ALL ABOUT TRINITY!

says writer RICHARD GREEN

HALFWAY along a straight line drawn between jazz and pop, lies a group called Trinity. Their high comedy and musical sound has attracted a devoted following and as the year's first album, 'Three Tracks', nears release, they are about to become a household name.

The group is comprised of members John Cherwy, Richard Green, and Jack Rose. Their sound is often compared to the Rolling Stones, with a touch of the Beatles.

Repertoire

The group's repertoire includes a mix of original and cover songs, with a heavy emphasis on their own compositions. Their most popular song is 'Three Tracks', which has been a hit on the airwaves.

Three tracks

1. 'Three Tracks'
2. 'Changed'
3. 'Given up'

Changed

The group's sound has evolved over the years, with a shift towards a more bluesy style in recent years. Members are looking forward to the release of their new album and are excited to see how their fans will respond.

Given up

The group has faced criticism for their lyrics, which are often seen as offensive by some. However, the members are determined to stay true to their sound and continue to create music that they enjoy.

ALL ABOUT TRINITY!

says writer RICHARD GREEN

HALFWAY along a straight line drawn between jazz and the world of film lies Trinity, a musical experiment that dares to bear the label of 'rock and roll.' It's the brainchild of singer Lloyd Price, who created a band around his own repertory of songs. This repertory has the added distinction of being the first ever to be performed exclusively on stage.

The band's sound is a cross between the blues and rhythm and blues, with a touch of soul thrown in for good measure. The members are all under twenty, and their energy is reflected in their music. Price himself is a master of the piano, and his playing is a driving force behind the band's sound.

grocers, says Paul

There's been a lot of interest in the group's next move. Paul McCartney has hinted that they might be producing an album, but no definite plans have been announced. The group has always been known for their creativity, and it's not surprising that they would want to push the boundaries of their sound again.
