While ELVIS PRESELY retains his position at Number 3 in the charts with "Jailhouse Rock," plans are going ahead to have a Golden Album to coincide with his entry into the U.S. army. The LP will feature his million-sale hits.

THOUSANDS OF Teenage girls would like to change places with actress JUNE LAYVERICK in the picture above. June is TOMMY STEELE'S leading lady in his forthcoming film "The Duke Wore Jeans," which will be in cinemas next week. If released in London on March 23 and it released on March 31.

JOHNNY RAY says "Hello" to Europe. He's doing a great deal of travelling these days, due to his many commitments on the Continent, but he looks forward most to his return here in April, for concert appearances.

Although the weather recently has not been ideal for straw bats RONNIE HILTON, ALMA COGAN and CYRIL STAPLETON thought them just the job for last week's "Show Band Parade," during the "Old Routine" number.

A New Ballad recorded by DON RONDO on LONDON HLJ 8567
DON QUIT BAND-COACHES
TO RIDE TO FAME ON THE 6.5 SPECIAL

I was Don Lan's desire to abandon the hectic round-the-country whirl of one-night stands that ultimately led to him securing a resident spot on the "6.5 Special." For Don had spent some years touring as a trombonist with the bands of Teddy Foster, Vic Lewis and Ken Mackintosh — and the day of the roadie was over, as he has now found a place in a band which he considers will suit him in "a personality in his own right." Don has been said to be an excellent trombonist with a large repertoire and a straight-forward technique. The first of Don's "6.5" sessions was called "Chillucord" — it was an excellent performance, and it was followed by a flying start on a recording, and a live appearance at the London Palladium. The second session was "Rodeo Rock," and the third was "Rendezvous," said Don. The"Rodeo Rock" was the first session that Don did for "Oudeburst" — it was an expensive and totally different approach to the session. Don has since added a new dimension to his style, and the third session was "Rendezvous," which was the start of his recording career. Don has since released several albums, and his music has been featured in several films and television shows. Don is currently working on a new album, which is scheduled for release in the fall. In the meantime, he is looking forward to performing with his band "6.5 Special" at the London Palladium on a regular basis.

PET CLARK has three hits

The gay, cherry-coloured sports car drew up at the office door and Petula Clark emerged. Her dress was bright and that mischievous, elfin face peeked in. 'Thought I'd come and report, before I go to the Continent,' grinned Pet, with the ever-present twinkle in her eye.

A SONG called "You're The Greatest" impresses me more than anything I've heard this year. At least four singers have recorded it.

"You're The Greatest" is a song by Max Miller, first recorded by Lita Roza.

The song has been covered by a variety of artists, including

- LITA ROZA - Original recording
- ROZA TALENTS - Recording in 1958
- MARY MILLER - Recording in 1959
- JOHNNY MATHEWS - Recording in 1960

Each version of the song brings something unique to the table, making it a timeless classic.

Pleasantly starry in "The Golden Disc"

Convincing acting by Terry Dene

There are many good points about "The Golden Disc," which opened at the London Ritola cinema and is released next month. Two peaks of this mood-budget movie take precedence over all other contributory factors: firstly, the bright, competent and thoroughly convincing acting of young Terry Dene in his first film role, and secondly, the extremely fine and highly imaginative camera work, efficient lighting effects and admirable direction of Don Sharp.

The plot of the described (above our grey area in this supplement) is reasonably scanty and perhaps a little too-far-fetched, but it is impressive enough to sustain interest throughout. And the dialogue is nicely free from the "lu-cy, lucy" kind of after-dinner chatter, and the stock lines are essentially featured in "The Rosemary Clooney Show" on commercial television. This regular exposure to the public has certainly contributed inconspicuously towards their national popularity.

They haven't yet managed to place one of their indigenous songs in the hit parade, but their albums on the London and Philips labels have sold phenomenally, and last year's inaugural NME poll proved to be in their favor, in their own right, when they also appeared in the running for the Rockin' Patecasters in the section set aside for vocal groups.

MUSICIANS

The Four Hi-LOS are all accomplished vocalists and their sound derives from their diverse backgrounds. Leader Les Pearson, his 28 year-old Life Line, Clark Burroughs is two years his junior. Jack Gerke, bass, who is with Strassen both top this list. Pearson, a former disc-jockey and one-time owner of a popcorn concession, is in his group a chief arranger-the guy who turns out their songs. He describes their sound as impossible to score. His style is essentially Bob Miller's, but he adds his own sense of rhythm.

Clark Burroughs, a 28-year-old harmonica player, is described as a "real character." He, too, is with the outfit. Burroughs and Pearson were first-timers when they formed the group that is now known as the Hi-LOS. The quartet's leader, Clark Burroughs, is a 28-year-old harmonica player, who is a ,, BEDTIME WITH THE \FAMOUS Cooler, on his first TV and radio appearance with the Billy May Orchestra, says he, "will work as hard as I can."

Starvin' Marvin is well-fed now!

Dedleys were flooded with repeat orders. This was unprecedented for a guy who had once lived from hand to mouth, and the company kept pace with demand, and the first 10,000 copies in 24 hours.

The contrast is really the outstanding aspect. Marvin found the Indian lad far from the hokum of his latest associates, and with his solid, broad-beamed face, his fundamentals were strictly those of a country singer, and on the other, there's a quaint, unassuming simplicity of Marvin's, with his Washington University background, lending his well-toned baritone to highly polished ballad interpretations.

Vinyl also has an LP for MGM in the States, and it is already enjoying very considerable success. It is presently being repeated at one tour of one-nighters under the working title "Why Don't You Understand?" penned by Keith Goodwin.

WHEN writing a combined article about two artists, a journalist always strives to find some angle, whereby the two may be linked. But apart from the fact that they have both burst into the sellers, I can find little to link Rainwater and Mervyn. Two may be linked. But apart from the fact that they have both found their way into the "big time," the only similarity is that they have both come the best-sellers' line.
