGS: The basic movements of breakdancing, characterized by fast moves of the feet
- CREW: a team of breakdancers
- FRONTING: Pretending to be something you're not
- GO DOWN: An action of a breaker doing a battle with the possibility of getting 'burned'
- HANDGLIDE: Balancing on one's hand while spinning the body. The move is usually performed with a glove on
- HEADSPIN: Spinning on one's head upsidedown, hands not touching the ground
- SHALACKERS: Very large shoes, or big feet
- THROW THE BASE: Rapping or talking to someone
- TROLL: An ugly girl

TURTLE: In breakdancing, all the body weight is supported on both hands, elbows pressed against the body, maintaining a horizontal position, without feet touching the floor. The move is performed by remaining in this position shifting the body weight from hand to hand, and moving about the floor very quickly, walking, spinning on the hands

UP ROCKING: A war-like dance, object: to take out your opponent without physical contact

The physical strength required in the upper torso to perform the dives and spins necessary for breakdancing, makes men more able to do the break dance routines. Women are generally excluded from these specific athletic acrobatics (it was in fact one of the Rock Steady Crew members in disguise who performed Jennifer Beal's spins in the movie "Flashdance"). One exception is Ana "Lolly-Pop" Sanchez who is one of the featured dancers in the movie Breakdance. She portrays the only female breakdancing gangmember and she has been a professional dancer since the age of sixteen. The style of street dancing varies from one geographic location to another, so they say. 'Locking' and 'popping' is believed to have originated in California while breakin' comes from New York's South Bronx. Whatever the source, there's no doubt that the "hip hop" originated from the street. Young people who want to add their own sounds to a record, their own colours to a wall. People who get their identity through exercising their body. What the hippies did for the mind in the sixties, the breakdancers do for the body in the eighties.

All you dj's of Europe let's get electric!!
