THE VOICE

SONNY'S BLENDER

Last week our columnist, "The Moodie-Maker," announced the arrival of the "Midnight Mood." The name was chosen at a dinner box party, noted "New Year's Eve Original," and was just a lead-in to a commentary on the current musical scene. The "Midnight Mood," he said, is the one that hits you when you're ready to dance, and you're never too old to dance. He went on to say that the "Midnight Mood" is a state of mind that cannot be bought, but is only reached after a long period of contemplation. He ended his column with the advice to "just keep on dancing."
