HEATH BOYS FLY TO WORK BARRIETAU'S BAND IS A GOOD ONE!

Says Stuart S. Allen

I was able to see and hear Carl Barrietau's new band, a couple of weeks ago on the occasion of their first appearance in the London Area at Acton Town Hall. This is the new thirty-piece outfit built by Ted Heath and Carl Barrietau. The American Heath is also played well and it was certainly a treat to hear "One" played according to the usual Decca version.

The choice of programme is good and varied, with most of the Barrietau standards like "Ain't That a Shame" and "Mule Train" which are played very well with a great sense of rhythm. The band is playing with girl vocalists these days. There are also some excellent instrumental pieces which are sufficient to keep the band as a whole.

Second to Carl, the star musician is a commercial drummer Ronnie Verrell, a young man without any doubt, one of this country's top percussionists. He is playing with a great deal of skill and is playing with a great deal of skill.
